SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson III.-Fourth Quarter, For Oct. 21, 1917.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Ez. iii, 8-13; vi, 14 18-Memory Verses, Ez. vi, 14, 15. Golden Text, Ps. c. 4-Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The two portions selected for today's lesson, with the intervening chapters, tell of the rebuilding and dedication of the temple, notwithstanding many hindrances. The prominent human instruments are Zerubbabel the governor, Joshua the priest and the two prophets Haggai and Zechariah. Compare chapters iii, 8, and vi, 14, and the writings of these two prophets. In chapter iii, 2, 3, notice that the very first shing they did was to build the altar and effer burnt offerings unto the Lord, reminding us of the shed-ding of blood of Gen. iii, 21, Noah's altar after the deluge, Abram's altar in the land and after his return from Egypt and the altar just inside the gate of the tabernacle, the only way of cess to God (Gen. viii, 20; xii, 8; xiii, 4; Ex. xxix, 38-43). All blessing is because of the finished work on Golgotha. of which all sacrifice was typical and without which there can be neither service nor worship. There is a sentepce in chapter iii. 4, which is applica-ble to all our daily life and to all our service. "As the duty of every day required," or, as in the margin, "The matter of the day in his day." It is also found in most helpful connections in Ex. xvi. 4: II Kings xxv, 30; I Kings viii, 59, and elsewhere. It is the prac-tical application of the prayer "Give us this day our daily bread."

As the foundation of the house was laid the weeping of the old people who had seen the first house and the joyful shouting of the younger people bewas very confusing, but it was heard (iii, 11-13). Our praise and thanksgiving because of the one only foundation that has been laid should be heard afar off, even to the ends of the earth, that all who will may build thereon, for the gospel of God concerning His Son is for every creature (Isa. xxviii, 16; 1 Cor. iii, 11; Acts iv, 12; Mark xvi, 15). In the matter of ordibuildings to lay a foundation is one thing and to complete the building may be quite another because of many hindrances. In this case the adversa ries wanted to join Israel in helping to build, but the governor and the priest would not accept their help, saying. 'Ye have nothing to do with us to build our house unto our God." There fore the adversaries in every way hin dered the work and caused it to cease until the second year of Darius (iv. 1-6,

They that are in the flesh-that is misaved people—cannot please God (Rom. vill. 8), and such should not be asked to help in any way in what is really the work of the Lord. The Lord cannot accept service, either in the pulpit or out of it, from those who are not His, for without faith it is impos sible to please Him (Heb. xi, 6). There are many Christians who are more than willing to accept help from any one, and pastors and workers have been known to appeal to the ungodly for funds to carry on what they call the Lord's work, but it is all wrong. The Lord said through Haggai, "The silver is mine, and the gold is mine" (Hag ii, 8), and if the work is His He will care for it without any help from the ungodly. I have proved this for near tle monthly, Kingdom Tidings, now in its twenty-sixth year, tells on the first page of each issue what a wonder vorking God we have.

The servants of the God of heaven and earth (v. 11) should be able to say to the world what Abram said to the king of Sodom, "I have lift up mine hand unto the Lord, the most high God, the possessor of heaven and earth,

• • that I will not take anything that is thine lest thou shouldest say, I have made Abram rich" (Gen. xiv. 22, 23) According to H Chron. xvi, 9, the Lord is looking over the earth for such as are whole bearted for Him that He may show Himself strong for them But we cannot have a whole heart for God while leaning on the world Darius, having caused search to be made, found the decree of Cyrus concerning the building of the house and sent word to the governor beyond the river and his companions, saying. "Let the work of this house of God alone let the governor of the Jews and the elders of the Jews build this house of God in his place." And he niso or dered that all they needed for building them day by day without fail (vi. 7-10) How much more and without fail will the Lord Jesus do for His own and for all work that is really His! (Rom

So the building was finished (vi. 14. 15), and He who said on the cross "It is finished" will finish all that has been purposed in Him from all eternity, the and salvation of Israel and the filling of the whole earth with His giory. All His enemies shall be subdued and the Lamb shall overcome, for He is King of kings and Lord of lords (Rev. xvii. 14). Our lesson began with the altar of sacrifice, and it ends with the keeping of the Passover after the dedication of the temple (vi. 16-22). Whether it be larged or the church or the indi-vidual believer, the beginning and end-ing of everything are in Christ by virtue of His great sacrifice of Himself for us and because He will surely finish all that He has begun. A SUNSHINE SONG.

Look back and count things over, Then look shead and smile; The beaviest fields of clover Are in the afterwhile! Look back and calmly pouder; Then look ahead and sing—

The hopes are far off youder, To-morrow makes the king! Look back, but never sad'y; The best days burn so gladly, The world is yet to meet! Look back, but not in sorrow, Ahead, but not in fear-Life builds on dreams to-morrow; The best is not yet here!

I hope you all enjoyed the picture nature provided for you, when winterflung a little mantle of snow over the autumn landcape a few days ago. Did you see the bright foliage, the "greens" of the trees not yet destitute of leaves and the cheery brightness of the red apples here ar there glowing through the snow? Or did you sigh and say, "Oh! winter is here," and did you shiver in anticipation of what the nearby future months might bring? Just remember, there are sunny days in winter after all, and remember it is a good omen when the first snow disappear by sunshine instead of rain.

A cordial greeting is extended to Nell, our fourth new volunteer since the re-union. Come one, come all, and give us helpful ideas and recipes as these new M. B.'s have done. Thanks to each of

Dear Aunt Madge:

For several years I have planned writing for the M.B. column, and on the principle of the small boy joining the Sunday school just before Chris.mas, the impulse bas been strongest just before the reunion, but thanks to my mother's being a member of this helpful family of yours, I have been able to actend the picnic, and so have neglected my opportunity yet another year. By the constant urging of Winifred, at ast I am asking your acceptance of meas a niece. As I'm not much of a housekeeper, though I can make excellent cream of tartar iscuits, just as you taught me years ago, m not sure that the helpfulness will be ual, but I can can and pickie. I will send a few recipes for use of your toma which, if they are like ours this year, need quite immediate cooking.

Cucumbers are more easily pickled. I pack ours in a jar or crock and cover with cold vinegar in which sugar, salt and mus cold vinegar in which sugar, sate and mustard have been stirred, in proportion of one cup of each to a gallon of vinegar. Spices in bags may be packed with the cucumbers. Hoping I may receive as cordial a welcome to the column, as I have many a time to your home, I will close with best wishes to all.

If we are to profit by the suggestions of the sister from Hancock which she gave us two weeks ago, we must be collecting dishes and our ideas of 1001 conservation It would be a good week to have it in the column Oct. 21-28, when the State canvase

FROGS' LEGS.

THE legs should be rinsed and wiped dry with a soft, clean cloth. Epicures usually agree that the best way to cook frogs' legs is to fry them in deep fat. To go about this the legs should first be left in boiling water. to which has been added a little salt and lemon juice for three or four minutes. They should then be drained on a cloth or piece of porous paper and then dipped in fritter batter and fried quickly in deep fat. Some persons prefer to have the frogs' legs simply dipped in milk or milk and egg before frying, but the fritter batter gives them more crispss and makes them look a little more tempting.

The Creole Way.—Here is the Creole way of cooking frogs' legs. Place a dozen legs in an earthen dish with a sprinkling of lemon juice and allow nours. Now place two ounces of butter in a saucepan with a little onion (if the flavor is liked) and a bit of minced utes. Now add four sliced ripe tomatoes and half a cupful of mushrooms. Place a cover on the saucepan and allow this to cook till the legs are tender.

For Invalids.—Although frogs' legs are counted among the most delectable of flesh foods, they are, unlike many dainties, very wholesome and may be served to invalids and convelescents with impuity. The best way to prepare them for the sick room would be to parboil them and then dip them in milk and eggs and fry them in deep fat. Fried foods are not usually the most wholesome, but by this method there is no hard crust on the surface, which is the usual cause of the objection to fried dishes. If stewed frogs' legs are preferred for invalids do not add the cream to the gravy and omit the onion and bay leaf in the flavor-ing.

AMERICAN WOUNDED BEING CARED FOR IN BIG CHATEAU IN FRANCE

Ambulance Drivers and Aviators Nursed Back to Health by Wife of Wealthy American—Convalescents Play Golf on Chantilly Links-Chateau Faces the Famous Chantilly Race Course.

Chantilly, France.—In his big chateau here where for more than two years he had billeted upon him as guests a dozen French officers attached to the staff of General Joffre, Elliott Fitch Shepard, the American millionaire, has established a convalescent home for sick and wounded American aviators and American ambulance driv-

Shepard has resided at Chantilly since the beginning of the war, except during the fleeting visit of the Gerans just before the battle of the Marne. Then the Shepards drove out of Chantilly toward Paris in their big touring car 20 minutes before the first troop of Uhlans entered into Chantilly from Senlis, which they had just put to the torch.

After the battle of the Alsne, when warfare stagnated into intrenched positions, General Joffre selected Chan-tilly as the seat of his Great Headquarters. The "G. Q. G.," as the French abbreviate "Grande Quartier Generale," remained at Chantilly for more than two years, or up to the time that Joffre was made marshal and General Nivelle took his place as com-mander in chief of the French armies in the field.

Turned Over to Refugees.

Then came the German retreat to the Hindenburg line and refugees from the devastated region evacuated by the Germans began to pour into Crell, Senlis and Chantilly. Shepard turned over the rooms so recently given up by the officers attached to General Joffre's staff to the refugees and took 21 under his roof the first night. Gradually the French authorities shifted the refugees to the south of France, and then once more the Shepard home was emptied except for the family.

It was then that Mrs. Eleanor Shepard decided to open a convalescent home for sick or wounded American youths serving with the aviation, the Red Cross or any other branch of the service. Since she has started her enterprise Mrs. Shepard has had an average of sixteen American youths as her guests at all times. Some have been suffering from wounds-more and more American ambulance drivers are being slain and maimed by shells since their number increases with every arriving ship. Others have the dread malady known as "shell shock," when the nerves are literally set on end through being under continuous bombardment. In most cases the illness of the ambulance drivers is traceable directly to nervous indigestion, caused by the tremendous excitement under which the boys work.

No Preliminary Preparation.

For these youths, averaging from seventeen to twenty-one years, come direct from schools and colleges and go under fire in the most terrible war the world has ever seen, with no pre-liminary preparation. It is only neces-sary that they be able to drive motor cars. They have not the military training and drilling and inculcation of discipline which fits the soldier for the life of the trenches.

Mrs. Shepard is aided in her work by her sister, Miss Mercedes Terradell, formerly of Trenton, N. J., who has been in France doing war relief work for more than a year. She gave valuable aid to the French authorities last March when the refugees were dumped into Chantilly by administering first aid to the tiny babies who formed a considerable proportion of the motley collection of suffering humanity that the Germans left in their wake.

"Feeding the boys regular American food prepared the way they have been accustomed to having it at home is the principal factor in making them well and strong again," said Mrs. Shepard. "Americans are not used to eating the coarse brown war bread which the French use, and they are not used to living on soup and stew, either. After a boy leaves here, if he has a weak stomach, I send him packages of food every week. I send him wheat bis-cuits that he can eat instead of the war bread, and rice and preserved vegetables that we put up here our selves, and occasionally, when there is an automobile going up to the part of the front where they are statione can send them fresh meat and poul-

Take Up Golf.

The Shepard chateau faces the Chantilly race course, and just behind it are the Chantilly golf links. Shepard has plenty of clubs and near all of the convalescents learn something about golf before they are considered well enough to be discharged and go back to their posts at the front.

Richard M. Atwater, 3d, of Scarsdale, the youngest member of the American field service—he is just six-teen—has just left Chantilly to return to the front with his ambulance section. James Norman Hill of Colfax, Ia., attached to the Lafayette Escadrille, who was wounded by machine gun bullets when fighting a German biplane near Lens, has just gone back to take up flying again after conva-lescing at Chantilly. C. Wyman Steele Conn., and Russell Nichols of Bran ford, Conn., are now in the Verdun sector with their ambulance after "takng the cure" at Chantilly.

Won the War Cross.

Marcel Cuny, a French youth of the
Two Hundred and Seventy-ninth regiment, who lived in Chantilly before the war, was also a guest of the Shep ards after be had captured a German machine gun and six German prisoners single-handed in the fierce fighting along the Chemin des Dames. Cuny is not yet twenty years old and had just been sent to the front when he performed the act of gallantry which won him the War Cross with a star and a paim on the ribbon. Cuny crawled out in "No-Man's-Land" at night on reconnaissance duty and found a shell hole between the two belts of barbed-wire entanglements, occupied by the six Germans who were acting as a machine gun team. Cuny was armed only with grenades, and as he squirmed forward on his stomach to the edge of the crater and raised a bomb to throw in among the Boches, they all six raised their hands and Cuny ordered them to the French lines and made them carry their ma-chine gun with them. He took the six steel German helmets off to Chantilly-he was granted nine days leave for his bravery—and gave them as souvenirs to the American ambulance boys recuperating there.

ENGLISH CHEER BATTLE HYMN

Julia Ward Howe's Classic Received Enthusiastically in London Concert.

London.—An American surprise was sprung on the fashionable audience at the opening of the annual series of so-called "popular concerts," which for a generation have been a weekly feature of the musical season in London The soloist of the afternoon was Miss Carrie Tubb, perhaps the most pepular of native English prima donnas. In response to the customary demand for an encore, she sang with splendid dramatic effect the famous "Battle Hymn of the Republic." When the first notes of the piano accompaniment tinkled out there were some smiles among the audience, who knew the air principally as used by the Salvation army to carry a religious song in its open-air meetings. But the intense fervor of the singer swept all before her, and the song was heard in breath-less silence and hailed with enthusiastic applause.

President Wilson, in behalf of the liberty loan, has issued a proclama-tion setting aside October 24 as "Liberty day," and urging the people to assemble on that day in their respective communities and "pledge to one another and to the government that represents them, the fullest measure of financial support. Let the result be so impressive and emphatic," he urges, "that it will echo throughout the empire of our enemy as an index of what America intends to do to bring this war to a victorious conclusion."

ROAD HEARING.

County Commissioners Order Repairs on Road in Hancock and

The county commissioners gave a hearing yesterday on petition of fifty-five residents ir and near the towns of Hancock and Franklin for repairs on the highway near Franklin Road station and eastward toward Franklin. The county plained of. Several of the petitioner were present, and they were represented by Harry L. Crabtree of Ellsworth.

Two sections complained of are between the junction of the Franklin and Hancock roads and the Franklin Road station, and easterly to Egypt hill, nearly all in the town of Hancock.

This is a particularly important highway, being the direct road from Ellsworth to Franklin, and the trunk line to Washmissioners gave a hearing at the Franklin Road station. The town of Hancock was represented by Selectmen Crabtree and Jellison. After testimony on both sides had been heard, the commissioners condemned the road, declaring it unsafe, and directed that it be put in as good condition as the average dirt road, allowing three weeks for this purpose.

This is not the only bad piece of road in the trunk line to Washington county. Another section east of Franklin village, near Alder brook, is unsafe because of its extreme narrowness and bad culverts. In many places the road is not wide enough for automobiles to pass each other.

It is understood that unless this road is repaired within a reasonable time, the official attention of the county commissioners will also be directed toward it.

Railroad cars are so scarce, an effort should be made to load them to their full especity. Less than carload shipments should be swelded where practicable. We believe the railroad situation will be very serious this winter, and advise that goods be ordered for early shipment, say December, January and February.

The Game of Make Believe.

Let's play the game of make believe,
And keep it round awhile,
And when you're feeling sad and blue
Let's make believe and smile.
And when the world looks dark and drear, And some folks seen untrue, Let's make believe the world's all right, And folks are all right, too.

I've played this game of make believe For many, many years, And laughed and sang with make believe

To cover up my tears.
Till now this game of make believe
Has come so close to me, That I can almost make believe

You can't say that they are across the water, in Europe, where they are too far off to harm you or yours. They are here, right here in your country. Your neighbor's fire smoked before it blased, the boy next door had scarlet fever for days before ft "broke out" on him; the unsprayed apple trees and the uncovered garbage pail were getting in their deadly work for days before you knew anything about them. The danger that this war is spreading throughout every corner of the world is not over there, but here, HERE and NOW. Much of the danger you know; much you do not danger you know; much you do not know. There are enemies, germ carriers, where you think it is impossible for them to be. You may rub your elbows with them on your way to work. You may sit next to them in street cars. They may be your customers, your tradespeople, your very neighbors; but they are spreading by ways that are open and that kill quickly and by ways that are secret and ly and by ways that are secret and that stab in the dark the most dreadful disease that has ever been on this earth—WAR. You know what war does; there is not a man, nor a woman, nor a child in all this broad land who will not be burt by this war if it is permitted to repeat itself. War has got to be ended, ended soon, and ended forever; and there is only one way to do it. One way, that, is, for you and for me, who cannot place our bodies where they will stand between our loved ones and the shot and steel of war. You and I have got to do our part by providing the means with which war can be stopped and shall be stopped. You and I, who cannot fight, have got to provide money, jus money, so that others can do our fighting for us. American Surgeon Calls Tale of Serious Differences a German Canard.

UTMOST CORDIALITY EXISTS

Excellent Work Being Done by American Units Has Been Subject of Complimentary Remarks by British Surgeons.

British Headquarters in France and Belgium. — German agents recently have been spreading broadcast on the continent the report that serious differences have arisen between the British army medical service and the American surgeons and physicians who have been working with the British have been working with the British forces in France. Special publicity has been given the story by its spon-sors in Belgium and France. The correspondent of the Associated Press ac credited to British general headquarters has made a careful investigation of the facts, visiting not only base hospitals which have been taken over by American medical units, but cas-ualty clearing stations in which American surgical teams are working.

The utmost cordiality has and does exist between the British medical service and the Americans who are working with them. The assertion that there has been any quarrel between the bodies is without foundation. As one eminent American has put it:

"The story is a gross canard. The reasons for circulating it are obvious. The Germans are trying to create among Belgian and French civilians a contempt for America and Great Britain and consequently a hostility toward these two nations."

Americans Are Part of Machine.

The six medical units which were sent over from the United States to take charge of six British base hospitals have become a part of the sm ly running organization that the British have developed. The Americans feel that they are fortunate in their position. They realize that they have much to learn about war hospitals and they are having the opportunity of learning rapidly from men who have had more than three years' experience. The British, on the other hand, recognize fully the sacrifices that have been made by the Americans, many of them eminent surgeons with big practices at home, to come to France to do their bit in caring for the woundthe American units has frequently been the subject of the most complimentary remarks by all ranks of the British medical organization. The service which the workers from the United States have performed is viewed as one of the bright spots in a war which is causing so much misery.

When the Germans began their ruth less sinking of hospital ships and it be-came apparent that it would be unsafe to try to transport wounded British soldiers and German prisoners to England, there was a hurry-up call for the establishment of more base hospitals in France. America was asked for assistance and the six units were rushed across to Europe, without stop-ping to bring their full equipment. They immediately took over large base hospitals, and although they were han-dicapped for a time because of lack of supplies, their institutions soon ranked among the best, for while the units were inexperienced in war work, they were highly trained in hospital

Roughly speaking, the six base hos pitals conducted by the Americans have beds for about 1,500 patients each, and there are many times when they are filled to overflowing, for base hospitals must care not only for their own wounded but for Germans as well The six base hospitals have, in addi-tion to their other work, furnished about ten surgical teams for service in casualty clearing stations near the firing line. These teams usually con-sist of a surgeon, an assistant, a nurse and an orderly. American surgeons ally are laboring beside youthful medi-cal officers who have sat under them in the classroom at home. Doctor Crile of Cleveland, Doctor Cushing of Har-ward, Doctor Brewer of New York, Doctor Harte of Philadelphia, Doctor Murphy of St. Louis and Doctor Fred-Murphy of St. Louis and Doctor Frederick Bealey of Chicago—they call them majors over here—all have been or are at present working night and day in casualty clearing stations, which have been caring for the wounded from the last great offensive.

These surgical teams have had one characteristic experience. Their work is hampered and their lives are endangered by German airmen, who persist gered by German airmen, who persist in hurling high explosives down among them. In one of the latest raids the German aviators killed or rewounded many of their own men who were pris-oners being cared for in one of these hospitals.

An interesting test case will go to the aw court, on the constitutionality of a obster transportation law passed by the last legislature. This case comes to this court on appeal of Charles P. Dodge from the Western Hancock municipal court, in which a fine of $150 and costs was imposed. The respondent is charged with trans-porting lobsters beyond the limits of the State without procuring a license from the sea and shore fisheries commission. Mr. Dedge transported the lobsters in the smack Grace M. Cribbey, of which he was in control, and which was not a common control. mon carrier. The case goes to the law court on an agreed statement, the whole issue being the question of the constitu-tionality of the law requiring a license in such a case. W. R. Pattangall of Waterville appears for the respondent; County

Attorney Mason for the State.

COUNTY CONTEST.

YOUNG AGRICULTURISTS WILL INVADE ELLSWORTH FRIDAY.

HANCOCK COUNTY STILL LEADS IN THIS SPLENDID WORK - MOST OF EXHIBITS NOW IN PLACE—THE PROGRAM.

On Friday and Saturday of this week, ome 300 boys and girls of the agricultural clubs of Hancock county will invade Ells-worth. It will be a happy invasion, and the good people of Ellsworth must meet it

The work which these boys and girls are doing is beyond encouragement-they are setting the pace for the county, and the grown-ups have got to fall in line behind them. There are some forty-five of these them. There are some forty-five of these clubs in the county this year, with a membership of close to 1,000. Their exhibit will be the largest of its kind ever made by any county in the State.

Governor Milliken is coming here to talk to the boys and girls. He is on the program for Friday evening, but if he program for Friday evening, but if he annot get here that evening, he prothat he will surely be here Saturday morning. So much for the importance which the chief executive of the State attaches to this work.

Elisworth people must wake up right now to the importance of furnishing entertainment for these bright and enthu-siastic boys and girls. The ladies having reluctance on the part of some to open their homes. Up to this morning, places had been secured for about half the 300 expected.

It means something to take care of 300 boys and girls. Last year's gathering was large, but compare it with what this year's will be. Last year sixty-six boys and girls came to Ellsworth; this year nearly five times as many will come. Last year fifty prizes were distributed. This

Most of the exhibit is already in place in Hancock hall. It is worth seeing. sixty-nine girls and one boy-have sent ten jars each of canned fruits and vegetables-700 jars of the most delicious look ing preserves you ever saw. Fifty-four boys of the potato clubs have sent exhibits of ten potatoes each. Eighteen girls will exhibit bread. The garden clubs make a fine showing of beans, peas corn and other vegetables. There will be twenty-five pens of poultry from the poultry clubs, the prize-winners in local contests from all parts of the county met in a supreme contest for the year.

WIFE AND SON HELP FIGHT

Pollus In Trench With Disguised Famlly Keep Their Secret-In the Chasseurs.

Paris.—A land owner of Vergeze has received the following letter from his son, a staff captain:

"I heard a strange story today, that woman and a boy of sixteen had been found among the men of the battalion of unmounted chasseurs. An investigation was made and they were found to be the wife and the son of a chasseur who had determined not to be separated from him. Both went into the trenches with the other pollus, and the most striking thing about it is they had been with the battalion five months before the authorities found out. Of course everybody in the bat talion knew, but, as you see, the secret was well kept.

"As an old chasseur yourself you will be proud to learn that a father and mother and son have been under fire together in your old battalion."

HUNGER BRINGS HIM BACK

Tennessee Private Deserts and Defles Pursuers, but Lack of Food Makes Him Give Up.

Nashville, Tenn.—Lincoln Burk-hardt, private in the First Tennessee infantry, after twice deserting, faces court-martial. He deserted several months ago, was captured and returned to his command. He was given a light sentence in the guardhouse. Recently he deserted for the second time. He made his way into the hills with his uniform, gun and ammunition and defled his pursuers. When he got hungry he hung out the white flag.

Dog Outwits Alarm. Siberia, Cal.—When his alarm failed to work, James Atkins, investigating, found his pet bulldog, who had con-tracted Atkins' habit of late rising, turned the alarm lever off every night after Atkins was asleep, and then turned it on again the next morning to avoid suspicion. Atkins is buying an electric clock with a time lock.

"Two million subscribers for $500, Two million subscribers for $500,000,000" is the slogan of the New

Said N. Penrose Hallowell, vicechairman of that committee.
Commenting on the total of $26,647,000 which the combined activities in all the New England states ties in all the New England states had produced, as far as reported in the first five days, he said.

"Only Fairly Satisfactory."

"Our beginning for this campaign is only fairly satisfactory. It should be remembered that the country must raise not $2,000,000,000, but $5,000,000,000, and that the New England district is required to subscribe $500,000,000,000 instead of $300,000,000,000. as before. Therefore, our task this time is almost twice as great as before.

"We urge the citizens of New Eng-land to do two things:

"First, subscribe now. Do not wait until the end of the campaign, as your subscription now will influence others.

"Second, wear your Liberty button This is a privilege and a duty. If this campaign is to be successful, in another two weeks a person not wear-ing a button will be very noticeable. Remember this: Your example helps others; your encouragement helps oth-

"There were between 900,000 and 1,000,000 people who subscribed to the 3 1-2 per cent. loan. This time we want 2,000,000 subscribers.

"We are sending out a letter to all the banks in this district requesting them to send us each day their total number of subscribers. When these returns begin to come in, we will publish them. Let our slogan from now on be, "Two million subscribers for $500,000,000 bonds." Emphasis is laid upon the value to the cause of "the many dollars from the many, many wage earners." As an example of what the people can do in the way of financing the war, it is urged that 110,000,000 persons, each saving 10 cents each day, will save $11,000,000 daily.

Origin of a Popular Hymn.

The following illustration given by
D. L. Moody suggests the true origin of P. P. Bliss' hymn, "Let the Lower Lights Be Burning!" A ship on Lake
Erle, bound for Cleveland harbor, was Erie, bound for Cleveland harbor, was overtaken by a storm, and as they neared the port the pilot could only see the upper light—the light from the lighthouse streaming to them through the storm and darkness. The lower lights were not burning—the pilot could not see how to steer into the harbor. It was impossible to sail back again upon the lake; the ship had to go forward and for the want of the lower lights along the shore the vessel, now at the mercy of the huge, roaring waves, was dashed to pieces on the rocks, and many of the crew perished before help could reach them. P. P. pefore help could reach them. P. P. Bliss was associated in those early days with D. L. Moody in Christian work, and he must have heard Mr. Moody use this illustration, which gives a beauty to its meaning."—Chris-tian Herald.

Story of the British Occupancy of New York.

By P. A. MITCHEL ******************

What is now known as the Bowery. in New York, was originally a garden belonging to Petrus Stuyvesant, the last of the Dutch governors of the provce of New Amsterdam. At the time the English came ashore and took the town away from the Dutch the name New Amsterdam was changed to New York. By the time the American war dence came the Bowery had become a street, and St. Mark's place, where Governor Stuyvesant's manor ouse stood, had begun to be occupied pulling down one of these dwellings came upon a space closed by an fron door within which was a body, or, rather, a skeleton of a man. There was enough of the clothing left to indicate that it was a soldier's uniform, and color, there was no doubt that the man had been in the British army. Judging by the trimmings and buttons officer. In his pockets were found a number of letters, some of which were signed Katherice, some Kate, some I mansion in question was occupied by a family of Tories named Throckmorton. The British occupied New York, their outposts extending to Westel county, where they confronted the American forces—a thin line—under colonel Aaron Burr.

The find was turned over to certain persons who were interested in the early history of New York, and through the letters a story came to light that had been buried in oblivion for more than a hundred years.

There was a time when Washington made his headquarters at Dobbs Ferry, a settlement some twenty miles from New York. While there he used what-ever means within his power to gain information of what was going on in General Howe's army in the city. There the house occupied by the general, and one day, when he was sitting in the room he used for an office; his orderly announced to him that a girl was without who desired to give him certain in-formation of the enemy. Washington directed that she be admitted.

directed that she be admitted.

She gave her name as Katherine Ten Broek and said that she had been to New York and while there had kept her eyes open to the extent and armament of the British forces occupying the city. Washington asked her a great many questions, and her replies showed such intelligent observation that the general proposed to her that she make another trip with a view to bringing him other information which he very much desired. She consented, and he asked her to discover if possible whether General Howe was meditating a move southward through New ting a move southward through New Jersey and Pennsylvania. There were two methods of obtaining this informa-tion, the one by noticing the accumula-

There was no difficulty in getting into New Fork, for Washington could into New York, for Washington could give a pass for the purpose. As to returning, that was another matter. General Howe at this time had intentions that he did not wish disclosed to his enemy and was loath to permit any one going to the American lines.

his enemy and was lost to permit any one going to the American lines.

Armed with Washington's pass. Katherine Ten Broek rode from Dobbs Ferry to a point not far south of Yonkers, where she found Colonel Burr's regiment. Here she left herconveyance and proceeded on foot to the north side of the Harlem river, where she found the British pickets.

Mistress Ten Broek, who, as her name indicated, had descended from the Dutch settlers of New York, had a pair of mild blue eyes, abundant locks, extremely light in color, and a complexion of pink and white. When she came to the British pickets she asked extremely light in color, and a complexion of pink and white. When she came to the British pickets she asked the officer of the pickets she asked the officer of the picket post to pass her through, saying that she wished to go to New York to do some shopping.

"I can pass you through our lines," said the officer, noticing her mildness, which appeared not only in her physique, but in her voice, "but my orders are to pass no one going north. If you go in you will have to stay in. You can't get back home again."

Katherine feigned to hesitate at this. She looked much disappointed. She told the officer that there was to be a dance in Yonkers and she had nothing to wear. If she could not go to the city she must remain away from the dance. She looked so innocent and was so pretty that the officer took pity on her and, taking from his pocket a letter, tore off a part free from ink, wrote something on it and handed it to her. It was a request to an officer of Howe's staff to pass her back after she had finished her purchases.

Katherine's face brightened up at receiving this paper, which the officer told her was to an intimate friend, and she appeared for all the world to care only to get something with which to adorn herself. "Now I can go to the dance," she said, clapping her hands and dancing on her joes, and started for the ferry across the Harlem river, the officer attending her, etting her in the boat and pulling her across himself.

"What can I give you for your kind-ness?" asked Katherine when they touched the shore.
"A kiss would amply repay me," said

The girl dropped her eyes and made no reply. The officer approached, and Katherine turned her cheek to him. He kissed it, and Katherine stepped ashore. When she had proceeded a short distance she turned and saw the officer looking after her wistfully. She threw him a kiss from the tips of her fingers, giving him a smile at the same

Katherine had ten or eleven miles to go bei'ore seaching the city. She got a good many lifts, so that the journey was not as irksome as might have been expected. Anna Throckmorton was an intimate friend of hers, and Katherine was always made welcome at the Throckmorton home. She arrived there in the evening and was received by ping in a few hours if she had had any shopping to do. Her time was spent among the camps, where she kept her ears open for what was said and in noticing what preparations. in noticing what preparations were beand supplies across the Hudson river. One day while passing one of the regi-mental camps she saw the officer who had passed her through the British lines. He joined her and walked with her. He asked her where she was stopping, and she told him. He had been often at the Throckmortons, where he had been welcomed, they befing Tories. So he said if she were go-fing to remain in the city longer he would come to see her there. To this she replied that she might be delayed

Captain Hugh Arbuckle called upon Mistress Ten Brock and fell in love with her. Indeed, Cupid had sent a dart into his heart the moment she ap-peared at the picket post that he had commanded. Whether or not she derived any information with respect to the British movements, she at least used him to enable her to go where she pleased. When she was ready to de-part she told him that she preferred not to deliver the letter he had given her to a member of General Howe's staff. She would like him to see her through the lines himself.

The truth is that Katherine had been seen making notes of certain items she intended to take with her to General Washington, and from that moment she was watched. Moreover, she was aware that she was watched. If she she would be arrested and a search would be made for what would be contraband of war. She held Arbuckle sufficiently under her thumb to induce him to go with her to the British outposts beyond the Harlem river and see that she got safeliariem river and see that she got sare-ly through. Arbuekle drove her to the line, but when they reached it the officer in charge of the picket post said that he had received orders not to pass-any one except on a pass signed by an officer of the staff especially designated to give passes.

Arbuckle endeavored to persuade Katherine to go back to New York and remain there till she could secure a remain there till she could secure a pass signed by the proper authority. But Katherine would not listen to such a course. To her lover's surprise she developed a resolution not to be expected of one of her innocent mich. She persuaded him to make for the Hudson river, and when they reached the shere she appropriated a lost by the shore she appropriated a boat by which to reach a point north of the British line.

She would not permit Arbuckle to go with her. The tide was coming in and would take her over the few miles that would enable her to land within the American lines. Before leaving him she arranged for an improvised postoffice through which they might elothing.

A correspondence ensued between Arbuckle and the girl who held him in thrall that lasted until the British began the evacuation of New York. At the time Katherine was in New York, and Arbuckle was visiting her at the Throckmorton home. Meanwhile the British, who had missed Katherine, were looking for her. They had evidence that she was acting the part of a spy and had intercepted a letter from her to Arbuckle.

house. Arbuckle and Katherine were in conference when the negro rushed in and told them the soldiers were coming. Katherine told Arbuckle to flee in one direction while she fied in another. She escaped through the garden, Arbuckle disappeared, and when the departure of the troops took place he was reported missing. A search was made, but he was not found. His disappearance was a mystery that was never cleared up till the Throckmorton house was torn down.

It is probable that when the troops came he went to the secret closet for concealment, closed the door and was unable to open it again.

The Throckmortons left with the British and their home, which was eventually confiscated, remained a long while vacant.

PRESENT WALL OF STEEL TO ENEMY

American Soldiers Will Be Armed to Teeth When They Go Into Trenches.

BAKER GIVES OUT DETAILS

One Hundred and Ninety-Two Gune and 480 Trench Knives Added to Equipment of Each Regiment in Reorganization.

Washington.-American soldiers will be literally armed to the teeth when they go into the trenches.

In addition to the usual rifles, bayonets and pistols with which the men are now armed, there will be added to the fighting equipment of each regi-ment 480 trench knives, 40 to each company; 192 machine guns, 16 to each company, and three one-pound

Details of the men's fighting equipment were given in a statement Secretary of War Baker, outlining the new army organization for overseas

27,152 Men in Division.

The new organization increased the ratio of artillery to infantry from three to nine, as at present, to three to four. A corresponding increase is made in machine gun strength. In addition, there are sections of sappers and bombers which have important parts to play in the new warfare.

The strength of the new organiza-tions will be: Divisions, 27,152; in-fantry brigade, 8,210; artillery brigade, 5,068; infantry company, 256, and machine gun company, 178.

Each infantry regiment will have strength of 103 officers and 3,652 men. There will be one headquarters, and a headquarters company of 313; three battalions of four rifle companies, each totalling 3,078; one supply company of 140, one machine gun company and one medical detachment of 56.

The rifle company has 250 men and six officers. It is composed of a company headquarters and two officers and 18 men, and four platoons. Each platoon has two sections of riflemen of 12 each, or 24 men; one section of bombers and rifle grenadiers of 22 men, and one section of auto rifle of 11 men and four guns.

The 178 men of the machine gun company will be armed with 12 heavy machine guns and four spare guns.

Details of Organization.

The organization of the infantry division in detail follows:

One division herdquarters..... One machine can battallon of four One machine gan battalion of four companies
Two infantry brigades, each composed of two infantry regiments, and one machine gun battalion of three companies.
One field artillery brigade, composed of three field artillery regiments and one trench mortar battery.
One field signal battalion.
One regiment of engineers.
One train headquarters and military police

police 337
One ammunition train 962
One supply train 472
One engineer train 84
One sanitary train, composed of four field hospital companies and four ambulance companies and four 27,102

Each regimental headquarters will consist of seven officers and 294 men. There will be a headquarters platoon of 93, a staff section of 36, an orderlies' section of 29; a band section of 28; WHER AS Wary A Marshall of Trepton, county of Hancock, and State of Mille, b her manager d. cd., dated September 19, 191, and recorded in Hancock county telephone section; a sappers' and hombers' platoon of 44; a pioneer pla-toon of 55 for engineer work, and a cannon platoon of 33 officers and men.

Sixteen Kitchens Included

The transportation equipment to each regiment will be 22 combat wagons; 16 rolling kitchens, 22 baggage and rations wagons; 16 rations carts; 15 water carts; three medica carts; 24 machine gun carts; 59 riding horses; eight riding mules; 832 draught mules; two motorcycles with side cars; one motor car and 42 bicycles. There will be 14 machine gun companies to the division. Each of the four infantry regiments will have one, each of the two brigades a machine gun battalion of three companies, and the division will have a separate machine gun battalion of four companies. This gives the division a mobile machine gun strength of ten companies which can be used as special needs re quire, while each regiment still has its own machine gun equipment in one of its component companies. And in addition there are 48 sections of auto riflemen, each section carrying four light machine guns.

LOAN WILL HELP WIN OR SHORTEN THE WAR

Millions Who Cannot Fight Can Provide Food, Guns and Planes for Fighters

The response of New England, city by city, and town by town, to the Second Liberty Loan of 1917, is bound to be positive and reaching farther into different sections and homes than even on the First Loan.

The first week of the campaign for the Second Loan proves how thoroughly ready New England is to do its share to carry on the work. The sense that both duty and interest require of every citizen the greatest effort to make certain the success of the Loan has spread throughout the community. The fact which will be presented, and must be pressed in, in the effort to secure the $3,000,000,000 of the Second Loan is that its failure would be a national calamity. would not only check the war for liberty, and deal a blow to the Nation and the national credit, but it would affect every individual in the Nation.

The success of the Loan will mean that the Nation is united and firmly resolved to win the war, and to succeed the Second Loan should be greater in volume and in number of subscriptions than the First, more than half of the First Loan (57%) being from persons who subscribed to bonds of $10,000 or less. The bonds offer in themselves a direct appeal to such buyers.

As an investment yielding 4%, without taxes, the bond is the most valuable and safest security on earth. Were it not for this emergency of war, no such investment could possibly be offered to buyers. The fact that the bonds are not subject to the normal Income Tax, and not taxable for State or local purposes, adds materially to their value.

As these bonds are issued by the Government to provide money to carry on the war, the success of the Loan must have a direct tendency to cut short the war. The money that will be loaned by the people at 4% to our Government will enable the United States and her Allies to press the battle against Germany with greater effectiveness.

It will also be a convincing demonstration to Germany that we are de-termined to fight to the end, to the last man, and the last dollar, to make the world safe for Democracy. Such a showing must convince Germany that while she is growing weaker in resources, the Allies are steadily gaining through the enormous strength thrown on their side by the United

Every Liberty Bond bought helps to shorten the time of service required of our soldiers, and brings nearer the day on which they will come back from the battlefields of Europe. Only a few million Americans in all will ever take active part in the fighting, but those who cannot carry a rifle, or man a gun, drive a motor ambulance, or go aloft in an airplane, must provide funds which shall furnish food, clothing and weap-ons for those in the field. This is a sacred duty, and a duty to be done in ous rivalry with one another.

The Loan is barely a week old, and as the subscription period ends Octo-ber 27th, he who acts promptly at this time does even more than his share by rousing others to join in the 000,000 as her share to prove that her people are not more tender of their dollars than with the lives of her sons.

TEN RULES FOR DISLOYALISTS

irman Efficiency" Applied to Pro-totion of Traitorous Propaganda at Least Personal Risk.

Pro-kaiser and anti-war propagan dists reveal their lack of "German efficiency" in the frequency with which they get themselves pummeled or "pinched."

in the interest of more efficiency, the Independent has condensed the methods of the most successful practi-tioners of disloyalty into ten rules for carrying on traitorous propaganda at least personal risk.

Most of all of these rules so accurately describe the arguments which nearly everybody has heard from one or more of the traitorous-minded that they are worth frequent perusal. The

1. Assert on every occasion that Wall street" made the war. Never mind explaining when, how or why.

2. Got in all the sneers you can at any profession of ideal motives. If you can find any flaw in our democ-racy say that "we are just as bad an autocracy as Germany." Place the war in as sordid a light as possible.

3. It is dangerous to denounce the United States directly. But rake his-tory from end to end for mud to throw at the allies. Especially, twist the

4. Profess great concern lest send-ing food to Europe will starve Amer-ica. Support every embargo movement that applies to the allied nations and none that does not

5. If the president asks for any ex-tension of power rave about "dictator-ship" and the "overthrow of the liberties for which our fathers, etc."

6. Spread rumors that the allies are going to betray us or take advantage of us as soon as we are deeply enough involved in the war.

7. Accept conscription in principle but hamper its working in every pos-sible way. One good way is to start scares about revolutions and internal disorder as a pretext for keeping a large part of the army at home.

& Demonstrate that the enemy is unconquerable and victory hopeless. Play the "candid friend" and act as a depressant.

9. Be very jealous to prevent "entangling alliances" and be much con-cerned about the Monroe doctrine if we "mix ourselves in European quarreis." A permanent league of nations would embarrass your junker friends if they remain in power after the war. Germany can only hope to conquer other nations if they act selfishly and in Isolation.

10. WHEN DRIVEN TO MAKE AN

UNEQUIVOCAL STATEMENT PRO-EST YOUR LOYALTY AND THEN CHANGE THE SUBJECT.

Cut this out and hand it to the next pacifist or luke-warm friend who tries to start an argument.

than that of any of the others. But acre begins my story, which I will per-mit one to tell who mingled in the events which concerned her. My grandfather, then a young man of twenty-three, was attached to the American legation at Paris. I fell beir to his papers. On one package sealed with the seal of the United States and dated April 12, 1866, was written:

"Not to be opened for fifty years."

Ten years before the date for the opening of this package my grandfaher's papers came into my posse it is needless to say that I awaited the coming of April 12, 1916, with impatience. When it came round at exact ly 12 o'clock midday I tore off the cover to the package. This is what it contained:

I propose to put in writing what is doubtless the most important diplo matic event in the history of the Unit-ed States. A member of the embassy of the United States at Paris, I have been concerned in this event, and I desire that my descendants shall have an opportunity to know of this fact. There is no designating the life of a diplomatic secret, but I presume in half a century all the parties concern-ed in the matter will have passed away further keeping

The collapse of Napoleon's Mexican scheme is well known to every school boy who has studied American history. When the war ended the United States had a million of mea under arms with nothing to do. Mr. Seward, secretary of state, notified Napoleon that the Franch occupation was obnoxious to of state, notified Napoleon that the French occupation was obnoxious to the United States, and the president sent General Sheridan to the Mexican horder with a competent army to enforce the demands. The French emperor withdrew his support of the man be had placed on the Mexican throng and the Mexicans captured and excuted Meximilian.
