

The Courier-Gazette
THREE TIMES A WEEK
CIRCULATION AFFIDAVIT
Rockland, Maine, Nov. 21, 1925.
I, Frank S. Laddie, who is personally acquainted with the owner of the above-named publication, do hereby certify that the above-named publication has been published at the place and for the time and in the manner stated in the affidavit filed for record on the 19th day of November, 1925, and that the circulation of the same for the week ended November 14, 1925, was as follows:

That the question of smoking should be a matter of choice, and especially Mount Holyoke, will bring a shock to the older graduates of that famous and conservative institution, where 442 students have just voted to keep the present rule which forbids smoking, while 448 students voted as wishing to see some change in that rule. President Mary E. Woolley says in discussing the question:

"Personally I do not like to see the girls smoke. But that is not the question. The only question is whether it is unreasonable for the college to make such a limitation of personal freedom. But college is not the social world at large. When you come to college by your own consent, you are willing to give up some of the prerogatives you may have enjoyed in your own homes. And this you do because you feel that college is a special kind of orderly and disciplined life in which, if you are to get the most out of it, you must keep yourself to a special level of personal and intellectual efficiency.
Moreover, while smoking may be to the individual a habit which seems to do her no harm, wholesale smoking would lead to many difficulties for the college as a body. It greatly increases the danger of fire. We have had too many fires to take that possibility lightly. Moreover, there is the difficulty of keeping the social rooms fresh and pleasant to outsiders, visitors and non-smokers among yourselves. While many people like fresh tobacco smoke, I know of no one who enjoys it stale."

The community government of the college decided that a sufficient number of students desired the rule changed to warrant some action being taken. Here's modernism for you.

Miss Kittredge's interesting story of band music in Belfast—we reproduce it on another page—will also arouse pleasant memories of old band days in Rockland, where good music always has been supported by bands of real musicians, some of them numbered among the noted leaders of their time. We recall in particular James Wright, who was recognized as one of the foremost bandmen of his day. He led the famous Rockland Band that accompanied the Fourth Maine Regiment when in 1861 it left for the South.
When at the head of the regiment marching through Boston streets the band struck up the rousing strains of "The Charleston Guards," the newspapers took occasion to write of the performance in glowing language. We too hope to see the end of jazz and a sane return to music that reaches down into the soul and sticks there. James Whitcomb Riley understood the feeling. We reprint his views in today's Favorite Poem corner.

The League of Nations in its expressed purpose to reform the calendar with respect to fixing a date for Easter asks for help from all parts of the world in what it justly regards as a delicate task. In response to letters sent to all members of the League, the committee finds that in addition to a need felt in economic circles for definitely fixing a date for the festival, there is a similar desire expressed in educational circles, as a date selected would be of great importance from the point of view of holidays and the general arrangement of the work in the various branches of education. It has long been generally felt that the reasons establishing the ancient method of a movable festival have been superseded by conditions under which the world is now governed.

The Lewiston church which in a process of reconstruction has replaced the old spire with one of rectangular form, in so doing follows an example which has had many adherents in church rebuilding in recent times. We confess ourselves as leaning strongly to the colonial style of architecture, with its central pointed spire of graceful form in peculiar manner perpetuating the earlier church traditions of New England. Every church edifice in Knox County, if we correctly recall, one time bore the pointed spire.
Here and there one remains, but mostly they have given way to the other form, at a sacrifice, we think, of architectural feeling.

A thrilling story, that of the blazing Clyde liner Lenape, racing for port with passengers and crew numbering nearly four hundred, while ocean craft from many directions rushed to the rescue in answer to her wireless calls for help. When the Coast Guard patrol boat drove under the liner's burning side and picked off the passengers dangling from ropes and ready to fall into the water—that was a moment of high heroic achievement. All were rescued and brought into Philadelphia. Some once more for the Coast Guard service steadfastly watching on our Atlantic seaboard and swiftly responding to every call.

The bill of fare doesn't suggest that the occupants of Maine's chief penal institution are seriously underfed.

DOCTOR McBEATH

Prominent Osteopath Succumbs, Following Operation For Appendicitis.

Dr. T. L. McBeath, 45, died early yesterday morning, following a hospital operation Wednesday for an attack of appendicitis. He rallied from the operation but the severity of the case indicated small hope of a favorable outcome. Funeral services will be held Sunday at 2 o'clock from the family home on Union street, Rev. Mr. Rounds of the Congregationalist church, of which the deceased was a member, officiating.

Thomas Laken McBeath, son of
A. William and Myrtle McBeath, was born Feb. 26, 1880, in Kidder, Missouri, where he attended public schools and the Kidder Institute.
In 1908 he entered the American school of Osteopathy at Kirksville, Mo., from which he graduated in 1912, having supplemented his study with a course at Chicago University and at Chicago College of Medicine and Surgery. He was married in 1903 to Ruth N. Nichols, who attended the Kirksville College and graduated with him. In August, 1912, associated with Mrs. McBeath, he began in Rockland the practice of his profession. He is survived by his wife, his father and one brother, two daughters, Barbara and Betty, and his nephew, Dr. Edwin Scarlett of Camden, who has been to him like a son and who received at his hands his education, including the course at Kirksville.

Dr. McBeath's untimely death in the prime of life is no less than a public loss. In the practice of his profession he had endeared himself to a very large number of homes, where his friendly personality, his practical good sense and his thorough knowledge of the new school of treatment which he practiced engaged both their confidence and affection. From practitioners of older schools he won respect and regard and none more than they will regret his taking off. Among the practitioners of his own school his mastery of the profession was recognized. He was president of the Maine Osteopathic Association in 1922-23, had been president of the New England Osteopathic Association, and was chairman of the Maine Osteopathic Examination and Registration Board. He was a member of Rockland Lodge of Masons and of Rockland Lodge of Elks.

Dr. McBeath was a splendid physical type, carrying with ease the demands of a somewhat strenuous profession. On the two days preceding the attack he had driven his car on the round trip to Boston following his arrival home that Sunday evening by a number of professional calls, apparently in the fullness of health and bodily vigor.
That within a few brief hours he should succumb to so insidious an attack supplies a poignant illustration of the uncertainty of human existence.

In connection with his endured work he was about to remove his office from the home, opening offices in the lower flat of the Sprague building, where he and Dr.
Ruth started their home and business when they first came to Rockland.

In accordance with a desire expressed by Dr. McBeath in his final hours he will be succeeded in his practice by Dr. Edwin Scarlett.

WILLIAM A. McLAIN

Main street business circles received a rude shock early yesterday morning when the news went out that William A. McLain had dropped dead in his shoe store. The discovery was made by Fred L. Derby, letter carrier on that route who had gone into the store on his morning rounds, and found the proprietor stretched unconscious upon the floor.
Dr. C. D. North was summoned, but his errand was a vain one, as death had probably resulted instantaneously.

Mr. McLain had not been in rugged health for several years, and last summer passed through an ordeal, which only his strong constitution could have survived. He was at his place of business as usual Thursday and almost his last act, closing a business career of nearly 40 years, was to order a bill of goods from a traveling salesman. It was not given him to foresee that the purchase would not be completed.

The deceased was a son of the late Alvin T. McLain. With other heirs of his grandfather, the late Alden Ulmer, he was one of the owners of the McLain limestone quarry on the Old County road, long since abandoned. Retiring from this business he bought the Robert Wooster shoe store and had ever since been a factor in Main street business life—substantially successful in the trade which he had chosen to follow, and recognized by succeeding generations as accommodating and reliable, and a man with whom it was always a pleasure to transact business.

Mr. McLain's life was divided very closely between his mercantile career and his home, giving close application to the former and finding his greatest pleasure in the privacy of the latter. The sudden death of his daughter Miss Agnes McLain, last April was a shock from which he had never recovered. She had been closely identified with him in the business and devoted to him in their home, and her going was a blow to which his advancing years could not be reconciled.

Mr. McLain was a stalwart Republican, but had not sought to hold office.
He belonged to no organization but few men kept in closer touch with public affairs or had keener interest in public welfare. His support for anything he believed worthy was always wholehearted.

The funeral services will be held at the residence, 53 Talbot avenue, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

CANNED FOODS
How They Solve the Problems of the Prudent Housewife.

It is not the inexperienced housekeeper alone who meets up with difficulties in looking after the household, especially in planning and preparing the daily meals. "Left-overs" are a big problem, and if constant watchfulness is not exercised the left-overs soon are taking up all the refrigerator space and eventually many of them find their way to the garbage can.

Just what quantity of food to prepare is indeed a problem. Suppose one wants a cupful of apple sauce. How many apples will it take to make that quantity? How many quarts of peas in the pod will be needed to make a finished dish of, say, two cupfuls? Should the housewife order three, six, nine or twelve ears of corn if she wishes to serve stewed corn and wants two and a half cups after it is stewed and prepared for serving. Or, perhaps she plans a dish in which one and a third cups of stewed tomatoes are needed—how many whole tomatoes should she buy to make about that quantity?

These, and many other difficulties, are already solved for her if she makes use of canned foods. Canners long ago recognized that the needs of families vary and have met this situation by packing their products in cans of different size so as to enable the housewife to purchase just the quantity of food needed for her family.

Every can must carry on its label a statement of the quantity it contains, and if the housewife becomes familiar with the can sizes and the amount they contain it will be a splendid guide to her in making purchases. If her family is small and a No. 1 can, which holds 11 ounce or about one and a third cupfuls, is sufficient, her purchase of canned foods should be limited to that size can. When she stocks up her pantry with canned foods for the winter time, she should lay in just the size cans that are best suited for her needs. While the statement of the contents on the label is given in pounds and ounces, she usually has better appreciation of the quantity by cupfuls and for her guidance the following table is given, which indicates the average net weight of contents and approximately the number of cupfuls in the most commonly used cans:

No.	Weight	Cupfuls
No. 1	11 oz.	1 1-3
No. 2	28 oz.	2 1-2
No. 2 1/2	28 oz.	3 1-2
No. 3	33 oz.	4
No. 5	3 lbs.	8 oz. 7
No. 10	6 lbs.	10 oz. 13

It is well to keep in mind also that the entire contents of the can are edible food, there being no waste whatever, so by keeping the above table at hand the proper size can may be used, thus practically eliminating left-overs.

R. D. Day hands us a real curiosity in the form of a potato which closely resembles an apple that had been left outdoors through the winter so that the likeness is startling. This is the year, however, when farmers wished that apples looked like potatoes.

By another week it is expected that the Edgcomb cut-off will be complete with the exception of the work that remains to be done on the bridge. The representatives of the State Highway Commission in charge of the work are considering deferring opening the road to travel until next spring, after its surface has been treated with tarvia.

Operations in the highway department the past year have been conducted on a broad scale, and there are few sections of the city which have not witnessed much needed improvements in some form. The expenditure on streets amounted to $25,524, and this includes the sum of $1200 spent for the Webber and Haskell property at the corner of Ocean and Water streets, where a very noticeable improvement has been made. Other items were: Permanent improvements, $8737; public landings, $2241; sidewalks, $2361; sewers, $2267; total, $45,771.

The Camden & Rockland Water Co. has installed two new gates in its 6-inch main at the junction of Limerock and Union streets. With this arrangement in force it will no longer be necessary to isolate so large a territory while leaks are being repaired. Under Supt. The Registration Board goes into session next Wednesday for the purpose of qualifying new voters for the December election. The sessions will continue every weekday (with the exception of Thanksgiving Day) up to and including the following Wednesday. The hours for registration will be from 9 to 12 to 5 and 7 to 9. The Registration Board as now made up, comprises Robert A. Webster, chairman, Fred H. Sanborn and Col. William P. Hurley.

The annual report of the city marshal's department was presented this year in two sections. Former City Marshal Luke S. Davis, accounting for the period from Nov. 10, 1924, to July 6, 1925, reported 82 arrests, 53 of which were for intoxication, and receipts to the amount of $4848. Deputy Marshal Walter J. Fernald, who has been at the head of the department since Mr. Davis resigned, reported 72 arrests, 60 of which were for intoxication, cash receipts to the amount of $847. This would make the year's total arrests 154 and the total receipts $2331.

A rumor which sprung from nobody knows where was being given wide circulation on the street yesterday, to the effect that a former Rockland man had committed suicide in the vicinity of Boston. The story would not go down until Rockland friends had communicated with Boston relatives and found that there was no foundation whatever for the story. Among those who readily credited this unfounded story, rumor were doubtless many persons who tell you that "you cannot believe anything you read in the newspapers." Well, if they prefer street rumors, backed by nobody but "they say," it's up to them.

William A. McLain, Jr., arrived last night from Boston, called by the sudden death of his father.

Mrs. McKen of Belfast is acting as night operator at the Western Union while C. A. Pease is off duty on account of illness.

The members of Rockland Lodge, B. P. O. Elks, have been notified to meet at their Home at 1 o'clock Sunday to attend the funeral of their late brother, Thomas L. McBeath.

Ex-Manager Carl Benson of Park and Empire Theatres leaves today for his old home in Worcester, Mass., visiting friends in Dover, N. H., and other places, and arriving in season to help eat the Thanksgiving turkey.

It would not be Thanksgiving Eve without the annual ball of the N. A. Burpee House Co. and so there comes another next Wednesday night the 41st annual. There are 16 numbers on the dance order and No. 9, directly after intermission, is the one which will tickle the crowd for it is a cake walk, and Mont P. Trainer has donated a big prize cake for the winning couple. Capt. C. H. Nye rather expects the "Burps" will have their biggest and best ball.

Visitors at the High School yesterday were generous in their praise of the library with especial comment on the massive desk which bore a recently installed plate inscribed: Presented by the Class of 1889 and the Cardinal Club. The special class in typewriting conducted by Mrs. Lena K. Sargent developed an interest that crowded the room and corridor beyond with spectators. The typing was done to music and the operators attained a surprising ease and speed. Every office must provide an orchestra or phonograph for its typists. The fact is that through studying the system of typing to music the student obtains a rhythmic action that produces much greater speed and a more even typescript. The music is only essential during the preliminary stages.

The W. C. T. U. session with Mrs. Hope Brewster, Rankin street, yesterday afternoon, was the Thanksgiving meeting and many personal expressions of thanks were given for what the union had accomplished the past year in advancing the work in local, state and national organizations. It was voted to take a special collection for Near East Relief, and to pack and ship clothing, to which all members are asked to contribute. Friday, Nov. 27, was designated Young People's Day for the purpose of organizing a local Loyal Temperance Legion, and Mrs. Clara B. Emery was appointed superintendent of this department to make all arrangements. The Union pledged its loyal support to this new branch of work. Reports were given from the Camden meeting of county officers. Nov. 18, when Mrs. Clara Sawyer of Thomaston was elected county treasurer and Mrs. Clara Emery of Rockland, superintendent of child welfare and social morality to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mrs. Bramhall.

Returning yesterday morning from Portland, where he had gone for his daughter, Mrs. Harrison MacAlman, A. W. Gregory figured in quite a serious accident on the outskirts of Bath. The Times this describes the incident: "A. W. Gregory, owner of A. W. Gregory of Lime Rock hill as it approached the city over a Brunswick road about 10 Friday morning when it collided with a bundle of prepared shingles that fell from a car of the D. A. Bishop Trading Co. and went into the ditch. The Bishop car was returning from Brunswick with a load of shingles when one fell off. The Gregory car in which were Mr. Gregory and three women was closely following. The forward wheels struck the bundle and suddenly swerved into the ditch. Mr. Gregory sustained a cut on the neck, when his head came in contact with the windshield which broke. His injuries were cared for by Dr. Fuller. The three women suffered only from shock. The car was taken to the Bath Garage Co. for repairs, the damages consisting of a broken seat, running board mudguards and about everything on the forward end was knocked out of place. Mr. Bishop rendered all possible assistance."

Edwin Libby Relief Corps scored a big success at its meeting Thursday. One of the largest and finest suppers of the year was served by Mrs. Riah Knight, Mrs. Elizabeth Libby and Mrs. Hattie Haskell. The guests' table was very attractive and justice was done to all the good things on it. The meeting in the evening was one of the largest Edwin Libby Relief Corps has had for some time. This splendid program, under the direction of Mrs. Liza Plummer, was presented: Vocal solos, Miss Helena Huntley, Ruth Plummer and Ruth Koster, with Miss Kathleen Haskell at the piano; piano solos, Mrs. Amy Tripp and Stanley Walsh; choruses, sung by Mrs. Walsh at the piano. Through the courtesy of Proprietor Fuller of the Rockland Radio Shop the President's address was heard through the medium of the new Adler-Royal cabinet radio speaker. The beautiful machine proved very effective in spite of bad weather conditions. Later on receiving conditions were even worse but Mr. Fuller persevered and the ladies were able to get all the desired stations. A vote of appreciation was given Mr. Fuller for his kindness.

Those who saw the picture "You Can't Stand There," shown at the Strand Theatre on Armistice Day, saw a very complete story of the American Doughboy from the time he left his place in civil life and started on the route that led through the training camps with their "sounds east and west" and the ever-present fog of K. P. in the offing—aboard the transports where space was utilized in a way that revolutionized the sardine packing industry and where the Navy played its part as it took them (most of them at least) safely over; through the mud of France as he toured the country and led him into the fighting. The scenes where the Doughboys were advancing on the German lines were taken by official photographers and showed actual combat. This picture is controlled by the American Legion Film Service and only Legion Posts can show it. The Armistice Ball which is now one of the established annual events of the Legion Post, was all that it should be. The music was very good, the floor was in perfect shape and a jolly crowd made a pretty scene as it tripped the light fantastic amid the countless banners and pennants with which the hall was decorated.

The degree staff of Miriam Rebekah Lodge will meet at the hall at 5:30 Monday night and proceed by motor to Waldoboro where they will have supper and work the degree. It is hoped to start promptly at 5:30.

Ralph E. Smith has been added to the Republican City Committee, representing Ward 2, assisting the regular committee man. A meeting of the Republican committee is called for 7:30 next Tuesday night in the City Council room.

One of the first demonstrations of the new Adler-Royal radio speaker was given on the occasion of the President's speech with the visiting members of several relief corps as auditors. It was very cordially received as operated by proprietor Fuller of the Rockland Radio Shop.

An invitation is extended to all friends of the Home for Aged Women to attend the Thanksgiving donation party at the Home next Tuesday. Vegetables, preserves, canned goods, jellies, etc., are needed for the winter supplies, and anyone contributing money will find it gratefully received. Members of the Association are reminded that the annual dues are now payable and Mrs. J. E. Stevens, the treasurer, will be glad to collect at this time.

District Deputy Grand High Priest H. C. Smith officiated at the K. A. M. Thursday night, and saw the Royal Arch degree conferred in full upon Philip A. Jones, James H. Lewis, William E. Morgan, Irving L. Bray and David S. Lowe. Seventy-five members and 34 visitors were present, being fortified for the evening's work by an ample and excellently served Eastern Star supper. The district deputy expressed his pleasure at the manner in which the degree was conducted, and with the general spirit shown by the Chapter members.

Edwin Libby Relief Corps scored a big success at its meeting Thursday. One of the largest and finest suppers of the year was served by Mrs. Riah Knight, Mrs. Elizabeth Libby and Mrs. Hattie Haskell. The guests' table was very attractive and justice was done to all the good things on it. The meeting in the evening was one of the largest Edwin Libby Relief Corps has had for some time. This splendid program, under the direction of Mrs. Liza Plummer, was presented: Vocal solos, Miss Helena Huntley, Ruth Plummer and Ruth Koster, with Miss Kathleen Haskell at the piano; piano solos, Mrs. Amy Tripp and Stanley Walsh; choruses, sung by Mrs. Walsh at the piano. Through the courtesy of Proprietor Fuller of the Rockland Radio Shop the President's address was heard through the medium of the new Adler-Royal cabinet radio speaker. The beautiful machine proved very effective in spite of bad weather conditions. Later on receiving conditions were even worse but Mr. Fuller persevered and the ladies were able to get all the desired stations. A vote of appreciation was given Mr. Fuller for his kindness.

Those who saw the picture "You Can't Stand There," shown at the Strand Theatre on Armistice Day, saw a very complete story of the American Doughboy from the time he left his place in civil life and started on the route that led through the training camps with their "sounds east and west" and the ever-present fog of K. P. in the offing—aboard the transports where space was utilized in a way that revolutionized the sardine packing industry and where the Navy played its part as it took them (most of them at least) safely over; through the mud of France as he toured the country and led him into the fighting. The scenes where the Doughboys were advancing on the German lines were taken by official photographers and showed actual combat. This picture is controlled by the American Legion Film Service and only Legion Posts can show it. The Armistice Ball which is now one of the established annual events of the Legion Post, was all that it should be. The music was very good, the floor was in perfect shape and a jolly crowd made a pretty scene as it tripped the light fantastic amid the countless banners and pennants with which the hall was decorated.

MAINE MILK LAW
 Grade A Bill Which Voters Will Consider In Dec. 7 Election.
 Every voter in the State of Maine is urged to give thoughtful consideration to the provisions of the so-called "Grade A Milk Bill" in a statement issued by the Maine Public Health Association.
 "This law, which in effect is a law to enforce correct labeling of an important food product—was enacted at the last session of the legislature but is to be passed upon at the special referendum election to be held Dec. 7," continues the statement.
 For the protection of American homes where milk is purchased by the bottle for family use and especially for the young children, it has become the general custom to label the milk—usually on the cap of the bottle—with certain terms designating the grade or the quality of the contents of the bottle. Such terms as "Pasteurized," "Raw," "Grade A," "Certified," etc., are used.
 In certain sections, milk producers are supplied by their daily supply houses with milk bottle caps which have been imprinted with terms which purport to designate the contents of the milk bottle so used.
 The Maine law—the provisions of which have been suspended, pending the special election on Dec. 7—provides that no milk shall be labeled and sold as "Grade A" milk unless the contents of the bottle and the dairy producing it conform to the standards of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry for "Grade A" milk. There is nothing in the law which prevents the sale of milk of other grades providing such milk is not labeled "Grade A."
 With the thousands of visitors coming to Maine each year often children of tender years who need milk as one of the principal items of their diet—who are accustomed to the term "Grade A" milk in their home communities, we believe that Maine milk producers and Maine citizens generally will agree that no Maine milk should be sold which is labeled "Grade A" milk unless such milk meets the accepted standards for such milk as fixed by the United States standard and the better fat standards and freedom from tuberculosis, covered by the standards of the American Public Health Association, and accepted generally throughout the country.
 Milk is one of the most important and valuable food products used on the American table. Children especially need it. Maine dairy herds are notably free from tuberculosis. Maine dairies are conducted with the most approved methods of modern sanitation. This is as it should be since milk products may easily become contaminated with dirt and filth invisible to the eye and not discernable to the taste.
 The legislative act under consideration by the voters of Maine at the election Dec. 7 is not, however, a bill to regulate the sanitation of dairies but is a bill to provide and to make certain that milk which is sold and labeled "Grade A" shall conform to the usual standards for milk so labeled.
 Considering the figures wasted over debts and reparations it may be said that there is no aftermath of the war—only aftermathematics.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Weaver and Raymond Ludwig, served supper to over 60 members and their guests. The next meeting will be the 28th.

A chicken dinner and plenty of other good things were served to Mrs. Harwood, her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Harwood, Mrs. Fish and daughter Miss Laura Fish. Very active and enjoying the average good health, Mrs. Harwood was the only member of the Three Quarter Century Club from this town to attend their festive in August last September. Her many friends and neighbors wish her many happy returns of the day.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped when Other Medicines Failed

Walpole, N. H.—"I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and find it has improved my health wonderfully. For months and months I was not regular and had terrible pains. They used to affect my side so I could not work. I read of others being helped by the Vegetable Compound, so I thought it might help me. I am very much better now, strong enough to do my own housework, and have two dear babies to care for besides. I tried other medicines before taking the Vegetable Compound, but I was never treated for my troubles. I speak highly of the Vegetable Compound to my friends and recommend it to any woman for rundown and nervous condition."—Mrs. T. H. FULLER, Walpole, New Hampshire.

Over 200,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?" 98 out of every 100 of the replies say "Yes," and because the Vegetable Compound has been helping other women it should help you.

HOBBS' HIGH HONORS

President of Knox-Lincoln Farm Bureau Wins Coveted Pomological Prizes in Portland.

At the State Pomological meeting in Portland this week, Everett N. Hobbs of Hope won first premium for Knox County on his exhibit of apples, while E. A. Matthews and Alonzo Butler of Union won second and third premiums, respectively.

A. F. Puntion of Hope also came under the spotlight winning second premium with a plate of Golden Delicious apples.

Knox County was represented at the show by E. N. Hobbs, E. A. Matthews, Alonzo Butler, W. K. Robbins, County Agent R. C. Wentworth and Home Demonstration Agent Miss Nan Mahoney.

An abundance of honors went to Everett N. Hobbs, for in addition to being high line of Knox County apples, he won third prize in the State collection, first prize on St. Lawrence, second on Gano, fourth on Northern Spy, and first prize on State collection of pears, as first prize on variety of Buerre Boss pears.

The new president of the Knox-Lincoln Farm Bureau is one of the most successful orchardists in Knox County, as shown also by his other success this season, for Mr. Hobbs won first premium on collection of sprayed fruit and a majority of blue ribbons on different varieties of apples at Union Fair and about 40 blue ribbons on fruit at Lincolnville Town Fair.

Orchardists' problems were gone over thoroughly Wednesday. The retirement of Neal D. Stanley of Pittsfield as president of the Maine Pomological was regretted. But a warm welcome was given W. G. Coffart of Hebron to leadership. He holds the confidence of the apple men.

Prof. Gilbert Peck of Cornell talked on pruning and forced home some practical ideas, most helpful of which, perhaps, was the need for light pruning regularly, instead of heavy pruning once in four or five years.

He said he had seen orchards pruned apparently for looks. Sometimes they appeared to be pruned for cultivating, all the lower limbs being removed. These are not the main objectives. So large a portion of the fruit is borne on the big lower limbs that retaining them may be worth while, leaving cultivation to be carried on outside.

Cutting off big limbs may reduce leafage which cuts off part of the tree's nourishment from the air, and may open fruit to sun scald. Moreover preserving lower limbs means more fruit can be picked by men standing on the ground, 10 to 15 per cent.

He reported an orchard 12 years old where Baldwin had been lightly pruned every year, the yield being 16½ bushels to a tree. Another plot, moderately pruned produced little over eight bushels, though he admitted their size ran larger.

He commended the McIntosh Reds for a Maine commercial crop and advised light pruning for increased production and earlier fruit. On a 50 acre basis, over the life of the trees this would mean a substantial gain.

Thinning out lightly on the wood inside the tree lets in the air and sunshine in needed proportions and makes dusting or spraying more effective. The young orchard is not the place to cut the winter's firewood. One inch or smaller cuttings are desirable. Fruit spurs should be conserved.

In orchards that are mature, it is better to take four or five years to lower the tops of trees that are too tall, than to cut out drastically at once.

He also added a word of caution against painting wounds. On trees that are less than 25 years old it is better not to use paint, demonstration have shown. Turpentine is especially bad, tending to check natural healing. Sodium silicate is not so apt to injure the trees and some grafting wax is all right.

But lots of painting is a waste of time and money.

Especially valuable to the orchard men was the report on the recent experiments in spraying and dusting for scab which have been conducted at the Experiment Station. This was given by Dr. Donald Folsom. In substance, he said:

"Orchard men would like to know when to add a spray application to the regular schedule, or when to leave off one, according to whether the season is one of heavy scab or one of light scab. The difficulty of this plan of action seems to be that scab is heavier or lighter corresponding to a dozen different environmental conditions, and as a result we often do not know how things happen when it is all over, let alone foretell the weather and its effect on scab ahead of time. In Delaware, the smallest state in the Union, there has been a difference of three weeks in the time when the first spray was needed, in two adjacent counties.

"Dozens of substitutes for Bordeaux mixture and liquid lime sulphur have been tested out but only a few have threatened them but none have replaced them as the general fungicides. At Highmoor Farm we have tested some of the proposed substitutes that were found promising in our regions. Sulphur dust-

Is a Bad Back Wearing You Out?

DOES every day find you miserable with backache? Do you suffer sharp, stabbing pains? Are you lame and stiff—always tired, nervous and dispirited?

Then you should be looking to your kidneys? Your kidneys are the blood filters. Perhaps they have lagged—have failed to properly rid the blood of body poisons.

Naturally, then, you suffer the injurious effects of this slow poisoning. Don't risk neglect! If your kidneys need help use Doan's Pills. No other kidney diuretic is so well recommended nor so universally successful. Ask your neighbor!

Here is Rockland Proof:

Mrs. A. B. Kallio, 169 S. Main St., says: "The grip affected my kidneys and there was a constant pain in my back. Headaches made me uncomfortable and frequent dizzy spells added to the trouble. My kidneys were weak and acted too frequently. My health improved rapidly through the use of Doan's Pills and it only took a few boxes to put an end to the complaint."

Urges Catholic Women to Resist Indecent Fashions in Dress

Catholic women in America were urged by Pope Pius to resist "indecent" fashions in women's dress in a message to the convention of the National Council of Catholic Women.

The message read by Bishop Joseph Schrembs of Cleveland declared that Christian women who dress immodestly "dishonor the name of Christian."

Proper resistance to such fashions, it said, is sometimes lacking in the very places where it is most to be expected—Christian schools. Heads of these schools, it is said, sometimes complain that if they insist on modest fashions the mothers will withdraw their daughters.

"Christian modesty in dress must be taught at any price," the message added. "Indeed it is in the very name of humanity that it is necessary to fight for decency in dress."

ROTARY BIRTHDAY

Rockland Club Last Night Celebrated Its First Anniversary.

Eighty-four persons, men and women, sat down to the tables at the Thorndike last evening, sharing in the dinner and attendant exercises through whose medium the Rockland Rotary Club celebrated the first anniversary of its birthday.

The dining room was made highly attractive with decorations in which bunting, flowers and evergreens were featured, the artistic work of Mrs. O'Neill. At the head table were seated the club officers and ladies and on the speaker, Bert C. Libby, last year's governor of the 8th Rotary District, made up of Maine, New Hampshire and a part of Massachusetts. He was accompanied by Mrs. Libby. The evening exercises were directed by the club president, Walter M. Spear, and opened with the singing of "America," and im. ation by Walter S. Rounds.

The dinner, served in the hotel's best manner, included fruit cocktail, chicken bouillon en tasse, roast turkey, waldorf salad, milk sherbet, cake, with all the accessories to a complete menu. During its progress the Forty Club's now celebrated Jazzmonious Orchestra furnished delightful music, so good that it several times had to respond to encores. A male quartet—A. P. Richardson, E. L. Vezzie, John Robinson and Chester Wyllie—sang twice, each time called back so greatly were their selections enjoyed. Sprinkled in between was chorus singing of Rotary songs "by the full strength of the company," directed by Homer E. Robinson.

At the conclusion of this part of the program the regular business of a Rotary meeting was carried through, which included the presentation of five new members—Kelley B. Crie, Frank W. Farrel, Ray E. Eaton, Raphael S. Sherman and Ray E. Thurston—and their reception by President Spear. A telegram of congratulation was read from President Fred D. Gordon of the Portland Rotary.

Following this came the striking feature of the evening, the presentation of a pageant, "The Spirit of Service," in which Mr. Rounds as reader told the story of the spread of Rotary around the world. The lights were turned off and as the tale of Rotary's appearance in each of the 32 countries was unfolded, the flag of that country was shown against a curtain, lighted by a spotlight. Then the curtains opened, disclosing Miss Kathleen Snow, robed in white and making a beautiful picture against a background of the Rotary wheel surmounted by flags of all nations, and who as the Spirit of Service told what Rotary meant and its high aspirations. Miss Snow's admirable presentation of the part made one of the most pleasing features of the evening. Mrs. Mabel Pratt Strong was at the piano for this part of the program, the other piano playing of the evening being by Miss Marion Marsh.

Former Governor Libby was given an ovation. His eloquent address was opened with a review of the success achieved in the opening year of the Rockland club, the first of the 19 clubs which he installed and naturally his special pride. He pointed out what the club could mean for its community, not as an organization, which would be contrary to the principles of Rotary, but through its members individually carrying into the community life and business the high ethical principles of the order through the application of its motto "Service before Self." In this spirit, he said, Rotary is spreading around the world, inculcating friendliness between men, its ultimate goal attainment of universal peace.

Concluding his stirring address Gov. Libby presented President Spear a Rotary bell and gavel. "An appreciation of the Rotary Club of Rockland, Maine, from the Membership, a token of esteem for the splendid services rendered by Walter M. Spear, its first president."

For a chief part of the success of its birthday celebration the club feels itself greatly indebted to the committee who prepared and carried through the program—Clarence E. Daniels, Elmer B. Crockett and Walter C. Ladd.

OFF MATINICUS ROCK

Fisherman Swept Overboard By Comber That Flooded Deck.

Off Matinicus Rock early Tuesday morning caught by a comber that flooded the deck, Felix Boudreau was washed over the stern of the fishing schooner Bay State of Boston while the schooner was fighting her way toward port against a heavy northwest gale. Boudreau, who was about 40 years old and a native of Westport, N. S., had just been relieved at the helm and had scarcely removed hisings which had been necessary to help him keep his position at the wheel when the sea hit the schooner and carried him overboard. It was impossible under the conditions and in the darkness to attempt a rescue. The Bay State, commanded by Capt. Leon Doucette of Somerville, was on the way home from Brown's Bank at the time of the tragedy. She arrived at the Boston Fish Pier with her flag at half-mast. Bad weather was encountered much of the time that the Bay State was on the fishing grounds, and she lost considerable fishing gear. On one day practically all the trawl line that was set was lost, and her riding sail was split.

JIMMY EVANS' REVUE

Popular Comedian At Park Theatre Next Week In the Role of "Micky Flynn."

Jimmie Evans and his musical comedy revue will open a week's engagement at Park Theatre next Monday afternoon. For his 1926 revue Jimmie has spent thousands on new costumes, scenery and effects, which are of the type used by the larger musical productions playing at high prices.

The show carries 24 people, where it has formerly had only 17, with a chorus of 14 instead of the usual eight. Eight English ballet girls and six show girls give the show one of the best choruses playing the New England territory.

Mr. Evans will introduce a new comic this season, one of the younger generation. He does a Jewish character, which makes a great partner for the popular "Jerry Jimmie Himself." Mickey Flynn is his name and he will be a big favorite in Rockland before the engagement closes.

Theatre managers, press and public in every city where the show has appeared this season proclaim it by far the best production ever offered by Jimmie Evans.

Reserved seats will go on sale today for all evening performances with the exception of Saturday. In order that everyone wishing to see the show on Thursday (Thanksgiving) and Saturday, arrangements have been made to give two performances on these two evenings, the first to start at 6 p. m. and the second at 8.30.

STRAND THEATRE

A double feature program is the Strand's diet today.

The first feature is "The Reckless Sex," with an all-star cast headed by Madge Bellamy and Wm. F. Collier, Jr.

The added feature "Under Fire," a novel by General Chas. King, will be shown.

If you laughed with glee when you saw Syd Chaplin in "Charley's Aunt," you'll howl your throats in hysterics when you see him in "The Man on the Box," the Warner Bros. Classic of the Screen which will be shown at this theatre Monday and Tuesday, with Syd scoring a tremendous hit.

Involved in a series of romantic adventures, and in political intrigue Syd is wildly amusing; but as the flirtatious ladies' maid, he is simply a riot. This is unquestionably the best of his excellent characterizations, and this pictureization of Harold McGrath's celebrated novel and play is ideally suited to the star's comic talents.

Whether you like to laugh, or find it difficult to indulge in hearty guffaws, you'll find "The Man on the Box" will get you gurgling with glee. It gets everybody—adv.

EMPIRE THEATRE

Lovers of the auto race track should see William Fairbanks in "Speed Mad" at the Empire Theatre today. Edith Roberts is the girl—and it's a picture just full of thrills and speed. "Ace of Spades" No. 3, and a good comedy are on the same program.

The scenes in "Enemy of Men," at the Empire Monday and Tuesday, range all the way from the most crowded city tenement districts to intimate glimpses of luxurious gown shops. The lovely Dorothy Revier is the star with Cullen Landis. The feature was directed by Douglas Bronston from the story by Frank Strayer.

"Play Ball" No. 9, and a Pathe News will also be shown.

LARGER APPLE CROP

Than Was Thought Month Ago, According To New England Returns.

New England's apple crop, according to an estimate based on growers' reports up to Nov. 1, totals 1,908,000 barrels, a gain of 2.3 per cent over last month's estimate of 1,864,000 barrels. The figures made public by the New England Crop Reporting Service of the federal department of agriculture indicate that this year's crop is smaller by 8.6 per cent than last year's crop. It is estimated to be 33.6 per cent greater, however, than the average yield during the past five years.

Small gains over last month appear in Maine, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Connecticut, with no change in Vermont and Massachusetts. The highest yields are in Maine and New Hampshire, which are about 100 per cent greater than the average yield during the past five years.

OLD BAND DAYS

As Described By "Bob" Chase, Well Known Belfast Composer and Leader.

Are we gradually working back to the old time music? Is jazz on the wane? Many believe so, and certain it is the orchestras in the city hotels and the broadcasting stations are giving some very fine programs of classical or semi-classical music. The Belfast Band at its recent concert played a program of varied numbers with but very little jazz and the audience showed its appreciation by generous applause. At that time Robert P. Chase, former bandman, musician and composer, assisted the boys, playing a bass horn, and a few days later I called on him at his home in Main street and enjoyed a delightful hour chatting about the Belfast Band of other days when jazz was unknown and when a program was something artistic.

"I was only 14 years old when I had my first experience in playing in the band," he said. "I played the cymbals at a wedding and I was a proud youngster too. But long before that I was interested in music and I well remember the first approach to a band I ever heard. I was a Pife and Drum Corps which accompanied the City Greys, as the local military company was called in 1856, and which later during the Civil War became Company K, 4th Maine Regiment, rather a strange coincidence, as that is the letter of the present Belfast unit of the Maine Regiment. It was 10 years later that I played at the wedding and later became a member of the Boys Band and one of our first jobs was to play at a Democratic State Convention in Bangor, which was held in a huge circus tent on the spot where the Bangor Motor Company now stands. A circus had been stranded there and left its tent so it was used for the convention.

"The Belfast Band had a hall about that time in Angier's hall on Phoenix Row above the Colonial Theatre, now stands, and which was burned in one of Belfast's big fires. We also had a hall at one time where the Farmer's Union now is located and another over the Hopkins store in Main street.

"After I thought I had learned all there was about music to be gained in Belfast I went to Boston to study and there I realized for the first time how little I really did know. I studied harmony with the late John Tufts who spent his declining days in Camden where he died some years ago.

In the old band days the men took it very seriously. Why we even paid $2.50 a month to belong to it and this was used to buy music. Frank J. Rigby, now of Portland, was leader of the Belfast Band for 15 years and during that time we had the reputation of being one of the finest bands in Maine and wherever we went we were received with the greatest enthusiasm. We used to practice two or three nights a week, and took it seriously too. We had to as you will see by a glance at some of these programs."

Mr. Chase then produced a scrap book dated back to 1896 which gave programs of various concerts by the band and at a glance I saw such composers as Offenbach, Mendelssohn, Sousa, Bellini, Rossini, De Vaux, Vollemer, Massenet, Strauss, Wallace, Herbert, Verdi, Wagner, Rubinstein, Sullivan, Bizet, Gounod, Paderewski, and many other masters and now then a composition by Mr. Chase himself or R. B. Hall of Bangor, but every program a well balanced enjoyable offering. Here is a sample picked at random from Mr. Chase's scrap book, and is dated Jan. 23, 1899, when the band played in Emery Hall, Bucksport under the auspices of the firemen, giving a concert followed by a ball.

The band was then under the leadership of Frank J. Rigby of Portland and composed of 30 pieces. The program:

Overture, Wagnerische Lustspiel "A Jovetta" Mexican Serenade "Armand b. Naughty Eyes" Marche aux drapeaux Selection from the Fortune Teller "Herbert Miserere from Il Trovatore" Verdi Fantasia on Huet's Bass, arr. T. Tobal Ballet Music from Faust, Suite II. Gounod Medley Overture, Britten's "The Swan" According to a special to the Bangor Daily News, under date of Jan. 23, 1899, the ball was a great success, and the special train from Bangor took about 250 from up river towns to the affair and the old steamer M. & M. carried the musicians and many fans from Belfast. It was a big time, no expense was spared as it was a combination of the two engine companies of the town, Torrent-Deluge. Of the concert the reporter wrote: "The crowd which packed the galleries and nearly filled the floor, listened intently and applauded every number. The work of the band showed long and conscientious practice and was excellent."

Oldtimers will be interested in the rest of the write-up of the affair which says:

"After the last number the floor was cleared and the orchestra struck up the grand march which was led by Foreman H. Rufus Grogins of Deluge Company and Miss Grogins. The programs were elegant affairs, tied with ribbons. There were 100 couples on the march. At intermission a superb spread was served in the gallery under the direction of Mrs. F. H. Grindle and dancing was kept up until a late hour, the Bangor train leaving at 3.10 a. m."

In 1900 the Belfast Band had the honor of spending two days at Green's Landing, Deer Isle, hired by the citizens of the island to serenade the crew of the Columbia which that year won the cup from Sir Thomas Lipton. The town sent a tug boat to Belfast after the band, then under Mr. Rigby's direction, and the men hired the time of their lives. They were there when the crew returned

CHRISTMAS TREE JOYS

Offset Damage Done To Forests—More Trees Sacrificed For Tooth-picks.

The joy that the Christmas tree brings to children far outweighs any damage that the cutting of these small trees does to the forests, the United States Forest Service declared in endorsing the tinsel bearer of the Yuletide.

As a matter of fact, the service pointed out, the annual harvest of Christmas trees is exceeded many times by those used in the manufacture of toothpicks.

Roughly estimated, six million evergreens constitute the yearly cut of Christmas trees, all of which could be produced on 6,000 acres of land. The service compares this area with the 14,000,000 acres that are swept each year by forest fires.

HAD LIVELY MEETINGS

Warren and Union Much Interested In Education Week.

The success of the Educational Get-together held at Glover hall Tuesday evening surpassed every expectation. The speakers gave witty and inspirational five-minute talks; the school children under the direction of Mrs. Vinal, gave a musical program of which only commendation and surprise was expressed and the response of parents and citizens was a fine manifestation of the interest that is being taken in schools. Every available seat in the hall was taken.

The pupils of the High, Grammar, and Intermediate Schools sang "America, the Beautiful." After each speaker there was a song by each of the village schools. The Primary school orchestra was especially appreciated. "The School and the Citizen" was the subject of the first speaker, Rev. H. M. Furrington, who emphasized the wonderful opportunity and privilege of being a citizen in this great country of ours. Willis Moody, chairman of the school committee, spoke of "The School and the Committee," telling of the cordial relation existing between the committee and the teachers and citizens. Mrs. Elmer Jameson, whose subject was "The School and the Parent," emphasized the need of care on the part of parents as to what they suggested or expected of their children, for they would generally get just what was expected whether it was getting into the mud puddles or keeping out of them by watching for the high places. Willis Vinal, member of the school committee, spoke on "The School and the Teacher," telling of the faithfulness of the Warren teachers and their unusual interest in their work, the boys and girls, and the community.

Principal Hazen Ayer in speaking for the High School told of the need of a new high school building because of the lack of a suitable recitation room and laboratory. Mr. Ayer also felt that the Warren boys and girls were deserving of a fine building and the best possible educational advantages. Attention was called to the fact that of the 43 students at the high school, 10 were from a perfect attendance record. The last speaker of the evening was Rev. C. D. Paul whose subject was "The School and the Church." Mr. Paul told of the close relation existing between the church and school which had existed from the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers and that close relationship still existed. Especially was the building of character emphasized and the great need of a spiritual as well as a material education. That Warren's great educational need was voiced by nearly every speaker. It was much regretted that Ansel Hill, first selectman, who was to speak on "The School and the Town," and Dr. F. G. Campbell, who was to speak on "School and the Professions," were unable to be present. The program was concluded by the singing of America.

Not only has the interest of parents and citizens been shown by the responses to the evening gathering but each of the village schools has had during the week from 30 to 50 visitors. This is real school spirit of which all are justly proud.

The Union Meeting

The Educational Get-together held at town hall Wednesday evening was another manifestation of that fine school spirit which has been repeatedly shown by the citizens of Union.

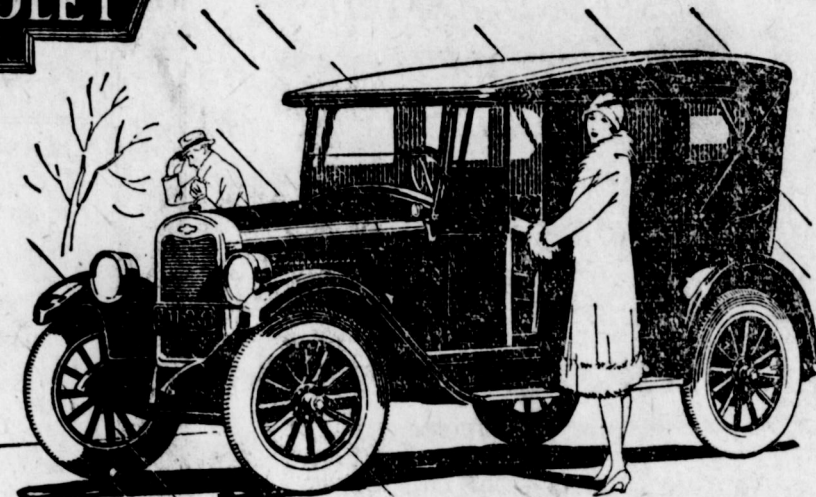

Every seat in the hall was taken. The first speaker, Herbert Grinnell, first selectman, on "The School and Town," compared the present day advantages of boys and girls and those of his day and urged them to make the most of their opportunities. Mr. Grinnell said that the response of the citizens to all school interests was such as he had never known it to be. The next speaker, James Dorman, member of the school committee, expressed his appreciation of the cordial support of citizens at town meeting and of the friendly relations of the committee, teachers and citizens. The pupils of the grades were urged to learn to spell and to write well and the high school students to continue their course to its completion as they would later in life need all of the education they could secure.

The pupils of the Grammar School, under the direction of their teacher, Miss Hughes, gave a drill and dialogue, "The Seasons." The girls were dressed in gay costumes to represent the beautiful leaves of autumn, which made the drill very pretty. Harry Burns acted as the prosperous young farmer who wheeled across the stage a heavy load of produce which he was to give to the needy as an expression of his thanks for the many blessings as a result of the Harvest Season.

The next speaker was Mrs. Robert McKinley, whose subject was "The Citizen and the School." Mrs. McKinley told of the change in the children of today and of the past as to his school relations. The citizen of today is not willing to base his judgment of schools on hearsay and gossip but visits the schools frequently and informs himself firsthand as to every phase of school need and school activity. The pupils of the Primary School, under the direc-

A BLACK AND WHITE DINNER DANCE

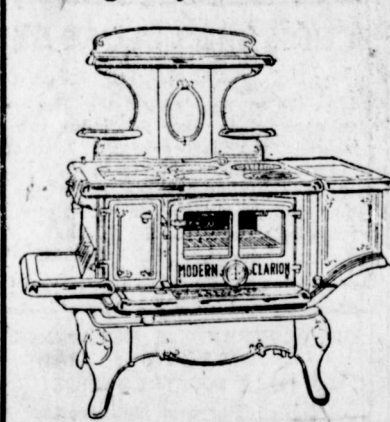

The Forty Club paid its respects to the girls of the Black and White Revue with a royal good will at the Thordike Hotel Thursday night when the girls and their particular friends were guests of the club at a dinner dance. The dining room in gala attire was arranged cabaret style as the party sat down to the full course dinner, and such was the splendid spirit prevailing that it was after 10 o'clock before dancing began.

Marsh's Orchestra was at its best and lent great enjoyment to the occasion. Informality and liberty frolics were largely the order, punctuated with popping balloons and well sprinkled with confetti. Many of the Revue numbers were put over with gusto. The honor guests were: Misses Agnes Flanagan, Evelyn Perry, Vera Studley, Ruth Curtis, Avie Brown, Kathleen Blithen Simmons, Mary Pratt, Adelaide Cross, Mabel Pales and Elizabeth Knight. The Forty Club Jazzmonious Orchestra came in for a glad hand and President Edward R. Veazie was belle of the ball.

What "Our Girls" Say
We, the girls of the Forty Club Black and White Revue, wish to take this opportunity to thank the members of the club for the privilege of being in their show and especially for their kindness and thoughtfulness in giving the best dinner dance ever in our honor.
