Have you balanced your budget?

In these days of lowered incomes it is more than ever necessary to make expenses fit incomes. Business firms, municipalities, states, and even the government of the country are trimming expenses to fit their incomes. . . . Balancing their budgets.

What about your own case? Does your income balance your outgo? It should, with a little income left over to put into a reserve fund each week or month.

As a means of accumulating and safely keeping a reserve fund we recommend a savings account at this bank.

You may start with $1.00 and make deposits on any schedule that suits your convenience.

DELEGATES CHOSEN

A. H. Guphill and William Bunker To Accept Cement Company Trophy

The safety trophies which are awarded by the Portland Cement Association, are the largest in the world, weighing approximately 6,000 pounds, and requiring a whole flat car for shipment of one from Chicago to Thomaston.

To officially accept this trophy, two delegates are to be sent from the Thomaston plant to the Association meeting which will be held in New York, May 31, June 1 and 2. Albert H. Guphill, chief of safety police during the year of 1931, will be one of the delegates. For the purpose of making a fair selection of the other delegate, it was decided that the matter go to a vote of the entire plant. A nominating committee of five workmen met for this purpose. The necessary qualifications of the other man to officially accept this trophy for the company was brought to their attention, and three names of workmen were presented as nominees.

A campaign mass meeting was held, at which these three nominees told their fellow workmen why they felt they should be elected for this mission. Votes were cast by the Australian ballot, the entire personnel being privileged to vote. William Bunker of the electrical department won the election. He has worked for this company nearly two years and during this time has been a conscientious safety worker. The delegates will be expected to bring back to their fellows a comprehensive and full report of the proceedings at New York.

Fuller-Cobb-Davis Observes

President's Anniversary—Green Stamps Adopted

An epoch marking event was Saturday's celebration of President Peterson's anniversary at the Fuller-Cobb-Davis store. In recognition of this first milestone of the new order, a store-wide sales event of unprecedented scope has been in preparation for several weeks. The announcement of so drastic a downward revision of prices in this great store was made as an almost complete surprise in the Thursday issue of The Courier-Gazette. President Peterson, utilizing several pages for the purpose.

Saturday dawned fair and clear for the event and all day and evening the augmented sales force was working at top speed to serve the eager throng. When accounts were tallied it was found to have been the second largest day in the long history of the institution. President Peterson is thoroughly appreciative of the response of the public and their faith in Fuller-Cobb-Davis. The anniversary sale will continue all this week.

A radical new departure for this fine old store is the adoption of the trading stamp principle. When interviewed about this discount system President Peterson made the following statement: "It has always been our policy to give highest values at most reasonable prices, and when considering the present state of national depression we have decided as a substantial recognition of patronage to give our customers a little more in the form of value-plus, and to this end we have entered into a long term contract with the Sperry & Hutchinson Company to issue their 38 year old S. & H. Green Discount Stamp."

"We feel safe in saying that the combination of our original low prices and the added generous discount guaranteed by S. & H. green stamps will make it possible for the shoppers of Rockland and vicinity to effect large savings on everything they buy at our store. "For the convenience of our patrons we have by special arrangement with the Sperry & Hutchinson Company installed on the main floor of our store a premium station where their filled stamp books may be redeemed in a selection from a wide range of desirable merchandise of household necessity and luxury, all of which are products of manufacturers of national repute."

A NOVEL RUBINSTEIN PROGRAM

Setting Forth Achievements of Former Rockland Musicians—Some Heard "By Letter"

One of the most novel programs ever undertaken by the Rubinstein Club was presented Friday evening under the direction of Mrs. Gladys St. C. Morgan, who had as her subject "Favorites of Our Own Musicians." It served not only to set forth the achievements of home musicians no longer located in Rockland, but to display a wealth of talent from the club in illustration. Mrs. Morgan had obtained letters and personal messages from these "boys and girls" who had gone out into the field of music, which with a resume of their musical studies and activities, prefaced the selections chosen by them as "favorites" and used as the program proper.

In the introduction Mrs. Morgan paid tribute to the many notable musicians Rockland and the neighborhood have produced, explaining that she was adhering to Rockland, with one exception, as to cover the complete list would create material too bulky for one program. The exception was Harris Stackpole Shaw of Thomaston who in the past has been so closely associated with Rockland that he seems a part. These musicians were represented: Carrie Burpee Shaw, pianist, teacher and composer; Emma Burpee Wright, pianist, organist and teacher; Alice Shaw Farber, pianist, composer, accompanist, all of East Orange, N. J.; Dorothy Bird Snow, contralto, Miami, Fla.; Nettie Green Kittredge, soprano, Freeport, Long Island, N. Y.; Manuel Bernard, concert pianist, New York city; Helen Cooper Lord, pianist, composer and composer; Washington, D. C.; Alice Flisk, organist, pianist, composer, Howard, R. I.; Ogarita Rose Rugg, soprano, Jackson Heights, Long Island, N. Y.; Eleanor Cote Howard, soprano, New York; Mildred Clark Emerson, soprano and teacher, New York; Evelyn Jeanne Vogel, dramatic soprano, New York; Kitty McLaughlin, dramatic soprano, New York.

lin, dramatic soprano, New York. Harris Stackpole Shaw, pianist, organist and teacher, Boston; Cecil Copping, instrumentalist and composer, West Los Angeles, Calif.; and Louise Bickford (Luigia Franceschi) Milano, Italy. The program, comprising "favorite" selections of these, was:

Helen Wentworth, soprano
Songs—Ave Maria (for Kitty McLaughlin) Kitty McLaughlin
Good-Bye, Summer (for Kitty McLaughlin) Kitty McLaughlin
Piano—Largo from "New World Symphony" (for Kitty McLaughlin) Kitty McLaughlin
Piano—Liebestraum (for Cecil Copping) Cecil Copping
Orchestra—Heave Ho! Day Dreams
Old Man Grouch (Comedy Dialogue) original compositions of Mr. Copping
Thomaston Symphony Orchestra
Accompaniments were played by Mrs. Averill, Marshall Bradford, Mrs. Hayden, Mrs. Sanborn, Mrs. Bowdoin Pendleton, Miss Gregory and Mrs. Berry.

An expression of appreciation is made to Mrs. Strong who is not a member of the club and whose playing was one of the "high lights" of the exceptionally fine program. Also to the Thomaston Symphony Orchestra, which assembled its forces to present the delightful composition by Mr. Copping which were enthusiastically received. The members of this orchestra, of which any town may well be proud, are: First violins, A. R. Marsh, Gabriel Winchenbaugh; second violins, Phyllis Belasco, Virginia Walker and Margaret McMillan; violas, Ralph Davis, bass, Herbert Everett; flute, Ray Newton; clarinet, Joseph Paquin; saxophones, Aaron A. Clark and Edgar Ames; cornets, Charles S. Montgomery and Frank Young; horns, Edward Hayes, Ansel Wooster; trombone, Emma Harvie; baritone, Charles Robinson; drums, Levi Flint; piano, Vera Robinson; director, Luther A. Clark.

The program was of particular interest to those who have been associated in music with these former Rockland "boys and girls" in the home, the relatives or "home-folks" who were present as honor guests, including Mrs. Leola Rose, Mrs. Damie Landers, Mrs. Annie Simmons, Mrs. Harry Cohen, Miss Sylvia Cohen, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. George McLaughlin, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Fales, Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Bickford, Mrs. Lillian S. Copping, Mrs. Etta Covel, Mrs. Carrie Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Emery, Mrs. D. B. Phelan, Mrs. Helen Dalzell Perry. There were many other guests, as the meeting was in the form of a "guest day."

The attractive vestry was further enhanced by potted plants, roses and snapdragons, in spring colors, with a colorful Spanish shawl draped over the piano. Mrs. Wentworth had charge of decorations. Several pictures of the musicians represented were displayed. Mrs. Lydia Storey, vice president, presided in the absence of Mrs. Hazel Atwood, president. This was the final meeting of the season.

BACK FROM WASHINGTON

Rockland Students Climbed Everything Climbable and Saw Everything Seable

Tired, happy and more or less sunburned, the Washington trippers made the home port at 7.30 Saturday evening, hardly able to believe that less than eight days had elapsed since they set out on their travels.

This year, for the first time, illness marred somewhat the pleasure of the trip. Fred Harden's attack of indigestion, though rather serious at the time, was soon over and he missed only the bus ride in Philadelphia and the visit to the Congressional Library. Byron Joy, however is still at the Walnut Hill hospital in Arlington, Ill with pneumonia. His mother arrived there Saturday to be with him and Richard Knowlton remained in Arlington to assist her.

Perfect weather marked the entire occasion. Special observance of the Washington bi-centennial was in evidence on the visit to Mount Vernon and Alexandria. Francis Fisher was convinced that the canopy over the famous Washington bed was intended as a safeguard from leaks in the roof. Everyone was thrilled by the midshipmen drilling at Annapolis. As usual the party climbed the Washington monument, some even being energetic enough to walk both up and down. In addition the party this year climbed the dome of the capitol.

Other structures which were voted of special interest were the Pan-American building, the Congressional Library and the Empire State building in New York. The lights of Broadway fascinated the party, especially the huge electric advertising signs which turned night into day. A trip to Chinatown and a performance of "Face the Music" marked the visit to the metropolis. Saxon Lurvey was seriously concerned at the sight of the new "engine-less" automobiles and Merton Haskell could scarcely be restrained from an investigation of every new gadget and contraption which came to his attention.

Owing to a very natural misunderstanding as to which side of the river they were to depart from, three of the girls who were calling on relatives made the train by the last possible ferry with a little less than a minute to spare, which added one more thrill to the excitement of New York. Otherwise everything connected with the routing of the party went as smooth as clock work. The pupils showed the same splendid spirit that characterized the group that made the trip last year winning compliments from head waiters, bus drivers and hotel proprietors alike for their orderly and courteous behavior.

ONE YEAR OLD NOW

And Scribblers' Club Takes Its Place Among Noted Local Organizations

Mrs. Mildred Perry Putnam's beautiful Colonial home in Camden was the scene of a very happy meeting of the Scribblers' Club Monday evening when the organization celebrated its first birthday. The dinner table was festive with its gleaming silver, snowy linen and spring flowers, candle light adding to the beauty of the service. Covers were laid for 17. A birthday cake, iced, and decorated with one candle, was an added attraction. After dinner the members adjourned to the spacious living room, with its soft lights and firelight, where the formal program of the evening opened. Mrs. Blanche Ellsworth's song "When Summer Comes to Maine Again," which has attracted favorable attention from the radio audience, was sung by Mrs. Vivian Hewett with Mrs. Jessie Carswell at the piano.

The Scribblers' Club was organized April 30, 1931, at the home of Mrs. Irene Moran in Rockland. The six charter members present were: Mrs. Harriet Dwinall and Mrs. Mildred P. Putnam of Camden; Mrs. Blanche H. Ellsworth and Mrs. Edna Robbins of Rockport; Mrs. Moran and Mrs. Orissa Merritt, of Rockland. The club was organized to embrace membership from Knox County for the purpose of the study of poetry and creative writing. The officers elected were: President, Mrs. Moran; vice president, Mrs. Ellsworth; secretary, Mrs. Robbins; executive committee, Mrs. Putnam, Mrs. Dwinall and Mrs. Merritt.

In a short time the club had doubled its membership, and at a late summer meeting it was voted to limit the membership to a score. During the summer of 1931 the club was privileged to enjoy the fellowship of Florence Liley Young of Jamaica Plain, Mass., illustrator of children's stories; but before the year drew to a close Mrs. Young's sudden death brought sorrow to all members.

No one who had not previously published was eligible to the club, and from time to time throughout the year members' names have appeared in periodicals, poetry journals and the press. Since February a monthly series of contests has been in operation with awards given by Charles Parker of Medford, Mass., honorary member of the Club who was present for this birthday meeting and spoke at some length from the viewpoint of an editor, and offered criticism and concrete suggestions for improvements at the writers' round table following his talk.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Orissa Merritt, 104 Pleasant street, Monday, May 23, at 2 o'clock.

POPPY DAY DESIGNATED

Legion Auxiliary Units Will Sell Red Paper Emblem Saturday, May 23

Saturday, May 23, will be observed as Poppy Day by most of the 94 units of the Legion Auxiliary in Maine, and many will also sell the red paper Legion emblem on Memorial Day. These poppies were manufactured by disabled World War Veterans at Tugus at the Auxiliary poppy shop who received $2000 for making about 200,000 poppies. Many of these men are without compensation and this is the only means they have of making money. As 25,000 World War veterans died during the past year, as they are breaking down nervously and mentally, throughout the United States faster than hospitals can be built for them, and as there is much unemployment, the need of money from sales of poppies for welfare work is greater than ever.

W. H. BUTLER.

In all thy ways acknowledge Him and He shall direct thy paths.—Prov. 3:6.

When the clocks were turned ahead one hour Sunday morning 35,000,000 Americans, located in 15 States, became subjects to the system of summer time, known as daylight saving, and almost unanimously in effect in New York and its environs and a good section of New England. That "fast time" is not indigenous to Eastern United States may be judged from the fact that it was already in vogue early this month in six European countries which have an aggregate population of 187,000,000 people, while 53 Canadian communities embracing 3,000,000 inhabitants, will come under the system next Sunday. The workings of the plan have done much to dissipate the prejudice against it, although the system is quite naturally still in disfavor among those who are inconvenienced thereby. On the eve of the change this season the Boston Transcript editorially said:

Daylight-saving time with its deposits in the bank of health and happiness begins at 2 a. m. Sunday, April 24. As conditions are revealed in a survey made by the Merchants Association of New York city, the new time will be in effect in towns and cities of fifteen States, including Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New Jersey in which the system is State-wide. Foreign countries in the lists of the daylight savers are France, Portugal, Belgium, Great Britain, Holland and Canada.

Little is heard now about efforts to prevent the adoption of daylight-saving time. Public sentiment in support of the changing of the clock was too strong. It could not be overcome by the process of putting teeth in anti-daylight-saving laws. Maine towns and cities now choose for themselves whether they will have standard or daylight time. This year, the City Councils of Portland and Bangor have proclaimed the latter. Other towns and cities will do likewise. They are no longer bothered by legal restrictions. A year ago, it was necessary to resort to the accustomed methods of getting around the law at the beginning of the season because the new enactment did not take effect until July. Maine's experience may be taken as indicative of the trend of opinion in many other States. Some of them would do well to follow the example of Maine, and abandon attempts to outlaw that which the people are determined to enjoy.

In some parts of Maine where new road construction is to be indulged in this year the highway is to be widened by making use of the space formerly occupied by street railway tracks, and this calls to mind what a splendid opportunity we have here in Knox County, particularly between Rockland and Thomaston. But before we engage in this luxury it will be the preference of most motorists to have a decent road built between Warren and Woolwich, lack of which is just now a great handicap against getting tourists into this section of the State.

Depressionists have been studying the motor car statistics and find that there were 731,178 fewer motor vehicles on the highways of the United States last year than there were in the preceding year, and this is attributed to leaner pocketbooks. But the same statistics show a registration increase in Maine, so, inversely, it must be that there were fatter pocketbooks in Maine.

Anti-prohibitionists will not have an easy time answering some of the arguments set forth by Mr. Cline of St. Louis in his letter which appears

ON PREPAREDNESS

Matinicus Man Thinks Stupid Should Suffer, But Not At Innocent's Expense

Matinicus, April 19.

It seems to me that the question of preparedness is of far more serious import than many are aware of, and that thinking people should embrace every opportunity to agitate the matter, and to strive to make clear and drive home the urgent need of an adequate Navy and Army. It is my belief that a great deal of this disarmament stuff is insidious propaganda instigated by certain foreign nations which would like to keep this country in a state of unpreparedness just in case—and there is no question but that the seed has fallen on fertile soil—the American people are such gullible fools.

Passing over those indifferent ones who are neither for or against—give the matter no thought—there are the actual, active opponents of preparedness, with whom we have to contend. These are of several classes. There are the falsely economical ones, who fail to realize that real economy lies in keeping ready and fit. There are those who think that no other nation would care to trouble us, and others who claim that no other nation would dare to trouble us.

Of course, while our opinions do not coincide with the opinions of these people, we are still able to understand their point of view. However, there is still another class, far more dangerous, and not easy to comprehend. They are supposedly intelligent, and especially during recent years, and yet these people ardently advocate "disarming" because war is "cruel" and "wicked" and "because we ought to set a good example to the other nations." Ye gods! It does not seem possible, but they are serious and are a real menace to the country.

It is a difficult undertaking to reason with such persons. There must be something fundamentally wrong with them.

If, when the time shall come, these "pacifists" could be made to suffer exclusively, the consequences of their folly, the question of preparedness or unpreparedness would leave me cold. Unfortunately, matters cannot be so regulated. The foresighted and thinking ones, as well as the innocents, will be made to suffer with, for and by the stupid ones. And there you are. Well, here's hoping.

C. A. E. Long.

[The above letter was written to a prominent official of the Woman's Educational Club who turned it over to this newspaper as well worthy of publication.—Ed.]

on another page. That applause about prohibition being responsible for the kidnapping of the Lindbergh baby is well answered. Was high license responsible for the kidnapping of Charlie Ross?

Residents of Richmond complained of the noise made by locomotive whistles and the Public Utilities Commission has ordered that the whistling be discontinued at certain streets. At the present rate of evolution it is barely possible that nobody will be disturbed by locomotive sounds a few years hence.

It is fair to assume that some of the dripping wetness of New Jersey overflowed into the neighbor State of Delaware, yet the Republican convention in Delaware defeated a platform providing for a referendum on prohibition. The vote was close, to be sure, but the dries triumphed.

"CHIEF" WYNN MAKES HIS BOW

Texaco's Famous New Gasoline With Sensational Radio Cast Goes On Air Tonight Over Nation-wide Hookup

Texaco will come roaring into its own tonight when its great new Fire Chief gas goes onto the air over 50 radio stations in a national hookup with sirens screaming, mighty motors thundering and one of the greatest arrays of radio celebrities ever gathered.

This announcement calls to mind the local Texaco Fire Chief bow as staged by John H. McLoon. This young man makes no pretence of being the world's premier showman but he certainly did make everybody Fire Chief minded that particular day. With cleverly arranged ads he ered in one program. The feature will be broadcast every Tuesday night at 9:30 to 10 o'clock, daylight time, with WEEL, WCSH, WEAF and WGY as some of the local favorites in the hookup.

Ed Wynn as the "Chief" will lead this greatest show on the air. He is admittedly the greatest showman of his time and this will constitute his radio debut. Associated with the great comedian is Don Voorhes with a 35 piece Texaco Fire Chief band with the added feature of eight perfectly attuned male voices set for solos, duets, quartets and octets. Graham McNamee will handle the Fire Chief sales talk.

sowed the seeds in the columns of The Courier-Gazette. The result was a great throng of eager youngsters awaiting the arrival of the fire chief hats. Chief Petee was on hand with his red car and Engine 1 came thundering down to the McLoon headquarters to add realism. When several hundred of the hats had been distributed and congestion so dense that Main street traffic was practically suspended a parade was started including the apparatus, several of the McLoon trucks and many private cars. Meantime the excited children having their first ride on the "chemical" were vying with the sirens in leu of a band.

STRAND THEATRE

"Girl Crazy," coming for Thursday and Friday, tells the story of a playboy, Eddie Quillan, who is sent to supposed isolation on a ranch because he is girl crazy. However, he chases the cows and bulls off the place and substitutes a bevy of pretty girls and invites his friends.

Wheeler and Woolsey make the most of this rich field for comedy and soon turn this dude ranch into the focal point for some of the funniest comedy situations of their careers.

The picture is especially fortunate in the strength and capability of its supporting cast. Dorothy Lee, inseparable with the starring combination, is cast as a Western girl. Other favorites are Mitzie Green, who provides much of the fun by her impersonations of famous screen luminaries.—adv.

DISTRICT MEETING

Legionnaires From Three Counties Attend Live Session In Thomaston

The district meeting of American Legion Posts from Knox, Lincoln and Sagadahoc Counties attracted 175 of the ex-service boys to Thomaston Thursday night. After "stowing" away the excellent supper, provided by the Thomaston Auxiliary they listened with much interest while Stanley C. Boynton gave some incidents of his speech making flight across the continent, and E. C. Moran Jr. discussed national political issues.

Reports were received from each Post in the district, and these showed a gratifying membership and numerous Legion activities.

Mr. Moran said in part:

E. C. Moran Jr. spoke on "Our Present Economic Situation," saying in part: "In the field of Federal finance we have been running wild. We now have over a million persons on the Federal payroll; one out of every one hundred eighteen persons in this country is on the Federal pay list. Our Federal salary expense alone totals $1,300,000,000 annually. As a result of this tremendously expensive Federal Government we find ourselves now in great difficulty. During the last fiscal year our Federal Government spent 903 million dollars more than it took in, and the deficit for the current fiscal year has been officially estimated to exceed two billions of dollars. Every single day nowadays our Federal Government is spending $7,800,000 more than its income.

"This situation must be met; the budget must be balanced. The only methods are (1) increase revenue, which means more taxation; or (2) reduce expenditures, or a combination of both. The present Congress is about to pass a bill to levy upon the people an additional tax of over a billion dollars.

"This terrific burden of taxation is one of the prime causes of our present economic condition. The American people cannot afford and do not desire a four billion dollar Federal Government. The country must have confidence that the credit and stability of the Federal Government will be maintained by drastic economy in expenditure and by restriction of issue of Federal securities.

"To my mind the proper way to balance the budget is not principally by increased taxation; it should be principally by reduced expenditures. How can that be accomplished? First, we must get a new concept of our Federal Government. Let us get back to the Constitution and to home rule. No political appointee in Washington can govern us half as well as we can govern ourselves locally. Let us take away from the Federal Government the hundreds of activities that never should have been placed there in the first place, and restore these rights to the States, thereby eliminating the countless boards, bureaus and commissions now performing these unnecessary functions. This alone will save many millions of dollars. Second, we citizens must stop signing every petition that comes along to urge the Federal Government to spend more money. Instead, let us write our Senators and Congressmen and tell them that we want expenses reduced. We cannot continue our present illogical attitude of demanding both increased expenditures and reduced taxes.

"We can best contribute to the stability of the world as a whole by devoting ourselves to our own internal economy. The government cannot create wealth. It seldom can cure economic ills except in one way. It can cease placing unnecessary burdens on industry and the community, and it can cease drawing from the veins of the people by incessant and unjust taxation.

"In the midst of our chaotic financial condition we hear voices raised clamoring that we should cancel the foreign debts due us. The misguided advocates of such a policy do not seem to realize that every dollar we take off these debts we place on the backs of the American taxpayer. Our Government owes this money to its own people, and is today paying huge sums of interest on the money it borrowed to loan to governments abroad. By a debt funding arrangement we have already cancelled about all the debts those foreign nations contracted during the war; about all we ask them to pay is debts they contracted after the Armistice. The American tax payer can't afford to pay this, and there is no reason why he should. My position is that, especially since these same foreign nations continue piling up large armaments and great standing armies, I want them to pay back every single dollar that rightfully belongs to the American people. In conclusion, let me express my confidence that the American Legion is worthy of the implicit faith and trust of the American people. America needs no fear of the American Legion."

PARK THEATRE

Will Rogers makes his initial bow on the Park Theatre screen Wednesday and Thursday in defense of the American "Babbitt." His newest starring vehicle is "Business and Pleasure," adapted from the best selling novel, "The Plutocrat," by Booth Tarkington.

Rogers, in the role of Earl Tinker, Middle West razor blade manufacturer, goes on a Mediterranean cruise with his wife and daughter. Incidentally, he has a business scheme in mind, and also is anxious to get his daughter away from an unhappy love affair at home. Aboard the cruise steamer is a sophisticated Broadway playwright and an equally snobbish artist friend who sneer at the crudities of the typical middle westerner, blinding themselves to his many good qualities.

In Algiers, the playwright and Tinker's daughter discover they have very much in common. His suddenly aroused interest, however, gets a jolt when a cablegram informs him his play has "flopped" and he is broke. The climax is reached when Rogers is captured by Arabs who are about to engage in a tribal war. How he averts personal catastrophe, averts the war, and reunites his family is one of the most amusing situations yet seen in a Rogers picture.—adv.

Walter W. Morse, the well known Portland insurance magnate, was in the city last week and to brother Lions, at least, cared to discuss little else than the annual convention of the 41st district, which is to be held in Portland June 2 and 3. The fact that Mr. Morse is general chairman goes to show that the affair is going to be on a big scale.

Back in the kerosene lamp days winter meant long months of back-breaking furnace tending. From the moment the old-fashioned fuel clattered noisily down the chute amid a cloud of dust, until late spring you were a slave to the manually operated heating plant.

Now, thanks to modern fuel and engineering skill, your home may be efficiently and economically heated without soot or smoke—free from dirt and ashes—at a uniform healthful temperature—with clean, convenient Easternoil heat—that is noiseless and automatic. Even the fuel delivery is noiseless—and it leaves no dirt or dust behind. No kindlings to split—no fires to light—no ashes to haul—no coal to shovel. The Easternoil never forgets to give you just the amount of heat you require. It is built to remember. Automatic oil heat is the modern method of home comfort. It completely eliminates all work and worry forever and saves you money each day it operates. The proper model Easternoil can be quickly and easily installed in all types of heating plants, even in midwinter, without inconvenience to the home owner.

THE EASTERN OIL is the product of a corporation with over ten years experience in oil equipment. Easternoil burners are rendering efficient service in homes from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Laboratory Tested The listing by the engineering department of the Underwriters after severe tests is evidence that the Easternoil burner meets the high standards of this exacting body.

TALK OF THE TOWN

COMING NEIGHBORHOOD EVENTS
April 26—Annual meeting of the Rockland Garden Club.
April 27—The wedding of Jake and Lena, repeated at the Methodist Church.
April 28—Commander Donald B. MacMillan lectures at Congregational Church.
April 28—Camden—Annual ladies' night of Business Men's Association.
April 29—Camden—C. H. S. senior play, "Meet Aunt Sally."

WEATHER

It was a decidedly chilly weekend in spite of brilliant sunshine, with cold March-like winds sweeping down from the northwest. The ground froze Sunday night but the spring flowers which are making some Rockland lawns so attractive did not seem discouraged, and jonquils and hyacinths are now seen amid the crocuses and snowdrops. The series of fair days ended yesterday with dropping barometer, cloudy skies and rain in the evening; noon temperature was 52. Today is somewhat warmer, 45 at 8 o'clock, wind east with showers in prospect. Tomorrow will probably be cloudy.

Mother's Day is May 8.

Continuous show today, 2 to 10 at the Strand with Marie Dressler in "Emma."

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Allen have bought the Maxey Filling station in Thomaston.

"The Wedding of Jake and Lena" will be repeated Wednesday night at the Methodist vestry.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Barbour have taken the apartment at 58 Warren street and expect to move there this week.

The sound of the hammer and the saw is welcome on Main street where W. H. Glover & Co. are adding another story to Stonington Furniture Co. block.

Thousands of guesses are pouring into the Stamp Lady contest being held at Fuller-Cobb-Davis, the guesses' ideas ranging from 400 to 2,000,000.

Cedric French who has completed his studies at Bryant & Stratton's Business College arrived home Friday and has entered the employ of the Fireproof Garage in a clerical position.

Lloyd Clark, Jr., has been elected a member of the Junior Honorary Society at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. This is a distinct honor since the Society has only 25 students. Mr. Clark is establishing an enviable record in scholastic standing.

Carl E. Fredrickson, who has been pastor's assistant and choir director at the First Baptist Church during the season went to Brockton, Mass., yesterday where after a visit with his parents he will enter evangelistic work, probably in Massachusetts.

Marie Dressler's popularity with Knox County picture patrons was seen last night in the crowd which besieged Strand Theatre where she is appearing the first three days this week in "Emma"—a drama in which mirth and tragedy struggle for supremacy. Marie Dressler at her best.

Members of the Garden Club have a treat in store for them this afternoon at the monthly meeting at 2:30 in the Thorndike grill when Edward D. Johnson, landscape gardener for Silsby's Flower Shop, will give a talk on "Beautifying the Home Grounds." Mrs. Helen Wentworth will sing. This will also be the annual meeting.

Huntley-Hill Post, V.F.W., met Sunday night at the City Council rooms with good attendance. Comrade Sizemore was elected chaplain. Formal institution of this post will be held May 8 at 2 p. m., probably with degree team from Lewiston, and State officials present. Tickets for the Post prize ball May 4 are selling well, and may be obtained from any member.

The annual children's circle of the Congregational Church will take place tomorrow night at 6.15, with this committee in charge: Mrs. Charles G. Hewett, chairman, Mrs. E. C. Moran Jr., Mrs. A. J. Murray, Mrs. Harold Green, Mrs. Kenneth Spear, Mrs. Chauncey Keene, Mrs. Rhama Philbrick, Mrs. Archie Bowley, Mrs. Austin Sherman, Mrs. Ralph Smith, Mrs. Eugene Lamb, Mrs. Henry Simmons, Mrs. F. Seymour Cameron, Mrs. Earl Perry and Mrs. David Beach.

Those who are interested in local industries should make it a point to inspect the farm operated at The Highlands by Frank W. Kimball, where among the most recent projects is a piggery 18x25 feet, built on modern recommendations, with individual stalls. The floors are cleaned by hose and fresh bedding provided every day. At present there are 60 hogs and 130 pigs, with 10 hogs due to farrow within a few days. The pigs, which average about seven to a litter, are kept until about four weeks old, then are ready to sell. They are kept in the pink of condition and only first-class graded pigs are put on the market. Those which do not measure up to required standards are fattened for the market. Mr. Kimball also carries on an extensive poultry business, having at present 650 chickens. These also receive first-class care. Oxen, steers and cows complete his livestock. The cleanliness and excellent condition of his barns and stock make favorable impression on visitors.

A rummage sale will be held Saturday, Universalist vestry. Leave contributions at vestry Friday or phone 94-M.—PRADV.

Let People's Laundry help with your house cleaning. Send them your quilts, rugs, blankets, pillows and curtains. Phone 170. 49-51

We are still doing business at the same old stand—ready to do your lawn mower sharpening as usual. New low price $1 per. We will occupy our new quarters early in June. R. B. Magune, 700 Main street, City. Phone 315-W. 50-T-56

Additional seating space for patrons has been secured at Paramount Restaurant through rearrangement of fixtures and tables.

Thomas E. Libby of Vinalhaven who is well known in this city is at the City Hospital, Newtonville, Mass., suffering from an ill turn.

Charles Gould is on a two weeks' cruise with the Naval Reserve with land station for fleet operations at Cape Elizabeth, in his capacity as wireless operator.

Local interest is keen in the outcome of today's primary election in Massachusetts—inspired doubtless by the many radio broadcasts and newspaper articles.

Fales Circle meets tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at Grand Army hall. Public supper at 6 will be served under the supervision of Mrs. Susie Newbert and Mrs. Mary Rogers.

District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler A. C. Jones inspected Lewiston Lodge of Elks last night, and tonight will be in Rumford for a similar purpose. His three remaining inspections will be in Rockland, Bath and Portland.

Edwin Libby Relief Corps will have an all-day session Thursday to knot three quilts. Members are asked to take sweets to augment hearty dishes for dinner. Mrs. Mary Rogers and Mrs. Ella Flye will be in charge of 6 o'clock supper, and the usual business session will take place in the evening.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mark S. Crockett (Carrie Payson, formerly of South Hope) who died Friday at her home in Lancaster, Pa., will be held this afternoon at the Burpee parlors at 2 o'clock. The remains arrived here last evening, accompanied by Mr. Crockett and his two sons, Norman and George.

Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Dunton, Broadway, while at javelin practice Wednesday at Bowdoin College was hit in the cheek by a javelin, striking near the nose and inflicting a deep and ugly wound. He was confined to the infirmary until Saturday, but shows marked improvement, and it is expected that some of the stitches will have been removed by now.

The appeal for aid for the jobless presented in the Saturday issue of this newspaper by the Chamber of Commerce is bearing encouraging fruit. Already several men have been placed, one job being the erection of a garage. Any chore of any kind will be done by these willing men whether it is raking lawns, washing windows, beating rugs or what not. Simply call 860, state your requirements and The Chamber will do the rest.

Members of the Garden Clubs of Rockland, Warren, Thomaston, and Belfast were invited to attend the meeting of the Camden Garden Club last Tuesday afternoon when Walter O. Frost, a former Rockland boy, of the United States Department of Agriculture and Maine State Forestry Department, gave a talk on "The Menace of the White Pine Blister," which was heard with much interest. Mr. Frost handled his subject with authority.

Mrs. Israel Snow, Miss Cella Braut and Miss Beaudoin motored to Augusta Friday, accompanied by Miss Bernadette Snow of the junior class of Rockland High School who represented her school in the regional Spear speaking contest at Cony High School that evening. Those who have noted the marked talent Miss Snow has displayed in public speaking will be interested to learn that she and Miss Grace Shaw of Cony High carried off highest honors and will compete in the finals to take place at the State House May 5. Miss Snow's subject was "Prince of Court Painters" and Miss Shaw's "If I Were King." The alternates were Miss Margaret Holliday of M.C.I. and Miss Doris Small of Bridgton Academy.

A campaign to secure one million signatures to petitions addressed to foreign governments seeking the attendance of representative women at an international congress in connection with the Chicago Century of Progress Exposition in 1933, is being conducted by local women's organizations affiliated with the National Council of Women. The project is the largest cooperative effort in which clubwomen of the United States have ever engaged. The BPW Club of this city has a quota of 225 names to secure before May 1st. The book of petitions is at the Postal Telegraph Office, and any woman interested in the BPW Club may go there and sign her name, only being sure that she designates she is signing for the BPW Club. It is not limited to membership in the BPW Club, as some have come to believe.

The fact that they were expecting company Sunday alone prevented the destruction of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Powell's residence in South Hope. Mrs. Powell, who was lying on a couch after dinner was startled to find the room suddenly filled with smoke. Her husband hurried to the cellar, and through the dense haze could discern a brisk blaze along the western wall. A heavy gale was in progress, and penetrating the cellar window was fanning the flames. Feeling that the building was doomed Mr. Powell called for his wife to leave at once, but pending the arrival of neighbors continued to fight the flames with a basin which he filled rapidly from the tap in the cellar. He was nearly suffocated before the battle was won, but had the satisfaction of saving the property, which would have been a total loss but for his pluck. Mrs. Powell was temporarily overcome by the excitement, but rallied during the afternoon.

Miss L. Etta Philbrook died this morning in Bangor. The remains will be brought to Rockland.

The Epworth Leaguers of the Methodist Church will serve a supper Saturday night in the vestry.

Overness Sarkesian is at home from Knox Hospital where he has been receiving treatment for some weeks.

An infected wrist is interfering considerably with the activities of Gerald Black, whose condition is improving however.

T. C. Stone, district manager of the telephone company will be the Lions' speaker tomorrow noon. The talk will be illustrated.

The Camden & Rockland Water Company is extending its main pipe 500 feet on the Old County road to provide service for the last houses on that highway.

R. B. Magune will soon erect a new shop on Maverick street which is to house his machine business, conducted for several years at 700 Main street. The building will have 31 windows to provide ample lighting.

Steamer Southport came out of winter quarters at Camden Saturday smiling with her new coat of paint, and put in prime condition for the season's service. She will care for the Bar Harbor and Brooklin routes until the six trip schedule begins.

The Forty Club bridge party will be held tomorrow night at the Copper Kettle at 7:30. This party was originally scheduled for Thursday night but was set ahead to avoid conflict with the MacMillan lecture. John H. McLoon is chairman.

Last month's statistical report issued from the office of the adjutant general showed that Battery F of Thomaston, Eldridge captain, stood fourth in the regiment in point of attendance. Battery E, Saville captain stood tenth.

The danger from grass fires against which this paper has repeatedly warned this spring, was vividly demonstrated on the New County road yesterday when a fire opposite the cement plant caused the destruction of a barn owned by Miss Lucy Farnsworth.

Charged with drunken driving Sayward Hall of Thomaston was arraigned before Judge Butler in Municipal Court yesterday. He was fined $100 and costs, and his companion was fined for intoxication. Collision with another car led to Hall's arrest by State Patrolman Shaw.

Quarrymen and engineers resumed work at John C. Mehan & Son's plant at Clark Island yesterday having reached an amicable agreement with the manufacturers whereby the men will take a 10 percent cut in order to meet existing conditions in economizing and competing markets. No agreement with the cutters has yet been reached.

The Eastern Division Rifle Club and the Thomaston Rifle Club, Inc. will meet at the latter's clubrooms at 8 o'clock Friday night. A report of the recent directors' meeting in Augusta will be given together with information concerning the preliminary pistol matches which begin next week, and the State shoot at the Auburn Rifle Range in Auburn May 28-29.

Richard Bird had an uncomfortable experience yesterday afternoon when one of the tires on his Ford coupe blew out as he was passing Chickawauke Lake. The car struck the fence violently, and rebounded into the highway almost a complete wreck. He was taken to the office of Dr. F. F. Brown where it was found that while he had been badly shaken up that his worst injury was a severe cut on one of his wrists.

Free concert—the Rockland High School Orchestra will furnish music on the balcony of the Fuller-Cobb-Davis store from 7:30 to 9 o'clock Wednesday evening.—adv.

"ON MY SET"

The broadcast given by the Rubinstein Club and the Junior Harmony Club Sunday afternoon over WCHS was listened to with interest, and with the regret that Mrs. Hazel Atwood, contralto was suffering from laryngitis. The program was: "Out of the Deep" by Marks, Mrs. Atwood; piano, "Hark, Hark, the Lark," Schubert-Liszt, "Impromptu," MacDowell, and "Etincelles" Moszkowski, Mrs. Ruth E. Sanborn, representing the Rubinstein Club; "Papricana" and "Song of Hope," instrumental trio, Dorothy Harvie, piano, Marian Harvie, trumpet, and Florence Dean, saxophone; and sax solo "Valse Eerie" by Rudy Wiedoft, Miss Dean, representing the Junior Harmony Club. The young folks of the Junior Harmony Club were the special guests at the Sunday afternoon program of Uncle Dan's Alumni Caravan Orchestra, and were delighted with an invitation to give an all-Rockland broadcast for the Caravan Club later in the season.

Pryor's Band, which has been appearing on the Goodyear program, gave its closing concert of the season Saturday night and at the close, by special request, played that popular selection "The Whistler and His Dog." The Goodyear program will now be presented on Wednesday nights.

Walter Winchell's substitute in the Lucky Strike program, paid special tribute Saturday night to Gilbert Patten of Camden, creator of the Frank Merriwell stories, and one of the most versatile writers of the present day.

WOD of Miami and WOAI of San Antonio were among my Saturday night stations—the former a comparative stranger the past winter.

My thanks are here extended to Herbert K. Washburn of Portland for a copy of the Portland Dial Log, and I fully agree with his comment that it is "a real log at last." Mr. Washburn, a former Thomaston boy, is junior member of the firm of Colebrook & Washburn, pharmacists, corner of Spring and Brackett streets, Portland, and is always especially glad to meet anybody who likes to talk radio.

GOLDEN SKIES

[For The Courier-Gazette]
Behold the gold that man has dug.
In all the years gone by.
Now gathered up by angel hands.
And strewn across the sky.
Wealth, more than owned by all earth's kings.
Is spread before my eyes.
At happy times when sets the sun.
Or comes the glad sunrise.

These golden paths on ocean plains.
Lead up to steps adown
That reach from earth to Paradise.
The realm through which I know.
Through golden gates flung open wide.
Faces and forms I see.
Of lost ones dear, long since called home.
Who smile and call to me.

Christ is the sun who floods my soul
With golden skies and song;
Dreary doubts and grief and fears.
And makes me glad and strong.
Eternal Day, with Him abides.
Horizons ever brighten
The Lord of Life and Glory He.
Who scatters death and night.

The mock wedding "The Wedding of Jake and Lena" which the ladies of Edwin Libby Relief Corps put on so successfully a few weeks ago, is to be presented at the Methodist Church tomorrow evening at 7:30 under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid. A musical program will be given under the direction of Mrs. Emma Harvie, and other entertaining features are planned. A jolly good time is guaranteed for a small admission fee.

The W.C.T.U. met Friday at the home of Mrs. H. V. Tweedie, North Main street. The time was given over to business and a discussion of arrangements for a mother and daughter banquet to be held May 12. The next meeting, May 6, is to be a child health day, with an open meeting, in charge of Mrs. Evelyn Sherman, with mothers and pre-school age children as guests. Mrs. Kittredge and Mrs. Brawn were appointed as assisting committee. Mrs. Clara Emery read the resolution recently adopted by the department of Superintendence of the National Education Association meeting in Washington, D. C. thus: "The Department of Superintendence urges teachers to continue to impart respect for the Constitution of the United States and for all of its various amendments. We urge the continued vigorous and impartial enforcement of the entire Constitution of the United States as the supreme law of the land and we reaffirm our belief in the principles of the Eighteenth Amendment and in the habits of life and conduct which it is intended to inculcate." These committees for the banquet were appointed: Supper, Miss Ada Bird Young, Mrs. Ida Simmons, Miss Mabel Seavey, Mrs. Francis Hall, Mrs. Sophronia Beggs, Miss Alice Erskine, Mrs. Kate Brawn and Mrs. Hattie Ford; program, Miss Alena Young, Mrs. Tweedie, Mrs. Irene Moran and Mrs. Evelyn Sherman; publicity and tickets, Mrs. Clara Emery, Mrs. Hope Brewster. It was voted to send an expression of sympathy from the Union to Mrs. Myra Hodgdon in her illness. Refreshments were served by the hostesses assisted by Mrs. Ida Simmons.

The meeting of Golden Rod Chapter Friday evening was marked by large attendance and much enthusiasm. Supper was managed by Mrs. Gertrude Boddy. Memorial exercises for Mrs. Clara Erskine were conducted after which the members adjourned to the banquet hall where a program of high order was put on under the direction of Mrs. Helen Chapman. The selections, "My Anchor Holds," "I Want My Life To Tell," "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," "While the Years are Rolling By," "Saved By Grace," and "Now the Day Is Over," were sung by a portion of the Knox County Men's Chorus, directed by S. T. Constantine. Those taking part were Harold Green and Almon Richardson, first tenors; Fred H. Haining and Carleton Porter, second tenors; John Robinson and R. K. Green, first bass, and Dr. Samuel Tibbets, second bass. Mrs. Constantine was at the piano. Miss Anna Green read "Vagabond House," by Blandine and "The Rival" by Kipling, and Myron Young, tenor, sang "The Sunshine of Your Smile," and "West of the Great Divide," with Mrs. Amy Tripp, accompanist. The most ambitious feature of the program was the pantomime, "Seven Ages of Woman" based on the "seven ages of man" from Shakespeare's "As You Like It." Mrs. Chapman acted as reader. Mrs. Vivian Hewett as soloist and Mrs. Alta Dimick as pianist. The theme song was "Memories" and the "seven ages" were worked out in this manner: Infant in cradle, with Mrs. Hewett singing "Alabama Lullaby;" School days, Miss Kathy, erine Veazie and Crosby Ludwick, "School Days," as solo; College days, Mrs. Florence Knowlton, "Betty Co-Ed," solo; Sweetheart days, Miss Annette Segal, "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," solo; Bride, Mrs. Blanche Morton, Lohengrin Bridal March played by Mrs. Dimick, "I Love You Truly," solo; Mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Barton, "Mother of Mine," solo; Grandmother, Miss Pearl Borgerson, "Memories."

Charles Robinson of Winter street was found at his room Sunday in a condition which warranted his removal to the hospital, where he died that night at 10:30. He was reported to have a sister living in Somersworth, N. H., but the authorities had not located her at last accounts.

Fire destroyed the cleansing plant at the home of Clarence Campbell Friday noon. The building in which Mrs. Campbell has conducted a successful business caught fire from an explosion in a gasoline cleansing machine. In trying to save articles of wearing apparel from the flames Mr. Campbell was badly burned about the face and arms. Much sympathy is expressed for the Campbells in the loss, which was not covered by insurance.

There will be Pentecostal services at the Hahn schoolhouse Wednesday evening in charge of the workers from Belfast, N. Ruth Bowles, Vivian Haworth, Harriet Legg and Goldie Banks; also Mrs. Gordon of Boston who is in Belfast at this time. Everybody is welcome to come and enjoy the singing and the musical instruments.

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—Six bandits came aboard the steamer, Midnight Sun, while she lay at anchor in the harbor of the Mackenzie. Father Claverly and the other passengers on the boat were amazed at the sight of bandits in this Great Waterways country, a thousand miles north of Edmonton. Jimmy Montgomery, who had spent years with the Canadian Mounted, drew his gun in the face of the covering rifles and fired upon the ruffians. He is shot through the heart by a half-breed. The bandits get away with gold dust and choice peltry.

CHAPTER II.—Corporal Bill Hardcock brings the news of the crime to Sergeant Alan Baker at the Mounted Police post at Fort Endurance. After a brief consultation with his superior, Inspector Haskell, Alan starts out after the bandits in the big police launch with the corporal and four constables.

CHAPTER III.—Reaching the Midnight Sun, they stop long enough for Alan Baker to consult with the corporal and the constables of the crime. Alan asks the skipper to put Jimmy Montgomery's orphaned four-year-old daughter off at Fort Endurance and leave her in the care of Alan Baker. Elizabeth Spaulding, at the MacMillan trading post on the Big Alouka, Joyce MacMillan, Alan Baker's sister, is alone.

CHAPTER IV.—Larry Young, one of Alan's men, discovers in MacMillan's fur shed a bale of pelts stolen from the Midnight Sun. The evidence incriminates Dave, who strongly that Alan is compelled to tell Joyce. She then tells her father, Alan leads his expedition up the Big Alouka. Compelled by Haskell's orders, he divides the party. Alan falls to capture the bandits. The police expedition returns to Fort Endurance with Larry badly wounded.

CHAPTER V.—Haskell, who is Alan's active enemy and is trying to win Elizabeth, blames Alan for the failure and orders his demolition to the ranks. He flatly denies that he ordered Alan to capture the bandits. The police expedition returns to Fort Endurance with Larry badly wounded.

CHAPTER VI.—After making arrangements with Haskell and old Dave to look after Joyce's safety while she is alone at the MacMillan post, her father being jailed at Fort Endurance, Alan starts out of the country in a motor canoe. As the days pass and she does not hear from him, Joyce is heart sick for Alan.

CHAPTER VII.—The journey. Alan runs across "Buzard," a famous aviator of the world war, and now a pilot of a dilapidated machine. Affinity of spirit draws them together, and Alan convinces "Buzard" of the enterprise. Lacking sufficient funds to procure equipment, they look for government stores, starting their pursuit of the bandits, themselves criminals in the eyes of the law.

CHAPTER VIII.—"Stob-Loe" Jensen, leader of the bandits, plans to capture Joyce MacMillan and escape to Manitoba. At Fort Endurance, Haskell is catching gasoline and oil for Alan at En Traverser lake, and plans with Constable Whipple to capture Alan when his plane alights there.

On a long timbered headland there a sudden sheet of fire had leaped up nearly fifty feet into the air and stood out above the tree tops, with a fiery puff and cloudd of smoke visible for miles and miles across the open water.

A few seconds later the flame died down a little, as though it had been of explosive origin, but a clump of paper birches up which the flame had raced still continued to burn like a gigantic torch.

Focusing on that distant headland, Alan saw nothing except the fire-wrapped birches. As he brought the glasses down, mystified, frowning, his uneasiness swept through him again, sharp and insistent.

That suspicious drum of gasoline—Bill surely wouldn't have rolled it out there. That huge burst of fire across the lake—it had some meaning.

"Buzard, something's wrong here! All wrong! I don't like the idea of going south here. If something's wrong, you don't know what we might be walking into."

"Well, what're you going to do? We've got seven gallons of gas in the wing tank and five in the emergency, and we can't get far on that."

"Maybe so, but I'm not walking into any trap. Somebody's over there where we saw that big glow of fire. I'm suggesting we get into the air again and hop across and have a look-see. That's our best bet. This layout here is all off-color and I know it."

"All right. We'll hop across. But a couple more hops around over this landscape, and we'll be rocking on the wavelets."

From the height of a hundred feet Alan looked ahead through his glasses, scrutinizing that timbered point where the birches were still ablaze.

He started as the glasses picked up a tiny man-figure far away on that headland. Watching him as he rushed out upon the extreme rock tip. With the plane whirling nearer, he caught the figure in sharper focus—and recognized Bill Hardcock!

Waving his arms, hat and part of a pine tree, Bill was frantically trying to draw their attention.

only afterwards that he heard all the details of Bill's heroic deed. "How about Joyce?" he asked. "You've been to see her, Bill?" "I ducked aside twice. Last time was a week ago. She's taken in a big rift of peltry. She's closing up the place to go out to Edmonton and be with her dad."

"A week ago," Alan thought. "Anything could have happened in a week." He asked, "Any news at Endurance?"

Just everyday things, Bill reported. Except for Larry, Larry would cry, Bill said, whenever he looked at his shattered leg. Larry, who kept himself as young as men half his age, who prided himself on his wolf-like body—he was wasted away to a mere shadow of his former self.

Glancing out across En Traverser, Alan suggested: "We'd better be leaving here. Haskell and his stool penguin over there probably saw us light. They may suspect a notion to whip across the lake after us. Where's the oil and gas, Bill?"

"Right now by that rock jumble. The Smoky is just this side. I'll go along—"

"You stay here; you're about once in a Buzard. You turn the plane and make ready for a quick getaway in case that launch shows up. I'll get the drums."

He hurried to the tangle of junipers and granite boulders where he found the precious gas and oil. The Smoky had been secured. . . . When he lay down over there. . . . Lord! I was afraid you were a goner!"

Hastily introducing a new partner to an old one, Alan demanded: "What do you mean, Bill? What under heaven are you doing over here? What happened? Man, you're all shot!"

"Am half-dead," Bill admitted. His voice was thick, he could hardly stand up. With the long strain over, a fearful reaction had set in. He looked ready to fall down dead asleep.

"But what happened?" Alan repeated. "Alan, that Johnny Jump-up caught onto our trick. He was out to bag this air machine and nail you two. And he came skittish close to doing it. Lemme tell it. I had those drums caked over there on Goose point like we arranged, and I was waiting there, never suspecting a thing. One evening. . . . Must've been four or five days ago; I've d—n near lost track of time. . . . Anyway, I was sitting there in the willows slapping mosquitoes and listening to a couple of whisky-jacks raise Cain with something back at the timber edge."

"I didn't nothing much to do, so I sort of dozed off. Just as I was seeing what all the fuss was about. When I got up pretty close I all at once smelled tobacco smoke, cigarette smoke. Just a faint whiff, but no mistake about it."

"That's the h—!?" says I. Who's smoking Turkey tobacco around here? It made me leery right away. I followed my nose upwind and snuck up real careful. There in the first drogue of balsam was a Smoky, that Ogi-Tomax, sitting against a tree, lighting one cigarette on the butt of the last. They were that kind of cigarette that Haskell gets clear from Paris, Alan."

"When he finally got wise to somebody being near, he grabbed for his rifle. But I jumped for him too quick, and hit him a couple times, and while he was coming out of it I lopped that gun of his around a tree. Then I collared him and asked him what the condemnation his intentions might be. At first he closed up like an oyster and wouldn't do nothing but grunt and look sour. I was suspicious of him laying low there watching me, so I up and lammed h—! out of him then and there till he did pry open his jaws."

"Haskell had hired him to shadow me and spy out what I was doing. He must have got hep somehow to me taking that gas. And he and that fishworm Whipple were coming there to Goose point in the launch to get me, gas, oil, then lay low and nail you two on your sit down. Two big bits to a shirt button they're over there right now!"

As he thought how close he and Buzard had come to going ashore and being captured, Alan shuddered.

"Bill went on: "When the Smoky told me that. . . . Say, did I mind some tall tracks? I never got such a wiggle on in my life. With the Smoky helping, I made two trips across the lake and snaked the drums all away—all except one drum when I heard the launch and didn't have time to take—"

"It's still over there," Alan interrupted. "They rolled it out in plain sight like a decoy, but instead of that it made me suspicious. They overplayed. But what got you all shot this way, Bill?"

"I've been awake four or five days and nights, that's what! Not a wink! Didn't dare sleep. It made me sweat blood to think of you lighting down over there and getting nailed. I had to draw your attention somehow, when you were over the lake; and it had to be one whopper of a signal, that far away. I got a couple big piles of birch paper ready, and had a drum of gas handy to soak it with; and I kept a dry-wood fire going so's I could stand back and throw a blazing chunk at the paper. But it made the signal, all right. It nearly singed me and I stood thirty feet back."

"I'll vow it made a signal," Buzard commented. "It looked like a couple more hops around over this landscape, and we'll be rocking on the wavelets."

From the height of a hundred feet Alan looked ahead through his glasses, scrutinizing that timbered point where the birches were still ablaze.

He started as the glasses picked up a tiny man-figure far away on that headland. Watching him as he rushed out upon the extreme rock tip. With the plane whirling nearer, he caught the figure in sharper focus—and recognized Bill Hardcock!

DIET FOR ADULTS

GOOD eating habits for an adult mean a mixed diet of three meals a day and no eating between meals. It is hardly necessary to add that food should be eaten slowly and not bolted. No two people are exactly alike and each person should avoid foods which experience has shown him do not suit him, or as it is usually expressed, "do not agree" with him.

Mental or nerve strain upsets digestion. If a person must carry his worries with him to his meals he should eat then only light foods and not anything that necessitates hard work on the part of the digestive apparatus. He should eat this meal very slowly. The same applies to a man who comes to the table tired out and exhausted. It is also advisable to take about one quart of milk a day. This may be used as a beverage or taken in ice-creams, cream soups, creamed vegetables, custards, etc. Of course, in addition to milk each individual should drink water freely each day. A glass of water on rising and one or two between meals are advisable to supply the body with the fluids necessary for its upkeep.

There is no objection to the modern use of tea and coffee for adults, except that where they are used there is less tendency to drink milk.

In regard to the method of cooking vegetables and meat, it is best to avoid fried foods as much as possible. The method of cooking does not seem to be as important as the fact that the food should be thoroughly cooked.

Fried foods give the individual more fat than is necessary and, further, some chemical change takes place in the fat during the process of frying, which tends to upset the stomachs of people who have a delicate digestive apparatus.

QUESTIONS:

All wives and mothers should be able to answer these questions:
1. What are the advantages of fried foods?
2. When should salad be eaten?
3. How much water should be drunk daily?

Little Starrett

At an attractive home wedding Thursday evening Mrs. May Starrett became the wife of Nathaniel Little of Portland, in the presence of 40 neighbors and friends. The bride was daintily gowned in pink flat crepe and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations. Her sister Mrs. Chester Wallace as matron of honor wore rose georgette and had a corsage bouquet of pink and white carnations. Christine Starrett, daughter of Mrs. Little, looked very pretty in blue and acted as bridesmaid. She carried pink and white carnations. Chester Wallace was groomsmen. Ice cream, cake and punch were served after the ceremony. The many gifts of powder, china, linen and silver bespoke the popularity of the young couple and they have the best wishes of many friends. Mrs. Little is the second daughter of Mrs. Flora Jones of Warren. Mr. Little is the son of Mrs. George Knight of Portland, a private in the U. S. Army and stationed at Fort McKinley at Portland, being at present on a furlough of several weeks. They plan to live on the Starrett farm.

THE SUNSHINE CITY Beautiful St. Petersburg on the bay. Where tourists gather day by day. They come from the North, the East, and West.

To the Sunshine City—a haven of rest. The soft breezes blow on Tampa bay. And the mocking birds sing their sweetest lay.

In this city of charm and beauty rare, With sunny skies and balmy air. But the springtime is here, and I'm leaving today.

This Sunshine City on the bay; And turning my face to the North again— To the dear old home and the hills of Maine.

Where mountains like sentinels stand in the rear. And the hills and valleys, all so dear; And sweetest memories come to me. Of the dear old home across the sea.

So I must go back to the hills of Maine. And live in my dear old home again. But when the days grow cold and gray, I'll return to St. Petersburg on Tampa bay.

(Mrs.) M. C. Hamilton in St. Petersburg Independent.

The meeting of Berean Bible Class Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Williamson, Park street, ended in a delightful birthday surprise for Mrs. Florence Keach, and Mrs. Zona Mattatall. Not a hint of the observance was given until the members were invited to the dining room and Mrs. Keach and Mrs. Mattatall were led to places of honor at the table. A color scheme of yellow and white was carried out prettily, a bouquet of snapdragons forming the centerpiece. A birthday cake was entertained by sandwiches, cakes and cream. Mrs. Keach and Mrs. Mattatall were presented with attractive pictures.

HER WORK RECOGNIZED

Mrs. Beulah Allen Becomes Member of Institute of American Genealogy in Chicago

Mrs. Beulah L. Allen of The Copper Kettle, who has won local recognition for her work in genealogical and historical research, has been honored by election to membership in The Institute of American Genealogy of Chicago. The Institute is the largest genealogical society in America and acts as the National Clearing House for Genealogical Information.

Membership in the Institute is by election of the council. It includes in its membership the leading professional genealogists in this country and in England, Scotland, Ireland, Wales, Germany, Holland, France, Switzerland, Canada, Austria, Denmark, Finland, Italy, Mexico and Poland, as well as many other persons distinguished in official, educational, scientific and social annals of these countries and throughout the U. S., who are interested in the eugenical as well as the historical and patriotic phases of genealogy.

National recognition in this field affords contact with the leading genealogists throughout the United States and in many foreign countries, as well as access to the extensive lineage files of the National Clearing House for Genealogical Information, which will enable her to expand the scope of her work very materially.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Stone had as weekend guests Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Doten of Augusta.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Bliss Gilchrist who spent the winter in New York and Washington, D. C., have arrived to open their summer home, El Hogar, Gilchrist street, Thomaston, for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Cables who were called here by the illness of Mr. Cables' stepfather, the late George J. Kenney, return to New London tomorrow, and will be accompanied by Mrs. Kenney who will make her home with them.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Greenlaw of North Haven were in the city yesterday.

Byron Joy, one of the R.H.S. seniors who made the Washington trip, is in a Boston hospital with double pneumonia. His mother, Mrs. Walter Joy, is with him. The young man had a severe cold while in Washington, and it developed rapidly on the way home.

Mrs. Fred Pendleton has returned from Wiscasset, where she has been for the past month, caring for her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Robertson, who have been seriously ill. Miss Margaret Pendleton spent the past week there.

Mrs. Norman R. Kallioch is spending the week in Brunswick, the guest of relatives.

Albert D. Libbey, who has been ill since November is now able to be out of doors and enjoy the spring days.

Mrs. Victor Atwood and son Burr who have been visiting friends and relatives in Boston and vicinity for ten days arrived home Sunday. Mrs. Atwood had several radio auditions and has been engaged as a part of the studio force of Station WJAR, Providence, to enter upon her duties probably in June.

FULLER-COBB-DAVIS

HE, TOO, QUOTES SCRIPTURES

But This Gallant Prohibition Defender Reaches Different Conclusion—The Lindbergh Kidnaping

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

I have been deeply interested in the discussion of prohibition carried on in your columns. The case for prohibition has been ably and forcefully presented and sustained by Messrs. Edwards, Newbert, Rich and others. It is heartening to know that intelligent thinking people are not wanting to point out truth to those less discerning, and hold up the misleading statements of the wet advocates at their true value.

Since the chief advocate of repeal has expressed a sensitiveness to what he seems to consider personalities, let us adopt the polite face of Congressional usage, and speak of him only as: "The Gentleman for the Opposition."

When he first made known his stand for repeal some two years ago, it was upon the ground that prohibition had failed to suppress the liquor traffic; and, as an ardent foe of that traffic, he felt compelled to seek better means of suppressing it, namely, repeal and regulation. Later he stated that he was opposed to it because it had fostered such an orgy of lawlessness as the world had never seen previously. Then as time went on, and unemployment and the financial depression grew, the vision of the enormous revenue that might be gathered from a licensed, orderly well-behaved and law-abiding liquor traffic, giving employment to millions of worthy men and women, furnishing a ready and high-priced market for the surplus products of the distressed farmers, relieving a distressed citizenry from the burden of taxation, made such an appeal to his generous heart that it could not be withstood.

These previous arguments are still on the stage, but now form only the background for the real thing. In these latest contributions the Gentleman takes his stand as the stalwart defender of the inherent right of the "moderate drinker." Too long, he proclaims, have the "fanatical" prohibitionists imposed their rule over the people of our fair land, and now the citizenry is aroused to demand its rights. The right to indulge in "moderate" drinking, is proclaimed without reservation. One can almost sense a suggestion that it is a positive virtue, as he even backs it up with quotations from the scriptures.

If we were to argue this question by means of scriptural quotations it would be long drawn out, for they are almost endless. But just to let it be seen that we are not defenseless on that score, let us refer to Hab. 2:15: "Woe to him that giveth his neighbor drink, that putteth thy bottle to him, and makest him drunken also."

In Jer. ch. 35, God commands the Rechabites for refusing to drink wine, even when invited to do so by the prophet himself.

In I Cor. 8:11-13, Paul expressly condemns those who indulge their own appetites, and by their example cause their weaker brethren to sin. Finally, Rom. 13:9 "And if there be any other commandment, it is briefly comprehended in this saying, namely, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

The Gentleman has frankly stated his position, since he has become a believer in the harmlessness of "moderate drinking." It is a wise provision of international warfare that the opposing armies shall wear distinctive uniforms.

"Moderate drinking!" The only real friends of the liquor traffic are the advocates of "moderate drinking." Not even the brewers, distillers, or saloon keepers of the old days ventured to advocate drunkenness! Whenever a debater obviously misquotes or misinterprets the arguments of his opponents, it is considered a tacit, if sometimes unconscious, admission of the weakness of his own cause. I do not know how carefully your readers scan these "wet" contributions, but if they are interested, they should do so carefully. They are bristling with misquotations so glaring as to seem intentional. In the issue of April 7, he quotes Mr. Edwards as saying: "Vice has become the master of the community, etc." He said nothing of the kind. What he did say was that this would be the result if it permitted and tolerated vice, which is the opposite as quoted.

He quotes Mr. Edwards as saying there were 30 saloons in his home town, when as a matter of fact, he said there were 90. With such misstatements apparent to even a casual reader, he can hardly expect his other unsupported claims to be accepted too readily.

This is a fair sample of what occurs over and over in these articles, typical of wet propaganda. Within 24 hours of the news of the kidnapping of the Lindbergh baby, a chorus went up from the "wets" all over the country: "Prohibition is responsible for this horrible crime!"

Such absurd statements from supposedly intelligent people leave one almost too disgusted for words. But since they have brought it up, might it not be appropriate to call attention to the fact that this same baby dwelt in blissful security for several months last year in Maine, one of the nesting-places of the prohibition law; and it was only when it returned to New Jersey, the hot-bed of opposition to the law, that he was snatched from his parents' arms. Does this seem significant?

But let anyone think that we base our defense of prohibition on any such reasoning as this, let me hasten to state my own personal opinion in this matter. There is no reason in the world why prohibition should be held responsible for this unspeakable crime. Neither do I think that the New Jersey authorities have failed to do anything within their power to return the child safely to its parents. The hearts of all the good people of New Jersey, as well as of Maine or Missouri, of humanity the world over, ache in sympathy with its parents. In this there is no division of wet or dry.

But I do believe and this conviction is shared by many others everywhere that the spirit of lawlessness, fostered and encouraged by the opponents of prohibition; the theory that people have a right to disobey a law because it interferes with their personal habits or desires, advanced openly by them, is responsible in a real sense for this crime and many others that have shocked the country since their weaker brethren to sin.

Finally, Rom. 13:9 "And if there be any other commandment, it is briefly comprehended in this saying, namely, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

The Gentleman has frankly stated his position, since he has become a believer in the harmlessness of "moderate drinking." It is a wise provision of international warfare that the opposing armies shall wear distinctive uniforms.

"Moderate drinking!" The only real friends of the liquor traffic are the advocates of "moderate drinking." Not even the brewers, distillers,

SONS OF MAINE CLUB

A Whole Washboiler of Fish Chowder At the Meeting in Somerville

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

The annual meeting of the Sons of Maine Club of Somerville, Mass., was held April 20. Twenty-five members sat down and dined (as State of Mainer do) with one washboiler of fish chowder, with home made apple, squash and lemon pie, and doughnuts and coffee on the side. After that they were too good natured to fight, so the annual meeting was held. Reports showed the club finished the year with a balance in the treasury and all bills paid.

This club dates from the fall of 1889. The meeting for permanent organization was held at the American House, Boston, May 21, 1890, at which meeting more than 100 sons were present. So this club is entering upon its 43d year, which, considering the stress of our modern life, is a remarkable example of loyalty to the part of the Sons of Maine in this vicinity. Our members now reside mostly outside of Somerville.

That celebrated seaport village of Tenants Harbor was represented by the three members from that village—100 percent is not so bad. One of them, not yet scribe, secured a place on the executive committee. You will hear from us again in October. Boze shares the crime," was an axiom of our school days. I am not familiar with the record of the Portland judge who is quoted as saying that there are 250 establishments selling liquor there. I do not know whether he made the statement as a friend of the law, demanding its enforcement, or what. But if he made this statement as an argument for the repeal of the law, I should say he was presenting a good reason for his own impeachment as a judge, rather than a valid indictment of the law.

We often hear opponents of the law say: "We would be for it if it was enforced." Well, who is to blame if it is not enforced to the limit? Certainly that is not a fault to be laid upon the so-called "fanatical" supporters of prohibition! If these people who complain of law enforcement as a reason for repeal would use the same energy demanding its enforcement, conditions would be different today.

The paradox presented by the "wets," when they tell us the government is powerless to enforce the prohibition law against the irresistible forces of the underworld, and therefore it should be repealed, and regulated by law, enforced by this same establisment government, would be ludicrous if it were not for the possibility of some people who do not do their own thinking, accepting such "bunk."

It should be obvious, that if liquor is highly taxed and hard to get, as regulated, it would offer the same incentive to bootleggers that it does now, and would be harder to get than the "legitimate" vendors.

If made cheap and easy to get, we should not have the "temperance," and "moderate drinking" so dear to the hearts of the "wets." Any regulation to be effective, must be backed up by a government able to enforce its laws, and those who find the law not to their liking, I do not believe that any law for the promotion of the welfare of the people is really unenforceable. The advocates of "moderate drinking" have allied themselves with the underworld to try and make it appear as difficult as possible. I do not envy them their bed-fellows. I have talked with quite a number of men who were convicted bootleggers, and I never met one yet who had a kind word to say for prohibition. Their alleged backing of prohibition has no existence except in the imagination of the "wets."

The war of words is still on. We cannot predict with certainty just what the coming years hold in store for us. It is only the wets who "know." But we can state our convictions.

Alcoholic liquor, used as a beverage, is an enemy of mankind, from every standpoint, mental, moral, religious, social, financial or political, and as such, the friends of humanity will never rest content with anything less than the most complete suppression of its use possible.

As such, I am opposed to it in every form, time or place, whether it be "homebrew" in a neighbor's basement, "moonshine" or "poison hooch" in a speakeasy; sparkling wine in cob-webbed bottles or hard cider on the farm; "white mule" or imported whiskey; 4 per cent beer or 40 per cent brandy; manufactured under government inspection or in a pigsty; whether sold in a saloon or dispensed by the government, or made at home for individual use. It has been shown by centuries of experience to be guilty of every crime in the calendar, the associate of every vice. Its use as a beverage has nothing to recommend it but sensual desire, and everything to condemn it. If there be any better method of eliminating it completely than prohibition, let anyone show me and I will be for it. But to any system that seeks to tolerate its use I am absolutely and irrevocably opposed. And upon this statement of principles I stand unshaken, facing the future with a confidence in the outcome that is based upon my belief in the righteousness of our purpose. Randall E. Cline. 6220 Bailey place, St. Louis, Mo.

WHY BLAME STOCKINGS—

when you may be at fault?

Save ELASTICITY* and stockings will wear

DON'T BLAME STOCKINGS for those costly runs—actually you may be at fault.

When your stockings are new they are elastic. Made to give under strain. Stretch and spring right back again.

But if you rub the delicate fibres with cake soap so they lose their precious elasticity, they become lifeless, brittle. They break under strain. Then you get those runs!

Why take chances? Lux offers you the sure way to preserve the elasticity that makes stockings WEAR.

Stocking S-T-R-A-I-N comes when you climb stairs, bend, stretch. If elasticity has been destroyed, threads break, starting ruinous runs.

*The Lux way to save the ELASTICITY that makes stockings wear

Wash this 2-minute way for each pair. 1. One teaspoon of Lux for each pair. 2. Add lukewarm water, squeeze suds through stockings, rinse well. Don't rub with cake soap. It ruins elasticity. With Lux there's no rubbing.

Avoid ordinary soaps—cakes, powders, chips. These often contain harmful alkali, which robs silk of its life, weakens threads, fades colors. Lux has no harmful alkali. Anything safe in water alone is safe in Lux.
