A TRIBUTE TO "KIB"

Los Angeles Cousin of the Late C. K. Marshall, Tells of His Worth

Los Angeles, Sept. 6. Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

I received word a short time ago that my lifelong friend, George Kilborn Marshall, had died in Somerville, Mass. "Kib," as he was familiarly known, was my cousin, and youngest son of Josephus and Hannah Marshall who were old-time residents of Martinsville. He had one brother, Alvano; and one sister, Lizzie. The sister died many years ago. The brother who died a few years ago, was a well known sea captain. I have known "Kib" since he was a little boy. He possessed a kind and lovable nature and made many friends wherever he was. He was bright, active and quick to learn, and was a school teacher for many terms. He served his native town (St. George) as officer and was always interested in home affairs after he moved away.

He was in business for himself in Boston at one time and later a salesman on the road. In this latter business he became acquainted with many people all of whom would testify to his true worth as a man of integrity and honesty. I have many of his letters in my possession and they are perfect in penmanship, spelling and diction. Always a good companion, and always trying to make others happy, he will be missed by his own family as well as a large circle of friends and I wish to pay tribute to his memory.

A UNION MUSICALE

A Talented Trio Entertains For Benefit of the High School

Fifty or more persons gathered at Ye Greene Arbour, Union, Sunday afternoon to listen to a delightful musicale given by Edith Besse Greene, violinist; Harriet Stickney of Belmont, Mass., pianist, and Gladys Morgan, contralto, of Rockland, for the benefit of the new High School at Union. A silver collection taken at the conclusion of the program yielded a tidy sum which will repay the artists for their efforts in behalf of the cause. The program:

Violin—Rondino on a Beethoven theme Liebesleid Kreislair Song—"Goin' Home" Dvorak-Fisher Violin—Largo Handel Morris Dance Edward German Shepherd's Hey Edward German (From King Henry VIII.) Song—"Home On the Range" David Gulon (Texas Cowboy Song) Piano—Lento Cyril Scott To the Sea Edward MacDowell Violin—Londonderry Air arr. Kreislair

Mrs. Greene whose violin study was conducted with the late Franz Kneisel after a course of study at the New England Conservatory of Music, displays rich tonal effects and sympathetic conception in her work. She gave as encores Sunday "The Old Refrain" and "Nobody Knows De Trouble I've Seen," both Kreislair arrangements. Mrs. Stickney, both an accompanist and soloist, won unanimous approval. She also has had the advantage of studying with masters, and her playing is marked by brilliancy and power as a soloist and by sensitive understanding as an accompanist. Mrs. Morgan's encore was Madeline Worrell's charming song, "Lullaby of the Chimes."

During the informal social hour refreshments were served. Among those present were Joseph Porter of New York, Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Bickford, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Berry, Miss Hope Greenhalgh, Miss Margaret G. Stahl, M. F. Lovejoy and family, Dr. and Mrs. William Ellingwood and son Richard, Mrs. Harriet Foster of Rutherford, N. J., H. A. Buffum and Miss Charlotte Buffum.

COL LINDBERGH'S STUNTS

A Portland dispatch says: "Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, accompanied by his brother-in-law, Dwight W. Morrow, Jr., flew here Sunday from New York to test a new plane owned by John C. Breckenridge, a summer resident. Lindbergh went aloft in the new plane and performed a series of stunts that thrilled a large crowd of spectators. Later he and Morrow left for the Morrow estate at North Haven."

Miss Gretchen Fletcher Has Fine Record In Government Service

The many Rockland friends of Miss Gretchen Fletcher of Belfast will be pleased to learn that she has been appointed senior stenographer and typist at the Veterans' Bureau at Togus at a pleasing salary. Miss Fletcher became well acquainted with local folk while conducting a dancing school here the past winters. This desirable appointment was obtained by Miss Fletcher through her studies in the local Commercial College. Her ratings in the Civil Service examinations "were exceptionally high. In junior typist she made 93.5%; junior stenog., 93.75%; in senior typist 90.3 and in senior stenog. 91.5. Her rank in the difficult copying from rough draft was 97% and 87% in the general test. She graded 94% in the 96 word test. Mrs. Lena K. Sargent, head of the local college, is naturally pleased at this fine record by one of her students.

Frank Jacobs Heads Local Association This Year—Inter-City Series

The local bowlers squared away for another busy season last night when the association organized with these officers:

President—Frank Jacobs of Thomaston.

Vice President—Earl Woodcock of Thomaston.

Secretary and Treasurer—Charles M. Lawry of Rockland.

The board of directors will be composed of the captains of the several teams.

A series of three games between the Recreation and Star Alleys will be rolled, with Ralph Dudley as captain of the Recreationers and James A. "Ty" Cobb as captain of Star.

The first game will be rolled at the Recreation Alleys next Monday night at 7.30.

A committee of six has been appointed to draw up a set of rules and regulations and report at the next meeting.

UNION FAIR A WEEK AWAY

Splendid Entertainment Planned For Three Days—New Exhibition Hall Ready

This is the last week before Union Fair and the officials of the North Knox Society are overlooking no bet in order that everything will be shipshape when the big show opens one week from today. It will be the 64th annual exhibition of this institution, and in the words of President John C. Creighton is going to be "bigger, better, greater."

The racing program will include these three cards: Tuesday 2.14 and 2.25 classes; Wednesday, 2.15, 2.19 and 2.25 classes; Thursday, 2.17, 2.22 and free for all classes.

The major crowd is generally on Wednesday—the so-called "big day," but they are all big days, and Thursday is a close rival, with the free for all and drawing of horses and oxen as special attractions.

Wednesday night is the "big night," however, for then you will see the wonderful display of fireworks.

The Rockland Band of 18 pieces will toll each day, and on Thursday (American Legion Day) there will be a parade and Legion Drum Corps contest.

A pleasant surprise will await the patrons of Union Fair when they see the new exhibition hall which has replaced the old ramshackle structure which did duty for so many years.

"A SECOND NORDICA"

Hallett Gilberte Thus Styles Doris Doe Who Has Been At Crawford Lake—An Interview

Rockland had a distinguished visitor last week in the person of Doris Doe, mezzo-contralto of the Metropolitan Opera Company, who after a sojourn at the Kineo House, Moosehead Lake, where her brother, Dudley, has been conducting an orchestra through the summer season, has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Stickney of Belmont, Mass., at their summer home, Crawford's Lake. Miss Doe and Mrs. Stickney met on shipboard last spring enroute to Italy, and their acquaintance has ripened into close friendship. While in the city, the singer granted an interview to a member of The Courier-Gazette's staff, who in the presence of her magnetic charm forgot to be properly awed by the brilliant success attained by this young artist, and spent the afternoon chatting intimately and informally as old friends.

Miss Doe's naive manner and her lack of pose, impress at once. She is free from mannerisms, is generous with praise for her fellow-artists and passes no unkindly criticisms. She brims with vivacity and is fun-loving. She is of medium height, finely shaped, her hazel eyes crinkle with laughter and glint with fire when she is excited. Her hair is light brown, unobbed, and worn low in her neck. When interviewed she was wearing a stunning henna ensemble with a silver fox fur scarf, and a pert brown hat. With Miss Doe were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Doe, formerly of Bar Harbor, now of Palm Beach, Fla., and her sister, Mrs. Effie Doe, who acts as her accompanist and secretary.

Miss Doe comes of a musical family. Her mother, a chorister, organist and teacher; her grandfather, Henry C. Rice, formerly of Portland, a widely known oratorio singer years ago. The brother Dudley was a boy soprano in Grace Church, New York, for several years, and is proficient in wood wind instruments, and conducts an orchestra at the Everglades Club in Palm Beach which has won no little attention by its excellence. Mrs. Baten is a skilled organist, enjoying a wide knowledge of music in all its branches. Miss Doe is organist at the First Methodist Church at Palm Beach and conducts a choir of 15 voices. She is really a pioneer in music at Palm Beach, having brought there the first great artist heard in that city—the late Maud Powell, violinist.

Growing up in this musical atmosphere, it is not strange that Miss Doe became imbued with it. When a tiny child she sang her wants—"I want my dinner," or "Give me an apple," with an air that presaged the operatic career to come. Her earliest training was directed by her mother, and later she went to Sybil Lammis MacDermid, with whom she has been for several years, and to whose tribute, Miss Doe emphasizes the soundness of American teaching, that if the merit is there, it will be recognized. She paid tribute to the high standard of the New York and Boston critics whose impeccable integrity recognizes no sops.

Several years ago Miss Doe attracted the attention of Madame Louise Homer, famous contralto, and her composer husband, Sidney Homer.

Prior to entering opera, Miss Doe appeared as soloist with many of the leading orchestras of the country, at many festivals including the Worcester Festival, and as a recitalist. She has been soloist at the Marble Collegiate Church, Fifth Avenue, and the Second Church, Christ Scientist, New York. In radio work she was one of the original Awater-Kent quartet. A year ago last Labor Day she sang at the dedication of the American Church in Paris, the program of which was broadcast to this country and heard by Miss Doe's parents in Washington. D. C. Dr. Joseph W. Cochran, pastor of the church, said in introducing her: "I wish you who are to hear her sing could hear her, too," a tribute in itself to her loveliness.

Her voice is of great beauty and range, of ample power and rich color, a voice that fits divinely into Wagnerian roles, the most exacting of all for any voice. Hallett Gilberte, well known composer and pianist, at whose home Miss Doe has been honored during her Maine visit, hailed her as a second Nordica.

Miss Doe's only appearance in Maine, other than an informal recital at the Kineo House with her brother, will be at the Williston Church, Portland, Sunday, Oct. 2, when three memorial windows will be dedicated in commemoration of Dr. Francis E. Clark, founder of the Christian Endeavor Society. The windows have been presented to the church by the International Society of Christian Endeavor of Boston, and Dr. Daniel A. Poling, International president, will deliver the memorial addresses, one in the morning and another in the afternoon. Miss Doe will sing at both services.

The singer's main interest in this event comes through friendship with Oystein Sinding-Larsen, the famous Norwegian artist in glass staining, from whose studio in Paris come the three beautiful windows to be dedicated. His work has won the greatest praise in the art centers of Europe

DAVE DIMICK DID IT

Winner of Annual Golf Tournament Saturday, With a 73—Cross Country Tournament Next

The Maine State Golf Association's annual tournament at the Rockland Country Club Saturday was a complete success despite the forenoon downpour which threatened to eliminate the whole affair. The sun was smiling in most approved fashion before noon and when the players went over the course they expressed their admiration of its fine condition, and later everybody congratulated George Jones, the pro, on the highly successful manner in which the entire program was carried out. Next Saturday there will be a cross country tournament, the details of which will be cheerfully furnished by Mr. Jones.

The winner last Saturday was Dave Dimick of Willowdale, whose card showed a 73, and who defeated Charles Webber of Penobscot by three strokes, the latter winning second gross prize with 39-37-76.

Dimick's net of 67 was the lowest score in the handicap division. But as he could take but one prize, the first net honors were a tie between two Rockland members Louis E. Wardwell and Jud Flanagan, who had 81-12-68 each. They elected to play off for the prizes Monday.

Third net, a dozen golf balls, was divided among three players, George Wilson of Old Orchard, with 77-6-76, Wilfred Girard of Brunswick with 81-10-71, and Life Shane of Old Orchard with 87-16-71.

Dimick started away in ordinary enough fashion with a 40, four over par. On the incoming nine, however, he fairly dried the fairways out with his hot golf, dropping birdies on the first, fifth and seventh, and keeping even with par on all the other holes.

The gross competition all the way around was plenty hot. After Webber with his 76 came George Wilson with 39-38-77. Johnny Brown of Portland with 38-39-77. Dr. F. C. Tyson of Augusta with 39-79-78, and Jack Boyd of Portland with 41-38-79.

The field numbered 40, an excellent showing considering that the rain did not stop in many sections of the State until the middle of the forenoon. Even here the rain did not stop until after 9.30 in the morning. Yet there was surprising little water on the course. The weather for the play was perfect, save for a wind that proved somewhat bothersome.

George Chapman of Penobscot Valley had the two most inconsistent rounds in the field, a 48, followed by a 39 for his 87. There was considerable able to do among the Penobscot delegation when Stubby Adams failed to turn in his card, but Stubby remained impervious to it.

In scoring his 81, Louis Wardwell started his incoming nine a mile a minute, his putter working like magic. For the first five holes he was even with par, but he slipped twice on the last four to give him a 38. Two over par. The summaries:

Dave Dimick, Willowdale, 73-6-67.

L. E. Wardwell, Rockland, 81-12-69.

Jud Flanagan, Rockland, 81-12-69.

George Wilson, Old Orchard, 77-6-71.

C. S. Ersell, Brunswick, 90-12-78.

Albert Emery, Rockland, 87-9-78.

A. C. McLoon, Rockland, 102-21-81.

Earl Dunham, Penobscot, 90-8-82.

No cards were: Dr. A. J. Fuller, Wavenock, Z. M. Dwinall, Rockland, and R. T. Adams, Penobscot.

THE APPLE CROP

Better In New England By 19 Per Cent Than Seemed Likely a Month Ago

Prospects for the United States commercial apple crop on Sept. 1 were approximately the same as on Aug. 1. The crop is now expected to total 29,617,000 barrels compared with 34,592,000 barrels harvested last year and 32,373,000 barrels, the average production of the five years 1924-1928. Important declines in prospects from a month ago in Virginia, Ohio, West Virginia and California were practically offset by increases in New England, Illinois, Michigan and Missouri.

The outlook in New England on Sept. 1, is for a total apple crop of 8,600,000 bushels, 19 percent greater than the crop which seemed likely a month ago. Of the total apple crop 1,887,000 bbls. estimated as commercial apples compared with 1,590,000 barrels expected a month ago, 1,075,000 barrels the light crop harvested last year and 1,897,000 barrels the five year average 1924-1928. All of the New England states share in the increased outlook compared with last month.

The improvement in prospects for apples which commenced in July continued during August at an increased rate. August weather was unusually favorable to tree fruits generally, as crops of peaches and pears are also larger than expected earlier in the season. For New England as a whole the McIntosh apple crop is quite heavy and approximately equal to the 1930 crop. Baldwins are generally short of the unusually large 1930 crop. Other varieties of apples are expected to be good crops.

and he has received medals of honor for his superb artistry in coloring. Sinding-Larsen is both designer and artisan, as he creates his windows from the humblest beginning to the final glowing masterpiece.

On completion of Miss Doe's visit with Mrs. Stickney she, with her parents and sister, goes to Hillsboro, N. H., to be at the summer home of Dr. Poling until the Portland appearance. A feature of her Maine visit was a trip to Bar Harbor where the singer was feted by the entire populace, eager to pay homage to its native-born, talented daughter. While there the Does were guests of Mrs. Thomas Seales, Miss Doe's former kindergarten teacher.

The annual ball game between the Rockland Old Timers and Vinalhaven Old Timers, which was to have taken place this year at Vinalhaven, will probably be omitted because of the lateness of the season. It has been a very busy summer, especially for the members who were politically inclined, and this has made it quite impossible to fix a date which would coincide with the interests of all concerned. The Vinalhaven players assure their Rockland opponents that athletic relations between the two towns will be resumed next summer, and that the Vinalhaven team will act as host. The annual games have been a source of much enjoyment to the players—to say nothing of the spectators.

The item in Saturday's issue concerning the losses suffered by the Paramount-Public theatres the past year was somewhat misleading so far as the local houses are concerned, for while they handle the Paramount programs, they are operated, not by the Paramount-Public corporation, but by the Rockland Amusement Company, which is happily able to state that its business has been much better than most of the theatres which are in the above named corporation's chain. The Rockland Amusement Company, which is happily able to state that its business has been much better than most of the theatres which are in the above named corporation's chain. The offering at the Lakewood Theatre this week will be "The Torchbearers" featuring Irene Franklin, the famous comedienne, vaudeville headliner, musical comedy star and radio artist, as guest star. Miss Franklin's role in "The Torchbearers" will be that of Mrs. J. Duro Pampanelli, the dramatic coach and director of the amateur dramatic production around which the hilarious story centers. The week of Sept. 25 will see the final offering at Lakewood Theatre—"The Silver Cord."

Clerk of Courts Milton M. Griffin was the speaker at the Forty Club luncheon yesterday, and the members learned with considerable surprise of the multitudinous duties which that official is called upon to perform. Incidentally he received many congratulations upon his third election to the office which he has occupied with outstanding ability. By way of special entertainment the club presented Bob Brewer, whose eccentric dancing got the big hand to which it is entitled.

A live red lobster was exhibited to scores of interested persons at the plant of Shattuck & Jones on T wharf Boston Saturday. The crustacean was caught off Jonesport, and sent to the Boston lobster dealers. The shellfish is about a foot long, with claws fully six inches in length. It weighs about two pounds. The coloring is light red. At the tail tips are three lines of deep red about one-eighth of an inch wide.

The new highway which runs from Camden through Lincolnville Beach is now about half completed, and motorists are voicing their appreciation of what has been done. The new bridge at Duck Train may not be completed this year, but is going to be the real article when it is ready for use. The new bridge is about 18 feet higher than the old one, which means the elimination of a dreaded grade.

The large crowd on Main street Saturday night was augmented by 100 enlisted men and seven officers of the Third Battalion U. S. Naval Reserves who came to this city on the destroyer Tillman arriving early in the evening. They must have gained the impression that Rockland is a pretty lively place—which it undoubtedly is on Saturday night.

The Sunday morning congregation at the Littlefield Memorial Church was much pleased at the presence of the Jameson brothers. Paul, who is pastor of the Advent Church in Fall River, Mass., gave an able sermon on "The Word of God," and Edward, whose voice is always heard with pleasure, was the soloist.

Huntley-Hill Post and Auxiliary had a very enjoyable outing at Glen Cove Sunday, among the features being a clam bake and a sightseeing tour. The Post nominates officers at the meeting next Monday night, and some lively contests are hinted at. The Auxiliary nominates at the first meeting in October.

The September meeting of the Rockland Garden Club will be on the afternoon of the 27th at the home of Mrs. W. O. Fuller, Beech street, with John H. Stafford of the Malvern Greenhouses, Bar Harbor, as speaker. His topic will be "Desirable Herbaceous Plants."

Smack Madeline & Flora, Capt. Charles Carver, and Virginia R. Capt. Lew Wallace, arrived at Peyer's today with 700 and 250 gallons of scallops respectively. The small fares were due to the exceedingly rough weather, which made the hardy fishermen only too glad to quit the Georges.

Report has it that the upper story of the paint factory building at the Northend will be used this winter as a skating rink. The ever popular sport gained many new devotees last winter.

POLITICAL GOSSIP

The Dartmouth football squad is predominantly Republican. A poll recently taken showed 39 for Hoover, 21 for Roosevelt and four of Thomas (Socialist).

Although Maine is to have a Democratic Governor the next two years, the Executive Council will be solidly Republican. Fred K. Owen in the Sunday Telegram says that Forrest H. Bond of Jefferson will succeed himself in the district to which Knox County belongs.

Hoover led Gov. Roosevelt by 383 votes in returns announced Saturday from ten cities in The Literary Digest's Presidential poll. The figures follow:

	Hoover Roosevelt
Palo Alto, Calif.	118 77
Sacramento, Calif.	94 325
Hartford, Conn.	698 379
Pittsburg, Mass.	55 48
Springfield, Mass.	446 238
Newark, N. J.	976 641
Reading, Pa.	234 355
Charleston, W. Va.	111 223
Wheeling, W. Va.	33 96
Salt Lake City	186 380
Totals	2851 2468

In previous returns announced from ten other cities Roosevelt was leading.

MORAN'S ELECTION

And What a Portland Paper Has To Say About Cong. Nelson

(Portland Evening News)

The victory of Edward Carl Moran, Jr., sends to Congress from the heart of Maine one extraordinarily qualified for the important office of Representative. Mr. Moran has been before the voters of the entire State for four years. In two successive campaigns as the gubernatorial nominee of the Democratic party, he earned the reputation as a man of outstanding ability, courage, vision, and intellectual integrity. Never have these qualities been so much needed in a public servant as today. Unlike the great majority of candidates for public office, Mr. Moran never pussy-footed, never evaded, never straddled. No one ever had the slightest doubt where he stood on any and every public issue. In 1928, he repudiated his party platform on the export of power; it is scarcely necessary to add that his stand has been demonstrated to be overwhelmingly right. More recently—abandoning all thought of party partisanship and personal advantage—he had the fine independence to work militantly in behalf of the code sponsored by the head of the Republican party in the State—Governor William Tudor Gardner, and it was due to Moran's support which convinced both Democrats and many independent voters who had faith in his integrity, that the code was finally adopted by the people of Maine on referendum.

It was highly characteristic of Moran at the time, that while he favored the code, he was no less insistent on the right of the people to be heard on it, thus diverging from the administration code supporters who did everything they could to prevent a referendum. He is essentially a Jeffersonian Democrat in the best sense of the word. He pays more than lip-service to the fundamental American doctrine that ours is a government by consent of the governed. Carl Moran will be heard from in Congress.

In the defeat of John E. Nelson the second district and the State of Maine have lost—for a brief interval—the services of one correctly esteemed in Washington, by the nation's press, and by political observers generally, to be the ablest servant in the public life of our State.

Mr. Nelson, while serving his own constituency with unusual diligence, achieved likewise a steadily growing national reputation. It is no secret that he was regarded in the Capital as one of the not more than a score of leaders among the 435 representatives. His soundness of judgment, his fairness of mind, his happy combination of conservatism in his appreciation of the sound values in our national heritage, with a progressive spirit inherent in his realization that we are living in a rapidly changing world to which we must adapt ourselves by many profound reforms—all these combine to make him a national figure.

Now he has been temporarily placed on the sidelines through a unique combination of circumstances.

TO SETTLE THE QUESTION

Which League Is Stronger, the Big Five Or Twilight—
A Real Attraction Thursday Night

One more ball game is to be played in Rockland this season, the event being scheduled for 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon, when the Big Five All-Stars will meet a team selected from the Knox County Twilight League.

The Big Fivers are convinced that they have the stronger league of the two, and the discussion has aroused keenest interest in all of the towns which have supported a Big Five representative the past summer.

Manager Mealey of the Twilight League team announces that he will pitch Chummy Gray.

President Drinkwater has this to say about the Big Fivers.

Rockland, Sept. 19.
To the Sports Editor:—
The team which is here given was selected by the manager of each team in the Big Five League as the strongest the League can put on the field, and they authorize me (the writer) to a year of Democratic victory throughout the nation following his party's failure, the re-districting of his district so as to place the most important Democratic nuclei within it, the inexcusable entry into the race of an "independent," the opposition of the ablest campaigner in the Democratic party—these factors taken together encompassed his defeat.

It goes without saying that the State of Maine cannot, and will not spare the services of John E. Nelson, beloved and admired by everyone who knows him. He has more than a year to serve, for with the Norris "lame duck" constitutional amendment still to be adopted by the State legislatures, his successor does not go into office until the session of Congress which begins in December, 1933. By that time another election have the same published over their signatures.

We are ready to start the battle at 5 p. m. (sharp) Thursday, confident that the Big Five All Stars will give a good account of themselves, and come through with flying colors.

Mr. Baseball Fan, you cannot afford to miss this game, so let's see you all there to support your favorites.

Big Five All Stars

BASEBALL BATTLES

Hopkins All-Stars found easy picking at The Kox Sunday afternoon when they found two pitchers on Jackson's Challengers for a total of 22 bases and 18 runs. The leaders in this swiftest were Ladd who hit safely in five times at bat, and Ames who made three singles and a double, in six times up. Ar. Makinen was effective as usual. The score:

SAVE 1/4 YOUR FUEL BILL

Hundreds of owners of Glenwood Furnaces throughout Knox County will testify that a Glenwood Furnace will save one-quarter the fuel cost for a season's use.

The cost of a Glenwood Furnace is now lower than any time during the past twenty years. We have every size in stock. We give you a price completely installed by expert Glenwood workmen.

Terms can be arranged so you can buy and take the whole year to pay. It is surprising to know the low price of a Glenwood completely installed.

You can have the single pipe style or a size furnace that carries heat to every room in the house. A Glenwood is almost a permanent investment as they wear for many years.

Israel Snow has employment with H. C. Doyle Co. in Guilford for the winter, and has already entered upon his duties.

The Educational Club will meet Friday from 2 to 7.30 with Mrs. Nina Gregory, Glenview. Current events. Take basket lunch.

LAST WEEK OF DAYLIGHT

Rockland in common with other Maine cities goes back onto standard time next Sunday morning, and we regain the hour which was lost when the clocks were set ahead last June. Timepieces should be set back one hour when you retire Saturday night.

Samuel Levy left yesterday for New York where he is to establish a business as dress buyer for New England retailers.

O. B. Brown is having a leave of absence from Central Fire Station on account of illness. George Burns is substituting.

Robert Stanley Ross, C.S.B., of New York has been engaged to lecture at First Church, Christ Scientist, Cedar street, Tuesday evening, Oct. 4.

Urgent need for drive reports, with Mrs. Etta Covel, leader, at Educational Club outing Friday with Mrs. Nina Gregory, of Glenview, hostess. Coffee and box lunch at 6.

The monthly meeting of the Past Grands and Past Nobles of the Grand Association of Rockland and Lincoln Counties takes place tomorrow night at Round Pond, supper to be served on arrival of guests.

Golden Rod Chapter O.E.S., meets Friday with 6 o'clock supper in charge of Mrs. Evelyn Orcutt. A pleasing entertainment program has been arranged by Mrs. Carolyn Stewart, to be given at the close of chapter work.

Mrs. Nettie Griffin and Mrs. Margaret Rackliffe were taken into membership at the meeting of Edwin Libby Relief Corps Thursday evening. The meeting Thursday evening will be for business only, convening at 7.30.

The annual convention of the National Association of Retail Druggists, which will bring more than 4000 visitors to Boston, opens at the Hotel Statler, next Monday. Reservations for the five-day event are in heavy demand, and delegates have enrolled from all parts of the United States.

Clifford Mank of Warren received late and unexpected callers Saturday night when representatives of the Federal government, customs patrol and sheriff's department descended upon his establishment. The visitors were armed with a search warrant, and as a result of their investigations 271 pints of whiskey were gathered into the fold. Mank was arraigned in Municipal Court yesterday, found guilty and sentenced to two months in jail, along with a fine of $300. He appealed and furnished bail.

Miss Ruth Pillsbury of 354 Broadway is receiving enrollments for the Nursery School she is to open next Monday. Children from two years to school age are being received. The chief idea of the school will be socialization—children learning to take care of themselves, how to play, handicraft and art work, folk dancing, etc. Miss Alameda Hall of Thomaston will assist in music. Miss Pillsbury is a graduate of Smith College, and received practical training in this branch by conducting a nursery school for professors' children, along lines of Miss Constance Morrow's school.

Mrs. Olive Sylvester of the Lawrence Portland Cement Company's office staff is having a week's vacation.

Miss Harriet Burgess of The Courier-Gazette staff is having her annual vacation, part of which will be spent in Canada.

Several boats were driven ashore here by the recent line gale, but none seriously damaged, so far as could be learned.

The Sons of Union Veterans Auxiliary are to have a white party at Grand Army hall tonight with Mrs. Elizabeth Murray as hostess.

Henry Gardner has moved from the Demmon house, Stanley lane, to Front street, to be with Mrs. Gardner's father, Mr. Winchenbaugh.

There was a long line of waiting customers at The Strand last night, drawn by that excellent picture, "The First Year," starring Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell. The favorable verdict means big houses today.

Fletcher Brown, son of Dr. and Mrs. Freeman F. Brown, and one of the honor students of Rockland High School, 32, left Sunday for Columbia University where he has been awarded the Moffat Scholarship.

Miriam Rebekah Lodge is holding its annual autumn fair today, the doors opening at 2 p. m. Many useful and attractive articles will be placed on sale. A public supper will be served from 5 to 7, and the Lodge will hold its business session.

Henry Lord, veteran shipbroker who had many friends in this city, died in Bangor Sunday aged 85 years. He had been in the ship brokerage and commission business since 1868. He was a former president of the Maine Senate.

Albert Wilbur officer in charge of the local branch of the Salvation Army will be guest speaker at the Lions Club luncheon tomorrow. Adjutant Wilbur is a former resident of New London as is one of the club members Ralph L. Smith.

The New York Express out of Rockland Sunday afternoon took the form of a double-header, reaching nearly to Broad street, and carried hundreds of passengers who have been spending the summer or the latter part of it in this vicinity.

In the Thorndike grill at 7 o'clock tomorrow night will be a meeting sponsored by the Inter-Club committee, with City Manager Ford of Auburn as guest speaker. There will be no banquet, and no admission is charged. Those interested in city management are invited.

The canning of corn is giving employment to a number of idle hands at the State Prison, and forms a new industry for that establishment. The product will be used by the prison, and if there is a surplus it will go to other State institutions. Henry B. Bird of the Medomak Canning Co. is helping direct the enterprise.

Battery E of this city is represented at the State shoot in Auburn this week by a pistol team comprising Staff Sergeant Herbert R. Day (captain) Sergeant Frank A. Elliot, Sergeant Walter C. Bodman, Corporal Raymond A. Young and Private 1st class Ernest H. Whitney. It is expected that shooting will begin tomorrow.

A most attractive addition has been completed in the dental offices of Dr. U. M. Richardson with the opening of the children's room. This is a section especially dedicated to the youngsters with everything in keeping. The operating chair is very small but complete in every detail. The cabinet takes the form of a handsome colonial home with concealed drawers for the instruments. It was the handiwork of Walter O'Brien of the Glover Mill and was painted by C. B. Emery. The wall decorations, designed to please the juvenile eye were painted by Ray Thompson. Dr. Richardson has had much experience with children's dentistry having been the official dentist of the local Red Cross for two years and for five years having conducted clinics of North Haven for the schools under direction of summer residents.

UNION'S DILEMMA

As Seen By Mr. Light—High School Too Low Or Road Too High

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—Progress on the new school building in Union has advanced so that it is announced that schools will be opened in it Oct. 3, and men, teams and auto power are fast putting the finishing touches of grading to the grounds.

But a new problem has arisen. It is now found that the highway nearest to the structure is too high, or the building is too low. Either the road should be lowered, or the building raised in order that suitable drainage be obtained and that a proper conception of the structure be presented. If accomplished it will necessitate a relative change of elevation of several feet. Shall the road be lowered for that purpose? If so, then its junction with Route No. 101—a State highway—is all disappointed, and presumably would not be allowed by the State Highway Commission that has full control of that route.

Besides, the Thomaston road (the one in discussion) being a town way, cannot be altered until "established by a vote of the town acting on an article to that effect in town meeting" (see R. S. Ch. 27, Sec. 16-18).

Another alternative is possible, but preposterous: leave the present road and junction as it is, and lay out and establish a new section of road, solely to accommodate travel to and from the Common to the Thomaston road, by curving across the grounds of the school building at a lower level, and between the present road and the building.

Each plan presents serious objections, hence Union's dilemma, and all the result of a deliberate plan fastened upon the town by theorists who aspire to "point with pride" to a temple of learning, but now find that the wayfarer will look down on a structure suggestive of a Pueblo dwelling in New Mexico.

In an article published in your valuable paper dated July 21, 1931, the writer urged the location of the proposed building further away from the highway, where ample elevation, drainage, safety and perspective were available on land owned by the town, and bought for such contingency, and where all these troublesome problems would have been unknown.

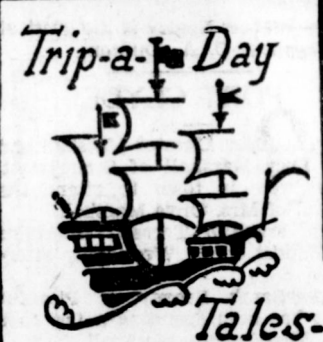

What will Union do about it, dig down the road, raise up the building, including the gymnasium, dig out and "establish" a new road across its grounds already too scant, or let conditions stand pat?

This is Union's dilemma and I hope the voters of the town will clearly understand the matter before any action is taken to further perplex them.

We submit: when the present plan, proposed by the State Department of Education, adopted in full by the school officials, from the commissioner down to the last one, insisted upon as the one only to be used, did they comply with their own "minimum requirements" of location on high ground and at suitable distance from trunk-line highways?

E. E. Light.

Union, Sept. 19.

Touring In The New Spain

Now that Spain is a Republic the tourists appear to be flocking there in greater numbers. The fine motor roads recently finished carry visitors all over that romantic peninsula, which the ancients thought was "the end of the world." From the fashionable resorts in the north at Santander and Sebastian to Madrid on the great tableland, to the sunny south, where for centuries, tourists have stood and wondered at quaintness of old Toledo, the beauty of Seville, the Moorish relics at Granada, or to the East to see the Catalans amid the gorges of their architecture or the beauty of a walk along the Rambler. Spain welcomes all.

STORMING THE HEIGHTS

Maine's Embattled Farmers At Castine During the Revolution—By Judge E. K. Gould

FOREWORD.

The "Expedition to the Penobscot," as the American attack on Castine is officially designated, has always been a "sore spot" in American Revolutionary history, to be passed over lightly with brief reference or without any reference whatever. The reason for this was that it is a crushing American defeat. The expedition was doomed to fail before it started. Instead of the 1500 men called for by the Massachusetts authorities, but a scant 900 reported for duty. To make success certain 2000 men should have been provided in the land force.

However, no greater gallantry was shown in any battle of the Revolution than that displayed in the joint army and navy attack on the Heights along the western shore of the Castine peninsula, which resulted in their being carried. Even now the place of attack is a tangled wilderness almost inaccessible with precipitous banks that require the agility of youth to climb. A wooden sign marks the place of ascent of Colonel McCobb's Regiment. Deep in the wildwood is another tablet of wood which indicates the place of sepulchre of the gallant officers and men who perished in this ill-fated expedition. But for the sign there is nothing on the face of the earth to denote that human beings are buried on this spot. On the contrary trees nearly two feet in diameter are growing over this burial place. The memory of these gallant heroes deserves something better than oblivion and it is the purpose of this article to render them substantial justice.

The American defeat at Castine was the severest blow received by the American Naval force during the Revolution. The trade to Canada went safe after the destruction of the American vessels, at least for the season. Massachusetts never recovered the loss of ships while the war lasted, and it was a long time before the Commonwealth was reimbursed by the General Government for the enormous expense for those times of fitting out the expedition.

After the defeat all thought of attacking Canada and Nova Scotia was finally abandoned, and the shipping trade from the banks of Newfoundland along the Nova Scotia coast enjoyed unusual security.

Bunker Hill was a British victory. So was Castine. But American valor shines with undying luster through the murky clouds of defeat in both battles.

"Lord God of Hosts Be With Us Yet,
Lest We Forget—Lest We Forget."

EDWARD K. GOULD

(FOURTH INSTALLMENT)

It was a calm and foggy morning, and at three a. m. the American vessels were in line up and down the bay, just beyond musket shot of the enemy, when preparations were made to land. Mowatt's sloops controlled the mouth of the harbor and prevented a landing on the southern and eastern sides of the peninsula, and a trench had been cut across the isthmus at the northward, which completely severed the neck from the main land and prevented a hostile approach from that direction.

General Lovell had no other choice but to make his landing on the westerly side, which was at most places very precipitous, stated by some authorities to be 200 feet in height. The landing force consisted of 150 marines and 200 militia.

The marines were to form on the right on the beach and were under the command of Capt. Welsh. The first division of the attacking force was led by Brigadier-General Wadsworth, the second by Col. Samuel McCobb, in whose regiment Capt. Ulmer's company of Knox County were serving. The third and left division was led by Col. Jonathan Mitchell of the Cumberland County regiment. The landing was under the direction and personal supervision of Brigadier-General Solomon Lovell, the commander of the expedition. Lieut. Colonel Paul Revere was to land his artillerymen, armed with muskets, to act as a reserve to the assaulting troops, following them up the Heights.

The Brigs Hazard, Tyrannicide, Active and Sally were ranged broadside to the shore near where the troops were to land, and were to prepare the way for the landing by sweeping the shore and Heights with their cannon fire.

There was much confusion and delay in getting the landing party into the flat-bottomed boats, and after they were crowded with men, it was necessary to utilize a flat-bottomed sloop to accommodate part of Colonel Mitchell's detachment that was to land on the left. It was late before the embarkation commenced, and as the men had had no sleep the night before, it was with the greatest difficulty that the boats were filled.

Capt. Philip M. Ulmer's company of Knox County men had been kept in the small boats all night, crowded in a standing position without room to sit or otherwise rest themselves. A little before sunrise the troops were ready to make their landing. General Wadsworth's detachment, which included the marines from the vessels, was to charge the Heights on the right of the American line, Colonel McCobb in command of the center detachment was to land and fire up the Heights to hold the attention of the enemy, while Wadsworth on the right and the detachment of Colonel Mitchell which was to attack on the left, were scaling the steep slopes; after which Colonel McCobb was to charge with his men.

Lieut. Colonel Revere's artillery men, armed with muskets, were to land as a reserve to support the troops attacking the Heights. It was 5 o'clock, or about daylight, when the shipping ordered to cover the landing began a heavy cannonade of round and double-headed shot, sweeping the wooded slopes and the Heights with their iron hail. The roaring of the guns, the falling of the trees, and the crashing of the branches, brought dismay to the British soldiers defending the Heights, according to a British account.

In the gray of the early morning and screened from musketry fire somewhat by the fog, the boats containing the landing party moved to the shore. On the Heights about to be assaulted British troops were posted who opened a brisk fire as the American troops landed, the musket balls falling in the water like hailstones.

Quickly and with a shout the troops leaped from the boats and commenced to scale the Heights. Capt. Ulmer's Knox County Company made their landing in front of a cliff that appeared inaccessible. In this emergency Capt. Ulmer acted with rare judgment and courage. With the leaden hail pouring down on the devoted heads of his men from the Heights towering above them, he ordered two volleys to be fired up the bank, and directed the men to charge the Heights without formation, getting up as best they could but to immediately form in line of battle on reaching the crest.

The musketry fire of the British on the Heights was severe. Orders had been given to form on the shore and charge the Heights in line of battle, but the precipice was so steep that it was difficult to ascend, even by grasping the bushes.

Gallantly did the men composing the three assaulting detachments spring to their dangerous task, without formation, each man for himself. They ascended the rocky slopes in the face of the blazing rifle fire and carried the crest. The enemy could not withstand this irresistible onslaught and fled before the unerring rifles of the embattled farmers, leaving thirty of their number dead and dying behind them.

As soon as the assaulting detachments reached the crest, Lieut. Colonel Revere's reserve of artillerymen was ordered by General Lovell to advance to the summit and assist in establishing a line of defense which order was promptly executed.

This brilliant affair lasted but twenty minutes, but the Americans lost in this attack, according to the British account, one hundred men out of the 350 making the charge, while General Lovell reports his loss as fifty. The marines in General Wadsworth's detachment suffered the most, encountering the heaviest musketry fire as they assaulted on the right.

The Americans, gallantly led by their officers, had stormed and captured the Heights with great spirit, but without any order or regularity, and it was with great difficulty that the officers reduced them to order, or forms of defense, after the Heights had been gained.

Patrons of Husbandry, who are members of Pleasant River Grange are requested to be present at a booster meeting to be held Sept. 30 at 8 o'clock. This will be an open session and members are privileged to invite any of their friends. All are asked to be present. Refreshments and program.

BREMEN

The storm Friday night washed out the roads here quite badly. It seems as if more attention should be paid to drainage, the middle of the road in most places being the lowest.

Mrs. Mildred Gentner is expected home from Knox Hospital this week. The people here would surely miss Knox Hospital if it were to close.

Mrs. Clara Willey has moved into the Perle Collamore house at the Cove.

Jesse McLain has finished haying for the season having harvested the hay on seven farms and cut it on three more.

What has become of the North Hope writer? North Hope is surely a lovely place and we can imagine ourselves back there with David Hall and boys, Frank Conant and boys, one of them Ralph P. now an alderman of Rockland, Ed. Brown, Len Jackson, Alvin Perry and many others, all good people.

"No one need fear Birthdays" says Betty Compson

"I'M OVER 30," says Betty Compson, popular screen star, "and I don't mind admitting it in the least. No woman need fear added years—if she knows how to take care of her appearance."

"Actresses of the stage and screen know a young-looking skin is absolutely necessary. For years I have used Lux Toilet Soap, and find it certainly does wonders for the complexion."

The secret Betty Compson tells is shared by countless other lovely actresses.

Of the 694 important Hollywood actresses, including all stars, 686 use Lux Toilet Soap regularly. It is so utterly white!

Surely you will want to try it!

"I'm over 30!"

Miss Nellie G. Davis is teaching school in Woolwich.

Arthur McFarland is attending school at Lincoln Academy, Danvers, Mass.

Llewellyn Oliver is teaching school in Broad Cove, Cushing.

Rev. A. I. Oliver, district superintendent of the M. E. Church held quarterly services Sept. 11 and a very interesting sermon was listened to by an appreciative audience.

The church was attractively decorated with flowers, fruit and vegetables, which were contributed by the parishioners. Music was furnished by the choir. A harvest supper was held in the vestry the following Monday under the auspices of the Ladies Aid which was a success judging from the comments of the patrons, and the financial proceeds were enough to pay off the debt on the new furnace installed last fall.

Rev. Mr. Oliver spoke in complimentary terms of the good fellowship and co-operation of the church people with their pastor Rev. Mr. Lewis who labors so cheerfully and whose services are much appreciated.

Velvet For Afternoon

New York-Paris Fashions

ACELE Lakme velvet is the fabric used for this afternoon ensemble. This new dull velvet is increasingly popular for Fall and Winter fashion. The square neck blouse is of hand-run Alencon lace and embroidered net and with a little jacket of velvet which is sometimes worn with it, completes the costume very delightfully.

GETS TEACHER POST

Dorothy Eaton of Rockland Elected Commercial Teacher At Hermon High School

Miss Dorothy Eaton of Rockland, who graduated in June from the commercial teacher training department of Beal College in Bangor, has been elected commercial teacher for the new department to be opened at Hermon High School this fall. The town of Hermon is erecting a new high school building to replace the one burned last spring. The new building will be modern in every respect, and in line with progressive education everywhere, will contain a modern, well-equipped commercial department.

Miss Eaton, who will introduce the new courses, a graduate of Rockland High School and Beal College, has also taken courses at Gorham Normal School and the University of Maine. Her work at the University of Maine this summer was comprised of courses in psychology and play coaching. Miss Eaton, who is especially interested in English and debating, pursued this course in dramatics with the idea of being able to do extra-curricula work along this line.

During the latter part of her teacher training course at Beal College Miss Eaton did practice teaching for six weeks at Hampden Academy under the supervision of Miss Ena Merrill, commercial teacher, herself a Beal graduate. Miss Eaton holds a Gregg teachers' certificate of honor grade, having passed her Gregg examination with high honors. She also gave the farewell address at the Beal College graduation in June in a manner which reflected much credit upon herself.

Miss Eaton is a member of Beta Phi Sorority.

While in college Miss Eaton was popular with students and teachers alike and goes to her new post with the best wishes of both faculty and fellow classmates.

Mrs. C. O. Perry was hostess to the Tuesday Club yesterday with luncheon at her cottage at Megunticook Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Page and house guest, Mrs. Frances Wickersham of Washington, D. C., motored to Bar Harbor and Cadillac Mountain Sunday, calling on friends in Bar Harbor and Bangor enroute.

Arthur K. Orne of the faculty of the Wassookeag School, Dexter, has joined Mrs. Orne at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Smith, Lincoln street, for two weeks' vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Spear entertained the Friday Night Club at supper and bridge at their home on Broadway.

Miss Esther Nickerson entertained charmingly Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Stevens, the occasion marking her 17th birthday. Games, music and dancing occupied the time, with Sophie Cohen and Walter Barstow carrying off honors in games. Refreshments included a birthday cake, and many lovely gifts. Miss Nickerson's guests were Elzada North, Ruth Gregory, Sophie Cohen, Constance, Luella and Elizabeth Snow, Hulda Smith, Natalie Jones, Walter Barstow, William Glover, Herve Allen, Jr., James Pellicane, Stanley Quinn, Howard Chase, Charles Ellis, Russell Bartlett, Jr., and Richard Thomas.

Medicine Co. Makes Remarkable Record

Atlanta, Ga.—Almost every line of business has suffered more or less on account of the depression. The manufacturers of Sargon Soft Mass Pills have made a record they may well be proud of. Although Sargon Soft Mass Pills were first placed on the market about three years ago, over 135,000,000 of these pills have been sold and their fame has spread to many foreign countries. They not only enjoy a tremendous popularity throughout America, but they are also in large demand in Canada, the Philippine Islands, Hawaii, Alaska, Porto Rico, and other foreign countries. Corner Drug Store, Inc., Rockland, Me.

Mrs. Leola Rose entertained the Breakfast Bridge Club at picnic luncheon yesterday at the Thordike cottage, Ingraham Hill. Each player was awarded a prize. Special guests were Mrs. Alberta Rose, Mrs. Earl McIntosh and Mrs. Walter H. Spear.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hull of Bar Harbor were guests Sunday of Mrs. Belle Hull, Camden street.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett L. Spear and Everett L. Spear, 2d, were in Bucksport for the weekend. Sunday they were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Rich, Jr., for a trip to Cadillac Mountain and Southwest Harbor.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Simmons of Friendship and Mrs. Clarence Johnson visited at Bar Harbor and Cadillac Mountain Sunday.

Miss Annie Frye of Summer street is receiving treatment at Knox Hospital as results of a recent ill turn.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hoch, sons David and Wesley and Mrs. Martha Koster are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hoch, Allentown, Penn.

Norman Waldron left Tuesday for Manhattan, N. Y., where he is a member of the faculty in the Manlius Military School.

Congressman-elect Edward C. Moran, Jr., is to be tendered a complimentary banquet in the near future, that event to be preceded by a drum corps serenade.

Mrs. J. C. Cunningham entertained the F&F Club Friday afternoon, when honors fell to Mrs. Maude Hallowell, Mrs. Della York and Mrs. Elizabeth Murray.

Arthur B. Richardson of Ealing, England, was entertained at breakfast Sunday at Wassookeag Inn.

Miss Helen Fuller spent the weekend in Gardiner, the guest of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. Davis were guests of Mrs. Edith Carver and Mrs. Mabel Lytell at Herdsdale Farm, Canton, for the weekend. Mrs. Carver, Mrs. Lytell and Mrs. Davis were schoolmates, it being Mrs. Davis' and Mrs. Lytell's first meeting in 45 years.

Wyman Foster, now located in Boston, spent the weekend with his family at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Fuller, Talbot avenue.

Mrs. H. D. Ames of Brockton, Mass., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Smith, Broad street.

Dr. Freeman F. Brown and family who have been at "The Haystack," Ash Point, for the summer, have returned to their apartments on School street.

J. Harry Boynton of Lexington, Mass., arrived Friday to join Mrs. Boynton at their Crescent Beach cottage for the week. Mr. Boynton made the trip by motor, arriving here in the thickest of the storm which he pronounced the worst he ever experienced on the road. Mr. and Mrs. Boynton are returning to Lexington the last of the week. Their son Stanley will remain for a while longer.

HYVARI-NEWMAN

Miss Helen Newman and Lauri Hyvari of Ash Point stole a march on their many friends when they were married Sunday afternoon at the Baptist parsonage. Rev. J. Charles MacDonald performed the double ring ceremony. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sukeforth of Rockland, Mr. and Mrs. Hyvari will make their home with the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Newman, Ash Point.

Home from the dance with ruinous Stocking Runs

If she'd only save the ELASTICITY that makes stockings WEAR!

SHE could easily cut down on those embarrassing runs. Other girls do. They make stockings last twice as long by Luxing them after every wearing.

With Lux, you keep your stockings elastic—so the delicate silk threads give under strain—stretch and then spring back into shape without breaking.

Try it yourself! It takes only 2 minutes to Lux a pair of stockings. You'll agree that the easy Lux way of washing saves stocking money—makes even delicate chiffon hosiery wear.

The LUX Way to make stockings last twice as long

Wash this 2-minute way:

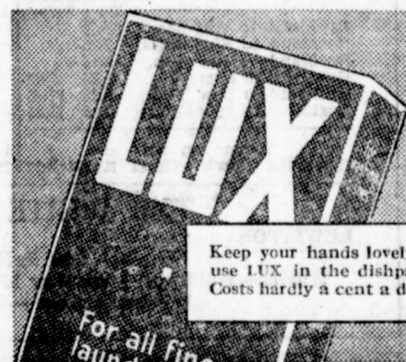

1. One teaspoon of Lux for each pair of stockings.
2. Add lukewarm water, squeeze suds through stockings, rinse well.

Don't use too-warm water—this fades color. With Lux you use lukewarm water. No hot water needed.

Don't rub with cake soap. It ruins elasticity. With Lux there's no rubbing! Even stubborn spots come out perfectly if you press a few dry Lux diamonds into the dampened spot.

Avoid ordinary soaps—cakes, powders, chips. These often contain harmful alkali, which robs silk of its life, weakens threads, fades colors. Lux has no harmful alkali. Anything safe in water alone is safe in Lux.

WHITE RIBBON CONVENTION

Maine W.C.T.U. Begins Its Annual Sessions In Waterville Today.—Important Speakers

The annual convention of the Maine W.C.T.U. which is to be held in Waterville, promises to be of unusual interest. Not only will prominent temperance leaders from every county in the State be present but the President of the world's W.C.T.U. and of the National W.C.T.U., Dr. Ella A. Boole of New York will be among the speakers, and the first vice president of the world's W.C.T.U., Mrs. Gertrude Stevens Leavitt will speak Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Althea G. Quimby, President of the organization will preside at the convention. Mrs. Quimby has just returned from an extended tour of the United States. She led the Maine delegation at the convention of the National W.C.T.U. in Seattle and was a guest in many of the States, returning by the way of California.

The services Thursday evening will open with a procession led by State, National and World officers and participated in by the presidents of the several counties of Maine. The historic flags which have played an interesting part in great meetings in Niagara Falls, Washington, D. C., and Seattle, Wash., will be displayed and on Friday morning these flags will be presented to the 135 each of whom won five new members.

THE HOOVER CAUSE

Finds New Encouragement In Words of "Progressive" Senators

A Washington despatch to the New York Herald Tribune says: At the end of a series of political conference between President Hoover and party visitors who brought reports from all parts of the country, two encouraging developments in the campaign situation were hailed at the White House Saturday.

As an indication that the "progressive" Senatorial group in the Republican party was swinging into line behind the national ticket, the support given the President on the bonus payment issue by Senator Borah, Republican insurgent of Idaho, officially was welcomed. Contributing to the impression of potential aid in this quarter, Senator Howell of Nebraska, another of the doubtful group, returned to Washington with criticism of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt's farm speech and a report of increasing sentiment in the West for Mr. Hoover.

The other sanguine development was noted by Joseph R. Nutt, treasurer of the Republican National Committee, who informed the President that since the setback in the Maine elections and Mr. Hoover's resulting rallying call for renewed party effort, there had been an outpouring of campaign contributions.

Indications were that plans had been completed tentatively for an address by the President in New York City, Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of State, who was one of those called to the White House, also is a projected campaigner in the East.

From the far West Joseph Scott, California attorney, who nominated Mr. Hoover for President at the last two Republican conventions, reported his confidence that Mr. Hoover's home State was "safe" and predicted a tense fight against "demagogic" appeals. From all sides Mr. Hoover's active participation in the campaign was importuned.

S Senator Borah, hitherto silent in the campaign, made his debut as a strong critic of the American Legion for its demand for immediate payment of the $200,000,000 bonus. In thus coming speedily to the support of the President's pronounced position the Senator was looked upon here as giving aid to the White House even though he is not yet raising his voice for Mr. Hoover's re-election. Gov. Roosevelt's continued silence on the bonus issue, it was pointed out, separates him distinctly from Senator Borah.

Senator Hastings, who cited the Borah statement after his conference with the President, admitted his colleague had been expressing no great enthusiasm in the Republican cause. "It is better to have him in the back door than not at all," he said with a smile.

S Senator Howell of Nebraska, colleague of Senator George W. Norris, Republican insurgent who now is supporting Gov. Roosevelt, had been in the doubtful list until today. A critic of the President's attitude toward farm aid, Senator Howell had been awaiting the Democratic candidate's position on agricultural relief. He found it unsatisfactory. With an unexpected show of party spirit, Senator Howell said the political situation throughout the country was looking better for the Republicans than it did some time ago.

"Things are looking better," said Senator Howell, "but the outcome depends on the developments of the next fifty days and the Presidential contest in the Middle West is in the lap of the gods."

S Senator Howell feels that much depends on the trend of agricultural and other prices between now and election day, and that an upward swing of prices will help the Republicans materially.

Criticizing the Roosevelt agricultural speech as inadequate, the Senator said:

"Gov. Roosevelt wrote a general specification such as we have had before us for a long time. What we have been trying to find is a remedy, and he did not give us any."

Novelty and thrills enter into the plot of "The Last Man," sea mystery adventure, coming Wednesday and Thursday.

Lovely Constance Cummings supplies her usual charm as Marian Wingate, the daughter of John Wingate, ship owner, who has been made the caspaw of a dastardly band of rascals who hide behind him and make it appear that he has scuttled his own ships to collect the insurance money. The plot is daring and well worked out. Alec B. Francis has the role of John Wingate, and although he plays his familiar part of a venerable parent, he has in "The Last Man" an unusual chance to display his innate ability to act, for the part has outstanding plot significance. Other character roles are well taken by Alan Roscoe and Robert Ellis, the first-named playing the role of Marsden, the Port Suez representative of the insurance concern Bannister is working to protect, who turns out to be the ringleader of the whole nefarious conspiracy, which has been pinned on John Wingate—adv.

STRAND THEATRE
Jackie Cooper comes Wednesday and Thursday in "Divorce in the Family." Jackie is seen as the son of a scientist, divorced from his wife. When the boy is placed in the care of his mother and stepfather he experiences a longing for his real father and a reluctance to attune himself to the strange environment of his new home. The childish tragedies of the little boy trying to get used to the "new" father who does not understand him, gives rise to both amusing and pathetic bits of drama. The picture was directed by Charles F. Riesner, who produced "Caught Short" and other Marie Dressler hits. The cast includes Conrad Nagel as the stepfather, Lewis Stone as the father and Lois Wilson as the mother.

Jackie has many hilarious moments with his "gang" of small playmates and with Indians on the American desert. There is an exciting fight, a wreck on the river, a sensational rescue, a tense scene in which the stepfather gives his blood to save the injured brother and a dramatic courtroom episode—adv.

WITH AN EYE TO BUSINESS

Rockland Business College Now Occupying Its Handsome New Quarters—A Word About This Progressive School

The Rockland Business College Under Guidance of Mrs. Lena K. Sargent, is Now Occupying Its Fine New Home At 51 Park Street. This Is One of the Best Commercial School Plants in Maine.

The new home of the Rockland Business College as pictured above is coming in for many compliments these days. It is located in the Park street side of the Lewiston Buick Co. building, corner of High street. The main room is 60 by 30 feet with ideal lighting afforded by all glass fronts on the street sides. Excellent ventilation is secured by a new system just completed.

Much new equipment has been added to the school including 10 regulation office desks for the stenography department, purchased through Burpee Furniture Co. All the remaining desks and tables have been refurnished with linoleum tops. The eastern section is devoted to accounting and assembly. The western end to stenography and other courses. The office of the principal, Mrs. Lena K. Sargent, occupies the middle rear section giving oversight of the whole school. Adjoining it is a comfortable rest room with all conveniences. The decorative screens in the large windows were made by C. B. Emery.

The Rockland Business College has been conducted for several years by Mrs. Sargent with a steadily growing reputation for excellence. Fine records have been made everywhere by its graduates. The school moved to its present quarters from the top floor of the Senter Crane Company building. Its text books, courses and instruction are all standard. Sessions are held daily 8 to 1 o'clock with intermission at 11. The evening school, starting Oct. 4, is held Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7 to 9. The classroom is entirely separated from the rear of the structure which is occupied by the Buick agency and Barrett R. Cotton automotive repair shop.

CUT ACREAGE IN HALF

Farmers Can Do So and Make Money By Proper Fertilizer Application

The American farmer can cut his acreage in half and by intensive cultivation of the soil through the intelligent use of fertilizer he can double his profits, according to Horace Bowker, president of the American Agricultural Chemical Company, speaking at a meeting in New York City. With modern farm methods, said Mr. Bowker, the adequate use of fertilizer of the right type increases the yield from each acre planted and reduces by as much as 50 percent the cost of growing each pound of cotton or bushel of wheat.

"Failure to understand the true function of fertilizer is one of the principal reasons why fertilizer consumption has shown such a relatively slow rate of increase in this country," Mr. Bowker continued. "This is evidenced by the fact that farmers in Europe, under similar climatic conditions, employ fertilizer at from three to ten times the rate which obtains in this country."

"This inadequate understanding of the part played by fertilizer in reducing unit production costs acutely affects the fertilizer industry when over the farmer's buying power is impaired, as witness the situation in the current year, with consumption at a rate less than half that of 1929."

Mr. Bowker pointed out, "by using the proper fertilizer to increase the yield from each acre planted, it is possible to reduce the cost of growing a pound of cotton from an average of, say 12 cents a pound to 4 or 5 cents a pound, and the same is true of other crops as well. Obviously, then, in times like these the farmer needs fertilizer more than ever."

WHY POPCORN POPPS
Great differences are found in the popping qualities of popcorn. Study points out that there are a number of varieties of popcorn, with Tom Thumb rice corn and the white and yellow pearl corn the most popular. A good popcorn should increase 20 times in bulk when popped, although much popcorn will increase 25 to 30 times in popping. The heat used and the amount of moisture in the kernel determine to a great extent the popping qualities of a corn, but even more fundamental is the amount and character of the starch in the corn. In popping, the grains of starch explode and increase the bulk of the corn. Fertilizers used to increase the yield of popcorn should for this reason contain a high proportion of potassium salts, which stimulate the development of starch in the plant.

MORAN'S EXPENSES

Candidate Says He Expended $1285.80—Anti-Prohibitionist Claim

A special despatch from the Press Herald's Washington Bureau, deals largely with the report made by Edward C. Moran, Jr., who won the Congressional election, and the association against Prohibition, which took the credit for it. The despatch follows:

"Washington, Sept. 16.—The report of campaign expenditures received today by the clerk of the House of Representatives from Edward C. Moran, Jr., successful Democratic candidate for Congress from the Second Maine District, was not in the form of a report, but in the form of a list of expenses. However, it was said at the clerk's office that probably an amended report would not be required unless complaint against the report was made. The amounts reported by Mr. Moran were: Printing, $171.15; radio, $75.00; street signs, $77.25; postage, $31.38; travel expenses, $385.02.

"The report was not dated but bore the postmark of Sept. 15. It was in long-hand, which made the itemization difficult to read. It was not in affidavit form as required by the corrupt practices act. There was no way of telling when the expenses were made, since Moran filed no pre-election report of expenditures, as required by law. He states that the report received today covers expenditures in connection with my campaign for Representative to Congress from the Second Maine District."

"The report covered only expenditures. The corrupt practices act requires an itemized report of any contributions received. Usually a candidate who has received no contributions states that the report does not state whether or not any promise or pledge has been given him or any person with his consent prior to election relative to appointment, etc., though the law requires the report of any such promise, or when none has been given, this fact must be specifically stated in the report."

"To date reports have been received only from Moran, Frederick Bonney, and John E. Nelson, defeated Republican opponent, and Joseph E. F. Connolly of the First District. The corrupt practices act requires reports of election expenditures before and after election."

"The report of the Association against the Prohibition Amendment filed Thursday with the clerk of the House includes expenditure of $60 to the Congress Square Hotel Company for advertising to Portland. The report covers June, July and August. Joseph Shouse, president of the association, the day after the election, took credit to the organization for the victory of Democrats in the Second and Third Districts, but refused to say how much had been spent. The amount must be reported in the next report of the association."

This will be remembered as the year when the campaign was opened with a corkscrew.—Publishers' Syndicate.

ROOSEVELT'S SILENCE

Can He Balance His Eels Until Election Day? Asks New York Editor

(New York Herald Tribune)
"How do you stand on the bonus?" is being asked daily of Gov. Roosevelt. His enemy Alfred E. Smith has asked the question. His friend "The New York Times" asks it. The day came at Portland when, by speaking out—as did Mr. Hoover—he could take the question out of politics and silence the Legion for all time. The day passed with Franklin D. Roosevelt silent. He is still silent.

On the way to Salt Lake City, a persistent reporter asked Governor Roosevelt what he would do about the beet sugar tariff. The question was certainly of great local relevance, for the train was then in the heart of the beet sugar region. Said Franklin D. Roosevelt in reply:

"I cannot enter into a discussion of every item on the tariff schedule at this time."

A radically lowered tariff is perhaps the foremost policy on the Governor's list. Yet he refuses to speak out upon one of the most vulnerable of the Hawley-Smoot items. The Democrats of the House made sense of the Democratic tariff policy last spring by their embargo taxes on coal and oil. Governor Roosevelt echoes their inconsistency when he refuses to apply his tariff policy where it hurts.

The day before, at Topeka, the Governor did an even more ingenious job of avoidance. He came out passionately for helping the farmer and laid down admirable general principles by which such aid must be tested. But did he say how these principles could be lived up to in a practical plan? He did not. He left that to "wise minds" of the future—as if "wise minds" had not consistently failed to evolve such a plan for a decade.

There are other vital issues which the Governor must face before election day. Can there be much question now of how he intends to handle them? In his Columbus speech he showed an acquaintance with Alice in Wonderland and referred to Father William, who balanced an eel on the end of his nose. It is becoming plain that the Governor is undertaking an even more difficult task. He hopes to balance until election not one eel on the end of his nose, but a good half dozen eels, of varying degrees of size and slipperiness, upon as many portions of his anatomy.

The issue left is a simple one. Can a candidate for the Presidency, in an hour of national emergency, win his way to the White House by evading definite issues and dispensing generalities? How long does it take the American people to see through such campaigning? More than seven weeks remain till election day. Can the Governor balance his eels that long?

But Still Quite a Lot of Loafing At Stonington, Says McGuffie

"I am glad to report some improvement here," writes Alex McGuffie, secretary of the Quarrymen's Union at Stonington in his monthly letter to the Quarry Workers' Journal. Continuing, he says:

"The Deer Island Granite company has put quite a few of its men to work but there are still a lot loafing. This company has about two gangs of cutters working on a bridge job. It is not a very big job as I understand that there is only a small part of the job left so far but we are living in hopes that the rest of the job will come here."

"The John L. Goss company has three gangs of quarrymen working; and is not rushed with work either; mostly grout they tell me but we really have no kick coming in this town as far as the depression goes for we have not seen it here like they have in most every place in the country."

"I have had the privilege of looking at some of the pictures of Radio City as it will look when completed. As I told you before, Deer Island pink granite is being put in those buildings. We are quarrying some stone all the time for it on the Deer Island company's job. It is also being saved here, and when the whole job is completed it will be one of the wonders of the modern world. As you all know, in any great building there should be strength to support the great walls and also beauty to adorn them and where best can you get both those two things—why, in granite, of course, and fine workmanship of union men and we have a plentiful supply of both. Where can you get better material than the pink granite that is produced here for endurance and beauty. If no vandal's hand should touch it, it will be standing in New York City a thousand years from now. Again I ask you where can you get better material for a fine building—the answer is 'It can't be done.'"
