GOD'S PRESENCE

Is Wherever One Looks, Bishop Anderson Told District Conference.

Bishop Anderson of Boston addressed the Rockland District Conference in Lewiston Tuesday night, coming from Minnesota to keep the appointment. Dr. Anderson spoke of the evidence of the presence of God wherever one looks and expressed fear of the person who accepts God theologically but lived as if he recognized not His presence.

Rev. Mark R. Shaw, returned missionary from Japan, gave an address on Japan's struggle against alcoholism and other social problems.

Devotional service was conducted by Rev. John G. Rogers, pastor of the Calvary M. E. Church of Lewiston. Miss Alice Louise Brown, director of Religious Education for the Methodist denomination spoke on Sunday School work. Dr. D. B. Holt, former district superintendent presided in the absence of District Superintendent March, and the devotional service was led by Rev. A. H. Graham of Gorham, N. H.

In the morning, the following committees were appointed: Resolutions, M. J. Smith of Berlin, N. H., chairman; traveling expense, L. H. Staples of South Paris; entertainment, Rev. A. L. Oliver of Auburn. The devotional service was conducted by Rev. C. B. Oliver of Livermore Falls. A round table discussion of district problems was carried on these subjects: "Young People and Their Work," led by L. S. Staples; "Vanishing Church Members," F. L. Littlefield of Bath; "Evangelism," C. N. Parkin of Farmington.

NOT A CANDIDATE

Franz Burkett Puts Aside County Attorneyship For Private Law Practice.

Franz U. Burkett, formerly of Union, assistant county attorney of Cumberland county for the past three years, will not be a candidate for the office of county attorney in the 1928 primaries and may possibly resign his present office at the expiration of the current criminal term of Superior Court, says the Express.

Pressure of Mr. Burkett's private law practice in the firm of Chaplin & Burkett is given as the reason for his determination not to seek the office to which he would quite naturally fall heir.

Mr. Burkett's announcement came as a complete surprise to the legal fraternity locally as he had been universally accepted as the natural successor to County Attorney Ingalls if the latter retires at the end of his second term, which also expires, Jan. 1, 1929. Mr. Burkett had expressed a personal desire for the higher office on occasion and this had led to considerable campaigning being done in his behalf in recent months. Meanwhile the growth of his private practice has become constantly more insistent and he finally decided to announce his retirement and leave the field open to any other aspirants for the office before actual campaigning prior to the June primaries is begun.

Mr. Burkett was appointed assistant county attorney, July 14, 1924. Mr. Burkett served the six months remaining of the term for which Mr. Ingalls had been elected and last year was re-elected to a full term. For the past year he has also been assisting County Attorney Ingalls in the prosecution of Superior Court matters.

With the certainty that Mr. Burkett will not seek the office to be vacated a number of candidates are already being mentioned, among them Walter M. Tapley, Jr., whose father, a former resident of Rockland died recently.

SUITS BELFAST

Old Granite Quarry Again Scene of Paving Cutting Operations.

The old Belfast quarry is again busy after lying idle for 53 years. It seems that not long ago a section of pavement in New York, undergoing repairs, was taken up, and the contractor was amazed at the good condition of the paving blocks which had been in use for over 40 years. The source of the granite was traced to Belfast.

Not long afterward the quarry was bought by a New York man. The quarry had been put into shape, the most up-to-date machinery installed, a three story boarding house containing 45 rooms erected, and work is to begin at once. The average output of blocks from this quarry will be about 45,000 blocks per week. The blocks are now being shipped for a 13-mile stretch of boulevard in New Jersey, which is to cost $40,000,000.

The Oak Hill quarries were owned way back in the early seventies, by a group of Belfast men, comprising the late Samuel Otis, George B. Ferguson, Eben Newell, Ebenezer Littlefield and Albert Gammons. They purchased 300 acres on what was known as Oak Hill and began cutting paving blocks. These blocks were carted to City Point where buildings for dressing it were built. In 1883 the New England Granite Company of Hartford, bought granite from the quarries and did a thriving business at the Point but in 1886 the original owners incorporated with a capital of $50,000 and operated the quarries until 1890.

TESTIMONIAL DINNER

Supt. Blodgett Toastmaster, Pays Tribute To George S. Williams.

Forty-three of the business associates of George S. Williams, vice president and general manager of the Central Maine Power Company, gave him a testimonial dinner Tuesday evening, at the Augusta Country Club in recognition of his ten years' service as head of the operating department of the company. Invited guests included W. S. Wyman, treasurer of the company; W. B. Skelton, a vice president, and G. O. Spencer, treasurer of the New England Public Service Company. Mr. Williams, who is a keen outdoor sportsman, was presented with a beautifully finished automatic rifle as a token of the high esteem in which he is held by his associates throughout the company's system in central Maine.

Following the banquet served in the dining hall of the Club, short but enthusiastic talks were given by W. S. Wyman, Everett Maxey and George Hegarty, the latter presenting the gift. H. P. Blodgett was toastmaster.

The general committee in charge of the affair consisted of H. P. Blodgett, Rockland; G. D. Hegarty, Waterville; O. D. Mudgett, Lewiston; and W. A. Price, Augusta, all division superintendents of the company. Committee on arrangements consisted of W. P. Adams, F. H. Farrum and H. D. Jennings, all of Augusta.

Mr. Williams' life has been closely associated with the electrical industry of Maine for many years. During his school vacations he worked with the old Kennebec Light & Heat Co. doing various odd jobs. In 1904 he went to the Gardiner district of that company as a combination man, later becoming superintendent of that district which job he held until 1917. During this time the Kennebec Light & Heat Co. was taken over by the Central Maine Power Company. Later Mr. Williams was made General Superintendent of the Central Maine Power Company system with headquarters at Augusta, which position he held until 1926 when he was made Vice President and General Manager of the entire Central Maine Power Company system.

It will be remembered that Mr. Williams' father, Col. W. H. Williams was long associated with J. H. Manley in organizing the water, gas and electric light companies into what finally was known as the Kennebec Light & Heat Company. Col. Williams later became superintendent of the Augusta district of the Central Maine Power Company which position he held until his death in 1922.

Referendum On Gas and Railroad Tax Unlikely—Petitions Lack Names.

Franklin Fisher of Lewiston, former assistant attorney general, who has been investigating referendum petitions on the railroad and gas tax at the request of Governor Brewster, filed his report Tuesday.

With apparently 700 signatures lacking on the petition for a referendum on the act to decrease the tax on railroads and apparently approximately 2600 signatures lacking on the petitions for a referendum to increase the tax on gasoline to make the petitions legally correct, question of an election on these matters is in doubt.

Further investigation will be made to get a check on the doubtful names.

TURNER ADJUDGED INSANE

Hearing Before Judge Miller Thursday Dramatic In the Extreme—Romance of Man Who Crossed Continent To Avenge Wrongs.

Benjamin H. Turner who recently entered upon a term of life imprisonment at the State Prison, Thomaston, for the slaying of J. D. Hallen in Portland, and who attracted wide attention by going upon a hunger strike of six days' duration, was ordered committed to the criminal department of the Augusta Insane Hospital Thursday by Municipal Judge Frank B. Miller. He was transferred from the Prison to the Hospital yesterday. Judge Miller's decision was based principally upon the report of two physicians, Dr. J. C. Hill and Dr. H. W. Frohock of Rockland, who gave it as their judgment that the convict was unquestionably insane, and should be sent where he would receive proper care for insanity.

Also present at Thursday's hearing were Warden G. A. Baker, Deputy Warden Lawrence J. Colgan, Prison Physician A. W. Heald, Prison Commissioner A. W. Gregory and Recorder Walter H. Butler.

This little group sat spellbound during Convict Turner's dramatic recital of the incidents which led up to the shooting of J. D. Hallen and the consummation of the desire to be avenged for the sufferings which he had undergone while lying in a disease-laden Mexican prison, waiting for the assistance which he alleges that the faithless Hallen had promised.

The story was couched in excellent English for Turner was formerly a student of the University of Nebraska, and a man of exceptional mentality. Asked by Judge Miller for a connected account of his career during the period involved in the Hallen case, Turner said that he was in California when the World War broke out, but frankly admitted that he did not enter the service because of being a "conscientious objector."

He took himself out of the country into Mexico, where he eventually engaged in mining operations with a native of that country. The Mexican proved dishonest, and when charged with trickery there followed an altercation in the course of which the Mexican was shot.

Turner was arrested and thrown into a jail in Mexico City. His story of what followed there savors of a movie tale, but was presented in such a straightforward and convincing manner that his audience was visibly affected.

The jail, according to Turner, was infested with vermin, the food was insufficient and unsanitary, and disease was bred of the filth. When night came he lay his weary frame on the bare floor of the little cell, and gathered such fragments of sleep as were possible under the circumstances. Protests against such treatment met with only derision and such dragging day added to his mental and physical sufferings.

And then J. D. Hallen entered his life—J. D. Hallen whom Turner describes "as international crook." Hallen appeared to be deeply interested in Turner's trials and tribulations, and promised heartily to do everything he could to bring about a fair and speedy trial. The grateful Turner saw in him only a fellow-countryman, who seemed to mean his salvation. He turned over to him all the property in his immediate possession, and for a while lived on the hope of being removed from the cell for trial at last.

But the days fled and no attorney came. Neither did Hallen, and within him grew the gnawing suspicion that he had been double crossed. "Swearing vengeance, if the opportunity should ever offer, and renewing his vow day by day, Turner somehow lived through two years that are still a nightmare in his memory."

A native attorney finally became interested in his case, and secured his acquittal on the ground of "mental irresponsibility."

Free once more, Turner was obsessed with one idea—to ferret out J. D. Hallen and make him pay the penalty of his treachery. In his disturbed mind was room for no other idea.

Many months had elapsed since Hallen had taken Turner's money and so heartily offered his co-operation. The trail was cold and in such a broad country as the United States he knew not whither to turn. It may have been fate that guided his footsteps, but one day he found himself following a clew that Hallen was located at Falmouth Foreside, Portland, Me. Thither he grimly made his way, an always loaded revolver in his pocket, and rehearsing the scene which he felt must take place. Would Hallen admit his treachery, and if not what excuse would he offer for cold-blooded abandonment of a fellow countryman in a Mexican jail? The reality was not as he had pictured it, for Hallen regarded him in the light of an absolute stranger.

"Did you ever see me before?" is what Turner told his audience Thursday night he had said, upon confronting Hallen.

"I do not know you and I have never heard of such a man," Hallen is alleged to have replied.

"And what is more," said Turner, hearing the end of his recital, "he treated me with absolute contempt. Then I shot him, and made good the vow which I had taken in that Mexican prison. I put him out of the way with no more compunction than I would have felt in killing a skunk."

Approaching the climax of his story Turner's voice had risen and there was a flash of fire in his eyes as he told how he had avenged himself. His voice carried beyond the walls of the prison schoolroom, and penetrated the cells occupied by his fellow prisoners.

Turner is a native of Iowa, and his people are prominent Seventh Day Adventists. Turner said he was formerly connected with the sect himself, but in later years had come to entertain some religious views not generally shared. He denied that he is an atheist, but admitted that he is pretty nearly an agnostic, and that his ideas concerning the hereafter are very hazy.

Turner had been on a hunger strike two days when he was committed to the State Prison. He was offered all sorts of delicacies upon his entry at that institution, and Warden Hallen offered kindly advice, but still nurturing the feeling that he was not receiving the legal justice that the situation demanded he would take no nourishment except an occasional glass of water. At the end of the sixth day he yielded to the advice of his new attorney, Frederick W. Hinckley of Portland, and has since eaten normally.

When presented Thursday with the official notice of the insane hearing he read the paper calmly, and in response to Judge Miller's question replied that he thoroughly understood the contents.

The examination made by the physicians convinced them that he was mentally unsound.

PRESENTED WITH SILK FLAG

Rockland Veteran Fireman's Association Held Open House At the Ceremony—Mayor Carver Presided.

A handsome silk flag was officially presented to the Rockland Veteran Fireman's Association last night at a banquet and justification held in Spear hall. Some 75 men participated in the delicious repast and remained to enjoy the post prandial exercises.

Mayor James F. Carver was called upon to preside by Charles H. Lawry, secretary of the association, and His Honor was in rare form, possibly as the result of that third plate of beans. He extended felicitations to the red shirted boys on their fine spirit, told of the good the association has done the city and the fire department and gave his official approval to the cooperation engaged in by these smokers and get-togethers.

With this off his mind the Mayor proceeded to throw the shafts of his good natured satire into his hapless friends first honoring (?) Alderman John M. Richardson, chairman of the fire department for a generation or so. The alderman told of his study of fire department operation and practice embracing several years and several states and expressed his approval of the local department, its morale and activities. With the acrobatic and the much-needed motor hook and ladder truck the department will be in a position to handle any situation and to hold Rockland's fire losses at the lowest per capita in Maine.

Alderman Oscar S. Duncan, a long-time member of the association and staunch supporter of all its activities was given a rousing reception. "The gentleman from 'Six'" was a little rattled due to the fact that a few minutes previously a plate of beans had turned turtle in his lap and Mayor Carver had added insult to injury by telling of the famous Lewiston incident of two Sundays ago when the Duncan Hump had been duly locked for the day with the motor still running, but a neat speech was forthcoming all the same.

Chief of the fire department W. S. Pettie was given a cordial welcome by the Veterans and thanked them for their consistent cooperation with the department. The Veterans always respond in time of need. Assistant Engineers Bert McIntosh and Harry D. Phillips spoke briefly after some prodding by the master of ceremonies but it took no urging to start City Marshal Webster who answered the Mayor with his famous "one, two" which has made him a dreaded foe in the Bean Barrel Club forums. He paid due tribute to the aid afforded his department by the corps of fire police and was volubly encoored. The concluding speaker was Chief E. C. Merriam of the Rockport fire department who brought the greetings of his constituents.

At this point Mayor Carver presented the new silk flag with an appropriate speech and it was formally received by Color Bearer George Simmons, supported by Charles H. Lawry and George Doak. The organization has been sadly in need of such a flag for its public appearances.

A rattling good program was presented during the banquet hour by Hatch, Vinal and Tarr in novelty musical acts with banjo, guitar and saw. They were applauded to the echo and richly served the appreciation. George Simmons and Van Russell were in general charge of the kitchen and tables with a capable corps of assistants. Charles Lawry supervised the post prandials and Fred Howard was chairman of the flag committee. Special guests at the head table besides the speakers were H. X. Bradley, A. I. Briggs, J. T. Berry, and W. A. Kennedy. Mayor Carver enlivened the latter part of the session with demonstrations of his new radio invention and thereby hangs a tail.

It has been suggested that motor-horns and hooters should be standardized as to pitch and a more melodious note adopted. Nothing is more irritating than an unmusical motorist who knocks his pedestrian down in D-flat.—Punch.

LADIES' NIGHT

Rockland Rotarians Enjoy An Evening Entertaining the Fair Sex.

Twenty-two Rotarians, with their wives and invited guests, gathered at Temple hall last evening for a Ladies' Night meeting. Dinner was served at 6.30 o'clock by the ladies of the Eastern Star. That it was bountiful and deliciously served goes without saying. Music was furnished by Marsh's Orchestra.

Singing is always featured at Rotary meetings and last night's gathering was no exception. Phil Jones, a past master in the art, led the group singing. The Rotary quartet—Almon Richardson, Elmer Crockett, William Bird and Alan McAlary—made their first appearance, and after their initial number responded to a lively and persistent demand for an encore. Somewhat later the Boys' Band appeared on the scene. This organization was originally sponsored by the Rotary Club. The boys have progressed wonderfully under the capable leadership of Mr. Kirkpatrick. They entertained the Rotarians and guests with five good selections, and left a satisfied feeling in every Rotarian heart.

President Raphael S. Sherman turned the introduction of the speaker over to Charles A. Knickerbocker who responded with his delightful humor and pleasing urbanity. He presented the gathering Dr. Warren J. Moulton, president both of the Bangor Rotary Club and of the Bangor Theological Seminary.

President Moulton opened his address by bringing the regards and good wishes of the Bangor club. He sketched delightfully the history of Rotary from its beginning on Feb. 23, 1905—when Paul Harris, a Chicago attorney, met with a coal dealer, a merchant tailor and a mining engineer for the purpose of fellowship and improvement—until the present, when Rotary International numbers 2655 clubs in 42 countries, and boasts of 132,000 members. He traced the spirit of Rotary in its development from acquaintance through fellowship and fair dealing to the ideal of service. He defined Rotary as a world fellowship of business men organized around the Rotary ideal of service. He stressed the international phases of Rotary life and gave concrete illustrations of results achieved. It was a masterly address.

After a period of informal fellowship the gathering adjourned. Ladies' Night had proved itself a success.

HOLDUP OR JOKE?

Two Rockland Men Have Startling Experience At Owl's Head.

Alfred Church and Myron Young got the scare of their lives at Owl's Head Thursday night, when a man leaped from the bushes by the roadside, aimed a gun at them and commanded them to throw up their hands.

They had been doing some work on the automobile, and the stranger's sudden appearance out of the bushes would have been sufficiently startling, even without the highwayman accompaniment.

Messrs. Church and Young did not throw up their hands, but what the man with the gun saw was a pair of heels disappearing into the bushes.

Mr. Church aroused one of the residents and they made their way back to the automobile, loaded for bear. They found the car undisturbed, and no highwayman in sight. Mr. Young eventually arrived in Rockland via the woods route.

The affair resolves itself into a question as to whether it was a bona fide holdup or somebody's idea of a joke.

SOLD FOR A SONG

The five masted schooner Mary F. Barrett, built by the E. G. Deering Co. in 1909 at an approximate cost of $175,000 was sold Wednesday at United States Marshal's sale for $600 to William S. Nolan of the firm of Nolan & Callahan, ship brokers and ship builders of Boston. She was owned by the Boston Ship Brokerage Co. and sold on a libel of William S. Nolan. The sale was conducted by U. S. Deputy Marshal Gilbert Powers and one stipulation of the sale was that she should be moved from the wharf at the Percy & Small yard where she had been for about one year within one week.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

IF I had to live my life again I would have made a rule to read some poetry and listen to some music at least once a week. The loss of these tastes is a loss of happiness.—Charles Darwin.

A SONG OF TWILIGHT

Oh, to come home once more, when the dusk is falling.
To see the nursery lighted and the children's table spread;
"Mother, mother, mother!" the eager voices calling.
"The baby was so sleepy that he had to go to bed!"
Oh, to come home once more, and see the smile on faces.
Dark head, bright hair, clustered at the pane;
Much the years have taken, when the heart its path retraces.
But until time is not for me, the image will remain.
Men and women now they are standing straight and steady.
Grave heart, gay heart, fit for life's embrace;
Shoulder set to shoulder, how should they be but ready!
The future shines before them with the light of their own eyes.
Still each answers to my call: no good has been denied me.
My burdens have been fitted to the little strength that's mine;
Beauty, pride and peace have walked by day beside me.
The evening closes gently in and how can I refuse!
But oh, to see once more, when the early dusk is falling.
The nursery windows glowing and the children's table spread;
"Mother, mother, mother!" the high child voices calling.
"He couldn't stay awake for you, he had to go to bed!"

The Courier-Gazette

THREE-TIMES-A-WEEK

Rockland, Maine, Oct. 8, 1927.
Personally appeared Frank S. Laddie, who on oath declares that he is President in the office of The Courier-Gazette, and that of the issue of this paper of Oct. 6, 1927 there was printed a total of 6700 copies.
Before me, FRANK R. MILLER,
Notary Public.

The Lord will give strength unto his people; the Lord will bless his people with peace.—Psalm 29:11.

We dare say it will surprise our readers—it surprised us—to learn that poetry had found in the gifted Millay family another brilliant exponent. First it was Edna St. Vincent, now it is the younger sister Kathleen who adventures into that elusive field of writing. How her publishers, Boni & Liveright, regard the performance is disclosed by this interesting extract from their fall announcement:

It is very seldom that a lyric gift bursts forth so full-grown and so little-known as the gift herein displayed by Kathleen Millay. True indeed, it is a family gift, but here in her own right, without suggestion or bow to her elder sister, Miss Millay appears as a lyric poet of first importance. This poetry, so facile in expression, so compelling in phrasing, so essentially right in phrasing and diction, so freighted with more than mere evanescent beauty of thought, introduces to all poetry lovers a lyric singer of genius. Strangely, none of these poems has ever been offered to magazines or for any publication whatsoever. They have been written through a space of years during which the poetry-loving public, listening for verse from the pen of a poet of the same name, were unaware of the younger sister's exquisite singings.

We have previously alluded to the mother of these young women as the natural source of this displayed genius in poetry. Mrs. Cora B. Millay, whose first writings, it may be noted, were for the columns of The Courier-Gazette, has in the hands of the publishers her announced book of "Little Otis" poems which we are informed is to appear next year.

George Cooper died last week in New York. The name may mean little to our readers, but when we recall to them that he was the composer of "Sweet Genevieve" a more than passing interest attaches to the announcement. Only those past middle life can remember the popularity of that song in the period of its appearance. It is remarkable to note that within the past two years "Sweet Genevieve" has enjoyed a return of that popularity, a revival which brought to its writer more money in royalties than he received for the song when it appeared years ago. Cooper wrote many other songs which had extended vogue. "Beautiful Isle of the Sea" was one of them. We have not heard the exquisite melody of it in many years. To listen to its close harmonies broadcast upon a moonlit summer evening by the musicians of the old Rockland Band was to experience a delight such as words are inadequate to express. It too deserves revival.

Urging that the building-lean associations of the country spend at least a million dollars a year for newspaper advertising, Secretary Anderson, in an address at the Pacific States savings and loan conference, laid emphasis upon the fact that such advertising is the most effective and economical means of reaching the public. It may be pointed out in this connection that the loan and building association of Rockland has long carried on this form of publicity with its other progressive methods. It has been fully demonstrated that the local newspaper stands by itself as a carrier of messages to the greatest possible number of people. It is the only medium that is sure to reach the citizens of a community and be read. This fact is being more fully appreciated every day.

Kind-hearted friends are writing to inquire about this column's annual allusion to that elusive and much longed for article of fruit, the Porter apple. We have felt a reluctance to intrude upon our readers a further note of pessimism with respect to the Porter, that apple of undoubted superior possibilities, which for reasons not altogether understood have in these later years been denied their complete realization. Many out of a heart whose intention is not to be doubted have visited us with examples of the apple in which they felt an utmost trust was to be reposed. Perhaps it is the more discriminating taste of age that renders difficult to encounter in the modern Porter that note of joyous experience with which the palate of youth was familiar.

These cement sidewalks taking the place of worn-out substitutes is a gratifying note in Rockland's steady progress. Some day we hope to see them marking on both sides the full extent of Main street.

Who was so reckless as to predict two years ago that in October of 1927 trains would be running over the bridge at Bath? The world do move.

It takes the tuck out of a World Series to have one club walk away with it. What the public yearns for is a see-saw.

OYSTERS IN MAINE

Aristocratic Shellfish May Yet Become Rival of Succulent But Lowly Clam.

The State Department of Agriculture has a Maine oyster under consideration and observation, but whether or not the department will soon begin to offer official encouragement to the business of oyster growing in this state is not definitely known.

That is, the department has the shell of an oyster, sent in by a man in South Berwick with the invitation, "Come down when the tide is great and you can have plenty of 'em." The writer was not exactly definite as to where the specimen oyster was obtained, but the department men think that it is more or less a local secret. The shell measures seven inches long and four inches wide and housed a good sized member of the bivalve family. It is thought to have been taken from the Piscataqua River.

While Maine oysters are never heard of commercially, they are known to exist even farther east, and beds of them are to be found in the Damariscotta River near Sheepscot. It is said that people who live along the river gather their own whenever they wish for oyster cocktails or oyster stew.

THREE FOR YANKEES

New York Team Has World Championship Practically Sewed Up.

The Yanks have now won three in a row in the World Series, and are so far outstripping Pittsburgh, that today's game will probably complete the annual baseball classic.

Second Game

Pittsburgh may have accidentally lost the first game, but Thursday it was a case of being woefully outclassed, and the star of the performance was George Piggas, the Yankee pitcher, who was in a World Series game for the first time.

Yie Aldridge completed the task of checking the Yankees and putting the Pirates back in the fight but met the same fate as Ray Kremer. Outside of two bad innings the Hoosier schoolmaster did a fairly good job but these two lapses were enough to convince him as well as the Pirate board of strategy that curve balls are not as much poison to the Yankees as they had figured.

While Aldridge was erratic in the box and the Pirates again displaying defensive weaknesses, Piggas stuck steadily and effectively to as neat a pitching job as the World Series has witnessed in some time. Except for the ubiquitous Waner brothers and the stolid but heavy hitting Clyde Barnhart—the Pirate outfield trio—the Yankee twirler had his foes baffled with a clever change of pace and exceptionally good control.

Lloyd Waner tallied both of the pirate runs. He tripped in the first inning to score on Barnhart's sacrifice hoist and scooted home in the eighth on brother Paul's sacrifice fly after he had walked and raced to third on Barnhart's single. Outside of these two brief sorties, the Pirate attack was chiefly conspicuous by its absence. The Bucks got no more than one hit in any inning. Outside of the first and eighth they didn't get a runner beyond second base.

Pittsburgh 1 0 0 0 0 0 1 0—2

Third Game

Flawless pitching by Pennock, a home run by Babe Ruth, with two on, were two of the big reasons why New York defeated Pittsburgh, 8 to 1 in the third game of the series yesterday. Twenty-two Pittsburgh batters stepped to the plate before a hit was made. The summary:
New York 2 0 0 0 0 0 6 0 x—8
Three-base hit, Gehrig. Home run, Ruth. Left on bases, Pittsburgh 2. New York 4. Base on balls, off Meadows. Struck out, by Pennock 1; by Meadows 6.

"ON MY SET"

Baseball fans who like to get World Series bulletins fresh from the bat have reason to feel well satisfied with their radio returns thus far. WEEI, WBZ, WNAC, are all giving excellent service, WNAC being perhaps a trifle clearer.

Thursday night saw a continuation of the good reception. 1. These stations, WEEI, WBZ, WJW, WTAM, WGY, WBBM, WBZ, WABC, KDKA, WPG, WICC, WADC, WEEI, WNAC, WEAF and WIP.

But Members of MacMillan Expedition Heard Tunney-Dempsey Fight, By Radio.

Radio communication with the Donald B. MacMillan expedition in the Labrador-Baffinland-Greenland bays was established at Long Beach, Calif., Wednesday night by Don C. Wallace, an amateur.

Wallace picked up WNP, the MacMillan station, and exchanged numerous messages with C. E. Himoe, the expedition operator, who said the party heard the Dempsey-Tunney fight returns from a Schenectady station.

Theatres

Billy Hall's Musical Revue, "Snapshots of 1927" is giving three performances by way of farewell today, and their admirers are sure to be on hand to give them a good send-off. Billy Hall has made many more friends here this season, and is firmly entrenched in the hearts of Rockland's theatregoers.

The feature picture today is "Double Action Daniels" and with Buffalo Bill, Jr., in the cast it is all that the title implies. Irene Rich takes her audiences behind the scenes of New York night club life in "Dearie," her latest starring vehicle which comes for Monday and Tuesday. On the surface, the night club is all gaiety. Its entertainers and patrons seem to have not a care in the world. Joy and festivity reign supreme. Yet this is but one aspect of night club life. In adapting Carolyn Wells' popular story to the screen, Anthony Colde-way has endeavored to present the most dramatic episodes of both the seamy and pleasant sides of this colorful phase of New York life. Miss Rich is seen as a sheltered wife who is suddenly forced to shift for herself. Determining that her plight shall not interfere with her son's college career, she seeks support in the only profession in which she has had any experience, musical comedy.

Fading there, she hunts desperately until at the lowest ebb, with even her dearest keepsakes in pawn, she becomes a night club entertainer, and rises to notoriety as "Dearie," hostess of the club. Beset with pitfalls, her way soon becomes a labyrinth in a wilderness of human greed, passion, intrigue and misunderstanding.—adv.

PARK THEATRE

The double feature program for today Ken Maynard in "The Red Raiders" and Janet Gaynor in "Two Girls Wanted."

When in doubt over which present to choose, take both. That is what "Howdy" Jones' wife did in "Figures Don't Lie," starring Esther Raiston, coming Monday and Tuesday. Here the clever as well as beautiful private secretary, Esther Raiston, saves her employer a big hole in his bank roll by getting back one of the gifts is just one of the humorous incidents that crowd this laugh-filled picture. While endeavoring to preserve her absent-minded boss' reputation for punctuality, efficiency and good memory, Miss Raiston makes his life a hell of a job. Without any effort on her part she also succeeds in making the handsome young sales manager fall madly in love with her. The wife decides to use direct methods and chooses a revolver as her way of dealing with the beautiful secretary. The sales manager takes the most romantic method of rescuing her from a treacherous snarl.—adv.

EMPIRE THEATRE

The feature attraction today is Fred Humes in "Range Courage." The first chapter of "Whispering Smith Rides" will be shown.

Heart-throbs and hilarity vie for supremacy in Harry Langdon's new screen classic, "Three's a Crowd," which comes Monday and Tuesday. The locale is the tenement district of a large city, and Harry depicts a youth who lives alone with a teeming population on his doorstep. This situation leads to genuinely human circumstances which bring not only a multitude of laughs, but an occasional tear. In "Three's a Crowd" more than in any other of his features, Langdon proves his mastery of human emotions. The picture further demonstrates that Langdon has risen to the commanding place among the truly great screen comedians.—adv.

FORT MCKINLEY GOING

But Enlargement of Fort Williams Saves Portland Military Training Camp.

The abandonment of Fort McKinley on Great Diamond Island in Casco Bay, with its $8,000,000 worth of government buildings, the withdrawal of the first installation of the Fifth United States Infantry and attached troops and the enlargement of Fort Williams into a self-contained infantry post to accommodate an entire regiment, is practically assured, the Evening Express stated Wednesday.

Withdrawal of the Fifth Infantry troops and the virtual abandonment of Fort McKinley, so far as the garrison is concerned, is in keeping with the war department policy of eliminating all island posts in continental America and concentrating troops in mainland stations, it adds.

Through the efforts of President Jordan of the Portland Chamber of Commerce option already has been secured for government on 60 acres of land adjoining Fort Williams across the shore road on Cape Elizabeth, for the purpose of enlarging the facilities of the fort for the accommodation of the entire Fifth Infantry.

This arrangement is expected to save for Portland harbor the citizens' military training camp, which has been conducted at Fort McKinley the past few years.

Less than a pound of tea a year per person is consumed in the United States. For years the tea drinkers of the nation seem to have been turning gradually from green tea to black tea, but in the last year green tea importations increased slightly and black tea declined.

MARK E. FLANDERS

The funeral services of the late Mark E. Flanders were held at the residence Sunday afternoon. Mr. Flanders was born in Northport in 1859, the son of the late Edwin and Ruby Flanders. He came to Rockland when about 18 years of age, living here for 50 years. He married Miss Delora A. Dickey of Northport, who died in 1908. Seven children were born to them of whom three are now living: Mrs. Mildred Pettie, Mervyn W. Flanders of Rockland and Mrs. Helen Mitchell of Otisfield. Five grandchildren, a brother, William Flanders of Northport and a sister, Mrs. William Burns of Rockland also survive. Mr. Flanders was a kind, congenial neighbor, ever ready to help those in need, and will be greatly missed in the community where he had lived so many years.

Heilo folks! Don't you re- member me? Why of course, I'm "Kippi" the High School mascot. I have survived the intense heat of summer, the loss of so many friends, and the terrible heat of summer, the loss of so many friends and the terrible nerve strain of having 146 Freshmen take the place by storm, and now I'm ready to begin my work. This year I am seldom seen but I steal softly about the school house and remember all that happens. I know all the news about everybody and every- thing and I hope more than ever that as a special "cat reporter" my talks will be welcome and that they will tell my friends some- thing of interest concerning our High School Activities.

The Seniors are meeting their responsibilities as leaders of the school in a fine manner. They seem very earnest in their endeavor to make this year a success- ful one in every way. I like their spirit!

I think it is interesting to see the different colleges represented by the R. H. S. faculty. They are as follows: Bates, Bowdoin, Harvard, Wheaton, Colby, Uni- versity of Maine, Yale, Maine School of Commerce, and Nas- son Institute.

I walked into the auditorium Tuesday morning just in time to hear Mr. Verrill announce Mr. Thayer, our penmanship instruc- tor as the speaker of the morning. Mr. Thayer explained to the boys and girls the advantages of being a good penman. He said that this course is compulsory for Juniors and Seniors in the Commercial department and optional to any others.

I was sorry to learn that the football team lost to Bangor High at Bangor last week but I told Capt. "Runt" Trafton that he could play a better game if I was on the side lines meowing for the team. It was no use though. He wouldn't even let me hide away in his suitcase. I saw Mr. Ma-able to play. Capt. "Runt" Traf- ton will be kept out because of leg injuries. Maynard Wiggin suffered a fractured shoulder Wednesday night and it is doubt- ful if either Henry Marsh or Ted Bird get into the game because of injuries received in practice this week.

I find that the following people have won awards in typing. Cer- tificate—D. Mears, R. Dunbar, A. Deane, E. Dyer. Bronze Pin—A. Deane, C. Mosher, C. Flanagan, K. Webber, M. Ever- ett, E. Montgomery. Silver Pin—E. Montgomery, E. Brown, D. Mears. Gold Pin—E. Brown. In the 80 work shorthand contest, Norma Hutchinson and Etta Brown qualified for awards.

I see that a number of girls in the Senior Shorthand Class are sporting some new pins. Dor- othy McLennon, Catherine Jor- dan, Irene Weymouth and Eliza- beth Duncan have silver pins with the number 80 conspicuously en- graved thereon. Elizabeth Har- den, Virginia Egan and Sylvia Cendon have small triangular gold pins with the letters O. G. A. (Order of Gregg Artists) on them.

I noticed that a lot of new chemicals have arrived for the Chemistry laboratory and are rapidly being classified by Mr.

Phillips. A new case has also been set up.

We are sorry that Phylis Spencer has been called to Bath because of the illness of her sis- ter.

The Sophomores took measure- ments for their rings last week. They expect them the first of De- cember.

I heard the High School Or- chestra the other day and it is better than ever this year under the capable direction of Kenneth White. There are 21 members as follows: Albert Dodge, piano, Sidney Carr, John Moulaison, Cynthia Wasgatt, George Graves, violins, Alma Knight, Judson Flanagan, Frederick Hall, 1st cornets, Lucien Greene, Richard Stoddard, Oram Lawry, 2nd cor- nets, Raymond Pendleton, Angus McInnis, trombones, Dorothy Feeney, Kennedy Crane, Louis Bowen, Alfred Greenlaw, Arthur Tarin, saxophones, Albert Mc- Carty, Everett Fernald, clarinets. This season ought to be the most successful one yet.

Well, well, well! I happened to stroll into the library and— my! I had to wink a couple of times and then pinch myself be- fore I could believe my eyes. Why? Well, because the books were so neatly arranged on the shelves. Of course I was very interested and so I hopped up on Mr. Atherton's desk and asked him. He told me that one of the Senior boys, Donald Haskell, had done it. Therefore I hunted "Don" up to ask him about it. He says that last spring he nearly had a fit whenever he tried to look anything up because he could never find the books he needed. Therefore, this summer while the rest of the students were either working, playing or loafing, he discarded the obsolete books, mended the torn pages of others, and erased pencil marks from encyclopedias, histories, and all kinds of literature. Then on top of all this he has recatalogued the whole system and arranged the books in order on the shelves. I call this splendid work and hope the boys and girls will ap- preciate it, and show their ap- preciation by keeping the books in order.

I am pleased to see so many boys and girls joining the Glee Clubs this year. Enthusiasm runs high for Mrs. Nellie How- ard is the director of music.

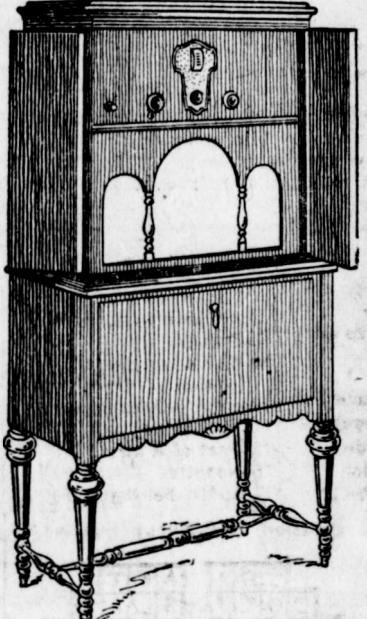

Julius Rosenwald of Chicago at- tributes his phenomenal showing in business to luck, thus demoralizing 2,450,771 faithful subscribers to the success periodicals.—Detroit News.

RAZORVILLE

What might have been a fatal accident occurred as Merle Marr was coming from Light's pavilion. His car skidded to the left, tore down several lengths of railing at the road- side, went down an embankment and landed in the woods in a much broken up condition. With Mr. Marr were his children Luther and Francis and Bernard Dunbar. No one was seriously injured but Dunbar was somewhat hurt about the face and chest. After being examined at the office of Dr. Pierpont Mr. Marr and children went to their home and Mr. Dunbar to the hospital at Augusta. Latest reports state he is much im- proved and will be out in another week.

D. D. G. M. Florence H. Gardiner of Grace Chapter, Thomaston, met with Fond-du-Lac Chapter, No. 147, as in- specting officer. There were also visitors from Ivy Chapter, Warren and Orient Chapter, Union. A ban- quet was enjoyed at the close of the session.

"If this flexible tariff is flexible," remarked the hearty dissenter the other evening, "Barnum made a mis- take in not advertising his Petrified Man as an acrobat."—Detroit News.

STUDENT AND BOOTLEGGER

Must Stop Fraternizing On College Campus Says Dry Chief Lowman.

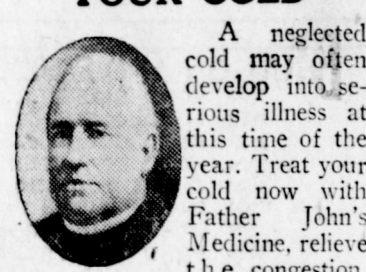

The student and the bootlegger must stop fraternizing on the college campus, says Assistant Secretary Lowman, dry chief.

He has instructed prohibition administrators to keep unusual watch for such activity on the campuses, and to give special attention to roadhouses adjacent to colleges where bootleggers are known to congregate in large numbers.

A special drive to dry up institutional cases already has resulted in several successful raids, Lowman declared. These have been made at the request of heads of colleges which he did not name.

A team horse belonging to John Aho dropped dead on the road at Oyster River Wednesday.

The Ladies Missionary Society of the Baptist Church will hold its first fall meeting next Tuesday evening with Miss Mary Kallach.

The following from the Boston Transcript concerning the wedding last Saturday in Boston of Miss Ruth Starratt of Manchester, N. H., and Langdon H. Wyllie of Warren, will be of interest to Warren friends:

"A dinner at the Copley-Plaza will follow the wedding ceremony tonight in the Old South Church, Boston, of Miss Ruth H. Starratt and Langdon Harold Wyllie. Rev. George E. Carg of the First Church of Christ, Bradford, will officiate. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Starratt of Manchester, N. H. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney M. Wyllie of Warren, Maine. Mr. Starratt will give his daughter in marriage and she will wear a period gown of white satin, a tulle veil, trimmed with orange blossoms and carry a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Hilda J. Starratt of Manchester, N. H., will be her sister's only attendant. She will be gowned in pink tulle and carry a bouquet of white and pink roses and lilies. The church has been attractively decorated with palms, white gladioli and white cosmos. Henry Wry, organist, will play a program of nuptial music and J. Herrick, soloist, will sing, 'Because.' Arthur Cummings of Malden is to be best man and T. Robert Starratt of Boston and Richard Fox of Bradford will act as ushers. After Oct. 25, Mr. Wyllie and his bride will be 'at home' at Malden, in the Hetherington Apartments. Their engagement was announced last Easter. The bride attended the Bryant & Stratton School of Boston. The bridegroom is a B. U. man.

Sunday the Congregational Church will observe a Rally Day at both the church services and the Sunday School. Preparations for this day have been under way. The most notable was the first get-together of the choir on Thursday evening. About 25 sat down to the supper of the choir. After the supper the choir was led in a rehearsal by their leader, Mrs. Nettie Vinn.

Sunday morning the Rev. C. D. Paul will speak on the 'Church and Community.' At the evening service his subject will be 'Loneliness.' At the morning service the choir will sing 'Let Not Your Heart Be Troubled,' Wilson and 'Gallilee,' Sherwin.

Watch Your Kidneys!

To Be Well See That They Function Properly.

YOUR kidneys! Do you realize what an important part they play in your health and length of life? Your kidneys are the blood filters. When they act sluggishly, waste poisons remain in the blood and make one tired and drowsy, with often nagging backache, annoying headache and dizzy spells. That the kidneys are not acting right is often shown by scanty or burning excretions. Assist the kidneys with a stimulant diuretic. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are endorsed the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Quick lunches, usually cold, gulped down so the "dinner hour" will not be over before you can do a little playing, is the best way to ruin your stomach, and you suffer from indigestion, heartburn, bloating, nervousness, headaches, and, worst of all, you get thin, pale and weak.

If you must eat that way, always keep a package of Papes Diapiesin handy so you can chew one of the pleasant-tasting tablets after your meals. It keeps the food sweet so your stomach can digest it.

Follow the experience of thousands who again have a young appetite. All druggists recommend and guarantee Papes Diapiesin to relieve indigestion and sweeten the stomach in five minutes.

B. P. W. Club

The first meeting of the Rockland branch of the Business and Professional Women's Club was held last Wednesday night and all regular business meetings will be held on the first Thursday of each month at the club room in the Salvation Army block on Main street. This room, large and attractive, has a kitchenette and usually supper is served and an able speaker provided.

This club is for educational, welfare and social purposes. It is non-partisan, non-sectarian and is composed of women who are engaged in business or a profession. A food exchange is maintained with food sales every Wednesday and Saturday, under direction of Mrs. Maud Hallowell.

For the past two years Miss Coughlin has conducted a class in English for members and for the public. It is hoped that something may be done along this line this winter. Auction parties are held weekly, with several big parties during the winter.

A cordial invitation is extended to teachers and strangers in the city to join the club and become acquainted with Rockland people. Upon payment of a small fee the members may have their own key and are able to enjoy the privileges of the club rooms at any time. The dues are $3 a year. The room is available for rent for parties, fairs, club meetings, etc., at a very reasonable price.

The officers are: President, Miss Mabel E. THE REALM OF MUSIC

Gladys St. Clair Morgan

An interesting communication comes from Miss Edna C. Johnson, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. B. H. Johnson of Rockport to whom this department has several times alluded as a brilliant pianist, teacher and student. Dated Sept. 30 at Baltimore, it reads in part:

"After making inquiries regarding the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia, I found that they do not grant teacher's certificates or bachelors of music degrees, it being more of a finishing school for concert work, so I decided to come here to the Peabody Conservatory which I feel will be of more benefit to me in my particular need. I took the examinations and was accepted. My schedule is made out and I hope to secure the teacher's certificate in half the required time of three years. It will require my taking two years' work in one, of harmony, history and pedagogy, ear training, form and analysis, with Howard Thatcher; history with Virginia Blackhead; harmony with Gustave Strube (conductor of the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra), normal with Otto Ortmann; pedagogy and two piano lessons a week with Elizabeth Coulson. You see I have a busy winter ahead of me. I am boarding in a house of Peabody students, violin voice, and piano, rather a musical atmosphere. Piano in each room, only a block and a half from school."

Miss Johnson has studied extensively, her most advanced work having been with a teacher from the Tobias Matthe School of London, internationally known. She conducted a studio in Buffalo, very successfully and so conscientiously that her health broke down and she was obliged to come to Rockport for a year. Last year she was in charge of the music department at Kent's Hill where she did particularly valuable work, building up a run-down music course, introducing new ideas, etc. But the urge for further study has been strong in Miss Johnson for some time and she has responded to the call. I am confident she can accomplish the work in much less than the required time, as she has had wide musical experience, and is serious and thorough in her work.

An amusing story about Paderewski. While vacationing in a rural town, strolling down a street he heard his beloved "Minuet" being murdered—no other word can describe it. It was painful to Paderewski's sensitive ears, so he entered the house and found a young girl at the piano. He remonstrated with her on the rendition, and introducing himself he said: "I'll play the Minuet for you." And he did. A few days later he was amazed to see on the house a placard: Miss So and so, teacher of the piano, pupil of Paderewski.

PERLEY JONES CONVICTED

In the Lincolnville Murder Case—Leland Wellman Pleaded Guilty—Awaiting Sentence.

In a voice so low that it was scarcely audible in the Supreme Court room, but calm and unshaken, Leland L. Wellman, 23 year old confessed murderer of Dexter B. Wentworth, Thursday told in Waldo County Supreme Court the story of a most brutal and cold blooded murder.

Wellman, who was jointly indicted with Perley Jones for the murder, pleaded guilty a few days ago, and Thursday afternoon was a witness for the State at the trial of Jones, 20 years old, of West Washington.

Wellman's story in brief follows: "I saw Jones May 20 (the day of the murder) at my father's home in West Washington where he boarded. We spoke of Wentworth and he asked me if the old man had any money. I said he probably did as he had a pension. Jones said, 'Let's go down and knock him on the head and get it.' After a while I went out in the barn and found a dry hard wood club, and cut down one end, making a handle, and put it away in a box. We had talked about what we would hit the old man with and later on Jones came out to the barn and asked if I had found a club. He examined the club and said, 'It's a knock-em-stuff.'"

We then talked about what we should do with the body after we killed the old man, and Jones said there is a pond nearby where we could sink it. I thought it too risky for when he was missed they might drag the pond thinking he had committed suicide. Then we talked of taking him to Jefferson Pond some miles away and took with us a 17 foot wire to anchor him with.

"We left Washington about 4 p. m. and arrived near the Wentworth place on Moody Mountain, Lincolnville, about 5, before dark, so we waited on the hill some distance away until dark. The witness then told how these two boys in cold blood sat in the auto waiting for night to fall to cover their crime, and debated as to who should strike the blow and how and when and where it should be done. Wellman said he agreed finally to strike the blow if Jones would grab Wentworth as he did so. It was to be a concerted action. Thus they sat for three-quarters of an hour until dark and then went to the home where the aged Spanish-American War veteran lived alone. As they approached the house they found it in darkness and had some trouble in arousing their victim who had retired.

strumental solos were preferred by 2720, 1422 preferred vocal solos. Orchestral music alone received 2110 votes. Longer and descriptive announcements were voted for by 2465, while 1174 wanted them brief.

All who attended the Festival concert in Bangor Monday evening have brought back enthusiastic accounts, unanimous agreement that the chorus was splendid, the orchestra wonderful and Reinhold Werrenrath a consummate artist. The orchestra was wholly of musicians from Bangor and vicinity, known as the Bangor Symphony Orchestra, 66 pieces, under the direction of Adelbert W. Sprague. Their work was of the highest order, among their numbers being "Overture to Oberon" by Weber; "Valse Triste" by Sibelius; "Finale" from the "New World" Symphony by Dvorak; Air for G String played by the stringed instruments alone; and "Pomp and Circumstance" by Elgar as their closing number. Special mention was made of the "New World" Symphony number, the Largo movement of which is familiar and loved. The review said that "it was an excellent piece of work and presented in a masterly manner."

The chorus was composed of 123 members, divided into the following groups: 25 altos, 30 basses and tenors, and 64 sopranos. Sincere tribute was paid Mr. Sprague for his able conducting. Of course the Halle-lujah Chorus from "The Messiah" by Handel opened—the entire Festival flavor would be gone without that—and it seems like old times to have Mr. Chapman on the stand conducting in his usual enthusiastic manner. For Chapman was there. Mr. and Mrs. Chapman slipped into the audience very quietly, endeavoring to remain unobserved. But they were soon spied, and given a tremendous ovation, one that must have touched their hearts. And when the first orchestral number was ended, Mr. Chapman was called to the platform and asked to conduct the Halle-lujah Chorus.

Among numbers given by the chorus were "A Song of the Sea" by Stebbins; "The Builder" by Cadman; a number from Wagner's "Meistersinger," "Let the Fiddles, Flutes and Brasses" which proved to be one of the hits of the evening; "Roadways" and "Gypsy Night."

I asked someone who had heard Werrenrath when he first sang at a Maine Festival several years ago and also at this concert how the two performances compared. She said that he still retained the beauty of voice which was paramount then, but that his art had grown and matured, that it is finished and poised. He still had the gracious charm of those early years, eager to please and generous in his encores and programmed numbers. He opened with "Vision Fugitive" from "Herodias" by Massenet which gave abundant opportunity to show the excellent qualities of his splendid voice, his sense of dramatic values, fine lyric intonation and the perfect breath control. A group was next, a number each by Schumann, Grieg and Schubert, followed later by a group of sea songs, "The Pirate Song" by Gilbert, "Trade Winds" by Keel and "Captain Stratton's Fancy" by Deems Taylor. His closing group was composed of ballads, "Boots," "Duna," "The Green Eyed Dragon" and "Danny Deever," the latter always a favorite Werrenrath song. Among his many encores was "Smile! Thou," "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes," "Sally in Our Alley," "On the Road to Mandalay."

He finally came to the door and after dressing let them in. He was acquainted with Wellman who introduced Jones as a Maurice Thompson of North Newcastle, a man who wished to buy a horse. They talked a while, Wellman said, and then Wellman lighted a lantern and took them to the barn to see the horse. He said, however, that he did not wish to sell him. Wellman then went on to tell of going back to the house, filling the radiator of their car and of the final crime.

They were standing in the kitchen, all three, Jones behind Wentworth, when Jones made a motion to Wellman to strike, and the latter motioned Jones to grab Wentworth. Wellman struck a blow which felled the old man and when he tried to rise struck him another blow. He said he struck eight or ten in all, some of them glancing off and hitting the woodwork.

Wellman then sent Jones, so he testified, to see if the car was ready and when he came back Jones asked him if he had found the money. They pulled down the curtains and took a purse from Wentworth's pocket and about that time, Jones said, according to the witness, that he felt sick and that they had better leave. They rode around some time and when they counted the money in the purse taken from the body it was found to contain but $12 which they divided. Jones also handed Wellman a gold watch which he had taken from a peg on the wall, saying he did not want it. This was later found in Wellman's boarding place.

Returning to Jones' home they sat up until early morning talking about their crime and Wellman said he told Jones that they should both be shot for the awful thing they had done, but they planned a fishing story as an alibi and agreed to stick to it. Jones cleaned the blood from Wellman's clothes, the latter testified. They burned the club in the stove at Jones' boarding place.

Other witnesses called for the State included Sheriff Frank H. Cooper, Frank J. Rogan, investigator for the attorney general's department, Dr. A. M. Small, county medical examiner, Dr. Carl H. Stevens, George Thorn-dike who found the body, Lindley Knight, Orrie Buck, Mrs. Jessie Welch, Mrs. L. Brown, Clifton Wellman, Joseph Johnson. Their testimony corroborated Wellman's statements. Investigator Rogan testified that in his confession made a few days after the murder, Jones said that "we had talked about killing Wentworth for a week and at last I said, 'I'll go with you.'"

Detective Rogan said between $200 and $200, overlooked by the boys, was found in Wentworth's bed.

The counsel for the defense in his opening stated that the defense would be a denial of guilt, that the respondent would tell the same story he told in his confession to the officers that he did not want to go with Wellman and that he was sick when he saw the blow struck and that when he saw Wellman about to strike the blow, motioned him to stop, not to go on. Eight witnesses were sworn for the defense and court adjoined to Friday morning.

Telling an utterly different story in many points, while admitting that he owned the car in which he and Wellman went to Moody Mountain, Perley Jones testified Thursday that he did so against his better judgment and because Wellman had hectoring him until he said he would take him there. He did not believe that Wellman would really do the deed.

He described the friendly call the two boys made on the old man that fatal night of May 20, and of how he entertained them telling of his prowess with his gun in rabbit and fox hunting. It was when Wellman excused himself and left the house, that the club was brought in the respondent testified, Wellman carrying it behind him.

Wellman then complained of having a bad heart and the old man said he had some tablets and as he bent over the table to get them for Wellman, the latter struck the first blow with the hard wood club, with a whiffed out handle.

"I tried to make him stop even then, by shaking my head at him," said Jones, "and when I saw his arm raised I ran out of the house. I went to the car and after some time went back to the shed door and called to Wellman to come with me."

Jones said he did not see the blows struck, as he ran out of the house, but that he heard them, seven or eight of them, while he was out in the yard. He said the wire which Wellman said they took to anchor Wentworth's body with, had been in his car several weeks, being some old hay wire which he used for croker wire.

Jones said he was born at Jefferson, and was a farm hand and laborer; he said he and Wellman were at Wentworth's place a year ago one night and got drunk on cider. He was not introduced as Maurice Thompson, as Wellman testified, but by his own name, as Wentworth had apparently forgotten him. There was no talk about buying a horse.
