A SUGGESTION TO INDEPENDENT VOTERS

Independent voters, so called, those who are not strongly or permanently affiliated with any political party, but who put the interests of Knox County before all others, have an opportunity and a duty in connection with the Primary election to be held next June.

The most important question the voters of Knox County have acted on for a generation confronts them in the coming Primary Election in June.

The Issue

Shall Knox County be represented by a Knox County Democrat or a Democrat from West of the Kennebec. If you are not correctly enrolled to help in this matter, change your enrollment before Saturday, Dec. 16.

WORK FOR WOMEN

What Uncle Sam Is Trying To Do For Those Who Are Unemployed

When Congressman Moran returned to Washington one of his first duties was to consult Mrs. Woodward, director of women's activities in regard to what may be done in the way of giving feminine employment in this locality. Mrs. Woodward immediately communicated with Annie F. Locke, the Maine director, who in turn has written to Miss Katherine Jameson who is in charge locally.

"The first thing to do," writes Miss Locke, "is to appoint a committee, in your own city and immediately appoint similar committees in all towns in your county, the chairman to be responsible directly to you and act as volunteer worker. Meantime get your committees busy working up projects suggesting work that needs to be done, such as:

"Sewing: Making or making over, repairing, mending garments for the poor. Quilt making.

"Knitting: Sweaters, etc. for the poor.

"Clerical Work: Copying records, etc.

"Library work of any kind: Cataloging, etc.

"Nursing.

"Have all known unemployed women register at the Federal Re-employment offices, always bearing in mind that probably only a part of those registered can be supplied jobs. Bear in mind also that this movement is not to put into business or industry or the professions women who do not need to work, but only those on relief rolls or who have lost their means of earning a living."

The skating rink at Community Park will be opened immediately according to present plans with spraying to start probably today to secure a skating surface. Walter Spear who was so satisfactory as custodian last season will serve again this winter. Mayor Richardson and Mayor-elect Thurston have enthusiastically agreed to cooperate on this healthful project with Principal Blaisdell who is in general charge.

PRYING LOOSE A HALF MILLION

Knox County Savings Depositors To Receive That Amount Within Few Days

Well, folks, here's good news, especially for those who had savings accounts in the old Security Trust Company.

Ensign Otis, the conservator, this morning informed The Courier-Gazette that he had just received a telegram from the Federal Reserve Bank in Boston to the effect that the application for a conservator's loan has been approved in Washington in an amount which makes probable a dividend of approximately 25 percent.

This will be in the hands of savings depositors between now and Christmas, but owing to the considerable amount of work which it entails upon Conservator Otis the dividend may not reach the depositor until very close to Christmas Day.

"But they can go ahead and spend it whether it comes early, or not," said Mr. Otis, who is a firm believer that public welfare is best served by keeping the coin of the realm in circulation.

The dividend on checking accounts will probably be quite small, it was learned.

The total amount to be released in Knox County will be approximately half a million.

Conservator Otis has worked early and late, and deserves the thanks

No this is not Santa Claus. It is Ensign Otis playing the role of Santa

TALK OF THE TOWN

L. E. McRae and family have taken rooms at The Laurie for the winter, having closed their cottage at Crescent Beach.

The local firemen will enjoy cats and speeches at the Gen. Berry engine house tonight, it being the department's annual banquet.

A Massachusetts truck piled high with Christmas trees wrought havoc with the covered lights on Main street, near Strand Theatre yesterday noon.

The many friends of Dr. C. H. Leach who have been concerned about his serious illness at St. Barnabas Hospital in Portland will be pleased to learn that the past two days have shown favorable improvement.

Prince A. Tower, 86, died at his home, 19 Perry street, Wednesday morning after a brief illness. He is survived by a sister Mrs. Ella Tower King of Belmont, Mass. Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 o'clock from Bowes & Crezier funeral home.

The name of Leon White, Jr., was inadvertently omitted from the group of musicians giving their services in conjunction with the recent senior class play. Mr. White with his trumpet contributed no small part to the pleasure the audience derived from the delightful playing by the group.

Miss Ellen Daly, superintendent of Knox Hospital, has received this notice from Augusta: "Any unemployed nurse who desires work under the civil works program must appear in person at the National unemployment office in her county, and register on cards furnished at that office. In your county (Knox) the office is located at Rockland, manager Frank F. Marsh, Tel. 105. No nurse will be given employment unless she becomes so registered, and this must be done before Dec. 15."

All indications point to a large attendance at tonight's session of the Chamber of Commerce. It is the annual meeting and an excellent supper will be served at 6:30 in Temple hall. Following the meal will come singing under direction of Dr. William Ellingwood, the annual reports and a general discussion of the situation now confronting the Chamber with reference to finances and membership. The attitude of this meeting will largely be the deciding influence in determining whether or not the organization shall be continued.

The skill of Ralph U. Clark in the art of window and store dressing has been recognized in these parts for some years but this season he has done himself especially proud at Gregory's. The two large windows lend themselves admirably to the display of those things designed to bring joy to the male at Christmas and peace to the perplexed shopper seeking "something for him." The interior of the double store is a radical departure from previous decorative schemes. The colors are pastel blue and silver, the blue being in serried ranks of drapes, ribbon, crepe, on which the silver is hung at regular intervals. At regular distances hang small illuminated boxes featuring the symbolic star of the season.

Mayor-elect L. A. Thurston was rudely awakened from a brief early evening nap Tuesday by the melodious (?) sounds of trumpet, accordion, horn, and what-have-you, issuing from a large assemblage of guests gathered to tender a real old-fashioned serenade to a popular and successful candidate. Although the surprise was overwhelming Forest recovered sufficiently to play the part of the hospitable host for which he is famous, ably assisted by his good wife. The evening was spent in music and cards, rounded out with refreshments brought by the guests. Those present, members of the Tooevic Club and husbands, were: Supt. and Mrs. E. L. Tooner, Mr. and Mrs. Warren C. Noyes, Mrs. R. H. Britt, Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Perry, Mrs. Fred T. Veazie, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Boddy Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Elmer C. Boyd, Mrs. Edward M. Benner, and Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Peterson.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

If I had to live my life again I would have made a rule to read some poetry and listen to some music at least once a week. The loss of these tastes is a loss of happiness.—Charles Darwin.

GOOD KING WENCESLAS
Good King Wenceslas
On the feast of Stephen
When the snow lay round about,
Deep and crisp and cold,
Brightly shone the moon that night,
Though the frost was cruel,
When a poor man came in sight,
Gath'ring winter fuel.

"Hither, page, and stand by me,
If thou know'st it, telling,
Yonder peasant, who is he?
Where and what his dwelling?"
"Sire, he lives a good life hence,
Underneath the mountain
Right against the forest fence,
By Saint Agnes' fountain."

"Bring me flesh and bring me wine,
Bring me pine-logs hither:
Thou and I will hither bring
When we hear him thither."
Page and monarch forth they went,
Forth they went together,
Through the rude wind's wild lament
And the bitter weather.

"Sire, the night is darker now,
And the wind blows stronger,
Falls my heart, I know not how,
I can go no longer."
"Mark my footsteps, good my page:
Tread thou in them boldly,
Freely thy bloodless body."

In his master's steps he trod,
Where the snow lay drifted,
He went in the very odd,
Which the saint had printed.
Therefore Christian men be sure,
Wealth or rank possessing,
Ye who now will bless the poor,
Shall yourselves find blessing.
—Old Carol.

AN EARLY APPOINTMENT

Expected In Knox County Shirevalty Matter—Prominent Democrats Offer Backing For Ludwick

Early action in regard to the nomination of a successor to the late Sheriff Harding will probably be taken because of the necessity of having the department functioning on a normal basis.

The uppermost sentiment heard everywhere is that Deputy Sheriff Ludwick should be the man chosen to fill the unexpired term, because of his splendid record in that department and his thorough knowledge of the situation. Among the scores who early proffered their support are many influential Democrats, who have offered, not only to intercede in his behalf, but to circulate petitions.

They do this because they have never failed to find Earle a square-shooter. It was learned in Augusta that Alderman Lafayette W. Benner of Rockland would like the appointment, and it was said there that he had been endorsed by the Moran faction.

Other Democrats who have been mentioned include Mayor Richardson, Capt. R. P. Saville, J. Crosby Hobbs of Camden and George E. Gill, of Rockland. Mr. Thomsen (who was the Democratic candidate in the last election).

What Gov. Brann will do and what the Executive Council may do are matters of speculation.

DOUBLE GAUGE BILL
Lobstermen Fight Battle Over Again In Legislative Hearing

The verbal battle over the legal length of lobsters resumed again Tuesday when the committee on sea and shore fisheries heard arguments on a bill providing for "double-gauge" measurement—nothing less than nine inches nor more than 13 1/2 inches.

A similar measure was defeated at the regular session last winter when the legislators, after days of debate, stood by the present law calling for lobsters to be not less than 10 1/2 inches in length.

A plea for passage of the proposed bill was made by Ralph W. Hanscom of Portland, representing the Maine Wholesale Lobster Dealers' Association, and Horatio D. Crie of Rockland, commissioner of the department of sea and shore fisheries.

Claims that the proposed measure was desired by the dealers and not by the fishermen were presented by the opposition, which came entirely from Harpswell. E. E. Sinnett and Elroy Johnson of Harpswell, the only persons in opposition, contended that the present law requiring lobsters "to be adequate and all we need."

"This is a bill of the lobster dealer, and it is favored by only a small number of fishermen—probably those of York County, where the present law was not being enforced," Sinnett said. Johnson, the other opponent, assured the committee that the lobster catch—particularly in his section—"is holding its own and increasing, if anything, and the lobster industry is on the up-and-up."

It was said at one point during the hearing that many lobster fishermen found it impossible to finance their trip to Augusta to speak on the measure.

Clarence Goldwaite of Biddeford, secretary of the Maine Lobster Fishermen's Association; Harold W. Look, Rockland lobster dealer, Commissioner Crie and Hanscom told the committee that a change in the law would "put Maine on the same basis with other states and Canada" and would be a step forward to expedite federal legislation for benefiting the industry.

Look pointed out that "the problem is not local but one of national scope" and expressed his belief that there should be a partial embargo against Canada.

Commissioner Crie assured the committee it would increase the supply of lobsters materially.

When Operator Kenneth V. White transmitted a naval radio message to Capt. George A. Oliver of Gardiner, Me., one day this week he naturally assumed that it was business pertaining to the Navy Department. When he received Capt. Oliver's acknowledgment he learned that the latter was an 83-year-old shark fisherman, who will sail tomorrow on the Steamship Bonito for the shark waters around Jamaica. He has gone shark fishing every year or two for the past 33 years. Last winter he landed 18, and the biggest was a 14-foot long 800-pounder. Charles Baker of Randolph has been making some new tackle for him, including some gear of a new fangled sort.

PLEASED EVERYBODY

Fine Entertainment Put On For Fish and Game Ass'n.—New Members Added

The Knox County Fish and Game Association held a membership meeting in Martinsville Grange hall Tuesday night, and the attendance was fully up to expectations in spite of the near-zero temperature and gale of wind that came directly from a man's sized iceberg.

Ernest C. Davis, who is never so happy as when he can be turning in new members, added seven to the roster—Edward O. B. Gonia of Rockland, and Fred H. Smalley, Mrs. Elizabeth Imlach, William Imlach, Mr. and Mrs. Granville N. Bachelard, Fred S. Seavey and Dr. Elmer R. Biggers.

Steamed clams and lobster stew both piping hot, caused the fish and game men to forget the Arctic environment, and as a dessert feature there were numerous kinds of pie, of which some of the diners took numerous "samples."

F. H. Pierson was master, and his efforts, ably seconded by those of a group of nice-looking and accommodating waiters, met with universal approval.

The thanks of A. B. Butler, at being made honorary member were expressed by Dr. Walter P. Conley.

Fred Seavey again expressed his regret that thousands of ducks should invest that locality and that the hunters and fishermen be deprived by a federal law of getting a much-needed food supply.

At this juncture the Beaville Choir entered the hall and proceeded to furnish several quartet selections, and was given such an ovation that several reappearances were necessary. The "makeups" were somewhat incongruous, especially that of the singer who jauntily sauntered into the hall wearing a straw hat.

Ted Johnson and his guitar, without which no St. George entertainment would be complete were heard in a topical song that brought down the house. He also, had to respond to several encores.

Margaret Reed gave several character readings one of which especially have been heard by some of those irrepressibles who make nuisances of themselves in motion picture shows. The reader possesses much talent.

Then came the 4-H Club kitchen band which did a surprising stunt with gear assembled from those persons whose cock is boss.

Mrs. Gilbert Auld gave a very clever performance as hypnotist having as her subject John Reed. The hypnotic illusion was so realistic as to be almost startling.

The members of the Association left for home wondering if there is a Knox County town which can put on a better entertainment than St. George always seems able to give, and which would not have been complete without Smalley's orchestra, which furnished music through the supper hour.

The Courier-Gazette THREE-TIMES-A-WEEK

Through the tender mercy of our God, whereby the dayspring from on high hath visited us, to give light to them that sit in darkness and in the shadow of death, to guide our feet into the way of peace.—Luke 1:78-79.

Growing opposition is being manifested to the move which would cause that all-important institution, the Coast Guard to lose its identity through merger with the United States Navy. Scores of sufficient reasons are being advanced as to why this should not be accomplished, and we have yet to see the advancement of one conclusive reason as to why it should be done. Here on our rockbound coast everybody knows what an indispensable adjunct the Coast Guard is, and no storm sweeps over this section that we do not think of those brave men who are on duty day and night that the perils of navigation may be lessened. Do not tamper with the Coast Guard, is the thought of everybody. The Press Herald recently had this to say on the subject:

The President is now considering the proposal to merge the Coast Guard with the Navy, taking the former out from under the control of the Treasury Department and placing it under the control of the Navy Department. There is much opposition to this being done and many arguments have been presented against it. Of course the intention is to reduce expenditures. The change might save the government some money but it would be at the cost of lessening the efficiency of both services. The Navy is concerned with national defense. To this end it devotes its entire attention. The Coast Guard was formed in 1915 by combining the Revenue Cutter Service and the Life Saving Service. The Revenue Cutter Service is the government's oldest military service. It was established before the Navy was created.

The Coast Guard enforces Federal laws relating to navigation. It prevents smuggling, which is now a most vital function. It keeps the lanes of ocean traffic open. It saves life and property at sea and performs many humanitarian missions. It protects the fisheries and game in Alaska, guards bird reservations established by the Federal government, suppresses mutinies on merchant vessels and is the police of the territorial waters of the United States and its possessions.

The Coast Guard educates its own officers at New London and they are given special training for the work they do. The Navy trains its officers for national defense and this demands of them constant study and application. The general opinion is that the two services cannot be merged in time of peace to accomplish all they are expected to do. In time of war they are automatically merged and then function under one head.

We are very proud of Rockland's handsomely illuminated Main street, with which no other Maine city has anything that can be classed as comparable. The praise it receives from outsiders is recompense in itself for the time, money, and labor which have been expended but over and above that is the fostering of Christmas cheer which makes it seem less of a sacrifice in these strenuous days to maintain that fine custom of doing for others and expressing the eternal gratitude which the Christmas season will always typify.

The tragedy whereby three marathon dancers lost their lives in the Hampden holocaust has shocked the whole country, and out of it has grown an even more emphatic sentiment against the continuation of this modern form of folly. In most countries they deprecate the custom of bull-fighting but there are things to be said in its favor when it is placed in comparison with the dance marathon.

In these days when public sentiment is doing so much to undermine and destroy the State's time honored structure, the prohibitory

RODERICK'S ADVICE

Let Nobody Tell You That Education Must Fail For Lack of Funds

The monthly meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association Monday evening drew out a larger attendance than usual, most gratifying in view of the notably fine program.

Prior to the address E. E. Roderick, deputy commissioner, an entertainment, pleasing and colorful, was presented by pupils from the McLean School. Selections by the Rhythm Band from Grade 2, with Mrs. Esther Rogers, music supervisor, at the piano and directing were presented. The little folks wore bright blue paper capes and red caps, and played with spirit and in perfect time. Joan Bertram, a member of the band, recited "The Duel" by Eugene Field, in her usual finished style. Pupils of Grade 3, directed by Miss Mabel Stover, teacher, gave a demonstration on the care of books, and a group of girls from the 6th grades sang several Christmas carols, with Mrs. Rogers at the piano.

Mr. Roderick, who is a speaker of law, it is perhaps not surprising that we view the proposed State lottery with such comparative calmness. We have faith to believe that this last ditch fight to provide a State revenue will fail, and everybody knows that it would not receive an instant's consideration were it not for the fact that it is intended as a substitute for that bete noir, the Sales Tax.

authority opened his address by paying tribute to the children who had just performed, stating that the example children set in giving their best might well be adopted by adults. He digressed from his formal topic to tell to the young folks the story of Sir Launfal and the Holy Grail, told in such a way that the older members of his audience eagerly drank in the words. Mr. Roderick also expressed his pleasure in finding the High School building such a beehive of industry, referring to the night school being conducted there under the civil works program; the athletic activities, and so on. "It is gratifying," said Mr. Roderick, "to find a school providing such activities and caring for its young in these admirable ways."

Mr. Roderick's topic was "The New Deal and Education," and his address contained such thoughts as these: "The New Deal demands a new education—an education that will meet a real emergency. Education is life. More real progress has been made in the last 100 years than in the first 1800 years of the Christian Era. The present conditions have increased responsibilities and decreased resources in the schools. Through the passing of the Child Labor Act 100,000 children have been thrown back into the schools, with no places provided for them. The increase of children of school age in the United States in recent years shows an astounding figure. Education is now on trial—on trial before the public.

Mr. Roderick stressed the faithfulness and loyalty of the teachers under these trying conditions, citing particularly the Chicago case where teachers have held to their posts for weeks and months without pay, rather than see the schools closed and the thousands of children turned on to the streets. "I beg the parents of America," Mr. Roderick earnestly said, "to give credit where credit is due, and be less attentive to the calamity howlers, the enemies of education who are abroad in our land." Education and good business go hand in hand, for education is the power of understanding, doing and appreciating. People must have more than the three native requisites of life—food, shelter and clothing—they have cultural needs to be met.

Do not let people tell you," said Mr. Roderick, "that America cannot carry out her educational program due to lack of funds. America is fully able to now, more than able. Of the fifty billion dollars taken in last year by this country, twenty-five billions were wasted in gambling, in opium and other drugs, in movies, tobacco and its many forms, beer, unnecessary medicines, and so on."

Mr. Roderick firmly believes that the NRA will succeed, but only with the intelligent study of the economic situation by the people of the United States and their loyal support, 100 percent.

Five boys who have been breaking into motor cars and stealing the contents were arraigned in Municipal Court yesterday, and two of them were sent to the State School for Boys at South Portland. There have been 19 breaks recently. Mr. Christy of the Maine Central staff and Patrolman McIntosh have been investigating.

Mrs. S. A. Gould who spends the summers at Pleasant Beach fell down stairs recently severely injuring one hip. She was in a New York hospital for a time, but is now with her sister, Mrs. Emma Davis, in Hammon, N. J.

"The Historic Points of Kentucky" will be the subject of Prof. James Moreland's address before the Baptist Men's League tonight. This paper was in error when it said that Prof. Moreland spoke here a year or two ago. It was another University of Maine professor whose name began with M. and both are among the best speakers the university affords. An added attraction—or perhaps it should be termed a preceding attraction—will be the chicken supper. The meeting unfortunately conflicts with the Chamber of Commerce meeting, but will be over early enough so that the League members may hear most of the Chamber's discussion.

TALK OF THE TOWN

WEATHER

If you scanned your thermometer early this morning you found that the zero mark and the mercury were separated by about the tenth of an inch, and if you listened to Rideout you learned that four inches of snow had fallen in Boston, and still snowing, also that it would be colder. It is well to remember that we have had two mild winters in succession, but tough to think that this one is making up for both.

Ex-Senator Dwinall appeared at two important legislative hearings Tuesday, speaking at both.

Maynard Wiggin of The Courier-Gazette force is off duty because of an infection.

The Knickerbocker Conference at the Glover store Sunday noon will have for its topic the one planned for a week ago.

The Auxiliary of Huntley-Hill Post, will hold a sewing circle Friday at their hall at 2 p. m. Business meeting in the evening.

The Saturday afternoon visitation of Santa at Senter Crane's store will be the signal for a record outpouring of children according to present indication. It is a joyous sight.

It will be "party night" at the Spanish Villa skating rink Saturday night. Confetti, balloons, prizes etc. There will be student races in the afternoon, and Manager Allen's boys will put on an interesting stunt.

Some interesting plans are in the making for the improvement of Community Park, providing the Public Works Association comes across with the necessary fund. The Park is an important adjunct to Rockland's outdoor life, and employment given there would serve an excellent purpose.

Pease of Hope.

Father and Son day resulted yesterday in the Lions Club having its largest attendance of the season. The members stood a moment in silence out of respect to a departed brother, Sheriff Frank F. Harding. The guest speaker was Frank A. Winslow, who, under the topic of "Flirting With Fame" told of interviews and incidents in connection with celebrities he has met during his long career as a newspaper man.

Dr. Freeman F. Brown was elected president of the Knox County Medical Society when the annual meeting and banquet were held at The Thorndike Tuesday night. Other officers chosen were: Vice president, Dr. Charles D. North, Rockland; secretary and treasurer, Dr. J. Carwell, Camden; censor, Dr. H. L. Apollonio, Camden. The speakers were Dr. George H. Coombs of the State Health Department, and Dr. W. E. Kerschner of Bath.

Ralph Umer Auxiliary had a delicious supper last evening, served by the chairman, Margie Thorndike, and her committee. These officers were elected: President, Laura Ranlett; senior vice, Inez Brohkie; junior vice, Idah Roberts; chaplain, Myra Watts; patriotic instructor, Nelly Vose; historian, Emma Dick; conductor, Olive Carney; assistant conductor, Mrs. Sherman; guard, Mrs. Trundy. The Camp and Auxiliary voted to send money to Mrs. Jennie Wilson for her club of boys for their Christmas.

THE BARGAIN ATTIC'S FIRST BIRTHDAY

The Fourth Floor Bargain Attic is One Year Old Next Saturday and We are going to Celebrate this Event with a Birthday Party of Special Values

Here's What We Said in Our Ad of One Year Ago:

Our 4th floor is too valuable to be used as a stock-room . . . it's all heated . . . it has elevator service . . . why not open it up as a Cash and Carry Self-Service Store . . .

This is a Senter Crane contribution of Bargains to our friends and customers. Of course we can sell the goods at very attractive prices because you wait on yourself, making the selections from the tables and carrying them to the tie-up counters . . . trying the coats on without our help . . . selecting the dresses from the reels and taking them to fitting booths and returning those you do not want to the reels . . . on the opening day we will have extra help to show you how.

We feel this floor has been a real "contribution of Bargains" because so many people have said so—people from Camden, Union, Belfast and Thomaston

Miss Marie McFarland returned Sunday night from Community Hospital where on Saturday she underwent a tonsil operation.

This afternoon at the Baptist vestry occurs the annual Christmas sale of the Ladies' Circle. There will be booths for candy, cooked foods, fancy articles and aprons.

Miss Ida Wheatley who has been spending the past five weeks with her sister Mrs. Frank Priest, returned Tuesday morning to her home at Rutherford, N. J.

The Troupe Club scored another success Monday evening in the presentation of the three-act comedy, "No Men Admitted" at the Baptist Church. The vestry was well filled with an audience which showed by continuous laughter and applause their appreciation of the excellent and realistic manner in which the various parts were taken. Miss Mildred Graffam and Miss Helen Small represented the two sisters managing a rooming house to which no men were admitted. Many humorous scenes transpired when a young man was caught endeavoring to call on his sweetheart, Susan, impersonated by Ethel Spear, who with Hazel Cain as Olga, the maid furnished the comedy part. Other members of the cast were Miss Hortense Bohnell, Miss Mabel Pottle, Mrs. Christine Currier, Mrs. Aline Marston, Miss Helen Dunbar and Mrs. Edith Overlock. In connection with the play a sale of fancy articles and candy was held.

Theodore La Polley, who for several years has been employed at the office of the Camden Yacht Building and Railway Co., has recently purchased the book and stationery store in Camden which has been conducted by Miss M. E. Bartlett for the past 25 years. Rockport friends extend to Mr. La Polley their best wishes for success in this new venture.

The Weidman Class held its regular meeting Tuesday evening at the Methodist vestry.

Mrs. Marion La Chance who was a weekend guest at the home of Mrs. Minnie Crozier has returned to her home at Melrose, Mass. She was accompanied by Mrs. Crozier who will visit there for a few days.

Charles Marston still remains very ill at Camden Community Hospital from an attack of pneumonia. The members of Fred A. Norwood W.R.C. are very busy with last minute preparations for their annual Christmas sale which will be held Dec. 19.

Several from town attended the card party at Green Gables, Camden, Wednesday evening sponsored by the Camden branch of the Knox Hospital Auxiliary.

Among the special features of the excellent entertainment given in Camden Tuesday evening by the Camden-Rockport Lions Club was the trumpet solo presented by Le Roy Moon and the trumpet duet played by Moon and Norman Mariner, being the same numbers which these young musicians broadcast over station WHDH on Dec. 2 and which won such high praise from the station's staff as well as from the many radio fans who were privileged to hear them.

Sarah J. Starrett
Funeral services for Sarah J. Starrett, widow of Ellis A. Starrett, were held at the home Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Howard A. Welch officiating. Burial was in the family plot at Fairview cemetery, the bearers being A. P. Gray, John Connell, Sr., John MacDonald and Benjamin Watts. There were many floral tributes telling of the esteem in which her friends held her. Mrs. Starrett was a remarkably active woman for her years and up to a few months prior to her death did her own work, was accustomed to walk to the village, or to a neighbor's home, and enjoyed mingling with people. She was also a great worker, and was not contented unless busy.

Mrs. Starrett was born in East Port, Midway, Queen's County, Nova Scotia, April 7, 1850, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Wagner and one of 17 children, five of whom are now living. In 1868 she was married to Ellis A. Starrett of Warren and they moved to Warren the next year, to the old Starrett place at Oyster River. Of this union two children were born, Oscar E. of Warren, and Dr. Joseph Starrett of Bangor. Since the death of Mr. Starrett, she had lived alone in her little home at Hinkley Corner, being better satisfied alone than to move.

Her two sons survive her, also one grandson, Dr. Jasper Starrett, of Greenwich, Conn.; one granddaughter, Mrs. Stephen Mathewson of Atlanta, Ga., and a great-granddaughter, besides two brothers and three sisters. Mrs. Starrett was a member of the Warren Baptist Church, Ivy Chapter O.E.S., and Warren Grange.

NORTH HAVEN

But two weeks to go before Christmas and my! what a lot to do! Sunday was one of the bitterest cold days the island has had for many a day. There was a penetrating wind with gale force that swept the island with light snow. There were however 52 at the Church school, not so many at the morning service but the choir was present in loyal numbers. The evening service with illustrated address was postponed until next Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Waterman were in Rockland Saturday.

Mrs. Ray Beverage returned from a day in Rockland Saturday.

Clarence Waterman and Thorne Eyer report a fine time on their hunting trip into the eastern part of the State.

Leroy Pierce, Francis Lipovsky and Carlton Snow have been taken on the Widow's Island job.

Mrs. Mary Jane Brown

One of North Haven's oldest residents, Mrs. Mary Jane Carver Brown, died last Friday afternoon at the home of her son Jesse Ames Brown, at the advanced age of 86 years. Mrs. Brown was born in North Haven upon a part of what is now the Zimmermann estate, Sept. 2, 1846. This was the year of the Mexican War. At 15 she saw as a girl the outbreak of the Civil War. In 1868 she was married to John Thomas Brown, a Civil War veteran, who died in 1911. A woman of faith, character and devotion, she was a long time member of the North Haven Baptist Church.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon in the Pulpit Harbor Church, conducted by Rev. Henry F. Huse. Notwithstanding the bitter cold with driving wind and snow there was a goodly number of people present in loving memory of this good woman. Mrs. Brown is survived by one son Jesse, and a daughter Mrs. Myra Blackington of Rockland, also two granddaughters, Eleanor and Marjorie Brown. Burial was in the family lot in the Fuller cemetery. The bearers were Corydon Brown, Elmer Carver, Neal Burgess and Vernon Beverage.

UNION

Francis Roy was in Rockland on business last Thursday.

Mrs. Ralph Hannon who has been ill with an abscess in her throat has recovered and is able to be out.

GEORGE B. WINCHENBACH

George B. Winchenbach whose death occurred Nov. 28 at his home in Rockland, was born in Friendship Aug. 23, 1864, son of Simon and Margaret Davis Winchenbach. He was an industrious, hard working man, an employee for several years of the late Alvin Studley and Herbert Linnell, also of the J. A. Creighton Co. Twenty-one years ago the family moved from Thomaston to Rockland, where he was in the employ of the Maine Music Store and later carried on a trucking business until failing health warned him he must give up this activity.

Mr. Winchenbach was married in 1888 to Agnes Hall of Thomaston, who survives him. He was devoted to his family and wife, from whom he received devoted care during his illness of the past year, and between them the most loyal devotion existed. He was adored by his daughters from whom he received every kindness. Eight children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Winchenbach, of whom two sons died in infancy, and a third son, Fred, died in 1920. The remaining children are Mrs. Cieta Hennigar, Mrs. Hazel Beckett, Mrs. Murtice Proton, Mrs. Margaret Spear and Mrs. Frances Gibson. There are also several grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Funeral services were held from the home on Rockland street, and the officiating clergyman was Rev. J. C. MacDonald. Burial was in Thomaston. Another sign of jangled nerves...

Door banging, teeth gritting, foot tapping, arguing over trifles—or the old favorite—telephone slamming... Just little ways which prove nerves are getting out of hand... Danger signals... If you're guilty of such gestures, check up—

Watch your nerves... Get your full amount of sleep every night. Eat regularly and sensibly. Find time for recreation. And smoke Camels—for Camel's costlier tobaccos never get on your nerves.

COSTLIER TOBACCOS

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand of cigarettes!

Don't expect neuritis or rheumatic pains to give you notice of their coming, or to get rid of them by using ordinary medicines. Hundreds of folks hereabouts, especially the older folks, will tell you that when your limbs or joints begin to throb and jump like an itching tooth, the best thing to do is apply Johnson's Anodyne Liniment as often as possible. Rub on gently, or saturate an old cloth and bind lightly. You'll soon have grateful warmth and comfort.

A liberal bottle of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment costs only 30¢ at drug and grocery stores, or you can get three times as much for only 60¢. Both will kill your pain just as they have done for thousands since 1810, when a wise old doctor wrote his prescription for Johnson's Anodyne Liniment.

Four carpenters and two painters are employed on the school repairs, with Forrest Wall foreman. The Post-Cycle sewer has 20 men and two trucks employed; the Wheeler's Bay road has 31 men and six trucks, with A. J. Rawley foreman on these two jobs. The Post-Cycle sewer is 1800 feet long, extending from the school building to the harbor along Main street, making it possible for nearly the entire village to be served, thus greatly improving the sanitary conditions. The Wheeler's Bay road project is a continuation of the State Aid road being built from Clark Island turn to Wheeler's Bay. A marked improvement is the elimination of the curve at McNamara's Corner. Friday Supervisor Wendall Washburn visited the project and relocated and surveyed this particular strip of road, which will fill a long felt want by connecting the towns of St. George and South Thomaston through Spruce Head village, making one of the most picturesque and interesting drives in Knox County. Nearly 850 feet is built and ready for surfacing.

Don't Worry About Your DOLLAR!

In spite of all the talk about inflation and while it is true the American Dollar is selling at a discount in International Exchange markets it is still at a premium in our own country. Whatever rise in prices has occurred has been based primarily on the sound foundation of increased demand through better wages, shorter hours, and more employment, and by the restriction of imports on foreign goods.

Actually, your dollar today will buy more merchandise than in any of the most prosperous years. The index of wholesale prices compiled by the Bureau of Labor based on 784 commodities shows that today your dollar will buy:

38% more than in 1924	36% more than in 1927
47% more than in 1925	37% more than in 1928
41% more than in 1926	36% more than in 1929
	23% more than in 1930

While it is true that the purchasing power of the dollar last year was slightly higher than it is today, that is because of the pitifully small wages paid to sweatshop labor, and because of the bankruptcy sales of hundreds of concerns.

ARE BOILING SLOWLY

More Fire Must Be Added To the Kettles If Christmas Cheer Is To Come

The Christmas kettles have put in their appearance to the merry jingle of the silver bells, but how sad it is to announce that the response has been far from satisfactory. If the Salvation Army is to play the part of Santa Claus to a large number of families who are very much in need the kettles will have to boil much faster.

It has been said that the Army believes in a practical Christianity. No one would approve of an organization which gathers humanity together and teaches it to sing "Of the Home Over There By the Side Of the River Of Life," but does nothing to help these poor unfortunates, physically as well as spiritually. The practical way is to give them some conception of the home over there by bringing a taste of beauty, love, joy and happiness in their earthly homes here at Christmas.

This is an opportunity for you to make a very special gift. "God gave the first Christmas gift. Christmas without giving would seem out of harmony. Your generosity will make possible much happiness. Already many needy families have been thoroughly investigated "Donations of foodstuff, canned goods, potatoes, etc. and all warm clothing will be thankfully received. Make all checks payable to Salvation Army, and if possible send all foodstuff, canned goods to Salvation Army hall, 447 Main street.

CONTROLLING MILK

Methods of Doing It Discussed At Recent Nempa Meeting in Warren

Fifty members and guests of the Thomaston and Warren locals of the New England Milk Producers Association met Friday evening for the annual banquet and meeting at the Life Saver Luncheonette at Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Davis catering. The tables were attractively arranged with a favor at each plate, and a delicious supper of lobster stew, pickles coffee and doughnuts was served. Miss Margaret Haskell helped with the serving. Immediately following the banquet the assembly was entertained by Miss Haskell who gave two readings, "Betty at the Baseball Game" and "Twelve Days After Christmas," in her usual excellent way, receiving a great hand.

The business meeting was conducted by Frank L. Davis, president of the locals, re-elected this year, who introduced the principal speaker of the evening, F. C. Warner of Boston, assistant field manager of the association. Mr. Warner proved himself an able speaker and this branch of the locals was fortunate indeed to secure him, as he will address but two other branches of the association in Maine. He opened his talk with the explanation of the difference between the Agriculture Adjustment Act and the National Recovery Act. The former was for the purpose of bringing back to the farmer the purchasing power that he had in 1914, the latter was to return to labor the purchasing power it had in 1926. The NRA had started operation before the A. G. A. in that much material the farmer had to buy had advanced in price faster than the products the farmer sells. Because of the increasing regulations established since 1914 for milk, making milk costs more than formerly, the Secretary of Agriculture will fix the price the farmer will receive for milk. In order for the Secretary of Agriculture to act 70 per cent of the farmers had to organize, as there was not time to deal with the individual farmer. Milk distributors and producers had to agree to bring the "chisel" into line, and that New England farmers would not increase production of milk to interfere with the western farmers.

There were found to be two ways to control milk production, first that of a flat price on a milk basis and second that of an arbitrary rating on a milk basis only. It is hoped that cream will be added this year. The quality of cream produced in New England is better than Western cream but the difference in price sells the western product. New England cream selling at $12.50 and western at $9.50 for a ten gallon can. Western farmers sold this cream lower because of the dropping of the butter prices—prices which the government had tried to stabilize by buying and holding butter in storage. Setting the cream price would put the eastern farmer on the same basis as the western farmer.

Farmers selling milk the past October, November and December 1932 will according to the code be in class B, reckoning on the 3.7 butter fat basis, but only if they deliver milk seven days per week to Boston, passing the Boston Board of Health inspection. If not shipping at that time, either milk or cream, they cannot enter as it is based on three months' production.

Mr. Warner said that the prices were not as high as they should be and that the milk code was not designed to be the cream shipper. He spoke of a shortage of 14 carloads of cream in Boston a few weeks ago making it necessary to import the amount short from the west. He also spoke of the unfair competition of legally inspected milk with that which is not inspected. According to his figures, the first cream west of Buffalo came into New England in 1925. In 1932 out of 1475 cans of cream that came daily to Boston, 552 came from west of Buffalo. During last July and August 80 per cent of the cream used in Boston came from the west. He also spoke of the New York Market being closed to the west for a time, to protect its own producers and to quell the strike.

He spoke of certain interests working hard to break the association co-operative marketing, of a town which had 400 members in the N.E.M.P.A., this membership reduced to 40 because of propaganda from these interests, of cases where creameries had refused to take milk or cream from N.E.M.P.A. members, forcing the farmers to give up their membership or lose their milk; of the N.E.M.P.A. buying up this milk from their members refused the market sometimes over night; of the drive of the chain store against the association; of information printed in a certain Boston newspaper telling how to get out of the N.E.M.P.A. Mr. Warner said that in a way this propaganda helped because it made the officials of the association feel that they were considered dangerous, that something had been accomplished by the co-operative farmer. He answered several questions following and during his talk.

S. J. Wright of Clinton, field manager for this section also spoke briefly. Ernest L. Starrett who went as delegate from this section to the annual meeting in Boston in October, spoke of the impression of the organization's strength which he obtained at the meeting. Some discussion was held on the advisability of changing from cream shipping to milk shipping to come under the code, but nothing definite came of it. Charles A. Webb was elected secretary-treasurer of the locals and it was agreed they should meet another year.

SANTA CLAUS' BOAT

Down Here on Maine Coast the Reindeer Are Replaced By the Sunbeam

A unique craft in Maine waters is the fine Diesel boat Sunbeam, of the Maine Sea Coast Mission, with headquarters at Bar Harbor. Most of the time she is referred to as "God's Yacht," but at this season of the year is known as the "Santa Claus Boat." With a paid missionary pastor and captain and crew, the Sunbeam dispenses religion of a non-sectarian type, and practical help to the lonely dwellers on hundreds of offshore islands or remote points of mainland. For 25 years the society has maintained a mission boat whose broad parish is from the Kennebec river on the west to Passamaquoddy Bay on the east.

There are over 1500 children and a few aged and invalid shut-in adults who live on isolated isles to whom gifts are sent each Christmas.

The Sunbeam is a Good Samaritan boat at all seasons. She goes to the rescue of fishing craft in distress, breaks the winter ice in obscure harbors to minister to the sick, rushes the critically ill to mainland medical attendance and hospitals, carries the dead to their last resting place and picnic groups to their place of holiday. She serves every sort of occasion between the extremes of joy and sorrow.

The Sunbeam has staterooms with running water and a comfortable salon with chairs and tables, books and charts. In the after cabin is a small operating room. Surgeons have performed emergency operations here while countless minor mishaps have been cared for by the registered nurses who accompany the boat on its trips.

For many months at Bar Harbor the gifts for the Santa Claus trip have been accumulating. They have largely been donated from hundreds upon hundreds of sympathizers in the work. Warm clothing, mittens, stockings, caps, ties, shoes, rubber boots, oilskins, flannel shirts and every conceivable article these folk need are included. Bushel upon bushel of toys and books of many kinds will be distributed. It is estimated that more than 2000 persons who otherwise would absolutely know no Christmas will receive some useful article or gift this year.

All through the coming Maine winter months when north winds howl, seas rage, harbors freeze and the mercury falls far below the zero mark, navigating the Sunbeam along the treacherous coast is indeed a man's job. But this missionary patrol boat of the Maine shores will continue her regular calls when the elements make it humanly possible to navigate.

SETH B. WETHERBEE

The many friends of Seth B. Wetherbee are grieved to learn of his death which occurred Dec. 4 at the home of his son in Waverly, Mass., after a long illness.

He was born in Warren, March 5, 1858, son of William Hilliard and Isabella Cobb Wetherbee. At the age of 18 he left Warren to take up a business career in Boston and in 1885 formed the firm of electrical contractors, known as Wetherbee & Whitney. After long and honorable service he retired in 1926, because of ill health.

Funeral services were held in Arlington and burial took place in Oak Grove Cemetery, Medford. Flags throughout the city of Medford were at half-staff in his memory. The funeral was largely attended, and among those present was Barlow H. Wetherbee of New York, a cousin. Telegrams and letters of conlence were received from many longtime friends in Warren, Rockland and Belfast, for since his retirement from business, Mr. Wetherbee had spent many happy months in his beloved State of Maine, and was well-known. He leaves a son, John; a sister, daughter, Helen, of Boston; a sister Mrs. Eda G. Peary of Woburn, Mass., and a brother Fred B. Wetherbee of South Braintree, Mass.

We cover the Waterfront with fourteen OCEAN TERMINALS!

SHUTTling back and forth between great oil fields, and refineries and fourteen leading American Ports, is a constant stream of huge steel tankers.

The story of one is the story of all.

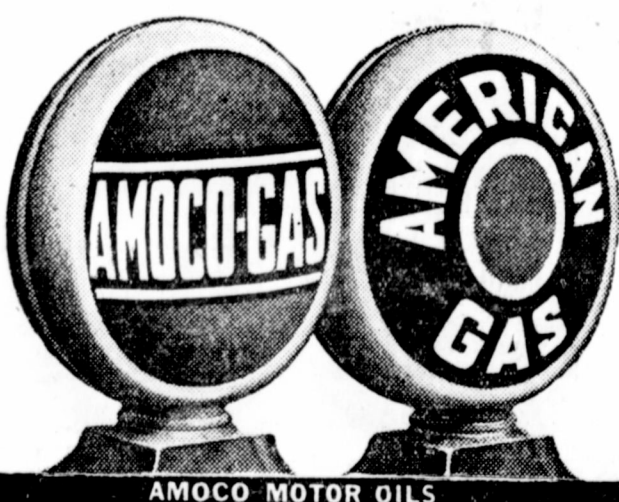

Their liquid cargoes are for the American Oil Company and are piped ashore at fourteen large modern ocean terminals (see map), barged to nineteen additional water terminals conveniently located along the Eastern Seaboard (see map), moved by rail to hundreds of railroad bulk plants all the way from Maine to Florida, and inland.

Then come thousands of tank cars and tank trucks—all a part of the great service that dots the roads from Maine to Florida, and elsewhere, with AMOCO-GAS and Orange AMERICAN GAS pumps. A tremendous, highly organized activity that means better values for you.

And millions of motorists will tell you that is exactly what results. For AMOCO-GAS is the original special motor fuel. Different! Exclusive formula! That is why no ordinary premium gasolines do all the things that AMOCO-GAS can do, or any of them nearly so well. And why AMOCO-GAS gives you the lowest cost per mile—many luxuries—many advantages—possible from no other fuel.

And if you are a user of "regular"—here's the master of them all—Orange AMERICAN GAS—the original orange colored regular gasoline. So good it exceeds U. S. Government specifications for motor gasoline by 12%! Yet costs no more than other regular gasolines. Its performance is much better.

What comes from the "AMERICAN" Waterfront is best for you—your car—and your purse! Convince yourself.
