anniversary of the incorporation of Ells-

Mayor A. C. Hagerthy has issued the following proclamation, declaring a half

poration of the town of Ellsworth as a city falls upon Thursday, February 6, 1919, I deem it fitting and proper that the citizens of Ells worth unite as one great family politic. to come together freely and socially and to attend programs for the common good, general cheer and welfare of this community May we, the citizens of Ellsworth, upon this occasion look back over local history and from its successes and reverses gather some inspiration for the rebuilding and upbuilding in a future: that as time comes to pass will preserve in that history as many famous and stalwart examples of manhood and of womanhood as cherished to-day. May the getting together upon this occasion be the signal and beginning for a general get-ting together in support and in interest of our city and the many phases of its community life.

Wherefore, I, Alexander C. Hagerthy, mayor of the city of Ellsworth, do hereby dist vestry-Everybody's birthday party. proclaim a holiday to be observed in Ellsworth on Thursday, February 6, 1919, from o'clock in the afternoon until 5 o'clock in the afternoon, that all schools and business worth reunion. places may be closed and a universal opportunity given to all our citizens and to our business and professional men and women to attend the observance of this, the fiftieth appiversary of the city of Ellsworth. held at the home of Mrs. Harry L. Crabtree Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. George S. Hagerthy read an interesting paper on Alsace-Lorraine. Musical features of the program were violin selections by Miss Utecht, with Miss Christina Doyle as accompanist, a piano selection by Miss Catherine Austin, reading of the poem, "Who Won the War?" Miss Mary A. Greely. This poem was of especial interest here because its author, Woodbury Pulsifer of Washington, D. C., is a grandson of the late Dr. M. R. Pulsifer of Ellsworth. The club will meet with Mrs. W. B. Mills, Tuesday afternon, February 11. Ellsworth friends of Mrs. Sarah Strout Smith will be interested to know she has received several letters from her husband since the armistice was declared. Mr. Smith has been overseas nearly a year, and in action about seven months. At the last writing he was well and expected to be in the United States with the 26th division some time in March. His battery has been especially mentioned in a letter from the colonel to their commanding officer for quick and efficient work in moving guns forward under constant gis bombardment and shell fire. His battery has been operating with the famous 26th division and participated in the last important battles of the war.

Many times when our reunions were held in East Surry, we companionship and her ready aid. She will have an abiding place in our memories. To all her family we extend our heartfelt sympathies. We are permitted to give a place in our column to the following poem sent her family "from a Searsport friend;" it reminds us of the promise "Fear not! I will pilot thee." WHEN THE TIDE IS LOW.

Sometime at eve when the tide is low. I shall slip my mooring and sail away,

With no response to the friendly hall Of kindred craft in the busy bay. In the silent hush of the twilight pale

When the night stoops down to embrad the day,

And the voices call in the water's flow. Sometime at eve when the tide is low, I shall slip my mooring and sail away.

Through purple shadows that darkly trail O'er the ebbing tide of the unknown sea. I shall fare me away with a dip of sail, And a ripple of waters to tell the tale Of a lonely voyager sailing away, To mystic isles where at auchor lay

The craft of those who have sailed before

O'er the unknown sea to the unseen shore A few who have watched me sail away Will miss my craft from the busy bay. Some friendly barks that were anchored near, Some loving souls that my heart held dear,

In ailent sorrow will drop a tear. But I shall have peacefully furled my sail

In moorings sheltered from storms or gale, And greeted the friends who have sailed before

You will all be interested in the follow ing from Sadie:

Dear Aunt Mudge and Sister Mutuals:

If Sister Esther is going to write snake stories, why may not I? Did any of the older inhabitants of way down Eastever, in long years ago, hear of the bones of a large snake being found at Mt. Desert? Years ago, before there was any Bar Harbor, a man came from Swan's Island to my father's and stayed over night. During their conversation the man said that some time before there had been a great fire on the mountains of Mt. Desert for several days. Afterwards someone came across a large quantity of bones. They went back and reported it Several men went up there, put the bones together the best they could, and measured them. They were seventy-five or eighty feet long. They called it a sea serpent. My father said, "I don't believe it; I don't believe there ever was a sea-serpent. I have been a sailor ever since I was a boy. I have been to the frozen Labrador, on the Grand Banks many times, and have sailed in foreign seas, and never saw one nor over saw any one that had seen one. It might have been a flock of sheep that got surrounded by the fire and perished, and theirs were the bones that were found. Do you think that a fake story or legend? SADIE.

I will save Sadie's story of an incident that happened in her own family for had the pleasure of enjoying her pleasant another week, as this is the time of year when there is a rush of work in THE AMERICAN office, and we try to help out by keeping our column down to the limit. TO ELIMINATE SCRUB BULLS Interesting Figures Brought Out by Department of Agriculture in Several Sections.

(Prepared by the United States Depart-ment of Agriculture.)

That the need of pure-bred bulls is urgent in many parts of the country is evident from the facts brought out by the United States department of agriculture's study of eight districts in the states of Iowa, Minnesota and Massachusetts in which there were no associations. In this survey information was obtained regarding 1,219 farmers owning 817 bulls whose average value was $76. Had the owners of these cheap bulls been properly orgap-ized the same investment would have purchased the necessary bulls at an average of $283. On the farms mentioned nearly four times as many bulls were used as would have been required under proper organization. The farmers were therefore feeding four bulls when they should have been feeding only one.

Data from one of the first bull associations organized under the direction of the department of agriculture illustrate this very well. Before the association was formed the bulls in use had an average market value of $89. The average price paid by the $240. Price does not always correspond to value, yet as the bulls were carefully selected the price in this case is doubtless a fair index of true worth. In this association each farmer's investment for a share in a good registered bull was $14 less than his former investment in an animal of inferior breeding and doubtful merit.

Actual first-cost figures from other co-operative bull associations are even more encouraging. In one association having more than 100 members the original cost to each member was only $23. The members already have had the use of good pure-bred bulls for four years and probably will have their use six years longer without additional cost other than for maintenance. Another association with more than 50 members has had the use of good purebred bulls for more than seven years at an average investment of less than $25 a member, with prospects of being able to use them for three or four years more. Practically all dairymen desire to raise pure-bred cattle, but comparatively few can afford individually to purchase such bulls as are needed to develop a profitable purebred herd. The bull association overcomes the difficulty, and the money saved can be used toward the purchase of registered females. When questioned regarding the value of co-operative bull associations, 150 farmers in Maryland, Michigan and Minnesota estimated that the use of bulls belonging to the organization increased the value of the offspring in the first generation from 30 to 80 per cent, with an average of 65 per cent. Usually in business transactions in which there is a probability of great gain there is a possibility of heavy loss, but in bull associations the chances of profit are excellent, with little probability of loss. The investment is so small and the chance for herd improvement so great that the net returns greatly exceed the small original investment.

HIGH PRODUCING DAIRY COW

Animal Is Delicate and Well-Balanced Piece of Machinery-Good Shelter is important.

A high-producing dairy animal is a delicate and well-balanced piece of machinery, and consequently she cannot continue normal production if she is exposed to severe winter weather. It is therefore essential that the discomforts incident to cold weather be eliminated if possible. The comfortable cow will repay in milk the necessary labor for her protection. Dairymen as a rule are more careful with their cows than the average farmer who merely produces the milk for family use.

Best Plan to Give Small Quantity in Feed and Place Rock Salt in Boxes in Yard.

DAIRY COWS REQUIRE SALT

(Prepared by the United States Depart-ment of Agriculture.) The dairy cow requires an ounce of salt a day, and while she should be given all she needs, she should not be forced to take more than she wants, It is best, therefore, to give only a small quantity in the feed and to place , rock suit in boxes in the yard.

Don't let seed potatoes sprout in storage. Every inch of sprout means so much strength gone and diminishes by just this much the ability of the seed pieces to produce quick, sturdy growth in the early spring. For the very early potatoes, wherever small areas are to be planted, spread the seed potatoes out in the warm sunlight or in a light unheated room in a dwelling house, some three weeks before planting time. This makes the sprouts grow thick, tough and sturdy, makes the crop earlier and

The railways last year earned about $250,000,000 less than in the preced ing twelvemonth. There was an indicated increase of more than $800,-000,000 in operating expenses. The wage level at the end of 1918 was mere than forty five per cent higher than at the be-ginning of the year, when the government assumed control. The difference between the net income received and nearly $900, 000,000 which the government guaran tees to the roads indicates an estimated deficit of nearly $200,000,000. "Government operation" is expensive.-N. Y. Herald.

The peace conference has unanimously adopted the league of nations project, and appointed a commission to take up that matter. The resolution adopted declares that "it is essential to the maintenance of the world settlement which the associated nations are now met to establish, that a league of nations be created to promote international obligations and to provide safeguards against war. This league should be created as an integral part of the general treaty o peace, and should be open to every eivilized nation which can be relied upon to promote its objects."

"A year ago to-day," says our North Breoklin correspondent, writing Monday. "looking down across the bay, there was nothing to be seen but a cold expanse of ice reaching as far as the eye could see. To-day there is no ice to be seen and only gentle zephyrs are rippling over the waters. The snow is practically all gone here and we would not be much surprised to get up in the morning and hear the music of the spring birds."

Another Hancock county man has a recent autograph letter from the late Col. Roosevelt. THE AMERICAN two week ago printed an item concerning a Roosevelt letter prized by Rev. C. A. Smith of South Penobscot, who wondered if any other Hancock county man had a similar letter. Theodore P. Austin of Egypt has a letter written in full in Roosevelt's hand, and signed by him. Mr. Austin tells the circumstances of the letter as follows: "I wrote him of a case of war profiteering and slackerism that had come to my attention." Col. Roosevelt wrote in reply:

I appreciate your letter. I fear I am helpless to do anything; only the national administration has power in such a case. If I had power, I would put a stop to such abuses, and they are really, at this time treasonable abuses, if I had to use the entire strength of the government to do so. Your fellow American,

WILL YOU SEW? An Urgent Appeal to Red Cress Workers.

Interesting and inspiring messages were given by Miss Lavinia H. Newell, director men's work, and Lewis E. Smith, ir. field representative of the Red Cross, both from the division office, Boston, at a meeting of Red Cross workers in Ellsworth vesterday afternoon. There was a good attendance, with representatives from sur rounding towns. Both speakers dealt with the changes in Red Cross work involved in the transition from a war to a peace basis.

Miss Newell emphasized the necessity of bastening to completion the recent sewing allotment of garments for French and Belgian refugees. She explained th importance of making these garments after the plain style and pattern to which these people were accustomed.

In a vivid manner she pictured the des titute condition of these people on returning to what was their former homes, de scribing among other things a forty-mile belt through northeastern France on which nothing can grow on account of the effects of the gas.

Miss Newell stated that while no more knitting would be required for soldiers and sailors, the yarn on hand would now be largely used for knitting stockings for refugee children and shawls for women. New directions for these will soon be issued. For this reason the sale of yarn locally, as recently advertised by the Red Cross chapter, will continue only for the next five days. The yarn in Ellsworth may be purchased at the secretary's office, postoffice building, or at the work-

Mr. Smith outlined some features of the peace program of the Red Cross, spoke of the need of forming home nursing classes, and showed how the general funds of the Red Cross in chapters, branches and auxiliaries could now be made available in extending relief in emergency cases right at home.

Both speakers paid a high tribute to the loyalty and spirit manifested by the people in response to calls of the Red Cross, and urged the same spirit of de votion in carrying on the work of relief.

BROOKLIN CLUB.

Annual Meeting in Boston of Old Home Folks of Brooklin.

Bosron, Jan. 20, (Special) - The annua business meeting of the Brooklin club was held at the home of the secretary. Albert E. Stanley, 8 Argvle street, Everett Mass., Jan. 18. At 7.30 o'clock a bountiful supper was served, consisting of clamstew, hot rolls, coffee, pies of all kinds, cake, doughnuts, cream cakes and othe daunties too numerous to mention. Nearly every member was present, and all did justice to the real "down east" food, and every mind wandered back to the days of yore and the good old harvest home suppers in Brooklin.

The meeting was called to order by the president, and after the usual business was disposed of, nine new members were initiated into the club. The follo ving officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. R. R. Babson; vice-president, Otis Wells; secretary, Albert E. Stanley; treasurer, James S. Dean; committee, Mrs. C. H. West, Mrs. Eugene Hamilton, Mrs. Albert E. Stanley, Fred Watson.

A social hour followed, and was greatly enjoyed by all. It being the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley, they were called before the club, and after a few remarks by the president, they were presented with a beautiful cut-glass fruit dish. It also being the birthday of James Dean, who has served the club faithfully as treasurer many years, he was called for and presented with gifts. The hours passed all too soon, and by the War.

GOVERNMENT AGENCY FOR POPULAR SAVINGS

Wideeproad Willingness to Lond to the Government Awakened

The rapid establishment of a natio ride government agency for popular savings is foreshadowed in an an nouncoment made today by Carton Glass, Secretary of the Treasury through Mrs. F. L. Higginson, Direc ter of Savings for New England.

Secretary Glass, in discussing the plans for the newly organised Savince Division of the United States Treasury, and the special savings function assigned to the Federal Reser Districts, said :--

"In the newly established savings function of the Treasury of the United States, it is believed, we will have a thrift mechanism rivaling in the convenience the oft-quoted methods of Europe. Through it we hope to estab lish new motives for saving that will capitalize into a permanent national characteristic, the wide spread willingness to save and to lend to the govern ment awakened by the war. The ultimate aim is to make investment in government securities an every-day matter with us as it has become with the people of France and England.

"Twenty Million Americans, through interest in Liberty Bonds and War Savings Stamps have begun to gain a similar taste for saving through government interest-yielding securities To perpetuate this valuable habit ac guired as a war measure, it is planned especially in connection with the sale of War Savings Stamps, to aid in meeting war obligations, to emphasize new arguments of every-day patriotism, and of individual self-interest for saving and purchase of stamps, which will be equally compelling after the seace terms are signed "The Savings Division of the Treasary-a group of economists, educators, bankers, business men and students of household and other thrift, has been charged with leadership in developing and inculcating of ways and means of making saving a happy persenal and national habit.

"The Governors of the Federal Reserve Districts, each through a special Savings Director, will assist in this educational campaign and also will see to it that War Savings Stamps are made even more accessible in every community

"These district directors operating through the headquarters savings staff and field workers, will reach every community through state directors and through county and community chairmen of committees representing the government in its savings activities. The 164,000 War Savings Societies will be maintained and strengthened and their number rapidly increased whereever conditions warant.

District cooperation will be effected with other government departments interested in thrift matters with all schools, universities, employers, religious and fraternal groups and national organizations of men and women. They will be asked to assist in promoting the sale of War Savings Stamps and also in disseminating ideas of individual and community thrift "That we continue to attract small as larger capital into government investment channels, I regard as vitally essential to our financial program. Whereas before the war the government was financed by some three hundred thousand investors, twenty million neonle have become its financial partners. Such partnership must engender a more intelligent interest in the actual operations of the govern ment. Such popular support by all classes of citizens. I regard as the very essence of democracy.

"As an agency for Americanization Liberty Bonds and, particularly Thrift and War Savings Stamps, have been among the most effective erasers of the hyphen. Ownership of such securities has operated strongly to lessen the desire of many of our foreign-born citfzens to return to their native lands. and with many more, has curbed restlessness and the tendency to shift from town to town without ever really taking root. Many employers assure us that the establishment of War Savings Societies and the ownership of government securities thus promoted in their plants, stores and business of fices, have counteracted importantly the tendency of their employees to shift from job to job. With money saved through the stamps, many, hith erto restless, gained the idea of buying homes and settling down in the community

"For these several reasons it has seemed highly desirable to the Treas home on a furlough, has returned to Camp ; ury to establish definite government agencies charged with bringing home financially to every man, woman and child, the idea that wise spending, avoidance of waste, intelligent saving and safe investment are not alone good citizenship but are good business for the individual and the community. "The thrift machinery being put in motion, I am hopeful, will prove so popular that our present beginning quickly will develop into the greatest people's savings and investment activity in the world."

Goodness.

I think that most of my readers will agree with me that, notwithstanding the all-prevalent evil which in a thousand shapes haunts the footsteps of our race, good is still the mightiest power in the world, and, if its aimless strength could be concentrated and directed, would go far towards effecting a reformation of the world.-Sin H. Rider Haggard.

"A Good Fight.

A good fight is never for its day alone. It is for many days. And it is not alone for him who bears its utmost stress. No man can live his own life bravely and not be an energy of social good, virtue proceeding forth from him to heal some brother's wounded heart. There is a riddle here for us to guess .- John White Chad wick Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cared Catarrhal Deainess Cannot Be Cared by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the ensta-chian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be re-duced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh. which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

As Girl Bemoaned, Men Are So Unreasonable!

Act Which Saved the Firm Large Sum of Money Brought Forth Stern Condemnation Rather Than Thankfulness,

There was an unhappy pucker in the forehead of the girl in the leatherette coat as she said, "Men are certainly the most unreasonable beings!" "Marvelous discovery," commented the one in the brown fur as she conveyed the contents of her tray to the not overly dainty cafeteria table. "I see I might as well listen, so get it off your mind."

"You remember," said the leatheretted one, "I told you Saturday about having so much money to take care of at the office at closing time? Well, Saturday night robbers broke into the office safe. The night watchman heard them, but while he was flourishing his pistol at them and ordering them to 'hands up' they beat him up and got away."

"With all that money?" moaned the now interested Miss Brown Fur. "Wait !" commanded Leatherette. "The watchman called up the manager of our branch and the police. Then Mr. Giles, the manager, sent for me the first thing Sunday morning. He asked me how much money I had taken in Saturday after banking hours. I told him a little over $2,000. He turned sort of creamy looking. They were all standing there-policeman, detectives, the bandaged watchman and my boss-looking at that empty money drawer in the safe as though they were waiting for it to 'Speak up. Ike, an' 'spress yourself.'

"'Did you want that money now, Mr. Giles?' I asked, not appreciating all the gloom of the situation. "'Want it!' he roared, and they all looked at me with that expression which says, "The poor girl has gone dippy.'

Then I had to explain that I had locked the safe Saturday night before I had taken care of the money in the till. I was in a hurry 'cause Clyde was waiting to meet me at closing time and so I just slipped all that money into an envelope and stuck it in the filing cabinet.

"So there on Sunday morning I took the money out of the envelope and handed it over to Mr. Giles. He counted it and they all feasted their eyes on it as a father gazes upon a longlost son.'

"Haven't you omitted the point as to man's unreasonableness?"

"No. I am just coming to that." responded Leatherette. "This morning Mr. Giles called me into his office and told me that if I could not be more careful with the firm's money he would feel obliged to discharge me."

Early Trench Journals. There is a very long list of these early trench journals, the majority of which have been collected by Mr. Charles de la Ronciere, who has de posited them at the Bibliotheque National in Paris for the benefit of the future historians of the war. They include Le Petit Echo du Eighteenth Regiment, d'infanterie territoriale, which was very artistically edited by Corporal Huhuet and autographed in many colors; L'Echo des Tranchees, the editor of which was the famous short story writer, Paul Reboux, and which contained articles and poems by such writers as Poincare and Rostand Theodore Botrel and Henri de Regnier and the Echo du Ravin the o

AT REST BENEATH FLOWERS Beautiful Conception of "Garden of the Brave" Above the Heroic Dead in France.

That was a beautiful and moving conception of Sir John Fraser's spoken at the Pilgrims' luncheon that the burial lands of the war in France should be made gardens of flowers. In his eloquent words: "I would like to see and I do see cometimes in my vision-the flowers of America growing over where lie so many of your gallant sons.

"I know there will be mighty stretches of fleur-de-lis marking the eleeping place of 1,500,000 brave Frenchmen. I would like to see the blooms of Belgium nodding over the graves where brave Belgians sleep, and I know that out there I would like to see a mighty avenue of maple trees, all giorious with their crimson and with their gold, telling the place where the Canadians rest, and there will be mighty masses of the wonderful Australian wattle showing where the Australians are sleeping; yes, and I know that out there, too, will be great sheaves of green, the shamrock coverlet for the brave Irish; and there will be roses everywhere, the white rose and red rose, the roses of Old England, of Lancaster and of York, telling where 500,000 brave Englishmen lie. "Perhaps out in that Garden of the Brave I would come across stretches of heather, beautiful gold-purple heather. I would know there were Scotsmen buried there. There would be playing -I would hear the sound of the pines. for the pipes always play where dead Scotch soldiers lie; that is the vision that comes to me."

There would be many American symbols to join the pageant-goldenrod, California poppies, the wild rose, among the rest. Certainly no more glorious and fitting memorial could be imagined than such fields of mingled beauty .- New York Tribune.

Regular, Hours Now.

"Judge, he hasn't worked for about six months," testified an elderly woman in an Indianapolis court recently. She was testifying against her son, age seventeen, who had been arrested on a charge of vagrancy.

"How does he spend his leisure time?" asked the prosecutor. "Sleeping," was the reply.

When the boy took the stand he denied that he had been out of employment for six months and said his mother had erred as to the length of time. as the last work he did was "about four and one-half months ago." "How many hours a day do you sleep?" asked Judge Pritchard, to which the defendant replied that he didn't sleep all the time, but just when he felt like it. "Ever been in jall?" said the judge. "No"

"Well, they have regular hours over there and I believe regular hours plus a few days' work on the roads will do you good. I will fine you $15 and costs, and you can pay it out in jail."

No Wonder.

At a recent county institute in Indiana one of the teachers made an announcement. At the close she said: "If any one has any objections to this plan of mine let him do as the Bible says: 'Either speak now or hold his peace forever.'

A little teacher, whose years in the schoolroom numbered 31, smiled slightly as she turned to the person next her. "That isn't in the Bible, is it?" she asked, and then finished: "It does sound familiar, but not exactly as if it came from that book."

This person laughed. "Why, that's from the wedding ceremony," she re-

When pure blood, rebuilt strength and regulated bowels are essential. In the after-effects of influenza, the grip and other prostrating dis-eases, Hood's Sarsaparilla has remarkable health-helping effect.

It expels the poisons that have weakened and depleted the blood, causing pallor, anemia, flabby flesh and the second seco and lax muscles. It is the standard blood remedy with a successful rec-

A Long Wait.

This story is well known in the camps, but somehow the soldiers have managed to keep it to themselves. On a certain part of the British line-so the story runs-information was leaking out, and a special reward was offered for the capture of the spy. The soldiers took up the hunt keenly, and one night while a member of a patrol was out in No Man's land he entered a shell-shattered ruin and discovered wrinkled old man whose clothing was all rags and tatters. "Got you at last!" said the soldier. The Change. "Times shore change," philosophically said Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge. "Just tuther day, as it were, nobody thought anything in pertickler if a feller took a demijohn to church under the back seat of his wagon, and after the sermon had grown sorter thresome winked a few of his friends outside to help him lap it up and fool around and swap horses and mebby fight a little in a general way. Japanese bellboys at a Seattle hotel are polite. In fact too polite to ask a gentleman to repeat anything when he speaks to them. So when a busy clerk said, "Boy, sign light," meaning to turn on the lights in the front of the building, the boy rushed to the counter, picked up a tray with a card on it and went through the lobby and dining room crying:

"Mr. Signlight, Mr. Signlight. Call for Mr. Signlight." He reported that "Mr. Signlight"

Music's Value in Home.

Jan. 27.

Music is so general in its inspiring uppeal to our better emotions that we annot afford to neglect its cultivation n the home. Few mothers realize the mportance of training and association in this direction. One ventures to say that many men and women have been impelled to right living and accomdishment of high ideals by the intangible strain of music that runs like a bright thread of sentiment through the stress of busy days. Mechanical plane players and other ingenious musical levices threaten less personal participation in a opetime pleasure.

One Reason Girls Steal.

This bit of philosophy of a reformed girl thief was contained in an article in the People's Home Journal on the value of the probation law: "A girl can no more live without a few pleasures and pretty possessions than she can without food. Take it from me, girls don't want to steal. If they knew how to earn things for themselves, they wouldn't be bad. Some day there'll be a way found for girls to earn what they need before they get into trouble, not after. Then the whole world'll be different."

OBITUARY.

The residents of Northeast Harbor have been made sad by the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Manchester at Philadelphia recently. They were victims of influenza. Mr. Manchester's death occurred on has on it the identification tag. name, rank, Monday, Jan. 13, at the age of thirty-two etc. Each boy is buried in a very nice coffiu, years and Mrs. Manchester died the next day, aged twenty-four years.

Frank E. Manchester was born Cambridge, Mass., the son of Manson and Flora Brown Manchester. His parents moved to this place when he was about five years of age, and he spent the greater part of his life here, being held in the highest respect and esteem by all who knew him. He was a member of the Northeast Harbor Masonic lodge, where his presence will be missed. The town has lost a good citizen and friend, and every resident deeply regrets that his life is at an end. Besides his parents. brothers, Charles of this place and Russell, who is with the American expeditionary forces in France; two sisters, Filena and Blancue of this place.

Leota Hardison Manchester was born in Walthem, the daughter of Mr. and wish you God's blessing. Mrs. Alfred Hardison. No higher tribute can be paid to her memory than to state that she was a loving wife and mother, and a citizen who was honored by all because of her personality. She survived by her daughter, parents, and two brothers, Newell, who is in France, and Arthur of Waltham.

The funeral services were held at the St. Mary's parish house chapel on Monday afternoon, Jan. 20, and many friends attended. Rev. Charles F. Lee, the rector, officiated. The masonic service was also read over the remains of the departed brother. The remains were taken to Forest Hill cemetery, where the masonic burial service was held.

very ill when he got to the hospital. He had pneumonia, and lived but a little while. Everything was done for him that was in medical power, and he passed away in a very comfortable place. This is so much to the boys after being exposed so long.

I am so glad I can give you the name of the place where he is laid at rest. It is a little American cemetery on a beautiful hillside where the morning sunshine can spread its first rays of light and warmth. Each grave is marked with a small green cross, which and under our dear stars and stripes. The services at the grave are conducted by our chaplain. I an sure it would be a great comfort to each mother to know that every wish that is possible is carried out, as far as time and accommodations will allow. This little cemetery is near a little town named Bazaillies Sur Meuse, and about three miles from a larger town, Neufchateau, in the cen-tral part of France I am sure you will be able to locate it on your map.

These dear boys are surely wonderful, and brave soldiers, but I feel that the mothers who gave so much to their country deserve a great share of oredit, for it is truly easier to give one's self than one's loved ones. It is such a relief now to know it is all over, and he is survived by a daughter, Lettie, two the time is only short nutii we will all be back home again; a happy but sad time for all, we realize.

I am sorry I cannot do more to make your sorrow lighter. Trusting this little letter will give you the information you desire, and as a mother of one of those brave boys, I

Of French descent, he left New Orleans in the early days of August, 1914, for France, where he enlisted in the Foreign Legion. He served with those famous fighters until May of 1917, when he was transferred to the French aviation service and saw action in Serbia and Albania. Shortly before the signing of the armistice he secured his transfer to the American air service.

Over his left shoulder he wears the Foureger awarded to the Lafayette flying corps, of which he was a member. In addition he won the Croix de Guerre with two palms for gallantry in action. He was wounded three times while fighting with the Foreign Legion, but escaped unhurt through all of his aerial battles.

ALASKA CARES FOR PIONEERS

Territory Provides Home in Former Naval Barracks for Aged Trail Blazers.

Sitka, Alaska.-Alaska's aged and disabled pioneers-men who helped blaze the first trails across the golden northland-always seeking but seldom finding their elusive Eldorado-are cared for at the Alaska Pioneers' home at Sitka, the first capital of the territory. At present there are 65 old "sourdoughs" at the home. tory.

Gov. Thomas Riggs, Jr., of Alaska recently spent several days inspecting the home. He took several meals with the men and talked with both the pioneers and employees.

Buildings used by the home were barracks occupied by the United States marines before 1911.º In 1913 the buildings were turned over by the navy department to the department of the interior.

IT STILL HAS ITS POWER

An Octopus, Whose Tentacles Extend All Over the World and Worked Unceasingly for Commercial Benefit of Germany.

New York.-Attention has been called a number of times to the manner in which the Germans managed to dominate in the control and price of nonferrous metals. One branch of their organization was taken over by A. Mitchell Palmer, the alien property custodian. This concerned itself with handling the metals in this country. But the ramifications of the German octopus were never as graphically de-scribed as in au address made by W. M. Hughes, the Australian prime minister, at the Mansion house, London, some time ago while the war was still

He took as his text what he called the great firm of Mertons, as the British end of the German trust was designated. He said it was "a living outward and visible sign of the rottenness within," and an agent of the enemy. Then he went on to say:

"It is the English branch of one of the greatest companies the world has ever seen; it is a combination, an octopus whose tentacles extended before the war all over the world, and whose heart was at Frankfort-on-Main. It is an organization that had a stranglehold on the whole of the world, that affected not only its commercial and industrial life, but affected also the political life; which worked unceasingly for the commercial benefit of Germany, which gathered huge profits for the benefit of Germany.

Served Germany Well.

"It was a most powerful and a most serviceable instrument in the German policy of penetration. It served the power of the kaiser better than a dozen legions on the field, and it is now here today, as it has been, with its ramifications in our midst. It still has its power, the profits are being gathered in-this firm, which for three years after the war was the London agent, the English agent, of the American Metal company, of which I shall speak in a moment.

"This was the firm from which Britain bought for 12 months after the war the metals necessary for carrying on the war. This firm was founded by Wilhelm Merton of Frankfort, and from the day of its establishment it has spread its tentacles out, and the firm has grown every passing day. It is called Metallgesellschaft, the American Metal company, the Australian Metal company, the African Metal company, Schweizerische Gesellschaft in Switzerland; it has a dual name which is sometimes French and sometimes something else; but it is always German in essence. It pushed out its tentacles over Europe from place to place.

"It pushed another tentacle across the ocean to Australia, calling itself the Australian Metal company; it called itself the Australian Metal company, but it was not Australian. It was a company held by Germany; it had German directors, and very naturally, as was their custom, they covered ethods and devices with the cloak of naturalization. Bit by bit they beslabbered and entangled the great metal industries of Australia in a grip until they had them body and soul, and so it was that when the war broke out there was this great metal industry, the Beer Sondheimer in one shape or another, the Metallgesellschaft, and the Metallurgische Gesellschaft, the whole controlling the channels from which the metal came, determining how it should be produced and what prices it should be sold at all over the world. What they did in Australia they did elsewhere,

The "Victorious Fifth" Will Find Enormous Tasks That Call for Its Dollars.

The Fifth Liberty Loan, which the people of the country will be asked in April to make to the Government, will be a loan of the future.

Four great loans have fought for Liberty. This will meet the needs of Liberty won.

The free peoples of the world have given to millions of their brothers and sisters the right of determining their own destinies.

But for all of them remains still the great work of reconstruction, re-ad justment, completion, for the estab lished peace.

The responsibilities of this new pe riod are no less great than those which arose in the crisis of the war itself.

It is for us of the United States to do our part as a nation as fully now as we did when we struck our blow towards saving civilization.

It still remains to see that all which won on the battlefield is saved was for liberty; that the stricken peoples do not starve and that there is prompt and useful rebuilding and restoration in ravaged Europe.

We must bring back to their own land and to their own homes, the mil lions of our men who have helped win the great victory. They must once more be fitted with thought and care into our national life.

Great projects which were begun in time of war must be finished or re directed.

All of these tests are part of the great enterprise of peace and recon struction. All of them must be fi nanced in the next few months before us. To carry them out is absolutely necessary if we are to complete out share of the work which has been carried so far forward.

Every man and every woman in the nation, who has shared in the blessings of peace won by the war, should pre pare now to share in peace loan-the VICTORIOUS FIFTH.

400 LOCOMOTIVES

SENT TO FRANCE

1,200 SHIPPED IN SECTIONS

Record of 12 Days Made From Shops in This Country to Lines at the Front-Great Work Is Now Revealed.

Washington .- Shipment of Americanbuilt steam locomotives, each weighing 73 tons, and assembled all except the smokestack and the tender, so that they could move away under their own steam within a few hours after their arrival in France, was among the accomplishments of the United States army transport force under stress of war, and has since been continued.

More than 400 of these locomotives were so shipped from New York in a few months, it was learned here with the lifting of the war censorship regulations, and these were in addi-tion to 1,200 which were shipped in sections, nine to a locomotive, packed in cases. The ships used to transport the lo.omotives complete were of a special type with three holds, each hold measuring 60 by 102 feet, entered hy hatches 39 feet wide and 42 feet long.

Into each of the three holds were placed 12 locomotives-36 to a ship. A bed or flooring on which they rested for the voyage required more than 3.000 tons of steel rails. The locomotives when in position were braced with heavy wooden beams and the space between the boilers to the level of the top of the steam dome packed solid with highly compressed baled hay.

Compressed Hay Under Flooring.

On this hay another flooring was laid, and on this floor was placed the tenders-the smokestacks, with more baled hay or other light cargo, packed in the space where coal is to be carried. On top of the tenders was packed still more cargo to the deck level, and during the "rush days" the above-deck space filled with crated airplanes. When completely loaded with the 36 locomotives and other cargo each vessel was carrying a dead weight of 14,000 tons in addition to ship machinery, bunker coal and crew supplies.

The loading of the locomotives is an interesting sight. Steel railroad barges carrying 14 of the steel monsters are made fast alongside a 100-ton capacity floating derrick barge, in turn made fast to the ship. An ordinary sling of steel wire is placed around the forward end of the boilers, another under the supports to the cab, the signal given and the locomotive lifted 40 or 50 feet in the air, swung over and gently loaded into the ship's hold. The whole operation required but 20 minutes, and it was accomplished with the same ease and the same lack of excitement as prevailed on board a steamship at an adjoining dock which was taking on board 500-pound bales of cotton.

The idea of shipping locomotives complete was conceived when army transport officers were informed that England was shipping them across the channel ready to move away on arrival.

In the United States.

"In America they pushed out another tentacle; there was a company called the American Metal company. It was a company in which, out of 70,-000 called-up shares, 34,000, or 49 per cent, were held by the Metallgesellschaft at Frankfort, 27 per cent by Mertons of this place and the remaining 18 per cent were held mostly by hyphenated Germans, a few being held by bona fide Americans who were put right in the front of the shop window to deceive the credulous. Now I absolutely acquit here the English shareholders, the innocent shareholders in Mertons, of all blame. They went into this in a bona fide way, they did not realize what were the designs of these people; but I am directing my remarks here against the urm, against Metallurgische Gesellschaft, against against the firm, against the the great German octopus which dominated the world, which stayed here for four years after the war. It is difficult to understand how they should have remained here. It is not sufficient to deny them a license; they ought not to be allowed to trade at all. Their company should be wound up and they should disappear from the commercial life of the country."

When the movement was at its height the following time was recorded for the movement of a locomotive from its builders to its base of action behind the battle lines: Shops to New Jersey terminals, 24 hours: from rail to barges, 6 hours; from terminals to ship side, 6 hours; barge to ship, 20 minutes; New York to France, days; ship to army rail lines and hooked up to a transport train bound for the front, 6 hours; a total of less than 12 days.

Handling of 73-ton locomotives as if they were but one-tenth of their weight is only a small part of the tremendous work that has been under way at army transport piers since the United States transport service attained full swing.

Maj. Dan O'Brien, marine director, an officer who has won his rank by more than 20 years' service in every port of the United States, Cuba, Mexico and the Philippines, where transport facilities of the army were centered, is the man who handled the locomotives.
