Mace of Bangor in the Holmes land, a one-quarter interest in 4,600 acres in the towns of Mariaville and Eastbrook.

Ellsworth celebrated peace day noisily. Conservatively waiting until the early morning news was confirmed, at 11 o'clock the signal was given for the ringing of bells and blowing of whistles. Young America added his mite with firecrackers, blank cartridges and horns. The bells rang continuously until late in the evening. In the evening the fire and drum corps turned out and led a parade, while a big bonfire was kindled in post-office square. Many houses were illuminated.

Henry C. Emery, recently released from Germany, where he had been held a prisoner since his arrest by Germans last March at the Aland islands when, with his wife and several English and French men and women, he was fleeing from Russia, arrived in New York Sunday on the Norwegian steamer Bergensfjord. His wife, who was also taken by the Germans but immediately released, came to this country several months ago. She met him in New York, and they are now with Prof. and Mrs. F. G. Allinson, in Providence, R. I. Judge Emery, who is in Boston for the winter, will join them there.

The united war work campaign is on this week. In Hancock county the work is well organized. Miss M. E. Holmes, as national representative, has organized the work of the women's division, with Mrs. Allan P. Royal of Ellsworth as general chairman. Chairmen have been appointed for each department united in the war work, and committees have been appointed in each town of the county, to cooperate with the men's division in the solicitation of subscriptions to the war work fund. Rev. J. W. Tickle is chairman of the men's division for Ellsworth. Last evening there was a general mass meeting at Hancock hall to boost the campaign. Ellsworth must give $6,072 to this fund.

A slight change in the time schedule on the Mt. Desert branch now gives a through day connection from Boston, which was not made last winter, or since the winter schedule went into effect this fall. The train on the main line that heretofore ran only from Portland to Waterville, now leaves Portland at 10:05, connecting with train leaving Boston at 5:53 a. m. and runs through to Bangor, arriving there at 3:10. The train down the branch, heretofore leaving Bangor at 3:00 p. m., under the new schedule leaves Bangor at 3:15, reaching Ellsworth at 4:31 instead of 4:16. There is also a slight change in the north-bound evening train on the branch, which now leaves Mt. Desert Ferry at 5:40 instead of 5:35 and Ellsworth at 6:24 instead of 6:23.

BAR HARBOR ELECTION.

Hearing Ordered on Petition for Examination of Ballots.

The governor and council, at their regular meeting last week, ordered a hearing on November 27 on the petition of Dr. George A. Phillips of Bar Harbor for an examination of the ballots cast at the September election, and the correction of the returns of the vote for representative.

An inspection of the ballots recently indicated that Dr. Phillips was elected instead of Herbert L. Graham, as shown by the returns.

Phillips has now filed a representation of the facts and asks that the governor and council examine the ballots, and if the returns are found to be in error, that the error be corrected and that he be declared elected.

A letter from Attorney B. E. Clark of Bar Harbor accompanied the statement saying that Mr. Graham had assured him that he is perfectly satisfied that a majority of the votes were cast for his opponent, and that an error was made by the town officials in counting the votes cast, and hence an error in the record and return by which he was declared elected. Further, that he will impose no obstacle in the way of a fair determination of the result, and will assist in any way possible in arriving at the same.

COUNTY SEED SHOW.

Annual Meeting of Farm Bureau in Ellsworth To-morrow.

The annual seed and improvement meeting and exhibition of the Hancock County Farm Bureau, and the annual meeting of the Farm Bureau, will be held to-morrow at Hancock hall, Ellsworth. Indications are that there will be a large attendance of farmers, and as an inkling of what may be expected in the way of an exhibition of Hancock county grown seed, the splendid showing in the window of the former Stratton store on State street is significant.

The first business meeting will open at 10:30 a. m., with an address by the president, Julian Emery, and reports of officers. The annual election of officers will take place in the afternoon. The speakers of the afternoon will be Wilson Conant of Buckfield, who will speak on farmers' organization, and Miss Catherine Flatts of Orono, who will speak of women as Farm Bureau members.

F. H. Brastow & Son, the South Brewer millers, will make an exhibition of a full line of the products of their mill, and will bring down some Maine wheat flour to be awarded as prizes for the best exhibits of wheat raised in Hancock county.

The business meetings, as well as the seed exhibit, are open to the public generally, and it is hoped there will be a large attendance of people of Ellsworth and vicinity, who are promised a revelation as to the work the farmers and the Farm Bureau of Hancock county are doing.

FARMERS URGED SAVE FOOD AND FEED THIS YEAR

Strict Conservation is Imperative to Enable America to Fulfill Obligations and Be Ready for New Responsibilities.

Orono, Maine, November—By increasing the monthly allotment of sugar from two to three pounds of sugar per capita, the Food Administration emphatically declares that this must not be taken as meaning that the conservation of foodstuffs generally is not now fully as important as it was at the highest sugar shortage.

From a harvest less in aggregate than last year, the United States must export at least 17 1/2 million tons of foodstuffs overseas during the coming season. This is about 12 million tons more than average pre-war exports, or nearly two tons apiece for the average American farm where most of this food originates.

Rigid conservation of food and feed stored in granaries, cribs, barns and similar buildings—also products now in the fields—are essential to properly maintain our own population and to meet increased foreign needs. Animal feeds though in a crude form must be considered food, since they are the basis for meat, milk and poultry products.

Strict conservation in all foods and feeds stored on farms is imperative in addition to the food program for homes and public eating places. Compliance with these requests will enable the United States to fulfill present obligations and be ready for new responsibilities.

FEED RULES IN BRITAIN. The effect of war on agriculture in Great Britain is strikingly shown by regulations now in force affecting feeds and bedding.

The use of straw for bedding purposes is forbidden. Oat straw in particular may be used only for feeding purposes.

All persons owning horses entitled to limited supplies of hay, straw, chaff and cereal feeding stuffs, must keep records showing the number and class of horses, and full facts regarding source, kind and amount of feed used.

The occupier of an agricultural holding may not sell or part with the possession of any horse, which is used, or capable of being used, for the cultivation of the holding, except with the authority of a license.

When it is realized that these orders are necessary war measures, the importance of voluntary feed conservation in the United States is apparent.

SAVE PRUNE STONES. Be it ever so humble, the prune is a patriotic food. Depending on their size, between two and three hundred prune stones will furnish enough carbon for one gas mask.

One hundred and eighty million persons in Europe are facing starvation and they are not Germans or Austrians either. In planning to help feed these unfortunates the United States Food Administration is giving the people of this country a chance to be the world's benefactors and to win the world over to a larger faith in the American people.

It has been announced by the Food Administration that the rules prohibiting the use of wheat for feeding purposes have been rescinded. The trade is now permitted to grind wheat or sell it whole for use of stock and poultry.

Canadian consumers have been put on an allowance of two pounds of creamery butter per person per month, but this is better than the Englishman's allowance, the whole of which is only one-half pound of butter and one pound of oleomargarine a month.

Mutual Benefit Column. EDITED BY "AUNT MADDIE". Its Motto: "Helpful and Hopeful."

The purposes of this column are succinctly stated in the title and motto—it is for the mutual benefit of all who read it.

WHAT DID YOU DO? From a new book of verse, "The Voices of Song," by James W. Foley. Did you give him a lift? He's a brother of mine.

Do you know what it means to be losing the fight. When a lift just in time might set everything right?

Do you know what it means—just the clasp of a hand, When a man's horse about all a man ought to stand?

Oh, were you so busy you left him to shift? Or, I know what you meant—that you say may be true—

But the test of your manhood is, What did you do? Did you reach out a hand? Did you find him the road.

My Dear Friends: It is not always particularly agreeable to have such a direct personal question addressed to us as the title of the above poem—especially if we are expected to answer it honestly, but you see the readers of the column will excuse that.

Now let's read the poem, or a line of it here and there. You surely can give a smile to one who is bearing a burden, and quite likely you can follow the smile with "the clasp of a hand."

I am sorry to report that two of our M. B. members, B. E. S. and Vashti, are ill. No doubt there are others, who are ill also, and for all we hope for the recovery of their usual health and strength.

The news connected with the war is most encouraging, and the M. B. mothers of sons in the service, will, we trust, some time in the future have their boys safe home again.

The bravest battle that ever was fought. Shall I tell you where and when? On the maps of the world you will find it not.

Nay, not with cannon or battle shot, With the sword or nobler pen; Nay, not with eloquent word or thought From the mouth of wonderful men;

But deep in the walled-up woman's heart Of a woman who would not yield, But briefly, silently bore her part— Lo, there is that battlefield.

No marching troop, no bivouac song, No banners to gleam and wave, But oh, those battles, they last so long, From boyhood to the grave.

Oh ye, with your cannon and battle shot And soldiers to shout and praise, I tell you the bravest battles fought Were fought in these, silent wars.

THIS WEEK, NERVOUS MOTHER Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I was very weak, always tired, my back ached, and I felt sick most of the time. I went to a doctor and he said I had nervous indigestion, which added to my weak condition kept me worrying most of the time—and he said if I could not stop that, I could not get well.

The majority of mothers nowadays overdo, there are so many demands upon their time and strength; the result is invariably a weakened, run-down, nervous condition with headaches, back-ache, irritability and depression—and soon more serious ailments develop.

U-BOATS BALKED BY AIR FIGHTERS

Airplanes are of Great Assistance in Finding Enemy Submarines.

NECESSARY ALLY OF NAVY Great Britain Sees Need of Holding Command of Air as Well as of Sea—Aircraft Either Attack or Summon Patrols.

London.—The measure of the success of the antisubmarine campaign is the safe crossing of the Atlantic by a million American troops.

There is very properly a good deal of official reticence regarding the methods by which submarines are destroyed, but it is an open secret that the royal air force has contributed largely toward the defeat of the U-boat campaign.

Just as airplanes have become an essential auxiliary to the army, so aircraft have become an indispensable ally of the navy, making it clear that ascendancy in the air in future will be as vital to Britain as her present ascendancy at sea.

Airships of two main types, the smaller known as the submarine scout and the larger as the coast patrol type, and seaplanes, are the chief instruments for dealing with submarines from the air. The first business of all aircraft or submarine offensive is to find the submarine.

See Submerged Boats. From a certain height in the air, submerged U-boats are visible to observers and their position is communicated to the nearest naval patrol. The work of aircraft is by no means confined to detecting the U-boats. They have means of immediately attacking their prey without waiting for the arrival of the naval patrol.

There is the obvious means of dropping bombs, fully effective when the submarine is caught on or just below the surface. Modern antisubmarine aircraft are almost equally at home in the air or on the water. Should the U-boat dive through the water, its pursuer can dive through the air and release depth charges, which have a considerable range of action, and are much feared by U-boat commanders.

In claiming for the R. A. F. a large share in winning the safe landing of America's first million the reservation must be made that the range of aircraft from their bases is limited, but their bases are not necessarily on land, and seaplanes and submarine scouts have accommodation on shipboard and are carried to the area of their deep-sea patrols.

Where They Are Thickest. Again, it is naturally in home waters and especially in the North sea that submarines are thickest, outward bound from Germany, so that aircraft patrols are effective from home bases over the sea zone most frequented by U-boats.

Coast patrol airships accompany convoys through home waters "spotting" submarines, to be dealt with either by themselves or by destroyers; and if the U-boat menace is not yet mastered, it is steadily and unmistakably being brought under control.

Safe landing of a million Americans in France is a big fact, the significance of which can hardly be missed even in Germany, where, according to neutral witnesses, scepticism has been rapidly growing lately concerning the possibilities of the U-boat campaign.

The fitter the fighter the faster the finish. Invest in morale through the United War Work Campaign.

Stomach Dead Man Still Lives

People who suffer from sour stomach, fermentation of food, distress after eating and indigestion, and seek relief in large quantities of artificial digestors, are killing their stomachs by inaction just as surely as the victim of morphine is poisoning and injuring beyond repair every nerve in his body.

What the stomach of every sufferer from indigestion needs is a good prescription that will build up his stomach, put strength, energy and elasticity into it, and make it sturdy enough to digest a heavy meal without artificial aid.

The best prescription for indigestion ever written is sold by druggists every where and is sold in small tablet form in large boxes, for only a few cents. Remember the name, Mi-o-n stomach tablets. They never fail.

SIGNAL MEN HUSTLE

They Have to Work Rapidly as Fight Rages.

Wire Connection is Prime Necessity No Matter How Fast Shells May Fly.

With the American Army in France.—The signal corps men had to do some fast work during the recent fighting to keep up with the infantry and to keep communications always open between headquarters and the villages newly captured where the doughboys were.

The signal corps was the connecting link between the infantry, artillery, ambulance service and headquarters. The signal corps did wonderful and lightning work. Every other department says so.

It's no cinch being the signal corps after a division that is continually gaining ground.

"As soon as the infantry makes a push you have to get a telephone line strung into the farthest ruins or woods or wheat field, no matter how many German shells are splattering madly over the area.

Then, about the time you get a wire stretched along the ground and in working order, call up headquarters to tell them. "This is the new post at Squeedunk; give us a ring to see how she works," along comes another Boche shell and cuts the communication.

There's nothing to do but go out and find the cut and fix it, and probably more Boche shells are trying to make more cuts in communication, or even cut you off.

The signal corps man was stringing some wires across a wheat field. "Some war this," he said. "I haven't had a sleep for more than two days. I suppose I'd fall asleep on the job if it weren't for these shells that come whistling along. Duck. There comes one!"

After it exploded he said, "They kind of scared me at first. I thought every one was meant for me."

HUN SELLS SUPPLIES SEIZED

French Forced by Germans to Pay in Coin for Rations They Once Owned.

With the American Troops in France.—Renewed evidence of German ruthlessness in dealing with the civilian population of invaded territories is contained in a captured army order. It prescribes the treatment and the procedure to be followed in a section south of the Vesle river (Marne salient).

All the inhabitants capable of working, the order says, must be used for the needs of the army, regardless of their age. Their "salaries" are to be paid in paper currency at the rate of 50 cents a day as the maximum for men; 40 cents for men and women between the ages of seventeen and twenty; and 30 cents for boys from fifteen to seventeen.

The inhabitants, however, must pay in French gold or silver for their rations. The supplies, of course, were taken from the population before being sold back to them.

SERVANT LACK AIDS HOTELS

Scarcity of Help in Homes Sending Families to New York Hotelries.

New York.—Although the fuel problem which developed in New York homes last year is to a great extent responsible for the unprecedented business of the apartment hotels this fall, there have been new developments which increase the influx of apartment hotel dwellers throughout the city. The greatest individual reason is the servant problem.

Earle Farley and wife, who have been at work at Southwest Harbor factory, have moved here to live with Mrs. Farley's parents, Capt. Charles P. Lunt and wife, this winter.

FROM OVER THERE. Archie Thurston, who is with the American forces in France, in a recent letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Thurston, says:

The last letter I wrote you was from the support lines in Belleau woods, in the Chateau-Thierry sector. We were living in little holes in the ground which we dug ourselves. I had a dugout of my own manufacture, about three feet deep by two and a half wide and six feet long. I roofed it over with poles, leaves and earth to make it shrapnel-proof. A few shells landed close enough one night to send dirt and rocks down the entrance.

We stayed there a few days, then moved up right back of the lines, with about the same accommodations. Our next move was into the front lines, which we held for a while, and then our bunch went over the top. It is said that B and C companies were responsible for the start of the wild retreat of the Germans from the pocket in which the Allies had them. I didn't go over with the rest, though. We dropped back to the support for a day before they went over, and when they started for the lines, again that night, I found that I had left my gas mask behind.

We were halted at the time, and the lieutenant sent me back after my mask. It was pitch dark in the woods, and of course one couldn't light a match so close to the lines as that, so I got lost. I finally found the path running along the front of our dugouts, but they were made so much alike that I couldn't recognize mine in the darkness. After I had gone up and down the path five or six times, I got down on my hands and knees and crawled along the path, feeling along the edge of it, for I had left my mask on the edge of the path in front of my dugout.

When I had found the mask, and got out into the field where I had left the company, it had gone. I didn't know where, because we were going to another part of the sector from that we had occupied. A man who was going out to the hospital advised me to go out to the kitchen (about five or six kilometers) and come up with the ration man, which they were doing up to the lines, instead of taking chances of getting lost. I did that, and when I came up to the lines the next night the company had gone over and I was sent back to the rear with boche prisoners, and kept there on guard until the district was relieved.

I have been in Toul (we held the Toul sector quite a while) and the city of Sedan. We stayed a long while at Lifenne (France), which is in the vicinity of Nancy. I swam in the Marne and the seine rivers. It would take three or four sheets of paper to name all the towns I have been in.

MR. ALEXANDER MUNRO

R.R. No. 1, Lorne, Ont. "For over three years, I was confined to bed with Rheumatism. During that time, I had treatment from a number of doctors, and tried nearly everything I saw advertised to cure Rheumatism, without receiving any benefit. Finally, I decided to try 'Fruit-a-tives' (or Fruit Liver Tablets). Before I had used half a box, I noticed an improvement; the pain was not so severe, and the swelling started to go down. I continued taking this fruit medicine, improving all the time, and now I can walk about two miles and do light chores about the place."

MAIMED BY HUNS

Marie Joseph Coutant of the quaint little village of Louatre, near Soissons, the daughter of Monsieur Coutant, once a comfortably situated mechanic of Louatre, is shown above with her right arm missing because of the fact that the Germans attended the celebration of her eighth birthday. On Marie's birthday her mother and herself, along with several other refugees from the threat of the Hun at Soissons, were swarming into cattle cars that were pressed into use in the emergency, when a German incendiary bomb fell among them, killing her mother and making herself, a noncombatant, go through life a cripple with only one arm. She has been adopted by Maurice, the dancer of America, now a Red Cross worker in France, as his "war baby," and has been sent by him with her father to Limoges, France, to complete her convalescence.

FEAR FRENCH TANKS

Machines Spread Terror in Ranks of Foe.

Armed Car Helps 15 Yanks to Capture 700 Huns in Recent Drive.

With the American Armies.—Greater laurels daily are being won by the French light tanks which are co-operating with the American forces in pushing the Germans back toward the Rhine.

Among the many individual feats of the tanks and their drivers which have come to light, one of the most interesting is that of Brigadier Cellier, who has been decorated with the cross of the Legion of Honor for his work in a light tank which enabled 15 American soldiers to capture 700 Germans.

Several hundred of these tanks led the counter-offensive from the Villers-Cotterets forest in July, which marked what appears to have been the turning point of the war. They broke through the enemy's lines, destroying his machine guns, overcoming strong centers of resistance and spreading panic and demoralization in the German ranks. Where the infantry was preceded by the "chars d'assaut," as the French call them, the advance was three miles a day.

It was these same French light tanks which preceded the Americans in their advance upon Juvigny and Terny on the Soissons plateau. One of them, manned by a lieutenant, killed more than 200 Germans on the plateau.

Documents that have come into the hands of the French staff show that the Germans are greatly worried by the light tanks and are studiously coaching their men in methods of defense against them.

The light cars have the advantage of greater speed and of being more easily handled than the heavier tanks. They require a crew of only two men, a driver and a gunner, and carry one one-and-a-half-inch gun and a machine gun.

Maine stands second among the New England states in over-subscription of the Fourth Liberty loan. Connecticut is first, with an over-subscription of more than 50 per cent., while Maine over-subscribed nearly 50 per cent., her total subscription being $30,147,950 on an allotment of $20,524,800.

"The American people are going to boycott the goods and products of Germany, the trade, literature, art, science and people, in abhorrence of the crimes of the people of Germany, and no power on earth can stop them," writes William T. Hornaday, president of the American Guardian society, that has taken up the problem of preventing the distribution and sale among American children of German-made toys.

When President Wilson called politics back from adjournment and made the re-election of a democratic Congress a personal issue, he invited the rebuke he received at the election last week. "The return of a republican majority to either house of Congress," he wrote, "would be interpreted as a repudiation of my leadership."

Peace.

The greatest war of all ages is over. A titanic struggle that has convulsed the world, involved all the great nations of the earth and changed the map of Europe and Africa, ended at 6 o'clock Monday morning, Washington time.

It has been a war between democracy and autocracy; a war between great military powers that sought to dominate the world, and free peoples who would not submit to such domination. Autocracy has been crushed, and new democracies arise.

Peace terms have not yet been made. Technically, we are still at war. The signing of an armistice merely means that we have agreed to a cessation of hostilities until peace terms can be offered, and accepted or rejected. But the terms of the armistice accepted by Germany amount to complete surrender.

Some regret is expressed that Germany has not suffered in kind for the devastation of Belgium and northern France, but further destruction of property would not pay for any part of the destruction her world-lust has caused, and Germany must pay.

And what of William Hohenzollern, the chief conspirator of this gang of murderers? He has sought temporary refuge in Holland, but retribution must overtake him, and all his unholy brood.

A long period of re-adjustment must follow the war, and the United States must of necessity now play an important part in European politics and the settlement of momentous questions on which the future peace of the world may depend.

entangling alliances, we shall have much to be thankful for.

And what have we gained? A new nationalism, an awakened patriotism, a new appreciation of the greatness of our country, a new love for its flag; we have put on the sea a great merchant fleet, and wise legislation will keep it there; we have learned a new word, thrift, and substituted it for extravagance; we have felt the ennobling influence of self-sacrifice, and gained a broader religion of humanity and brotherly love.

To-day we are thankful that the war is over; that our boys over there who will engage now in police duty and reconstruction work, are spared the horrors of further bloodshed. To those who have paid the supreme price that we might see this day, and to those fathers and mothers whose sons will not come back, the world bows to day in homage and in thanks.

MUSSELS FOR FOOD.

Immense Possibilities for New Business on Maine Coast. The government fish commissioners have during the past summer been investigating the great mussel beds along the Maine coast as a source of food supply, opening up the possibilities of an immense business.

All the harbors and creeks along the Maine coast have been inspected, immense mussel beds fit for food being found at all the points visited, the monetary value of the same being estimated at many millions of dollars.

So satisfied is the bureau at the success of the investigation, that it has already made arrangements with several canning establishments on the coast to put the mussels on the market, and in a few weeks they will be offered for sale, put up in different ways, in cans with their own liquor, also smoked and dried.

Maine in Next Congress.

Discussing prospective changes in committees in the next Congress, a Washington press correspondent says: "While it is early to predict with certainty what changes there will be when the new Congress organizes in 1919 the capitol is filled with speculation. It will mean a complete shift in chairmanships of all the important committees of both House and Senate. This interests Maine very much, for with a full republican delegation in Congress there will be a number of chairmanships for the State."

"On the other hand, it is hardly to be expected that any of the big places will go to Maine men. There is one exception to this Congressman Peters of the third Maine district, ranking member of the delegation from his State and a member of the House of Representatives since 1913 may get some big place.

"Mr. Peters has but one committee assignment, naval affairs. On that committee, however, he is ranked by four republican members. While Mr. Peters has taken a great interest in the labors of this committee and has won himself a high place in the estimation of his associates, it is doubtful if he will be given the chairmanship of naval affairs, but may get the place.

Portrait of A. Lloyd George, Prime Minister of Great Britain. Text: "It gives me the greatest pleasure to testify that the work has been conducted upon the broadest lines of service, not merely to the gallant soldiers of the army of the great Republic of the West, but to all they could assist. The high quality of character of those conducting this work needs no praise, but I affirm that in my opinion it would have been impossible to have afforded the boys that inspiration and succor they need—and which they so richly deserve—without your efforts."

Will You Hold Your Head Up Proudly When They Come Home? BY BRUCE BARTON

I lifted the receiver of the telephone, and almost dropped it again in surprise. For the voice was that of my good old friend, and I supposed him far away in France.

"What, back so soon?" I exclaimed. "Detailed for special duty?"

"Yes, back," he answered; and it struck me that his voice was slow and older, as though the weeks of his absence had been years. "Back—but not for special duty. There—there is another reason."

And then I knew that he must be wounded. Wounded—while here at home, I still pursued my ordinary course. Wounded—to protect my home. Wounded—to keep my children safe.

It came over me of a sudden, as it never had before, that I am debtor to him to an amount that I never can repay.

They will all be coming back before long. Some wounded; some grown strangely old. But most of them well and normal enough, thank God.

And we will stand along the sidewalks to see them pass. How shall we feel that day, I wonder. Will their eyes say to us, "We were hungry for a bit of sweet, and you did not think to send it."

"We were cold and you let the hut fires die; we were lonesome, and the movies stopped because there were no funds to carry on."

Or shall we stand confidently in their presence, greeting them as men who have nothing to repent. —as men who in their absence gave freely of wealth and time, that there might be warmth and cheer and comfort over there?

They are coming back some day—perhaps before we think. And what will be the message of their eyes to you?

YANKEE NURSES SHOW METTLE

OVER 12,000 NOW THERE

They Know They Have a Man-Sized Job and They Are Tackling It in a Man's Way—Morale Is Perfect.

London.—America has poured a veritable army of her womanhood into war-torn Europe. To date over 12,000 American nurses have been sent over. Within the year there will be right here on the ground more than 24,000 of these American "girls behind the men behind the guns."

This is the estimate of Miss Carrie M. Hall of Boston, head of all American Red Cross nurses in Great Britain. Of the 12,000 now here, between 600 and 700 are working in Great Britain in the dozen or more American hospitals that have sprung into being within the past six months. The remainder are staffing hospitals behind the lines in France.

With the arrival of American soldiers at Vladivostok came a contingent of nurses from the American Red Cross unit at Tokio, Japan. As hostilities and American casualties begin there more United States army regular nurses probably will be sent to Russia.

All Highly Trained.

All women sent over so far are highly trained graduate nurses, bacteriologists, dietitians and college trained hygiene experts. The war department in Washington has ruled that only these trained women may be sent over for the time being, at least.

For this reason General Pershing's recent call for 5,000 girl workers with the American army in France will be filled by British instead of American girls. England's women's army, the "Waacs" (Women's Army Auxiliary Corps) is now conducting a nationwide recruiting campaign here for these British girl volunteers for duty as clerks, chauffeurs, typists, orderlies, telephoneists, etc., with the American army.

Practically every troop convoy from the United States brings scores more of these women experts. From peace loving American homes that have not yet felt the grim hand of war these blue-clad Yankee girls, like their big brothers, are plunging into this maelstrom of war with a determination and efficiency that has won for them already the unstinted praise of all the allies.

They know they've got a man-sized job before them, stripped of all the so-called glamour of war, and they're tackling it in a man's way. Up in the field and base hospitals under shell-fire and valiantly braving air raid terrors, they're "carrying on" untiringly, night and day, working unceasingly to save the lives of our boys.

Miss Hall, who was one of the first American nurses to arrive in France immediately after the United States decided to jump into this job of winding up the watch on the Rhine, was witness of the sterling quality of American womanhood in this war under fire.

Morale Is Perfect.

"I was one of the first to come over with the Harvard Base hospital unit. No sooner were we landed than we were attached to the British and hurried up near the first line to staff a little tented hospital city near Camiers. There were two other American field hospitals near us.

"It was a bright moonlight night. Our tents were shown up like a silver city. At midnight the alarm sounded. We leaped from our beds. There was no panic. The hum of the Boche machines was plainly audible. Suddenly five deafening explosions told us they had gotten our camp. It only lasted about five minutes, but in that short time their five bombs dropped in a straight line had nearly demolished our camp.

"Tents containing American wounded were ripped to shreds, temporary hospital buildings mowed down like a pack of cards. Six soldier patients were killed and a score or more injured. The morale of the nurses and doctors was wonderful. Forgetting self, they plunged into the work of rescue.

"One girl, Eva Parmelee of Boston was on duty in one of the tents most badly hit. One bomb fell so near her clothing was ripped and torn by bits of flying debris and pieces of sand lodged in the flesh of her face. Undaunted, she carried on through it all, rushing here and there aiding wounded and assisting in the work of rescue. Not until it was all over did she notice the state of her clothes or the bits of sand in her face."

NOT THE ONLY ONE

There Are Other Ellsworth People Similarly Situated.

Can there be any stronger proof offered than the evidence of Ellsworth residents? After you have read the following, quietly answer the question.

A. M. Franks, carpenter, 67 High St., says: "I noticed my back was growing lame and ached severely. Finally, it got so bad I was compelled to lay off from work and was down and out for several days. I was in this condition until I got Doan's Kidney Pills. They helped me from the first and when I had taken a couple of boxes, I was relieved. I have since had a cold, which settled on my kidneys, causing another attack, but Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at E. G. Moore's Drug Store, very soon removed the aching from my back and I haven't been annoyed since with the trouble." (Statement given February 7, 1905.)

STILL PRAISES DOAN'S.
On December 4, 1916, Mr. Franks said: "I shall never forget the benefit I derived through the use of Doan's Kidney Pills at the time I recommended them before. Since then, they have always proved very beneficial when I have had need to use a kidney medicine."

I Owe My Life to PERUNA

Mr. McKinley's letter brings cheer to all who may be sufferers as he was. Read it:

"I can honestly say that I owe my life to Peruna. After some of the best doctors in the country gave me up and told me I could not live another month, Peruna saved me. Travelling from town to town, throughout the country and having to go into all kinds of badly heated stores and buildings, sometimes standing up for hours at a time while playing my trade as an auctioneer, it is only natural that I had colds frequently; so when this would occur I paid little attention to it, until last December when I contracted a severe case, which, through neglect on my part, settled on my lungs. When almost too late, I began doctoring, but, without avail, until I heard of Peruna. It cured me; so I cannot praise it too highly."

It Cured Me
