NEWSPAPER HISTORY
The Rockland Gazette was established in 1846. In 1874 the Courier was established and consolidated with the Gazette in 1882. The Free Press was established in 1885, and in 1891 changed its name to the Tribune. These papers consolidated March 17, 1897.

HIS LAST PROPHECY
Dr. Delmer Eugene Croft, astrologer, died suddenly in New Haven Saturday. Dr. Croft was prominent in the progressive movement in the State when Theodore Roosevelt headed the party, and for several years had gained fame through his predictions of many world events. Dr. Croft was born in Enosburg, Vt., July 27, 1864. He was graduated from the University of Vermont in 1883 and was ordained a Baptist minister in 1892. Until 1897 he held pastorates in Vermont, Massachusetts and New York. Dr. Croft was author of several science pamphlets and books.

CITY PLANNING AND ZONING

Asbury Pitman, Chairman of Salem's Planning Board, Tells An Interesting Story.

J. Asbury Pitman, who enjoys the double distinction of being principal of the Salem, Mass., Normal School, and chairman of Salem's city planning board, was in the city yesterday headed toward his summer home in Lincolnville, and hoping against hope that the fog siege on the Maine coast will be lifted sometime before his duties call him back to the Bay State.

Most folks don't like to talk shop during their vacations, but the principal of a school which has 600 students and as many more applications, cannot shake off official duties even in the height of a midsummer season, is obliged to have a stenographer at hand to attend to the accumulating mass of correspondence. Mr. Pitman has been principal of Salem Normal School 20 years, and has sent 2500 graduates out into the world—quite an impressive total when one stops to consider that only 22,000 teachers are employed in the entire State.

"Lincolnville is really my summer capital," Mr. Pitman told a Courier-Gazette reporter yesterday.

"What do you do to kill time?" he was asked.

"Well, you see," was his smiling reply, "my work takes up a great deal of the time, and I have just been doing a little haying—having a couple of reddened and calloused palms by way of proof. 'If there's any spare time left,' he added, 'I run around a bit looking for antiques.'"

Being a native of Appleton and a graduate of Castine Normal School, are two other reasons why Mr. Pitman has been coming to Maine each summer for 35 years.

City planning is a topic on which he is willing to talk "until the cows come home," as the rural saying is. When he sees what his home city of Salem has already done, and contemplates its future, the subject carries an inspiration. He happens to be the oldest member of a city planning board in Massachusetts.

"It's a subject you know very little about here in Maine," said Mr. Pitman. "Only three of the important American cities were built by planning boards. Washington, under the direction of Gen. Washington, was planned by a French architect, and is without doubt the best planned city in America, comparing favorably with Berlin and Paris. The boulevards of Paris were widened and extended at enormous cost through assessment of betterments and did not cost a franc in the way of general assessment.

"Philadelphia, another of the old cities, was laid out by William Penn in an optimistic spirit, which yet showed wisdom. New York was laid out by a planning board, but in a manner which the present conditions show to be entirely wrong. The number of avenues running north and south through Manhattan are too far apart and the cross streets running east and west are more numerous than necessary.

"Some of the younger cities are well planned, Chicago being a notable example. Its streets are well planned, and it has one of the best park systems in America. Of course we can readily appreciate the difficulty of planning a city, but a city built without a plan is almost as unthinkable as the erection of a house without a plan.

"The first city planning board in Massachusetts was that which was created in Salem in 1914. Three or four years later planning boards had increased so rapidly that Legislature made their appointment mandatory in all cities and towns.

"Housing ordinances must be included in city planning and it is quite obvious that other functions would include the laying out and widening of streets, the general regulation of traffic conditions, and the laying out of parks and playgrounds.

"More recently the zoning of cities has received a great deal of attention. It is easy to see that city planning, if well done, is to the advantage of all citizens, particularly those who are less favored in the community. The conditions among tenement house dwellers are sometimes intolerable, but with proper planning the ordinances provide for better light and ventilation and various other matters which have to do with the happiness of the people."

Mr. Pitman went on the matter of street improvements quite extensively showing the necessity of proper width, the importance of ample passage ways at the rear of dwellings and the need of having at least seven feet in the clear between cornices. Many of the old cities have such narrow streets that it is necessary to widen by arcing process, which means the taking over of the fronts of buildings to the height of one story and having the second story overhang.

"Zoning," said Mr. Pitman, "means simply restricted areas for different classes of residences and different kinds of business. The result affords a maximum of advantages to property owners and stabilizes property values. Where such zoning does not exist the owner of a residence may awaken some morning to find that a grocery store or a filling station has been erected opposite his property. Under a zoning ordinance this could not be done, and this is to the advantage of the man who owns a little home and doesn't want to see his property depreciated."

The zoning proposition in Salem, which will be acted upon by the City Council next month, and favorably, Mr. Pitman expects, provides for seven districts, namely: Single residence, single family houses; general residence, single and two family houses; apartment house, apartment houses; semi residence, houses with business on first floor only; business, general business; industrial, any unobjectionable manufacturing; unrestricted, any kind of manufacturing or use.

"We found the citizens of Salem in a receptive mood," said Mr. Pitman, "and were not a little surprised to find that they demanded even more drastic restrictions than we were providing. With the public sentiment behind it the City Council's action can be scarcely otherwise than favorable."

"The city planning for Salem was done in 1911, and we were able to carry out our plans in quite an unexpected manner, for in 1914 occurred the big fire in which $12,000,000 worth of property went up in smoke, sweeping a territory two miles long and a mile wide. When the governor appointed a rebuilding commission it asked for the city planning board's plans which were adopted almost without change so far as the burned section was concerned. This immediately gave us a standing."

Mr. Pitman has been chairman of Salem's city planning board from the start, and has also served as first vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, of which he is still a director. The planning board has the most cordial co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs, and other public spirited organizations.

MARRIED SIXTY YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Blunt of Thomaston Keep Open House In Honor of the Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Blunt of West Main street, Thomaston, kept open house yesterday on the occasion of their 60th wedding anniversary, and when the reception was over it was found that more than 100 had signed the guest book. Mrs. Martha Carter, Mrs. Nellie Bunker and Mrs. Cates assisted in serving the refreshments, which consisted of punch, cakes and fancy crackers. The cosy rooms were algaize with flowers, contributed by his prison career was when he was obliged to shoot a man in the leg who was attempting to escape over the wall at the South Post. Several desperate attempts to regain freedom had been made at that point, and it was regarded as the greatest menace at the prison.

In this particular instance the convict had a coil of rope which he had manufactured from stray bits and was making a very bold effort to neighbors and friends, and the couple also received many nice presents. Mr. Mary Carter presided frequently at the piano. It was one of the most glorious days in the career of Mr. and Mrs. Blunt, equally enjoyed by all of the participants.

Mr. Blunt was born in Union, Aug. 25, 1842, a son of Eben and Susan (Fuller) Blunt. He worked on the home farm until he was 20, and Sept. 10, 1862, enlisted for nine months in Co. B, 24th Maine Infantry. He was with the regiment 11 months and 29 days, however, and when it returned home he enlisted Sept. 5, 1864 in Battery G, 7th Maine Light Artillery. He remained with this regiment until Lee's surrender, having served in both the 9th and 19th Corps.

Lying on the damp ground at the siege of Fort Hudson, for eight weeks he contracted fever and ague, and came home on a sick leave.

Mr. Blunt admits that he felt pretty good when peace was declared. "I wanted to get home to see my father, and my girl," he confessed to a Courier-Gazette reporter.

Mr. Blunt's first experience on a pontoon bridge came when the regiment was ordered to Alexandria to await the start for home, and he crossed the Potomac in this manner. The Great Review in Washington occupied two days, during which 250,000 soldiers marched up Pennsylvania avenue. Mr. Blunt was with the troops reviewed by President Lincoln the first day.

In the early 80's Mr. Blunt became an official at the Maine State Prison, where he served for 20 years, under five wardens—Dean, Allen, Smith, Wiggins, Norton. For 10 years he held the office of commissary.

Mr. Blunt has nothing but praise for the prison management in those days as he saw it. The discipline was good, and he never saw anything done that savored of inhumanity. The most thrilling incident in scale the wall. He paid no heed to the warning of Mr. Blunt, who was then filling the position of guard, nor did he stop when the guard's Spencer rifle dropped a bullet in front of him. The next shot took effect in his leg, and he was carried back to his cell. The attempts to escape at that point ceased and Mr. Blunt was promoted.

He often used his influence to get convicts into the right path, and was credited by Sam Haynes with having been responsible for his reformation, which enabled him to spend his final years in freedom.

Mr. Blunt retired from the prison staff 20 years ago, but continued to be a hard worker until a year or two ago, when he felt compelled to give up active labor.

Mr. Blunt served three terms as commander of P. Henry Tillson Post, G. A. R. of Thomaston and two terms as commander of Edwin Libby Post of Rockland. He has also been an Odd Fellow 47 years, and belongs to the Daughters of Rebekah. Newspaper reading is one of his favorite diversions and raising champion books has been his hobby. And quite frequently he comes over to the Grand Army hall to show the boys that he has not forgotten how to play cribbage or spin Civil War yarns.

Mrs. Blunt's maiden name was Mary Eliza Hayden. She was born in South Thomaston Feb. 12, 1841, a daughter of William and Abigail Hayden. She is a daughter of the American Revolution and a Rebekeh and a past president of P. Henry Tillson Relief Corps. "I like to work and I like to go," Mrs. Blunt told a Courier-Gazette reporter. Mrs. Blunt never became a movie fan, but she does like plays, and goes to them frequently nowadays.

The couple delight to entertain, and the hospitality of their household is proverbial. They believe in getting as much enjoyment out of life as possible.

"We have seen the rough side as well as the sunshine during our 60 years of domestic career but in joy or in sorrow Mrs. Blunt has never failed to be a faithful helpmeet," says Mr. Blunt.

Two sons and a daughter were born to this couple. All have passed on, and the comfort of their household in their declining years is their grandson, Oscar J. Hodgkins, son of the late Mrs. W. W. Hodgkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Blunt embark for the 61st milestone of their wedded career with the best wishes and blessing of all who know them.

VISITS MASONIC HOME

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 12.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—We were over to the Masonic Home in Minnesota last Sunday. It is a swell place, overlooking the Minnesota River. This was the original Savage Home the proprietor of which was the owner of the celebrated "Dan Patch." It is now changed to a Masonic Home. There are 23 members there at present. The location is beautiful, and nicely arranged. They are building a new Home, about half a mile from there, with accommodation for 200 members. There are 75 applications already. The new Home will be finished and ready for occupancy Feb. 1, 1926. They are digging a 6-foot well, now 200 feet deep, to supply the house and boilers. When completed, the new place will be slightly and will be far more convenient, and still have a magnificent outlook.

FOR NEW ENGLAND

Council Formed To Consider Matters of Vital Interest.

"For the past few years and to an increasing extent since the war," says John S. Lawrence, chairman of the New England delegates, "we New Englanders have been asking each other, 'Is there anything the matter with New England?'" Certain studies indicate we are not losing ground, yet evidence of apprehension in certain sections bring to mind the thought, "Is there anything permanently serious the matter?" A clear and very general desire to assist New England as a whole manifested itself last year during New England Week, and new thoughts were put upon many a personal and business perplexing problem.

Recently the six New England Governors met at Poland Spring. They appreciated that many problems and questions needed attention and there agreed each to select three leaders of agriculture and trade who were asked to meet and discuss what were New England's real problems, and how could they be solved. These 18 delegates have held several meetings and are satisfied that New England has certain real and important problems needing the prompt development and popular support of some general policy—not a superimposed policy, but a policy adopted by the thinking people for themselves individually and for New England collectively.

These delegates do not advise any elaborate organization nor superimposed body, but rather something akin to an old-fashioned town meeting, an experience, which we all have in our blood, to which the larger industrial, agricultural and true organizations will send delegates, and discuss whether certain specific problems such as Power, Agriculture, and Marketing are real New England problems, and if they are, set up a Council of 72 men representing all the states and the major activities of New England—all men of influence and authority—to give concrete expression to a solution of some of these problems. The Council will stimulate and coordinate the thoughts of agricultural, commercial, and trade bodies of New England, along similar lines in the expectation of better and more quickly securing results. With this in mind, a conference will be called somewhere in New England this fall. Each State delegation will act as a committee on invitations and credentials for the organizations within their jurisdiction.

The name of this organization is to be the New England Conference and the purposes of the New England Conference are to be: To stimulate a concrete expression as to matters vital to the welfare of New England among participating organizations; to promote unity of action among the several states; to promote New England's commerce, industry, transportation, public utilities, and other matters of common concern.

In the list of the Governor's appointees to act on the committee of the New England Conference are Hiram Ricker, Poland Spring, and Guy Gannett, Augusta, to represent Maine.

ROCKLAND FOURTH

In the First Class Tubs At Boothbay Harbor Muster Saturday.

The Minnehaha Company of Boothbay Harbor celebrated its 50th anniversary Saturday by entertaining the Maine State Hand Engine League for its fourth annual muster. There were six hand tubs in each class and thousands of people gathered from all the neighboring resorts to witness the play-out. The Sagadahoc of Bath won in the first class and Tiger of Hallowell in the second class.

There were four prizes in each class, $100, $75, $50 and $25. In the second class the Minnehaha of Boothbay Harbor and Androscoggin of Topsham were tied for fourth place and will split the prize money. The summary:

First Class—Sagadahoc, Bath, 197 ft. 4 1/2 in.; Senator Baxter, Bath, 188 ft. 3 3/4 in.; Niagara, Brunswick, 186 ft. 11 in.; A. R. Havenor, Rockland, 185 ft. 1 1/4 in.; Tiger, Boothbay Harbor, 117 ft. 4 1/4 in.; Robert Cosgrove, Gardiner, 175 ft. 8 in.

Second Class—Tiger, Hallowell, 171 ft. 9 3/4 in.; R. H. Conner, Thomaston, 164 ft. 6 7/8 in.; Hecla No. 1, Randolph, 162 ft. 7 in.; Androscoggin, Topsham, 154 ft. 5 1/4 in.; Minnehaha, Boothbay Harbor, 154 ft. 5 1/4 in.; Massasoit, Damariscotta, 153 ft. 11 in.

Final competition drills were held at the Citizens Military Training Camp, Fort McKinley Friday to determine the best rifle, machine gun and howitzer squads in the C. M. T. C. Fourth Squad Co. M. proved to be the best machine gun squad in camp. Robert C. Mansfield of Union was one of the members.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

If I had to live my life again I would have made a rule to read and listen to some music at least once a week. The loss of these tastes is a loss of happiness.—Charles Darwin.

THE SPACIOUS FIRMAMENT ON HIGH
The spacious firmament on high,
With all the blue ethereal sky,
And spangled heavens, a shining frame,
Their great Original proclaim.
Their unwearied sun from day to day
Does his Creator's power display,
And publishes to every land
The work of an Almighty Hand.

Soon as the evening shades prevail,
The moon moves up her watery tale,
And nightly to the listening ear,
Repeats the story of her birth:
Whilst all the stars that round her burn,
And all the planets in their turn,
Confirm the tidings as they roll,
And spread the truth from pole to pole.

What though in solemn silence all
Move round their dark terrestrial ball,
What though no real voice nor sound
Amidst their radiant orbs be found?
In Reason's ear they all rejoice,
And utter forth a glorious voice,
For ever singing as they shine:
"The hand that made us is divine!"

THREE TIMES A WEEK

CIRCULATION AFFIDAVIT

Rockland, Maine, Aug. 18, 1925.
Personally appeared Frank S. Lydell, who on oath declares that he is pressman in the office of The Courier-Gazette, and that of the issue of this paper of Aug. 15, 1925, there was printed a total of 6,295 copies.
Before me, FRANK B. MILLER,
Notary Public.

Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself.—Luke 10:27.

The death of Dr. Delmer Eugene Croft, noted on another page of this issue, will bring genuine sorrow to thousands who never saw him, and included are the many readers of The Courier-Gazette, who have so faithfully followed the famous astrologer's annual prophecies in this paper. Last December the editor wrote Dr. Croft, requesting a copy of his prophecies for 1925, and was informed that the astrologer had discontinued the practice because the great amount of time it required interfered so seriously with his other business. But the man who read the future from the stars could not resist the temptation, however, and last month prepared prophecies for the balance of this year. The article appeared in the Saturday issue of The Courier-Gazette and if anything was even more interesting than its predecessors. On the day of publication Dr. Croft died suddenly at his home in New Haven. Did he have a premonition of the approaching end? Did his ability to tell futures for others warn him that he was making his last prophecy? Who shall say?

The keen interest which the aged people of Maine are manifesting in the Three-Quarter Century Club is shown locally by the rapidly with which names are coming in. The greatest surprise is found in the large percentage of octogenarians, who are still active in affairs, and some of whom appeared not to have passed the three-score and ten mark. The movement, as already told, has its practical purpose—to show the people of the country that Maine is famed for longevity, hence a good State to live in. As a Maine publicity act it is going across strong, and we know that Knox County will do its full share. In Thursday's issue will appear a list so far as then shall have come to hand at this office.

There would appear to be a good deal of truth in the statement of Harold S. Boardman, acting president of the University of Maine that "too many of us are going to college; that 50 to 65 percent of the American youths are being thrust out of college doors because they are not fitted temporarily or otherwise to stand the gauntlet." The effect of this surplus is to hinder the development of college work. Going to college should mean an honest effort to obtain a useful education; and not an idle and misdirected waste of time.

The Kennebec Bridge effort in Knox County should direct itself to the getting out of a tremendous vote, and making that vote unanimous. It is almost unthinkable that anybody in Knox County should vote against the bond issue which means so much to its industrial growth and the convenience of all who journey beyond the Kennebec River. Let everybody work to get out a big vote, and if you have friends elsewhere in the State write to them to help the good cause.

Radio messages from Explorer MacMillan tell of daily airplane flights in regions hitherto unknown to the geographers; of the discovery of vast uncharted stretches of the search for new bases in order that his great work may be extended. And to think that through it all the public is kept daily informed of his progress in the frozen Arctic. What would Peary have thought if he could have phoned home when he discovered the North Pole?

Of the 43,000 farmers of Maine, all but 4300 were born in the state. Which furnishes the best of reasons why Maine in so many respects leads the nation.

A cut of two cents a gallon in the cost of New England gasoline means lots more dust on Maine roads this remaining Sundays of this summer.

"What one finds to interest and amuse, while wandering about the streets is often as not, something very prosaic and commonplace," writes a correspondent. "Observe the clotheslines for instance, where the family wash is hung for drying after a hard struggle with soap, water and elbow grease, especially if one does not possess an electric washer. In the old days the neighbor's back yard presented enviable lines of snow-white apparel, with here and there a few colored garments which broke the monotony of so much whiteness, but today for long stretches the lines present a gaudy array of clothing of every color and shade of the rainbow hues, vying with the adjacent flowers and shrubbery disclosing a decidedly brilliant scene of blues, greens, reds, yellows or orange, or whatever colors one fancies and often all on the same line."

Blueprints of the Quoddy Power Project, which is to be voted upon at the special State election Sept. 14, are conspicuously exhibited in several places of business along the street.

The ball flew right merrily at Community Park last night, and the records show that the two teams made a total of 41 bases. Rockland was on the long end of the bombardment, much to the distress of "Lanky" Jordan, a mound hero of many years' standing, whose side arm delivery fooled Capt. Morrell's warriors not at all. That he was inadequate to the occasion did not seem to dawn upon Capt. Moran of the Green Sox until Rockland had accumulated 14 hits. Dwyer was rushed into the box in the 8th inning, but his visions of saving the day were rudely shattered when Dimick's double brought in the winning runs.
Two of Portland's well known stars were not in the lineup last night—Delaney and Small—both of whom are batters of first magnitude, but it was nevertheless a strong and classy team which Capt. Moran brought here, and it reflects to Rockland's everlasting credit that it was able to

PARK THEATRE

Today will be the last showing of William DeMille's production "Lost A Wife" featuring Adolphe Menjou. A two reel comedy and news will complete the program.

One hundred lions afford a portion of the thrills in First National's new spectacle, "Quo Vadis," which comes Wednesday and Thursday. The scenes show the wild beasts turned loose by Nero in the arena of the Circus Maximus to attack a band of terrified Christian martyrs whom the tyrant accused of burning Rome. Expert marksmen were stationed amidst the human actors with automatic pistols hidden beneath their cloaks as a protection to the human actors and actresses should the lions suddenly decide to become too "realistic" in their roles. All of the men, women and children in the scenes also were covered with heavy insurance against death or injuries from the beasts.

Portland N. E. O. P. 6, Camden 3

The Portland N. E. O. P. team arrived in Camden nearly two hours late Saturday afternoon, and was minus two of its players when it did arrive, but the outfit proved too many guns for Manager McGrath's team, which put up an indifferent performance, wholly lacking in pep.

The Camden men could do little or nothing with Coughlin, the Portland pitcher, and to make matters worse they ran bases with a total disregard of consequences. It was a sad exhibition to those who know what Camden is capable of.

In order that the game might continue without further delay, and in order to appease the broiled live fans on the bleachers, Manager McGrath loaned Grindle and Rising to the visiting team. Rising was recalled in the middle of the 7th after the Edward Studley has resumed his former position as clerk at Hotel Rockland.

Next Sunday Haveron Cassens will occupy Rev. A. G. Henderson's pulpit at Vinahaven.

A commercial airplane has been carrying numerous passengers from the Trotting Park at five a throw.

Frank Harper is having his annual vacation from the office of the Rockland & Rockport Lime Corporation.

Thomas H. Chisholm is again on duty at Chisholm Bros. candy store, convalescent from an attack of tonsillitis.

Deputy Sheriff Percy Condon is home from Massachusetts, whither he went as a witness in the Kingfisher case, and where he visited relatives.

Oscar Ellems of the Central Fire Station crew began his annual vacation yesterday. Today he started for Eastport, "the jumping off place," but without any intention of jumping off, however.

Elmer E. Brown of the Thorndike barber shop is having a leave of absence on account of ill health. Patrons of the shop are hoping to see the popular tonsorialist back on the job soon—a wish which is echoed by all of his other friends.

John Leo was home over Sunday from Boston, where the freight steamship on which he is employed was in dry dock. Running between the two coasts evidently agrees with this young officer, who came home in the pink of condition, but with a somewhat expended waistband.

The municipal court judges laid aside judicial cares Saturday when they dined at New Meadows Inn and formed an organization. Joseph B. Hall of Caribou was elected president, Franklin R. Chesley of Saco and Frank B. Miller of Rockland vice presidents and Will C. Atkins of Gardiner secretary and treasurer. There will be another meeting in October to perfect the organization.

Roscoe L. West, former superintendent of Rockland schools and now located in Trenton, N. J., was the speaker at the Forty Club yesterday and gave the boys what proved one of the most thoroughly enjoyable and compelling talks of the Club's history. Mr. West was given the glad hand with a vengeance and made doubly sure "we're glad you're here. He is spending a few days here with Mrs. West in this city, their first visit in six years.

Rockland is having a wonderful week of baseball, and no dyed in the wool fan will miss any one of the three home games. Camden comes tomorrow night for the first of five games which will decide the championship. The teams have split over the last two games, and Rockland hardly escaped defeat in the second game. Friday night comes the strong Brunswick team which has been making them all sit up and take notice this season. Rockland will have a new pitcher in one of these games, probably against Brunswick. The expectations are that Rockland will play in Lewiston Saturday and in Togus Sunday, but neither of these games has been definitely arranged.

A thoroughbred Scotch Collie owned by Tony the Greek, recently gave birth to 13 puppies. She's a busy mother.

Yes, Nilo Spear has a residence phone. But his friends might think otherwise, as it is listed under Nemo's Repair Shop.

Alfred Church is having his annual vacation. Frank McKinney is doing janitorial duty at Masonic Temple in his absence.

Ralph E. Nutt has resumed his duties as clerk at Miller's shoe store having recovered from the strenuous efforts of an annual vacation.

William A. Seavey, janitor of Odd Fellows hall and several other business establishments, embarked yesterday on his annual vacation.

Miss Agnes Flanagan is to enter the employ of the Camden & Rockland Water Co., and is succeeded at the Fuller-Cobb-Davis store by Miss Mary Pratt.

Frederick W. Porter, secretary of the Fitchburg Mutual Fire Insurance Co., was a weekend visitor in the city, and called upon E. C. Moran & Co., the company's general agents.

Rockland people who go to Shin Pond on fishing expeditions will be interested to know that the residents are trying to select a more euphonious name. Abenaki, an Indian name, is suggested.

Charles H. Emery of Cedar street believes he has a pretty smart girl in his daughter Kathleen. Her nimble fingers are picking blueberries at the rate of 28 to 30 boxes a day this season. Twenty to 25 boxes is the average pick.

Schooner Helvetia which has been undergoing repairs on the South Railway, is again in her native element.—The Consolidated Lobster Co.'s smack Satellite is having her engine rebuilt.—The W. J. C. Morrison is to go on the Railway for a new tail shaft.

Mrs. William Gray of Bay View square sends The Courier-Gazette two curious objects which grew in her garden among the beets. They look something like the type of mushrooms, but circular in form and about the size of the average turnip. Nothing like those in Knox Arboretum.

Among the hundreds who will attend the performance of "Quo Vadis" at Park Theatre, tomorrow or Thursday, it is safe to say that there will be numbered all local movie fans who read the famous book. The play was presented at Farwell Opera House exactly 25 years ago this month.

Winslow-Holbrook Post, American Legion, has elected Harrison P. MacAlman, Theodore Perry, and Albert S. Peterson as delegates to the annual State convention, which will be held at Old Orchard, Sept. 7-9. The alternates are Earl McIntosh, Earl Alden and Basil H. Stinson. The Bath Post is booming James Lester Morse for vice commander.

A special meeting of the Baptist Men's League will be held at the First Baptist church vestry tonight for the purpose of electing a president for the year. The meeting will be held at 10 minutes before 7 so as to give all who wish time to attend the meeting to be held in the High School building in the interest of the Kennebec Bridge.

The revival meetings now going on at the Salvation Army have started well. The meetings so far have been well attended and already there are looking bright for a big revival. Already 29 young people have "hit the trail" to the pentecostal form, together with two adults. Those missing these meetings are missing the treat of a lifetime. Enjoy Geller has the old time revival fire. Meetings are held every night except Monday.

Speaking of dahlias, reminds a correspondent that the collarette dahlia is one of decided beauty and loveliness. Those having rich and deep velvety maroon petals with orange centers and a white collarette are especially beautiful, although the yellow ones are very pretty indeed. Miss Ingomar M. Parker has such posies growing in her garden, and although this is the first year she has had them, they are doing fairly well. The dark maroon is called the Morris Riviere and the yellow one Valentine.

Herbert J. Kallio, who learned the fundamentals of the printer's trade in The Courier-Gazette office many years ago, was a visitor in the city Sunday. After leaving Rockland Mr. Kallio was employed on Rhode Island and Massachusetts newspapers, and early the present year joined the staff of the Kennebec Journal as job compositor. The Courier-Gazette office changed to be open temporarily and Mr. Kallio made a brief inspection of the plant, which he found in striking contrast to the old office. He was accompanied to Rockland by Mrs. Kallio, formerly Minnie Towne of Rockland, and they were guests for the day of Mrs. Winfield S. Kenniston.

The Tax Collector will be at the Selectmen's Office, Thomaston, Tuesday evenings, until further notice.—92-S.t.f.

John M. Richardson is making extensive repairs on the smaller of his Granite street houses.

Civil Engineer O. H. Tripp and his assistant Franklin Wood are at North Haven this week on survey work.

The Manuel Bernard recital at the Baptist church last evening was enjoyed by a large audience. Further mention will be made.

The Dog Show of the Country Club lawn fete of Aug. 21-23 takes place at 2:30 Saturday afternoon with prizes.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert Hovey who were weekend guests of Mrs. Hovey's sister, Mrs. R. M. Packard, have returned to Springfield, Mass.

The Garland Class of the Methodist church is invited to a picnic supper with Miss Minnie Smith at Ingraham Hill Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock.

News was received yesterday of the sudden death of Mrs. John Robinson which took place at her home in Woodford. Funeral services will be held from the Crozier parlors Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

If you want to see a real good picture see Eleanor Boardman in "Proud Flesh" at the Strand today. Manager Dondos has booked the Phil Or Musical Revue for a week. Date will soon be announced.

The final drill meeting of Knox Lodge before its visitation of Thursday in Waldoboro will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock daylight time. Drill Master Richards is very anxious that the meeting go well.

The big Kennebec Bridge meeting called for Thursday night at 7:30 in the Bath City Council rooms will draw a big quota from this city. Plans will be laid for a gigantic advertising program.

The sales force of the securities department of the Central Maine Power Co. held a field day at Crescent Beach yesterday. There were about 30 men in the party, and the Beach resounded with their merriment. Crescent Beach Inn met with their full approval as a base of food supplies.

No better testimonial to the success of Phil Jones' Hatchet Mountain Camp than the fact that 11 of the boys almost begged to be allowed to stay there an extra week. Today the boys are going to Old Orchard, and the chances are that they will want to stop over for another day at the world's most famous beach. The Hatchet Mountain Encampment this week is in reality one big house party. Sunday there was an unexpected pleasure in the form of a visit from the Samoset Orchestra, the members of which brought along their instruments and made the hills resound with the harmony for which this organization is noted. The 11 boys who are at the camp this week are George Wood, Maurice Duncan, Lloyd Clark, Edward True, Gerald Black, Harrison Sanborn, Edward Barnard, Bill Ellingswood, Israel Snow, Almon Cooper and Richard Knowlton.

The funeral services of Carl B. Robinson, the 8-year-old boy who was fatally injured when run over by Mrs. John A. Frost's automobile on Camden street Saturday forenoon, will be held at the Littlefield Memorial church this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The accident occurred so nearly at press time that details of the sad affair could not be obtained for Saturday's issue. It appears that the child had gone across the street to receive his daily gift from the ice man, and in attempting to retrace his steps ran from behind the ice wagon directly in front of the approaching automobile. The action was so sudden that Mrs. Frost had neither time to apply the brakes or avoid collision. The Purple ambulance was sent for, but before it could arrive a motor truck came along and the victim was carried to the hospital. The boy died in the driver's arms before the institution was reached. The child was born July 6, 1917, son of Clyde and Eva (Burks) Robinson. The parents have the deepest sympathy of everybody, and this sympathy is extended to Mrs. Frost, who is nearly heartbroken over the tragedy in which she was an involuntary factor.

The Kennebec Bridge—Quoddy Bay meeting which was planned for tonight in the High School auditorium has been postponed due to Dexter P. Cooper's inability to keep the appointment. A big joint meeting is scheduled for Thursday night at the Bath City council rooms.

Members and Summer Residents Please Read and Carefully Note.

Ex-Gov. W. T. Cobb headed the subscription list with a gift of $5. This became the nucleus of a new idea—the three-day season tickets which members and summer residents are buying like the well-known hot-cakes. This bright idea covers admission and all athletic fees for three days and the tickets may be conveniently transferable. Only $2.50 each.

Children's Events

From Friday noon to Saturday evening there will be interesting stunts for children under the watchful supervision of Miss Dorothy Cross, trained kindergarten teacher and experienced playground head, with several helpers. There will be games, races, baby parade, freaks, pony show, wild west, dog show, tug-of-war and delightful story-hours. Everything free to the children except general admission and midweek seats. Bring the kiddies and stay all day. And if Mr. Davies is able to drop in on us you will have an opportunity to see why he is a success at the Playground. His co-operation has made all this possible.

The Fete Committee of the Rockland Country Club sends three season tickets to The Courier-Gazette and its compliments to the entire "Courier-Gazette Family." Obviously this means Maine and all its loyal sons and daughters scattered from coast to coast. Greetings and best regards to all!

Couples motoring to Canada or other "parts unknown" are paying an absence fee of $5.00. This merely helps us to tolerate their departure at such an inauspicious moment, but we shall miss them very much nevertheless.

Linwood Rogers and Dr. John E. Tibbets are to have charge of the snappy tennis matches at the Country Club Lawn Fete Friday and Saturday afternoons. Miss Doris Black and Mrs. Priscilla B. Jameson will have charge of athletics for women. Tennis, archery and other sports will be in order.

J. C. Perry, assisted by all the local florists and garden-lovers, Mrs. Charles Rose, Sr., Mrs. Dora Bird and Mrs. Ruth Montgomery Perry are planning an enticing flower booth for the Carnival this week at the Country Club. All persons with lovely gardens or otherwise interested are requested to get in touch with any of the above-mentioned workers.

The committee is trying to purchase local automobile dealers to demonstrate any snappy new fall models. This may mean a small but intriguing automobile show, but at this time of going to press it is all in development.

Season tickets on sale at 22 Grove street, telephone 496-W.

Golf tournament tickets and tags on sale everywhere along Main street, starting today. Willard Snow tickets on sale at Huston-Tuttle's.

Word To Worriers

The Fete Committee of the Country Club Carnival wishes at this time to correct an erroneous bit of news. Yesterday said committee learned "from five sources" that he, she, or it (evidently mostly "it") is paying Mr. Dondos of Oakland Park $150 for fireworks, which seems a bit expensive after paring down to the rind every other item. This is to explain to our dear public that Mr. Dondos kindly offered his time, energy and any available material at hand, with no remuneration whatever. He not only is not a Country Club member but also has no particular reason to be interested in the Club. In other words he is a real business man with the energy of an Edison, a Ford and about ten Babbits thrown into one. We take off our hat to him and we thank him. Rotarians, Kiwanis, Forty Club, Business men please copy!

K. Buffum, Chairman.

N. B.—Fireworks sometime between 9 and 10 Friday evening.

STRAND THEATRE

"Proud Flesh" which drew the crowds last night, is having its last showing today. It is a pictorialization of Lawrence Sanders' popular novel—a highly entertaining treatment of the love problem, which touches every man, woman and child in every community under the sun. It challenges the "I-don't-care" mood in which we all find ourselves at times, when it comes to choosing a life mate, and shows conclusively that whether we will it or not—we cannot escape the dictates of our own heart. Such was the situation with haughty, aristocratic Fernanda. She had all the gallants of Spain at her feet, but she could not cast off the Caesar-like ambitions of an Irish-American plumber.

For Wednesday and Thursday the management has booked "On the Stroke of Three," Madge Bellamy, Mary Carr and Kenneth Harlan head a superb cast of players which interprets the action of a thrilling story faultlessly. In addition to the exceptional acting, the settings of the drama form a fine pictorial background for the intense emotionalism of the tale. The story deals with the adventures of Judson Forrest, a poor but ambitious mountaineer, who becomes involved with the daughter of Wall Street's foremost financier without knowing who she is—adv.

The Playground children will hike to Ingraham Hill beach Friday! All will take lunches, and leave the playground at 10 a. m. Cool booze (orangeade and grape) will be waiting for them at the beach. Arrangements will be made to transport the smaller children.

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "Horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "Vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

OESSEL AND DAGOE

Keys to the Gulf of Finland—Fortified in World War.

A news dispatch from Stockholm states that the government of Estonia has leased to Great Britain for a long period the islands of Dagoe and Oessel in the Baltic Sea just south of the Gulf of Finland.

"With a combined area of 1,360 square miles, or approximately that of the State of Rhode Island, many miles of coast line fronting on the Baltic Sea, and high rocky shores adapted to fortifications, Oessel and Dagoe might well be termed the 'keys to the Gulf of Finland,'" according to a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"During the World War the islands were heavily fortified by the Russians," the bulletin continues, "and, in 1917, were the objectives of a concerted naval attack by the German fleet."

Oessel is a limestone plateau "Oessel, the larger and more important of the two, has an area of 1,010 square miles and 65,000 inhabitants, chiefly Estonians. Like Gottland, its Swedish neighbor across the Baltic, it consists of a large limestone plateau, covered with a soil layer which, at places, is very thin. The coasts are bold and steep, with many indentations but few good harbors, due to the shoal waters off shore. To the north and west there are precipitous limestone cliffs, where a few pine trees battle along with the bleak winter winds from the tundras of the Fair North."

"Yet it is under the cloudy skies and amid the barren rocks of the island that a rich green grass grows, furnishing pasture to the horses of Oessel, which, like those of the Shetland Islands, are small but are famed for their spirit and endurance."

"In addition to stock raising the natives of both islands conduct a profitable trade in grain, potatoes, whiskey and fish with the mother country, from which they are separated by narrow channels of water. The chief city of the islands is Arensburg, on the south coast of Oessel. Steamers from Riga, Revel and Petrograd make regular calls here, although the bay is shallow and the larger boats cannot approach the shore because of numerous shifting sandbars and the rocks and shoals. Green meadow lands and little islets covered with trees and grass give the bay a pretty setting, while its smooth sandy beach makes it a favorite summer resort for Estonians."

"During the World War the Sworbe Peninsula on Oessel embraced a battery of 12-inch Naval guns and was often bombed by enemy airplanes. There were fortifications on both islands throughout the war and landings were made by the German forces in the vicinity of Tagga Bay, on the north shore of Oessel, in 1917. The two islands surrendered to the German forces on October 16, 1917. Located at the junction of the Gulf of Finland and the Baltic Sea, and not far from the mouth of the Gulf of Bothnia, they are considered of great strategic value."

"The islands have long been considered of military importance, as the remains of hill fortresses and lofty ring-walls of pagan date, found along the coast and in many parts of the interior, give evidence. In the 13th century they were occupied by Waldemar, King of the Danes, and his men, who built a strong fortified castle. This castle was later destroyed by the Estonians, who followed the conquest of the island by the Knights of the Sword. In 1559 the islands were sold to Denmark, which nation in turn surrendered them to Sweden. They were incorporated with Russia in 1721 and remained under her domain until after the World War, when they were returned to the Estonians."

HOME DEMONSTRATION

Interesting Meeting In Hope—Schedule For Coming Month.

(From Farm Bureau News)

Twenty-two women met at the home of Mrs. Perry in Hope for a meeting on selection of clothing. Miss Jewett, State home demonstration leader was present at the meeting. Time was given in the morning to the discussion of line in relation to clothing. A picnic dinner, consisting of sandwiches, salads, cake and coffee was served by the women of the community. The topic for the afternoon was becoming color. All present took an active part in the work and showed much enthusiasm in the work carried on in Hope.

Having this meeting with Mrs. Perry gave everyone an opportunity to see the improvements which she has made in her home. In the afternoon Mrs. Perry read a paper giving an account of her work. Now that she has a bath room, running water, a furnace and many other conveniences, she is concentrating on a lighting system which she expects to have sometime this fall. The energy and courage of Mrs. Perry is easily seen and she has reason to be very proud of her farm home.

To the People of Knox-Lincoln Counties: Since taking up the work as home demonstration agent in your counties, I have enjoyed meeting the people in the communities that I have visited and finding them enthusiastic and interested in Extension work. I realize that it will be hard to fill the place left by Miss Herrick, but will try, however, to carry on the work as best I can, that we may have a successful year. I am looking forward to the meetings in the near future and to getting acquainted with many of the people. I will be glad to do all that I can to help in any way possible at any time.

EXTENSION ORDERED

Residents of Simonton Get Decision On Petition To the Central Maine.

Following a conference held between the Public Utilities Commission and representatives of the Central Maine Power Co., at which the matter of rural extensions of service was quite thoroughly discussed, the Commission on Saturday handed down a decision on the petition of M. L. Keane and others, residents of that part of Rockport known as Simonton, making certain provisional demands upon the Central Maine Power Co. for extensions of its service.

The conference was held for the purpose of ascertaining if it were possible to determine some method and to fix some general rule according to which this proposed extension and others of a similar nature might be undertaken. Although the proposition was quite thoroughly discussed, no definite line of action or general rule which can be made applicable to rural extension cases has yet been determined upon.

"In making our decision," says the Commission, "we shall be governed by the same general principles which this Commission has in times past applied to cases of this kind."

The Commission orders in this case that the Central Maine Power Co., extend its distribution line from its present line on Mechanic street, in the town of Camden, at the north-easterly end of Simonton road in a southeasterly direction along said Simonton road a distance of approximately 1-2 miles to Simonton Corners, so called, and from there in the same southeasterly direction approximately three-fourths of a mile and in a southerly direction approximately three-tenths of a mile, so as to furnish electric current for light and power to the people along said routes.

The work of making such exten-tion shall be commenced within 20 days after the contracts or guarantees mentioned in the order shall have been tendered to the company and shall be completed with reasonable diligence.

Before the company shall be required to comply with the order, the parties desiring said service, or some of them, shall tender to the company, written contracts or guarantees, satisfactory to the company or approved by the Commission, providing for a payment to said company annually, for a period of five years from the date when the electric current shall be ready to be turned on in all parts of said extension, or not less than $450, for the electricity to be furnished for light and power to the people along said route.

Each patron shall pay to the company at the regular established rates for all current used. If the current so used and paid for amounts of less than $450 per year, the difference between $450 and the amounts so paid by the patrons shall be adjusted and paid to the company at the end of each twelve months period by the persons obligating themselves thereunder to the provisions of the contracts herein required to be made.

-SWEDISH TOURISTS GAIN

There is an increasing tourist tide coming toward American shores from Sweden, according to figures compiled in Gothenburg. Due to restrictions on actual immigration on the United States many tourist parties are being formed as only 9,561 Swedish residents may be admitted as immigrants in 1925. There is no restriction on the number of round-trip tourists who may come.

BIGGEST BARN IN EAST

On the farms of the Middle Atlantic States, and not on the expansive western ranches may be found the largest barns. In these states the average girth of the barns is 181 feet. In the North Central States the average girth is 166.1 feet. On the Pacific Coast the average is only 159.9 feet. One of the reasons is that the Middle Atlantic States produce much hay and livestock.

IMMIGRANTS COME HIGH

Immigrants are being drawn from the United Kingdom to settle Australia at a cost varying from $5,000 to $10,000 per person. The two governments bear the cost and an effort is being made to attract 450,000 persons to Australia in this way within ten years. Part of the scheme is to relieve the unemployment situation in England.

Somebody asked us the other day if we couldn't get the same results from pushing a hoe as we could from playing golf. But who ever saw four men hoeing a garden, all stopping to laugh and slap each other on the back.—Bethany Republican.

WALTER P. CHRYSLER'S TRAFFIC TALKS

Some day someone may discover a method of getting into the consciousness of certain people the lesson that it is much safer to observe traffic signals than it is to ignore them.

No matter where one goes—Puyallup, Washington or Paris, France; Paris, Illinois or London, England—there are found men and women who habitually, or occasionally, disregard traffic signals to save a few seconds.

Jaywalking is still the commonest cause of accidents. Jaywalking in the first degree is crossing streets at places other than at crossings. All pedestrian carelessness is some degree of jaywalking. Jaywalking is dangerous even on a one-way street. On a two-way street jaywalking is especially dangerous. One may escape what's coming only to be struck by what's going.

Cross streets at crossings and cross streets when the signal tells the pedestrian to go. Motorists are compelled by law to observe traffic signals. If they disobey them they are arrested. The pedestrian should observe them for his own safety.

The wise motorist is always alert and always has his car under control. He protects the jay-walker. The jay-walker should, if humanly possible, be taught to protect himself. Observing traffic signals is a sane and safe way.

CLANS ARE GATHERING

For Maine's Three-Quarter Century Club—State of Maine Flag To Town Registering Largest Number.

From York County to Aroostook—all through the cities, the country towns and the farming districts—names are being gathered by public spirited citizens for the Maine Three-Quarter Century Club.

Never before has a state attempted to pay such a well-organized homage on a state-wide scale to its men and women who have passed the three-quarter century mark. This unique club—which was proposed by the Maine Public Health Association—has already attracted nationwide attention.

Upwards of 200 Maine cities and towns have already notified Gov. Brewster and the Maine Public Health Association that local committees are at work preparing the local lists. All residents of a town who were 75 years of age or over on August 1st of this year are eligible. In preparing the local list just three items of information are essential—the name, the address and the date of birth—of all residents of the town who were 75 years of age on August 1st, 1925. In communities where no local committee has volunteered to serve, the state committee asks that some with a little spirit of public service take it upon themselves to form a committee on their own initiative and begin at once to make the local list.

All lists must be received by Gov. Brewster in his office at the State House in Augusta on or before Aug. 25 in order to qualify the names for charter membership certificates. There is no fee for these certificates which in so many cases will become family heirlooms. All persons on the various lists who have reached the age of 100 years will receive a gold medal with the compliments of the Governor and the Maine Public Health Association.

All Maine citizens who are eligible for membership in the club, are invited to be present in the House of Representatives, State House, Augusta, on Wednesday, Sept. 2. These Maine men and women of the older generation will then proceed to elect their own officers of the Three-Quarter Century Club and take such further steps as they may desire. It is reported that the Maine News Weekly will make motion pictures of the assemblage to be shown in moving picture theatres all over the country. In this way many former residents of Maine now in far away states, will have a chance to see their former neighbors and relatives shown on the moving picture screen in hundreds of American cities and towns.

Gov. Ralph O. Brewster announced Saturday that the Maine city or town which files the longest list of residents who were 75 years of age or older on Aug. 1st of this year, will receive the largest hand-painted State of Maine flag ever made.

The prize is to be awarded in connection with the state-wide census for charter members of the Maine Three-Quarter Century Club. The hand-painted flag to be presented to the winning town will be especially suitable for hanging in the city or town hall and because of the project which it represents will be probably the most noteworthy trophy that any Maine community could acquire.

THREE QUARTER CENTURY CLUB

If you have reached the age of 75 years, will you please sign this coupon and send or mail the same to The Courier-Gazette.

A census of all residents of Maine who are 75 years or over, has been requested by the Governor and Council of the State of Maine.

Knox County will not allow its merits to go unrecognized in connection with Maine's "Three-Quarter Century Club," to which Governor Brewster has given his enthusiastic endorsement.

Every man and woman in Maine who on Aug. 1, 1925, had reached the age of 75 years is eligible to membership in the club, the purpose of which is two-fold: First, to emphasize tangibly that living in Maine is conducive to long life; and second, to pay a long-deferred tribute to our men and women who have reached the age of 75 years or more. It is hoped that every reader in the respective towns will take an interest in the matter to the extent of seeing that names are got into the hands of the chairman of his town. Let Knox County show to the world that men and women here enjoy health and long life.

The following are the chairmen in each town:

Appleton George W. Gushee
Camden John Taylor
Cushing Mrs. Grace Maloney
Friendship Miss Grace Weaver
Hope Miss Grace Weaver
North Haven Frank Beverage

Mrs. J. P. Balloch (Miss Eva Orbeton) and son Junior returned to their Manchester, N. H., home yesterday after a seven week's visit with Mrs. Balloch's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elbridge Orbeton.

Dr. William Sharpe was called yesterday to New York by professional engagements, but will return Sept. 1 to complete his summer vacation with his family at their cottage, Camp Dynamite.

Mrs. E. C. Dunbar of Lowell, Mass., is visiting her sister, Mrs. F. M. French, Granite street.

Mrs. J. W. Smith, Miss Etta Buckingham, Mrs. Carl O'Brien and Mrs. Lena Herrick are on vacation from the Leach store. Mrs. Florence Sherman has resumed her duties after a fortnight's leave.

Frank O. Stack, a former teacher in the High School, has been in the city this week.

Sunday's perfect weather was nowhere enjoyed as by the happy group of Rockland folk who started in the coolness of early morning on a 65 mile sail through the Eastern and Western Penobscot Bays, dining at Isle au Haut and putting in a jolly half hour's successful fishing. The return trip was made via the beautiful Islesboro route. Conditions were ideal, a smooth sea, a comfortable air moving, a jolly good crowd and a smart boat. The craft was the Elsie M., the new tank boat of Austin M. Moody and Mr. and Mrs. Moody were hosts of the day. The guests included Dr. and Mrs. P. R. Damon, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Ladd, Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Hall, Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Veazie, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace E. Spear, Miss Fronie Johnson and Miss Gerlie Frances.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur O. Knight, Mrs. Frances Kelley and son Allen of Worcester, arrive today and will visit friends in the city.

Miss Alice Tupper of Malden, Mass., spent Saturday, with Miss Arathusa Lovitt.

George Victor, of Detroit, Mich., spent a few days here with friends last week.

Miss Eda A. Knowlton and Mrs. Evelyn R. McKusick left Saturday morning for Andover, Me., where they will be guests at the Homestead for 10 days.

Mrs. Frank Jameson and daughter, Miss Jessie Garvey, of Allston, Mass., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Simmons.

Mrs. George W. Bachelier arrived home the last of the week from Seattle, Washington, whither she went with the New England party which attended the Knights Templar convention.

E. J. Morey is having his annual vacation from the store of Fuller-Cobb-Davis, and with Mrs. Morey is visiting in Damariscotta.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Maxim and daughter Nellie of Lewiston were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ludwick.

Miss Hildegarde Stees of Beverly, N. J., and Captain Island, Me., who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Sheldon, leaves today.

John H. Flaherty and Mr. and Mrs. John J. Devine of Portland have been the guests of Miss Alice Donohue at Crescent Beach.

Miss Lucy Fuller entertained 18 guests at her home on Talbot avenue last evening, the occasion taking on added importance because it served to announce the engagement of Linwood Rogers and Miss Pauline McLoon. Tiny place cards bearing their names attached to rosebuds, acquainted the guests with the interesting information. Cards followed the dinner, prizes being won by Misses Shelby Freesty and Dorothy Loring. A guest's prize was awarded to Miss Therese White of New York, guest of honor. Mr. Rogers, whose engagement was announced last night, is the son of Arthur L. Rogers, and attends the American School of Osteopathy in Kirksville, Mo. Miss McLoon, the younger daughter of ex-Mayor A. C. McLoon, is a graduate of Wheaton College.

GOING TO SPILL IT
Destruction of liquor valued at $165,000 was ordered in the United States District Court yesterday when four libels came up for hearing on approximately 4300 cases and 100 half barrels of contraband. The schooner barge Smith Line No. 1 on which 4000 cases of liquor were seized in Rockland Harbor was ordered sold at auction on Aug. 27. No claimant appeared either in this case or for the whiskey and rum seized on the two-masted schooner George Gress in Penobscot Bay recently.

TENANT'S HARBOR
Bailey Aldrich of the South Side summer colony arrived back Saturday evening from a two-weeks cruise in his 26-footer, the Flapper. The trip extended along the Maine coast to its farther Lubec limits and was run by chart and compass, it being the first cruise in those waters of the Flapper's skipper, who had as a guest on the voyage, his friend Allen Foley. Taking into account the prevailing fogs that kept the eastern coast blanketed so great a part of the time during the fortnight, the Flapper's voyage without mishap of any sort makes a very neat page in her log and is highly creditable to her navigator.

Thomaston County Fair all day Wednesday and Thursday.

An exhibition of painting of garden flowers is being made this week by Margaret Wendell Huntington at her studio at Hotel Rockport. Visitors will be welcomed each afternoon from 2 to 6 o'clock standard, the exhibition ending Saturday afternoon.

CHAMPION COMING

J. C. White, Sensational Golf Player, To Be At Country Club Saturday.

A rare treat is in store for golf fans at the Country Club next Saturday when there will be an exhibition match of 18 holes in connection with the Country Club's lawn fete.

The visiting players will include J. C. White of Kennebunkport, the 18-year-old youth who recently won the State amateur championship in such a sensational manner, defeating the seasoned Dr. Tyson; Hiram Ricker, Jr. of Poland Spring, who twice held the State championship; C. S. Erswell of Brunswick, who is a remarkable player for his years; and Louis Wardwell of Camden, who made a fine showing in the State championship series.

Play will start about 2 p. m., and it will be by all odds the most interesting golf event ever attempted on the local course. It is being freely predicted that young White will be a second Bobby Jones and everybody will want to be in the gallery which watches them perform. The event will be widely advertised and there will be visitors from all over the State. Tickets will be on sale at Chandler's drug store, Camden; the Carver and Huston-Tuttle book stores, Rockland at the Samoset and Megunticook Golf Club.

WORTHLESS CHECK

Leads To Arrest of Almon C. Carter, Who Is Taken To Portland.

Almon C. Carter of this city was taken to Portland yesterday to answer to the charge of giving an alleged worthless check in the sum of $100 to V. T. Shaw of Prout's Neck as part payment on a Hudson speedster which he had bought for $200. The check was drawn on the North National Bank and signed A. C. Foster. According to Mr. Shaw he represented that he was the brother of Foster, the Rockland ball player. When Mr. Shaw called up the Rockland bank he learned that no such party had an account there, and he promptly placed the matter in the hands of the Cumberland County authorities.

At their request an investigation was begun by Deputy Sheriff Sherman Rokes who was soon convinced that A. C. Foster was a C. Carter. He so notified the Cumberland County officials, and the sheriff's department received orders to place the man under arrest. Carter was apprehended by State Inspector Wentworth.

He is said to have admitted his guilt to the officers.

It is said that other worthless checks passed by Carter are in existence.

The Pony Show, a big feature of the Country Club lawn fete of Aug. 21-23 will take place Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock with prizes. All youngsters, desiring to participate should give their names to Mrs. Horace E. Lamb.

Those provisions of the Johnson Act, World War veterans' legislation drawn up and sponsored by the American Legion, which became caught in the legislative jam at the close of the last Congress, will be pressed for passage at the next session by the National Rehabilitation Committee of the Legion.

Among the provisions to be passed for passage are: To permit the payment of disability compensation retroactively to April of 1917; to provide a permanent rate of compensation for arrested cases of tuberculosis; to provide family allowances for all beneficiaries who are totally disabled; to provide for the reinstatement of insurance by disabled veterans who are unable to pay the back premiums and interest; to remove all dates for the conclusion of vocational training; to remove all time limits for the filing of disability claims; to provide for the setting up of a permanent medical corps in the veterans bureau service.

Erick O. Westin, World War veteran in Minneapolis, recently made a trip to Sweden to prove to his parents that he is alive and not lying dead in the Argonne Forest, the victim of a German bullet. He has just returned from his unique mission, he told his comrades in the American Legion, after correspondence had failed to convince his parents that he was still alive.

Westin was taken to a base hospital from the Argonne front in November, 1918. Another man, who was taken to the hospital the same day and who occupied an adjoining cot, died a few days later. Westin was confused with the dead soldier. Both the United States and the Swedish governments had reported to Westin's parents that their son was dead. Not until he presented himself in person did they believe him alive.

With splendid progress reported from every section of the country, a final drive was launched by the executive committee for the American Legion $5,000,000 endowment fund at a meeting at national headquarters recently to conclude the campaign by Sept. 30.

"The general public has been responding splendidly to our appeal for those who gave the most for country, the disabled veterans and the orphans of the war," National Commander James A. Drain said. "Everywhere they have been meeting the need with the same spirit as these disabled men and the fathers of these orphans themselves showed when they went forth to battle for their country's cause in the day when they were needed."

"Complete success is perfectly possible. Indeed, an over-subscription of the total is probable if every effort is concentrated on completing the campaign by September. We urge every department and post where the campaign is now under way to take immediate steps to complete it by the end of that month."

"In that way we can go into the national convention at Omaha on Oct. 5 with the fund completed, our object attained and the welfare of these unfortunates assured. I know that Legionnaires everywhere will give this last ounce of enthusiastic effort. Let us clear the decks of the problems of 1925 that we may go forward to meet the needs of 1926."

Each 1926 membership card of the American Legion will have printed opposite the American Legion emblem the seal of Fidei, inter-allied federation of World War veterans. "In this manner the three-quarter million members in the American Legion will be members of Fidei in fact as in name," said National Adjutant Barton. "Wherever a Legionnaire may be, if he has his Legion card with him, he will be accorded the courtesies and privileges extended to members of Fidei."

Placing of the seal on the cards follows out resolutions of the national congress of Fidei suggesting

LIME IN 'ROOSTOOK

Up-State Folk Excited Over Discovery of "Millions of Tons."

The announcement in the daily newspapers that "millions of tons of lime have been discovered in Aroostook County" was read nowhere with more interest than here in Knox County, the home of "Rockland Lime." A Fort Fairfield despatch to the Bangor Commercial thus tells of the "find."

It is quite possible that Aug. 11, will go down in history as a red letter day in Aroostook County. On that day a discovery was made in the town of Ft. Fairfield that may prove of very great value to the agriculture of the county, and anything that increases the agricultural resources of Aroostook is of value to all the state.

In the judgment of thinking farmers the farms of the county are rapidly being depleted of their soil's natural lime content. While the soil is a natural limestone product, in other words its stones and surface ledges are of that formation, and from crumbling decaying rock the soil has been made up. For to farming has brought about the use of large quantities of commercial fertilizers and these in the course of time combined with the amount of lime removed by the growing crops have brought about an acid condition in the soils, which is already showing its effects on almost every farm that has long been cleared from the forest. Many progressive farmers are now applying lime in some form to their soil in order to again bring about a condition that will enable the leguminous crops, particularly clover to thrive. In the judgment of the writer there are few farms outside of the newer lands that do not need a liberal application of lime in some form, and the application would not only enable the farmer to grow more clover but carried through his rotation enable him to make a very much larger profit from his farm operations.

The cost of land lime or ground limestone today plus the freight charge and the labor cost of getting it on the land make it almost prohibitive. Land lime costs around $13 at the railroad station and ground limestone around $8. Result: It is not being used, where quantities should be used every year.

Aroostook has a real geologist in the person of Olof O. Nylander of Wind, known to his friends as Prof. Nylander. Mr. Nylander began his career as a boy of nine in Old Sweden as a helper to a well known geologist of that country, later going to London and eventually coming to this country. The most of his time has been spent in the field in actual work with his chosen work. He has accumulated a large library and has come in close touch with many world famous men of his profession. He was one year assistant geologist of the state of New York, with the Dominion government two years, and has spent many years in field research work for the United States government.

Two years ago he took a large exhibit from this country to the World Fair held in Sweden. The expense of making this exhibit which was worth much to Maine was borne almost wholly by Mr. Nylander, though he could not afford to do this. He is considered a careful, dependable man. He feels that his discovery of Tuesday is the best day's work he ever did.

This consists of a deposit of nearly pure lime found in a swampy tract in the eastern part of the town of Fort Fairfield. The discovery of a plant resembling a moss which he found in the swampy tract, under the content of which is nearly pure lime, told Mr. Nylander that underneath was the deposit which his excavation revealed to him. Mr. Nylander says that so far as known to him the plant is found in only one other place in the United States, in the state of Michigan.

Mr. Nylander explored enough to satisfy himself that the deposit contains millions of tons. It will need only to be dug from near the surface, dried and screened when it will be ready for application to the land. Analysis of the samples has not yet been made but if Mr. Nylander is not mistaken the lime will surely be of great value to Aroostook. It was found near the base of a high elevation from which limestone was quarried some years ago and burned for lime.

The county is already indebted to Mr. Nylander for the investigations he has made, and if his judgment is correct as regards his recent discovery, the county will be in his debt to a much greater extent.

Mr. Nylander has a very large collection of geographical specimens gathered from all parts of the world. A part of his collection will be on exhibition at the Caribou Fair this week.

Employees of Postal Service Dissatisfied with Retirement Act

The present retirement act for postal employees will be the chief topic of speakers at the meetings of eight organizations that will celebrate "postal week" in Cleveland Aug. 23 to 29.

At present, clerk and carriers retire at 65 and supervisors at 70 and are paid $60 a month, providing they have spent 30 years in the service. If they have served less than 30 years the pay is pro rated.

Postal workers say the provisions of the act are "utterly inadequate to meet reasonable service and employment needs. The annuity granted is so small that employees appear to accept it only under pressure and the subject of retirement is fixed so high as to practically defeat the purpose for which the law was intended."

IN THE PUBLIC LIBRARY
KATHLEEN M. SNOW, LIBRARIAN

Week days: 9 a. m. to 8.30 p. m.
"Hottentots and geniuses can get along without books; you and I need them."—Dickinson.

Summer's the time to read. That's no mere slogan, it is a truth, with Rockland readers to prove it. More books were read from the library last month than in July before in the 32 long years of this library's existence. Not just a few more books were read, either, but nearly 500 more.

Except in the year 1920-21, when Martha Bartlett first became librarian, Rockland folks have never done so much reading as they did back in the year 1921. No matter how much the library seems to be used, or how busy it is, never, except for that one year, have we been able to equal the record made in '21. It rather makes an "upstart librarian" wish she could have been born a year earlier and been able to have personally known the reasons for Rockland's unusual literary inclination that year.

These records for July show many other interesting facts. For instance, 22 per cent of the adult books read during the month were non-fiction. Essays and poetry were first choice for many people. Next to this the demand was for biography and third place for books of travel, with books on science following a close fourth. Assuredly the idea that one can read but the lightest of fiction in summer is rapidly being pushed back into the age of never-buy-a-book-until-it's-a-year-old.

Then too there are the children, and their reading. In the mind of the average youngster there are two months in the year when reading deserves but small space. One of those is December, the other is July. Consequently there has been a noticeable decrease both in number of books borrowed and in the use of the Children's room since June.

In spite of this decrease, however, the children have read over 200 more books this July than they did in July 1924. And, even more important, they are reading far better and harder books. It looks as though there would be at least twice as many applicants for the Summer Reading Certificates as there were last year. Already Virginia Walker has read 17 books, Annette Segal and Mary Escorcao have each read 11, Frederick Hall and Sherman Rubenstein each 10, and Mildred Sweeney and Shirley Barbour each 9 books, while some thirty children have read more than the five books required for the local library certificate.

One of the most popular items in the monthly record is that showing a list of over 150 new titles of fiction which have been added. This list is to be printed in next Tuesday's Courier-Gazette. Watch for it, cut it out and save it. 'Twill be a friend indeed when one wishes to phone for books or check up on the new books still unread.

Everything about August makes one think in terms of the outdoors. That is why the collection of books on the special display table is so fascinating. Out-door books they are called. Of course there are those garden books which were mentioned last week, and with them have been placed some books on Angling and Fishing. No sportsman would deliberately miss reading "Tales of Fishes," nor would any angler feel his education complete before he had perused Dixie Carroll's "Fishing Tackle and Kits" or Smith's "Casting Tackle and Methods."

It has been said that everything about camping that is worth knowing has been included in that manual of organized camping compiled by the Playground and Recreational Association of America. It is a small, compact little volume, but surely has twice the information one generally finds in manuals of this type.

"I would never, never do for the daughter of a shipbuilder to suggest that one reading of Patterson's book, 'Small Boat Building,' could turn out a first-class shipwright, but nevertheless the information one generally finds here for the novice boat builder."

One good book in the hammock is worth two that have been left at the library, you know. The bulletin board has some special suggestions for book lovers this week. All for book lovers have been chosen from the books listed have been chosen because they provide a certain mental relaxation. A play or two, some poetry, (there's nothing better for pick-up reading) and two or three books of biography which read almost like fiction. Be sure and notice them when you are in the library. The board also displays the monthly record for July. 'Tis not a bad idea to glance at this and thereby become better acquainted with the work your library is doing.

THE HALL REUNION

The 20th annual reunion of the descendants of Ebenezer Hall who was killed by the Indians at Matinicus about 1749, was held at Penobscot View Grange Hall, Glen Cove, last Wednesday. After a delicious dinner had been served by the committee, Woodbury E. Hall, the president, called the meeting to order and all joined in singing "America." All remained standing while the two deaths which had occurred during the year were reported and chaplain offered prayer. The business was transacted and officers elected, making Mr. Leonard H. Hall of Charles town, Mass., President for the next year. Frank H. Ingraham then took charge of the very interesting program. Hearty applause showed that the different numbers were appreciated. There were 68 present, the youngest 3 1/2 years and the oldest 90 years.

A TRAFFIC COP NEXT

Matinicus Has Its First Automobile—Other Island News.

Tout! Tout! Get out of the way! Life is no longer safe on the island. The march of progress has overtaken us. Our first automobile has made its appearance, and without doubt we will soon be overrun by them. Arthur Gray has acquired a Ford to use in his business. By the way—Mrs. Judson Young has the distinction of being the first person to cross the Bay in an automobile. A noteworthy ride.

On a trip through the country these days, one can not help being impressed by the large number of junk-shops displaying such signs as "Antiques" and "Ye Olde Shoppe." Speaking of signs: I recently noted two interesting ones by the wayside. One, "Chow puppies for sale;" and right next to it, "Hot Dogs. Get it?"

The flower gardens on the island are many and varied, and very beautiful. Among others are noted those of Mrs. Charles Tolman, Mrs. George Belcher, Mrs. Ernest Young, Mrs. Ed. Ripley, Mrs. Scott Young, Mrs. Frank Ames, Mrs. Fred Philbrook, Mrs. Stanley Palmer, Mrs. Bert Ripley, Mrs. Horace Young, Mrs. Henry Ring, Mrs. Isaac Philbrook, Mrs. Arthur Philbrook, and Miss Henriette Ames. The writer himself has a few dahlias which might be called classy, without exaggeration.

By vote of the congregation, $57 the proceeds of the last church supper, has been donated to the pastor, Burleigh Sylvester, as a gift of appreciation.

Not long ago, I read in a Boston paper of a man on a fishing steamer out of that city who caught a cod weighing 30 pounds, thereby winning a prize of $200. I wonder what those people would think if they could see the cod landed at our wharf, day after day: great boatloads of them, cod that are 60, 70, 80, and 90 pounds each, and sold for—how much do you think? Yes sir, two cents per pound! How do the fishermen make a living at that price? Well, it's like this: A man in need of a suit went into a clothing store. The proprietor anxious to make a sale, made eloquent discourse concerning his wares, and finally exclaimed, "I sell those suits for a loss. Every suit costs me $14 and I sell them for Twelve." "Why?" said the man, "I don't see how you can afford to do that!" "Well," said the proprietor, "I tell you, I sell so many."

The codfish prepared by Brother Holmes have a far-reaching reputation. Their excellence is well known in the White House and the Governor's mansion at Augusta, where they are very popular. Ask Scotty about it.

Little question for today: Any kick to that dandelion wine yet? Matinicus.

GOOD "AD" FOR MAINE
Florida Hears That It Has Most Up-To-Date Road Building In Country.

One more indication that Maine leads the way, and that the rest of the country is watching her development is shown by a letter just received by Paul D. Sargent, chief engineer of the State Highway Commission, from M. F. Smith, civil engineer of Daytona, Florida. The letter reads: "I understand that you have the most up-to-date road building in the country. I would like to have copies of your standard road construction, also standard culverts and bridges."

Perhaps Mr. Smith was at the Governor's Conference, or perhaps some one who was told him about the delights of riding over Maine highways, at any rate he was well informed.
