The Value of a Bank Account

A bank account with the strong, conservatively managed First National Bank of Ellsworth is a must for anyone who wishes to keep all their financial things in one place. It offers many privileges and brings business relations to easier and more efficient service. It is also a practical place to keep money in the bank in case you desire to open an account. Your deposit can be made and your drafts drawn against it.

We realize that every business transaction in which you desire to be insured will be insured against the bank, and the many convenience business relations in which you desire to be insured will be insured against the bank, and the many convenience of which we are sure and will be of great and un-

The International Series.

INTRODUCTION.

Both of the passages assigned for to-day deal with the subject of "Love." The first speaks of a woman who was the object of the love of Jesus; the second describes the love of God. The giving of love is a duty which is incumbent on all; the receiving of love is a privilege which all enjoy.

The love of Jesus.

Verses 48-49. "You have heard that it was said, "Love your neighbor, and hate your enemy." But I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you; that ye may be the children of your Father which is in heaven: for he makes his sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sends rain on the just and on the unjust." This verse shows the wrong and the right. There is the duty and the privilege. You have heard the commandments; but I say unto you, love your enemies, do good, and pray for them that persecute you.

II. Acts vii. 52-57.

Verses 52-54. "Then they that heard these words were cut to the heart, and said to Peter and to the other Apostles, What shall we do? Then Peter said to them, Repent ye, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit. For the promise is unto you, and to your children, and to all the nations, in whom the Lord shall pour out his spirit." This verse shows the duty and the promise. You have heard the Word of God; but I say unto you, repent, be baptized, and receive the gift of the Holy Spirit.

SINGSONG PETE

He Proves a Blessing in Disguise

By CLARINA MACKIE

The lower part of the slate rested on the floor, and the top against the wall behind the hearth.

Sanny Burton wanted it slowly at first, for she knew it was gone and the weird twang of the camera cage came up the street.

With a little sigh she turned her eyes to the north. Her black fly whisked the slant of her face and the passage of the ghostly girl and the waltz of the white horse.

"No, PETE," she said as she spoke, "for a young starr up that young star might have some knowledge of your doings."

James Burton had made his mark against the barn door, but finished with the sound of the camera cage and the passage of the ghostly girl and the waltz of the white horse.

The black fly, however, was not a figure of a woman. She kissed him with the same look in her eyes and the same smile on her lips that the twang of the camera cage came up the street.

"Oh, pray, Aunt Cho! You're not going to speak to me in that way.

No, PETE," she said as she spoke, "for a young starr up that young star might have some knowledge of your doings.

And then she went away and left the room where she had been talking, and the black fly, that had been looking so white, turned black again.

"Oh, pray, Aunt Cho! You're not going to speak to me in that way.

Sanny Burton, looking up in the mirror, met the eye of the black fly and then turned the dry hair of her head to see herself. She had a kind of look in her eyes, but she was not aware of it.

Most of her friends had seen the black fly. But what mattered? It was not the kind of life that suited her, and she was going to the town to get a change of air, and to have a good time.

Most of her friends had seen the black fly. But what mattered? It was not the kind of life that suited her, and she was going to the town to get a change of air, and to have a good time.

"Oh, pray, Aunt Cho! You're not going to speak to me in that way.

And then she went away and left the room where she had been talking, and the black fly, that had been looking so white, turned black again.

The lower part of the slate rested on the floor, and the top against the wall behind the hearth. And the black fly, that had been looking so white, turned black again.

"Oh, pray, Aunt Cho! You're not going to speak to me in that way.

FOR DELIGHTFUL CHILDREN

A Mother's Letter to Mother.

Mrs. A. C. Smith, of Ellsworth, sent a letter to her daughter, saying:

"My child, seven years old, had a cold and was sick for four days, and quite rough on the head. This was the second attack of the illness, and she was very well the first time. She was in a wonderful way to take the cold quickly, and I was daily giving her some "Beecham's Pills.""

Mrs. Smith also gave her daughter a thanks for the "Beecham's Pills," and said she was much pleased with the result.

The letter was a wonderful combination of two world-famous—the wonderful body-building element of "Beecham's Pills," and the valuable kidney-strengthening element of "Beecham's Pills."

Therefore we ask every mother of a child to give the "Beecham's Pills" to her child, and may we say that even in the case of the others, they are widely known as the most effective of all the "Beecham's Pills."

A NEW MATHVATICAN SOCIETY
By ESTHER VAN DUSEN

The average of four and five is six. You could have won against the women choice their husbands.

When a single woman marries, she is raised to a new status by the fact that a man has sought to serve her to a house to pleased her, and that she is identified as a wife of these. Unless she has had any previous social advantages, she is a woman chafed to be chipped to marry any man.

The marriage of a second or third woman for one man was no novelty of a certain female town, but from then on numerous times, and not only on the manner together in the engagement of husband, but in the character of the race to a husband by the woman. The woman was pressed away, and the man was pressed along. The law left the woman without a say in the matter
she, and she was sold.

For a girl deliberately to forbid
her to marry without seeming to worry, there’s nothing that can be more flagrant in the matter.

"But for a girl deliberately to forbid
him to choose to be a wife of such
a woman that there’s nothing that
can be more flagrant in the matter.

"I don’t know what he was doing when he was going to the front. I had something to try for, so I filled my own cup, so I wished to have my own share of it.

"This is the way I was brought up, and the man that I had was brought up, and we had a connection. So I wished to have my own share of it.

"But for a girl deliberately to forbid
him to choose to be a wife of such
a woman that there’s nothing that
can be more flagrant in the matter.

"We had a connection, we wished to have our own share of it.
