Lesson 11—First Quarter, For Jan. 11, 1914

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES

The shade of the little one is our shade.

When the morning sun begins to shed its light
Upon the world, then does the little one
Come to see its daybreak and its light!

When the evening star begins to shed its light
Upon the world, then does the little one
Come to see its darkness and its night!

When the shadows of the evening fall
And the little one comes to see its trial,
Then does the little one see its light!

A TITLED GIRL

By JOHN E. OVERHAGE

With her eyes, though if she were to look at me, she might have had a different opinion.

I am ready to lay down my life for her, any time.

In my heart, I am ready to die for her, any time.

I am ready to do whatever it takes to make her happy.

I am ready to do whatever it takes to make her smile.

I am ready to do whatever it takes to make her feel loved.

I am ready to do whatever it takes to make her feel special.

I am ready to do whatever it takes to make her feel important.

I am ready to do whatever it takes to make her feel valued.

I am ready to do whatever it takes to make her feel appreciated.

The True Source of Beauty

If it is to have every hair in its place, every dimple, and every mole, it must be due to the BEECHAM'S PILLS.

The secret is to be found in the formula of BEECHAM'S PILLS, which are so effective in clearing up trouble caused by extremes of nourishment or any other cause.

BEECHAM'S PILLS

For Colic, Constipation, Indigestion, and other Stomach Troubles.

They are the secret of perfect health. They contain a number of powerful ingredients, which act upon the bowels and stomach, and effectually prevent flatulence and disorders of the digestive organs.

THE TALE-BEARER

Mrs. Tobin Before She Through Her Victorian Quaint to Know It

BY GENEVIEVE HOWE

"The Tale-Bearer," I have been told to tell you what Mrs. Tobin is, and I must confess to Mrs. Perkins. Are you going to let me tell her? I am thus an accredited member of your church or your particular one else an

Mrs. Tobin had noted for some time that her little friend was very sad and unhappy. She had been admitted to the hospital, and it was not known why. Mrs. Tobin had a chance. It was a chance to comfort her. She decided to try it.

Mrs. Tobin sent a note to Mrs. Waters, saying that she was thinking about her and was concerned for her. She had not seen her for some time and was wondering how she was doing. She asked if she would like to see her. Mrs. Tobin added that she was trying to find out what was wrong.

Mrs. Tobin was known in town. She was respected and admired for her kindness and her willingness to help others. She was a force of nature, and everyone knew it.

She heard back from Mrs. Waters. Mrs. Waters was grateful for the offer and said that she would be happy to see Mrs. Tobin. She would be at home the next day, and she would be there at 2 p.m.

Mrs. Tobin was delighted. She was happy to hear from Mrs. Waters. She was looking forward to seeing her and helping her. She knew that Mrs. Waters was a special person, and she wanted to do something to make her feel better.

She was on her way to Mrs. Waters' house when she thought of something. She remembered that Mrs. Waters had a beautiful garden. She thought that she would take her to see it. She knew that Mrs. Waters would love it.

Mrs. Tobin arrived at Mrs. Waters' house at 2 p.m. She rang the bell, and Mrs. Waters opened the door. She was surprised to see Mrs. Tobin. She had not expected her to come.

"Hello, Mrs. Tobin," she said, smiling. "I was expecting you."

"Hello, Mrs. Waters," Mrs. Tobin replied, smiling. "I was wondering if you would like to see my garden. I thought you might enjoy it."

"Oh, I would love to see it," Mrs. Waters said, smiling. "That would be wonderful."

Mrs. Tobin led Mrs. Waters to her garden. She showed her around and explained the different plants and flowers. Mrs. Waters was amazed.

"This is beautiful," she said, smiling. "I have never seen anything like it before."

"I know," Mrs. Tobin said, smiling. "It is my pride and joy."

Mrs. Waters was amazed. She had never seen anything like it before. She was grateful to Mrs. Tobin for showing it to her. She was happy to have something to brighten up her day.

"Thank you," she said, smiling. "I will never forget this.

Mrs. Tobin was happy to hear that. She knew that Mrs. Waters would remember it for a long time. She was glad to have done something to make her feel better.

She said goodbye to Mrs. Waters and left. She was happy that she had been able to help. She knew that she would always be there for her, no matter what.
