

Dividend Notice

Owners of Shares of the Fifty-seventh Series of the Rockland Loan & Building Association are hereby notified that a final Dividend of $5.83 per Share has been made, and the Shares have now Matured at a value of $203.22 each. These Shares were issued in October, 1915, and the owners have paid in $144.00 on each Share.

Dividends of 5 1-2 Per Cent

Per annum, compounded semi-annually, have been earned and credited, and amount to $59.22 per Share. There are 159 Shares outstanding in this issue.

Amount paid in,	$22,896.00
Dividends earned,	9,415.98
Withdrawal value,	$32,311.98

These shares may be withdrawn in cash, or they may be exchanged for Matured Stock Certificates which pay 4 per cent, or they may be invested in Advance Payment Certificates which pay 4 per cent the first year and increase gradually to 5 1/2 per cent the twelfth year, unless sooner withdrawn. Income, up to $300.00 per year, from Loan & Building investments, is exempt from Federal Taxation. October Shares are now being issued. The public is cordially invited to invest with us.

ROCKLAND LOAN & BUILDING ASS'N.
407 MAIN STREET
THREE DOORS SOUTH OF ROCKLAND NATIONAL BANK
ROCKLAND, MAINE
125&127-S-1f

STRAIGHT AND TO THE POINT

Take out
ACCIDENT INSURANCE before you go shopping with the wife.

And take out a first class policy that really insures—a "cheap" premium means "cheap" coverage. A "cheap" policy, or no policy, is all right when you are well, but you need a first class policy when you are disabled.

for ACTION SEE
E. C. MORAN
INC.
STATE
AGENTS
425 MAIN ST. TEL 98
ROCKLAND, MAINE

NO ONE NEED DEPRIVE Themselves of This Service For This Service Is To Meet Any Financial Need

CONFIDENTIAL LOAN
©

Real Estate Personal Property
Loans Privately
2-Offices—2
Office Hours: 9 A. M. to 5:30 P. M.
Lawful Rate of Interest

THE LITTLE FLOWER SHOP

It is time to plant your Tulips and Hyacinths in the garden and to plant and store in the cellar those pots of Bulbs that are to blossom for you in the early winter. Time, too, to fill your fern dishes and bring in the out door plants that will bloom for a while inside. You need Bulbs, Dishes, Jardiniers, Ferneries, Ferns and Plant Food, and we are ready to supply them.

THE LITTLE FLOWER SHOP

399 Main Street

Rockland

117-1f

The Courier-Gazette

THREE-TIMES-A-WEEK
Subscriptions $3.00 per year payable in advance; single copies three cents. Advertising rates based upon circulation and very reasonable.

NEWSPAPER HISTORY
The Courier-Gazette was established in 1846. In 1874 the Courier was established and consolidated with the Gazette in 1882. The Free Press was established in 1855, and in 1881 changed its name to the Tribune. These papers consolidated March 17, 1897.

If a saloon is closed, in its place comes a store.—John Mitchell.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

Farm Bureau Committee Hopes To Add Many New Names This Year.

The local farm bureau committees are preparing for their annual membership drive. Every community is expecting a larger membership than usual. Hope, the outstanding community last year with a membership of 78, is after all of the old members and some new ones. The committee consists of E. N. Hobbs, Ben Nichols, Wallace Robbins, Mrs. Emile Hobbs, Mrs. Bessie Hardy, Mrs. Margaret Robbins and Mrs. Katherine True.

Charter members who have continued their membership each year are: Camden, Harold Allen, O. D. Bowers, Ralph Cripps, J. H. Gould, N. B. Hopkins, Ralph Knight, H. H. Nash, E. W. Pendleton, Friendship, O. C. Cook, E. A. Wincapaw, Hopkinton, A. P. Allen, N. F. Barrett, S. D. Gillette, H. E. Hardy, E. N. Hobbs, John Pashaw, Rockland, R. P. Conant, F. M. Piper, Willis Snow, W. A. Ripley, Rockport, C. A. Cavanaugh, Thomaston, N. F. Andrews, A. M. Mayo, Walter Swift, Union, W. A. Ayer, J. F. Caldwell, Frank Grinnell, James Dornan, H. L. Grinnell, Ira Hall, E. A. Mathews, W. L. Merriam, R. A. Wallace, Warren, A. P. Starrett, H. V. Starrett, F. H. Wyllie, O. A. Copeland, Virgil Hills, Charles McKellar, S. E. Norwood, C. A. Pease, M. J. Robinson, F. D. Rowe, L. R. Bucklin, Washington, F. W. Bab, H. B. Cunningham, John Carroll, W. F. Hatch, George Sprague, Alna, T. N. Ayer, Percy Jewett, George McDonald, A. Q. R. Peaslee, Charles Hendrickson, G. W. Walker, Jefferson, J. W. Enright, Sheridan Rockwood, H. T. Weeks, Nobleboro, L. A. Perkins, O. H. Rollins, Carroll Winchenbach, E. B. Denny, E. G. Creamer, Waldoboro, P. M. Johnson, C. N. Light, C. R. M. Newbert, J. A. Rines, W. A. Vannah, E. A. Walters, Foster Jameson.

The membership campaign ends Oct. 27 at the time of the annual meeting and all renewals should be in by that time.

DIDN'T SIGN IT

Mrs. Overlock Thanks Townsmen For "Knocks," But Can Speak For Herself.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—I would like, through the columns of the Courier-Gazette to make a statement in regard to the state road question which was decided at a special town meeting held Sept. 15. I have been told by several persons, that my name was signed to a petition circulated for the location of the above road. If my name is on any petition it was put there by someone besides myself and without my consent or knowledge. I never saw the petition or the persons circulating it; was not asked to sign it, and furthermore not being a taxpayer am entirely disinterested. I was not in town at the time of the town meeting and did not attend. I thank my fellow townsmen for the knocks given on what they consider my attitude in the matter, but assure them I am yet capable of expressing my opinion if necessary. Mrs. Clara Overlock
Washington, Oct. 10.

WE BUY

Raw Furs
DEERSKINS
Called For Within City Limits
Phone 226-M

AT HIGHEST MARKET
PRICES
Ship us your accumulation. Consignments held seven days and if our valuation is unsatisfactory, we return your furs and PAY ALL EXPENSES.
ROCKLAND TALLOW CO.
Rear 456 Main St. Rockland

FOR HUNTING AND SPORTS
BUY A
Cardinal
GOAT

Warmth Without Weight
100% PURE WOOL

Designed for men and women for all sporting occasions.

Made of Famous Knox wool, fast color scarlet.

Write for descriptive booklet and sample.

J. A. BREWSTER

CAMDEN MAINE
123-125

SEES BUSY SEASON

Brief Sketch of Baptist Men's League Which Starts New Season Wednesday.

One of the outstanding organizations of this city is the Baptist Men's League, which next Wednesday opens its 1927-28 season and on Nov. 15 observes its 20th anniversary. It is unique in many respects, chief of which is that it has a membership drawn from practically all the Protestant churches and that it is the only men's organization connected with a church which has endured that number of years.

It was 20 years ago that Rev. William J. Day, who was then pastor of the First Baptist Church here, (now located in Winthrop, Mass.) conceived the idea of organizing a men's league within his church for the purpose of promoting and fostering social contact and fraternal fellowship among men and to the furthering of their interests as members of society.

Mr. Day's idea met with response. The Baptist Men's League was formed, and Nov. 29, 1907, with an attendance of 54 charter members, the first meeting was held in the church parlors. The late F. J. Bicknell was elected as its first president, with W. O. Fuller and Maynard S. Bird as vice presidents, G. D. Parmenter, secretary, and J. N. South, and treasurer.

The league holds its meetings the third Wednesday of each month, except during the summer months, in the church parlors, where supper is served, usually under the direction of the ladies of the organization. Following a brief business session there is a speaker selected for the entertainment and instruction of the members. The first one to address the league after its organization was Hon. Byron B. Johnson of Waltham, Mass. Practically all of the speakers who have appeared before the league have been men of high standards, including such men as Prof. C. Robinson of Bowdoin College, Prof. Alfred W. Anthony of Bates College, Senator J. P. Dooliver, Gov. E. W. Hoch of Kansas and Dr. R. S. McArthur of New York City. The league has also sponsored lectures and high class entertainments.

The 20th anniversary, which falls on Nov. 15, will be observed in a suitable manner, the principal speaker of the evening to be Rev. W. J. Day of Winthrop, founder and organizer, and who has never lost his deep and sincere interest in the organization.

The present officers are E. L. Brown, president; Elmer B. Crockett, first vice president; LaForest Thurston, second vice president; A. E. Brunberg, secretary; Almon Bird, treasurer; Herman Hart, auditor. Committees appointed by President Brown include the following: Entertainment, H. P. Blodgett, L. A. Walker, F. A. Winslow; membership, Frank L. Maxey, Charles Emery, Charles E. Gregory; finance, William C. Bird, Walter H. Butler, Everett L. Spear; executive, E. E. Hagar, F. H. Ingraham, W. M. Little; reception, M. R. Snow, I. L. Bray, A. P. Blaisdell.

One of the most enthusiastic "rooters" for the league is the present pastor, Rev. Benjamin P. Browne, who has all religious interests close at heart and who is very popular throughout the city.

Those who have followed the development of this organization and noted its commendable undertakings predict an even more brilliant future as the membership now numbers 106 as the membership now includes representative men, who stand for the best in religious and civic welfare.

VEAZIE'S VISIT TO FRANCE

Knox County Treasurer Found Nothing But Friendly Feeling For Americans There Or In England.

If there is any hostility in France or England toward the American people it certainly did not manifest itself during the recent American Legion convention, according to County Treasurer Edward R. Veazie who saw considerable of both countries during that very interesting period. To be sure there were some fears of a communistic outbreak during the Legion parade in Paris, but extreme precautions were taken by the French authorities, and no hostile demonstration occurred.

The Rockland party comprising Dr. Neil A. Fogg, Edward R. Veazie,

Edward R. Veazie

S. Nilo Spear, Albert S. Peterson, John Andrews and Mrs. C. F. Snow sailed from Boston Sept. 9, on the Cunard Line Steamship Scythia. Mrs. Snow making the trip in her capacity as president of the Department of Maine, Ladies Auxiliary to the American Legion. There were two other passengers of local interest, one being Fred Holbrook, formerly of Rockland, whose son Lieut. Albert D. Holbrook was mortally wounded early in the World War and died in a German prison camp. The other passenger was Miss Louise Fiske, formerly of Rockland, who was Overseas during the war as a Red Cross nurse.

When the Scythia ran into the Gulf stream the passengers experienced three or four days of genuine summer. The voyage lasted one week and was thoroughly enjoyed by the 1300 persons of the American Legion party. The usual deck sports, tennis, shuffle board, etc., were in evidence, and every evening there was dancing.

Starting with Maine the different states gave an entertainment each evening. New York talent assisted in the Maine program, one of the features of which was the singing of Miss Crosby, a former Maine girl. On Tuesday what still shows what the war was really like. We saw the trench where a whole battalion was buried alive while awaiting the order to go over the top. The French bayonets and the barrels of the French guns still project through the holes in the trench.

On Tuesday we went to Verdun the only sector that still shows what the war was really like. We saw the trench where a whole battalion was buried alive while awaiting the order to go over the top. The French bayonets and the barrels of the French guns still project through the holes in the trench.

We were disappointed not to have access to the underground city where troops had been quartered during the war. In fact the battlefield trip was a great disappointment principally because we did not have an efficient guide.

.....

"A short distance from the 'Trench of Bayonets' the French have erected a memorial Chapel, and the big French cemetery is brilliantly illuminated at night.

"It was sunset when we arrived at the American cemetery in Thiaucourt and it was a most impressive spectacle. The visitors were formally greeted, prayer was offered by an army chaplain and a bugler blew 'taps.' Between 1400 and 1500 Americans are buried in this cemetery. The avenues and graves are well kept, the American flag flies over the 'last resting place' of the fallen, and the supreme sacrifice, and an American ex-serviceman is in charge at all times."

In another column appears Mr. Veazie's story of the big Legion Parade. Precautions were taken against possible trouble from Communists and "Reds." All along the line of march, six or eight feet apart, stood French soldiers with fixed bayonets. Down in Place de la Concorde, where the reviewing stand was located the French soldiers stood shoulder to shoulder and it would have been impossible to have started trouble.

"Paris was plastered with proclamations signed by Gen. Foch," says Mr. Veazie, "and these demanded good treatment for the Americans. Everywhere could be seen pictures of Gen. Charles A. Lindbergh, who is extremely popular with the French. I engaged in conversation with a French officer who talked with me about Lindbergh, and he made his acquaintance in Paris and had since received a letter from him. I asked somebody who this officer was and they told me he was Marshal Foch's personal aid."

"I saw two theatrical performances in France, and saw what one expected to see there."

"We went directly to London via Calais and Dover, and spent five days there. We had the pleasure of meeting Arthur B. Richardson and went with him to a beautiful place called Hampton Court. We also spent a very pleasant evening with the Richardsons at their very comfortable home in Ealing. We made numerous sightseeing trips in Eng-

TALK OF THE TOWN

The new badges for the Veteran Firemen have arrived and may be obtained at Morse's jewelry store.

Schooner Helvetia is hauled out at South Railway being painted and otherwise put in readiness for winter.

Cary Bok, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bok, and a well known summer resident at Camden, is attending Oxford University.

Thursdays deluge and the leaf-clogged condition of the gutters gave Rockland a miniature Mississippi flood Thursday.

Excessive speed on Main street must cease, Marshal Webster says, and his edict will be enforced by arrests if necessary.

W. H. Glendinning, who has a grocery store on North Main street, will move across the street the first of November into the Studley store.

Mrs. Annie Alden, cook at the Limerock Restaurant goes out Monday on a fortnight's vacation. Mrs. Dora Benner of Thomaston will substitute for her.

A Franklin air-cooled radiator with B. B. Smith at the wheel, has attracted much attention the past few days. It does 60 without a tremble. The car belongs to a demonstrator.

Thomas Anastasio, Harold J. Philbrook and Mr. Philbrook's brother-in-law, Arthur Davis of Camden, left Sunday on a hunting trip to Glenwood, where they will be guests of Lester Grant.

President William C. Bird of the Chamber of Commerce has appointed a Kennebec Bridge committee, comprising C. A. Emery, chairman, H. P. Blodgett, Fred M. Blackington, Raymond S. Bird, Frank A. Winslow and A. S. Peterson.

Francis Orne is home from the Springfield College, Springfield, Mass., due to an injury to the knee received during football practice. The injury, while perhaps not of a serious nature, will necessitate his discontinuing his college work for the present.

Morse High School of Bath will be Rockland's opponent on the Community Park gridiron next Saturday. Ordinarily the Bath outfit is inclined to lord it over the Limerock City eleven, but its cocksureness has evaporated somewhat this season.

Persons who were so fortunate as to be at Crescent Beach Thursday, during the storm, were rewarded by the sight of an extraordinarily high tide, which furnished a fine display of surf as the southerly gale whipped it in onto the beach. This is a sight once seen, never forgotten.

The new drill instructor for the Knox County batteries of the 24th C. A. C. is Sergeant William Griffin of Fort Preble. He succeeds Sergeant Devery, who has retired from the service and moved to Portland. Sergeant and Mrs. Devery made numerous friends here who hope they may find occasion to revisit Rockland.

E. W. Ames, who has recently sold his house at The Highlands to A. W. Hutchinson, is not going into the tenement on Park street formerly occupied by George Barbour and family, but has leased the Frye house on Summer street and is already moving into it. Mr. Hutchinson is moving his household goods today into his new home.

Dr. J. A. Richan's interesting letter published in another column makes reference to the Peace Tower carillons in Ottawa. In this connection Dr. Richan's sister-in-law, Mrs. Sarah Hopkins Richan delivered an address "The Peace Tower and the carillon" before several women's organizations and at their request it was published in pamphlet form.

land, and went to three theatres, smoking in the English theatre, and pipes alone being barred. We found nothing but friendship for the American people. One of the things that impressed me most there was the tremendous amount of American products in evidence. All of the standard makes of American automobiles, were on sale. The English call it "The Americanization of London," and naturally enough don't seem to be too happy about it.

"Our voyage home was on the Cunard Line steamship Ascania. The first three or four days out were very rough. We called through the Straits of Belle Isle to the Gulf of St. Lawrence, up the St. Lawrence River to Quebec and Montreal—a most beautiful sail.

"Coming by rail to Yarmouth we were met by Dr. Fogg's mother, and became guests at her home over night."

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

If I had to live my life again I would have made a rule to read some poetry and listen to some music at least once a week. The loss of these things is a loss of happiness.—Charles Darwin.

A MAN'S PRAYER

Let me live, O Mighty Master,
Such a life as men should know;
Tasting triumph and disaster,
Fought and fell, and fought again!
Won sometimes, but did not crowing,
Lost sometimes, but didn't wallow,
Took his beating, but kept going,
Never let his courage falter.

He was fallible and human,
Therefore loved and understood
Both his fellow-man and woman,
Whether good or not as good.
Kept his spirit undiminished,
Never failed to help a friend,
Played the game till it was finished,
Lived a sportsman to the end.
—Carlisle Fahlworth Strapp.

Sheik Audi

SALE OF

Laces, Linens, Embroideries, Tapestries, Silk Underwear and Scarfs

FOR CHRISTMAS GIFTS

You are cordially invited to inspect goods

THE SHEIK

Will be at the Thorndike Hotel until Thursday night

The Courier-Gazette

THREE-TIMES-A-WEEK

Rockland, Maine, Oct. 18, 1927.
 Personally appeared Frank S. Lydette, who on oath declares that he is President in the office of The Courier-Gazette, and that of the issue of this paper of Oct. 15, 1927 there were printed a total of 6225 copies.
 Before me, FRANK R. MILLER, Notary Public.

In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths.—Proverbs 3:6.

Harry A. Daniels, who has been spending a quiet summer in Rockland is again possessed of the wanderlust spirit, and on Oct. 26 will sail for Africa with a view of wintering in the suburbs of the desert. A year ago he made the circuit of the globe, and spotted Morocco as one of the places which seemed to offer the most thrills—where the shells come in from the desert to do their Saturday night shopping, get a sniff of hooch and start to decorating the old burg with that familiar reddish hue known to many generations. Now that the Moroccans have quit arguing with rifles and cutlasses the general health of Morocco has been vastly improved. It is likely much more convenient to gallivant around the desert. Tourists can travel the vast expanse of sand without a camel-train of brigands descending upon them, and with canteens that are immune against being punctured by vibrios or mosquitoes. Mr. Daniels, who is possessed of a fine command of language and an endless fund of humor will describe for The Courier-Gazette some of the things he sees on the top of Africa during the winter. Enroute to Africa he will visit the Azores and Sicily islands. He plans to be back in Rockland by April, and trusts that the fox will lift from Martinique long enough to permit him to indulge in his favorite art of fishing.

Rev. C. A. Knickerbocker delivered a very able sermon Sunday morning on "The Judgment of the Lord." The music was exceptionally good, one of the outstanding numbers being the organ and piano selection "Prayer" (Gouldman). Miss Margaret Stahl and Miss Mabel L. Lamb. Beautiful autumn flowers were contributed by Mrs. E. W. Berry and Miss Lucy Marsh. The Church school hour was gladdened by a pleasing piano solo by Miss Gertrude Hill. The meeting of the Junior Y. P. C. U. was led by Miss Dorothy Dimick. The Senior Y. P. C. U. held its weekly meeting at 8 o'clock, with Maynard Wiggin and Henry Marsh as leaders. Last evening the Boy Scouts held their regular meeting in the vestry.—Other activities for the week include the Chapin Class meeting with Mrs. Eda Marshall at 187 Main street tonight, and the circle supper tomorrow evening.—Rev. Knickerbocker will be gone for the week while in attendance on the Universalist General Convention in Hartford, Conn.

On his trip into Aroostook, Washington and Hancock Counties last week Donald H. Fuller was accompanied by Hill M. Dano who was combining business with his first visit to those sections. In Van Buren they met up with Norris Stevens, who formerly resided in this city, and who is now successfully established in law practice there. Mr. Stevens introduced the Rockland visitors to Haley Hammond, a former Colby football captain and they were invited on Columbus Day to be guests of the Selgomy Fish & Game Club which has a preserve of nearly 5000 acres in the Province of Quebec, including a large lake. The club has only 17 members whose admittance fee is $1000. It is a wonderful game country and Messrs. Fuller and Dano saw a fine demonstration of partridge shooting. Elisha Powers, of a prominent Houlton family, was also a member of the party.

The first rehearsal of the McLain School orchestra was held Friday afternoon at 10 o'clock. Last year the orchestra was a great success and was available for all school times as well as doing much outside playing. Mrs. Emma Harvey who was instructor last year has been re-engaged. Mrs. Harvey's knowledge of orchestral instruments which she plays and which she teaches is a great help to the youngsters, starting in this line of work. Much praise was heard of the splendid work accomplished last year and the new members of this year's orchestra are very anxious to keep up the good reputation.

Announcement is made by Commissioner Parsons of the State Department of Inland Fisheries and Game of the appointment of automobile game inspectors for all counties in the State. The group will commence its work at the beginning of the game season, inspecting game shipments going by automobiles. The inspectors for Knox County are John L. Tewksbury and E. R. Keene, the former town clerk in Camden and the latter city clerk of Rockland. The appointees are J. P. Hatch, John F. Booker and Sol Holbrook, town clerks in Damariscotta, Somerville and Wiscasset, respectively.

Skunks seem to be quite plentiful this fall, especially at the Northend, where a pet cat was refused admittance to the house, after an encounter with one of the smelly animals. Another was seen walking demurely along a neighbor's back walk, probably with the intention of calling upon the family, and still another was seen at midnight in the yard, as the people were returning from a party.

Friday evening at the Congregational Church the local W. C. T. U. will give a reception to the Rockland teachers and members of the school board. There are many new teachers this year and here will be an opportunity to meet them socially and help make them feel at home. It is expected that all members and honorary members of the W. C. T. U. will plan to attend.

Walter, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lamson of Glen Cove, was knocked down in front of the Glen Cove postoffice Saturday by an automobile operated by Dana Southworth. The child was picked up unconscious by Irving McBride and Dr. Wessett summoned. This morning young Walter seems none the worse for his hazardous experience.

Tremendous Bargains in Men's Wear

Offered for Sale Beginning
Thursday, October 20

The Entire Stock of Men's High Grade Clothing in Our Store Will Be Sold At Cost—No Expensive Sales Force—No Great Overhead—The Public Profits. Our Store Has Been Let and

THIS GREAT $18,000 STOCK MUST AND WILL BE MOVED

Come Up and Secure the Greatest Bargains Rockland Ever Saw in Men's Wearing Apparel.

This Great Sale Starts, Thursday, Oct. 20

MIKE ARMATA, North End Clothing Store Rankin Block

RUBINSTEIN CLUB

Program For Coming Season Gives Promise of Enjoyable Meetings.

The Rubinstein Club will have an Exchange Program with the Cecelia Club of Augusta tomorrow as guests of the Cecelia Club at a musical tea to be given in the home of one of the prominent members of the Augusta Club. The Rubinstein Club is sending as artists Mrs. Maybelle Pratt Strong, pianist; Mrs. Helen Wentworth of Warren, in soprano solos and readings; and Mrs. Kathleen Marston, contralto. Mrs. Faith G. Berry will act as accompanist for Mrs. Wentworth and Mrs. Marston. Mrs. Strong is one of the city's most accomplished pianists, a product of the Institute of Musical Art in New York City and also having had the advantage of a summer's study this past season with Mr. Stephens of the New England Conservatory of Music faculty. Mrs. Wentworth's versatility has become an established fact, being entirely at home in vocal work and readings. Her voice of the mezzo-soprano type is one of great beauty. Mrs. Marston is one of the leading contraltos of the city, having a voice of great power and dramatic coloring. Her most recent studies have been with Mrs. Lillian S. Copping. The Rubinstein Club feels that the talent it is sending to the Augusta Club will do it credit.

SNOW-GRAY

Miss Thelma Ruth Gray, daughter of Mrs. Gertrude M. Gray of Freeport, and Daniel Robert Snow, son of Rev. and Mrs. Fred A. Snow of Rockland, were married at noon Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy C. Bean, relatives of the bride in Freeport, the ceremony being performed by the father of the groom. The bride, who was given in marriage by her mother, wore a gown of white georgette and carried bride roses, while she wore a white gold bracelet, the gift of the groom. Mrs. Philip R. Johnson of Auburn was matron of honor and her gown was of pink georgette, while she carried pink roses. The best man was Philip R. Johnson, a classmate of the groom at Freeport High School, and Carlton M. Gray, brother of the bride, was the usher. The ceremony took place beneath a vine-covered arch of lattice work and the home was beautifully decorated for the occasion.

A wedding breakfast followed, the Misses Sheila and Necia Jellison and Miss Flora Brown, nieces of the groom, serving. The brides gift to the matron of honor was a pink leather purse and the groom gave to the bride an imported silk scarf, while the gift of the bride to the groom was a white gold pen-knife. The couple are to make their home in Rockland.

The bride is a graduate of Freeport High School and Gorham Normal School, and is teaching in the Camden, Me. school. She is also a graduate of Freeport High and of the Maine School of Commerce, and he attended Boston University. He is now employed as office manager by the Snow-Hudson Company in Rockland.

GIGNAC-BURTON

Alameda C. Burton and Lou's Philippe Gignac, both of Rockland, were united in marriage Saturday evening at a wedding ceremony at the church. Rev. Benjamin P. Browne, in the presence of a cosmopolitan party of friends. Following the ceremony the couple were tendered a reception by their friends at their home 14 John street. The bride was becomingly attired in a wedding dress of rose silk, crown and georgette and carried a bridal bouquet. Friends present included Andrew Nelson of Norway, William De Lay of Birmingham, La., William Brown of Philadelphia, Alton France of Arlington, Mass., and Fred DeBeck of Pennsylvania.

AN AWFUL THREAT

Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes of the Methodist Episcopal Church believes that any man who gets to heaven without being able to sing is going to have a hard time of it. Addressing the Rock River conference of the church Bishop Hughes said: "If you don't cultivate a taste for music, you'll have a miserable time for about 1,000 years after you get to heaven."

TALKED OF MISSIONS

Eastern Maine Baptist Meetings At The Littlefield Church.

The Eastern Maine Baptist Meeting of the Lincoln Association took place Friday at the Littlefield Memorial Church. It was well attended and proved highly successful. The following program was carried out: The morning meeting was called to order by president, Mrs. H. M. Purinton of Warren and a devotional service was led by Mrs. McFarland of Camden. The address of welcome was delivered by Mrs. O. W. Stuart of Rockland and the response was made by Mrs. C. W. Corey of Springvale. State President of the Missionary Society, Mrs. Corey conducted an open forum pertaining to missionary work in the different societies and delivered an address outlining the State program work for the year and what they hope to accomplish. Miss Alice Craig of Lynn, Mass., spoke on her work with the Italians of that city. A basket dinner was served in the vestry.

The afternoon devotional service was led by Mrs. J. C. Wilson of Rockport. Mrs. Corey spoke on leading contests and missionary education. Miss Alice Craig presented some phases of Italian mission work. The singing of hymns interspersed the services.

The officers named are: President, Mrs. H. M. Purinton, Warren; vice president, Mrs. J. C. Wilson, Rockport; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. H. E. Kilborn, Thomaston.

IS HOOVER ELIGIBLE?

Secretary Hoover's friends appear jubilant with the reception accorded his name. This has raised the question if Hoover is eligible to the presidency. The constitution says no person shall be eligible to the office of president unless he has been 14 years a resident within the United States. Just what does that mean? Nobody seems to know. Hoover was born in 1874 and went abroad in 1899 when he was only 25 years old. He did not return to the United States as a regular resident until he was appointed food administrator in 1917 by President Wilson. Does the constitution mean that a person who has not resided in the United States for 14 years immediately preceding his election is not eligible to the presidency? If so, Hoover is not eligible. Does it mean that any natural born citizen who has resided 14 years in the United States at any time during his life is eligible? If so, Hoover is eligible. The question never presented itself seriously before and has never been officially or legally decided.—The Pathfinder.

CARTER GOT JAIL

At the October term of Waldo County Supreme Court William Carter of Liberty, convicted on a charge of single sale, his second offense, was sentenced to six months in jail and a fine of $500, with six months additional in default of payment of fine and costs. He is the father of nine children. Carter was implicated in the case at Liberty in which the Seaman Brothers claimed to be Virginia moonshiners, were also arrested and are now serving time in the county jail. While Carter pleaded not guilty, he admitted getting up after he had gone to bed and driving five miles to show some men, one of whom proved to be a federal officer, where they could get a drink.

'T WAS EASY FOR RENEE

Renee Adoree says that stepping into her part of the French peasant girl in King Vidor's production of "The Big Parade," for Metro-Goldwin-Mayer was the easiest task of her screen career, despite the fact that it is the biggest part ever to fall to her lot. The film is being shown at Park Theatre the first three days of next week.

Miss Adoree is French. She was born in Lille, but knows the simple people of France, for among them she was brought up. She is the child of a circus clown and a sawdust equestrienne. Her people traveled with little shows that play the rural regions of her native heath. In this way she lived among and came to know the sort of people represented in her characterization of the girl who became the pet of an American army unit.—adv.

A FOOTBALL DEADLOCK

Rockland High and Brewer High Give the Fans An Exciting Afternoon—Sideline Hostilities.

Orange and Black was much in evidence at Community Park Saturday afternoon when Rockland High and Brewer High played a hotly contested game, which resulted in a 7 to 7 tie. The locals had all the better of the first two periods while the third was about even, and Brewer took the last one. The locals started off with a bang and scored a touchdown in the first four minutes of play and added the point after touchdown. This was the first, last and only time that Rockland scored in the game but a great Rockland rally was ended by the whistle at the end of the first half.

Brewer scored in the second period on a neat forward pass. In the final minutes the locals were forced to fight desperately on their own 4-yard line and fight they did. With two minutes to go Brewer had the ball on the 15-yard line, with a first down. Another first down was netted by Coleman on a nice off tackle run. Then Coach Bill Macomber's team held Brewer for three downs and gained the ball when a Brewer pass was grounded over the goal line. Rockland attempted two passes and the game ended.

Rockland lined up to receive the first kickoff minus the services of Capt. Trafton and Maynard Wiggin. Trafton entered the game in the second period, and it was then that the locals showed the most power that they have in any of the four games that they have played.

Ken Wiggin, the sensational Freshman halfback, received the kick and ran it back 45 yards. Marsh, who was playing quarterback, used his head in great style and Rockland was threatening the visitors' goal line thus early in the game. Then within 15 yards of the goal the locals were held for downs, but two plays later Knight, the flanker, recovered a fumble. The remaining 15 yards to the goal line were passed under foot quickly by Marsh and Knight who made substantial gains through the line. Knight plowed over from the 4-yard line for the touchdown. Dick Emery added the point in a neat place kick. Rockland kicked off and the ball was kept in midfield for the remainder of the period.

In the middle of the second period came the big break of the game. Rockland had been holding Brewer for downs in midfield and on one of these occasions Coleman sent a long high punt down the field, which was fumbled by a Rockland back and recovered by a Brewer man. The locals held the visitors for three downs and then Brewer lined up in place kick formation and Moran, the Brewer captain sent a long pass across the field to Furlong, who ran about five yards for the touchdown. Moran carried the ball over for the point from a scrimmage. Rockland received the kick and ran it back to the 40-yard line. It was at this point that Trafton entered the game and from then on there was a noticeable change in the Rockland line. Capt. Trafton and Knight smashed at the Brewer tackles time after time for gains of not less than five yards, but the half ended with the ball in Rockland's possession on the up river teams 12-yard line. The third period was about even with neither team gaining much

MOVIES

PARK THEATRE

Metropolis: city of the future, Utopian city. City above, city below. Above, in dizzy heights, the brain and glitter. Below, in endless depths, the workers. Between these two, brains and hands, the center is missing. A city without a center is a city without a heart, without a soul. Below, among the tortured, dull drudges lives an apparition, a saint—Mary. Comforter to the oppressed, Above, among the untamed night, is Eric Masterman, only son of the master mind of Metropolis. Mary appears and conquers him by her mystic power. As in a dream, he follows her down to the worker's world, to be the deliverer of her people. But John Masterman heirs of Mary and suspecting trouble, attempts to separate her from the workers. An artificial being in the form and face of Mary is created and told to go forth among the machine-men and preach humility. Instead, she tells them to riot and destruct. They smash their machines, water inundates the city and all are in danger of drowning. While the men and women are dancing, they suddenly remember their children who have been left right in the path of the rising waters. Then—but you'll find out what happens when "Metropolis" is shown Wednesday and Thursday.—adv.

STRAND THEATRE

Wholesome comedy and plenty to please the eye as well as the ear feature of the performances of the Clark Sisters' Musical Comedy Revue, which began a week's engagement at Strand Theatre. The Boston newspapers called it "easily one of the finest offerings of the year" when it appeared last week at Bowdoin Square Theatre.

The Clark Sisters are versatile artists and pen is never lacking in the entertainment which they are sponsoring. Cliff Blanchard, comedian, won his way into the affections of the theatre patrons before he had said a dozen words. The Metropolitan Jazz Band is a popular feature of a program which is the best of the kind that has been offered to a Rockland audience for a long time. It is a large company and with quantity there is unmistakably quality.

Rose Clark, who appears at the head of the Clark Sisters' Revue, was formerly engaged in her home city as a dancing instructor. She coached numerous school plays before she decided to go out and star in a show herself. When she applied for a place the chorus Miss Clark was hired, and then came a few seasons of hard work. She was promoted each season and now Miss Clark is one of the best known women in burlesque. She has written some of the sketches in her revue and is both musician and dancer.

The feature pictures for the week in competition with the Revue are: "Then Came the Woman," Wednesday and Thursday, "The Man in the Shadow," Friday and Saturday, "The Bandit Buster,"—adv.

MANSET FISH PLANT

Sold By the Stanleys To Massachusetts Parties—Started in 1832.

A business deal of interest to the fishing industry of all New England took place Monday when the J. L. Stanley & Sons Company sold to C. W. Marlon of Woburn, Mass., and P. C. Parkhurst of Gloucester, Mass., a plant at Manset, comprising two wharves, warehouses, cold storage plant and boats and also the lease rights of the place at Cranberry Island used by them. The business

BURPEE'S
30 DAYS TO ZERO WEATHER
A GLENWOOD IN YOUR HOME IS COMFORT ALL WINTER

500 KNOX COUNTY HOMES ARE ENJOYING THE LONG WINTER DAYS BECAUSE A GLENWOOD IS IN THE CELLAR

You should know how little it costs to install a Glenwood Furnace in your home. If you are heating with stoves or an old furnace a GLENWOOD FURNACE can be put in for a very small sum. A six room house outfit will average $150.00 for the complete job. Whether it is a single pipe furnace or a furnace with pipes leading to every room in the house we can make you a very low price.

TO BUY A FURNACE HERE IS PRACTICALLY BUYING IT DIRECT FROM THE GLENWOOD FACTORY

A YEAR TO PAY—NO INTEREST

CUT OUT—MAIL IN

BURPEE FURNITURE CO.
 Rockland, Maine.
 Gentlemen: Mail me catalogue and information about the Glenwood Club.

I am interested in a Range ☐

I am interested in a Furnace ☐

Name _____

Address _____

will be conducted under the name of the Stanley Fisheries Corporation, and the employees will be retained.

Fred Torrey of Manset, has been employed on the wharf for 42 years. The new firm will deal largely in salt and dried fish and lobsters. The business was started in a small way in 1882 by Capt. John L. Stanley who, besides the buying and selling of fish, sold ice and water to the fishing vessels, making an artificial ice pond and boring an artesian well for his supplies. For 45 years the business has been carried on by Capt. Stanley and his sons and since the death of the father five years ago, the sons have conducted it. The good will of the Stanley firm is passed on to the new owners, who have the best wishes of the community for continued prosperity.

We read that a Kansas man was killed by a bolt of lightning while taking a drink of bootleg whiskey, but how do they know the lightning killed him?—Philadelphia Inquirer.

4722 Fleets Back Your Choice of a 3/4 Ton GRAHAM BROTHERS COMMERCIAL CAR.

No Matter what your business—regardless of weather or road conditions—if you need 3/4-ton transportation, a Graham Brothers Commercial Car will serve you faithfully and economically.

Somewhere—probably in your own neighborhood—transportation problems similar to yours have been solved. Everywhere leaders in every line of business have staked their reputation for fast, dependable service on Graham Brothers 3/4-ton Commercial Cars—4722 fleets in daily operation.

You Owe it to Yourself to know the facts before buying.

CHASSIS BUILT DETROIT

DYER'S GARAGE
 51 PARK STREET ROCKLAND, MAINE

GRAHAM BROTHERS TRUCKS

NORTH NATIONAL BANK
 Offers
 A complete banking service conducted under the direct supervision of the UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT
 73 Years' Continuous Business
 ROCKLAND, MAINE
 MEMBER OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM
 A. S. BAKER, President. E. F. BERRY, Cashier
 J. N. SOUTHWARD, Vice President
 DONALD C. LEACH, Assistant Cashier

NORTH NATIONAL BANK
 Rockland, Maine

TALK OF THE TOWN

COMING NEIGHBORHOOD EVENTS
Oct. 18—Special State election on primary law.
Oct. 19—Meeting of Baptist Men's League.
Oct. 27—Navy Day.
Oct. 27—Annual meeting of Knox-Lincoln Farm Bureau in Warren.
Oct. 31—Chapin Class Halloween dance at Temple hall.
Nov. 4—Rockport-Blue Star Fair and play at Masonic hall.
Nov. 8—M. E. Fair.
Nov. 9—Jefferson poultry show.
Nov. 11—Armistice Day.
Nov. 16—Universalist Fair, "A motor trip through Maine."
Nov. 24—Thanksgiving Day.
Dec. 5—Municipal election.
Dec. 11—First day of winter.
Dec. 25—Christmas Day.

Weather This Week
Weather outlook for the week in North Atlantic States: Mostly fair first part with a period of rain shortly after middle of week. Temperatures near normal most of the week.

Robert Wallis has entered the employ of St. Clair & Allen.

The Maine Central steamer Norumbega is due soon for recoupling at the South Railway.

Matters of importance to all members will come before tonight's meeting of the Eagles, at 7.30.

The tug Eugenia Spofford arrived yesterday from Stonington for her annual inspection at the South Railway.

Willis Lufkin won first prize for the week at the Recreation Alleys with a string of 133. Valley took second and Shannon third.

The Veteran Firemen meet at their hall at 7.30 tonight to attend the radio ball given by the Central Fire Station crew in the Arcade.

Some have manners, some speed and some good looks so you cannot afford to miss the racing card at Knox Trotting Park, Saturday at 1 p. m.

At Knox Trotting Park Saturday the final race of the season will be called. The Sheik, 2.11, will start in the 2.13 class with Dr. William Ellingwood in the sulky.

The Waldo County divorce list for the October term includes the decree granted to Pearl E. Brown of Belfast from Keith R. Brown of Camden, for cruel and abusive treatment.

Children of the L. T. L. will meet at the Sunday school rooms of the First Baptist Church, Thursday afternoon, after school. If stormy they will meet Friday at the same time.

King Solomon's Temple Chapter, R. A. M., has a special meeting Thursday night, for work on the Past and Most Excellent degrees. There will be an official inspection of the Council Friday night, Nov. 4.

Rotary Club has received a beautifully bound, printed and illustrated book on Japan. It was sent direct by the Tokyo Club. The book was compiled under supervision of special commissioner Takashi Iwaka and is sent to Rotary Clubs in the hope of assisting in the realization of the sixth object of Rotary. The text is very interesting and instructive, and the illustrations are exceptional.

Oscar Holmberg was arrested yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Ludwick on a complaint charging him with drunken driving in St. George. His car turned turtle in the process and was found in that condition by the officer. Holmberg was found guilty by Judge Miller and sentenced to three months in jail with costs of court. He appealed and furnished cash bail.

H. A. Daniels, the local globe trotter selected Morocco as his abiding place the coming winter because the French and Moroccans had ceased fighting and it had become such a quiet and respectable community. Reading his favorite paper the other day his eye became glued to a despatch from Rabat, Morocco, which told how bandits had kidnapped two French girls after killing the father and mother. Mr. Daniels carries a rabbit's foot however, and has not cancelled his reservations.

The State Highway Commission will give a hearing in Augusta at 2.30 next Monday afternoon on the petition for redesignation of Route No. 101, which runs from Plummer's Corner, Jefferson, to the Union town line. The Rockland, Union and Augusta Chambers of Commerce are interested in this proposition, and it is hoped to have each community send a delegation. The road has been repaired in those sections of Somerville and Washington which had been causing some criticism.

10-DAYS MUSIKAD

The New Electrically Operated Radiola 17

Shipments of the new Radiola 17 have begun and the first one for Rockland is due to arrive within a few days. Those who have heard it pronounce it 100% perfect. For the latest achievement in radio development you should see and hear this new type.

Special Features:

- 1. A six-tube socket power operated receiver at remarkably low cost using new A. C. tubes.
- 2. Single dial control.
- 3. Three stages of radio frequency amplification provide extreme sensitivity.
- 4. Power amplifier Radiotron in last audio stage provides great volume without distortion.
- 5. Power unit and receiving unit self-contained in one compact cabinet.

MAINEC Music Co. Established 1890

Allen A Hosiery

For Children—the Style That Wears.

No. 312 Long Leg 39c

Colors: Beige, Biscuit, Water Lily. With the usual Allen A Guarantee.

Sold at

CUTLER-COOK CO.

HORSE RACING

KNOX TROTTING PARK SATURDAY, OCTOBER 22

THE LAST RACE OF THE SEASON

Races Called At 1.00 P. M. Autos Free Children Free Grandstand Seats Free 125-126

Ralph Thorndike, order cook at the Thorndike, is having his annual vacation.

Class 26 of the M. E. Church is to meet at its classroom tomorrow night at 7.30 for business session followed by refreshments.

J. H. McGrath has resumed his duties in Knowlton's Market after a fortnight's vacation which he featured by attending the World Series.

Judge Frank B. Miller went yesterday to Portland to attend the annual convention of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows. He will return Thursday afternoon.

In this climate roses do not often bloom as late as Oct. 18. But those sent to this office yesterday by Charles Allen of Tenants Harbor were the genuine article.

Legionnaires are reminded of the installation of officers Thursday evening at 7.45 and a "full house" is desired. Something doing every minute, including a discussion of the Armistice ball and the dedication of Winslow-Holbrook Square, which takes place Nov. 11.

Mrs. R. K. McKenzie, who is a director of the Fanny Crosby Memorial, a home for elderly people at 1088 Fairfield avenue, Bridgeport, Conn., has forwarded a check for $10 toward the fund which will be used in buying a radio set for the Home For Aged Women in this city.

The Southern States Republican League will hold its third annual meeting in New Orleans, Oct. 27, Roosevelt's Birthday. Mrs. Charles A. Farwell, known to many here, is a member of the committee of arrangements. Louisiana and other Southern States have a strong leaning toward Hoover.

Miss Barbara T. Wiggin assisted at the official opening of La Maison Blanche, the French House at Wheaton College, last night. The lectures were delivered by Prof. Andre Morize of Harvard and Dr. Edgar Park, president of the college. Miss Wiggin is a member of the Sophomore class. She is an honor student at Wheaton and serves as treasurer of the Romance Languages Club. She is one of the few to win the privilege of living in La Maison Blanche, in which membership is based on scholarship.

Funeral services of the late G. H. Blethen were held from the home, 50 Holmes street, Sunday afternoon with very large attendance. Rev. C. A. Knickerbocker of the Universalist Church conducted the service most impressively. Rockland Lodge of Elks, the City Council and the employees of the Postoffice were present in complete groups. The floral offerings were of exceptional profusion and beauty. The bearers were G. W. Blethen, W. L. Ayer, H. C. Chatto and L. C. Jackson. Interment was in the family lot in Sea View Cemetery.

The president of the Civil War Memorial Association started out this year with the determination to paint Grand Army hall outside and in, and to paper the rooms in the main part of the building upstairs and down, as the rooms were in sad repair. Money came in slowly and it did seem at times as if it could not be done. This week Mrs. Mary Cooper was assured by Mrs. Blake of the Antique and Wall Paper store at the North-end that her firm would give the paper, absolutely free of charge for all three rooms. This was a splendid gift and is more fully appreciated as it was entirely unsolicited. Mrs. Lawry's offer to paint one-half the building came in the same manner. Mrs. Cooper would not be surprised now to have other patriotic parties offer the new carpets, parlor furniture, etc., so much needed, and then everybody would be happy and the doors would be thrown open for public inspection so that all might know just how much the people of Rockland appreciate the boys who fought, bled and died to save the Republic.

Fred Young and bride of Waterville were in town Sunday visiting relatives.

There will be work on the Fellowship degree at Rockland Lodge tonight, this item serving as notice to all officers.

The John Meserve store, Main street, has been sold through the agency of Caroline Sherer Sweet to Fred M. Beggs of Bangor who is now in charge.

"Take out our ad. on the blueberry farm for sale. The farm was sold 48 hours after the paper came out," writes Haskell & Corbitt, the well known Camden firm. By way of an earnest of this experience they insert three other for sale ads today.

The extreme thoughtlessness and discourtesy of some automobile drivers was strikingly borne out at a recent funeral when a motorist deliberately broke through the procession and another traveled along with the funeral cars in a most annoying manner for several blocks. These were not out-of-state or out-of-county drivers, either.

All plans are completed for tonight's big Radio Dance at the Arcade under auspices of the Central Fire Station crew. Clark's Orchestra will provide the music and the boys have gone to special pains to have the floor in A1 shape. The proceeds of the dance will go toward swelling the radio fund that will buy the machine to whiz away the dreary winter hours. Dr. F. E. Brown and I. Leslie Cross have each added $5 to the fund.

These probationers have been accepted at Knox County General Hospital: Miss Frances Butler, Thomaston; Mrs. Olivia Campbell, Rockland; Miss Inez Dean, Camden; Miss Eleanor Donnell, East Sullivan; Miss Dorothy Eaton, Warner, N. H.; Miss Evelyn Hyler, Matineux; Miss Joanna Patterson, Rockland; and Miss Clara Whitmore, North Haven. Miss Bernice Speed, a graduate from Newton Hospital, a resident of Lynn, Mass., formerly of this city, is the new floor supervisor. Miss Speed attended the local schools while a resident here and many friends will welcome her return.

CARD OF THANKS
I wish to thank the many friends and neighbors who assisted me in my bereavement; also for the beautiful flowers.
W. H. Barter.

COMING! STRAND MAT. AND NITE MON. OCT. 24

JOHN R. VAN ARNAM'S MINSTRELS

30 All White Artists 30 Sweet Singers Nimble Dancers Funny Comedians Matinee 25c and 50c Night 50c, 75c, $1.10 Reserved Sale Friday at 10 o'clock Street Parade at Noon

Announcement!

For the special benefit of our customers, a section of our store has been set aside for "trade-in furniture." As we did not take over any of the Studley Furniture Co. used stock we are in need of goods for this department. If you want to exchange any piece of home furnishings for new, now is the time to see us. Our man will call and talk it over with you.

EASTERN FURNITURE COMPANY

283 Main Street, Rockland

Successors to V. F. Studley, Inc.

SOUTH WALDOBORO

Mrs. Carrie B. Burrows

It is with sadness that is chronicled the death of Carrie B. Burrows, which occurred at the home Oct. 7. Her health had been on the decline for a year, and the past four months she had been confined to the house, but bore the sickness with great fortitude, never murmuring, always hopeful that in time her health would improve. She was interested in the community and its welfare, and in the church organization was a faithful worker. The high esteem in which she was held was wonderfully manifest when the last rites were being held by the large number of neighbors, the Rebekahs in a body and many relatives in attendance, a testimony to the beautiful life that Mrs. Burrows leaves a husband, a daughter Doris Burrows and her husband's mother, all of whom tenderly cared for her during her sickness and tried to make her illness easier to bear. To these and also a brother who is left this community extends heartfelt sympathy.

NORTH HAVEN

Rev. M. G. Perry, pastor of the North Haven Baptist church has resigned. He has been in this place nearly 7 1/2 years and has made many friends and done excellent work here during that period. He has secured splendid co-operation with the summer people and worked especially hard in making arrangements for the new church which was built at the village in 1922 at a cost of approximately $50,000. Mr. Perry and family will leave Nov. 1 for St. Petersburg, Fla., where they will spend the winter and his future position has not been decided upon as yet. Their many friends wish them success and happiness in their new field of labor.

"THE GREATEST BOSSSES"

"The present primary law is productive of wholesale rather than retail frauds," said Hon. Frederick R. Dyer of Portland, United States District Attorney Monday in addressing the Brunswick Rotary club on the evils of the existing law. "It used to be that a party drew up a platform and the candidates nominated stood or fell on the merits of the party platform. Today the candidates formulate their own platforms and then seek to learn how Mrs. Quimby of the W. C. T. U., the Master of the State Grange and the Ku Klux Klan stands. These three organizations are the greatest bosses in the history of the State. By returning to the convention system they would be eliminated and instead of electing individuals the political parties would control the election."

BORN

Whitney—Rockport, Oct. 12, to Mr. and Mrs. James Whitney, a son, Frederick Whitney. Groux—Waterville, Oct. 14, to Mr. and Mrs. Dave Groux (Myrtle Burns of South Waldoboro), a daughter.

MARRIED

Lash-Crawford—Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 11, Carlisle Lash of Friendship and Miss Lillian Crawford of Cambridge. Prior-Read—Rockland, Oct. 13, Edwin Prior and Miss Eleanor Read, both of Friendship. Gignea-Burton—Rockland, Oct. 15, by Rev. R. P. Bowne, Louis P. Gignea and Alameda C. Burton, both of Rockland. Snow-Gray—Freeport, Oct. 15, by Rev. Fred A. Snow, Daniel R. Snow of Rockland and Miss Thelma R. Gray of Freeport. Marshall—Waterville, Oct. 16, by Rev. J. L. Wilson, Linton Lane and Miss Gladys Kaler, both of Rockport. Rankin-Davis—Rockport, Oct. 16, by Rev. J. L. Wilson, Samuel Rankin and Mrs. Estelle Davis, both of West Rockport.

DIED

Altonen—Belmont, Mass., Oct. 15, Philip Altonen, aged 22 years. Funeral services Wednesday at 2 o'clock from Burpee parlors. Barnard—Union, Oct. 15, Alvin Barnard, formerly of Warren. Funeral services Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock from H. W. Planders' parlors, Friendship street, Waldoboro. Interment in Goshen cemetery.

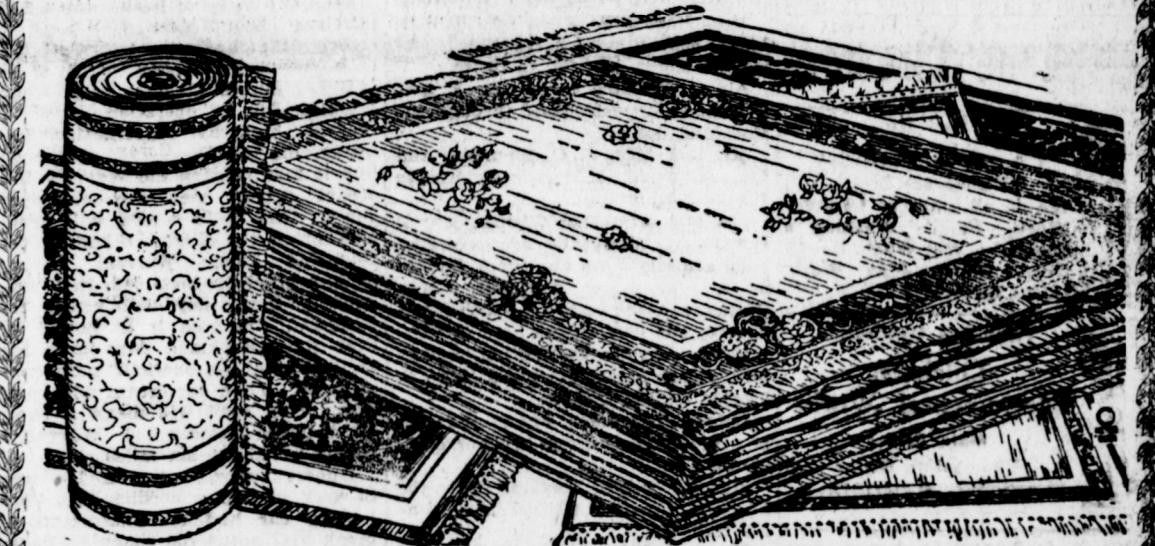

CARD OF THANKS
I wish to thank my old friends and neighbors in Rockland for the lovely birthday shower.
Sunny Slope Farm, Vinalhaven, Oct. 17.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to thank the people of Owl's Head, friends and neighbors, for their floral tributes and acts of kindness during our recent bereavement.
Albert Gore, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kirk, Owl's Head, Me.

Fred B. Stewart was inadvertently omitted from the list of Rockland boys and girls who are attending school elsewhere. Mr. Stewart, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Stewart, 85 Willow street, has entered upon his second year at Annapolis.

Senter Crane Company We Have Decided to Close Out Our Rug Department

In order to make room for an enlarged Drapery Department (a department of increasing importance to every woman) and to give more room to toys, we are going to dispose of all rugs at cost or less.

COME EARLY ON THESE

These are all Sanford Axminsters; all choice patterns; all first quality.
NOTE—Sanford Rugs are made in three qualities—Clifton, Fervak and Beauvais.
6x9		7.6x9
Reg.	Close-out	Reg.	Close-out
Fervak, Beauvais,
27.50	16.85	34.50	21.00
33.75	20.70	42.50	25.85
8.3x10.6		9x12
Reg.	Close-out	Reg.	Close-out
Clifton, Fervak, Beauvais,
45.00	26.95	39.50	27.85
55.50	36.50	48.50	28.85
		58.50	39.85

GLOVES

For Fall Wear

New Fabrics 59c, 79c, 98c, $1.50
Fancy Cuffs $2.98 to $3.98
Perrin's French Gloves
A Special Washable Cape, Tailored Turn Back Cuff $1.98
See the Special Fur Lined Cape at $2.98

Complete Line of Fur Trims Now Ready

SPECIAL PURCHASE OF JERSEY DRESSES

Two Piece Dresses Regularly $15 Just Half Price $7.50

All sizes and all colors
These are not the regular $10.98 dresses that we have had all season, but the $15.00 quality.
Other new Jersey Dresses from $4.25 up

SENIER CRANE COMPANY

SHE WENT FROM BAD TO WORSE

Down to 98 Pounds—Finally Restored to Health by Lydia
E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Cleveland, Ohio.—"After having my first baby, I lost weight, no matter what I did. Then a doctor told me I would be better if I had another baby, which I did. But I got worse, was always sickly and went down to 98 pounds. My neighbor told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it helped her very much, so I tried it. After taking four bottles, I weigh 116 pounds. It has just done wonders for me and I can do my housework now without one bit of trouble."—Mrs. M. RIESINGER, 10004 Nelson Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

If some good fairy should appear, and offer to grant your heart's desire, what would you choose? Health? Happiness?

Health? That's the best gift. Health is riches that good cannot buy and surely health is cause enough for happiness.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be the good fairy who offers you better health.

GUARDIAN MEMORIALS of Everlasting Beauty
(Engineered by Steel)

W. E. Dornan & Son
East Union, Me.

Dealers in—
Also Scotch, Quincy, Westerly and Maine Gray Granites, Vermont Marbles.

Satisfaction Guaranteed
Mark every grave

Telephone Directory
Call 170
People's Laundry
17 Limerock Street
We do all kinds of Laundry
Work. Family Washing a Specialty. Wet Wash, Rough
Dirts, Finish Flat Work
Shirts, Collars.

Telephone Connection
Gilchrist
Monumental Works
Main Street
Thomaston, Maine
ARTISTIC MEMORIALS

No pains are spared to make the Three Crow Flavoring Extracts perfect, pure and wholesome.

DON'T ASK US
ASK ANYONE!
DOWNYFLAKE
Doughnuts Are Best

TRAINER'S
Foot of Spring St. Rockland
80-11

Build!
—for the years to come, with an eye to fire-safety, fuel economy and low upkeep. For the walls of your home we recommend—
SHEET ROCK
—the fireproof wallboard. It is an excellent insulator (fuel-saver); it never cracks, warps or buckles; it makes a perfect base for any decoration (joints are concealed without need for paneling). Cost is low. Easy to apply (saws and nails like lumber). Telephone or call at—
W. H. Glover & Co.
CONTRACTORS
453 Main St. Rockland
Tel. 14

BUICK BREAKS SALES RECORDS
Increase Averages 4,000 Cars
a Month over Same
Period in 1926

Flint, Mich., Oct. 15.—Buick sales since the introduction of new models in July have shattered all records in Buick history. C. W. Churchill, general sales manager of the Buick Motor Company, announced today. The July, August and September total this year is $2,955 cars, as compared with 70,941 cars sold during the corresponding period in 1926.

The average monthly increase during the last three months, over the corresponding period in 1926, amounts to more than 4,000 cars, said Mr. Churchill. "This represents an average increase of 1,000 cars a week, or considerably better than 100 a day."

"When it is recalled that these are retail sales figures, and not mere production totals, such a record seems to us highly significant. It means that the instantaneous public reception of the new Buicks was not a mere flash in the pan, but rather the forerunner of a sustained demand for Buicks, all over the country, based on the recognition that here was such style, comfort and performance as best filled the public's conception of value in a motor car."

FRIENDSHIP
Mr. and Mrs. John M. Tcheh, Robert Mitchell, Mrs. Melvin Burns and Mrs. Charles Cushman motored to Portland for the weekend.

Dr. Randall J. Condon, superintendent of the public schools in Cincinnati, Ohio, and a summer resident here, joined Mrs. Condon at their Hatchet Cove home for the weekend.

Miss Eleanor Reed and Edwin Prior were married in Rockland last Thursday. Miss Reed has made her home recently with her grandfather, George Benner, and Mr. Prior is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Crosby Prior of this town.

Miss Lillian Crawford and Carlisle Lash were married Oct. 11, in Cambridge, Mass., the home of the bride. The young couple have gone to Miami, Fla., where the groom is employed for the winter. Mr. Lash is the son of Mrs. Jessie Lash.

Mrs. Lew J. Wallace has gone to New Bedford, Mass., to join her husband who is scuba diving there.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Davis of Portland and Mrs. Nancy Rogers and Miss Mary Rogers of South Portland visited Mr. and Mrs. Granville T. Brown Saturday.

The members of Friendship High School with their teacher, Mr. Garland, were delightfully entertained Friday evening by Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Hahn. Games were played and music enjoyed both over the radio and from the new Victor Orthophonic. Refreshments were served. The young people feel very grateful for a pleasant evening.

Rev. and Mrs. Lester Spencer of the Adventist Church attended conference at Port Clyde the past week.

CAUGHT COLD AT NOON; SANG THAT NIGHT!

Trust a professional singer to know what to do for a cold! Give him five hours, and he can knock out a cold that would have prevented his singing one note. The secret of going a whole season without a serious cold is something everybody ought to know. A simple compound does it, and it is obtainable in tablets. Just one will stop a cold with the first sniffle; several will break up a cold that's even reached the stage of grippe! Pape's Cold Compound costs but 25¢ at any drug store.

PAPE'S COLD COMPOUND

EAST WARREN
A car containing Earle Thomas and George Blackington, took the ditch on the Camden road in the early evening Saturday and at last accounts was still there.

Will Simmons of Rockland, called on Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Richards Sunday and took them to Rockport where they visited Will Snowdell.

The partridge season in East Warren opened with a bang, in fact, several bangs, when Maurice Crockett made a good bag of birds Tuesday afternoon.

Chester McIntyre is working on the state road near Hinkley's Corner.

Charles Copeland was in Rockland this week on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Burkett attended Topham fair Wednesday.

C. M. Spear is delivering fitted wood in Warren village.

The heaviest frost of the season and in fact the only damaging frost, visited this section Monday night.

C. M. Spear and family attended Topham fair Thursday.

W. Y. Piper made a trip to Thomaston with vegetables Tuesday.

Several of the farmers have gathered about this week. The crop seems to be far below the average.

John Dunn is hauling apples to Mont Tolman for grinding.

J. E. Watts delivered a load of wood to the village Wednesday.

John W. Watts of Rockland visited relatives here Monday.

Will Maak's brother of Appleton called on him recently.

Mrs. Hjalmar Lindgren is in Knox Hospital for an operation.

State highway construction has begun, on the West Rockport road and is fast nearing the Warren line.

About fifteen men are employed there. One more season will probably bring the Rockport end to the Rockland line. Warren, having made a start on their end, in a reasonable time they will reach the Rockland line and it is hoped by that time Rockland will have her section of about one-half mile constructed. Then our dream will come true. This road will mean a short cut between Camden and Warren, a saving of about six miles.

Hubert Snow, while on his way to work Thursday morning in a Ford touring car had the misfortune to break his radius rod shackles, causing him to lose control of his steering gear and he connected with an oak tree near the home of S. B. Watts.

WALDOBORO
Miss Isabelle Waltz and Miss Stella M. Waltz have returned to Boston. John T. Gay was in Portland Friday and Saturday.

Charles A. Howard of Augusta has been the guest of his sister, Mrs. Doris Howard Yarnall.

The Susanah Wesley Society met with Mrs. Eudora Miller Monday evening.

Wiwurna Chapter, O. E. S., will serve a supper for King Solomon's Lodge when the school of instruction is held here Friday.

Mrs. Florence Waugh Danforth of Skowhegan was the guest of Mrs. Maude Clark Gay Thursday and Friday last week.

Mrs. Clarence Benner is attending the meetings of Rebekah Assembly in Portland this week.

Mrs. O. E. Ludwig has returned from Maine where she spent several days last week.

Mrs. Anna Crooks and Miss Josephine Crooks have returned to Haddon Heights, N. J.

Mrs. C. B. Stahl, Mrs. H. R. Smith, Mrs. S. H. Weston, Mrs. D. B. Mayo, Mrs. A. B. Bond, Mrs. G. G. Genther, Mrs. J. T. Gay, Mrs. H. H. Kuhn, Mrs. E. T. Potter and Mrs. F. A. Hovey attended the meeting of Lincoln County Union of women's clubs in Wiscasset Friday.

Mrs. Harold R. Smith and Miss Ellen A. Smith were in Cooper's Mills Sunday, guests of Mrs. Smith's sister, Mrs. Horace Weeks.

Rolliston Linscott of Boston has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Jennie M. Linscott.

Fifteen members of Wiwurna Chapter, O. E. S., attended the inspection of Lake View Chapter in Jefferson. Tuesday, Oct. 25, D. D. G. M. Maude Davis of Boothbay Harbor will inspect the local chapter. A banquet will be served at 6:30 o'clock at which Crescent and Lake View Chapters will be guests.

The Women's Club will hold its opening meeting next Tuesday at noon when a reception will be given at the home of the president, Mrs. Ida Stahl. The report of the Federation in addition to several musical numbers will be on the program and refreshments will be served.

PAPE'S COLD COMPOUND

EAST WARREN
A car containing Earle Thomas and George Blackington, took the ditch on the Camden road in the early evening Saturday and at last accounts was still there.

Will Simmons of Rockland, called on Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Richards Sunday and took them to Rockport where they visited Will Snowdell.

The partridge season in East Warren opened with a bang, in fact, several bangs, when Maurice Crockett made a good bag of birds Tuesday afternoon.

Chester McIntyre is working on the state road near Hinkley's Corner.

Charles Copeland was in Rockland this week on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Burkett attended Topham fair Wednesday.

C. M. Spear is delivering fitted wood in Warren village.

The heaviest frost of the season and in fact the only damaging frost, visited this section Monday night.

C. M. Spear and family attended Topham fair Thursday.

W. Y. Piper made a trip to Thomaston with vegetables Tuesday.

Several of the farmers have gathered about this week. The crop seems to be far below the average.

John Dunn is hauling apples to Mont Tolman for grinding.

J. E. Watts delivered a load of wood to the village Wednesday.

John W. Watts of Rockland visited relatives here Monday.

Will Maak's brother of Appleton called on him recently.

Mrs. Hjalmar Lindgren is in Knox Hospital for an operation.

State highway construction has begun, on the West Rockport road and is fast nearing the Warren line.

About fifteen men are employed there. One more season will probably bring the Rockport end to the Rockland line. Warren, having made a start on their end, in a reasonable time they will reach the Rockland line and it is hoped by that time Rockland will have her section of about one-half mile constructed. Then our dream will come true. This road will mean a short cut between Camden and Warren, a saving of about six miles.

Hubert Snow, while on his way to work Thursday morning in a Ford touring car had the misfortune to break his radius rod shackles, causing him to lose control of his steering gear and he connected with an oak tree near the home of S. B. Watts.

WALDOBORO
Miss Isabelle Waltz and Miss Stella M. Waltz have returned to Boston. John T. Gay was in Portland Friday and Saturday.

Charles A. Howard of Augusta has been the guest of his sister, Mrs. Doris Howard Yarnall.

The Susanah Wesley Society met with Mrs. Eudora Miller Monday evening.

Wiwurna Chapter, O. E. S., will serve a supper for King Solomon's Lodge when the school of instruction is held here Friday.

Mrs. Florence Waugh Danforth of Skowhegan was the guest of Mrs. Maude Clark Gay Thursday and Friday last week.

Mrs. Clarence Benner is attending the meetings of Rebekah Assembly in Portland this week.

Mrs. O. E. Ludwig has returned from Maine where she spent several days last week.

Mrs. Anna Crooks and Miss Josephine Crooks have returned to Haddon Heights, N. J.

Mrs. C. B. Stahl, Mrs. H. R. Smith, Mrs. S. H. Weston, Mrs. D. B. Mayo, Mrs. A. B. Bond, Mrs. G. G. Genther, Mrs. J. T. Gay, Mrs. H. H. Kuhn, Mrs. E. T. Potter and Mrs. F. A. Hovey attended the meeting of Lincoln County Union of women's clubs in Wiscasset Friday.

Mrs. Harold R. Smith and Miss Ellen A. Smith were in Cooper's Mills Sunday, guests of Mrs. Smith's sister, Mrs. Horace Weeks.

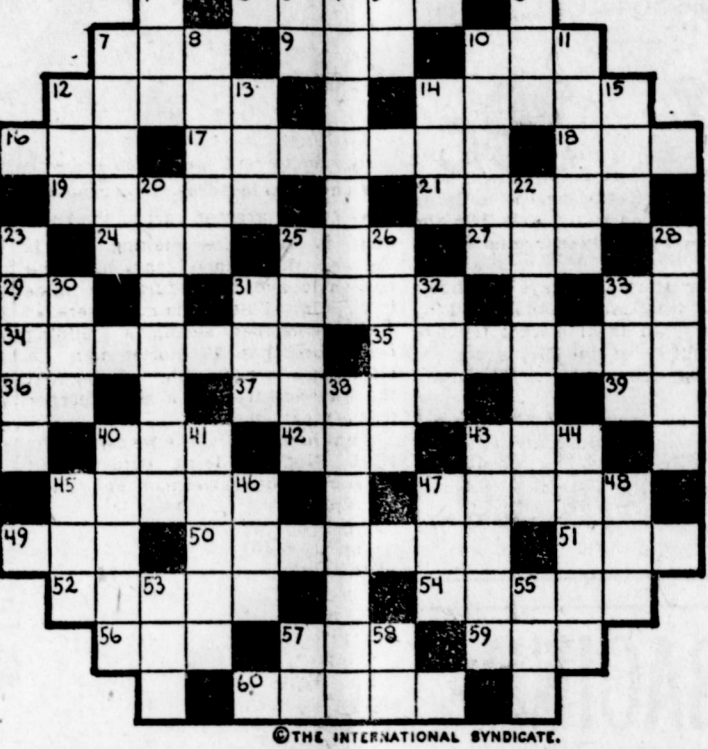

Rolliston Linscott of Boston has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Jennie M. Linscott.

Fifteen members of Wiwurna Chapter, O. E. S., attended the inspection of Lake View Chapter in Jefferson. Tuesday, Oct. 25, D. D. G. M. Maude Davis of Boothbay Harbor will inspect the local chapter. A banquet will be served at 6:30 o'clock at which Crescent and Lake View Chapters will be guests.

The Women's Club will hold its opening meeting next Tuesday at noon when a reception will be given at the home of the president, Mrs. Ida Stahl. The report of the Federation in addition to several musical numbers will be on the program and refreshments will be served.

It has never been decided how many angels could dance on the point of a pin, but Tex Rickard has discovered that 42,000 ring-side seats can be installed around a twenty-foot ring.—San Diego Union.

COURIER-GAZETTE CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

- HORIZONTAL
- 2-Friend of Pythias
 - 7-Exclamation
 - 9-Large cask
 - 10-To damage
 - 12-Allotted quantity of medicine (pl.)
 - 14-Sweet substance
 - 16-Vehicle
 - 17-Small indented
 - 18-Silk for animals
 - 19-Beside
 - 21-Regulated
 - 24-Acted
 - 25-Condensed moisture
 - 27-A mean fellow
 - 29-Preposition
 - 31-Containing to the country
 - 33-Pronoun
 - 34-An inhabitant
 - 35-Ruined
 - 36-Prefix
 - 37-A well-known
 - 39-Sort name for mother
 - 40-To tick up
 - 42-A title
 - 43-To take stitches in
- HORIZONTAL (Cont.)
- 45-Danger
 - 47-A famous painter
 - 49-A precious jewel
 - 50-Favoring
 - 51-A month
 - 52-Pierced
 - 54-An antiseptic
 - 56-And not
 - 57-A young blossom
 - 58-A sister
 - 60-A souvenir
- VERTICAL
- 1-Possesses
 - 3-Preposition
 - 4-Scarf
 - 5-Preposition
 - 6-Move quickly to and fro
 - 7-Drilled
 - 8-Hacked
 - 10-Rhythmic combination of tones
 - 11-Leveled to the ground
 - 12-Strike lightly
 - 13-Perched
 - 14-Fixed
 - 15-A measure of length
- VERTICAL (Cont.)
- 20-Alike
 - 22-One who manages
 - 23-To shape
 - 25-Hills of loose sand
 - 26-One who walks in water
 - 28-A foot-lever
 - 30-A marsh
 - 31-A color
 - 32-Non-professional
 - 33-The bottom of a skirt
 - 38-Penalty
 - 40-A fruit
 - 41-One who plays on a whistle
 - 43-An Athenian law-giver
 - 44-A female
 - 45-A wooden pin
 - 46-A boy
 - 47-A vehicle
 - 48-To charge
 - 50-To propel a boat through the water
 - 55-To cause friction
 - 57-Exist
 - 58-Prefix meaning "through"

VINALHAVEN

There will be a meeting of Union Church Society at the vestry tonight at 7 o'clock. All members are requested to be present.

Frank Young and daughter Ruth of Wiscasset have been guests the past week of Mr. and Mrs. Fred K. Coombs.

H. H. Vinal and Frank Osgood left Friday for Glenwood on a hunting trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brown are in Boston, where they will spend the winter months with their son Arthur Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Fifield and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Young, spent the weekend at Cravenhurst.

A. G. Johnson is receiving treatment at Knox Hospital.

Mrs. Guy Peasley has returned from Portland where she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Doane.

J. H. Carver is demonstrating the new Radiola and Crosley radios. No batteries are needed and they can be attached to any electric socket.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Annis who have been at Camp Lookout, Shore Acres, for the past week, returned Saturday to West Rockport.

Mrs. Beatrice Curran of Boston is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. A. G. Henderson.

Mont E. Perry of Rockland arrived Saturday and is the guest of his niece Mrs. L. R. Smith.

Mrs. Mary Noyes entertained the Washington Club and other guests at her home Saturday.

Mrs. Benjamin Aray returned Saturday from Boston.

Mrs. William Lawry, Mrs. Fred Coombs and Mrs. Addie Bucklin left Monday for Portland to attend the Rebekah meeting.

EAST APPLETON
Work is going steadily forward on the State road with Daniel Wentworth as engineer and Charles Sale boss in the gravel pit.

Another resident of this town, Andrew Brown has died. He lived alone and finding his door locked and no signs of his being about, neighbors went in and found him dead in his bed where he had peacefully passed away presumably in the night.

The funeral will be from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Delmore Cummings where he was kindly taken. He left one son, who resides in Massachusetts.

Mrs. Adella Gushue recently entertained G. W. Gushue and daughter Bessie Gushue of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Paige and the Marsh family of Rockland and Mrs. Addison McCornell of Appleton.

Ames Brothers recently sold a beef cow to V. E. Hannan.

Several from this place attended the dance at Light's hall Friday night. Austin Simmons recently found a cluster of strawberry blossoms in a sheltered nook of pastureland and was pleased to show it to neighbors. The recent heavy wind and rainfall did much damage in this vicinity, blowing off fruit, breaking limbs from trees and other serious results.

Marriages are getting to be quite the fashion around town. Another of our very popular girls, Miss Martha Arrington was married recently to Howard Moody of Union. She is a graduate of Appleton High and has been a successful teacher.

EAST WALDOBORO

Irving Sawyer was in Newport Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Johnson, Miss Emma Pitman and Miss Addie Pittman visited friends in Nobleboro Sunday.

Mrs. Bessie Monahan left for Portland Saturday. Miss Una Clark and Miss Myrtle Reever went as far as Beverly, Mass., returning Monday. They made the trip by auto.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jones and family of Storrs, Conn., were at F. M. Johnson's Saturday.

Kent G. Newbert and Miss Lillian Thompson motored from Portland Sunday and visited friends here and in Warren.

Mrs. Charles Bowers spent a few days at S. Burrows' in South Waldoboro last week.

Miss Ellie Mank spent Wednesday with Mrs. Fred Mank.

Floyd Rines who has been employed with his uncle, John Rines, returned Thursday to Oakland.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Planders of Boston with LaForest Mank and family motored to Friendship Sunday and called on Mr. and Mrs. Cushman.

Mrs. Austin Miller and sons have returned from a fortnight's visit with relatives in Rochester, N. H.

The Social Club met Sept. 15 at Mrs. Laura Brackett's with 14 members present. The following program was conducted by Mrs. James Mank.

Quotations by members; conundrums Mrs. Martin; singing by club; conundrums, Mrs. G. Mank; readings, Mrs. Rines and Mrs. McIntire. Refreshments were served.

Eleven members of the Social Club motored to Thomaston last week and were entertained at the home of Mrs. Melzer Studley, a past president.

The program, conducted by Mrs. Studley, included: Conundrums by members; current events, Mrs. Martin; contest, advertisements, prizes won by Mrs. Perry; reading, Miss Storer; flower contest, prizes won by Mrs. French and Mrs. Reever. Refreshments were served. Next meeting, Oct. 20, will be with Mrs. Herbert Walz.

Mrs. D. M. Jones and Lincoln Jones motored from Unity Saturday and returning Sunday were accompanied by Mrs. Jones' daughter, Mrs. Gardner Mank.

Several from this place attended Damariscotta fair.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Mank and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bowers were in South Waldoboro to attend the funeral services of Mrs. Stephen Burrows (Carrie Mank).

Mrs. Lizzie Wheeler of Augusta and Miss Helen Rines of Hallowell visited Mr. and Mrs. John Rines Wednesday.

Mrs. Rose Robinson of Albion spent last week at her daughter's, Mrs. Clarence Coffin. Monday Mrs. Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. Coffin left by auto for Minnesota.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Miller and children have moved to South Warren where he has employment.

MARTINSVILLE
Mr. and Mrs. William Sargent of Holden, Mass., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Granville Bacheider last week.

Mrs. William Cook is very much improved in health.

The ladies circle met with Mrs. J. H. Hupper last week with 14 members present, and had a very enjoyable afternoon. Next Thursday they will meet with Mrs. William Harris.

Miss Claribel Lowe and Miss Evelyn Greene were guests of Mrs. H. H. Hupper last week.

Mrs. Julia Astle has returned to her home after spending the summer here.

Fred Robinson of Cushing visited his cousin, Miss Mildred Bacheider last week.

Mrs. David Ervene is having some interior decorating done at her home by Mrs. Martha Bacheider.

Rev. Fred Snow of Rockland supplied the pulpit of this church Sunday during the absence of the pastor Rev. S. E. Packard.

Mrs. Willis N. Hooper of Rockland has been at her old home here for a few days.

Rosecoe Hupper closed his cottage at Spruce Cove Saturday and has returned to New York. Mrs. Hupper returns Thursday.

Only Buick has an engine Vibrationless beyond belief

BUICK'S remarkable freedom from vibration is due primarily to three vitally important factors. First—the inherent smoothness of the Buick Valve-in-Head six-cylinder engine. Second—rubber engine mountings, front and rear. And third—the scientific and almost perfect balance of the entire Buick crankshaft assembly.

Only Buick enjoys these advantages. And only Buick provides the silken performance—the unvarying smoothness at all speeds—the longer life and greater serviceability of an engine vibrationless beyond belief.

70% of Your Child's School-work is in the Morning! Give QUICK QUAKER

The Breakfast that "Stands By" You
Faster Than Toast—Cooks in 2½ to 5 Minutes

BOSTON by Steamer
Tuesdays, Thursdays, Saturdays
Leave Rockland 8 P. M.
Due Boston 7 A. M.

To BANGOR
Via Camden, Belfast, Bucksport and Winterport
Leave Rockland 5 A. M.
Due Bangor 10 A. M.

To BAR HARBOR
Blue Hill
Tuesdays, Thursdays, Saturdays
Leave 5 A. M., calling at way landings. Due Bar Harbor and Blue Hill 11 A. M.

Connections at Boston with Steamer to New York
Reduced fares on automobiles

EASTERN STEAMSHIP LINES

MAINE CENTRAL RAILROAD
Eastern Standard Time
TRAINS LEAVE ROCKLAND FOR

Augusta, A. 7:10 a. m., 7:15 a. m., 11:45 p. m., 10:15 p. m.
Bangor, A. 7:10 a. m., 7:15 a. m., 11:45 p. m., 10:15 p. m.
Boston, A. 7:10 a. m., 7:15 a. m., 11:45 p. m., 10:1

Waited Long for This Discovery!

Cleans Inside, and Pores Free from Any Taint

All the trick laxatives in the world can't tempt people who understand the properties of CASCARETS. A hundred different drugs will purge the bowels, but a little natural cascara purifies the system clear through. Cascarets even the pores of your skin. Benders perspiration as inoffensive as so much dew!

Your grandparents took "sals" and slowly washed away the mucus membrane with the waste! Mineral oils are better, but they leave the coating that your blood must then carry off through the pores. But when you cascade the system, you get rid of all the poisons by normal muscular action of the bowels.

Don't get in the habit of taking medicine for constipation—or even for auto-intoxication. If you have the habit, stop it. A candy cascaret is a delightful form in which to take cascara; children love them and the taste tempts most grown-ups to take "more." And what a comfort to know you are in that clean, wholesome condition that does away with any need of deodorants, even in warmest weather! Try a cascaret tonight! All druggists, 10c and 25c.

"I SEARCHED a long time for any real relief from my bad auto-intoxication. Strong purgatives just drove the poisons into my perspiration until I felt like avoiding people. I'm all serene now, just through occasional use of—

CASCARETS

SPRUCE HEAD

Fred Cook of Stonington is visiting his mother Mrs. Ella Cook for a few days.

Mrs. Josie Cummings of North Warren who has been visiting her daughter Mrs. Lulu Williamson has returned to her home.

Mrs. Maynard Frost and daughter Sylvia were at the Keag Saturday.

Frank Wall is having a new chimney built at his store in the village. Harry Allard is doing the work.

A good-sized apple tree growing in the dooryard of Stanley Simmons was blown over by the heavy gale that struck here Thursday.

Mrs. Lucy Wall visited her daughter in Rockland last week.

Mrs. Sydney Thompson visited her sister Mrs. Maggie Ellis at Clark Island Wednesday.

Little Beverly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elbridge Simmons of this vil-

REPORT OF THE CONDITION OF THE NORTH NATIONAL BANK

At Rockland in the State of Maine at the close of business on Oct. 10, 1927

RESOURCES
Loans and discounts	$652,850 95
Overdrafts unsecured	3 22
U. S. Government securities owned:
Deposited to secure circulation (U. S. Bonds par value)	$85,000 00
All other United States Government securities (including premiums, if any)	61,335 47
Total	146,335 47
Other bonds, stocks, securities, etc. owned	1,574,508 92
Banking House, $20,000; Furniture and fixtures, $4,648 64	24,648 64
Lawful Reserve with Federal Reserve Bank	75,853 16
Cash in vault and amount due from national banks	125,281 85
Amount due from State banks, bankers, and trust companies in the United States (other than included in items 8, 9, 10)	14 11
Checks on other banks in the same city or town as reporting bank	4,391 19
Total of three preceding items	131,797 25
Checks and drafts on banks (including Federal Reserve Bank) located outside of city or town as reporting bank	1,688 15
Miscellaneous cash items	5,181 57
Redemption fund with U. S. Treasurer and due from U. S. Treasurer	4,250 00
Other assets, if any	50 00
Total	$2,617,945 33
LIABILITIES
Capital stock paid in	$100,000 00
Surplus fund	50,000 00
Undivided profits	11,043 11
Less current expenses paid	77,780 88
Reserved for taxes, interest, etc. accrued	28,993 21
Circulating notes outstanding	85,000 00
Demand deposits (other than bank deposits) subject to Reserve (deposits payable within 30 days)	306,539 67
Individual deposits subject to check	5,072 06
Certificates of deposit due in less than 30 days (other than for money borrowed)	12 00
Dividends unpaid	305,823 67
Total of demand deposits (other than bank deposits) subject to Reserve, items 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, and 26	1,951,945 29
Time deposits subject to Reserve (payable after 30 days, or subject to 30 days or more notice, and postal savings):	16,587 82
Savings deposits including time certificates of deposit other than for money borrowed	1,951,945 29
Postal savings deposits	16,587 82
Total of three preceding items	1,968,533 11
United States deposits (other than postal savings) including War Loan deposit account and deposits of United States disbursing officers	1,014 46
Total	$2,617,945 33

State of Maine, County of Knox, ss.
I, Edward F. Berry, Cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.
EDWARD F. BERRY, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 14th day of October, 1927.
WALTER H. BUTLER, Notary Public.

(Seal) Correct—Attest: C. I. BURROWS, A. S. BAKER, J. N. SOUTHWARD, Directors.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION OF THE ROCKLAND NATIONAL BANK

At Rockland in the State of Maine, at the close of business on Oct. 10, 1927

RESOURCES
Loans and discounts	$1,059,958 27
Overdrafts, unsecured	140 16
U. S. Government securities owned:
Deposited to secure circulation (U. S. Bonds par value)	$150,000 00
All other United States Government securities (including premiums, if any)	80,724 74
Total	230,724 74
Other bonds, stocks, securities, etc. owned	1,728,650 15
Banking House	48,000 00
Lawful Reserve with Federal Reserve Bank	105,169 06
Cash in vault and amount due from national banks	165,246 68
Amount due from State banks, bankers, and trust companies in the United States	32,570 72
Checks on other banks in the same city or town as reporting bank	7,224 77
Total of three preceding items	205,142 17
Miscellaneous cash items	9,521 38
Redemption fund with U. S. Treasurer and due from U. S. Treasurer	7,500 00
Other assets, if any	32 24
Total	$3,395,430 97
LIABILITIES
Capital stock paid in	$150,000 00
Surplus fund	100,000 00
Undivided profits	124,818 28
Less current expenses paid	36,611 74
Reserved for taxes, interest, etc. accrued	88,206 54
Circulating notes outstanding	147,200 00
Amount due to State banks, bankers, and trust companies in the United States	4,311 84
Demand deposits (other than bank deposits) subject to Reserve (deposits payable within 30 days)	576,945 97
Individual deposits subject to check	26,747 91
Certificates of deposit due in less than 30 days (other than for money borrowed)	559,292 06
Dividends unpaid	196 00
Total of demand deposits (other than bank deposits) subject to Reserve, items 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, and 26	1,193,385 94
Time deposits subject to Reserve (payable after 30 days, or subject to 30 days or more notice, and postal savings):	2,291,219 95
Savings deposits (including time certificates of deposit other than for money borrowed)	2,291,219 95
Total of time deposits subject to Reserve	2,291,219 95
Total	$3,395,430 97

State of Maine, County of Knox, ss.
I, Joseph W. Robinson, Cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.
JOSEPH W. ROBINSON, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 15th day of October, 1927.
JOS. EMERY, Notary Public.

(Seal) Correct—Attest: WILLIAM S. WHITE, F. A. THORNDIKE, ROBERT S. ROBINSON, Directors.

THE NEW CEMENT INDUSTRY

Will Pay Wage-Earners and Salaried Employees Half a Million Dollars Annually.

The establishment of a cement industry in Maine is more or less of an experiment. The mill now being erected at Thomaston is the only one in the New England States.

The establishment of this cement mill is just one more general symptom of an economic pressure the force of which is being felt throughout the whole cement industry. Cement is a bulky product. Carried over long distances it runs an extremely high freight tariff in relation to value. As a result it is to the best interest of the consumer to locate cement mills as near markets as possible. Prior to this all cement used in the New England States has had to come from either New York or Pennsylvania mills as far as the domestic product was concerned.

The establishment of an industry in virgin territory is always a difficult proposition. In the case of New England it is very much complicated by the fact that its proximity to seaboard makes it an ideal market for low cost foreign cement. In examining the possibilities of the Maine cement industry, therefore, it is necessary to take into consideration four main features. These are—

1. Just what this new industry, if it can be operated at its present capacity, will contribute directly and indirectly, to the industrial welfare of New England and to that of the United States as a whole.

2. What it will contribute directly to the locality in which the new plant stands.

3. What has happened in its logical market through the importations of foreign cement over the last few years.

4. What the importations of foreign cement last year mean in relation to the potential output of this new plant.

The Thomaston plant will have a capacity of 1,000,000 barrels of cement a year. Granting capacity production the Maine cement industry should do a total business of $1,700,000 a year at present cement prices, and should employ capital amounting to $4,500,000. This latter amount, of course, already has been risked in the construction of the plant.

It will pay 300 wage earners and salaried employees one-half million dollars. The total wages which its purchases of material will give rise to, directly or indirectly, will amount to over one million dollars. It will buy materials for its Maine activities in the following amounts each year:

$7,500 tons of coal at a cost of	$118,125
5,000 tons of gypsum at a cost of	16,500
330,000 cotton sacks at a cost of	52,800
New machinery and mill supplies amounting to	375,300
Electric current for power	160,000
It will pay railroads in freight materials and finished product approximately three-quarters of a million dollars.

The new mill, if able to run at capacity, will make these annual contributions to prosperity: (Based on 1926 prices and wage rates)

It will employ 250 cement wage earners and will pay them

It will employ 50 officers and salaried employees to whom it will pay

Its total wages and salaries will be

It will use in coal $7,500 tons, for which it will pay

It will pay, in addition, freight on this coal amounting to

Its total costs for coal will be

Of this amount the coal miner will receive as wages on the basis of a 60% labor cost

For hauling this coal, the rail worker will receive as wages based on a ratio of 43% of operating income

The total wages accruing to labor for the coal it uses will be Based on 11 pounds per barrel of cement the Thomaston plant will use annually 5,500 tons of gypsum for which it would pay at mine

In addition it will pay in freight on this gypsum

Its total costs for gypsum will be

Of this amount the gypsum miner will receive as wages

And the railroad worker will receive in addition

The Thomaston plant to take care of capacity will require 330,000 new cotton sacks per annum, for which at 16 cents a sack it would pay

The textile worker would receive as his share on the basis of a 25% labor cost

These sacks would require 330 bales of cotton—figuring 1000 sacks to the bale—at an average price of $80 a bale, the cotton farmer would receive from the Maine cement industry in addition, the Thomaston plant will buy annually general mill machinery, new machinery and replacements amounting to

On the basis of a 5% freight charge to the delivery price, the railroads will receive

On the basis of a 10% labor charge to the delivery price, the worker in machine shops, foundries, mill supply shops, etc., will receive

The railroad worker will receive on the basis of these shipments

Freight for the finished product will amount to

Of this amount, 16 cents labor will receive

On the basis of 16 cents per barrel the Thomaston plant will use electric power for which it will pay

Based on a census ratio of 20% wage cost electric power employees will receive

The possibility of the Maine cement industry may be summarized thus: Its capacity is 1,000,000 barrels. Its revenue, if run at capacity (1926 prices) would be $1,700,000. The capital employed is $4,500,000. It would support directly and indirectly 724 workers. These would comprise: Cement workers, 300; coal miners, 66; textile workers, 12; railroad workers, 261; gypsum miners, 5; cotton farmers, 85; machinery, etc., workers, 25.

It would pay in wages for its principal activities alone: To cement employees, $95,000; to coal miners, $70,875; to rail workers, $457,222; to textile workers, $13,200; to gypsum miners, $5,775; to cotton farmers, $26,400; to machinery, etc., workers, $13,530; total, $1,041,982.

Another article bearing on the economic phases of the new industry will appear in Tuesday's issue.

NORTH HAVEN

Mrs. Clara Dyer, formerly of this place is visiting her brother, Edgar York.

Rev. Mr. Hughes of Dover-Foxcroft, spoke at the morning and evening services at the Baptist Church. He is a prospective candidate for the pastorate.

Mrs. Francis Frye is in Boston.

Miss Alice Lyburner, R. N., who has been caring for Mrs. Raymond Morrison, has returned to Rockland.

Capt. Nutt of Camden is working for Capt. Joy.

Mrs. Bishop of Camden is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harold Young.

The North Haven Fuel Co. has recently had a cargo of lumber discharged.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Stone are on a vacation, visiting in Boston and vicinity.

Dr. Lloyd Richardson of Rockland will be in town today. He will be accompanied by Miss Sawyer of the Red Cross.

Mrs. Emma Stone picked ripe raspberries Oct. 16.

Mrs. Robbins of Rockland who has been in town the past week has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Almon Cooper and family and niece Miss Palmer who have been spending their vacation here have now returned to Rockland.

NORTH APPLETON

Ormond Keene is working in Lincolnville in the portable mill of J. Willis Fenwick.

Mrs. Ellen Carlton of Elmwood is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Perry.

Quincy Peabody is at home after working with his truck for some weeks in Somerville.

W. F. Tilden and B. A. Pitman spent Friday evening at Appleton at the homes of O. W. Currier and Adna Pitman.

Miss Laura E. Waterman of Kenyon, R. I., is with her sister, Miss Lottie Waterman.

D. G. Wentworth has been making repairs on his buildings.

Recent visitors at the home of Bernard Pitman were Mrs. Mary Beaman of Tipton and niece, Miss Madeline Pitman of Middleboro, Mass.; Mrs. Julia Morse and sister Miss Adna Pitman of Appleton; Mrs. Blanche Brown of Appleton Ridge; Charles Cunningham and Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Freeman of Searsmont; and Dr. and Mrs. George Hamlen of Lewiston.

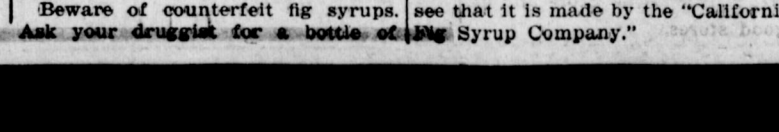

MOTHER!

A Child Doesn't Laugh and Play if Constipated

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour.

"Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of 'California Fig Syrup.' then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation, poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough 'inside cleansing' is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of Fig Syrup Company."

FERNANDO FIDLED

Rockland Grand Army Man Woke 'Em Up Out In Grand Rapids.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—Grand Rapids, Michigan, is a fine looking city, at least the residential part. It has its slums. Grand River runs through it. In the spring it is a roaring torrent, but when I saw it one could wade across it almost anywhere. The greater part of the business is furniture making. It is claimed that more than half the household and office furniture made in the United States is made here. I don't remember seeing a building here more than 10 stories high. A block here is not a big building but the distance from one street corner to the next street.

[What happened while we owned the city? Nothing, doing Saturday. I got here Friday afternoon and found the big hotel reserved. The police helped me to find a place just to my liking—a small hotel, "The Oaks" on the main street, up one flight, front. It was kept by a woman and her daughter—a family of four boys and four girls, aged from 8 to 20. They took me right into their hearts and home. Musical? Yes. Piano, violin, cornet, mandolin, etc. Of course I handled the fiddle. We had concerts evenings.

One day I took the fiddle, went down into the "Quaker Lunch" beneath our hotel and lived them up at the noon hour. The tables were occupied with "old vets" and their ladies. I gave them "Turkey in the Straw" and two or three lively tunes. They instantly "sat up and took notice." Soon they were keeping time with me, with hands, feet and head. One old Virginia gentleman jumped up and grasped my hand, insisting that I lay aside the fiddle, and lunch with him and his ladies. I declined. He insisted—finally I accepted—and dined with them while others cheered us.

The fiddle episode reminds me. On the way out, a party of young men, boys of 12 to 18, came on board the train at Montreal, apparently French Canadian students, returning to college, from their summer vacation. They were a lively bunch. Had several musical instruments, and were not at all bashful in showing their ignorance in playing them. As usual, I was soon on speaking terms with them. Asked one with a good violin to give me a selection. He soon proved that neither he nor any of them could play the violin. I took it into my hands to look at it, and that violin actually started in to play a lively tune. The boys looked scared. Perhaps they had never heard a real lively tune like that before. I stopped, but they begged for more and I complied. Two hours later when they left the train each gave me a friendly smile and nod.

Now to go back. On Sunday morning the city of private autos on the street to take all who wished to attend church. In the afternoon hundreds of autos came to national headquarters to take visitors wherever they wished to go. Monday morning the trolley cars all appeared with a big sign in the windows reading "Country Club." Any visitor who wore a badge could ride as much as he pleased free. This was continued all the time we were there, both autos and trolleys.

Tuesday night was held a civic parade. The city showed us what it had in the way of police, firemen and fire apparatus along with business and historical floats interspersed with 12 or 15 brass bands and drum corps.

Wednesday morning every visitor who wore a badge was invited to attend one of the big theatres and see the great picture, "The Big Parade," from 9 to 11. Then came our parade. Quite a large number of the veterans elected to walk. All who chose, could ride. As it was about 80 in the shade I rode. About 1500 old veterans were in the parade, which with the army societies numbered about 5000. The national headquarters was at Hotel Panton, where one could get a room with all the luxuries, but no food, for $5 to $7 per day, including noise, confusion, drum corps playing singing clubs and the talk of scores and hundreds of people coming and going. I had a room on the same street, one minute walk distant, without the noise but including most of the luxuries, for $12.50 a day. The city provided beds for less than that. I must speak of one thing very noticeable. The Boy Scouts were everywhere in evidence. Not an old veteran or a visitor could cross the crowded street without finding one or more of those boys at one's elbow. And they seemed to have the powers of the police in holding up traffic, to let us pass. And they were instructed to take no pay. The police were very courteous, as were all citizens, male or female, with whom I came in contact. Indeed every one everywhere, seemed delighted to help us. On my way home, coming into Toronto, near midnight, a stranger came and sat beside me in the car. By his talk I soon found he was a teacher in one of the universities there, and with his wife and daughter was getting home from their vacation. Finding I was a stranger to the city, they all went far out of their way to help me find a good place to stay. They knew the city, but had to visit two or three hotels before placing me.

F. S. Philbrick.

NO GOOD TO HIM NOW

"Poor old man; he was so poor I gave him the room and breakfast for $2.50 a week," said George McLeod's landlady, speaking of the five years the Scotchman lived in a hall bedroom, taking but one meal a day, and dressed in shabby clothes. When he became ill not long ago he was taken to a hospital where he died. His body was taken to the morgue and prepared for burial in Potter's field. The man was 87 years old. In an effort to locate the name of some relative who might give him a decent burial a detective opened up a small bottle he found in the man's room. Three bank books were disclosed showing balances aggregating over $7000. Then an old-fashioned trunk revealed stock in rubber, sugar and railroad companies. All told the Scotchman was worth some $100,000.—The Pathfinder.

"NO ADMISSION"

Story of the Stranger Who Disregarded Sign At Cement Co.'s Lime Shed.

A stranger walked into the Lawrence Portland Cement Company's lime shed Tuesday with calm disregard for the conspicuous "No Admission" sign.

"So this is the lime plant," said he. "Yes," replied the man who happened to be on duty in the shed, "but visitors are not admitted here."

But the stranger failed to take the hint.

"Here are some barrels that have burst," said he, pointing to a few casks from which slaked lime was exuding.

"Oh, you will find those in every plant," was the hasty reply, "but really you will have to go out. Visitors are not allowed here without permission from the office."

"But I'm not exactly a visitor," said the stranger.

"How's that; who are you?"

"My name's Smith, and I'm president of the company."

An attempt at apology was hastily checked. "You were perfectly right, my man," said President Smith, who chuckled as he tells the story.

SMART AMERICAN HENS

American hens are creating a record for themselves by laying collectively at the rate of 760 eggs a second, or 24,000,000,000 a year, the Department of Agriculture said explaining that they account for about 16 per cent of the total value of all livestock and its products last year. Only the dairy industry, with 40 per cent, and the swine industry, with 22 per cent, were higher. She is responsible for more than one-third of the world's supply of poultry and eggs, the Department stated.

It is better to abandon transatlantic fights on shore than in mid-ocean.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Drink Tea—On Rising—

It will stimulate the brain and give you increased vitality throughout the day. Use

"SALADA"

GENASCO ASPHALT SHINGLES $6.00 Per Square

We also have Competent Mechanics to Put Them On For You

Get Our Prices Before You Have Your Work Done. All Work Guaranteed

W. J. ROBERTSON CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER BUILDING MATERIALS OF ALL KINDS Thomaston, Maine

107-11

To Women who do their own washing

RELIEVE yourself of unnecessary drudgery at a cost so small you'll never miss the money.

Every woman who does her own washing is working for 1c an hour, for that is the cost per hour for operation of the new Easy Washer. Can you afford to sacrifice your health and strength, when the new Easy can do your washing for you, do it better, and do it in less time, at so small a cost?

Two Tubs

The new Easy Washer has two tubs, one washes eight large sheets or their equivalent in other clothes, while the other tub dries an equal amount. Thus washing and drying are done at the same time, sixteen large sheets are handled at once and washing time is cut in half without rushing the clothes or hurrying you.

Not only that, but in the new Easy you can wash heavy blankets, quilts, rag rugs, and can even wash and dry pillows without removing the feathers.

No More Wringing

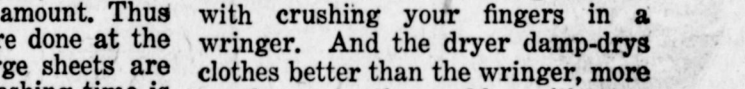

The new Easy Washer, with its marvelous new dryer, has forever banished the need of taking chances with crushing your fingers in a wringer. And the dryer damp-dries clothes better than the wringer, more evenly, more thoroughly, without a chance of broken buttons or deeply wrinkled clothes.

Try It Free! We will do your next week's washing, free of charge, in your home, without cost or obligation to you. Simply phone or write us, and we will send a new Easy to at the time you set.

EASY WASHER

MODEL M This is the famous Easy Washer with one-piece aluminum wringer which we shall feature along with the new model.

Central Maine Power Company

At any of our stores

Augusta Bath Belfast Bingham Boothbay Brunswick Bucksport Camden Damariscotta Dexter Dover-Foxcroft Freeport Gardiner Guilford Lewiston Mechanic Falls Newport Norway Pittsfield Richmond Rockland Waterville Winthrop Yarmouth

IN SOCIETY

In addition to personal notes recording departures and arrivals, this department especially desires information of social happenings, parties, musicals, etc. Notes sent by mail or telephone will be gladly received.

The Young Women's Missionary Society of the Littlefield Memorial Church had a highly successful meeting at the church parlors Thursday evening in spite of the inclement weather which served to lessen the attendance somewhat. Two new members were admitted to the Society. Following a brief program the evening's work was devoted to preparing for the Eastern Maine Conference meeting which took place at the Littlefield Memorial Church Friday. The officers of the Missionary Society are: President, Miss Olive Bragg; vice-president, Mrs. Gladys Pierce; secretary, Mrs. Earl Barter; assistant secretary, Mrs. Grace Coburn; treasurer, Miss Berla Lord; work committee, Mrs. Stanley Gregory, chairman; Mrs. Earl Grant and Mrs. Gladys Pierce, Program committee; Mrs. Grace Coburn and Mrs. Nellie Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hatch and Harry Chase and family motored to Bar Harbor Sunday.

Capt. Israel Snow and bride have returned from their wedding trip. During their absence Capt. and Mrs. Snow visited Mrs. Hugo Cross in Guilford and Mrs. Warren E. Hill in Adams, Mass. Capt. Snow's daughters.

Miss Margaret Simmons is enjoying a two weeks vacation from her clerical duties at the Maine State Prison and is spending the greater part of the time in Newton Center, Mass., as the guest of Mrs. Frank Padelford, formerly Miss Gertrude Halsey, who taught in the Rockland High School several years ago. Miss Simmons plans to attend Symphony while away.

Mrs. Alice M. Spear has returned from Warren where she went to attend the funeral of Mrs. Butler, last Friday.

The Knickerbocker Class of the Universalist Church held its first get-together of the season at the Copper Kettle Friday evening with 24 present, including members and their wives. Following the very nice dinner prepared under Mrs. Lawry's supervision, the ladies retired to the parlor for a social hour while the gentlemen conducted a business meeting at which the season's work was outlined and other active plans made. It was voted to hold these get-togethers on the first Friday of each month at the Copper Kettle.

Mrs. Mabel H. Bowley, 10 Grace street recently entertained in honor of her guest, Miss Grace Woodward of Jamaica Plain, Mass. A delicious supper was served and a thoroughly enjoyable evening spent. Mrs. Bowley's guests were Mrs. Jean Chisholm, Mrs. Mildred Smith, Mrs. Della Kirkpatrick of Thomaston, Mrs. Dorothy Jones and Mrs. Addie Simmons.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Kallioch entertained a small dinner party at the Community Sweet Shop in South Hope Friday evening, the guests being Mr. and Mrs. Alan L. Bird, Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy Crane, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Lawrence.

The P. D. G. Club gave the first of a series of dancing parties on the Copper Kettle porch Thursday evening, and it proved to be a huge success. Music was furnished by an Orthophonic Victrola, kindly loaned by Mr. Fickens of the Main Music Company. Refreshments were served at intermission. Those present included: Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Whittemore, Miss Doris Black, Miss Margaret Snow, Miss Rose Adams, Raymond Ludwig, Theodore Sylvester, Harland Atherton, Wilbur Seney, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Phillips, Miss Ivy Young, Miss Glenna Doris, Miss Olive Dingley, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Toner, Miss Ruth Wass, Wesley Henon, Ellis Thayer, Miss Glenna Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Sherman, "Jack" Black, Miss Marion Norton, Dr. James Kent, Dr. Edw. Scarlott, William Macomber, Herman Hart and Thelma Littlefield.

Miss Katherine Keating of the L. I. Snow Co. clerical staff enjoyed a weekend motor trip with the R. K. Snow family.

The Rubinstein Club opened its 1927-28 season in an auspicious manner, with an attendance of 59 members, and a program of keen interest conducted under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Ellingswood. There were many expressions of approval for the new club quarters, the vestry of the Universalist Church, which gives ample space, better acoustics, etc. Mrs. Ellingswood had for her subject "Glimpses of the Bangor Festival," and the program with the exception of a very few numbers adhered closely to the selections given at the Bangor concert of Oct. 3. Miss Caroline Littlefield gave an interesting account of the concert, and Mrs. Ellingswood herself gave several timely musical current events. The remainder of the program was as follows:

Piano duet—Intermezzo from Nalla... Delibes
Mrs. Loretta Ricketts, Miss Mabel Holbrook
Soprano—A Gypsy Night... Louis Ganne
Mrs. Carlen Nutt
Piano—Waltzes from Op. 25... J. Brahms
Mrs. Maybelle Pratt Strong
Contralto—Roadways... Denmore
Mrs. Kathleen Marston
Soprano—The Builder... Cadman
Mrs. Helen Wentworth
Contralto—Smilin' Toes... Arthur Penn
Dona
Mrs. Gladys S. Morgan
Piano duet—Finale from "New World Symphony"
Miss Margaret Stahl, Mrs. Joyce L. Jones
Mrs. Marston substituted for Mrs. Katherine Vezzie. Miss Margaret Stahl accompanied Mrs. Morgan. Mrs. Faith G. Berry the other vocalists. The next meeting will be on Friday, Oct. 28, with Mrs. Rachel Browne acting as chairman. A miscellaneous program will be given, the following to participate: Current events, Mrs. Rachel Browne; piano solo, Miss Alida Hall; piano duet, Mrs. Doris Eldridge and Mrs. Gertrude Parker; violin, Miss Elizabeth Knight; vocal solo, Mrs. Zuleta Ames, Miss Celia Brault, Mrs. Kathleen Marston and Mrs. Hattie Snow; musical readings, Miss Evelyn Rakes.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett A. Munsey entertained a party of 12 at the Community Sweet Shop in South Hope Friday evening. Following a delicious dinner music and dancing made the evening a very happy one. Mr. and Mrs. Munsey's guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln E. McKee, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Rhodes, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Turrell, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Lawrence, Mrs. Charles A. Rose, and Mrs. Geneva Rose Huke.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Keating left Saturday morning for Springfield, Mass., where they will join Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Bass of that city (formerly of Rockland) on a motor trip through the Katskills. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Keating will spend a few days with their son, Harry M. Keating, in Los Angeles. The Keatings will be away about two weeks.

Mrs. David Haskell goes Wednesday to Portland where she will enter a hospital for treatment. Her address will be care of Dr. Frank J. Gilbert, Park street, and would appreciate hearing from friends.

Sons of Veterans Auxiliary will have a circle supper at G. A. R. hall Wednesday night, followed by a meeting and rehearsal.

H. V. Rackliff has returned to his duties at Cape May, N. J., after spending a few days with his family on Berkeley street.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McIntosh have returned from a two weeks' vacation, part of which was spent in Connecticut, and also a few days in Camden where they were guests of Mrs. McIntosh's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Iral Smith.

Country Club members will make their reservations early for Thursday night's supper at 6.30.

Mrs. Henry Moore of Boston is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Fernald.

Bert Overlock and mother and Mrs. Dora Head of Bangor spent the weekend with Mrs. Michael Johnson, Ingraham Hill.

Miss Daphne Winslow, who is teaching in Norway, spent the weekend with her mother, Mrs. C. E. Rollins.

Mrs. Oliver F. Hills, Mrs. Russell Bartlett and Mrs. B. K. Heller of Thomaston were guests of Mrs. C. D. North on a motor trip to Bangor Saturday.

Little Barbara Derry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Derry of Camden street is very ill.

The Entertainment and Candy committee of the Women's Association of the Congregational Church held an interesting meeting at the church parlors Saturday afternoon at which the winter's work was planned. It will include many novel features. One of the first activities will be a candy sale to be conducted in connection with the church supper Wednesday evening, Oct. 26.

The Women's Educational Club will meet with Mrs. Alice Hall, Warrenton, Wednesday afternoon. A box lunch will be served, augmented by one of Mrs. Hall's famous fish chowders. Members are asked to take the 2.10 p. m. car from the C. M. P. waiting room and auto will be at Walden avenue to meet this car and convey the ladies to Mrs. Hall's. Rev. H. I. Hoit of Camden is to be the speaker. Members are asked to take box, cup and silver.

Mr. and Mrs. LaForest Thurston of The Highlands have returned from a ten days' visit in Massachusetts, during which there were four days in Boston "doing" the theatres, attendance on the Brockton Fair and several enjoyable motor trips on the Cape.

Rev. and Mrs. C. A. Knickerbocker and Mrs. E. F. Glover left yesterday morning for Hartford, Conn., where they will be in attendance on the Universalist General Convention this week.

Mrs. Elizabeth Thayer and Miss Constance Knickerbocker went Saturday to Waterville where they will be guests of Mrs. Thayer's son, Jarvis, for the week.

A party comprising Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Linekin, Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Lineken of Thomaston, Mr. and Mrs. David G. Hodgkins and children, David, Jr. and Fay, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Jameson and son Jimmie, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Powers and children Priscilla and Frederick, Jr., and Miss Elizabeth Jameson, motored to Bar Harbor Sunday and spent a most enjoyable day. Lobsters and hot coffee served from a piping fire on the rocks was the noonday feature. One of the events of the trip was going over the new road which is being built on the mountain at Bar Harbor. This road which is now under construction will go to the top when completed, commanding one of the finest views in this part of the county.

Mrs. Walter Follansbee has resumed her duties in the composing room of The Courier-Gazette after a fortnight's visit, with Mr. Follansbee, in Massachusetts.

Mrs. Nora Waterman and daughter Phyllis of North Haven are guests of Mrs. Harold J. Philbrook, Union street.

Norman Waldron spent the weekend with his parents at the Waldron farm, Spruce Head, and had as guests a classmate, Manning Hawthorne of Scarborough, N. Y., and George Adams of Rockland, who has been teaching at Bowdoin.

At the Educational Club picnic at Mrs. Edwin H. Hall's, Warrenton Park, Wednesday afternoon, there will be a Dr. Cadman discussion on "How To Be Popular Though Outspoken." A full report of the membership drive is requested.

Mrs. Elizabeth Leavitt, pastry cook at the Thorndike Hotel, is having her annual vacation and is visiting in Farmington.

Mr. and Mrs. Luke S. Davis and Mrs. Mabel Brewster are in Portland. Mr. Davis to attend the Grand Lodge and the ladies the Rebekah Assembly.

Arthur, young son of Fred Jordan, was operated upon for appendicitis at Knox Hospital late Saturday night. His condition is quite favorable.

Miss Lucy Ball of the clerical staff of the Central Maine Power Co. left Saturday on her annual vacation which will be begun with a motor trip to Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lobley of North Haven were in the city Friday.

A daughter was born to Dr. C. C. Marshall of Washington, D. C., at Britt's Maternity Hospital, Sunday. The newborn received the name of Jane Elizabeth. Mrs. Marshall has been the guest for several weeks of her aunts, Mrs. Anne Thomas and Mrs. Mary Brown, at 482 Old County road.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Benner and Mrs. Floyd L. Benner were guests of Capt. E. E. Hahn, superintendent of the Boothbay Fish Hatchery, the last of the week.

Mrs. Almon F. Richardson and Mrs. Charles M. Richardson returned Sunday from Waterville where they have been visiting relatives. They were accompanied home by Mrs. Leon Strong.

The Ladies' Aid of the Littlefield Memorial Church will meet Wednesday with Mrs. Alice Knight at The Highlands, each one to take a surprise package.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston W. Gray and children and Mrs. Frank Gray of Orono were Sunday visitors at the home of James W. Emery, Lime-rock street.

Cecile, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Tardiff, Little street, celebrated her sixth birthday Saturday afternoon with the joyous assistance of eight youthful guests. The house was charmingly decorated in the orange and black Halloween motif and this spirit prevailed in many of the jolly games. Refreshments dear to childish hearts were in order and the hostess received many gifts. The guests included Jack Brubaker, George Condon, Billie Weed, Ione Loraide, Virginia Rackliff, Katherine Jordan, Dorothy Tibbets and Shirley Howard.

The 1927-28 season of the Country Club opens Thursday evening with a supper and auction, with Mrs. James F. Carver acting as chairman, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. John O. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Homer E. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Lamb, Miss Louise Sawyer, Miss Annie Blackington and D. M. Virgin.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Carroll and family of Auburn spent the weekend as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Cross, Chestnut street.

Ralph Smith of the Central Maine Power Co. force has returned from a week's vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Creamer and daughter Pauline spent the weekend with Mr. Creamer's father, Charles Creamer at Winslow's Mills.

Rev. and Mrs. Percy E. Miller of Tenants Harbor were guests the latter part of the week of Mr. Miller's sister, Mrs. William T. Richardson, Spruce street.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Gallagher of Wilmington, Silver Lake, Mass., were guests last week of Mrs. Gallagher's mother, Mrs. A. L. Vose, Warren street.

The Missionary Circle of the Congregational Church will meet at the parsonage as guests of Mrs. Walter Boudas Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The reading of "The Christ of the Indian Road" will be begun, followed by an informal social hour. The women of the parish are cordially invited.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Crockett were registered at the Statler Hotel, Boston, last week. Mr. Crockett was on his annual fall buying trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bird left Saturday on a motor trip to Concord, N. H.

WHAT WAS THE "BUG BIBLE?" "Bug Bible" is the popular name of an English translation of the Scriptures printed in 1551 by John Daye. A copy of the original is preserved in the library at Southampton, England. Tyndall wrote an introduction for the book. It receives its name from the peculiar rendering of Psalms 91:5, which reads: "So that thou shalt not need to be afraid for any bugs by night."—The Pathfinder.

"Alcoholism Fertile Source of Madness, Says German Medic."—Headline. This will no doubt arouse rye-bald comment.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Crockett were registered at the Statler Hotel, Boston, last week. Mr. Crockett was on his annual fall buying trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bird left Saturday on a motor trip to Concord, N. H.

WHAT WAS THE "BUG BIBLE?" "Bug Bible" is the popular name of an English translation of the Scriptures printed in 1551 by John Daye. A copy of the original is preserved in the library at Southampton, England. Tyndall wrote an introduction for the book. It receives its name from the peculiar rendering of Psalms 91:5, which reads: "So that thou shalt not need to be afraid for any bugs by night."—The Pathfinder.

"Alcoholism Fertile Source of Madness, Says German Medic."—Headline. This will no doubt arouse rye-bald comment.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Crockett were registered at the Statler Hotel, Boston, last week. Mr. Crockett was on his annual fall buying trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bird left Saturday on a motor trip to Concord, N. H.

WHAT WAS THE "BUG BIBLE?" "Bug Bible" is the popular name of an English translation of the Scriptures printed in 1551 by John Daye. A copy of the original is preserved in the library at Southampton, England. Tyndall wrote an introduction for the book. It receives its name from the peculiar rendering of Psalms 91:5, which reads: "So that thou shalt not need to be afraid for any bugs by night."—The Pathfinder.

"Alcoholism Fertile Source of Madness, Says German Medic."—Headline. This will no doubt arouse rye-bald comment.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Crockett were registered at the Statler Hotel, Boston, last week. Mr. Crockett was on his annual fall buying trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bird left Saturday on a motor trip to Concord, N. H.

WHAT WAS THE "BUG BIBLE?" "Bug Bible" is the popular name of an English translation of the Scriptures printed in 1551 by John Daye. A copy of the original is preserved in the library at Southampton, England. Tyndall wrote an introduction for the book. It receives its name from the peculiar rendering of Psalms 91:5, which reads: "So that thou shalt not need to be afraid for any bugs by night."—The Pathfinder.

"Alcoholism Fertile Source of Madness, Says German Medic."—Headline. This will no doubt arouse rye-bald comment.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Crockett were registered at the Statler Hotel, Boston, last week. Mr. Crockett was on his annual fall buying trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bird left Saturday on a motor trip to Concord, N. H.

WHAT WAS THE "BUG BIBLE?" "Bug Bible" is the popular name of an English translation of the Scriptures printed in 1551 by John Daye. A copy of the original is preserved in the library at Southampton, England. Tyndall wrote an introduction for the book. It receives its name from the peculiar rendering of Psalms 91:5, which reads: "So that thou shalt not need to be afraid for any bugs by night."—The Pathfinder.

"Alcoholism Fertile Source of Madness, Says German Medic."—Headline. This will no doubt arouse rye-bald comment.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Crockett were registered at the Statler Hotel, Boston, last week. Mr. Crockett was on his annual fall buying trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bird left Saturday on a motor trip to Concord, N. H.

WHAT WAS THE "BUG BIBLE?" "Bug Bible" is the popular name of an English translation of the Scriptures printed in 1551 by John Daye. A copy of the original is preserved in the library at Southampton, England. Tyndall wrote an introduction for the book. It receives its name from the peculiar rendering of Psalms 91:5, which reads: "So that thou shalt not need to be afraid for any bugs by night."—The Pathfinder.

"Alcoholism Fertile Source of Madness, Says German Medic."—Headline. This will no doubt arouse rye-bald comment.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Crockett were registered at the Statler Hotel, Boston, last week. Mr. Crockett was on his annual fall buying trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bird left Saturday on a motor trip to Concord, N. H.

WHAT WAS THE "BUG BIBLE?" "Bug Bible" is the popular name of an English translation of the Scriptures printed in 1551 by John Daye. A copy of the original is preserved in the library at Southampton, England. Tyndall wrote an introduction for the book. It receives its name from the peculiar rendering of Psalms 91:5, which reads: "So that thou shalt not need to be afraid for any bugs by night."—The Pathfinder.

"Alcoholism Fertile Source of Madness, Says German Medic."—Headline. This will no doubt arouse rye-bald comment.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Crockett were registered at the Statler Hotel, Boston, last week. Mr. Crockett was on his annual fall buying trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bird left Saturday on a motor trip to Concord, N. H.

WHAT WAS THE "BUG BIBLE?" "Bug Bible" is the popular name of an English translation of the Scriptures printed in 1551 by John Daye. A copy of the original is preserved in the library at Southampton, England. Tyndall wrote an introduction for the book. It receives its name from the peculiar rendering of Psalms 91:5, which reads: "So that thou shalt not need to be afraid for any bugs by night."—The Pathfinder.

"Alcoholism Fertile Source of Madness, Says German Medic."—Headline. This will no doubt arouse rye-bald comment.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Crockett were registered at the Statler Hotel, Boston, last week. Mr. Crockett was on his annual fall buying trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bird left Saturday on a motor trip to Concord, N. H.

WHAT WAS THE "BUG BIBLE?" "Bug Bible" is the popular name of an English translation of the Scriptures printed in 1551 by John Daye. A copy of the original is preserved in the library at Southampton, England. Tyndall wrote an introduction for the book. It receives its name from the peculiar rendering of Psalms 91:5, which reads: "So that thou shalt not need to be afraid for any bugs by night."—The Pathfinder.

"Alcoholism Fertile Source of Madness, Says German Medic."—Headline. This will no doubt arouse rye-bald comment.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Crockett were registered at the Statler Hotel, Boston, last week. Mr. Crockett was on his annual fall buying trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bird left Saturday on a motor trip to Concord, N. H.

WHAT WAS THE "BUG BIBLE?" "Bug Bible" is the popular name of an English translation of the Scriptures printed in 1551 by John Daye. A copy of the original is preserved in the library at Southampton, England. Tyndall wrote an introduction for the book. It receives its name from the peculiar rendering of Psalms 91:5, which reads: "So that thou shalt not need to be afraid for any bugs by night."—The Pathfinder.

"Alcoholism Fertile Source of Madness, Says German Medic."—Headline. This will no doubt arouse rye-bald comment.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Crockett were registered at the Statler Hotel, Boston, last week. Mr. Crockett was on his annual fall buying trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bird left Saturday on a motor trip to Concord, N. H.

WHAT WAS THE "BUG BIBLE?" "Bug Bible" is the popular name of an English translation of the Scriptures printed in 1551 by John Daye. A copy of the original is preserved in the library at Southampton, England. Tyndall wrote an introduction for the book. It receives its name from the peculiar rendering of Psalms 91:5, which reads: "So that thou shalt not need to be afraid for any bugs by night."—The Pathfinder.

"Alcoholism Fertile Source of Madness, Says German Medic."—Headline. This will no doubt arouse rye-bald comment.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Crockett were registered at the Statler Hotel, Boston, last week. Mr. Crockett was on his annual fall buying trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bird left Saturday on a motor trip to Concord, N. H.

WHAT WAS THE "BUG BIBLE?" "Bug Bible" is the popular name of an English translation of the Scriptures printed in 1551 by John Daye. A copy of the original is preserved in the library at Southampton, England. Tyndall wrote an introduction for the book. It receives its name from the peculiar rendering of Psalms 91:5, which reads: "So that thou shalt not need to be afraid for any bugs by night."—The Pathfinder.

"Alcoholism Fertile Source of Madness, Says German Medic."—Headline. This will no doubt arouse rye-bald comment.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Crockett were registered at the Statler Hotel, Boston, last week. Mr. Crockett was on his annual fall buying trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bird left Saturday on a motor trip to Concord, N. H.

WHAT WAS THE "BUG BIBLE?" "Bug Bible" is the popular name of an English translation of the Scriptures printed in 1551 by John Daye. A copy of the original is preserved in the library at Southampton, England. Tyndall wrote an introduction for the book. It receives its name from the peculiar rendering of Psalms 91:5, which reads: "So that thou shalt not need to be afraid for any bugs by night."—The Pathfinder.

"Alcoholism Fertile Source of Madness, Says German Medic."—Headline. This will no doubt arouse rye-bald comment.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Crockett were registered at the Statler Hotel, Boston, last week. Mr. Crockett was on his annual fall buying trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bird left Saturday on a motor trip to Concord, N. H.

WHAT WAS THE "BUG BIBLE?" "Bug Bible" is the popular name of an English translation of the Scriptures printed in 1551 by John Daye. A copy of the original is preserved in the library at Southampton, England. Tyndall wrote an introduction for the book. It receives its name from the peculiar rendering of Psalms 91:5, which reads: "So that thou shalt not need to be afraid for any bugs by night."—The Pathfinder.

"Alcoholism Fertile Source of Madness, Says German Medic."—Headline. This will no doubt arouse rye-bald comment.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Crockett were registered at the Statler Hotel, Boston, last week. Mr. Crockett was on his annual fall buying trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bird left Saturday on a motor trip to Concord, N. H.

WHAT WAS THE "BUG BIBLE?" "Bug Bible" is the popular name of an English translation of the Scriptures printed in 1551 by John Daye. A copy of the original is preserved in the library at Southampton, England. Tyndall wrote an introduction for the book. It receives its name from the peculiar rendering of Psalms 91:5, which reads: "So that thou shalt not need to be afraid for any bugs by night."—The Pathfinder.

"Alcoholism Fertile Source of Madness, Says German Medic."—Headline. This will no doubt arouse rye-bald comment.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Crockett were registered at the Statler Hotel, Boston, last week. Mr. Crockett was on his annual fall buying trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bird left Saturday on a motor trip to Concord, N. H.

WHAT WAS THE "BUG BIBLE?" "Bug Bible" is the popular name of an English translation of the Scriptures printed in 1551 by John Daye. A copy of the original is preserved in the library at Southampton, England. Tyndall wrote an introduction for the book. It receives its name from the peculiar rendering of Psalms 91:5, which reads: "So that thou shalt not need to be afraid for any bugs by night."—The Pathfinder.

"Alcoholism Fertile Source of Madness, Says German Medic."—Headline. This will no doubt arouse rye-bald comment.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Crockett were registered at the Statler Hotel, Boston, last week. Mr. Crockett was on his annual fall buying trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bird left Saturday on a motor trip to Concord, N. H.

WHAT WAS THE "BUG BIBLE?" "Bug Bible" is the popular name of an English translation of the Scriptures printed in 1551 by John Daye. A copy of the original is preserved in the library at Southampton, England. Tyndall wrote an introduction for the book. It receives its name from the peculiar rendering of Psalms 91:5, which reads: "So that thou shalt not need to be afraid for any bugs by night."—The Pathfinder.

"Alcoholism Fertile Source of Madness, Says German Medic."—Headline. This will no doubt arouse rye-bald comment.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Crockett were registered at the Statler Hotel, Boston, last week. Mr. Crockett was on his annual fall buying trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bird left Saturday on a motor trip to Concord, N. H.

WHAT WAS THE "BUG BIBLE?" "Bug Bible" is the popular name of an English translation of the Scriptures printed in 1551 by John Daye. A copy of the original is preserved in the library at Southampton, England. Tyndall wrote an introduction for the book. It receives its name from the peculiar rendering of Psalms 91:5, which reads: "So that thou shalt not need to be afraid for any bugs by night."—The Pathfinder.

"Alcoholism Fertile Source of Madness, Says German Medic."—Headline. This will no doubt arouse rye-bald comment.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Crockett were registered at the Statler Hotel, Boston, last week. Mr. Crockett was on his annual fall buying trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bird left Saturday on a motor trip to Concord, N. H.

WHAT WAS THE "BUG BIBLE?" "Bug Bible" is the popular name of an English translation of the Scriptures printed in 1551 by John Daye. A copy of the original is preserved in the library at Southampton, England. Tyndall wrote an introduction for the book. It receives its name from the peculiar rendering of Psalms 91:5, which reads: "So that thou shalt not need to be afraid for any bugs by night."—The Pathfinder.

"Alcoholism Fertile Source of Madness, Says German Medic."—Headline. This will no doubt arouse rye-bald comment.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Crockett were registered at the Statler Hotel, Boston, last week. Mr. Crockett was on his annual fall buying trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bird left Saturday on a motor trip to Concord, N. H.

WHAT WAS THE "BUG BIBLE?" "Bug Bible" is the popular name of an English translation of the Scriptures printed in 1551 by John Daye. A copy of the original is preserved in the library at Southampton, England. Tyndall wrote an introduction for the book. It receives its name from the peculiar rendering of Psalms 91:5, which reads: "So that thou shalt not need to be afraid for any bugs by night."—The Pathfinder.

"Alcoholism Fertile Source of Madness, Says German Medic."—Headline. This will no doubt arouse rye-bald comment.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Crockett were registered at the Statler Hotel, Boston, last week. Mr. Crockett was on his annual fall buying trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bird left Saturday on a motor trip to Concord

THEIR TRIP TO FRANCE

Legionnaires Veazie, Fogg and Peterson Tell Winslow-Holbrook Post Something About It.

The annual meeting of Winslow-Holbrook Post, A. L., was held Thursday night by the presence of three members who had attended the national convention in Paris, and who related some of their experiences on the other side of the water. Incidentally the Post elected a new commander, in the person of Theodore E. Perry, who is regarded as one of the organization's most diligent and popular members. Other officers elected Thursday night are: Vice-Commander, Edward Newhall; Adjutant, Edward Conner; Finance Officer, Kenneth V. White; Historian, Eugene Lamb; Chaplain Dr. H. V. Tweedie; Employment Officer, Harrison MacAlman; Sergeant at Arms, Austin Day.

Kenneth V. White presented an elaborate report as finance officer, explaining in detail how the Post had expended $153.55 the past year. A smile illumined his genial features when he explained that the receipts were $167.86, and that the Post has a cash balance of $117.31. The office which Mr. White holds is no sinecure, and the Post is fortunate in having a member who is willing to give it such faithful attention.

Commander Donald P. Kelsey, presiding in that capacity for the last time, urged the members to make themselves more at home in the Legion rooms during the winter. Commander Kelsey has worked hard for the welfare of Winslow-Holbrook Post the past year and has the satisfaction of leaving it a live organization with 206 members.

"I'll never forget that parade," said Edward R. Veazie, in describing his trip to Paris and one of the big features of the national convention of the American Legion. "All the stores in Paris appeared to be closed, and about the only places open were the restaurants. The line of march extended through the Arch de Triomphe, the American Legion being the second organization in all history to pass under it. As the parade passed the grave of the Unknown Soldier, each marcher deposited a rose upon it. The lot was massed with handsome set pieces.

"The parade passed through a lane of humanity. The roofs were covered with people and as we passed the intersecting streets they also were jammed as far back as three or four blocks. The Maine Department had no band and no colors, and I was a little ashamed on that account. We did get a good hand, however, for singing, which included 'The Long Long Trail' and other popular selections. Mrs. C. F. Snow, who is president of the American Legion Auxiliary in Maine, went nearly to the end of the six-mile march, until Dr. Fogg ordered her out.

"The parade had a number of spectacular features. Some of the delegations were dressed in pure white and some in blue. New York had a wonderful drum corps and nearly all of the larger delegations were preceded by groups with massed flags. Among these flag bearers were French veterans proudly carrying the colors of their country. I wouldn't have missed the parade for a farm down east."

Dr. Neil A. Fogg injected a vein of humor into his account of the trip to France, and did not forget to give full credit to the irrepressible and omnipresent "Pete," who, in every day life is Albert S. Peterson. Grim reminders of the great struggle which shook the whole world were seen by Dr. Fogg when he visited Verdun, and he described vividly the trench in which a whole platoon of French soldiers was buried alive. The bayonets and guns are still seen projecting through the earth and somebody has erected a monument there to the brave men whose lives were thus blotted out. A memorial chapel is to be erected in this same area, and a large cemetery is flooded by electric lights at night. Shell holes are still to be seen and signs warning against danger from unexploded shells. Certain of the French towns have been completely rebuilt. In Versailles Dr. Fogg visited the famous room of mirrors. In Paris he attended a number of theatrical performances and in Paris he dined with a medical friend whom he had known well in former years. They paid a visit to some of the famous night clubs.

Mr. Peterson gave an intimate account of the trip to France and some of the occurrences which made his second visit to that country a never to be forgotten occasion. His story was told in a droll manner that kept his audience in constant laughter, and doubtless made many of his hearers wish that they had shared the trip with him.

In London "Pete" saw them change guard at Buckingham Palace, and he visited the Tower of London, where the lopping of heads was an erstwhile indoor amusement. He described the rough homeward passage, but added naively that he ate his six meals a day.

Mr. Veazie did not allow the opportunity to pass without telling how "Pete" took part in a costume party on the return trip, and won the prize for the most humorous costume, with his impersonation of Harry Lauder.

"Pete" brought lots of honor to the Department and Post," said Mr. Veazie.

And then "Pete" got a great hand. And so did the orchestra, and so did the blushing commander-elect when he was introduced.

"Chicago has the largest furniture-exhibition building in the world." This is in case the Mayflower descendants ever decide to show all the original pieces.—Detroit News.

WASHBURN'S WASHINGTON WEEKLY

By R. M. Washburn

Charles Sumner Bird of Massachusetts recently died, an estimate, has a peculiar propriety in a New England Weekly of this nature. This is because of his participation in politics, measures and men, and it is written in these after days of deliberate and accurate analysis. And yet the man as he was is not to be interpreted by an estimate which stops with his political activities. It must include all angles. He was born in East Walpole on Aug. 18, 1855, and died there on Oct. 9 last. He was thus more than 72 years old. He was the son of Francis William Bird who before him had continued the ancestral firm known as Bird & Son, manufacturers of paper products. Frank Bird was a picturesque person. His name is closely connected with the Massachusetts Club in its early days, the oldest Republican Club in the State. There he lunched on Saturdays with Charles Sumner, Henry Wilson, Senator Hoar and other historic Republicans. He was an admirer of Charles Sumner. And so he gave the boy this name.

Young Charlie Bird was graduated from Harvard in 1877. He always appeared in the yard on commencement days. Among other distinguished classmates were President Lowell, James Byrne, the noted New York lawyer, the late Barrett Wendell and the late Governor William Eustis Russell. Bird then married in Worcester in 1880 Anna J. Child. He found in her an efficient and loyal ally, of sympathetic versatility.

Whether his expeditions were in activities of commerce, politics or society. They walked together by the still waters of the Neponset, symbols of service. It was a marriage which augmented the distinction of the Bird family. Mrs. Bird became the founder, first President and now only Honorary President of the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts, noted for her tact and efficiency. To this Club her husband has been a large auxiliary asset, through her. The work Mrs. Bird done here is of its sort unequalled in the political history of Massachusetts and perhaps of anywhere. A brother of Mrs. Bird married a daughter of the late Justice Harlan of the Supreme Court of the United States. Another brother, H. Walter Child, has retired from business and resourceful in maturity finds his avocation in the study of orchids. He is a widely recognized authority. Richard Washburn Child, litterateur and former Ambassador to Italy, is a son of his. A daughter of the Birds, the brilliant Edith Bass, a strong term which however fits, is the wife of Robert Perkins Bass, a former Governor of New Hampshire at the age of thirty-six. To go back, had Mr. Bird on his graduation from college been fancy free, it is doubtful that he would have gone about his father's business but its exigencies demanded him and so he surrendered to the traditions of the family which were manufacturing and a live interest in the government of his State. He gave the precedence to the former, for he believed that no man should be active in politics until he had established his financial independence. He was of the third generation of a race of paper manufacturers.

It is beyond the possibilities of this locket portrait to emphasize more than the characteristic colors, the essential qualities of the man. The business of Bird and Son he had inherited, and yet he remained a democrat. For what Charles Bird did, he did well. There was no turning back when he put his hand to the plough. And he was admirably fitted. In him high purpose and the capacity to effect it walked hand-in-hand, an indissoluble pair. While in the old days it was a top ambition of the company to spread its products to the boundary of the State, under the leadership of Mr. Bird, reinforced by such able coadjutors as Philip R. Allen and George R. Wyman, the name of Bird became known as far as civilization spread. The story of Donkey and Son was a story of a dream, disappointment and despair, for it was founded and prosecuted in selfish ambition. Bird and Son however lives, for it has been built as much by conscience as by capacity. It is not only a synonym of excellence but also of honest methods. To him it was an adopted child. It was never out of his thought, and the room in his own house which he selected to suffer and to die in, looked out on its busy chimneys. Such scenery was his best tonic. He was quick to effect a solicitous concern for its employees. So he put their welfare and the welfare of the company. For they were all of one family. This course was pursued first not because it was good business but, more because it was humanitarian, though he might be forced to pass a dividend. This was his first virtue, his heart. This is his greatest monument.

Having put the business more where he wanted it, in 1912 he became a candidate for public office. He had however always followed the game with keen interest from the bleachers. He had always looked upon himself as a Republican though he put political principles before service party allegiance. He bolted the Republican ticket for Cleveland and for Roosevelt, in the latter instance, as did most everyone. In his last years he was a Republican conservative of the untainted strain. Here he found safety and promise for business security. And Bird and Son was printed on his heart as was its trade-mark "Neponset" on its wares. In his two campaigns on the stump for Governor, he was a crusader. Here he was not spurred by the hope of office, for with the Republicans divided and the Democrats united, the cause was doomed from the start. It was however to him the cause and he fought with the too-scarce spirit in politics of the martial soldier, who forgets his own life for the citadel to be taken. He fought, then, and as hard toward assured defeat as victory.

For he never measured the value to him of the personal prize. It was the cause. It was the T. R. tide which swept him into politics and he got more votes than the party nominee. He was a dramatic figure on the hustings when with raised arm and pointed finger, characteristically, he pressed his points. And he spent money freely. This fact is cheerfully recited here, for his financial reports were honest which perhaps explained their size. He became the first Republican layman of Massachusetts and the first President of The Roosevelt Club, its best friend. In 1922, Mr. Lodge, "a regular of regulars," in jeopardy, turned first to Mr. Bird for succor, and "Endeavor" became a new political pilgrims who hoped to sit in the seats of the mighty. They beat a path to his door.

Some anecdotes are illustrative of the man. During a panic, he wrote a friend: "It is easy to be cheerful and helpful in times of sunshine but during cloudy weather it is quite a job to keep one's head and play an honest game." Again he wrote him: "The Bryan-Darrow situation is not much different from that in early New England days. My early influences favor Bryan but Harvard knocked some of that out of me and thereby disturbed the peace of my soul." He telephoned a friend, starting a business day, "If you need money, call on me." And again to another the same. And the offered amounts were generous. A farmer in Peterboro needed new shingles on his farm. The farm supported the farmer and not the farmer the farm. The next time Mr. Bird went to Peterboro, to his bungalow, for a weekend, he filled the back of his limousine with the Bird roofing, and the balance followed by freight. He delighted to entertain the family at dinner with the humor he had picked up at luncheon in Boston, when most men economize on their cheer at home. In his last years, when he had become a conservative, he wrote a political and personal intimate to be more careful, politically. The latter, unlike Mr. Bird, had not bolted the ticket in 1912 and 1913 and had not forgotten the bribe-bribe which Mr. Bird had then kicked off the party centrefables. Mr. Bird never needed to be reminded: "Why can't we both be crazy the same year?" To one of the family who ventured to moan over the noise of the near-by mills he said: "The mills run the house and not the house the mills."

His most spectacular political performance, of many, was when he entered a Daughters party in Tremont Temple and protested the intervention by National Chairman Butler in the primaries of 1924 for Mr. Gillett. He walked in for his speech. He then walked out. It is the best sample of the Bird independence and courage. He expressed sentiment at times, not often. He said to a friend at luncheon: "People think me fortunate, with land and money and mills and buildings. The only thing I want, I can not have, one hour's talk with my boy Billie." This was Francis William Bird who died in 1928. He treasured one possession, in his pocket. It was written as someone had heard it. It was said by one of his workmen, an immigrant at the bottom of the pay-roll, "Zat Sarley Bird, he one-fine feller, just as though he wa'n't worth one-cent." He wrote a friend in February 1927: "I am not writing to anyone now—days—private life—must to man—we are shoulder to shoulder. It's a great asset to be honest & you are that from top to bottom—I read nothing—my eyes too have failed—Coolidge will be next Pres—nothing can stop it—Think of it—Of course bad business now on we'd put a grating in his chance but we are not going to have bad business that we'd put off until the following election & then Democrats may have a hope."

This man was essentially a great individualist. His own capacity and self-reliance was augmented by his success. In his own home town he was "Il Duce." All this made him impatient of harness and as rebellious of the bridle as the unbroken horse upon the Western plains. And those who knew the wisdom of his judgment were cheerful to follow with confidence wherever he led. To see him walk through the rotunda at Young's in the old days, or on to the platform of a political rally, was to see him fix and charm. He was delightfully different, like an old portrait. That all powerful four-lettered word "they," which too much controls civilization and drives men into hard life, did not terrorize him or change his course. He was always himself. These men are vital to progress. In the words of the old Progressive hymn, he was always going somewhere. He found happiness, not in the hope of getting but in the power of giving. No one got his friend's life, unless he had earned it but when it was established it was safe. Bird clung close. When in a hospital, recovering from a serious operation, and a friend under fire, Bird telephoned him to counsel him. His creed was a good name. He was an independent high-minded crusader of the old type. Those were his virtues. They are great virtues. He was the pilot of his ship, his chart the stars. As such Charles Sumner Bird lives.

His death touched men in a way as though of their own kin. One whose species shared the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were at noon, on a day which was appealing as nature could make it. To the finite mind, it was an incongruous thought, that a man who had lived the law of Walpole, for more than two years was physically helpless, in bed, and in pain, by decree of a higher power. It was a revolution for him. But he came to learn to live in sympathy with the words of the old hymn: "Make me as a little child." And the grief of the observers was as strong as it was among the great, for they had lost one who had never forgotten them. The final services were