

THAT CHANGE IN WOMAN'S LIFE

Mrs. Godden Tells How It May be Passed in Safety and Comfort.

Fremont, O.—"I was passing through the critical period of life, being forty-six years of age and had all the symptoms incident to that change—heat flashes, nervousness, and was in a general run down condition, so it was hard for me to do my work."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me as the best remedy for my troubles, which it surely proved to be. I feel better and stronger in every way since taking it, and the annoying symptoms have disappeared."

Such annoying symptoms as heat flashes, nervousness, backache, headache, irritability and "the blues," may be speedily overcome and the system restored to normal conditions by this famous root and herb remedy Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If any complications present themselves write the Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for suggestions how to overcome them. The result of forty years experience is at your service and your letter held in strict confidence.

NORTH ORLAND.
A letter has been received from Private Frank Trundy still in France saying he is well, and hopes to get home by fall.
Mrs. Caroline Gray has returned from Veazie, accompanied by her grandson, Alton Grindle, who has received his honorable discharge from the famous 103rd infantry, 28th division.
M. W. Ginn, wife and son Herbert, were the guests Sunday at the Robinson house, Bucksport, of Mrs. Ginn's brother, Vernon Maddox, who recently arrived from Seattle, Wash., for a visit to his home town. Mr. Maddox went West about thirty-five years ago, and has been home but once since. He is here now on a business as well as a pleasure trip, as he is executor of the will of an uncle, involving about a quarter of a million dollars.

EDITED BY "AUNT MADGE."
Its Motto: "Helpful and Helpful."
The purposes of this column are succinctly stated in the title and motto—it is for the mutual benefit, and aims to be helpful and helpful being for the common good. It is for the common use—a public servant, a purveyor of information and suggestion, a medium for the interchange of ideas. In this capacity it solicits communications, and its success depends largely on the support given it in this respect. Communications must be signed, but the name of writer will not be printed except by permission. Communications will be subject to approval or rejection by the editor of the column, but none will be rejected without good reason. Address all communications to

MEMORIAL DAY QUOTATIONS.
From our crowded calendar
One day we pluck to give:
It is the day the dying pause
To honor those who live.
On Fame's eternal camping ground
Their silent tents are spread,
And glory guards with solemn guard
The bivouac of the dead.
No rumor of the foe's advance
Now swells upon the wind;
No troubled thoughts, at midnight haunts,
Of loved ones left behind.
Rest on, embalmed and sainted dead,
Dear as the blood you gave;
No impious footstep here shall tread
The herbage of your grave.
Nor shall your glory be forgot
While Fame her record keeps.
Or Honor points the hallowed spot
Where valor proudly sleeps.
Sleep, soldiers, still in honored rest
Your truth and valor wearing.
The bravest are the tenderest,
The loving are the daring.

How little we thought, when the boys of 1861 came home from the war, (many of them about the age of these who are being welcomed home from overseas now) that their grandsons would ever be engaged in a war on foreign soil. It seems to be continuously true that "it needs to be that offences come," offences that make war somewhere in the world. In the first record we have of family life there was a tragedy, and following history, from that time when brother was slain by brother, until the present day there is a trail of bloodshed all the way. It would seem that from the first the statement has been unchanged that "without shedding of blood there is no ransom." There were the generations of emblematical sacrifice; there remain the long lists of battles carried on in different parts of the world through the ages. There was our own Civil war, which many regarded as a punishment for the holding in slavery of human beings. It is all the old, old fight between good and evil.
In the Saturday Evening Post, of May 24, there is an article entitled "Made in America."

France, which contains several bits of information new to me. Isn't it fine we can learn something new every day? Really, if we had always done that, what a lot of "new things" some of us old folks would have gathered up. Perhaps, after all, we may have subconsciously "done that," however. That subconscious idea is one of the new things which we must study up a little. It may be like germs, no I don't mean in effect, but in the sense that, unconsciously to humans, for years these things existed. For the item from the Saturday Evening Post:
The closely built district north and slightly east of Paris before the war was the New England of France. Now it is her Sahara. Five years ago there were her Connecticut, her Rhode Island, her Massachusetts, her southern New Hampshire, and her Maine. This relates to her manufactures. There is the spinning looms of Cambrai that first made and gave the name to cambric. The French even now call it batiste, after Baptiste Containg, who first perfected it. Lille was one of the great spinning cities of Europe and from that we have "lisle," the thread of her looms.

SEDGWICK.
R. A. Bracy has gone to Philadelphia, where he is employed on a steam yacht.

EDUCATION AND THE PUMPKIN

Eastern Writer Points Out Wherein the Two Have Some Strong Points of Similarity.
At one of our city vegetable marts one day a farmer displayed with commendable pride a huge pumpkin of alluring aspect, with the statement that it grew "full twenty feet from the stalk," remarks Rochester Post-Express. This habit of wandering in tortuous uselessness to a long distance from the source of production before the fruit of the vine is produced is long known of the pumpkin.
It would not be amiss for our educators to consider the pumpkin vine; unquestionably some of them have in earlier days, but whether with a view to its close analogy to educational processes is uncertain. Perhaps it is too much to say that the best fruit of the educational vine is produced from its original source; that what comes of schooling is something quite different from the apparent result at the source; that the best things a man or woman does are very different from the particular, or nonparticularized thing, he or she is directly taught to do. We are turning to the business of making our schools show quick fruitage of working ability.
But it is at least a fair hazard to opine that the pupils who become "some pumpkins" will often as not be products known a long way from the special process of education that extreme vocationalists advise.

COLOGNE'S UPS AND DOWNS

Important German City of the Present Has Had Its Periods of Dire Adversity.
During the Middle Ages Cologne was a place of great trade; the weavers, the goldsmiths, and the armorers of the city were famous the world over; while its merchants had houses in London, and the city itself was accorded a chief place in the Hanseatic league. Decay set in with the dawn of the Reformation, and the place owed its downfall to its intolerance. Thus, its university, which in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries had a great reputation, began at once to decline. This policy dealt severe blows at the prosperity of the town, and when, in 1734, Cologne was occupied by the French, it was a poor and decayed city of some 40,000 inhabitants, of which only 6,000 possessed civil rights. Since 1815, however, when it was finally assigned to Prussia, Cologne has continued to prosper, until today it is one of the most important cities of Germany, with a population of nearly half a million.

Foot-Proof Airplane.
The latest model of British airplane is said to be as nearly foolproof as it is possible to make such a machine as an airplane. The machines are so balanced and the wings so arranged, that when the engine stops they glide gradually and easily to earth. The following test shows how stable these airplanes are: A pilot climbed to a sufficient height, and then stopped his engine and took his hands off the control, merely keeping his feet on the rudder bar. He steered for an altitude twenty miles away, and having headed her straight, he let the airplane do what she liked. She traveled the whole twenty miles as steadily as a bicycle coasting down a long, straight and gentle hill. Of course the pilot had to take hold of the control stick to land the machine in the airfield, but except for that, and the steering, the airplane made the whole journey by herself.

Dogs as Messengers.
Experiments made in the training of dogs as messengers with the armies in the field have, it is stated, given satisfactory results. The dogs which proved most receptive under instructions were chiefly half-breed collies and retrievers. A rather poor breed of bob-tailed sheepdogs has also done well. All have been trained to perform their errands during heavy firing, both of rifles and guns. They can be fired over as easily as the ordinary sporting dog, and what is quite another thing, they will face fire at close range.

Had Same War Adventure.
A letter from the chaplain of base hospital 48, French lines, brings to light a strange case of parallel circumstances in the war experiences of two San Franciscans, Corp. Arthur T. Mullen, 621 Alvarado street, and Private Jeremiah Sears, 623 Alvarado street. After enlistment the two men, living in the same building, were assigned to the same division, fought in the same battle, escaping wounds; then in the battle of Argonne they were both wounded October 14 at the same time, by machine-gun bullets, and were placed side by side on cots in the same hospital.

New American Industry.
Turkish towels now come from Lewiston, Me., where the mills are daily turning out thousands of high-grade Turkish towels that are said to be far superior to the goods formerly brought across the Atlantic. One mill as a side line turns out 30,000 bedspreads each week and daily produces thousands of yards of mercerized silk.

Canary Given Fine Funeral.
Scores of persons attended the funeral of a canary bird at the home of Harry Chambers, Moorestown, N. J. The bird was twenty-five years old, and many grownups had known it since they were children. It was buried in a little silver box.

Forty Years a Druggist He Endorses PERUNA

Read this from Mr. L. A. Richardson of Marine, Illinois:
"I have been engaged in the retail drug business here for the past forty years. During this time I have seen many patent medicines come into use, flourish for one or two years and then gradually disappear. There are very few of these remedies that possess enough real merit to insure them long life. Peruna has always been a good seller with us, with a marked increase from year to year. The change in the formula some years ago, by the addition of the slightly laxative properties, has made it a reliable remedy for constipation and for colds. If taken hourly in tablespoonful doses by adults it will break up the worst cold in two or three days' time. I take pleasure in urging my brother druggists to recommend it for these two ailments."

FRANKLIN.
The Methodist centenary allotment of $1,250 from the churches have gone well "over the top."
There has been some misunderstanding regarding the speaker for Memorial day here. Later reports give the name of Robert P. King of Ellsworth.
The ladies' aid society will meet with Mrs. George Hardison Wednesday afternoon. On Memorial day the society will serve a public dinner at the Methodist vestry, at which the G. A. R. veterans and their wives will be honored guests.
It is gratifying to know that the northern addition to Bay View cemetery, bought several years ago, is receiving attention from the new trustees, who are having driveways graded. Owners of lots are making improvements. L. C. Bragdon was recently chosen president of the association.
The Sunday services at the two churches were well attended. Several G. A. R. veterans, returned soldiers from overseas and Red Men were prominent in the foreground of audience, where the national colors, evergreen wreaths and potted plants were arranged with charming effect. The addresses by the pastors and the choir music were patriotic and inspiring.

Sick or well

To feel well keep your liver active and avoid irregular habits which lead to constipation or intestinal indigestion. Don't overload your stomach with indigestible food, rich pastry, candy and sweets which do you no good and may bring on biliousness or dyspepsia, leaving the traces in your face or complexion. Get all the outdoor exercise you can, get your share of sleep, and you will feel well and look well all the time.

But if your complexion is sallow, or pimply, if your eyes are dull or yellowish, from biliousness, try the above suggestions, also try a small dose of "L. F." Atwood's Medicine after eating, and you will soon notice the difference in your looks and feelings. Safe and reliable. Small dose. Large bottle, 50 cents at your dealer's. "L. F." MEMORIAL RESOLUTIONS.
 Whereas, He who knoweth and doeth all things well, has seen fit to take from our midst, our brother, Henry Clark, therefore be it

Resolved, That in his death Rowena Rebekah Lodge, No. 91, L. O. O. F. has lost a most worthy and esteemed brother.

Resolved, That we extend to the bereaved wife and relatives, our heartfelt sympathy. May they be comforted by Him who is a refuge and strength, in time of trouble.

Resolved, That our charter be draped for the usual period, a copy of these resolutions be placed on our records, a copy sent to the wife, and a copy be sent to THE ELLSWORTH AMERICAN for publication.

Smokeless Powder.
 The advantages of smokeless powder, besides its virtue of high explosiveness, are twofold. It does not create a smoke cloud that betrays the location of the gun or gunners, and at the same time the man behind the gun is not confused by a second by a pall of smoke that obscures the range of vision in the direction of the enemy.

The Shah's Share.
 If the Shah of Persia were to be deprived of his income he would still be one of the richest men in the world. He would only have to sell his ornaments, gems, and precious stones to become possessed of about $35,000,000.

An Old Remedy for Children.
 Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for children have been used by Mothers for over 30 years for feverishness, Bad Stomach, Teething Disorders and Headaches. They break up colds in 24 hours, move and regulate the bowels and destroy worms. Get a package at your druggists to use when needed.

Paint on Window Glass.
 To remove paint or varnish from window glass. Keep the spots moistened till soft, with turpentine and ammonia; then rub with coarse cloth dipped in coarse salt. Or moisten spots with baking soda dissolved in hot water. Then scrape off. The edge of a coin is sometimes used.—Housewife.

Noble Attribute.
 Never does the human soul appear so strong and noble as when it foregoes revenge, and dares to forgive an injury.—E. H. Chapin.

Don't Waste Another Day.
 When you are worried by backache; By lameness and urinary disorders—Don't experiment with an untried medicine.

Follow Ellsworth people's example. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's Ellsworth testimony. Verify it if you wish:
 Mrs. S. E. Chapman, 10 Hancock St., says: "I have suffered a great deal from kidney trouble. My kidneys have acted irregularly and I have had inflammation of the bladder. I have had trouble with my back when I stooped over. I have had to rely on Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from E. G. Moore's Drug Store, for relief, as nothing else seemed to help my case. I think others suffering with kidney trouble will do well to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."

A WAR SAVINGS HORSE

How Kindness Developed an Almost Worthless Animal.

Daisy stopped in her rounds of the Boston business district where she hauls packages from one place to another, to make a call at the headquarters of the War Savings Organization, 95 Milk street. She came to enlist in the work of spreading a knowledge of the advantage of investing in Thrift and War Savings Stamps among the people.

Daisy is a living example of what can be achieved by the law of kindness. Nine years ago nobody wanted her and she was condemned to be shot. Then John J. Bergh came along. For $50 and an old horse he secured possession, and you should see her now, and the medals—some of them gold—that have been awarded her in the annual workhorse parade! Daisy dotes on her master and will do anything he tells her to. If he asks her how old she is she never hesitates, but unblushingly paws it off on the pavement. She shakes hands (?) with every one of her four feet, and if he puts a lump of sugar between his teeth and tells Daisy just to suck it she will lap it carefully and does not think of trying for the whole lump until he gives the word. She picks her bit up from the ground and does other remarkable things, and she did them all for the War Savings Organization, just to show what she could do and what she was glad to do to help the good work along.

Daisy is now a regularly accepted member of the Savings Division and, whether you recognize her or not as she goes about, frequently carrying great boxes of literature for the War Savings Committee, you may be sure that she is on the job and doing everything she knows how to promote the sale of Thrift and War Savings Stamps among the people.

AN EMERGENCY OR TURN AROUND FUND.

"I Hope to be Married But—"

"My big ambition is to get married if Mr. Right comes into my life," said a pleasant-faced hard-working stenographer. "Therefore I am buying Thrift Stamps and War Savings Stamps regularly as a sort of marriage chest to provide a trousseau and to contribute toward the furnishing or buying of my home.

"But Mr. Right and I may never find each other. In that event, I will have to keep on working. I may get sick; I may want to take a position in another town; I may need a rest. My marriage-chest stamps then will be my emergency or turn-around fund. Whatever happens, saving now will help me in the future. Already I have saved a tidy sum without skimping in the least. The handy thrift stamps catch and hold on to my quarters before they obey some sudden and foolish spending impulse. I look upon W. S. S. both as cash and investment. In case of emergency I can always cash them on ten days' notice at the post office, but month by month and year by year my stamp money is earning interest and increasing my double-purpose fund."

Money invested in War Savings Stamps is working for you day and night.

Thrift helped win the war. It will enable you to enjoy peace.

Take care of your dollars now and they will take care of you later.

USING THE TELESCOPE

Present Desires vs. Future Opportunities.

Spring is in the air and we are all looking ahead, "using the telescope," to borrow the title of a recent address by a Greater Boston clergyman. Victory gardens are being made and in perspective are bountiful harvests and beautiful flowers. Summer wardrobes are in preparation, "spring cleaning" is in progress, and vacations are being planned.

We are wonderfully prescient when immediate comforts and pleasures are concerned, but do we always extend the telescope far enough to look well into the future? There will be other years, and with them will come greater opportunities. Shall we be ready to improve them? Are we practicing the thrift which is good business, distinct from hoarding, but paving the way for future success?

A little restriction of present wants; a few more vegetables from the garden; limiting replenishment of the wardrobe to essentials and buying good materials, always cheap in the end and more satisfactory; less vacation expense, which need not mean less pleasure,—these and other bits of carefulness, keeping in mind the margin of savings, will clear the way for wonderful things perhaps a home, higher education, travel, business of one's own—there is no limit to what the telescope may reveal.

As safe investment is as important as saving, why not put the mite saved into Thrift Stamps, and when practicable convert those into War Savings Stamps, which will work for you night and day. This done the telescope will reveal a substantial accumulation for future needs.

HOW TO BE A CAPITALIST.

Even Small Savings May Be The Foundation of a Fortune.

Do you want to be a capitalist? It's easy.

Hartley Withers in his authoritative textbook "Poverty and Waste," says that "Capital is defined by economists as wealth set aside to be used in production. A certain amount of it is necessary before any industry can begin its work; because industry implies making or growing something, and, during the process of making or growing, those who are at work have to be kept alive out of a store that has been set aside beforehand to that end. Professor Walker's well known example is that of a member of a savage tribe, living precariously on fish 'caught from the rocks which jut into the sea,' who lays up a store of dried fish, and keeping himself alive thereon, makes himself a canoe, and thereafter can 'paddle in it out to the banks' which lie two or three miles from shore, where in one day he can get as many fish as he could catch from off the rocks in a week.

"His store of dried fish was his capital, which he reserved from consumption and kept to live on while making his canoe. Having done so, he has put his capital into a canoe and can let it out to his neighbors, taking payment from them in the form of part of their catch, on which he can live, while he himself builds more canoes and sells them in exchange for the labor of the rest of the tribe. The point at which he left off being a mere hand-to-mouth worker and consumer and became a capitalist, was when, instead of eating all the fish that he caught, he saved some and dried them so that he might be kept alive while he carried out his canoe-building venture. 'At every step of its progress,' say Walker again, 'capital follows one law. It arises solely out of savings.' Every man, woman and child can lay aside a part of the proceeds of his labor, beyond what is necessary for his present maintenance, and thus start on the road to capital. The safest and soundest way of putting aside your "dried fish" today lies in the purchase of War Savings Stamps. Even the smallest sums can be put into Thrift Stamps which grow into War Savings Stamps.

Capital arises from thrift, and thrift means future happiness.

Vice-President Thomas R. Marshall is an enthusiastic supporter of the 1919 Savings campaign. He was one of the first persons in Washington to purchase $1000 of 1919 W. S. S. the limit one person can hold and he also has $1000 of 1918 stamps.

Col. Ashworth of Bangor will deliver the memorial address at the Baptist church, Friday evening, May 30. Col. Ashworth has recently returned from overseas.

Edith, widow of Capt. Benjamin Phillips, died suddenly at the home of Mrs. Mary Ann Wells, where she had been only two weeks caring for Mrs. Minnie Wells who died just a week ago. Mrs. Phillips was taken ill Monday evening, but was not considered dangerously ill. The end, coming so suddenly, was a great shock to her many friends. She was a friend to all, and in the many homes where she nursed the sick, she will be greatly missed. Mrs. Phillips was active in all social circles. She held the office of district deputy in the Rebekah lodges of this section and was noble grand of Center Harbor Rebekah lodge three successive years and was its present treasurer. She was also a member of Lookout chapter, O. E. S., and this year she was Esther in that chapter. Her helpful presence will be missed whether in the lodge room, the town or the home. She leaves two sons, Granville of this place and Capt. Fred Phillips of Fairhaven, Mass., and one brother, Charles Parker. A loving mother and sister, a kind neighbor and a faithful friend has gone. The community joins with the family in their sorrow.

OLD AND NEW BATTLE NAMES
Hard to Bestow Appellations Upon Conflicts Having Wide Fronts.

There seems to have been little trouble in the past in naming battles, although even Waterloo is called Quatre Bras by the French. But on the whole a name seems to have attached itself to a battle quite naturally, like Blenheim, Talavera, Jena, Leipzig, the Nile and Trafalgar.
But in the great war, where a battle extended over weeks of time over a forty-mile front, including many villages, and sometimes several objectives in the shape of big towns, the difficulty of naming a battle with a name that is universally recognized is extreme.
The names which have actually settled down completely and taken their places in history are the battle of the Marne, the two battles of Ypres, the battle of Verdun, the battle of the Bight, the battle of Jutland, the battle of the Somme, and that seems almost all.
The battles of the later phases of the war have hardly settled down to a name yet. Probably the battle in which the Vimy ridge was stormed will be known as Arras; but the battle of Messines will probably be a sticker. Just as the Chemin des Dames will live in French annals for all time.
Perhaps the great battle which at the time seemed disastrous to British arms, commencing on March 21, 1918, will go down to history as the battle of Amiens, while the battle of Cambrai may stand for all that heroic recovery which brought the British to their final victory.

GOT WEARY OF "FLU" TALK
Visitor to Indianapolis Very Much Fed Up With Conversation Relating to the Epidemic.

L. B. Andrus of Grand Rapids, Mich., chief of the Merchants Heat and Light company, is laboring under the impression that some "Hoosier Jinx" was trailing him Wednesday evening.
While taking dinner at a hotel he was surrounded by delegates to the casket manufacturers' convention. After hearing them discuss their business, which discussion naturally had many references to the influenza epidemic, he concluded it was no place for him.
As the evening rolled on, he began debating with himself the question whether the epidemic was going to get him, so he decided to take a Turkish bath. He had only been there a short time when a sick-looking individual came in, and in a conversation with Mr. Andrus said that he had only recently got over a severe case of the influenza, and he had been advised that a Turkish bath would get the poison out of his system and assist him to recover more rapidly.
When he was talking with this man, another man came in sneezing and coughing and inquired of Mr. Andrus whether he thought a Turkish bath would prevent a fellow from getting a bad case of the influenza.
By this time Andrus said to the attendant: "Get me out of here as quickly as possible. I have given about as much time as I care to presiding at the flu conference in Indianapolis."—Indianapolis News.

President to Get Rare Book.
An ancient book has been sent to President Wilson by Postmaster General Tord of Florence who is a collector of rare manuscripts. The book is a rare edition of the life of Christopher Columbus and was written by Fernandez, a son of the discoverer of America, and was published at Venice in 1571. Plans had been made to have the book presented to President Wilson on Columbus day.

Wonder What Poe Got for It.
Quite a while ago an author, Edgar Allan Poe, contributed a story to Graham's Library of Fiction, No. 1. But it hardly occurred to him that some day a collector would pick up an old copy of that periodical for 25 cents and presently sell it to somebody else for $1,000. Probably it is just as well that it did not, for the knowledge might have disconcerted him with his own modest emolument for writing a classic.

$216 for a Thackeray Letter.
A sale of autographs and manuscripts was held at New York recently. Charles Scribner's Sons paid the top price, $216, for catalogue No. 234, a letter of William M. Thackeray to John Oxenford, asking him to come to a dinner in celebration of the completion of "Vanity Fair." The total for the sale was $2,752.45.

The Lives of a Cat.
A mother had two sons, one in France, the other attending a university near home. The son in France was wounded and naturally the mother felt grieved over the incident, and being of an excitable nature, telephoned her other son: "John, come home at once. Ted is at the front being killed every minute."

Unreadable Signatures.
General Pershing recently gave orders that the typewriter signature be required hereafter on all official orders and endorsements by American military men in France because of the fact so many officers wrote their names "so blindly that it is difficult to make them out." General Pershing purposes to waste no time in deciphering written signatures.

GATHER YE ROSES!
Happiness Never a Thing One Lightly Casts Away.

Too Beautiful, Even Though Evanescent, to Be Passed By When One May Hold It, If Only for the Moment.

We were coming home from a dinner party together, my friend and I. It was late at night and rather rainy, and as we sat together in the damp, almost empty trolley car, my friend spoke very suddenly and seriously, writes Margaret E. Sangster in the Christian Herald.
"Just now," she said, "I've a chance to be very happy. But I'm almost afraid to take it!"
The rain beat in a futile manner against the car windows. I listened to it for a moment before I spoke.
"Why?" I questioned at last—"why are you afraid to take your chance—to be happy?"
"Because," answered my friend, and her eyes looked far away—past the car and the rain, even—"because I'm afraid that it won't last!"
When it is autumn and the leaves are crimson and gold-colored and very beautiful, we know, even as we admire them, that they will be brown and withered some day. But that does not keep us from loving their glorious colors.
It's like that, too, with flowers, and springtime, and the blue sky of summer. We know that the flowers will fade away and that springtime will go and that there will be winter storm clouds where there were once sparkles of sun.
And so this is the answer to my friend and to other friends of mine:
Never be afraid to grasp at happiness because it may not last. For happiness is as beautiful as the flowers of spring and the sky of summer and the vivid leaves of autumn. And even though it might not last, happiness is too beautiful to pass by with never a glance.
And then, as the philosopher said, and as we know, don't be sure, as you take your chance at happiness, that it will not stay. Look around your circle of friends, look at your business associates, look at the casual crowds and note the average of happy faces is rather high. You'll see more smiles, I think, than frowns; more merry faces than sad ones!
Don't be afraid to take a chance at happiness because you fear that it is too beautiful to last. Take your chance, instead, arguing that happiness is too beautiful not to last!

Dead Man Upright at Machine Gun.
Stories of the scenes of the battlefields are told in a letter received by Mrs. H. E. Wilson of Middle avenue, Wilmerding, Pa., from her son, Private Gordon Wilson of the One Hundred and Ninth Ambulance corps.
Walking over the battlefield in search of wounded men, he wrote, he found himself staring into the muzzle of a German machine gun, with a German soldier at the breach. Dropping into a shell hole, Private Wilson remained there for half an hour, not daring to move. Finally, as darkness approached, he decided to crawl away. He lost his way, he says, and did not know where he was until he was again looking at the German machine gun and the lone soldier behind it. This time he was in a position to see better and recognized at once that the soldier was dead. A bullet fired by an American rifleman had penetrated his forehead, probably just at the time he was preparing to pour a volley into the advancing columns.

Washtub Punishment.
A cigarette carelessly thrown away by a guard caused discomfort to a squad of engineers at Camp Shelby, Miss., says a letter received by Mr. and Mrs. E. Borton, Indianapolis, from their son, George K. Borton of the engineers.
Borton and six comrades awoke about midnight to find their tent in flames. They were driven into the chilly night air in sleeping apparel. Soldiers from nearby tents hurried to the rescue with blankets and Private Borton ran a hundred yards for water. The fire department arrived in time to soak the cots. The following morning the guard of the squad was ordered to wash seven pairs of trousers as a punishment for dropping the cigarette near the tent.

Earth a Blue Star.
Observations of the dark part of the moon were made by Professor Lowell at the observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz., says the New York World. The dark part of the moon is lighted only by the faint light reflected by the earth, and the color of this light would be the color with which the earth shines to the other heavenly bodies. This color proved to be blue, which was to be expected, as the atmosphere, as we see it, is blue, and it is the earth's atmosphere which chiefly would be visible to other planets. Thus the earth is a blue star.

A Solemn Thought.
"Just think of it, my friend," said the everlasting worrier. "In the arctic regions the nights are sometimes six months long."
"Well, what of it?" asked his friend as he adjusted his flu mask and a smile at the same time.
"Just imagine the consternation of a poor Eskimo wife when her husband calls up to tell her he will be away all night to sit up with a sick friend!"

RHEUMATISM

Physician Believes a Genuine Remedy for the Disease Has Been Found.

Rheuma, the wonderful rheumatism remedy sold by C. E. Alexander and all druggists, gives quicker and more lasting relief than other remedies costing many times as much.
Rheuma passes the deadly poisonous secretions into the bowels and kidneys, from which they are quickly bro-n off in a natural, healthy way.
Read what a reputable physician says about Rheuma: "I have made a most careful investigation of the formula employed in the manufacture of Rheuma, and I heartily recommend it as a remedy for all forms of rheumatism. I find Rheuma far in advance of the methods generally employed in the treatment of rheumatism, and altogether different in composition from the remedies usually prescribed."
Dr. M. C. Lyons.
This should give any sufferer from rheumatism confidence to try Rheuma.
