LAYING FAST CABLE

Western Union Stringing Underground Wires a Distance of 1264 Miles.

The cable ship Dominia, largest vessel of her type in the world, arrived at St. John's, N. F., Tuesday after completing what is believed to be the fastest survey ever made of a new cable route. The survey which included accurate soundings of the sea bottom, was made by the Dominia over the route of the new deep-sea cable to be laid by the Western Union Telegraph Company, between Bay Roberts, N. F., and the Azores. This will be the fastest duplex cable in the world.

Beginning the survey at the Azores Aug. 14, the Dominia steamed steadily towards Bay Roberts for seven days, over a route of the new deep-sea cable, while soundings were made constantly by an echo depth finder which operates electrically. The distance is 1264 miles.

The Dominia, owned by the Telegraph Construction and Maintenance Company, a British organization, has the contract for laying the new Western Union Cable from Bay Roberts to Horta, in the Azores. Tuesday the vessel transferred the shore end of the cable to the Western Union cable ship Cyrus Field. The Cyrus Field will lay this shore end, from Bay Roberts to deep water, where it was picked up Aug. 23 by the Dominia for the start toward Horta. The Dominia expects to complete her job about Sept. 2.

LAKEWOOD EXTENDS SEASON
The Lakewood Players have announced the extension of their season to October first, or later, depending entirely upon climatic conditions. Last summer the company continued playing to crowded houses until well after the middle of September and it is expected that this further extension of the summer schedule of plays will delight the many followers of Maine's dramatic resort.

At no time in its history has Lakewood had such a vast array of talent at hand. Many of Broadway's foremost players, those who have been busy elsewhere all summer, are arriving in Lakewood at the prospect of spending several weeks at work and play in Maine. The Lakewood Players will maintain their high standard as a dramatic organization presenting only the finest and most worthwhile New York successes.

This week "The Dawn of a Tomorrow" has the latest cast ever assembled in Maine for the professional presentation of a play. This pretentious production, which is being greeted so enthusiastically, is a fair sample of what is coming in future weeks. Lakewood is in high speed, amplifying all its departments to take care of the tremendous crowds which are placing heavy demands upon the theatre, the inn and the tourists bungalow colony.

Orders are now booked for the special matinee to be given at two o'clock on Labor Day, Monday, September 3.—adv.

DISTINGUISHED VISITOR DIES

Congressman Frothingham of Massachusetts Expires On Yacht At North Haven—Played Golf Previous Day.

Congressman Louis A. Frothingham, former lieutenant-governor of Massachusetts, was found dead in his bunk on the yawl Winsome at North Haven Thursday morning, death having resulted from heart trouble. Mr. Frothingham had leased the Winsome for a pleasure trip along the coast, with Northeast Harbor as his intended destination, and was accompanied by his wife.

The Congressman played golf Wednesday afternoon, having excellent success, and remarking quite frequently how much he was enjoying the sport and how it invigorated him. He enjoyed a good rest, and dined with Thomas W. Lamont, the New York banker. In the course of the evening's chat there was no suggestion by word or appearance that he was not enjoying prime health.

George B. Baker of Boston, a friend of Mr. Frothingham's who has a summer home at North Haven, said that the Congressman had appeared in perfect health when he left him after making arrangements for a dinner.

"He greeted me with a wave of his hand," Mr. Baker said, "and to all appearances was enjoying the best of health."

Congressman and Mrs. Frothingham retired on the yawl at a seasonable hour.

Mrs. Frothingham was somewhat surprised when her husband did not put in an appearance at the usual hour for breakfast, but attributed it to his vigorous exercise of the previous day. She waited about 15 minutes and then becoming somewhat concerned, went to call her husband. In his bunk lay a lifeless form, and to those who were hastily summoned it was apparent that death had ensued some hours before. The North Haven physician, Dr. P. T. Diefenbacher, concurred in this opinion. Medical Examiner Frohock was informed and decided that a personal investigation was not necessary, as it was apparent that death had resulted from heart trouble.

Arrangements were made with Bowes & Crozier to care for the body, and at 2 o'clock in the afternoon began the sad journey across the bay in the craft which had so shortly before started on a pleasure cruise. Arriving at this port the body was taken in charge by the local undertakers and when it was forwarded to Boston on the steamship Camden it had been encased in a massive mahogany casket. It was accompanied by the widow and Mr. and Mrs. John H. Ames. Mrs. Ames being a sister of the deceased.

Louis Adams Frothingham, long prominent in Massachusetts Republican politics, was born in Jamaica Plain, July 13, 1871.

He was educated in the public schools and at Adams Academy, and was graduated from Harvard College with a Bachelor of Arts degree in 1893. Three years later he was graduated from Harvard Law School and, the same year, was admitted to the Massachusetts bar.

In 1897 he became private secretary to Congressman William C. Lovering. From 1891 to 1905, Mr. Frothingham served as a member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, being speaker of that body in 1904 and 1905. From 1909 to 1911 he was lieutenant-governor of Massachusetts.

During the Spanish-American War, Mr. Frothingham served as 2nd lieutenant in the U. S. Marine Corps. In 1918 he was commissioned a major in the U. S. Army and was a member of the commission to visit soldiers and sailors in France in that year. In 1919 he was elected first vice-commander of the Massachusetts department of the American Legion. Mr. Frothingham was elected to the 67th Congress from the 14th district in 1920 and had since represented that district.

ROTARY WINS CUP

Forty Club Defeated 17-12 In Lively Annual Match.

The first leg of the Rotary-Forty Clubs' golf cup was won Thursday by the Rotary Club in a day of ideal play on the Country Club course with a score of 17 to 12. This gives Rotary possession of the handsome cup with three wins for final ownership. The contest was interesting and warmly contested.

A roast beef supper was paid for by the losers and an evening of real enjoyment spent in discussing the fine points of the game and the possible improvements to the local course. Pete Moran, the club pro, gave an interesting talk.

Low net for the Forty Club brought a cigarette lighter to Dr. Linwood T. Rogers, Rev. W. S. Rounds having the same distinction for his club. The play was by twosome with the following matches:

| Forty Club | Rotary Club |
|------------|----------------------------|
| Veazie | vs. Foss 3 0 |
| Stratton | vs. Alan Bird 2 1 |
| Fifield | vs. Levensaler 0 3 |

HATCHET MT. BOYS

Give Impromptu Entertainment for a Bangor Audience.

Youthful actors held sway at the Bangor Memorial Parlors Monday night when a group of boys from Phillip A. Jones' Hatchet Mountain Camp furnished an impromptu entertainment before a large audience of relatives and friends.

The entertainment opened with singing by the entire camp. Next came a comedy skit entitled The Station Master, those taking part in this being George McMahon of Brewer, Willard Libby of Waterville and Clarence Peterson of Rockland. This was followed by a take-off on the camp "setting up exercises," the performers being Richard Forbes of Woburn, Mass., Eddie Graham of Bangor, Ramon Fernandez of Old Town, Cobb Peterson of Rockland and Webb Potts of Germantown, Pa. Both skits were well presented and furnished much merriment.

The final part of the program was a minstrel show. Arranged in a semi-circle and wearing their natty gray camp uniforms, the boys presented a fine appearance. Councillor Dow acted as interactor in an efficient manner and there were numerous specialties and vocal solos. Ramon and Orman Fernandez, sons of ex-Sheriff Orman Fernandez of Old Town, both sang solos. Each number of the program was loudly applauded and encouraged given. Orman Fernandez, Billy Palmer and Jackie Savage presented a comedy sketch depicting two men coming pacing back and forth in a jail under the watchful eye of a jailer and managing to whisper a few words to each other as they passed in opposite directions with heads partly bowed and hands behind their backs. The youngsters genuinely covered themselves with glory and appeared to enjoy the show as much as the audience.

IS HOMEWARD BOUND

Explorer MacMillan Due To Arrive At Christmas Cove On Sept. 7.

Lieut. Commander Donald B. MacMillan will arrive at Christmas Cove, South Bristol, Friday afternoon, Sept. 7, according to a radiogram received from him Tuesday. He will arrive at Wiscasset on Saturday, Sept. 8.

The Bowdoin, with Commander MacMillan and members of his expedition, left Nain, Labrador, Tuesday, and will proceed, via Battle Harbor, Labrador, and probably Sydney, Cape Breton, to Christmas Cove.

At the latter place, at Holly Inn, he will greet his sister, Mrs. Letitia N. Foss of Freeport and other friends and relatives and there will be a homecoming reception given him that evening at the Inn. The next morning he will leave Christmas Cove for Wiscasset where he plans to arrive shortly after noon, the exact time to be announced later.

There he will be given his official homecoming welcome, probably by the State, by Bowdoin College, and most certainly by the town of Wiscasset.

ON WINGS OF A WHIRLWIND

Republican Campaigners Visit Knox County and Are Cordially Welcomed On Flying Tour.

Republican campaigners made a whirlwind tour of Knox County Thursday and Friday, and were very cordially received by the voters on the mainland and across the bay. Of the party, in addition to the candidates were Mrs. Eva C. Mason, vice chairman of the State Committee; Mrs. Guy P. Gannett of the National Committee; Mrs. Inez S. Crosby of stand, and the meeting here was presided over by Fred E. Burdett, candidate for representative to Legislature who is equally at home on the speakers' stand or judges' stand.

It was here that a Courier-Gazette bulletin was received announcing the sudden death of Congressman Louis A. Frothingham at North Haven.

This proved especially shocking to Senator Hale and Representative

United States Senator Frederick Hale

Camden, Knox County member of the State Committee, and the wives of Congressman White and Candidate Gardner. The women entered heartily into the spirit of the affair and proved a valuable and congenial asset.

The press representatives attached to the party were Sam E. Conner of the Lewiston Journal, Edwin C. Burdard of the Press Herald, and F. A. Winslow of The Courier-Gazette.

Thursday's Pilgrimage

Hope Corner was the picturesque setting in which the members of the whirlwind tour assembled at 9 o'clock Thursday morning, and early as the hour was it found a goodly number of townspeople assembled in front of the Postoffice. Jethro D. Pease, chairman of the town committee was on hand promptly to greet the distinguished visitors.

Senator Hale, Candidate Gardner and Mrs. Mason spoke briefly and the county candidates were introduced by State Committeeman Griffin. The greeting accorded to the speakers, and candidates was one of unmistakable friendliness. The true unassuming factor was one of the points of interest which the visitors noted here. Quite a number of former Hope residents, summing in that community were noted in the audience.

In the northern part of the county many men and women were busy harvesting the blueberry crop—a matter that would admit of no delay, and the Republican campaigners were early informed that the attendance at the meetings would be affected thereby.

One of the first to greet the delegation at Appleton was that staunch Republican O. W. Currier, who sat on the platform of a village store, surveying a stalk of golden-banana corn which had attained an eminence of 9 feet, 3 inches. Sam Conner, who was following the "Whirlwinders" in the interest of the Lewiston Journal, swung his trusty camera into position and snapped the tall stalk with Mr. Currier, Senator Hale and Congressman White in the background. Sam would have snapped that hay-rick had he recovered from his surprise in season.

Deputy Sheriff Arthur D. Fish, chairman of the Appleton town committee, and Representative Robert D. Thurston were on hand to greet the delegation.

The Washington meeting was held in front of Linscott Bros' store, where the visitors were greeted by Deputy Sheriff Sidney Humes, chairman of the town committee and other Republican workers, and where again there was a brief period of speech-making. The visitors were much interested in the town's fine memorial to its Civil and World War veterans, and not little surprised to learn that the community furnished so many defenders during the Civil War.

Mrs. Guy P. Gannett one of the Maine members of the Republican National Committee, was one of the speakers here.

Through many miles of wonderful scenery the tour pursued its way to Union where a committee comprising Mrs. Alice Robbins, Mrs. Nancy Ayer and Mrs. Fred E. Burdett was found busily engaged in spreading a buffet lunch on the Common. It was apparent to them that the women of Union took right and vote right.

The speaking was from the band-

White who were among his most intimate friends in Congress.

"Louis Frothingham was one of the exceptional men in Congress," said Representative White. "He was able, industrious and courageous, and he was my personal friend. The news comes to me as a terrible shock and occasions deepest grief."

"I have known Representative Frothingham intimately since our college days," said Senator Hale. "He had been one of my closest friends in Washington, and was one of the best type of men I have ever known in public life. He had the confidence and respect of everybody who knew him."

Congressman White paid an especial tribute to Mrs. Mary Perry Rich, Maine's first woman county commissioner, who is a candidate for reelection.

At Warren the delegation was met by William H. Robinson and Chester B. Hall of the Republican town committee, and a group of citizens which voiced approval of the speakers. An interesting feature of the Warren visit was an inspection of the M. R. Mathews Memorial Library, which was recently opened to the public. The visitors were pronounced in their praise of the handsome institution.

It remained for Friendship, one of the smaller towns, and formerly a Democratic stronghold to furnish the day's largest audiences. A new speaker here was Edwin S. Vose of Cushing, candidate for representative to Legislature.

Another surprise awaited the delegation when it arrived in Cushing and found a tempting lunch set forth in the Grange hall with raspberry shrub a welcome beverage to moisten dust parched throats. The Warren eatables had been disposed of not so very long before, and in astonishing quantities, but the visitors somehow found niches for the Cushing offerings. There were no speeches here but a round of handshaking conveyed good will.

In Thomaston the whirlwinders were met by a group of about 100, with William P. Strang of the town committee at the helm. The concluding daytime meeting was in Rockport where there was a period of handshaking.

The climax of Thursday's tour was the evening mass meeting in Camden, music for which was furnished by a Camden-Rockland band under the leadership of Kenneth V. White. The Opera House was filled by a representative audience, which gave the closest attention, and was both liberal and enthusiastic in its applause.

Senator Zelma M. Dwinall presided, and his presentation of the several speakers was excellently done. "I feel safe in saying," said Mr. Dwinall, "that the Republican vote thrown this year will be the largest ever cast by any political party. And it should be remembered that those who actually do vote are the ones who determine the issues." Referring to the State's road building program the speaker said that by the about the district 12 years, and that is not my conception of them. Who is it down in New York that wishes to bring about my defeat? Who, if not Tammany Hall? Tammany has been a corrupting and corrupting influence in public life for 100 years. The people do not want to see Tammany justices in the Supreme Court." Congressman White paid a splendid tribute to Herbert Hoover, whose value to the country is especially high at this time when such important engineering feats are about to be undertaken.

"Herbert Hoover stands as the great administrator and great executive," said Mr. White, "but I like to end of the present year $350,000 will have been expended in Knox County under this program. Better results can be obtained if the county sends a delegation to Legislature which cooperates with the State government.

It was a splendid greeting which Wm. Tudor Gardiner, the Republican candidate for governor received. Referring to the almanac's figures in regard to the increase in State expenditures he declared there is nothing to worry about and that they are not fatal to our existence. If the tax rate is not too burdensome the mere fact that the expenses have increased is no cause for alarm. Everybody knows that the State must provide for those in unfortunate circumstances and the records show that 27 percent of the money expended goes for that purpose. One-third goes for educational purposes. "It may well be argued that the departments be consolidated in the interest of economy and efficiency," said Mr. Gardiner. "Shall that work be entrusted to a party with experience, or turned over to a party without that experience? It is my intention, if elected, to be of some service to the State and I hope to see a spirit of harmony and co-operation between the two branches of State government."

The only thing the Republicans have to fear is indifference on the part of the voter who is too sure that we will win, Mr. Gardiner said in conclusion.

Having seen the gubernatorial candidate, and been most favorably impressed by him it was only fitting that the audience should meet his popular wife. She was given an enthusiastic round of applause when presented by Chairman Dwinall.

Mrs. Eva C. Mason said that it was up to the women to do their part now that they are on a 50-50 basis, and that she found more interest among them than formerly. She praised Senator Hale as having more to do in keeping up naval defense than anybody else in Washington, and referred to Congressman White's prominence and usefulness as chairman of the important committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

Senator Hale got a warm welcome and his review of the National political situation proved highly interesting. "It is largely due to the insurgents in Congress that we do not pass all of the legislation that is expected of us," said Senator Hale. "Of one thing you may rest assured, no legislation that the South doesn't want will go through if the Democrats get in power, and it is altogether to the interest of the people in this part of the country that Republicans be elected."

"Back of that man (Gov. Smith) is the hungry Tammany ring, which understands the political game. Herbert Hoover is the ablest man I have met in political life in Washington. Men there are proud to be known as having worked under him. If the employee of his department is an inefficient man he doesn't last over night."

Introducing Congressman White Chairman Dwinall spoke of his merchant marine bill and the fact that the construction of 19 ships has begun in American yards since it was passed. "I cannot conceive of the Second District keeping Wallace White at home," said Senator Dwinall. Producing a newspaper in which was emblazoned a story to the effect that Congressman White's defeat would be worth a million dollars to the Democratic party, the Second District representative declared that was the first time a price had ever been put on his head. "My political fate is not going to be determined down in New York or somewhere out of the State of Maine," said Mr. White. "The time has not come when the men and women of Maine are on the auction block; and the men and women of Knox County are not for sale. I have been going think of him best as the great humanitarian."

The county candidates were presented to the audience together with Mrs. Gannett of the national committee.

A Damp Friday

It was wet overhead and underneath for the campaigners Friday, for they crossed the bay in fog and rain to visit North Haven and Vinalhaven.

In front of the North Haven post-office there was hand-shaking, supplemented by brief speeches, with Hanson T. Crockett of the town committee presiding.

Dinner was served at Rockaway Inn, Vinalhaven, followed by speech making in the square, with State Committee Chairman Griffin in charge. Candidate Gardiner was taken in tow by one of his World War buddies, who introduced him to a large number of the voters.

Returning to the mainland meetings were held at several points in St. George, Deputy Sheriff Granville N. Bachelder of the town committee presiding. In South Thomaston the campaigners were met by Joseph Baum, chairman of the town committee, and at Owl's Head by Miss Ella Maddocks, chairman of the board of selectmen. Daniel T. Field, chairman of the Republican State Committee, joined the party at the latter place.

The concluding feature of the two days' tour was the public meeting in Masonic Temple, which was ably presided over by Mr. Griffin.

Senator Hale took occasion to thank Rockland voters for the staunch support he has always received from them, and presented an intimate, personal word picture of Candidate Hoover.

Mrs. Mason's vigorous style pleased the audience very much. She quoted Senator Moses' remark to the effect that when a deluded yet Republican votes the Al Smith ticket, two Democratic women will jump over the fence and vote for Hoover. She appealed to the Republican women to get out every last woman voter.

Splendid greetings were accorded Candidate Gardiner and Congressman White. The former paid a fine tribute to Representative St. Clair, and expressed the earnest hope that he be returned to Legislature.

Congressman White paid his respects to Tammany, and said that it would be "welcomed with bloody hands to a hospitable grave."

All of the local candidates were presented by Chairman Griffin, who mentioned a few high spots of their fine record.

Nearly everybody remained after the meeting for a friendly chat with the distinguished visitors.

ONE MORE FULL WEEK Of Baseball In Coast League—Then Comes Grand Labor Day Climax—Belfast Apparent Winner.

Next Week's Games

Monday—Rockland at Belfast.
Tuesday—Belfast at Rockland.
Wednesday—Rockland at Camden.
Thursday—Camden at Belfast.
Friday—Belfast at Rockland.
Saturday—Rockland at Camden.

The above games will probably be supplemented with some double-headers, which will be duly announced.

The League Standing

Belfast is virtually assured of the pennant although there is a mathematical possibility that Camden may wrest the leadership from Thurston's gallant tribe. The standing:

| Camden | 17 | 16 | .516 |
| Rockland | 11 | 22 | .333 |

Belfast 3, Camden 1

Thursday night's game at Camden was largely in the nature of a pitcher's battle, and it had rather an unexpected denouement. With the score 3 to 1 against her in the last inning, the Camden team succeeded in filling the bases before anybody was retired. Manager Thurston held a council of war with himself, and decided that a change of pitchers might save the day. So he benched Stirling, who had held Camden to six hits, and substituted Hale.

Whether this strategy saved the day, or whether it was so ordained is not for man to say, but a double play and another easy put-out squelched the home team's chances, and Camden dropped another notch toward the rejuvenated Rockland team. The score:

Camden 7, Rockland 3.
Rockland's three errors were very costly last night and the home team fell an easy victim. The crowd was most interested in Ahearn, the new catcher, and was well pleased to find him so full of pep and so handy with the stick.

The battle between the two pitchers, Klosek and Davidson was virtually a draw. Monroe and Nankian turned in some extra good catches. The game was called at the end of the fifth, much to the disgust of the local fans, who millered around Umpire McDonough vociferously arguing that it was lighter at that moment than it had been at any time in the game. As usual the "chew" amounted to nothing.

Camden of the Maine Coast League will be the attraction at the National Soldiers' Home Sunday. Last Sunday Attleboro defeated the Home club 5-3 in a fast and exciting game, this being the second defeat handed that team this season. Togus has a record of nine wins and two losses and is in hopes to annex the Camden club to its string of victories.

ROCKPORT

Mrs. Nellie Follett of Boston was a recent guest at Roland F. Crockett's. Frederick H. Sylvester has returned to Quincy, Mass., after spending a few days at the home of Mrs. Josephine Bohndell. He was accompanied by Mrs. Sylvester, who has been spending several weeks in town and Miss Hortense Bohndell who will be their guest for two weeks.

The Nutsomuseum Club was pleasantly entertained Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Louise Orbeton in West Rockport. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. Sarah Buzzell is at home from Northport for a few days. Mr. and Mrs. George Shallow and sons Harold and Lee and Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Carter of Portland are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Marshall this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett E. Fales are visiting relatives in Attleboro, Mass. Miss Hazel Wall is seriously ill at Knox Hospital, Rockland.

Fred Piper of Hartford, Conn., Mrs. Donald Piper, daughter Prudence and sons Wilson and Edward of Caribou are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Piper.

Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo P. Spear of Waltham, Mass., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Everett E. F. Libby for two weeks.

Rev. F. F. Fowle is having his vacation and there will be no services at the Methodist Church until Sept. 4, which is prayer meeting night.

Gabriel R. Guedy of Haverhill, Mass., will preach at the Baptist Church Sunday morning at 10.45.

Church Bible school at the noon hour. Mrs. Edith Graham of Portland was the guest of Miss Marion Weidman Wednesday.

Candle Light Tea

One of the most delightful events of the season was the Candle Light Tea, given by the Johnson Society Wednesday evening at the Methodist Church. A fine program was given in the auditorium which included the following numbers: Song, "Mother's Red Shawl," Mr. Cant; reading, "Was I," Miss Mary Veazie; solo, "Grandma's Day," Mrs. Beulah Ames; trio, Messrs. Imiech, Reed and Auld; solo, "I Can't Change It," Mr. Reed; reading, "Ma and the Auto," Miss Augusta Noyes; solo, Mrs. Minerva Small; reading, "How Rudy Played," Miss Doris Wellman; solos, Mr. Auld and Mrs. Beulah Ames; male quartet, Messrs. Imiech, Reed, Auld and Cant; pantomime, "In the Garden," Miss Maxine Spofford with duet by Mrs. Linthe Lane and Mrs. Amy Miller. The accompanists were Mrs. Carrie Douglas of Rockland and Mrs. Auld of St. George. The Johnson Society much appreciated the assistance of the out-of-town soloists.

Mrs. Ames and Mrs. Small are always received with pleasure, and the Scotch soloist who had never before been heard by a Rockport audience was much enjoyed.

The vestry of the church where refreshments were served was attractively decorated for the occasion in yellow and white with the tables prettily lighted with candles. The favors were tiny yellow baskets of candy. The Society is to be congratulated for the success of the affair under the efficient management of the president, Mrs. Elizabeth Libby. The proceeds amounted to $26, which will be applied to the organ blower fund.

FRIENDSHIP

The field days of Friday and Saturday were very exciting despite the unsettled weather, bringing great crowds of people from far and near. The various water sports at Davis Point harbor and the many races and other diversions were much enjoyed.

The parade was a good open-air attraction and quite as good as furnished by many a city. The Rockland Boys' Band did themselves great credit by furnishing excellent music. There was a good midway and a fine baseball game between Friendship and the Wampolee Camp boys. The management are to be congratulated on their good showing. It is hoped that the financial outcome will be a fine sum placed into the funds of the Village Improvement Society.

Next Sunday at the Methodist Church, Pastor Smith will have as themes: 10.30, "Things Secret and Things Revealed," with a violin solo by Miss Charlotte Andrews; at the 7.30 service, "The Story of Zachaeus."

CRIEHAVEN

Frank Wilson who has been visiting Watson Barter and other relatives left last week for his home in Medford Hillside, Mass.

A party from Rockland who came out to Sealcons Lodge to view the wreck of the four masted Gladys Taylor extended their trip to Criehaven and called on friends at Hillside Farm. Capt. Richard Snow and several other gentlemen and two ladies made up the party. We are always glad to welcome the genial captain.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Hopper of Tenants' Harbor have taken Boulderside Cottage for the winter.

Mrs. Charlotte Clark and sons Ivan and Randall of Union are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Simpson.

Norman Clark of Union is visiting his sister, Mrs. Roy Simpson. John Crie is in Rockland for medical treatment.

Mrs. Evelyn Simpson is visiting in Thomaston.

Miss Elizabeth Anderson has returned from a visit in Rockland. She was accompanied by her sister Mrs. Helen LeBlanc.

The G.O.P. has a chill every time it wonders if Al Smith will poll the solid vote of all the millionaires Raskob has made.—Washington Post.

A falling beam jammed two of Ervin Curtis' fingers badly while he was working in the Havener-Carr block Thursday. He is still on the job.

Mrs. A. B. Sweetland suffered a bad fall Tuesday at her home on Camden street which resulted in a severe shaking up although no bones were broken.

The popularity and fame of the Copper Kettle were again attested when a letter mailed from New York simply addressed "The Copper Kettle, Maine" and stamped at the N. Y. postoffice "Try Rockland" came into Mrs. Lawry's hands as intended.

North Knox Fair has a new president this year in the person of John C. Leighton. Under his supervision many improvements are being made on the grounds and a new water pressure system is being installed and Union Fair is not so far away.

The Universalist quartet composed of Mrs. Katharine Veazie, soprano; Mrs. Gladys Morgan, contralto; Chester Wylie, tenor and John Robinson, bass, with Miss Margaret Stahl as organist, is to give an "Evening of Songs" at the Warren Baptist church tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock.

Sophocles Constantine, leader of the First Baptist choir, accompanied by Mrs. Constantine, will sing preceding the poetry reading to be given by Wilbert Snow at Spruce Head Community Hall next Wednesday evening. The entertainment is for the benefit of Spruce Head roads, and supper will be served in the hall from 5 to 7 o'clock.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon for the late Mrs. Georgia Brainerd, Rev. Benjamin F. Browne, of Winchester, Mass., former pastor of the Rockland First Baptist church, officiating. The bearers were Charles H. Morey, Osmond A. Palmer, V. A. Leach and A. E. Brunberg. The beautiful flowers were a mute testimony of the esteem and affection held for Miss Brainerd. Interment was in the Achorn cemetery.

Friends here are receiving cards from Miss Laura J. Rhodes—formerly of Rockland, now of San Francisco—who, with her brother, Noel Rhodes, and two friends, is taking a holiday trip, along the Olympic Highway, visiting Eureka, Calif., Portland, Ore., Olympia and Seattle, Wash., and other places. One of the cards shows the Washington "Tooth picker." These Douglass firs, rise to a height of 1,000 feet, terminating in a point at the top. Another shows a solid cedar stump 12 feet high and 18 feet across the top, found at Wildwood Auto Camp near Quilcene, Wash., on the Olympic Highway. The participants are having a wonderful trip.

Miss Partridge of the Belfast Journal was a caller at this office Thursday. The Journal is one of the oldest papers in the State, but far from falling into a rut keeps in close touch with the modern wrinkles, and is one of the best weeklies in the State.

The Three Quarter Century Club delegation from Rockland will embark from the Thorndike Hotel at 7 o'clock Monday morning for Bangor, providing the weather is fair. There will be over fifty in the jolly group this year in what promises to be a rare treat. Mayor John Wilson of Bangor will welcome the party and there will be ample time for renewing old friendships and enjoying the old time dances and contests before the homeward start mid-afternoon. Present plans call for arrival home well before supper time. A real need exists for several more cars to carry the members of the party and any car owner who can make the trip will be doing a bit of service and a duty well done. Any person who can provide a car and driver, who can drive a car or provide a car please notify John M. Richardson, tel. 862-R or 770.

The two pumping engines and the hook and ladder spent their first night in Central Fire Station "three in a row" Wednesday and made an impressive sight. The steel girder is in place giving free space at the front, wall to wall. The new door will be of the two-track type swinging snugly to the wall and giving 24 feet clearance. The La France ladder truck is berthed on the west side and can readily make the swing into Main street now, though it must back to make the Union street turn. The La France pumper, answering all diaphane alarms along with Ladder 3, is in the center and Engine 2 is in the eastern berth, answering all still alarms. The two horse drawn hose wagons and steam fire engine James H. & L. house. The venerable Amicus truck has gone to her reward.

CONCERT AT OAKLAND
The Rockland City Band is to give a concert at Oakland Park tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock, and it is the earnest hope of every member of the band, as well as the loyal standbys, that a large number of people will be present to hear the excellent program Mr. Kirkpatrick and his men have prepared. The program:
March—W. J. Kirkpatrick
Overture—Poet and Peasant—Supper
Stella—Grand Fantasia Polka—R. B. Hall
Concert Solo—Kenneth V. White
Echoes from the Opera—arr. Buger
Valse Lente—Miss Rose
Selection from "King Dodo"—arr. Macie
Saxophone Solo—Nellie Gray—arr. and variations—arr. C. E. Fischer
Anthony Padoue
Sacred Selection—When Love Shines In—W. J. Kirkpatrick
Catcher's score numbers have been prepared, and there will probably be an assisting vocalist. Band music is ideal out-of-doors, so a musical treat is in store for those who will ride to Oakland Park tomorrow.

Singer in Politics
Grace Divine, of Cincinnati, Metropolitan opera star, heads Hoover Committee of American musicians. She has put her wonderful contralto voice at the service of the campaign managers for any dates not already pre-empted by her full opera and concert engagements.

HOOVERISMS

ASKS AFFIRMATION

District Attorney Dyer Before Rotary Club In Behalf of Excise Law.

The Rotary Club listened yesterday to a strong argument in favor of the law which is coming up for referendum at the September election granting the railroads a reduction in excise tax. The speaker was District Attorney Frederick R. Dyer who said that the Maine Central Railroad is paying 5 1/2 percent tax on its gross income at present, this being a larger rate than is paid by the railroads of any other State except California, where the corporations are much more prosperous.

Referring to the effect of truck service he said that since the construction of the new highway from Portland to Lewiston not a split carload of freight had been carried between those cities by the Maine Central. The law now being referred to the people had, he said, been passed over the Governor's veto by a large majority, after Legislature had given it a most careful study. The people should support the action of their Legislature under such circumstances, he felt.

The visiting Rotarians yesterday were E. K. Leighton, Waterville; George H. Rice, Arlington, Mass.; Rev. John Mark, Fall River, Mass.; Charles A. Holden, Hanover, N. H.; Frank Poland, Washington; Otto Swenson, Troy, N. Y.; Edward Neumann, Detroit; Kendall Hopkins, Camden; Forrest A. Johnston, Keene, N. H.; Bill Stark, Orange, Texas; Carl Sevel, Cortland, N. Y.; W. G. Bunker, Augusta; Lewis Keene, Fremont, Neb.; Lutch Stark, Orange, Texas; H. N. McDougall, Portland. The guests were Harvey R. Rice, Worcester, Mass.; Matthew McNeill, Brookline, Mass.; Maurice Hatch, Arlington, Mass.; William Dwyer, Philadelphia; Arthur W. Furlong, Dr. Frank A. Richardson, Medford. A number of the Rotarians are to visit the Scout Camp at Meguntook Lake Monday night, and after sampling the camp's cookery will enjoy its hospitality along social lines.

ONLY TWO SPECIALS

Size of Smith Notification Crowd Disappointed the Leaders.

An Albany, N. Y., despatch to the New York Herald Tribune says:

"Although Democratic leaders were unanimous and lavish in their praise of Gov. Smith's acceptance speech, it became increasingly apparent that their enthusiasm was tempered with some apprehension and disappointment not traceable to the mess which the weather made of things.

In the first place, of course, was the lack of a crowd, a lack made more disturbing by the knowledge that plans to attend the ceremony of large out-of-town delegations, particularly from New York, were canceled or abandoned several days ago, long before there was any reason to believe the occasion was going to be so appreciably wet.

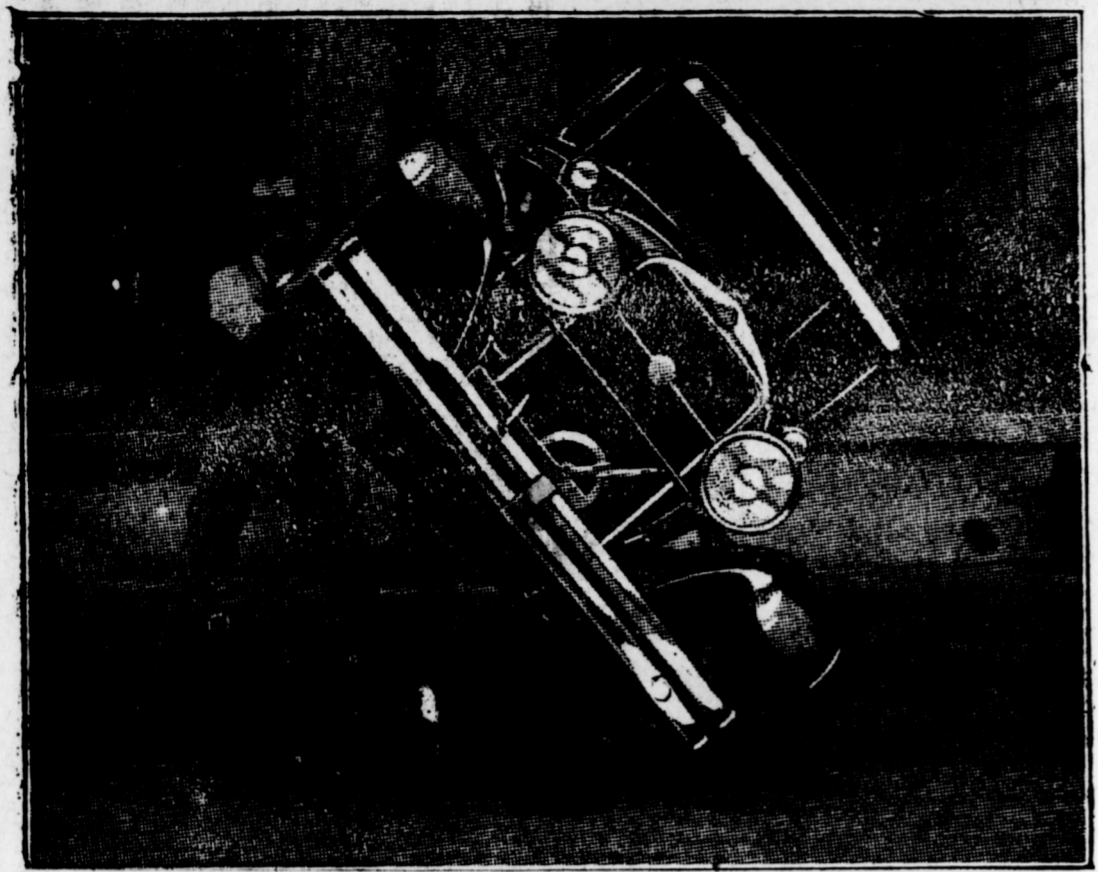

Travelers reported every train from the south and west of Albany as arriving with plenty of room to spare, despite the announcement of the New York Central Railroad that instead of the 19 or 20 extra trains, it was reported to be preparing to run from New York to Albany, and the several from Buffalo to Albany, its schedule called for only one extra train from the metropolis and one from Chicago, the former carrying 190 passengers and the latter 170. Only two extra cars were put on regular trains from New York, and one extra car on a regular train from Buffalo. A few weeks ago Tammany told railroad officials it would have counted a Brooklyn delegation, approximately 20,000 Democratic stalwarts to move up here and back."

HIRAM SMALL

The funeral services of the late Hiram Small were held last Sunday at his home on Crescent Beach, Rev. Walter S. Rounds officiating. The deceased was in his 82d year and died Aug. 17 after a few days' illness. He is survived by three daughters, Nettie E., Edna M. and Doris E. Small; and a sister, Mrs. John E. Gross of Stonington.

Try This With Your Auto

Studebaker's research engineers demonstrate the low center of gravity of Studebaker cars by tilting them to extreme angles. Tests proved that The Commander, illustrated above, can be tipped to an angle of 53.5 degrees before toppling. The President Eight can be tilted to 55 degrees before it reaches the point of balance. The Dictator 53 degrees, and The Erskine, 52. Low center of gravity, such as these figures prove, is an important factor of safety in a motor car.

SAYS FARMERS NEED HIM

Quality of Hoover's Ability Is a Fact Already Demonstrated by His Record.

By HENRY FORD

In an interview with Samuel Crockett of the Saturday Evening Post.

I AM for Hoover for President because he has shown that he can size up any job, pick the right man and direct it through to success. Through fourteen years—ever since Belgium—he has been handling some of the biggest jobs in the world. He has made a success of every one of them. He has shown that he is not afraid of size. The greatest job that the world has ever known is now before this country. It is so big that none of the old-line politicians even knows that it exists. We have developed this country just enough during the past six or seven years to know that much which was thought to be impossible can be made possible under the right leadership.

The task is to make such use of the experience we have gained that we can build rightly for the future. Otherwise we are going to lose all that we have gained.

We have the men, we have the money and we can make the tools for the job. But all these will be useless without leadership. That leadership, because the thing is national, must be in the President.

Hoover Has Proved Leadership
The quality of Hoover's leadership requires no experimenting. It is a demonstrated fact.

But of what value is experience in the management of public affairs? What difference does it make who is President?

We all have our personal preferences, but a mere preference is not important. If it be true, as is said, that no real issues are before the country, then any man of reasonable ability will make an acceptable President.

It is quite true that we have no real political issues. But we have an economic problem which looms greater than any of the old issues. It is not in politics. It cannot be described in the old language of politics.

No one is much concerned now with liberty and independence as tied up with the right to vote. We have all the rights our forefathers struggled for. We are concerned with new and different rights and responsibilities. The great issue is to develop this country to a point where every man and woman has the opportunity both to work and to play.

We have proved that wages can be made high. We have now to prove that they can be continuously paid—that there will be no periods of unemployment over which the worker cannot finance himself.

No man is wise enough to say how the future should be planned. But we have right at hand many enormous developments which will keep all of us busy.

Transportation Brings Prosperity
This country could not have developed without transportation. That gave us national markets. These are mass markets, and thus we have been able to use better methods of manufacturing and get higher wages and lower prices. The first rapid transportation came through the railroads. Then came the automobile. The motor vehicles were at first thought to be competitors of the railroads, but now we know that they fit in together.

Business breeds business, and now we have not enough transportation. We must use the great waterways that have been put here for us to use both for transport and for power. Damming them for power improves them for transportation. Besides, the accumulation of these large bodies of water assists the rainfall. We have the Great Lakes and the Mississippi partly in use, but they are doing only a fraction of what they can be made to do. And many other projects only await further planning and coordination. For we know that we are in need of all kinds of transport—by air, by land and by water—and that each has its place and that each will make business for the others. This country needs to have its industry more spread out. Electricity and transport will do this.

This program will circulate billions of dollars. Don't say it will cost billions of dollars; say it will circulate billions of dollars. That is the true way of saying it.

We have the money and will have much more, for every dollar thus spent will produce several dollars. And undertaking this work will mean that for many years—perhaps forever—we shall not have to bother about unemployment anywhere. Both the farm and the factory will share

Farmers' Bulletin 834-F (revised) contains information on the prevention, diagnosis, and treatment of hog cholera, and may be secured by writing to the Department of Agriculture. New material in this publication, which is entitled "Hog Cholera," includes the immunization of suckling pigs, the period of incubation of the disease, and "breaks" in immunity.

Two diseases of alfalfa, bacterial wilt and winter injury, which have caused serious losses of alfalfa in many regions in the past few years, are described, and recommendations for their control are given. In Circular 39-C, "Bacterial Wilt and Winter Injury of Alfalfa," this circular can be secured free from the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

In every dollar that is paid out to the men actually on the work. It does not matter to me who does the work or who owns this work when done. It is use, not ownership, that counts.

The bare statement of what this country must do for its own well-being also describes the kind of President it needs. It is not that the President is the director general of the nation or any other kind of absolute ruler. But someone has to be spokesman of the progressive need of the country.

Hoover Knows Language of Progress

Hoover knows the language of modern progress better than any man. As an engineer, he has already planned the water and hydro-electric development of the country, and as a public officer with a knowledge of cause and effect, he knows the great present and future influence of these developments.

From time to time foreign nations have been foolish enough to imagine that by some system of control they could raise the prices to us of raw materials that we had to have. Some of the controls were official and others were semi-official. The British control of rubber was undertaken from the best of motives, but the temptation to boost the price was too strong and so rubber went above a dollar a pound. Hoover did not ask for legislation or make any protest—any foreign nation has the right to charge us what it pleases. It is up to us to defend ourselves. He called a meeting of the rubber men. They learned just how much rubber was already in the country and what could be done toward reclaiming rubber. That broke the artificial price and saved the users of automobiles at least half a billion dollars. Incidentally, it caused some of us to make a start toward getting our own sources of rubber. A man less versed in the ways of the world and of business would have made a great many speeches and probably had the country talking war—and accomplished nothing but the generation of a great deal of hard feeling.

Can Do Big Things

This man Hoover not only has ideals but he can do things. He knows what to do and where to find the right man.

Among what are said to be issues are prohibition and what is called farm relief. We cannot elect a President, who says in advance that he will take the oath of office with a mental reservation not to support the Constitution.

Some farmers are well off and others are not. But I cannot regard the farm as distinct from industry or as in opposition to industry. The one depends on the other.

If the farmers do not earn money, then a great industrial market vanishes. If the workers do not earn, then the great market for farm products drops. Undoubtedly the freight on farm products is too high just as is the freight on all products, but this will be cured only by providing more and better methods of transport in the general plan of the development of the country. The farm is small business in world of big business, and only through the development of the country can it become big business. The man who earns money on the farm is doing so by applying the methods which have made industry. That the vast majority of farmers are not failures is shown by the buying power of the farm states.

The pensioning of various industries has been tried time and again everywhere in the world. It has never worked and can never work. And no more can it work with farming. In addition, this is a world of lowering prices. Progress is in the direction of learning how to pay wages and earn money with low prices. That has created big business. It will create big farming. We are now in the transition period and that is always a period of temporary hardship.

Country's Development Just Begun

In short, we are not using what we have. There is a tendency to think of the country as already developed, when actually the development has scarcely begun. We have already gone further than any other nation. We have done this by taking advantage of science in a large social way for the benefit of all. The whole country is in flux. If an industry or an industrial unit tries—even for a little while—to stand still, it never catches up again.

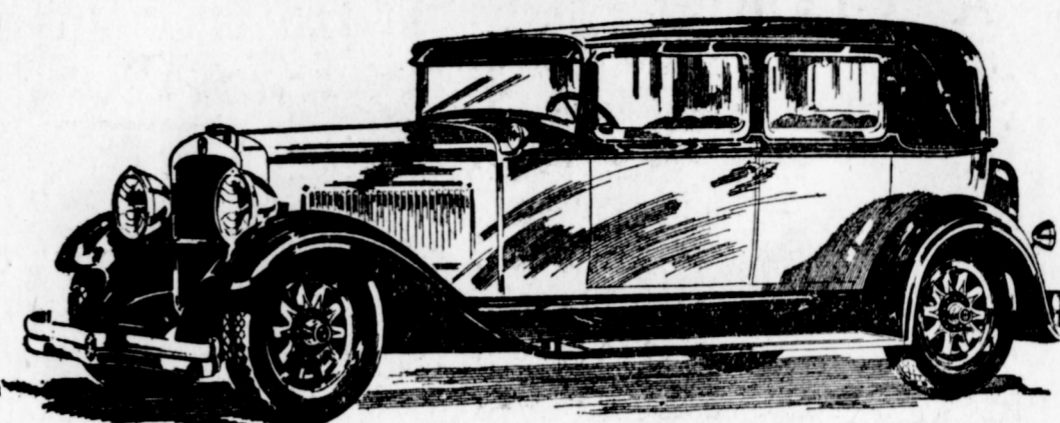

New methods in farming are coming in as quickly as are the new methods in industry. New methods are adopted in both industry and agriculture only because they make a fuller use of materials and men than did the old methods.

We have reached our present point without plan, but to go much further we need the opening of the country on so broad a basis that the Government itself must aid. The old system is going out of business; there is no cure but the wisdom to welcome the new era, which will not alone solve our present problems but abolish them utterly.

Herbert Hoover has the grasp not only of this country but of the world, and hence of this country's relations with the world. He is a young man; he belongs to the new era. He has the ideas of the new era and the proved ability to put them into practice.

That is why I am for him.

NORTH WARREN

Mrs. N. J. Hall of Bangor called here by the death of her mother Mrs. Josie Cummings, is visiting her sister Mrs. Charles Mank.

It is with sorrow that the death of another old resident of this neighborhood, Mrs. Isora Kallach, is recorded. She had been ill only a short time and died Tuesday night.

Mrs. Josie Cummings

Mrs. Josie Cummings died Friday afternoon after a long illness. She had been an invalid for some time before breaking her hip last January from which time she never walked again. The excessive heat of last week weakened her very rapidly until the peaceful ending Friday evening. She had nearly reached her seventy-eighth birthday, a life of care and sacrifice with a strong trust in her Saviour. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Lulu Williamson of Spruce Head and Mrs. Iza Mank of Warren, a stepdaughter Mrs. Ava Hall of Bangor and two brothers George Tash of Pownall and Preston Tash of Chelsea.

A host of friends will miss her but—

"Our loss is her gain.
No more sorrow, no more pain—
All her heartaches now have ceased,
God has given her sweet release.
She has gone to heaven for her reward,
Of perfect trust and faith in God."

[Mrs. Cummings was a member of that devoted group of friends of The Courier-Gazette who for so many years have been part and parcel of its being, sending in the news items of her community. This paper extends sympathy to the family.—Ed.]

A SUMMER USE FOR RADIATORS

ALTHOUGH welcomed during a part of the year for its comforting warmth, the unsightly radiator constitutes, during the longer seasons when it is not in use, a jarring note which vexes the housewife who takes pride in the decorative harmony and atmosphere of her home.

One solution to which many are turning helps materially in adding to the appearance of a room and at the same time provides a practical use for the radiator in summer.

A sheet of polished plate glass slipped into wooden brackets grooved to fit the glass will make a shelf which can be fastened to the wall a few inches above the radiator top. A decorative cretonne hung in front from a rod fitted into the same wooden brackets, and at the sides tacked directly to the wall, will completely disguise the radiator until it is needed again in the fall.

A bowl of flowers, or growing plants, and a pair of candlesticks will complete the transformation. A cool effect will be given by the lustrous sheen of the plate glass. Furthermore, the glass will prove strong enough to bear any reasonable weight and it will not be marred by spilled water. The glass may easily be kept clean with a damp cloth.

A mirror, hung on the wall back of the radiator will further brighten the room and add greatly to the pleasing effect of the arrangement.

ROCKLAND'S DOLLAR DAYS

FROM WASHINGTON
Special to The Courier-Gazette

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21.—Reports from California indicate that Mr. Hoover expects to begin an extensive speaking campaign in September. During the campaign he plans to visit cities in the East, the Middle West and the border States, conferring at the same time with leading citizens on national problems. Senator Curtis also plans to campaign extensively, particularly in the Middle West, which he has represented so effectively in Congress for a third of a century.

Rumors that other members of the General Motors directorate were in sympathy with Raskol's political views were answered by a statement that not one of the DuPont family, which exercises almost a controlling interest in General Motors, would oppose the candidacy of Hergeit Hoover. And now Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of the General Motors Corporation, adds the coup de grace with a statement that his company will not permit its prestige, its organization or its property to be used for political purposes.

A rising tide of revolt against domination by Tammany Hall, which has assumed the leadership of the Democratic party in this campaign, is reliably reported to be overshadowing even the farm relief question in the West. Democrats who have hitherto supported the ticket for years, confronted for the first time with the Tammany issue, are refusing to be shipped into line and are finding more and more to admire in Hoover and Curtis, according to the situation.

The acceptance speech of Herbert Hoover has made a deeper impression upon the State than any campaign utterance for many years, according to reports reaching here from all sections of the country. The constructive program which he outlined for agriculture brought an immediate response from 15 farm editors, who praised the nomination for the wise attitude he has taken toward the farmers' problems. They were quick to appreciate that Mr. Hoover has laid the foundation for not one, but

A Few of the 119 Babies Born in Maternity Department

The medical and surgical center of Knox County and portions of the adjoining counties of Waldo, Hancock and Lincoln is the Knox County General Hospital at Rockland. This hospital had an ancient precedent in the Pool of Bethesda, which had porches in which lay a multitude of them that were sick—blind, halt, withered—waiting for attention. In that ancient time those that had the good fortune to step first into the Pool after the troubling of the waters by the Angels of Healing, were made whole of whatsoever disease they had.

The Knox County General Hospital is a modern Bethesda, and the center of all the ministries which medical science can give to the relief of bodily ills. Here there are always those skilled in treatment and kindly care ready to put a man into the Pool of Healing at any time of the day or night, so that the sufferer may be provided with the special sort of treatment or attention he may need.

In developing the hospital from a 38-bed moderately efficient institution into the thoroughly efficient 77-bed complete, fireproof hospital of today, there may have been a natural tendency on the part of some to think of the institution simply as a mighty building with amazing equipment; but the emphasis should, after all, be placed not upon the building and equipment, but upon the individual patient. Here no patient is lost in the multitude of the sick. He is, on the other hand, the more highly individualized and becomes, in a sense, the concern of all connected with the hospital.

With the completion of the hospital plant and its freedom from debt—which is the purpose of the present campaign for $100,000—there will begin a new chapter in the history of medical and surgical service in this community. During the two years since the last campaign almost 2000 patients were cared for, 119 of whom were babies born in its splendid Maternity Department. Most of this time from one-quarter to one-half the hospital was under construction, which necessarily reduced the number of patients who could be cared for. These patients came from every part of the territory served by the hospital.

The hospital also includes an efficient Training School where young women from Knox and neighboring counties may obtain superior training in the noble profession of nursing. A three-years' course is provided, which is the equivalent of that supplied by any first-class hospital.

THE CLARK TREE

Correspondent Offers Some Genealogical Information.

Attleboro, Mass., Aug. 19, Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—There is much misunderstanding about the history of the Clark families of Lincoln and Knox Counties.

John and Elisha Clark were the fifth generation from Myles Standish. The enclosed will further state correct ancestry and further data can be had from the "Clark Tree" or Genealogical Chest.

Carlos T. Clark.

The clipping referred to by Mr. Clark follows:

"Uncle John Clark, or Fiddler Johnny," was son of Elisha Clark, Jr., who married Patience Blackstone, daughter of William Blackstone and Abigail Varney, daughter of Humphrey Varney and Sarah Starbuck, who was daughter of Elder Edward Starbuck of Plymouth.

"John Clark's mother was Patience Weston, daughter of Isaac Weston, who was son of Nathan Weston and Desire Standish, daughter of Alex. Standish and Desire Doty, whose father Edward Doty came over in the Mayflower.

"Alex. Standish was son of Captain Myles Standish, a prominent Mayflower passenger. George Soule, the great, great, grandfather of Nathan Weston, was also one of the Mayflower Pilgrims."

Mrs. Lewis Herzog, who has been spending the summer at North Haven was called yesterday to New York where her husband is afflicted with a severe nasal trouble.

A public auction party at Shorelands, summer home of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Southard at Ingraham Hill, will be given Aug. 30, for the benefit of St. Peter's Church.

Mrs. Fred Sacker has arrived from her New York home to be with Mr. Sacker's mother, Mrs. Mary Sacker, who is seriously ill at her home at The Highlands.

Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Crockett assisted by Capt. Bernet entertained the clerks of the store at their cottage, Ginn's Point. After the day's work they were motored down by Forrest Eaton, Russell Stewart and Mr. Crockett, arriving about 6 o'clock. Shortly afterward 18 were seated at a table laden with fish chowder, sandwiches, cake, etc. The evening was spent around the open fireplace singing old time songs.

A DOWN EAST TOUR

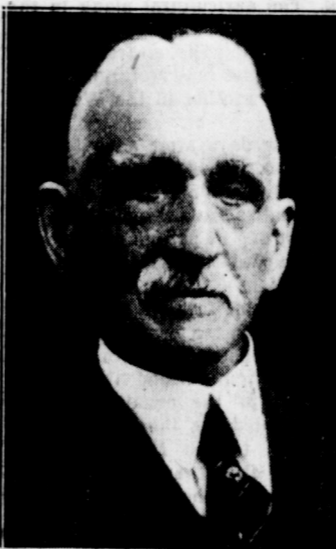

Capt. Gregory Finds a Few Old Friends Down in Windsor, N. S.

Capt. J. F. Gregory, the well known clothier and former master mariner, has knocked around the world quite a bit in his 86 years, but can't justly remember when he ever had a more pleasant vacation trip than the one which he completed Wednesday. Accompanied by his son Alvin W. Gregory and the latter's wife, he fared forth in a motor car a week ago last Tuesday. The party made Robbinston the first night, and on the following day did a 200-mile spin to Moncton, N. B., where the members passed the night. The next day they passed through Parrsboro, N. S. Five Islands and around the head of the Bay of Fundy to Truro.

Friday saw the tourists in Windsor, N. S., where Capt. Gregory met a number of the friends of his seafaring days, and where he was shocked to learn how many had passed on.

Came then a visit to Grand Pre—Evangeline's Land—and a trip through the Annapolis Valley, a famous apple country, where the orchards were found in much better condition than in the States.

Through Kentville where English steamers load apples for consumption on the other side of the water; through Wolfville and Digby to Yarmouth, N. S., where the visitors stopped over night at the Hawthorne House. At Yarmouth a visit was paid to an old garrison, and to a museum which contained relics dating back to the 16th century.

Capt. J. F. Gregory

Down the eastern coast of Nova Scotia rolled the Rockland trio en route for Halifax. Within 18 miles of that city they came across the still blazing ruins of a conflagration which had destroyed a vast quantity of lumber, factories and other buildings. Subsequently they learned through a Halifax newspaper that the loss had been $400,000. Stop was made while A. W. Gregory took several snapshots.

Sunday morning the visitors rode around Bedford Basin, a very beautiful locality where hundreds of ships could find safe anchorage at one time. The return home was via Truro, and when anchor was finally cast in the home port the register showed that the party had covered 1750 miles. The best day's journey was 255 miles, but this party was traveling for pleasure and not to make a speed record.

Misses Anna and Vittoria Carini attended the Marcano-Hanson wedding in Belfast Thursday.

Mrs. Amelia McIntosh entertained at her home on Prospect street Wednesday evening in honor of Mrs. F. W. Skinner and daughter Helen of Portland and Mrs. Anne Maxwell of San Francisco. Music and solo dancing by two of the guests were greatly enjoyed. Out of town guests included Mrs. Joseph Brannier and daughter Clara of Bangor.

THE REALM OF MUSIC

Gladys St. Clair Morgan

Reinald Werrenrath, the American baritone, has remained a favorite with the public ever since he made his first bow several years ago. He probably more than any other singer, has pioneered. His records were and still are "best sellers" and he was adamant in the belief that records would help rather than hurt a singer. The first artist of sterling worth and in the foremost ranks of concert artists, to broadcast, he sang the first of the now famous Atwater Kent Sunday Night Radio Hours. Werrenrath later went on record as believing that judicious broadcasting would again assist, rather than militate against an artist's business. Vitaphone was the next development of serious intent in "Canned Music" and again this American baritone was one of the first artists to record under this new method.

"I think," Mr. Werrenrath said when asked his opinion of radio in the concert business, "that anything which brings good music to the masses, which is not said in any derogatory sense, but merely as including the general public, is mitigating in favor of our craft. After all it is a question on which no two people will ever agree, and what my opinion is may be the direct opposite of someone who knows more about it than I. I can only tell my own observations and reactions. I sang over seventy concerts last season, in almost every case to absolute capacity, and it looks as if I will have eighty or more next season. If that means radio, and the phonograph and the Vitaphone are hurting concert business, let it hurt it, I say, for after all 70 or 80 concerts in 10 months or so, is plenty of concerts to sing, try it and see. I think it is too soon in this day of overnight inventions and unbelievable mechanical progress to prognosticate for the future. As has always happened before, things work themselves out in the course of time, and people naturally gravitate to the particular branch of their profession to which they are best suited."

This is called the Schubert centenary year and observations in one way or another are being carried on throughout Europe. Among the outstanding celebrations are noted that from June 3 to 17 inclusive called the "Vienna Festwochen" or Festival Fortnight, and the commemorative choral festival beginning on July 19 and lasting three days, which was participated in by singing societies from all parts of Austria and Germany.

Eugene Bonner in the July 18 Outlook tells of one celebration given in honor of Franz Schubert which made an especial appeal to him. It was the unique "serenade" given in the early part of July in the Josephplatz, the program being offered by the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra in conjunction with the chorus from the Staatsoper under the direction of the eminent conductor of that institution, Franz Schuchter.

The Josefplatz is the irregular square formed by that part of Hofburg (the former imperial palace) containing the famous library and great ballroom used on state occasions. This part of the Hofburg, dating from 1721, is built around three sides of the square, the other side being taken up for the most part by the Palastvici Palace, one of the most beautiful in Vienna. The orchestra and chorus were placed in that part of the square in front of the main entrance to this wing of the Hofburg, just under the balcony which overlooks the Platz.

The night was perfect, and every window in the old Hofburg as well as those of the palace opposite were wide open, the huge piles themselves blazing with lights from the great crystal chandeliers, clearly visible from outside in the square. From the main balcony of the Hofburg where Mr. Bonner and his friends were fortunate enough to be the scene was more like some very perfect stage setting, or one of those exquisite old eighteenth-century paintings of a fête such as Canaletto or Guardi loved to depict rather than a scene in this twenty-ninth year of the twentieth century.

The program itself, an all-Schubert one, was simple and perfectly adapted to the occasion. Opening with the "Overture in the Italian Style," the choruses followed, the first being a chorus for women's voices, "Chor der Genien," from "Die Zauberharfe"; the second a chorus for men, the "Geisterchor" from "Rosamunde." These were beautifully sung, the stillness of the night and the unusual surroundings serving to cast a glamour over the proceedings.

The first half of the program finished with the variations on "Der Tod und das Mädchen" from the Quartet in D-minor. The second part consisted of the "Mondschein" quintet and the "Nacht-musik" quartet, both for men's voices, and finished up with a very fine performance of the "Rosamunde" overture.

At his solo-recital in connection with the National Association of Organists which meets in Portland Aug. 27-31, bringing to that city delegates from over 30 State Councils, Dr. Melchiorre Mauro-Cottone, concert organist-composer of New York, unanimously placed among the great organ recitalists and composers of the present day, will perform for the first time a new work by an American concert organist-composer, Mrs. Virginia Carrington Thomas, "A Southern Legend." He will also give the first performance of his new "Cantata and Musette" which he wrote for the coming American tour of Fernando German, the 21-year old organist of the Angustem concert in Rome.

Melchiorre Mauro-Cottone comes from a family of illustrious Italian organists. Well known as concert organist and composer he is also credited with having rendered under his direction for the first time in a Catholic Church in this country, Palestrina's "Stabat Mater" for eight voices a cappella.

For the last seven years he was chief organist soloist at the Capitol Theatre, New York City, and the only organist to give there a yearly recital under the auspices of the National Association of Organists and the American Guild of Organists.

Weyland Echois, the young New York tenor, who assisted in the Chestnut Street church service in Portland last Sunday evening, gave by special request the "Aubade" from Lalo's "Le Roi d'Ys." He also sang "The Year's at the Spring" (Beach), "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot" (Burleigh) and "Jesus of Nazareth, King" (Hamblen). He made a most favorable impression by the beauty of his voice and his personal appeal.

Mary Garden, the famous prima donna, is said by French rumor in Paris to be engaged to wed Pierre Plessis, a French author and dramatic and music critic. Mary is 51 years old and never married. "He is my friend," she says, "but I am not getting married yet."

An invention which promises to revolutionize the phonograph industry has been perfected by John L. Baird, radio-television inventor. The record will have two needle tracks, one of which reproduces the voice of the singer, while the other reproduces the singer's features, according to Captain Oliver G. Hutchinson, managing director of Baird International Television Ltd. of London in an interview in the New York Times. The device, small and compact, will plug into an ordinary radio set or phonograph.

Vrooman Plays Tammany Hall For Attempt to Play "Con" Game on Nation's Farmers

Official Under Wilson and Economic Expert Says Houston Convention Platform Fools Nobody

Playing Tammany Hall for attempting to play a "con" game on the farmers of the nation, Carl S. Vrooman, assistant secretary of agriculture under President Wilson, declares that intelligent farmers through out the country have received no comfort from the agricultural plank in the platform of the Democratic national convention.

"The Tammany Hall campaign idea seems to be based on the theory that it can sell political gold brick promises to a bunch of hay-seeds out West. I am confident the farmers of the nation will not fall for this latest 'con' game from 'The Sidewalks of New York.'"

He charged Tammany with being Democratic in name only and said that "it is essentially mercenary and parasitic. It double-crossed Wilson, Cox, and Davis."

"One of Tammany's first acts was of subterfuge and double dealing. The agricultural plank in the Houston platform was a masterpiece of ambiguity, so framed as to admit of one interpretation in the East and another in the West and South."

"A few days after a conference with Peek (George N. Peek, of Moline, Ill.), Governor Smith endorsed the equalization fee principle, but the next day he put out a statement flatly repudiating the equalization fee itself."

"Intelligent farmers have got no comfort from the agricultural plank in the Houston platform. It professes platonic friendship for the principle of equalization fee, without pledging the party or the candidate to the McNary-Haugen bill or to any other bill or plan of real benefit to the farmer."

Mr. Vrooman for a long time has been active in behalf of the "dirt farmers" in the Democratic party.

Carl Vrooman

He drafted and introduced the first farm relief bill in Congress in 1921.

Mr. Vrooman, a prominent expert on economic subjects and a writer of note on many public questions, farms 4300 acres of land near his home in Bloomington, Ill. In addition to his service of five years as assistant secretary of agriculture, he served for eight months in the agricultural war mission to Europe during and after the war.

HAS ONE ISSUE

New York Editor Comments Frankly On Smith's Acceptance Speech.

The New York Herald Tribune which has all along treated Gov. Smith with courtesy and marked fairness, declared editorially, after the speech of acceptance that he is "a candidate with one issue." The editorial follows:

Governor Smith spoke at his best in his speech of acceptance, and that best is a high level of straightforward utterance. As an introduction of his personality to the nation at large, his admirers could not have asked for more.

His leadership is urgently needed by the Democracy this year, for if ever a party declared its intellectual bankruptcy the Houston convention took that step. The two greatest issues upon which its convention and its candidate fought the campaign of 1924 it threw overboard at Houston. It refused even to mention the League of Nations and it adopted a protective tariff plank. Upon these two vital issues, about which Democratic eloquence has centered, the one for a decade, the other during several generations, the Democratic party declared in effect that it had been wrong, and it accepted the Republican view.

Gov. Smith faced overwhelming difficulties with respect to these two issues, and they form the most vulnerable parts of his speech. He lacks the courage to mention the League of Nations, and the only sentence which throws any illumination upon the question is the following: "I believe the American people desire to assume their fair share of responsibility for the administration of a world of which they are a part, without political selfishness or any foreign nation." Doubtless the League advocates will find encouragement in those words. The average voter will wish that Gov. Smith could have expressed his intentions toward this vital problem as candidly as did Mr. Hoover. The Governor is a master of plain English when he cares to be. Why did he wrap his thoughts upon this important issue in a vague two faced sentence?

The tariff dilemma Gov. Smith meets with more words but hardly less clarity. The greatest handicap that the Democratic party faces is its established reputation for mediocrity with business and its record of hard times. The Houston convention made a number of gestures designed to still these fears. Gov. Smith has displayed a lively realization of these public qualms. His selection of Mr. Taskob as his campaign manager was an obvious effort to placate business sentiment and prove his interest in prosperity. In his discussion of the tariff—unquestionably the central fact in American prosperity—he insists that there will not be "any sudden or drastic revolution in our economic system which would cause business upheaval and popular distress." He adopts the doctrine of protection in so many words, and for this assurance American workmen and business men alike can be thankful. But he feels obliged to resurrect as much as he can of old-fashioned Democratic tariff meddling and promises to restore the tariff commission to activity. A danger to prosperity—which must be built upon stable conditions—unquestionably lurks in this effort to straddle the tariff issue.

The Governor's words on the other half of the American policy of protection, the restriction of immigration, are equally confusing and disturbing. Gov. Smith supports the principle of restriction, but in a bid for racial votes criticizes the basis of the present law. That basis is a compromise, and probably no ideal basis can be established. The danger is that in monkeying with the present law the protection given by it to labor will be weakened. Governor Smith, despite all his protestations in behalf of prosperity, is in favor of monkeying with both the tariff and immigration. His proposed actions speak louder than his words and cannot fail to awaken old fears of Democratic meddling and undermining.

It is a pleasure to turn from these confused and confusing portions of Gov. Smith's speech to his outspoken words upon prohibition. Here he speaks of what he knows, and he speaks with conviction and persuasive force. With his general analysis of conditions as they exist today under prohibition we are in entire agreement. We do not see how any open-minded citizen of this city can fail to agree with the Governor's statement.

His proposed remedies will awaken no such unanimity of opinion, and in the present state of the public mind it is difficult to see how any solution can be agreed upon. To many the most important feature of the Governor's program will be the fact that he neither advocates nor suggests the advocacy of nullification. He does not issue any declaration against nullification such as did Mr. Hoover, but neither of his remedies contains a hint of nullification. If he agrees with "The New York World" and Dr. Butler that nullifying a Constitutional provision is the natural and desirable way of amending the Constitution he is very careful not to say so. Instead he advocates first, a scientific determination of what is intoxicating liquor and second, an amendment of the Eighteenth Amendment permitting a state if it will to install legislation of the Canadian type.

The Governor's proposals are definite. Whether they will help to clarify the situation at the present time is exceedingly doubtful. Certain basic objections to his constitutional amendment suggest themselves at once. It would fasten upon the nation a system which might or might not work. If it failed, it would be as difficult to substitute another system as it is now difficult to alter or repeal the Eighteenth Amendment. The truth is, we think, that the Constitution is no place for such legislation. The basic objections raised by the Association against the Prohibition Amendment would apply to the Governor's modified amendment with almost equal force.

In our judgment the Governor's prohibition policy, while vigorous and specific, is premature and based on insufficient facts. The danger is that it will confuse public opinion rather than crystallize it. We fear greatly that partisanship will prevent any real clarification of this complex issue in the coming campaign. If, however, the Governor can define the problem for the voters and raise a clean-cut issue, more power to his eloquence!

The Governor echoes certain partisan arguments made familiar at Houston, notably an indictment of Republican corruption and a denial of Coolidge economy. As the actual head of Tammany Hall and the most extravagant Governor the State of New York has ever seen, he might better have left those charges unspoken. But these charges are blennishes in an able document which, in effect, throws the Houston platform overboard and bids for the Presidency upon the single issue of wet reform.

The Ladies Aid fair was a success in every way. The net proceeds amounted to $100.15.

Shouldn't the Railroads of Maine be permitted to Share in the reduction of Taxes as voted by the last Legislature?

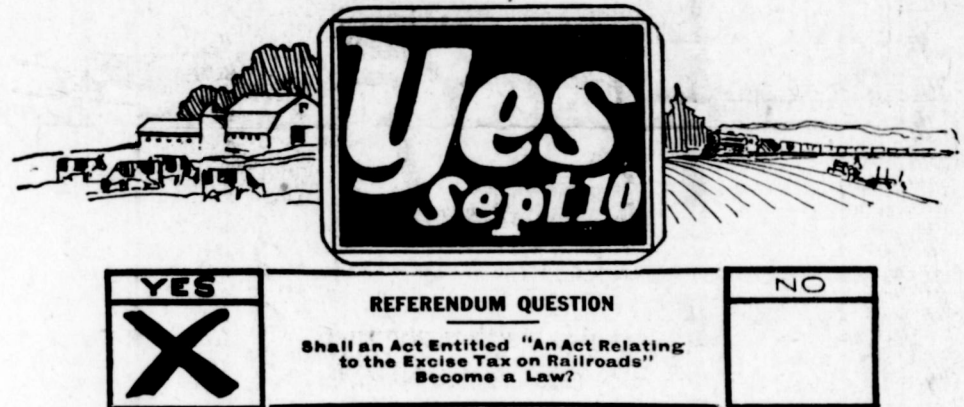

Are You in Favor of a Square Deal?

The railroad tax in Maine is the highest gross-receipt tax in America, with one possible exception.

No state in the country imposes as heavy a tax upon the gross receipts of its railroads as does the State of Maine, with the possible exception of California where railroads operate under extremely favorable conditions.

In Rhode Island the tax is 1% of the gross receipts. In Connecticut it is 3%, from which all other taxes are deducted. And taken as an average over a period of five years, the total state and local taxes of all the principal railroads in the country is 4.37% of gross receipts, while the Maine railroad excise tax law alone imposes a payment of 5%. This is in addition to the regular federal, state and local taxes which in the case of the Maine Central brings the tax total for 1927 to 7.04%. An inequitable condition; as the Legislature decided, and as we are confident the voters of Maine will agree on September 10th.

PUBLICITY COMMITTEE OF MAINE RAILROADS WILLIAM T. COBB, Chairman

The Committees on Taxation in two successive Legislatures, after long and exhaustive study, voted unanimously in favor of the new law. Two successive Legislatures passed the new tax measure by overwhelming votes.

HOW TO CATCH HENS

Don't Chase 'Em All Over the Place, Says the Poultry Expert.

Only experts know how to catch hens without chasing them all over the hen house, creating a considerable disturbance and more dust, says Oscar M. Wilbur, extension poultry specialist, but such men do not chase the forlorn biddy; they use a simple method that is far better and easier.

If poultrymen are to make the most from their flocks it is positively necessary to cull regularly in order to dispose of the hens as soon as they stop laying. To chase the hens often causes those which are doing their duty regularly to cease laying, thus defeating the very purpose of culling.

A very simple arrangement for catching the hens is to stretch a piece of four-foot poultry wire across one corner of the pen and drive all of the birds into the small enclosure. One man can then stand inside of this in, revolved pen and pick up the birds without chasing and without stirring up an extensive amount of dust, providing the birds are carefully handled.

As the birds are examined, the good ones can be dropped back into the pen outside of the wire enclosure, while the poor individuals can be placed into crates or transferred into some other pen. Such an arrangement makes it easy for the person handling the birds and it is much less detrimental in the way of egg production than when the birds are chased about the pen while catching. Only one precaution is necessary, and that is to watch that the birds do not become excited and crowd in the corner and smother.

When only a few individuals in the pen are to be caught, then a hook about four feet long made from a stout wire is very satisfactory. Such a hook very closely resembles a shepherd's crook except that the hook on the end is small enough to catch the hen's leg, but which will not allow her foot to slip through. When using the hook, it is most effective when the birds are back to back.

With these arrangements the most undesirable part of culling is overcome.

Girls, we are informed, are not marring so early as they used to. Still, they are marrying more often.

THIS FARM PAYS

A VIEW of the 1280 acre farm of Herbert Hoover. Operations on Mr. Hoover's farm are conducted on the same high engineering plane as all his other enterprises. The entire acreage is irrigated and highly cultivated for big crops of quality productions. The land was worthless nine years ago when he bought it and was wrested from nature. Every variety of product such as potatoes, cotton, peaches, grapes, onions, figs, etc. is produced. Mr. Hoover constantly checks over with his manager, a university graduate farm expert who has the practical knowledge to go with his scientific education.
