Can The Leopard Change His Spots?

In 1912

Warren G. Harding, through his newspaper, the Marion (O.) Star, vilified Theodore Roosevelt. He said:

"In seeking a prototype for Col. Roosevelt among American public men, one finds the closest resemblance to Aaron Burr."

"Benedict Arnold is more like Roosevelt for he won his country's plunders and turned traitor."

In 1920

Warren G. Harding, reactionary of reactionaries is preaching the same doctrine he preached in 1912. He is trying to take the lead in the split up the Republican party, and declared war on progress.
