AN AVERAGE YEAR

Seems To Be The Verdict In Connection With Maine's Blueberry Crop.

After a tour of ten days in the blueberry regions of Eastern Maine, Commissioner Washburn reports that the crop will be of average size and that it is rapidly reaching maturity. Canning commenced about Aug. 1, and by Aug. 10, all factories were running. Inspectors will be provided for the factories and fields to supervise the picking and transportation to the various factories.

John Austin, an experienced man from the inspection division, will have charge of the work under A. M. G. Soule, chief of the division. Commissioner Washburn will meet the inspectors for consultation at Machias Saturday and will explain to them the importance of their work.

CHAPMAN OPTIMISM

Says Maine Festival Program Will Compare With Any In The Country.

Director William R. Chapman, accompanied by Mrs. Chapman, has been in Bangor and vicinity for several days, having motored over from his summer home in Shelburne, N. H., for a pleasant trip and particularly to confer with Otis Skinner, president of the Eastern Maine Musical Association, concerning plans for the coming Music Festival.

Director Chapman reported that everything is fast shaping up to make the festival the remarkable musical event that it is sure to be when programs and artists are considered. Director Chapman says that no festival in the country will present a list of singers to compare in fame and brilliancy with the offering of Maine's 25th annual.

All over the State, according to Director Chapman, there is great enthusiasm over the fact that festival patrons are to have the privilege of hearing Lawrence Tibbett, the sensation of the musical world. In securing Tibbett so soon after his phenomenal performance at the Metropolitan Opera House, Director Chapman has again demonstrated his ability to secure the top-notchers for the festival at the height of their success.

Mrs. Matzenouer, Director Chapman predicts, will become an instant favorite with the Bangor audience and will take her place with the numerous other prima donnas who have been heard there.

Director Chapman is already making up the festival orchestra from the New York Philharmonic Orchestra and plans to assemble the players for rehearsals in New York preliminary to coming to Maine.

HEALTH PENNANTS

One Rockland School In List Which Will Receive Them.

Maine has again achieved prominence in its health work in connection with health work in the schools—according to an announcement just issued from New York to state and national health organizations.

The announcement for Maine is made through the Maine Public Health Association which is in charge of the organization and promotion of the work of teaching health habits to Maine boys and girls in co-operation with the Maine State Department of Education and local school authorities. "The system used is known as 'The Modern Health Crusade' and provides for the doing of a certain number of 'health chores' each day. The purpose is to inculcate habits of good health through daily care and personal hygiene—including cleanliness, care of the teeth, pure food, pure water, regular hours for sleep, etc.

Each year millions of children in America enter the national tournament for proficiency in the performance of these daily 'health chores.' For several years Maine has led the other New England States, and in the tournament just closed Maine stands second in the United States in proportion to population in the number of national pennants won.

Low leads the country on a per capita basis and Maine is second. In total number of pennants won, with no reference to the per capita basis, Maine is fourth with 158 pennants or national honors, Iowa is first with 762, Indiana is second with 373, Illinois is third with 271. Only two other states in New England are listed among the winners—Massachusetts with 76 pennants and Connecticut with one. The pennants are awarded by the National Tuberculosis Association.

Aroostook leads the State of Maine with 37 pennants, while Cumberland County is second with 27 pennant winners. Miss Abbie Buck of the Maine Public Health Association staff, is in charge of this phase of the association's work in the schools. She gives the major part of the credit for Maine's splendid showing to the state and local school authorities, superintendents and teachers who believe that good health is vitally important in successful school work.

In addition to the 158 pennants won in the national Spring tournament, Maine won 48 pennants in the winter tournament, making a total of 206 for the school year just closed.

The Knox and Lincoln County schools which have qualified for these national honors during the present school year and which will receive their pennants through the Maine Public Health Association, are:

Knox County
Timber Hill School, Owls Head—Mrs. Lura Whalen, teacher; Highland school, Warren, Millard W. Hart, teacher; Intermediate school, Warren—Abbie J. Newbert, teacher; Grammar school, Warren—Inez Matthews, teacher; Primary school, Union—Doris L. Messer, teacher; Union Grammar school, Union—Ida-mae Hughes, teacher.

Lincoln County
Hahn school, Waldoboro—Mrs. Mamie E. Benner, teacher.

A WET HOUSEHOLD

Sheriffs Make a Big Haul in House at Lincolnville Center

Sheriff Littlefield has been receiving complaints from Lincolnville Center that someone was selling liquor there or thereabouts. Friday with Deputy Robinson he called on Mrs. Florence McDonald. They were shown into the parlor and discovered three cases of Scotch whiskey behind the sofa.

Investigating further they found about 40 gallons of high grade in the bedroom. In the wood shed were some 25 empty whiskey cases and other empties, besides considerable makings for home brew. What they found at the place made a good load for a truck which brought it to the jail in Belfast.

Mrs. McDonald and a young man named Clyde Barter who sold the liquor, a boarder there were taken to Belfast.

The sheriff said that from all appearances Mrs. McDonald had been doing a flourishing business.

Mrs. McDonald and Barter were tried in Belfast Municipal Court, fined $100 and costs and sentenced to 60 days in jail and six months additional in default of payment of fine and costs. Both appealed and were placed under $500 bail each, which they were unable to obtain and were taken to jail.

THOUGHT IT AN AUTO

But It Was The Headlight of a Trolley Car — Glencove Accident.

When John Stevens and Francis Brodis started for their home in Rockport in the former's Chevrolet sedan the Sunday night they found the fog almost impenetrable.

Presently a single light loomed ahead of them, and their car narrowly escaped disaster as they passed one of those road nuisances known as a "one-lunger"—a motor car with only one headlight in commission.

As they neared Glen Woods another single light broke suddenly through the fog.

"I will give that gentleman plenty of room," said Mr. Stevens, swinging sharply to the right. At Knox Hospital half an hour later he said that he had no knowledge of what happened after making the remark about the supposed "one-lunger." A cut on his head, which was displaced with a single stitch, and a cut on his left hand comprised the most serious of his casualties and he was able to return home.

His companion, Mr. Brodis, did not escape so easily, one arm having a gash which took eight stitches to close, and his person being badly bruised. His memory was so affected by the shock that yesterday morning he could remember nothing which had happened since the previous Saturday noon.

The second light which Mr. Stevens had seen was not a "one-lunger" but a trolley car, coming from Camden and in sheerly abruptly to the right he had driven directly onto the track and against the approaching street car. The automobile was a sad wreck. The young men were taken to Knox Hospital.

Ernest Jones was conductor of the trolley car, and was, of course, no wise at fault for the accident. The marks early yesterday morning showed that the auto swung from its path 27 feet before the collision came.

Mr. Brodis was still in the hospital yesterday, but there was no foundation for the alarming reports. Meantime there is a feeling that the law against motor cars with only one light burning should be strictly enforced. Every car owner knows what a menace they constitute.

HOOVER WAR LIBRARY

Wonderful Fountain Head of Information In the 44,500 Books.

The Hoover War Library, endowed by Secretary of Commerce Herbert C. Hoover at Stanford University, has received 44,500 books and pamphlets, in nearly all languages. Every one bears in some way on the World War.

The largest number, 12,000, are printed in Russian; 10,000 are in French; 9,000 in English. The rest are divided among Hungarian, Italian and other languages.

The library was founded in 1919. Many of the items, printed or out of print, are irreplaceable. It offers students facilities duplicated nowhere and paralleled only at the Musée de la Guerre at Paris.

The program of the institution calls for procuring all important official documents of every nation throughout the war and during the reconstruction period. Three-fourths of this material already has reached the library. The manuscript collection includes 65,000 reports and communications bearing on conditions in Europe during and after the war. This file is supplemented by copies of private papers of men who were active in the world affairs of the time. The library has collected from each country involved a file of newspapers in sympathy with the government, together with those of two opposition papers, representing the Left and the Right.

Mr. Hoover was graduated from Stanford in 1895. He is a member of the Board of Trustees.

LIQUOR IN CAR

Leads To Arrest of Rockland Man At Oakland—Appeals From Sentence.

Found guilty in Municipal Court yesterday of illegal transportation of intoxicating liquor Ralph Webber was fined $300 and costs and sentenced to three months in jail, with six months additional upon failure to pay the fine. Appeal was taken and bail was furnished in the sum of $500.

The complainant in the case was Charles D. Wentworth, State Highway Police Inspector, who seized a glass container, holding a quantity of alleged alcoholic wine, from Mr. Webber's car at Glencove Saturday night. George C. Simmons, deputy sheriff at Oakland Park, aided in the seizure.

When the State's testimony had been submitted Frank A. Tirrell, Jr., counsel for the respondent, moved that the complaint be quashed on the ground that the State had not proved that Webber did not possess a federal permit, or that it had proved transportation from the Atlantic Highway to Oakland Park.

Judge Miller overruled the motion to quash, and there was a lengthy argument as to whether the omission of evidence as to the federal permit should be put up to Associate Justice Barnes at the approaching term of Supreme Court. The agreement as drawn by Attorney Tirrell was to the effect that the complaint and warrant should be dismissed if Judge Barnes ruled that it was necessary for the State to prove non-possession of a federal permit. At the suggestion of the Court there was added another clause—that "otherwise the judgment of the lower court should be affirmed."

The agreement did not materialize. Joseph Homer, arrested at the same time on a similar complaint, was arraigned yesterday. After the State's testimony had been presented the Court dismissed the case upon County Attorney Campbell's motion, for "insufficiency of evidence."

EMPLOYED AT HOME

Apply Principle To Hiring Teachers For Our Public Schools.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

I read with much interest the article by Mr. Walker, printed in the Aug. 4 issue of your paper. The point made by him, that our boys and girls are an asset to their home town and should be kept here, is very pertinent. But why talk always about procuring new industries and interests to hold them, when advantage of some already existing is withheld, or somewhat curtailed at least?

I have particularly in mind our schools, both High and Grade. Do the citizens realize how hard it has become for our home girls and boys to obtain positions and sufficient salaries here in Rockland? Each year there are some of them to graduate from college or Normal school, well equipped for, and eager to obtain, positions as teachers. Does their home town welcome them? Scan the roll of teachers and see.

Nearly, if not quite all, would like, or be willing, to teach at home, if they could receive adequate salaries and stand a fair chance of being elected.

It is discouraging to them to say the least to be obliged to go away from home to make a start, because the local School Board has ruled that "all applicants for teachers" positions must have at least two years teaching experience." By the time they have had the required experience, they are commanding salaries in excess of those paid here in Rockland, and we have lost the services of energetic teachers who rightfully belong to us.

Successful teachers of experience are not coming to Rockland at a reduced salary just to enjoy the climate and scenery or boost for the Kennebec Bridge.

I must and do admit that all who fit themselves for teachers are not successful as such. But this also holds true of ministers, doctors, etc. I do contend however that the services of the best are never too good for our Rockland youngsters. If any one will take the time necessary to investigate, he will find that many a home town girl or boy, is ranked among the best teachers of some other State or city where they have made their debut.

I believe in giving the home girls and boys first consideration. If they do not make good—and they can be trusted to judge as well as any group of citizens can do for themselves—then they should expect to be dropped from the list for re-election.

Then too if a certain piece of work needs to be done and there is a price for the job, wait difference goes it make whether the work be done by a woman or a man? When results are the same, the salary should be the same, especially for teaching; because there has been as much time and money invested in a girl's preparation as in a boy's.

If you believe in trading at home, boosting the home town, etc, think this over.

Lucy E. Rhodes.

A Velle touring car, driven by Daniel Sullivan, ran into Miss Maud E. Smith, school teacher, on Union street, near the Public Library Saturday night, and dragged her a short distance before the car was stopped.

Miss Smith had been riding with her brother-in-law, Clarence H. Shaw, and upon leaving his car stopped directly in front of the Velle. She was taken to Knox Hospital where it was found that she was badly scratched and bruised, and that the skin on one of her legs was torn. Inspector Wentworth made an investigation and based his verdict of

THREE TIMES A WEEK

CIRCULATION AFFIDAVIT

Rockland, Maine, Aug. 11, 1925.
Personally appeared Frank S. Liddle, who on oath declares that he is president in the office of The Courier-Gazette, and that of the issue of this paper of Aug. 8, 1925, there was printed a total of 5,317 copies.
Before me, FRANK R. MILLER,
Notary Public.

Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths.—Prov. 3:5, 6.

Reviewing the business outlook and the belief that prosperity is ahead, the monthly letter of the National City Bank, New York's leading financial institution, says that the most important element in the general situation is the state of agriculture. The rise of agricultural prices last year was one of the principal factors in the confidence which prevailed at the beginning of this year, as it was thought to signify the reestablishment of more normal relations between agriculture and the other industries. Opposed to this, was the view that the rise was due to abnormal conditions and that unless artificial regulation or aid was resorted to this relief would prove to be only temporary. It is generally agreed that given the assurance of normal crops and normal purchasing power for the farmers, there is no basis for pessimism in this country. The wealth that comes out of the ground after the labor of the husbandman has been given is new wealth to the nation, and a fundamental factor in its prosperity, but it is also true that the husbandman must have a fair exchange of his products for the products of the other industries, or the entire industrial and business situation is deranged.

The Association Against the Volstead Amendment announces that it is forming a "face the facts" committee, made up of nationally prominent persons, who are to study the liquor problem with view to recommending to Congress in January legislation for modification of the Volstead act. In a broadside just issued the association charges:

That there is one bootlegger to every 100 persons or a total of about 1,000,000 bootleggers in the United States.

That about 8000 persons have lost their eyesight from drinking poison liquor under prohibition.

That 570 federal dry agents have been fired in five years for extortion, bribery, conspiracy and misconduct. That 294 law officers have been charged with Volstead act violations in the past three months.

These figures should allow us approximately 260 bootleggers for Knox County, which we are confident is a far larger number than could find profitable employment here.

As to the other figures, they prove not much of anything beyond the statement that the late Sheriff Tolman once made. "Whoever touches rum in any direction, he said, 'becomes demoralized by it.'"

How do our readers, most of whom live close by, pronounce the name of the famous resort island? Milfred A. French writes to "As the World Wags" of the Boston Herald:

Your mention of a desert island—second paragraph, Aug. 5—reminds of a neighbor who states that he had visited Mt. Desert (accenting the last syllable). Dr. Charles W. Elliot and other summer residents on the island, also Franklin I. Jordan, the well-known Boston printer and amateur photographer, and others who were born on Mt. Desert Island invariably pronounce it Mt. Des-ert, with the accent on the penult. I confess that I, too, belong to this class. I have visited the famous summer resort many times in years gone by. I do not see any sense in calling it Mt. Desert!

A kind-hearted and well-intentioned owner of an automobile picks up a pedestrian and gives him a free ride. An accident happens, the free rider is hurt, he sues his benefactor and recovers judgment for damages. Base ingratitude, you say. But courts of justice cannot consider sentiment. They hold that the owner or operator of an automobile is under the obligation of exercising reasonable care for the safety even of an invited guest. Thus the automobile owner is taking on himself an extra hazard and responsibility when he invites another person to ride with him.

On the principle of averages Rockland now and then has to have its occasional automobile accident. Drive with care. Walk with care.

It is always regarded as an occasion of special interest to our people when Rev. Everett C. Herrick, D. D., of the Fall River church, observes his annual custom of devoting a Sunday to the First Baptist church of this city, and the large congregations that heard him on the present Sunday morning and evening took out of the occasion the same degree of enjoyment that has marked his preaching in the preceding years. His are the addresses of a thinker, with a large contact with men whose problems he understands and sympathetically enters into, addresses distinguished by a direct and virile English and agreeably sprinkled with the salt of humor. In the list of visiting preachers who appear in Rockland pulpits during the summer vacation season none is more warmly welcomed than Dr. Herrick.

Henry Ford is quoted as saying that the nation is on a solid basis, but he is not to be understood as denying that it is also on balloon tires.—Boston Transcript.

CHARLES D. KNOWLTON

Charles D. Knowlton, who had been in ill health for some months, and who was removed to the hospital last week, died yesterday at the age of 64 years.

The deceased was a native of this city, and a son of the late Charles H. Knowlton. In his younger days he was in the granite and monumental business, but for some years past had been a traveling salesman for such well known firms as Thorndike & Hix and W. M. Little Co. of Rockland, and T. A. Huston & Co. of Auburn. He made many friends on the road, as he did everywhere, and the news of his death yesterday brought forth many words of sorrow and regret.

Mr. Knowlton is survived by his wife, formerly Mary Barlow, to whom he was married in 1888; two sons, Leroy C. and Walter G. Knowlton; one daughter, Mrs. William Weed, and one sister, Mrs. Fred E. Drew of Winthrop, Mass.

The funeral services will be held at the late residence, 11 Pleasant street, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

NEVER—NEVER LAND

Some of the Things American Tars Are Discovering Out In Australia.

American Jack Tars in a discursive mood will find plenty to write home about Australia, the farthest point to be reached by the U. S. Fleet now on a friendship cruise to the South Seas. A bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society says:

"Although a 'white' continent, peopled with English-speaking inhabitants and having every luxury and convenience of modern civilization, Australia is still the 'Never-Never' land, the lonely continent and the home of the weirdest of the earth's living flora and fauna. It is a land of extremes, of great deserts and dense forests, huge ranches and garden plots, of ferns as big as trees, and trees that shed their bark instead of their leaves.

"Out in the 'back blocks,' as the open country beyond civilization is known, is the kookaburra bird, the famous 'laughing jackass,' whose taunting cry drives the lonely bushmen insane. If they are lucky, too, the American 'gobs' may see the emu, Australia's national bird, perhaps looking a trifle self-conscious since the late cross-word puzzle craze.

"The American visitors, on this, the most ambitious cruise since the voyage of the round-the-world squadron under Admiral Evans in 1908, will find Brisbane, Sydney, Melbourne, Hobart and other ports in the Antipodes up-to-date and attractive cities. "Sydney, on the west coast, is the metropolis of Australia. It resembles San Francisco. It is Americanized with its skyscrapers, its regular well paved streets and its abundance of American-made automobiles. Sydney has one of the finest harbors in the world, experienced travellers comparing it, for scenic beauty and extent, with Naples, Rio de Janeiro and Constantinople. The first dumping place of convicts from England, the city has grown and prospered until it is now, with a population of 500,000, the sixth city in size in the entire British Empire.

"Australia's 'Sugar Bowl' "A west coast stop that probably will be made is Brisbane, which lies not far south of the Great Barrier Reef, a chain of coral as long as from Chicago to New Orleans. Brisbane is another city that has experienced a mushroom growth. Fifty years ago it was a village of wooden huts. Today, with 210,000 people, it is the fourth city of the Commonwealth, and the capital of the progressive State of Queensland, Australia's 'Sugar Bowl'.

"The city proper is cut in two by the picturesque Brisbane River, which is wide and deep enough to be navigated by ocean vessels. The famous song about a banana shortage was certainly not written of Queensland, which has such a large export of the tropical fruit that it is sometimes referred to as the 'Banana State.' "Melbourne, scheduled for the longest stop, is the present seat of government of the Commonwealth, as well as the capital of the State of Victoria. The former honor, however, is not expected to be long hers, for a Federal district, such as our own District of Columbia, has been laid out in the mountains midway between Melbourne and Sydney and will soon be ready to take over the reins of government.

"Melbourne, like San Francisco (which began its modern development about the same time), owes its rapid growth largely to the discovery of gold in the nearby hills and the subsequent boom. Like San Francisco it soon passed the boom-stage and became a permanent city, to be pridefully referred to today as 'Marvellous Melbourne.' It is built on generous lines, is stately, and rich in beautiful parks and broad tree-lined streets and avenues. Attractive residential suburbs, connected with paved boulevards, sweep along the edge of the bay for 15 miles from the business center, while other homes cluster about the city in every direction. The servant problem, due to the democracy and wealth diffusion is so characteristic of the entire continent, has brought into prominence another American institution, the 'flat' or apartment house.

FARMINGTON NORMAL

Summer School Most Successful Ever.—Prospects For Big Year.

The Farmington State Normal School, summer session, closed Saturday, and most of the more than 400 students left for home in the afternoon. It has been the largest and most successful summer school ever held. Those attending were all teachers, some of them of long experience and the members of the faculty included some of the best known educators of the East.

The number of applications for admission to the school when it opens for its regular sessions next month has been so great that many will have to be turned away because of lack of living quarters for them in the town, notwithstanding the opening of a large new dormitory last spring and that another small one will be opened this fall, making five dormitories, a teachers' house and the home economics cottage, not to mention the many private houses in which students have rooms.

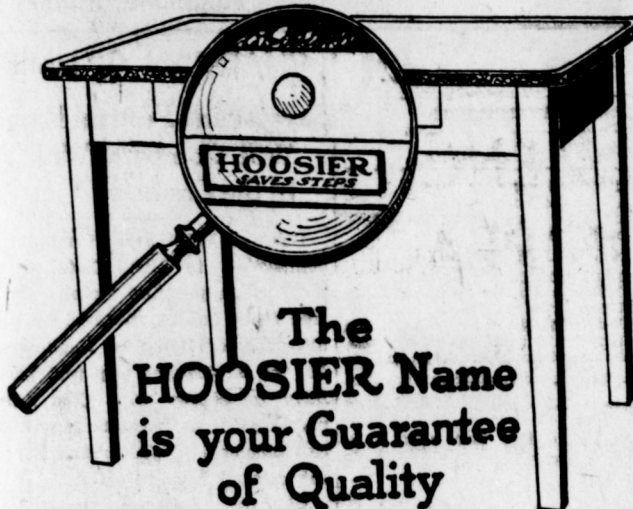

LET JOHN DO IT

Minerals will never cease! Giving the birthplace of Henry W. Longfellow a 400-mile ride to sea on an ocean-going barge is now a plan being contemplated by Arthur C. Jackson, president of the International Longfellow Society.

The home of Maine's greatest poet, located at Fore and Hancock streets, Portland, and built in 1784, if the plans of President Jackson are carried out, will be a feature of the Sesqui-centennial Exposition in Philadelphia next year.

It was first decided to take down the building and ship it to Philadelphia but the recent successful 60-day voyage, by sea, of a Colonial mansion, intact, from Phippsburg to Rockport, has brought about the consideration of shipping the Longfellow home by water, on a large ocean-going barge.

Rockland Beats Brunswick In Last Inning Rally—Big Games This Week.

THIS WEEK'S GAMES

Tonight—Rockland vs. Camden, in Camden. Wednesday Night—Rockland vs. Lewiston at Community Park. Thursday night (Twilight League)—Central Maine vs. Fords and North-east Lights vs. Snipers. Friday night—Rockland vs. East Boston at Community Park.

Rain stopped the Camden-Medford game in the last half of the 2d inning Saturday. The visitors were hitting Feehan hard and the score was 2 to 0 in their favor when the downpour came.

Rockland 9, Brunswick 5

The handful of fans which accompanied the Rockland team to Brunswick Saturday sure got its money's worth, for Manager Votton's team not only captured the game by a big rally in the 9th inning, but figured in what the Portland Sunday Telegram called a "near riot." The story of the game as told by the Brunswick correspondent, and which is said to place more of the blame upon Weston than legitimately belongs there, follows:

"The Rockland Texacos defeated Brunswick 9 to 5 in one of the best baseball games ever played on the Delta. Brunswick kept the lead until the ninth when Rockland found Walker for six hits and aided by an error and a wild pitch, Rockland pushed across seven runs. Walker had been in excellent form until this, allowing but two runs.

"There was a near riot in the eighth. Umpire Graves called Weston out on strikes. Weston disputed the decision and struck Graves. Players and spectators started a free-for-all. Until officers came and took charge of the affair. This seemed to put Walker off his balance, for Rockland had their rally and pushed across seven runs.

"Brunswick started a desperate rally in their half of the ninth with one out, D. Palement reached first on an error by Brisk, Smith and Coffin singles and D. Palement

Clarence Frost is home from Pennsylvania on his annual vacation.

Aurora Lodge, F. and A. M., will hold a special meeting Wednesday evening with work on the Entered Apprentice degree.

A Chevrolet sedan owned and driven by Rhame Philbrick of Sea View Garage caught fire at Crescent Beach Saturday night and was destroyed.

City Clerk Keene says that applications for State pensions are not being put in as promptly as they should be. It is hoped that this notice will reach the eyes of the delinquents.

Motorists who have traveled in the night-time during the prevalent foggy spell tell some weird tales. One of them came to grief in told elsewhere in the report of the accident near Glenora.

Farmers are having a very discouraging time in harvesting their hay this season. In a ride to Togus Sunday a reporter of The Courier-Gazette saw black looking hay going into many barns.

William J. Sullivan, bookkeeper at M. B. & C. O. Perry's coal office, is having a week's vacation which he is dividing impartially between the ball games, Judge Miller's Court and playing next season's basketball campaign.

Ralph F. Haskell of Box 195, Olympia, Wash., has The Courier-Gazette's thanks for the "Progressive Seattle Number" of the Seattle Daily Times, dedicated to the Knights Templar who recently held their convention in that city; also for a copy of the Post-Intelligencer, dedicated to the same event. The illustrations make an Easterner long to see this wonderful city of the Pacific coast, which appears to fully deserve the title of "progressive."

A visitor in the city is C. A. E. Long of Matineux, the guest of his old-time friend Henry L. Howard. Mr. Long is known to readers of The Courier-Gazette by the interesting communications that occasionally are printed in these columns above the signature "Cael." And in this connection an apology is owed him for the accidental omission of that signature from the article appearing in the Saturday issue, "Urban or Suburban?" in which was humorously noted that often-debated question as to which is the more verdant—the country dweller or the city dweller.

The Carnival at Oakland Park is now in full swing. Its pep novices dampened by the wet reception it got yesterday. Those who saw the many carloads of equipment pass through Main street Sunday afternoon and evening do not need to be told that it is a big affair, and those who stroll through the midway today and the balance of the week, will see that it is in keeping with all the other attractions. Manager Dondero has presented, so far as cleanliness and good wholesome recreation is concerned. Such is its excellence that Manager Dondero advises you that you may bring your mother, sister, wife or daughter.

Smalley's Orchestra

Rockland Encampment holds its regular meeting tomorrow night with work on the Royal Purple degree.

A handsome new sign adorns the B. & P. W. Club rooms, the gift of two devoted members, Mrs. H. P. Blodgett and Mrs. C. E. Daniels.

Evangelist Envoy Gelter of Ohio will conduct a two weeks' series of revival meetings at the Salvation Army, commencing next Sunday.

Thanks to the kindness of Mrs. E. K. Leighton, who sends her car for them each Sunday, four of the ladies at the Home for Aged Women are able to attend divine services Sunday morning.

The annual reunion of the Maxey family was held at the home of Mrs. Aaron Maxey, Aug. 4, a very enjoyable day being reported. Fifteen members sat down to a delicious dinner served on the lawn. An invitation was extended to the members by W. E. Maxey of Gardiner to meet with him next year.

The war against dogs which are chasing deer is to be conducted actively. Fish and Game Commissioner Willis E. Parsons has sent to Game Warden Fred Smallwood the necessary notification blanks, and after formal complaints have been made to the owners their dogs are subject to being shot if still found in pursuit of deer. Drastic action must be taken if hunting prospects are not to be ruined, it is said.

Two young skunks which had escaped the barrage laid upon their parents made their way last night into the wire pen built for that purpose by Jay Candage of 192 Camden street. Mr. Candage is feeding the fragrant animals and in the fall will swap their pelts for other kinds of cents. Meantime there are numerous other skunks in the community to which the founder of this new industry is welcome.

A commodious new store is being erected at the corner of James and Main streets for Isaac B. Simmons who has conducted a general grocery on the opposite corner for a number of years past. Circumstances deprived the veteran ex-fire chief of his old stand, and the fine new structure is the result. A host of earnest friends wish him well in the venture and will do their part to make the new shop a Northend community center.

The annual reunion of the E. S. N. S. Alumni was held at Oakland Park Aug. 5, with representatives from the classes of 1889, 1899, 1909, 1919, 1924 and 1925. The usual bonafide picnic dinner was enjoyed, and the day passed pleasantly and quickly as the participants recalled "old times" and absent ones. The nine children present enjoyed the picnic immensely and took advantage of the warm day to go in bathing. The date for next year is the first Wednesday in August.

The report of the nominating committee was the feature of the Forty Club meeting yesterday noon and it showed such a plethora of candidates that the election promises to be a warm hour. President Bird appointed Charles H. Berry, P. R. Damon and R. E. Philbrick to act as a committee of arrangements for the evening session of Aug. 31, which will see the election of officers following a banquet. The report of T. H. Chisholm, chairman of the athletic committee of the victory of the Forty Club over the Rotarians at golf was received with great applause.

Rockland golfers to the number of 22 motored to Bangor Sunday and were the guests of the Penobscot Valley Country Club upon the fine 18-hole golf course near Orango. Golf play was made up of foursomes, two Rockland players and two Bangor players in each team. In the final aggregate score the visitors registered defeat, but feel that upon the whole they did very well upon a course strange to them. Luncheon at the clubhouse followed the playing and the hospitality of the Bangor players throughout the day was unstinted. A return match will be arranged upon the course of the Rockland Country Club.

The next two Educational Club picnics are all planned and no member should miss them. Friday, at 2 p. m., members meet for business, sociability, program, fancy work with Mrs. Mary Mendell, Ocean avenue, Ingraham Hill. Take dishes and box lunch, the hostess furnishing coffee at six. Go prepared to contribute to the informal program. The following Friday, Oct. 21, Mrs. Beatrice Haverer will entertain the club at her Crescent Beach cottage, and if you have a car you will loan or desire transportation, consult the chairman, Mrs. Ida Simmons (phone 881). If stormy Friday the picnic will be postponed to Saturday.

Rockland and Camden play the eighth game in their series at Camden tonight. Camden is already one game in the lead, and if she wins tonight a severe handicap will be imposed upon Rockland during the remainder of the championship race. Foster will pitch for Rockland, but it is not known what the Camden selection will be. One of the best ball games of the season is scheduled for Community Park tomorrow night, when Pat French's Outlaws come here from Lewiston. This team is supposed to be even classier than Portland, although Portland would probably rise to dispute that claim. Aube has been selected to go against the team from Androscoggin. Everybody will want to see Pat French, who used to play on the Rockland Naval Reserves team, and who is now one of the heaviest hitters and best outfielders in the State. He has never forgotten Rockland, and is anxious to meet the boys he used to know in wartime. The game will begin at 5:30 p. m. Friday afternoon the East Boston team comes here for its third and final appearance this season, and the genial Casey will once more keep the bleachers full of laughter. The first game was a victory for Rockland, 5 to 4, and the second was a tie, 2 to 2 so it can be seen how closely these two crack teams are matched. Foster will pitch for Rockland and the ball will ring at 6:30.

MESSENGERS OF PEACE

millions now living will never die

Peace, happiness and contentment mean more than an assurance that turmoil among nations shall end.

The World Peace, so much discussed by nations, seems to promise much; but each plan is associated with announcements of greater armaments, poison-gas attacks, and schemes for annihilating neighbor nations.

Such messages of Peace do not beget a feeling of security.

The Peace that mankind seeks—Peace that grows with assurance of undisturbed progress—is the Peace the Bible foretells; the message of all its writers.

STRAND THEATRE

"The Sporting Venus" featuring Blanche Sweet, Lew Cody and Ronald Coleman is being shown at the Strand for the last time today. Wednesday and Thursday, "Lilies of the Street," the reasons why girls take the terrible chances which they must face once they have thrown aside the protection of home and the safeguards of social conventions, and are so numerous as to defy classification. All too frequently there is a man in the case, usually one unknown to the girl's parents, and an unfit associate of any girl, according to Mrs. Mary P. Hamilton, New York's first policewoman and head of the women police of that city. In eight years she has handled thousands upon thousands of missing girl cases. From these actual experiences sensational revelations are promised in the realistic and thrilling policewoman's photodrama.—adv.

RECITAL DATE CHANGED

Owing to the inability of Harris Shaw—who is to be one of the assisting artists at the piano recital to be given by Manuel Bernard of New York and Rockland—to appear the evening of Aug. 18, the date has been changed to Monday evening, Aug. 17. The recital will be given in the auditorium of the First Baptist church at 8:20, daylight.

Mr. Bernard is able to announce at this time that his other assisting artist will be Carl Webster, cellist, of Boston, who is summering at Pleasant Point. Mr. Webster is a player of note and only his proximity to Rockland at this time makes it possible for Mr. Bernard to secure him. These three musicians—Manuel Bernard, pianist; Harris Shaw, organist, and Carl Webster, cellist—form a trio of artists whose equal Rockland seldom has an opportunity to hear, and the concert is being welcomed by all music lovers in the city and vicinity.

NO LONGER RADICAL

The West Has Changed Politically According to President Coolidge's Iowa Visitor.

"The West no longer presents the battle ground with radicalism which it did in the past," declared John T. Adams of Iowa, ex-chairman of the Republican national committee, who arrived at White Court, Swampscott, Tuesday, with Mrs. Adams. They are to be the guests of President and Mrs. Coolidge for a few days.

Mr. Adams said that his arrival had no political significance, that he had come on invitation of the President and that, as far as he knew, his visit was to be purely social. The President, he declared, has the confidence of the entire country. Mr. Adams believes that he has grown even stronger with the people since his election. "Crops are good and conditions agriculturally are close to normal," Mr. Adams said. He declined to be quoted on a third term for Coolidge except to observe that most of the Republicans he has talked with regard the present term which Mr. Coolidge is serving as his first.

"Iowa," he said, "is agriculturally and politically conservative." He declined to express any opinion on the outcome of the contest for Brookhart's Senatorial seat, which most of the conservative Administration leaders hope to see go to Steck, his Democratic contestant. Reminded of Brookhart's radicalism and asked how to account for the latter's election in a State he terms "conservative," Mr. Adams smiled and refused to make further comment.

AN UNUSUAL TRIP

The American Liner Montpelier, Capt. Balano, Steams 18,500 Miles

The following clipping from a California newspaper, concerns a well known former Knox County sea captain.

"Capt. F. E. Balano, 16818 Normandie avenue, Gardena, arrived in Los Angeles harbor after an unusual trip. Capt. Balano was in command of the United States American liner Montpelier, which arrived from North Europe and the east coast Tuesday, Oct. April 1st the Montpelier sailed from Los Angeles harbor for London, Hull and Hamburg. At Hamburg she loaded for Philadelphia, Baltimore and Norfolk, and at Norfolk spent three days in dry dock for overhauling and repairs. The Montpelier then proceeded to New York, and loaded a part cargo for the Pacific coast. She arrived in the local port Tuesday by way of Savannah and Jacksonville, after a voyage of 115 days, in which she steamed 18,500 miles and carried 22,000 tons of cargo."

Mrs. Balano writes under date of August 1st, that they are arriving at San Francisco that morning, and that she is going north with Capt. Balano to Seattle, Tacoma and Washington.

Scrub Bull Convicted On All Charges At Jefferson Farms.

More than 800 persons attended the sixth annual field day of the Maine Livestock Breeders' Association at Jefferson Farms Saturday. Beginning with a small crowd and poor weather in the morning the program progressed throughout the day with ever increasing attendance.

The activities started with a welcome by Dr. K. J. Seukle, Manager of Jefferson Farms and president of the Maine Livestock Breeders' Association. This was followed by a welcome from P. R. Park, owner of the Farms. Charles L. Blackman, vice president of the Association, responded to the welcomes.

E. B. Denny, president of the Knox-Lincoln County Farm Bureau, delivered an address in which he said, "The point I want to bring out is that if under all our conditions of expensive labor, etc., we can raise the necessary dairy crop at a profit, thus replacing a certain amount of purchased feeds, it is certainly an optimistic outlook for the progressive young man."

F. E. Jackson, master of Willow Grange, spoke briefly and the morning program was completed with the showing of some of the prize Aberdeen Angus cattle accompanied by a talk on the good points of University of Maine.

Picnic lunches were served on the grounds. Several guests were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Seukle at lunch.

A demonstration in the care of clothing was given by Evelyn Plummer and Alice Jewett, members of the Alma Girls' Club of Alma, Mrs. G. M. P. Carleton, local leader.

The feature of the program was the scrub bull trial when a mongrel animal was charged with larceny, robbery, idle and disorderly conduct and vagrancy. David E. Moulton acted as judge; Frank E. Southard, county attorney of Kennebec, was attorney for the State; Benjamin F. Cleaves, executive secretary of the Associated Industries, acted as attorney for the defense. Carl J. Longren was the clerk of courts and A. B. Clements, Sheriff.

The witnesses for the plaintiff were Ross Elliot of East Corinth, C. L. Davidson, H. H. Nash of Camden, and R. C. Wentworth of Warren. The defense had W. H. Hutton of Portland, A. B. Clements of Portland and

AMBULANCE SERVICE

John Leland of East Bangorville, E. A. Hodgkiss was bailiff. The jury consisted of Elmer Giles, H. E. Cunningham, S. Hodgkins, F. Flagg, Amos Fish, Mrs. F. E. Jackson, Fred Castle, Herbert Clark, Parker Marr, George Weeks, Stevens Little, John Terry.

Wit and humor ran rampant during the trial from the minute Judge Moulton asked Senator Clark if he was any relation to the defendant, the scrub bull. Ross Elliot, witness for the State came near getting into trouble with Attorney Cleaves when he admitted he was judging the bull on appearance only.

The attorney for the defense came back at him by asking how he classified the jury. Mr. Ross cleared himself by saying, "they are all from purebred stock but have been poorly fed." H. H. Nash when called to the stand was questioned as to the number of his cylinders—four or six. Will Hutton astonished the audience in the court room when he refused to be sworn in as witness because of his politics giving that as reason for his unimpeachable honesty. John Leland swore that he was a salesman in Oklahoma and Arizona, where he was selling lightbulbs.

After listening to all the evidence the judge charged the jury bring in a verdict of guilty of all the charges. The verdict was returned and the sentence was death before sunset.

WITH THE FISHERMEN

The Doctor Scoops Up a Netful of Nice, Newsy Items.

Lobster production has fallen off a great deal more than when last reported writes "The Fishermen's Doctor" in the current issue of The Atlantic Fisherman. Price has risen and at present smacks pay 35 cents, though in some places it is higher. From the Kennebec River it was reported that the price of live lobsters was 45 cents a pound. With local scarcity and close season for Nova Scotia the price is expected to go much higher. Lobstermen at Mackerel Cove and at Joyce's Beach find that a livelihood from lobstering alone is not to be had at present, so several turn their time to other work. Chester Joyce has taken up his traps and has gone haying. Freeman Staples divides his time between lobstering, farming and working on the granite quarry. Clyde Torrey, not able to earn a good living by lobstering alone, adds to his income by setting out several tubs of eel when opportunity offers, and between times ferrying summer visitors to Mt. Desert Island in his motor boat.

Many lobstermen are getting ready to take up and dry out and tar gear to start out anew after shedding season. Roscoe Joyce brought in the shelling season may be a bit earlier than usual.

Bait is plentiful, fresh herring being available at different prices varying from 60 cents to $1.25 a bushel. Most of the local weimen are getting small lots almost every day, but large supplies of herring for the packers are not nearly as plentiful as they were. The other day the Osprey, sardine smack of the Underwood Company, had to visit many weirs before picking up a total cargo of 400 bushels.

Cuttings from sardine factories are delivered to the fishermen at $1 a barrel. Also, plenty of hake heads are available for lobster bait.

The trawlers are averaging a very fair season, but not many remarkably large fares have been brought into the fishstands. Four to five thousand pounds of fish per boat is the average fare. There has been a great deal of fog and much windy weather to make life hard for the fishermen. Most of the fishermen set out four to six tubs of eight line trawl.

During the recent heavy squall, which broke when the trawlers were coming in from the offshore grounds, there was trouble a plenty for the fishermen.

One man had four tubs of trawl tied at the stern of his boat and the seas washed them away and he was unable to recover them.

Another fisherman from Minter had five thousand pounds of hake aboard, and in order to get into port had to pitch over 3000 pounds of them.

One day last month Seth and Walter Joyce, working together in one boat, brought in 3203 pounds of fish taken from eight tubs of trawl. One Old Harbor fisherman brought in over 7000 pounds of hake in a little motor boat, which seemed too small to carry them even in a mill pond.

During a recent squall, Maynard Herrick had over a word of lobsters in crates trailing astern of his station smack Crustacean, in Mackerel Cove, and at the height of the squall the crates broke loose and drifted toward the shore, where the lobsters would have been quickly destroyed in the wild surf pounding on the rocks. The fishermen of Atlantic, always ready to help one another, rallied for the occasion and rescued the crates before they were damaged. Next day the smack, Trimembral, of the Parnell Lobster Company, came and transhipped the Crustacean's cargo and carried the lobsters to Boston.

Handline fishing near the mouth of the Sheepscot River is reported as extra good at this time.

Tinker mackerel are beginning to show up. At Small Point many of the weimen have taken small lots. Most of them were of good size.

Leslie Davis of Monhegan has a new fishing boat.

To the eastward herring are selling at $3.50 to $5.00 per bushel.

Most of the young people, both boys and girls, are working at the fish stands, boys dressing fish and girls cleaning hake sounds, and after 7 a. m. on fish days scarcely a youth can be found in the villages. The fishstands—the Parkhurst, Morse's and Johnson's—contribute a large payroll to the people of the island.

Charles Kent went out to Clay Bank in his motor boat one afternoon, stayed over night, and left the next day too, and fished with handline when tides served right, and got a boatload of fine steak cod, all beauties and big fellows, which netted him when he sold to the fishstand $53.

Plenty of lobster buyers frequent the waters adjacent to Swan's Island. Hi Stanley at Minter, the Parkhurst Fisheries, Frank Bridges, and Harry Johnson in Burncoat Harbor, Ralph Sprague who comes in the smack Juanita, Capt. Lunt of Frenchboro, who comes in a smack of the Parnell Lobster Company, and the smack Chester Kennedy, Capt. Gilbert from Portland, while at Joyce's Beach, Capt. Fred Gott buys the daily catches, and at Mackerel Cove Capt. Maynard Herrick in the station smack Crustacean, handles all the lobsters brought in.

Joe Harmon of Stonington frequently visits Old Harbor with herring for bait.

Charles and Scott Rowe are getting herring in their weirs at Toothacher.

Dogfish are beginning to show up, but are not yet a serious nuisance, and whales are being reported as quite numerous. Fewer jellyfish than usual are seen about. There will be herring in large numbers before long.

Not many haddock are being brought to the fishstands. Halibut are not plentiful.

It is interesting to note the difference in prices between the olden days and now, when at the recent convention of the Maine State Medical Association at Bar Harbor on the occasion of a lobster dinner, an old-timer inquired the present price of lobsters, and learning the going price he told how thirty years ago, more or less, fishermen used to go about the villages with wheelbarrows or wagons full of lobsters, all boiled, selling them to householders at 10 cents apiece. If present lobster laws had been in force then, there would yet be plenty of lobsters off the Maine coast, and even if the lobsters retailed at moderate prices, there would be a good living from the industry for the lobster catchers.

At Frenchboro, Outer Long Island, there are 35 fishing boats, more or less. About half the fishermen engage in lobstering, and lately they have found lobsters very scarce. The trawlers have been doing fairly well. Hake constitute the main catch; cod are not plentiful, only about 200 pounds are taken at a set.

Recently Hollis Walzel brought in 6000 pounds of hake and 200 cod.

Some of the Atlantic fishermen of Frenchboro have been engaged in rescue and salvage work recently. A 70 foot auxiliary yacht, name at present not ascertained, but known to hail from Boston or vicinity, sailing in a thick fog, ran ashore near flat beach on the southern end of Outer Long Island. The crew and passengers, five people in all, got to land by means of a small punt which could carry only one passenger; the others coming ashore by means of a rope. They did not know where they were, but finding a deserted fishing hut, they camped in it all night and part of the next day. That afternoon fishermen coming in from outside discovered the castaways and took them to Frenchboro village and offered shelter and hospitality. Later they were taken by motorboat to Southwest Harbor. The yacht sank, but later representatives of the insurance company interested looked over the situation and believe the vessel can be saved. She had a brand new three-cylinder Pater engine in her. Burels have been attached to the wreck in an effort to float her. Some of the crew are stopping at the house of Frank Ross.

BRAND NEW FACE

Skilled Surgery Had Accomplished Wonders On Escaped Convict.

State Probation Officer Fish, relates an interesting story concerning Stephen Hoppe, a master criminal who escaped from the Maine state prison at Thomaston on June 18.

Hoppe is still wanted in this State for many burglaries and other crimes, although he was given a sentence of 14 years in State Prison for burglaries committed in Somerset county, having been tried at Skowhegan while warrants were in the hands of the sheriff of Penobscot county for him and his brother-in-law, Stevens. Hoppe went to prison last year and escaped before the first year of his term had expired.

Probation Officer Fish went to Vermont, where Hoppe was captured recently, to see if the prisoner could be identified as the man who had committed so many crimes in Maine. Hoppe had been arrested after a battle with officers at Proctorville, Vt., while making a break in that town. The noted burglar was shot in the knee and leg by one of the officers whom he attempted to strike down with a heavy wrench which he used in his burglaries. The shooting will cripple Hoppe for life, as it is expected that the leg will be amputated.

Officer Fish had one of the surprises of his career when he confronted Hoppe at Windsor, Vt., the prisoner having been taken from a hospital to the State Prison for safe keeping, although badly crippled by his wound.

Hoppe had so changed his personal appearance by submitting to skillful surgery that Mr. Fish could have been balked if the man had remained silent, but a trick of speech betrayed him, and when he saw the jig was up, he admitted his identity.

A head of black hair had been transformed to a brilliant red. His eyebrows had been shaved off to produce a change of expression of the face, but the most remarkable performance was the work of a facial surgeon who had produced a narrow, pointed chin from a broad chin, and had also been changed in outward appearance.

Hoppe had also taken the precaution to have two old teeth removed, one on the upper and the other on the lower jaw, gold teeth being a tell-tale mark of identification. His ears had been changed in outward appearance.

But the astute cracksmen gave himself away when he spoke, for he has a peculiar trick of puckering his lips into a sort of rosebud formation. No facial surgeon could change that, apparently. There were no scars to indicate the flesh had been cut on the chin to draw it together to produce a pointed effect, the burglar evidently employing a skilled man. Bills were found in his pockets for the surgical work, itemized for the different lines of work.

As it is stated that Hoppe will receive a sentence of some 20 years in Vermont for his crimes there, the state of Maine will make no effort to have him returned here to serve out his sentence of 14 years.

Hoppe showed remarkable business ability after escaping from the Maine state prison, having, it is stated, stolen from $8000 to $12,000 in cash since June 18. He did not bother with merchandise in Vermont, as was the case in Maine, causing his downfall here, but paid strict attention to cash only. He is now 27 years of age. Just how many places in Vermont he burglarized is not known, but in a short space of time he secured a comfortable sum by his activities.

Hoppe and Stevens had a cache at Stevens's place in Hermon, about ten miles out of Bangor, the house being located on a secluded road not far from the main highway. Hoppe and Stevens operated in Maine by automobile, making long trips in this and other sections of the state and bringing thousands upon thousands of dollars worth of goods to Hermon, from which place much valuable booty was shipped to Boston for disposal for cash through a "fence" maintained there.

Last summer Sheriff Fernandez and his deputies discovered the place and brought to Bangor a huge stock of stolen goods. Some were identified as having been stolen in Mars Hill and other places in eastern and northern Maine and were returned to their owners. The goods were of a most varied description and included some very handy burglars' tools.

Hoppe made his trips through Vermont alone, fearing to have a confederate along. He told Mr. Fish that he was playing a lone hand now, as he had been sold out once and never intended to have the experience again.—Bangor News.

PACKARD ANNOUNCES—

Packard announces that already more than 15,000 new Packard owners have found in their cars the most notable improvements since the introduction of the electric starter.

These improvements are (1) the chassis lubricator, (2) the motor oil rectifier. Together they double the life of Packard cars.

The Chassis Lubricator

With the exception of six points that must be oiled by hand once every 10,000 miles, the chassis points requiring regular attention, 45 in all, may be oiled in less time than it takes to sound the horn.

The pull of a plunger, a second of time, and every part is bathed in oil.

The Motor Oil Rectifier

The motor oil needs to be changed but once in every 2500 miles. The lubricating qualities are preserved through a complete and automatic purification once every hour while the motor is running.

The result—longer life of parts, lower costs for oil, and quietness of operation.

How much would your car be worth today if it had no electric starter? How much will your car be worth two, three or four years from today if it has no chassis lubricator and motor oil rectifier?

These improvements, found together only in Packard cars, are among the most important ever made in motor car design.

While the electric starter increased the sale of cars—the chassis lubricator and the motor oil rectifier double the life of cars—cutting depreciation in half and making the Packard the most economical car in its class to own, to operate and to maintain.

First by ten years or more to protect the interests of owners through retaining standardized appearance and in offering no yearly models, Packard is now first to make it easily possible for owners to get out of their cars the long and desirable mileage life built into them.

It has been expected for some time that the turban would assert itself and once again be recognized by the well-dressed woman, according to the Dry Goods Economist. Now many of the shops along Fifth Avenue are displaying hats of this type. One smart shop shows a smart black satin turban on which is placed a silver kid fancy. Another satin turban seen recently, boasted no trimming except a clever manipulation of the satin into a fan-like ornament that extended from the center of the crown down one side below the ear. A large store sponsors the larger shapes in black velvet. These were simple with no trimmings save a band and ribbon cockade or a fancy of the velvet. These were the type of hat which looks correct with the formal afternoon costume of satin or crepe.

FLOOD-TIME

[For The Courier-Gazette]

Cold rains had fallen steadily for days on hill and shadowed woodland, grassy bank and streams and shallows where the cattle drank.

The marsh was shrouded in a murky haze.

Far down the torrent of the river swept the drowned and piteous form of some small bird.

Whose cherry song will never more be heard.

The willows trailed their finger-tips and wept.

A riven oak stretched high its boughs in air and seemed to shudder at the woe it saw.

Had long ago the lightning scared the fawn.

Or did its heart of oak break with despair.

Elizabeth H. Barton.

Northport.

OAKLAND CARNIVAL

Bath Had Nothing But Praise For Company Now Showing There.

The Pine Tree Amusement Co., which is giving this week's carnival at Oakland Park evidently has the faculty of making friends. Listen to what the Bath Times said about it when the show was put on in that city:

Usually Bath people have looked with some misgivings on traveling carnivals and the like, but the show being put on at McKay Park, North and Lincoln streets by the Pine Tree Amusement Co. this week is a revelation as such shows go. It is said to be the cleanest proposition of its kind ever in Bath and with many things to amuse. The owners, A. S. Perham and R. S. Coffin, Bangor, allow no questionable games on the lot and all their amusement devices are the latest guaranteed safety appliances on the market and all are new, the merry-go-round being the oldest on the lot and that only one season old. Those who have visited the field are boosters for they find the management is anxious to provide them with their money's worth. The show remains here the remainder of the week, the last chance to try the various attractions being Saturday night. It runs afternoon and evening and the crowd is increasing daily.

The kiddies just delight to ride on the merry-go-round and they are not alone for scores of grownups still retain a liking for the ride around the circle. The youngsters also like to get into the airplanes for a whirl through the air, perfectly safe with no danger of hitting "air pockets." The sand cave mystery of Collins entombed is very interesting to everybody. It showed large views of this incident which occupied the front pages of newspapers for weeks with a closeup of Collins as he was pinned under the rock which held him in a death grip. Today was also added to this tent scores of views of the big tornado in the middle West.

For the boys there are the always popular ball games and striking machines. The concessions include the dolls, blankets, canes and other things, all run in a legitimate way. There is absolutely no gambling. The show will be in Brunswick all next week and it would not be surprising to find many Bath people journeying to that town for they like the show.
