Democrats of Ellsworth

To determine who would be recommended for the appointment of postmaster of Ellsworth, a primary election was ordered. The candidates had a meeting and voted to hold the primary Nov. 10. Later, for a very good reason it was postponed. At a meeting of the candidates Tuesday evening, a majority would not agree on or name any date for a primary, for what reason I do not know. I was willing to accept any date they would name. I am very grateful for the support that has been tendered me. If the primaries are held, I will be thankful for and fully appreciate the support of all who believe I am worthy and deserving of the appointment.

Respectfully yours,
JOHN E. DOYLE.

There will be a dance after the pictures at the Strand Saturday evening.

Harry E. Vose and family have moved to the Wiggins house on High street.

Miss Carrie Russell, of the Union Trust Co. force, is spending a vacation in Boston.

Mrs. W. P. Woodward left Tuesday for a visit of a few weeks with her son Harry in Hallowell.

Harry C. Austin and family have moved to the house of Mrs. Henry J. Joy, on Church street.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Hamilton are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, on Friday.

Senator Hale hose company will give a masquerade ball at Hancock hall Wednesday evening, Nov. 24.

Rev. J. W. Tickle's sermon for next Sunday will be based on "Continentalism and the Consequences".

D. Shirley Norris and wife, of Bar Harbor, spent Tuesday with Mrs. Norris' parents, G. F. Newman and wife.

A. I. Richardson, who is employed in Seal Harbor, spent a few days last week with his family in Ellsworth.

Mrs. Lewis Smith, with little daughter Teresa, returned Saturday from a visit of several weeks at her former home in Virginia.

Station Agent C. D. Wiggins and family have moved to S. E. Whiting's house on Pine street, Mr. Whiting retaining a room in the house.

The ladies of the Methodist church will serve supper at the home of Mrs. Mary Michaelis, 14 Chapel street, this evening. Everybody is invited.

Mrs. Lydia Higgins, who has spent the summer with her sister, Mrs. R. E. Morang, in Ellsworth, left yesterday for Boston for the winter.

C. W. Grindal is building a railway on his river front property, to accommodate his steamer, the Acton, which will be hauled out there for the winter.

Nokomis Rebekah lodge will have a regular meeting next Tuesday evening. There will be a circle supper at 8:30, followed by the meeting and practice work.

Ellsworth friends extend congratulations to Walter Smith and wife, of Allenton, Mass., on the birth of a daughter. Mr. Smith is a son of Mrs. Annie Smith, of this city.

The Unitarian club will be entertained by Mrs. Higgins and Miss Alice Haslam next Monday evening. The hour of the club meeting has been changed from 7:30 to 8 o'clock sharp.

Mrs. H. W. Dunn, who has been visiting relatives and friends in Massachusetts, returned home Tuesday, accompanied by her friend, Mrs. Caroline F. Jelly, of Wakefield, Mass.

The Ellsworth woman's club will meet next Tuesday afternoon at the home of former Chief Justice L. A. Emery, with Miss M. A. Clark as hostess. Judge Emery will address the club.

At the regular meeting of the Woman's Alliance of the Unitarian church next Wednesday afternoon, Rev. Alva Roy Scott, of Bangor, will deliver an address on "The Unitarian Pilgrimage".

There will be a special meeting of the woman's relief corps Thursday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock. All members are urgently requested to be present, as important business is to come before the meeting.

Next Sunday in the Methodist church, sermon at 10:30 o'clock. In the evening at 7:30, motion pictures in two parts; subjects: "Follow Voyagers," "Temples and Statues of Rome," and "Jerusalem and the Holy Land".

Capt. John Peterson, of the schooner Wesley Abbott, has been at home a few days the past week while his vessel was loading at Bangor. Capt. Peterson has had a gasoline engine for hoisting installed in his vessel this year.

L. E. Treadwell and wife and Mrs. Eva Sellers returned last Wednesday from an automobile trip through the White Mountains and Massachusetts. They report fine weather and excellent roads through the mountains and Massachusetts.

Arthur E. Moore, who has been foreman of the Ellsworth Foundry & Machine Works' garage in Ellsworth, has been transferred to Bar Harbor to take charge of their branch garage there. Mr. Moore is a competent mechanic, and the patrons of the Bar Harbor garage of this company will be assured of efficient service.

Grand Chancellor Howard F. Sawyer, of Bangor, paid an official visit to Donauqua lodge, K. of P., last Wednesday evening. Past Chancellor Charles A. Wilson, of Portland, was also present, together with many visitors from neighboring lodges. A banquet followed the meeting.

The first snow of the season in Ellsworth fell last Friday morning, about 4 o'clock—a sharp flurry that whitened the ground. The snow quickly changed to rain, however, and people who waited until daylight before getting up missed the enjoyment of the winter's first snow.

The Woman's Alliance of the Unitarian church will observe the fortieth dedication of the vestry at the memorial parlor next Wednesday afternoon, November 17, at 2:30 o'clock. An historical address will be given by Mrs. E. K. Hopkins. All friends of the society are cordially invited to be present.

Mrs. E. G. Nash, manager of the Western Union telegraph office here, returned Saturday from a month's vacation spent in Newcastle and Foxcroft, and in Massachusetts. Miss Mary Drumme, who has been assistant operator here during the summer, left Monday for her home in Portland.

Representative Frank S. Lord was operated upon at the East Maine general hospital in Bangor Sunday morning. He rallied quickly after the operation, and his condition since has been generally satisfactory. His many friends in Ellsworth hope that his recovery may be rapid. Mrs. Lord is in Bangor.

The literature club held its first meeting for the season of 1915-16 at the home of the president, Miss Mary H. Black, Monday evening, Nov. 1. The subjects of the evening, "Maine in Verse and Story," by Mrs. E. K. Hopkins, and "Fisheries," by Miss Carrie Baker, were delightfully interesting. Until further notice, the club will hold its meetings at the reading room at the usual hour, 7:45.

E. F. Robinson, Jr., has moved his cows up from his Riverside farm, and is wintering them, with several other cows, at the creamery buildings on Church street. He will sell milk and cream during the winter at least. In the spring it is probable that some parties who have already looked over the situation here may take over the creamery with the view of establishing a permanent creamery business here.

"The Love Spell," a comedy in two acts, with music, will be presented at Hancock hall Friday evening, Dec. 10, under the auspices of Donauqua lodge, K. of P. The play is written by Roy C. Haines, and will be staged by him. There are about a dozen characters. The leading woman's part will be taken by Miss Bertha Giles, as a business woman in love with a parson. The part of the parson will be played by Frank J. Dunleavy.

Bangor, Ellsworth and Bar Harbor people showed commendable zeal in the manner in which they hustled for and secured an additional State appropriation of $10,000 for completing the work of road building between Bangor and Ellsworth. This work already has a splendid start, and with the new appropriation will be continued as late as possible this fall and completed early in the spring. This will do away with the necessity of sending the tourist and local travel over rough and dangerous detours next summer and will mean unprecedented business over our State roads to Bar Harbor.—Portland Express.

J. A. Cunningham and wife were given a silver wedding surprise party last Friday evening. About thirty friends dropped in upon them to extend congratulations on the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage. The invitations were confined to neighbors, musical associates of Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham, members of Mrs. Cunningham's class in the high school, and guests who were at the wedding twenty-five years ago. As a token of esteem, Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham were presented with a handsome set of dishes. An enjoyable evening was spent by the party.

The steam road roller in use on the State highway work at North Ellsworth was badly damaged by an explosion of dynamite which was being warmed on the boiler Thursday afternoon. A hole was blown in the boiler, and the engine badly damaged. The roller was practically new, being used only about two months on the Bangor road contract. Its

VERDICT FOR MRS. PETTINGILL.

Mr. Terrieo Falls in His $5,000 Suit for Slander.

The verdict in favor of Mrs. Imogene W. Pettengill in the suit for slander brought against her by her former picture-machine operator, J. A. L. Terrieo, of Bangor, was heard with expressions of pleasure by Mrs. Pettengill's many friends in Ellsworth.

The action for $5,000 damages for slander was based on a statement made to the audience by Mrs. Pettengill at the Strand following the discharge of Mr. Terrieo last February. The declaration in the writ, on which plaintiff based his suit, was that Mrs. Pettengill had said to the audience, "In behalf of my new operator I wish to state that Mr. Terrieo left my services this morning, taking my new lens and leaving an old one in its place, which is causing us the trouble, and I will guarantee that the pictures will be all right by to-morrow night."

In answer, the defense stated "that the statements spoken or published, alleged by the plaintiff in his declaration, if so spoken or published, were made without malice, and if made were true". There was quite an array of witnesses on both sides. Mrs. Pettengill, in her testimony, said that she had discharged the plaintiff from her employ because he had persisted in running his own picture on the screen, and because he posed as manager of the theatre. She said that the statement which she made in relation to the disappearance of the lens to the audience, was that Mr. Terrieo had taken it by mistake. In her letter she said she had meant to imply that he had taken it by mistake.

The case was tried in the supreme court in Bangor, being opened Thursday afternoon, and going to the jury late Friday afternoon. George E. Thompson and A. L. Thayer appeared for plaintiff, and Percy L. Aiken and Daniel E. Hurley for defendant.

SUBMARINE BASE AT LAMOINE.

Report From Washington Says This is Being Considered.

A special despatch to the Portland Express-Advertiser says that the government coaling station site at East Lamoine is being considered as a submarine base, on the new defense plan of the government. The despatch is as follows.

The navy department will establish a system of submarine bases along the Atlantic coast, one at New London already having been designated. Just where the others will be located is not yet fully determined, but there is strong reason to believe one of them will be on the Maine coast.

In that case, in all probability it will be placed at East Lamoine, on Frenchman's bay, instead of on Casco bay, as has been rumored.

The government owns a large tract of land at East Lamoine, on which are several good buildings, and the site of the former coaling station there could thus be utilized. The navy department regards East Lamoine satisfactorily from a strategic point, and would be averse to recommending the purchase of land for a submarine base on the Maine coast when such a suitable location is already in the possession of the government.

No definite action in the matter is likely to take place before Congress convenes in December.

Oceanville Men Lost Boat.

Frank and Ray Gross, of Oceanville, lost their scallop boat last week, when they were run down off Owl's Head by the Boston fishing smack Edith B. Thompson.

The scallop boat was drifting at the time, while the Gross brothers were making repairs on the engine, which had broken down. It is said that the men aboard the smack were so absorbed watching the battleship Nevada on her trial runs that they did not see the scallop boat. The Gross brothers were picked up by the smack. Their boat sank.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Lesson VII.—Fourth Quarter, For Nov. 14, 1915.

Text of the Lesson, Dan. i, 8-20—Memory Verse, 15—Golden Text, I Cor. xvi, 13—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

I am very glad to have the privilege of writing a lesson on Daniel, even though it be what is called a temperance lesson, for we shall find much more in it than appears on the surface. He is mentioned in Ezek. xiv, 14, 20, with Noah and Job as noted for their righteousness. He is mentioned by the Lord Jesus in Matt. xxiv, 15, in connection with the great tribulation at the end of this age immediately preceding the return of the Lord in His glory, to which Daniel also refers in chapters ix, 27; xii, 1. We recently saw a little captive maid glorifying the God of Israel under very trying circumstances, and in this lesson we see four captive young men glorifying the God of Israel under difficulties. The Lord permitted this oppression and captivity because of the sin of Judah and gave Jehoiakim and some of his people and some of the vessels of Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, and among the captives were these four young men of royal blood, who were chosen to stand in the king's palace and to be taught the learning and tongue of the Chaldeans that they might stand before the king (verses 3-5).

They were to have a three years' course of preparation for their calling, and as to their food they were nourished from the king's table daily the same meat and wine which he ate and drank. At least that was the provision made for them. It was humiliating for an Israelite to be a captive. It was humiliating to have their beautiful Jewish names, each of which had in them a suggestion of the true God of Jehovah, changed to names suggestive of idols (verses 6, 7). But this they could bear without any sin on their part. Our Lord Jesus Christ Himself was taken prisoner, bound and led by His captors as they pleased. They also called Him a devil and Beelzebub and said that He was blaspheming Himself. So in these two particulars they were foreshadowing the sufferings of Christ.

When we suffer in these ways we have fellowship with Him in His sufferings. When it came to eating and drinking that which had been offered to idols Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself, and no doubt he had prayed to his God about this. He asked permission of the prince of the eunuchs that he and his friends might be excused from receiving the food from the king's table and be given very plain fare, which had not passed that way, asking that they might be proved for ten days. The same God who permitted them thus far to suffer for His sake now gave them favor in the sight of this man, and he consented to prove them. At the end of ten days they were fatter and fatter in flesh than those who did eat the portion of the king's meat, so it was kept from them, and they were given the plain fare, which had not been offered to idols. See Deut. xxxiii, 27, 28. If this is a temperance lesson the same principle applies to food as to drink.

To my mind it is a lesson on the necessity of keeping one's self wholly for God in every particular and of being willing to submit cheerfully to difficult circumstances for His sake. In chapter x, 2, 3, Daniel says that for three weeks he did without pleasant bread or flesh or wine, while he mourned and waited upon God for a special purpose, implying that he did not always see the necessity of denying himself food that could have the blessing of God. As to the sin of intemperance or self-indulgence in any matter, the teaching of scripture is very plain, and the filthiness and beastliness of strong drink could scarcely be more vividly described or condemned than in Isa. v, 11, 12, 22; xxviii, 7, 8. The only remedy is in Christ Jesus, who alone can forgive sin and give the sinner a new nature and such a purpose to keep one's self wholly for Him as Daniel had.

Though he stood before the earthly king in a place of honor, he stood more consciously before the King of kings, for whose sake he in his old age went to the lion's den rather than dishonor him by any fear of man, for whose sake his three friends went to the fiery furnace rather than bow down to any image which man might set up. No doubt Daniel and his friends were prayerfully diligent in their Chaldean studies, but God gave them knowledge and skill in all learning and wisdom, and He gave Daniel understanding in all visions and dreams, so that these young men were ten times better than all the magicians and astrologers in the whole realm (verses 17, 20). On three different occasions related in this book, when all the wisdom of Babylon's wise men failed, Daniel did not fall once because his God never failed him. Any believer who is willing to pay the price by self-denial and indifference to what others say or think of you and a purpose of heart to see no one but Jesus only and covet only His approval may know the power of God as others cannot. The whole cost of salvation fell upon Jesus Christ, and we receive freely what He so fully provided and paid for. But to be His faithful witnesses we must have the devotion, self-denial and continuance of Daniel.

Mutual Benefit Column.

EDITED BY "AUNT MADGE".

Its Motto: "Helpful and Hopeful." The purposes of this column are succinctly stated in the title and motto—it is for the mutual benefit, and aims to be helpful and hopeful. Being for the common good, it is for the common use—a public servant, a purveyor of information and suggestion, a medium for the interchange of ideas. In this capacity it solicits communications, and its success depends largely on the support given it in this respect. Communications must be signed, but the name of writer will not be printed except by permission. Communications will be subject to approval or rejection by the editor of the column, but none will be rejected without good reason. Address all communications to: THE AMERICAN, Ellsworth, Me.

DIRECTIONS TO A TRAVELLER. Frederick Lawrence Knowles. "How far must I follow this dusty way?" Till the hills grow faint in the twilight gray. "Must I keep the road till it drops from sight?" At the end of the sky is a path to the right. "And what is the name of the cross-road there?" The name on the finger-post is Care. "And must I travel that new path far?" Till the West is bright with the Evening Star. "And how many miles must I journey then?" Till you reach the Tavern of All Good Men. "And how many roofs shall I have to pass?" But one; that Hostelry thatched with grass. "And whither thence at the dawn of day?" The Host, when He wakes you, will point the way.

THE TOILER. Clara D. Gilbert. A toiler plodding through a rough, hard road, Disheartened, weary, bent beneath his load, Paused by the wayside and bemoaned his ill, For endless, seemed the road and weak his will.

Before him then an earnest pilgrim came: More weary, bent and feeble was his frame. By pity touched, the toiler gained the road, And took beside his own the stranger's load; And lo! with easy step he trod the way; A lighter burden bore he all the day.

Dear M. B. Friends: These poems sent by Aunt Emma seem appropriate to being considered together. I think you will read the first one more than once. I am interestedly looking and hoping for some "strong poems" to be sent in. Please, friends of the column, comply with the request in last week's column. Also, I hope some of you may be able to furnish the poem asked for in the following letter.

Dear Aunt Madge: CRANBERRY ISLES, Nov. 1, 1915. I desire to see a poem entitled, "Worship, or a Vision of the Old Home Church," by Clara Marcelle Greene. My impression is that it was copied from "The Magdalen". Lines of that poem linger in my memory, from having committed it to memory long years ago. Thinking you may possibly be able to obtain an answer to my query for the poem through your column, I take this mode of trying for it. Very respectfully yours, CARRIE M. RICHARDSON.

This niece was an early contributor to our column. As long ago as 1904 she was one of the Mutuals, and I am glad to know she still remembers us, and trust she will come again.

A day or two ago I had the pleasure of talking with P. R. L. over the telephone, and she was not so very far away, either. I expect to greet her personally very soon. The next will be pleasant reading for you. What a pity some of the M. B.'s hadn't been near by to help Uncle Mark on the dinner!

Dear Aunt Madge and M. B. Friends: This is just a call, and a small one at that, for 'tis Monday morning, and I've a hired man, and the wash—that is ever with us.

I want to tell you about getting ready for company, that never came. You see, my son-in-law said, when here with the thrashing machine, "We are coming over right soon," and I said, "Yes, do. Why can't you come next Sunday?" He allowed they would. So all the week I kept sprucing up, for daughter A—is a very "spiffy" housekeeper, and sometimes she doesn't remember that mother has farm work to do, men folks to cook for and slathers of company, and wonders why the stove isn't shined every day, and the floors scrubbed, and so on. So I put right in till things were a-lick, then went to cooking. Dressed two fine chickens, made plum pudding, so as to have it cold with cream, baked apples, made fruit cake; in fact, planned a regular Thanksgiving dinner.

Got up Sunday morning and started this dinner, hurried up the work, got Carolyn worried, M. W. so he couldn't have his forenoon nap by saying, "Do shave and change your clothes." Then I began to look over the road, but no son-in-law and family did I see, so waited 'till the eleventh hour and decided they weren't coming. Sent M. W. over to Herbert's to invite them over to dinner, so we wouldn't have to dine alone. He was gone some time; came back and said: "Well, I found them just sitting down to dinner, so we are dashed there, but I'll rub up my appetite and you'll think you are feeding nice men."

So we ate dinner alone, and wasn't I disappointed! While at dinner, M. W. said Maude and Andrew are over to Long pond and expect to call here, and you'd best keep the dinner hot. They'll probably be hungry. Well, I was comforted, and put everything about the stove and waited some more. And they didn't show up.

Now, didn't I get left? Isn't it provoking? Never mind, if they come next Sunday they'll get baked beans and sour pickles.

I must tell you that M. W. has put the well water into his tie-up. The aqueduct played out and last winter he carried water to his stock in pails. Just think how much he will enjoy this water under cover.

I saw Betsey Prig, our new writer, at Orland fair, and she is bright and smart and a very "good looker". She has two lovely "kiddies". Do write again, Betsey Prig, your letters are needed right now.

Sunshine, where are you that you haven't told us about the new granddaughter? I think 'tis your turn. What say?

Now I must at the work after I carry the Mothers—Watch Irritable Children! That fever, paleness, grinding of teeth while asleep, and coated tongue are indications that your child has worms in its system. Kickapoo Worm Killer quickly gets rid of these parasites. It is perfectly safe for even the most delicate children. It is pleasant to take, has three effective medicinal qualities:—acts as a laxative, expels the worms, and tones up the system. Begin treatment to-day and eliminate the cause of irritability. 25c.

A Message To Women

Those of Middle Age Especially.

When you have found no remedy for the horrors that oppress you during change of life, when through the long hours of the day it seems as though your back would break, when your head aches constantly, you are nervous, depressed and suffer from those dreadful bearing down pains, don't forget that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the safest and surest remedy, and has carried hundreds of women safely through this critical period.

Read what these three women say:

From Mrs. Hornung, Buffalo, N. Y. BUFFALO, N. Y.—"I am writing to tell you how much your medicine has done for me. I failed terribly during the last winter and summer and every one remarked about my appearance. I suffered from a female trouble and always had pains in my back, no appetite and at times was very weak."

"I was visiting at a friend's house one day and she thought I needed Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it and I have gained eight pounds, have a good appetite and am feeling better every day. Everybody is asking me what I am doing and I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. You may publish this letter if you wish and I hope others who have the same complaint will see it and get health from your medicine as I did."—Mrs. A. HORNUNG, 91 Stanton St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Made Me Well and Strong. MACEDON, N. Y.—"I was all run down and very thin in flesh, nervous, no appetite, could not sleep and was weak, and felt badly all the time. The doctors said I had poor blood and what I had was turning to water. I took different medicines which did not help me, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me well and strong, and I am recommending it to my friends."—Mrs. FRED CHACE, R. No. 2, Macedon, N. Y.

The Change of Life. BELTSVILLE, Md.—"By the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I have successfully passed through a most trying time, the change of life. I suffered with a weakness, and had to stay in bed three days at a time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored me to perfect health, and I am praising it for the benefit of other women who suffer as I did."—Mrs. W. S. DUVALL, Route No. 1, Beltsville, Md.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs. It has restored so many suffering women to health. Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

mail, so 'tis good-bye and best wishes to all. Yours ever, AUNT MARIA.

The reunion pictures have been heard from, and although it is a personal letter which contains the information about them, I will share it with you.

Dear Aunt Madge: Saturday morning, when all good housekeepers are baking and getting ready for Sunday—and I have just finished my task correcting papers. I hardly know which is preferable. Will you forgive a very busy person for neglecting to send the pictures before? I have thought of it many times, but wanted to write a few lines to go with them so have kept them until I could.

As you see, the first ones, the one which included Mr. Titus and the one he took, are too dark, as the sun, not liking the idea of assisting in taking pictures of the "devil", resolutely hid his face behind a big cloud, but the third is much clearer and better.

It is too late to tell you that I enjoyed the picnic very much indeed. I enjoyed two delightful days afterward in Bar Harbor, and had automobile trips to places on the island where I had never been, and also to Waltham, Aurora, Clinton, Holden, all new territory to me. I think it is a beautiful country, but miss the bay.

I was interested to read in the column about Irish Molly's daughter Sara, who had come to Boston to enter school, because I have her in my room at Bryant-Stratton commercial school. She is not in my class, I am sorry to say, but I hope to see more of her in a social way outside, as her sister Anna, who is with her here, was my classmate at E. S. N. S. and I had not seen her since we graduated in 1908 until she walked into my room at school the other morning—two weeks ago—with Sara! Was somewhat surprised.

My school work has not been as heavy as usual, but will be heavier from now on, as I have a new class coming Monday. With very best wishes for the column and the wish that I could write something interesting to help out occasionally (but I don't seem to be able to), I am, Lovingly yours, A. M. Y.

I have numbered the pictures so you can designate them in speaking of them in the column.

No. 1 contains the editor (Mr. T.). No. 2 doesn't (but contains A. M. Y.). No. 3 is the clear one, containing Uncle Madge.

The pictures are four cents each, plus postage, if any one wants any.

A. M. Y., you do not consider yours an interesting letter, but it has been much enjoyed by AUNT MADGE.

Riverview Local Union. The sixty-second meeting of the Riverview local union, held at North Sullivan Oct. 29, was a most successful one. Many delegates were present from Franklin, Lamoine, Ashville and Mount Desert Ferry.

The parts assigned on the program were well taken. In the evening, Miss Beulah Bates, the new field worker of the Maine Christian Endeavor Union, gave an interesting address. Altogether, the meetings were very profitable and helpful. A new Christian Endeavor society at Ashville was added to the union.

Among the Grangers.

This column is devoted to the Grange, especially to the granges of Hancock county. The column is open to all grangers for the discussion of topics of general interest, and for reports of grange meetings. Make letters short and concise. All communications must be signed, but names will not be printed except by permission of the writer. All communications will be subject to approval by the editor, but none will be rejected without good reason.

Saturday, Dec. 11—Meeting of Hancock Pomona grange with Castine grange.

SCHOODIC, 429, FRANKLIN.

Nov. 4, three applications were received and one balloted on, making a class of four to take the degrees in the near future. A very lively program was presented by the lecturer pro tem. A rising vote of thanks was tendered Everett Tracey and Howard Cousins for the treat furnished. After business, grange moved into its new hall. A special meeting will be held there to practice degree work next Thursday evening, Nov. 11.

MOUNTAIN VIEW, 484, WEST EDEEN.

Twenty-five members were present Nov. 3, with Worthy Master D. G. Hall in the chair. After business, one application was received. Sister Rich, pianist, who had charge of the program for the evening, furnished an interesting one of instrumental and vocal music, readings, recitations, a grange prophecy, and an essay on good housekeeping. Ieanuts and home-made candies were served. In two weeks, Sister Maggie Richardson will provide the program.

BAYSIDE, 476, ELLSWORTH.

Nov. 3, thirty-one members were present. Three candidates were instructed in the third and fourth degrees, after which the lecturer pro tem, furnished a program of readings, recitation, stories and a topic.

LAMOINE, 264.

Much time was devoted at the last meeting to discussion of stock of the grange building and the advisability of buying in the same, consequently the program was shortened. After current events by the members, Sister Sarah Young read an article on Mrs. Tom Thumb, and the brothers discussed the topic, "The advantages and disadvantages of fall plowing." Thirty-four were present.

SCHOODIC, 408, WINTER HARBOR.

Nov. 4, the second and third degrees were conferred upon one candidate. Eighteen members were present. The ladies of the grange circle will hold their annual sale and supper Nov. 18, afternoon and evening.

SEDGWICK, 244.

Nov. 5, thirty-three members were present at the regular meeting. One application was received and seven elected to membership. The first and second degrees were worked on a class of six. At the next regular meeting the first and second degrees will be worked. No program.

MAMAPAQUA, 477, SOUTH BLUEHILL.

Hallowe'en night was fittingly observed at Massapaqua grange with a black-cat march by ten ladies; "history of hallowe'en," by L. H. Sibley; songs; music, piano and violin; fortune-telling and a dialogue. Refreshments were served. Visitors were present from Brewer, North Bluehill and Sedgwick granges.

SCENIC, 529, WALTHAM.

The Pomona grange held Nov. 3 was well attended, and many of the visiting patrons remained until after the evening session, there being about one hundred and seventy-five people present in the evening. The program was excellent, consisting of songs, readings and a farce, "Jumbo Jam." Members from thirteen granges were present during the day or evening.

Avoid Kerosene in Washing Tires.

The Ellsworth Foundry & Machine Works, local selling agents for the Michelin Tire Co., says that washing tires and washing a car are two different propositions. Water alone should be used to wash tires, and as little of it as necessary. After every run the tires should be wiped clean with a damp sponge or well-wrung cloth.

A common method when washing a car is to mix kerosene with the water. This may be advisable when washing the wood work to remove mud and dust from the varnish, but no kerosene should be permitted to reach the tires, because kerosene eats rubber. This fact can be readily proved by immersing a small piece of rubber in kerosene and allow it to soak. The rubber will soon swell and lose its elasticity.

The reason for this is apparent. Kerosene is rich in fatty properties which remain after the evaporation of the gases. Every time a tire is washed with a kerosene mixture, the rubber is deprived of more of its strength.

When washing tires, it is best to use a damp sponge and clean water, care being taken that the sponge is not soaked and dripping. After washing the tires they should be wiped dry with a cloth or a handful of waste.

"What—a boy of your age doesn't know the parts of speech!" exclaimed the schoolmaster.

"No, sir," replied the pupil.

"Haven't you ever heard of a noun?"

"Oh, yes, sir."

"Well, what comes next?"

"I don't know, sir."

"A pronoun," said the master. "Now remember that. Then comes the verb. Now what follows that?"

"A proverb, please, sir."—London Scrips.

DO YOU FEEL HEADACHY? LOOK TO YOUR STOMACH

It is an unusual thing for a druggist to sell medicine under a guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure. Yet this is the way G. A. Parcher, the popular druggist, is selling Mi-o-na, the standard dyspepsia remedy. Never before has he had so large a number of customers tell him that a medicine has been successful as with Mi-o-na. People who a few months ago looked like walking skeletons have put on flesh and to-day are ruddy and vigorous with perfect digestion and good health.

There is no longer any need for anyone suffering of making their friends suffer on account of dyspepsia. Mi-o-na can always be relied upon. The percentage of cures is so great that there is little risk to Mr. Parcher in guaranteeing to return the money if the medicine does not relieve. He stands ready to do so without any questions.

Headaches, all forms of indigestion, specks before the eyes, dizzy feelings, and all forms of liver trouble are helped by Mi-o-na. A few days' treatment should show considerable gain in health, while a complete cure often follows rapidly.

Easy Way To Make Hair Attractive Ladies who find trouble in properly or attractively arranging and dressing their hair should try using a little Parisian Sage twice daily for a while and note the remarkable improvement. Parisian Sage, which can be obtained from George A. Parcher or any drug counter, makes the hair soft, lustrous, fluffy and wavy, takes out the dull, lifeless appearance, dissolves the dandruff and stimulates the hair roots into healthy normal action. Instead of merely sprinkling the hair, it should be rubbed right into the scalp with the finger tips. Parisian Sage is a delightful treatment for hair and scalp, cannot possibly injure the hair and is very inexpensive.

The merchant who says he does not believe in advertising, nevertheless places a sign over his door and decorates his window. The sign tells the passer-by where the merchant is located; the attractive window invites him in from the sidewalk. That's advertising, and good as far as it goes, but it doesn't go far enough—it doesn't get beyond the sidewalk. An advertisement in the local paper carries the sign and the window to the homes of prospective customers, and pulls them from the home to the store.

SALMON DAINTIES.

CANNED salmon, always available, can be made into so many dainty and delicious dishes that it can be used once or twice a week without becoming monotonous. Here are some recipes for using it in many good ways:

Broiled Salmon.

Separate the salmon into neat pieces and broil quickly on each side. Prepare some maitre d'hotel butter—cream butter with a little lemon juice and minced parsley—and spread it over the hot, broiled slices of salmon. Serve very hot.

Baked in Peppers.

Parboil green peppers of the sweet variety after cutting them in half and removing the seeds, which are often hot. In ten minutes drain them, dip quickly into cold water and drain. Then mix salmon with an equal amount of breadcrumbs, moisten well with melted butter and a little cream. Put in a baking dish, buttered, pour in a very little water and cook until the peppers are soft and the fish is brown.

Creamed Salmon.

Separate canned salmon into rather large pieces and heat without breaking very much in white sauce. Serve on thin slices of hot buttered toast and season with salt and pepper.

Salmon Salad.

Salmon salad is delicious and can be made in several ways. One is to mince the salmon fine and mix it with mayonnaise dressing and then to serve it in white lettuce leaves with a teaspoonful of mayonnaise on top of each mound and a couple of capers in that. Another is to mix the salmon, broken into large pieces, with French dressing and serve it on lettuce. Still another method is to use equal parts of salmon in flakes and minced celery heart with mayonnaise or French dressing on lettuce.

Scalloped Salmon.

Scalloped salmon is made by putting alternately layers of canned salmon and big breadcrumbs in a buttered baking dish and then pouring over it all some thin white sauce seasoned well with salt and pepper, then adding a sprinkling of buttered breadcrumbs and browning in oven.

Plain Salmon.

When canned salmon is served plain it should be freed from skin and bones and neatly arranged on a platter and garnished with sprigs of fresh parsley and slices or sections of lemon.

ORGANIZED WOMANHOOD.

(A paper by Mrs. C. B. Porter (formerly Georgia Puleit) of Our Neighborhood Club, Old Town, delivered before the Ellsworth Woman's club at its meeting at the home of Mrs. John A. Peters, Nov. 2.)

It must be readily understood that one who really loves the scenes of her childhood, could not return to these scenes and meet the people and converse with them without many personal reminiscences. It is also nearly as impossible, with this love of childhood associations bubbling over when facing these scenes, to have any talk, even though it be dignified by the name of address, without much more of a personal note than good form would render permissible. Therefore, if the personal pronoun is too prominent on this occasion, do forgive me, as you surely will if you keep in mind the fact that many of the memories that give me the greatest joy are the memories of you yourselves, or of those who have been dear to each of us.

Every year it is a greater joy to mention the name of an Ellsworth person who led in some good movement—who stood prominent in educational circles, or those who once fought the good fight that entitles them to rest from their labors.

One of the pioneer movements that often comes to my mind is one that some of you may have forgotten and of which others have not heard, an effort made by Mrs. Ellen Grant Aiken to place two girls in some State institution, that they might receive some guidance and instruction and be in a measure shielded from the temptations of the street. So little used were we people here to such work, that for a woman and a mother—as Mrs. Aiken then was—to make a move to take children from their home seemed to indicate to us that she herself should be placed under restraint. While the worth of the home and a proper estimation of it were and are of great value we then lost sight of the fact that where the right home does not exist, the institution is better than the street.

Years after this work of this Ellsworth woman, Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones, of Chicago, gave a most stirring address on the need of the home and not the institution as the demand of the hour. And so it is to-day, but if the home is lacking, it is good civic work to see that the institution, which each year grows better and better, should have the girls or boys before they have gone wrong, for in this way they may be kept from evil.

In noticing this change of opinion as illustrated by the reminiscence, we are brought to the ideas that formerly prevailed in regard to the word "civic". It once meant some great work a long way off, in some large city, for some famous person to do, and had no connection whatsoever with us in the small city or town or on the farm. To-day, however, we realize that "civic" means everything that pertains to every man, woman and child; yes, more, it means the conditions of the cows, the hens, the streams and the woods, for by each and all of these are we benefited or injured.

A child cannot be born into the world without at once facing civic conditions, and this is not putting it strong enough, for no child is conceived without civic conditions influencing what will later become the boy or girl.

Undoubtedly every one of these statements are as familiar to you as to me, but we sometimes repeat some truism in order to bring closer home some other truth. And this brings us to the question which is sometimes asked: "What is the good of all these women's organizations, the women's clubs, some for study, some for music, some for converse, and others for a combination of efforts?"

We are glad of this question, and we enjoy hearing women answer it, for it is always answered in some original way, and new truths learned, and the answer I am going to give you to this question is partly original, partly quoted, and all, to the best of my judgment, true.

It was men who had the first club. This we grant, and it has been said that the reason of the men's club was because when these men came from the office or the shop they desired quiet for reading or meditation, and the woman who had been home all day desired a flavor of the outside world, and she so plied the man with questions that he could neither read, think nor sleep. So the clubs began to be formed, and woman was left still more alone to solve the problems of the family, and of the world, and to longer and more stronger years for companionship. Then she herself began to organize the club, which proved to be the need; of many another woman than herself, and it grew and grew, until to-day, in our own State, there are nearly 7,000 club women, and in the United States, by the figures of the General Federation, there are 2,000,000.

Some say that when man found himself alone in the home with a chance for quiet he has come back to it, and that the men's clubs are growing more and more unpopular, but if this is true it is not because man is more alone in the home, but because of the women's club and the work it has done, he finds when he comes to his home a better and a more enjoyable home, for many reasons, and to tell the reasons is to tell what is the result, or a few of the results, of womanhood organized into club life.

Let us repeat the part of that famous address which is applicable on this occasion, for it is "with malice towards none and charity for all" that we tell the story of organized womanhood, and it carries with it no depreciation of the men, for forever in our hearts and on our lips should be the words, "we rise or fall together," so true is it.

Let us grant at once that the first organized woman's club was for study, for mutual improvement. If a person really and honestly desires improvement for herself, she will soon desire it for others, and when this has become mutual improvement, progress is assured.

One club organized for improvement in a place, and others soon followed. Then it began to be realized that everyone could not or would not join a club, so it was discussed what could be done for those who could not or would not join, and the educational committee was formed to help spread abroad in the town or city what the few had learned. Then the study became a trifle broader, and the literature and art department came. It was but the next step to a realization that not all the learning is of the head, and so came the arts and crafts committee, to spread more generally the worth of a knowledge of the great things achieved by old and young by the work of the hand.

Then the desire to make the towns more beautiful, as at first they tried to make the homes more beautiful—the work for conservation, for civics, and then a knowledge that back of all these things was wise legislation, and the legislative committee was formed to spread among the women a knowledge of what was being done, what should be done, and their part in the legislation of state and nation.

As strange as it may seem, all the committees mentioned were formed before that of household economics, which at first glance is appalling, but upon second thought you will agree with me that the reason is obvious. The work of the home, the art of home-making, has always been depreciated until woman herself did not appreciate it. She thought knowledge of how to make a home was a part of the being of every woman. This work was not of much value, for it was not out in the open; it was not of much importance, else woman could not do the work, and often have the entire management of it.

But along with a realization of many other things, came a realization that it took a vast amount of knowledge, of holy purpose, of heroic effort and gigantic planning to make the right sort of a home, and a knowledge that many of the very women who were supposed to have an intuitive knowledge of it knew nothing whatsoever of how to make the "right sort of a home", and that without this, the whole outside world would become a tangled mass. Then she saw how the child, the man, the town, the state—yes, the very nation itself—rested on the home, it being the foundation upon which great men and great nations are built.

More than ever did women realize that to "sit and rock the cradle" would not assure the moving of the world in the right direction; there must be a knowledge in every move that made the cradle rock. And so household economics saw the light of day, and organized womanhood saw the worth of this great science.

The next committee to be added to the list of the efforts of organized womanhood was the reciprocity work. Facing her was the fact that what she did not know, some other woman did; that what she did know might be just what some other woman desired to know; and out of this give and take has come a leveling of the whole lump. We are no longer bound by club organization or by sex. It is no longer to make the women wise, no longer to make the women work, that womanhood is organized—but for the good of the town, for the benefit of the public schools, for better roads, for the cleaner city, for the better state, for the more prosperous nation. To-day woman realizes that she herself is an abject failure unless others are interested in the great movements, in the great causes. To-day women realize that the greatest success can come only by the individual interests, the combination, the union of forces, all being aroused to the greatest needs, to the best efforts.

Honestly desiring to guard against "Reform run wild, humanitarianism without common sense, education to the verge of bankruptcy, and an insolent interference with the liberties of the people," the women urge the co-operation of every one of the questions which experience has taught them must have the vital interest of the whole if the desired end be reached.

What do some of the thinking men say of this attitude, and of the efforts made, and the results of this organized womanhood? Note, first, in the line of education: Our United States commissioner of education, Hon. S. S. Claxton, does not depreciate, and if you wish information and assistance in any educational line you will receive a ready response from this source. To bring this closer home, our own State superintendent of schools, Hon. Payson Smith, pays glowing tribute to the assistance the cause of education has received from the women's clubs of Maine. Dr. Smith often lectures free of expense before these different clubs, bringing a wealth of information and stirring up dead bones, so to speak, until there is an activity which brings results.

Our work in conservation of the child, the woods, the streams, the birds has been beneficial. Children are being taught to care for and protect birds; youth is being instructed as to the care of the tree and forest; men and women are being made wise as to the worth of our water and our scenery. The natural parks of every state are being more carefully guarded, and the congressmen and senators, public men everywhere, are watched as to their course in these matters. You in Ellsworth can radiate a great influence in this way, not only because of the influence of your congressman, your distinguished citizen, but because of the woman who is his wife, and while this particular congressman may need no prodding, he may be led by your influence to prod others.

In regard to the pure-food law, a thinking, active, prominent man of another state told me there would never have been any pure-food law at all but for the activity of the women. The river and harbor organization is another proof of the interest of women in great things, and the worth of their effort. Beauty is not forgotten, and the school garden has become more and more important by the efforts of the women. No matters are too great for organized womanhood to study—universal peace and preparedness, proper lighting, proper ventilation, right feeding of infants, pure milk, better roads, the worth of music for civic betterment, better health, more moral surroundings for the children, the contagion from resorts and saloons being emphasized. The need of honorable, efficient and painstaking boards of health in state, city and town is urged. And so I might go on and on, and the story would not be told.

You remember of old there were the few disciples, but they were instructed to go into the byways and the hedges, to "bear witness", and it is just as necessary to-day, and the testimony is in just remembering "I am my brother's keeper", which is neither appalling nor gigantic, simply an awakening which will result as much for the good of the I, as of the brother.

Knowing my ancestry and home surroundings, you will perhaps pardon particular emphasis upon the need of work with the women for better health. Infant mortality in our own State is larger than it should be. Bear in mind this fact, for without diplomas with certificate of moral character, without endorsement of any sort, people are allowed to have and rear children. In nothing else is such a lack of knowledge permitted. Therefore there are many who need guidance which comes from the widespread interest and discussion of vital issues.

Deformed, defected children are more numerous than they should be; contagion is not always properly guarded; preventive work is not properly emphasized, and advanced medicine to-day is to prevent rather than to cure. So your best work is to make a mighty effort to have conditions that will make for physical and moral health. Every day of my life I am more convinced that the wrecking of many lives is largely from ignorance, and this ignorance is not alone in the slums, so to speak.

Proper values is a greater thing than we sometimes realize. If we can so influence the young that they will have proper values, we shall be doing much to help them. One cultured speaker and successful worker for better civic conditions has said: "No home is safe unless the street is safe." Had you thought of this? Had you realized that through those protecting walls, inside the brightly-lighted rooms, within that holy place, your home, the evils of the street could penetrate, so you and yours would suffer?

After we have sufficiently realized this, let me quote the rest of the statement of this able man, for he said also: "No church is safe, unless the street is safe." Do you believe this? Do we who love to work in and for the church realize the influence of the street which we have hardly noticed, and the personnel of which we had not thought of, so sure were we that it did not concern us sufficiently? Do we realize this fact? Still, a fact it is.

Contagion is not only of the physical, as great and sad as is this contagion, but there are others full more appalling.

The child labor law is of great interest to women. The value of the child is constantly being emphasized by thinking people, and organized womanhood early saw the necessity of the instruction of the child in lines educating him for a strong factor in civic betterment. Educators are now urging it, and showing by practical work how the children can be taught to do civic work by keeping the street clean; of what heretofore they thoughtlessly scattered upon it, introducing this in the grammar grades of the public schools.

It was long ago conceded that the declaration of Lincoln was true, that "This nation could not exist half free and half slave," but we are fast realizing there is a slavery other than that of which he spoke, and it is this slavery which we have to fear, for the working child not only makes a slave of himself but of the older ones of the family, which will continue generation after generation if the child works in ignorance and to the loss of proper instruction in many things now taught in the public schools.

Women have helped in emphasizing the worth of manual training and domestic science as a part of our public school instruction. More and more are we realizing that it is the child upon whom we must work; it is the child who is to make or break this whole world. "Tall oaks from little acorns grow," and though I now am small and young," but the worth of these years of smallness and youth is being more and more appreciated, and the personal development and aptitude in school instructions, more and more emphasized. Girls make their dresses in the schools and colleges, taught by the teachers; boys even make their school building, with the teachers' instruction. We are seeing the poor management in closing our school buildings, for so much of the time, and more and more are they becoming social centers and open forums, so to speak. Mrs. J. Frank Rich, of Rockland, was the woman to start the first one in Maine.

This brings me to another important fact in connection with organized womanhood. A factor in our work that we are just beginning to realize is the necessity of real democracy in this work, which means, in common parlance, the "getting together" of women of all sorts and conditions. Have you read with any interest the reports of Rockefeller in Colorado, and the results of this meeting of labor and capital? We are not so bad as some have thought us, and the other fellow is much better than we have thought him. Contact and mutual interest are a great revelation of virtues. You are not the only one astonished. The results are always good, progressive.

Undoubtedly you have heard the story of the little girl who carried on a conversation much like this: "Mama, did God make you? Why, yes, my dear. What makes you ask such questions?" "Mama, did God make me?" And the mother replied, "Why, yes, Ruth; of course He did." The little girl looked in the mirror at herself, then at her mother, then at herself in the mirror, and said, "Well, mama, don't you really think God is doing better work lately?"

My friends, whether He is doing better work lately or not depends very much upon you and me and the other fellow, and the question we should ask and then try to answer is, "What can I do about it?"

This is not said in any spirit as an instructor—it is said only as one woman with gigantic faith in women to a company of women, believing it is activity you desire, for while we find great comfort in the words of Browning: "Not what man does, but what he aspires to do," still, the greater comfort is in the "well done".

To me there is a deal of wisdom in the doggerel:

"We have to swat and shoo the fly from morn to dark,
Just because Noah didn't swat the two that roosted in the ark."

For many conditions are the result of indifference—letting things "roost". One person, one of your own women, said this gave her great joy, it was so much more pleasing to be doing ancestral duty than simply swatting flies. But there is a still greater incentive than this, which is doing the work we should for future generations.

Organized womanhood, my friends, is not without its faults, individually and collectively—we have not solved all the problems, we are still of the earth earthly, but we are learning.

Does it seem strange and discouraging to you that there are so many different branches of work needing the activity of the women, needing a realization of our own individual responsibility? Oftentimes flashes across my mind the quotation, "The art of speech was given to us in order to say pleasant things to each other," and mentally comes the exclamation, "I'll live up to it! It shall not annoy me whether the world goes well or ill; my children are through school; it is strenuous to care whether the other women's children fare as I wished mine to fare; it is exhausting to wish the boys to be educated to know the value of right living and the horror of being an inebriate and wrecking a life. Why struggle to have the young people read the temperance posters?"

You know and I know we cannot reform the world, and inwardly there is a bit of satisfaction if we can keep ourselves and our own on the right track, and still, is it best to "wrap the draperies" of our own good fortune around us and "lie down to pleasant dreams"? We can, if we will, as did Elizabeth B. Browning, "Hear the children crying in the street," and still it is easy to say with Robert Browning: "I want to be forgotten, even by God." Then we remember the other quotation from him: "Progress is the law of life; man is not Man as yet," and with our own Longfellow we resolve "To be up and doing, with a heart for any fate—if not achieving, still pursuing."

My friends, do not think organized womanhood has reached perfection. If it had, this would be a eulogy, an obituary, but it is neither. It is an introduction. There are many things needing many women, there is much need of each one of us realizing much more forcibly our own individual responsibility.

This is said in no desire to be a preacher, with no thought of instructing any one of you. It is simply spoken as a truth which is in the air, and which will light upon us with greater and sadder force the longer we delay facing it.

KITNEY TO CARIBOU.

G. F. Beal, an Avon Corner farmer, aged seventy years, was fatally gored by a bull last Friday, dying Sunday. He was leading the apparently docile animal to water when it suddenly turned upon him.

Charles B. Gould, for thirty-five years a confectionery manufacturer in Bangor, died last Wednesday, aged sixty years. Mr. Gould was born in East Corinth. For some time he served in the United States army in the Indian campaign following the Custer massacre.

Three young persons were killed, and another seriously injured Saturday night, when a train struck an automobile on a crossing in Old Orchard. The dead are Miss Gladys Norton, twenty years; Miss Helen Crowley, nineteen years; John Dowling, nineteen years. The only survivor of the party was Ashley Tarbox, twenty years of age, who owned and operated the machine.

Last Thursday morning the so-called Crosby warehouse in Hampden, near the head of Long wharf, was destroyed by fire. The money loss is not great—about $500, but the fire removes a famous historical landmark. The building was erected in 1809 by General John Crosby, an East Indian trader who came to Hampden from Woolwich in 1775, and for a time it was the finest building in the Penobscot valley. In 1814 it was used by the British as a prison, and many Americans were confined there.

Through the will of Col. Luther Hills Pierce, of Chicago, born in Bangor in 1837, the Eastern Maine general hospital and the Bangor public library will receive approximately $100,000 each, while $40,000 is left in trust to be eventually devoted to the erection of a memorial to the 2nd Maine regiment, of which Col. Pierce was a member. Another trust fund of $20,000 is created, which will eventually be used for a public fountain. Col. Pierce also left $30,000 to Yale, from which he was graduated in 1858, and a number of bequests to Chicago public purposes.

Real tobacco flavor depends upon the leaf being preserved in its natural state, possible only by pressing the leaves into plug form and keeping it in by covering it with a natural leaf wrapper. The natural flavor and strength of tobacco escape when cut or granulated.

Take a Plug of Sickle that is even thoroughly dried out so that when you whittle it off it crumbles into dust, but it will burn and smoke smooth and cool as it has all of its original tobacco flavor preserved, unevaporated in Plug Form.

Whittling a pipeful is little trouble, amply repaid in both quality and quantity. Try this experiment and judge for yourself.

People who use Peruna

Mrs. T. Frech, R. R. 1, Hickory Point, Tenn., writes: "I am happy to tell you that I am cured of catarrh. Having been afflicted with catarrh and stomach trouble for seven years, and after having tried four different doctors, who only relieved me for a little while, I gave up all hope of being cured. I was induced to try Peruna, and to my great surprise I am now entirely well. My health never was better."

The President has declared in favor of preparedness, "not for war, but for defense." In this he will have both republicans and democrats with him.

Mr. Bryan has come out squarely against President Wilson's national defense plan, which he characterizes as "a departure from our traditions; a menace to our peace and safety, and a challenge to the spirit of Christianity which teaches us to influence others by example rather than by exciting fear."

We print this week, on page 3, an interesting paper delivered before the Ellsworth woman's club by Mrs. C. B. Porter, of Old Town, formerly Georgia Pulsifer, of Ellsworth.

This is a bumper year for crops, according to the statistics issued Monday by the United States department of agriculture. The nation's principal crops exceed in value those of 1914, the previous banner year, by half a billion dollars.

The Postmastership Primary. This is the day originally set for the special postmastership primary in Ellsworth, but apparently the matter is no nearer settlement than when the primary plan was first suggested.

It is no secret that the reason for the calling off of the primary set for to-day was the fear on the part of some democrats, probably well founded, that voters now enrolled as democrats might change to republican enrollment for the June primaries next year in order to vote for Dr. Hagerthy for governor.

Such change of enrollment must be made at least six months before the June primaries, so that if the special postoffice primary is carried to within the six months, democrats who vote in the postoffice primary can not change to republican enrollment before the spring primaries.

December 19 is the "dead line". The spring primaries will be held June 19. The special postoffice primary, if held at all, will not be held until after December 19.

COUNTY GOSSIP.

West Tremont contributes to the bouquet of spring flowers out of tune, wild strawberry blossoms picked by Ashbury Lopus.

Another large shipment of humpback salmon eggs has been received at the government hatcheries at Green lake and Craig brook, for hatching and distribution in waters on the Atlantic coast.

The outlook in the fur market is much more encouraging for trappers than it was last winter. The largest fur houses of the country have been notifying those who make trapping their livelihood to prepare for a good winter because of the unusual shortage of furs at the present time, and unless the unforeseen happens, the prices paid for all varieties of furs will probably equal those of 1913, when they reached a record mark.

Col. H. E. Hamlin, of Ellsworth, and Hon. L. B. Deasy, of Bar Harbor, are the Hancock county members of the State-wide committee appointed by the Portland Chamber of Commerce to work for the proposed serial coast patrol station, according to the plan originally proposed by Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary. Col. Frederick Hale, of Portland, is also a member of the committee, which is composed of about forty prominent men from all sections of the State.

A summer resident of Bar Harbor, a woman, who has contributed generously of her means to aid worthy girls and young women, has found another means of doing good. She has placed at the disposal of the Young Women's Christian Association of Bar Harbor a fund to provide tuition at the Bar Harbor high school and board at the Y. W. C. A. rooms for six girls from Bar Harbor, where there is no high school. The selection of the girls is left with the officers of the Y. W. C. A., who are working in co-operation with Supt. Williams, of the Southwest Harbor-Tremont district.

Irving West has discovered a new way of killing a mink—first get your mink in a cellar. Mr. West was driving to North Ellsworth one day recently, when a mink ran across the road ahead of him. He wanted the mink, and he had a gun, but he didn't want to spoil the skin. So he went to the house of Arthur Clement to borrow a rifle, driving the mink before him. When the house was reached, the mink darted through a rusty screen and into the cellar. Mr. West had a lively chase about the cellar, but finally succeeded in drawing a bead on the mink's head. He got the mink without spoiling the skin.

BELIEVES HE SAW A WOLF. County Commissioner W. H. Sherman, of Bar Harbor, is a thorough convert to the belief, held by a few Maine men, that wolves still occasionally stray into Maine from the Canadian woods. Mr. Sherman is no tyro in the woods; he knows a fox, bobcat, or lynx when he sees one, and is not to be argued out of his statement that the animal he saw recently while hunting in the woods near Beddington was not one of these.

The animal was almost twice as tall as a fox, and it had a long tail, not as bushy as that of a fox. It was a tawny brown in color, lean in the hind quarters and thicker at the shoulders, and the hair on back and shoulders bristled up instead of lying smooth or parted like that of a fox. Mr. Sherman came up behind the animal while alone. The animal was intent upon a house which could be seen on a side hill a quarter of a mile away. Its head was in the air as it sniffed toward the house.

Mr. Sherman approached within ten or fifteen feet of the animal. His first impression was that it was a shepherd dog, and for that reason he did not shoot, while he looked the animal over for a full minute, he thinks. Once he took careful aim, but then lowered his gun, thinking still it might be a dog. Then he spoke as to a dog: "Hello, sir." In a flash the animal was off in the woods, and the State museum at Augusta was deprived of a rare specimen—a wolf killed in Maine in 1915.

Toe in or Toe Out? Like the child's toy house built with blocks, the foot stands when balance is maintained and becomes weak and wobbly when a single block is moved sufficiently to disturb its balance. In correct position, the foot carries the weight of the body with a wide margin of strength to spare. Change the posture and the demand upon this reserve strength becomes often too great to be permanently borne. The foot is then under a strain, it tires, becomes painful and finally by yielding of the ligaments, the shape of the foot is altered, efficiency is impaired and our whole physical being feels the loss of a stable foundation. Body posture directly influences the maintenance of foot comfort, and foot posture has a direct bearing upon correct attitude of the body.

The Old Method of toeing out, as taught to the recruits of the army in Civil war times, was really a position of weakness. To utilize its power to best advantage, the walking position of the foot should be with little or no outward pointing of the toes. In standing, slight turning out of the toes is permissible. To add to foot comfort, shoes should not cramp the ball of the foot and the heels should be low and broad, to give stability without calling upon the muscles to maintain balance. Mechanically the foot is a wonderful creation, but like all delicate mechanisms it must be kept in good condition and used intelligently or its efficiency disappears.—Journal of American Medical Association.

OBITUARY.

GEORGE W. JORDAN. George W. Jordan, whose death at his home on the Waltham road on Tuesday, Nov. 2, was briefly mentioned in THE AMERICAN last week, was well known in this city. For fifty years or more he had resided on the Jordan place, in Ellsworth near the line of plantation No. 3, carrying on farming in summer and working in the woods winters.

Mr. Jordan was born in the town of Waltham Sept. 20, 1840, and was a young man when he first came to Ellsworth. He served in the Civil war, enlisting in the 14th Maine regiment.

He married, on Aug. 3, 1868, Miss R. G. Hodgkins, of Bayside, and they have lived ever since at the Jordan homestead. Mrs. Jordan survives her husband, with nine children—Mrs. Simon Lake, of Ellsworth Falls; George L. Jordan and Mrs. C. S. Davis, of Waltham; Miss Belle Jordan, of Maplewood, Mass.; Frank Jordan, who is in the West; Mrs. Maud Cousins, of Ellsworth; Mrs. E. D. Jameson and Mrs. H. B. Davis, of Bangor; and Mrs. S. M. Cifre, of Bucksport. He is also survived by one brother, Sidney Jordan, who is in the West, and two sisters, Mrs. James Treadwell, of Amherst, and Mrs. Joseph Hyde, of Somerville, Mass.

The funeral was held at the home Thursday, Rev. P. A. A. Killam, of the Ellsworth Baptist church, officiating. Interment was at Juniper cemetery. Friends sent many beautiful flowers. The pallbearers were four sons-in-law—Simon Lake, E. D. Jameson, Howard and Charles Davis.

County Sunday School Association.

An effort is being made by the Hancock County Sunday school association to make Hancock county the first in Maine to reach the front-line standard. The "flying squadron" of the association was active last week in the western part of the county. A team consisting of the county president, Rev. O. J. Guptill, of Deer Isle; Rev. D. W. Kimball, of Sedgwick, and Wesley J. Weir, the state secretary, held meetings at Bucksport, North Brooksville, Sedgwick and Stonington, and Mr. Weir spent Sunday with the churches of Bluehill.

The meetings, except when local conditions interfered, were successful to the highest degree, and encourage the expectation that the association will achieve its purpose. In two years this association has made more rapid strides than any other in the State, and, according to opportunity, presses the leaders now. There are ninety-three schools and over 5,000 scholars enrolled, according to reports available, but it is thought that not all have been found, and a final effort is being made to touch each school.

It is desired that as many schools as possible prepare exhibits for the next county convention, the best to be sent to the exhibit at the State convention. Each school has from now until next September in which to get its exhibit ready. Particulars regarding the nature of the exhibits may be obtained from Rev. Orville J. Guptill, Deer Isle.

Green Mountain Pomona Grange. Green Mountain Pomona grange met with scenic grange, Waltham, Nov. 3. There were 150 present, representing all the granges of this section.

The forenoon was devoted to business, and the welcoming address by the master of the host grange, Mrs. Lettie Willey, responded to by Vernon Haslam, expressing the good will of Green Mountain Pomona for the future prosperity of scenic grange, and for the hospitality of the day. All were then invited to the dining hall, to partake of a bountiful chicken dinner. The afternoon session was opened by the lecturer, introducing Rev. P. A. A. Killam, whose address on "Country Life vs. City Life as Character Building," was presented in his usual pleasing manner. He pictured the real things of country life, and the faults of city life.

He was followed by G. N. Worden, who was at his best on farm topics, telling of conditions as he finds them, and making suggestions about hen houses, orchards and farm work, advocating better systems and getting busy with their applications. He told of the big increase in price of commercial fertilizers, and the ways we can preserve and increase the natural fertilizers, putting stress upon fall plowing and thorough preparation of seed beds. Then followed a general discussion of the topic, "How can we create more of an interest in the county grange?" The fifth degree was conferred upon twenty candidates.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; also cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface. Scotland Lighthouse. WESTFIELD, N. J., Nov. 5, 1915 To the Editor of The American: I see in your edition of Nov. 3 an article entitled "Scotland Lighthouse". I beg permission to make a few corrections and some additions.

The steamship Scotland did not strand near Sandy Hook, but was in collision near Fire Island with an American ship of Portland, Me. I do not recall her name now, but she was commanded by the late Capt. William Leavitt, of the firm of Chase, Leavitt & Co. The ship immediately sank.

She was returning to New York from a long voyage, with a valuable cargo. The steamer endeavored to reach New York, but sank just before reaching Sandy Hook.

While the wreckers were working on her, a lighthouse was placed there to warn shipping, but after it was no longer needed there, it was moved a short distance farther south to mark a shoal, but has always retained the name of "Scotland Lighthouse". HORACE G. BUNKER.

OTIS.

Mahlon Salisbury is employed in Ellsworth.

Mrs. Arthur Moore, of Hallowell, is visiting relatives at the Young homestead.

Sanford Grindle and wife left for the woods in Mariaville last Monday, to work.

An automobile party from Bar Harbor is at Eugene Jellison's camp at Beech Hill for a week.

Martin Moore, George Kincaid and Willis Salisbury, of Mariaville, got a big buck Friday.

Herbert Salisbury and brother Clifford, of Manchester, N. H., were in town last week hunting.

The next of the home sociables will be at Mrs. Arden Young's. Ice-cream and cake will be sold. The proceeds will be for the church organ fund.

Rufus Webb, who has gained an enviable record as the luckiest of fishermen and hunters, shot a sixty-pound lamb deer one day last week, near his home.

George Eddy Webb and wife, who have lived at Lilly Bay, Moosehead lake, the next season, are visiting his mother, Mrs. J. O. Jordan before going to Massachusetts, where Mr. Webb has a position.

Granville Jellison has raised 400 bushels of turnips this season, besides about that many of carrots, and all other vegetables in proportion, which demonstrates what one man can do alone on a small farm. Nov. 8. DAVIS.

STEEL FOR ARTILLERY.

Tremendous Pressure the Barrels of Big Guns Must Bear.

Modern high powered guns could not be built without steel strong enough to resist the enormous pressures to which they are subjected. Few understand how great these pressures are—almost as far beyond ordinary comprehension as are the distances of the stars or the number of atoms in a glass of water. An attempt to state the matter in a form that will mean something to the ordinary mind is made by a contributor to La Nature in an article entitled "The Strains Resisted by Gun Metal." He writes:

"When the marvels of modern artillery are described perhaps we direct our admiration too exclusively to the mechanicians who have combined to construct it. We must not, however, forget the metallurgist, for it is owing to the astonishing qualities of the metal that the gun is so well able to resist the enormous strain due to the detonation of the explosive.

"It is interesting to cite here some figures published by Commandant Regnault. At each discharge of a gun, in the case of our field pieces, in less than three-tenths of a second the pressure exceeds twenty tons to the square inch, and the speed of the projectile leaving the muzzle is more than 2,500 feet a second.

"The energy developed may be put at about 500,000 foot pounds. In other words, considering the cannon as a motor working during an exceedingly short time, we may place its rating at about 20,000,000 horsepower.

"Not only must the metal be made to resist these strains time after time, but to do so under unfavorable conditions, such as the high temperatures produced by the explosives. And not only must the metal of the gun be as strong as this, but it is the same with that of the shell. The shell of our 'twenty-five' supports a pressure estimated at seventeen tons. The work of the device that takes up the recoil reaches about twelve tons to the square inch, and the mount neutralizes at each discharge about two tons.

"In fact, these conditions are realized in quite a remarkable way. It has been possible to test in the machine shop the pieces of a battery that has fired several thousand shots and to show that they have suffered not the slightest deformation.

"This is why it is necessary to employ special steels. The use of nickel, in proportion of 1 per cent to 2 per cent, gives to steel special qualities."

COUNTY Y. M. C. A.

Prayer Week to be Observed Nov. 14 to 21.

The week of Nov. 14 to 21 has been set aside by the Young Men's Christian Association throughout the world as a time of prayer and conference. The Y. M. C. A. in Hancock county is planning to observe this week with special meetings beginning on Sunday, Nov. 14. The county secretary, Mr. Saxton, will speak at the regular church services at Islesford and Cranberry Isles on this date.

Saturday evening, Nov. 20, there will be a meeting of the ministers of the towns on the south side of Mount Desert island, together with the members of the county committee of the Y. M. C. A., for supper in the I. O. O. F. banquet hall at Southwest Harbor, at 5.30. The county committee has been fortunate in securing R. B. Nelles, of the industrial department of the Maine Y. M. C. A., as the speaker of the evening. Following the address by Mr. Nelles, the county committee will adjourn for a special session, while the ministers will consider the proposition of forming a union.

Mr. Nelles will speak at a union meeting of the churches at Southwest Harbor at the regular morning hour of service, Nov. 21. In the afternoon, he will address a meeting for men and older boys at the Seal Harbor Neighborhood hall. Seal Harbor people will also have an opportunity to listen to Mr. Nelles at a special Y. M. C. A. meeting in the evening.

The Y. M. C. A. boys and men of Hancock county are busy at basketball practice, and prospects are bright for a basketball league.

Legal Notices. NOTICE. TO my former clients and all interested, I wish to announce that after spending nearly three years in the practice of my profession in New York city, I have now returned to Ellsworth to live, and have entered into a law partnership with the Hon. John A. Peters, under the firm name of Peters & Crabtree. I shall be glad to welcome all my former clients and others, respecting any matters in which they may desire legal counsel. A. BARRY L. CRABTREE. Ellsworth, Oct. 20, 1915.

Pauper Notice. HAVING contracted with the City of Ellsworth to support and care for those who may need assistance during five years beginning Jan. 1, 1916, and are legal residents of Ellsworth, I forbid all persons trusting them on my account, as there is plenty of room and accommodations to care for them at the City Farm house. ARTHUR B. METCALF.

CARD OF THANKS. THE widow and family of the late George W. Jordan desire this publicity to express their sincere gratitude to all neighbors and friends who by their many acts of sympathy, beautiful flowers and kindly offices have done what they could to lighten their burden of sorrow. Mrs. R. G. JORDAN AND FAMILY. Ellsworth, Me., Nov. 8, 1915.

NOTICE. THIS is to forbid all persons trusting my wife, Aurilla V. Green, on my account, as I shall pay no bills of her contracting after this date. ALVARO G. GREEN. North Brooksville, Nov. 2, 1915.

Legal Notices. In the District Court of the United States for the District of Maine. In the matter of Wm. S. Thorne, Bankrupt. To the creditors of Wm. S. Thorne, of Sully, in the county of Hancock and district aforesaid, bankrupt:

NOTICE is hereby given that on the 6th day of November, A. D. 1915, the said Wm. S. Thorne was duly adjudicated bankrupt; and that the first meeting of his creditors will be held at my office, Ellsworth, Maine, Nov. 22, 1915, at 2 o'clock in the forenoon, at which time the said creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a trustee, examine the bankrupt and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting. WILLIAM E. WHITING, Referee in Bankruptcy. Ellsworth, Me., Nov. 10, 1915.

In the District Court of the United States for the District of Maine. In the matter of JOSEPH V. DANFORTH, Bankrupt. To the creditors of Joseph V. Danforth, of Eden, in the county of Hancock, and district aforesaid, bankrupt:

WILLIAM E. WHITING, Referee in Bankruptcy. Ellsworth, Me., Nov. 10, 1915.

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE. WHEREA, Lizzie M. Hovey, of Herrington, Washington County, State of Maine, by her mortgage deed dated the twenty-sixth day of October, 1914, and recorded in the Hancock county registry of deeds in book 812, page 107, conveyed and underdeigned, a certain lot or parcel of land situated in the town of Hancock, in said Hancock county, and bounded and described as follows, to wit:

Beginning at the northeast corner of land of Ambrose Hovey on the west line of the town road, thence running westerly following the north line of Ambrose Hovey, eight rods to the land of Mamie E. Marin; thence running northwesterly following the east line of land of Mamie E. Marin five rods to a stake; thence running easterly parallel to the first mentioned line nine rods to a stake in the west line of the town road; thence southerly west line of the town road, to the place of beginning, containing forty-two and one-half square rods; and whereas the conditions of said mortgage have been broken, now, therefore, by the reason of the breach of the conditions thereof, I claim a foreclosure of said mortgage.

LOCAL AFFAIRS

original cost was $2,500, and it is estimated that it will cost from $750 to $1,000 to repair the damage caused by the dynamite.

The many Ellsworth and Hancock county friends of Mrs. Mary Jordan Leighton, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Jordan, of Beechland, will be pleased to learn that Mrs. Leighton, who was operated upon Nov. 3 at the Women's hospital in Boston, is doing nicely, despite the difficult operation of removing a large fibroid tumor.

The unusual in the way of a musical entertainment is promised for Ellsworth on Thursday evening of next week, when Alfred A. Farland, "the magician of the banjo," will give a recital at Hancock hall.

There was an exciting runaway in Ellsworth Saturday afternoon. A team owned by the Lake Shore Seed Co., of Dunkirk, N. Y., driven by its agent, Mr. Turk, was coming down State street near the hardwood factory, when one of the whiffletree hooks broke, letting the horse out in the shafts, and frightening the animal, which ran. Mr. Turk was trying to regain control of the horse, when the runaway collided with the wagon of Capt. John A. Lord, standing in front of C. H. Wooster's store.

ELLSWORTH FALLS.

Leon G. Flood, Lester Simpson and Ralph Drinkwater, of Bangor, were the Sunday guests of A. C. Flood and family.

Mrs. Fred E. Grace has been down from the Green Lake hatchery for several days. Alvah Schoppe is having lumber sawed and landed at the Morrison field, where he intends to build a house.

A. W. Smith has gone this week with his brothers to their camp at Morrison pond for a few days hunting.

A quiet wedding took place Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Mary Harrison, when she was wedded to Elwood Silsby, of Bar Harbor. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Henry W. Conley, in the presence of the immediate relatives of the bride and groom.

MANSET.

Hazel Malanson left Saturday for East Bluehill to teach.

W. H. Ward and family were in Bangor two days last week.

Capt. William King is home from Brooklin for the winter.

J. L. Stanley & Sons are building a large addition to their wharf.

Franklin Smith and wife have returned from New York and Boston.

Mrs. Butler, of Center, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Isaac Stanley.

Alexander Ward left Sunday for Bangor to attend Shaw business college.

Roland Stanley, of Harrington, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Ellen Stanley.

Kate Carroll, of Southwest Harbor, spent the week-end with Mrs. E. G. Stanley.

Rev. R. W. Brown, of New Bedford, Mass., was in town Wednesday. All were glad to see him.

Miss Stover and Miss Morse attended the convention in Bangor. Mrs. William Keene accompanied them.

Mrs. Isaac Stanley and daughter, Mrs. Mamie Rich, and little Maurice, visited in Bluehill Thursday. Mr. Stanley accompanied them as far as Ellsworth on his way to Bangor.

Bessie Noyes celebrated her eighteenth birthday with a party Monday night. Games were played and songs sung. Ice cream, cake and candy were served. All enjoyed a good time. Miss Bessie received many pretty presents.

K. P. CONVENTION.

Plans for Big Gathering in Ellsworth Tuesday, Feb. 22.

A meeting of representatives of eight lodges of Knights of Pythias in this district will be held at the castle hall of Donauqua lodge, in Ellsworth next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, to make plans for the district convention to be held in Ellsworth on Feb. 22.

This convention will be one of the biggest things in this line ever held in Ellsworth. The distinguishing feature of it will be the presence of the supreme chancellor, Hon. Brig. Young, of Adah, O., who will come East from South Dakota for this convention, his only official visit in New England. He will be accompanied by the supreme keeper of records and seals, Fred G. Wheaton, of Minnesota, who will bring with him the original charter, and the bible upon which the founders of the order took their oaths.

The presence of these supreme officers will of course bring to Ellsworth most of the grand officers of the lodge in Maine, including Past Supreme Chancellor George M. Hanson, Supreme Representative Philbrook and Grand Chancellor Howard F. Sawyer. The eight lodges in the district are West Sullivan, Prospect Harbor, West Tremont, Bar Harbor, Seal Harbor, Ellsworth, Bluehill and Sedgwick. Seal Harbor, the newest lodge in the district, will be instituted next week by the degree team from Donauqua lodge. All these lodges will send large delegations to the convention.

The tentative plans for the convention are for the regular convention meeting to be held at Hancock hall in the afternoon. Dinner will be served at noon, and a banquet at 6 o'clock. In the evening there will be a reception and ball in honor of the supreme chancellor.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The high school basket-ball team has started practice at Hancock hall, with about twenty boys out for the team. Clement, last year's star center, has been elected captain, Fortier, the star right forward, has been elected manager, and J. A. Scott has been chosen treasurer for the team. The team has hired Clifford Foster, a well-known Bowdoin football and basket-ball man, as coach.

The first night the following were present: Clement, Shea and Dewa, centers; Fortier, Johnston, Parker, Dorgan, Westcott, Allen, forwards; Small, Whitney, Whitcomb, Webster, Stuart, Matthews, J. Moore, E. Moore, R. Moore, Phillips, guards. Two teams have been made up, as follows: Team A—Fortier, rf; Johnston, lf; Clement, c; Whitney, rb; Whitcomb, lb. Team B—E. Moore, lb; Webster, rb; Dewa, c; Small, lf; Parker, rf.

Coch Foster, John Whitney and John Moore have returned from the Bowdoin and Maine game. They had a fine trip. The basket-ball boys turn out regularly every night, and put in a hard practice. They hope to do what no other Ellsworth team has been able to do, and that is, to have a clean slate. The girls and boys who do not take part in the games are going to form a cheering section to cheer the boys on to victory.

Later in the season the girls will have a basket-ball team, coached by Miss Mitchell, assistant principal.

Don't forget the first game.

STONINGTON.

Elmer E. Crockett and wife are home from a visit with friends in Rockland.

F. S. Small has closed out most of his stock of goods and will leave for Hopdale, Va., about Nov. 15.

Mrs. P. H. Mills and Miss Myra have moved from their summer home at West Stonington to a tenement of G. W. Redman here.

Dr. George B. Noyes has just returned from a trip to Washington, D. C., where he met some of his old friends, veterans of the Civil war.

Joseph Fifield died at his home on Tuesday, Nov. 2. He was the last of a large family, and had always lived at West Stonington. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Blake. A wife and three daughters survive him—Mrs. S. A. Aprabann, Mrs. A. W. Clark, of Castine, and another who lives in England.

The house of Elmer Berdeen was burned during the storm of last Friday. A part of the furniture was saved. It was one of the oldest landmarks in town, built ninety years ago by Joseph Stinson. The fire started from a defective chimney. There was a small insurance. Mr. Berdeen's daughter, lately married to Capt. Kane, of Surry, lost most of her wedding presents. Mr. Berdeen is just recovering from injuries received on the quarry, which makes it doubly hard.

Your Eyes and The Movies.

The progress made in the character of subjects presented in the movies today, makes it desirable for all inquiring people to at least attend occasionally. Annoying after-effects on the eyes of many prevent them from enjoying the social diversion and often the educational advantages thus derived.

The great majority of those who suffer from eye strain after watching moving pictures can find much, if not complete relief, in perfectly-fitted glasses. The picture may not be quite so sharp, but this is more than compensated for by the increased comfort. For those with very sensitive eyes, a colored glass, either amber, yellowish green or amethyst, may be necessary to give complete relief. There have been put on the market recently several varieties of colored glasses, each of which has some advantages, so that some suitable color can usually be secured.

A subdued light in the theatre is much less irritating than when the only light visible comes from the screen. It is also advisable to avoid sitting in a place where it is necessary to look upward, as the additional strain becomes very tiresome, and frequently leaves a headache.—Journal of American Medical Association.

CATARH LEADS TO CONSUMPTION

Catarh is as much a blood disease as scrofula or rheumatism. It may be relieved, but it cannot be removed by simply local treatment. It causes headache and dizziness, impairs the taste, smell and hearing, affects the voice, deranges the digestion, and breaks down the general health. It weakens the delicate lung tissues and leads to consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla goes to the seat of the trouble, purifies the blood, and is so successful that it is known as the best remedy for catarh. Hood's Sarsaparilla strengthens and tones the whole system. It builds up. Ask your druggist for Hood's, and insist on having it. There is no real substitute.

Brain Blood-Supply Must Be Good. The importance of having pure blood is perhaps never more deeply impressed on us than when we are told by physiologists that if the brain is supplied with impure blood, nervous and bilious headaches, confusion of ideas, loss of memory, impaired intellect, dimness of vision, and dullness of hearing, are experienced, and in time the brain becomes disorganized and the brittle thread of life is broken. The more we learn of the usefulness of the great blood purifier, Hood's Sarsaparilla, the more grateful we are for this old and successful family medicine, which has accomplished so much in removing scrofula, rheumatism and catarrh and other blood diseases and correcting run-down conditions of the system. If you need a blood purifier, get Hood's Sarsaparilla—Advt.

GRINDAL. AFTER SIX YEARS Ellsworth Testimony Remains Unshaken. Time is the best test of truth. Here is an Ellsworth story that has stood the test of time. It is a story with a point which will come straight home to many of us. A. M. Franks, carpenter, High St., Ellsworth, says: "My back grew lame and as time passed, the trouble became constant. Finally my condition was so bad that I had to lay off from work for several days. When suffering in that way, I got a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills at Moore's Drug Store and the first few doses helped me. Two boxes of this medicine cured me." Over six years later, Mr. Franks said: "I use Doan's Kidney Pills when a cold settles in my back and I always get relief." Price 50c. at all dealers. SYKES' CLERK

By SARAH BAXTER

Jeremiah Sykes was a clerk in a small store in the east till he had by saving accumulated some capital; then he went out to Colorado to become a merchant on his own account. This was years ago.

Sykes' store was located at a cross-roads in a mining district in the far west, and the proprietor did a thriving business, supplying the wants of miners in a circuit of fifteen miles. He did all his work himself because he couldn't hire a clerk for less than $100 a month, and that would eat up a good share of his profits.

One day a man came into the store to buy some goods, and after settling the bill asked Sykes how he managed to handle so much business alone. Sykes told him that he should have a helper and why he didn't get one. The man suggested that he could hire a woman cheap enough, and after some conversation said he knew a woman who would be glad to work for whatever Sykes thought he could afford to pay. The merchant told him to send her along and he would see about it.

A few days after that a young woman appeared at the store, and Sykes hired her for a very small salary. He soon learned that she was as valuable to him as a man, but he did not raise her salary. Moreover, he tested her honesty by leaving cash where she could take it without being discovered, but she called his attention to it at the same time remarking on his carelessness.

At this time a desperado called Simmons was doing a good deal of damage in the neighborhood and Sykes thought it would be better for him to hire a man instead of a woman, since he might need help if Simmons came down on him. He mentioned the matter to his clerk and she said that she could use a revolver as well as a man, and if anything happened she would prove it. Sykes was persuaded and kept her in her position, but he didn't pay her a man's wages.

Sykes' clerk became so useful to him that he gradually left one duty after another to her, that he had always considered the most arduous, and finally he turned over to her his book-keeping. Notwithstanding the evidence he had of her honesty, he couldn't bring himself to confide his cash to her. When a robber band dashed into a bank or a store they threatened to kill whoever knew the safe combination unless it were given up. Sykes argued that if he alone could open the safe there would be less likelihood of loss than if another possessed it, especially if that other was a woman. He gave this to his clerk as an excuse for not entrusting her with the combination, and she admitted that it was a very wise precaution.

Sykes kept turning over his capital so steadily that there was never much cash on hand. He was always owing money for goods, and as soon as he received remittances to any considerable amount he paid it out to his creditors. One day his clerk asked him why he didn't let his creditors wait for their money instead of paying so promptly and make interest on it, adding that if he should at any time find it impossible to pay cash they would suspect something was wrong with him. Sykes was impressed with the idea and ceased paying so promptly. After that there were occasional accumulations of cash on hand.

One day Sykes was in the back of the store figuring over his cash account. His clerk was at the front dusting the shelves. It was at an hour when few persons came to the place to make purchases, and no one besides the two were in the store. A man came in, said something to the clerk, and the two walked back to where Sykes was at work. He recognized in the man the person who had recommended the clerk.

"Mornin', Mr. Sykes," he said. "How are you pleased with the young woman I sent you?"

"Very much," Sykes replied. "He doesn't believe that women's services are worth as much as a man's," said the clerk. "I have been with him long enough for a raise, but I don't get it."

Sykes looked uncomfortable. There was something icy cold in the tone in which she said this.

"Don't you find her trustworthy?" asked the man.

"Perfectly," said Sykes, wondering what this was leading to.

"He has never trusted me with the safe combination," said the woman. "Hasn't he? Well, I reckon he'd better pay you some back salary." With that she whipped a revolver from his hip and covered Sykes. There was a weapon in the desk on which Sykes was figuring, but he dare not attempt to get it out.

"Who are you and what do you want here?" he asked the man.

"I'm Andy Simmons, and that lady is my wife. I don't think you've treated her fair in not giving her a raise since she's been here, and I've called in to see about it. Supposin' you open the safe?"

The game that had been played on Sykes flashed upon him at once. He opened the safe while the man kept him covered, and after the woman had gathered some $1,200 that was in it, they bound and gagged Sykes, walked out of the store leisurely, mounted horses standing at the door and galloped away.

POULTRY PICKINGS.

All old hens that have become unprofitable should be disposed of. It is only a waste of money to be feeding a lot of hens that bring in no revenue.

All male birds that are not needed for next year's breeders are the first ones that should be eliminated from the flock.

Buttermilk makes good eggs and lots of them.

Half starved hens are not so productive as fat ones.

Loose bowels show an excess of some kind of food. Find out what it is and slow up a bit.

SMALL FLOCKS AND LARGE COMPARED

After investigating the matter thoroughly, together with what experience I have had, I see a benefit in flock matings where the flocks are not too large, where these flock matings are used for egg farming only and where the strictest cleanliness is observed, writes M. K. Boyer in the Western Poultry Journal.

Flocks of 100 head should be the limit—fifty would be better. But this for egg farming only. When it comes to breeding, the flock system is entirely wrong. While there may be good fertility, there will not be as good, strong chicks. Breeding pens should vary—according to the breed—from six to fourteen females to a male. In Asiatics (Brahmas, Cochins, Langshans) six females to a male is best; in the American class (Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Rhode Island Reds, etc.) ten females to a male, and in the Mediterranean class fourteen females and a male.

During the course of my experiments I had all sorts of experiences. One year I mated thirty Leghorn pullets to a strong, vigorous male, and the eggs proved very fertile. The next year I sold off ten of these females and was surprised that the remaining twenty pullets (they were yearling hens then) gave me better laying than the thirty did as pullets. I do not wish to say that hens are better layers than pullets, but I believe that this incident proves that had my thirty pullets been divided into two pens instead of being all in one I would have secured a much larger egg yield.

Polish fowls are one of the oldest known breeds. The American standard of perfection recognizes nine different varieties of Polish, the most striking of which is the White Crested Black. The hens are prolific layers of white eggs, which, however, are small, and the fertility does not run as good as in other breeds. The mature fowls are smaller than the Leghorns, but can be raised with profit with care. The picture shows a White Crested Black Polish hen.

I also experimented with twenty White Wyandottes in a flock, alternating males, and my egg yield was not a bit greater than I got from an adjoining pen of fourteen females. Besides, the overcrowding soon developed feather pulling in the flock, and I had all sorts of trouble with that family.

Tom Parsons of England does not believe in large flocks either for breeding or laying. He says: "If I had twenty acres of land or fifty acres of land to set out in poultry, this is exactly the way I should do it, after all my experience. I am positive that you would make $2 per bird on that system. The bird lay much better when you keep thirty or fifty together than they do in a 500 flock, and you are free from disease."

Overcrowding is a condition that must be avoided. It is the breeder of many flocks of disaster. It often puts the veteran to his wife's end to fight off the evil results. If it puzzles the man who has been "in harness" for years what can be expected of the novice who has it all to learn? Overcrowding does not only apply to our flocks of fowls, but it equally refers to the chicks in the brooders and the runs. There must be room so the fowls can exercise, and there must be peace in the family. Small flocks are always more peaceable than large ones. There is less nagging. Contented hens are the egg producers.

Wheat For Poultry. With the new crop of wheat coming in, the price has been considerably reduced, and poultry breeders can afford to feed more of it than they have been able to do when it was so high in price. Wheat comes nearer to the ideal poultry food than any other grain, and when the price is anywhere within bounds, it is good policy to make it the main portion of the hen's rations.

WINDING THE CLOCK.

Follow This System and You May Get More Accurate Time.

You cannot secure the best services from a good watch or clock unless you know how to wind them so as to cause the least wear and irregularity in their delicate machinery.

A watch should be wound at the same time every day. If allowed to run down or even almost do so and then wound up until it will not wind any further it cannot do as perfect work as a watch that is not allowed to run to its full capacity or wound up until it is as tight as it can be made.

If a watch is wound both morning and evening at about the same hour and the key is given only enough turns to wind it a little less than half what it could be wound the watch will run more evenly, wear much longer and keep more accurate time than if it is wound up tight once a day.

A watch spring will last longer if it is wound when there is the least extreme of temperature, and morning and evening are, of course the best in that respect.

It is more or less dangerous to wind a watch during a heavy electric storm, and it is best to avoid winding while on an electric car.

An eight day clock should be wound twice a week at as regular periods as possible to secure the best results. Never allow the clock to run down, and if possible do not wind it until it is tight.

Learn by experience just how many turns of the key it takes to wind the clock of the week is gone wind the clock by giving the key just half as many turns as it would require to wind it all the way. More accurate time will be had and it will avoid placing any of the parts in a strain, which is frequently the cause of good clocks giving out in some particular before they have served half as long as they should.

A little attention to this advice will lengthen the life of any watch or clock and make it a better timepiece.—New York American.

A FAMOUS MISER.

Cooke Died Wealthy After a Life of Petty Saving and Trickery.

Thomas Cooke, known as the "Islington miser," left at his death more than $300,000. His whole life was one of penny, petty saving and petty trickery. He made it a habit in order to get meals for nothing to fall in a pretended fit in front of a house at dinner time and on recovering he would naturally be invited to share the meal, which he always did after the proper amount of protestation. Often he would pretend to these kind people that they had saved his life, would make a great fuss over them and tell them he intended to remember them or their children in his will.

One man, a poor relation, occasionally sent him small presents of butter. This angered Cooke, who said to him: "Why send me such dribbles, you who are to get thousands and thousands at my death? Send me a firkin." The firkin and several more were sent, but neither this legacy nor any of the others came to reality.

Like many men shrewd in petty ways, he was easily deceived in matters out of his own line. Thus once when his horse was sick he was too mean to pay a horse doctor and asked advice of a quack, who told him he must take thirty onions, drill a hole through each, put them on a string, put the necklace around the horse's neck and let it stay there. The expense of thirty onions was too much; he bought fifteen, and when, after many days, they had served their purpose, he took them to the servant and ordered her to make an onion porridge for the day's dinner.—Exchange.

Homemade Toothpowder.

An effective tooth powder which can be always recommended is made as follows: One ounce of precipitated chalk, half an ounce of carbonate of soda, half an ounce of powdered orris root. Mix well together and pass three times through a sieve. Place in a bottle or in tins until required for use. The carbonate of soda removes the grease from the teeth and prevents decay, and the powdered orris root keeps the gums healthy.

Resigned to It.

Taking oneself too seriously is supposed to be an American trait. At any rate, it is found in America. The late Edward Everett Hale in "We the People," cites a remark of Thomas Carlyle apropos of this habit.

Margaret Fuller had perhaps taken herself the least bit too seriously. She had said that she had determined "to accept the universe."

"She had better," said Carlyle.

Widow With Live Husband.

When an otherwise industrious, God fearing and considerate head of a family makes up his mind to go in for politics his wife, would just as well make up her mind that she is going to have a touch of the experience of being a widow with a live husband.—Houston Post.

Willing to Be Studied.

"What is that class of girls doing?" "Studying fossils."

"Well, I used to object to being called one, but I guess I'll own up to it now."—Kansas City Journal.

A bowling tournament will be started on the Neighborhood house alleys soon. Members who desire to enter the tournament are requested to leave their names with the superintendent on or before Saturday night.

ELMER E. SMALLIDGE.

Elmer E. Smallidge, a highly-respected citizen, died at his home October 28, aged fifty-four years. He was born in Northeast Harbor, the son of the late Nathan and Hannah Gilpatrick Smallidge, and had lived here the greater part of his life. He had won the good will and respect of all who knew him.

Mr. Smallidge was a member of Ocean lodge, I. O. O. F., and of Mount Desert encampment, of Bar Harbor, and always took an active interest in these organizations. Northeast Harbor has lost a good friend and an esteemed resident. His wife, Louise Lavelle, and son, Robert Lindsay, have the sympathy of all.

The funeral was held in the Union church on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 31. Rev. Mr. Sailer officiated. The church was filled with neighbors and friends. Members of the Odd Fellows lodge and encampment attended in a body, to pay their final tribute to the departed brother. The interment was at Forest Hill cemetery, where the Odd Fellows' burial service was read.

Besides his wife and son, Mr. Smallidge is survived by two brothers—Samuel O., of this place, and Helen, of Massachusetts, and two sisters—Mrs. A. I. Holmes, of Southwest Harbor, and Mrs. Robert Lindsay, of Lawrence, Mass.

NORMAL SCHOOL NOTES.

Friday evening, at Richardson hall, the students enjoyed reports of the teachers' convention, given by the teachers of the normal school, and Miss Conant, the principal's secretary.

The students of Richardson hall enjoyed a delightful hallowe'en social. A ghost march, peanut race, and fortune-telling contributed to the enjoyment of the occasion. Apples and corn-balls were served. The evening closed with the reading of ghost stories, around the fire.
