TAKE AN UMBRELLA!

Astronomer Says There's Going To Be A Big Shower of Meteors Next Tuesday Night

Meteor showers running 50 to 100
shooting stars an hour are forecast
for next Tuesday night.

They should appear sometime after midnight of Aug. 11-13, high up in the northeastern sky, seeming to shoot from the constellation Perseus,
from which they derive their name Perseids. These meteors never have failed to appear on time once a year during the last century.

"This year," says Dr. Charles P.
Olivier of the University of Pennsylvania "at the maximum of the Perseids, the moon will be about new and hence will not interfere as it did last year. This will mean for an observer with a clear sky that faint meteors can be seen and hence numbers that may well run to from 50 to 100 per hour after midnight for the night of August 11-12 and to half these numbers for the preceding and the following nights."

Dr. Olivier says it is important for laymen to get used to observing meteors as there may be a great shower of the Leonid meteors during one of the next few November.

FROST FIGHTING IT

Rockland Boy In Charge Of
The Campaign Against White Pine
Blister

The Maine Forestry Service is conducting white pine blister rust control work on several private estates at Blue Hill. W. O. Frost, agent in charge of the work, said it was probable over the estate would be cleared of the rust-spreading wild and cultivated currant and gooseberry bushes before control work ends early next month.

Control work is being done in about 60 cities and towns.

"Our agents are reporting that the rust on the currant and gooseberry bushes is heavy this year due to so much damp weather which is conducive to the spread of various kinds of rust," Frost said.

Frost believes that many fine ornamental white pine trees on Blue Hill estates are doomed. He said some estate owners have had their gardeners and caretakers attempt to remove the disease spreading bushes found near white pine trees "but the job was not well done owing to the inexperience of the workmen." Forestry service men have been reworking some of the areas supposed to have been cleared by others and
"have found hundreds of bushes missed by the inexperienced labor."

ROTARY ALSO SANG

Kitty McLaughlin, New York
Star, Delights With Her
Glorious Voice

Rotary scored yesterday one of the high spots in its noon hour luncheon program of entertainment, when the members had the pleasure of listening to the singing of that noted concert mezzo, Miss Kitty (Lottie) Mc-Laughlin. It was Miss McLaughlin's summer visit to her Rockland home that made her available for the occasion, and as she loves to sing for these home friends she readily accepted the invitation. Her songs included:

Wood Song, Beatrice Scott; Can
This be Summer? Clara Edwards;
The Bitterness of Love, James P.
Deenn; In the Luxembourg Gardens,
Kathleen Manning; To One Away,
Alexander Rihm.

It would be the united opinion of her appreciative hearers that Miss McLaughlin never had been heard to better advantage. Her glorious voice, rich and full and marked with delicate shadings was a delight and the storms of applause must have yielded her gratification, for it was deserved.

It was apparent that she was enjoying the occasion fully as much as her hearers, and when she had sung
for encore a song from "The Chocolate Soldier," (the Rotarians joining in the historic Scotch lyric "Charlie Is My Darling," and added at the close by request Tosti's immortal
"Good-bye, Summer," which nobody can sing as she sings it, there was a mutual feeling between entertainer and entertained that it was an occasion not likely to be forgotten.

And a special word falls to be said
for the piano accompaniments, many of them difficult, played with exquisite skill by Mrs. Ruth Sanborn, who came in for her full share of the applause that marked the conclusion of the hour.

HE HEARD OUR DIAPHONE

And Tells Us How It Sounds To The Visitor From
Other and Quieter Regions

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

Last week, in the course of a tour of Maine, we spent a night in your fair city. And a rather disconcerting night it was. Not that we could not find comfortable quarters. We were most satisfactorily established at one of your hostels and looking forward to a restful evening
after a fatiguing ride.

Then something happened. A most terrible something. Without warning there came out of the quiet late afternoon air a terrific blast, a heart-rending, nerve-racking, earsplitting, flesh-creeping, blood-curdling, ear-pounding, hair-raising and dignity-upsetting howl. Weared as we were from a long trip, we were in no condition to cope with such a phenomenon. We simply collapsed, and lay on the floor, trembling with fear as the first blast was followed by another and another and another.

One of our party was sufficiently conscious to count them. He said there were 37. To the rest of us it seemed like 37 hours, as we cowered and wilted. In reality the awesome racket lasted perhaps only 37 seconds. But the most trying 37 seconds we have ever endured.

Our first thought, insofar as we were capable of thought, was that another war had been started and Rockland was entertaining a fleet of enemy air bombers. In the wilds of Maine we had not followed closely the course of international events
but knew them to be of a very delicate nature. Some time after the 37th blast we crawled from beneath our beds and looked out of the window. Outside everything seemed quiet and peaceful. No house lay in ruins and Rocklanders were going about their duties as though nothing had happened. The scene seemed incredible to us, after all the horrors we had pictured. What manner of men were these people of Rockland who could live through such an unearthly din as unconcernedly as ordinary mortals during Sonny's celebration of the Fourth? Surely a race of super-men inhabit these parts!

.....

Assured that there had been no
air-raid and no immediate danger,
we set to speculating about the nature of the disturbance. Was it one of those sea-monsters that are reported every summer off the coasts of New England? That seemed the most likely conjecture, and our willed bodies straightened and our hearts palpitated, not from fear, but from excitement, at the prospect of a rare experience. We decided to go no time in seeing this monster, so we leaned out of the window and inquired of a man, who had been placidly smoking a corn-cob pipe
during our ordeal, where the monster could be seen. He looked at us first blankly and apprehensively and appeared to meditate flight. Unconcerned by the noise that had sent us to cover, he was obviously frightened
by us, our question and our wild, disheveled appearance. Then he saw light. With Yankee deliberateness he removed his pipe from his mouth, spat artistically and looked us up and down with supreme contempt.

"What you heard was nothin' but the fire-horn."

"Nothing but the fire-horn!" To him and other Rocklanders it may be nothing but a fire-horn, but to us and perhaps other visitors it will always be remembered as the famous Monster of Rockland. For, from conversations overheard during our

WELLMAN CASE SOLVED

But Officials Agree Upon Absolute Secrecy Until Evidence Is Presented To Grand Jury In November

.....

The Wellman murder case has been solved according to an announcement issued from the sheriff's office at 10.45 last night, but the speculative interest on the part of the public may not be gratified for several months yet, as the officials declared that the evidence in their possession will not be made known until it is presented to the grand jury in November.

Alden Boulter, the convict who escaped from the State Hospital in August last September, and who was recaptured this week in Aroostook County, is the man around whom the most recent developments have revolved. He was brought here
Thursday night by Deputy Sheriff
Ludwick and State Patrolman Pray, and underwent no less than three grillings before last night's statement was issued.

His story, so far as the press and public know it simmers down to his statement that he talked with Mrs.
Fred Wellman for an hour or so on the day she disappeared; that she wore then a dark coat and light hat;
that he went away to Aroostook County and did not learn of her disappearance until he read it on the following Monday; that he did not know she had been murdered until he read in July of the recovery of the body. He admitted having bought a revolver in Camden on the day of Mrs. Wellman's disappearance, but said he was planning a long trip and soon after exchanged it for the money he had paid.

County Attorney Otis visited Fred Wellman's home after Boulter was taken into custody, and Thursday

FIRE-ALARMING

We are not surprised that at the last somebody has taken occasion to express his views upon our city's peculiar style of fire-alarm. The gentleman of Jamaica Plain, whose communication finds publicity upon another page, writes with considerable emphasis, but it is a subject upon which one may properly indulge strong feeling, the voicing of which naturally seeks emphatic words. We are among those who have long indulged the opinion that the diaphone exceeds all reasonable bounds in the violence with which it advertises the existence of a blaze, or the fact that seven o'clock in the morning has arrived and it is time for our people to begin to think upon the ceremony of getting out of bed. Some of us are gifted with strong nerves which no noise however violent affects; but we never feel our ears assaulted by that demon of Spring street without a sympathetic thought for those less strong, for the patients in hospital, for the aged and the infirm and those languishing upon sick-beds, as well as that great body of toilers to whom the night of unbroken sleep possesses value beyond words.

There is a form of diaphone—we have heard it—pitched upon a note less numbing than that with which the Rockland welkin finds itself shattered. We do not know whether substitution is possible, but we do register the opinion that if some city government takes in hand and cures this thing complained of its fellow-citizens will rise up and call it blessed.

DISCUSSING WHISKERS

Now and then the metropolitan newspapers open their columns to matters really deserving consideration. Such we discover in the pages of our valued contemporaries, the New York Herald Tribune and the Boston Transcript, where the subject of whiskers presents itself in connection with that prominent figure of the Civil War, Gen. Albert Everett Burnside. A difference of opinion has arisen with respect to the designation of the facial adornment introduced to masculine society of the period by that popular army official—whether they were burn-sides, or as held by some recent writers, sideburns. There can be no uncertainty in the minds of those whose years reach back to the times when whiskers were among the country's most fertile crops. Burn-sides, they were, and no other designation can suffice. Reference to those hidden photograph albums of three-score years ago will disclose to the present safety-colored generation the sort of thing with which our ancestors of that day unblushingly embellished themselves.

A MAP WANTED

Around the middle of the century preceding the present, the making of maps considerably manifested itself throughout Maine. Thomaston and Rockland, both flourishing communities, came in for that attention. We have in mind maps of both towns bearing the date 1855, with a particular interest because ornamented with marginal pictures of homes and business places. The Courier-Gazette would value the brief loan of a copy of each of these two maps and will be glad to hear from some reader in the connection.

THE WELCOME POST-CARD

It is always a pleasure to receive the picture post-card from a friend touring abroad. It is not to undervalue the card out of some part of one's own land, but there is something about the picture of foreign scenes and folks that carries a thrill impossible to analyze but distinctly perceptible. Such are these cards arriving from Miss Coughlin, bringing the life of Old Ireland and set off with personal messages possible only to the pen of one whose roots of ancestry run down into the sod itself.

AMOS 'N' ANDY

Will the petitions carrying two hundred thousand signatures achieve their purpose of banishing the nightly broadcasting of "Amos 'n' Andy"? There is a considerable section of the colored people who declare the skit to be a serious reflection upon their race. Recalling the force of public opinion that banished from vaudeville that gross stage figure of an Irishman, it is not improbable that this seven o'clock feature may also come in for a developed mass objection.

MUSICAL CAMDEN

A busy community, this Camden town, when summer reigns. Next week we are to see music asserting there its annual and delightful sway.

ROCKLAND PLAYS BRILLIANTLY

And Wins Second Successive Game From Champions, This Time On the Latter's Grounds

Today's Game
St. George at Camden.
Next Week's Games
Monday—Rockland at Camden.
Tuesday—Thomaston at St. George.
Friday—St. George at Rockland.
Saturday—Camden vs. Thomaston at Rockland.
*Note change in this game from the originally published schedule.

The League Standing
A very slight percentage difference—.016, to be exact, now separates St. George and Rockland, but it is in St. George's favor so that team is still leading the procession. Should St. George lose this afternoon's game at Camden, it will be behind in the races for the first time this season. The present figures:

Team	Won	Lost	P.C.
St. George	8	5	.616
Rockland	9	6	.600
Thomaston	6	7	.461
Camden	4	9	.308

Rockland 5, St. George 4
The long awaited game between Rockland and St. George, on the latter's grounds, proved Thursday night to be one of the most interesting contests of the season, and victory for the Texans in spite of handicapping circumstances of which only few of the fans were aware. Captain Wotton's men never worked harder for victory and they never had more enthusiastic or loyal support from their followers. The outcome brings the two teams into a virtual tie, St. George still leading by a few points in the percentage standing.

Everybody had been anxious to see what Chummy Gray would do against the champions, and he answered the question to the entire satisfaction of the Rockland delegation, holding Captain Dwyer's boys to six hits, and displaying remarkable coolness in the most trying situations. As a result of his victory he will wear a pair of nice new shoes presented by William G. Robinson of Gardiner, a former Warren player who took part in many games where Chummy Gray's father was the opposing pitcher. Mr. Robinson is in Knox County this week on his annual vacation, and was "ticked pink" over the fine work of Chummy, junior.

Simmons, the St. George pitcher, was an in and out Thursday night being banded hard one minute, and showing the old master hand the next. The nine hits made off him were for a total of 18 bases.

Errors played an important part in all of the scoring except St. George's first inning when a triple by Archer and a single by M. Simmons netted an earned run; and in Rockland's second inning, when triples by Wotton and Gray and a single by McCarty netted two earned runs.

PARK THEATRE

Raquel Torres is the originator of a new dance that Ben Lyon has named the Mosquito Wiggle. In "Aloha," showing Monday and Tuesday at the Park, Miss Torres plays a half-caste of a tropical isle. As such she is called upon to perform a native dance after the manner of the Hula.

While this was being photographed the assembled troupe noticed that Miss Torres was punctuating her dance with vicious rhythmic slaps on her thigh. Director Rogell stopped the action and informed her that he believed the slap on the thigh was incidental to some of the low American dances and asked her to stick to the native conception.

The scene started again and once more the thigh-slapping was interpolated. Action was stopped and Miss Torres explained that she was in accord with the director's wishes but could not refrain from swatting the mosquitoes that were so prevalent. Lyon immediately named her conception of the Hula, "Doin't the Mosquito."—adv.

PLYMOUTH HEADS SALES LADDER IN DETROIT SECTION

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 5.—Registrations of Chrysler Corporation's new Plymouth exceeded all other makes of cars registered in Wayne County, Michigan, during the month of July. This is the first time in recent years that retail sales of any automobile in the Detroit area have surpassed the sales of either Fords or Chevrolets in this county, which is recognized as the capital of the motor world.

July registration figures compiled by the state license bureau show that sales of Plymouths totaled 1249, as against 1063 Fords and 850 Chevrolets. The Plymouth figures are for a little more than three weeks, inasmuch as the new car was not announced until July 6.

Commenting on these figures, Walter P. Chrysler said today, "The fact that the new Plymouth took the leadership in July in the sales of all automobiles in Wayne County, where automobile values are subject to perhaps the most scrutinizing test in the world, indicates in our judgment the public's response generally to the development of something really new in automobiles."

BIG FIVE LEAGUE

South Thomaston took the lead in the Big Five League last week by trouncing the lowly Pirates while Rockville, which seems to have hit its stride, was walloping Whitehead, both scores being the same, 9 to 3. This was Rockville's second straight win as it defeated Kickapoo last week 4 to 2, and it looks as if the race might be a little closer. The standing:

Team	Won	Lost	P.C.
So. Thomaston	7	2	.778
Whitehead	6	3	.667
Kickapoo	5	3	.625
Rockville	3	6	.333
Pirates	1	8	.111

This week's games: Pirates vs. Kickapoo at Rockland; South Thomaston vs. Rockville at South Thomaston.

The game between South Thomaston and Clark Island Wednesday night was a reminder of free silver days, the former winning by that memorable formula, 16 to 1. Hopkins held the Islanders to two hits, while the Keagites engaged in a free-hitting contest. The score:

A BIT SARCASTIC

A Clark Island Writer Derides the Ford Mechanics and Takes a Punch At "Fipso"

A Clark Island correspondent writes:

"The Ford Mechanics, disguised as baseball players, visited Clark Island Sunday and had to be satisfied with the wrong end of an 18 to 9 score. Bunker, Clark Island pitching ace was in poor shape, the Fords scoring five runs in the first inning while he was warming up. Five runs is not any handicap to the Clark Island sluggers, so they got busy and pounded Hallows' slants with everything but the depression. The Fords could not hit Bunker's slow curves, after the first inning, getting eight hits and boosting his strikeout record by 19, making a total of 166 for the season."

McPhee was the heavy hitter for the visitors getting two doubles, a triple, and a home run in five trips to the plate. The home run came in the 9th inning with one on and none out, Mac's single rolling down a woodchuck hole. This seemed to peeve Mr. Bunker and the crowd gasped as he smoked over the next nine pitches to end the contest. The Fords could not start a rally after the first inning but they started plenty of arguments and made 12 errors.

"We hope they will bring a much stronger team when they tackle Clark Island again. 'Fipso' Frye, leading slugger of the moth-eaten Texacos went hitless. This is Frye's second visit to the Island and has yet to get his first hit. A special dispatch to one of the Portland papers states that Bunker helped to lose the game last Thursday night at St. George by his poor fielding of bunts. We admit Bunker is good, but he cannot win a game alone. He is a fine fielder, and with anything like support would have scored a shutout."

WEATHER

This morning begins clear and beautiful, cloudless blue skies and northeast wind, temperature at 7.30 only 56, and the outlook for the weekend is continued fair. This specimen has now enjoyed two weeks of pleasant weather, the sequence broken by only one day of fog and showers. August is the traditional time for church fairs and family reunions, and the past week has furnished ideal conditions for these enjoyable social occasions. Yesterday noon temperature 81, wind west.

The Old Timers' picnic will be held Sunday at Ginn's Point.

Charles E. Merritt leaves Monday on a business trip to the southern tier of States.

Mrs. Abbie Bohndell Sylvester of Quincy, Mass., who was a passenger on the first trolley car from Rockport to Rockland, arrived here this summer just 12 hours too late to be a passenger on the last car.

Appropos of the recent item pertaining to tall hollyhocks, A. J. Murray of Talbot avenue comes forward and reports that those growing in his garden have attained a height of 11 feet three inches. Next!

The screen door at the rear of the Limerock restaurant was torn off Thursday night, possibly as a means of entrance by a bold, bad burglar. It cannot be learned that anything was stolen—not even Molly's tempting pies.

A conservative estimate placed the number of bathers at Sandy Beach Thursday afternoon as 200. Why doesn't the city do something to improve this fine asset to Rockland? asked an amazed citizen who viewed the scene for the first time.

The suspension of street car service has led to the purchase of several new automobiles at the Highlands. A woman from that section, who has been accustomed to come into the city shopping almost every day was downtown yesterday for the first time since the cars stopped running.

Lawrence E. Mills received bruises and a shaking up last night when the front tire of his motorcycle blew up on the road to St. George. He was taken to Knox Hospital, no bones found broken, and he returned to the home of his father-in-law, J. E. Moulaison where he is resting quite comfortably.

Regardless of weather all Educational Cub members are urged to attend picnic, 2.30 to 8, Aug. 12, with Mrs. Lena Merrill, Rankin street and Broadway, when plans will be made for a lawn party, also for car transportation for distant picnics and festivities. Speaker at 6.45. Current events from each, memorized poetry gems. Subject for next year's study Civics questions. Box luncheon, the hostess will serve coffee. Drive results and reports are of first importance, $1 as minimum.

Visitation day will be observed at the Hope Corner Church Sunday morning at 10.30, an annual event which draws back many former residents of Hope and vicinity. Rev. O. G. Robbins of Lawrence, Mass., who summers at Megunticook Lake, will occupy the pulpit, and the Universalist quartet of the city will furnish music. After the service basket lunch will be served on the lawn of the L. P. True home across from the church.

Although the Tugus ball team took over the fast traveling Rockland aggregation last Sunday, the many fans in attendance urged that both teams be booked again. Accordingly the management has arranged for a return game tomorrow with Rockland. These two clubs have always exhibited great rivalry and Rockland in turn sends over hundreds of fans to cheer the club. Tugus feels confident that it can repeat Sunday with Pat Foley on the mound. Rockland (in reality a Knox County Twilight League team) will stand pat with its lineup of last Sunday, and word comes from Portland that Froelich the hired pitcher, is expressing confidence that he can win this time. He played three years on the Cornell varsity team, and is now employed as engineer by the Texaco Company in Portland.

Concert in Postoffice square at 8 p. m. by Rockland City Band Sunday evening. Future concerts will depend on the attendance so turn out and help the cause.

The trolley rails have been removed from Maverick street, that section of The Highland line being tackled first so as to expedite highway construction. One advantage of rail removal will be a wider thoroughfare.

St. George plays a return game in Rockland next week, but it will be on Friday night instead of Thursday as indicated in the printed schedules. The change is made to accommodate some players who wish to attend a prep school reunion.

The Underwood Co. has resumed operations in sardine packing, and has already received several hundred bushels of herring, which are running well, but which are undergoing a close inspection. Supt. Ernest H. Quinn, an expert sardine packer, is in charge.

The vacation guest speaker at the First Baptist Church Sunday will be Rev. Clarence Roddy, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Portland. The services will be at 10.30 and 7.30. Mrs. Benjamin P. Browne will be the soloist for the day. The church school will be at noon, and the C. E. at 6.15.

Owing to the many local activities, the meeting of Opportunity Class Thursday evening at the cottage of Mrs. Evelyn McKusick, Cooper's Beach, had a small attendance, but the few who did report a most enjoyable time. Picnic supper, served on the piazza, and a beach fire were features.

Robert Gregory started Monday on a four weeks' motor trip in company with Prof. Percy C. Judd of Lowell Textile Institute. The itinerary will include Montreal, Hamilton, Sault Ste. Marie, Winnipeg, a week at Viscount, Saskatchewan, thence to Calgary, Montana, Yellowstone Park and other places, returning home via the Lincoln Highway.

Cliff Lufkin entered The Courier-Gazette office Thursday and solemnly deposited on the editorial desk a specimen of goulmi. Lest anybody become alarmed we hasten to add that a goulmi is nothing more than a Japanese omelette, which resembles a choke cherry tree, except that the fruit accumulates upon it singly instead of in bunches. The goulmi plums, if such they may be termed, are very tasty—at least Mr. Lufkin said they were.

News has been received of the death of Mrs. Lewis Herzog which occurred in Atlantic City, N. J., whither she had gone from New York because of the excessive heat. She had been in ill health for nearly two years, and because of it did not come this season to the Herzog estate at North Haven, where she and her husband have been summer visitors many years. The deceased was the daughter of the late James J. McComb, a New York multimillionaire, and is survived by her husband and two sons—Lewis and Wayne.

Joseph Taylor, who was prominently identified with the Thomaston cement plant four years ago was critically injured recently in Kansas City in a grain elevator fire, which was due to some sort of explosion. Twelve men were burned by flames that flashed through the elevator at each explosion, and two were struck by debris. Mr. Taylor is superintendent of the Burrell Engineering & Construction Co. of Chicago. We are indebted to Mrs. Ole Larson of Council Bluffs, Iowa, for clippings relating to the accident and are hoping to hear from her or from some other source of his complete recovery. Joe made scores of friends during his stay in Rockland.

CAMDEN CONCERTS

First of Summer Series Will Be Held In Opera House Tuesday Night

The opening concert of the annual Camden summer series, under the direction of Frank Bibb of Baltimore and New York, will take place Tuesday evening at the Camden Opera House.

Leon Kairoff, Baritone

day evening at the Camden Opera House at 7.30 standard. These concerts are always outstanding events of the summer season, furnishing the local music lovers a rare opportunity to hear artists of the first water, at very moderate prices. Through the generosity of Mrs. Mary Louise Bok, during the past season the opera house has been remodelled and the stage, which has been designed especially for concert use, bears a handsome new Steinway piano. These two features alone indicate a stride ahead for this season.

The artists being presented in this first concert are Leon Kairoff, dramatic baritone, and Frank Sheridan, pianist, both of New York. Mr. Kairoff, an artist pupil at the David Mannes School, will give a program of Russian music in costume, including classics, character ditties and folk lore. His beautiful voice and remarkable interpretative ability have already created a sensation wherever he has been heard. Mr. Sheridan, a member of the faculty at the David Mannes School is conceded by critics to be one of the most brilliant young American pianists. He has made several successful concert tours, and during the past two years was in Europe engaged in concert work.

Mr. Bibb who has been a summer resident of Camden for some years is head of the voice department at the Peabody Conservatory of Music.

FROM FAR AWAY ERIN
Miss Coughlin Tells of the Abbey Players—Seasick? Oh, No

Knowing the pleasure that anything from the pen of Miss Anna Coughlin gives to our readers, Mrs. Gladys Morgan has passed to us a letter from Miss Coughlin, written July 24, from the Station Hotel, Oban, Ireland, which reads:

"It's a far cry from 1904, Room III, presenting immortal Shakespeare, to the Abbey Players, Dublin. But at that gay city Nellie Tolman and I did it by recollecting old times and having a quiet laugh between the acts. Margaret, Miss O'Connell, who is a musician, somewhat discouraged us by remarking: 'That strident orchestra is certainly fine.' It was, but we were warming up the cookies of our hearts, and that's fine, too. I know you agree."

"The first of the plays was 'The Plough and the Stars' by a brand new dramatist, Sean O'Casey, who was a grocer's boy and took the lower strata of Dublin life for the scene. The time was the famous Easter Week of 1916. The theme, a young devoted wife, hating war, has hidden from her husband the notice of a promotion in the patriot's army. When he finds out about the concealment, he is furious and leaves for action. Later she tries to get him to come home with her, and breaking away, he throws her across the threshold of her home."

"At this point someone in the audience ejaculated: 'Thank God! She goes insane, he is killed, but there is a great amount of humor in the minor characters. The better class Dublin folks were furious, saying that such things were not possible in Dublin, but Casey stood his ground and proved himself correct."

"This is gossip that Nellie picked up at the Abbey itself. Also that the theatre may have to close because of lack of patronage. But on the two nights we attended, the house was filled. Whitecapped maids brought in trays of tea between acts and a great many people between acts went out to get—theirs!"

"I am writing you from Oban, and the town is so beautiful that I can't remember what I said last, so you'll have to bridge the gap. I must look out of the window now and then."

"Yesterday we sailed to Iona, where St. Columba in the fifth century established his great missionary center. I am very sure that his great faith must have brought him there, although tradition says it was a boat made of cowhide. Be that as it may, we had a sail in a fine, stout, new steamer, and it was all we could do. Everyone, nearly, was seasick. No, indeed, I wasn't. I served my apprenticeship on Penobscot Bay and the steamers plying thereon."

"I just put that in because I wanted to tell you that the boat for more in Baltimore and the David Mannes School in New York. He is considered one of the foremost coach-accompanists in the country, surrounding himself with brilliant artist-pupils and appearing in concert with some of the leading artists of the day."

Camden, Monday or Tuesday. Mrs. Morgan has the detail of the three concerts and will be glad to answer any inquiries relative to them.

than half the way was packed with athletes and musicians going down to Tobemore to take part in the ancient Scottish games. Among them were 'The Duke of Argyle's Own.' Ten braw laddies, dressed in full Highland costumes, green and blue plaid, carrying eight sets of bagpipes and two drums. And when they started up 'The Campbells are Coming,' the auld hater o' me knew a thrill!"

"Margaret was looking far over the blue hills; but when all was over, good, old New England Nellie asked 'Why Campbells if they belonged to the Argyles?' 'O, we're part of the Argyles,' they answered. Besides their striking regalia, each of the four men wore the three medals they had won in the World War."

"We left them and took our way over the Mull Sound by Staffa's Island, lonely, bare, with the Atlantic howling through its 300-foot caves, and came in sight of our objective, desolate Iona, where lie buried the bones of Irish, Scottish and Norwegian kings. Dr. Johnson, you remember, compared it with the Plain of Marathon—one inciting great patriotism, the other, great pity."

"The site of the first church, is shown, the ruins of the convent, the holy well and an 11th century cathedral which has been partially restored and is under the control of the Church of Scotland. Only two or three of the beautiful crosses remain. Once there were three hundred, but the hand of vandalism has been even there."

"Margaret added her bit by telling us that Mendelssohn wrote his 'Piano Concerto' here and his 'Hebrides' while visiting here. The island is so small, so away from the beaten track of the sightseer, that the interest and love that center here are really amazing. Here and there we come upon a traveller who says: 'Iona! Oh, that's wonderful!' Again—Iona! Why, what's there? and that's a question hard to answer."

I forgot to say that during our visit to Dublin while we were riding through the city, a man was standing on a street corner playing 'The Maine Song.' To Margaret it was Rudy's song, but to Nellie and me, it was HOME."

"We start tomorrow morning at nine to go up the Caledonian Canal to Inverness, where we remain over Sunday. After that we head for Edinburgh town."

"My love, to the R.H.S. Alumni and to you all."

Let Us Move Forward

The business world is absorbed with the problems that for nearly three years have so shocked its sensibilities and disarranged, so dislocated its plans and the great system of finance which was the foundation upon which civilization was built that it cannot seem to think in hopeful terms. Moreover, the same and sound principles by which faith and credit build for prosperity are attacked by foes which would destroy homes, discourage initiative and eliminate religion. The menace of Communism is real, and striking at the very vitals of finance and moral energy.

But evil has always combated and obstructed every forward step made for man's advancement, and this evil can and will be met; but the business world, and in this country the worst foes to the solution of the economic ills facing all of us, are within the strongholds of capital and not outside. Twenty-five immensely rich and exceedingly selfish men in the United States can at any moment change the face of things, and plan to do so when they have depressed things to a point where their greed will assure them power. When America deals with these rapacious wolves within the fold of its own structure, we shall move forward to permanent prosperity."

"They shall fight against thee, but they shall not prevail, for I am with thee to deliver thee, saith the Lord."

Escaped girl Bares Harem Horrors

That monster, the Turk, Ali Bey—Those beasts, the eunuchs—Those hideous days, nights—Canshe—could any woman—ever forget?

HIRSIKMA, or, in American, Rose, was sixteen—when in the first blush of womanhood—when wild Kurdish tribesmen swooped down upon her home. She and her family fled for their lives.

That night, on a lonely road, came a clatter of hoofs. Rose, her mother and sister, crouched in the darkness. She heard a spatter of shots—saw her father fall—murdered.

Escaping, the grief-stricken woman sought refuge with a friend in Smyrna. Here, broken-hearted, the mother soon died. And here, at length, Rose fell in love with the son of the house.

But fresh massacres broke out. The city moaned with cries of maimed and ravished. The butchers waylaid Rose and her sister fell into the dripping hands of the blood-drunk soldiers. They tore her sister away—screaming. And Rose, they flung—a slave—into the harem of that merciless wolf.

What dark secrets of harem life did she learn—secrets that until now have not been whispered outside these eunuch-ruled prisons of the East?

Did she come, unsnatched, through the black muck of sensuality that befalls every female harem slave?

You must read for yourself HAREM SLAVES—the tremendous true-life story of a victim of the Armenian massacres. It is written with a quill dipped in the life blood of a woman, who, herself, knew the unspeakable cruelties of harem captivity and who tells about them now, frankly, for the first time. You will sit breathless over this gripping tale in September TRUE STORY MAGAZINE. Get your copy—read it today.

CHAMELEONS OF SEA

Scientists Discover Something About Halibut That Most Folks Don't Know

The halibut is the chameleon of the sea, says Capt. Robert A. Bartlett in a report to the National Geographic society. It can change its color to match the background against which it is moving.

The fish's color-changing ability is connected in some way with eyesight, Capt. Bartlett explains. As soon as the halibut's optic nerve is severed it loses its ability to camouflage itself. Blinding has the same effect.

Knowing this fishermen are careful to pile newly caught halibut with the eyes down. Thus blinded the fish cannot change color, but retain the desired white tint. When a fishing vessel arrives in port, with many halibut aboard, the first operation is to cut off the heads.

And 1932 looks like a fighting year for this country, at least. First comes the disarmament conference and then the Democrats hold their convention.—Judge.

ROCKLAND AS IT IS TODAY

Introducing A New Series Of Photographs
And Pen Pictures Of The City's Business Houses — Hotel Rockland Is The Opening Feature

Few cities the length and breadth of the land are better known for their hotel facilities than is Rockland, Maine. Hotel Rockland, modern, up-to-the-minute in appearance and service, has friends in all parts of the country, for once a patron, always a friend of this dependable, comfortable hotel.

This handsome four-story structure is located in the heart of Rockland for easy access yet is not subject to disturbance by obnoxious traffic or other noises. The junction of Main and Park streets brings the advantage of being on ly rebuilt and made the last word in hotel construction and frequent improvements have been made since. Each of its 55 airy rooms is provided with hot and cold water, bath where desired, each has its telephone and complete service. A seven-passenger elevator leaves from the handsome lobby, which deserves a special word. It extends across the full width and its all glass front gives directly onto the busy corner of Winslow-Holbrook square at street level, not up several steps as is frequently the case. The wide fireplace and the rows of deep, comfortable chairs extend a cordial welcome. The lobby is particularly charming at night.

Possibly the greatest cause of The Rockland's fine reputation is the exceptional table set at all times.
Parties come many miles to dine here as Rockland folk motor to be guests at the Wooster House and other resorts. All delicacies and special dishes are available in season. Like the rest of the hotel the dining room is cool and comfortable, served by breezes from the broad Atlantic nearby. As a matter of fact seldom if ever is the hotel oppressively warm. It is the headquarters for the Rockland Lions Club and entertains many social groups and clubs.

Thomas P. Keating, veteran hotel man, brings to The Rockland
a life time of experience in the business. He located here 12 years ago and during that time his house has met with increasing favor. Prior to taking over the local hotel he operated Hotel Moody in Claremont, N. H., for 17 years. All the available at all times to citizens and facilities of The Rockland are to the stranger within our gates.

THE INGRAHAM

Enter Auspiciously Upon Second Half of a Century of Reunions

The Ingraham descendants auspiciously entered on their second half century of existence as a family reunion association with a successful "fifty-first annual" at Penobscot View Grange hall, Glen Cove, Thursday. None of the elements of a perfect day was lacking. God's sunshine added to the beauty of the out of doors, with its wealth of foliage and flowers, smiling faces, cordial greetings and hearty handshakes, as friends and relatives again met, as abundance of good things to satisfy the inner man, the inspiration of music and the spirit of auld lang syne all contributed to the enjoyment of the occasion and made all present realize that a family reunion is well worthwhile. The view from the piazza, with the blue waters of Penobscot Bay and the islands in the distance, the flowers in nearby grounds, the Stars and Stripes flying over Sea View Cabins, the peaceful hamlet of Glen Cove close by, with Warrenton not far away, and the handsome white birches, on the adjoining premises, was supplemented by the fragrance of new mown hay from across the street, and it is not to be wondered at that loyal Californians, who were present, said, "We don't have anything like this."

Many who usually attend were missed, some by reason of sickness in their families, others by absence from the vicinity, and a few because of the cessation of street car service on the Southend-Highlands line, in Rockland, but it was a joy to have a goodly delegation from "Knox Ridge" present, 13 in all, including the youngest of all those who attended, Master Richard Ingraham, son of Mrs. Susan A. Butler, 11 months old.

The attendance was a bit short of 50, largely due to the absence, this year, of Enos E. Ingraham, of Rockport, and his descendants, who last year made an especially good showing.

Mrs. Susan A. Butler, of South Thomaston, alert, attractive, and graceful, was the oldest present, 89 years young, nearing her 90th anniversary, which comes in December. She was given a glad hand by the assembly when the president announced that she had the honor of being the oldest in attendance.

These officers were chosen: President, Frank H. Ingraham, Rockland; vice president, Enos E. Ingraham, Rockport; treasurer, Susie T. Snow, Rockland; secretary, Annie B. Deane, Rockport. Committee chairman, Jesse A. Tolman, Rockland, arrangements; Rebecca Ingraham, Rockland, cobbler; Lorna Post, Pendleton, Owl's Head, program.

Those present stood with bowed heads in memory of John Ingraham, son of the late John N. Ingraham, of Boston, who died during the year.

It was voted that lists of those whose names are not on the family tree, drawn by John N. Ingraham, now deceased, be furnished by each family and that the following committee have the tree duplicated, in ink, and new branches added, to bring it down to date, each member of the tree representing one of the four original ancestors who settled in Rockland: John N. Ingraham (Josiah), Mabel Kallins (Joseph) Enos E. Ingraham (Job) and Clara O. Spaulding (Nancy).

The program began with the singing of old songs, with Mrs. Lorna Post Pendleton leading and Mrs. Mary Kallins Post at the piano, including "The Olden Days," "The Whitechapel," of West Medford, Mass., a special guest; the story of the Aros-took War and his father's connection therewith, Jesse A. Tolman; violin selections by Col. F. S. Philbrick, a reading by Frank H. Ingraham, and vocal solos by Mrs. Rollins and Mrs. Pendleton. Mrs. C. E. Babbitt and Mrs. Virginia Read of Alameda, Calif., came from the greatest distance and Miss Read was particularly interested in the family tree and coat of arms, her grandfather having been Isaac Ingraham, who formerly lived at Ingraham Hill, and her mother's maiden name being Alice May Ingraham.

AFTER 49 YEARS

Family Reunion Brings Together Brother and Sister Who Had Not Met Before

One of the most interesting family reunions that has taken place in this city for many years was staged at the home of Mrs. Christine Wiggins, 14 Suffolk street, Thursday evening, when eight brothers and sisters were together for the first time in 49 years. A member who attracted special interest was John Coltart of Richmond, Va., who came to this country from Scotland 49 years ago when Mrs. Wiggins was a newborn babe. Mr. Coltart and Mrs. Wiggins representing the oldest and youngest of the children. Mr. Coltart is now 73 years of age. It was the first time in the 49 years that Mr. Coltart and Mrs. Wiggins had met.

The other brothers and sisters included: Robert Coltart of Lawrence, Mass., Mrs. Lizzie Richards, George Coltart, and Mrs. Clara Rowland, Mrs. Georgia Wright and Mrs. Jane Kinney of Clark Island. Needless to say that conversation waxed busily about reminiscences of the home in Scotland and the intervening years were revived. Mr. Coltart is accompanied by his son James, also of Richmond.

In addition to the families of the brothers and sisters, other guests for the evening included Mr. and Mrs. Boyce and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Fish and daughter and Mr. Fisher of Lawrence, who accompanied Robert Coltart. Luncheon was served and a memorable evening was spent.

A WINNING ESSAY

"Attractions of Maine." Written By Mrs. Ellen Knowles, 83, of Corinna, In Three-Quarter Century Club Contest

One can easily begin to sing the attractions of Maine, but to end the song is quite next to impossible.

When we travel beyond the borders of the State, we frequently learn from strangers important resources and particular attractions that have been unappreciated by us; for instance, my grandson in Willimantic, Conn., wrote home recently about the "Thread Mills" there and told that Maine had furnished the spools for their thread. These spools were manufactured from our beautiful white birch of which there is no prettier tree in our forests, growing usually in family groups of from six to eight straight trees. The unusual bark of these trees gives them the appearance of being dressed for a ball. In nearly all art-stores a desirable picture of these dignified-looking wood's people may be obtained.

Not alone are the forests attractive by the great variety of trees, but equally by the uses to which they are put, for example, The Great Northern Paper Co. can show by movie picture films or by a visit to their mills, the marvelous process whereby a tree cut from the forest is converted into the finest paper upon which you may pen your loveliest love-letters. This same grandson had business with a quarryman and made the remark that there were a few quarries in Maine. "Yes," said he, "the best granite in the world is obtained from Maine."

Then the fur-bearing animals that live in the woods of Maine are attractive to sportsmen. Thousands of moose, deer, and bear are carried out of the State every year.

Not only is Maine attractive to people in all walks of life, but even the little humming-bird wings its way thousands of miles to enjoy the summer days with us. Not less welcome are the numerous other birds that fill our fields and woods with song and melody—Maine's Chief Executive and First Lady are ardent lovers of the recreations of sport associated with the woods and waters of this their home state.

Seabrook is a small lake with its lure for calm waters, fishing and bathing. I met one of a party there recently—I asked him if he had been there long? He said, "Oh, no, we arrived last night just after the shower, and directly after we got here we beheld the most wonderful sight I have ever seen. A beautiful rainbow spanned the heavens, with its shadow almost as vivid as the bow itself, the bow and reflection seemingly about eighty feet apart." Thus even the heavens afforded unusual attractions to welcome these guests.

It is said there are more poets in Maine than any other state. Inspiration is requisite to write a poem. What place so favorable as the mountains, lakes, and streams teeming with life and beauty?

I have been in twenty-four of the United States, and while I saw good things we do not have, I think Maine is equal, if not ahead of any of them in attractive climate and scenic beauty.

Our State University attracts students from all over our country and some foreign lands. A man from India lecturing just after the first snowstorm declared—"It is the most wonderful sight I ever beheld."

Our State is very popular for boys and girls camps. Go where you will summer or winter, you'll never find anything to surpass Maine for a vacation, where you are given a warm welcome, whether you are old friends or new coming for the salt laden sea-air, or the balsam scented pine woods.

There are 2500 miles of sea coast off which are many islands among which you may spend a charming summer living in a yacht or on the land.

It is but three hours flying from Boston to northern Maine, where raising potatoes is such an art that every field of them is like a park. I am sure you would like the trip by plane. I have tried it and would say it is fine. It is inspiring. Try it.

Truly our lines have fallen in pleasant places. Although I have been a life-long resident of Maine; have been to the extreme north, south and west of its borders; camped in the western part of the State; spent weeks at the beautiful inland sea of Sebago, which is connected to another large body of water by the crooked stream made famous by our poet Longfellow; also on an island off the coast of Maine; and a summer and winter at Moosehead Lake; I realize there are many undiscovered, attractive, and interesting beauty spots in this wonderful part of the country, where nothing is lacking to give rest, harmony, and health to all.

The women, too, are noted for their delicious cookery, even to make a cake and make it light, the fire and oven must be just right. Good food is greatly appreciated by our friends who come to share with us the quiet harmony of the unspoiled countryside.

A new and attractive Music Camp has been established here with its Bowl capable of seating 1500 people. We have marveled at the Bowl at Hollywood, but now the dream has come true to make more rhythm and rhyme to echo through the hills and dales of Maine. Theodore Roosevelt wrote of the "delicious nights under a lean-to by stream or lake in clear fall weather."

Fall and winter have greater attractions for some than "the good old summer time." There is truly an allurements about summer and even winter in Maine beyond words to describe.

"The birds in the bowers above And the brooks passing under Are singing together of love In a world full of wonder."

We know that each good gift and perfect, cometh down from the Father above, in whom is no shadow of turning and ever unchanging His Love.

So whenever you come to Maine, come with expectancy of good and you'll find your cup running over with joy.

Thus far I have scarcely touched upon the beauties that year by year are being discovered in Maine, attracting the world at her feet.

Our sure proof that Maine has unusual attractions is, that so many people of wealth and high official rank come year after year at the very opening of such resorts as Poland Spring, and Bar Harbor. Perhaps not as well known is Ogunquit, meaning in the Indian tongue 'a beautiful place by the sea.' At Kennebunk are some of the most beautiful cottages on the Maine coast, at Old Orchard Beach is a splendid sweep of firm white sand. This wonderful Beach is famed the world over. Portland, Maine's largest city, the birthplace of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, rich in historic and natural beauty, and at the head of Casco Bay, is a gateway to the summer lands of Maine—to shore, mountains, lakes and woods. It is famous for its harbor which is filled with sailing craft of all kinds from all lands. Fine roads stretch in many directions, to Sebago Lake, Kezar Lake, and the White Mountains. Surely Maine although at the extreme Northeast corner of the United States is not least among her Sister States.

The Maine line stretches 2486 miles, and it has 1300 wooded islands. The Penobscot River is noted for its unrivaled salmon. Every year the President of the United States is presented with the first salmon caught from its waters. Bath, on the Kennebec, is a center for tourists, twelve miles from Popham Beach and the open sea, it is the new $3,000,000 bridge. Boothbay Harbor is the shopping and social center for many resorts. People who come to Maine lose none of the music by world famed singers and great players that they enjoyed in their home cities for they come along too.

As I write, the attractions of Maine multiply in thought until a volume would be necessary to write briefly of them all. I give it up. "Seek and ye shall find."

THE FRENCH ARMY

In reply to a questionnaire on armaments sent to the nations by the League of Nations the French government replied that the army of France has been reduced to a minimum compatible with security.

The French army, said the memorandum sent as a reply, has been cut from 810,000 men in 1913 to 317,000 at present. France will not augment her military expenditures, the memorandum stated, but on the contrary she will do her utmost to reduce them. Her present army constitutes "only a sufficient force to guarantee security—another guarantee in favor of European peace."

THE REALM OF MUSIC

Gladys St. Clair Morgan

A letter from our good friend "Boze" reads: "Have just read your article regarding Sigurd Nilssen in the 'Realm of Music' column. We used to listen to him on the 'Capitol Family' hour in 1926 and enjoyed his singing very much. His picture is in the Family group. Camden and vicinity are to be congratulated in that he is to sing for this summer."

Mr. Nilssen is to be one of the soloists in the third Camden concert. "Boze" will be interested to learn that he is to be at the Capitol Theatre in New York the latter part of August—I think his engagement there starts the week of Aug. 25.

Speaking of the Camden concerts, Frank Bibb who directs this outstanding summer activity has announced the artists for the three concerts Aug. 11, Aug. 25 and Sept. 8.

Aug. 11. Leon Kalroff, dramatic baritone, an artist pupil at the David Mannes School in New York. He has a voice of great beauty and an extensive repertoire which includes music of Italy, France, Germany, Russia, etc. He has made a special study of character ditties and folk-lore. With him will appear Frank Sheridan, pianist, a member of the faculty of the David Mannes School. He is considered as one of the most brilliant young pianists of America, his progress being watched with avid interest by the critics. He has made many appearances, and within the past years has toured in Europe with marked success for several months.

Aug. 25. Nils Falkman, a dramatic tenor, a native of Gothenburg, Sweden, whose home has been in Baltimore for some years. While his knowledge of the music of his native land is extensive, his general repertoire is very elastic. He is training for the operatic stage as he appears to be splendidly equipped for such a career. With him will appear Giulia Donelli also of Baltimore whom Mr. Bibb acclaims as a positive find. While she is termed as a lyric coloratura, the astonishing range and volume of her voice harks back to the days of Melba, and others of that period. She sings high F with utmost ease, and the intricacies of florid music seem to have no terror for her. Mr. Falkman and Miss Donelli plan to present the "Miserere" scene from "Il Trovatore." The instrumentalists of this concert will be Lucille Lawrence, harpist, who in private life is the wife of Carlos Salzedo, head of the Harp Department at the Curtis Institute of Music of Philadelphia. Miss Lawrence herself is a brilliant artist and her contributions to the program will be hailed with interest.

For the third and last concert, Sept. 8. Sigurd Nilssen, baritone, of whom we have already spoken and who has been heard in Camden, will be assisted by Louise Bernhardt of the Chicago Opera Co. Miss Bernhardt has been a pupil of H. Wellington Smith of Boston and New York and coached in Camden last summer with Mr. Bibb. She gave a New York recital last winter with Mr. Bibb at the piano. She won the Naumberg Foundation prize one year and in June last was awarded the prize presented by the National Federation of Music Clubs. She has recently been made a member of the Chicago Opera Co.

Mr. Bibb is having some interesting pupils come to Camden, among them being Emma Baum a 21-year-old Baltimore girl who possesses an amazing voice. He tells us that Earl Lippy who made such a favorable impression in Camden and in the McLaughlin concert in Rockland is making tremendous strides in his work. Among his recent successes was winning the prize for men's voices at the National Federation of Music Clubs biennial convention in San Francisco in June. He may possibly come to Camden later in the season.

Mr. Bibb also says that Nathalie Hall, the very pretty singer he presented in one of his earlier concerts in Camden, is forging ahead in a most encouraging way. Her forte then seemed musical comedy and in this she has met with marked success. She established quite a record in "Three Little Maids," in which she played 54 weeks without missing a performance. Her equally charming sister, Bettina, is also meeting with success in musical comedy, "Meet My Sister" being outstanding.

Harold Hansen, tenor, who was one of the first soloists in the Camden summer series, and still coaching with Mr. Bibb, has been one of the few New York artists who has had assured work during the music depression. He has been featured artist on the Arco Hour for several months where his work has been received with acclaim by the invisible audiences. He is drawing a handsome income from radio work alone.

The gay and charming Maurice Chevalier is soon to come to Strand Theatre in the equally gay and charming "The Smiling Lieutenant." It is said to be grand entertainment, the kind that t. m. c. (tired movie critics) and discriminating picture-goers revel in. Ernest Lubitsch whose continental soul relishes such a directing job as this, has injected all sorts of delightful and intriguing touches into this film and there is never a dull moment. Maurice himself has never been more appealing. He smiles and sings and makes love with his usual engaging charm. And when he sings "Rat-a-tat-tat" in the "That's the Army" number, all the magic of the Chevalier personality is revealed. Let's go!

A card from Manuel Bernard reads: "Events have moved so fast in the past month that I hardly know how they all could take place. Four weeks ago today I was on the high seas somewhere near Europe. Today is just a week that I'm in Bar Harbor. Coincidentally I'm playing in the same hotel where I started my musical career 12 years ago, and it's thrilling to be back. I am with two boys who are exceedingly fine musicians—Wotan Zoellner violinist, and Stuart Moore, 'cellist. Am enclosing one of the programs of the Malvern Concert Trio (we are at the Malvern Hotel)."

"London's deepest and earliest concert hall," so the Christian Science Monitor tells us, "lies 42 feet under the Thames and extends for nearly a third of a mile. There is rarely an audience, and the artists are a group of ten cabmen from the Midlands, who because it is natural for them to sing, have formed unofficially what may be called the Tube Male Voice Choir. Its voice is fading; 'tis but a whisper,
It cannot remember the old songs.

Poor harpsichord, alas long since forgotten,

Once more, as if awakened from slumber
The voice of loved ones heard long, long ago.

WILD DUCKS DECREASED

Because of Drought Conditions In Recent Years—Shorter Shooting Seasons

Drought conditions during recent years have caused a serious decrease in the numbers of wild ducks, the U. S. Biological Survey announces.

Preliminary investigations of the survey indicate this year's wildfowl hatch will be the smallest on record. Game birds of North America are confronted with the most serious situation in U. S. history, biological survey officials contend.

Shorter shooting seasons and other restrictions to reduce the kill of waterfowl this year have been authorized by Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture, in an effort to conserve the supply of game birds.

There's magic in saving systematically

The rapidity with which money accumulates through a systematic plan of saving seems like magic to the uninitiated. Small deposits, made with strict regularity, grow to a worthwhile sum almost before one realizes that the money has been saved. Then, too, the feeling of contentment and security that goes with having money in the bank will be a welcome experience to those who have been living from day to day with no preparation for the future. Apply the magic of systematic saving to your own life. See how much happier you are with a few hundred dollars ahead instead of being constantly that much behind. Start today to save regularly.
