WARSHIPS NOT COMING.

Scheduled Visit to Union River Bay Cancelled.

The warships are not coming to Ellsworth. The announcement last week that three armored cruisers, the Tennessee, Montana and North Carolina, were to arrive at Tupper's ledge Aug. 19 and remain until Aug. 22, was received at first with some incredulity, but official confirmation of the report followed in a letter from the navy department to Mayor Hagerthy.

Thus, having recovered from the skeptical surprise of the first announcement and accepted as a fact the unexpected visit, the people of Ellsworth are now disappointed to learn that the schedule has been changed, and the warships will return to the original schedule, and spend the time from Aug. 18 to 21 at Bar Harbor.

The reasons for the change are not given in the official information so far received, but it is understood that when it was learned that the business part of the city was so far from the proposed anchorage, the visit was given up as infeasible.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 7, 1910.

Topic.—Christ our Friend.—John xv, 9-16. (Consecration meeting.) Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

Friendship has been the theme of philosophers and poets throughout the generations. It has been one of the choice subjects of the Christian pulpit. Marked illustrations of friendship have been recorded both in sacred and secular history, and men have been charmed with the stories of these sacred ties that have bound men to men. Every human being craves a friend, one with whom it is "knit together," one from whom no confidences are kept and no betrayals dreamed of, one who extends the helping hand in the hour of need and seems almost like one's other self, without whom life would be a dry and dreary waste.

Such friendships are not unusual even between brave and strong men, illustrated by that between Jonathan and David, Damon and Pythias and, as lately revealed in the papers, Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson.

But human friends cannot always fulfill the demands and needs of the human heart. Therefore each one needs to have the one friend who is completely able to do even this—Jesus Christ, "the friend that sticketh closer than a brother."

1. Christ is a friend in need. "A friend in need is a friend indeed." Jesus shows His friendship best at such a time. When humanity was in need as the result of the entrance of sin into the world He manifested the greatest friendship possible toward the human race by dying for it. "For greater love hath no man than this—that a man lay down his life for his friends." In the darkest hour of God's church Christ appeared, and in her darkest hour then, as at all times, He has been the church's friend. In individual lives the same has been true in millions of instances. To Mary and Martha He came in their dark hour of bereavement and proved a great friend in restoring their brother Lazarus to life again. In proving by His own resurrection from the dead that our departed loved ones and ourselves shall rise again He has also brought profound comfort to the human race and to individual human hearts.

What a friend we have in Jesus. All our sins and griefs to bear! What a privilege to carry Everything to God in prayer!

2. Christ is a divine friend. What force this adds to His friendship! It assures its constancy. The best of friends will often fail, but Christ, being divine, can never do so. It would disprove His character of Deity. In this character also Christ possesses the power to meet every want and need in our lives. Abraham was the friend of God, and God blessed him. So Christ can and will bless us if we are His friends.

3. The condition of friendship with Christ is obedience to His will. "Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you." But why shirk such a condition? "His yoke is easy, and His burden is light."

BIBLE READINGS.

Deut. xlii, 6; I Sam. xviii, 1-5; Prov. xvii, 17; xxvii, 24; xxvii, 9, 19; Zech. iii, 1-7; Luke vii, 31-33; xv, 1-10; John iii, 16; xi, 1-3, 36-44; xv, 1-8; Heb. ii, 14-18; iv, 14-16.

Enthusiastic Christian Endeavor.

The Texas Christian Endeavor union is indeed fortunate in obtaining the services of Miss Tyler Wilkinson for the difficult work of the field secretary. She is well known for sound judgment, winsome personality and enthusiastic energy, all of these backed up by a substantial experience in Christian Endeavor work. In the first place, as president of the Bell County Christian Endeavor union she made a brilliant success. Soon she became secretary of the state union and afterward its president. When the pressure of other duties forced her to retire for awhile she was not allowed to remain long out of the service, but was called to be the field secretary of the Oklahoma State Christian Endeavor union, doing splendid service as a Christian Endeavor pioneer in that state. Miss Wilkinson devotes all her time to traveling, corresponding and organizing new societies, visiting conventions and in other ways building up Christian Endeavor in the great state of Texas.

Why Sign the Pledge?

Christian Endeavorers should need no argument for pledges. We understand the importance of setting up a standard. We know that if a thing is worth doing it is worth promising to do. We have learned how a promise strengthens one in a good course. We see pledges required of the strongest men in all occupations—of our judges, of our executive officers, our lawyers. We use pledges in the marriage ceremony and when men join the church. Why not, then, in regard to this matter of so great importance sign a pledge? Let us show our colors; let us take a stand. However able we may feel ourselves to remain strictly temperate without a pledge, let us remember that we may not always be so strong and that in any case there are many that are weaker. Let us set them a good example.—Amos R. Wells.

The C. E. Convention in India.

In speaking of the Christian Endeavor convention held in Agra, India, the Outlook says: "The whole body of delegates constituted an evidence of the interchurch, international and the interracial character of the Christian Endeavor movement. This occasion was, in fact, a realization of the dream of that cobbler missionary, William Carey, who foresaw a hundred years ago the time when missionary stations would form a chain from northern India to Ceylon."

Mutual Benefit Column.

EDITED BY "AUNT MAGGIE". Its Motto: "Helpful and Helpful."

The purposes of this column are succinctly stated in the title and motto—it is for the mutual benefit, and aims to be helpful and hopeful for the common good. It is for the common use—a public servant, a purveyor of information and suggestion, a medium for the interchange of ideas. In this capacity it solicits communications, and its success depends largely on the support given it in this respect. Communications must be signed, but the name of writer will not be printed except by permission. Communications will be subject to approval or rejection by the editor of the column, but none will be rejected without good reason. Address all communications to THE AMERICAN, Ellsworth, Me.

This will be a variety column. Look it through; perhaps you will meet something that fits your case.

FIGGER UP. If the day seems to carry a burden of woe, Figger up;

If its moments seem dragging and terribly slow, Figger up;

For I guess you will find, if you pause to reflect, That there's 'bout as much sun as you've right to expect;

If you've earned something good, you are bound to collect—

Figger up.

On the great slate of Time there are many accounts—

Figger up—

For various payments of divers amount—

Figger up.

And we're apt to collect what is coming out way,

Though it's shine of the sun or gloom of the day;

If we dance, you have heard, we the fiddler must pay—

Figger up.

Look back on your life, though you'd much rather not—

Figger up—

And say, if you dare, that the treatment you got—

Figger up—

Is not pretty near to the treatment you earned.

Who was it the candle incessantly burned, And burned at both ends, until wisdom he learned?

Figger up.

What's the use of a sigh, or the good of a whim?

Figger up—

Take your medicine now, as I must take mine.

Figger up.

And I guess we may find on the biz, final sheet

There was just as much shine as of gloom for our feet,

Or, if not, that the treatment we had was but meet—

Figger up.

EXPERT OPINION.

"Yes," said young Mrs. Torkins, "I am sure our garden is going to be a success."

"So soon?"

"Yes, the chickens have tasted everything, and they are perfectly enthusiastic."

WEY BOYS ARE BRAVE.

To his teacher's request that he give the class ideas on the subject of "Bravery," little Johnny delivered himself of the following: "Some boys are brave because they always plays with little boys, and some boys are brave because their legs is too short to run away, but most boys is brave because somebody's lookin'."

We drop out a common piece of news—"Mr. so and so is dead; Miss such a one is married; such a ship has sailed"—and lo, on our right hand or our left, some heart has sunk under the news, silently gone down in the great ocean of fate without even a bubble rising to tell its drowning pang. And this "Good help us!—is what we call living!"—H. B. Stone.

The Literary Digest of July 18 has an article entitled "How to Keep Cool".

W. J. Cromie, instructor in gymnastics in the University of Pennsylvania, has given some practical rules in Good Health, from which quotations are made. Here are some which should be careful to avoid over-eating—a fault to which those engaged in sedentary occupations are especially prone. In warm weather, meats, oils and fat should be used sparingly, and fruits, vegetables and cereals should be substituted.

The first and best way to keep cool is to avoid heavy and stimulating foods. Many infantile diseases would be prevented if care were taken that children should not be over-fed. It is positively criminal to feed babies on meats or unripe fruits, especially in summer.

Next, the subject of clothing is taken up. This, he says, should be light both in material and color, during hot weather although when one becomes over-heated heavy clothing should be put on to prevent taking cold. Linen underclothing gives a pleasant feeling of coolness to the skin and the perspiration evaporates more quickly. Too much clothing worn by day or night has a tendency to enervate.

Sun and air baths are esteemed of great value by the German's in their nature-cure system. The sun has a very beneficial effect on the skin. Many persons, in exposing their body to the rays of the sun, take too much at one time. Air and sun baths, when taken intelligently, harden one's system and enable one to withstand with more ease the hot days of summer.

Daily exercise should not be omitted because the weather is warm. Muscular work is to the body what friction is to the metal. The metal will rust if not used; the body will become diseased if not exercised.

Proper dieting, sufficient exercise, rest and sleep, daily bathing, and intelligent exercise.

WANTS HER LETTER PUBLISHED

For Benefit of Women who Suffer from Female Ills

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women I felt sure and I must say it did help me wonderfully. My pains all left me. I grew stronger, and within three months I was a perfectly well woman."

"I want this letter made public to show the benefit women may derive from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound"—Mrs. JOHN G. MOLDAK, 2115 Second St., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs. Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

If you want special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She will treat your letter as strictly confidential. For 20 years she has been helping sick women in this way, free of charge. Don't hesitate—write at once.

posure to the air and sunlight, the avoidance of stimulants, and a cheerful frame of mind, will insure one a strong resisting power, so that he need have no fear of the extremes of either heat or cold.

Try an egg in your cream tartar biscuit for a change. Mix as usual a quarter of four, two teaspoons (heaping) of cream tartar, one of soda and a scant one of salt, stirring into this one scant large spoon of shortening. Mix with very cold water, and after thoroughly wet up, break an egg into it and again stir it thoroughly; bake quickly.

A good and easy way of making fish-balls:

Pick or cut salt fish into small pieces; to one cup of the fish add four cups of raw potatoes pared and sliced or cut in small pieces; add water to cover, and boil fifteen minutes until potatoes are cooked. Drain off the water and mash with a fork or potato-masher. Add a piece of butter, perhaps as large as a walnut or a little larger, one egg, some new milk, and a little pepper; mix thoroughly and dip up with a large cooking-spoon and drop into hot fat. If you fry them in considerable fat, they are better drained on brown paper before removing them to the table. These are good without the egg, and are a great saving of dishes to wash, as one dish (I use an agate one), a paring-knife, a fork and large spoon are all that are needed.

A young housekeeper furnishes the two following recipes:

TART CRUST—One cup of lard, one cup flour, one-fourth teaspoon soda (scant), white of an egg beaten stiff; add four tablespoons of water, a little salt.

BROWNIES—Two squares chocolate, one cup sugar, one cup flour, one cup walnut (chopped), one-half cup butter (scant), two eggs; bake in cake oven; when done, cut in squares.

When I am told that some families "live" out of the M. B. column, it encourages me to present more recipes, so here is one for making a Cracker Pudding—Four crackers rolled fine, one pint milk, yolks of two eggs, two tablespoons sugar, one cup raisins (little salt and nutmeg). Beat the whites of the eggs to a froth, add a cup of sugar, spread on the top after baking, and return pudding to the oven a few minutes.

The House-Girl Problem.

The Maine bureau of industrial and labor statistics has received quite a number of inquiries from girls and middle-aged women concerning positions in the army of 10,000 to do housework in Maine. Commissioner Lyons did not intend to start an employment bureau, although many states have such in connection with their labor department, and there was no intimation in the article given to the press that he desired to enlarge the duties of his department to that extent. The letters he is receiving are from such a desirable class, however, and the desire to work in Maine is so plainly stated, that he is devoting a part of his evenings to solving the house-girl problem for Maine housewives. Just now he holds the unique position in Maine of having at his disposal a number of first-class house-girls, companions and housekeepers, with no places for them.

The statement that Maine could use 10,000 intelligent girls in its homes and on its farms was sent to 500 newspapers throughout the country. The applications are from several states, and embrace all creeds and nationalities. Many of them are from middle-aged women who express the hope that they may still be included in the "girl" class in consideration of their wider experience and general desirability as housekeepers and companions for children. Several state frankly that even life on a Maine farm had lost its terrors, providing they could be assured of home comforts and reasonably steady employment.

ACUTE OR CHRONIC—WHICH?

No matter if your kidney trouble is acute or chronic Foley's Kidney Remedy will reach your case. Mr. Claude Brown, Reynoldsville, Ill., writes us that he suffered many months with kidney complaint which baffled all treatment. At last he tried Foley's Kidney Remedy, and a few large bottles effected a complete cure. He says, "It has been of inestimable value to me." G. A. PARCHER.

Among the Grangers.

This column is devoted to the Grange, especially to the granges of Hancock county. The column is open to all grangers for the discussion of topics of general interest, and for reports of grange meetings. Make letters short and concise. All communications must be signed, but names will not be printed except by permission of the writer. All communications will be subject to approval by the editor, but none will be rejected without good reason.

RAINBOW, 303, NORTH BROOKSVILLE. MEMORIAL RESOLUTIONS.

There is a reaper whose name is Death And with his sickle keen, He reaps the beaded grain at a breath And the flowers that grow between.

Whereas, Death has again entered Rainbow grange No. 303, and removed a dear sister, Gladys Conner, a true and faithful sister in our lodge,

Resolved, That as an organization we have sustained a great loss, and as members, a sister of noble Christian qualities, beloved by all who knew her and whose memory will ever be sacred to us,

Resolved, That we extend our sympathy to the bereaved family, and that our charter be draped in mourning for thirty days; also a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, a copy be spread on our records, and a copy sent to the ELLSWORTH AMERICAN for publication.

Dearest sister thou art sleeping Where no pain can mar our rest, Sweetly sleep in Jesus keeping He will crown thee with the blest.

Darling sister, how we miss thee And our hearts are filled with pain; But we hope ere long to meet thee Never more to part again.

But we'll look beyond these shadows And will dry the falling tear, For the Saviour gently whispers: "I will raise her, never fear."

FANNIE GRAY, WALTER CLEMENT, CLARA SNOW, Committee.

BAYSIDE, 478, ELLSWORTH.

Bayside grange met July 27 with Master Remick in the chair and an attendance of seventy members and ten visitors. Martin Garland, master of Mariaville grange, and Harry Wheelden, overseer of Nicoloin grange, worked the fourth degree on five candidates. After the work, recess was declared.

At 10.30 supper was served in the banquet hall for the married members. Two of the single sisters passed around tickets numbered by which the married members drew their partners for supper. A grand march was formed, led by Master Remick and Sister Orcutt. The tables looked beautiful, laid with white table cloths and decorated with green vines, potted plants and flowers. Glasses at each plate were decorated with a white Dutch bonnet. All the single members stood in line, the sisters dressed in white, wearing Dutch caps. The brothers had on large white aprons and Dutch caps.

As the married members took their seats, they were welcomed by the single ones, and after a long wait and much coaxing, the food was brought on. First mashed potatoes; then another wait and more coaxing, and then came the meat, green peas, salads, cream biscuits, sliced bread, cakes, pies, ice-cream and sherbet. It is needless to say the married members enjoyed the feast, and expressed the hope that the single ones will be defeated in the next contest, as the married ones think it impossible to defeat them in the dining-room.

After supper there were remarks from visiting members and from Rev. O. G. Barnard.

DEER ISLE, 296.

Deer Isle grange met July 25, with a small attendance. It was proposed to hold a sociable, or something in that line, about the third week in August. The next regular meeting will be held Aug. 1.

SCHOOIDIC, 420, FRANKLIN.

Schooidic grange, No. 420, has taken a vacation. There will be no meetings until Thursday, Aug. 18.

KITTERY TO CARIBOU.

Alfred, aged nine, son of Ludger Dionne, of Auburn, was drowned in the river there Friday, while swimming.

John Woodside, of Hermon, aged forty-seven years, was drowned at Moosehead lake Monday by the overturning of a canoe.

A fire of mysterious origin Thursday destroyed the barn adjoining Hotel Twitchell, at Andover, causing a loss of $10,000; partly insured.

Roland Hodges, aged eighteen, of Beverly, Mass., a waiter at the Collins hotel, Maranhocook, was drowned in the lake Friday, by the upsetting of a canoe.

Frank Greene, aged thirty-five, of Fairfield, when to sleep on the edge of the station platform at Winthrop Saturday night, and was struck by a passing freight train, receiving injuries from which he died five hours later.

Mrs. Etta Whitehouse, aged sixty, of Spokane, Wash., who was visiting her sisters in Maine, was instantly killed at Etta station Monday. She stepped from the platform directly in front of a train, evidently believing it to be on the opposite track.

Mrs. Julia A. York, aged seventy-seven years, of Welchville, was killed by fright during a thunder shower, July 24. Mrs. York's death occurred fifteen minutes after a heavy clap of thunder, and was due, the physicians say, to fear. She always had been nervous during an electric shower.

During a thunder shower Thursday the sixteen months-old adopted daughter of Bert Chandler and wife, of Burnham, was playing near a screen door, when a sudden flash of lightning seemed to play about the room. The child began to cry and upon investigation it was found that she was badly burned across the forehead, eyes and nose, and was totally blind. It is feared the blindness will be permanent.

A fire which originated in the coal-shed of the Canadian Pacific plant at Brownville Junction Wednesday afternoon, threatened the whole village with destruction, and caused a loss of about $50,000, the larger part of which is by the railway company. The fire spread to the storehouse, where the railway company has its supplies and in a short time that building was in ashes. The oil tanks were burned, and the Canadian Pacific boarding-house was badly damaged.

Bird Neighbors.

Under this head the AMERICAN will from time to time print short articles relating to birds, and especially their relation to agricultural interests. Most of these articles will be reprinted from leaflets issued by the bureau of biological survey, department of agriculture, or by the National Association of Audubon societies, and will be authoritative. They will be of interest not only to bird lovers, but of educational value to farmers, to whom the protection of many species of birds is of the greatest importance.

The Robin.

[By William Dutcher, chairman protection committee, American Ornithologists' Union. Published by National committee of Audubon Societies.]

The robin in most parts of the country is too common a bird to need an introduction to any one except an urbanite. However, even those who think that they have nothing to learn about the robin will be surprised how much of interest and value can be gleaned by a systematic study of the life history of this species during an entire year. Let this embrace notes on the migration, courtship, home-building, food, both for young and adults, how long before young care for themselves, how many broods in a season, habits after breeding season, etc.

Such records will serve to remove any prejudices and give an amount of real pleasure that cannot be appreciated until realized by actual participation. Moreover, such a complete and intimate knowledge of a bird will excite a desire for facts regarding other species which can better be obtained by observation than from books, and thus the observer will soon be able to name all the common resident birds of his locality and know their relations to mankind. The more a person investigates nature the broader, fuller and more complete becomes his own life, and in proportion to his subjugation of nature is his own development, physically, mentally and morally.

Whenever the robin breeds within the confines of civilization, man is its friend, and a mutual attachment has grown up that borders on sentiment. The man extends his protection and the bird rewards by making his home almost under the same roof tree, displaying a confidence in his human brother that is begotten by lack of fear.

In the robin's winter home in the south-land all is different, for there no sentiment but that of gastronomics is displayed; the bird is simply a tender morsel to be made an integral part of a stew or a pie. In central Tennessee are large tracts of cedars, the berries of which serve to attract myriads of robins in the winter. One small hamlet in this district sends to market annually enough robins to return $500, at five cents a dozen—equal to 120,000 birds. My informant naively says: "They are easily caught at night in the roost in young cedars; we go to the roost with a torch and kill them with sticks; others climb the trees and catch the robins as they fly in."

One of the officers of the Louisiana Audubon society furnishes the following information regarding robin slaughter in his own state: "They are commonly killed for home consumption for marketing, a conservative estimate of the number killed annually being from a quarter of a million in ordinary years to a million when they are unusually plenty. During the past winter one gunner killed over 300 robins in one day, and in one village in the state the boys and young men are vying with each other for a record in robin killing, the present high score being 300 birds in one day." Better, by far, sentiment than slaughter, as the one preserves and the other destroys what is of great value, as will be proven later.

There is no doubt, although it is claimed by some persons, especially small-fruit growers, that it eats cultivated fruit to an injurious extent. This charge, the evidence shows, is confined to special localities and to a very limited period, and is not at all general.

Table with 4 columns: Month, Stomach Contents, Food, Wild Fruit, and Total. Rows include Jan, Feb, March, April, May, June, July, August, Sept, Oct, Nov, Dec, and Total.

The table of food for the year shows that cultivated fruit is only eaten to any serious extent during the months of June and July, when it amounts to 30 per cent however, during the same months the insect food amounts to over 46 per cent, thus showing the benefit to largely exceed the damage. The cultivated fruit eaten in the month of December was necessarily waste fruit that was left on trees or vines as worthless.

In the southern country, where the robin receives no protection whatever; it can not be claimed that it eats cultivated fruit, as the bird is not resident there except in the winter, when fruit is not in season. The horticulturist can protect his small fruit crops by growing a few wild fruits for the robins, and the cultivated kinds will not be disturbed; but thousands of injurious insects will be eaten that would otherwise be a pest.

A careful study of the food tables abstracted from data furnished by the biological survey, United States department of agriculture, ought surely to convince everyone that the robin is a very valuable aid to the agriculturist and therefore ought to be carefully protected. The 330 stomachs examined were collected in the territory between Massachusetts and Kansas, and Canada and the Gulf states, excepting a few from California. The contents, therefore, must show in a fairly conclusive manner the food that the robin eats during the year. The wild fruit that the robin eats does not affect the relation of the bird to man either way; it is simply one of the methods that Nature provides to distribute seeds of plants.

An analysis of the 4 per cent, of the robins' food consisting of insects is not only of interest, but is instructive, as it serves to show that during the whole year the average is well kept up. Beetles of various kinds form nearly 19 per cent, of the food for the year, in May reaching a maximum of over 53 per cent, which is largely of May beetles. There are over sixty species of this genus in the United States, all of which are harmful. The adults sometimes completely defoliate small trees and do great harm to large ones. The larvae of these beetles are known as "white grubs", and are often great pests, especially in strawberry plantations and in pastures, where they destroy the roots of the grasses. Grasshoppers and crickets are also eaten to a considerable extent, over 9 per cent, being the average for the year; in August they comprise over 30 per cent, of the food. Both of these classes of insects are serious pests, and any bird that destroys them is too valuable to kill.

The other 17 per cent of the insect food consists of moths and butterflies, bees, wasps and ants, buprestids, etc. Many larvae of the owl-moths are eaten, a family which includes caterpillars so well known and dreaded by the name of "cutworms". One robin had no less than forty army worms in its stomach, and another contained 125 March flies. Some of the latter destroy the roots of growing plants, especially grass. The wise farmer and plantation owner will use every means in his power to encourage the robin to remain on his premises, for by so doing myriads of noxious insects will be destroyed.

A Life Saving Order.

Many years ago the American warship Delaware came near foundering off the coast of Sardinia while luffing through a heavy squall during a morning watch. The "unauthorized letting go of the fore sheet" alone saved the ship from going down with 1,100 souls on board. The first lieutenant, afterward Commodore Thomas W. Wymann, with difficult climbing succeeded in reaching the quarterdeck, where, snatching the trumpet from the officer in charge, his first order, given in a voice heard distinctly fore and aft, was, "Keep clear of the paint work." This command to hundreds of human beings packed in the lee scuppers like sardines in a box instantly restored them to order and prevented a panic, they naturally feeling that if at such a time, with a line of battle ship on her beam ends, clean paint work was of paramount importance their condition could not be a serious one.

"BACK TO THE FARM"

II.—Restoring the Balance. Back to the Land.

By C. V. GREGORY.

(Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.)

WE have seen how the high cost of the necessities of life and of foodstuffs particularly is the direct result of the townward trend of population. The same cause is responsible for the terrible congestion of population in some parts of the great cities, with the attendant disease and misery. Such conditions are deplorable, the more so because they are unnecessary. There is enough food in the world for all, enough shelter for all and enough room for all. Men will come to learn—indeed, they are already learning—that they are paying too high a price for the privilege of living in the city. The setting of the tide of population toward the city began when the city possessed some real advantages that were not found in the country. Today this condition is reversed. The current still flows cityward only because of habit. There is a tremendous amount of inertia to be overcome before the direction of the flow of human beings will be reversed, but the day of "about face" is coming.

You may travel for hundreds of miles through the west, where broad arable fields stretch out on every side, with a population of not more than four to the square mile. Even in the fertile Mississippi valley there are but twenty-five people located on each square mile. In the east the country population is more dense, but here there are thousands of quarter sections and eighty acre tracts of land so fertile that ten acres properly tilled mean prosperity.

Contrast this with New York city, with 12,578 people to the square mile, or Chicago, with 11,448. The cities boast of their size and greet each added thousand enthusiastically. As well might a sardine can ask to be packed more tightly. The city is calling for men that it does not need, for which it has no work at living wages and no room without crowding some one else a little closer.

The country is calling for men—calling with the voice of opportunity. There is room for all and to spare. There is a good living for all and a surplus besides. The decentralization of the cities, the movement to the country, means saner, cleaner living. There is less of strife and sordid selfishness out in the open country, where the grass is green and the twitter of song birds replaces the city's din. Children raised in the hayfields make the men of brains and brawn for which the world is calling. Out in the country it is possible for every man to have a home. The humblest laborer can be covered at night by his own cottage roof. The future of the nation depends upon the preservation of a pure and healthy home life, and nowhere can this be so surely attained as in the country.

A higher standard of living is possible to the man in the country. He can build a house for the price of two or three years' rent in the city. He can have fresh vegetables and fresh meat and fresh eggs on the farm that make the canned and cold storage products of the city a disagreeable memory. Forty cent eggs mean doing without to the average city dweller. To the countryman with a small flock of poultry they mean prosperity. The man with his own cow doesn't complain of the high cost of milk and butter, for grass is always cheap.

In the country the everlasting struggle to keep up appearances is not felt so keenly as in the city. The useless extravagance that makes the bill for clothes the heaviest drain on the city man's pocketbook is lacking. Men and women are taken more for what they are worth and less for what they seem to be. The man who lives beyond his income in an effort to appear more than he really is is looked upon with disapproval. In the country the standard of living as it applies to the real things—food, clothing, shelter, books and papers—can be maintained much higher than it can on an equal sized income in the city. The temptations to reckless extravagance are much less, and the margin for saving is consequently much greater.

From the standpoint of the average individual and for a great many who are above the average country life at present is much more desirable in almost every way than city life. Some of the more specific advantages will be taken up in later articles. From the standpoint of the nation an increase in the number of people who till the soil or who live close to it is absolutely necessary. We might find temporary relief by letting down our tariff barriers to the wheat of Canada and the cattle of Argentina, but such relief would be only temporary. The inflow of cheaper meat and bread would but accelerate the growth of the cities. When the limit of the production of Canada and South America was reached we would face another crisis of high prices, this time much more serious than we are undergoing at present. The only way the price level can be permanently adjusted and lasting prosperity assured is by increasing the proportion of country dwellers.

At present there are too many drones in the lives of industry. The unearned increment, the rapid rise in real estate values for which community growth is responsible, has placed hundreds of thousands of people where they can live from the proceeds of rents—live without working. They are granted a perpetual tax upon the industry of others—on the necessity of people to live. Legislation that will put a heavy tax on this unearned increment will in a large measure right this wrong and force the property owners into productive labor. The decentralizing of the cities will force down the abnormally high rents and help to thin the ranks of the people whom excessive rents have allowed to remain in idleness.

Aside from the people who do not work, there is a vast army of non-producers who are supported by the men who work at productive labor. Our system of getting goods from producer to consumer is needlessly expensive and cumbersome. There are too many middlemen on the way, who through custom have come to think they have a divine right to an easily earned share of the consumer's dollar.

Much of this awkward system of distribution has been made necessary by the concentration of the manufacturing industries in large cities and by the location of these cities without reference to the markets for their manufactured goods or the source of their food supply. It has been estimated that if Philadelphia were located close to its food supply the cost of living in that city would be reduced 20 per cent.

The time has come for a radical readjustment of the system of distribution. The consumer and the producer must be brought closer together and a large share of the energy wasted in duplication and rehandling of products turned into productive labor. As an example, there are nearly 100,000 commercial travelers in this country. These men are well fed and well paid. The cost of selling goods through them is enormous. The consumer pays this cost in increased prices. The plan of selling all sorts of goods in small quantities by personal solicitors is a remnant of the old days of cutthroat competition. It has little, if any, place in modern business. Today business has been put on a scientific basis. Consolidation is the keyword of efficiency. Consolidation has reached its highest development in manufacture. Transportation is not far behind it. It is time that competition—the kind of competition that fosters inefficiency, duplication and excessive cost—is eliminated from the unproductive industries.

In the very nature of the case there must always be a class of unproductive workers. It is for the best good of the nation to limit this class as much as possible.

The future prosperity of America, then, depends upon the decentralization of the cities. Large cities are economically wasteful, and they will have to go. The manufacturing cities of the future will be located with reference to food supply as well as with reference to the market for their products. In recent years the farmers of the hog raising districts of Iowa are coming more and more to ship their hogs to local packing houses for slaughter, thus eliminating the long freight haul to Chicago. A plan is under way to establish a terminal elevator at Cedar Rapids, where the bulk of the Iowa grain can be cleaned and graded and shipped direct to the consumer. In this way the toll of Chicago, with its heavy terminal charges and its army of middlemen, will be almost entirely eliminated.

One of the chief factors in the way of this enterprise and many others of like nature is the discriminatory freight rates which the railroads give to the large cities. But this is a matter that will be remedied in time. The era of the open country and the country town is dawning. The great city has its place, a place which it will continue to hold, but it cannot be the dominating force in American life, nor can it much longer attract the flower of young manhood and young womanhood from the country districts.

A REWARD

It Was Not For Timidity

By HARRY C. ERNST

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

I arose after a night's journey in a sleeping car, made my toilet in the wash room at the end of the car, and when I returned to my berth it was made up. I found there the occupant of the upper berth, a sleek looking gentleman, well dressed and apparently prosperous, but with an anxious expression on his face that he could not conceal. He seemed to find it difficult to sit still and kept furtively looking about him as though he expected some one to pounce upon him.

We were entering Chicago and before reaching the terminal stopped at a suburban station. By this time my section mate looked so frightened that he was entirely unable to conceal his feelings. Standing up, he cast a glance out the window, hesitated, then, seizing his suit case, hurried from the train.

We had no sooner started again than, casting a glance at my own suit case, which had stood on the floor beside that of the departed passenger, I noticed that my name did not appear on its end. I quickly examined the other end, but it was not there either. I knew that my suit case bore my name and my city, so I at once made up my mind that the man who had occupied the other berth had taken mine instead of his own. I took out my key to see if I could open the one remaining, but it did not fit.

It struck me that there was something wrong with the man who had exchanged suit cases. Supposing he were a fugitive from justice, if I were found with his baggage I might be mistaken for him and get into trouble. It would be impossible for me to reach him and inform him of his mistake. I must go on to the depot without a suit case. He would discover my name and address on it, and since my residence was in Chicago he would, if honest, drop me a line through the postoffice.

But what should I do with his suit case? Did I not suspect him I would take it with me and return it to him when he returned mine. As it was, I dreaded to be found with it in my possession.

There was a young man sitting in the section opposite me. He looked rather seedy and melancholy. Beside him was a suit case. Just before entering the station he went to the other end of the car. Taking advantage of his absence, I changed suit cases with him. When he returned, since we were under cover of the station, the car was quite dark. He picked up the suit case I had placed on his seat and went out with it among the throng of passengers.

I waited patiently, expecting every day to receive a note from the man who had my suit case. I couldn't address him, for there was no name on the suit case I had taken. I received no communication and finally gave up expecting any. I determined to open the suit case I had in my possession to see if I could find anything inside indicating to whom it belonged.

Forcing the lock, I found within pieces of linen clothing, a paper novel and a few letters. The latter were not in envelopes bearing an address, and, in order to discover if there was anything in them to give me the information I wished, I read them. They were from a girl who was very unhappy at her lover leaving her to go to Chicago to seek his fortune. By mutual consent they had given up all hope of a union because the lover was poor and they couldn't afford to marry. I had gained this information before I came to the words, "I shall send your letters to No. — street." I knew this is to a Chicago street.

Here was what I wanted. I wrote a note to the young man stating that (by mistake) he had taken my suit case and if he had mine I would like to exchange with him.

I received no reply for some weeks; then I got a letter containing some remarkable information—information that made me regret my timidity of being mistaken for a criminal. Indeed, I no sooner read the words than I desired to "kick" myself all over the three "sides" that compose Chicago. The young man told me that he had opened the suit case and in it had found a package of bank bills to the amount of $90,000. Seeing in newspaper telegraphic news from an eastern city of a bank robbery, he had communicated with the officers of the bank, returned the money and had received a reward of $9,000 for doing so. Meanwhile the police had got on the track of the robber, who had been the bank's paying teller, and he had been arrested. The young man added that it was supposed the guilty party had purposely changed suit cases with him, not daring to face the police of Chicago, who might be watching for him. He wound up by apologizing for his long silence on the ground that he had been east to secure his reward and had brought back a wife with him.

So I had turned over $90,000 of stolen money to another, enabling him to reap $9,000 reward. But I had much consolation in the fact that I had been the means of uniting a pair of lovers who had given each other up. I met the young man and his wife afterward. They were making a fortune out of that reward.

While this young man made a clean $9,000 out of the operation, I lost my baggage, which contained a new $100 evening suit, with several valuable toilet articles.

A Big Baby Farm.

What has been called the biggest baby farm in the world is situated at Moscow, and it is claimed that this institution shows an annual crop of some 14,000 babies, not to speak of that put out by a branch at St. Petersburg, which numbers 8,000. The Moscow Foundling asylum was founded by Empress Catherine II., and it is maintained, oddly enough, by a tax on playing cards. Servants in the red livery of the royal family guard its doors, and its accounts are carefully audited by the Russian treasury department. The buildings comprising this institution stand in a hollow square round a garden with trim lawn and trees, which forms a playground for the children. Youngsters of all sorts and sizes, from tender nurslings, who in the incubating rooms are just struggling into life, are tended by careful nurses and are as sure of good attention and wholesome food as any baby can need. About fifty babies are received every day, and after four weeks the nurses take them to their own homes in the villages.—New York Tribune.

Opulence.

They numbered four. They absolutely exuded prosperity. The things which they ordered were such as to fill with envy the breast of the man at the next table engaged in consuming the most modest dish disclosed by the bill of fare.

The four were conversing—languid, plutocratic conversation. After awhile it turned to the question of money. Evidently they wanted to do something. How much money had they? One of the four took out his pocket-book and counted up a roll of bills.

"Oh, I have a hundred and forty," he said carelessly.

The second and third members of the party went through their pockets.

"I have two hundred and fifteen," remarked one.

"And I have three hundred," said the other.

The fourth waved his hand grandly. "Never mind, you fellows," he said. "I'll lend you all you want."

Tenderly waiters bore the man at the next table out into the cold air. He will recover.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Generous Arab.

"One day when in our wanderings we happened to camp near some rolling country the sheik and I rode off in search of gazelles," says a traveler in Arabia. "We found a large herd, and, being mounted on good horses, we managed to ride them down, throwing ourselves off our horses for the shot, then galloping on again. We killed six gazelles in about an hour and rode back to camp with enough meat for a big feast. It is the custom that whoever kills game should provide a feast for all his friends. On the occasion of these feasts I noticed that there was always a crowd of hangers-on waiting at the end for a scrap of food, half starved looking boys and ragged men. These were orphans whose parents had been killed or men whose herds had been 'lifted' by other Arabs, and as a result they were destitute, for the law of the Bedouin is 'survival of the fittest' in its strictest sense. But the sheik supplied food liberally, and I noticed that he always looked after the poor and fed the hungry."

Apple Tree Insects.

A sixty-eight page illustrated publication on the "Apple Tree Insects of Maine" has just been issued by the Maine agricultural experiment station. In this paper are described about forty of the more common of the insect pests which in Maine affect the apple tree and its fruit, giving a brief account of the different stages of each insect, its habits and method of control. The paper concludes with a discussion on beneficial insects, directions for making spray solutions, and some general notes on orchard practice.

A copy of this circular will be sent to any resident of Maine on request. Requests should be addressed to the Maine agricultural experiment station, Orono, Maine.

From Sickness To "Excellent Health." So says Mrs. Chas. Lyon, Peoria, Ill.: "I found in your Foley Kidney Pills a prompt and speedy cure for backache and kidney trouble which bothered me for many months. I am now enjoying excellent health, which I owe to Foley Kidney Pills." G. A. PARCHER.

The Baby Stars.

Have you ever sat opposite in bus or train to a baby, say, from one to two years old? If you have you have been compelled to notice it. And unless you are a misanthropic person I guess you have caught yourself feeling uncomfortable under its wide eyed scrutiny of you. I think there is nothing more disconcerting than to be rejected by a baby after full and open cross examination. Babies and very young children have no humbug about them. I believe they see more than grownups. I believe they read our characters down to the very ground. While the young mother is interested to find that her baby is being admired that mother and the admirer, and when the jerky turn of the head comes the man that has music in his soul feels small.—London Scraps.

When Dreams Came True.

An English magazine records two dream stories. In one a lady, having lost an important key while walking in a wood near her house in Ireland, dreamed that she saw it lying at the root of a certain tree. Next day she found it there. She supposed her eye must have seen it after it dropped, though her conscious mind had not instantly noted it.

Just the same was the theory of a barrister who went out late at night to post his letters and upon undressing missed a check for a large amount received during the day. He dreamed he saw it curled round an area railing not far from his door, woke up, dressed, went out and found it exactly as he had dreamed. The mind registers at times what it does not instantly report.

Own Up.

A man should never be ashamed to own he has been in the wrong, which is but saying, in other words, that he is wiser today than he was yesterday.—Pope.

A Guess at It.

Teacher (of class in grammar)—What do you understand by "parts of speech?" Tommy—It's—It's when a man stutters.—Chicago Tribune.

"The passing of Bryan; domination repudiated by democrats of his own state," is the heading under which that staunch old democratic paper, the Eastern Argus, of Portland, tells the sad story of the downfall of that erstwhile "peerless leader," who was "thrown down" by the democrats of his own state in their convention last week.

Correspondence.

Challenge Accepted. ELLSWORTH ME., Aug. 1, 1910.

To the Editor of The American: On behalf of the "Solid Madoons" I gladly accept the challenge of Rev. F. A. A. Killam, for I very much doubt the ability of his "Claw Hammer," in spite of their name, to hit anything.

Mr. Killam is further granted the two-handicap, provided that the peanuts shall be shared with the losers, as I do not believe in taking chances - of losing the peanuts.

Very respectfully, O. G. BARNARD.

The newspaper which has no uniform rate for advertising space, and is satisfied to take what it can get for it, is a cheap advertising medium, and the advertiser need expect nothing but poor results.

COUNTY GOSSIP.

The same story comes from all sections of the county, blueberries and raspberries scarce.

Frank Libby, of Gouldsboro, has an apple tree which has now several bunches of perfect buds and blossoms.

The republicans of Waterville have nominated Dr. Luther G. Bunker, a former Hancock county boy, for representative to the legislature.

Frank E. Mace, of Great Pond, is the possessor of three United States silver dollars for which coin collectors have offered many times their face value, but which Mr. Mace refuses to part with because of associations connected with them.

To Test Mill Tax Law. When the legislature of Maine at its last session changed the school mill tax law for the purpose of getting at the owners of timberlands, there were repeated warnings by some of the best legal talent in the State that the measure was unconstitutional.

Now comes legal action to test the law. A bill in equity joining State Treasurer Gilmore from collecting the State tax of 1910 on his property, and from selling the same for non-payment of the tax, has been filed by Herbert J. Sawyer, who lives in the unincorporated township of Mattamiscontis Penobscot county.

The law provides for a tax of one and one-half mills to be levied on all the property of the State, and collected by the State treasurer. All the money is then distributed back to the cities, towns and plantations in the State, two-thirds according to valuation and one-third according to the number of scholars.

If the money was distributed according to the number of scholars, those in the unincorporated places would receive some benefit from the act, but as it is now the cities or towns which have the largest valuation get the largest share of the money.

The most dramatic and spectacular contest of the meet will be the contest for the grand prize of $10,000 cash offered by the Boston Globe for the quickest flight by any kind of flying machine from Soldiers' field to Boston light and return, without stops.

The exact distance from Soldiers' field to Boston light is 12 3/4 statute miles, so that the total flight by any machine in the contest must be at least 24 3/4 statute miles.

Already the greatest aviators in the world have been entered for the Globe $10,000 cash prize, including Glenn H. Curtiss who holds the international championship won at Rheims, France, a year ago, and who won the $10,000 prize recently for a flight from Albany to New York.

Besides this prize of $10,000 cash offered by the Globe, there will be $50,000 distributed in prizes for all kinds of contests with aeroplanes, gas balloons, dirigibles and kites.

NEW ENGLAND FARMS.

August Issue of Maine Central Industrial Bulletin.

The August issue of New England Farms, the monthly agricultural bulletin of the industrial department of the Maine Central railroad, is one of particular interest to the farmers of the State.

Chief among the interesting August articles are a description of a cheap and practical poultry disinfectant from the poultry bulletin of the University of Maine, prepared by Prof. Raymond Pearl, and an interesting argument in favor of sheep-growing in northern New England by Instructor Gibben, of the Massachusetts agricultural college.

There is an interesting editorial comment on an article by Prof. Blinn, of the Colorado agricultural college, on how large a farm it is necessary for a man to conduct to prove profitable.

There are short and instructive articles in the fruit, horse, dairy and poultry departments. There is no question that the farming interests are greatly benefited by the publication of this bulletin, and it is easily worth the expenditure of a postal card to have it sent regularly to the Maine farming homes.

The industrial department of the Maine Central has also issued a directory of agricultural producers along the lines of the Maine Central, Washington County and Somerset railroads. It has been compiled with the idea of general distribution among the commercial houses, principally in the larger cities, there having been a large demand for a publication of this character.

The department also contemplates issuing at an early date an occasional bulletin to be known as "Maine Industrial Opportunities". This is intended for general circulation throughout the country to advertise particular instances of business openings in the Pine Tree State.

Persons having in mind a chance to develop or establish an industry are requested to send the details to the industrial department. It is not intended to publish general statements calling attention to the advantages of localities, but to confine the matter in the bulletin to particular instances of opportunities. The matter will be inserted and the bulletin distributed without any charge whatsoever.

Old Ellsworth Vessel Makes Record.

A press dispatch from Boston says all records for slow sailing went by the board when the sixty-year-old schooner Luduska, Capt. Small, crept up the harbor Friday, fifty-two days from Grand Menan, N. B. The 290 miles was covered at the rate of five miles every twenty-four hours.

But it was not the length of time consumed on the passage that bothered the three men on board. There were times during the trip when it became a question whether they would ever see home again.

The old hooker has sailed the Eastern seaboard for three scores years, and almost knew her way unguided. When she left Grand Menan early in June, Capt. Small expected to reach Boston in about a week at the latest. He probably would have arrived in about that time had not the schooner struck on the dangerous ledge jutting out from Matinicus.

She was leaking like a sieve, and the men worked in desperation at the pumps to keep her from becoming waterlogged. She would probably have foundered had it not been for her cargo of lumber. They finally succeeded in reaching Rockland, where she was patched. Then she resumed her passage, but the leak continued, and she was compelled to run into nearly every port between here and the Penobscot. She went into Stonington, Portland, Boothbay, Salem and other ports.

Mr. Ramsey, who will conduct, raised the choir of St. Saviour's to a high degree of efficiency, and while in Bar Harbor organized the choral society. Besides being conductor of the orchestra at the Lyceum theatre, New York, he is also organist and choir-master of St. Matthews Episcopal church, New York, and leader of the Metropolitan Life glee club.

COUNTY NEWS.

BLUEHILL.

Under the inspiring leadership of Louis J. Bostelmann, the Bluehill choral society is making great progress in its preparation for the concert to be given at the town hall on Friday evening, Aug. 12.

It was mainly through Mr. Bostelmann's efforts last summer that this chorus was organized and gave the concert which proved such a success. Rehearsals were continued for about four months during the winter, and were resumed on Mr. Bostelmann's return a few weeks ago.

This, the society's second concert, is looked forward to with great interest, and it is hoped that funds enough will be secured to enable it to hold rehearsals as long as, if not longer than, it did last winter.

The chorus numbers between forty and fifty voices, and it will sing four or five times. The soloists are to be Mrs. Ida Walsh, soprano; Samuel Gardner, Sashu Jacobsen, violinists; Miss Eleanor Altman and Benjamin Curtis, accompanists. Mr. Bostelmann will conduct.

OBITUARY.

ELIZABETH JANE PHILLIPS. The many friends of Elizabeth Jane, wife of Hosea B. Phillips, have been saddened by the news of her death, which occurred at her home on Oak street Sunday morning, July 31.

For some months past Mrs. Phillips had been with her son and daughter in Massachusetts and Connecticut. On July 14, while at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Albert J. Lord, in Meriden, Conn., she met with a painful accident, fracturing her hip. A week later special arrangements having been made for her comfort on the train, she was removed to her home in this city.

At first her family had grave apprehensions about her recovery, but she seemed to bear the shock of the accident so well and appeared to be convalescing so rapidly that all felt that she would recover and be able to walk again. Not until Saturday did her condition seem serious. It was then found that complications rendered her recovery impossible.

The end came suddenly early Sunday morning. She had often expressed the wish that her departure might be in the summer season and on the Sabbath day. Her desire was fulfilled, for just as the rays of the morning sun were gladdening the eastern sky, she beheld the dawn of the resurrection morning.

Mrs. Phillips was born in Dedham, Jan. 23, 1838. Her maiden name was Haines. Before her marriage she taught school, and thus early in her life she acquired a love of learning and a desire for wisdom which was fostered all her days. She had a remarkable memory, a keen understanding and was wonderfully well-informed for one of her opportunities on all important subjects.

She was married to Hosea B. Phillips Feb. 24, 1858, and for fifty-two years had been a devoted wife and loving mother. She came to Ellsworth with her husband in March, 1871, living for a time in the Haines house on Sterling street. In the fall of that year she went to live on Main street. In 1898 the family moved to Oak street, the present residence.

Mrs. Phillips is survived by her husband, two sons—Perley J., of Ellsworth, and Alonson M., of Melrose Highlands, Mass., and one daughter—Mrs. Albert J. Lord, of Meriden, Conn. She leaves three sisters—Mrs. Lyman Somes, of Mt. Desert; Mrs. Frank Austin, of East Dedham, and Mrs. Laura Heisterman, of Victoria, B. C. Mrs. Phillips joined the Congregational church of this city June 7, 1883. Funeral services were held at the home on Oak street Tuesday afternoon at 2:30, Rev. R. E. Mathews officiating. Interment was in Woodbine cemetery. The family have the deepest sympathy of the entire community.

ANN F. MAXFIELD.

The older residents of this city will regret to learn of the death in Chicago, on July 28, of Ann F., widow of Samuel Maxfield. Her age was seventy-five years, ten months and eighteen days.

Mrs. Maxfield was a daughter of the late Ivory H. and Betsey (Brimmer) Joy; she was one of ten children—seven sons and three daughters, all of whom, except a sister—Ellen—are dead. The last of the brothers was Calvin P. Joy, who died last February.

Mrs. Maxfield's first husband was Daniel Allen; they lived in the house on Court street now occupied by W. W. Morrison. They had three children, all of whom are dead. Some years after Mr. Allen's death, she was married to Mr. Maxfield, and they lived in Boston until his death, when she went to Chicago and made her home with her sister Ellen—Mrs. Tolman, also a widow. There were no children by the second marriage.

The remains were accompanied to Ellsworth by Mrs. Tolman and a nephew, R. A. Webb; they were met in Boston by Hollis C. Joy and wife, all coming to Ellsworth. Funeral services were held at the home of Mrs. Bertha Joy Thompson, on Pleasant street, last Saturday, Rev. S. W. Sutton officiating. Interment was at Woodbine cemetery by the side of her children.

BENJAMIN J. FRANKLIN.

Benjamin J. Franklin, of Lakewood, died Saturday night at the East Maine general hospital in Bangor, where he had gone for an operation for intestinal trouble, from which he had suffered several years. He had been seriously ill several days, and a surgical operation was found necessary.

Mr. Franklin was fifty-eight years of age. For several years he conducted a milling business at Lakewood, at the Green Lake outlet. Later he went to the government fish hatchery at Green Lake, where for nine years he was employed as captain of the hatchery steamer Senator.

Mr. Franklin left the hatchery last year, purchased a farm at Lakewood, and went there to live. Mr. Franklin was a man of character and integrity, who had the respect of all who knew him. He leaves a widow, two daughters and two sisters.

The body was brought to Ellsworth Sunday, and the funeral was held at Lakewood yesterday forenoon, Rev. F. A. A. Killam officiating.

GEORGE WOOD.

George Wood, one of the old residents of Ellsworth, died at his home on the Surry road Monday, aged eighty years. He had been in failing health for some time.

Mr. Wood came to Ellsworth from New Brunswick many years ago, and for years carried on the farm where he died. He leaves a widow and seven children—James, Frederick, Albion and George Wood, Mrs. Elbridge Milliken and Mrs. Lewis Sanier, all of Ellsworth; and Mrs. Leeman Royal, of Cincinnati.

CITY MEETING.

SEVERAL IMPORTANT MATTERS CONSIDERED.

REFUSAL TO ABATE INTEREST ON POWER COMPANY'S TAX—NEW LIGHTS ON UNION STREET.

The aldermen had several important matters to consider at the regular meeting Monday evening. Mayor Hatherly presided. Aldermen present: Farber, Hagan, Patten and Small.

POWER COMPANY MATTERS.

Henry M. Hall appeared before the board in behalf of the Bar Harbor & Union River Power Co. He brought up several matters which the board took up several minutes later in the meeting.

Mr. Hall spoke first of the filling in of the frog-pond which had been formed by backwater at the junction of Sterling and Royal streets, and the raising of the roads so as to prevent overflow in the future.

He next asked the board to take the necessary action to have Central, Sterling and Royal streets legally laid out and accepted by the city. Alderman Hagan said the records showed that Central and Sterling streets had already been laid out and legally accepted, leaving only Royal street to be laid out. Mr. Hall said the power company would at its expense hire a surveyor to locate the centre line of the streets, and draw up the necessary petition. The board took no action in this matter.

Mr. Hall then took up the matter of the power company's taxes, which had not been fully adjusted for the years 1908, 1909 and 1910. For 1908 and 1909, the company had paid on its original valuation of $60,000, but not on the $60,000 increased valuation. The company had made satisfactory arrangements with Collector Erenahan for the 1908 tax, to reimburse him for the money which he had advanced to close his contract with the city. The 1909 balance due the city, as well as the full tax for 1910, the company was not ready to pay, but asked that interest be abated. This the board, by vote, refused to do.

NEW LIGHTS ON UNION STREET.

Mr. Hall then presented the request of Senator Hale for an arc light on Union street, near the house of Jeremiah Hurley, and a series lamp on Union street, near the entrance to his grounds, the latter to be burned only during the summer months. The power company asked the city to bear one-half the expense of constructing the necessary line for the lights. This the aldermen refused to do, but voted to establish the lights.

NEW CONCRETE WALK.

John A. Peters appeared before the board with a proposition in regard to a new concrete walk at the corner of Main and State streets. He said it was necessary for him to repair the foundation walls on the State street and Main street sides of his building, which will necessitate the tearing up of the concrete walk now laid.

He asked the city for permission to do this, he agreeing to relay a concrete walk on the State street side at his own expense. He also asked the city to extend the concrete walk on the Main street side back as far as his building ran, he agreeing to lay concrete from the street line to his building and to pay one-half the cost of the city's part. He also asked the city to repair the drain at this corner, where there is evidently a leak, while the work was in progress.

The aldermen considered Mr. Peters' proposition a very fair one, and voted to accept it.

City Clerk Hale reported that the necessary notices for the laying out of a road from the Mariaville road to the farms of B. J. Franklin, A. H. Garland and Norris L. Moore had been posted, for a hearing at this meeting. There were no remonstrants, and the board voted to accept the road as laid out, and build it. The salary of the first assistant chief of the fire department was increased by vote of the board to $40 a year.

SPEED OF AUTOMOBILES.

Ald. Small brought up the question of some speed regulation for automobiles on the city streets, and the State law, fixing the speed at fifteen miles an hour on country roads and eight miles an hour within the compact or built-up parts of towns or villages, unless otherwise regulated by the municipal officers. The aldermen voted to limit the speed of automobiles in the city to twelve miles an hour, and John H. Erenahan was delegated to have signs set up at conspicuous places on the principal streets leading into the city.

C. W. GRINDAL ASKED FOR A PERMIT TO MOVE THE BURRILL BUILDING, ON WATER STREET, ADJOINING THE POSTOFFICE, WHICH HE RECENTLY BOUGHT, DOWN WATER STREET TO HIS LOT NEAR HIS GRIST MILL AND STOREHOUSE.

The feature of the day will be the ball game between the "Solid Muldoons", captained by Rev. O. G. Barnard, and the "Claw Hammers", captained by Rev. P. A. A. Killam. The prize is a peck of peanuts. Elwood Frost, of Mariaville, was arraigned in the Ellsworth municipal court last Wednesday afternoon, charged with assault upon Miss Effie Carter, also of Mariaville. The Carter girl testified that on July 19 the respondent met her on the road and attempted an assault, and she defended herself with a club. Defense was a complete denial of any assault, and testimony of several members of respondent's family that he was at home at the time of the assault was alleged to have occurred was submitted. He was found guilty and fined $10 and costs.

The Ellsworth schooner Storm Petrel arrived here last Friday afternoon in tow of the tug Little Round Top, from Base Harbor. Am now cured." Pure, rich blood makes good, strong nerves, and this is why Hood's Sarsaparilla, which purifies and enriches the blood, cures so many nervous diseases. Perhaps you could do without one, but would it be economy? The cost may be as low as 5 cents a day, depending on where you are and what you want. Charge this against the steps it will save you, the convenience with which it will serve you, and the comfort it will bring you, and you will find you can't afford to be without one.

Truth Triumphs.

Ellsworth Citizens Testify for the Public Benefit.

A truthful statement of an Ellsworth citizen, given in his own words, should convince the most skeptical about the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills. If you suffer from backache, nervousness, sleeplessness, urinary disorders or any form of kidney ills, the cure is at hand. Read this: Mrs. Charles E. Higgins, 108 Water St., Ellsworth, Me., says: "My back ached so severely that I could not assume any comfortable position. At times the aching would change to sharp twinges, especially acute when I made any sudden movement, and for while after getting from a chair I was obliged to go about in a stooped position. Learning of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a supply at Moore's drug store, and the second night after beginning their use, I was able to sleep soundly, something that I had been unable to do for several months. The use of two more boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills made a complete and permanent cure, and I have had no return of my trouble since. I do not believe there is a kidney remedy on the market to-day of such great worth as Doan's Kidney Pills." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

After-the-War-Prices.

A Bangor man submits the following interesting bill, which gives one an idea of the prices for food our forefathers in the time of the Civil war paid, and draws some conclusions therefrom. The bill was presented by the late George Ladd, who formerly kept a grocery store in the store now occupied by the Rice & Miller Co. The first item on the bill is 30 lbs. sugar at 17 cents.....$5.10 In those days a man worked ten hours for $1.50, and this amount would purchase a little less than nine pounds of sugar. To-day he can buy for eight hours' labor at $2 per day, 33 pounds of sugar at six cents per pound. The next is 2 pounds Japan tea at $1.25.....$2.50 This means that for his ten hours' labor he could purchase one and one-fifth pounds of tea. To-day eight hours' labor will give him enough money to get four pounds of tea, in all probability better than the $1.25 tea of '68. Next on the list comes 1 gallon of coal oil.....38 cents Those who are complaining about kerosene at 14 cents per gallon would do well to examine this item closely. A laboring man could then buy slightly less than three gallons for the reward of ten hours' labor; now, for his eight hours, he can get fifteen gallons of better illuminant than the 56-cent variety of after-the-war times. The commonest articles of food, well named the staff of life, is the last and most important subject of comparison. 1 barrel flour.....$18 This means that at that time a man had to work more than 100 hours to obtain money enough to buy a barrel of flour, and that, too, perhaps not of the best grade. In 1910, at eight hours for $2, the laboring man is able to purchase three and one-third barrels of the best flour for 100 hours of labor.

People who lead the simple life are not necessarily simple-minded.

Dr. Seth Milliken and wife, Miss Mary Stewart, Miss Dickerman, Mrs. Carter and Mr. Trank, from the Boardman cottage, left to-day for their homes in New York. OBITUARY. Peyton R. Greene, a highly-esteemed citizen, died July 30. He had been in ill health a number of years, being confined to the house part of the time for the past few years, but had seemed as well as usual since the death of his wife, three months ago, and had visited his sons in Prospect and Belfast, retaining a few weeks ago. He failed rapidly until the end came Saturday. Mr. Greene was a shoemaker by trade, but the last of his work was on stone. He was the son of Isaac and Sabina Greene, and was born in Surry January 29, 1841. He married Eliza J. Rea, of Castine, December 22, 1873. He was a member of the Methodist church here, and of Hancock lodge, F. and A. M., of Castine, and East Bluehill lodge, A. O. U. W., in which he had held the office of financier nineteen years. He leaves three sons, who cared for him during his last illness—Richard Greene, who at present lives in Belfast; Ross Greene, of Prospect, and Howard Greene, who is ill at the home here, and one brother—Ann S. Greene, of Middleboro, Mass. They have the sympathy of the community. The funeral was held at the home Monday, Rev. Mr. Keyes, of Surry, officiating. The club members thank all those who in any way helped to make the fair a success. There were two races, one being for large boats and one for small. Master Merle Hodgkins, of Waltham, Mass., entered the race of large boats, and won the gold cup. He sailed the boat belonging to his cousin, Norman Stanley. Two minutes was given to get the boat in readiness, and at the command to let them go, the boats were placed in the water and were not touched until after they crossed the line, some distance away. The race for small boats was most exciting, as a larger number of boats entered. If one had not gone out of its course, it would have been nearly a tie for the cup. Master Kenneth Jarvis won the silver cup. His boat won the race last year. N. I. Bowditch, of Framingham, Mass., one of the summer residents, has for several years made this toy boat race an annual affair, and each year it becomes more and more exciting. Aug. 1. S.

Is Pe-ru-na Useful for Catarrh?

Should a list of the ingredients of Pe-ru-na be submitted to any medical expert, of whatever school or nationality, he would be obliged to admit without reserve that each one of them was of undoubted value in chronic catarrhal diseases and had stood the test of many years' experience in the treatment of such diseases. THERE CAN BE NO DISPUTE ABOUT THIS. PE-ru-na is composed of the most efficacious and universally used herbal remedies for catarrh. Every ingredient of Pe-ru-na has a reputation of its own in the cure of some phase of catarrh. Pe-ru-na brings to the home the COMBINED KNOWLEDGE OF SEVERAL SCHOOLS OF MEDICINE in the treatment of catarrhal diseases; brings to the home the scientific skill and knowledge of the modern pharmacist; and last but not least, brings to the home the vast and varied experience of Dr. Hartman, in the use of catarrh remedies, and in the treatment of catarrhal diseases. The fact is, chronic catarrh is a disease which is very prevalent. Many thousands of people know they have chronic catarrh. They have visited doctors over and over again, and been told that their case is one of chronic catarrh. It may be of the nose, throat, lungs, stomach or some other internal organ. There is no doubt as to the nature of the disease. The only trouble is the remedy. This doctor has tried to cure them. That doctor has tried to prescribe for them. BUT THEY ALL FAILED TO BRING ANY RELIEF. Dr. Hartman's idea is that a large remedy can be made on a large scale, as he is making it; that it can be made honestly, of the purest drugs and of the strictest uniformity. His idea is that this remedy can be supplied directly to the people, and no more be charged for it than is necessary for the handling of it. No other household remedy so universally advertised carries upon the label the principal active constituents, showing that Pe-ru-na invites the full inspection of the critic. preesed here four summers, it seemed like one of our own people coming home. Fred Joy and family, who have been in Trenton through haying, returned home yesterday. Walter Lowrie, wife and daughter Theresa and William H. Lowrie, of Franklin, were in town Sunday. Sidney Jordan, who came from Jamaica Plain, Mass., last week, to join his wife and daughter, will begin work on his camp this week. His father, Charles Jordan, of Waltham, will help him. Aug. 1. Are Doctors Any Good? Foolish question! Yet some people act as if a medicine could take the place of a doctor! The best medicine in the world cannot do this. Have a family doctor, consult him frequently, trust him fully. If we did not believe doctors endorsed Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for coughs and colds, we would not offer it to you. Ask your doctor. No alcohol in this cough medicine. J.C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.
