A Montezuma (Iowa) paper contains an interesting report of a party given by Mrs. Florence Junck on November 12, to celebrate the eightieth birthday of her mother, Mrs. Josephine Farrell. The combined ages of the nine guests amounted to 660 years, and as one of the guests who wrote the report says, "it sure was a jolly set." Ellsworth friends of Mrs. Farrell unite with the friends in the West in extending congratulations.

There was a meeting at the home of Mrs. Emma G. Wiswell Friday afternoon, in the interest of the anti-tuberculosis campaign in Hancock county, a part of the State-wide campaign. Michael A. Free of Auburn, general manager of the campaign in the State, and W. A. Harris, executive secretary of the Maine Anti-Tuberculosis association, were present and outlined the general plan of the campaign. Rev. R. B. Mathews is chairman for the county. Dr. E. H. Baker left Saturday for a business visit of two weeks in New York and Philadelphia. For the convenience of his patients, on December 8 he will open offices in his former quarters over Moore's drug store, for the winter.

Rev. R. B. Mathews, pastor of the Congregational church, according to the request of his parish as unanimously expressed at a recent meeting, has withdrawn his resignation of the pastorate here. His many friends in Ellsworth and the county are pleased at his decision.

Rev. Julius Krollifer of Boston, field agent of the American Unitarian society, is in Ellsworth for a few weeks. He preached at the Unitarian church Sunday morning, and will occupy the pulpit again next Sunday, and possibly the following Sunday. An informal reception was given in his honor at the vestry last evening.

Rev. J. B. Coy, who has been called as pastor of the Baptist church in Ellsworth, was here last week to attend an ordination service at Salisbury Cove and a county conference in Ellsworth, remaining over Sunday to supply the pulpit. He returned to Harrison Monday. Mr. Coy will begin his pastorate here next Sunday.

G. M. Smith of Boston and E. F. Robinson enjoyed a few days' hunting in the vicinity of Great Pond last week. The biggest game they saw was a bear, and they got a snap shot at it. A few days later Frank Rowe, who was hunting with them, succeeded in getting the bear, a big fellow, weighing 460 pounds. The skin, a handsome one, was sent to Mr. Robinson, and has been attracting much attention at his office.

Robert P. King left Saturday by automobile for Boston. His wife and infant daughter left by rail to join him there, and they sailed from Boston for Savannah, proceeding from there by automobile to West Palm Beach, Fla., where they will spend the winter. Lunt, who charges him with criminal assault on his thirteen-year-old daughter, Virginia Lunt. In the absence of Judge Crabtree, T. F. Mahoney, recorder of the court, presided. Probable cause was found, and respondent was bound over in the sum of $1,000 for the April grand jury and committed to the county jail in default of bail.

The funeral of Charles A. Hanscom was held at the home on Franklin street Thursday afternoon, Rev. R. B. Mathews officiating. There was a large attendance of friends. During the hour of the service, stores of Ellsworth were closed as a mark of respect and esteem, an honor seldom accorded to one not actively engaged in business or a profession in Ellsworth, and perhaps never before for a private citizen not a resident of Ellsworth. The bearers were Oscar Emery of Camden, Joel and William Emery of Bar Harbor, Webber Emery of Boston, Charles H. Leland and George Christie of Ellsworth.

Robert Guptill, son of Herbert Guptill of Brewer, formerly of West Ellsworth, was shot in the foot Friday, by the accidental discharge of a rifle in the hands of his brother Merle. The brothers were camping at the old home in West Ellsworth for a few days' hunting. They were hunting in the region between upper and lower Patten ponds Friday, following moose tracks. Robert was in the lead, his brother Merle following closely behind him, when the rifle of the latter was accidentally discharged in some way, presumably by the hammer catching in a twig. The bullet entered the top of Robert's left foot, just back of the toes, and ploughed through, splintering the bones of several toes. The young man was taken to the hospital in Bangor.

We publish the formula of Vinol to prove convincingly that it has the power to create strength.

It Cod Liver and Beef Peptones, Iron and Manganese Peptones, Iron and Ammonium Citrate, Lime and Soda Glycerophosphates, Cascaria.

Any woman who buys a bottle of Vinol for a weak, run-down, nervous condition and finds after giving it a fair trial it did not help her, will have her money returned.

You see, there is no guess work about Vinol. Its formula proves there is nothing like it for all weak, run-down, overworked, nervous men and women and for feeble old people and delicate children. Try it once and be convinced.

THE CALL TO THE STRONG.
(By William Pierson Merrill)

Not to the weak alone
Soundeth the call of Love,
"Come unto Me and rest,"
But to the spirits strong and great,
Who do the work and bear the weight,
Tolling from early morn till late,
With vigor and grace and zest.
These are the lives that labor,
These are the heavy-laden,
Theirs is the blessed word,
Not for themselves the strain and care;
It is their neighbor's grief they share,
It is their brother's load they bear,
Even as did their Lord,
Patient they are, and brave,
Steadily marching on,
Ready for every test.
Only the Lord who trod that way
Knows of the strain from day to day,
Knows how they long to hear Him say,
"Come unto Me and rest."
And it is sweet to know
How to each broken heart
Cometh the summons blest;
"Ye who have toiled without avail,
Ye who were tempted but to fail,
Ye who are sad and poor and frail,
"Come unto Me and rest."
Yet there is something more,
Better and worthier far,
Richest reward and best;
"Ye who are strong and true and brave,
Putting aside the ease ye crave,
Comrades of Him who died to save,
Come unto Me and rest."

winter. A while ago I sent seventy-five welcome soap panels and received a book, "A Girl in Ten Thousand," by Mrs. L. V. Meade. I called it a nice book; so did my friend who helped me save the panels. I like Mrs. George Sheldon's books, what I have read of them. I have a bookcase, and most of one shelf. My cousin and his wife have given me the best one. Mary J. Holmes is a nice writer, too. I have a number of her books. "Marion Grey" is one. "The House of a Thousand Candles," is a nice book. I have read it twice, and could read it again. "The New Mayor," is also good. It is founded on Geo. Broadhurst's successful play, "The Man of the Hour." I have both books.

Well, it is now November 4, and my letter hasn't gone yet. I am afraid if you wait for me to write a book, Charity, you would have to wait some time. Three years ago I used to write short stories for my friends, just to pass away the time, but now the time goes too quickly to get my work all done. Jennie, am glad you are better. The other day I thought of a nice letter, but it didn't get onto paper, and I can't think of it now, so will bid you all good-bye.

on the subject of shortbread, so popular with Scotch and English folk.

"But, good as was the old-fashioned kind," remarked our hostess "it was so extremely rich that the heavy taste lingered long after eating."

"Well," said Betsy, "there's nothing like that about the shortbread we have at our house—Lorna Doone Biscuit. I squares that come already baked and ready to serve, any time."

"I was talking to mother about them only the other day," says that Lorna Doone, "and she said all the appetizingly fashioned enough good—sweet—oung—me."

Baking note:
The perfect shortbread is mealy, crumbly and not over-rich. Add to all this a wonderful flavor, developed by scientific baking, and you have LORNA DOONE Biscuit, which come all ready to serve, by the pound or in the famous In-er-seal Trade Mark package. The name LORNA DOONE is on every biscuit.

NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY
P. J. Uneda Biscuit

"Yes, that's the beauty of all National Biscuit Company products—they are always ready—night and day—and always fresh. Their ingredi-

ness and freshness, however, are not the only features that recommend them. A still greater consideration is the fact that National Biscuit Company products obviate the necessity for mixing and baking at home. And any woman who has spent a goodly part of her time in the kitchen, knows the comfort, efficiency and economy of these products.

Dear M. B.'s:
Glad to see so many have written since the reunion. Well, Irish Molly, you and Charity made me wish I had been there to have had some of the nice things you told about. Where did you get all of the sugar to cook them? I haven't seen hardly any for months. Last Saturday a friend was kind enough to let me have a cup to make a cake for Frank.

I made two round cakes and put jelly between them, then whipped some cream, put a little sugar and some lemon into it, and covered the cake with it and put little pieces of jelly all over it. He smiled when I put it on the table. I gave Jim a piece, and he said it was nice.

The next week after the reunion, I spent the evening with a cousin, who, with her aunt, was spending a few days at their old home. There I met Frances' son and daughter. She said she went to the reunion, and you didn't know how nice it seemed to meet an M. B. There was also there an aunt of mine I hadn't seen for sixteen years. The next Saturday she spent the day with me. I so enjoy having my folks visit me. Was sorry my cousin couldn't come, too.

The summer is gone, and I have only made two calls. Today feels like October 8, 1919.

Thanks for letter and poem I remember reading "Tempest and Sunshine" years ago, which I think was written by Mrs. Holmes.

Here is a welcome letter from "Are." Moving, she does not forget her old friends.

Dexter, Nov. 16, 1919.

Dear Aunt Madge:
Because I have moved out of the county, I don't intend to move from the M. B. column. I still take the paper, and I think I am more eager to get it than I was when I was at home, and I look to see who has written. I think Ann must be having a nice time seeing so many things of interest. We moved our household goods, a cow, some hens and a cat, all on a truck. They were fourteen hours on the road, but reached here safely.

Homer works in a machine shop and likes his work. There are 425 in and around the shop. We live only a few minute's walk from his work, right in sight. This is a smart, stirring place, and there seems to be plenty of work for everyone. There are five woolen mills, five garages, a laundry, canning factories and other industries.

A week ago to-day we went to a memorial at the town hall, for the soldiers who were laid to rest in France. The captain of the company here delivered the address. It was nice. He was in uniform, and I counted fifty of the boys in uniform, too. They looked fine when they marched into the hall, the band of twenty pieces, then the soldiers, followed by the relief corps.

Best wishes to all.

WHITCOMB, HAYNES & WHITNEY

Dear Aunt Madge and all the good M. B. Sisters:
I am, to use one of my father's nautical phrases, again "on deck." I have nothing to communicate that will be of any importance. I have not been away the past summer and that lovely reunion, how I wanted to meet with you, but circumstances said no. I don't think that I belong to the inner circle, as I did not know about the chair, or I would have contributed my bit. As most of my dear ones have left me, and I could not visit them, they have come to me. Dr. H. W. Small and wife of Portland paid me a delightful visit; also Dr. A. E. Small and wife motored down from Bangor and gave me some lovely drives. My two daughters, Mrs. Benson and Mrs. Easton, who have lovely homes in Camden, came for an enjoyable visit, and my only sister, Mrs. Stanley of Cambridge, Mass. I have had one of my two brothers with me since June, so you see how it is.

I have picked berries and preserved when I could get sugar and canned when I couldn't. Now with such a plentiful supply of berries, and so many apples, pears, crabs, tomatoes, it does not seem right that we have to economize on sugar, but it is no use to "growl," so when I get two pounds of sugar, I laugh as long as it lasts. I have put up ten two-quart jars of cucumbers in vinegar and spices, and finished a patchwork quilt that I commenced three years ago.

I wish some of the good sisters would write to me. I have had letters from Pansy and Irish Molly, and Sister Young kindly sent me some flower slips a year ago last summer. One was an ivy geranium. It is now a beautiful plant, three feet tall. It began to blossom last May, and it has been in continual blossom ever since, and is now full of blossoms. Have had letters from Iowa and one from Mrs. O. S. Neeley of Oil City, Pa.

With love and good wishes.

"Sadie."

I should not have been so generous with these letters if it were not Thanksgiving week, but should have

"Colonel" Is a Column Leader.

The Spanish for colonel is coronel, the Italian colonello. The Spaniards originated the word 400 years ago and seem to have made it by combining the sense of the Latin columna, a column, with that of corona, a crown. We follow the French spelling, but in pronouncing we retain the Spanish "r," hence "kernel," as we say it. Literally it means the leader of a column or of the company at the head of the regiment in column.

Translated Into English.

All books of the Old Testament apocrypha, 14 in number, have been translated into English, and are included as apocryphal books in some editions of the Bible. They were formerly printed under a distinctive heading between the Old and the New Testaments, and in that form can still be found in many old family Bibles. They are always included in the so-called Septuagint, a version of the Bible used by the Greek church.

Disgusted at Politics.

Recently a retired politician of note was giving a young man about to break into the political arena a bit of advice. "I've had everything it is possible to get except the presidency. When I started in politics things looked very bright—I got positions of trust, big appointments, and everything I wanted. Now all I have after years of activity is a lot of warm enemies and cold friends."

QUEER MYTH ABOUT WILSON

Belief in Austria That President of the United States Is Really Crown Prince Rudolph.

According to the Vienna Journal, a serious newspaper, the rural population of large districts of the provinces of Lower Austria and Styria never believed in the death of Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria, who was assassinated in the castle of Meyerling, near Baden, together with Countess Veversera in 1889.

The people refused to accept this official statement, and their suspicion was nourished at the time by the fact that the coffin of the crown prince at the funeral was extremely small, while the crown prince himself was a powerful man.

The story went that the crown prince had really not been murdered at all, but that he had fled across the big pond.

Ever since the war there is a growing belief among the rural population that the crown prince, who, as will be remembered, was addicted to scientific researches, is identical with Prof. Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States of America.

The remarkable thing is that there is an evident optimism as the future of Austria connected with the legend, for the people say it is plain that Wilson being Crown Prince Rudolph, will not let his beloved Austria perish.

Cotton Gin for Zululand.

The first cotton-ginning plant in Zululand, writes Vice Consul Charles J. Pizar from Cape Town, recently commenced operations at Amatikulu, after almost a year's preparatory work. The capacity of the American gin installed is between 1,500 and 1,000 pounds of lint for an eight-hour day, which represents 2½ tons of seed cotton. The installation of this ginning plant is looked upon as one of far-reaching importance for the cotton growers in Zululand, and it is believed that cotton growing there, which has been receiving special attention from government experts, will undergo a very rapid development in the near future.

Animals Are Tourists.

As a refuge from inclement weather California has long been the winter playground for thousands, but it is only recently that cattle and sheep have joined the tourist ranks, according to Popular Mechanics magazine. Naturally this winter resorting of common range stock is not specially altruistic, but is inspired by good business motives. California pastures afford more economical winter feed, and the sheep go through the lambing season with far less loss. With all the devices of tents and lambing wagons bad weather often takes half the increase in lambs. So change of climate is really an economical measure, with the recent prices for early lambs.

Guardian of the Light.

Miss Winifred Holt is well named "the angel of the blind." She is head of the Lighthouse, a home for the blind in New York city, where those who cannot see are taught useful work. Several years ago she went to France to work for the benefit of the men blinded in the war. She established the Phare, French for "lighthouse," similar to the New York home in purpose, and has taught over three hundred men to support themselves without sight. For some time she worked in the first trenches on the Somme.

CONNECTS FRANCE AND SPAIN

Tunnel Recently Completed Does Away With Necessity of Crossing Pyrenees Mountain Peaks.

"There are no more Pyrenees" was once an expression of high political significance in France. It is now a reality, because while all Europe was involved in the struggle to crush militarism, the engineers kept blasting away at the heart of the mountains dividing France and Spain and have constructed a tunnel that obviates the necessity of climbing 9,500 feet of mountain peaks before crossing the boundary. A railway has been installed in this tunnel which connects Puigcerda, Spain, with Ax, France. These two towns are 20 miles apart, but the railway is not that long.

By not impossible grades, it leads from the lower levels of the pass from Prades, France, to the upper valley of the Arlege, near where Puigcerda is situated. It also goes down to the valley of the great River Ebro, along which runs a system of railways and canals, making excellent connections with Saragossa and many smaller places in the heart of Spain, and with the Mediterranean port of Barcelona, Spain.

Heretofore tourists from the Mediterranean region of France have had to use a carriage way through the pass from Prades, where the railway from Perpignan ends, to Puigcerda, but the journey from the valley of the Arlege river was not so easy.

LITTLE LESSON FOR AGENT

Speaking of Etiquette Reminded Servant Girl of a Few Ideas She Had in Mind.

"Madam," she began, as the door opened, "I am selling a new book on 'Etiquette and Deportment.'"

"Oh, you are?" she responded. "Go down there and clean the mud from your feet."

"Yes'm. As I was saying, madam, I am sell—"

"Take off your hat! Never address a strange lady at her door without removing your hat."

"Yes'm. Now, then, as I was saying—"

"Take your hand out of your pocket. No gentleman ever carries his hand there."

"Yes'm. Now, madam, this work on 'Et—'"

"Throw away your pipe. If a gentleman uses tobacco he is careful not to disgust others by the habit."

"Wait. Put that dirty handkerchief out of sight and use less grease on your hair in the future. Now you look a bit decent. You have a book on 'Etiquette and Deportment.' Very well, I don't want it. I am only the servant girl. Go up the steps to the front door and talk with the lady of the house. She called me a down-right, no-doubt-about-it idiot this morning, and I think the book you're selling is just what she requires."

One by One They Go.

Another of New York's famous restaurants will put up its shutters and go out of business the end of this month. It is Mouquin's restaurant, for two decades one of the best known eating places in the old Tenderloin district. "Mon dieu," sadly remarked the proprietor yesterday; "life is just one d—d funeral announcement after another." The picturesque old wooden structure on Sixth avenue, near Twenty-eighth street, which is one of New York's oldest landmarks, will be razed for a skyscraper. It was built more than one hundred years ago by Isaac Varian and stood in the center of Varian farm, whose rambling fields and pastures stretched west to the river and to the east as far as Lexington avenue. Through this pastoral landscape wound a couple of cow-paths. These paths are there yet. One is known as Broadway and the other as Sixth avenue. When Isaac Varian died the farm was sold. A public road was cut through the place and it passed directly in front of the old house. A line of stage coaches operated over this road, and what is now Mouquin's restaurant used to be the first stop after leaving Bowling Green.

Tungsten Ores.

The production of tungsten ores in the United States in 1918, according to preliminary statistics collected by Frank L. Hess of the geological survey, was equivalent to 5,065 net tons of concentrates, carrying 60 per cent tungsten trioxide, of which 5,015 tons, valued at $5,158,500, were marketed or consumed by the producers, and 50 tons were reported as left on hand at the mines December 31. The output was less than that of the two previous years—1916, with 5,923 tons, valued at $12,075,400, and 1917, with 6,144 tons, valued at $6,783,400. The production in 1917 was the largest made by any country, although it was much smaller than the combined output of the British empire.

Find Shells in English Gardens.

Talking of raids, the task of the suburban gardener is likely to provide a little supplementary excitement during the next few seasons. While digging in his garden the other day a resident of Manor Park unearthed a loaded shell. During 1917 and the first few months of last year an enormous quantity of ammunition was fired by the barrage guns in the London district. An uncertain proportion of this consisted of "duds," which, when they did no material damage, were buried a few feet in the earth. It is a crop which will need careful harvesting.—London Chronicle.

WIFE ONCE BOUGHT

Proceeding Many Centuries Ago Was Universal.

Present-Day "Marriage Portion" May Be Regarded as a Symbol of Old Custom—Some Curious Wedding Ceremonies.

Among far older civilizations than that of the Anglo-Saxon the system of wife-purchase had ceased before Britain was a real country. The Indian law-giver, Manu, strictly forbade it, and said: "A man who, through avarice, takes a gratuity, is a seller of his offspring." In the historical times of the Greeks they no longer bought wives. In Rome "coemptio" was only a symbol of the ancient custom. In the Jewish Talmud the purchase is also symbolic, as is frequently the Mohammedan "mahr." Withal, the bride price, "foster leas" and marriage gifts, when returned, were converted into dowry and became at first the bride's property. Thus marriage portions chiefly derived their origin from the habit of purchase, and dowry often became, as with the Hebrews, a religious duty. Not less than the tenth of the father's property was considered a just dowry. In Aristotle's time nearly two-fifths of all Sparta belonged from this cause to the women. Sir Henry Maine considers that the amazing thrift of the French is also owing to this custom, which probably descended to them from the marriage law of Augustus Caesar. It was only by an anachronism that Euripides made Medea lament that women were obliged to purchase husbands at a great price. And it is often as true today as when the Latin poet sang.

When marriage ceremonies first did arise it was by degrees and in many ways, and customs such as capture when superseded became by symbolism a part of the succeeding legal form or contract. To eat maize pudding from the same plate or to eat in any way together is a widely distributed marriage ceremony. In Brazil a couple may be married by drinking brandy together; in Japan by so many cups of wine; in Russia and Scandinavia it used to be one cup for both. The joining of hands among Romans and Hindus is common in many parts of the world. In Scotland it is called "hand fasting," and couples live together after. To sit on one seat while receiving friends or to have the hands of each tied together with grass, or to smear with each other's blood, or for the woman to tie a cord of her own twisting around the naked waist of the man constitutes marriage in one place or another. In Australia a woman carries fire to her lover's hut and makes a fire for him. A Loango negress cooks two dishes for him in his own hut. In Croatia the bridegroom boxes the bride's ears, and in Russia the father formerly struck his daughter gently with a new whip for the last time—and then gave the weapon to her husband.

"Take It Easy." A great many young folks make hard work of things that should be perfectly easy, and as long as there are plenty of really hard duties to be done, it seems a pity to make hard work of the rest. One of the arts of life is to learn to do our work in the easiest way, saving on the simple tasks strength to apply to the hard duties.

BELGRADE TO "COME BACK"

Citizens of Serbian Capital Confident Their Beloved City Will Rise From Its Ashes.

Belgrade, the capital of Serbia and Jugo-Slavia, is now a mere shell of its former self. The Serbs used to be remarkably proud of their metropolis.

These coffee houses of Belgrade are more of an institution than the tavern ever was in London. A cupful of black coffee in a public garden, a military band playing the weird Slavic songs, and the young people dancing the old folk dances on the grass—these represent the height of contentment to the Serb after a day's work.

During the war, however, there was little coffee drunk in Belgrade, and the Serbs have forgotten how to dance. While the streets of a city are systematically shelled by the enemy, and every able-bodied man is off to war, the citizens think less of comfort and concern themselves with safety.

Belgrade was deserted, but its people, those who survived, are coming back to their wrecked homes. They are still battling with hunger, and their loved city is in chaos, but they are hopeful.

Airplane Surgery.

Great interest has been aroused in Paris by the trial flight of a new airplane, invented by the engineer Nemirovsky and Dr. Tilmont.

The new machine, which is called the "aerochir," is designed to place promptly at the service of men wounded in warfare, or persons injured in serious accidents, all the resources of medical science, and if necessary to carry them back to the hospital.

Everything required for surgical and X-ray work is provided on board the airplane, including an operating table, and even an ingeniously constructed collapsible tent which can be erected on the scene of an accident within two or three minutes.

Two models of the "aerochir" have been designed, one capable of carrying four injured persons in addition to the necessary apparatus, and the other much larger, capable of carrying a medical and surgical staff of ten persons, and bringing back, if necessary, as many as twelve injured.

Anxious to Please.

The mistress of the house engaged a new servant and gave her instructions how to behave when answering her bell. One evening she rang for a glass of milk, and was surprised to see Martha appear with the glass grasped in her hand.

"Oh, Martha!" she said, "always bring the milk to me on a tray."

Martha apologized, and promised to remember in future.

A week later the bell rang, and the same request was made. This time Martha appeared with the tray and the milk emptied into it.

Anxious to please, she curtsied, and inquired: "Shall I bring a spoon, ma'am, or will you lap it up?"—London Answers.

Teach Sailors to Swim. Merchant mariners must know how to swim. The United States shipping board has added lessons in swimming to its course for apprentices. It is said that any number of seamen, picked at random, and compared with an equal number of men picked from land industries, will show about 25 per cent fewer men able to care for themselves in the water. Many sailors are unable to swim even a few strokes.

Cold relief

A common cause of many colds is the sudden checking of the unconscious perspiration by exposure to a change of temperature. Colds whether taking the form of Coryza with sneezing, running nose, and perhaps sore throat, or with chilly and feverish symptoms, should never be neglected in the earliest stages.
