THOSE LITTLE C.-G. ADS

The North Hope correspondent of this paper writes:
Don't ask Mrs. A. I. Perry for any assistance for at least a couple of weeks for she is very busy filling orders for dahlia bulbs. If anyone doubts if "Courier-Gazette ads pay" just try it out. They will soon speak for themselves. Mrs. Perry has had orders from many different towns over the State and several from the island towns, showing that very many people read The Courier-Gazette. Each day brings more orders and always a new town is represented among them.

NEED PROTECTION

Interview With President
Smith of Lawrence Portland
Cement Company.

Platform builders at Kansas City and Houston next month will be faced with an insistent demand that tariff plank in the party platforms expressly place the major political parties to an early correction of inequalities which have resulted from changed economics and industrial conditions since the existing law was written six years ago.

This is indicated in a statement given on the H. S. Perry for any assistance for at least a couple of weeks for she is very busy filling orders for dahlia bulbs. If anyone doubts if "Courier-Gazette ads pay" just try it out. They will soon speak for themselves. Mrs. Perry has had orders from many different towns over the State and several from the island towns, showing that very many people read The Courier-Gazette. Each day brings more orders and always a new town is represented among them.

The National Association of Manufacturers' Committee on Platform of American Industry at its meeting in New York on May 14, representing almost every phase of the manufacturing and general business, definitely refused to take part in this movement. The tariff plank adopted by this Committee for submission to both political parties, while endorsing tariff revision by Commission administration as opposed to less scientific Congressional revision, emphasized the necessity for Congressional action in cases of free list schedules in the following words:

"But a continuing revision of any tariff schedules, including the free list, to meet changing economic conditions, in the light of accurately ascertained facts, is essential to the proper conduct of international and domestic relations."

This recognizes the fact which the public does not generally realize that articles on the tariff under the terms of the tariff act cannot obtain relief through the Tariff Commission whose powers are expressly restricted to articles on the dutiable list.

"The effort of certain groups in industry to close the door to Congressional tariff revision after the election has been sensed with decreasing force by the unprotected industries as the national conventions approach," Mr. Smith declares. "Such a policy if adopted by either party would create a sharp line of political cleavage between friends of protection in industry. Thus those robbed of hope of relief at the hands of one party would be left to shift for themselves in seeking friends in the coming campaign."

"Failure of the party platforms to recognize the unhappy situation of such unprotected industries as are now in need of tariff relief would make the tariff question more and more the football of politics and a stumbling block to industrial progress. It might even be construed as an invitation to concerted political action by one group in industry and certainly would result in greater business unrest and apprehension than would a frank statement in the party platforms in favor of prompt revision of such schedules in the tariff law as have been adversely affected by changes in economic and competitive conditions since the law was written."

"While the state delegations are being organized for the conventions it would be well if our delegations recognized these considerations and prepare themselves to discuss them at the convention."

POLITICAL BOLTS THREATENED

Insurgents In Both of the Leading Parties Are Talking of Nominating Independent Tickets.

An independent Republican ticket, with farm relief as one of its major planks, is being planned by the Democratic Party, both of the leading parties are talking of nominating independent tickets. The result in both parties is that the only possibility of beating the leader at either election is not by winning delegates against him but by fracturing the party into the conviction that he cannot be elected. Hence the great prevalence at the moment of talk about bolts.

What little doubt of Smith's nomination remained was swept away by the results in Oregon, while the huge vote for Mr. Hoover, despite his lack of opposition in that State, added to the preponderance which the Secretary of Commerce had attained. The result in both parties is that the only possibility of beating the leader at either election is not by winning delegates against him but by fracturing the party into the conviction that he cannot be elected. Hence the great prevalence at the moment of talk about bolts.

The Southern Baptists at Chattanooga have threatened Smith with the loss of some 1,000,000 votes in the South, while Hiram Vrooman, brother of the Assistant Secretary of Agriculture under President Wilson, is calling on the South not to support Smith.

On the Republican side one hears much talk of an extra ticket which will be satisfactory to the farm group and which might pile up enough votes to threaten Hoover's election. But with the disgruntled Republicans, as with the Democrats, there has been no success so far in drafting for the nominations men outstanding enough to promise a great pull at the polling places.

The Prohibition party, inspired by the thought that this country ought to be made dry, seeking to take advantage of the bolt sentiment in both parties, is hoping that there will not be extra tickets mentioned. It has announced that it will put up an electoral ticket in every State this year, and expects if the talk of bolting Republicans and Democrats should die away, to poll the largest vote in its history.

It would hope for a particularly large vote in the South, where Democrats, who might be disgruntled over Smith's nomination, for any one of the three chief reasons for his weakness in that section, might vote for the Prohibition nominee, but would not like to vote a ticket with the label "Republican."

Senator Reed, whose decisive defeat in Oregon was such a disappointment to his followers, sent a telegram to friends in West Virginia indignantly denying any thought of not supporting the Democratic ticket. "No matter who the party might nominate," he charged that the report he would bolt was being circulated with a view to embarrassing him.

This follows the action of Joseph Daniels, of North Carolina, President Wilson's Secretary of the Navy, who insisted in a telegram replying to an invitation to run on a third ticket that to drive the Republican party out of power was far more important than to defeat Smith.

Underlying all this talk of bolts from the two major parties, however, which probably will not materialize at all, is a situation in the two parties which promises the most interesting campaign in many years. There has not been a really close election since 1916, and even then the number fits from the proposed plan will overbalance the damage to the sardine industry there is at least an added reason for careful husbanding and development in other lines.

In a meeting devoted to optimism, it would be possible to find two strongly on the side of the Atlantic salmon. In comparison with a catch of 200,000 pounds forty years ago we have just a remnant of these runs at the present time virtually confined to the Penobscot River and one or two smaller streams.

As a natural resource the Atlantic salmon is at present negligible in your State. If I point out that the catch of lobsters 40 years ago was about 25 million pounds annually and is at present about 6 million pounds, you will point out that the value of the smaller quantity is more than double that of the 25 million pounds. This is, of course, the result of an insignificant and tremendous increase in price—about 15 fold. I merely intend to emphasize that there are certain weak spots in your marine fishery resources and that these resources will not be automatically self-perpetuating in years to come and that they are of sufficient importance to merit your deepest attention.

Ten thousand of your people are employed in various branches of the fishing industry. The fishermen alone receive over $4,000,000 for their catch and the manufactured fishery products all produced in the State have a value of $7,500,000 and the salaries paid to persons engaged in the processing of these products for the consumer amount to $1,500,000.

There is a sad story of a fishery with a declining output is subjected to the very action that will hasten its decline, namely, the use of more units of gear and more effective gear. While the intensity of the fishing may be increased to a point where the very existence of the fish is threatened, to the casual observer everything may appear rosy due to the fact that more fish are being landed and marketed. The first step in fish husbandry is, therefore, to regulate the intensity of fishing effort.

The accomplishment of this purpose involves—1.—The conduct of fishery investigations to determine the habits, the of States which turned out to be pivotal was very small.

The local campaign for the nomination of both Smith and Hoover, there will be more doubtful States than in any election since the Civil War. There may develop some big drift which will make the ultimate result apparent in advance, but on the eve of the conventions the roster of States which will be battle grounds is prodigious.

In the first place the Northeastern group of States, all normally Republican, are admitted by such leaders as Secretary Mellon to be the real battleground. These include Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, New Jersey and Delaware. Some would even include New Hampshire and extremists claim that Pennsylvania on the wet issue is doubtful.

Then, because of objections to Governor Smith in the South, and because of resentment against Hoover due to the segregation issue, all the border States are in the doubtful column at the present moment. These are Kentucky, Tennessee, Oklahoma and Missouri, not to mention Maryland.

Some enthusiastic Republicans would put North Carolina and some other States of the Solid South in the doubtful column, because of the opposition to Smith as voiced by Senator Simmons. To most observers this would seem to be drawing a long bow, but it is on just this kind of threat that the anti-Smith Democrats are now making their last stand.

Because of the resentment against Hoover in connection with farm relief, Democrats are claiming that such States as North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Montana and even Nebraska are in danger. Illinois, it is claimed, may be doubtful because of the great Smith strength in winning wet Cook County, the disgruntled farm element in the heavy Republican vote of the State and feeling against Secretary Hoover down in "Egypt" (from the Vandana Railroad to Cairo) because of the segregation issue.

Democrats are even talking enthusiastically about Indiana and Ohio because of the bitter controversies inside the Republican organization in those States, though this seems as far-fetched to the outsider as the claim that North Carolina may go Republican out of resentment at Governor Smith's nomination.

In addition there are four small States in the West which are always doubtful, though usually inclined to be Democratic. These are Montana, Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico. Primary figures in California and Oregon leave little doubt that those States will be heavily Republican, and all reports are that Washington will be also so that the Pacific Coast on the basis of the present situation is not included even in the most optimistic forecast of the Democratic claims in the doubtful list.

In all probability, however, when the two conventions have adjourned and party lines are tightened up, there will be much less talk of disaffection and bolts. The drives now on are intended to frighten the party leaders at Kansas City and Houston. When the conventions are over the objective will have been removed.

CALIFORNIA WANTS HALE

Prominent Master Mariner, Formerly of Maine, Emphatically Urges Re-election of the Senator.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—
The two letters recently printed in your columns, commenting on the candidacy of Gov. Brewster for U. S. Senator—one written by Judge Gould and the other by former Senator Gardner—brought to my mind a picture of what might possibly happen if Gov. Brewster should be elected to succeed Senator Hale, though it is difficult to imagine such a thing, knowing Senator Hale as I do and judging the people of Maine, who from their past history, have sent their best men to Congress and kept them there.

Looking back on Mr. Brewster's record since he became Governor, there are two incidents come to my attention, that set me to thinking seriously, would it be good policy to elect him to the office of U. S. Senator? The first incident was his controversy with Gov. Baxter. The second was his apparent efforts to defeat the election of Senator Gould.

In both instances Gov. Brewster may have been and probably was sincere in thinking that he was right, but he demonstrated a personal disposition to get before the public in matters where, for the best interests of his party—he is a Republican—he should stand with and support the Republican party.

There is a small group in the U. S. Senate called "Insurgents," led by Senator La Follette. This group votes as it pleases, with the Republicans or Democrats, as it feels inclined. The group is worked on by the Democrats in their efforts to defeat Republican measures. There is a question in my mind whether Gov. Brewster would if in the Senate stay with his party or go with the Insurgents. The Republican majority in the Senate is so small that it would be a serious matter for the Republican party.

Although a resident and voter of California, I call Rockland my home. I follow the progress of the Grand Old State with a great deal of interest. My faith in Maine leads me to believe that Mr. Hale will be returned to the Senate. California needs him, as does every State bordering on the water. We need Congressman White and General Lord, as well, to carry on the work in which they are engaged and which is of such vital importance.

HELD FOR OLD BURGLARY

Ray Holt, Complainant In An Assault Case, Has Trouble On His Own Hands.

Ray Holt was held for the September grand jury yesterday in the sum of $300, charged with breaking into the residence of Mrs. Henry Closson on the Owl's Head road and stealing clothing which the owner valued at $110.

The case immediately followed an arrest, and instituted a searching inquiry into the Holt case. Holt, a neighbor with whom she left the key to the assault case, for Hart was the material witness against Holt. They are cousins incidentally, but lately have not been in accord on some matters, and the outcome was a fist encounter which led to Hart's arrest and the imposing of a fine of $25 and costs. Hart had pleaded guilty and was not represented by counsel. E. W. Pike appeared for Holt, and County Attorney Campbell was present at the hearing.

City Marshal Robert A. Webster, who had for some time been suspicious of Holt, profited by Hart's arrest and instituted a searching inquiry into the Holt case. Holt was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Ludwick.

Mrs. Closson, first witness in the Holt case, told the court that her house had been entered four times during her absence in California, her first intimation of the breaks coming from Mrs. William Donohue, a neighbor with whom she left the key.

When Mrs. Closson made an examination she found that every one of the nine rooms in the house had been ransacked, all of the drawers being pulled out and their contents turned topsy-turvy. Practically everything had been taken from a moth-proof closet, including a fur coat, chinella coat and two suits which had belonged to Mrs. Closson's deceased husband.

Entrance had been effected by taking off a storm window at the rear of the house and prying off the lock of the inside window. Mud tracks were found in the various rooms, but Mrs. Closson was so excited by the burglary that she forgot to examine them.

George F. Hart told of meeting Holt one night in February (this was in 1927) and said that Holt wanted him to take him to Owl's Head. They went to a point beyond the Owl's Head town hall and the witness then found the automobile to which Holt had come, and went to the rear of a white house. Witness heard a sound like the smashing of glass, and later Holt reappeared with both arms full of clothing which he deposited in the back of the car. Arriving in Rockland Holt took the clothing into his house in Holt's lane.

"If you thought that a burglary was committed, why haven't you informed the officers before this?" asked Attorney Pike.

"Because I didn't think it was any of my business," Holt replied.

"How did you happen to tell about it now?"

"Because the officers asked me if I knew anything about the breaks," Holt replied.

"Did you have an idea Holt was doing anything wrong?"

"Sure."

"Sure."

A LONGER CLOSED SEASON

And a Double Gauge Limit Seen As Helps To Lobster Industry By Commissioner O'Malley.

One of the most interesting addresses delivered at the recent economic conference in Bangor, and of most import to those engaged in fisheries, was delivered by Hon. Henry O'Malley, Commissioner of Fisheries, U. S. Department of Commerce, and was entitled "Maine's Greatest Asset—Fishing." The following abstract is presented.

A survey of the history of the fisheries reveals a constant tendency—that of decline and shrinkage. Since 1902 the number of fishermen has shrunk from 9,000 to less than 6,000 and the annual catch of 250 million pounds has been reduced over 50 per cent to less than 120 million pounds. You produced 12 million pounds of lobsters in 1902 and only 3½ million pounds in 1924. Only 3½ million pounds of clams were taken in that year in comparison with 5½ million pounds earlier. The same story applies to herring and hake. Haddock is the only species registering a material gain in catch during the present century.

One of your most important industries, that of sardine canning is partly a borrowed resource in that it depends largely on Canada for its supply of raw materials. While last year's pack exceeded 30 million pounds valued at $5,250,000 it would undoubtedly greatly exceed these values if the pack were put up more nearly to meet the American appetite which is so largely calling European products for the satisfaction of its sardine hunger.

I am afraid you will be confronted with the necessity of making one of those nice balance between the relative values of industries. There is proposed the so-called Passamaquoddy power project which contemplates the erection of a dam and dams across Passamaquoddy Bay. The bulk of the sardine catch comes from nearby Canadian waters, especially Charlotte county. Conditions in the Passamaquoddy Bay area appear to be unusually favorable for the spawning of the herring and there is a very immediate question as to whether a dam across the mouth of the Bay would not change conditions as to largely wipe out this important fishery. It involves, therefore, a possible detriment to one of Maine's most important fisheries and if you consider that other benefits from the proposed plan will overbalance the damage to the sardine industry there is at least an added reason for careful husbanding and development in other lines.

In a meeting devoted to optimism, it would be possible to find two strongly on the side of the Atlantic salmon. In comparison with a catch of 200,000 pounds forty years ago we have just a remnant of these runs at the present time virtually confined to the Penobscot River and one or two smaller streams.

NEW PRESIDENTS

Community Chest and Children's Playground Elect Officers.

Henry B. Bird was elected president of Rockland Community Chest Inc., at a meeting of the directors Tuesday afternoon. George W. Gay was made vice president, Charles G. Hewett, secretary and Ardrey E. Offt treasurer. A close checkup on the recent campaign showed it to have been in many ways the most successful in the series of five held thus far, the most encouraging feature having been the spontaneous and willing contributions made by the small givers which helped offset the defection of some of the large contributors of other days.

The Chest thus starts its fifth year under auspicious circumstances, its course endorsed by the people and its treasury filled. It is the only Chest in Maine at present though Portland and other cities are at work on similar projects.

Children's Playground also elected officers, the directors unanimously making Frank S. Rhodes, president, Mrs. John I. Snow and Mrs. John H. Flanagan were made vice presidents, Charles G. Hewett, secretary and Ardrey E. Offt, treasurer. The general policy of the institution will remain the same as during the pleasant past. A special effort is to be made to secure a concrete wading pool this season with Supt. E. L. Toner, Mrs. J. H. Flanagan and W. I. Ayer as a special committee to work out the details. These directors were elected for two and three year terms: A. C. McLoon, Kennedy Crane, Gilbert T. Baker, John W. Thompson, H. C. Chatto, W. I. Ayer and John M. Richardson. The season will open June 18 and continue through Labor Day.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

If I had to live my life again I would have made a rule to read some poetry and listen to some music at least once a week. The loss of these tastes is a loss of happiness.—Charles Darwin.

CARRY ON!
It's easy to fight when everything's right, and you're mad with the thrill and glory; It's easy to cheer when victory's near. And wallow in fields that are gay. It's a different song when everything's wrong. When you're feeling infernally mortal; When it's ten against one, and hope there is none.

Buck up, little soldier, and die for it;
Carry on! Carry on!
There isn't much punch in your blow. You're glaring and staring and biting out loud;
Carry on! Carry on!
You're muddy and bloody, but never you mind. Carry on! Carry on!
You haven't the ghost of a show. It's looking like death, but while you've a breath, Carry on, my son! Carry on!

And so in the strife of the battle of life It's easy to fight when you're winning; It's easy to slay, and slay and be brave. When the dawn of success is beginning. But the man who on most despair and defeat With a cheer, there's the man of God's chosen.

402.
The man who can fight to Heaven's own height Is the man who can fight when he's losing.

Carry on! Carry on!
Things never were looking so black. But show that you haven't a cowardly streak, And though you're unlikely you never are weak.

Carry on! Carry on!
Buck up for another attack. It's looking like hell, but—you never can tell: Carry on, old man! Carry on!

There are some who drift out in the deserts of doubt, And some who in brushiness wallow; There are others, I know, who in piety go Because of a Heaven to follow. But to labor with zest, and to give of your best, For the sweetness and joy of the giving; To help folks along with a hand and a song; Why, there's the real sunshine of living.

Carry on! Carry on!
Fight the good fight and true: Believe in your mission, great life with a cheer: There's big work to do, and that's why you are here.

Carry on! Carry on!
Let the world be the better for you; And at last when you die, let this be your cry.

Carry on, my soul! Carry on!

The Courier-Gazette

Rockland, Me., May 24, 1928.
 Personally appeared Frank S. Liddle who on oath declares that he is President of the office of The Courier-Gazette, and that of the issue of this paper of May 22, 1928, there was printed a total of 6,432 copies.
 Before me, FRANK R. MILLER,
 Notary Public.

Better is a dry morsel, and quietness therewith, than a house full of sacrifices with strife.—Proverbs 17:1.

Up in Penobscot county the Republicans are not on occasion for doubt as to where they stand on the United States Senator question. A Hale For Senator Club has been organized "with an executive committee of more than two thousand members and hundreds of others joining," the newspaper dispatch states and among the names quoted are those of men and women most prominent in the business, professional and social circles of that region. The statement adopted by the club reviews the public career and achievements of Senator Hale, concluding with the expressed belief that "he is an honor to the exalted office that he holds and has attained a position in the Senate that no newcomer could attain for years. We wish to go on record as declaring our belief that the interests of the Nation, and the State, and fair treatment of a faithful public servant alike demand his re-nomination." The action of these up-river Republicans is in line with a statewide movement among thoughtful voters of the party which is assuming large proportions.

Congressman Stobbs of Worcester, Mass., speaking to The Courier-Gazette's Washington correspondent (Griffin) pays a tribute to Congressman White of Maine, who, he says, "has accomplished the most constructive job of work along legislative lines of any member of Congress this season." Declaring that the chairman of the House committee on merchant marine and fisheries is entitled to signal praise, Mr. Stobbs added:

"I refer particularly to Mr. White's work upon the merchant marine bill, but I also have in mind his accomplishments in regard to the radio bill. He made the merchant marine measure which he introduced. He went about a great task in the right way. The bill was not put in his hands ready-made, the completed proposal of some organization. He talked with people, he read, and gradually and successfully he wrote the White measure. For weeks he was too busy to see hardly anyone. All session he has been an uncommonly busy man. And he has accomplished very much."

How the matter of the election of a United States Senator from Maine is viewed by Republicans beyond the borders of the State, is suggested by the communication from Captain Tibbets, printed in today's issue. The writer, one of the men prominent in business and shipping interests of the Pacific Coast, is qualified to estimate the weight of Senator Hale as a figure in national life. He rightly regards it as unthinkable that the Republicans of Maine should for a moment consider displacing so able and experienced a public servant, whose devotion to the interests of the people of Maine has never wavered and who in his public career has helped to sustain that high and unique position in national affairs which the Pine Tree State has maintained for a hundred years.

The explosion of a tank in Hamburg and the killing and prostration of citizens resulting from the escape of deadly poison gas, points to what future wars between so-called civilized nations may present. Germany says that the gas, the most deadly known, was destined for American dye works, but the fact that it is a gas employed almost exclusively for chemical warfare raises the query whether dye works is not the better word. Also whether Germany under the peace treaty was authorized in having such an amount of it in storage.

Author, critic and poet, the death last week of Sir Edmund Gosse removes from British literary circles one who for more than half a century, has been among its conspicuous ornaments. In particular his writings were touched with a delightful atmosphere of the seventeenth century. Some of his poems of that ilk, illustrated by the rare artist Hugh Thomson, have a place of honor upon our shelves of which no other writer is able to dispossess them.

"Taken to the Knox Hospital." An issue of this paper would be an unusual one that did not contain in its news items that statement at least once, and often several times repeated. Every town in the region roundabout contributes occasion for its employment, suggesting to how great an extent the hospital has become a necessary refuge to the sick and injured of all this section.

The production of gas is reported to show an increase of 352 percent since twenty-five years ago, figures brought down to the present year. With state and presidential campaigns rapidly getting under way there is every probability that the present year will see these figures considerably added to.

Fred E. Burkett of Union Once Had a Very Large Collection.

Union, May 22.
 Editor of The Courier-Gazette:

I noticed your name mentioned in a recent issue of The Courier-Gazette as a coin collector. I did have quite a collection but used the same to go on a trip with and never regretted it. I would not advise any one to be a coin collector.

I retained the coppers and small stuff. The big Liberty cent was first coined in 1796 and was coined until 1857. I have nearly all the dates from 1890 until the present year. Some are very rare and scarce. In 1856 and 1857 both the big and little cent were coined. The little 1856 cent is rare and the big 1857 is also rare. I have all the remaining dates, but some of them are very hard to find. In 1922 very few were coined and I will give 25 cents each for them.

I have also the dates of the two-cent piece and some of them are very rare now. They were issued from 1864 to 1873.

The Buffalo five-cent piece is getting rare, as well as the five-cent piece without the words "five cents" on them. People used to place them and they would look like a five dollar gold piece. I have some of each. The three-cent piece is rare, both large and small. Half cents were coined from 1793 to 1857. I never collected them but have a perfect one of 1804. I have scrip in 5, 10, 25 and 50 cents denomination. These are all rare now and bring a good price. Silver trade dollars are rare, and some bring a good price. This is the dollar the government called in. It had more silver in it than the regular silver dollar.

I have some Maine Centennial 1820-1920 coins and some Columbian half dollars. There is no premium on them now but without doubt will be in the future. Nearly all Confederate currency has a value now. I have some. F. E. Burkett.

"ON MY SET"

Static "ruled the roost" Tuesday night and few fans had the courage to spend a prolonged session on their sets. As usual in such cases the power was unusually strong.

Estimates of the radio trade now place the number of receiving sets in use in the United States at nearly 12,000,000, serving an audience of not less than 40,000,000 persons. Figures on the number of receiving sets privately owned have recently been compiled by a number of bodies at the request of the Federal Radio Commission, which is anxious to furnish Congress with dependable figures on the number of receiving sets in use in the United States.

Radio transmission from the shortwave stations, 2XAF and 2XAD, Schenectady, KDKA Pittsburgh, and other American stations are being received well by listeners in many parts of the world, and are becoming increasingly popular. A listener in Northern Nigeria, West Africa, says he can hear KDKA, 2XAF, 2XAG (New York) and other American stations on most nights. Another radio enthusiast, making a voyage to India and back for the benefit of his health was able to receive 2XAD and 2XAF during practically the whole of the journey in varying strengths. In Great Britain most shortwave listeners have no difficulty in picking up these two stations and KDKA.

When will television invade the local field, and what radio fan will be the first to equip for it?

Yesterday's Globe bulletins brought the news that President Coolidge had vetoed the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, and that an attempt today would be made to over-ride the veto. This morning's bulletins reported that Noble had again flown over the North Pole, this time dropping a cross which had been presented to the gallant navigator by the Pope.

Too much static last night to make reception pleasant. Cheer up! The conditions will settle some day.

This morning's weather bulletin: Cloudy today; Friday, fair; not much change in temperature.

I believe Champion is the better spark plug because of the way Champions stand up in hard truck service.

Champion is the better spark plug because it has an exclusive silicone insulator specially treated to withstand the much higher temperatures of the modern high-compression engine. Also a new patented solid copper gasket seal that remains absolutely gas-tight under high compression. Special analysis electrodes which assure a fixed spark-gap under all driving conditions.

STRAND THEATRE

"Rose-Marie" which runs today and tomorrow at Strand Theatre, means fully as much to the screen as the famous musical play from which it was adapted meant to the stage.

Joan Crawford and James Murray are seen in the featured romantic roles and each is ideally suited to the role. The picture is lavishly presented at Strand Theatre with the full musical score.

On Saturday a big double feature bill will be shown, "Honor First" depicts Paris in 1914—when cut-throat Apaches turned heroes, when the boulevards were throbbing with life that so soon was to be sacrificed before the Teutonic wave of shell and gas. John Gilbert and Renee Adore are in the leading roles. The added attraction is "The Tigris" starring Dorothy Revier and Jack Holt who with Frank Leigh are required to stage a terrific little battle in a swift moving wagon drawn by runaway horses. Just as the tide is going against Holt, Dorothy Revier, as the gypsy "Tigris," dashes alongside on horseback, throws a knife between the two, killing the villain. She then grasps the reins and draws the wagon on and onto the back of her horse. It was a tricky piece of business and one which required considerable practice before it was perfected.

Harold Lloyd's newest comedy "Speedy" comes Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. It will bring to the screen the horse drawn street car, which was a familiar figure on the streets of any city, a few decades ago.

It was during the filming of "The Kid Brother" that the idea of incorporating the street car of the type that was drawn by horse occurred to the comedian. Lloyd dispatched a location man to New York City, where after delving around for a time, he was finally successful in discovering one which had escaped the bonfire. In his current attraction he introduces a new actress, who is sure to equal the record of his previous leading ladies, namely, Bebe Daniels, Mildred Davis and Jobyna Ralston. The newcomer is Ann Christy—adv.

PARK THEATRE

A double bill will prevail today. There will be five acts of vaudeville and a feature picture entitled "The Devil's Truism" with Bette Bennett—a mighty story of a mother who staked for her children and of a child who was willing to sin for her; a story that will tear at the heart strings of the world.

The vaudeville acts are Latell Bros. and Adelaide, "Spunking Surprise," acrobatic dancing, hand balancing and tumbling; Gehan and Gerretson, piano, singing and talking; Martin and Emmett, comedy, singing and talking; Leo and Arch in "East and West," Melville and Stetson, "Vaudeville's Versatile Pair."

The double feature program for Friday and Saturday is Tom Mix in "Hello Cheyenne" and "Beyond London Lights"—adv.

MORROW IS COMING

Ambassador To Mexico Will Rest At His North Haven Cottage.

Dwight W. Morrow, United States ambassador to Mexico, announced Tuesday that he would leave Saturday morning for the United States with his family.

Immediately there was much speculation as to the effect which his trip may have on the two outstanding Mexican problems—the religious controversy with the Roman Catholic church and the pending agreement between the Mexican government and the international committee of bankers at New York on the Mexican foreign debt.

The announced purpose of the trip, which is to keep the ambassador and his family in the United States for a month, is the opportunity to report personally to Secretary of State Kellogg, to attend the graduation of his daughter Anne from Smith college, and to spend the balance of his time at North Haven where he has a summer home.

AARON H. MAXCY

Aaron H. Maxcy died at his late home on the Old County road Sunday at the age of 70 years.

Mr. Maxcy was born in Hope, the son of Smith and Julie Ann (Pennington) Maxcy. On Christmas Eve 1879, he was married to Nellie Jones of Rockland, and with the exception of 14 years spent in Massachusetts he made his home in this city for the nearly 50 years of his married life.

His last sickness was long and peculiarly trying, but his cheerful will and patient optimism kept him constantly a source of inspiration and encouragement to all who met him. Life to him was sweet, and work was a rich heritage. The hardest part of his sickness was the enforced retirement from activity which it brought. However, no word of complaint escaped his lips.

Mr. Maxcy's home and family were a rich life. A loving and faithful husband and an exemplary and careful parent, he gave his best to those he loved the best. Many times of late he had mentioned the approaching golden anniversary of his marriage, and looked forward to it with keen interest. Back of all his moral qualities lay the secret of his strength. He was a sincere and consistent Christian during his whole life, and for about 45 years he was actively associated with the Baptist church.

He is survived by the widow, a daughter, Mrs. Richard McElligott of Lynn, Mass., a son, Leo Maxcy of Dunstable, Mass., and one brother, Smith Maxcy of West Rockport. Funeral services were held from the residence Tuesday afternoon with Rev. Oscar W. Stuart of the Littlefield Memorial Church officiating. The bearers were Russell Bartlett, George H. Hart, William Erskine and Samuel Burkett, neighbors and friends who had brought much cheer to Mr. Maxcy during his last illness. The floral tributes were many and beautiful.

POLITICAL BRIEFS

Unopposed states of delegates and alternates to the Republican and Democratic presidential conventions were elected in Tuesday's statewide primary in South Dakota. While they are not legally bound to do so, according to party leaders, they are expected to abide by the action of the recent state conventions in supporting Lowden and Smith for the nominations.

Both of the states United States senators—Norbeck and McMaster—are among the 13 Republican delegates.

Republicans split their convention Tuesday under impetus of a heated campaign between factions favoring the presidential nomination of Hoover and those holding out for an un-instructed delegation to the national convention at Kansas City. The Smith Democrats meantime were claiming to have been double crossed in their convention.

Predictions that Hoover would defeat Senator Goff in the West Virginia primary and that Smith would overwhelmingly defeat Reed there were made Tuesday by careful observers just returned from the State. The prediction that Hoover would win the Republican primary came as a big surprise, as it had been understood that the regular organization was lined up solidly behind Senator Goff before the Senator decided to enter his name. It develops, however, that the organization is split wide open, thus giving Hoover an even break so far as machine strength is concerned.

A new excuse for looking upon the wine whiff "It is red" was given by Ralph O'Neill of Waltham, Mass., in Municipal Court, Tuesday, when he told Judge Miller that he drank because his feet were sore. "You see, Judge," he said, "I can walk better when I have a little aboard!" But Judge Miller thought that O'Neill's feet needed a rest and he gave the respondent 30 days in jail.

The Courier-Gazette yesterday was shown a banknote issued by the Northern Maine Railroad (then styled the "Great Central Mail Route") in the denomination of $50. There is no date on the bill, but it is not unlikely that it was issued in war-time, as one side of the bill carries the picture of an armed soldier. On the reverse side is a map of the North Missouri Railroad.

At a special meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary these delegates and alternates were appointed for the annual state convention to be held in Sanford, July 4-6: Delegates, Mrs. Corinne Edwards, Mrs. Irene Moran, Mrs. Gladys Philbrick, Mrs. Hazel Haskell and Mrs. Geneva Upham. The two Army amphibian planes which went to Greenly Island to assist in getting the German airship Bremen back in commission, were forced down at Stonington Tuesday morning on account of the fog. They landed over Rockland shortly after noon that day, flying very low and very rapidly. Fog again forced them down near Portland, Rockland seems to be right in the pathway of trans-Atlantic flights.

The trustees of the First Baptist Church have negotiated for the purchase of the E. Mont Perry house on Beech street and a meeting of the parish is called for Friday evening at 7.30 o'clock to take action authorizing the transaction. The purpose of buying the property is to secure a parsonage nearer to the center of the city. The house residence on Middle street hill which has served as parsonage is not convenient, as it removes a clergyman too far from his sphere of active work. The property, a desirable one for general residential purposes, has been put on the market for sale.

Mr. Trueworthy has four acres under cultivation and will also conduct a variety store this summer. John A. Cavanaugh who has been employed at the cement plant, was fined $10 and costs ($25.48) in Municipal Court yesterday on a "hit and run complaint." It is charged that Cavanaugh's automobile collided with a car owned by George H. Ayer of Camden Monday night, and that he kept on driving. The number of his car was furnished to Mr. Ayer by a spectator, and Cavanaugh was arrested by the new State highway patrolman, Daniel S. Pray. Cavanaugh pleaded "not guilty" on the ground that he had been told by other occupants of his car that the other automobile had proceeded on its way. Mr. Ayer's car was damaged about $35.

Through the efforts of Senator Hale, who is chairman of the Senate Naval Affairs committee, Maine coast towns will see lots of airships and warships this summer. The Utah will arrive here July 24 and have leave until Aug. 2, while the Wyoming will be here the week of Aug. 3, in connection with the fleet maneuvers and the fair at Knox Trotting Park. Ships for Rockland were requested by Fred C. Black, who represented the Old Home Week committee; and Charles G. Hewett, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. The dirigible Los Angeles will cruise up and down the Maine coast during the summer, recalling the sensation which the ill-fated Shenandoah furnished.

Free motion pictures depicting the sleeping arrangements employed from primitive times up to the present day are being shown afternoon and evening daily at the Eastern Furniture Co. store all this week. The story told is one of real interest. In connection with the pictures Manager Baker is staging a comprehensive display of mattresses and bedding, product of Maine's own firm, the Portland and Bangor factories of the Dayson Bedding Co. The pictures and display are educational in nature designed to show true points of value and economy in the selection of bedding, the way to tell good and lasting bedding, pillows, etc. from inferior grades, thus securing better sleeping comfort and real economy. The public is invited to this exhibition with the full facilities of the great Eastern store at their disposal, an opportunity to browse around among the thousands of pieces of modern furniture and to hear the beautiful new Brunswick Panatrophe in the latest selections.

Wendell Clark has been elected class marshal by the Rockland High School Seniors. Donald Abbott of Yarmouth brings the picture here on invitation of club members. It will feature some of the great golfers of the country and present them in play. The hour is 7.30. Simple refreshments will be served during the evening. There is to be no charge. Members are desired to bring with them in particular any guests who have a prospective interest in golf.

There was much smoke and water at The Brook this morning, especially water, with some excitement not to demand. The smoke was provided by the city's veteran steam fire engine James F. Sears, No. 2, called thither to remedy the condition caused by a plugged catch basin. The basement of The Courier-Gazette and some of its neighbors felt the waters of the flooded street. Old "No. 2" showed the effects of her age and wouldn't lift the water as she did a half century ago but did clear the catch basin eventually. Commissioner of Public Works Gardner was field marshal and Capt. Chayne of Central Fire Station, at the throttle of No. 2, was chief of staff.

Word comes that John McInnis has been engaged by the Famous Players motion picture company as a substitute organist in its chain of theatres. The musical progress of this young Rockland lad has been remarkable and that he should receive such recognition while yet a pupil in High School is quite outside the usual. James O'Hara has been the instructor of young McInnis, who has had practice in motion picture work at the Studio City, where he has frequently substituted, while his talent has also been shown upon local church organs. For the past three years he has been the regular organist at Pratt Memorial Church. McInnis is 16 years old.

Motion pictures of life at Hatcher Mountain Camp made by Edw. Graham of South Brewer, whose son was at the camp last season, were shown in the Thorndike Grill yesterday afternoon before an interested group of spectators which included many of the town's young people.

The Norumbega which the captain commands in summer was built in 1902. The winter run steamer, the Penquoit was built in 1900 and then named the Long Island. On the steamers are Capt. Norton in command; Capt. Rodney Sadler, rounding out 29 years of service in June, is pilot; Capt. Foss, a veteran steamboat man of a quarter-century on Frenchman's Bay is mate. Years ago horses used to be transported, sometimes 50 carloads in a season. They still take over beautiful horses, for the island's summer colonists.

Directors of the Knox Trotting Park Association met last night with Ben Williams of New York and J. S. Butler of Lewiston as special guests. Plans were discussed for the big fair to be held at the park in August. Mr. Butler is manager of Lewiston Fair and brought a wealth of valuable information to the promoters of the local event. Mr. Williams is proprietor of a 10-car road show, probably the biggest carnival in the East. Many fine attractions are being lined up for the fair already and the famous old Knox will be put in the best shape of its history. The whole area is being cleared of bushes, the track ditched and put in apple-pie order. A large new stable is to be built, the grandstand improved and enlarged and the lot fence about 17.5 ft. will be put into improving the plant. Mr. Frank Donahue is president of the Association, J. H. Hobbs of Camden is secretary, Ira W. Feeney, treasurer and G. W. Bacheider, J. H. Hobbs, James A. Brown, Dr. William Ellingwood and Fred C. Black, trustees.

Harrison P. MacAlman has resigned his position as rural mail carrier.

CAP'T. JOE NORTON

Everybody Knows This Maine
Central Skipper—Interesting Recollections.

For 29 years Capt. Joseph L. Norton has been in the service of the Maine Central Railroad on its Frenchman's Bay steamers, plying between Bar Harbor and the railroad terminus. He was a captain when he assumed the job in 1899.

He remembers many interesting incidents. It was on a June morning in 1884 when the first train came through to Mount Desert Ferry. He recalls that the late Captain Oliver commanded the Electa, who brought those first visitors by rail and boat to Bar Harbor. In his twenty-nine years of service, Capt. Norton has never been in an accident of any degree. The ferry fatality of 1899 gave the captain, his crew and his boat, the hardest day he had ever had. He tells of crowds transported that day when the steamer took on those who had escaped that they might get to Bar Harbor with news of their safety, and carried back and forth across the bay various necessities for caring for the dead and injured. A ship collapsed killing more than a score of persons.

The Norumbega which the captain commands in summer was built in 1902. The winter run steamer, the Penquoit was built in 1900 and then named the Long Island. On the steamers are Capt. Norton in command; Capt. Rodney Sadler, rounding out 29 years of service in June, is pilot; Capt. Foss, a veteran steamboat man of a quarter-century on Frenchman's Bay is mate. Years ago horses used to be transported, sometimes 50 carloads in a season. They still take over beautiful horses, for the island's summer colonists.

WOMAN WAS ALL RUN-DOWN

Helped By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Evansville, Ind.—"I am writing to tell you how grateful I am that there is such a medicine as yours for sale in our stores. I could hardly drag around. I was all run-down. I have taken 12 bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound so far and am going to take it until I am well. My friends notice the change in my appearance and my husband said today that I am looking so much better and he wants me to continue taking it. I hope to help all women who are run-down and suffer from nervousness by recommending your medicines."—Mrs. VICTOR N. SCHLESER, 44 Hazel Avenue, Evansville, Indiana.

POLITICAL BRIEFS

Sixty men and women, wielding a total of 40 votes, were delegated by the Texas State Democratic Convention to attend the national convention and vote for a dry platform and dry presidential candidate, as a result of dramatic victories by Gov. Moody over first one and then the other "extreme" factions of the party in Texas. Supporters of Smith suffered a crushing defeat when Gov. Moody took personal charge of his campaign for a prohibition delegation to the convention and pulled a victory out of the fire. The Smith men were defeated, 464 to 270 in their fight to allow each district to name its delegates to the national convention.

I'll match this malt against 'em all...
—regardless!

Whenever a customer whose trade I don't want to lose asks me which is the best malt to buy, I say: "Budweiser."

Of course, I can't give any premiums with Bud or any cans free for a few labels. There's too much real quality in the product for that. BUT...

Every can that goes out of my store makes a real friend for me, and friends come back to buy again.

PLEASANT BEACH

Every year the "Beachites" come earlier and earlier. The Philbrooks have been at their camp at frequent intervals through the winter, the Goulds came May 3, the O'Donnells the 14th and the Haskell the 18th. The McLons and Blithens have been down and aired their cottages.

The winter storms washed the planks off the wharf, undermined the stone steps, and blew down the large beautiful larch tree beside the McLon cottage.

Now that there has been a "clean up" week in Rockland it would be well if some of the cottage owners here would take more interest in cleaning up about their places and making the Beach more attractive. One building is being allowed to go to wreck and ruin and there is debris about one of the cottages, aftermath of lumberjack occupancy.

Grand surf last full tide the seas have made running ahead of the New England gales.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank O'Donnell of Waterville have opened their cottage for the summer. They are always among the early arrivals and the latest to leave in the fall.

Judge and Mrs. Harold Haskell arrived at their newly acquired cottage (former F. W. Wright cottage) at midnight of the 18th having left their home in Brookline, Mass., at 5 p. m. of the same day. They stayed but two days this time, but expect to return for a three weeks' vacation beginning June 3.

Capt. Frank Foster has built five new row boats this winter and has already sold three—one to Harry Waterman, one to Dr. Frank Smith, and the other to Archie Rackliff. Nice "knitting work" for a young man of 52 to help pass the long winter.

HOPE

Mrs. B. H. Nichols is entertaining her mother, Mrs. Partridge of Stockton Springs and sister Mrs. Warren of Fryeburg for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Flint of Waltham, Mass., are at their Head-of-the-Lake cottage.

Forest Thomas of (Proctor, Vt., was in town last week the guest of his grandfather Albion Allen and other relatives.

The regular meeting of the Grange will be held next Monday night followed by an ice cream and cake social.

The school entertainment given by pupils of the Corner and Payson schools was enjoyable as usual and much credit is due the teacher Miss Evelyn Philbrook and Miss Ellen Thurlow—as well as the children in helping swell the League fund.

Mrs. Randall Wadsworth is at home after several months spent in Connecticut and Massachusetts cities.

The houses of John Mariner and Loring Athearn look well with their new coat of spring paint.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Collamore of Rockport spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Noyes.

Some of the cottagers are spending their spare time on Hobbs' Pond in spite of the backward weather.

Mrs. Helen Brooks of Waterville, Mass., was a visitor last week at L. A. Weaver's.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer True returned Sunday from a visit to their little daughter Wilma who is slowly convalescing in a Massachusetts hospital.

Miss Harleth Hobbs has been visiting with relatives in Rockland. May basket hanging still continues the favorite outdoor sport along with farming while house cleaning and nursing colds are apparently helping to balance the other side.

NORTH HOPE

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ulmer and little son and Mrs. Conant of Rockland were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Pease.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Perry and son Alvin of Lincolnville and Great Head who were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Perry, returned to Spruce Head Monday morning by auto as far as Camden, thence by boat. Mrs. Perry will stay a while at Eagle with her father George Brown who has recently suffered a partial shock but is slowly gaining.

Mrs. W. E. Hall was in Camden last week keeping house for her daughter Mrs. Jennie Phillips who was on a business trip to Lewiston and vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Perry and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Pease attended the district meeting of Rebekahs Saturday in Waldoboro.

A much needed rain is still on the job and has been gently falling since Sunday. As a result the grass is shooting up and buds and leaves are bursting forth. Now a little sunshine will make our little world a mass of spring blossoms.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bartlett of Auburn and Mrs. Jennie Phillips and children of Camden were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hall. Mrs. Hall has been quite ill the past week and is now suffering from a severe cold.

APPLETON RIDGE

Miss Lizzie Fuller left Saturday for Saco where she will visit Mrs. Nettie Mitchell.

Truman Brown of Union was the guest of relatives and friends here Sunday.

Mrs. Inez Packard, of Rockland, says:

Whiter clothes—this safe scrubless way

"LET me join the Rinso boost-ers!" says this neighbor of yours—one of the thousands of happy Rinso users in this section.

"Why, I've never seen clothes wash so white as Rinso gets them. And my! but it's safe!"

"Rinso suds are so rich and cleansing that when I take the clothes from the machine only the collars and cuffs need a little light rub or two. Even boiling isn't really necessary."

"Rinso goes so much farther than bar soap that I use it for all my cleaning. It's great for dishes, dissolves the grease in a jiffy. Fine, too, for woodwork and porcelain—doesn't scratch because there's no grit."

More than 32,000 washing machine demonstrators use Rinso to show their machines at their best. The makers of 32 leading washers endorse it for safety.

Rinso is great for tub washing, too. Saves hands—saves clothes. Get the BIG package today. For best results follow the easy directions on package.

NORTH WARREN

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Jameson were callers at Sanford Bucklin's in Waldoboro last Sunday. They found our old friend in poor health, but good spirits.

W. L. Gracie who has been in the hospital for many weeks has returned home. He gets around on crutches to some extent.

Miss Ruth Lenox who has been in the hospital for appendicitis the past two weeks, is with relatives in Thomaston for a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gracie are visiting his mother, Mrs. Clara Gracie a few days.

Mrs. Ray Matthews of Rockland called on her aunt, Mrs. Josie Cummings recently.

White Oak Grange held a very enjoyable meeting Friday, it being Neighbors Night and the hall was filled with grangers and neighbors and friends. The lecturer, Bennis Jameson, put on an excellent program which consisted of the farce "Too Much of a Good Thing" and minstrels, the real black ones too.

After the program there was a lunch of sandwiches and doughnuts, cakes, cookies and coffee, following which the young folks danced till morning. Mrs. Josie Cummings' condition remains about the same.

MOST people know this absolute antidote for pain, but are you careful to say Bayer when you buy it? And do you always give a glance to see Bayer on the box—and the word genuine printed in red? "Good morning motor"

"GOOD morning, Boss. Say, could you spare me for an hour down at the garage? I don't feel just right. Shouldn't wonder if the gear shift or diffy needed some grease. Or maybe, the clutch is slipping. Those birds never have much to say for themselves, but they do a lot of work and get awful mean when they don't feel right. When you have two pieces of steel working together, they are like a couple of strange bull terriers if you don't feed them plenty of oil and grease."

A NEW PLEASURE IN MOTORING FOR A FEW CENTS MORE A GALLON

WATCH those cars that draw up beside the Socony Special pump—new cars with high compression motors and veterans still going strong despite their carbonized cylinders.

Their owners are paying more a gallon—for what?

Not for transportation exactly. They could save the few cents, get Socony Gasoline, be absolutely protected against fuel troubles, and match mileage and up-keep records with anybody. No, the owners of these cars are looking for something different, and getting it. They are getting a perceptible improvement in the pick-up of the motor in traffic, a little more silk in the sound of its purr, a little more power on the steep hills, and a gratifying absence of knocking.

They're getting, in brief, a new and exciting pleasure in motoring, worth far more than the few extra cents they pay. Like Socony Gasoline and Socony Motor Oil, Socony Special is tested thirteen times before it reaches your car.

Let your motor be the judge

UNION

Ethel Cummings and Miss Ruby Martin were at South Hancock at Stinson's lobster pound Sunday and brought Mrs. Martin's aunt, Mrs. Walter, back to Union with them for a short visit.

Ethel Cummings and Ruby Martin and aunt were also visiting in Camden and Rockland last Monday. The Community Club met at Mrs. Sadie Lenfest's May 22. There were 25 members present being a business meeting and new officers elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. Mertie Judkins; vice president, Ethel Lovejoy and Nina Fuller; secretary, Dorris Webb; treasurer, Clara Light. The next meeting of the Club will be at the home of Mrs. Mertie Judkins, June 19. Ruby Martin, Doris Robbins and Geneva Prescott will be the hostesses.

Mrs. Ruby Martin has heard from her son Arnold who has arrived at the Navy training station at Rhode Island. Mr. and Mrs. George Merrifield have moved to Appleton to their farm they have recently bought. George Robbins and son are having their house painted.

Union Grammar school ball team beat the Appleton team 18 to 8 Thursday at the grounds in Appleton.

Mrs. Alice Williams and Mrs. Nanette Burns are in Portland attending to G. E. S. meeting.

The town fathers are doing a good chore at the Common filling gravel in the sag in front of the garage. This has been a bad place all spring as water stands there so long after rain. They have also put in two drains to carry the water from the upper side of the Common.

Mrs. Zina Nelson opened her lunch room over Messer's new garage last Thursday. Clarence Moody has opened his lunch room on the opposite side of the Common. No need for any one going through Union Common hungry.

Justin Ames called on his brother Joseph Ames in Appleton Sunday. Miss Grace Walker, Mrs. Laura Brackett and Miss Helen Starnett of Warren called on Mrs. Alice Ames last week.

Irvile Spear of Warren called on friends here Saturday.

Whooping cough is prevalent in his vicinity.

Mrs. Gertrude Ripley who has been at Waldoboro for a few days visit, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Delmore Cummings of Appleton and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sukforth of Burketville were recent callers of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Perry.

At last Friday evening's regular meeting of Naomi Chapter, O. E. S., the committee comprised Mrs. Lizzie Imbach, Mrs. Bella Anderson and Mrs. Maude Patterson. In the center of the refreshment table was erected an attractive Maypole with the little dancers in gay costumes around it, making a very attractive centerpiece. The favors were little Maybaskets filled with dainties, ice cream, cakes, fancy cookies and brownies were served, followed by entertaining clippings from newspapers, which furnished amusement. In the midst of the sociability a loud rap was heard at the door, to which the worthy matron, Mrs. Daisy Torrey, responded. Instead of greeting persons as she expected the cause of the alarm was found to be the hanging of a beautiful Maybasket filled with fruit for the W. M., a gift from the committee. The evening was spent most pleasantly and those who worked for its success are worthy of much credit.

CRIEHAVEN

Elsie Salminen who has been with Mrs. Rhodes the past year has returned to her home at West Rockport.

Wonder if Charles Kellogg the nature singer can compete with Robert O'Lincoln in bird warbling. His beautiful concerts are very much enjoyed, one about every half hour from five in the morning until late afternoon. There are two who usually sing together near the writer's cottage, first in the lilac bush, then they hop off to a tall weigela bush. They have evidently built their home and plan to spend the summer with us. Mrs. Bob is never seen—she is too busy with her domestic duties.

Sunday evening we had a much needed downpour of rain. The evening service that Rev. Preston Penzell was to hold had to be given up but our Sunday School was held as usual, with three new pupils in the primary grade. Three of the older pupils have completed the required work in Bible study and have their names sent to the Mission for presentation of Bibles when Mr. Guphill comes again.

Monday evening Mr. Pennell had a social at the club house which was much enjoyed. He will leave us Tuesday for services at Matineus for several weeks. His work here has been very acceptable and we hope to have him again.

I've Come Back to Buy

... I couldn't find anything that stacks up with today's Chandler

THAT'S the way it goes. The more that people look around, the more they recognize, appreciate and want the exclusive features and qualities of today's Chandler.

New Sixes and new Royal Eights of magnificent smartness—and chock-full of mighty Pikes Peak power.

More Power than Ever

Power that's absolutely remarkable. High-velocity power. Performance that has everything within hundreds of the price tagging behind in traffic and on the hills.

And with its new Westinghouse Vacuum Brakes, today's Chandler has them all stopped for stopping!

Real Safety Brakes

In modern driving, especially in traffic, there's a crying need for these quick-acting engine-power brakes.

Just a light tiptoe touch on the pedal brings today's Chandler to a quick, even, "cushioned" stop—three times easier and safer than is possible with mechanical or hydraulic brakes that depend entirely upon a driver's physical strength.

And another wonderful thing about Chandler is its "One Shot" centralized lubricating system. Push a plunger with your foot—and quicker than saying it, the chassis lubricates itself from end to end, automatically.

Last Word in Lubrication

No uncertainty. No fuss. No bother. No time out. No expense.

It's some automobile—in set-up, in get-up—in beauty, in behavior—in quality, features, everything.

A new Special Six Sedan, $995; a new Invincible Six Sedan, $1085; a new Big Six Metropolitan Sedan, $1525; a new Royal Eight Sedan, $1995—all prices f. o. b. factory. A total of thirty fashionable models. Come see, come drive, compare.

Nothing Amazing about this Battery Principle

Yet engineers agree that BATTERY BALANCE is the one all-important reason for battery dependability.

Every car owner will instantly appreciate why a really reliable battery must be based on this simple common-sense principle.

A SURPRISINGLY simple principle is Battery Balance. There's nothing amazing or hard to understand about it. Yet it is so absolutely basic that engineers everywhere agree that it is all-important in battery construction.

What Battery Balance is

Battery Balance is based on the recognized fact that every part of a storage battery is equally important.

To insure long and dependable service, every part of a battery must be designed right and built right at the very start. And every part must do exactly the right proportion of work so that no extra load will be thrown on any of the others.

This evenness of construction is Battery Balance. You can see for yourself the sound common sense behind it. And when you realize that the Exide Battery has perfect Balance, you can understand why an Exide gives such long and reliable service.

Made by The Electric Storage Battery Company—for forty years builders of storage batteries for every purpose—the Exide is a combination of the finest materials plus long experience in blending them into a perfectly balanced unit.

When you purchase an Exide Battery, you purchase a battery that is not only built as a unit but also operates as a unit.

The same scientific accuracy marks the construction of every part of the Balanced Exide.

LIBBY IN WARREN

Water Power, Roads and Youth Discussed by Governorship Candidate.

Herbert C. Libby of Waterville, candidate for the governorship nomination, addressed Warren Grangers Tuesday night, and discussed many subjects of interest to the public mind just now.

On the water power question Dr. Libby is unequivocally opposed to export of power generated within the State. He demands that the great power monopoly answer the fair questions that have been asked of them in good faith. He says they have lost the confidence of the Maine public because of their own arrogance.

On good roads Dr. Libby declares that we cannot go on building temporary roads with permanent bonds; that we must deal fairly with honesty and build roads that will outlast the bonds which paid for them. Dr. Libby's favorite subject is Youth, and the long and unending line of boys and girls that have passed and are passing under his observation in 25 years as superintendent of Vinalhaven schools and as professor in Colby College. Among Dr. Libby's sayings on this subject are the following:

"Let us help in every way we can to solve the intricate problems of the young. Let us be very patient with them. Only the most skillful educators like Dr. A. O. Thomas, Maine's efficient Commissioner of Education, is moving fast enough in educational problems to open out the complexities for the benefit of youth. Every great branch of study has become a tangle of branches. Among these the puzzled student must select."

"Have you thought that a student no longer studies medicine, but some branch of it. One makes a specialty of the ear, another the eye, a third the throat, a fourth the heart, another the liver, and so on. Other great courses are divided much the same."

"But first of all, let us set a good example for our children and our neighbors' children to follow."

"Let us not sneer at the very foundations of good Americanism—LAW."

"Let us not conspire to violate the principles of any one law and then complain because the young about us have a little respect for some other law."

"Let us not wink at violations of some law that we do like and then whine because other laws are winked at."

"Let us not elect to public office men for whom we set bad examples to the young in choosing laws which they will obey."

"Are we electing to public office men and women, in town, county and State, who believe in law? Are we setting that example for the young?"

Cute in a Baby-Awful at Three-and it's Dangerous

by Ruth Brittain

Thumb sucking does look sweet in a baby, but it is disgusting in the three-year-old and sometimes it hangs on until fifteen or sixteen! The habit may cause an ill-formed mouth or induce adenoids; and it always interferes with digestion. Pinning the sleeve over the hand; attaching mittens, or putting on cardboard cuffs, which prevent bending the arms at the elbows, are some of the ways to stop the habit.

Another bad habit—irregularity in bowel action—is responsible for weak bowels and constipation in babies. Give the tiny bowels an opportunity to act at regular periods each day. If they don't act at first, a little Fletcher's Castoria will soon regulate them. Every mother should keep a bottle of it handy to use in case of colic, cholera, diarrhea, gas on stomach and bowels, constipation, loss of sleep, or when baby is cross and feverish. Its gentle influence over baby's system enables him to get full nourishment from his food, helps him gain, strengthens his bowels.

Castoria is purely vegetable and harmless—the recipe is on the wrapper. Physicians have prescribed it for over 30 years. With each package, you get a valuable book on Motherhood. Look for Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper so you'll get the genuine.

DIRECTOR CRIE EXPLAINS

What Happens To Contributions For Legislative Lobster Suppers—Grateful To Friends.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

As director of Sea and Shore Fisheries I want to express my appreciation of the articles appearing in the Press Herald, Lewiston Journal and every other publication, giving their views regarding the letter written to the lobster license holders, asking them to contribute towards a supper to be given the 1928 Legislators, because it gives me an opportunity to explain how the State funds received by the Sea and Shore Fisheries Department are cared for, because I believe that in the past many have had mistaken ideas regarding the matter.

Miss Helen Davis, the chief clerk, goes to the Post Office every morning and noon for the mail, takes it to the office and opens it. All money received for fines and licenses is entered on the cash book and violation book and said money is put in a cash box by her and no other person has access to it. She personally deposits the money in the North National Bank and has two deposit slips checked by the clerk at the bank, one of the slips to be sent to the State Treasurer and the other kept in the office of Sea and Shore Fisheries.

Whenever a deposit is made, an income sheet is filled out and sent to the treasurer of the State and another to the State auditor, while a third is kept on file in this office. On these income sheets are the names of the persons from whom the money is received and the amounts received, also note is made as to what amounts are for, whether for fines or licenses.

If at any time Miss Davis is absent from the office the assistant clerk, Miss Doris Daggett, collects and opens the mail, she also has a private cash box in which no other person has access in which she puts all money received. When Miss Davis returns, Miss Daggett takes the money from the box and gives it to her. She immediately checks up the amount with the entries on the books and puts it in her cash box, thus she is responsible for all funds received.

RUPTURE EXPERT

For Men, Women and Children

COMING TO ROCKLAND

Representing
WM. S. RICE, Inc.
of ADAMS, N. Y.

The Rice Rupture Method Expert, personal representative of William S. Rice, Adams, N. Y., will be at the Rockland Hotel, Rockland, Me., Monday May 28. Every ruptured man, woman and child should take advantage of this great opportunity.

The Rice Method for Rupture is known the world over. You can now see this Method demonstrated and have a Rice Appliance fitted to you. Absolutely no charge unless you are satisfied to keep the outfit after having the Appliance adjusted and you see how perfectly and comfortably it holds. No harsh, deep pressing springs; nothing to gouge the flesh and make you sore. Can be worn night and day with positive comfort. Soft rubber-like composition pad, any degree of pressure required.

Don't wear a truss all your life when thousands have reported cures through using the Rice Method. Why suffer the burden of rupture if there is a chance to be free from truss-wearing forever? Anyway, it will cost you nothing to come in and learn all about the Rice Method and the wonderful opportunity for help and cure it offers in your case. Remember this Expert will be here only one day, then your opportunity will be gone. Just ask at the hotel desk for the Rice Expert and he will do the rest. Call any time from 9 to 12 a. m., 2 to 5 p. m., or 7 to 9 evenings. Don't miss this chance opportunity to see this Expert on Herma.

If for any reason you cannot call write for FREE TRIAL to by the Department of Sea and Shore Fisheries.

The director never has any of the money in his possession except to endorse the checks, and the Commissioners seldom, if ever, see a dollar belonging to the department.

When the contributions to the supper fund commenced to arrive, Miss Davis was asked to take charge of the money and she has done so, depositing it in the North National Bank at Rockland, and neither the Director or Commissioners will ever have one penny of the money in their hands, except that the Director endorses the few checks received.

At times the Commissioners are severely criticized by people who do not seem to have any regard for correct or truthful statements. I now want to say a few words in behalf of the Commissioners. Commissioner Cahill is serving his sixth term as Mayor of Bath, an honor seldom, if ever, conferred on another Bath citizen. Commissioner Spear served the city of Eastport as mayor two terms in succession. Commissioner Thurston has been on the board of selectmen for the town of Tremont for years.

These men are now working to protect the interest of the fisheries. They are all highly respected in the communities where they have lived from childhood and their honesty and integrity and ability cannot be questioned, and every citizen of Maine should be proud of the Commission of Sea and Shore Fisheries and should assist them in every possible way in their great work.

Referring to the banquets that have been furnished in the past, I will say that they have never been given until the closing days of the Legislature, after all department legislation had been disposed of, and I do not believe any official of the Sea and Shore Fisheries Department ever asked any special favors of a Legislature.

The money so generously contributed will be returned, and will be used to supply a supper to the legislators. However, there will always remain with the director that true spirit of co-operation so sincerely manifested by the fishermen who proved beyond question their appreciation of the work being done by the department.

A list of these generous supporters, together with the letters received will be kept on file and cherished above all others, as I now feel that I can count on these loyal men to back any project that will tend to improve the fisheries of our State.

H. D. Crie
Director of Sea & Shore Fisheries.

LINDBERGH AT HEAD

Famous Flyer Will Have Charge of Transcontinental Air Service.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has been appointed chairman of the technical committee of the Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc.

Lindbergh, whose affiliation with the aeronautical corporation takes place immediately, takes over practically all the running operations of the concern. He will virtually head a committee which will be spread from coast to coast and will be in supreme command of the air lines reaching from Los Angeles to New York.

Col. Lindbergh will, with his associates, have supervision of all matters concerning choice of equipment, fields, general service, flying routes and safety appliances, for the recently formed organization.

The Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., was formed two weeks ago for the purpose of providing 48-hour air-rail transportation between New York and the Pacific Coast. The plan calls for air travel by day and train by night.

THAT SUMMER COTTAGE

If you have a cottage at lake or seashore to rent, if you wish to hire such a place, if you wish to take boarders or wish a place to board during your vacation The Courier-Gazette can help you. To this end a special department "Summer Cottages and Boarding" has been added to the classified ad page and very effective small ads may be run there for a modest fee. Such ads may be mailed to this office or telephoned to 170.

A LONGER CLOSED SEASON

habitat, the migrations and other factors constituting the biology of the fish to serve as a starting point for regulatory measures.

2.—Provision for an adequate and all-inclusive system of fisheries statistics which will give us a bird's-eye view of what is really taking place. Fish in the sea do not readily lend themselves to a counting of heads as can be done with live stock. A proper system of fishery statistics will give us the catch per unit of gear and the yearly relationship of these figures will give us the information as to whether more or less fish are falling victim to a single unit of gear and indirectly whether there are more or less fish in that vast reservoir.

Legislation is the primary need for sensible conservation and statistical information is the primary need for rational legislation. Without these biological and statistical studies attempts to maintain our coastal and interior fisheries will be to a great extent a random groping.

Scientists and experts are the instruments for undertaking such a study and scientists and experts are frequently individuals whose complicated vocabulary does not contain the word "hurry." It is my belief that there is a possibility of taking certain initial steps which may provide a measure of protection.

When I refer to the lobster question in this State, I realize I am bringing up a subject which is not conducive to peace and good will. There is a great need for uniform legislation among interested States covering the size of lobsters which may be marketed, however, if you can share in the development and turn some of the coming expansion to their own benefit. Portland has a promising field for Maine ports like Portland and Rockland to give consideration to means whereby they can share in the development and turn some of the coming expansion to their own benefit.

There will be competition, however, and whatever benefit is to be obtained from increased harvests must be shared by the banks which are not on the banks but are active efforts toward the passing of resolutions will be in order if Maine is to hold her own in a free-for-all for the benefits in view. Maine can not do much in the way of regulation or studying the conditions of the bank fisheries as she can in the case of the interior and coastal fisheries. Federal agencies of the United States, Canada and Newfoundland are the ones who will have to make the investigations and I believe that Maine's role will be to equip itself with the machinery and the enthusiasm to seize a fair share of the material wealth which will be abstracted from the international waters in the years to come.

Of late years extensive scientific investigation has been devoted to determining the values of various foods and it has been disclosed that sea foods are of real worth in our diet. However, if some of the scientists had made a little trip to down-east Maine and taken a good look at a fair example of a Maine fisherman and his family they would have received a thorough demonstration of the hardness, toughness and vitality of a race which depends to a great extent on marine products for food.

If they could secure the services of a Rockland deep-water skipper as Exhibit A there would have been no need of complex tables and other technical paraphernalia to demonstrate the value of fish as fuel for the human engine. Some people will always enjoy dressing themselves with pills, powders, syrups and similar drug store dainties. However, most of us would prefer to get our iron, vitamin, and phosphorus compounds in somewhat of a less formal manner and the way to combine this necessary business with an element of pleasure is to eat more fish. The real problem is not to convince people that they like fish but to enable the vast majority who are out of contact with the sources of supply to secure good fish and fresh fish. Maine provides these raw materials but she will continue to provide them only so long as it is thoroughly realized that depletion is a real problem and not the war cry of cranks known as conservationists.

Maine's aquatic resources do not come to an end at the high tide line however. Inland waters are producing wealth and it is probable enough and I doubt if anyone else knows enough at the present time to qualify as a guiding light in such an undertaking.

For many years the landings of the American fishing vessels at New England ports remained at a fairly fixed level. When the fishing industry got in step with other food producers and improved methods of merchandising their production, particularly in the way of filleting and packaging fresh fish, the American housewife co-operated by buying much greater quantities of Atlantic Coast fish. Since 1921, when this assault on the housewife's pocketbook became a major movement, landings at Boston have increased from 105 million pounds to 195 million pounds; at Gloucester, from 33 million to nearly 53 million pounds, and of particular interest to you—Maine, from 13½ million pounds to 16 million pounds, roughly totaling about 100 million pounds increase in 7 years. The fishing industry has gotten a taste of the sunlight of prosperity and I believe that if it is humanly possible the industry will bend every effort to get thoroughly sunburned.

There appears to be in the offing a material growth in the bank fisheries and it seems to me to be a promising field for Maine ports like Portland and Rockland to give consideration to means whereby they can share in the development and turn some of the coming expansion to their own benefit.

There will be competition, however, and whatever benefit is to be obtained from increased harvests must be shared by the banks which are not on the banks but are active efforts toward the passing of resolutions will be in order if Maine is to hold her own in a free-for-all for the benefits in view. Maine can not do much in the way of regulation or studying the conditions of the bank fisheries as she can in the case of the interior and coastal fisheries. Federal agencies of the United States, Canada and Newfoundland are the ones who will have to make the investigations and I believe that Maine's role will be to equip itself with the machinery and the enthusiasm to seize a fair share of the material wealth which will be abstracted from the international waters in the years to come.

Of late years extensive scientific investigation has been devoted to determining the values of various foods and it has been disclosed that sea foods are of real worth in our diet. However, if some of the scientists had made a little trip to down-east Maine and taken a good look at a fair example of a Maine fisherman and his family they would have received a thorough demonstration of the hardness, toughness and vitality of a race which depends to a great extent on marine products for food.

If they could secure the services of a Rockland deep-water skipper as Exhibit A there would have been no need of complex tables and other technical paraphernalia to demonstrate the value of fish as fuel for the human engine. Some people will always enjoy dressing themselves with pills, powders, syrups and similar drug store dainties. However, most of us would prefer to get our iron, vitamin, and phosphorus compounds in somewhat of a less formal manner and the way to combine this necessary business with an element of pleasure is to eat more fish. The real problem is not to convince people that they like fish but to enable the vast majority who are out of contact with the sources of supply to secure good fish and fresh fish. Maine provides these raw materials but she will continue to provide them only so long as it is thoroughly realized that depletion is a real problem and not the war cry of cranks known as conservationists.

Maine's aquatic resources do not come to an end at the high tide line however. Inland waters are producing wealth and it is probable

HOPPE FACES CRISIS

Fugitive From Thomaston Prison To Be Tried For Murder.

Stephen Hoppe, Maine prison fugitive has come at last, to a crisis in his checkered career as burglar and jail-breaker.

In a cell before which extra guards watched his every move, the notorious criminal waits a trial in which his life will be at stake.

"Conclusive" was the fateful adjective employed by District Attorney Wilbur in describing the evidence which the state holds against Hoppe, charged with killing Policeman Alfred N. Hollis during a hold-up in Dedham, Mass., the night of Oct. 4 last.

Hoppe, while quietly protesting his innocence, has steadily declined to discuss the allegations against him. He faces the possibility of death in the electric chair if the state can prove that he was the burglar that broke into Pitt Brothers' hardware store on the night in question.

The career of Stephen Hoppe is a strange parallel to that of the late Gerald Chapman. Like the man who was dubbed the "Prince of Bandits," Hoppe has a long record of crime and spectacular jail breaks.

He escaped from the death house of the Vermont state prison with the aid of only a table fork.

It was in Hartford, Conn., that Chapman received the sentence of death, and it was in Hartford that Hoppe was captured after his getaway from the Vermont prison.

Chapman was granted a federal pardon so he might be placed on trial for murder in Connecticut. Hoppe who was serving a 14-year sentence for burglary in the Vermont state prison up to last week was pardoned by Gov. Weeks of Vermont so he might be brought to stand trial for murder.

Chapman was convicted of killing a policeman and it is for a policeman's death that Hoppe must go on trial for his life. Hoppe was lodged in Dedham jail, famed as the place where Nicola Sacco was held for several years pending his execution.

that, for example, the Rangeley Lakes have produced as great a revenue as any body of water of equal area in the country. The natural beauty and the sunning are factors in this revenue, but the fishing is of tremendous importance. Where the commercial fisheries of salt water must be maintained or rehabilitated largely by regulation, restricting the natural harvest to the limits of the natural reproduction, the smaller inland waters lend themselves more readily to a program of a more positive nature.

The basis of all conservation is the code of laws which protects the natural resources and regulates its utilization. If I may be permitted to speak right out in meeting I will state that upon the basis of quantity or volume alone, Maine should have the best game fish protection code in the country. When I see in the 1925-26 revision 28 pages of general fish laws, and on top of this 50 pages of special laws together with supplements Nos. 1, 2, 3, and 4 totalling some 14 pages, I wonder if the State of Maine has such a diversity of conditions and fish life as to require such a meticulous and voluminous body of minor regulations in its organic laws. Does the average fisherman, particularly from out of the State, know all these laws? If, on a remote chance he does know them, will he or can he obey all of them? Have you sufficient wardens to compel obedience to these hundreds of paragraphs of "Thou shalt not's?"

FLYING CLOUD is not a racing car but it's fast enough for Pete De Paolo

AUTOMOBILE racing has its place in the scheme of things, no doubt. To the grueling tests of the Speedway—at Culver City, at Indianapolis, at the Monza Grand Prix—is due a large part of present-day automobile design. But racing speed is for the Speedway—not for the public highway. That's why the Flying Cloud is not built to do "100 miles an hour." It's why we don't even claim 100 miles an hour. It will do more than 75 miles an hour—75 honest miles. And that's fast enough. It's faster than the average driver ever wants to go. And it's faster than the average driver ever has safe and lawful opportunity to drive. But the possession of that 75-miles-per-hour capacity implies the possession of other characteristics that the average driver does want—the flashing acceleration that gets him away from the traffic-barrier ahead of the pack; the "zoom" that picks up the traffic pockets with incredible ease and with perfect safety; and the man-saving and motor-saving surplus of power for the hills and the mountains.

That's why Pete De Paolo, speed-king of America, bought a Flying Cloud for his own use—when he's not burning up the bricks at Indianapolis; that's why he joined the Reo sales-forces in Southern California and is making a great sales-record—and hosts of new friends—in that toughest of all markets.

It's why he asked—and received—permission to christen his world's champion race-car—the car that in 1927 carried him to his second world's speedway championship—"Flying Cloud Special." His racing-car is not a Reo Flying Cloud; neither is the Reo Flying Cloud a racing-car.

But they're both thoroughbreds. They're both built to stand out above the rank and file. They're both built to stand the gaff—to "go through," in other words.

The Reo Flying Cloud has received no finer tribute—and it has received many—than Pete De Paolo paid it when he gave it his name to his own championship racing-car, and identified himself with the organization that builds it.

Let Somebody Else Do Some of the Talking

Roy H. Gentner, Delco Light and Frigidaire Dealer, Waldoboro, Maine.

Dear Sir:—

Something over five years ago we purchased from you a model 866 Delco Light plant which operated with perfect satisfaction for the above period. This plant has furnished light for two families and a barn containing 75 head of stock, also other buildings on our farm, has pumped the water for the house and the stock, handling a pump delivering 1500 gallons per hour with ease and has run two washing machines and two bathtubs. We bought from you installed this year a new combination model 778 which also handles the work in the same efficient manner. We figure that the batteries on the first machine installed gave an equivalent of 10 years' service on the average as our requirements are more than double the average. We can recommend Delco as being the last word in dependability and economy of operation. Truly yours, Millay Brothers, Breeders of Pure Bred Guernseys, Richmond, Maine.
