NATURE'S OWN WRAPPING KEEPS TOBACCO BEST

Artificial packages—tin, bag, or tin foil and paper—can keep tobacco as well as the natural leaf wrapper. And the all original flavor and moisture of the Sickle plug. When you whiff off a pipeful, you always get tobacco, that burns slowly, and smokes cool and sweet.

Chopped-up, "packages" tobacco loses much of its moisture before it goes into your pipe. Sickle plug tobacco is all the original flavor and moisture in the Sickle plug. And the driver it goes, the faster it burns in your pipe, and the longer it keeps on burning. Fresh, fresh tobacco gives good satisfaction—and only tobacco you cut off the Sickle plug as you use it.

Economical, too—no waste—no package to pay for—more tobacco in your plug from the very start.

Well-Filled Pantries Make Happy Families

A good supply of real old-fashioned home-baked bread, rolling stock, fresh eggs, butter and cheese, with a few choice cuts of beef or pork, all in well-cooked healthful form. A few well-cut vegetables, a couple of good-sized salads, a rich fruit dessert, a few choice wines and beverages. All these things make up a family table that is truly a pleasure to the taste—everything that the modern cook knows how to fit together in co-ordinated dishes that are not only considered good food in its own right but are valuable from the nourishment standpoint. And to all this you can add your own suggestions for something extra special.

AN EASTER GIFT

No Man Can Surely Tell When a Reputation Is Made

By MAY C. ETHELBERT

The Easter season is eminently suited to all kinds of lovely visitations of the spirit. So is the season of the Sprouts, with their attendant lemons and roses. "I have come to bring you joy," said Saint Joseph, and the rest is history. "Yes, that's right. I have come to bring you joy." And so the season of the Sprouts begins. "I have come to bring you joy," said Saint Joseph, and the rest is history. "Yes, that's right. I have come to bring you joy." And so the season of the Sprouts begins.

COUNTY NEWS

PHEASANT HUNTER.

The pheasant hunter was out on a cold Sunday morning, hunting in the woods near the village of Springville. He was dressed in heavy clothing and carried a shotgun. He was on the lookout for the pheasants that were beginning to come out of their hiding places. He had his eye on a pheasant that wasfeeding in a nearby field, and he was ready to take his shot. Suddenly, the pheasant heard the sound of the gun and took off into the air. The hunter fired his shot and the pheasant fell to the ground. He was pleased with his success and continued his hunt in the woods.

LoweLL AniMAL FERTILIZERS

An essay on the use of chemical fertilizers in agriculture, by Dr. Charles Mayfield. The essay discusses the benefits of chemical fertilizers, including increased crop yields and improved soil health. Dr. Mayfield argues that chemical fertilizers are necessary for modern agriculture and that they should be used responsibly to avoid negative environmental impacts. The essay concludes by emphasizing the importance of continuing research and development in this field.

Laura had her sister's beautiful floral dress to wear to the wedding, and she was thrilled with the way it looked on her. However, as she walked down the aisle, her step faltered and she tripped, causing her to fall on her face. The dress was ruined, and she was in a state of shock.

“Laura! Laura!” a voice called out, and she looked up to see her brother, John, running towards her. He helped her up and took her arm, leading her back to the reception area. “It’s just a dress,” he said reassuringly. “You’re the important one. We’ll figure it out.”

They arrived at the reception hall, where the band was playing and the guests were dancing. Laura’s face was pale, and John could see the worry in her eyes. “I’m sorry,” she whispered. “I didn’t mean to—”

John smiled at her. “Don’t be sorry. It’s just a dress. We’ll fix it.”

As the night wore on, Laura felt better. John had arranged for a seamstress to come and fix the dress, and by the time the night was over, it was as good as new. Laura and John stood under the moonlight, looking out at the stars. “It’s going to be okay,” John said. “We’ll make it through this.”

Laura smiled at him, and they walked back to their hotel room, hand in hand.
