Two Ellsworth boys figured in a thinice accident in New Hampshire recently, one as the near-victim and the other as the rescuer. William Raymond, of Rochester, formerly of Ellsworth, was skating on the Cocheco river, near that city, when he broke through. By a strange coincidence, the first man to reach him, and pull him out of the water, was also an Ellsworth boy - Edward Austin, now employed at Dover, N. H.

Coroner L. W. Jordan was called to West Surry on Christmas day, to investigate the death of Josiah W. Coulter, who was found dead in the home where he lived alone. Death was due to natural causes. There were evidences that he had arisen as usual in the morning, and built fire. Coroner Jordan thinks he must have died soon after that. The body was found the middle of the afternoon by Mrs. Eugene Blaisdell, a neighbor.

The Wayback ball at Hancock hall Monday evening proved an enjoyable affair, though the severe storm and slippery walking prevented many from attending. Nevertheless about fifty couples in costume, and a good many spectators, braved the weather. Many of the costumes were good, and some of them were of historical interest. The stage was decorated to represent a barn scene, with borse and cow in their stalls. The members of the orchestra were also in cos-

An excellent entertainment was given by the pupils of the Beechlnad school on Christmas eve. A fine program was presented, consisting of singing and recitations. Mrs. Winfield Brann was accompanist. There was a Christmas tree, with a Santa Claus, impersonated by Walter Edgar A. Mitchell, S. W.; Charles W. Joy, Brown. Parents turned out in goodly numbers, and altogether about eighty were present. The teacher is Miss Minerva Jordan; she has taught this school two terms, and has given great satisfaction.

Henry W. Cushman and wife, formerly of this city, now of Bangor, gave their daughter Miss Louise a coming-out party last evening at Society hall in Bangor The reception was at 9 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Cushman and Miss Louise being assisted by Miss Constance Gardner, of Boston. Dinner was served at 12 o'clock, and dancing followed. Guests from Ellsworth were Mrs. J. A. Peters, Mrs. Henry M. Hall, Miss Margaret and Ludike Hall, Mrs. A. K. Cushman, Arthur Parcher, Robert King and Clarence Tapley.

With the beginning of the new year, Harry E. Rowe enters the employ of Wadsworth, Howland & Co., of Boston, manufacturers of paints and varnishes, as saleman for eastern Maine. He attended a convention of the salesmen of the company in Boston last week. His many Ellsworth friends congratulate him on his excellent position, and predict that he will "make good". It is gratifying to the Ellsworth friends of both Mr. Rowe and his wife to know that they will continue to live in Ellsworth, Mr. Rowe being able to make Ellsworth for Sundays.

The year of 1912 has been the most prosperous this bank has ever had. In entering upon another year we express our appreciation to our depositors and patrons for the support they have given us and for the confidence they have placed in us during the years we have been in business. Our policy for the coming year will be followed the same as in the past—the principal one, safety for all money intrusted to our care. There are many reasons why every one who is not a customer of this bank should become one—the main reason, this bank is under the supervision of our directors, all well known in this community, all men of character, stability, business ability and good judgment, with a full realization of their duties and responsibilities. We place our services, knowledge of banking and knowledge of investments at your command. A perfect organization at your disposal. Our strength, security and experience at your service. We want your business, promising in return, safety, liberal treatment and courteous consideration.

ELLSWORTH REUNION.

Date Fixed for Annual Gathering of Home Folks in Boston.

Boston, Dec. 30 (special) - In order to ccommodate the greatest possible number of Ellsworth residents, a later date than usual-namely, Friday, March 28has been chosen by the Ellsworth Re-Details concerning the services will be union association for its annual meeting in 1913. The committee hopes that this date will prove acceptable to a very large number of those who plan to come to Bos ton in the spring.

Residents of Ellsworth, or former residents, who are willing to assist the committee in arranging the next reunion are invited to correspond with Miss Ella F. Jordan, the secretary of the association at 817 South street, Roslindale, Mass.

There is no lack of interest in Boston. In spite of the fact that the committee meeting at the residence of Mrs. F. H. Kendrick, the president, was held on one of the most disagreeable nights of the year, there was a satisfactory attendance. In the pouring rain, Mrs. Charles E. Bullard, in order to show her enthusiasm, came all the way from Wakefield to Boston, which is equivalent to coming in to Ellsworth from some town up back of

Among others who were present were Mrs. Kendrick, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Lord, Mrs. Robert Leighton, and Messrs. Stetson Foster, E. F. Redman, and H. H. Adams.

Dr. F. A. Davis will have charge of the refreshments, Oliver Anderson of the printing, and H. H. Adams of the music The reunion will be held in the largest hall available-Paul Revere hall in Mechanics building.

Moving Day at Courthouse.

County-Treasurer Blaisdell is in Ellsworth to-day, receiving New Year's greetings, and accepting the delivering of books and keys of the office from his predecessor, Frank L. Heath, who has made an excellent official.

The most emphatic evidence of moving day is seen at the jailhouse, where sheriff Silsby and his wife are getting to rights, with many interruptions from Ellsworth friends who cordialy welcome them back. The outgoing sheriff, O. H. Jellison, has moved back to Bar Harbor. he made many personal friends.

Sheriff Silsby has made no additional appointments of deputies beyond those announced in THE AMERICAN last week and said this morning that he probably would not do so at present.

Hardwood Factory's New Head. Owing to ill health, F. S. Richmond, superintendent of the Ellsworth Hardwood Co.'s factory, has resigned, and his resignation has been reluctantly accepted. Mr. Richmond's son Carl F., who has been associated with his father ever since he came to Ellsworth som years ago, has been elected superintendent

Until within a few weeks the factory has employed about seventy hands Owing to the open winter, and the consequent inability to get wood, the force is temporarily reduced to about fifty. As soon as stock becomes available, the force will be increased, and a night crew put on.

Ellsworth sincerely regrets Mr. Richmond's resignation; he has proved the most competent manager the factory has ever had, and it extends to him its sympathy in his failing health.

At Augusta.

Among the Hancock county men, besides those who are members of the legislature. seen about the lobby of the Augusta hous yesterday were Col. Hannibal E. Hamlin and T. F. Mrs. Bessie Frazier, of Washington, was here several days last week

Miss Laura McCarty is visiting here during the holidays, the guest of A. W. Ellis and wife.

Leroy Haslam and wife, of Bangor, are visiting here during the holidays, the guests of Arthur W. Salisbury and wife. Mrs. Marie Maddocks, of Bar Harbor, was here a part of last week, the guest of her brother, Charles Keisor, and his wife. Mrs. Henry Lord came home Monday night from South Portland, when she spent Christmas with her daughter, Mrs. Hubbard C. Newell.

W. H. Brown, Leon Brown and William Rankin have finished building the mill for Ward & Wyman, of Cherryfield and returned home Tuesday.

Orren L. Stewart, who has been occupying the Finn house on Mill street for several years, has moved to the James E. Parsons house at Ellsworth.

The annual Christmas tree of the Sunday school was held in the vestry Christmas eve. Preceding the tree, there was shown a series of pictures of the Child Christ, accompanied by readings by Mr. Guptill. The tree was prettily decorated and was well laden with presents.

CHRISTIAN ENGEAVOR

Prayer Mosting Topic For the \Veek Beginning Jan. 5, 1913.

Topic.—The ideal Christian.—I. His con-secration.—Mark xii, 28-34. (Consecration meeting.) Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

The prayer meeting topics for the consecration meetings for the year will be devoted to a study of the characteristics of the ideal Christian. Such a study should arouse the interest of all Christian Endeavorers, for what Endeavorer is there who does not desire to be an ideal Christian? The aim of every Christian should be to reach the highest ideals possible in the Christian life. To simply be a Christian should not satisfy us. We should desire to be the best possible Christian, and we should ever in prayerful dependence upon God aim to come as near as possible to the likeness of Christ, our great ideal. Anything less than this is unworthy one who has surrendered his life to God in Christ

The consecration of the ideal Christian may well be studied first in such a series. The Christian life begins with consecration, or the setting of ourselves apart for the service of God. We dedicate things to God-houses of worship, etc.-but we consecrate ourselves to God. If we have made a profession of Christianity we have by that act solemnly and sacredly set ourselves apart for the service of God. We have vowed that we will no longer serve Satan or self or the world. We should try to realize what such an act of consecration means and by the grace of God attain to all that is included in it.

The consecration of the ideal Chris tian must be full and complete. We cannot give ourselves to God and hold back anything from Him. Every part of our being, every phase of our life must be included in such a consecra-tion. We must "love the Lord our God with all our heart and with all our soul and with all our mind and with all our strength." Our affections must be consecrated to God. Our minds must be consecrated to Him. Our spiritual powers must be devoted to Him and even our bodies. If we thus love Him and serve Him our consecration will be ideal.

To some people it may seem that such a consecration even to God is unreasonable. But such is not the case God has every claim upon us., He has created us. He preserves us and He has redeemed us. We should therefore look upon complete consecration to God as "a reasonable service" and should willingly and cheerfully consecrate ourselves to Him and to His serv-

Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark in an address at the St. Paul Christian Endeavor convention said:

The mission of the Christian Endeavor society is as plain as the sun in the noonday heavens. It was written in its first constitution, and it has been acknowledged by the churches throughout the world. That mission is to be the training school of the church. This training is along four great lines They might be called the "four major courses" of Christian Endeavor: First.—The expression of the Chris tian life in deeds.

Second.-Its expression in words. Third.-Its expression in loyalty.

Fourth.-Its expression in fellow-

The boy who goes to college indicates his desire for an education. The courses that he takes largely determine his future life. The boy who joins the Christian Endeavor society indicates his desire for a practical Christian education, and the thoroughness with which he takes its courses will largely determine his usefulness in the kingdom of God. All these courses in our Christian Endeavor college in the nature of the case and by reason of the constitution and require ments of the human soul are compul sory because necessary for the building up of a fully rounded, symmetrical Christian character. None of them is optional. The first course, the expres of the Christian life in deeds. finds its classrooms in our many committees; the second, expression in words, is taught in our prayer meeting; the third, the expression of the Christian life in loyalty, is learned in all the multifarious services for the church, and the fourth, the expression of the Christian life in fellowship, is taught in the ten thousand Christian Endeavor conventions and union meetings held every year throughout the

The Prayer Meeting as a Test.
The activity and spiritual life of a church are gauged by its prayer meeting more than in any other one thermometer. The activity and spiritual life of the individual Christian are gauged in the same way. It cannot be a mere coincidence that the most active and liberal Christian workers are the prayer meeting Christians. There must be here a cause and effect. It is a good test for any church to apply to own life.-Rev. Francis E. Clark,

Dear M. B. Friends:

I don't know how it has been with all you nieces, but I have been having a reunion with you all Christmas week, and if you could just sit down by me and look at the lovely remembrances and good wishes which have come to me from Lettie, Ann, D, and others who live near me, to greetings from across the continent, from the Great Lakes, from the Gulf of Mexico, and many intermediate points, you would think you, too, were attending a reunion a Christmas one.

I thank you each and all, and please accept this as my acknowledgement of your kindness, as I may not be able at present to respond to each individually. Dell asks the same privilege, as she has been suffering from erysipelas in her eyes and is not able to use them yet for reading or writing. She talked with me by 'phone Dec. 26, and wished me to tell you, through the column, that she appreciated the many holiday greetings you had sent her. thanks you for them, and wants you to know why you do not hear from her in reply.

If some of my M. B. nieces have not recieved a little word of remembrance from me, there is no intentional "slight". I have had to trust to my memory for your addresses this year, and while I have not forgotten any of you, in a few cases I am not sure of your initials and in others the place of residence is not certain. For instance, I sent a greeting to Jennie at Bayside, and a message later from her says Bar Harbor. "Anon" has remembered me from New York, but gives no address.

You will all understand, and I would be greatly pleased if all M. B.'s not hearing from me, who would like to continue to be one of us", would just send me a postal card or a quotation or recipe or poem, and I will, anyway, put to use one or two "cute" books for addresses which some of the nieces have sent me in the past, and have a complete and corrected list of our "family".

It is a pleasure to have the following

BAR HARBOR, Dec. 23.

Dear Aunt Madge and M. B. Friends: How are you all this cold winter? I hope you are all enjoying good health. I am happy to say I am some better than I have been, but have had a terrible summer. Words fail to express it. I have had cards from a number of the M. B's., and wish to thank them for ending them.

I think it is high cost, all right, especially in B. H. Prices speak for them-selves. I would like to see a change in every way. I shall certainly vote, if we ever reach that point. I hope we will sometime.

I extend my sympathy to Sadie's family in their bereavement.

I see quite a lot is said of the high cost of

Wishing all the M. B.'s a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year, with love and best

We all hope you will keep right on gaining in health, Jennie.

BENTON, LA., Dec. 18, 1912.

Dear Aunt Madge and Sisters: Isn't it about time Meb sent in her little mite for the column? She has been thinking mite for the column? She has been thinking of writing for some time, but it seems thinking don't always fill the bill. Now, Irish Molly, full-blooded white leghorn hens have bright yellow legs. My daughter had them in Idaho, and as she is much in love with poultry she ought to know. She has R. I. reds. now, with one other kind, but the reds are as good layers as any she ever had.

Sorry you are losing your hair; I had a time of that, but I got some hair tonic and now I have as thick a liead of hair as you ever saw on a eighteen-year-old girl. It is about twelve to fifteen inches long and it won't be two years until February since I was nearly bald-headed. For a long while my hair was very thin in front, but now it is very thick, and new hair in places which has been with out any hair for years. my hair for years.

The new hair is but slightly gray; the old hair is most all the gray hair I have.

Aunt Maria and I have birthdays Jan. 4, 1915 but I have forgotten which is two years the older, but think it is I. Now I don't like to and vegetables, with hens and a sow, it will be pretty cheap living, as eggs, milk, butter fruit and vegetable are all I want.

In putting up fruit I use a very little sugar and they are fine. Here, where we don't have any snow and a lot of hot weather and no cellar, we put up a lot of plums, peaches and wild fruit, and haven't lost a jar. We must else to do down here in the backwoods.

I was in hopes we would sell out here and come to Maine last summer, but we are still here, and I don't know but I shall have to go to Twin Fslis, Idaho, to see about some land I have there, before I can come to Maine. I would like to spend this winter at Laredo, Texas, and come to Maine next apring, but you see we can't always do as we like. I don't like it here, for it is too far to any town or like it here, for it is too far to any town or city, but it is a great hay farm. We cut some $6,000 worth of hay last season, but the money outside of living and help, goes to meet pay-ments on the farm. This would make a grand stock ranch, if one had the money to run it. So far we have had very little cold weather

Only twice it has made about one-half inch of ice. We had some quite hot weather in July and August, but no very hot nights Very few mosquitos. Nice place for a farm if any one liked 520 acres by themselves, but ed to being in a store, so don't think

I did so want to go to the reunion this year at Dell's that I was glad when it was over, but you all had my best wishes. I often think of Ann's potato cake; how nice it was when I was at the reunion. I am glad I belong to the clan, and I mean to write oftener next year, if I don't write very interesting letters. I dreamed of a old-home friend last night, and it made me almost homesick when woke up. Old memories never die, and those who have been good to you - it seem when we are separated we think up the good things, forgetting the bad.

I suppose all the sisters are getting ready for Christmas. Molly, do you see how I that word? I am like you, there. Well, I am doing nothing. Shall send a few cards this year. I am hard up just now, but hope some day to have that word "hard-up" cut out. If I didn't owe, and had $5 in my pocket, I would say I am happy. I am just property poor, and just now, no sale for it, but when I am once out of debt I never will get into it again. One mest a day first.

Well, I am in hopes soon to settle down somewhere. !! Aunt Maria thinks I have forgotten her, she will be surprised, for I am going to write her so she will get it about her birthday. How will that do?

With best wishes to you ail, and a Merry Christmas, with a happy and prosperous New Year, and best wishes to those who are ill, that they may have better health next year. and love to ali. Mas. L. M. Bowen.

We are all glad you belong to the clan, too. It is good to hear from you again.

DANGER FROM GRIPPE

Lies in That Cough and Weak, Worn-out Condition.

Grippe, pleurisy, pneumonia, these are greatly to be feared at this time of the year.

To prevent grippe from being fol-lowed by either pleurisy or pneumo-nia, it is important to drive the last traces of it out of the system quickly.

Our advice is to take Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron prepara-tion without oil, and get your strength and vitality back quickly.

Mrs. A. A. Grabill, of Strasburg, Va. says: "Grippe left me weak, run down and with a severe cough, from which I suffered four years. I tried cifferent remedies, but nothing seemed to do me any good until I took Vinol, from which I received great benefit. My cough is almost entirely gone, and I am strong and well again, and I am glad to recommend Vinol to others who suffer as I did."

Parcel Post Is Operated On Unit System With 8 Zones

Any One Can Learn Postage Rates by Figuring Out Distance From Postoffice.

GINNING New Year's day at 6 a, m. the new parcel post law permits any inhabitant of the United States to send through the mail merchandise of all descriptions, provided it does not weigh more than eleven pounds and is not more than six feet in combined length and girth. One point the postmaster general wishes emphasized and that is that all packages have to be taken to the postoffice by the sender, and this doesn't mean the numbered substations ordinarily found in drug stores, but the regular postoffice stations.

The packages will be delivered at their destination in wagons, the deliveries being as regular as the present

At present the number of men in the bered units printed on it shows that New York city is in unit 717, which. of course, is in the first zone. Each locality makes its own first zone, so it was necessary for the postoffice department to have printed separate maps for each locality. Suppose you are in unit 717 in the urst zone and you want to send a package to Buffalo. which is approximately in unit 1.162, which is in the second zone. You take the package to the postoffice, and the postoffice clerk will place it on the newly constructed scales, first designating on the scales that the package is to go to the second zone. When it is weighed the scale will give exactly the amount necessary to carry the package to its destination.

The first zone of fifty miles includes what is called the local zone. The designate the zone. All he has to do is to mark his scale with the zone in dicator and the machine will show the amount of postage.

The postoffice department has issued a guide book and map that can be pur-chased for 75 cents. There is also an insurance against loss of all packages not over $50.

Among the things that will not be accepted for delivery are intoxicants, explosives, inflammable liquids, live or dead animals, firearms, disease germs, books or printed matter. A special series of stamps has been engraved for the service.

The greatest advantage of the parcel post is to the farmer who wants to sell his products direct to the consumer. A postal card for a dozen or more fresh eggs can be sent on one day and the eggs received the next. All kinds of produce will be acceptable. Eggs can be packed separately in cotton and placed in corrugated pasteboard boxes so they can be shipped with entire safety. All packages containing eggs must be marked "eggs."

All fragile articles, such as millinery, toys, musical instruments, glassware, etc., must be marked "fragile."

It is expected that the parcel post will hurt the express companies' business, particularly in short deliveries, on account of the cheap rates of the parcel post. The suburban poultry and produce markets will be accessible to thousands of town buyers.

The parcel post stamps measure 1 by

TYPICAL DIAGRAM INDICATING PARCEL POST ZONES FROM CHICAGO AND SHOWING HOW TO COMPUTE POSTAGE ON PACKAGES.

This map, made with Chicago as a base, shows how the zone system will be used in arranging rates for the parcel post service which will be inaugurated Jan. 1.

Establishing zones by drawing circles of different cameters, with each postoffice as a center, would mean an impracticable amount of figuring. Instead of using townships and counties as units or starting points it was decided to divide the whole country into blocks or units, each block being half a degree in latitude in north-south extension and half a degree of longitude east and west. There are 3,500 of these units in the country.

An example of how to get the first zone is as follows:

Find the center of the unit in which your postoffice is located. Draw a circle of fifty miles radius around that center. Every unit which lies wholly within that circle or more than half of which is within that circle is included in the first zone from any postoffice, and the postage rate is 5 cents for the first pound and 3 cents for each additional pound.

The second zone is determined by drawing with the same center a circle of 150 miles radius. Every unit which lies within it, but outside of the first zone, is in the second zone, and the rate is 6 cents for the first pound and 4 cents for each additional pound.

The method by which the second zone is determined is used for all other zones, their radii and rate of postage for the first and additional pounds respectively being as follows: Third zone, 300 miles, 7 cents; fourth zone, 900 miles, 8 cents; 6 cents; fifth zone, 1,000 miles, 9 cents; sixth zone, 1,400 miles, 10 cents, 9 cents; seventh zone, 1,800 miles, 11 cents, 10 cents; eighth zone and all territory farther away, including the Philippines and island possessions, 12 cents fiat.

For the purpose of carrying this law into effect the United States is divided into zones, with different rates of postage applicable to each, as follows:

postal service has not been increased. Such a step is considered unnecessary at present. The postoffice department has been working overtime since last July, when congress passed the law, preparing for the inauguration of the new service. Twenty thousand of the most delicate and intricate scales have been ordered for delivery before Jan. 1.

A most elaborate system of maps has been completed, inaugurating a zone system. There are eight different zones. Upon the maps are depicted various units in each zone. Every town is situated in a numbered unit. shown upon the map. The first zone is any distance within fifty miles. second zone is a greater distance, and so on until the last zone, which takes in Alaska and the Hawaiian Islands, but not the Philippines.

before it leaves the STICKNEY & POOR factory at Charlestown, Mass. This is done for your protection as well as our own. In con-nection with our system of records, it tells where the seed comes from that goes into each can of mustard. If any complaint arises concerning the quality and flavor of the mustard, it can be traced the quality instantly to its original source-the mustard seed itself.

This is only one of the precautions taken to make sure that shall always be uniform in character, in solor and taste. It shows you why you can cook with it and always feel sure that you will get the same result each time. It is one of the benefits that grow out of our continuous experience of searly a century of satisfactory mustard-making.

Nearly every grocer sells it in 4 and 4-b. cans at 10 cents and 20 cents. Write for our book of receipts and you will be surprised to learn of the number of ways in which you can use mustard to add to the pleasant variety of your table.

Among the other Stickney & Poor Products are: Pepper, Cinnamon, Cloves, Ginger, Mace, Pimento, Sage, Savory, Marjoram, Celery Sait, Curry Powder, Paprika, Taploca, Nutmeg, Cassia, Alispice, Whole Mixed Spice, Pastry Spice, Turmeric, Thyme, Soda, Cream of Tartar, Rice Flour, Potato Flour, Sausage Seasoning, Poultry Seasoning and Flavoring Extracts. If you just say "Stickney & Poor's" when ordering, your grocer will give o you. But—be sure to SAY it.

A Happy New Year!

THE AMERICAN wishes all its subscribers, of which it has some in thirty-eight of the forty-eight states of the Union, and in four foreign countries, a Happy New Year. With this issue the paper itself begins the fifty-ninth year of its own existence, and is feeling pretty well, thank you.

Mr. Speaker Peters! That sounds good, especially to us here in Ellsworth and in Hancock county. We hereabouts know him for an able lawyer, a keen business man, a success ful banker, and an altogether desirable citizen. The two terms he has already spent at Augusta as a member of the House have made him known throughout the State as a broad-minded and constructive legislator. His triumphant election as speaker is a sufficient comment on the outrageous criticisms to which he has been subjected in the columns of the Lewiston Journal.

The result of the caucus last evening at Augusta of the republican legislators-elect was no surprise to any one in Maine except the editor of the Lewiston Journal, who has become obessed with the notion that he is the only man in the State who has a political conscience. The immensity of his egotism is painfully emphasized by the failure of a single legislatorelect to follow his advice. Now that "The Folks" no longer listen, to whom can he appeal?

The question raised at the time of the September election as to whether W. H. Sherman, of Bar Harbor, who holds the office of county commissioner for Hancock county, could, if elected representative to the legislature, hold both offices. He was elected, is now in Augusta, and the question, if it arises now, will soon be

On page 3 of this issue may be found a carefulin prepared article, but necessarily condensed, on the parcel post stem, which goes into effect to-day.

The Templar Toast.

The idea of the Christmas toast by Knights Templar to the grand master had its origin in Maine in 1879, and Stephen Berry, of Portland, the present grand secretary of Maine, was the originator.

The toast, although proposed and drank trical moment the world over, comes at different clock hours, and the following is a portion of the time dule, which indicates at what hours he drinking of the toast takes place in different sections in order that the same instant may be struck: Hawaiian Island. 6 a. m.; Alaska, 8 a. m.; Pacific time, 9 a. m.; Mountain time, 10 a. m.; Central time, 11 a. m.; Eastern time, 12 meridian; Greenwich time, 5 p. m., and Philippine islands, Dec. 26 at 1 a. m.

It is interesting to note that men at sea, particularly the officers who are Masons, of the ships of the United State navy, and other navies, take special bearings for the purpose of finding at what hour to drink the toast in order to rise as nearly as possible at the same moment as their brothers on land.

The toast is a pretty fraternal tribute and universally tightens Masonic bonds throughout the world.

COUNTY GOSSIP.

Chester W. Stratton, of Hancock, last week butchered an April pig which weighed, dressed, 367 pounds. Mr. Stratton would like to know who has raised a better pig this year in Hancock county.

Lloyd Dolliver, of Seawall, recently shot an Arctic owl measuring from tip to tip five feet four inches, and weighing four and one-fourth pounds. It was a handsome bird, white on inside of wings, with black-tipped feathers on back and outside of wings. Mr. Dolliver will have the bird mounted.

One of the matters which the town of Eden will undoubedtly press strongly upon the incoming legislature will be the right, by special legislation, to make use of the Australian ballot in the election of town officers. This measure was unanimously asked for by the town at the annual meeting of 1911, and presented to the legislature, but as that body had made a ruling that no private and special legislation would be passed upon after a certain date, the matter was dropped. Eden is a big town, and the town meeting method of election is cumbersome. The Australian ballot will simplify this, and allow the transaction of other business even while the voting is going on.

Ellsworth boasts the youngest store detective in Maine. During the Christmas rush last week, this young man, not yet nine years of age, showed up at the store of F. B. Aiken, where many articles tempting to youthful fingers were displayed, and informed Miss Aiken that he was going to keep watch of the boys who came into the store, to see that they didn't take anything. Armed with a long, wooden pistol of the cork-stopper variety, this self-appointed detective kept watch during two long and busy days preceding Christmas. Whether because of his watchfulness, or because of the honesty of the Ellsworth small boy, nothing was stolen. The value of this little story lies in the fact that it illustrates the welknown "stick-to-it-iveness" of this Ellsworth boy-a quality that will be a valuable asset to Master Monroe Y. Mc-Gown, jr., in later years.

What will go on record as one of the meerest runaways ever, took place at South Bluehill last Thursday. A horse, attached to a carriage, left standing near a house, became frightened and bolted for the wide doors of a shed connected with the house. Here it cleared itself from the wagon, dashed into the kitchen and between two women seated there, ran through the dining-room, making a clean jump over a child playing on the floor, and into the sitting-room. Here the horse slipped on the hardwood floor, and tell. In its struggles it kicked over a coal stove, scattering burning coals about the floor, and demolished things about as thoroughly as the proverbial bull in a china shop. Before the horse could find its way upstairs, it was captured, the burning coals were swept up before they set fire to the house, and the owner of the horse and the owner of the house began to figure up damages.

Her Better Nature Conquered

By CLARISSA MACKIE

After it was all over and he wa home again Willoughby Jones-Derrick stretched himself comfortably before his own hearthstone and agreed that it had turned out very well indeed-exactly as he had planned.

Mrs. Silvester had worn the yellow roses he had sent. He had reckoned on her looking especially well at the Ponsonby dance, but she had been actually beautiful-her charming little figure gowned in pompadour silk, and above her soft black eyes gleamed that crown of silvery white hair which distinguished her among the other women of her set-and uncertain age.

At just the right moment-when she was slightly bored with the common places of the ballroom, when the first flavor of the dancing had departedhe had rescued her from the idiotic attentions of a worshiping youth and carried her off to a secluded nook in the conservatory which he had previously marked for the purpose.

Here, amid the tinkle of fountains and the plash of goldfish in the marble basins, with now and then a lulling murmur of music from the distant ballroom, amid the heavy scent of exotic flowers and the pure fragrance of countless roses, Willoughby solemnly and somewhat heavily, as became a Jones-Derrick, asked Lucia Silvester to

The result of this was that when they parted a few hours later Lucia wearing beneath her little white glove the engraved emerald which was the traditional engagement ring of the Jones-Derricks and Willoughby had her promise that in the approaching Indian summer they would be married.

All this had been the result of careful planning and almost painful fore thought on the part of Willoughby Jones-Derrick. He had lived fortynine years of his life in the firm de termination to die a bachelor. He loved too well the luxury of living for himself alone to share his liberal income with a wife who at best might shine brilliantly at costly entertainments and deplete a fortune which was ample for a prudent bachelor.

And in his fiftieth year his business agent reported that those sources whence came his inherited income were in danger of total elimination, even now were divided by one-half, and there was no escape from the impending doom of poverty except a good marriage. The impending doom was a secret between Willoughby and his agent. The idea of the good marriage was Willoughby's own. Quietly he had gone about it, and the result was most gratifying. There would be no cause for wonderment that the rich clubman should marry one of the richest widows in town.

So the last of the Jones-Derricks dreamily consumed several gold tipped cigarettes while he pondered the advantages of the new life that would open when he assumed the responsibility of becoming Lucia Silvester's second husband. It was a very pleasant outlook, for he admired Lucia as much as it was within his power to admire any one save his own punctiltong gelf

He frowned as he remembered the vester, and smiled when he recollected that little Annabel was safely enscone ed in a French convent from which she would not emerge for some time.

Then he dismissed all disagreeable thoughts with a flirt of his cigarette into the grate. It was quite two weeks afterward that Willoughby Jones-Derrick dropped into Mrs. Silvester's for a cup of tea.

The drawing room was empty, but bore evidence of recent occupation. "The ladies will be down immediate sir," said the obese butler. Jones-Derrick's brows were elevated for a brief instant and then crumpled into a frown. He had a beastly headache and did not feel like talking to a lot of chattering women; he needed Lucia's low, thrilling voice and quiet presence to charm away his indisposition.

"It's only Miss Annabel, sir." plained Martin discreetly. "She just arrove an hour ago, sir."

Willoughby stared haughtily at the presumptuous menial, and when the broad back had disappeared with un-dignified haste he transferred his gaze to his hat.

He felt that this unexpected intrusion of little Annabel would prove an obstruction to his present happiness. He would impress it upon Lucia that the child should be returned at—

The door closed gently, and he lifted his cold gray eyes and looked straight into the great brown orbs of-Anne Lange; Anne Lange, grown beautiful, her red hair softened to a less objectionable shade than when he had last seen her in a paint stained holland apron. Her creamy skin was guiltless of its powdering of golden freckles and her perfect features rendered more exquisite by the simplicity of her coiffure and the delicate beauty of her gown; the same Anne Lange he had known in Paris, only not the same. The innocent confidence had gone from the eyes. and only hard scorn remained-for him. That contemptuous curl of the lip was for him too. Who would have expected to meet poor little Anne Lange in Mrs. Silvester's drawing room? Certainly not Willoughby Jones-Derrick.

He slowly rose to his feet and grast ed his hat and cane with the desperate clutch of one who holds fast to some firm support. He met the satirical gleam of her eyes with wavering fear

"Anne-Miss Lange!" he gasped confusedly.

She bowed coldly. A light came to him with startling suddenness. "You are governess to the little girl.

Annabel. That explains your presence here, I suppose?" he said, regaining his self possession with a masterful effort. She smiled unpleasantly. He had not dreamed that Anne could have looked so vindictively at any one-romantic little Anne! She must have cared for him, indeed, and a thrill of regret stirred him that she could not be for him after all.

"And suppose I am the governess?" she inquired at last, and her beautiful contralto voice caused another thrill ers in an investigation of the needs of the within his chill, well ordered interior. "You know I am engaged to Mrs. Silvester?

She nodded carelessly.

"Mrs. Silvester is very particular-very particular indeed," he began as suredly. "I am sure she would not care for a governess who"- He floundered under her scornful glance.

'Who had once been engaged to you, finished mockingly. She lifted one slim white hand and contemplated it thoughtfully.

"I was going to say more than that." he said, vindictive in his turn, and his eyes betrayed the length to which he would go.

"If you said more than that you would lie." She spoke with a calm dignity that set oddly on one so young. "I knew you were here and came down to prepare you for my appearance. Mrs. Silvester shall not know I have ever seen you before unless you force me to tell her. I am not proud of that little episode in my life. I was only sixteen, but I believed in you. Two years is a long time, and now I am a almondst three tablespoonfuls mixed woman. You- Ah, here is mother

"Annabel!" Mrs. Silvester's astonishment was blended with laughter and well simulated confusion as she gave her hand to Willoughby.

"Annabel?" squeaked that gentleman pitifully. Annabel courtesied mockingly. "Annabel Lange Silvester, who tired of convent life and spent a year in Paris studying art, who tired of art and went back to the convent and who has come the well-beaten yolks, then the whites home and surprised her dear mamma by being so grown up!"

"Darling, you positively shocked me," murmured Lucia Silvester, caressing the ruddy hair with one plump white hand. "I did not realize you were growing up. I have always thought of you as my little girl. Now I shall keep you hidden till after my wedding," she concluded, with an arch smile, at the disturbed face of her betrothed.

Willoughby Jones-Derrick was adjusting his slow moving faculties to this latest order of things.

First, it had been Anne Lange, a ghost out of his respectable past that might rattle its bones unpleasantly to the sound of wedding bells or husb those bells altogether, and this wedding meant his bread and butter-and cigarettes.

Now, it was Annabel, the stepdaughwho confronted him; Annabel his prospective stepdaughter. who turned out to have been his flancee for several delicious weeks and whom he had heartlessly filted when her youthful charms palled upon him. Even with her promise to forget the past warmth on her lips he wondered whether he could live with her and volcano which might burst forth any moment and overwhelm him with the lava of truth. Women were treacherous, and had not a great poet said that "hell holds no fury like a woman scorned?"

"I have been making the acquaintance of Mr. Jones-Derrick," said Annabel, with a suddenly sweet smile. "He thinks I remind him of an old friend, and we squabbled over the matter. Now we shall bury the hatchet, shall we not?" She extended her cool hand. Willoughby grasped it eagerly, and tears of relief almost forced themselves to his fine eyes. "Yes." he said. with the stiff heartiness that was his pearest approach to friendliness

"I thought mother was all alone, and so I came home to take care of hergirls have such funny ideas." Anna bel's voice was honey sweet. "I have given that right to Mr. Jones Derrick," smiled Mrs. Silvester over the teapot. "I will take care of you both," said Willoughby ponderously.

Annabel curled her lips scornfully, and they trembled with the quick words that would unmask the man before her and reveal his utter faithless ness to her mother. But, she thought, perhaps he was not to blame for tiring of her, a mere schoolgirl. Her beautiful mother was nearer his age and taste. Standing there, pale and cold, Annabel saw the lovelight shining in her mother's eyes, noticed the gray threads in Willoughby's thick hair, saw him wince—he was afraid of her. Something that had choked her heart two years ago was suddenly swept in a warm flood, and this warmth filled her beautiful eyes. She stepped forward and laid her hand on the clasped fingers of her mother and the

"Yes, mother, dear, your husband will take care of as-both. Let us all e happy." she said, throwing away all revenge and scorn

Something hot and glistening fell on Annabel's hand, but her mother's eyes were dry and shining. She did not dare look at Willoughy Jones-Derrick.

Black Fruit Cake.

One pound flour, one pound butter, one pound powdered sugar, one dozen eggs, three pounds raisins, three pounds currants, two pounds citron, one pound of spices-mace cinnamon and nutmeg-onehalf pint of brandy. Pick over the currants and wash very clean, spread them out in large pans and dry in a cool oven or in the hot sun. Stone raisins; cut them in half.

Dredge the currants and raisins with one cupful of flour. Mix the spice with the remainder of the flour; beat the butter to a cream. Gradually beat in the sugar. Add the brandy, then the almonds, which have been blanched and chopped. Add stir in the flour lightly, then the raisins and currents.

Spread the cake mixture in layers in the pans and spread thin slices of the citron on each layer. Cover the bottom of the pan with three sheets of thin paper well greased. Bake in a moderate oven five hours. This cake improves with age.

BOOST Ellsworth Food Fair, Jan. 27-Feb. 1,'13

Christmas was observed in the Sunday chools of Ellsworth with Christmas trees and exercises.

The exercises of the Baptist Sunday school were held Christmas eve. Two prettily trimmed trees were the feature of | in their unique program. the decorations. At an opportune time, Santa Claus appeared, and distributed the gifts. There was no entertainment.

At the Methodist church the program included recitations by Elwin Bridges and Jessie Higgins, and the pretty little play, "The Christmas Wish," in which the following characters appeared in cos-from the tree. All were remembered. On Christmas evening the children of the Congregational church had a tree at the chapel. After ice-cream and cake, the pastor, Rev. R. B. Mathews, introduced "Santa Claus", whose appearance brought smiles to the faces of the grownappearance ups and wonderment to the littles ones Every pupil was remembered with a present and each received a bag of candy. During the evening there was music - piano solos by Margaret Hall and Fenetta Foss; singing by Fenetta Foss and Hazel Lord, with piano accompaniment by Margaret Hall. Many of the parents and friends of the children were present, and the occasion was a most en-

Capt. O. A. Crockett Dead.

Capt. Oscar A. Crockett, well known as steamboat captain, especially along the Rockland-Bluehill route, which he established, died Thursday at his home in Rockland, aged sixty-seven years. He leaves a widow and six children.

The death of Capt. Crockett marks the passing of one of Maine's best-known steamboat men. He was born at South Thomaston in January, 1845. During the Dix Island boom he commanded the little steamer Fire Fly and packets. This was prior to 1874. Later, for four years, he made coasting voyages.

From 1878 to 1881 he was in Gen. Davis Tillson's employ, running the steamers Hurricane and Hercules. In 1881 he engaged in his most important steamboat enterprise, the Bluehill line, which he developed to such an extent that it is today one link in an important system.

Capt. Crockett ran the Henry Morrison on this line until 1887, when the steamer Bluehill was built for him. This craft he commanded two years. In 1890 the line was put on a new basis, with the steamer Florence in operation. Capt. Crockett built the steamer Juliette in 1892, and in the following year he built and placed in commission on the same line the steamer

The importance of the summer traffic between Rockland and Bluehill was not ost upon the Eastern Steamship Co., and in 1904 the route was purchased by the latter corporation. The services of Capt. Crockett were retained, however, and his active steamboating continued until the spring of 1911, when he retired on account of ill health.

BUCKSPORT.

Thomas S. Bridges, wife and little Evangeline, spent Christmas with rela-tives here.

Mrs. Carrie Hagerthy has gone to Ashland to spend the winter with her son, Dr. A. B. Hagerthy. Clement Lee and wife, of Norwood, Mass., spent Christmas with Mr. Lee's grandfather, John Jay Lee.

Miss Lillian B. Ames, who teaches music in Boston, is spending the holidays with her parents, Alvah B. Ames and wife.

The many friends here of Mrs. Blanche Bolton Blake, of South Orrington, were shocked to learn of her death Saturday. She was a graduate of the E. M. C. S., and a prominent Rebekah, having been district deputy president of this district for two years.

The funeral services of Mrs. Sarah Howes Snowman and her son Fred, whose remains were brought here from Vinalhaven, were hald Saturday at 10.30 at the old homestead on Franklin street, Rev. William Forsyth officiating. The bearers were Arthur DeForest Snowman, Edward Snowman and Walter Snowman, Edward Snowman and Walter Snowman, sons, and H. Lee Swazey, a grandson. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends. Mrs. Snowman was ninety-three years of age, and was a life-long resident of Bucksport, a woman highly esteemed by all. Fred Snowman was fifty-five years of age, a stone-cutter by trade, and had been for thirty years a resident of Vinalhaven. He leaves besides the wife, two daughters and two sons. Mrs. Snowman is survived by three sons—Arthur DeForest, Edward and Walter, and two daughters—Mrs. Lauretta Cobb and Miss Elizabeth Snowman, all of Bucksport.

SOUTH BLUEHILL.

Harriet, widow of Timothy Day, of this place, died Monday, Dec. 23. She had been ill for some days but was thought to be improving when the end came suddenly. She was a woman of sterling worth, a home lover, and will be sorely missed. She leaves a son — Capt. William Johnson, and two daughters—Mrs. Edward Carter, and Mrs. Herman Olson, all of this place; a sister—Mrs. William Pert, of North Brooklin, and two brothers, who reside away. Her age was seventy-nine years. Much sympathy is expressed for the sorrowing ones. SOUTH BLUEHILL.

Bucksport Girl, the Victim.

W. A. Maxfield, a former student at the University of Maine, and the East Maine Conference seminary at Bucksport, and whose wife was formerly Miss Alice Snow, of Bucksport, was brutally murdered at Pando, Col., on Dec. 14 last, while waiting for a train to take him to Gypsum, Colo., where he resided, to attend the funeral of his father.

The murder was committed by a man named Burns, who admitted the deed and said he was promoted to do it because he was "hungry and broke"

Mr. Maxfield and two other men were in the depot waiting for the train, when a masked man walked in and ordered them to throw up their hands, which they did. He then ordered the agent to give over his money and watch. The agent did not move fast enough to suit the robber, who shot twice, one shot grazing the agent's

After making the men give up their money, the robber ordered them to walk up the track shead of him, apparently with the object of making his escape more easy. After going a short way the agent told the robber that he had to go back and flag a train in order to avoid a wreck The robber told him to go back but to keep his "dammed fingers off the key".

Mr. Maxfield, being hard of hearing, turned to walk back also, probably thinking he was to be turned loose, too, when the robber hit Mr. Maxfield on the head with his revolver, knocking him down. The robber then started on with the other two men, but after going a few steps, turned and walked back and shot Mr. Maxfield in the neck. At the coroner's inquest it was found that he was dead before being shot, the blow on the head having broken the skull and killed him.

Mr. Maxfield was born in Bryant's Pond, March 20, 1876. He married in Portland, Nov. 22, 1898, Miss Snow, whom he met as a student at the seminary. With his family he moved to Colorado in 1901, and looated at Gypsum, about two years ago. Two children - Donald, aged thirteen, and Wilds, aged three, and his widow, besides a brother, F. H. Maxfield, and his mother, Mrs. Sarah Moore, of Delaware, O., survive.

About Foul Breath. By Dr. True

I want to speak a word here to people who have a foul, offensive breath. I am sorry to say many people have bad smelling breath and do not know it!

Nine times in ten the cause is found in stomach and bowels. If you correct an imperfect performance of these organs you are quite sure to remove the cause of bad breath. You can see that this would be so, because imperfect digestion clogs the organs with foul poisons and sluggish bowels fail to pass them off. So, if you are one of these ur fortunates, I counsel you to take my Dr. True's Elixir; because a lifetime of experience proves beyond question that it will set the stomach and bowels right and keep them so. It is the best remedy for indigestion, constipation, biliousness, feverishness and worms. It drives from the body, with gentle force, the accumulated poisons and any worms that may be present. Thus, Dr. True's Elixir has proved, and is proving, a source of health to thousands. It is sold by reliable dealers all over the country; also in Canada, South America, Cuba; Honolulu; Bombay and Calcutta, India; Shanghai, China; Cairo, Egypt; Athens, etc. Price 35c, 50c and $1.00. right and keep them so. ized. John D. Perkins, a G. A. R. veteran, has charge of the military drill.

Notwithstanding the unfavorable weather Christmas eve, there was a good audience at the Methodist church to enjoy the music, the recitations and the fruit of the trees. Mr. Lawrie, assisted by Norman Dyer, was busied with preparations some time previous to Christmas, and their efforts were successful. Back of the altar a large fre-place was represented, with brass andirons; over this the mantel with clock and lighted candles. Surmounting all were ropes of colored paper festooned with a bell in the centre. At the right were large evergreen trees bearing various gifts. The exercises preceding the distribution of gifts opened with singing by the choir and prayer by Pastor Brown, the audience joining in the Lord's prayer. Each number was pleasing, and none more so than John West Blaisdell, jr., in "Little Jack Horner". A tiny boy of three years, he was perfect in his part, and was heartily applauded.

Lenora, wife of Clarence Spurling, died suddenly at her home here on Christmas day, of heart failure, at the age of twenty-four years. She had not been enjoying good health for a few weeks, but no one realized the weak condition of her heart, and her death came like a shock to the little community. She was a woman of few words, a good friend and neighbor, not readily making friends, but holding those she did make. To know her well was to love her, and she had endeared herself to many of those who daily came in contact with her. She was a true, faithful, loving wife and mother. She leaves a husband and little daughter, one and one-half years old, her mother, and a brother—Albert Johnson. The funeral services were held at the church Friday afternoon, Rev. F. W. Tingley officiating. A choir sang two selections.
