CASSMAN ARRESTED

Tillson Avenue Man Is Charged With Single Sale and Larceny

Fred Peterson of Thomaston, who recently received $400 through the settlement of his father's estate in Sweden, alleged in Municipal Court this morning that the legacy had disappeared when he awoke in Abram Cassman's place at 77 Tillson avenue the other morning.
Peterson, so the story goes, undertook to collect in true wild Western style; be that as it may, a 32 calibre revolver and ammunition was taken from him. Would be suicide was the occasion for being "heeled," Peterson said.
Cassman was arrested for single sale and larceny, and the trial is scheduled for 2 o'clock this afternoon.

THOMASTON BANK PLAN

When Uncle Sam Gives His Approval National Will Reopen Without Restrictions

Approval has been received from Washington, D.C., of the plan of reorganizing the Thomaston National Bank by Richard O. Elliot, conservator.
In briefest terms the plan calls for replacement of capital stock $100,000 and the issuing of an additional $50,000 of non-assessable preferred stock, to be sold at a premium.
The depositors will be asked to waive 30 per cent of their old accounts, both savings and checking.
A trust fund applied to recover the loss of 30 per cent of deposits waived, will be left for further development, to be handled by three trustees.
When this plan has been approved by the Government in Washington and 75 per cent of deposits of the value of accounts, the bank will open without restrictions.
When minor details have been completed, now in the hands of the attorney for the bank, a mass meeting will be called to explain all details to the depositors.
Appeal is made to all those able to assist in the present situation by purchasing the common stock needed to satisfy the requirements of the Government, and to assist in forming a community bank.
The Depositors' Committee.
Thomaston, May 8.

MR. CRIE EXPLAINS

Why Pittsfield Was Chosen As Meeting Place For the Lobster Fishermen

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—
It is not the custom of the Commissioner of Sea and Shore Fisheries to answer articles criticizing his work, but in order to make it plain why Pittsfield was chosen for the meeting place of the lobster fishermen will say that Pittsfield is located approximately 160 miles from Kittery, 156 miles from Eastport and 92 miles from Rockland.
As this particular meeting was called to decide on statewide legislation the commissioner has tried, as best he could, to arrange a meeting place that will give all fishermen equal distances to travel as nearly as could be done and Pittsfield seemed to be the place centrally located for train and automobile service and practically all travel that way.
H. D. Crie,
Commissioner.

BEAUTIFUL PRIMULA PLANTS

Passers-by are often attracted by the beautiful Primula or Primroses which are seen in the windows at the home of Misses Caroline and Elizabeth Jameson, Warren street. The plants show different varieties of bloom—variegated, showing white with pink and blue, and while one shows a lovely shade of lavender. The Misses Jameson are very fond of flowers and have much success with whatever they undertake to raise. A little farther along the street one sees the richly colored "Coeus" with the foliage of green, maroon, reds and yellows. In some places geraniums seem to be the favorite plants, with white, pink, red, or variegated blossoms.

THE CEMENT PLANT TO START AGAIN

The word which many persons have been anxiously awaiting came yesterday with the announcement from Plant Manager C. H. Sonntag that the Lawrence Portland Cement Company is to resume operations the latter part of this week at the Thomaston mill. The plant will be operated at 50 per cent of its capacity, giving employment, with the lime department, to about 150 men. Seventy are already employed there. It is the intention to employ skilled laborers up to the desired number. "Employment will be given through the summer and fall," said Manager Sonntag, "and a sale is expected for about two-thirds of the amount of lime produced last year."

Depositors' Meeting

A meeting of the depositors of the Rockland National Bank will be held at Park Theatre, Rockland, on Wednesday, May 10th, at 7.30 P. M., Daylight Saving Time.

Peter A. Isaacson, attorney for the bank, will present the plan for re-organization.

TOM PIETROSKI'S TRIP

Rockland Newsboy's Adventures In Washington—Dazed By the "Mint Factory"—Wall Street Not So Hot

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

In March the Portland Maine Publishing Company held a banquet at the Thorne-dike and Mr. Gray, circulation manager, who presided, made a speech, in which he said that a trip to Washington, D. C., would be given the carrier who secured the most new subscriptions. I entered the contest, which began Feb. 8 and ended April 15, and in that time secured 121 new subscribers, winning second place, among all the contestants over the State.

So on Friday morning, April 8, I left here on the 8 o'clock train, and went to Brunswick, and there, after changing trains, met the rest of the boys. When we landed in Portland we had our pictures taken, and I was the smallest in the group. From Portland we went to Boston.

We left for New York by boat, and from New York went by train to Philadelphia. There we went sight-seeing. We saw the Liberty Bell, the place from which Benjamin Franklin flew his kite; and there in Independence Hall, the same old chairs in which the signers of our Declaration of Independence sat.

Leaving Philadelphia we went to Washington Saturday, and went through the Capitol, and if you don't think that is a walk try it. We next went to see the cherry blossoms, which were very beautiful, after which we went to Washington Monument. We rode up and walked back, and there are only 48 flights of stairs, with 17 steps in each flight. We went over to the Lincoln Memorial, which of course is not so high or as large as the Washington Monument.

Monday morning we left the Capital City for Alexandria, Virginia, on our way to Mount Vernon. We went to Washington's Tomb. During our sightseeing we went past the Ford Theatre, where Lincoln was shot, and on the opposite side of the street, the house where he died. While we were at Mount Vernon, we went into Washington's house, and saw the bed in which he died. During our stop in Washington we stayed at the Colonial Hotel, where we all gathered souvenirs, my share being a light bulb and a dish.

We started Tuesday morning for New York at 7 o'clock, arriving there before the sun rose I think, though I'm not sure. There we were met by Mr. Siler, our agent, who was very kind to us.

And in New York we again went sight seeing, one of the first spots visited being Wall Street on the corner of which is the statue of Joan of Arc, which is made from rock taken from the walls of the dungeon in which she was imprisoned. People say Wall Street is a big street, but I don't think so. We left for Boston on the boat—and it was rough. Everyone was seasick but me. I went to bed and slept peacefully.

We got into Boston at 11 o'clock Wednesday, three hours late. There we went to the Metropolitan Theatre, where I saw a swell show. I left Boston on the 4.30 train and was home at 10 o'clock that night. I had a grand time, but I was glad to get home. Among the things I forgot to mention, I saw Grant's Tomb on Riverside Drive, New York, visited the wharves of the busy harbor, rode to the top of the Empire State Building, and went down Broadway.

Tom Pietroski (aged 14) P. S.—Gee, you ought to see that mint factory. Fifty-dollar bills piled up like rock at the quarries. And they didn't have any samples.—T. P.

PICK AND SHOVEL ARMY

Regiment Of Workers Eager To Share In Distribution Of Eight Thousand Dollar Fund

A remarkable scene was enacted near the Gen. Berry engine house this morning when several hundred men gathered with picks and shovels hoping to be selected for work on one of the several projects which are to be carried out in connection with the fund of $8000 received from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.
The Courier-Gazette's announcement Saturday that work would be immediately given to unemployed with cash payment, was read avidly and when City Hall opened yesterday it was greeted by such an in-vasion as Rockland had never before seen.

Mayor Richardson told The Courier-Gazette that nearly 350 registered for the work, during the day.
The Pleasant street sewer will be the most important task—1560 feet from Franklin street to the Public Landing. The abutments will be asked to furnish the cost of materials, as the Santa Claus fund cannot be spent for that purpose.
The overflow of applicants will be used in widening Sears brook near the High School building, and in the much needed resurfacing of Beech street.

There will be some lame muscles tomorrow morning, but happy hearts

DISAPPEARING LIGHTHOUSES

Eight Maine coast light stations will have been discontinued before July, and nine other lights will be changed, according to Supt. Sherman. Changes have already been made at Pumpkin Island and Crabtree Ledge.

The other six already authorized are Spring Point Ledge, Portland Harbor, where the light and fog bell will be controlled electrically from shore; Narragansett Light, at the entrance to Milbridge harbor, to be served by the combination light and bell buoy; Winter Harbor Light, Frenchman's Bay, also to be replaced by a lighted buoy; Hendrick's Head, Sheepscot River, to be an unattended light; Franklin Island, Muscongus Bay, to be unattended, and Tenant's Harbor, to be replaced by a combination light and bell buoy.

Case of Julius Anderson vs. Karl Ross, and counter suit of Karl Ross vs. Julius Anderson, went on trial yesterday morning. This was a controversy over a well which is located on and near the line of the two parties. The case was withdrawn from the jury and continued by agreement. Frank A. Tirrell, Jr., appeared for Mr. Ross and James Connellan appeared for Mr. Anderson.

Henry Cleaves Sullivan and Forrest Richardson, both of Portland were present at Court Monday.

The contested divorce suit of Dow vs. Dow was heard Monday afternoon.

Edward S. Rich vs. George B. Clark, alienation suit, has been marked. Neither party no further action for the same cause. Buzzell & Thornton for plaintiff; Smalley for defendant.

Carl A. Blackington of Waterville was present at the Monday session of Court.

THE ELLSWORTH DISASTER

Three-Million Dollar Fire Destroys 50 Stores, 100 Houses Four Hundred Are Rendered Homeless

Ellsworth counted its fire loss yesterday as close to $3,000,000 and 400 persons homeless, the result of fast-spreading flames which racing before a high wind Sunday night destroyed more than 50 stores and shops in the center of the business district and residences conservatively estimated to number more than 100.

The fire was discovered shortly after 10 o'clock Sunday night and was not brought under control until 5 o'clock yesterday morning.

The fire started in a frame storehouse, formerly a theatre, at the rear of the northerly side of Main street. It quickly worked its way into adjoining frame structures and then leaped across the street to set fire to buildings on the southerly side.

On the north side of Main street it was confined to a small stretch, dynamiting of a small building next to Hancock Hall, the city building—a three story brick structure—effectively stopping it at one end and firemen being able to halt it a short distance away on the other end.

It swept both ways on the southerly side and then started the march into the residence area, following down both sides of Franklin street and along Water street which fronts the Union river.

The flames moved with such speed that firemen were constantly having to leave lines of hose with water running to save their lives. As the numerous abandoned lines continued to pour out water, the pressure on lines that were being used lessened and the lack of water became a serious menace.

Citizens and city officials alike viewed the damage the more bitterly because of a widespread conviction that the fire had been started by an incendiary.

Chief of police John A. Stuart voiced a similar opinion and emphasized reports that two persons had been seen running from the burning building shortly after the fire was discovered.

National Guardsmen moved into the city from Bar Harbor to assist more than 100 special police in protecting property and warning spectators from precarious walks.

An appeal was issued by the local Red Cross chapter for assistance from the National organization.
Meantime hastily organized relief groups had set up temporary soup kitchens in large halls and churches to feed the homeless hundreds.
"It is a pathetic thing," said Mayor Moore. "Two of our banks have been closed for 60 days. People are without funds and even those who ordinarily would be able to rebuild or care for themselves are now financially embarrassed."

The easterly limit of the fire on Main street was Hancock Hall, the municipal building, a three-story brick structure left with only its four walls standing. City officials valued the building at $80,000.

A frame residence intervening between the hall and the onrushing flames was dynamited in a futile effort to save the city building.

One of the largest single losses was that of the Ellsworth boat shed where yachts and power boats valued at $300,000 were stored. Many of them were being conditioned for the summer season.

The devastated area comprised roughly one fourth of the city's residential district and one half of the business section.

The fire covered a strip about one-half mile wide, extending along the river bank for approximately two miles.

OF LOCAL INTEREST

Among those who lost all of their property in the Ellsworth fire were Mr. and Mrs. Michael Povich, parents of Mrs. Joseph Dondis of this city. Among these properties were their grocery store on Water street, their residence on that street, and two other houses. Mr. Dondis received word at 4 a. m. yesterday that his wife's folks had been rendered homeless, and he lost no time in reaching Ellsworth. He found that they had saved little or nothing and had only partial insurance. He brought Mr. and Mrs. Povich to Rockland on his return.

Mrs. Glenn Lawrence went to Ellsworth yesterday, and learned that her mother's residence—home of the late Justice Arno W. King was among those spared.

BLOSSOM CAMPBELL'S GUESTS

Tie Him To Bedpost, Drink His Wine, Eat His Food, and Wind Up At The Police Station

Three tough babies who arrived here Friday night in a side-door pullman wound up a lively weekend Sunday night by taking charge of Blossom Campbell's houseboat at the rear of the John Bird Co's block.

Blossom had issued no gilt edged invitations, but the three "boes" came just the same, and in order that they might entertain themselves without any social handicaps they proceeded to tie the luckless proprietor to a bedpost. Mr. Campbell's remarks were both vigorous and edifying, but three hoboes paid not the slightest attention. They drank up his rare old wine imported from Italy—or Italians—; ate everything they could from his larder, and threw the rest through the portholes without bothering to open the windows.

When they had completed their idea of a good time the houseboat looked as though it had passed through an Iowa farm strike or a Tennessee cyclone.
The word got up-town and Officers Hatch and Emery sped to Blossom's rescue. The first half hour of his remarks were unintelligible, but they learned enough to hit the hot trail and the knights of the road were soon headed for the hoosegow.

They offered lots of sea law in Judge Dwinall's Court yesterday, but were given the alternative of jail or departure from Rockland within 24 hours.

Last seen of them they were pointing their faces toward Bar Harbor where things are supposed to be more aristocratic.

NEW METHODIST PASTOR

The assignment of pastors made at the Maine Methodist Conference yesterday brought an unexpected change for Rockland—Rev. H. H. May being transferred to South Portland and Welchville; while Rev. C. E. Brooks was transferred from Rumford to Rockland.

The recent pastorates of the new Rockland preacher are: North Anson, 1906-10; Mechanic Falls and Minot, 1911-14; Farmington, 1915-18; Saco, 1921; Bath (Wesleyan Church) 1922-25; South Portland (People's Church) 1926-28; Rumford, 1929-1932.

IT IS AMERICAN

Puerto Rico Is An Uncle Sam Territory, Not a Foreign Country

Puerto Rico declines to be regarded as a "foreign country" and wishes the world to understand that it is a Territory of the good old U.S.A. Moreover there is a Rotary Club in San Juan which gets right after those who mistakenly place under a foreign caption the splendid island which Congressman Charles E. Littlefield, in one of his memorable addresses before the House of Representatives, eloquently designated as "The Pearl of the Antilles."

The Rotary President, L. L. Lindstrom, has addressed to fellow Rotarians of his country a letter dealing with the subject, a letter that the Rockland club rightly believes will interest a general public. The Courier-Gazette is glad to give space to it. There are yet living in this vicinity some who in earlier days sailed their vessels between these ports and Porto Rico (as we spelled it then) from which they brought back molasses, sugar and in some instances (we have been given to understand) rum.

President Lindstrom writes:

"The Rotary Club of San Juan desires to call to the attention of your Club and to the attention of the community in which you live, certain fundamental facts concerning Puerto Rico which are not fully grasped by a considerable number of Americans. This lack of knowledge in regard to Puerto Rico has had an amusing side, as for example: When Rotary Clubs in the States request us for specimens of our national stamps or of our national flag; but it also has its serious side, as for example: During the last few months several firms in the States have cancelled orders sent to Puerto Rico for the purchase of our products under the erroneous impression that Puerto Rico was a foreign country. The campaign in the States in favor of "Buy American" places Puerto Rico in the same classification: as a foreign country, and has proved detrimental to our island.

"Puerto Rico is a territory of the United States of America. The chief executive and judicial officers of our Insular Government are appointed by the President of the United States and all branches of the Federal Government function here in the same manner as they do in the States. "Puerto Ricans are American citizens in the fullest sense of the word; they are loyal to the American flag, and support the American Constitution. Consequently, goods shipped from Puerto Rico are made by American labor, financed with American capital, and transported to the States in American ships.

"Due to the fact that Puerto Rico is an island separated physically from continental United States, its exports and imports are officially recorded by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, and these records show that Puerto Rico is second only to Canada in the purchase of products from continental United States. As purchaser of goods from continental United States, Puerto Rico ranks seventh in all the world.

"In justice to your fellow citizens and fellow Rotarians in the island of Puerto Rico, we earnestly request that you give the widest publicity to this letter; such as reading it before your Club, and publishing it in your local press and trade journals; so that the truth may be known about Puerto Rico, its people, and its products."

Smoke clouds mean woe for some cities but not so in general for Rockland. This morning the northern sky is dark, signifying increased activity by the Rockland & Rockport Lime Corp., which now has three kilns afire. The best part of it is that the demand of the past fortnight is in excess of the producing capacity of the three kilns which would indicate the necessity of setting more kilns with consequent increase in quarry and transportation labor.

MOTHER

[For The Courier-Gazette]
In twilight dim, when lights were low,
She looked me gently to and fro;
The song she sang, the prayer she said,
As she tucked me gently in my bed.

And with her chaste and modest mind
She taught of Heaven and love divine,
And Heaven seemed nearer in days of old—
She did not wish for power, or gold.

With love she fashioned garments sheer,
Thou' oftentimes wrought with dread and fear,
And with each stitch she wove a prayer
With a gladness welcome woven there.

When home we came, from wandering far,
Her window's gleam our guiding star,
Where warmth within and frelight glow
Would charm and soothe the travelers' woe.

As I sit alone and dream tonight—
Of Mother, home and candlelight,
'Tis with saddened heart I put away
The white rose I wore on Mother's Day.

There's a vision fair I long to see
That is sacred in my memory,
And when I reach the mercy seat,
My happiness will be complete.

With Mother, Nellie Sheldon Allen,
Vinalhaven, May 5.

"ON MY SET"

The Jenny concert hour Sunday night was an exceptionally pleasing entertainment, with reception at its best. The closing of the New England Coke Co.'s programs will cause regret on the part of many listeners.

Will Rogers' talk next Sunday night ought to be good. He threatens to speak on Farm Relief, Bernard Shaw and Grete Garbo.

WTIC gives Sunday baseball results at 9:30 p. m.—handy for those who did not hear the earlier announcements, and who do not care to wait until 11.

The President's broadcast at 10:45 Sunday night had many local listeners, but it's too bad he could not have a clear line before most folks felt obliged to retire.

Many local listeners were keenly disappointed yesterday when Ken Berry's noonday broadcast over WCSH contained no reference to the Ellsworth conflagration in which there was such a keen statewide interest. The news from Switzerland came in all right, but no word about a big Maine fire. Yet Ken must have known there was one.

WARREN

The pre-school clinic will be held at the Congregational vestry Wednesday from 1 until 4:30 standard. Children who are to enter school next fall will be entitled to free examination by Dr. Fred G. Campbell of Warren, Dr. Dana Newman, dentist, Rockland, and Dr. Walter P. Conley, eye specialist, also of Rockland. Mothers who have children needing transportation are asked to notify Miss Edna F. Boggs. Please remember the time, Wednesday, 1 to 4:30 standard.

Through error the name of Mrs. Abbie J. Newbert as secretary, was omitted from the list of officers elected last Tuesday evening at the Women's Club.

Elizabeth Oxtun picked a variety of wild flowers last week which had blossomed in spite of the cold, her bouquet containing violets and strawberry blossoms.

It was reported that ice froze quite thick Sunday night.

Warren friends sympathize with Mrs. Helen Wentworth of Rockland in the sudden death of her mother Mrs. A. C. White, which occurred Friday at Pittsburgh, Penn.

Mrs. Ernest Jones of Thomaston, united with the Baptist Church Sunday morning by baptism.

The senior class of Warren High will present their play, "Where's Grandma?" at Glover hall, Friday evening. It is a comedy in three acts, plays for more than two hours, and contains good amateur talent. A dance will follow the play, Robbins' orchestra of Union furnishing the music.

Warren High School baseball team won the game with Union Friday afternoon, the score, 11-10.

Sunday guests of Mrs. Isa Teague were Mr. and Mrs. Foster Mank and Mrs. Maude Mank, all of North Val-doboro.

The officers and executive committee of the Warren Alumni Association, Frank D. Rowe, president; Willis R. Vinal, vice president; Miss Annie Starrett, secretary; Mrs. Ella Cunningham, treasurer; and members of the executive committee—Mrs. Anna Starrett, Miss Edna F. Boggs and Irvin Gammon, will meet Saturday at 7:45 daylight at the High School building to further plans for the get-together to be held the last of next month at the Town hall.

A delightful surprise party was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Carroll last Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Blackington when neighbors gathered there for a jollification. The evening was pleasantly spent socially and with games and the couple were presented a huge Maybasket loaded with lovely gifts. Sandwiches, cake, coffee and cocoa were served. Mr. and Mrs. Carroll have moved from the Carroll place to the cottage on the Avery Starrett place and it is with genuine regret that their former community loses them as neighbors. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Tarr, Winifred Cushman, Mrs. Ansel M. Hilt, Mr. and Mrs. Nestor Salomaki, Frank Silonen, Aarne Puolakka, Benjamin Ames, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Hills and daughter Joyce, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Wallace, Mrs. Flora Jones, Mrs. May Little and daughter Chris-

EARLY HISTORY OF MAINE

Dating Back To the Colonization Period At the Beginning Of the Seventeenth Century

(By The Honourable William Renwick Riddell, LL. D., F. R. Hist. Soc., etc., Justice of Appeal, Ontario.)

It may not be without interest to give a short account of the Early History of Our Maine.

The old Acadia included both the present Province of Nova Scotia and much of the State of Maine generally extending to the Kennebec; the English were just as insistent upon their right to that whole territory as were the French. Sir Ferdinando Gorges, who became very prominent in asserting the English claim—and incidentally his own—seems to have had his interest excited in the first instance by three Indians out of the five who had been kidnapped in 1605 by George Weymouth and who lived in his family for a time. The Plymouth Company of which he was a prominent member obtained a Grant—somewhat indefinite, he it said—from James I, in 1606, and the following year sent out a Colony of 120 persons, who settled at the mouth of the Kennebec in August, but many of them returned to England before the end of the year.

The Jesuits had established a fortified Mission Post at Mount Desert in 1609 and De Monts in 1604 built a Fort at the mouth of the St. Croix—both these were taken by Sir Samuel Argall of Virginia in 1613 but some of the French returned later. The Council for New England, successor to the Plymouth Company, obtained a Royal Grant including all of the present Maine: this Council surrendered its Charter in 1635; Gorges and John Mason had in 1622 been granted by the Council the territory between the Kennebec and the Merrimack and this he retained when the Council broke up while Our Maine, Maine between the Kennebec and St. Croix, was granted to Sir William Alexander by the King.

Came the tragedy of 1649: the Royalist Gorges was dispossessed by the Governor of Massachusetts Bay, and William Crowne and his Colleagues received a Grant of the whole of Acadia from Oliver Cromwell: op. cit., I, p. 448. When the Restoration came in 1660, Crowne and his colleagues applied to the Privy Council, March 8, 1661, for relief and the Petition went to the Committee; do. do., pp. 305. Nothing came of it but a petty grant of fifty pounds to Crowne, and his son John Crowne was equally unsuccessful.

After long jangling, the Treaty of Breda was negotiated in 1667: inter alia this provided that "the Country which is called Acadia which the . . . most Christian King (of France) did formerly enjoy" should be restored; and Colonel Temple, Governor of Nova Scotia received Instructions accordingly, November 6, 1667: but he was specifically called on to "take notice that it is only the Country of Acadia not any part of Nova Scotia or of any other Country or Province adjoining which is not Knowne and called by the name of Acadia: nor any part even of Acadia itself, but which did originally belong unto the most Christian King . . ." Copies of the Grants by King James I to Alexander and by the "Vsurper Oliver Cromwell" to Crowne and Temple were sent him. This hair-splitting gave the English a reason—or an excuse—for holding Our Maine, which they did.

Another Sir Ferdinando Gorges is now heard from—the grandson and heir of the former—he went in to formal possession of his grandfather's lands: but Massachusetts drove him out. His Petition to the King-in-Council was read, January 26, 1670; April 6, a day was fixed, May 3, for the hearing; May 11, the allegations were found to be true but the matter was of such importance that it was referred to the Committee for Foreign Affairs—what was done does not appear: do. do., pp. 543, 544.

January 13, 1675, we find Gorges again petitioning against "the vnjust dealings of the Massachusetts . . . in dispossessing (him) of . . . Inheritances in the Province of Mayne . . .": this was referred to the Committee, December 22, 1675; it was decided to send a copy to the "People of Boston . . . that they might consider well the Allegations thereof and . . . send over . . . some agents sufficiently Impowred to answer for them." do. do., pp. 640-1.

William Stoughton and Peter Buckley sent over as such agents for Massachusetts exchanged copies of materials and on January 31, 1677, reporting they were ready, had a day Wednesday, February 7, fixed for the hearing. The Committee took the opinion of the Chief Justices of the Courts of King's Bench and Common Pleas—Sir Richard Raynsford and Sir Francis North (afterwards Lord Keeper and Lord Guildford): and the parties were, July 18, 1677, ordered to be heard at the Board, July 22, "when his Majesty expects that they contayne themselves within those Bounds of Modesty and Respect that is due to the Judges of His Kingdom."

July 20, the Committee's Report was presented—the Chief Justices said "The Question was reduced to the Province of Mayne, whereto the Petitioner Gorges made his Title by a Grant from King Charles I in the 15th year of his Reigne (i. e. 1639) made to Sir Ferdinando Gorges and his Heires of the Province of Mayne and the Government thereof"; and they were of opinion as was the Committee that the claim had been made out: do. do., pp. 616-7; 640-1; 684-5; 688; 720; 722-5.

And so stood Maine when the Revolution of 1688 came, the Stuart James II went out and William and Mary came in.

We have seen that Massachusetts received Our Maine in the third year of the new regime.

time all of Warren, and Mr. and Mrs. Mont Ross of Union.

A meeting of the Union Cemetery Association is called at 8 o'clock daylight, on the evening of May 20 at the home of Joseph Stickney.

Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Rokes had as their guests over the weekend Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ladd of Pittsfield, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Gray went last Tuesday to Boston, Mrs. Gray entering the Blake Memorial Hospital there Thursday for treatments.

Three children were christened Sunday morning at the Congregational Church: Laura Cousins, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Cousins and Warren and Vaughan Philbrook, young sons of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Philbrook. Five adults united with the church, Mrs. Flora Peabody, Mr. and Mrs. Erastus B. Clark, Forrest Spear and Mrs. Ruth Philbrook. Holy communion followed the regular morning worship.

Supper will be served Thursday by the Congregational ladies, the committee being Mrs. Nancy Clark, Mrs. Adelaide Norwood, Mrs. Jessie Walker, Mrs. Nettie Vinal, Mrs. Mary Berry, and Mrs. Edna White. The 12 boys, members of the Sunday School class taught by Miss Edna F. Boggs are invited as special guests.

GOOD CHORE, ROCKLAND!

Our High School Track Team Wins Substantial Victory Over Bath's Morse High

It was a very happy score of Rockland High School students which motored back to Rockland Saturday night for their track team had won the dual meet with Morse High 76 2-3 to 54 1-3. It was the Limerock City's first victory there in at least a decade, and winning by such a substantial margin naturally filled the athletes, coaches and backers with a great deal of enthusiasm.

The introduction of hurdles precipitated a verbal "scrap," as Rockland had not expected this feature of the track meet, and was not prepared for it. Rockland High School has some excellent emergency material however, and Lee Thomas and Dick Thomas, who were drafted for high and low hurdles picked off six points.

Libby Paladino, the lad with the flying feet, did the hundred in 10½ seconds over a very poor track, and finished several yards in advance of his nearest opponent. Ladd, a sophomore, showed so well in the dashes that he promises to be a valuable track asset in the next two years. Pietroksi starred in the mile and half mile, and was not forced in either.

WITH THE BOWLERS

The Three Crows, after riding the topmost wave for several weeks, found themselves submerged in last week's contest with Wall's Wonders at the Star alleys. Snow was in particularly fine form, heading the batting list on total, and having high string, 100. This time Mason drew the consolation prize. The summary:

Wall's Wonders—Jordan, 531; Snow, 580; Wall, 511; total, 1622.

Three Crows—Horrocks, 508; Cummings, 515; Mason, 498; total, 1521.

Gardiner Stars Dimmed

There were great doings at the Recreation alleys Friday night when the star aggregation from Gardiner was defeated 95 pins by the locals, after taking the first string by 60 pins. After that they succeeded in getting only one more string. Shute of Rockland had high single (120) and Staples of Gardiner had high total. The summary:

Rockland—Braut, 492; Lawry, 484; Glidden, 505; Shute, 485; Fitzgerald, 449; total, 2415.

Gardiner—G. Goggin, 479; Gordon, 440; E. Goggin, 440; Staples, 520; B. Goggin, 432; total, 2320.

The comedy "The Hen Pecked Hero," at the Methodist vestry Friday evening by a group of young people drew a large and enthusiastic audience. In the cast were Carol Gardner, Donna deRochemont, Virginia Flint, Esther Chapman, Hazel Vasso, Thelma Day, Charles Ellis, Donald Haskell, Stanley Gay, Charles Emery, and Winfield Chatto. An outstanding feature of the evening's entertainment was the Kitchen Symphony, arranged by Mrs. Leola Noyes, who was at the piano. The members of this organization were garbed in youthful rigs, and the blackface leader had all the tricks in trade. The personnel comprised Ralph U. Clark, Raymond Hoch, George Graves, Misses Ruth Marston, Julia Molway, Gladys and Barbara Strout, Edith Bergren, Gladys Chapman, and Mrs. Ruth Hoch, leader. The orchestra gave such a remarkable performance that already it has been booked for several future engagements.

At least one Rockland man saw the Ellsworth fire Sunday night, or the reflection of it at least. That man was Patrolman Forrest K. Hatch, who, while patrolling the waterfront, saw the eastern skies begin to redden at ten minutes past midnight. Even the background of smoke was visible. Hurrying to the police station he told Deputy Marshal Fernald that Vinalhaven was on fire. Fernald called central. "Yes," replied the girl, "there's a big fire, but it's Ellsworth, not Vinalhaven." Showing how easy it is to get fooled by fire in the night. Incidentally Ellsworth is 89 miles from Rockland. Good eyesight, Forrest.

Errol Trainer, Jr., aged 10, chased a ball into the highway at South Main and Laurel streets early Saturday evening, and 10 minutes later doctors were looking him over to see how many bones had been broken when he was run over by the truck from Maplelawn Orchards, Lincolnville. Fortunately no bones were broken, and there were only slight evidences of internal injury, so the lad will probably live. The truck after passing over the child went into the ditch, and snapped a telephone pole, badly damaging the front of the car. The driver, Frederick Gray, was fined $10 and costs in Municipal Court yesterday for driving without a license. The case was investigated by Patrolman Hatch.

A decidedly busy Saturday was reported by Rockland merchants and Main street was thronged all afternoon and evening with parcel laden customers. An air of optimism and encouragement seemed everywhere apparent. Two of the larger stores were featuring annual sales events and both shared in the pleasant activity. One reported a gross sales return equal to that of the opening day of the sale in 1932 in spite of much lower retail prices and the other, as seen in its advertisement on page three, handled the surprising total of 3,544 individual sales as recorded in the office. It is worthy of note that both stores featured large advertisements in the Thursday issue of The Courier-Gazette.

The May supper for the children of the primary department of the Congregational Sunday School Wednesday evening, under the chairmanship of Mrs. W. Seymour Cameron, brought out 40 children, who showed their evident enjoyment. Games were in order until the supper hour, with Miss Alice Gay and Miss Margaret Dunton directing. Large May baskets served as centerpieces, and at each plate was a smaller May-basket as a favor. Mrs. Cameron was assisted by Mrs. Earl Perry, Mrs. Chauncey Keene and Mrs. Ralph Glendenning. Thursday the supper for the older children of the Sunday School took place, with Mrs. Charles G. Hewett as chairman. Again May-baskets filled with candies and fancy cookies served as centerpieces on the tables, flanked by yellow candles. There were 60 children present, and Rev. and Mrs. Walter S. Rounds were special guests. Mrs. Hewett's committee comprised Mrs. Charles Merritt, Mrs. John G. Snow, Miss Frances Chatto, Mrs. Edwin Edwards, Miss Mary Ginn, Miss Elizabeth Snow, Miss Ruth Peterson, William P. Kelley, Robert Allen and Lawrence Crane.

SOUTH THOMASTON
Last Sunday a crowd gathered at "Cuddies" to witness the launching of the fine new sail boat The Helen, which Ivan Rackliff built last winter for his son Arthur. The craft with all sails set made a beautiful picture against the background of green fields and woods, as it sailed down the river and displayed great speed considering the velocity of the wind which was blowing at that time. It is greatly to be regretted that so few mothers were able to take advantage of the pre-school age clinic

Senter Crane Company

OUR SEVENTH Birthday Sale

GOES ON ALL THIS WEEK

Notwithstanding the trying conditions existing at present in Rockland and Knox County generally, our opening of the SEVENTH BIRTHDAY SALE Saturday was a decided success. Total number of sales made were 3544. Although we had many extra clerks on hand at the opening hour we were obliged to phone for more at ten o'clock. We feel the response to the sale shows that the people of this vicinity have faith in the values offered by Senter Crane Company.

The sale becomes increasingly important due to the sharp rise in commodity prices . . . And it is certainly doubtful if we can duplicate these values again.

REMEMBER! A store-wide Sale . . . only a few of the values were mentioned in our advertisement last week, but to illustrate what we are doing . . .

Owing to the fact that there is such a large number of children in the schools at present, there are only about seven who will be of age to enter in September. Two of those were present and were found to be in good condition by the examiners. The clinic included all the villages in South Thomaston.

SERUM TO RESTORE PEP TO THE WEARY

Norwegian Finds a Substance to Dispel Fatigue.

Oslo.—A serum that may dispel tiredness in human beings has been discovered.

Such is the claim of a Norwegian physician, Dr. Meutz von Krogh, who has spent several years as medical professor in Argentina where he experimented for a considerable time with the problem of removing the human feeling of tiredness. His previous work of discovering a rejuvenation tonic brought him, up against the problem of inventing an anti-tiredness serum.

The experiments have now reached a stage where the Norwegian scientist holds that he can bring the results before the public eye, in a lecture he explained how he first tried his serum on himself and with surprisingly promising results.

Serum Lifts Fatigue.
During his stay at an Argentine university he experimented with the serum which he calls antitiredness under particularly favorable conditions. After a swimming competition during which the participants had exerted themselves to the utmost the doctor injected the serum underneath the skin of the young men, and after the lapse of a couple of hours they were all freed of tiredness.

"The serum consists of the same substance," Dr. Von Krogh declared, "that the human body produces in order to expel the tiredness substances. In a young and strong individual the capacity for developing this substance in a natural way will always be greater than in older human bodies."

Will Be Tested Now.
"With very old people the serum will be of no effect, more likely proving to be harmful. Nor will it mean much to very young people, but to the intermediate stages of human life it will cause a strikingly favorable effect. On an average ten injections will be needed, and the effect will then be noticeable for a long period, often reaching several years. The injections have no harmful after-effects."

Professor Von Krogh is looked upon here as a serious and reliable medical scholar, and the results of his experiments will now be tested by the scientific authorities of Norway.

OUR BOOK CORNER

Discovery of manuscripts on slabs of wood more than 2000 years old was announced by Dr. Sven Hedin, on his return from four years' work in China. There are 6200 slabs, mainly military records. An ancient book of 78 wooden leaves bound with a string also was discovered. It dates from 100 B. C. After 2000 years the strings were undisturbed and the writing was found to be perfectly legible. Prof. Bernhard Karlgren of the University of Gothenburg was given the task of deciphering the manuscripts. He says they are the oldest known and date from the Han period, a full century before the Christian era.

Dickens' signature remains unique among those of our famous writers, being perhaps the most hard to decipher, as well as the most decorative. It was reproduced upon the covers of one set of books, by Ticknor and Field; this set being known as the "Snarlbook" edition, because of the resemblance of the signature to such a word. Dickens wrote always with a quill pen, and in blue ink. He chose the latter because of his dislike of blotting-paper, having discovered that an especial make of blue ink dried instantly; his use of this in his work for the press was followed by others in England, and thus originated the "blue-ink journalism." A lead pencil was another pet aversion of the novelist's, and he was almost never known to use one, even his briefest memoranda being invariably jotted down in ink.

—From "Glimpses of Authors" by Caroline Ticknor.

Charles Graves stayed at the Grand Hotel in Nuremberg when collecting material for his book about Germany "Gone Abroad." He was guided there by Fritz, and one time Fritz had guided Mark Twain to the same place. He reports the author to have said, "Friend Fritz, do you know how many lies there are in the world? Well, there are four different kinds—a lie, a damned lie, statistics, and newspapers."

From the Oxford University Press, New York, comes "Poetry: Its Music and Meaning" by Lascelles Abercrombie. Of this book the author says: "This book is meant for those who may be considered to be at the beginning of their interest in poetry; and it attempts to show them how this interest may be developed. It does not profess to be easy reading. It is possible to enjoy poetry without thinking about it; but it is impossible to suggest how this may be cultivated into an enjoyment much more lively and much more secure, without suggesting also what to think about poetry. That some may find this hard reading did not seem a good reason for trying to avoid it. But within the limits of so small a book, not much more than an introduction to such topics could be attempted. If any reader finds this essay useful, he will be pretty sure to perceive at the end of it that there is a mighty long way for him to go, if he chooses, in the direction it indicates."

The book has 64 pages and is sold for the price of $1.

After many years of patient study and research work, Rev. William Cushing Adams of Cambridge, has completed a book, a memorial to his father, the Rev. Jonathan Edwards Adams, D. D., who served as secretary of the Maine Missionary Society from 1876 to 1895. It is virtually a history of Congregationalism in Maine for the last 200 years, and will be welcomed as a valuable addition to the religious history of the State. It also contains much about Bowdoin College, its history from 1849 to 1923, and a partial history of religious life in New Hampshire.

The work of Rev. Jonathan Adams, grandfather of the author, receives attention and there is an account of the "Attempted Rescue of Marie Antoinette" in 1793 by Capt. Stephen Clough of Wiscasset, the author's great-grandfather.

The author is a native of Searsport, and held several pastorates. Retiring from active service a number of years ago, he has devoted his time to genealogies, histories and the preparation of articles for religious journals. His father is buried by the side of his wife and their two sons, who died in infancy, in the Adams family lot, Mountain View Cemetery, Camden.

FIND MISSING LINK IN PALESTINE CAVE

Connects Up Neanderthal Man With Modern.

Berkeley, Calif.—Digging in a cave on the west side of Mount Carmel in Palestine during the summer, Theodore D. McCown, University of California anthropologist, unearthed what is believed to be the "missing link" in the evolution of man.

McCown, who returned here recently after heading a joint expedition of the American School of Prehistoric Research and the British School of Archaeology, unearthed eight skeletons of the Mousterian period which probably link Neanderthal man to the modern.

Four of the skeletons were found in excellent condition and four others were fragmentary, McCown said.

Sir Arthur Keith, noted British anthropologist, characterized the discovery as one of the most important ever made.

While at work in the same cave last year, McCown obtained the skeleton of a child, and returned this year to complete his work. Although there will be controversy as to the exact place of this ancient race in the evolution of man, it is believed probably it was a close link to modern man, McCown said.

The skeletons were found in positions which indicated they had been buried by their kinsmen. These prehistoric men possessed chins, which is a fact not found in earlier discoveries.

They had great overhanging brows giving their eyes a sunken appearance, McCown said. He pointed out that their lower jaws were immense, and that they probably walked with a slouching gait, their knees bent. They were about five feet nine inches tall, several inches taller than prehistoric men found in the past.

McCown said the work was extremely slow since it was necessary to drill into solid rock. When the bones were reached great blocks were cut around them. These blocks were covered with plaster and cement and placed in wooden boxes to protect them from possible injury.

Expedition to Uncover Ancient City of Lachish

London.—The Old Testament City of Lachish, about 25 miles south of Jerusalem, where the prophet Isaiah prayed that the city be saved from the Assyrians with the result that 18,000 Assyrians were destroyed mysteriously overnight, is to be uncovered.

Sir Henry Wellcome, fellow of the Royal Society, soon will send an expedition into Palestine to clear away the sands of centuries from the city which fell before Sennacherib's armies. Various American archaeological interests also will be represented.

Those interested in Biblical history are looking forward to the findings of the expedition because successive cities built on the foundations and ruins of older cities make Old Testament geography and history perplexing. Authorities think that Tell Duweir is the site of the ancient City of Lachish, and excavations in the environs are expected to reveal the stronghold of the children of Israel.

Chicago's Gain 49,000; Population Is 3,524,000

Chicago.—Chicago's population was increased by 49,000 in 1932, bringing the total number of residents in the nation's second largest city to 3,524,000, J. E. Vesley, research director of the Association of Commerce, disclosed.

The increase was under the average annual growth of 67,500 of the past decade.

$150,000 Is Not Going to the Dogs

Denver.—Administration of a $150,000 estate that should have gone to the dogs was ordered investigated by Gov. Edwin C. Johnson recently.

The huge estate was bequeathed to "Shep," lumbering shepherd dog, by his master, Fred H. Forrester of Denver, six years ago.

Shep lived luxuriously for two years, then died.

Under terms of the trust the money administered by the Colorado board of child and animal welfare, was to go to homeless dogs of Colorado.

The board has built three dog drinking fountains in Denver and assisted the Dumb Friends' league.

Joseph M. Wood, public examiner, claimed $10,000 of the dogs' money had been invested in a Texas oil development concern. The governor wants to know whether homeless dogs are receiving the maximum benefits from the trust.

BUYING THROUGH THE WINDOW

IN Central America, you can lean out of a car window and buy most anything, from a gayly colored parakeet to a platter of steaming hot tamales.

Many Central American railways are masterpieces of engineering, leading as they do from seaport to mountain, and winding through gorgeous tropical scenery. For instance, at San José, Guatemala, one of the Central American ports visited on the New York-California sea route, a spectacular 75-mile narrow-gauge railway curls through sweet-scented jungles and around majestic mountains to Guatemala City.

As the train puffs up steep grades, picturesque Indians from the plateaus and valleys stop to watch it go by, and then vanish in the jungle. Small native huts come into view, built alongside the tracks, their high-peaked nipa-thatched roofs sometimes on a level with the eyes as the railroad gradually ascends.

Yet this is only a sample of the thriving Indian life that is to come later, for Guatemala possesses the largest percentage of pure Indian blood of any Central American country.

Ancient pyramids, temples and idols abound, and in some districts Mayan dialects are still spoken. These modern descendants of the Mayas definitely preserve the customs and traditions of their ancestors. The market-scenes of Guatemala City are rich in colorful Indian life, and are a joy to the souvenir hunter and photographer.

Sight-seeing parties that take the railroad from San José to Guatemala City are struck by the survival of vivid Mayan civilization amidst the many modern improvements of beautiful Guatemala City.

THE MATINICUS MAIL

An Island Correspondent Pays His Respects To Cap'n Stuart Ames

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

Who'll go through next winter when fierce gales pile the gray sea into mountainous waves?

The momentous question of safe and reliable transportation is raised every four years in island colonies where there are postoffices. Matinicus and Cribhaven are now disturbed at the thought of losing dauntless Cap'n Ames and the sturdy Calista D. Morrill.

Was it because they could keep a better lookout for Indians that whites first settled the islands off the coast of Maine? Or, was it because they would have a shorter distance to go for fish, clams and lobsters? Anyway there's barely an island of any size off this coast that's not more thickly populated than any corresponding area outside of the cities. And besides, there's numberless people in the cities who "go home" for the islands (and in depression) to the islands.

Some of these islands are merely great rocks sticking up out of the water with little or no soil adhering to them, while others contain a great many acres of farming land. Good fishermen and lobstermen as the natives are, they are also good farmers in most cases, and know how to get the ingredients to mix their diet of sea food with such delicacies as spring chicken, green peas and corn on the cob.

But, of course, there are things that neither the sea nor the soil will yield, and those things, if essential to comfort, must be brought from the mainland, and then, if the island is far off-shore, is "when a feller needs a friend." It's all right to go out lobstering in an open boat, but when it comes to bringing over the flour and sugar, or taking the ladies to the city to do their shopping, a clean dry coat and a comfortable cabin are essential. If the island is large and thickly populated enough to rate a postoffice, Uncle Sam is the "friend," for he will pay enough to have the mail carried to make a passenger and freight boat pay its way on a regular schedule; for the very nature of his contract insures regularity, so far as wind and weather will permit, even though the rate he pays is not enough in itself to support the service.

Where the U. S. Mail pennant flies it is a sign of safety and security. Passengers flock to the mail boat feeling that they are under Uncle Sam's protection. To the mail boat is given the freight and express, for its sailings are at regular times. Other boats may solicit business, and offer reduced rates, but they are regarded as interlopers, and except for boatload quantities are rarely used.

But these mail contracts last for only four years, after which they are again advertised for bid. It is with regret that islanders view the possibility of a change, and it is with dread—especially in times like these—that contractors regard the possibility of competition. Islanders and contractors become strongly attached to one another.

The coming of the mail boat is an event. When the day it is due dawns with a murky sky, and the surf runs high, the islanders wonder if the cap'n will try it, and when finally he ties up and comes ashore with his red face beaming, bringing not only the mail but all their errands, they love him. He is their connection with the mainland—the link between their colony and all the world outside.

To have some one else interrupt the smooth intercourse of trade by his boat through a lower bid for the mail seems a calamity. The islanders cannot see where it is good business to make a change, even at a lower price. Isn't the present contractor just making a living? If anyone underbids him, doesn't it mean poorer service if any profit is to be made? Why should anyone else get the job if the present cap'n is willing to keep on for the same money he is now getting, or less? For the mail does not pay enough to warrant a boat for that alone, and the passenger business does not pay enough so a boat for that alone can run. It is a ticklish situation.

And so these island communities get pretty well roused every four years when the government asks for bids to carry the mail. If the present cap'n has any enemies, or if there is any jealousy because he has such a fine job, he will have competitors. And the friends he has made are "agin" any other bidder. But, seriously speaking, the man who has the contract has had to equip himself with a sturdy boat, and the loss of the contract leaves the boat on his hands. He has no further use for it, and probably no customer for it at a reasonable price, for such boats, though at a premium in good times, are not in demand now.

It is such a condition that confronts Cap'n Stuart Ames of the rugged boat Calista D. Morrill, and the danger that he will not be able to renew his contract to carry the mail to Matinicus and Cribhaven from Rockland, makes him fearful that he will be left without means of support and that the Morrill which he values at nearly $5000 will be a drug on the market. And the islanders who have learned to love dependable Cap'n Ames are fearful that the new contractor will not have such an able boat in which to fight winter storms across 20 miles of open sea to Rockland.

Years ago, Captain W. G. Butman operated his handsome steamer W. G. Butman over this course, and with profit, but unfortunately the Butman burned, and next came a motorship called the Palm, but after a few years this was supplanted by a 35-foot open boat which went down with all on board in a heavy gale.

After that the people of the islands, and the business men of Rockland, secured the Morrill, a 60-foot motorship, staunch and capable of taking an unmerciful pounding without starting a seam. The schedule is every other day in summer, and it is rare at that season that the trip has to be deferred a day on account of the weather, but in winter when only two trips a week are required, good judgment sometimes requires that the trip be deferred a day, or even two occasionally.

All kinds of freight is carried. Hard wood, which does not grow on Cribhaven may be part of the cargo, and even an auto or two may have been taken across, but since there are only a few roads and those very short, autos are not common.

Perhaps when the contract for carrying the mail is let, Cap'n Ames may again be the duly appointed representative of Uncle Sam, or, possibly someone may succeed him and then take over the good Calista D. Morrill to continue in the service she has performed so well for the last four years. In which event it will simply mean that one good man will have lost a job to another in this lottery of low-bidding. Just another turn of the wheel! And the man who gets the job knows when he takes it that he will be worrying about the new contract four years from now, but four years is a long time when you are looking ahead.

One of the finest entertainments presented here for many years was given by the Sketch Club Players in Medomak Athletic hall Tuesday evening, before a capacity audience. The orchestra was made up of H. A. Donkersley and Mrs. Nettie Nicholson; violin, banjo, Kelsey Lash; saxophone, flute and clarinet, Alvin French; trombone, Ralph Jackson; cornet, Claude Pith; drums, Earle Day. Misses Elsie Maunders, Helen Oldis and Beulah Day made efficient ushers in natty costumes.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Nettie Nicholson and showed careful preparation. Mrs. Nicholson also took part, adding much to the numbers by her beautiful voice and clever acting. So perfectly done was each part, that it is impossible to single out particular numbers, the whole being blended into a program long to be remembered. It is here given in detail:

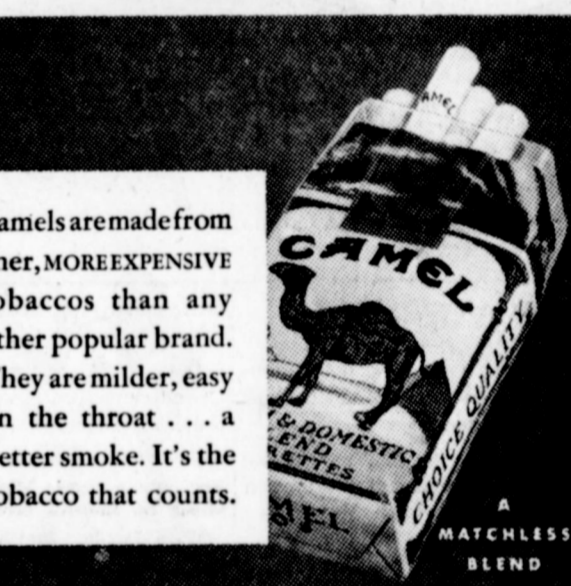

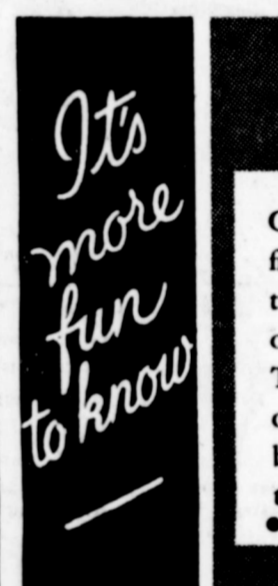

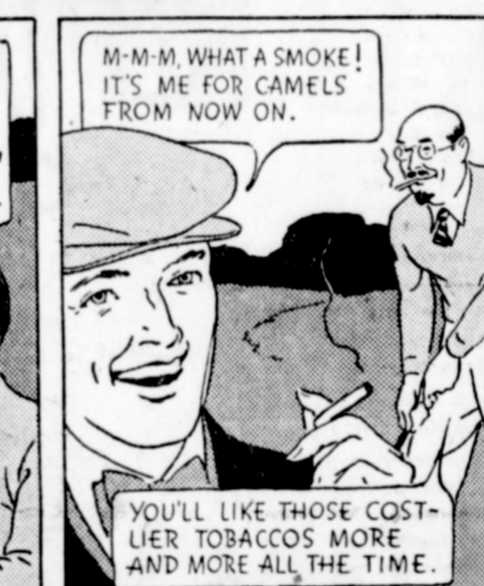

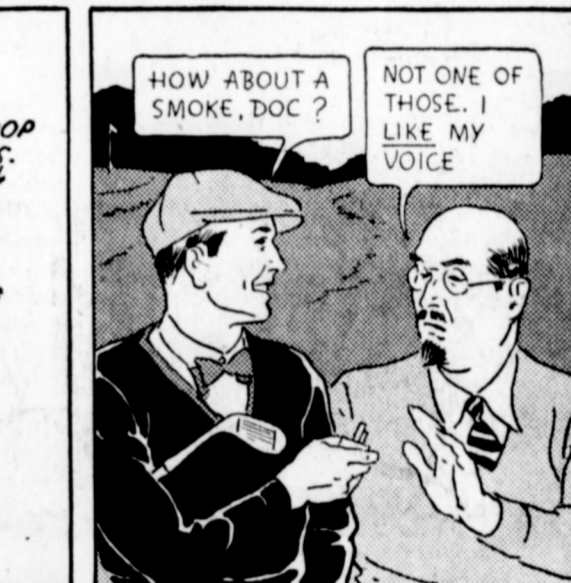

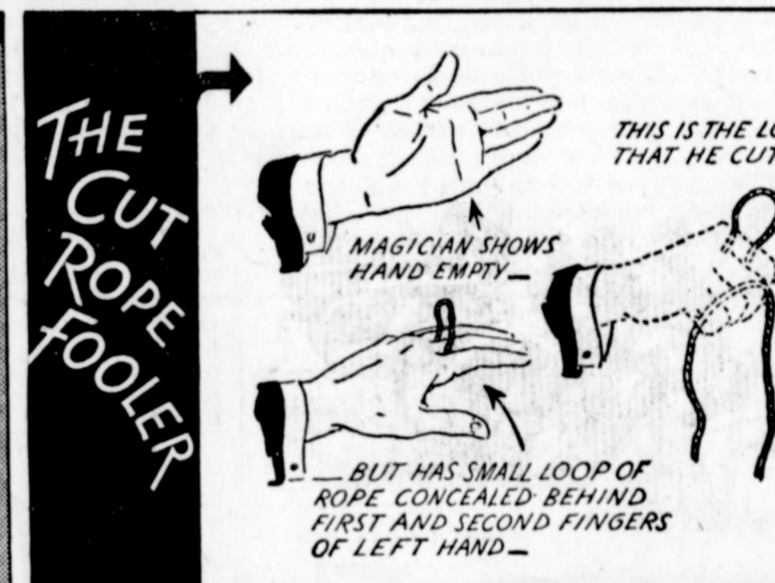

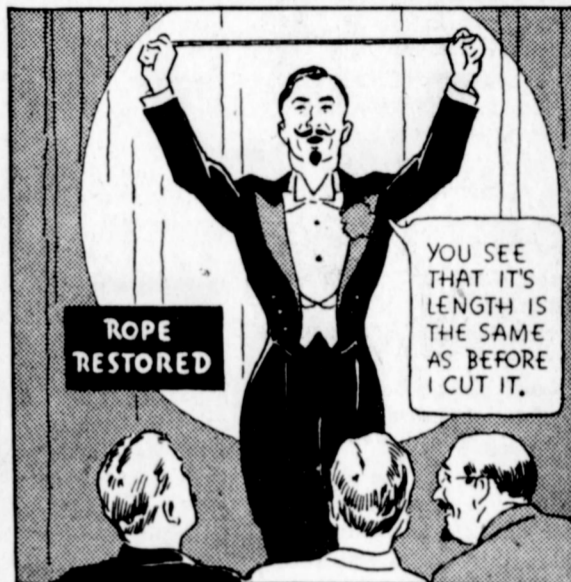

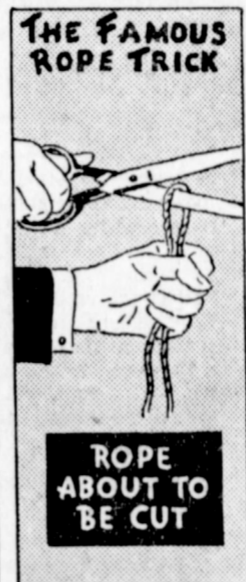

Overture, "Acadia," Orchestra. Artist Scene, Jane Ryder, Gretchen Waltz; dance, Alfred Chapman; Harmony Singers, Gretchen Waltz, Geraldine Porter; two young banquets, Mary Stafford, Herbert Hatch; "Life Is Just a Bowl of Cherries," Nettie Nicholson and Chorus; A Bit of Scotch, John Newburn; toe dance, Sonia Corner; "Charlie's Girl," Howard Tisdale, Charles Crowell; East Side Sketch, Arline Anderson, Warren Simmons, Frances Simmons and John Newburn; impersonation, Frances Simmons; "Cutest Kid in Town," Margaret Winslow; military dance, Arline Anderson; two songs, John Newburn, Nettie Nicholson and Chorus; Old Time Songs, John Newburn and boys; saxophone solo, Alvin French; dance, Sonia Corner.

ACT II

Overture, "Somebody Stole My Gal," Orchestra; "Nola," Gretchen Waltz; athletic dance, Margaret Winslow; Italian Street Song, Nettie Nicholson; double tap, Arline Anderson, Loomis Young; banjo solo, Mr. Donkersley; Spanish dance, Margaret Winslow; "Moan You Moaners," Gretchen Waltz and Chorus; exhibition waltz, Jane Ryder, Warren Simmons; "Telephone Gossip," written by Gretchen Waltz and played by Arline Anderson, Howard Tisdale, Geraldine Porter, Jane Ryder, Nettie Nicholson and Gwendolyn Marden; saxophone solo, Alvin French; Dutch dance, Sonia Corner; "I'm Gonna Dance With De Guy Who Brung Me," Warren Simmons; "That's Why Darkies Were Born," John Newburn; "Hallelujah," entire company.

The chorus girls, charming in song and dance, were Arline Anderson, Geraldine Porter, Jane Ryder and Lucille Colwell. Mrs. Elsie Allen Corner of Thomaston instructed the dancers and her little pupils added much to the program. The effective stage decorations were in black and white and the costumes carried out the note. The pianists were Mrs. Sarah Lash, Miss Gwendolyn Marden and Miss Gretchen Waltz. Unlimited praise has been heard from all who attended the performance.

Rev. Herbert B. Hutchins

Brief mention has already been made in this column of the death of Rev. Herbert B. Hutchins, pastor of the Thomaston Baptist Church from 1915 to 1920. During the World War years he was very active in patriotic work and for this is remembered by the community at large as well as by the church which he served so faithfully.

This obituary notice is taken from a New London newspaper: Rev. Herbert Bacon Hutchins died March 24 at the Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospitals following a long illness. He was in his 70th year. His last pastorate was in the Baptist Church at Quaker Hill. He resigned Oct. 1 of last year.

A native of Brooklyn, he was born July 6, 1863, the son of Rev. Hiram and Anna (Bacon) Hutchins. He studied for the ministry, and after being ordained as a Baptist clergyman, accepted a pastorate at Old Mystic. From that place he went to Lewiston and later to Thomaston, and returned to Connecticut, where he accepted a pastorate in the Popponoc Bridge Baptist Church. He went to Quaker Hill in the summer of 1925. He served with diligence and was well liked throughout the community. He was active in many affairs of the church and it was with regret that his resignation because of ill health was accepted.

Mr. Hutchins was a member of Raboni Lodge of Masons at Lewiston, and served as chaplain of the lodge for some time. He was a past patron of the Order of the Eastern Star. It had been his pleasure to preach one Sunday during the summer at Poland Spring, and last summer was the first in 25 years that he did not deliver a sermon there.

Mr. Hutchins' wife, Mrs. Clara Elita Sherry Hutchins, who was a native of Woonsocket, R. I., died Feb. 1, 1932, and following her death Mr. Hutchins, whose health had not been of the best, failed steadily. He removed from Quaker Hill after leaving the pastorate of the church there to make his home in Hemstead street, and he entered the hospital March 21, as a medical patient. Mr. Hutchins is survived by a nephew and a niece, residing at Plymouth, Mass.

FOR HALF A CENTURY

Former Rockland Citizens Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

Hayward, Calif., April 30. Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—The fiftieth anniversary of our wedding occurs on the 9th of May. It will be observed very simply on account of the serious illness of my husband, Fred S. Mills, formerly of Rockland. Among our wedding presents was a clock given by a lifelong friend, F. E. Post of Rockland. It has been our companion for fifty years. Lately, when I came into the room where the clock stands, its ticking seemed almost to speak to me, and call to mind the lines which follow:

TO OUR CLOCK
Tick tick, tick tick, old faithful clock.
Still doing your duty well;
If you could only speak,
How much you'd have to tell!

You'd tell how fifty years ago,
In eighteen eighty-three,
Our new home was founded
By Fred and you and me.

And then, when later on
Our baby boy had come,
How his little eyes would follow
The swing of your pendulum.

I look upon your busy hands
And at your placid face,
Those hands are ever moving
Yet you always keep your place.

When I think of the countless minutes
And the hours you have told,
No doubts are in my mind
That you are getting old.

If really you could speak
As you stand upon your shelf,
You might ask me the question—
Aren't you rather old yourself?

Ah yes, faithful clock, its true,
I have grown old along with you.

*****
To my husband on our golden wedding day, May 9, 1933:
Beloved, do you remember
This is the ninth of May—
Our fiftieth anniversary
Our golden wedding day.

Well do I recall the time
You came to take your bride.
You were so fine and noble
As you stood there by my side.

All nature looked so beautiful
At the old home in Maine.
The springtime sun was shining,
Birds caroled their refrain.

Together we have journeyed
Through all these fifty years,
Sharing each others joys,
Calming each others fears.

Together we have climbed mountains
Viewed the beauties of the sky,
And we've been down in valleys
Where the darkest shadows lie.

Yet always just above us
Shone the Everlasting Light,
Its radiance illumines still
And keeps the future bright.

Gold Miner Wins a Bartered Bride

Buckley, Wash.—A pretty eighteen-year-old Buckley (Wash.) girl, who offered to marry any white man who would give her $2,000 to care for her sick mother, probably will marry a lonely Alaska miner-widower—20 years her senior!

Helen Naroiski got more than one hundred answers to her plea for help for her mother. She carefully read all letters and agreed that the Alaska gold miner would make her a fine husband. He is flying to the United States to claim his bride.

She expects to be married soon in a light pink dress, trimmed with ostrich feathers—a gift of a suitor whose proposal she refused.

Offers of marriage came from bootleggers, prize fighters, business men, real estate men and merchants. Many girls and women wrote Miss Naroiski for names of men whose offers of marriage she refused.

Battlefield of Roman Legions Is Unearthed

Berlin.—One of the oldest battlefields in history has been discovered at Xanten in the Rhineland.

The first camps of the Roman Legions, which were destroyed by warlike German tribes in the year of 70 A. D. have been excavated by members of the German voluntary labor service.

For years excavation work had been carried out at Xanten. It had to be stopped because of lack of funds. Now large numbers of members of the voluntary labor service have been sent to Xanten, where they succeeded in unearthing one of the most interesting relics of ancient times.

The camps were the important strongholds of the Fifth and Fifteenth Roman Legions. It was from here that the Roman soldiers started on their frequent expeditions to fight against the rebellious Germans. In the year 70 A. D. the Batavians, a warlike German tribe, destroyed the camps and killed most of the soldiers.

Collector Delinquent; Township Has Surplus

Altoona, Pa.—Allegheny township, Blair county, had a surplus in its treasury as the new year started because of the delinquencies of a tax collector.

Frank Ertl, collector of school, county and road taxes for many years, was accused of converting $17,641 of tax money to his own use over a four-year period. He was arrested, tried and sent to prison.

Bondsman for the tax collector gave the township a check for $14,500 and agreed to return to the district back tax duplicates aggregating $8,558 in settlement of the case. Officials estimate about 50 per cent of the back taxes can be collected.

With these funds deposited in the bank, the township was able to meet 1933 with a balanced budget and a treasury surplus.

Rockport 4, Camden 0

R. Snow and Payson applied the whitewash to Camden, Thursday in a fine exhibition of baseball. Only one Camdenite got as far as third. Snow allowed but five hits in the five innings he worked, and Payson was so stingy, during the two innings, Camden could not get a safe blow in anywhere. Only six men faced Payson in those last two innings.

The outstanding play occurred in the fourth inning. Wadsworth, the first man up for Camden, hit a single and stole second. G. Payson, the second man up, dropped a safe hit in short right. Wadsworth had a good lead off second and should have scored on the hit; in fact, this is exactly what he intended to do. But "Gil" Payson, who was playing second made a perfect peg home, and Collamore had Wadsworth out in a close play at the plate. Collamore was spiked badly in the play, and the game was held up. Wadsworth's spikes cut through Collamore's shoe and socking injuring the big toe quite severely.

The fielding was very tight during the entire game, there was only one error. L. Snow had five fly-balls at first base; he accepted 11 chances without a bobble. All four of Rockport's runs were earned. Collamore, the first man up in the second, drew a walk. He stole second, and on a hit-and-run play, scored. Grant was thrown out at first base on his sacrifice. K. Wentworth, the next up, singled and stole second. J. Annis walked, then Hall came through with a hit scoring Wentworth. In the third L. Snow, Payson and E. Annis singled in succession. L. Snow scored on Annis' hit, and Payson was out at third. Collamore fouled out, and Grant singled sending Annis to third. Wentworth's second hit of the game brought him in. K. Wentworth had a perfect day at bat hitting for a thousand in his three times up.

Rockland 20, Lincoln 10

Hitting for a total of 28 bases Rockland High won an easy victory over Lincoln Academy in Newcastle last Friday. Topping the hero list on this occasion was Hervey Allen, a modest youth who slammed the old apple for six hits in as many trips to the plate, and they were all bonafide bingles.

Also in the limelight were Ellis and Paladino, each with a home run—the former's one of the strangest circuit clouts ever recorded. Ellis hit a liner into left field which appeared good for no more than a two-sacker, but the ball went through the wire fence, and Barnes who sought to retrieve it found himself hung up on the bars there-of. When he finally succeeded in releasing himself Ellis had touched home plate and the laughing spectators were holding out their sides.

Paladino was hit hard in the sixth inning, but was generally very effective. Tukey was driven to the showers early, and gave way to Hatch who found that Rockland's

REFERENDUM ON BEER BILL

Is Endorsed By Lincoln Baptist Association—Compulsory Military Training Is Opposed

The 129th annual session of the Lincoln Baptist Association convened in Morrill, Friday. A large delegation took advantage of the beautiful spring day to gather at this attractive church, and the entire session was filled with good news of matters concerning the Kingdom of God.

Twenty-two churches sent letters of greeting, and all reported a spirit of loyalty and devotion. More than twice as many baptisms were reported than last year.

The annual sermon, preached by Rev. H. A. Welch, stressed the fact of sin, the dreadful consequences to mankind unless this problem is solved. Easy going philosophy slurs over the problem of sin. Many religions try to get rid of it in different ways. But sin can never be slurred over or explained away. It must be destroyed. Jesus Christ faced sin, and destroyed it with His shed blood on the cross.

A most interesting part of the program was the message brought by Rev. S. S. Hankins, formerly a missionary in India. He told of the large number of native students gathered in a Christian conference—500 walking 35 miles or more through dangerous hills and jungles. Sons and grandsons of former head hunters now gather to pray and study God's Word, instead of going out to see how many heads of their enemies they could bring home. This, said he, is one of the greatest miracles of modern times.

Another high-light is the picketing liquor shops by Hindus and Mohammedans. These do not believe liquor is a good thing, and cut down great groves of palm trees, from which an intoxicating liquor is made, that there can be no liquor. There were marvelous baptismal scenes, 2200 being baptized in six hours, by six preachers. Then the marvelous conversions! One thousand in one station alone. In the Telugu mission last year 5500 many of them caste converts. Dr. Hankins said: "To be a woman, and able to minister to the hospitals (by white cross work) which serve more than 10,000 women and girls, who otherwise would have no help, is an immeasurable blessing."

The Association gatherings in India often number 1000 people and as one gathering 4000 were present. The topics they consider are vital Christian themes. He showed a prayer wheel, an idol, and many other charms, belief in which holds these people in the grip of terrible darkness. Rev. Frederick W. Smith clearly and concisely presented the present problems of the State in connection with the liquor forces. Many delightful musical numbers were rendered during the day, and the junior and intermediate choirs of the Belfast Church, under the personal direction of the pastor, Mr. Peaslee, deserves special mention. Among the resolutions were: "That, at the suggestion of Frederick Smith, in whose leadership we have utmost confidence, we endorse the Citizenship Honor Roll, the referendum on Weatherbee Bill, and we pledge ourselves to get out the Christian voters to the polls on election day."

"That we are opposed to compulsory military training in our schools and colleges."

"That we view with disapproval the report of the Commission of Appraisal of the Layman's Foreign Missionary Inquiry, because of its profoundly erroneous and misleading conception of the Christian Missionary enterprise. We regard the basic theological position of the appraisal as expressed in 'Re-Thinking Missions' as being contrary to the Great Commission of our Lord Jesus Christ, to the New Testament Scriptures, and to our historic Baptist faith."

"That we urge upon our American Baptist Foreign Missionary Society and our Women's American Baptist Foreign Missionary Society a vigorous policy of denial and opposition to the theological bias of the report."

RADIO INTERFERERS

Many Prone To Ascribe Trouble To Amateur Sending Sets—The Answer

This brief outline of amateur radio transmission is given by the Knox County Amateur Wireless Association in order that a better understanding may be had, and a closer spirit of co-operation may result. Quite too often we hear that "John Doe" has a sending outfit that ruins my radio program. Believe me I'll report him to the Radio Commission. Now, in every case in which the QRM (interference) committee of the K.C.A.W.A. has followed complaint it has found that such interference has emanated from ships off shore, trouble in the home electrical equipment, poorly shielded and cheaply constructed instruments unfairly termed as "radios," and other defects in no way associated with amateur radiotelegraphy. It is to clear up this misunderstanding that this article is published.

Amateur radio is far more than a "hobby." It is recognized by all civilized governments as an agency of inestimable value. From the mass of experiments conducted by the amateurs there have emerged many of the great improvements which the broadcast listeners now enjoy in their broadcast receivers. It saved the United States Government much time and money when, at the outbreak of the World War, there were thousands of licensed amateurs ready to take their place in the scheme of national defense. It has provided the principal, and in many cases the only, means of outside communication in more than thirty storm and flood emergencies in this country since 1919.

One type of interference is now more or less prevalent due to the flood of cheap and poorly constructed superheterodyne receivers now on the market. Such receivers are, to say the least, "parasitic barnacles on the progress of radio improvement."

The craze for these "junk-boxes" has caused the manufacturers to cut down costs to the extent that proper shielding, good parts, and other items necessary are an unknown quantity.

These cheap superheterodynes, without proper shielding and due to their faulty construction, combine their generated harmonics with that of outside harmonics to create a beat frequency which is heard in the loudspeaker. Properly shielded receivers are free from this undesirable condition. When such interference does occur the fault lies with the receiver and not the short-wave transmitter.

In closing this article may we suggest that any broadcast listener who suspects interference from amateur apparatus get in touch with the aforementioned committee who are qualified to handle such complaints. A very important meeting of the Knox County Amateur Wireless Association will be held at the club house on next Thursday evening, May 11. Action to be taken requires the voice of every member. E. X. Plainer, Rockland, May 4.

STRAND THEATRE

The tragedy of having too much money and of an enterprise that becomes too large for its heirs to manage is graphically and dramatically told in "Sweepings," coming Wednesday and Thursday with Lionel Barrymore in the starring role. It reveals how pampered sons and daughters of the rich accept bootleggers as their social equals and how sleek men stand along the sidelines of the giddy social whirl, on sale as lovers or husbands to the highest bidder. The film offers a daring treatment of this phase of life. It is elaborately staged, whirling its auditors through several decades of American history, each era represented in its proper settings, costumes and social life—adv.
