BURRILL NATIONAL BANK ELLSWORTH, MAINE

Making the Nation's Credit Liquid

RESERVOIR systems insure a steady water supply in every city and large town. The faucet is of very little value without the reservoir behind it.

The Federal Reserve Banking System is a simple and practical means of making the nation's credit liquid at all times.

As a member of that system, this bank is as independent of local conditions as it is humanly possible to make it.

HOW THIS NERVOUS WOMAN GOT WELL

Told by Herself. Her Sincerity Should Convince Others.

Christopher, Ill.—“For four years I suffered from irregularities, weakness, nervousness, and was in a run down condition. Two of our best doctors failed to do me any good. I heard so much about what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others, I tried it, and was cured. I am no longer nervous, am regular, and in excellent health. I believe the Compound will cure any female trouble.”—Mrs. ALICE HELLER, Christopher, Ill.

Nervousness is often a symptom of weakness or some functional derangement, which may be overcome by this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as thousands of women have found by experience. If complications exist, write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for suggestions in regard to your ailment. The result of its long experience is at your service.

Its Motto: "Helpful and Helpful."

The purpose of this column are succinctly stated in the title and motto—it is for the mutual benefit, and aims to be helpful and helpful. TO GET BACK HOME.

To get back home again—and there to see Old friends and faces of long-vanished days. To hear some friendly voice call out to me From street or corner of remembered ways. Where rain or shine or wind-blown winter snow.

The lights of home hold up their golden shield. With soft, warm arms from out the long ago In waiting welcome from the silent field.

To get back home again—to know at last The guns are still from Flanders to Lorraine;

The day of slogging through the mud is past. The night of terror in the driving rain Lies hidden in the midst of Argonne drifts, A grim, yet holy specter of the years That wait ahead, where every shadow lifts Before the smile that welcomes through its tears.

To get back home again—oh, dream of dreams, Too radiant to last but for a breath; The drift of purple nights and singing streams

Beyond black dawn still rife with ghosts and death, Beyond the dreamless sleep of those who wait

To hold the line they fought for to the end, Eternal sentinels at Freedom's Gate, Where none shall pass save those who whisper—"Friend."

To get back home again—yes, that is all; The rest is less than nothing down the world;

To hear no more the bugle's waking call— The tramp of marching feet—all standards furled—

And only silent thoughts of those who stay To hold the guard across the endless years, Who will not come again the ancient way. Nor know the "smile that welcomes through its tears."

—LIEUTENANT RICE, 3d Army, American Expeditionary Forces.

—Sent by Sadie.

Dear M. H. Friends:

It has often been mentioned that the boys who have returned from the war do not care to talk much about their experiences over there; but it is quite possible that those this side the water, do not realize what it means to them to "get back home." They are glad to forget for awhile the scenes of the past few years. They missed the home associations, the familiar views, the old friends, and returning to the old life means much to them. Gradually, from the storehouse of memory, they will bring out the events of the war as they realized them, but the home greetings and welcomes from everyone are sufficient satisfaction for them at first. Probably not many of them would enjoy the almost forced publicity which attended the "one man army" mountaineer who, we trust, is enjoying his

Nature placed the growth-promoting "vitamins" in the oil of the cod-fish—this explains why Scott's Emulsion is so definite in its help to a child of any age. Latter-day science reveals that the "vitamins" are needed for normal growth. Scott's Emulsion will help any child grow.

honeymoon in peace after posing in the limelight so long.

The allusion to that soldier brings to my mind the following sent by Sadie:

A southern mountaineer in the war confided to his lieutenant, after they had reached France and were deep in the business of fighting: "I like this war. It's the first public war I've ever been in."

Shut away in the six-hundred mile strip of mountains that extend from Virginia down into northern Georgia and Alabama, are three millions of these mountaineers, descendants of original English, Scottish, Irish and French colonists who wandered away into the mountain fastnesses generations ago, and whose children's children are no further advanced than their forebears. Their story is one of the most fascinating chapters in the whole history of the United States.

A half century ago Harper's Magazine published a series of illustrated articles on "The Mountain Whites." Some of the older residents of Hancock county will remember that Rev. Benjamin Dodge of West Brooksville was a missionary and teacher among them for many years. It may be that this foreign war which has brought out many of those young men to take part in it, will have opened a way to these people obtaining a new view of the broadness of the world.

Helen Keller says:

This is the keynote of my life—always to regard as mere impertinences of fate the handicaps that were placed on my life almost at the beginning. I resolved that they should not crush or dwarf my soul, but rather be made to blossom, like Aaron's rod, with flowers.

The article goes on: "When a girl without sight or hearing can say a thing like that, and can carry out her resolution, don't you think that normal young people should be ashamed to grumble at handicaps or lack of opportunity?"

Sadie, I think you can claim that this is rightfully your column, as I have made use of the clippings you sent me.

Is it true that Aunt Maria thinks of giving up the farm after sending a poem like the following for the column?

EVERYBODY MILKS IN IOWA.

Everybody milks in Iowa, We all like the cow; Pining our faith to bossy Has made our neighbors bow. Everybody milks in Iowa, Even Sister Rae; Everybody does the milking, In I. O. A.

Everybody milks in Iowa— Summer and winter time Makes no difference to Iowa— They milk rain or shine. Soil is growing richer, Debts are cleared away Just because they're milking In I. O. A.

Everybody milks in Iowa, Let me tell you that: Buying automobiles With the butter fat. If the grain crop falls them They don't move away. Just keep right on milking In I. O. A.

Everybody milks in Iowa— Hear me what I say, Live on milk and honey, While the cow eats hay; Mother's quit her washing, So has Sister Ann, Everybody gone to milking, Even my old man.

BEAUTIFUL SUMMER GOWN

This lovely gown for summer occasions is mouse color with white beads and red and orange embroidered flowers. The hat is brown and navy flowered chiffon, brown glazed milan and little chestnut burrs as trimming.

CHEMISE OF DIFFERENT TYPE

Undergarment of Days Gone By Not Like the Abbreviated Style of Today.

Underlines follows the fashion like every item of dress, and of late, says a writer in the London Gentlewoman, there has been a decided curtailing of an undergarment that once reached the ankles. Nowadays it starts at the bust, has narrow satin ribbons upon the shoulders to keep it in place, and stops above the knees. How our grandmothers would have opened—or shut—their eyes! But these short chemises have their practical side. Let me explain. As everybody knows, it is always the bottom of the chemise that lasts longer than the top, and when the latter begins to show signs of wear beneath the arms, as is the nature of fine fabric or linen undergarments, economy that has been practiced in so many forms during the war, has taught us to cut away the worn portion and join the embroidery or lace, or whatever the trimming at the bust may be, to the lower part and thus make a new short chemise out of an old long one.

Silk chemises are very general in Paris, as linen is such a scarce article in France since the disasters in the North. Pale pink is to be seen in the leading atteliers, with natter blue embroidered and the same blue shade in ribbons.

TO MAKE A PRETTY PARASOL

Little Flowers With Camouflage Leaves Add to the Beauty of the Sunshade.

One of a new collection of lovely parasols can very easily be copied by the girl who is only moderately clever with her needle. She may either buy a plain silk one in any of the pastel shades, and decorate it, or she may even dress up last year's one to look like new. The idea is this: At intervals about the edge is a little flower with two camouflage leaves. The flower is made of little shirrings of georgette crepe and there is a little loop of the same material on either side of the little round group of shirrings to suggest the leaves. These appliqued flowers may be of the same color as the parasol or they may all be of different pale shades. A Dresden color scheme would be lovely indeed. Whatever colors you choose, however, you will find that your parasol to carry when you wear summery things is quite the daintiest you have ever seen.

COPYING THE BRAID DESIGNS

Quick Method of Tracing Better Than Use of Transparent Paper and Pencil.

Often, in planning a new dress, there is an especially pretty piece of braided design on some old gown that takes your fancy and which you would like to repeat, if possible, as trimming for the new. Unless you are unusually expert in freehand it is out of the question to reproduce the graceful curves and proportions of the original in making your transfer upon the new goods. A quick method of tracing, better even than the use of transparent paper and pencil and tracing the design as the map at school was traced, is to cover the design with fine tissue paper and then rub over the entire area below the paper lightly with a heavy crayon. As the crayon strikes the braid below the paper it leaves a darker impression which faintly reproduces the design.

Rub the crayon in one direction only.

RENT PROBLEM SOLVED IN ASIA

"Cone Dwellers" Had No Fear of the Landlord.

FIRST APARTMENT HOUSES

Homes of the Troglodytes in Cappadocian Valley in Asia Minor Were Shaped by Eroding Action of Flowing Water Some 2,000 Years Before Christ—Each Succeeding Generation Has Helped Make Dwellings More Habitable.

Refutation of the common belief that apartment houses are a development of modern methods in building and that the idea of housing 30 to 50 families under one roof was thought of first in the nineteenth century, is contained in an article on "The Cone Dwellers of Asia Minor," published in the National Geographic Magazine. The late Dr. J. R. Stillington Starrett, traveler and explorer, the author of the article, presents a history of his inspection of the land of the Troglodytes whose homes in the Cappadocian valley were shaped by the eroding action of flowing water some 2,000 years before Christ, and stand today, "walk-ups" it is true, but nevertheless nature's own apartment houses.

The habitations are cone-shaped. Pumice stone is the material of which they are made, and to protect them from the action of rain nature provided them with roofs of lava that was belched from nearby volcanoes. Compared to those of more modern civilization, the homes of the cone-dwellers lack much that makes for comfort. Needless to state, they are not provided with lighting systems, running water, elevators, superintendents, dumb-waiters and bellboys. But in their favor is the fact that no rent need be paid nor leases signed; no neighbors' children can disturb one because the floors are of thick stone, and burglars find business unprofitable because once the Troglodytes family turns in for the night, the "stairs" is pulled up after them.

Improve Their Homes.

The present generation of Troglodytes has improved on the dwellings left them by their ancestors. In fact each succeeding generation has done its bit to make the stone houses more habitable. For instance, Doctor Starrett explains that in some locations, where the simple cones were the original dwellings, the Troglodytes have improved the situation by building facades of pumice stone in front of them.

Apparently the cones already were standing when the forefathers of the present Troglodytes entered the Cappadocian valley. They were solid, however, and considerable work was necessary to make apartment houses of them.

Primitive tools were used to cut entrances and once the first hole was made, the workers spread themselves, so to speak, and proceeded to enlarge the space inside. The entrance tunnels branched off into rooms; windows were then cut, and the Troglodytes moved in. Everything portable that was owned by the Troglodyte was carried into his apartment and stored away in the store room.

The mere fact that a cone already was inhabited, made no difference to a Troglodyte who liked its appearance. If he found a friend living inside, he burrowed a home under or over that friend's home. In many instances, Doctor Starrett wrote, cones were found to be or to have been used by four or five families. The entrances were found level with the ground in many cases, while on the other hand there were cone dwellings the entrances to which were located far above the surface.

Evidently the Troglodyte of ancient times was a long-fingered, strong toed individual. Small clefts in the surface of the cones' side were used in climbing to and from the apartments. Many of the Troglodytes of today, the article explains, use a pole in entering or leaving the house.

Use Pole for Stairway.

And the modern Troglodyte, using a long wooden pole as a means of entering his home, shows little progress in architecture. None of his ancestors were brought up to the fresh-air habit. Their sleeping rooms for the most part were not constructed so that air might circulate. Examination of the interior rooms indicates that the Troglodytes of the pre-Christian era were content to live in almost total darkness.

So today their descendants pay little attention to light and air. Fresh air and sunlight find their way into just one room. That is located at the entrance. The other rooms are always in inky blackness, unless the occupants of the house lets the wind and rain exert their forces on his walls. Thus a window may force its presence upon them.

Bed Posts in Fence.

A Shawnee County, Kansas, farmer, William T. Stock, has more than two miles of fence, of which the posts are all iron bed posts bought from Topeka junk dealers. He paid from 5 to 7 1/2 cents apiece for them and estimates he has a permanent fence at a saving of $200. Stock does a good deal of junk yard shopping. He has an automobile trailer made from an old spring wagon, salvaged automobile wheels and home-made axles, hubs and spindles.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 2, 1919.

Peace.

The world war was officially ended Saturday by the signing of the peace treaty with Germany. Germany will observe next Sunday as a day of mourning. The Huns must by this time realize that they were whipped. Some of the big things Germany surrenders are:

Relinquishment of Alsace-Lorraine to France, Posen and West Prussia to Poland, part of Schleswig to Denmark and of 382 square miles of Rhenish Prussia to Belgium.

The Saar coal basin to be internationalized for fifteen years, pending a plebiscite to determine permanent control, the coal mines going to France.

Germany recognizes the independence of German Austria, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Germany loses all colonies and her valuable concessions in Europe, Asia and Africa, and recognizes the British protectorate of Egypt.

The German army is to be cut to a temporary total strength of 200,000 men, but ultimately must be 100,000.

The German navy is limited to six battleships under 10,000 tons each, six light cruisers and twelve torpedo boats, and she must surrender or destroy all other war vessels. She is to have no more submarines.

Military and naval air forces are abolished.

Munition factories are to be operated only by permission of the allies, and import or export of war materials is forbidden.

Heligoland defenses will be dismantled. Fortifications aiming at control of the Baltic are forbidden.

The Rhine and the Moselle are put under the control of an international commission, on which Germany will be represented. The French, Belgians and other nations may run canals on the Rhine, but Germany is forbidden to do so. German forts within thirty-five miles of the river will be dismantled.

Other great rivers, hitherto German, will be under international control. The Kiel canal will be open to all nations. Offenders against the rules of warfare and humanity are to be delivered up to the allies. An international high court is provided for trial of the kaiser, whose surrender will be asked of Holland.

Germany's indemnity payment is to be fixed by an inter-allied commission. An initial payment of $5,000,000 must be made within two years. Occupation of the Rhine country will continue until the allies are assured of Germany's good faith.

Germany must help build ships to replace those she sank, help rebuild devastated regions, surrender her fourteen submarines cables and cede all German ships over 1,600 tons, and many smaller ones.

She accepts the League of Nations principle, but is barred from membership for the present. Her peace treaties with Russia and Roumania are abrogated, and she recognizes the independence of states formerly Russian.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a humming sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. COUNTY GOSSIP.

Killing frosts in Hancock county Saturday night and again Sunday night, June 28 and 29.

After graduating his thirty-first class from the Castine normal school, Principal Albert F. Richardson has tendered his resignation, to take effect at the end of the next school year, June, 1920. For thirty-one years he has been with the school, and his loss will be distinctly felt. Prof. Richardson is seventy-eight years of age, and certainly has earned retirement to private life.

The story is told of a Northeast Harbor summer resident, a non-smoker himself, who, as a preliminary to entertaining some distinguished guests, had a box of choice Havanas, 50 cents each, sent to his home. Unfortunately, he had not told his wife of his expected guests. That evening she said to him, "George, some cigars came for you to-day, evidently a gift from some one. As you do not smoke, I gave them to the men working about the place." What George said isn't recorded.

Receipt in Hancock Case.

The following receipt has been received from the law court in the case of Vivian Nash vs. inhabitants of Sorrento. This was an action begun in the Bar Harbor municipal court by the wife of a man in naval service to recover State-aid under laws of 1917, chapter 278. The receipt is by Justice Deasy.

Held, that action is not maintainable, the remedy provided by section 10 of the act being exclusive. Where a statute creates a new right but provides no remedy for its enforcement, remedy exists by implication; if, however, the statute conferring the right provides a remedy, such remedy is ordinarily exclusive.

The entry must be, judgment for defendant.

Fishway Hearing Soon.

THE AMERICAN has received the following communication from the State fish and game department:

Augusta, June 27, 1919.

Editor Ellsworth American: DEAR SIR:—In the absence of the commissioner on official business, I have noted your editorial comment entitled "A Fishway Demanded" in your edition of the 25th instant.

For your information, I would say that it is the commissioner's plan—made several weeks ago—to hold a hearing on the petition in question as soon as possible after his return from the trip he is now on. The hearing will probably be held between the middle and last of July.

Yours very truly, M. H. HOBBS, Chief Clerk.

Mrs. Arthur Emerson is expected July 1, to open her home for the summer. Her daughter, Mrs. Julia House and family and Mrs. Theo Emerson and daughter Alice, will be with her.

Capt. Abner Eldridge, a resident of Bucksport but a near neighbor to Orland, is very ill. His age, ninety-three years, makes it quite improbable that his usual good health will return. He has been gradually failing the past month.

The friends of Frank Staples have an idea that he is making earnest supplication for more and more rain, but he has, with his broad and happy smile, undertaken the task of hauling river water up a hill (that is not a pleasant dream) to slack the lime for the new house. June 30. X.

RAILWAY RATES TO BE ADVANCED

Public Treasury Will Be Relieved of Burden of Meeting Deficits in Earnings.

EDITORS' POLL IN CONGRESS.

Heavy Vote for Return of Roads Arouses Interest at the National Capital.

Washington.—The national poll on the railroad question by 6,000 newspaper editors throughout the country has aroused great interest at the national capital. With 83 per cent. of the editors giving it as their impartial opinion that the public favors an early return of the railroads to their owners and only 11 per cent. favoring Government ownership or operation, the members of Congress of both political parties propose to provide speedily for the legislation to make it possible to restore the roads to private management before the end of the year.

In Congress there is a general agreement that the following steps will have to be taken before the roads are returned to their owners:

1. An advance in rates to meet the greatly increased cost of labor and materials in order that the Public Treasury may be relieved of the burden of meeting monthly deficits and the roads made self-supporting. The Director General of Railroads states that the increase in rates thus far is about 25 per cent, as compared with an increase in operating costs of from 50 to 90 per cent.

2. Greater nationalization of public control of transportation—a single public control in the Federal Government in place of 49 masters in the different States, with conflicting laws and regulations.

3. Legalization of consolidations and common use of lines and facilities whenever in the public interest.

4. Assurance through an act of Congress that in the future the Government will approve of rates for freight and passengers that will not only be fair to the public, but fair to the roads, and that will yield a sufficient income on capital to attract the $750,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 of new capital needed every year for the expansion of railroad facilities.

How the States voted in the national poll of editors on the question of the return of the railroads to private management is shown by the following chart. That the railroad question is a non-partisan issue is plain from a study of the table:

■ FAVORING RETURN OF ROADS TO OWNERS ■ OPPOSING RETURN OF ROADS TO OWNERS ■ DOUBTFUL OR FAILED TO REPLY

Table showing the results of the national poll of editors on the question of the return of the railroads to private management. The table lists 49 states and the District of Columbia, with the number of editors favoring, opposing, or being doubtful about the return of roads to owners.

A TEACHER OF "NEW THOUGHT"

Believes "FRUIT-A-TIVES" Highest Result of "New Thought" in Medicine.

MR. A. A. YOUNG

"I am not in the habit of praising any material medicine as I am an advocate of New Thought, but some time ago, I had such a bad attack of Liver and Stomach Trouble that I gave up thinking I did not have it, and took a natural medicine, 'Fruit-a-tives' or Fruit Liver Tablets.

Most gratifying was the result. It relieved my liver and stomach trouble, cleaned up my yellowish complexion and put new blood in my body.

While I am no backslider from 'New Thought', I feel there may be times when a help to nature may be necessary; and if so, I believe that 'Fruit-a-tives' is the highest result of New Thought in medicine".

SAVED MY LIFE Says Man In Maine

Henry O. Hanley of 17 Cross street, Belfast, Maine, writes us: "I am feeling lots better and think your Elixir (Dr. True's Elixir) saved my life."

Dr. True's Elixir is a great medicine, a family laxative and worm expeller. It tones the stomach, moves the bowels and expels worms. Surprising it is how many people have worms. Children suffer agony from worms. Signs or symptoms of worms are: Deranged stomach, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, offensive breath, hard and full belly with occasional gripings and pain about the navel, pale face of lenden tint, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose, itching of the rectum, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points sticking out on tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

Write us if you want to. Address, Dr. J. F. True & Co., Auburn, Maine. Get Dr. True's Elixir from your dealer at once. The cost is small. It expels worms and restores health. On the market for over 80 years.

NO STOCKING FOR BROTHER; HE PLAYS THE WINNING GAME

THE BROTHER PUTS HER SPARE PENNIES IN HER STOCKING. BROTHER PUTS HIS MONEY AND FAITH IN W. S. S. BANKS TO BUY THRIFT STAMPS WITH.

These little people are enjoying the saving of pennies for Thrift and War Savings Stamps as if it were an absorbing game. The wee lassie has already discovered that there are safer places for money than the traditional stocking, and business is written legibly upon the face of her brother.

Such teaching of thrift is not lost upon children. If, as has been asserted, lessons in religion and morals learned in childhood are not easily forgotten, that is also the proper time to instill lessons of thrift. Many a person now mature regrets that some method of saving similar to Thrift and War Savings Stamps was not instituted during the years of their youth, by which they might have been saved some of the hard knocks given by bitter experience.

Such thrift does not mean stinginess, but rather wise spending, that a margin may be reserved for future enjoyment or possible needs.

WHAT THRIFT WILL ACCOMPLISH.

Some Successful Men Who Began By Saving.

The immortal Abraham Lincoln was a notable exemplar of the value of thrift of time. We can picture him trudging forty miles to borrow a grammar. We can see him prone before the pine fire at night after a hard day's work log-cutting, reading and re-reading the statutes of Indiana, the only book he owned, or learning to write and figure with a piece of charcoal on the back of a wooden shovel, as he had no paper or ink.

Another example of what a boy can do who does not waste time is that of a Milwaukee man, Nels Anton Christensen, recently appointed by the United States government, through Secretary of the Navy Daniels, on the inventors' staff of the new United States Naval Board, which includes the greatest inventive minds in the nation. Born in Denmark, Nels Christensen's school days ended at 14 years. After that he worked in a machine shop days and attended a technical school in the evenings. From his savings he defrayed the expense of a course at the Copenhagen Technique Institute, from which he was graduated at 21. Previous to that he attained national prominence as an engineer, having designed, when 19 years old, the Danish lighthouse at Hanstholme, one of the largest in the world. During the three years he spent on an English steamer engaged in Mediterranean trade he learned enough English to secure a position with an English manufacturing concern. Since coming to the United States he has invented many compressed airbrake starters for railroads, aeroplanes and fire engines that have brought him worldwide fame.

Thomas Edison began to save before he began to invent. The successful magazine editor, Edward Bok, started saving on a salary of 50 cents a week. Grover Cleveland's wages for his first year of work totaled $50. Garfield could not have become president had he not saved early in life. Horace Greeley and Cooper founded their careers on saving.

Ex-Governor Ferris of Michigan, now a college president, a life-long advocate of thrift, tells of his own thrifty training: "In my youth if I had a toy, I made it, and made it not to suit myself alone but it had to suit my father as well. His examination of my work and his insistence that I should put the best there was in me even into my toys put into my back a spine and sufficient lime to last a lifetime."

"There is nothing more important in the life of a boy today than to get the habit of thrift. The waste of a nickel is as important as the waste of $10,000. When I was a boy, if I wanted a nickel I earned it. After I had earned the nickel I was not allowed to waste it. That was part of my bringing up."

Thrift was the keynote of success in the life of the late James J. Hill. He was one of the country's most consistent exponents of thrift, one of the greatest exemplars of what this virtue, combined with energy and high purpose, can do. He preached always that the man who cannot save money will be a failure; that though he may have education, talent and ability,

A SYRIAN'S APPRECIATION OF AMERICA.

Speaking on War Savings Stamps He Calls This the Americanization Period.

It takes the new-comer sometimes to appreciate America. The native-born is often too close to the situation to realize what this great country of the United States means to the world today. He is used to all that it offers, taking it as a matter of course, and frequently loses the vision in sordid detail; while the new-comer—but listen to what one of them had to say. He is George E. Ribhany of the 1919 class of the Boston High School of Commerce and he came to this country from his native land, Syria, when he was 10 years old.

In a four-minute speech on the value of War Savings Stamps, given at the school recently, he said in closing:

"Hate is not characteristic of the American people, but the Germans taught us unwillingly how to hate them. Now it is a sin not to hate the spirit they showed and not to abolish it from the face of the earth. Of the latter we are positively sure, because the American passion for justice is a hundred times stronger than was the German passion for conquest! "I never entertained the idea of becoming an orator and I am sure that I lack oratorical ability, but such qualifications are unnecessary on an occasion like this, because the only and best inducement to a true American are the calls of his duty and government, and not even the best oration of the greatest speaker of all times.

"Whether we all realize it or not, we are now in the midst of a period which will be known to all the oppressed peoples of the world as the Americanization period. Now is the time for every one of us to prove whether he is a sham American or a genuine American." The practice of thrift and the purchase of War Savings Stamps are just now good indication of the genuine American.

without thrifty habits he cannot succeed.

The great railroad builder began to save even before he had visions of the wonderful agricultural and industrial empire he was to create.

From the day he arrived in St. Paul from Canada, after working his way there, and received for his first day's pay $1.25, he began to save. He taught that the dollar that is worth more than any other dollar in the world to you is the first dollar you save, and that the earlier that start is made the sooner you will be able to meet the great opportunity that comes at some time to every man.

One of Mr. Hill's axioms was that prosperity not based on economy and thrift is transient, because one cannot be extravagant today, and expect to become a safe conservator of energy and wealth tomorrow.

He let it be known that he did not place a high value on the man who could not save, for he believed that to save means ability to deny and control one's self; when you are master of yourself, you will be able to master others, and with the money thus at hand, you will be able to seize opportunity when it comes along. One of his favorite sayings was: "Opportunity comes sometimes disguised and surrounded by hard work and adverse circumstances."

A GOOD FRIEND

A good friend stands by you when in need. Ellsworth people tell how Doan's Kidney Pills have stood the test. E. J. Clark of 17 Union St., Ellsworth, endorsed Doan's seven years ago and again confirms the story. Could you ask for more convincing testimony?

"Some years ago I was troubled with kidney complaint," says Mr. Clark. "I had severe shooting pains across the small of my back. The kidney secretions were unnatural and irregular in passage. I started to use Doan's Kidney Pills and I could see I was receiving great relief. I have since had return attacks and have used Doan's Kidney Pills with very good results." (Statement given August 7, 1911.)

On December 4, 1918, Mr. Clark said: "I have had no trouble with my kidneys since I recommended Doan's Kidney Pills before. I have unlimited faith in this medicine and endorse it again."

New England in the Hall of States

Hundreds of New England soldiers, lying ill or wounded in the great Army Debarkation Hospitals of New York are receiving their first special welcome and often their first touch of home as a result of the efforts of volunteer women workers at the New England desk in the Hall of States in that city. While some states are using large appropriations, such as Massachusetts' $50,000 and Kansas' $35,000, in welcoming their home-coming sons, Connecticut, New Hampshire, Vermont, Maine, and Rhode Island are leaving this work to the Society of New England Women. Without the aid of state funds even for the clerical hire, incident to writing to from 50 to 150 wounded men a day, women of this organization are doing the best they can to see that New England's wounded men are welcomed as warmly, if not as generously, as those of sister states. More funds are urgently needed. They can be sent to Miss Elizabeth Dexter, New England desk, Hall of States, New York.

The giving of the home-touch to the welcoming of returning fighters centers at the Hall of States, which the War Camp Community Service maintains at 27 West 25th Street, close to the Victory Arch. There "Daddies" meet at the war's end; there the soldiers meet for the first

LONGEVITY COMMON IN BRITISH FAMILIES

Often Six to Eight Members Live Above the Average of 85 Years.

The remarkable case of the north country family of Calvert of which eight brothers and sisters whose aggregate ages totaled 769 years. Five of them survived to ninety-nine, ninety-eight, ninety-three, ninety-three and eighty-nine years, respectively.

Of another family all members of the Society of Friends, we read not long ago that three were still living at the ages of one hundred and one, ninety-one and eighty-seven, while five, who were dead, had counted 418 years among them, an average of 87 years. If the members of this family had lived consecutively instead of together the first born would have lived as long ago as the year 1220.

When Henry Wye, sexton at St. Mary's church, Leicester, died not long ago, at eighty-seven, it was said that two of his brothers had preceded him at the ages of eighty-seven and eighty-five, respectively, while he had two surviving brothers of ninety-seven and ninety-three and two sisters of eighty-three and eighty.

Joshua Jackson of Blackburn, who survived to see his eighty-seventh birthday, was one of eight brothers and sisters, not one of whom failed to pass the eightieth milestone. And quite recently there were living at Milverton, West Somerset, five brothers and sisters, the eldest of whom, Mrs. Shattocks, was ninety-two, and the youngest, James King, just ten years younger.

NO JEWELS AT OPERA

London Women Use Flowers and Leaves for Adornment.

A characteristic of the London opera season is the almost entire absence of what may be termed "dress jewels," usually worn by the women. On the opening night, the queen of Roumania wore an imposing diamond coronet, but she is a queen. Other women, who before the war would have glittered with diamonds at Covent Garden, are going to Drury Lane with wreaths of flowers or leaves in their hair, and only a string or two of pearls to remind the world they still have the jewel cases.

The death of jewels, however, does not prevent a dazzling spectacle, so many of the dresses are composed of gleaming gold or silver tissues of glittering brocades, of sequins and diamond and metallic fringes. The less there is of them the more costly they are as a rule. Feather fans, high-priced ones, are immensely popular again.

INVASION FEARS CALLED INFLATED

War College's 1915 Estimate of Foe Exaggerated.

COULDN'T LAND SO QUICKLY

Getting 387,000 Men Over in 16 Days Impossible, as Shown by Our Own Experiment, Declares Gen. Peyton C. March, Chief of Staff—Shows How Lacking We Were in Knowledge of Shipping Large Armies.

The experiences of the United States in rushing troops overseas has made it evident that estimates given by the war department in 1915 that Germany, if not interfered with, could land 387,000 men in America in 16 days and 440,000 men in 31 days more were gross exaggerations, Gen. Peyton C. March, chief of staff, said. The war department estimate was submitted by the war college to congress in the year mentioned.

Our Own Record.

"On May 1, 1917," said General March, "the army owned a troop fleet of ten vessels, with an estimated dead-weight tonnage of 52,725 and a troop capacity of 10,830 men. All these were boats which it would have been possible in an extreme case to put into trans-Atlantic service, but of that group of old vessels only one, the Buford, was permanently put into this service.

"Between April 6 and September 1, 1917, the first six months, the dead-weight tonnage of the United States army increased from nothing to 43,690 dead-weight tons. The troops carried eastward on these ships ran by months: April, none; May, 1,033; (carried on commercial liners); June, 12,621; (carried on commercial liners); July, 5,437; August, 5,458; September, 14,813. Total troops carried, 39,002.

"Beginning with November 11, 1918, the date of the armistice, and running through the six months up to and including April, we had carried westward 717,486 men.

"The 390,000 total deadweight of army ships on November 11 included the Leviathan and other German ships taken over during the war. The rapid increase in the troop fleet since that time is due almost entirely to the making over of cargo ships into troop-carrying ships. Up to April 1 cargo ships of 538,000 tons had been converted into troop-carrying ships. These ships formed 58 per cent of the troop fleet in tonnage, although not in carrying capacity.

Quite Impossible.

"About the war department statement in 1915, a pamphlet having the title, 'Statement of a Proper Military Policy for the United States.' This statement contained an estimate of the number of troops which could be landed on our shores, provided there were no interference. Germany had the most; the estimate as to her was 387,000 men in 16 days, and an additional 440,000 in another 31 days. It was stated that these men could carry with them 176,000 horses and all the necessary equipment, munitions, supplies, and other impedimenta for three months. In about the same space of time it was estimated that France could land 404,000 men, Austria, 180,000, and Japan, 238,000, all with large numbers of animals and the necessary impedimenta for three months.

"Our experience in this war shows that these alleged facts are quite impossible. We have learned that you cannot mobilize ships, men and supplies with the ease and speed calculated in the statement. Ship performances cannot approach the performances assumed. Our fast troopships have averaged close to 35 days for a complete turn around to France and back, our cargo ships 70 days. The statement assumes that all ships, including cargo, would average 30 days for that distance.

"This statement shows how lacking we were in knowledge of the problem of shipping large armies overseas. There was no experience of our own or of foreign countries to guide us. The transportation overseas of the American army as an achievement is literally unprecedented."

STRIKE IN GOLD

Dreams of an Ancient River Bed With Free Ore Came True.

The dreams of an ancient river bed fabulously rich in free gold which had been an obsession of prospectors for half a century have come true.

For more than 50 years miners have believed that if the original channel or old bed could be located where once flowed the Rogue river in its gravel could be found free gold of untold quantities.

And so it happened that G. M. Esterly, owner of the old Waldo mine southwest of Grant's Pass, Ore., the other day made the greatest strike ever made in this section when he turned gravel for the first time. Esterly's holdings consist of 4,200 acres and it is believed that almost every foot of them lie over the old river bed and that nearly all of it is rich in pay dirt.

GREAT WORK OF ENGINEERS

War Department Relates Astounding Achievements of Corps at Home and Abroad—One Device Spotted 117 German Gun Positions in Single Day—Corps Also Produced Most Powerful Searchlight in Use.

The war story of the engineer corps at home and in France is told officially for the first time in chapters of the war department's brief history of American war efforts, made public in advance sheets. Many of the recorded accomplishments of the engineers have been published before as isolated incidents, but this is the first complete and connected story which gives any idea of the extraordinary scope of the duties modern warfare laid upon engineering troops.

Probably the best illustration of this so far as the troops in France are concerned is the technical organization of the units of the engineers which reached the other side. There were seven regiments and two battalions of railway construction engineers, five battalions for maintenance of way; two battalions for maintenance of railway equipment; four regiments and one battalion to operate the main American railways in France; three regiments to operate light railways and their repair shops; two regiments to operate the regular railway repair shops; two regiments and six separate battalions on general construction work; two regiments for storing and transporting engineer supplies; a forestry regiment; a light railway construction regiment; a road building regiment; a water supply regiment; a mining regiment; a quarrying regiment; a technical regiment for surveying and sound ranging; three survey and printing battalions; two railway transportation battalions; an electrical and mechanical regiment; several separate companies to operate cranes; a camouflage service; five inland waterway companies to operate canal boats and the like; five pontoon trains and a pontoon park; a railway transportation and stores battalion and a searchlight regiment.

And Then There Were the Sappers.

These special units, all composed of men trained in civil life in the United States for the work they did in France, were in addition to the fighting engineers with each division, the sappers, who formed about eight per cent of all of the combat troops in France.

One section of the report is devoted to the development of American railways in France and to the production of railway equipment in the United States to meet the call from the front. There were shipped to France 1,303 locomotives before the armistice was signed, of which 908 were in service at that time. In addition, 18,313 freight cars were shipped abroad, both engines and cars having been produced specially for service in France. These were employed upon the 937 miles of standard gauge track laid in France by the engineers with equipment shipped from this country, and the rolling stock was in addition to great quantities of light railway equipment for front line work that was also sent abroad.

Hospital trains were obtained in England, 19 of them with a total of 304 cars having been completed by December, 1918, with 29 additional trains under construction. They cost more than $18,000 per car, but it is estimated that to have produced them in the United States and shipped them would have cost $40,000 per car.

The report lays stress on the fact that great progress was made during the war in the development of road building, railway, and other engineering equipment which will be of value commercially in peace time. The motorized machine shops alone, it is stated, are practically certain to bring about in this country the use of moving shops of this character in agricultural communities as farming machinery increases.

"The day has come," the report says, "when the traveling machine shop will be a familiar sight upon our rural highways."

Among the motorized shops created were the photolithographic press trucks, which were able to produce maps from original sketches within 12 hours, as compared with four days required by similar French and British units.

A special chapter is devoted to listening instruments developed during the war to locate hidden guns. Improving upon allied designs, the engineer corps produced machines for this purpose which operated with "uncanny accuracy," one of them having spotted 117 German gun positions in a single day. Subsequently these were followed by instruments of even greater power, and at the close of the war there were 12 complete outfits, each covering a five-mile stretch of front, at work on the American lines.

Similar development of instruments for locating hostile airplanes were carried out until it was possible to determine the location of a raider at night within an angle of three degrees. The American types produced were easily portable and quickly set up to aid the searchlights. A hint at the scientific developments which were in sight in connection with these sound-ranging devices is contained in the following paragraph:

"When the fighting stopped our military scientists and others co-operating with them were working on the development of a sound-ranging apparatus intended to give troops warning of shell fired by the enemy in their direction. The preliminary experiments found that at 4.1 miles these mechanisms could detect the firing of the gun as long as 19 seconds before the shell arrived, thus giving troops ample time to get under cover. Such a development was possible because of the far greater speed with which earth vibrations travel than those of sound in the air.

"Except for lack of time in the brief seconds between the firing of the gun and the arrival of the shell it would be quite possible with this proposed apparatus to calculate almost exactly where the shell would land.

The Most Powerful Searchlight.
The corps produced also a new form of searchlight more powerful than any that had preceded it in any army, and with which the Second Field army had been partially equipped.

"It weighed," the report says, "one-eighth as much as lights of former designs, cost only one-third as much, was about one-fourth as large in bulk, and threw a light ten per cent stronger than any other portable projector in existence."

The engineers were at work when the fighting ended upon a mechanism which would enable them to control searchlights from a distance.

The chapter devoted to the work of the engineer corps in France draws a vivid picture of the duties of the combat engineers who played their full part in the fighting from the beginning to the end. It also tells in detail of the building of the railways, the cutting down of French forests to convert them into barracks for American troops; of the miles of highways built and constantly rebuilt as shellfire tore them to pieces; of cement mills taken over in France by American troops to provide trench materials; of the great map-printing plant, where the engineers finally were able to produce not only all maps needed for the American army but even supplied the French Seventh and Eighth army with base maps for their fronts. In this huge plant at Langres in November over 1,900,000 lithographic prints were made and over a million sheets of type work done. There is told also the story of a camouflage factory at Dijon where material to blind enemy airplanes' eyes and to confuse the enemy's pickets was turned out in vast quantities.

"Utilizing and applying the new knowledge and scientific achievements of recent years," the report says, "in concluding that portion devoted to the engineers, 'drawing upon the fund of experience acquired by the regular army in its theoretical studies and past wars, making available the vast amount of technical skill which has assisted this nation to its present commercial and industrial status, the engineers of the United States army worked and fought, planned and accomplished in France a work which in magnitude exceeds any similar undertaking recorded in American history. From base ports to first waves of an assault upon the enemy's positions, engineer troops have been constantly in action, first to last, and have 'carried on' always with the high ideals of the professional and with the motto of the corps of engineers: 'Essays' (Let us try), before them.'"

DRIVING THEM OUT

Returned Soldiers Have Constituted Themselves into Courts.

Returned soldiers in the Lemmon, S. D., territory have constituted themselves judges, jurors and executioners in all cases in which the United States army or the United States is slandered, and will drive from the community all men guilty of such slanders. As a starter in their campaign to rid the country of these men they already have driven one undesirable from Lemmon. The soldiers waited on the individual, who is a Russian, and gave him 30 minutes to leave town, threatening that if he was found in town at the expiration of the half hour period he would be treated to the roughest handling he ever received.

It is announced that the soldiers are about to take action in another case. It being intimated that this is a much more flagrant case and that accordingly the treatment will be much more severe.

Others are expected to be given the "move-along" order, the intention being to purge the community and vicinity of all persons of known pro-German and anti-American sentiments. Cool heads among the soldiers are cautioning them to be careful and not do an injustice to any person.

NO PRIDE IN DEATH

Cemetery Directors Insist That Graves of Rich and Poor Be Alike.

Pride, haughtiness, distinction—in death? The thought alone is a Christian sacrilege, much less the dead itself.

So reasoned the directors of the Lakewood Park Cemetery association of Lakewood, O., who demand that the resting place of the rich man and the poor man hereafter must be uniform—a modest headstone, rising not more than a foot above the cemetery lawn.

"It does away with the attempt of well-meaning people to outdo each other in the size of their monuments," said George Thorne, president of the association.

CLEAN PARTS WITH KEROSENE

Best Way Is to Use Wire Basket and Dip Different Parts in Oil, Letting Dirt Sink.

It is often necessary to clean small parts of the car, and washing in kerosene is the accepted method. The usual practice is to throw such parts in a pail of kerosene and let them lie in the muck which collects at the bottom. A better way is to get a wire basket, which will fit part way down in the vessel used to hold the kerosene, place the parts in this basket, dip them in the oil and allow the dirt to be loosened and sink to the bottom, while the parts come out perfectly clean and ready for use.

NAIL MAKES TEMPORARY PIN

Not Strong Enough for Permanent Repair, but Will Suffice in Cases of Emergency.

Breakage of a taper pin on a magnetic driveshaft or similar important part frequently causes delay and annoyance to motorists, especially if it occurs on the road, when another taper pin of the right size usually is unavailable. If this is the case a temporary pin may be quickly filed from a nail or similar piece of stock, which, while not strong enough for permanent repair, will suffice for the time it takes to secure a new pin.

BULLET HITS WATER

Little Lad Had a Narrow Escape From Death.

Twelve-year-old Vernon Marion, son of Mrs. Frank Marion of Tumalo, Ore., narrowly escaped death while playing on the banks of the Deschutes, a short distance from his home, the other day, when a bullet, fired by C. A. Daniels of that city from the opposite side of the river, hit the water, ricocheted and struck the lad in the forehead.

The boy, stunned by the impact, at first was believed dead, but regained consciousness before being brought to Bend. The bullet, its course being deflected, had followed the bone and was found imbedded under the scalp. Only the fact that the leaden pellet struck one of the thickest portions of the skull saved his life, according to the attending physician.

Fine weather and a fine program made possible the fine concert by the Sunday school children, assisted by the church choir, at the Methodist church Sunday evening.
