The ration contest proved baffling, but was the source of much merriment. Games were enjoyed and delicious refreshments

In making the repairs on Main street last week, Street Commissioner Newman unearthed, near the corner of Hancock street, the timbers of an old wooden drain the surface. The find started the tongues of local historians to wagging as to how long the drain had been there, and who put it there. It was finally attributed to the late Jacob Straw, a former prominent citizen, whose name is perpetuated in Ellsworth by the locality known as Strawville. Estimates as to how long the drain had been there range from sixty to seventy-five years.

Fred E Cooke, janitor of Hancock hall, has worked wonders in the appearance of the hall by the liberal use of soap and water and the application of paint and varnish. This work on the interior of the hall is now practically completed. The whole room has been thoroughly cleansed the stained wainscotting and window frames varnished, the settees and front of the stage platform painted. In the anteroom at the left of the stage a hardwood floor has been laid. All the painting and varnishing were done by Mr. Cooke, at great saving in expense to the city. The work will now be continued in the entrance lobby and on the stairways and corridors of the building. Mr. Cooke has done much in the way of providing new scenery and new furniture for the stage before and since he became janitor. His ambition now is to secure new folding opera chairs for the hall in place of the old settees. The city government and the people of Ellsworth are giving Mr. Cooke every encouragement in the improve-ments he is making in the hall, and doubtcouragement is given him, he proposes to put on a play or two to raise money toward Lesson VI.—Second Quarter, For May 9, 1915.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, I Sam. xx, 32-42. Memory Verse, 42 - Golden Text, Prov. xvii, 17-Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Our lesson topic today is "The Friendship of David and Jonathan,' but the lesson verses give only one incident out of many. As our next lesson will be in chapter xxvi. we will consider the David and Jonathan incidents in chapters xviii to xxiii. In chapter xiv the name of Jonathan is mentioned twenty-four times, and in chapter xx it is found twenty-seven times. His name may mean the gift of Jehovah, and he surely was such to David, a real friend and comforter. making us think of Paul's words concerning some of his helpers, "Fellow workers unto the kingdom of God. which have been a comfort unto me' (Col. iv, 11). In our first introduction to Jonathan (chapters xili and xiv), in which we find his name just twentyeight times, we see him as a brave soldier, relying upon Jehovah to fight for him and with him (xiv, 6, 7). The next mention of him is after David's defeat of Goliath, when we read that his soul was knit with the soul of David, for he loved him as his own soul. He stripped himself of his garments and armor and put them upon David (chapter xviii, 1-4; see also xx. 17; II Sam. 1, 26). They were truly kindred spirits, both strong in the Lord. We cannot but think of Him who emptied Himself for us, laid aside all His glory, that He might redeem us, clothe us with His righteousness and share with us His Kingdom. We think also of the disciple whom Jesus loved, who leaned upon his bosom, but we remember what is written in John xiii. 1. of all true disciples, "He loved them unto the end, to the uttermost" (R. V., mar-The next incident is in chapter xix,

1-7, where Jonathan pleaded with his father for David, reminding him that through David the Lord wrought a great salvation for all Israel, and so David was for a time restored to Saul's favor, but we saw in last lesson how worthless and uncertain it was.

In our lesson chapter we see David returning from Samuel (to whom he had fled) to interview Jonathan and to tell him that when near Saul he felt that there was but a step between him and death and to ask him to find out if he could just how his father really felt toward him, for it would seem as if David could scarcely believe that Saul hated him as greatly as these sudden outbreaks of temper would indicate. One may give way to temper again and again and yet really love the person spoken or acted against. How beautiful was Jonathan's reply to David, "Whatsoever thy soul desireth I will even do it for thee" (xx. 4), or as in the margin. "Say what is thy mind. what thy soul speaketh or thinketh. and I will do it." What a friend to have and yet listen to Him who calls us friends, "If ye shall ask anything in My name I will do it" (John xv, 15; xiv, 14). Jonathan seems not to have believed up to this time that his father meant any real harm to David, probably attributing all to his fearful temper, for he said, "If I knew certainly that evil were determined by my father to come upon thee would not I tell it thee?" (xx, 9.) They went out into the field alone with the Lord and with prayer, and, as in His sight, they made a covenant the one with the other and arranged a plan by which Jonathan would find out certainly what his father's attitude to David really was (xx, 11-23). When the plan was worked out and Saul's anger against David became so manifest that he tried to kill Jonathan for taking David's part. then Jonathan knew that it was determined of his father to slay David. So he arose from the table in flerce anger, for he was grieved for David (xx, 32-34). Then Jonathan in the morning went out into the field and communicated with David by a prearranged plan (xx. 18-24, 35-40)

It was a three days' interval overse 19), reminding us of so many three days' stories, and it was a morning farewell that these two friends now had (verse 35), reminding us by analogy and contrast of so many morning stories. The statement in verse 39 that the lad who gathered the arrows knew not anything of the significance of his doings nor of the real meaning of Jonnthan's words to him has often come to me with power, as I have given His message from His word from time to time, simply knowing that I was seeking to be faithful to him, but not knowing anything of what He might be accomplishing by the message, but sure always that He knew what He was doing and that His word will always accomplish His pleasure John vi. 6: Isa. lv. 11) . How pathetic the farewell of these two after the lad had gone-the kissing, the weeping, the ommitting of each other to the Lord, and Jonathan's "Go in peace" (verses 41, 42). In the morning to which we look forward we shall be "forever with the Lord" (I Thess. Iv. 17). What a sontrast to this sad parting and all partings! They met once more, and athan strengthened David in God, and they spoke of the kingdom and renewed their covenant (xxiii, 16-18).

What God does or permits to be done is often to us a great mystery, but there is comfort in His words "What I do thou knowest not now, but thou shalt know he eafter" (John xiii, 7). Mutual Benefit Column.

Dear M. B. Friends:

I think it is to Aunt Emma we are indebted for the poem. I have selected it for the reason that to many, at this season, the days have seemed to be overshadowed to an unusual extent. Many losses and unexpected changes have come to pass, and a thought that will strengthen and encourage can never come amiss, for "Into each life some rain much fall", but on some brighter to-morrow the sun will

A gentleman called me upon the 'phone not long ago to talk with me about the M. B. writers. I was not aware until then that he had been a reader of our letters for years. He spoke particularly of Susan's, saying he had always read another of Susan's this week.

Aunt Maria has been visiting. She will tell you about it later. I did not see her but we had a nice little chat which we enjoyed at the time, but when I recall the pleasure in my memory, a companion-line follows it which says, "Aunt Maria, thou wert so near and yet so far."

Dear Aunt Madge:
We, my John and I, hope to spend the three we, my sound and a noguet of the coming months, June, July and August of the coming summer at our seaside home, about fifty miles south from here. We will go to it fornia valley and through a pass of a range of beautiful hills, lying stretched along the valley, from foothills and mountains on the east toward the ocean in a westerly direction. We will go through fertile farms or ranches whence comes the food for supplying our

In this valley are hundreds of acres of of golden apples (oranges) just now; and now they are very sweet. The trees also are in bloom, though the bloom of most deciduous trees is passing or has passed, with fruit formed. It's a pretty sight. Many visitors from Maine are seeing it. I wish you, Aunt Madge, and all the sisters of the M. B. C. could look upon it, yes, taste and smell it, too. And, say, we will travel on macadam road, or boulevard, all this fifty miles!

We have spent several seasons at this particular beach. When we are not there, we are usually somewhere in New England. Both are pleasant places for us in summer-

I like this beach place here on the Pacific for three reasons—we are daily fanned by an ocean breeze from the southwest that is tempered by a climate hard to find elsewhere, we are free from mosquitoes, and thunder yon mountains, where we can sometimes see the flash of the lightning and hear the grumble of the thunder. The mountain is

While I am satisfied with this beach and our home on it, I would, nevertheless, like to have our old Maine home clam-bed to go to, for I am very fond of clams. No, I am not saying that we have no clams here. We have. and they are very sweet and good, but somehow there is no clam-bed like that one at my old home shore; nor any other quite so productive of good clams. And there are crevices eenr to have been made on purpose for clam-

We were especially eager to arrive in Foo-chow on Christmas day, but found that would not be possible. The customs had just been notified by cable that President Yuan Shi Kai had proclaimed Wednesday, the Chinese feast of the winter solstice, a national holi-day for the worship of heaven. This meant that the Chinese in Swatow would not work unloading cargo, and we must be over a day there. Then Friday, in Amoy, would be Christmas, and we would have an extra day there, making us two days late to Foo-chow. There was no help for it.

FARMER'S WIFE TOO ILL TO WORK

A Weak, Nervous Sufferer Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Kasota, Minn.—"I am glad to say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than anything else, and I had the best physician here. I was so weak and nervous that I could not do my work and suf-fered with pains low down in my right side for a year or more. I took Lydia table Compound, and now I feel like a different person. I believe there is nothing like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weak women and young girls, and I would be glad if I could influence anyone to try the medicine, for I know it will do all and much more than it is claimed to do."—Mrs. CLARA FRANKS, R. F. D. No. 1, Maplecrest Farm, Kasota, Minn.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should be convinced of the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health by the many genuine and truthful testimonials we are constantly publishing in the newspapers.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegeta-ble Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

URKISH coffee is served now of women gather together for a chat and a rest. It is also a feature at bachelor dinners and impromptu suppers, the men taking more kindly to it than to a brew of tea.

To make the real Turkish coffee a jezvah or Turkish coffeepot is essential, and so popular have these become that they can now be obtained in ordinary housefurnishing shops as well as in the Syrian or other oriental shops. Of course the Turkish coffeepot is the first essential, though the Turkish hammered brass cup holders are picturesque and appreciated additions to

The jezvah, or, rather, coffeepot, is a brass bowl with the sides sloping slightly to the top, where the opening is about the size of a teacup. There is a long stewpan-like handle on one side, heavy enough to tilt the pot over.

These jezvahs come in various sizes, the largest holding about a quart. As the coffee is served in infinitesimal cups a quart jezvah will serve ten

The blend of coffee must be rich and smooth. It should also be freshly roasted. Put into the jezvah a small teaspoonful each of coffee and sugar for each cup to be served. Pour over this enough cold water to fill the cups, allowing a little extra for the boiling away. Now comes the boiling, which is the critical point. The real Turkish coffee has to be brought just to the boil three times, each time a thick cream appearing on the top of the pot. The jezvah is set over the gas or alco-hol flame, the cafeji, or coffee maker, holding on to the end of the long handle, ready to remove it from the flame the moment the yellow cream comes to the top and before it has a chance to boil over. Let it come to this point three times, whisking deftly from the fire after each boiling. The last cream that rises should look as thick as real cream. It is now ready to be poured into the cups. The coffee rightly made is thick and sirupy, but not sweet

Fruit and Vegetables Beautify. Fruit is indeed the keynote of spring diet which shall help to improve the complexion. Apples, raw and cooked, baked or as sauce; any of the wholesome citrus family, in itself a whole pharmacopoeia of goodness; the lemon, the orange and the grapefruit-these eaten lavishly and freely are indeed health and beauty at any time of the year, as well as the springtime. Then, to augment all of this, such things as spring onions, chives and parsley are helpful, with crisp salads of romaine, endive or escarole, always with plenty of lemon juce and olive oil. things, not forgetting plenty of water, taken between meals should obviate all necessity for physic. Internal medicines are not as essential as exercise, proper diet, rest, water drinking. All of these, as said above, will help to secure that improved and regenerated complexion so much desired when winter is a thing of the past. Then it must not be overlooked that a course of facial treatment is well worth its cost and very necessary if such a course is taken in reputable tablishments, where knowledge and long experience have resulted in really helpful methods. Personal advice as to proper local as well as constitutional treatment is given, and the patient is sure of benefit from such a course. When later on that pretty chapeau, that dainty dress, are donned the wearer shall look into her mirror and have nothing to regret as she scrutinizes her reflection, for her complexion shall be as fresh and as flawless as her costume, and the ensemble will be entirely satisfactory.

For Brittle Nails.

You can't make your hands look nice if your nails are very brittle, because they always break off and show rough. jagged edges. Brittle nails are often constitutional, or a sign of poor health. You can do a great deal toward curing them in the following way:

Rub some pure cold cream or white vasefine all over the nails and well into the base at night. Once or twice a week apply a little olive oil, and never wash the hands in hard water or put them in strong soda water, for this aggravates the condition. The treatment described is a remedy for hang nails also, for it keeps the skin round the base of the nails pliable and soft.

Whitening the Skin. Regular applications of equal parts of lemon juice and glycerin after washing do wonders in whitening the skin and preventing the formation of discoloration marks upon the neck from the constant wearing of furs. # Mighty Arches Mark Huge Court of the Universe.

Arch of the Rising Sun, Court of the Universe, Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco. This is the grand central court of the Exposition, 900 by 500 feet, with a companion arch, the Arch of the Setting Sun, at the west portal. Each arch, with its sculptured groups, symbolical of the nations of the east and west, is 188 feet in height.

EXPOSITION LETTER.

To Illustrate Progress of a Decade the Scheme of Show,

(From THE AMERICAN'S special Exposition correspondent.

April 17-To-day San Francisco is reviewing with pardonable pride, the nine years that has passed since the city was laid low by earthquake and fire. Nothing could better illustrate the indomitable spirit of the West, of San Francisco, than the picture spread out here now-a world's exposition, pronounced by all visitors, as well as Californians, to be the greatest exposition the world has ever known, financed and built and successfully opened and conducted within less than a decade from the time when San Francisco was a smouldering heap of ruins.

To an Easterner, or any visitor who has not seen this gradual growth, the city presents no unusual marks of either fire or earthquake. San Francisco has not, to any great extent, the broken sky line of New York. It is much more like Boston in that respect, having the great advantage over the latter city of well-laid-out streets. All the buildings are substantially built and the streets wide. Market street runs straight out into the suburbs, all other principal car lines running into Market street at angles, so that one readily finds one's way about, even in a short visit.

But to return to the exposition. Since the opening on Feb. 20 of this $50,000,000 Panama-Pacific International exposition, there has been an unprecedented attendance. The 2,000,000 mark was reached in less than thirty days. Daily average of over 50,000 has been maintained since that, and on days of special events, running into the 80,000. In the streets of Ellsbe quite a noticeable congestion, but here Jewels", where there are twenty-seven miles of aisles in the various exhibition buildings, eleven palaces, forty-eight state buildings, not counting the buildings of foreign nations, miles and miles (I have really forgotten the exact number) of streets surrounding and dividing these palaces, it takes quite a few thousand to make the place look at all lively-and it has never yet been anything like filled to

One thing above others insures the continued success of the exposition. No visitor has left disappointed. One hears only the highest praise. Distinguished guests from all parts of the world have been unanimous in declaring that the reality exceeds the most enthusiastic notice of the exposition's friends and supporters.

Education in its broadest sense has been the theme of the exposition builderseducation in the material progress of the world for the past decade. The rule was made at the start that any article entered for award must have been produced since the St. Louis exposition, only ten years ago. This has resulted in a vast interest in the eleven major palaces, where so far as practicable every exhibit is shown in action. The reason for the exposition's success is the reason for the exposition exhibits, the presentation of the world in brief for men and women too busied with their individual affairs to keep pace with the decade's advance.

At the Philadelphia Centennial in 1876 the dominating feature was the Bell telephone. With the Buffalo exposition came the steam turbine. St. Louis featured the 'Old Reliable" Corliss engine, as a signal advance in power generation. At the Panama-Pacific International, one finds wireless telegraphy and telephony, the aeropiane and the Diesel engine in power

The world has moved very swiftly during the past decade. That is one of the contributing features making the exposition a source of inspiration fand interest to keen men and women who desire some sort of a panoramic progress. The Diesel engine is one of the principal attractions in Machinery hall. An interesting feature of this engine is one that links the western air of California and the Panama-Pacific exposition with the mighty St. Louis ex- exhibits featured at this greatest of all position of ten years ago. The engine starts with an air compressor tank. On the opening day, Feb. 20, President Wilson started the wheels at the exposition with wireless spark from Washington, and the Diesel engine began operation under the impetus of the same spark - but the air compressing starter which the current released was filled in St. Louis and shipped to San Francisco, in order that something more than sentiment should unite the American exposition of to-day and the exposition of ten years ago.

In sharp contract to this ultra-efficient power generator, the famous Babcock "Centennial" engine, that in its day marked a distinct advance in the field of power, as does the Diesel engine of to-day, has been purchased by the builders after it had been in service fifty years, and is displayed at the exposition for its historic worth in the history of power de-

It is particularly appropriate that the exposition held in California should take especial pains with its horticultural and floricultural section. The state of sunshine, fruits and flowers in consequence has a palace of horticulture that experts declare the superior of any similar conservatory at any previous world's exposition. A model canaery, set up in this palace, is shown in full operation. The last time I visited this exhibit they were canning asparagus, and visitors were shown the entire process of canning and all preparation, such as cleaning and packing. Just now we are enjoying the vegetable at its best, and when I see huge piles of it in markets, six pounds for "two bits" (or twenty-five cents). I wish I might invite all my eastern friends for a

Aside from these few of many displays showing distinct advances in horticulture worth the lesser number of 50,000 would during the past decade, there are, of course, complete and comprehensive exhibits and displays by the countries the world of their flors and fruits.

In the Palace of Liberal Arts, color photography is made the subject of display. After fifteen years of work and the expenditure of thousands of dollars, the Eastman laboratories have finally succeeded in photographing directly in colors and in printing color negatives from color plates. Thus far the process is confined to glass plates only, and not to films.

There is no department at the exposition, and scarcely a state building or foreign pavilion, which does not make use of the motion picture as a feature of instruction. States and nations use it to portray scenes, historical occasions and features of industrial life. But in the palace of education the moving picture is utilized for the first time at any exposition-or at least the use of it is made more definite and practical - to demonstrate the principles of education. It is shown in the very important place it now occupies in educational work.

An attempt to give even the most skeletonized review of the tens of thousands of exhibits would not be possible There are some that naturally, by reason of greater floor area, greater value invested, or higher interest in the article attract more attention than others. In the palace of machinery, for instance, the exhibit by the United States government of naval and military armament is a fresh and steady attraction. Another advanced exhibit in the palace of liberal arts is the manufacture of artificial limbs, these members having been improved to the degree where the person equipped with them is able to use the fingers, toes and other joints about as readily and as usefully as though those parts were natural. The protectograph, for check protection, has been carried to a degree of perfection which makes the erasing and forging of checks an impossibility.

The development of agricultural machinery, the study of advanced methods of soil culture and enrichment processes, intensive and dry farming, and the competitive array of agricultural products, combine to give the palace of agriculture a steady stream of visitors.

. These are but a few of the multitude of world's exposition, and San Francisco may well feel proud that after the short period of nine years after her terrible calamity, she is able to present to the world this greatest of all the expositions. And the best of it is, this has been accomplished without aid from outside the state of California, not one cent of government money either being sought for or tendered, and the promoters of this vast enterprise claim it will be, and now is, entirely self-supporting, and may even pay interest on the money invested.

Many eastern people are coming, but I wish there might be more, for it is too bad for any person who can do so to miss this exposition. I sometimes wonder if the people back home realize just what a privilege is before them. Why, just to visit California at this season of the year, is an education in itself, and to have the added attraction of the best of this and many foreign nations' displayed at this "Jewel City", it would seem to be a crime, almost, not to avail oneself of the opportunity.

The governor and council last Thursday removed from office five chief inland fish and game wardens, who have served for a number of years-George W. Ross, chief warden of Washington county; Frank Durgin, chief warden of Somerset county; F. Ray Neal, chief warden for the counties of Waldo, Knox, Lincoln and Sagadahoc; Charles W. The successors to the wardens, who have been removed, have not, as yet, been appointed.
Joseph Pooler, aged fourteen, of Washburn, was literally devoured by hogs last week, nothing but the skeleton remaining when the body was discovered. Because of domestic disagreement, young Pooler had left home a few days before, but continued to hang about the place and sleep in the barn. He had not been seen since Sunday. It is supposed he fell through the loose poles of the hayloft into the hog-pen in the basement of the barn, and was injured by the fall and unable to defend himself from the hogs. Possibly he was killed or rendered unconscious by the fall. The tragedy was not discovered until Wednesday morning. The coroner's jury expressed the opinion that he was killed by the fall.

of the "moyies", is dead, but thanks to the invention of moving pictures, his smile still lives to spread its jovial influence around the world. The democratic State administration has discovered another plum tree. Last week the five chief game wardens of the State were removed to make room for democrats. Oh, well! Republicans may still go hunting.

This is, officially, "clean up and paint-up" week. It is well to observe the week industriously, but don't try to do it all in one week. There are fifty-one other weeks in the year when a little celebration of the same kind might not come amiss.

side, and all this pulling and hauling is merely a question of methods and locations. We need a few more gettogether meetings like that at Augusta last week.

Massachusetts politics present the rather remarkable spectacle of a former democratic governor urging a former progressive candidate for gov ernor to accept the republican nomination for governor, while the present democratic governor declares that the same progressive would also make a pretty good democratic candidate.

It is expected that there will be a contest in the republican primaries in June, 1916, for the nomination as representative to Congress in opposition to Cong. McGillicuddy. Among those mentioned as possible candidates are Col. E. C. Plummer, of Bath; Cyrus R. Blanchard, of Wilton; Wallace H. White, jr., of Lewiston; S. T. Kimball, of Rockland, and Harold M. Sewall, of Bath.

Former Congressman Charles E. Littlefield, of Maine, died Sunday in a New York hospital, following an operation. Mr. Littlefield represented the second congressional district of Maine from 1899 to 1908, when he resigned and entered the practice of law in New York. Mr. Littlefield was speaker of the Maine House of Representatives 1887-9, and attorney-general 1889-1893. Congressman Littlefield was well known in Hangock county, especially in Ellsworth, where his law business, while he was located in Rockland, frequently brought him.

That more than 100 farmers should brave the weather and the roads of Monday to assemble at Lakewood for the farm demonstration field day, was a demonstration in itself that the spirit of better farming is abroad in Hancock county, and of the effective work being done by the her or anybody - but I've carried her director of farm demonstrations for this county, George N. Worden, the back of the head with a soft snowball, Last year a great part of Mr. Worden's work was in getting acquainted with the farmers, the farms and farming conditions in his territory. That he has, to a marked degree, won the confidence of the farmers, without which no demonstrator can do effective work, is apparent, them. I don't think I'll ever have." This year's work promises big results.

Chairman Nelson Resigns.

That the matter of State highways is a vital topic in Maine was indicated by the attendance at the hearing before the governor and council at Augusta last week, though it is true that many of those present went with the idea that the governor and council would have something to say about where this year's work would be done, instead of simply apportioning the amounts to be expended in each

Following closely on the heels of his meeting, at which Chairman Neln, of the State highway commission. itted mistakes in the first year's

State highway work, and expressed views which proved that he, at least, was entirely in accord with the views of a majority of taxpayers throughout the State, comes the announcement of his resignation.

While the resignation came as surprise, it is not, paradoxically, surprising. Chairman Nelson's views are not shared by the other two members of the commission, and he says in his letter of resignation: "I believe the policy of the majority of the commission is contrary to the intent of the law, contrary to the desires and wishes of the great majority of our people, and contrary to a sound, economic business policy, and I am unwilling to longer lend my tacit consent to such a policy."

Summed up, Mr. Nelson's contentions are that the commission is not paying proper attention to the equitable division of the State highway money among the counties; that no general plan for the expenditure of the entire $2,000,000 from the bond issue has yet been made, but instead a few isolated sections of road are being rebuilt in an expensive and extravagant manuer, and that these sections have cost two to three times what they should.

Mr. Nelson's views are shared by a majority of the taxpayers of the State.

Don't go to Bar Harbor next Wednesday expecting to do any business, for that is this State highway question, and that is, better roads. We're all on that work. The work this year will be done 'good roads" day in Eden, and all the on the Town Hill road. Last year something like 400 men turned out on good roads day, and a still larger number is expected on the job this year. Dinner will be served to the volunteer crew.

STATE HIGHWAYS.

Governor and Council Have Hearing on Apportionment of Money.

Largely under the misapprehension that the governor and council at their meeting last Wednesday to apportion the State highway money among the different counties, were slso to designate the sections of road upon which work was to be done this year, there was a large attend-Though the governor and council did not assume this authority, those attending the hearing were given opportunity to air highway commissioners, who also attended the hearing.

The direct route from Bangor to Ellsworth had many supporters, but through some oversight, or perhaps because of a fuller knowledge of the purpose of the hearing, friends of the western route through Hancock county were not precent. Those from Hancock county who spoke for the Bangor-Ellsworth route were W. H. Sherman and Rep. Morrison, of Bar Harbor, and H. F. Maddocks, of Ellsworth.

State highway money this year is only $10,000, the large expenditures on State highway work last year making the amount available for this year small.

Chairman Nelson, of the State highway commission, addressed the meeting at some length. He admitted errors in the first year's work, attributing this largely to the haphazard way in which the apportionment for the different counties was nade. He thought the entire am available from the bond issue should first have been apportioned among the different counties, and then, treating each county as a unit, the commission could have entered upon the work to better advantage. "But these things have been done," he said, "and cannot be undone. The next best thing is to start right now to find a basis for division among the counties, to charge each county with the amount already expended, and then to plan work for the balances available during 1915, 1916 and 1917."

Mr. Nelson said further that be believed the expenditures, so far made, have been at too great an average rate per mile. "What the State of Maine needs most in the development of a highway system is to improve its roads in a moderate and reasonable way, making them first safe for travel, and in doing this in the most pomical manner consistent with substantial work, and then keep this improvement up by a constant system of patrol maintenance. The State cannot afford, at the present time, to expend from five to ten thousand dollars per mile upon its roads. The average expenditure should be very much less than this, and I firmly believe that a less expenditure can be rendered thoroughly practical, and disa much greater part of the population of the State than will be done under the present method of construction, but this part of the problem cannot be properly considered until the total amount applicable to one county is viewed as a unit. When this is done, then I believe that from the very nature of the case the average expenditure will be reduced, because the demands from each county will be such as to make this imperative.'

FIELD-DAY AT LAKEWOOD.

Big Gathering of Interested Farmers

In spite of rainy weather and the heaviest roads of the season with but one exception, the field meeting held at Meadowview farm, M. A. Garland, manager, on Monday, proved to be a grand success both from point of attendance and the erest evinced by those present.

The modern and spacious barn—the barn which shelters high-blooded stock and other equipment of a progressive farmer, served as the center of operations, wherein were gathered 109 farmers, many of whom had come a distance of over fifteen mile in a common cause—to get a little inspira-tion that would help them to put more 'punch" into their work, and to catch a few practical ideas which they could carry back home and set at work for greater profits on the farm—the minute they go

Too much credit can not be given the agitation committee, composed of J. O. Jordan, of Otis; George Parsons, of Mariaville; Oscar Staples, of Ellsworth Falls ernon Haslem, of Waltham; Hiram Danico, of Nicolin, and Martin A. Gar-land, of Lakewood, in whose mind the ides of such a meeting first originated, and whose untiring efforts and hospitality were very largely responsible for the day being made really worth while.

The instructing force was composed of G. N. Worden, director of Hancock county farm demonstrations, N. C. Sherwood, of the University of Maine animal indussenting the Empire Separator Company. The first demonstration was in testing soil for acidity and need of liming. Many samples had been brought from variou farms, and in every case the soil was found to be acid, so that forms and quantities of lime to use, methods of application and

The demonstration in milk - testing proved of great interest, and the samples brought were found to be very good indeed, running from 3.5 to 6.9 per cent. butter fat.

It was a pleasure to the assembled farmers to have with them at the noon hour their congressman, Hon John A. Peters. Could his fellow congressmen have seen him there in the middle of that barn floor, mounted on a cracker-box, with the farmers all around him, and could they have heard the way in which he sent home a brief message of better and more progressive farming, their ambitions would have been to be Maine farmers, with such a leader as he.

After a basket dinner, County Agent Worden priefly explained his work and purpose in the county, and proceeded with demonstrations which brought out in a different way many important points regarding cultivation, drainage, etc. The method of raising grain free from mustard or kale through spraying with copperas was of unusual interest, as was also the demonstration in treating seed oats for smut and potatoes for scab and other dis-

Penny Wise and Pound Foolish

Hard times make every woman look to see where she can save money, which, of course, is sensible and proper if not carried too far.

In the case of food it would be foolish to attempt to substitute sawdust for a breakfast food because it is cheaper. Everyone knows sawdust has no food value and its use would be a positive detriment to the health.

Royal Baking Powder, which is made from cream of tartar, adds only healthful qualities to the food.

The difference in cost of a pan of biscuits or of a cake made with Royal Baking Powder as compared with cheap alum or phosphate of lime powders is about one cent, which is surely too small an amount to warrant the risk.

STATE-AID HIGHWAY. It was deemed advisable by the board in case the State expended money on the direct route of the State highway between Bangor and Ellsworth this year, to devote this year's appropriation for State-aid roads to that section of the road lying within Ellsworth, and on motion it was fund of the city of Ellsworth, for the year 1915, be expended upon the designated trunk highway, leading from Bangor, through Holden, Dedham, Ellsworth and Trenton to Mt. Desert Island, providing the State highway commission will expend $10,000 of the proceeds of the highway bond issue upon the road above mentioned, in conjunction with said joint fund. The expenditure of the above-mentioned funds to be upon that part of road which lies in the city of Ellsworth.

OTHER BUSINESS.

The statutory bond of Tax-Collector Bresnahan, in the sum of $5,000, was accepted and filed.

Claim of Mrs. L. L. Kane for twenty hens killed by dogs was referred to Ald. Wescott.

H. R. Wood again appeared before the board in relation to his claim for damages for injuries received by his wife in being thrown from a carriage. The committee on highways, to which the matter was referred, was granted further time.

The resignation of George M. Campbell as night officer was presented and accepted.

The finance committee was authorized to negotiate for a temporary loan of $3,000. The committee on electric lights reported in favor of establishing lights as petitioned for as follows: One at each end of the Bangor bridge at Ellsworth Falls, and one above the bridge near the house of Charles Sargent, and one on East Maple street. Two lights voted to be established by last year's board, one on Pond street and one on Dean street, will plunged immediately into the subject.

also be established. The light on Main "Jones has just proved to me that a street between School and Oak streets will be moved to a location a short distance down the street, or about opposite the driveway to the American house stable. Two are lights will be split up into series lights for the new lights.

It was voted that the care of cemetery lots provided for by the fund for perpetual care of lots, be looked after by John B. Dean.

W. E. Whiting called the attention of 49 68 the board to the drain across H. B. Phil-24 55 lips' property at Oak and Church streets, which had caved in and was not large enough to vent the water turned across the Phillips property by the city. The matter was referred to the street commissioner.

The matter of obstruction of Grant street at the ice-house was also referred to the street commissioner.

The board voted a contribution of $75 to the Grand Army post for Memorial day expenses.

Ald. Small, as commander of the post, extended an invitation to the board to seats upon the stage during Memorial day exercises, which the hoard accepted. Adjourned.

SO THE VICTIM TRIED AGAIN.

After He Studied the Thing Over to See Where and How He Had Made His Blunder He Sprang It Anew, Only to Receive a Staggering Jolt.

Richard Smith and John Jones were great friends. They were alike in many respects, but there was this difference between them-that Smith was an ardent churchman and was inclined to take things seriously, while Jones did not go to church very often and was inclined to take everything more

One day these two friends happened to be strolling along together, when the conversation drifted around to this difference between them. Smith had been telling Jones that his course was all wrong and that he ought to change his views and go to church, giving his reasons therefor. To this Jones listened attentively and seemed much im-

"Your argument seems very logical," said Jones when Smith had paused, "but," with a twinkle in his eye, "there's one point you did not men-tion which has just occurred to me and on which I should like a little enlightenment."

"What is it?" said Smith. "I'll be very glad to explain it if I can."

"It is this," replied Jones. "How does it happen that a man may be a church member and a heathen at the same time?"

"I don't understand you," said Smith, "How can a man be a church member and a heathen at the same time? You are joking. You know he can't."

"But I say he can. Take yourself, for example. I will emphatically assert that I can prove in eight words that you are a heathen, and, furthermore, I can convince you of it."

"I know you can't do anything of the sort. You are trying to put up a bluff. And to make you back down I will agree to this-if you can prove either in eight words or in eight hundred that I am a heathen to my satis faction I will give you a pair of gloves, but if you do not prove it you must give me a pair. I hate to take the gloves on such an easy proposition, but it will teach you a lesson."

"All right. It's a go," said Jones. Smith looked surprised. He really thought that Jones would back down. "Well, how do you intend to prove that I am a heathen?" "Are you a woman?"

"You must be a he, then."

Smith looked stupefied for an instant. Then he laughed: "Ha, ha, ha! That was a clever one. You have won the gloves all right and have proved your contention to my satisfaction. But I will get it off on some one else. Ah, there is Roy Green! I will spring it on him."

So they joined Green, who, like Smith was a churchman. Smith "Jones has just proved to me that a man can be a churchman and yet be a heathen." "What absurd nonsense!" said Green. "It cannot be proved. Of course a heathen may attend church, but it can't be proved that all churchmen are

"I thought so a few minutes ago myself," said Smith excitedly. "And so sure am I of this that I will agree to give you a pair of gloves if I cannot prove to your satisfaction in eight words that they are heathen, but if I do you are to give me a pair."

"Done!" said Green. "It will be almost like robbing you. But if you are willing I am."

"All right," said Smith, "Proceed to prove it," said Green. "The men aren't women," said Smith.

"No." said Green. Then they are hes. Ha, ha!" "But that does not prove them hea-

Smith looked dazed. "I guess I made a mistake.' Green chuckled. "I guess you did. Fork over those gloves!"

And Smith had to buy two pairs.

Smith went home chagrined, thinking where he had made his mistake. and by it came to him. It would go better to prove that he was a heathen as Jones had proved it to him in that way. He would get back those

The next day he met Brown. "Now is my opportunity!" he thought, and accosted Brown.

"Brown," he said, "I heard a clever one the other day, and that is how a man can be a churchman and a heathen at the same time. You know that am a churchman. But did you know hat I can prove that I am a heathen?"

Brown chuckled. "You don't have to prove it to me," said he. "I am perfectly willing to concede it."-Dwight S. Wiseman In Chicago Her-

Coffin's Court, in this city, makes this statement:

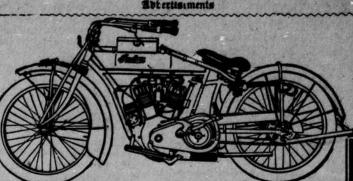

"The beginning of my trouble was a sore or abscess that gathered in the corner of my left eye. It discharged continuously for a year and eight months, and nothing seemed to heal it. I consulted eminent physicians, who said the eruption would never heal without a surgical operation. I was much rundown and dreaded to think of an operation.

"I remembered that four years before I had taken Hood's Sarsaparilla with benefit, and I decided to take it again. I seemed all worn out, and my blood was not right.

"After I had used four bottles of flood's Sarsaparilla the abscess had a more healthy appearance and the discharge was less. When I had taken seven bottles the sore had entirely disappeared, leaving only a slight scar. When I told the doctor Hood's Sarsapared.

appeared, leaving only a slight scar. When I told the doctor Hood's Sarsaparilla had cured me he was dumb-founded, and said 'Hood's Sarsaparilla certainly has done wonders for you.' I had better appetite and was in bet-ter health in every way." Remember to ask for Hood's Sarsa-parilla and insist on having it.

The little town of Great Pond, situated ear the headwaters of Union river, will hold its place in the memory of many a hardy woodsman, but few, perhaps, know the trials and hardships of the early set-

In about 1811 the township of No In about 1811 the township of No. 33, a part of the Bingham purchase, was owned by Squire Tilden, of Boston, who offered brilliant inducements with many promises of the good time to come, to those who tad courage enough to brave the danger of pioneer life. A party from Massachusetts, among whom were Simeon Massachusetts, among whom were Simeon and Clark Williams, came through an unbroken forest and landed at the foot of Great pond. Simeon felled the forest trees. They commenced clearing about forty rods from the pond, choosing the highest land, erected a log cabin or two, and went back with a favorable report of this part of the Pine Tree State.

Clark Williams, and his father, Joshua, a Revolutionary soldier from Rhode Island, John Collar from Uhina, Me., Mr. Dyke, a half-brother of Addison Dodge, and a few other families came here with a view to settlement.

After a few years Mr. Tilden sold out to John Black. His promise of roads, mills and settlers proved a failure. Dis-couraged, all went back to their native lands except three families, Joshua Wil-liams, his son Clark, and John Collar In 1812 Simeon Williams married Harriet Kenney, of Woodstock, N. B. first built Great Pond dam, and Ashel pond. In those days it was as customary to take their barrel of liquor as their flour in the woods with them, and when Mr. oster got halfway across the pond he nust celebrate the event by treating the crew. As no dish was at hand an inventive genius proposed cutting a hole in the ice and filling it with brandy, which they did, and lay down and drank it; hence the name of Brandy pond.

Simeon Williams and wife had a family of ten children; six boys, James, Thomas, Simeon, jr., George, Asa and Joseph Til-den; and four girls, Betsey Ann, Frances Kenney, Harriet and Eliza Jane, who died in infancy. They all settled nearby and the place was rightfully called Williams Set-

An important point to inquire about in buying a cow is the milking record of the sire's dam and the sire's other female ancestry. Carbolized vaseline is useful

RAISING STANDARD OF DAIRY HERDS

In this work of building up a profit able herd, whether pure bred or grade, there is one very important point that is very much neglected, says Hoard's Dairyman. We refer to the cuiling out of the inferior cows. It is an old saying that "selection is just as important as good breeding." Every dairy farmer ought to set up a standard of butter fat production per cow to which he can work and by which he can meas-ure the cows of his herd. We will say age of 400 pounds for pure bred herds and 350 pounds for grade herds.

This is not an excessive standard, although not one herd in a hundred meas

To arrive at such a measure of pro duction the owner must be clear and determined in the work of culling out greatly increase the average of good heifers from his sire, for the sire will then have better mothers to mate with. Of course, such work of selection cannot be carried on without a regular system of keeping a record of the yield of every cow.

It often occurs that the owner will be a little puzzled as to whether he shall keep or reject a heifer judged by her first year's record. While we fully believe that a good record for the first year is a valuable guide as to the future capacity of a cow, still there are so many exceptions to it as to compel us to keep our heifers till they have completed their second year in milk be fore passing judgment upon them.

In quite a number of instances we have had belfers make a rather poor showing the first year and come up exceedingly well in their second year of milk giving. But it is best to fix a limit beyond which the helfer is not allowed to stay in the herd if she does not come up to the required standard This standard we would fix for grade herds at 200 pounds of fat the first year, 250 pounds the second year, 300 pounds the third year and 350 pounds for mature cows. This makes a rule to work by that will exert a powerful effeet in hastening the creation of a good and profitable herd.

One authority says, "A dairy cow to be called such should repay her owner for every pound of feed, every hour of labor and also interest on his inyestment." He makes it clear that the difference between a good and a poor cow is often merely in difference in feed. He says: "Cows that give milk rich in fat should receive the larger amount of grain. The ration of the dry cow should afford her opportunity to get in good condition for the next lactation period."

Buckwheat Bran For Cows. are of very little value as feed. These hulls should never be fed alone. It would be far better to avoid purchasing these worthless hulls in any mixture of feed. It may be said that the portion of the buckwheat kernel imm ately under this hull is a valuable feed. and dealers desiring to dispose of the hulls often mix them with this portion and sell the material as buckchase buckwheat middlings without the hulls.-Hoard's Dairyman.

The Cross Bull. It is an unsafe practice to allow a bull to run in the pasture. No person can tell at what moment he will at-tack any one who may come within his range. The safer way is to provide some place where he can be handled without being exposed to his precari-ous nature. Firm handling is a good requisite in caring for a bull. Severe punishment is not a good thing.

THE TENT CATERPILLAR.

Method of Control Advised by Agricultural Department.

The conspicuous, unsightly nests of the tent caterpillar are familiar objects in the spring in trees along roadways, streams, and fences, in neglected orduards, and elsewhere. Several methods of checking the depredations of this caterpillar are given in a new publication of the departent of agriculture, farmers' bulletin se gregarious caterpillars co the tents for their protection, and these, at first small, are gradually enlarged. varying with the number of individuals in the colony. The caterpillars feed upon foliage of the trees, stripping the leave from the limbs adjacent to the nest, and if there be several colonies in a tree, as is frequently the case, the foliage may be quite destroyed, leaving the branches as bare as in midwinter.

ecies of the tent caterpillar are found quite generally over the entire United States. The moths deposit their eggs by early midsummer. By fall the embryonic larvae is practically full grown, within the egg where it remains until the 'ollowing spring. With the coming of a warm spell he larvae escape by gnawing throug their eggshells, often before there is foliage out for food, and under these cir-cumstances they may feed upon the glutf-

The tent caterpillar feeds principally on wild cherry and apple trees, but will at-tack many other plants, and where such trees can be removed without disadvan-tage this should be done, thus lessening its food supply.

During the dormant period of trees

ben the leaves are off, the egg masses are fairly conspicuous; and with a little practice may be readily found; it is then that they should be cut off and burned. Prees infested with larvae during the early part of the year, or those in the mediate vicinity, are perhaps more likely least should be searched if it is not practicable to extend the work to the orchard as a whole. This work may be combined with pruning to good advantage, and a lookout should be kept not only for the eggs of this insect but for the eggs and cocoons of other injurious species which pass the winter on the trees.

When two egg masses are deposited close together, the resulting caterpillars may form a common nest. These nests are gradually enlarged and soon furnish ample protection. If the caterpillars are destroyed as soon as the small nests are stected, this will prevent further de foliation of the trees, and the rule sh be adopted to destroy them promptly as soon as discovered. In this work either of two practices may be adopted, namely, destruction by hand or with a torch.

When in convenient reach, the nests may be torn out with a brush, with gloved hand, or otherwise, and the larvae crushed on the ground, care being taken to destroy any caterpillars which may have remained on the tree. The use of a torch to burn out the ne will often be found convenient, especially when these occur in the higher parts of trees. An asbestoe torch, such as is advertised by seedsmen, will be satisfactory, or one may be made simply by tying rags to the end of a pole. The asbestos or rags are saturated with kerosene and lighted and the ceterpillars so far as possi cremated. Some caterpillars, however, are likely to escape, falling from the nest upon the application of the torch. In using the torch great care is no sary that no important injury be done the tree; it should not be used in burning out nests except in the smaller branches and twigs, the killing of which would be of no special importance. Nests in the larger limbs should be destroyed by hand, as the use of the torch may kill the bark, resulting in permanent injury.

Tent caterpillars are readily destroyed by arsenicals sprayed on the foliage of trees infested by them. Any of the arsenical insecticides may be used, as paris green, scheeles green, arsenste of lead, etc. The first two are used at the rate of one-half pound to fifty gallons of water. Milk of time, from two to three pounds of stone lime, should be added to neutralize any caustic effect of the arsenical on the foliage. Arsenate of lead is used at the rate of two pounds to each fifty gallons of

Even in the small home orchard of a dozen or more trees, it will be found highly profitable to adopt a system of praying which will control not only tent caterpillars but auch serious pests as the codling meth, cankerworms, various bud and leaf-feeding insects, which will greatly reduce injury from the curculio.

On stone fruits, such as cherry, peach, and plum arsenicals are likely to cause injury to foliage and must be used with caution, if at all. On such trees they arsenate of lead is preferable, as it is less injurious to foliage, and on all trees sticks much better. In spraying for the teut caterpillar only, applications should be made while the caterpillars are yet small, as these succumb more quickly to poisons than those more nearly full grown, and prompt treatment stops further defoliation of the trees. Even in the small home orchard of Sorrento mourns the loss of one of its best and most highly-respected citizens in the death of John W. Fenton, which occurred at his home here May 1. He had been in poor health a long time, of heart trouble, and while his neighbors and friends knew he could not live, it was a shock to all to know that he had gone.

Mr. Fenton was sixty-two years old on February 16, and had lived here practi-cally all of his life. When a young man he followed the sea for a few years, and for several years was steward on the M. C. R. R. steamers here in Frenchman's bay and on private yachts. About fiftee came home to be with his father and mother on the farm here. His father died about eight years ago, and his mother now past eighty-six years of age, sadly mourns his loss. He leaves also one brother — Edward Fenton, of Sorrento, and four sisters—Mrs. Augustus Perry, of Sullivan; Mrs. Martha Houthards, of Bos-ton; Mrs. Elizabeth Stratton, of Frank-lin, and Miss Minnie Fenton, who lives ously ill.
Mr. Fenton was never married, but for several years his aunt, Miss Eliza Whitten, has been housekeeper for him, and in winters his niece, Miss Eva M. Fenton, has been living with them. To these two, who have so tenderly cared for him, his loss is great.

Mr. Fenton had many friends. His ho was the center of neighborhood gather-ings, and a glad welcome and pleasant evening were assured to all who called. He was always interested in the welfare of the town, serving at one time as one of the selectmen. Several years ago he be-came a member of Island lodge, No. 120, J. O. O. # Chance of a Life Time To Get This Famous S Hoosier Kitchen Cabinet

Beginning to-morrow, for one week only, The Hoosier Manufacturing Company permits us to sell the "WHITE BEAUTY" at $2.50 less than the low cash price established by the Hoosier Company. Regular Hoosier prices are remarkably low. This reduction means an unheard-of bargain. 800,000 Hoosier Cabinets have been sold WHITE BEAUTY is the finest Hoosier made. To double the sale of this one cabinet quickly, the Hoosier Company authorizes this sale in 1000 picked towns. This is truly the chance of a lifetime for a few women only. Our allotment is limited.

"White Beauty" Delivered for $1.00

Then $1 weekly pays the balance. Your money back if you're not delighted with it. No extra fees. No interest. Just the cash price less $2.50.

Saves Miles of Steps for Your Tired Feet

You now must carry things from your cupboard and pantry to your table and back again at every meal. This means miles of steps. The Hoosier saves all these because it combines everything at your fingers' ends. You can sit down in front of a Hoosier and do nearly all your work. You save energy by saving steps. You have more leisure.

Has 40 Labor-Saving Features--17 New

This "WHITE BEAUTY" gives you a real scientific kitchen. You can put 400 articles in this new Hoosier, every one at your fingers' ends.

The cabinet includes the patented Shaker flour sifter—only sifter that shakes flour through instead of grinding it. It also has a complete accounting system; a cook-book holder that keeps your book always open before your eye; Mrs. Christine Frederick's Food Guide that answers the question, "What shall I have for dinner?" The new all-metal bread and cake box has double capacity, due to improved arrangement, and the work table is of pure aluminum.

Take Five Minutes to Decide Now

Come in to-morrow early-examine these new Hoosiers carefully—then decide whether you want to buy one now while you can save $2.50, or later when you cannot buy below the regular set prices; decide whether you can afford to waste the energy you now spend in walking in your kitchen, when a single dollar will bring you the Hoosier to-morrow.

Remember-that after this sale the "WHITE BEAUTY" goes back to the regular price.

Remember-that the new Hoosier Club may be entirely filled the first or second day of this sale. Come at once and enroll

Try the Hoosier in your kitchen. Then, if you will part with it, we will gladly refund your dollar. Come early. Other women too are making up their minds now.
