Liberty National Bank of Ellsworth

YOUR BUSINESS—and the Banks

A manager's thought will entertain that the banks' business is in other people's hands. The bankkeeper does not make the rules, draw the checks, settle the accounts, etc., etc., but is in charge of the work, gives advice and help when needed. A bank is a public bank, and the manager is your public servant. That absolute reliability is the aim of the Liberty National Bank and its officers, its directors and officers—and of the quality of its service. Ask any Liberty National employee.

One day we asked a bank employee about the amount of his day's work. He said, 'It's a lot harder to process one check than it is to process ten.'

farm.'

We have something for you, which you probably have never had before. SPECI—what which contains all the natural flavor.

are the ones you will see using it, for they know it is the best. If you would know the difference a better flour will make in your baking, just tell your grocer—William Tell.

The Harvest of 50 Years

Your Grandfather and your Father faced ruin. War then had just ended. Consumers then clamored for cheaper food. Prices fell—farm prices most of all. Farmers sought aid in cooperation, in organization. They founded the National Grange—the first national farmers' organization to survive fifty years.

The Grange begins the better for fresh conditions for farmers; for better marketing; for better homes; better schools and better government. Today you have agricultural, cooperative, transportation, extension, rural delivery, parcel post, savings bank, a lot of other things your Grandfather did not have, but needed, following the Civil War.

The Grange is fighting the fight the same today as it did fifty years ago. Another war has ended. A different sort of war. The farmer is expected to stand the first shock and pain.

You need the Grange and the Grange needs you. You need its organization in cooperation, in checking radical tendencies and in watching the nation. You need its voice at Washington. It needs your support.

For this advertisement we are indebted to the COUNTRY CIVIL WAR MUTUAL, which is even older than the Grange and which reflects the wisdom of years as well as the news of progress in farming. For farmers it becomes as the Grange—to inform, to organize, to watch, to fight. It sends reports and bulletins to you that you can use to carry the message that it is fighting for. To order your subscription now, send me your name and address.

Shall We Send Our Investment Money Out of the State or Shall We Invest in Maine and Build Up Maine?

Maine has for years sent her investment money broadcast—to build up the West and the South. This was charitable, perhaps; but the South and the West grew—at the expense of Maine.

The rising price and growing scarcity of coal have combined to give Maine her great opportunity.

The State has water power in great quantities. It has a satisfactory labor condition. If it can develop its water powers it can grow beyond belief. But it takes investment money to develop water powers.

So to-day the people of Maine stand face to face with this problem: Shall they continue to invest their money out of the State where they can get perhaps a slightly higher return, or shall they invest in Maine, to build up Maine and thus earn double dividends?

For those who are investing for Maine's growth, no security is as popular as the preferred stock of Central Maine Power Company. This company is developing power. It is helping to bring industries and prosperity to Maine. It is being financed by the people of Maine, so that the ownership and the earnings of Maine power remain in the State. Every cent it spends on developments adds to the taxable property of the State of Maine.

In addition to helping in the financing of a great power development, Central Maine 7 Per Cent Preferred Stock offers exceptional safety, tax exemption and freedom from care.

The price is $107.50 a share—the yield is 6½ per cent.

May we send you more information about this favorite State of Maine security? If so, please fill out the coupon.
