ROCKLAND LIONS

Heard Echoes Yesterday of Poland Spring Convention

Echoes of the State convention at Poland Spring May 17 and 18 was a topic of general conversation at the Lions lunch Wednesday noon. Twenty-two comprised the Rockland delegation, and all were enthusiastic in reporting a general good time. The convention committee had arranged an extensive program, including two formal banquets, music, vaudeville and short addresses by officials of the organization. There was also a special entertainment for the ladies in the party.

That President Hoover is a member of the Polo Alto, California, Club was a fact not known to most of the members in this vicinity until it was mentioned during the outing. William H. Holman of Bangor was elected district governor and to him and the district directors will fall the duty of selecting a place for next year's convention. Rockland will suggest the Samoset Hotel and it is hoped to bring the organization to this city at that time.

Through the courtesy of Principal Blaisdell of Rockland High School, Alvaro G. Gay was in attendance with the school's projecting machine and entertained the members with several reels of moving pictures showing the activities of the Ford Trade School in Detroit. It proved to be an entertainment of unusual interest. The Lions team which participated in the Community Chest Campaign made its report and also reported that Lions Lovejoy and Brunberg, who were assigned to other teams, failed to join their fellows in the "Lions Roar" at the Temple hall dinner. They were promptly brought to trial and ordered to sing a song and give the roar for the benefit of those present. It is difficult to state who suffered most by the execution of the sentence.

Visitors present were John P. Pomeroy and John W. Benner, both of Rockland.

POPPY DAY COMING

Another Chance To Do Your Bit For the Men Who Served You

On Saturday Poppy Day will be observed by American Legion and Auxiliary, when poppies will be on sale by these two organizations to raise money to carry on welfare work for and in the families of ex-service men of the World War.

The poppies hold more than the usual interest for Rockland this year in that for the past several months at the National Soldier's Home, near Augusta, the disabled veterans of the World War have made about 80,000 of these poppies, earning a penny for each flower. Many of these men receive no compensation from the Government, and have been very grateful for the opportunity to earn some money.

Mrs. Anne Snow, State president of the Auxiliary, says: "I wish you all might have had the privilege of visiting the poppy work room. I wish you could realize what this project has meant to the men who have made these poppies. It has meant the chance to earn a little money; to have pleasant occupation for several hours each day; to have social intercourse with other men; and at the same time to be able to do something for the benefit of others, for they were told that the profits made on the sale of these flowers would be used to help disabled buddies and their families."

"This program was not carried on as a commercial proposition but as a rehabilitation work. Many of the men could not work steadily, and get the proper benefit from the work, so the supervisor instituted a story-telling period during each session. Captain Hershey has been a prime favorite among the boys, always ready to tell some entertaining yarn from his fund of stories."

"Would you like to know what these men did prior to the War? Some of them were carpenters, florists, secretaries, iron molders, chefs, composers, farmers, managers, printers, musicians and so on."

"Nearly every walk in life has been represented in the Poppy Workshop, or the Poppy Class, as the boys prefer to call it and have it called, for in many ways, in working together with the story-telling period at nearly every session, the many visitors who examined and commented upon their work, and in the effort to do just the best work possible, the men were reminded of their school days."

"What did the men do with the money that was paid them for their work?"

"Several sent their poppy checks home to their elderly parents, or to their wives. Some bought overcoats and warm clothing for themselves or relatives. About a dozen earned money enough to go to their homes elsewhere to take jobs at which they were working for a vacation. Some were saving money for a vacation, but the majority of the men had immediate and pressing need for the money."

"Money from the sale of these poppies is every penny used—outside that paid for materials and cost of manufacture—in welfare work."

"To be sure that you purchase the poppies made by the disabled veterans, hospitalized in Maine, buy from the American Legion Auxiliary. Each poppy has a sticker on which is printed both the emblems of the Legion and the Auxiliary. The members of the Auxiliary will also wear a red poppy button on an arm band."

"We ask the public to buy and wear the poppy in honor of the men who made the supreme sacrifice during the World War."

Phantom Chassis

Blaisdell Automobile Co. Has Remarkable Display For Tomorrow

Tomorrow the Phantom Chassis, which has been drawing crowds in every city it has visited, will come to Rockland and will go on display at Blaisdell Automobile Company, 710 Main street. This beautiful model, electrically lit and cut away to show every innermost part of the car, will leave no excuse for any citizen of Rockland and vicinity not knowing why the wheels go round.

"At one time, not very long ago, you could tell a good automobile by looking at it," says A. E. Hunt, manager Blaisdell Automobile Company. "But not now. All automobiles look good today. What you want to see are the materials of which it is made and the hidden parts upon which so much depends."

At the exhibition tomorrow, which is open to all, you can see every part of the silent, powerful engine, quietly and efficiently doing its job, just as it does when speeding along the open road; you can see—and this is perhaps more important to some of us—just what the car is made of; you can judge for yourself whether these are the raw materials out of which we can build a machine to withstand the constant grinding wear and tear, to which the average automobile is subjected today.

And for the ladies—we do not suggest for a moment that they are less interested in the mechanics of the car than the men—for the ladies there will be an exhibit of bright colored silks in the popular spring and summer shades, which will show how closely the modern automobile manufacturer follows the color fashions of the day, in choosing the beautiful shades used in the motor-car of today and tomorrow.

An expert automotive engineer will be in attendance to explain the construction and operation of the modern motor-car. Don't be afraid to ask him questions—that's what he's there for.

Unfortunately the exhibition can only remain in Rockland for one day. But Mr. Hunt assures us that there will be plenty of room for all. "Dynamic Detroit," the movie that will be shown in the evening is certainly a film that should be seen by every one who is interested in how our country has won and holds her present foremost position in the World of Commerce. Detroit is universally accepted as the home of the automobile industry; and to the American traveling abroad, it is perhaps the large number of American automobiles he sees on the streets of every city he visits, that brings home to him more than anything else our commercial supremacy, and makes him proud to be an American citizen.

We cannot all visit Detroit in person. But tomorrow night we can, through the medium of the silver screen, see something of this great city from the ground and from the air. And we can go through one of the biggest automobile plants in the world, and see just how motor-cars are made.

Mr. Hunt extends a cordial invitation to you all, to avail yourselves of this wonderful opportunity.

ALMOST JUNE

(For The Courier-Gazette)

It's almost June, sunny June,
When roses bloom,
When honey bees, through drowsy hours,
Croom, croom, croom;
And singing birds,
In their blithe tune,
Will tell the world
It's sunny June.

But still it's May, pretty May,
That should be showery day,
Through each shower's day,
For the little feet
Of joyful things,
For the shining grass,
And the fairy wings,
But it's only May, May.

Red Cross and Community Chest Important In School Work

The greatest asset of any city is its healthy school children. It is generally the healthy child who does good work in school and graduates to become a self-supporting and desirable citizen. Such a citizen is an asset and not a liability. The backward child is often a child who needs medical attention. It is generally conceded that diseased tonsils and adenoids, together with defective eyes and ears are a great handicap to efficient school work. Children who do poor work in school are frequently repeaters. The cost of educating a child increases ten percent for each year that the child has to repeat a grade.

The work of the Red Cross is most important in securing and maintaining a higher standard of health in the schools. There are approximately 1700 children attending school at the present time. All of these children are examined every year by the Red Cross Nurses. This examination includes the eyes, ears, nose, throat, teeth, posture, weight, and measurements. Doubtful cases are referred to physicians for further diagnosis. Besides the examination much follow-up work is done to obtain the necessary remedies. Before school opened in the fall a pre-school clinic was held for those children about to enter school. Many doctors gave their services and 165 children received a thorough examination at this clinic.

With the cooperation of the doctors, nurses and teachers the six-point child campaign has been carried on. This has been much worth while. It has created a desire on the part of many children to have minor corrections made in order that they become six-point children. The Red Cross has been largely responsible for the success of this campaign. During the winter this organization secured the services of a dental hygienist for one month. During her stay she examined and cleaned the teeth of children in the first four grades.

DELAYED CHEST CONTRIBUTIONS

Due to the bad storm Tuesday and the extremely bad traveling the canvassers for Community Chest were unable to make second calls on possible subscribers, and in some instances all calls on team lists could not be made. It should be borne in mind that a one-day drive is a single sweep and many may be missed.

The Chest is therefore several hundred dollars short of its goal, $13,000. It is urged that those wishing the chest unhampered operation who were missed in the drive send their pledges to Chauncey D. Keene, treasurer, or write a line to the Chamber of Commerce office where a notation will be made and a pledge card with addressed envelope returned immediately. If any person wishes to make a contribution, a line to the Chamber of Commerce will promptly bring a Community Chest solicitor.

Allan F. McAlary, drive chairman.

Driving Storm Fails To Stop Workers—Fund $600 Short

Rockland's Community Chest is to continue its pleasant service another year due to the successful termination of Tuesday's one-day drive for funds. The goal of $13,000 was not attained by a margin of some $600, but the actual running expenses of the participating organizations are guaranteed though no fund of appreciable size is left to care for emergencies. The workers were faced by a cold, driving rain storm and thus handicapped, still came very close to the goal. It is expected and hoped that friends of the Chest possibly not solicited in the storm will send in their subscriptions to Chauncey D. Keene, treasurer.

A brand new scheme was used in this year's drive and won merited success. The paid executive for the drive was eliminated and the work thus done parceled out to a special executive drive committee which served without pay. Its efficient chairman, Allan F. McAlary, was assisted by H. B. Bird, M. E. Wotton, Joseph Emery, L. B. Cook, L. A. Walker, E. E. Stoddard, C. G. Hewitt and John M. Richardson. The team captains cooperated with capable workers throughout. The Tuesday morning breakfast was served by the ladies of the Littlefield Memorial Church, Tuesday noon by the ladies of the Congregational and St. Peter's Episcopal Churches combined with Mrs. H. B. Bird as chairman and Tuesday night by M. P. Trainer.

This interesting table shows the drive in detail:

COL. LINDBERGH SAILS AWAY

Morrrows Also Leave North Haven Summer Home—Important Problem Still Unsolved

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and the members of the Morrow family who have been staying at the Morrow summer home in North Haven since last Saturday afternoon departed in the Colonel's plane shortly after noon yesterday, and in their wake went the "Army of Occupation" which spent five days in a vain effort to get the desired interviews and photographs.

How long Col. Lindbergh and the Morrrows will remain away from North Haven and whether the wedding will take place there are questions which nobody seems able to answer except the parties directly concerned.

The high spots of the North Haven visit were the report that Miss Constance Morrow, aged 15, had been made the subject of an extortion plot in the sum of $50,000; and the temporary detention of a German who had been trying to interview Col. Lindbergh in regard to an airplane engine which he claims to have invented. The story of the German is fully told elsewhere in this issue.

"Letters in the plot against the daughter of the ambassador to Mexico were received several weeks ago by the 15-year-old girl who is a student at Milton, (Mass.), Academy. Fears for her safety resulted in a secret journey to New York whence she went by airplane with Col. Lindbergh and members of the Morrow family to North Haven."

"Chief Driscoll said that threats similar to that received by Miss Morrow had been received during the past two years by several wealthy Massachusetts women. All of the letters asked that $50,000 be left behind a stone wall by the roadside near the homes of James L. Jackson, former State Treasurer, and Major General Clarence R. Edwards, commander of the war-time 26th division. Each of the letters was mailed from the Back Bay postal station in Boston and were printed by hand in pencil.

"Chief Driscoll and Inspector Flanagan of the Dedham police had been working on the plots unassisted until the letters were received. Private detectives were then enlisted by the Morrow family. On several occasions, detectives and police searched themselves in places near the spot mentioned in the letters hoping to capture the writer. Dummy packages were placed there by a girl who acted as a 'double' for Miss Morrow after she had left Milton Academy. The author of the letters failed to appear, however."

"Chief Driscoll said that progress in the case had been made since the Morrow letters had been received and that an arrest was imminent. He attributed the letters to a 'crank' and decried the possibility of any danger to Miss Morrow."

The Lindbergh party stopped at the Seaboard Airport to refuel yesterday afternoon and was immediately surrounded by a flock of newspapermen and photographers who had been at Old Orchard Beach in anticipation of the departure of the airplane Green Flash for Rome. The following "extended" interview took place:

"Are you bound for New York, Colonel?"

"I have nothing to say" was the grinning response.

Col. Lindbergh landed in the harbor at Port Washington, Long Island last night, but the ladies of the party who had been with him when the plane left North Haven had evidently left the ship at some other point.

SUSPICIOUS OF GERMAN

Stranger Who Wished To See Col. Lindbergh About An Invention Brought To Rockland By Officials

North Haven was the scene of a near sensation Tuesday night when the town authorities turned over to the sheriff's department a German named Robert Torenada who was considered by them to have been acting suspiciously. It developed that Torenada, who is 38 years of age, is the inventor of an airplane engine, and was endeavoring to obtain an interview with Col. Lindbergh concerning it.

Torenada was brought to Rockland early yesterday morning by Deputy Sheriff C. Earle Ludwick and Capt. Albert E. Jones of the White Head Coast Guard Station. He was released immediately after Dr. Freeman F. Brown had testified that there was no question as to his sanity, and after E. E. Farnham, customs patrol inspector, had found that his passport was regular.

"The examination was conducted in the office of Sheriff Frank F. Harding. The German was not under arrest at any time. When informed at North Haven by Deputy Sheriff Ludwick that there was no warrant for him he had promptly volunteered to accompany the officer to Rockland, where he was frankly amazed to find himself surrounded by a vociferous group of newspaper men and subjected to much flashlight photography."

Torenada told his story simply and frankly in the presence of the doctor, deputy sheriff and a Courier-Gazette reporter. He said that he is a mechanic, with a bent toward invention. He came to America one year and eight months ago with a view to interesting somebody in the merits of an airplane engine which he had designed. Two New York newspapers published brief articles concerning his invention and ambition, but while he was the recipient of some correspondence as the result of it, the letters did not offer serious encouragement. Not being over-supplied with money Torenada found his way to Mexico where he was employed for a year or more as an auto mechanic, meantime seeking to interest government officials in his invention. Fortune did not choose to smile upon him and he came back to America entering the country at Key West on a passport which provided for six months' stay. Interesting the government in an invention is a proposition no speedier than the building of Rome and Torenada asked for an extension, which was granted.

Meantime he read of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's visit to North Haven and was impressed with the idea that he could interest the famous aviator. He was soon to learn that access to the government is a sinecure when compared with an attempt to see Col. Lindbergh at his North Haven retreat.

When he reached the island village it was to find that there was neither hotel nor boarding house available, and because of the newspaper invasion it was even a problem to get something to eat. He reached the village Monday night, but was prevented ed Tuesday from carrying out his plans because of the steady downpour. He did learn the location of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow's estate, and walked part of the way to it. It was a piece of good luck, he thought, that on his return he should get a ride in the Morrow truck.

He asked the driver if he thought it possible to see Col. Lindbergh, and was informed that the prospects were doubtful.

"Is there anybody I can speak to about it?" asked Torenada, who had meantime given an inkling of his errand.

"I will find out," said the friendly driver.

Booped up by the hope that his story might soon fall upon the friendly ears of a man with so great an understanding of aviation as Col. Lindbergh, Torenada returned to his room and was pacing it nervously when there entered strange men who told him that he would be held on suspicion and that an officer from Rockland was coming for him. He surrendered his passport to a man with a badge, but it was a newspaper badge, and when Deputy Sheriff Ludwick learned of the circumstance he immediately ordered the return of the passport.

"I believed I had a valuable idea as to an airplane engine," Torenada told his questioners, and as soon as I could get backing enough to warrant it I was going to complete a working model. I have never done any wrong and have never had trouble with the police or the government either in Germany or Mexico. I am very sorry I came down here, and shall leave soon."

The officials were impressed with the truth of the German's story.

I paused beside this tiny, bright-faced flower,
And begged that he would tell me, if he could,
The secret of his joy through sun and shower.

He looked at me with open eyes, and said:
"I know the sun is somewhere shining clear,
And when I cannot see him overhead
I try to be a little sun right here."

The Courier-Gazette

Rockland, Me., May 23, 1929.
Personally appeared Frank S. Lydell, who on oath declared that he is President of the office of The Courier-Gazette, and that of the issue of this paper of May 21, 1929, there was printed a total of 6316 copies.
Before me, FRANK S. MILLER,
Notary Public

Withhold not thou thy tender mercies from me, O Lord; let thy lovingkindness and thy truth continually preserve me.—Psalm 40:11.

The Courier-Gazette has taken what it regards as proper cognizance of the visit of Colonel Lindbergh to its home region, but it has sought to do this with becoming restraint, both in its news and editorial columns. It has not been in sympathy with some of the methods brought to bear by the hordes of newspaper reporters and cameramen in their invasion of the privacy of the Colonel and his fiancée. Some of the daily paper editors have sought to justify this breach of good manners by the argument that Colonel Lindbergh in public interest is second only to the President of the United States, and therefore the newspapers are expected by their readers to supply full details of his every movement. But this is not true of all readers. Columns of protest at this invasion of private rights have been printed from newspaper readers. Our own paper has received such contributions, and welcomed them. Another is presented in this issue, and as it comes from an experienced newspaper man, it may be regarded as expressive of a saner view of the sanctity of private life which governs a considerable proportion of the editorial rooms of the country.

Congratulations to the public upon the sixth success registered in its Community Chest canvass. In particular our felicitations and warmest expressions of approval go to the body of young men whose contribution of time and effort made possible the achievement of the success within the period of a single day. Co-operation on the part of citizens helped greatly in the registering of this six-times endorsement of the Chest idea. It is a comfortable feeling to know that for the period of another year the several public objects of support are thus in advance provided with necessary funds for their carrying on, and that throughout that period of time we are to be left free from the labor and disturbance of multiplied money-raising campaigns. Great is Community Chest!

Because Lady Astor has been a summer visitor to these coasts and often seen upon our city thoroughfares, there always remains interest in her public life in England, of which there frequently appears incidents that are picturesque. A London despatch this week, dealing with her campaign for re-election to Parliament, carries this bit of color:

Lady Astor declined today to comment on yesterday's fracas at Plymouth, where she is stated to have knocked off the hat of a local labor leader after leaving the hall where nomination papers were handed in. Her explanation, she said, had been sent by mail to the London newspapers and would appear in due course. The Daily Herald's account begins with a scene when the labor candidate, William Westwood, was handing his paper to the Plymouth mayor, Lady Astor remarked to him: "The Liberals are going to give you this seat." Westwood then clapped her on the back, saying: "We shall win. Liberals or no Liberals. Don't lose your temper although you're going to lose your seat." As Lady Astor left she was confronted by a large crowd of labor sympathizers. "A Westwood came to the crowd and said to sing the 'Red Flag,'" Lady Astor immediately sang the national anthem, and when her party joined her she rushed across to a Transport Union organizer and knocked off his hat. The police intervened.

During the first four months of 1929 registrations were issued from the Secretary of State's office to 98,786 passenger cars, which is $200 more than a year ago. A glance at the congested traffic on Main street, even before the arrival of the summer colony shows that Knox County has shared in this increase.

The sun's age is estimated at five million years. "It's long life may be due to never staying out at night," says the Bancor Commercial. Can it be that Editor Hall has never heard of the midnight sun?

An Augusta despatch says: "Raymond E. Thurston of the Fifth District discussed the question of the management of the State Prison at some length at a long executive session of the Governor and Council Wednesday. No details of the discussion were given out and Judge Henry H. Hastings of Bethel, Phoenix II, Day of Newcastle and A. W. Gregory of Rockland, aside from Gov. Gardiner and the councillors, were the only ones present."

Dr. Everett C. Herrick, president of Newton Theological Seminary Institution, will be the commencement speaker at the University of Maine next month. President Harold S. Boardman announced Tuesday. Dr. Herrick is a native of Livermore and a graduate of Colby College, as well as Newton Theological Institution.

Those who did not hear Mrs. Schneider at the Mother and Daughter banquet will have another opportunity next Wednesday when she addresses the Knox County W.C.T.U. convention in the Baptist Church, Thomaston. She is a remarkable speaker.

CHILDREN'S SUNDAY

Children's Day will be observed at the Congregational Church next Sunday morning at the regular church hour, 10:30 o'clock. The worship service will be conducted by the Rev. Mr. Berry and Mrs. Averill, comrades of the Way, who will use their opening and closing ritual. The program will be as follows: Organ voluntary, "The Pilgrim's Chorus," Mrs. Berry and Mrs. Averill; procession hymn, "Invocation and Lord's Prayer," service of worship, Comrades of the Way; selections by the Primary Department; church hymn, service of christening; duet, Harold and Raymond Greene; offering; address, Walter S. Rounds; presentation of Bibles; closing service, Comrades of the Way; recessional hymn, benediction. All members of the Sunday school and of the Comrades of the Way are requested to meet in the vestry at 10 o'clock.

The Western Union Telegraph Company is installing the duplex system at North Haven, which means in plain English that it will be possible for the operators to send and receive messages at the same time. Messrs. Blenkhorn and Herrick, from the Boston office, have charge of the work.

A Ford roadster driven by Reginald W. Warren of Waterville, was in collision with a Chevrolet coupe driven by J. Edward Elliot of Thomaston, at the corner of Main and Lindsey streets yesterday. Both cars were badly damaged, to say nothing of the nerves of everybody who heard the crash.

In every city there are numerous groups of people genuinely interested in the problem of bringing relief to the needy. Indeed, it may be said that all normal men are desirous of giving such help. But they want that help to be given intelligently, and having neither the training prerequisite, nor the time necessary for scientifically intelligent charity, individuals and organizations alike are turning toward the Red Cross as a means through which they may give practical expression to those humanitarian impulses. Its unique position as a semi-official organization, international, national and local in its interests and scientific in its methods, makes it natural for the Red Cross to serve as the common meeting ground in Rockland in all that pertains to the work of relieving or preventing human suffering.

RUGGED BATTLES

Fans Will Delight In the Fast Steppers Tomorrow Night

One of those fights that the town will talk about for weeks afterward is scheduled for tomorrow night at Sports hall. A definite effort to give the fans exactly what they want and then some has been made—and judge the result for yourself after the end of the speed fight, for every scrap will be a humdinger.

There has long been a demand for Young Clukey to meet a seasoned battler in a main bout and that will happen tomorrow night when he will fight that hard boiled Killer Brown of Bangor and it will be a rugged battle. In the semi final our old friend Kid Yuck who is always good and always willing to give and take, will meet Joe Hewie who comes with a reputation of having a sizzling left. After some time that prime favorite Ish Patterson of Belfast appears to do battle with Irving Dixon, a Portland corner.

Tiger Brown, brother of the famous Killer will meet a clever lad, Rudy Kazman of Portland and two lightning light weights, Young Mack and Young Harry Willis of Bangor will complete the list.

The W. H. Glover Co. expects to occupy its new block next south of The Courier-Gazette office by the latter part of next week. This does not mean, of course, that the interior finish will be done; it means that the work will have advanced far enough so that the new block will afford a shelter for the Glover business, while the part now occupied is being torn down and the southern end of the new block is being completed.

ASH POINT
The Ladies Aid will serve supper in the Owl's Head town hall, next Tuesday evening from 5 to 7 o'clock with a musical entertainment following for the benefit of the Ash Point Baptist church.

Rev. and Mrs. A. A. Walsh have moved into the Baptist parsonage. Already quite an interest has developed in the church work here. Last Sunday Oliver Heard was elected deacon. There are several candidates awaiting baptism.

Miss Myra Moffit and Miss Carrel Macy who have spent the winter in Florida, have returned to their homes here.

NEWS VS. PERSECUTION

And the Courtship of Col. Lindbergh vs. That of Miles Standish

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—Were 10,000 newspaper men to get from North Haven they would not get from Lindbergh any announcement of the time and place of the wedding. The bride's parents always make that announcement, not the prospective groom, just as the parents of the bride to be always announce the engagement.

While editors are keen to supply the nationwide demand of their readers for news of the coming event, it is unreasonable for these readers to expect that Col. Lindbergh will make any statement on this point.

There are three great events in a man's life, his birth, his marriage, and his death. These stand out above all else, and it seems like persecution at this time to hound a man, of Lindbergh's fine character, during his courtship.

All girls' vision romance. And here at North Haven we have the ideal setting for the greatest of all 20th century romances. The beautiful island, the woods, the rocks, the murmuring sea, the moonlight, the walks on the beach, the fireplace and the crackling fire, the modern, 20th century amphibian plane, floating in the air over mountain and valley, hill and dale, forest and sea.

And yet this must all be spoiled. This, the greatest event in the life of any young couple—and for what?

Because editors are forced by their readers to plant camera men and reporters in trees, on rocks, along the beach, and at every vantage point to spy on these two charming, modest, retiring young people who seek but to be alone, and report and record with the camera every movement, every step, every gesture. Can you imagine what a courtship must be under such conditions? Can your average reader place himself or herself in this same position and vision what his or her feeling would be.

Lindbergh cannot make a statement. It is not proper that he should. And this fact being evident, would it not be charitable to wait and get the announcement through the proper channels, because that is the only way the newspapers will ever get it. Why spoil the girl's romantic hours at this time? Why continue to attempt to ruin the boy's fine disposition? We all know your newspaper is keen for the latest news and will not be beaten by other publications, and we do not blame your editor, or any other editor—but the public is unreasonable.

At this season on the island, there is trailing arbutus to be gathered; the fields and meadows are tinted in rainbow-hued wild flowers—and a camera man sits behind every fence post. The shaded paths, through woods of spruce, invite the lovers to a quiet walk alone—and a camera man is perched in every tree. Miles Standish in his wildest moments could not conceive a courtship under such conditions.

We bachelors know little of romance because it has been denied us, and that is one reason why we are sympathetic.

WITH THE BOWLERS

Two very close contests featured the bowling at Carr's Tuesday night. Burpee Furniture defeating the Street Railway by six pins, while the Dark Horses came in eight lengths ahead of the Lawrence Portland Cement team.

Young had the pole in the game between the Dark Horses and cement workers, rolling a total of 507, and gracing the tally sheet with one string of 137. Freeman led for the cement team and was runner-up for Young. The score:

Manager O'Hara of Park Theatre announces that hereafter no pictures previously shown in Rockland will be presented there. Because of this policy "The Terror" which was advertised for Friday and Saturday has been cancelled, and in its place will be presented a Euster Keaton talking comedy feature.
Vitaphone attractions at the Strand Theatre for Friday and Saturday are "Little Billie," midget star fresh from vaudeville. He presents a routine of fast tap dancing and song imitations. Fred Ardath will also appear in his latest slapstick comedy the "Corner Store." "The Hole in the Wall" is the all talking feature picture with a cast of all former Broadway stage stars.
Blue Bonnet Troop of Girl Scouts, Mrs. Nina Beverage, captain, had its usual large attendance at Monday's meeting, the greater part of the work being devoted to preparation for the second-class test. It was voted to take part in the Memorial Day parade. The girls are to hold a party Thursday evening in the Universalist vestry from 7 to 9 to observe the birthday of Evelyn Pierensky. A jolly time is planned. Special invitation is extended to members of the Girl Scout Council.
Rev. Walter S. Rounds is planning to leave Sunday afternoon on an extended Western trip. He will attend the sessions of the National Council of Congregational Churches which meets in Detroit, May 28 to June 4. From there he will go to Racine, Wis., to visit his sister. On returning he will attend Commencement exercises of Hiram College of which he is a graduate. June 18 Mrs. Rounds will join him for the Harvard Commencement to witness the graduation of their son, Philip W. Rounds. For the first three Sundays in June the church will be closed.
The Knox County Men's Chorus is to appear in Camden Sunday evening at the union service conducted at the Congregational church. Mr. Constantine has prepared one or two novel features in addition to the program already given in Rockland and Warren, one of which will be the bass solo by Dr. Samuel Tibbitts of Camden. It will be worth the effort to attend this evening of music, not only to hear Mr. Constantine's splendid chorus, but to view the Congregational church which has within the past two years been thoroughly redecorated and improved, now being one of the most attractive churches in this section of Maine.

STUDEBAKER

world's largest builder of Eights offers championship performance at One-Profits prices in The Commander Eight

at the factory

COMMANDER EIGHT CONVERTIBLE CARRIAGE, $1645. Six wire wheels and trunk rack standard equipment.
COMMANDER EIGHT COUPE, $1495. Prices at factory. Bumpers and spare tires extra.

TODAY'S Commander Eight has swept to a popularity eclipsing even that of its predecessor, the car which sped 25,000 miles in 22,968 minutes.

Studebaker, Builder of Champions, holder of every official speed and endurance record for fully equipped stock cars, now sells more 8-cylinder cars than any other manufacturer on earth.

The first Studebaker straight eight was introduced at last year's motor shows. Its champion performance started the nation's swing to Studebaker. Smart, youthful style added still greater impetus. But Studebaker's One-Profits value is the real reason for Studebaker supremacy.

The Commander Eight blends flashing style and supple power with comfort unknown until Studebaker introduced ball bearing spring suspension.

Hydraulic shock absorbers further enhance its travel ease. Double-drop frame is lower, costlier, but sturdier and safer. Easier, more powerful brakes; steel-core steering wheel; non-shattering windshield—Commander quality makes its One-Profits price quite as remarkable as its performance.

And Commander performance is something you can never forget, once you enjoy it for an hour. May we place a Commander at your disposal?

The tablet is now completed and will be dedicated Memorial Day with suitable exercises. The program will be given later.

Mrs. Mahala Vinal

The community was saddened to learn of the death of Mrs. Mahala Vinal, 82, wife of Calvin B. Vinal, a Civil War Veteran. Mrs. Vinal died May 19, at her home on School street. She had been in ill health for a long time, during which she was tenderly cared for by her daughters Mrs. Edward Folsome of Minneapolis, Minn., and Mrs. Ira Smith of New Orleans, who have been in Vinalhaven for several months, called by illness of both mother and father. Mrs. Vinal was born in this town, daughter of Rufus and Louisa (Roberts) Arey. Besides her husband she is survived by the two daughters who were with her during her illness, and two sisters, Mrs. Julia Lyons of Augusta, and Mrs. Myra Lemond of Barre, Vt., the only ones left of a family of six girls and three boys. She also leaves seven grandchildren.

Mrs. Vinal was a member of Union Church, and an active worker in the church circle; a charter member of Marguerite Chapter, O.E.S., of which she was the first worthy matron; a member of the Ladies of the G.A.R., having served as president; and a member of Ocean Bound Rebekah Lodge. She was a woman of Christian character, much interested in affairs which stood for the upbuilding of the home town, and was a member of the Memorial Circle, which made Memorial hall possible. She was a devoted wife and mother and will be greatly missed in the home and in the community where she leaves many kind friends and neighbors.

DOLORES COSTELLO

DOLORES COSTELLO, lovely lady of screen and star of "Madonna of Avenue A," a Warner Bros. Vitaphone attraction, advantageously brings out the charm of this summer dance frock. It is of net tulle, a material more durable and practical than silk tulle. From the right shoulder falls a cascade of flowers, of pink velvet. Attention is called to the distinctive cut of the cocktail cap, a logical outgrowth of the cocktail jacket. The bouffant skirt is richly strewn with scarlet spangles of silver.

NO STRAIGHT EIGHT

Richard H. Scott, president and general manager of the Reo Motor Car Company, issued the following statement with reference to the libel suit for one million dollars against the publishers of the Automotive Daily News of New York and Detroit.

"In its issue of Wednesday May 15, the Automotive Daily News, in a story appearing under a Lansing, Mich., date line, stated that the Reo Motor Car Company shortly would produce a straight eight automobile; that the car already was in production in the Reo plant, and that public announcement was expected within a few weeks.

"The story is utterly false and without foundation, but since no ordinary denial would be able to prevent the widespread repetition of the fabrication; since the publication of such a story is bound to affect adversely the sale of our six-cylinder automobiles, which we have been building for years, and which we have not the slightest intention of discontinuing, it has seemed to us that the only adequate means by which we can protect our rights and the rights of other members of the industry who are constantly being sniped at by unverified, untrue and destructive rumors is by resort to the courts.

"The stockholders of the Reo Motor Car Company have a property worth more than $20,000,000 in net assets; the distributors and dealers of the Reo Motor Car Company have at least $20,000,000 more invested in the business of merchandising Reo cars and speedwagons, and we feel that we owe not only to those stockholders, but to those distributors and dealers an obligation to protect them to the fullest extent possible against such an inexcusably reckless and unwarranted attack upon their property rights.

We are utterly at a loss to understand how or where such a story as the one in question could have originated, and still more are we utterly unable to comprehend how a responsible publication could permit so potentially dangerous a story to find its way into its columns without having made an exhaustive effort to check its accuracy.

"We don't know that we shall ever build an eight-cylinder automobile. Not only is such an automobile not in production, as stated in the Automotive Daily News, but it has not even been designed."

Clifford, pastor of Union Church officiating, there was an abundance of beautiful floral offerings, silent tributes of love and respect. Marguerite Chapter, O.E.S., attended in a body, also members of the other orders were present. Interment was made in the family lot at Carver's cemetery. The bearers were E. C. McIntosh, I. W. Fifield, P. A. White, J. H. Kittredge. Those from out of town to attend the services were Mrs. Julia Lyons and daughter Miss Jennie Lyons of Augusta and Calvin Vinal of Boston.

PARK THEATRE

Today offers the last opportunity to see that gripping picture of mystery "Trent's Last Case" featuring Raymond Griffiths with a synchronized orchestral score.

Enacting scenes too realistically almost landed Buster Keaton, comedian, in trouble during the filming of "Spite Marriage" which will be at the Park Friday and Saturday.

Keaton had to navigate a launch made up to resemble a rum running craft in the picture. While off Catalina Island it was "spotted" by a government cutter, which signalled it to stop, but Keaton didn't understand and kept going. When the cutter dropped a shot across his bow Keaton decided all was not well, and halted his boat. Explanations followed, and the revenue men decided he wasn't smuggling contraband. But if he hadn't stopped, the next shot would have wrecked his boat for him.

The new picture is a hilarious romance of backstage theatre life, with Buster playing a tailor who falls in love with an actress, and goes through many comical trials and tribulations, including an adventure with rum runners, fire and shipwreck, and other complications.—adv.

STRAND THEATRE

"Gentlemen of the Press" with Walter Huston 100 per cent talking is now showing.

In her dimly lit, heavily draped studio gazing into a crystal ball, reveals life beyond the grave, sits the exotic Madame Mystere, a medium, whose occult powers have won the faith and admiration of many women, mostly gullible and talkative. And behind the scenes, communicating with the Madame by means of a criminal code, is "The Fox," a fascinating character of the underworld. Together these two ply their trade, gathering information from their wealthy clients and then robbing them in clever fashion. Then the Madame is killed in a train wreck and her place, through an unusual twist of circumstances, is taken by a young girl, Jean Oliver, who had recently served a jail sentence on a charge framed by a Mrs. Ramsey. All that Jean desires is revenge; revenge that will cause as much pain and anguish as she suffered. "The Fox" agrees to help her.

This is the fascinating and mysterious setting for Paramount's latest all-talking picture, "The Hole in the Wall," based on the successful play of the same name. It will appear Friday and Saturday.—adv.

Capt. Millard Wade is now port warden of Boston and Capt. Willard Wade is a coast pilot conducting steamers between Boston and New York. These brothers, who are great favorites in Waldoboro, where they maintain homes, have the reputation of being known at every port from Buenos Aires to Bangkok. As lads of eight they got their first taste of life on the ocean when they accompanied their father Capt. Thomas F. Wade on one of his trips. Captain Millard having been master for 42 years and his brother for nearly as long a time.

THAT ARE NEVER KEPT WAITING
The refrigerator that houses pure sparkling Chickawaukie Ice never has to wait for its ice to arrive. For WHALEN'S ice men are reliable and prompt; they arrive every morning and they come at the time you expect them. HOVGGAARD-HARDY

At the Old South Church in Boston, Miss Hazel Hardy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Edward Hardy, formerly of this city, became the bride of Ole Mogens Hovgaard, Saturday May 18, at 4 o'clock. Miss Hardy is a graduate of Rockland High School. Mr. Hovgaard, who is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is the son of Prof. William Hovgaard of M.I.T.

Spring flowers and high candles made an attractive background for the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Leslie John Adkins. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Ralph M. Hardy, was attended by her sister, Miss Helen Hardy, as maid of honor. Theodore Taylor of Brookline attended the groom, and the ushers were Arnold Bailey of East Orange, N. J., and Greenough Abbe of Brookline.

The bride was a beautiful picture in a period wedding gown of ivory satin fashioned with long sleeves and a skirt reaching nearly to the floor. The veil of tulle was caught into a band of Duchess lace with orange blossoms, and fell in graceful folds over the court train. The bride carried a bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor wore a gown of chartreuse green chiffon and a hat of natural colored straw trimmed with green velvet. She carried a bouquet of spring flowers. Mrs. Hardy was attired in blue romaine crepe and black bako hat, while the groom's mother wore brown georgette with hat to match.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the groom's parents, 76 Edmond street, Brookline. For her traveling costume the bride wore a mid blue ensemble and a gear of black fox.

The bride couple will spend their honeymoon at Atlantic City, Philadelphia and New York, and after the first of July will be at home in East Orange, N. J. Mr. Hovgaard is connected with the Bell laboratories of New York City.

This stock still sells for only seven times its Earnings

IN spite of the steady advance of Federated Capital Corporation common stock from $22 to $69, as shown in the above chart, it still sells for only seven times its earnings.

Since the price-earnings ratio of stocks, according to a recent compilation discussed in The New York Post, has advanced to 18.1, it is obvious that the market price of Federated common does not as yet reflect the stock's earning power, and that it should sell considerably higher.

Obituary

MRS. OCTAVIA H. BARTLETT

Thursday, May 16, Octavia H., widow of Benjamin Bartlett, died at her home, 256 Old County road, after a long illness.

Mrs. Bartlett was born in Jefferson, March 19, 1856, the daughter of the late John E. and Elizabeth (Moody) Parker. Her father, who served in the Civil War, was killed in action in 1864.

Mrs. Bartlett attended school in Nobleboro, and later moved to Rockland, where she had since resided. In 1881 she was married to Benjamin Bartlett, who served in the Second Maine Cavalry during the Civil War. While her health permitted, Mrs. Bartlett was active in church and social life and leaves a large circle of friends in the community where she resided for more than 50 years. She was a member of Pratt Memorial M. E. Church and affiliated organizations; Daughters of Veterans, Edwin Libby Relief Corps and Pleasant Valley Grange.

Funeral services were conducted at her home Sunday, by Rev. Jesse Kenderdine and interment was in Pine Knoll cemetery.

Surviving are two brothers, Elbridge J. Parker of Boston, and Henry M. Parker of Richmond, Maine, and one son, Albin Sheridan Bartlett of Rockland.

LINCOLN S. HENDERSON

Rockland has lost a good citizen in the death of Lincoln S. Henderson which occurred May 18.

The funeral services, Rev. Jesse Kenderdine officiating, were held Tuesday afternoon from his late residence, 67 Camden street, and the beautiful floral offerings attested the loving esteem in which he was held by his fellow workmen and his many friends. "Link" as he was called by all who knew him endeared himself to all in trouble by kind word and helpful deed.

Mr. Henderson was practically a lifelong resident of Rockland, having been born in this city Aug. 22, 1858, son of Catherine T. and Lincoln L. Henderson. He was a valued employee of the Rockland & Rockport Lime Corp. for the past 24 years.

He was a member of Penobscot View Grange, Knox Klan No. 11 and the Baraca Class M. E. Church. His helpful and cheery presence will be greatly missed in these organizations. He is survived by his wife, Lovenia C. Henderson; a brother, John H. of Arlington, Vt.; two sisters, Mrs. John Kelly of this city and Mrs. Frank Robinson of Brockton, Mass.; also several nieces and nephews.

ON WALKING

Wherein Boze Fares Forth To Marblehead and Enjoys the Experience

Saturday, April 27, I made the round trip on foot from Lynn to Marblehead, a matter of about 16 miles. Finding it so easy I did the same stunt on May 18. The first walk finished at old Fort Sewall, in Marblehead village, the second at the lighthouse at the end of Marblehead Neck.

The Neck is a summer resort. The two great yacht clubs, the Eastern and the Corinthian, have their club-houses there.

There are three good reasons why I made that journey—First, I like to walk; second, the ocean is in view all the way; third, it reminds me of my native village. Marblehead Harbor is situated northeast and southwest, the same as Tenant's Harbor. The Neck corresponds to "Mr. Hart's Neck" of my boyhood.

Southern Island was undoubtedly a part of Hart's Neck at some stage of the world's past. It is almost that way now, at low tide. As I recall there is only a narrow channel between the bar and the mainland at extreme low tide. The "Back Shore" of Hart's Neck fronts on the Atlantic Ocean, the same as the shore of Marblehead Neck, which has its famous "churn" while Hart's Neck has its equally famous "Roaring Spout." When it comes to a question of summer cottages Marblehead Neck seems to be one lap ahead of Hart's Neck. Some of those cottages seem to be the casual observer more like castles than cottages, being several stories in height and apparently containing 50 or more rooms. How many architectural crimes are committed in the name of cottages.

A few of the cottages are open. About May 30 will see a great awakening, as the yacht club houses will open at that time. There were some 56 boats of different kinds at anchor in the harbor. At the height of the season there will be 350—some sight to gladden the eyes of one who loves to see action on the water.

I have wandered away from my subject of "Walking" just a bit, but I saw these sights in my walk. Those of you who read the Boston Sunday Herald doubtless saw Whiting's Column which is on "Walking," but I was one lap ahead this time. He states some self-evident truths.

"The man walking in his own master. He goes where his legs carry him. He mounts the hills, he saunters down the slopes, he turns about and zees as he will. He is the universe."

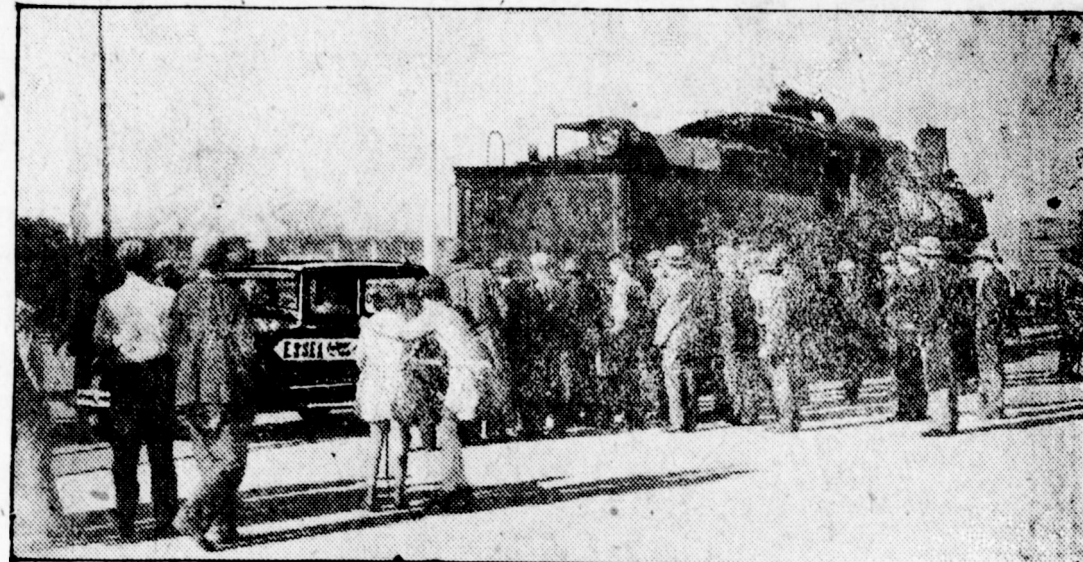

I wish Mr. Whiting had been with me yesterday. I would gladly have shared my noonday lunch with him, and found out who finished best when we arrived back at Lynn. Boze.

CHUG-CHUG RACES

Outboard Motor Boats Will Furnish Sport July 3-4

Who has the fastest outboard motorboat in Knox County? This is one of the questions to be answered by the Community Yacht Club next month when a regatta will be held open to all boats built in Knox County and operated by Knox County persons. M. S. Dick, chairman of the regatta committee, announces the following program for the races: July 3, the Knox County five-mile race trials will take place at 9 o'clock. At 1 o'clock the freshwater fisherman's race for A and B service motors will be held with one heat of 2 1/2 miles in length. A pennant by the Yacht Club will be presented to the winner. A prize of $25 will be given to the winner of the Class C race with Class C motors only. There will be three heats of five miles each. This race will take place at 2 o'clock. On the morning of the Fourth of July, at 9 o'clock, the Class B race of three heats of five miles each will be run with a $25 prize and at 10:30 the grand free for all for a prize of $50 in three five-mile heats will be run.

Austin Moody has volunteered to furnish gasoline and oil at the waterfront and F. W. Farrell will have electrical equipment available for the boatmen. All of the races will be run as near as possible to the rules of the American Power Boat Association and the course is being surveyed and laid out. Applications for entrance in the races can be obtained from Donald Leach, secretary of the racing committee, Box 166, Rockland. No entrance fee will be charged.

NORTH HAVEN'S OLD GATE

Is Made of Discarded Farm Implements and Surmounted By Ancient Ox-Bows

What genius can do in creating something of interest, and at the same time salvage the odds and ends about a farm for some useful purpose the ox-bow gate at North Haven built by Everett Spear eloquently demonstrates. Oxen are a rare sight these days. The tractor has emancipated them from the farm. Instead, however, of throwing away these bows, now more than 50 years old, Mr. Spear has utilized them in the building of a gate of more than usual attractiveness.

Everything about the gate is constructed of discarded farm implements and machinery.

In building it Mr. Spear had in mind not an entrance to his farm but an entrance to a beautiful drive down to the shore of the Eastern Bay by what is called Stone's Cove, said to be one of the deepest harbors along this coast. In years gone by it was used a great deal, whereas now it is seldom used. It takes one down to a beautiful oak grove, with trees some of them with a radius of 50 feet and more. It is a fine picnic resort, for both native and summer people. It was this in mind that led Mr. Spear to inscribe "welcome" upon the top-most bow. Inasmuch as he is a shepherd of a flock of about 100 sheep there is the request to "Please close the gate."

North Haven's Ox-Bow Gate, a Popular Trysting Place

The gate is so placed that as one drives up the hill it appears as though one was to drive right into it. In this way it serves as a check to speeders.

The farm now known as the Spear farm was formerly known as the Cyrus Carver place. It is one of the fine locations at North Haven, and commands a beautiful view of the channel along which steam the Stonington and Bar Harbor boats, with Goose Rock Light in clear view. A lovely green isle inshore adds to the attractiveness of the spot.

On the way up the hill, just before getting to the gate, is an apple tree 150 years old.

A birthday party that proved to be a complete surprise was given Enna Vinal by Margaret Winslow and Audrey Ames at the home of the latter Friday evening. Coming to spend a quiet evening Miss Vinal found a room filled with friends gathered to celebrate her 14th anniversary. She was presented with a pleasing gift and the evening was devoted to music and games. Luncheon was served in the dining room, which was prettily decorated in blue and white. The guests were Allegra Ingerson, Mary Nelson, Margaret Winslow, Audrey Ames, Enna Vinal, Frank Thomas, Edward Ames, Donald Poole, Keith Carver, Kenneth Webster and Arthur Calderwood.

Wyatt-Bickford

An attractive May wedding took place Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph J. Bickford, when their daughter Gladys Bickford, was united in marriage to Lawrence Wyatt of Everett, Mass. Rev. P. J. Clifford, pastor of Union Church, was the officiating clergyman, using the double ring service. The couple were attended by Miss Ruth Bickford, a sister of the bride as maid of honor, and Victor Shields was best man. The bride was given away by her father. She was crowned in chrysanthemum and carried roses. The maid of honor's gown was rose taffeta. The gift to the bride was a wrist watch and cuff links to the best man. The wedding party entered the living room to strains of the Bridal Chorus and the marriage ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate family and a few intimate friends. An informal reception followed and buffet lunch was served. The wedding cake was made by Mrs. Johnson, mother of the best man. Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt received many beautiful gifts. They left Tuesday for Roxbury, Mass., where Mr. Wyatt is manager of the Kissel Car Co. Those from out of town to attend the wedding were a sister of the bride Mrs. G. Luther Burns and children of Atlantic, Mass.; Mrs. Lottie Young of Roxbury, Mass.; Mrs. Patterson of Bangor, and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Adkins of Rockland.

Broccoli is the staple vegetable of Italy. Its great, coarse, green leaves and white stems come submerged in soup (al brodo); it comes as a salad, crisp and raw, under oil and salt; it comes seared and limp, heaped in a huge, inert mass under a lump of butter (ai burro), to be unraveled like spaghetti, and then, like spaghetti, to be spiraled round the fork and carried to the mouth.

KITCHEN CUPBOARD

By NELLIE MAXWELL

Hark! Hark! the lark at heaven's gate sings,
And Phoebus' glows to arise,
His steeds to water at those springs,
On chaliced flowers that lies,
—Shakespeare in Cymbeline.

Pea Soups and Salads

FROM the time of the early peas until winter when we may use the dried ones, pea soup may be served.

Cream of Pea Soup.—Cook two cups of peas until tender, reserving a pint of water in which they were cooked. Add two tablespoonfuls of salt, one-eighth teaspoonful of pepper and two cups of scalded milk; cook five minutes with the pint of pea liquor, add the cooked peas, cook three minutes, rub through sieve, heat and serve.

St. Germaine Soup.—Cook two cups of peas in one cup of cold water, add three cups of stock and when the peas are tender reserve one-third of a cupful; rub the remainder through a sieve. Moisten two tablespoonfuls of butter, add two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, and when smooth add the strained mixture. Boil five minutes, add one cup of milk and the reserved peas. Stir and boil five minutes and serve very hot. Two teaspoonfuls of sugar, one teaspoonful of salt and one-eighth teaspoonful of pepper with one-half an onion, a sprig of parsley and a blade of mace with a bit of bayleaf are all cooked with the peas.

Vegetable Salad.—Line a salad bowl with crisp fresh lettuce. Marinate fresh cooked vegetables separately in good fresh dressing to which a teaspoonful of parsley has been added. Arrange the mounds of vegetables on the plate or in the bowl in alternating colors. A spoonful of fresh cooked corn, a spoonful of minced beets, a mound of cubed cucumber and one of string beans or carrots. Tomatoes, peas, cucumbers, beans or diced turnips all make agreeable combinations. Serve with a highly seasoned mayonnaise or a boiled dressing.

Jellied Vegetables.—Fill small molds with small bits of turnip and green peas. Cover with aspic jelly and when firm remove to a thick slice of tomato, arrange on lettuce and serve with mayonnaise dressing. Serve as a garnish for cold meats.

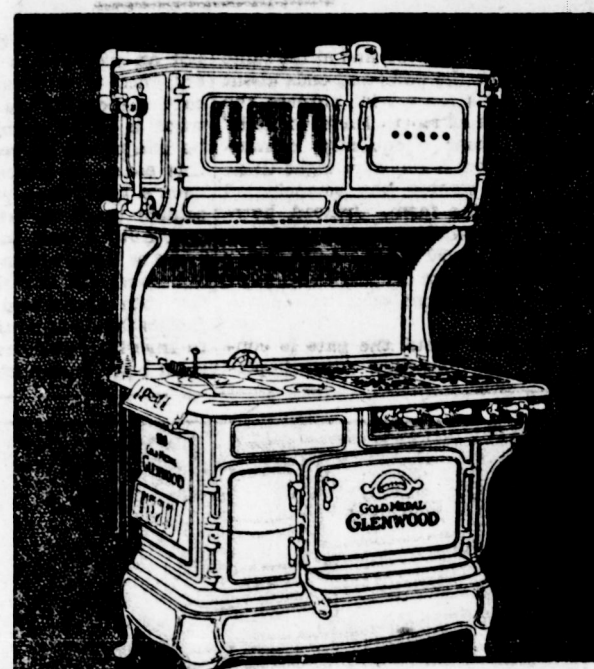

Currant Cool.—Add one quart of water to a glass of currant jelly. Beat with a rotary beater until the jelly is thoroughly dissolved. Add the juice of one lemon and drop in a few thin slices of lemon. Serve very cold.

Fruit Punch.—Boil together two pounds of sugar and two quarts of water to form a syrup. Add six oranges cut into thin slices then into halves, the juice of six oranges and six lemons, one can of crushed pineapple, one-half pound of white grapes halved and seeded, four bananas sliced thin, a seven-ounce bottle of maraschino cherries. Chill and add two quarts of charged water, one quart of ginger ale, and one pint of black tea infusion. Pour over ice in a punch bowl and serve very cold.

Mint Julep.—Squeeze the juice from five lemons, add a bunch of bruised mint leaves, three-fourths of a cupful of sugar and one cupful of boiling water. Strain and add three pints of chilled ginger ale. Serve at once, garnished with a sprig of mint.

Through the kindness of Mrs. W. H. Crowell this correspondent is in possession of a copy of the Monthly News of July, 1873, which was published by Samuel L. Miller, afterward editor of The Lincoln County News. The paper contains an interesting account of the Fourth of July Centennial celebration in Waldoboro. The very imposing parade on that day was interrupted by fire discovered in the house of Newell Winslow, which was on the site of the house now owned by S. B. Brown. After the conflagration the parade was reformed and marched to the grove where five or six hundred partook of a bounteous collation. Rev. A. J. McLeod, at that time pastor of the Congregational Church, was chairman of the committee of arrangements which included

Henry Farrington and George Bliss. The program for the afternoon exercises included music by the Waldoboro Cornet Band, reading the act of incorporation from the first record book of the town, singing of the Centennial Hymn written for the occasion by Mrs. Ella A. Oakes and an address by Col. A. W. Bradbury of Portland.

Let Mr. Glendenning assist you to simplify your task.
He will be glad to cooperate with you in every detail of making your selection the best for your purpose. You will find his expert advice more than just an opinion. But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION
A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."
But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.
Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderly at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. Charles W. Sheldon.

FORTY MILLION CRAWFISH

Here's An Interesting Story About "The Lobster of the South"—Maine Expert Engaged

To superintend the hatching of more than one and a half million baby crawfish every day is the task assigned to Dr. A. G. Adams, noted fish culturist attached to the United States Fisheries Station at Boothbay Harbor, Me. The crawfish or spiny lobster is the warm Southern waters counterpart of our lobster of the North and in its wholesale propagation Dr. Adams will operate at Key West, Fla., this spring and summer. He is already on the way to the station whence the Bureau of Fisheries has dispatched him and he will begin work the 15th of May.

Dr. Adams will co-operate with Dr. Thomas R. Hodges, State fish commissioner for Florida and three floating hatcheries will be used each of which it is estimated will produce more than 500,000 crawfish every 24 hours. Two of these will be operated by the State and the third by the United States Bureau of Fisheries, which recently has become deeply interested in the development of the spiny lobster. A work so successfully demonstrated as practicable by the Florida shellfish department last year. Dr. Adams is credited with being the first man who ever succeeded in hatching crawfish.

Two scow hatcheries will be utilized in this season's work, as well as the SFC-10, a converted yacht given to Florida by the United States Navy for fish experimental purposes. The SFC-10 will reach Key West shortly, and a large equipment will be operated aboard this trim craft. Hamilton Adams will again assist in the work. It was he who took the hatchery to Key West for the State's attempts at crawfish development a year ago. Since that time the SFC-10 has been overhauled, and she returns an oil-burning craft and otherwise much improved.

They Must Have Circulation

From May 20 to July 23, last year, 38,800,000 baby crawfish were hatched aboard this yacht, the best results being obtained in deep waters where little silt and a fairly even temperature is found. Previous experiments had met with adverse conditions in the way of high and fluctuating temperatures and silt-laden waters. The floating hatchery was found to be superior to pens, which necessarily had a fixed location where variations in warmth and quantities of silt could not be avoided. A two-hundred-gallon supply tank was used aboard the floating hatchery at an elevation of eight feet from the deck, water being raised to the tank by a pump driven by a five-horse-power gasoline engine. Last summer's studies demonstrated to Dr. Adams that better results should be obtained if the hatchery were located on the southern end of the island of Key West.

Dr. Adams had to pioneer his way in propagation of crawfish by hatchery methods. Open and closed-top McDonald jars with glass supply tubes were first utilized but the closed type was soon discontinued because the men available did not have the experience necessary to operate them, and the system demanded more constant attention. McDonald tidal boxes also were used with bottom circulation common in flat-fish propagation but it was discovered that the eggs received insufficient circulation, the silt in the water at times filling the weave of the cloth and resisting elimination. The fry from the jars enters a trough, leading to the retaining fry ed in strong current, and in the deepest water available to avoid the small fish that are more numerous in the shallows.

Larvae planted from Key West hatchery experiments last summer under these conditions showed no evidence of small fish interference, and it seemed to the scientists that the same percentage should escape as in nature. Dr. Adams believes that larvae planted under these conditions should show incomparable results over nature for in nature small fish are attracted by the spawn and follow to the source of supply at the mother lobster, feeding there upon the larvae as it floats away.

One of Them Made the Museum

The Florida spiny lobster differs considerably from the lobster the North knows. Its legs are very long, the whip-like antennae being studded with spines; there are spines on the body and two protrude over the eyes like a pair of horns. The great claws are missing. The flesh has a delicate flavor which is said to be equal to that of the Northern lobster. Aside from being an important food fish for man, it is extensively used for bait by the handline fishermen.

Prior to 1919 few crawfish were sold outside the confines of Florida but since that year shipments to Cuba and to the Eastern United States have steadily and very greatly increased. Sold at retail by the piece or by the dozen, they are seldom weighed. The average market size is nine to ten inches in length, the weight about one pound, and the price at a general average of $3 a dozen in Key West. Crawfish weighing more than six pounds are rarely seen, but the Bureau of Fisheries has a record of one weighing eight pounds which was caught off Sarasota County, Fla. in January 1922. This craw had a total tail and body length of 17 inches, and is now in the United States National Museum collection.

They Work at Night

The crawfish belongs to the family Palinuridae which is represented by six genera and numerous species distributed throughout the tropical and sub-tropical seas. The genus found around the Florida Keys is represented by species of economic importance on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of North America, in the Hawaiian Islands and in Japan.

The northern limit of the spiny lobster is apparently at Beaufort, N. C. where a few small specimens are caught from time to time by fishermen seeking for shrimp. This particular creature probably does not extend any farther south than Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. On the Florida reef the craw is very abundant from Miami alone down past Key West to the Dry Tortugas 65 miles further southwest. The best fishing grounds are along the northern shores of the Keys; on the southern shores they are found in less abundance.

Although caught throughout the year, the best season is from February to July. A majority are taken while feeding in waters from one to ten feet deep. In order to catch them in deeper waters it is necessary to use pots or traps. In February the craws begin to return to shallower waters for the purpose of spawning. They are very active during this period, and can be seen at all times during the day, but are more numerous during the early evening and throughout the night. They lie concealed in daytime under rocks, sponge growths and coral shelves. Sometimes in February it is not an uncommon sight to see groups of hundreds of the crawfish in shallow waters in the most favorable localities, and at this time two men having spent a day and a night at their labors may pull into the Key West wharves with a thousand or more spiny lobsters in the wells.

The most common method of catching the craw today is the "bully net," a coarse dip net on a shaft. Fifty per cent of the work is estimated to be accomplished by this method and 20 per cent more with fish traps made of galvanized wire. Seines, hoop-nets and "grains"—two-tined spears—are used to a slight extent. The fishermen work singly or in pairs from skiffs and since most of the catch is made at night the men reach the fishing grounds late in the afternoon, work four or five hours, and rest till a few hours before sunrise, when they fish again.

It is interesting to note that the Northern lobster carries its eggs about ten months, while the Florida lobster has an incubation period of only about three weeks. Between the first of March and the first of June it is unlawful to catch the crawfish for any purpose except to use as bait or for propagation, or research by the State or biological stations. This is on account of the spawning season, when the lobsters gather in great numbers that would permit almost wholesale annihilation. The fine is not more than $250, and a six months' term in jail is an added possibility. The future of the industry is prom-

APPLETON

The Interscholastic Speaking Contest between the High Schools of Liberty, Appleton, Washington and Searsport was held at Community hall, Liberty May 17. The following contestants participated: Ernestine Davis and Herman Stevens of Liberty; Ruth Moody and Donald Hall of Appleton; Rita Flanders and Albra Maddocks of Washington; Louise Sprowl and Leigh Adams of Searsport. The hall was prettily decorated with evergreen trees and blue and yellow crepe paper. The speakers were introduced by Supt. Philip C. Roberts and were enthusiastically applauded as each one finished.

Miss Ruth Moody and Herman Stevens were awarded first honors and each received an individual silver loving cup. Miss Ernestine Davis and Albra Maddocks were given honorable mention. The remaining contestants, who delivered their selections in a very creditable manner were awarded medals.

Solos were rendered by Mrs. Rena Wadsworth, Gallop of Searsport, formerly of Appleton, accompanied by Miss Ruth Miller of the same town. This is the third consecutive year that Appleton has won the Interscholastic cup.

Miss Ruth Moody is the younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy N. Moody and is a junior in Appleton High School.

and, though the demand in the State and up the Atlantic seaboard at large cannot be met under present conditions, it is evident that the success of last year's hatchery experiment at Key West was sufficiently important to warrant attempts this spawning season to plant out many millions of the young fry which in two years should attain commercial size. —Frank W. TRACED SAWYER'S TRIP

"Boze" Studies a Model After Reading Article "A Hail From Hawaii" Editor of The Courier-Gazette:— I was greatly interested in the article in the issue of May 18 entitled "A Hail From Hawaii" by F. A. Sawyer. For some time past I have been studying a model of the Kilauea, District of Hawaii" on view in the Geological Division of the Peabody Museum of Harvard University, Cambridge.

I took the article and made a special visit to the Museum and could easily trace our friend's hike from the Camp to the "Fire Pit." The attendant very kindly gave me an article from the Scientific American in regard to the model, which took 3½ years in the making.

Should any of The Courier-Gazette readers happen to be in the vicinity of Cambridge they should not fail to see this model.
