TO THE VOTERS OF ROCKLAND

Charles M. Richardson Issues a Statement Concerning Monday's Election—Support Democratic Slate

To the Voters of Rockland:

In accepting the nomination for the office of Mayor of the City of Rockland in the coming election to be held December 2nd, 1929, I stated that I would wage a campaign free from mud-slinging, muck-raking and malicious propaganda and I have kept my word. It has already come to my attention that certain talk is being made by some people to the effect that I have promised one, at least, of the subordinate positions if I am elected. This of course is being used to discredit me. It is entirely untrue; I can truthfully say that I have not promised or given out, any inducement of this nature; I have not even been approached by anyone in this connection.

In a recent interview with one of the staff of this paper I was assured of fair treatment at their hands, but was told they were for Mayor Carver, which I expected, this being the policy of this paper. This paper has kept that promise so far, and I know that they will, for I have a great respect for the paper and its able and genial staff. Now we have to get our cause before the public, and newspapers are indispensable as that medium. I am not going to take away any of the glory of the present administration and I am not going to give out any unjust criticism, but just criticism is always welcomed by parties as well as individuals and they expect to receive the same.

In speaking of the department of Public Works, of which the street department is a part, it seems that Mayor Carver's policy has been, that if you can't build permanent or hard surface roads not to build or keep in condition any at all, as he considers it a waste of money. My policy will be, if elected, to build some permanent road each year, and at the same time, take care of our residential streets and sidewalks, that is, until we are able to build permanent roads and sidewalks in their places. It looks to me that the slight surplus saving, as set forth in their financial statement, has been at the expense of our streets and sidewalks and whoever is elected, whether it be Mayor Carver or myself, it will require a very much larger surplus than this $3,000 to put the streets back in any thing like suitable condition.

Our opponents will say, and we expect them to say, retain in office Mayor Carver, that he may carry out his program. I think every voter seriously will say that there never will be a time in a progressive city like ours that its chief executive will not have some definite program to carry out and it is proper that he should. With constantly increasing demands for more education we must take care of our schools, to see that the pupils are properly housed and have the best we can give our boys and girls, fully realizing the great importance in so doing, and in every department of our city we should, as citizens, and more especially if we are entrusted with power to exercise that power as true and faithful servants, give the best that is in us in furthering a good clean honest business administration of the city's affairs.

In looking over our ticket in the several wards, I feel that we have a ticket that we may feel justly proud of and I consider it an honor to be a candidate for office on the ticket with them, and feel that the citizens of Rockland, regardless of party affiliation, can support it. I was at the caucus as a spectator when Mayor Carver secured the nomination in a contest against ex-Mayor Snow, and I distinctly remember that the eminent gentleman who placed his name in nomination stated that the new charter was devised with the intent of making it a one term of two years for the office of mayor, instead of a one year term, and it seemed to me he stressed that point in his nomination speech and that seemed to me to be the point whereby Mayor Carver wrested the nomination from ex-Mayor Snow. Of course we all know that prece-

PARK THEATRE

Today is the last day for the Jimmie Evans Revue. The feature picture accompanying this is "Chasing Through Europe," a sound picture.

One of the most interesting events of the local theatrical season will take place Monday and Tuesday when the all-talking screen version of that famous stage success "Broadway" comes with a cast headed by Glenn Tryon, Evelyn Brent, Merna Kennedy, Thomas Jackson and Paul Porcasi.

One thing is sure. There is a quality in "Broadway" no other play of New York night life has ever been able to grasp. "Broadway" is real; its people are real; their joys and sorrows are understandable. It is a pattern of real life; perhaps a gaudy one, but real none the less. In the role of Roy Lane, the cocky hoofer of the Paradise Night Club, where hi-jackers and adventurers make their headquarters, Glenn Tryon gives a sincere and believable performance. As Billie Moore, his vivacious dancing partner whom he loves, and who temporarily falls for Steve Crandall, a notorious hi-jacker and murderer, Merna Kennedy is equally effective. As Pearl, a chorus girl and the sweetheart of Steve Crandall, who swears to avenge the death of the man she loved, Evelyn Brent gives one of the finest performances of her career.—adv.

dent was not established as Mayor Carver has now served two terms and is seeking the third term. If I am elected, I am not going to make any promises, should the citizens wish me to accept a second term, but under no consideration would I be a candidate for a third term.

If you feel that you would like a change, if you feel that Mr. Carver has had the position long enough, vote for C. M. Richardson, and the entire Democratic Ticket.

IN SIGHT OF HOME

D. T. Conley, Veteran Lobster Fisherman, Drowned At Isle au Haut

Davis Tillson Conley of Isle au Haut was drowned last week when he fell from his small boat while fishing near his home.

The deceased was born at Isle au Haut 1855. He spent the early period of his life mackerel fishing from Gloucester. After leaving the sea he learned the trade of stone-cutting and during the flourishing days on Hurricane Island was employed by Gen. Davis Tillson, and at one time managed the general store connected with the granite industry.

Returning to his old home at York Island he engaged in lobster fishing for nearly 40 years. He was counted one of the best sailing men of the then famous Down East sloop, and when others turned to power craft he continued with sail.

His hospitality was famous and he counted among his closest friends men from the best walks of life. He was a Democrat of the old school, seldom conceding a point to the other side. Brilliant and witty in his conversation, he was often surrounded by an admiring group.

He never married, and leaves for close relatives two sisters in California, one brother in Portland and a brother James T. at York Island.

He had served his town as selectman and representative.

OUR NATIONAL GUARD UNIT

Battery G Well Sustains the Record Rockland Has Always Held In Military Circles

[The Courier-Gazette is indebted for the following article, and the several National Guard articles which preceded it, to Lieut. Sherman E. Willard, the popular and efficient instructor officer assigned to this battalion of Coast Artillery.—Ed.]

Of the many companies organized in Rockland the first that can be traced as having been a part of what is now the 240th C.A. Regiment was known as Tillson's Light Infantry. Tillson's Light Infantry was organized in 1880 as a part of the Second Maine Infantry. It was disbanded in 1884, but in 1888 was reorganized and became part of the First Maine Infantry, as Co. H. The First Infantry later became the present 240th C. A., of which the present Rockland Company (Battery G) is a part.

As Company H, First Infantry, the Rockland company was with that regiment at Chickamauga Park, Ga., during the Spanish War. It was called into federal service in May, and relieved in November 1898. In 1908 the Rockland company was again disbanded, and Co. B, Second Infantry was assigned to the First Infantry in its place.

From 1908 to 1917 there was no Army unit in Rockland, but the Third Division, Ships Company, Naval Reserve, was very active and entered the federal service in April 1917.

The next military unit in Rockland was organized by Major (then Captain) Ralph W. Brown in 1921, as the 1st Lieut. John H. Brubaker 1918, landing at LeHarve. In France it was stationed at Malilly-le-Camp (Aube) where it was designated as a Railway Artillery Replacement and sent to Hausmont (Marne). After the Armistice it sailed from Brest in February 1919 and was demobilized at Camp Devens in March. In 1921, after being reorganized as the Fifth Company, the Battery made an excellent showing at their first camp at Fort Williams, being assigned to 10 inch guns. At the 1923 encampment Battery G was the big prize winner, winning the State prize as the most efficient unit at the camp and receiving a $200 cash prize. Battery G is the owner of many valuable cups, the most important of which are the Gov. Baxter military trophy, awarded in 1924 for having twice won the highest military rating at annual encampments; the Col. Butler trophy for having the highest rifle team in 1923 at the camp; the 1925 240th cup for excellence in gunnery (Guns), and the 1925 240th cup for military excellence.

Battery G received an official letter of commendation for its excellent work at the State Prison fire. The letter is from the chief of the Militia Bureau of the War Department in Washington.

The present organization is:

Capt. Richard F. Saville, commanding the Battery.
1st Lieut. John H. Brubaker, executive and administration officer.
2d Lieut. Lloyd E. Daniels, supply officer.

1st Sergeant—Charles L. Collins.

In 1869 it was again reorganized, and in 1873 became part of the First Infantry Maine Volunteer Militia and also became known as the Auburn Light Infantry. During the war with Spain it was at Chickamauga Park, with the First Regiment, from May to November 1898.

NEXT MONDAY'S ELECTION

Mayor Carver Indicated Choice Because of Progressive Administrations—Democrats Working Hard

Rockland's biennial city election is to take place next Monday, and the polls will be open from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. The majority candidates are James F. Carver, Republican, and Charles M. Richardson, Democrat. Each party has nominated a ward ticket, but one candidate is already elected—Mrs. Anne Snow having been nominated by both parties for membership on the school committee.

In the last city election (1927) James F. Carver defeated Obadiah Gardner by a vote of 1745 to 785. The plurality of 960 was abnormally large—constituting a new record for Rockland municipal election, as a matter of fact, Mayor Carver carried every ward by majorities which ranged from 32 in Ward 7 to 304 in Ward 3. The ward ticket contests were closer, however, the Democrats succeeding in seating three of their candidates.

In the present campaign, which has been so quiet that campaign is hardly the word for it, there has been little to indicate that the voters care to take the chances of swapping horses in midstream. Mayor Carver has worked early and late in the interest of the taxpayers, and how well he has worked is shown by the fact that today's tax is lower than when he entered office and this in spite of the fact that some unusual expenses have been necessitated. These have resulted in giving Rockland the best educational plant in its history, and in giving as well a main thoroughfare which from the Rockport line to the Owl's Head line has no superior in the State of Maine. This permanent work has been completed during Mayor Carver's two administrations along with sidewalk improvements and new sewers, and it has been done through the employment of home forces, with no fancy salaries paid to the so-called experts.

With Main street in A1 condition opportunity is now given for improvement in other localities, which, everybody will admit, need prompt and intelligent treatment. In his speech of acceptance Mayor Carver emphasized the need of a systematic sewer system, for until suitable sewers are built there is a necessary halt in road and sidewalk building.

The attempted stampede which was begun a few weeks ago has given way to a swing strongly in Mayor Carver's favor. Meantime the vote for mayor of two years ago makes interesting reading. Here is it:

NAIL-KEG WEATHER PROPHETS

Summary of Their Predictions Given By Hope Humorist—Now If He Only Had a Goose!

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:

The following weather forecast was gleaned from the "nail keg" weather prophets while seated around the stove at the village store. This forecast is based on signs that have never been known to fail, and will be found reliable for those who have any interest in what the coming winter will be like.

Hen Pettigrew says the woodchucks denuded up much earlier than usual, and that this is a sign of a long, cold winter with deep snow that will remain on the ground late into the spring.

Low Pendergast says the cornhusks were long and thick, which is a sure sign that we can expect much zero weather from now on.

Hod Peters says he noticed that the muskrats built their houses much higher than usual, and for this reason we can expect much rain and high water for the rest of the winter.

Abie Maddocks says the crows left their inland haunts three weeks' earlier than usual for the coast.

RETIRE FIRST OF YEAR

L. J. Colgan, Nine Years Deputy Warden, To Quit Prison Staff Because of Ill Health

The resignation of Lawrence J. Colgan as deputy warden of the Maine State Prison was announced Thanksgiving Day, and will occasion regret on the part of all who have come in contact with this popular and capable official. Mr. Colgan has held the office nine years and has exercised a control over the men which would be a credit to any penal institution in the country.

The deputy warden is a former city marshal of Augusta, and when appointed to his present position was police inspector at Bath, having given splendid satisfaction in both cities. His resignation which will not become effective until the end of the year is due to the fact that he is not having good health. He desired to leave a year ago, but it was through the insistence of Warden Bunker that he was induced to stay on.

It is rumored that Mr. Colgan's successor will be a man who has had long service with a federal penitentiary in the West.

The forenoon feature of Thanksgiving Day at the prison was a football game in which the Prison team triumphed over the Camden locals 20 to 0. The noonday feature was a roast pork dinner, complete down to the mince pie and toothpicks. There was a movie show in the afternoon.

JANUARY BRINGS THE SNOW
January brings the snow,
Makes our feet and fingers glow.
February brings the rain,
Thaws the frozen lake again.
March brings breezes sharp and chill,
Shakes the dancing daffodil.
April brings the primrose sweet,
Scatters daisies at our feet.
May brings flocks of pretty lambs,
Sporting round their fleecy dams.
June brings tulips, lilies, roses,
Fills the children's hands with posies.
Hot July brings thunder-showers,
Apricots and gilly-flowers.
August brings the sheaves of corn;
Then the harvest home is borne.
Warm September brings the fruit;
Sportsmen then begin to shoot.
Brown October brings the pheasant;
Then to gather nuts is pleasant.
Dull November brings the blast—
Hark! the leaves are whirling fast.
Cold December brings the sleet,
Blazing fire and Christmas treat.

THE CITY ELECTION

Monday is Rockland's election day, when the men and women voters are to determine who, for the coming two years, shall have charge of the important affairs of this municipal corporation.

The Courier-Gazette believes that the administration of Mayor Carver should be continued for another term. That belief is founded upon what has been brought to pass in the four years which have demonstrated the capacity and fitness of Mr. Carver and the officials associated with him in the careful and honest handling of the city's varied and often perplexing problems. It is profitable to review some of the outstanding achievements.

The city's schools never stood in better case. The just completed enlargement of the High School building has admirably dealt with a grave situation in over-crowding. The cost of it was $52,000. The entire school system has enjoyed a profitable period of advance, dating from the time when Mr. Carver took office, the first act of which was the curing of the grave lack of school books, a condition long suffered, but not since permitted, for in these years $12,000 has been used in this indispensable feature of school life—the adequate supplying of pupils with proper books. The number of teachers has been increased. The whole morale of the educational department has been raised, much of this due to Mayor Carver's personal interest in what he regards as a corner-stone of the city's life and progress, a belief which has led him every month to make personal visitation of all the schools, to talk with teachers and pupils, thereby acquiring personal contact and knowledge of school life and school needs such as no previous executive of the city ever has possessed. Ask the teachers and the boys and girls of the schools, and the parents of the boys and girls, what they think of Mayor Carver. They know.

The matter of streets furnishes testimony to these wise and progressive methods. The problems connected therewith are many and vexatious, but the administration has proceeded to deal with them through carefully considered plans directed toward conditions of permanence. In this spirit Main street at its two ends has been laid in cement, so that for its entire length this important artery of business and travel finds itself completely modernized. Here the expenditure was $40,000. In addition, the city finds some two miles of its outlying sidewalks replaced with enduring cement, and six miles of those worn salvaging resurfaced with tar.

It seems unnecessary to review in detail the many features of the corporate activities, all of which have had the same careful and intelligent attention as those above alluded to. In the fire department, which is maintained at a high state of efficiency, $12,000 was spent for new apparatus. The department of streets finds workmen now expert in cement construction, with an increased working equipment, so that Rockland now builds its streets and walks without the help of outside contractors and workmen, and at a greatly reduced cost.

"And what," the prudent taxpayer asks, "with these expenditures for schools, streets, et cetera—what about our taxes?" In Mayor Carver's first year the tax rate was 45 mills. This dropped in the second year to 43 mills, in the third year to 42 mills, and in the fourth year (the state increasing its tax by one mill) 43 mills. Here is reduction, not increase, of taxation, and when we note that with all this achievement there has also been paid off $40,900 in temporary loans that fell to be cared for when Mr. Carver took office, there is disclosed a steady progress in success running through the years of his administration which is unsurpassed in the history of our city.

We regard this as a record upon which Mr. Carver and his associates may frankly solicit the endorsement of the voter in Monday's election, and we are confident they will get it.

ROTARY REVIEWS

Discussed Phases of What It Stands For—Mr. Rounds Says Good Word for Puritans

Continuing its campaign of instruction in the principles and objects of Rotary, the entertainment hour of yesterday luncheon of the club was in charge of Frank S. Rhodes, chairman of the educational committee, and participated in by his committee members, A. W. Foss, L. A. Thurston, K. B. Crie and C. M. Kallach. The various speakers, noting the fact that Rotary is this year celebrating its 25th anniversary, touched upon its origin in 1905 with four members, and its world-wide growth into 3178 clubs, with 142,000 members, its central purpose to make the world a better place to work and live in. It is governed by a code expressed in what is known as "The Six Objects of Rotary," which are to encourage and foster:

The ideal of service as the basis of all worthy enterprise.

High ethical standards in business and professions.

The application of the ideal of service by every Rotarian to his personal, business and community life.

The development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service.

The recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations and the dignifying of each Rotarian by his occupation as an opportunity to serve society.

The advancement of understanding, good will, and international peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the ideal of service.

It was to the presentation of these several objects that the speakers addressed themselves, interesting and informing in each case, and warmly followed by applause.

In recognition of Thanksgiving time Walter S. Rounds spoke briefly upon the significance of the recurrent season, for the genesis of which one would need to go back to the times of the Israelites, following their emancipation from the yoke of Egypt, and to the prophets. We refer to our own early foundations as laid in that Puritanism which today is not so fashionable as once it was. Largely this is because we are usually shown a side of the Puritans that was austere and hard. He quoted from Micaiah's masterly essay on John Milton in which the high qualities of Puritanism were presented as the thing out of which our modern democracy was fashioned, an opinion in which our own historian John Fiske coincides.

"In these days of sloth, ease and indifference," said Mr. Rounds, "it is well for us to ponder upon the spirit of the life upon which New England was founded and give thanks for our Puritan forbears."

A new member, Henry C. Chatto, Rockland's assistant postmaster, sat in at the regular luncheon for the first time. Visiting Rotarians were Frank S. Morrow, R. W. Jamieson and Standish Perry of Camden, A. J. Huston, Portland, Percy Oakes, New York. And also in recognition of Thanksgiving Day past with its round of feasting, Landlord Gene sat the boys down to what is technically known as a poverty luncheon of pea soup, doughnuts and coffee, but so well cooked that it has won a warm place in the affections of the club members, most of whom, like Oliver Twist, call for more.

BUSY BATTERIES

E, F and G Are Maintaining a Fast Stride This Fall

Battery E (Camden) held a drill Friday night in place of the drill scheduled for Nov. 11. Lieut. Shute was in command as Capt. Hammond is still out of town.

The drill at Battery G (Rockland) Tuesday night was an artillery drill using the moving target. This was the first artillery drill since camp, and was well conducted after such a long layoff.

First Sergeant Martin Richards is due for discharge from Battery E Dec. 5. He will re-enlist, he says, as with more than 10 years' service he wouldn't know what to do with himself on Monday night, while the battery is having drill.

Battery F (Thomaston) held its first artillery drill since camp Wednesday night. Lieut. Feyler was in command.

Alton L. Brown has enlisted in Battery G for one year. He has had over six years' service, and was discharged a sergeant from Battery E in 1927.

Private Charles D. McWhinnie, Battery G, was discharged on Nov. 29 at the expiration of his term of enlistment.

Corp. L. E. Rolfe, Battery E, announces the birth of a 9½-pound daughter Nov. 18.

The officers' school to be held in Portland Dec. 7-8 will be attended by all officers from Knox County. The program calls for instruction in administration at the Saturday session and for instruction in fire adjustment at the Sunday session.

In last week's notes it was stated that the manual of arms competition held by Battery E Nov. 18, was won by Private Dean. This was an error as the prize was won by Private Runt Maslin. Private Dean being the runner up.

Four Rockland Churches United For Service—Mr. Kenderdine's Sermon

Four denominations united in a Thanksgiving service Wednesday night at the Congregational Church, where a fairly good sized congregation listened with close attention to a Thanksgiving sermon of unusual excellence delivered by Rev. Jesse Kenderdine of Pratt Memorial M. E. Church. Other pastors participating were Rev. W. S. Rounds of the host church, who had general charge of the service; Rev. L. G. Perry of the Littlefield Memorial Church, who read the scriptures; and Rev. J. Charles MacDonald of the First Baptist Church, who offered prayer. The Universalist Church was not officially represented as it is past-torless for the time being.

Music was furnished by the Pilgrim Choir, which sang beautifully a harvest Thanksgiving anthem.

The offering, amounting to $18.50 was presented to the Home For Aged Women.

Rev. Mr. Kenderdine said in part: "The earlier translations use the word 'grace' instead of 'thanks' or 'Thankfulness.' They read 'let us have grace.' But when the head of the family says to his children at the Thanksgiving table, 'let us have grace,' he means 'let us render thanks,' and the author of the epistle to the Hebrews has exactly that in mind. But in all of the translations this comes as the climax of an argument. 'Therefore,' is the concluding word of a great philosophy of life. It is as though he said: 'in view of all this, let us render thanks' or 'with this view of life, we have a real ground of gratitude.'"

For gratitude is not in proportion to the abundance of the things a man possesses. Some people have much and are ungrateful. Others have but little, but find many reasons for gratitude. Henry Ward Beecher once said, 'If one should give me a dish of sand, and tell me that there were particles of iron in it, I might look for them with my eyes, and search for them with my clumsy fingers, and be unable to detect them; but let me take a magnet and sweep through it, and how it would draw to itself the almost invisible particles by the mere power of attraction! The unthankful heart, like my fingers in the sand, discovers no mercies; but let the thankful heart sweep through the day, and as the magnet finds the iron, so it will find in every hour some heavenly blessings.'

The Pilgrim Fathers did not have much on that first day of Thanksgiving—the bare necessities for wintering through—but they did have the perception of faith that their mercies were from Almighty God, through whom all things work together for good to those who love Him. They believed in His over-ruling power and mercy, and in humble gratitude rendered thanks to God in faith. That grateful faith was the beginning of as wonderful things as the faith of Abraham as he built an altar of gratitude at Bethel as his first act on reaching the land of Canaan which was promised to him and to his seed forever.

What is this magnetic quality which gathers from life's incidents many reasons for gratitude, whether we be rich or poor, of high or low estate, light hearted or heavy laden? For sometimes the most unfortunate are the most grateful and the most burdened the gladdest in heart. Prosperity itself is not the sign of God's favor, nor is the fact that we are better off than others a ground for gratitude, unless we want to join in the Pharisee's prayer. Other than His giving thanks for food and drink, we have but two recorded thanksgivings of Jesus.

One thanks God for always hearing his prayer, and the other for revealing spiritual truth to the child-like heart. This may not seem significant at first thought, but when we remember that his gratitude relates to invisible things, we are brought sharply back to our text as the climax of a life philosophy. 'Therefore let us render thanks that we get an unshaken realm, and in this way let us worship God acceptably.' The whole argument and philosophy of this book is that the invisible and unshakable things of God have broken through into our earthly life, assuring us that life's realities are the invisible and spiritual things.

It is only on this basis that we can consistently be grateful. The faith that perceives the hand of a loving Father in all that happens to us, and look up in the bleak wilderness and render thanks. An unshaken spiritual realm underlies all the visible things and reveals to babes things which are hidden from the wise and prudent. Where there is no vision the people perish, but where this grateful faith is, the love of God undergirds all their living, mighty empires rise and nothing can shake them.

ON MY SET

Local listeners-in on WEEI got a kick last evening when the announcer read the name of "Clarence Daniels, Rockland, Maine," and followed with a slogan that Clarence had sent in for "Bailey's Eaked Bear Butter." If that wasn't humorous feature, Capt. Bailey and the Wilder Dyer.

I reached an interesting milestone in radio reception Thanksgiving Eve when I logged my 250th station. It proved to be 250th of Patchogue, N. Y., 100-watt station operating on 1420 kilocycles. Consulting my call books, which were a bit antiquated I could find no such station, but the purchase of a new book confirmed my record. The way for the 250th station had been paved the preceding night when I logged CNRX of Toronto, and CNRM of Montreal, which had not previously been listed among my fairly abundant Canadian stations. I have gave doubts about ever reaching the 300-mark, but I still lack many stations which have been logged by some of my friends.

Fetty Crocker will devote the first two lessons in the winter term of her radio cooking school of the air to Christmas preparations beginning, Dec. 12, with a lesson on baking Christmas cookies. For several years Betty Crocker has been advocating Kitchen-made Christmas presents, and in this lesson she will give recipes for old-fashioned Christmas cookies which, she says, will make most acceptable gifts. She calls this lesson "My Favorite Christmas Box."

"A Cake of Christmas Color" is the subject of her cooking school lesson for Thursday, Dec. 19, in which she promises to give a recipe for a cake that is distinctly new and different as well as appropriate for a Christmas party or a Christmas gift. Holiday cooking also will be featured in Betty Crocker's Tuesday morning talks preceding Christmas as well as in the Thursday cooking school lesson.

E. B. Rideout prefaced his Weather Forecast Wednesday night by recalling that it was the 31st anniversary of the loss of the steamship Portland, off Orleans, Mass. It was a brief but comprehensive summary.

"I would be nice if there was some way of separating those low watt stations from the high watt stations, a little better than a hedge-podge. Why not transfer some of them to that band between WEEI and WEEI, where there appear to be comparatively few stations?"

Thanksgiving Eve offered opportunity for a late session in the course of which I logged quite a number of distant stations—not quite so distant as I could have wished, to be sure. Among them were WKRC and WLW, Cincinnati; WRVA, Richmond, Va.; WJR, Detroit; WJKS, Gary, Ind.; WFBM, Indianapolis; WLAC, Nashville, Tenn.; WGN, WMAQ and WENR, Chicago; WHAS, Louisville, Ky.; and WOC, Davenport, Iowa. There was also a Wisconsin station which I could not succeed in identifying.

Sir Harry Law will be heard in two programs through the NEC System, Sunday night, singing before a microphone in the studios of KFI, Los Angeles. He will be heard first during the coast-to-coast broadcast of Enna Jet-tick Melodies from 8 to 8.15 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time). His second appearance will come 20 minutes later, when he is heard for 12 minutes during Collier's Radio Hour. The first program of the evening will include the songs, "Roamin' in the Gloamin'," "Wee Hoosie 'Mang the Heather," "End of the Road" and a fourth number yet to be selected. During his broadcast on Collier's Hour, Sir Harry will sing "When I get Back to Bonnie Scotland," "I Love a Lassie," and another number not yet selected.

Taking pot shots at the radio at various intervals last night I logged 33 stations. The list follows: WWVA, WCAU, WNAC, WRVA, WLWL, WTIC, WBT, WCHS, WBZ, KDKA, WTAM, WEEI, WGR, WTAG, WIP, CKGW, WLW, WJZ, WGN, WEAH, WHAS, WABC, WRC, KCVI, WLWB, WLAC, KTSA, WEBB, WHK, WTTN, WBAP, WENR and WCCO.

STRAND THEATRE

"Evidence," the all talking picture starring Pauline Frederick, and coming for Monday and Tuesday, is the story of circumstantial evidence so overwhelming that it could not be doubted, and yet absolutely misleading. It is the story of the wrecking of a happy home because a husband's faith was not stronger than his doubts. The husband, played by William Courtenay, is an English barrister and "evidence" to him is indisputable. His wife's protestation of innocence is futile. He divorces her. A tremendous shock is necessary to bring the husband into a realization of the wrong he has done his wife and child.

As a stage play "Evidence" had tremendous success in New York and London some years back—and now talking pictures brings its violent denunciation of circumstantial evidence to a vastly increased audience.

Miss Frederick is accompanied by William Courtenay, Conway Tearle, Lowell Sherman, Madelyn Seymour, Alec B. Francis, Lionel Belmore, Peter Freddie Burke, Frederick and Ivan Simpson—adv.

GEORGE C. HAWES George C. Hawes, for 29 years town treasurer of Union, and for a long period secretary or treasurer of the North Knox Fair, died yesterday, after eight years of invalidism. The funeral services will be held tomorrow.

Philco Radio Announcement

The prices of Philco Balanced-Unit Radio will NOT be reduced. Naturally not—because Philco prices were established at most attractive figures at the beginning of the year. During this entire season Philco has offered the latest developments in quality radio at prices actually lower than the cost of ordinary receivers.

Therefore, during this entire year the large output of the Philco factories has been rapidly absorbed by an eager public. No over-production at any time—no overstocks. The trend everywhere has been overwhelmingly Philco.

The buying public fully appreciates the superior performance afforded by "balanced-unit" radio. Philco "balanced-unit" radio means an exact and precise electrical balance of all radio units. That is the secret of Philco's rare purity of tone, vast distance range and sharp selectivity.

So we repeat that Philco prices will NOT be reduced. Philco receivers have been and always will be properly and honestly priced. This means that when you purchase a Philco you can rest assured that you are getting the finest quality in radio construction and radio performance and at the fair and proper price. Furthermore, it is a satisfaction to Philco owners to know that after making their purchase, they are not facing the possibility of a price reduction.

On Display At All Philco Dealers

RAMBLES AFIELD

Here, There and Yonder, Touching the Alluring Things of Nature.

[Twentieth Ramble]

When the stave mill was running on the eastern side of the road at Sherer's Mills the water on the ledge was a favorite place for us children, as it was perfectly safe, and we loved to dabble in the running water and watch the myriads of young eels which were continually squirming along that sloping ledge. We dug spears of gum from the big logs on the point near the upper mill and older girls and boys gathered cranberries in abundance from some part of the bog, but I never knew just where for this was forbidden ground to me, and I learned later that those who ventured there went without shoes or stockings and even then came out well bedraggled and often with severe colds.

All along the main road in pastures grew blackberries, raspberries, and huckleberries, and on the bog were high blueberry bushes, visited usually by men and big boys who told such tales of water snakes, milk adders, and snapping turtles that girls and women were a bit shy and were more than willing to go to "George" rather than the high blueberries.

Across the bog, miles away, can be seen Packard's mills, and one or two houses in what is known as "the Bissie neighborhood." After that comes an expanse of trees, then sunset, and the eye can go no farther than that. There are well traveled roads in that section, but they are too far away to be seen and the trees hide them effectually, so from our mountain the scene seems to be an unbroken forest. From the John Keene place—now Oxton's—at the north end of the road, to the Dunbar place there are now but seven houses where there was once a thriving community. I think some sort of domicile has been erected on the Dunbar place by a Finnish family, but whether a house or just a temporary set of buildings I cannot say, as it has been more than six years since I visited the vicinity.

It is an interesting drive, though a part of the way is so hedged about by trees and so surrounded by hills that one feels like a mere atom, shut out from the rest of the world; but this is only for a mile or two at most. Such places have always appealed to me as desirable spots in which a man may look into his own heart, search out his soul and discover what lies hidden therein—Nature's church, as it were. And there are many such places.

Man wants little here below, but he'd like to have enough to keep up with the Joneses—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The latest dress material, I read, looks as though it is covered with tiny flies. It sounds very gnatty—Passing Show (London).

Our football prophet, who, by the way, is not a member of the regular Courier-Gazette staff, offers these suggestions for today's games: Dartmouth vs. Navy, Dartmouth, odds of 5 to 3; Notre Dame vs. Army, Notre Dame, 8 to 5; Georgetown vs. Detroit, Georgetown, even money. He ventures no prophecy on the Holy Cross-Boston College game.

We often hear of a "White Christmas," but what's the matter with Rockland's white Thanksgiving? The snowstorm came on shortly before the turkey was served, and lasted quite vigorously for several hours, freezing to the moist surface as it fell, and creating travelling conditions that left pedestrians and motorists in not quite such a thankful mood as they had been earlier in the day. Many minor accidents resulted. Temperature close to zero to be comfy.

The pulpit at the Universalist Church tomorrow morning will be occupied by Rev. Hal G. Kearns of Baltimore, who comes as a candidate for the vacancy caused by the death of Rev. C. A. Knickerbocker last summer. Mr. Kearns is considered one of the most brilliant younger men in the Universalist denomination. He is a graduate of St. Lawrence's University of Canton, N. Y., (not of St. Mark's as previously stated) and is a chaplain in the World War and is a past president of the National Y.P.C.U. His work with young people has been an outstanding feature of his career. He has had pastorates in Bridgeport, Conn., and Melrose, Mass., his present one in Baltimore being a most successful one. His contemplated change comes due to the fact that he and Mrs. Kearns desire to locate in New England. They are to be guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Glover.

A realignment of the Rockland & Rockport Lime Corporation's staff as affecting two of its well-known members has lately been made. F. C. Norton, who has been salesman for building material and agricultural lime in Northern New England, now devotes his time exclusively to the rapidly increasing trade in agricultural lime, with the whole of New England and Long Island as his territory. The auxiliary bodies of the American Legion throughout Maine are taking active charge of the Christmas observance for the disabled veterans of the World War who are in hospitals, and are raising a fund sufficient to provide a uniform gift for each man. The movement was started upon learning that many of these men, many of whom receive no compensation, have no Christmas gifts. It is a significant statement that there are more than 1000 disabled veterans of the World War in the hospitals of Maine, over 50 per cent of whom receive no compensation whatever. Mrs. Susie Lamb, 81 Rankin street, State chairman of the rehabilitation committee, is being very active in the raising of the fund assigned to the local organization, and will be glad to talk with anyone interested in the movement.

Supper will be served by the Universalist ladies Wednesday at 6 o'clock, with Mrs. Grace Black as chairman. An entertainment follows the supper, under the direction of Mrs. W. E. Morgan and Mrs. Emma Harvey, in which these features will be presented: Piano solos by Miss Gertrude Heal and Miss Esther Pernold; a violin solo by Miss Virginia Walker; piano duet by Vernet and Kenneth Morgan; musical readings by Mrs. Beulah Rokes Ames; songs and readings by Mrs. Helen Wentworth; Miss Dorothy Harvey in songs or musical readings; Mrs. C. E. Rollins in humorous readings, and orchestral selection by the Red Peppers. A silver collection will be taken.

IN THE CHURCHES

SERMONETTE

Zero Churches

Never has there been an age comparable to the one in which we live here in America. As President Sills has recently said, "We appear to be willing to spend more upon our roads than upon our education."

The people of the United States have unmeasured blessings. We think and talk of money and of wealth, and yet our magazines are full of criticism of the source of the oil and iron, and grew the forests. Is the real reason for our prosperity. These papers have much to say about abandoning the poorer churches, zero churches, churches without converts through a single year. They like to say, if it was any other business these things upon the economic life would be cast off, and to the benefit of all remaining.

We know how false such reasoning proves when examined. Business does no such thing. In years when there are no profits do men abandon their efforts? Only failure does this. Religion is a vital thing. Our nation and our prosperity may vanish, but God is eternal, and those that place their faith in him can never fail.

MAINE girl is a Prize Winner...

TRENE was delicate and nearly always fretful," says Mrs. Joseph Hachey, 136 Combland Avenue, Portland. "She was slow and bilious; didn't want to eat and couldn't digest her food right."

"California Fig Syrup has changed all that; and made her a different girl. It regulated her bowels quickly, improved her appetite and digestion. She has had no trouble since; but has continued to gain until today friends say she's a regular prize winner for health."

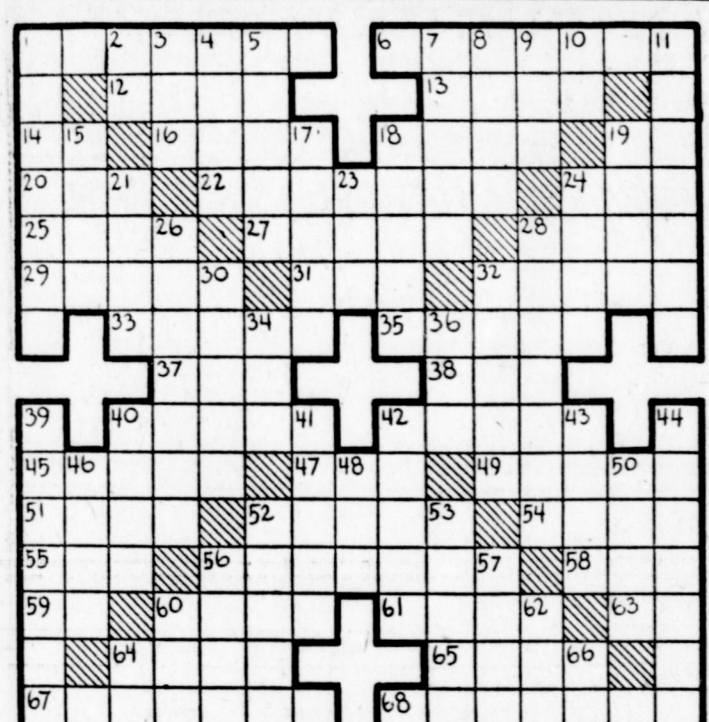

Mothers by thousands are praising California Fig Syrup. Physicians endorse it. A pure vegetable product; it is safe for any child. The prompt relief it brings bilious, head-achy, constipated children lasts; because it helps tone and strengthen bowels and stomach. WALDOBORO

School Life of Olden Days

"School Days," the amusing comedy of school life of 40 years ago, was successfully presented to a large audience in Star Theatre. The cast of characters was made up of members of the Waldoboro Grange assisted by popular local amateurs.

The curtain rose on a typical school-room of the olden days and the illusion was continued throughout the entire performance. Miss Evelyn Levensaler daintily gowned in green with sunbonnet to match, sang the once popular song, "School Days," for which the play was named. Her lovely youthful voice and personality lent itself realistically to the old song.

She responded to an encore with the equally appropriate number, "Memories." Members of the school board, W. M. Crowell as chairman, F. W. Scott as the inquiring member and Otis Ellis as the drowsy member left nothing to be desired in way of impersonations. The applicants, played to perfection by Mesdames Rena Crowell, Sace Weston and Margaret Piper, were each a character study in themselves. Later in the play these three ladies appeared as pupils showing their remarkable versatility.

Mrs. Annie B. Genthner and Mrs. Katharine Mack also appeared in dual roles, the former as "Amanda Dipsey," a woman of opinions, and the latter as "Liza-Anne Snooks," without frills, both also assuming the parts of pupils in the district school.

Horace Kemp in the difficult part of Hezekiah Pendergast, the teacher, did a clever bit of acting and as he taught "reading and writing and arithmetic" also wielded the birch rod to perfection. Dorothy L. Stevenson as Miranda Dipsey whom her Ma thought a great "electioneer," was the awkward school girl who knew how to "speak pieces." The welcoming speech, "Oh, Come with Us To-morrow," was given effectively by Mrs. Ida Stahl who played the part of Medditable Jones, the teacher's pet.

Other characters, each displaying a bit of fine acting, were the pupils played by Ethel V. Campbell, Lena M. Benner, Philip Lee, Lottie J. Burnes, Harold W. Campbell, Gilbert L. Crowell, Olive M. Crowell, Roy L. Mack, Harold W. Flanders, Ernest G. Castner and Eldred Soule.

Tableaux between the acts proved an effective foil to the riotous comedy of the play. The subjects were "The Kiss of Spring" and "The Shadow of the Red Cross," the last of the Red Cross, with beautiful electrical effects. Miss Audrey Genthner was the soloist and her sweet and powerful voice lent itself strikingly to the dramatic effect of the pictures. The lovely group of girls who posed for the tableaux were Misses Esther and Helen Caldwell, Frances Jordan, Dorothy Lovejoy, Frances Crowell, Alice Sweet, Gertrude Burnes, Bernice Davis, Dorothy Stevens and Marion Welt. Music for both play and dance was furnished by the Jolly Four, a local orchestra, which gave excellent satisfaction.

APPLETON

Celebrate 55th Wedding Anniversary. There was a happy gathering Nov. 24 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Sherman in Appleton, when children and grandchildren gathered to join in the celebration of their 55th wedding anniversary. (Mrs. Hills made her home with the Shermans during her girlhood) while Mrs. Waterman's birthday occurred on that date. The old couple are enjoying the best of health and were as alert and enjoyed the day as much as any of the younger ones. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sherman, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ames, and son Sherman; Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Sherman and Mr. Jennie Waterman, all of Appleton; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dougherty, Misses Helen and Kathleen Waterman, Camden, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hills of Union.

WHY WOMEN WORRY

Fashion-Deceit As To the Long Skirts, Waist Lines and the Like

American women are changing their clothes, their manner and their minds.

The last variation is scarcely a novelty, their husbands are heard to remark. But the others, they say, promise surprising results to figures—both feminine and mathematical.

Skirts have come down and, frocks fit the waist. That means new wardrobes that strike friend husband's bank balance a blow.

And when a femme is arrayed in her raiment that dips and sweeps, she finds—unconsciously—the manners that went with last year's sports clothes don't belong. That means a return to the soft voices and gentle graces which recall grandmother's day.

At first she declared she'd never make the change. The short skirts of yesterday were too comfortable. But she has changed her mind. She is dropping her daytime skirts four to seven inches below the knee, her evening skirts to her instep, and she wears a belt where her waist is—not around her hips.

She is falling in line with procession, but it's giving her some anxious hours.

“Ever since the costumers over in Paris spoke a few public words about clothes several months ago,” a well known society woman said recently, “the women in America have spoken a great many loud words about the results, but in private.

“Aloud—to her friends and especially to her husband—she says they're chic and ‘different’ but in the privacy of her dressing room her words have a different sound. There, while she struggles to match a trailing hemline to last year's coat, her 1928 figure to her 1929 belt, she speaks her mind.

“Her draperies hang below her coat and that's ungraceful—so she gets a new coat and that's expensive.”

The couturier looks with a surprised eye on madame's struggles.

WORDS from a WANDERER by Harry A. Daniels

Newspapers throughout the country recently carried the news that Ford cars and radio sets were two of the numerous things on which price reductions were announced. This was followed by a statement that there was a radio in every third house in the land, and this in turn was followed by an announcement that numerous cities were appointing commissions to investigate useless noises.

Probably half the owners of radio sets have never learned to use them properly. This grievance is voiced by Will H. Robinson of the Chandler, Arizonian. He says:

"This is a rather blatant age. Urban noises steadily increase. So much so that commissions have been appointed to study causes and suggest cures. Of the more easily eliminated noises, unnecessary squawking of automobile horns seems to stand first. A close second is the unrestrained radio."

"The number of receiving sets in the United States has increased slightly this past year. Soon, practically every dwelling will contain one. Dynamic loud speakers are now capable of sending forth a blare of sound that would make the siren of a trans-Atlantic liner blush for its weakness."

"Tastes in music differ. The Browns delight in jazz. The Smiths, who live next door, detest it, and go in for high-brow stuff. The Smiths go to bed at nine; the Browns after midnight. When the Browns make whoopee at 1 a. m. and wake up old man Smith, who has to get up at 6, and Mrs. Smith, who gets up at the crack of dawn to get breakfast, and Baby Smith, who has powerful lungs and is inclined to insomnia, what the Smiths think of the Browns would never do to print. Also, during dinner hour, when the Browns are playing jazz with all stops turned on, and the Smiths are playing a symphony concert to the full capacity of their dynamic loud speaker, the Jones, across the street whose ears are drowned with the combined noises, impartially consign them both to a place often referred to by truck drivers and other forceful speakers."

"Naturally this state of affairs is unnecessary. It is entirely possible for one to love his neighbor, even if his neighbor has a radio. What's

THE REALM OF MUSIC

Gladys St. Clair Morgan

Rockland's musical circles have been dealt a severe blow in the passing of Mrs. Emily C. Hitchcock. From girlhood she was associated with all the finest activities in music, and never failed to lend her support and enthusiasm to the promotion of the best in that art. Not only did she bring to the cause of music knowledge, talent and vision, but inspiration by her gracious personality. The Rubinstein Club, whose records show that she was one of the founders and its first president, feels her loss most keenly. To the Rockland City Band she always gave most loyal support, financially and in words of encouragement. The band boys in their endeavor to express appreciation never failed to include in their programs one number dedicated to Mrs. Hitchcock. May the inspiration she gave aid the musical organizations to which she gave her keenest interests to carry on in their endeavors to reach finer achievements.

Knowing that a former Rockland girl, Mrs. Vere Hayner (Emma Cobb) is a resident of Morgantown, W. Va., the following paragraph takes on added interest:

Marion Goodman, sponsor of the Cadet Band of West Virginia University (of Morgantown), has been elected by the band boys to the position for two years in succession. The Mountaineers, reputed to have keen eyesight, have lived up to their reputation. Marion, with blue eyes and wavy brown hair, parades beside Ben Humphreys, Masonstown, Penn., the cadet captain of the band, at all home football games and at most of the away-from-home games. Ben is six feet, two and one-half inches, but Marion keeps right in step. She is five feet seven inches, herself. Miss Goodman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Goodman of Clarksburg, W. Va. She is a senior and a member of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority. Her sorority has entered her twice in the campus beauty contest.

Those who heard and admired Mrs. Kurenko when she was a star at one of the recent Eastern Maine Music Festivals in Bangor will be interested to know that she is to be the featured artist in the Atwater-Kent hour Sunday night.

A choir is the outgrowth of the chorus of 600 voices formed last winter for the dedication of the Bok singing tower at Mountain Lake, Fla. Hundreds of singers from nearly every community in Pol County will have units in Winter Haven, Bartow, Lakeland, and Lake Wales, and will give concerts in each town. The entire group will give concerts in each city. Henry W. E. Parnes, who led the chorus at the Bok tower dedication, is director.

Percy A. Sanborn, 81, of Belfast, a widely known artist and musician recently died at his home in that city. From his youth he was interested in music and drawing, and he taught both and was an accomplished violinist and painter.

Miss Ethelene Smith, Portland's well known soprano, who was heard in several of the Maine Music Festival concerts several years ago, is on her 15th concert tour of the South and her ninth transcontinental tour. On 14 trips in Southern territory, eight transcontinental tours, a recital tour in Europe and two trips in Canada, Miss Smith has filled more than 800 engagements in recital and concert. She has given recitals under the auspices of leading musical and other organizations on this continent and Europe, and has appeared as soloist with many symphony orchestras and choral societies at music festivals, and before 127 colleges and educational institutions to date, in 41 States.

In 1916 when still a student, Miss Smith was given her first opportunity by William Rogers Chapman to sing before the Maine Music Festival, at which time she was the youngest soloist who had ever appeared at the Maine festivals. She was festival soloist for three seasons, on one occasion singing "Micaela" to Geraldine Farrar's "Carmen." She was also soloist when Percy Grainger was the featured artist.

An interesting letter from Lewis Bates Clark, a former Rockland boy, now located at Plattsburgh, N. Y., says that he left the Baptist Church as organist in the early fall, and is now at the First M. E. Church of that city as organist and director of music. This church is to have a new organ, and the description sent by Mr. Clark is sure to interest local organists:

"The new organ for the First M. E. Church of Plattsburgh, the contract for which was signed last week, is to be built by the M. P. Moller, Inc., of Hagerstown, Md., the world's largest builders of pipe organs. The new Methodist organ will be in four divisions: great, swell, choir and pedal organs. The console will be of the most modern type, detachable and placed on the floor of the auditorium, the registers being operated by key-stops placed over the manuals and equipped with canceller bars. There will be six combination pistons for each manual (the organ is three-manual), as well as six general pistons operating the entire organ, and six pedal operated pistons, all pistons adjustable at the bench. The entire organ will be under expression, the present choir loft being turned into natural chambers, giving a large number of expression shades for delicate shading. The expression pedals will have light indicators and the crescendo pedal will be one of the latest double touch variety with special light indicators. The case of the organ will be of special design, modern in character, embracing both pipes and grille work."

"The organ will have 66 stops and 23 combination stop-keys. The action will be Moller patented electro-pneumatic type with latest type outside magnet, which allows adjustments with the wind on. Tonally the organ is very complete, each family of organ tones being well and properly represented. The specifications include a tuba, and a French horn, both under high wind pressure, harp and celesta and chimes, as well as the more common but delightful vox humana.

"It was the privilege of the organist while in New York City a week ago to visit a 200-stop organ of Moller make and there to set up a complete duplicate of the Methodist organ and so play the 'very organ' and hear it played. Undoubtedly the organ will be one of the best in Northern New York. It is expected that the organ will be installed for use for the Easter services."

Mr. Clark states further in his letter that it is expected an organist of national reputation will be heard at the dedication services, and promises to send a complete description of the occasion.

Through the kindness of James O'Hara I have a copy of "Overtones," the monthly publication of the Curtis Institute of Music at Philadelphia. The first thing that catches the eye is a remarkably fine portrait of Mary Louise Curtis Bok, founder and president of the Institute. An open letter from Josef Hofman asks members of the faculty to explain the manifold reasons which have induced them to give preference to one form of self-expression in music, and in response Prof. Leopold Auer, violinist, and Alexander Lambert, pianist, reply in a very straightforward interesting fashion. Under the heading of "Annotations of a Stradivarius Hunter" is an unusually fine article on violins, which every violin devotee, manufacturer or artist, should read. It begins:

"There arrived in the Port of New York during the month of September last, five celebrated and distinguished newcomers whose destination was the Curtis Institute of Music, Philadelphia. This in itself, would astonish no one familiar with the Institute, for the arrival of celebrities bound for that destination is of regular occurrence.

"What was astonishing, however, was the fact that the newcomers arrived in beautiful velvet lined boxes, in which they were carefully wrapped in silk and fastened with heavy ribbons; that each one had one and some had two passports; that they all came originally from Northern Italy, though by long and devious routes, and that no one was younger than 17 years, while the oldest owned frankly to being 232 years in age! They bore the names of: Antonius Stradivarius of Cremona, Francesco Goffriller of Udine, Petrus Guarnerius of Venice, Johannes Baptista Guadagnini of Milan, Petrus Jacobus Rogeri of Brescia."

The article describes each, combining facts in such a way that the entire story is most fascinating.

In the department devoted to Casimir Hall concerns the name of Joseph Levine, pianist, who delighted his hearers when heard in Rockport last summer, is noted as assisting in a concert given by students Nov. 7. Under the heading of "Faculty Activities" the various musical engagements of Josef Hofman, Lynnwood Farnum, Efrum Zambalist, Felix

Salmond and Carlos Salzedo are outlined. Then in "Student Activities" the name of William Harms, pianist, who also appeared in the Rockport concert, is noted in a concert at the George School, Pa., Joseph Levine in a concert on Nov. 18 in Columbia Boro and York, Pa., and on Dec. 6 at the Westtown School, Westtown, Pa. There is a department devoted to "Radio," one to "The Library," "Glimpses of the Institute," and a review of "Recent Books." At the beginning of the last named department is a "Tribute to Music" written by George O'Neill which is one of the finest things of this kind I have ever come across. It reads:

"TRIBUTE TO MUSIC"
Call this music, this marvelous invasion of sound mysteriously burdened through the capitated ear. What odd persuasion calls into strings and pipes that they can do such subtle violence to any brain? How is it that a finger touching wire, or that a lip upon a whistled straw can wall a room with whines—by waving fire compel the languid pulse to drum in awe? Now there are meadows in the mind with gain
Too bright for harvesting, too strange for bread:
Now there are stretches of a sea instead Where gaunt waves crash upon earthly rock. From heights where unimagined eddies fall Fleet disembodied voices, scarcely heard, Crying in overtones a breathless word Of incommensurable power, unloose The gates which have been closed against us. Call
This intricate illusion what you will: With song we are allowed in Eden still.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE
The People's Symphony Orchestra will present the second Sunday afternoon concert at the Metropolitan Theatre, Boston, beginning at 2 o'clock tomorrow. Giuseppe Creatore, who conducted the initial concert concludes his engagement with the second concert. Pauline Thalma, soprano, is to present a solo accompanied by the symphonic orchestra of 65 pieces.
