Lesson X .- Fourth Quarter, For Dec. 7, 1913.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Josh, vi, 8-11, 14-20-Memory Verse, 20-Golden Text, Mark ix, 23-Commentary by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The story of the Lord's doings on behalf of Israel reached the ears of many people and melted their hearts and took away their pride (Josh. v, 1). Man's doings do not work that way, but rather tend to self exaltation. It is therefore easy to tell whether a work is of the Lord or of men. Israel shall yet praise the Lord, proclaim His name, declare His doings among the (Isa. xii, 4). But all believers should be doing it now, praising His works, declaring His mighty acts (Ps.

Since He is ever waiting to work in us and through us, why not humbly yield and let Him, that He may be glorified? Chapter v, 2-9, tells of the rite of circumcision, which had not been performed since they left Egypt. Circumcision is suggestive of a work in the believer, for it was given to Abraham as a seal of the righteousness which he had, yet being uncircumcised (Rom. iv, 11). It signified even to Israel a work in the heart. the renouncing of the flesh and true humility before God (Lev. xxvi, 41).

Chapter v, 10, tells of the keeping of the third passover, for we do not read that they observed it during all their wanderings. See the other two in Ex. xii, 6; Num. ix, 5, and note that this also teaches man's helplessne and the mighty hand of the Lord and points onward to the approaching deliverance of Israel from all nations (Ex. xii, 26, 27; Jer. xxiii, 5-8; Luke xxii. 15, 16). The manua, the food from heaven, continued all through the forty years, notwithstanding their murmurings and rebellings, until at Gilgal they ate of the old corn of the land (verses 11, 12).

In chapter v, 13-15, we have a test for Joshua. He had just been appointed as the new leader in the place of Moses and had been bonored as such at the Jordan. Has he become proud and self sufficient, or is he still meek and submissive? Near Jericho he saw a man with a drawn sword who an nounced that he was the captain of the host of the Lord. Will Joshua stand on his dignity as the new leader or accept this other? See and hear him. He fell on his face and did worship and said, "What saith my Lord unto his servant?" He won and was safe as a leader and loosed his shoe from off his foot, as he was told to do, thus acknowledging another as proprietor (Ex. iii, 5; Ruth iv, 7).

If we would only live with shoes off, what might we not see of the wonderful working of the Lord! But in order to see the power of God and His working we must be willing to do as seem ingly ridiculous things as bearing the ark and stepping into the water expecting it to stop flowing or marching round Jericho blowing trumpets of rams' horns and expecting the walls

What I have in mind is something like this: Conducting a religious paper without an advertisement of any kind to help make it go; running a out having lectures or festivals or entertainments of any kind to help expenses; believing that Bible studies, expositions of the word of God, are what people need and want rather than sermons or essays on popular topics; teaching that the same Jesus will return in person to set up a kingdom of peace and righteousness on this earth and that He is only waiting until the church. His body shall be gathered from all nations, that He av receive her to Himself ere He eturn in glory; that these truths will lead people to give gladly to mis sions without personal solicitation. even to the extent of giving $2 or more to missions for every dollar spent at

I know that such things seem to many religious people as wild vagaries. and yet I have personally proved the blessing of the Lord in these matters or in most of them for over twenty

The ark of the covenant which was so prominent at the crossing of the Jordan is mentioned ten times in versus 4-13, of our lesson chapter, reminding us of the words of our Lord in John xv, 5, "Without Me ye can do The trumpets of rams' horns tell of atonement by the precious so both the ark and the trumpets and the priests, all speak of Him who alone can divide the sea or the river or throw down a Jericho and who says to all who are willing to walk with Hiro, "I am with you." "I will work and who shall hinder it?" (Isa. xli, 10; xliii, 13.)

In verse 2 of our lesson the Lord said unto Joshua, "See, I have given into thine hand Jericho," and yet to possess it he had to be obedient and do just as he was told.

All things are ours in Christ, but we ss our possessions only by believing. Thirteen times they marched around the city with no sound but the trumpets until the last round, when at the word from Joshua the people shouted with a great shout, the walls fell flat, and all living creatures were destroyed except those who had gathered in the house of Rahab (verses 10, 20, 21, 23, 25).

THE AMERICAN, Ellsworth, Me.

Dear M. B. Friends:

I give you all greetings from northern Maine. Although it was a little cold here this morning, I wish you all could look out with me; on this "great country". Of course : I know Aunt Maria and some others have visited Aroostook, and I hope I will make no statement they will not be willing to youch for.

To go back a little, Uncle Madge and I are really taking a vacation. Tuesday morning, having make all arrangements for leaving home, we started for Ells-worth. It was fine, clear weather, with good travelling. Passing through some wild land in Surry we saw, some rods ahead in the road, a fine deer, which stood still until we came quite near, then gracefully leaped down a wood road and disappeared. So we could not claim we were going on a hunting trip because there was no game down east, when we had proof to the contrary.

We looked for Dell and "halloed" to We hoped to see Irish Molly, but didn't. In Ellsworth station we received word that the train was forty minutes late, but the time passed pleasantly in waiting. Did you ever think bow, in a ladies' waiting-room, a half-dozen women will sit in silence and size each other up 'on the sly", while a half-dozen men in like conditions would enter into conversation, discuss the latest general news and the names of the active members of the heve a good social time? However, the schoolibefore Sunday, December 28. For waiting time was not an occasion of golden silence, as friends were recognized and (confidentially) I doubt if there would have been silence if it had been otherwise.

In Bangor there was time to run around dinner for the next seven or eight hours' experiences. We saw three great moose and five deer just brought down from the hunting region. At 2.35 the train left for Fort Fairfield and intervening stations. Over on the Maine Central track to Northern Maine Junction, then onto the Bangor and Aroostook line, and we were ushered into a new part of the State, to us.

Many of the fellow travelers were going home to spend Thanksgiving. We caught short sentences as friends greeted one another or others made new acquaintances: 'Just going up for a short stay." yes, President [said in chapel yesterday "Two children-yes-how old morning." do you think this (one is?" Thanksgiving" "Father and mother couldn't come down-wanted us to come." Thirty-one from Aroostook there this year." "I'll let [you; know how the deal omes out" "They are fine boys." "Dear little baby, how tired he is."

I had heard they raised fine crops of omething besides potatoes up here, and there were some as fine little folks on the train as one would wish to see. The views were worth seeing, especially in the lake region. For | miles, on the left, stretched the waters of those beautiful lakes, with a background of hills, with old Katahdin a little more remote.

The shadows began to lengthen; the early twilight was closing down on the scenery and for the remainder of the journey all outside objects were obscured by the darkness except in the villages we saw the electric lights here and At Phair we changed cars for Fort Fairfield, fourteen miles away, which we reached at 9.07 p. m. and heard the voice of Narcissus bidding us welcome to "the

But you will weary of all these particulars, and I need only say, everything is being done by the members of the household to give us a most delight; ul visit. Dell, don't be shocked, but after a hearty Thanksgiving dinner, we walked "across the lines". Three hotels are just on the edge of the boundary line-just far enough from the line to clear the law of a prohibition state. On the barn of the first one you reach is a sign-it is a bottle or a picture of a bottle, and I could read "liquors" beneath it. The distance to the line was about two miles, and the road leading to it was well smoothed by the teams that had traveled it, but there were no disturbances on the street.

I must tell you of the "markers" on the boundary line between Maine and New Brunswick which are placed at equal distances the whole length of the line. They are of iron and granite. On the Canadian side is the word "Canada", and on the other "U. S". There is also, on each, the date of the treaty, 1842. You will understand why I was so deeply interested in blood of the substitute (Gen. xxii, 13). this matter when I tell you my father went to the Aroostook war, the chief result of which was the establishment of this boundary line. He saw the possibilities of this then undeveloped part of Maine, and predicted for it a great future. There are many things I want to tell you about. One thing more this time, and if you would care for it, another week more may follow. Just across the street a little to the left are two school buildings which accommodate over 700 pupils, unde

Before closing I want to say it was "Edwina" of Massachusetts, who sent the poem about St. Martin in the last week's column. I hope you will find something interesting in this. With best wishes to AUNT MADGE. all, from

ATTENDANCE CONTEST.

Sunday Schools of Elisworth to Enter Interesting Competition.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Hancock County Sunday School association, it was unanimously agreed to invite all the Sunday schools of Ellsworth to join in a competition the first three months of 1914. The competition is conceived with a view to uniting the religious forces of the community and to stimulate a wider interest in religious education. It is hoped that every school, rural as well as city, will be glad to co-operate. The competition will proceed under the following conditions:

1. Each school competing must file with the executive committee of the Hancock County Sunday School association the purposes of this competition, any person who has been absent from the Sunday school reporting for the thirteen Sundays previous to Dec. 21, will not be counted as active. A scholar must have little, besides getting fortified by a good attended the Sunday school three consecutive Sundays to be enrolled as active.

2. The competition between the schools is to be in attendance and in growth, and each school will be scored on a basis of the unitslof fifty points for growth and fifty points for attendance. The score will b reckoned on the percentage basis-growth being reckoned from the actual enrollment of active members reported before the beginning of the contest, and attendance being computed from Sunday to Sunday.

3. The competition is to begin with the first Sunday of January and close with the last Sunday of March.

4. After the competition closes, a grand union Sunday school meeting will be held, at which the winning school will be announced and awards made as follows:

A banner appropriately inscribed will be presented to the school winning the contest. A blue ribbon to the class making the best growth. A red ribbon to the class second in growth. A white ribbon to the class third in

A blue ribbon to the class having the best record of attendance.

A red ribbon to the class second in at-

SOLDIERS AND SAILORS CELEBRATE CHRISTMAS

By every American soldier and sailor Christmas day is celebrated with feasting and sports, though the men may be thousands and thousands of miles away from home. Dinner, consisting of turkey, mince pie and all other delicacles, is served. There is also a generous supply of soft drinks. Intoxicants are never permitted in army and navy circles.

Those who wish to attend church in the morning are permitted to do sa although this is not compulsory, as in the British army. It is not always possible for sailors to go to the church around the corner, but religious exercises are conducted by the vessel's chaplain. The afternoon is usually devoted to athletic sports.

It may be that a concert of amateur theatricals will enliven the evening or that the men will receive permission to give a dance. Those who wear Uncle Sam's uniform do not lose their taste for social pleasures and as a rule are capable entertainers.

Even the men of an outpost, encamped far in the interior of some Philippine province, attempt to invest the day with as much of the Christmas spirit as possible unless the country is in an unsettled state and partial war conditions prevail.

The British soldier makes the celebration of Christmas the chief event of the year, and his only regret is that the day does not extend over an entire

A favorite idea for dinner entertaining is the Christmas tree table. Tiny fir trees, arranged with Kate Greenaway sym-metry in straight lines, are set in a row, one little Christmas tree being placed between every two guests. This is not, how-ever, so successful in the case of a round or oval table as it is where a dinner party for twelve or more is concerned, necessitating a long table. The trees, feswith ropes of tinsel and garlands of silver and golden "rain." give a most festive appearance to the

LEGENDS OF CHRISTMAS.

German Folklore Connects Evergreen and Garden of Eden.

In Germany there is a legend that when Eve plucked the fatal apple the leaves shriveled, the tree changed its nature and became evergreen, bearing witness in all seasons to the fall of man. Only once a year, on the birthday of the Redeemer, it blooms with lights and is laden with gifts of love, and so we have the Christmas tree.

In the Black forest regions in Germany there is a tradition that on each Christmas eve the Saviour comes to earth in the guise of a poor boy and asks alms at the house doors. On that day no beggar is refused food and shell

It is said that the popular tradition of the entrance of Santa Claus by means of the chimney arose from the story of Hertha, a goddess of the N mythology. When the festival in her honor was celebrated an altar of stones was erected in the house, and fir branches were piled upon it and set on fire. Through the dense smoke made by the green wood the goddess was supposed to descend and extend her influence according to the petitions of

Some of the Christmas hymns and carols are very ancient and have been in many cases transmitted orally through many generations. In England it is still the custom for men and boys, called the Christmas "waits," to go around on Christmas eve and sing

A Christmas Subterfuge. Oh, bashful Jack, why did you lack The bravery to do it? And pretty Jill is blushing still. You know you drove her to it.

no YOUR CHRISTMAS BUYING CHEERFULLY: IT'S GOOD EXERCISE

HRISTMAS shopping is filled with hustle, excitement, pleasure and good exercise. Whoever has not tasted these things has yet to experience all of the joys of

It is true every shopper, once arrived bome, vows Christmas is a nuisance; that it is the part of wisdom to have it only once a year; that next Christmas some younger member of the family must take upon herself the onerous, fatiguing, brain wrecking, nerve straining work. But no one who hears this declaration takes it for more than its value-which is infinitesimalfor when the next Christmas puts in its appearance and shops and stores and streets are once more alive with hurrying humanity and good natured crowds the shopper who voted it "kill-ing" this year will plunge into the excitement as of old, with greater enjoyment than ever.

It is true the elbowing of one's way through crowds, the long waits in the stores, the standing in cars almost bursting with their load of human beings and the despairing delays of these selfsame cars are apt to leave very little balance on one's account of cheerfulness. In spite of these bindrances, however, lies the true satisfaction, if not real pleasure, of having purchased for this one or that some little surprise which has been longed for, but never expected.

For mental attitude and for a hint from the athletic teachers the wise woman will go into the work of Christmas shopping with the exhibarated feeling rightfully attached to any form of pleasant and exciting exercise. The cultivation of this spirit will make the crowds, the discomforts and the inevtable disappointments of the annual gift purchasing experience no more worth fretting over or noticing than the varied experiences of the athletic field or gymnasium, and it will bring the aforementioned wise woman up to Christmas day in the most enviable and desirable physical condition she could fancy or imagine, for everything depends upon the manner in which the feminine shopper attacks the Christmas situation, and a well conducted round of Christmas shopping provides as much fun as the merriest game of basketball or tennis and stirs up and strengthens neglected muscles just as well.

HOW WE GOT OUR CHRISTMAS HYMNS.

Many popular Christmas hymns have a most interesting history. Those who have heard the waits and carolers sing "Hark, the Herald Angels on Christmas eve will be astonished to know that many years ago it | thick crust, ornamented heavily at the was rendered "Hark, How All the edge that it may lie the more quietly, Welkin Rings!" and was sung to the and bake. Cook the oysters as for a tune of "See, the Conquering Hero Comes." When this former wording was adopted in the new hymn book of the "Hymns Ancient and Modern." there was a great storm of criticism from those who prefer the modern ver-The hymn was wr, en by Charles Wesley.

The author of "Christians, Awake; Salute the Happy Morn!" was John Byrom, Manchester's famous man of letters, who was born at Kersal in 1691.

Byrom had several children, but, like many another father, there was a fa-vorite. This child was a little girl named Dolly. A few days previous to Christmas Mr. Byrom, after having a romp with the favorite, Dolly, promised to write her something nice for Christmas morning. On the morning of the great day, when she sat down to breakfast, she found on her plate an envelope, addressed to her in ber father's handwriting. It was the first thing she opened, and, to her great delight, it proved to be a Christmas carol addressed to her, and to her

One evening, after he had been some veeks in bed, he felt a great deal better, and while in this improved state he conceived the idea of writing a Christmas bymn, and as a result of this we get "As With Gladness Men of Old."

RECIPES FOR THREE DISHES VERY POPULAR AT CHRISTMAS TIME なるなのなのなのなのなるない

HAT is Christmas without a plum pudding and a mince These dishes will be found on the table at every family reunion, at every big function in our cities and towns, at the little cottage on the hill where mother and father and their two little children are dining alone and, in fact, everywhere, The following recipes have been tried and are excellent:

Plum Pudding .- One pound of butter, one pound of suet, freed from strings and chopped fine; one pound of sugar, two and one-half pounds of flour, two pounds of raisins, seeded, chopped and dredged with flour; two pounds of currants, picked over carefully after they are washed; one pound of citron (shred fine)," twelve eggs, whites and yolks beaten separately; one pint of milk, one cupful of brandy, one-quarter ounce of cloves, one-quarter ounce of mace, two grated nutmegs.

Cream the butter and sugar; beat in the yolks when you have whipped them smooth and light; next put in the milk, then the flour, alternately with the beaten whites; then the brandy and spice; lastly the fruit well dredged with flour. Mix all thorough-Wring out your pudding cloth in hot water, flour well inside, pour in the mixture and boil five hours.

Mince Ple.-Two pounds of lean fresh beef, boiled, and when cold chopped fine; one pound of beef suet, cleared of strings and minced to powder; five pounds of apples, pared and chopped; two pounds of raisins, seeded and chopped; one pound of sultana raisins, washed and picked over; two pounds of currants, washed and carefully picked over; three-quarters of a pound of citron, cut up fine; two tablespoonfuls of cinnamon, one teaspoonful of powdered nutmeg, two tablespoonfuls of mace, one tablespoonful of cloves. one tablespoonful of alispice, one tablespoonful of fine salt, two and onehalf pounds of brown sugar, one quart of brown sherry and one pint of best brandy.

Keep in stone jars tied over with double covers. Add a little more liquor (if it should dry out) when you make a batch of pies. Let the mixture stand at least twenty-four hours after it is made before it is used.

Lay strips of pastry notched with a jagging iron in crossbar pattern upon the pie instead of a top crust

Oyster Pie.-Make a rich puff paste; roll out twice as thick as for a fruit ple for the top crust, about the ordinary thickness for the lower. Line a pudding dish with the thinner and fill with crusts of dry bread or light crack Some use a folded towel to fill the interior of the pie, but the above expedient is preferable. Butter the edges of the dish, that you may be able to lift the upper crust without breaking. - Cover the mock pie with the stew, only beating into them at the last two eggs and thickening with a spoonful of fine cracker crumbs. They should stew but five minutes, and time them so that the paste will be baked just in season to receive them. Lift the top crust, pour in the smoking bot oysters and send up hot.

SEASON IN THE SOUTH.

son is especially enjoyable in the south. New Englanders, following Puritan initiative, make much of Thanksgiving, but the resident of Dixieland cele brates Christmas with all his might and main.

Because of the severity of weather, earth's deep carpet of snow, ironbound game laws or other reasons hunting is more or less restricted in the north at this time. But there are rare joys for the game seeker in all that great sweep of country from Virginia to Texas.

Fox hunting, quail and duck shooting and even the more prosale rabbit chase are indulged in to the heart's content. It is the most typical of southern winter sports, however, that stirs the blood like a draft of wine when "Merry Christmas" is in the air.

Nights spent in chase of the possum or the coon, snappy days in the forests after deer or wild turkey, expeditions in canebrakes after bear-these make life worth living for the man who hunts for the love of hunting and warms to the local flavor and traditions of the south.

An Old Christmas Carol.

And all the bells on earth shall ring On Christmas day, on Christmas day; And all the bells on earth shall ring On Christmas day in the morning.

And all the angels in heaven shall sing On Christmas day, on Christmas day; And all the angels in heaven shall sing On Christmas day in the morning.

And all the souls on earth shall sing On Christmas day, on Christmas day; And all the souls on earth shall sing On Christmas day in the morning.

Then let us all rejoice amain On Christmas day, on Christmas day; Then let us all rejoice amain On Christmas day in the morning.

Wrapping the Present. Use a heavy brown paper to wrap the Christmas box and a stout, strong cord, taking care that the ends are not cut too closely, making it possible for the knot to become unfastened.

A Famous Window

York minster, in addition to its many other notable features, contains one of the most remarkable windows In the world-the east window, which is the largest in England, except that in Gloucester cathedral. It is seventyfive feet high and thirty-five feet broad. The window is divided into 200 compartments, all of which illustrate leading events in sacred history. Each pane of glass is three feet square the figures measuring two feet four inches high. The upper part is filled with beautiful tracery and is divided from the lower by the narrow stone gallery which runs across. John Thornton of Coventry began the win dow in the year 1405. The ancient glazing, all of which he executed with his own hands, stands unequaled to the present day, and for this enormous task he received as wages 4 shillings a week for three years and £10 on completing his work to the satisfaction of the cathedral authorities.-London

During the long exposure the photographer left the room a moment. On his return everything seemed to be going all right. But when the exposure ended and he rushed to his closet to develop the wet plate there was nothing on it but a blur.

Very much disgusted, he showed this blur to the sitter. "You must have moved," he said.

Ray Bridges, of Wilton, while hunting near Farmington one day last week, was shot in mistake for a deer, the bullet passing through both legs above the knees. but not touching any bones. His wounds are not serious. It is not known who fired the shot.

Louis Noiskey, aged twenty-nine, of Trenton, N. J., is in the Bangor hospital on the dangerous list, with a bullet in his abdomen. Noiskey was setting a trap in a stream near Grindstone, when another hunter, who did not see him, fired at a mink. The bullet glanced from a rock and struck Noiskey.

While attempting to board a train as it was pulling out of the station at Dexter last Wednesday, Charles Harding, aged thirty, a mill hand, of Sanbornville, N. H., fell beneath the wheels. Both legs and one arm were severed from the body. In spite of his frightful injuries, he lived several hours, dying on the train while being taken to the hospital at Bangor.

The high and grammar school building at Lubec, in which there were 525 pupils, was burned last Wednesday. All the pupils escaped. That there was not serious loss of life is due to the coolness of the teachers and the older pupils of the high school, who assisted the smaller children out of the windows after the corridors had become jammed. The loss on small and slim. The puzzled lover at the building is estimated at $15,000; in-last asked his father's advice. "Well," surance, $12,000. surance, $12,000.

The President's Message.

President Wilson's first annual message to Congress was read by him at a joint session yesterday. It is remarkable for brevity, the President contenting himself by referring briefly to matters which he considers of greatest public import, and referring Congress to department reports for details.

The President touched but briefly upon the Mexican problem, that subject being dismissed with the prediction of the early crumbling of the Huerta government, and the statement that he believes this country will not be obliged to alter its policy of watchful waiting. In this connection, the news reports this morning that the backbone of the Huerta dictatorship is broken, the government bankrupt and unable to pay its soldiers, and terms of surrender proposed, seems to bear out the President's expectations.)

The most radical suggestion contained in the message is that favoring the nomination of candidates for President by direct primary. This legislation, he suggests, should provide for the retention of party conventions, but only for the purpose of declaring and accepting the verdict of the primaries and formulating party platforms.

He urges the early enactment of the currency bill, recommends more explicit legislation for the enforcement of the anti-trust law, urges an employers' liability act, and touches briefly on ultimate selfgovernment for the Philippines and the development of Alaska.

There is growing complaint of wanton destruction of unoccupied property in Ellsworth, the most common form being the breaking of windows. Ellsworth is not alone in this species of juvenile lawlessness-every community suffers more or less from this desire, which seems inborn in every normal boy, to smash something. There is doubtless a psychological explanation of it, but it is not our intention to explain or to defend it. The fact is, that too much of it is done in Ellsworth, and owners of property who have been sufferers have about come to the conclusion that forbearance has ceased to be a virtue. A determined effort is to be made by some of them to apprehend the guilty parties, and make an example of them for the public good.

Gardiner, the only Maine city to adopt the commission form of government, under which it has been conducting municipal affairs for the past two years, has voted to go back to the old form of government. The vote against the continuance of the commission form of government was 517 to 435. The vote is too close to be construed as evidence that the commission form is a failure, but it must be admitted as evidence that a majority of the voters are not convinced that it is better than the old system. It is significant that the city proper gave a slight majority in favor of commission government, while the annexed district of South Gardiner overcame this by a majority of ninety-two against.

The republicans have regained control of Portland's municipal affairs. While returns from the municipal election there Monday indicate the re-election of Mayor Oakley C. Curtis by a plurality of only nine votes. the republicans have elected five of the republicans have elected five of superintendent, preached in the Methothe nine aldermen and will have a dist church Sunday afternoon and evenmajority of four on joint ballot in the city council. Last year Mayor Curtis had a plurality of 1,463, and the city council was democratic. The progressives, who polled 896 votes st year, had no ticket in the field this year. The republicans will demand a re-examination of the ballots.

District Attorney Whitehouse, after an investigation, reports the "white slave" story told by Miss Lois Piper, of Fairfield, as a "fake"-a story told by the girl to cover up an escapade with Harry R. Keene, of Fairfield, who was missing at the same time. While the sympathy of the public goes out to the parents of the girl, there is a feeling of reliet that the story of such astounding boldness on the part of "white slavers" has proven

We print this week a second letter from Rev. Horace B. Haskell, formerly of Ellsworth, now director of the Newman Biblical institute at Jerusalem, concerning political affairs in the "Near East". It is a remarkably lucid and interesting review of what to the general mind is a much-targled situation.

Congress is asked to appropriate $1,108,681,770 to operate the government of the United States during the fiscal year 1915, according to the estimates prepared by each department and sent to the House Monday.

One-cent postage, long in the air, promises to be one of the live issues in the next regular session of Congress. A dozen bills having this end in view have been introduced.

With the close of the open season on noose Saturday, only forty-four were reported as passing through Bangor, and the newspapers are estimating the total number of moose killed in the State this year as about sixty. It is a safe bet that half as many as that were killed in Hancock county alone, and not more than half a dozen of these found their way to Bangor.

John Q. Wood, of Bucksport, for the past few years American consul at Tripoli, with a salary of $2,500; has been promoted to the post of consul at Adis Ababa, Abyssinia, with a salary of $3,500. Adis Ababa, the capital of Abyssinia and the official residence of its ruler, King Menelek, is situated in the southern central part of the country, and is some 350 or 400 miles distant from the Gulf of Aden at the eastern entrance of the Red Sea. The town of Jebuti is the chief scaport, about 100 miles south of the straits of Bab-el-Mandeb. From this place a railroad extends into the interior of the country as far as the town of Harar, and from there to Adis Ababa (about 150 miles) the only means of travel are by pack trains with camels or mules and horses. Adis Ababa is situated on the spur of one of the mountain ranges of Abyssinia and is some 8,000 feet above sea-level. Although only ten degrees north of the equator the climate is temperate, owing to the extreme elevation, and Europeans and white foreigners live there without any great discomfort. The city has about 100,000 inhabitants, and the only white people are the foreign ministers and consuls and a few traders from England

Steuben Woman Missing.

Mrs. Winfred Pinknam, of East Steuben, disappeared from her home Tuesday of last week, and no trace of her has been found. Her husband is a scafaring man, and in his absence she lives alone. She was lame, and never went far from home.

When the groceryman called Tuesday forenoon, Mrs. Pinkham was about the house, and talked and laughed, seeming in good spirits. At noon a neighbor found on the door a note reading simply: "I am gone." In the home was another note reading: "Have gone on my visit. Have a free pass and am going right gazing through a shop window at a disalong; don't look for me back until after Christmas."

Packages for each of her children, enclosing gifts of her personal belongings, were found, with $5 for each of her unmarried daughters and $7 for her son. Each package enclosed also a little goodbye message, and the information that she had "planned this since last fall, and was going for a long rest".

She had put the house in perfect order, prepared food for her husband, whom she daily expected home, put down all the grain she had for the fowl, locked the door, and disappeared. Of her clothing, nothing was missing but a calico wrapper and underclothing, not even her hat.

ELLSWORTH'S FIRST EXPRESS WAGON.

LONG SERVICE.

G. A. Parcher Retires After Fortythree Years as Express Agent.

George A. Parcher on Sunday termin ated forty-three years of efficient service as express agent at Ellsworth. Mr. Parcher sent in his resignation several weeks ago, as reported in THE AMERICAN at the time. He asked that his resignation take effect November 1, which would just round out his forty-three years, but he was prevailed upon to remain until December 1.

On Monday the office was moved from p. m. during June, July and August, and Mr. Parcher's drug store to the new loca-1 to 3 p. m. during the other months of tion on Frankliu street, with a new agent in charge. Mr. Parcher will, of course, continue his drug business. From the primitive wheelbarrow express, meeting the old stage-coach as it lumbered in on its single daily trip from Bangor, to the present busy express teams meeting a dozen trains daily and keeping busy a corps of clerks, is a far cry, yet the term of service of George A. Parcher as express agent at Ellsworth, covers that span. Forty-three years ago, on Nov. 1 last, Mr. Parcher was appointed Ellsworth agent for the Eastern Express Co., which then controlled the express business of this section. Five years prior to that Mr. Parcher had started in the drug business in Ellsworth, and is, therefore, one of the oldest druggists in the State, as well as, at his retirement, the oldest, express agent in the State in term of con-

THE HUNTER IN CLOSE TIME

Pleasure in Repair and Care of His Hunting Outfit.

There are many things any gunner can do during the long winter evenings, partly as pastime, but largely by way of repair work and the upkeep of his shooting outfit. For no one who takes pride in his guns likes to see them deteriorate, even in a small way, and once he has acquired the habit of doing little things, it becomes a pleasure in preparation for which he will find himself planning long before the active season afield has closed. Persons who do not shoot find it difficult to understand what pleasure the gunning "crank", as they term the enthusiast, finds in the mere handling of guns in the closed season. A lucid explanation is difficult to give; and, anyway, there is ground for belief in the old-time assertion that the love for guns and shooting, so strong in many men, was inherited, and not acquired through practice or environment.

No musician ever fondles his violin more lovingly than does the owner of one of the beautiful bits of workmanship, the modern double-barrel gun. Even the plain ones are handsome, and this you will admit if you find one of your friends, who cares nothing for shooting as a sport, high-grade guns, while as for you, if you can afford the outlay, you possess one, otherwise you content yourself with a plainer gun and try to make yourself be lieve that it will serve better for knocking about and for rough use than the highlyfinished piece which calls for more or less careful handling.

This accounts for the possession by men of two guns where one would answer all purposes. They take the costly one on upland trips in fair weather and the plain gun into the ducking boat and on backwood trips. When it comes to shooting, there is little to choose between the tw guns, provided, of course, both are well made. It may be summed up in this wise: For one piece of money you can purchas a good gun. For two pieces you may have one that has barrels of a better grade of steel. For three pieces you can get better barrels, locks and stock. Beyond that sum you pay for engraving, fancy stocks and extra hand work, inside and out. This, in a way, explains why so many of the very costly guns will shoot better with all sizes of shot than the average medium-grade gun.

The winter evening is the time to look after the inner workings of your gun, and to make sure that no saline deposit, however small, may be lurking there in the dark, like a moth in your best trout flies. It is no trick to separate the receiver from the stock, so that you can get the lock to clean them. An old toothbrush-the stubbier the better-is the thing to use, with a little turpentine or crude petro leum as a cleanser. Brush out all dust, using a toothpick to get into the angles. and if there is rust on any of the parts. wind a bit of cloth around a sliver of soft wood, moisten with turpentine, and with a wee pinch of rottenstone or powdered chalk burnish up the tarnish places. Another useful thing to keep in the repair kit is a three-eights-inch round varnish brush. Cut off half the handle, pisten with turpentine, and see what an effective thing the brush is for getting into corners to clean out rust, dust and a wheelbarrow, but the business was small, and the capacity of this crude vehicle was at first self om overtaxed. That was before the railroad had reached Elisworth, and most of the merchants, who now chafe over a few hours' delay in the receipt of express from the west, were satisfied with service by packet schooner from Portland or Boston, only in case of great emergency resorting to the rapid transit by stage from Bangor.

Don't use refined kerosene on your gun. Its smell is bad enough, but it soaks into and when you do want it you will want it F. H. Osgood. the woed to darken and stain it. Nor is it | very much indeed.

Mr. Parcher still retains in his posses sion the wheelbarrow with which he began the express business, bearing on its sides the name, "Eastern Express Co.," a photograph of which is here reproduced

Then came the railroad and rapidly increasing express business, and the absorption of the Eastern by the American Express Co. Mr. Parcher was retained as agent for the American at Ellsworth, and has continued in that capacity ever since. From a business of a few packages daily, he has seen the business grow to its present large proportions, which frequently overtax the express team, and at rush seasons keep two teams busy well into the night.

In his capacity as a public servant-for the office of express agent is nothing less-Mr. Parcher has made good to an eminent degree. Obliging and courteous to the public he served, he was at the same time keenly alive to the interests of his company, and by both the public and the company his ability was recognized.

He has well earned a release from the arduous duties of express agent, but his retirement is regretted by the business Mr. Parcher's first express wagon was men and people of Ellsworth generally.

> well to use the very thin oils that are highly scented to disguise the fact that their bulk is kerosene. Vegetable and animal oils "gum" badly, and for that reason, as well as for the fact that they heat rapidly through friction, they are not used on high-speed motors.

> Mineral oils are preferred, and they are excellent for firearms, though it is as well to admit in passing that the old-fashioned bone oils are unsurpassed for use on gun locks. The very best reel oil, to be had at any fishing tackle shop, is none too good for your gun-locks. Its cost is surprising at first-but after you have oiled your reels and gun-locks with a "toothpickful" of it now and then for ten or fifteen years, you will conclude that it was a good investment.

> When one goes out of town for a day's shooting, a carrying-case is a necessity en route, and a nuisance while you are hunting. Even a canvas gun-case is a bulky thing to stow away in a pocket during the day. Here is a wrinkle worth adopting Have a full length cover of some soft stuff made, with a tie-string in the open end. One of the gray cotton flannel cases guns come in will serve. From an awningmaker purchase four feet of non-elastic cotton braid. "Braid" is not just the word, but the material is the same as that used as shoulder straps for fishing reels It should not be more than one and onequarter inches wide; color brown or > slip this over the barrels of your gun. Have it sewed strongly, the loop just snug enough to slip over the barrels to the orearm, but no further. It will lie flatte than a leather strap, so that you can see the front sight over it. Loop the other end around the grip of the gun, and try it until it fits comfortably over the shoulder then have a loop sewed in that end of the strap. Pass the other end of the strap through this new loop, so that it will serve as a slip noose. Pass this over the grip and the other end over the muzzle and you will have a carrying outfit that is comfortable, yet may be stowed away in your vest pocket.

Oh, yes, about the shooting coat. Now is the time to see, what it needs in the way of repairs, and to equip it properly. One pocket is occupied by the license, which it is assumed has been renewed while the year is yet new, to avoid possible lapses of memory next fall. In another small pocket there should be kept a fieldcleaner-one of the handlest little affair consisting of a length of strong cord with weight at one end and a bit of slotted brass at the other to hold a square of flannel. On wet days or in places there is much sand, the barrels should be wiped occasionally. The same pocket shell-extractors - a necessity in blackpowder days, but useful always, for a water-soaked cartridge may stick at any

If you are a smoker, if you are fond of building a wee friendship fire now and then at luncheon-time while out shooting, remember the matchbox, also a part of the shooting-coat outfit. A ten-guage shell fitted over a twelve-guage is the real thing, and water tight at that.

If you carry a compass in your shooting coat, see that it is not fitted out with paper dial but with a rigid metal dial that cannot be displaced. Many a man has passed anxious hours in the woods be cause of an unreliable compass. A good one need not cost much. A compass is like an old-time Texan's-six-shooter. You may carry it for years and not use it

OTHER BUSINESS.

A communication was received from O. W. Tapley, secretary of the Elisworth board of trade, relating to the action taken by that board with regard to having the State highway from Bangor to Bar Harbor so laid out as to traverse the busihess part of the city.

It was voted as the sense of the board that the highway commission should be arged to lay out the highway down State street to postoffice square and up Main street to High street, and Mayor Cun-ningham and City Clerk Hale were made a mittee to present the matter to the State highway commission.

James H. Harvey presented a claim for damages for injuries received by his wife, three weeks ago, by tripping on a loose plank in the sidewalk on High street. Dr. H. L. D. Woodruff, who attended Mrs. Harvey, described her injuries as a partial eation of the right wrist, which would probably trouble her for three The matter was referred to the committee on highways, with the street

RETIRED? OH, NO!

E. H. Greely Hopes to be Trotting Horses Next Summer. E. H. Greely, Ellsworth's veteran horse man, is spending his afternoons in Ellsworth for the first time in fourteen years. In all that time, rain or shine, Sundays excepted, Mr. Greely has gone to Bango $ 52 50 every afternoon, with scarcely half a dozen exceptions, to exercise and look after his string of horses at Maplewood park.

With the close of his sale last week, he found himself reduced to just three horses—the smallest number he has owned 12 25 since Civil war times and before. These three he keeps at his Ellsworth stable, so 1 13 that his daily trips to Bangor are no longer necessary.

Though Mr. Greely will be eighty-two years old next April, he does not wish it understood for a minute that he has retired from the horse-breeding business or from the track. The three horses which he retains in his Ellsworth stable belie that opinion. They are Maine Todd, a grandson of Bingen; Fearless Todd, a two-year-old son of Maine Todd, and Sister Todd, a two-year-old daughter of the same sire.

When THE AMERICAN representative said to Mr. Greely yesterday: "I suppose you will be driving in races again next year," he replied, emphatically: "You bet your bottom dollar 1 will; and if nothing happens, I will have the best threeyear-old in the State!" So much for the retirement of Mr. Greely, who has for several years borne the distinction of being the oldest driver on the turf in the 14 00 United States.

Mr. Greely has long been recognized as one of the best judges of trotting and driving horses in the country. He was one of the judges of trotters and gentlemen's roadsters at the first open-air show in Philadelphia some years ago, and has acted in the same capacity at the Boston horse show. He has driven in races on tracks at New York, Hartford, Conn., 4 72 Providence, R. I., in many parts of Massachusetts and New Hampshire, and from one end to the other of Maine.

> The editor of the horse department of the Bangor Commercial says of him:

> We learn with much regret of what appears to be the retirement of Everard H. Greely, of Ellsworth and Bangor, one of the best-known horsemen of Maine, as a breeder, trainer, driver, starting judge, etc., as well as having important business interests in other lines Mr. Greely has been breeding horses for a good many years, and some of the coits sold this week are lineal descendants of brood mares of some of his original stock. Not a few are doubly descended from Bingen through his sons Todd and Colombo. Todd was from a great daughter of the $125,000 Arion, and Colombo was from a daughter of Allerton, 2.09; the world's greatest sire, and some have a double cross to Jay Bird, the sire of Allerton. It is a nicely-bred collect tion of youngsters which Mr. Greely has just dispersed, and we want to go on record that several of them will be heard from in the I have not met Mr. Greely in some two o three years and do not know as to his health, but I imaginé as long as he is out and about he will have a few good ones in his stable at Eilsworth and drive them for his own pleasure and recreation.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Milton Beckwith and Miss Natalie Johnson visited the school Monday.

School will be in session Saturday to make up the day lost after Thanksgiving. Myrtle Camber, Gladys Jordan and Mary Hopkins have been out of school for a short time, ill of chicken pox.

The athletic association, at a meeting last Wednesday, elected the following taking Oak street where it forks from embers for the council: Mr. McLellan Miss Mitton and Paul Tapley, '17.

Several new members joined the press club at the last meeting. Those reporting items for this week are Lena Camber. Sylvia Marshall, Hazel Nevells and Basil Robbins.

The students of the school extend sympathy to their schoolmate, Miss Gladys Jordan, whose brother Carroll died last Thursday, after an illness of three years. Mr. Jordan was a graduate of the Ellsworth high school, in the class

The basket-ball team will open its sea son next Friday evening, when it will meet the Lamoine team. The second team will play Northeast Harbor the same evening. Much interest is being taken in the team this year, and it is hoped that many spectators will attend the game.

A reception was given last Friday evening, to the junior class and a few invited friends, under the auspices of the seniors. Dancing was the chief feature, but games were arranged for those who did not dance. Music was furnished by Mona-ghan's orchestra. Light refreshments were served at intermission.

WEST ELLSWORTH.

The dance Thanksgiving night was well attended.

Henry Higgins and wife are spending few days at East Holden.

Raymond Cunningham has gone to South Penobscot to begin his school. School begins Monday with the same teacher as last term-Miss Adelia Barron. Mrs. Rubie Cunningham, of Bluehill, is visiting her parents, J. W. Carter and wife. A Thanksgiving dinner was served at James W. Carter's, when all the children and grandchildren were present.

James R. Carter and wife, of Bangor. and Clarence Carter, of Elisworth Falls, were recent guests of their parents, C. J. Carter and wife.

land south of the Ober blacksmith shop on Water street. One of these buildings is now being fitted up for temporary use this winter as an automobile paint shop. The growth of the Ellsworth Foundry & Machine Works has been so steady and so rapid, that people of Ellsworth generally hardly realize its size, It is recognized as the most complete plant of its kind in eastern Maine.

Elisworth Masons enjoyed a Thanksgiving supper, at which venison pie was the feature. The venison was furnished by J. Sherman Douglass, of Lamoine, and the pies were made by John H. Leland, the veteran caterer of Ellsworth. Both received their full share of praise. The supper was served in connection with a meeting of Lygonia lodge, at which the third degree was worked on three candidates.

The small store building and dwelling on Fourth street, near the Elisworth hardwood factory, was burned last evening, with the greater part of its contents. Harry L. Pio owned and occupied the building. There was an insurance of $300. The report that the hardwood factory was burning caused considerable excitement, and it was a decided relief to the people of Elisworth to find that it was not that building.

There was a good attendance at the union Thanksgiving service at the Methodist church Thursday evening. Rev. Sydney S. Booth, of the Unitarian church, delivered an interesting sermon. Revs. R. B. Mathews, P. A. A. Killam, T. S. Ross and O. J. Guptill took part in the service. There was music by the Methodist choir, with a solo by Mrs. Thomas Bridges and a duet by Mrs. Bridges and Miss Winnie Brann as special features.

The Blood Knitting Mills have recently installed box-making machinery, and hereafter will make all its own boxes. It is equipped also to take some outside work in box-making. A new winder has also been installed recently. The mill is well supplied with orders. One line has been completely sold up and withdrawn from the market. A full winter's work is assured with orders now on hand. Over sixty hands are now employed, and a few new ones are being taken on every week.

The express office was moved from Parcher's drug store to the new location on Franklin street Monday. A. H. Sawyer is the new agent. Mr. Sawyer comes here from Bar Harbor, where he has been assistant agent. George C. Pierson remains with the company as driver. He is driving a new horse and a wagon shipped here for temporary use. A new wagon will be delivered soon. Miss Ellen Scott, who has been employed as express clerk by Mr. Parcher several years, will remain in his store as clerk.

Charles Beal, of Jonesport, was arraigned in the Ellsworth municipal court last Friday, on complaint of Fish Warden F. L. Hodgkins, charged with violation of the fish laws in taking herring within the proscribed limits at the entrance to Patten bay, Surry. Seining west of an imaginary line from Weymouth point to Newbury neck is forbidden under a special act passed at the instance of Surry fishermen. Mr. Beal, it is understood, admits his knowledge of the law. Fish Warden Hodgkins caught him seining at night. Mr. Beat pleaded guilty, and gave his personal bond in the sum of $500 for appearance at the April term of the supreme court.

At a meeting of the Ellsworth board of trade last Friday, it was the sense of the meeting that State highway M, from Bangor to Bar Harbor, should be so lain out as to traverse the business section of Ellsworth. If the direct route from Bangor to Bar Harbor is adopted, this would cause but a slight divergence - continuing on State street to postoffice square, and thence up Main street to High street, instead of State street and running straight to High The president and secretary of the board of trade were instructed to forward this request to the State highway commission. The city government at its meeting last evening took similar action. The Lewiston Journal of Saturday, in a write-up of the town of Pembroke, prints a picture of Miss Eleanor Wilbur Pomeroy as a distinguished daughter of that town. Miss Pomeroy for several years resided in the home of Rev. P. A. A. Killam, in Elisworth, and was a teacher of literature and languages at the Ellsworth high school. The Journal says of her: "Eleanor Pomeroy is one of the most promising literary characters ever sent out of Pembroke to carve herself a name in the world of letters. A graduate of Hebron and of Emerson school of oratory, one-time teacher of Greek and Latin in Ellsworth high, she now collaborates with the well-known magazine writer, Alice Spencer Geddes, and contributes to top-notchers in her own name.'

A cow moose was shot on the Trenton road, near Gravelly brook, last Friday forenoon. Arthur Brown, of Mt. Desert, was driving up the Trenton road, when he saw the moose jump into the road some distance ahead. He heard several shots, and the moose turned and jumped out of the road on the same side from which she entered. Mr. Brown did not see the hunter who fired the shots. When he reached the point where he saw the moose come into the road, he saw her lying in the ditch, and cut her throat. Alexander Pirie notified Game Warden Harry Macomber, of Ellsworth, who was soon on the spot and took possession of the carcass. It was a good-sized cow. Warden Macomber has no doubt the shots heard by Mr. Brown were the ones that killed the moose. One bullet had passed through the heart, and the moose did not go far afterward. There was no blood on the back track. The carcass of the moose was shipped to Chief Warden Perkins, at Bangor, where it was sold for $60. No arrest has been made.

A Scheme

By EVELYN SPENCER

One morning John Atwood, merchant, received from his daughter, who was at the time in Paris, a letter asking him to send all the photographs of her mother, some years dead, to her since she had found an artist who could paint a portrait from them giving the desired lifelike expression Miss Atwood furthermore suggested that he come over and attend to the matter himself. The artist she referred to was a rising man in his profession and would probably require a good price for doing the work.

Mr. Atwood, gathering the pictures in his possession, sailed for Europe and one day turned up in Paris. He was at once taken to the studio of Clarence Whiting, the artist, who was to paint the portrait. Mr. Whiting looked over the photographs carefully asked which was regarded as the best likeness of the original and remarked:

"We portrait painters see resemblances more readily than other persons. To me Miss Atwood is very her mother. But I cannot tell whether the varied expressions of her face are like her mother's, for a photograph has but one expression, and that is apt to be unlike anything ever found on the face of the original. Unfortunately I have never seen Mrs. Atwood. I will undertake to paint the portrait from the photograph you like best, enlivening it with Miss Atwood's most pleasing expressions. In other words, I will make up the portrait from both mother and daughter. I admit that I am much more likely to fail than succeed, but if I succeed the result will be gratifying to you as well as to me"

Mr. Atwood was favorably impressed with this and asked the sum that would be charged for the work when finished. Mr. Whiting replied that, since he would be unable himself to judge of his work, he would make no price until he learned if the father and daughter pronounced it a success. The matter being disposed of, the artist took the photograph of his subject most approved of by the others, and it was arranged that Miss Atwood should give him regular sittings.

Miss Atwood at any sudden announcement that surprised, interested or pleased her had a way of throwing back her head and looking fixedly at the person making the announcement. This is a very lame description of it, but an expression is indescribable. Mr. Whiting looked for it in the father and, not finding it, concluded there were many chances in favor of its having been inherited from the mother. He determined to paint the portrait, giving the life period of Mrs. Atwood about the time she died and the ex pression referred to.

Mr. Whiting worked a long while before he produced what pleased him, making drawings innumerable before beginning to paint. Miss Atwood rarely assumed what he was trying to catch and put on the canvas, and this materially caused delay. At any rate the painting of the portrait seemed to require a very long time. Mr. Atwood, whose presence was required in America, became impatient.

At last a satisfactory drawing was made, and after that the work was comparatively easy. More time was spent in smoothing and softening the lines, but Mr. Atwood was assured that a time could be set for the finishing. He was not permitted to see the picture while it was being painted, and it was not till it was framed and set Nordan, aged 29 years, 1 month. it was not till it was framed and set in a proper light that he was ad- JORDAN - At Autora, Dec 1, Emily of Nahum H Jordan, aged 64 years. mitted to the studio, where it rested on an easel. Whiting and Miss Atwood both watched for the expression on his face when he should see it knowing that success or failure would be expressed there. The result was success beyond their expectations. The widower's face lighted up with an expression never seen there since his wife's death, and he involuntarily put out his arms as if to clasp her, a living being. After feasting his eyes on the picture he drew a check book from his pocket and asked the artist what amount he should fill in for the picture. Whit ing glanced at Miss Atwood and saw there a sign which he seemed to understand and said. "Pardon me for a moment; I will make out a bill," and going to a desk, he sat down, wrote something on a bit of paper, held it before Miss Atwood's eves; she glanced an approval, and he handed it to her father. It read:

Mr. John Atwood.

Mr. Atwood was some time getting the drift of the matter through his head. When he did he looked at his daughter sternly and said:

"Ethel, did you work this scheme?" "I did, papa," replied the girl, drawing short breaths. "And brought me over here on purpose to turn you over to some "That was one object, papa."

"But by no means the only one," the lover put in. "Before your daughter had ever seen me, looking upon one of my portraits, she remarked that I was just the person you needed for the work I have done."

There was a long silence, after which Mr. Atwood said: "Well, I'll make it a dowry instead of pay for the picture." And he transferred securities to his daughter that enabled her to marry NICOLIN.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM DR. HASKELL FROM JERUSALEM.

THE BIG GAME OF DIPLOMACY BEING PLAYED BY THE CONCERT OF EUROPEAN POWERS.

Written for THE AMERICAN by Pev. Horace B. Haskell, Director of Newman Biblical Institute, Jerusalem.]

The European Concert of Nations has jest prestige and, to a greater or less degree, the real respect of the minor states of Europe and Asia, by her sayings and doings in relation to the Balkan Turkish wars during the years 1912 and 1913.

In the first place the great powers said there shall be no war, but the nations concerned immediately went to war. Then the Concert said, we cannot allow any change in the map of Europe, whatever the outcome may be, and a little later looked on placidly while the treaty of London changed the entire map of southeastern Europe. Again the Concert attered her voice and said Turkey must not retake Adrianople, and forthwith Turkey retook the second capital of the empire, whereupon the Concert said Turkey shall not keep Adrianople. The treaty of Constantinople gives Turkey not only the city but Kirk Kilisse, Dimotike, and other places of importance as well.

It will be remembered that the Concert of European nations held Bulgaria back when King Ferdinand's troops could have Constantinople, and when Bulgaria rushed recklessly into war with her allies and the tables were turned, the great powers were found wanting.

The new boundary between Bulgaria and Turkey follows the course of the Maritra river from the coast to a point pear Mandra, where, taking a more northerly direction, it will leave Dimotika to the east and cross the Maritza near Kadikeni well to the west of Adrianople. Thence following a northeasterly and then easterly course, it will pass between Malko Tirnovo and Kirk Kilisse, and end on the Black sea 'just north of Sveti Stelan, some thirty miles north of Midia, the terminus of the frontier allotted Turkey by the treaty of London. Thus it will be seen that the London treaty is ignored and the Enos-Midia line not considered

B is comored unofficially that Bulgaria and Turkey have come to an agreement by tack, jointly, Greece, in order to recover Saloniki to Turkey and Kavala to Bulgaria. Whether this proves to be or more than a rumor, King Constantine, has cut short his northern trip and hastened back to Athens.

The citizen of Turkey claims good reaions for his confidence in the integrity of the United States government and her people. He has told me some of these easons. I will repeat a few of them. First of all, the United States of America has no national ambitions to gratify in this part of the world, and, therefore, has no reason to deal other than justly with the Ottoman government and her subjects. Again, it is true that the schools, colleges and universities established in Asiatic Turkey by certain denominations and Organizations in the United States meet the needs of the youth, and touch the life of the people helpfully with a greater degree of success than the schools estab-lished by the representatives of other

By invitation of Elias Thomas Gelat, d dragoman and clerk of the American consulate, an alumnus of the Syrian Protestant college, it was my privilege to attend a reception given by the Jerusalem association in honor of the faculty. Then the emigrant from Turkey to the United States is received with greater humaneness than he is received in any of the European countries. He has an equal opportunity with emigrants from other parts of the world, and it is wonderful now thrifty he becomes when once he reaches the states across the seas, and it is equally wonderful the change that comes to him, not only financially but morally and in the higher type of civilization he attains. No wonder these people want to go to America. They think of the United States as God's favored country - the land where every man has a

Then again, the rank and file of the citizens of Turkey, who keep in touch with world events, are disgusted with the finesse of the European powers in their dealings with the Ottoman government. last, but not least, the native of Turkey feels that he is treated with more consideration by the American than by the European, that is, he feels that his real worth and his opinions are recognized by the missionaries, educators and business agents from the United States as they are not recognized by these representatives from Europe. It may be of interest to call attention to the effort which is now being made by the Turkish ambassador at Washington, with the approval of the Washington government, to float a loan in the United States of $10,000,000. In view of these things I would do violence to my conscience if I did not call the attention of the churches in the home land to the appalling need in Palestine, Syria, Asia Minor and Arabia for the Christian worker, educator, and above all, the medical missionary. There is no land on earth where there is more need of the Christ than in this land. THE ENGLISH AND GERMAN ADVANCE.

Rev. Lewis Thurber Guild, D. D., gave American readers food for thought in an article published recently on the German advance, in which he shows quite conclusively that that advance is along commercial lines. There is no doubt that Germany has secured already a commercial supremacy which is troubling the dreams of angiand. A game of diplomacy of extraordinary brilliancy is just now being played in the Middle East, with England and Germany taking the leading parts. The stake is the control of the Persian gulf and neighboring territory and the Bagdad railway. It looks as though Germany would get control of the

It is too late, however, for Germany to get an outlet to the sea by way of the Persian guif. England has a tight grip on the gulf and the lands surrounding it. Sayyed Mohammed bin Said, son of the late vizier of the sultan of Oman, writes my friend, Yusuf Stephan, by the last post, that the revolting Arabs, under their new Iman Salem bin Rashid, have been so successful that British troops fortified the passes leading to Maskat and Mattrah. The weakness of the sovereign, Sayyed Faisal bin Turki, and his utter dependence upon Great Britain, has given England complete suzerainty over that troubled country as not held to be very sacred. far back from the littoral zone as her arms can reach. But Koweit is now English; so, from America who swarm the Holy Land, practically, are Maskat, Oman and Hadramaut. The shelkns and princes are under British control. For all commercial and political purposes the lands bordering the Persian gulf and the gulf itself are English, but Germany has not been outwitted, for in return for undisputed control of the Persian gulf and the acknowledgment of her interests in the neighboring territory and the settlement of her navigation rights in the Tigris river, Germany has succeeded in eliminating England from all rights in the Bagdad railway over its whole length to Busra, an achievement that seemed impossible a short time ago. Germany first persuaded Russia to withdraw her claims to co-operation; then France, in return for concessions to her interest on the shores of the Black sea and in Syria, sold her rights to Germany, and now Great Britain's agreement with Turkey implies that she also has decided to leave the field clear for Germany. . Why all this diplomacy and statecraft over spheres of influence in Asiatic Turkey? It is an acknowledged fact that the greatest influence at work to keep the Ottoman empire intact is the unwillingness of any of the European powers to allow any one of them to secure a larger share of the spoils than any other. Each nation is determined to secure the strategic position when the time comes for the dissolution of the Constantineple government. The Sublime Porte realizes this, and has become a past master in playing one European nation off against

INDIGESTION OVERCOME

Overcome by Simple Remedy. Hurried and careless habits of eating, irregular meals and foods that do not harmonize, tend to weaken the digestive organs and result in different forms of stomach trouble.

If you are one of the unfortunates who have drifted into this condition, eat simple foods only, slowly, regularly and take Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic.

Mrs. H. J. Smith, Thomasville, Ga., ays: "I suffered from a stomach trouble, was tired, worn out and nervous. A friend advised me to take Vinol. My stomach trouble soon disappeared and now I eat heartily and have a perfect digestion and I wish every tired, weak woman could have Vinol, for I never spent any money in my life that did me so much good."

The recovery of Mrs. Smith was due to the combined action of the medicinal elements of the cods' livers -aided by the blood making and strength creating properties of tonic iron, which are contained in Vinol. We will return the purchase money every time Vinol fails to benefit. P. S. Our Saxo Salve stops itch-

The Story of How It Received Its Name

By CLARISSA MACKIE

In the sixth year of their happy married life evil days fell upon the Thurstons. Mark's long iliness, the consequent loss of his position and his inability to secure work of any sort finally resulted in the sale of their household effects and in giving up the few rooms they called home.

The day before Christmas actual want stared them in the face. Mark had placed the trunks that contained their few effects in a storage warehouse, and now, hampered only by a couple of traveling bags, they faced each other in the waiting room of the railroad station. It was warm in there, and they had no place to call home. Little four-year-old Teddy sat down on the leather suit case and swung his fat legs with careless indifference to the fact that his unhappy young parents had sold his crib and was very uncertain where he would lay his sumny head that night-that night of all nights, when little children hasten to bed so that they may awake betimes to discover the

Once in the train the Thurstons looked drearily out of the windows at the bare brown earth overhung by lowering gray clouds from which the snow was drifting in scattering flakes. It was growing coider, and the passen-gers in the coach talked about the delights of a cold and snowy Christmas, while the children chattered about the gifts they expected from Santa Claus or the meeting with cousins or grandparents. Every one was anticipating a joyous Yuletide
