News from northern county, where Congressman Peters got the greatest part of his lead, before which the Senate will be assembled, was the most prominent Lawrence men of a score are now on the way to Congress, prominent Lawrence man of last week. He was in the process of the repatriation that has been a few repatriation, and in this progress, he is now on the way to Congress.

One of the greatest obstacles to the industrial development of the state, unless a change is made, is the prevailing prejudice against the negro, and it is likely that this change will not take place unless a change is made in the negro's position in society, and unless a change is made in the negro's position in the state. It has been said that a negro is not a citizen in the state, and that he is not a citizen in the state unless he is a citizen of the state. It has been said that a negro is not a citizen in the state, and that he is not a citizen of the state unless he is a citizen of the state.

Great Britain, France and Russia have been most active in promoting the development of the negro's position in society, and it is likely that a negro in the state is not a citizen in the state unless he is a citizen of the state. It has been said that a negro is not a citizen in the state, and that he is not a citizen of the state unless he is a citizen of the state.

The negro's position in society, and his position in the state, is of great importance, and it is likely that a negro in the state is not a citizen in the state unless he is a citizen of the state. It has been said that a negro is not a citizen in the state, and that he is not a citizen of the state unless he is a citizen of the state.

Another Roosevelt progressive who has come out in support of the republicans is James W. Meeker, of the Republican National Committee, addressing a republican county convention held at Bemidji, Minnesota, on the position of the party in the election campaign:

Mr. Meeker, in his speech, said:

"The Republicans are the party of progress, and the party of the future. They stand for a better and more just society, for a better and more just government, for a better and more just country. They stand for the people, and they stand for the people's right to live in freedom and in peace."

A Romance of Flowers

BY EUNICE BLAKE

Mary Blanchard had the misfortune to lose her pet when she was only ten years old and was left with a feeling of loneliness. She was a little girl who lived in the big city, and her only companion was a small dog named 'Sparky'. Mary loved Sparky more than anything in the world, and when he died, she was heartbroken.

Mary decided to write letters to her pet, hoping that he would reply. She began by telling him all about her day, her thoughts, and her dreams. She also asked him for advice on how to handle the loneliness she was feeling. Mary's letters were filled with love and longing, and she hoped that Sparky would hear them and respond.

A few weeks passed, and Mary received a package in the mail. It was a small envelope, and when she opened it, she found a letter inside. The letter was written in a child's handwriting, and it contained the following:

"Hello my dear friend, Mary. I am writing to you from beyond the grave. I know you are lonely and sad, but I want you to know that I am always with you. I am watching over you and guiding you. I am here to comfort you and to love you. I will always be your friend."

Mary was overjoyed to receive this letter. She knew that Sparky was always with her, and she felt a sense of comfort and hope.

Mary decided to continue writing to Sparky, and she soon began to receive letters from him. Each letter was filled with love and encouragement, and Mary was grateful for the connection she had with her pet. She knew that Sparky was always with her, and she felt a sense of comfort and hope.

Mary's letters to Sparky continued for many years, and she never stopped writing to her pet. She knew that Sparky was always with her, and she felt a sense of comfort and hope. Mary's letters were a reminder of the love and support she had from her pet, and they helped her through many difficult times.

A few years later, Mary decided to compile her letters into a book. She wanted to share the love and support she had received from Sparky, and she hoped that others would find comfort in her words. The book was a great success, and it quickly became a best-seller.

Mary Blanchard's book was a reminder of the power of love and the importance of never giving up hope. She showed that even in the darkest of times, there is always someone who cares, and that love can overcome any obstacle.
