THE CONVENTION IS HISTORY

White Ribboners Enjoyed Rockland Hospitality—Mrs. Quimby and Old Board Re-elected

STATEMENT BY MAINE W. C. T. U.

The repeal of the 26th Amendment to the Constitution does not repeal prohibition in Maine. We still have the statutory prohibition supported by more than a score of statutes. The manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquors for beverage purposes are still prohibited. We call upon the citizens of Maine to obey the law, and to insist that the officials sworn to enforce the laws of the State enforce this law as well as other laws. We especially appeal to youth to voluntarily abstain from all alcoholic liquors that the high standards of Maine people established by generations reared under prohibition may be maintained.

At Thursday forenoon's session of the Maine W.C.T.U. convention it was learned that there were 130 voting delegates present, and for the first time in a number of years all of the counties in the State were represented.

These guests were presented: Rev. P. W. Pennell, Congregational pastor of Freeport; Rev. Charles E. Brooks, pastor of Rockland Methodist Church, and Mrs. Brooks, Mrs. Minnie Pike of Manchester, N. H., brought greetings from the White Ribboners of her State.

Mrs. Ella A. Boole addressed the morning session giving some of her interesting experiences while traveling through Europe and attending the World's convention at Stockholm, Sweden.

The annual election of officers was devoid of thrills because of the fact that all delegates knew the old board would be re-elected, and were well pleased to think that such would be the case. The list is here repeated: President, Mrs. Althea K. Quimby, Portland.

Vice President at large, Miss Amella Shapleigh, West Lebanon.

Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Alice M. Bigney, Greenville.

Recording Secretary, Miss Margaret Sargent, Falmouth Foreside.

Assistant Recording Secretary, Miss Caroline F. Chase, Augusta.

Treasurer, Mrs. Vena L. Johnson, Portland.

The following resolutions were adopted:

PREAMBLE: We, members of the Maine Woman's Christian Temperance Union come to our annual meeting disappointed, but not discouraged, over the results of the recent election. The forces of evil have prevailed for a time, but eventually the right must win. We believe that the temperance has achieved an enviable reputation for their work with all the principal circuses in the United States. The performance is of an extremely hazardous nature taking place on the flying rings, during the course of which one thrilling routine follows the other in rapid succession.

Great Townsend: The absolute dare-devilry and motorcycle madness that the Great Townsend displays, positively is astounding. Astride a motorcycle, traveling at breakneck speed, the Great Townsend crashes through a solid board wall, without the use of any safety device whatsoever.

For sheer grit, courage and dare-devilry, the Great Townsend has been acclaimed far and wide. Can you imagine yourself pounding with your head against a board wall, and expecting to come through unharmed? Well, that's just exactly what Townsend does.

Larry Saunders: Possibly the most thrilling attraction ever to appear at any Fair is that of Sensational Saunders. This daring dare-devil performs miraculous feats on the trapeze.

To say 110 feet in mid-air, doesn't seem so very high, but you find that you are gasping for breath to watch this performer fairly play with death. A false move, and the final role is played. However, there's nothing sadder than confidence in one's self.

UNION FAIR FREE TICKETS

Announcement comes from the officials of the Union Fair that this year they are giving away 10,000 tickets free to all grade school children in this particular section of Maine. This is something that's just going to make these kids tickled all over (and make some of the rest of us wish we were kids again), and is only one of the many features in vogue at Union Fair, which serves to still keep our interest in those century old institutions—the County Fair.

and Larry Saunders is confident of his ability.

North Knox Fair, or Union Fair, as it is more generally known, is one of the best managed and most progressive institutions in the State. This year it has these officials: Clarence Leonard, president; R. M. McKinley, race secretary; H. L. Grinnell, secretary; T. G. Messer, superintendent of grounds.

LINDBERGH CASE

Baffling Mystery Is Apparently Solved—The North Haven Estate Closed

The nation's press has been filled the past two days with the sensational developments in the Lindbergh kidnapping case which has apparently has been brought to a solution with spectacular swiftness after two years' effort by the arrest of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, 35, of New York, in whose garage was found $13,750 of the ransom money.

The Associated Press furnishes in concise manner the following chronology of the Lindbergh kidnapping case:

March 1, 1932—Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., 20 months old son was stolen from his nursery in the Lindbergh home at Hopewell, N. J. A note demanded $50,000 ransom.

March 4—Henry (Red) Johnson, sailor suitor of the baby's nurse, Betty Gow, was taken into custody at Hartford, Conn. The Lindberghs made an appeal to the kidnappers, promising secrecy.

March 5—The Lindberghs appointed Salvatore Spitalo and Irving Bilz to negotiate with kidnappers through underworld channels.

March 8—First advertisements seeking to contact kidnappers were inserted in newspapers by Dr. John F. Condon, aged New York educator, signed "Jafsie."

March 10—Morris Rosner, reputed to have underworld contacts, was conducting an investigation for the Lindberghs.

March 20—Red Johnson was exonerated and turned over to federal authorities for deportation as an alien.

March 24—John Hughes Curtis, Rear Admiral Guy W. Burrage, retired, and Dean H. Dobson-Peacock were identified at Norfolk, Va., as seeking to trace kidnappers.

April 2—Dr. Condon paid $50,000 ransom given him by Col. Lindbergh to man in Bronx cemetery, but baby was not returned.

April 9—Col. Lindbergh disclosed that numbers of the ransom bills had been given to banks.

May 5—Gaston B. Means, former government operative, was arrested for obtaining $104,000 from Mrs. Edward McLean of Washington by misrepresentation he could reach kidnappers. He was later convicted.

May 12—The baby was found dead near a road scarcely five miles from the Lindbergh home.

May 17—Curtis confessed all his negotiations were a hoax.

June 10—Violet Sharpe, servant in the home of Mrs. Dwight Morrow, Mrs. Lindbergh's mother, committed suicide as detectives waited to question her. Later investigation cleared her.

July 2—Curtis was convicted of "obstructing justice," but sentence was suspended.

June 23, 1933—Lindbergh home was turned over to corporation for use as child welfare center.

Developments in New York lend interest to the return to Englewood, N. J., last night of Jon, two year old son of Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh from North Haven where he has spent the summer. In the party were Mrs. Morrow's secretary and another attendant. Miss Constance Morrow, sister of Mrs. Lindbergh, left Friday morning to resume her college work and Mrs. Morrow will complete the closing of the estate Monday.

Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise.—Proverbs 20:1.

THE LINDBERGH CASE

The great news of the week has to do with the uncovering of the mystery which for two years has surrounded the kidnapping of the Lindbergh baby. From every home sounds a prayer of rejoicing, coupled with the hope that the solution of the mystery may be so complete, as that the penalties of the law shall come to be visited upon every person who in any degree had association with the atrocious crime.

THINGS LOOKING BETTER

These reflections by Editor Arthur Staples of the Lewiston Journal will strike a responsive note with many a reader who has had contact in any degree with the business situation of the past two years:

"The recent utterance of President Roosevelt in criticism of bank examinations as having been too severe, too discriminating; too exhausting of the honest and reliable assets of banks has perhaps given more courage to business than anything else he has said in a long time," writes the editor.

"Unutterable sins against banks were done by cocky examiners, flushed with sudden and newfound powers. The Federal Government, having protected the depositors up to $5000 ought to do equally well by the banks, in its exactions over the insurance of deposits. At least it should value their wealth fairly according to the merits of the community and the assurance of future values in loans and mortgages in prosperous communities."

"Banks are going on. None have failed in the period since the bank holiday. No depositor can lose any money, in insured banks. And no owner of bank-stock can hope for any dividends for many a day. But as the President says, the Government may be at least fair and courteous."

"Owners of real estate, who have not seen any return for two years, do not thereby relinquish hope for the future. Real estate that has no sale today, may yet have a market. Babies are being born; life is not at an end, just because of a bank holiday. The value is there."

TWO SUMMER VISITORS

Here is a summer coming to its conclusion, with no recorded evidence that our city has seen occasion to welcome any representative of either of those once familiar itinerants of trade, the artist of the organ played by hand, and the friendly navigator of the pushed machine, the untimely arrivals of whose little bell announced the opportunity for the sharpening of your family cutlery. These were familiar notes of the so-called vacation season, that lent to it a pleasing quality which the rush and noise of a later day somewhat fails to supply. To follow slowly along the street with the patient grinder of the organ, to hear renewed the strains of once familiar music, perhaps with his own voice lifted thereon in song, or supplemented by a monkey with the clever paw, was to find the day greatly brightened to you. Or you may have preferred to note the skill of that other artisan, (scissors grinder was his official title) as with rhythmic motion of the foot he made the sparks flash out from the swift emery wheel that set an edge to the household carving knife. Simple pleasures, it is true, but leaving in their wake no elements of regret.

INGERSOLL'S GREAT SPEECH

A correspondent has asked to have printed the speech upon Napoleon that was delivered by Robert Ingersoll and is regarded as his most famous. "Reflections at the Tomb of Napoleon" is the title it bears and with some omissions follows:

"A little while ago, I stood by the grave of the old Napoleon—a magnificent tomb of gilt and gold, fit almost for a dead deity—and gazed upon the sarcophagus of rare and unexcelled marble, where rest at last the ashes of that restless man. I leaned over the balustrade and thought about the career of the greatest soldier of the modern world. . . . I saw him conquer the Alps and mingle the eagles of France with the eagles of the crags. I saw him at Marengo—at Ulm and Austerlitz. . . . I saw him in Russia, where the infantry of the snow and the cavalry of the wind blast scattered his legions like winter's withered leaves. . . . I saw him upon the fruitful field of Waterloo, where Chance and Fate combined to wreck the fortunes of their king. And I saw him at St. Helena, with his hands crossed behind him, gazing upon the sad and solemn sea. I thought of the orphans and widows he had made—his glory, and of the only woman who ever loved him, pushed from his heart by the cold hand of ambition. And I said I would rather have been a French peasant and worn wooden shoes. I would rather have lived in a hut with a vine growing over the door and the grapes growing purple in the kisses of the Autumn sun. I would rather have been that poor peasant with my loving wife by my side, knitting as the day died out of the sky—with my children upon my knees and their arms about me—I would rather have been that man and gone down to the tongueless silence of the dreamless dust, than to have been that imperial impersonation of force and murder, known as Napoleon the Great."

An orator of surpassing power and eloquence, Col. Ingersoll was during his active years a striking public figure, and the more part as the exponent of ideas which drew upon

GOVERNOR MURCHIE

Visits the Local Rotary Club and Makes a Hit With 'Em

The Rotary Club saw its yesterday's luncheon period illuminated by the visit of Ned Murchie of Calais, the new Governor of the 38th district, who met with the local Rotarians for the first time since his election to that office, and delighted them with the clear evidence he gave of friendly and intellectual qualities which well enough explain why, unsolicited upon his part, the clubs of the upper end of the district enthusiastically drafted him for service.

In an address touched by a natural note of humor Gov. Murchie briefly reviewed some of the things he had noted at the recent Detroit convention, especially the presence of Rotarians from all parts of the world, including China and the South Seas, where the principles of the order, he said, are experiencing growing prominence, even in excess of what is encountered here at home, and giving great promise of the thing that Rotary International is increasingly addressing itself to.

While he had not sought these present honors, the speaker said, his desire while in the office was to go a good job. Addressing himself to the phases of Rotary that appeal to the average man, he emphasized certain things that the average club should do at home in this 20th century crusade of community service, a crusade of business knighthood that shall extend itself over the world. Not community minded alone, he declared, but world minded, as well, is the thing to be striven for.

The governor's practical and eloquent address was warmly applauded, followed by personal greetings of equal character, and the registering of a hope that his visit here might soon be repeated.

A new member found himself greeted at this meeting of the club—Maurice F. Lovejoy; classification, "Insurance and surety bonding."

THE CONVENTION IS HISTORY

cause is in accord with God's will, and that he calls upon us for a deeper consecration, to the end that not only our own nation, but all the world, may be freed from the evils of strong drink.

PROHIBITION: Resolved, That we once more declare our belief that prohibition is the best method yet tried for the elimination of the liquor traffic. We believe that our recent loss is not permanent and that in time we shall see prohibition again ascendant and triumphant. To the coming of this desired condition we pledge our earnest endeavor.

TOTAL ABSTINENCE: Resolved, That as the Scriptures, history, exact science, medical authorities, leaders in moral, philanthropic and civic movements bear witness to the beneficial effects of total abstinence as a rule of living, we re-affirm our belief in and adherence to this basic principle of our organization.

THE YOUNG: Resolved, That we will earnestly and conscientiously strive to inculcate in the minds of the boys and girls of our State principles of prohibition and good citizenship. The saloon people are striving by every power of mind, ear, taste and sight to degrade and ruin our children. We should organize Loyal Temperance Legions and Young People's Branches in every community, urge Scientific Temperance Instruction in all schools of our State, work in our Sunday Schools and guard our future citizens in all possible ways.

OUR DEPARTMENTS: We recommend that each union do earnest work in all departments best fitted to its needs.

PEACE: Resolved, That we oppose all propaganda in favor of war and pledge ourselves anew to do our utmost to establish upon earth the kingdom of the Prince of Peace.

OUR PAPERS: We earnestly recommend that our members subscribe to The Star in the East and The Union Signal and become readers of these papers. We recommend The Young Crusader as a publication helpful to the young. It is our belief that a woman to be eligible to office in our organization should be equipped with our papers and our publications.

COURTESIES: We extend our thanks to the Rockland W.C.T.U. for its hospitality; to those who have entertained our delegates; to the First Baptist Church for the use of its edifice; to the speakers; to those who have rendered special music; to the convention committee; to the press; to the pages; to the Chamber of Commerce for the automobile ride; and to all others who have assisted in making the 60th Annual Convention of the Maine Woman's Christian Temperance Union enjoyable and successful.

During the afternoon Thursday Mrs. Decker presented Mrs. Quimby with a potted plant, and Mrs. Etta Fernald of Camden a basket. Cheering messages came from Mrs. Sarah Hoge, secretary of the National W.C.T.U.; and Secretary Nelson of the American Business Men's Foundation.

Mrs. Annie Barnes, director of department of Child Welfare, gave a demonstration of the service for White Ribbon recruits by tying a white ribbon on the wrists of nine little ones. Grouped on the platform with their mothers they made an inspiring picture of motherhood. The children were Judson Chapman, Billie Hoch, Wesley Hoch, Betty Lou Pendleton, Evelyn Joyce Pendleton, Margaret Elizabeth Knowlton, Carolyn Harriman, Doris Munro and Glenice Munro.

At close of afternoon program a group of 30 children, with banners, posters and flower girls, delightfully presented the pageant "In the Garden of the L.T.L." directed by Mrs. Clara Emrey. The names follow: Leader, Erma Thompson; vanguard: trumpeter, Eleanor Harper; banner bearer, Carlton Worcester; flag bearer, Ernest Harrington; pledge, Bernard Andrews; dues, Dolly Sylvester; button, Bernice Stables; mission fund, Elizabeth Glendenning; motto, Elizabeth Haskell; slogan, Shirley Curtis; flag salute, Mildred Hall; rally cry, Granville Richards.

Part 2. Study course, Marion Harrington; scrap book, Gertrude Simpson; sunshine envelope, Naomi Richards; health posters, Hilmi Lehto; flower mission, Cynthia Tibbette; kindness to animals, Walter Kenney; young crusader, Ruth Staples; daffodils: Tilly Haskell, Barbara Lassalle, Marie Haskell, Thelma Burns; roses, Priscilla McCaslin, Jeannette Shannon, Hazel Curtis, Mildred Harvey, Dorothy Havener, Polly Havener, Virginia Haskell, Shelby Glendenning.

Mrs. Myrtle Ames of Fairfield, director of L.T.L., warned boys and girls against the propaganda they will now see and hear through the medium of the newspapers, billboards and movies. The State trophy, a silver loving cup was presented to York County (Miss Crissie Mathews) for excellence of work during the year.

The membership banquet at the Copper Kettle had an attendance of 50. Mrs. Quimby, in recognition of her 20 years of faithful service was presented with a birthday cake, and an honorary gift of 1000 new members gained during the year. Mrs. Boole, the world's president, said that the latter was the best answer to Maine's vote on repeal.

Mrs. Boole's Address
The feature of the Thursday night session was the address by Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the World's W.C.T.U. Her subject was "Experience and Endurance" and her audience hung closely upon every word. Mrs. Boole said:

The repeal of constitutional prohibition in Maine is a shot heard around the world.

For more than 75 years Maine has been a living example of a State that had the courage and determination to outlaw the liquor traffic, an ideal toward which we have all worked, and it will not be easy to explain to other nations and to other peoples why Maine voted for repeal. You who live in Maine know better than outsiders how it came about. Suffice it to say that you who stood by the law contended not only with those of your own State who sought repeal, but the administration at Washington was opposed to you, some of the political leaders were on the other side, while the liquor interests of the nation and the world actively aided repeal. The result is that you are entering upon an experiment, for the legalized liquor traffic is a new thing in Maine.

Repeal will not change the nature of alcohol.

Repeal will not lessen the consumption of alcoholic liquors.

Repeal will not stop bootlegging.

Repeal will not stop drinking among young people.

Repeal will not stop drinking among women, for the whole aim of the reinstated liquor traffic will be to increase consumption.

Repeal will not solve your financial problems in Maine.

Repeal has not relieved unemployment. The Federal government is spending large sums for relief, and vast sums on public improvements, but unemployment continues, and relief funds must be increased. Some on relief rolls are spending their money for liquor, while others are depriving their families of necessary food because the lessened wages of the depression are still further diminished by the money spent for drink.

In all probability those who worked for repeal promised that repeal would solve all these problems. You will be disappointed—if we are to judge from the experience of those who have tried out the experiment in other places. The saloon, an outlaw in the State of Maine for more than 75 years, will come back. There will be restrictions at first, but these will gradually be relaxed. This has been the experience in New York and in other States.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union opposed the repeal of National Prohibition and has opposed repeal in every State. Defeat does not destroy the righteousness of a cause, nor does it mean that our fight against the liquor traffic is ended. It should lead us to greater activity, for our attitude was caused by the nature and effects of alcohol and these are not changed by repeal.

"The W.C.T.U. still believes that national prohibition is the best method of dealing with the liquor traffic. The smuggling of liquors from other countries during national prohibition and the activities of the International Wine Office have convinced us that world-wide prohibition must be achieved if we really want to rid the world of the evils of the liquor traffic. The goal may not be realized in our generation, but the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will not lower its standard."

Now that Repeal has been adopted, will the Pine Tree State open wide the opportunities for legal consumption? Will public sentiment support the going into the liquor business of grocery stores, restaurants, hotels? In New York all of these are in the liquor business as well as some department stores and even men's clothing establishments.

The object of Prohibition was to do away with the temptation to drink by forbidding the sale of alcoholic liquors. The result of Repeal will be legalized temptation to drink by providing for their sale, by advertising the same, by promoting consumption with false claims of their healthfulness, and with careful concealment of the habit-forming nature of alcohol, of the increased danger on the road of its use by motor drivers, and by the diversion of money from the necessities of the home.

Will the people of Maine have the courage to say No when offered wine, beer or cocktails at social functions? Will you teach your young people that it is perfectly good form to refuse any drink containing alcohol?

Will the splendid women of Maine refuse to serve alcoholic liquors at social functions?

Experience has shown that the experiment of legalizing the sale of liquor means an increase in consumption, and we call upon the men and women of Maine to hold fast to their principles and by a campaign of education accompanied by the example of total abstinence, to do their part to hold high the torch that was handed on by Neal Dow and Lillian Stevens. You have fought a good fight. You have been true to your trust. You will not fail your cause now. The liquor traffic is not quitting and the Woman's Christian Temperance Union has no thought of doing so. We will continue to fight for our homes and our children. . . . We are confident that your experience will prove your experiment in repeal a failure.

"Great is the power of the printed word," said Alice M. Bigney in her report as State director of press work. How great was plainly shown by the recent election, when thousands, lured by the promises of financial benefits, closed their eyes to all other considerations and voted to let a wild beast loose in our borders! He is just as dangerous, just as treacherous as ever, and Maine may expect to duplicate the experience of all those other States which have thrown their gates wide open to him.

"It is our business, then, to use that same printed word to explain just what alcohol is and does—its useful and harmful effects—through letters and articles sent to the papers of the State. Many of these have been very generous, whether wet or dry editorially, in affording space for such communications, and we are very grateful to them. During the past year, we sent out from the various counties nearly or quite 200 columns of printed matter. We must double that amount this year!"

Mrs. Mary L. French of Auburn reported for the department of International Relations. Among the features of the year's work referred to was the fact that at the Washington conference on the cause and cure of war, one-half of the Maine delegation was from the Union. The Marathon Round Tables have been conducted by members, many resolutions urging the entrance of the United States into the World Court secured letters of protest against the Vinson naval building program written, Feb. 11, "Race Relation Sunday," widely observed, oratorical contests held, talks in schools and Sunday Schools.

BIG TEAMS CLASH

Plenty of Excitement Tomorrow When the Semi-Pro Season Opens

Two powerful gridiron eleven—the Rockland Shells and the Westbrook Huskies—will meet at Community Park Sunday afternoon at 2:30 as semi-pro football makes its season's debut in this city. The Rockland team, sponsored by Rhapha Philbrook, is determined to open its home season with a victory and local fans are assured of a fast, wide open game that will be dominated by the hard blocking and vicious tackling of both teams.

The local management, in an effort to create greater interest in the grid game among the feminine sport followers, has decided to make the initial contest a bargain day attraction and will observe Ladies Day, with all of the ladies, accompanied by escorts, admitted free. For this reason and the fact that the semi-pro style of play drew a large following last year it is expected that one of the largest crowds that has assembled for an opening game in many seasons will be on hand to witness the clash.

Lacking a scoring punch in their opening contest at Waterville against the Blue Eagles last week, the Shells have been practicing diligently this week in order to add more power to their offence and have been taught several new plays that should aid them materially in the manufacturing of touchdowns. Whether or not the new attack will prove successful remains to be seen but local fandom can rest assured that if it doesn't it will not be because the local players are not putting everything they have into it.

When the Shells take the field they will be playing for keeps and there is bound to be plenty of rough and tumble action. This fact was in evidence last week when Vito Mannone, local end, was forced to leave the game with an eye that was as big in circumference and just as black as the eight ball. Twisted ankles and shin bruises were ordinary occurrences while one Waterville player was taken to the hospital suffering from concussion of the brain. Fists were also flying with great freedom at one stage of the contest and heated arguments between the opposing players also provided excitement.

The Westbrook team, which is a combination of players from the Huskies and Blue Waves of last year, is ably represented with numerous stars dotting the lineup. Among some of the members of the Paper City club are Dick Billings and Jordan, the former one of the best athletes ever turned out at Westbrook High; Merv Kilgore, who was named as All-Southwestern Maine Conference Halfback while attending Deering High and Cliff Greenleaf who starred on Jimmy Fitzpatrick's Portland High eleven two years ago. Besides this group Landre, Thibeault, Williams and a host of other prominent gridsters will see service for the invaders.

The Shells starting lineup will find Cannon and Mazzeo on the ends, Frye and Glover at the tackle posts, Olson and Fales guards with Kent holding down the pivot position. The starting backfield quartet will be composed of Nash of Camden at quarterback, Wiggin and Black, halfbacks; and Hamlin, fullback. Mannone, who is still bothered from the effects of a kick in the eye received last week will not start the contest but will be held in reserve, as will Johnny Moulaison, who is troubled by a leg injury sustained last week. Plaisted and Spear will be ready to go into the backfield when the occasion arises, while the Shells have several reserve linemen who will see action.

The Garden Clubs of Thomaston, Rockport and Camden are invited to attend the meeting of Rockland Garden Club Tuesday at 2.30 at the Bok Memorial Nurses Home, when a Better Homes and Gardens lecture on bulbs will be presented, with lantern slides.

One of the giant willows which stood on the bank of the brook to the southward of Knox Hospital, was undermined by the storm Tuesday and fell across the stream with a crash. Several busy choppers worked the greater part of a day on the remains.

Deputy Sheriff Robert A. Webster and the Roving Reporter left yesterday afternoon for a weekend motor trip to New Brunswick. The itinerary is to include visits to Saint John and Fredericton, and if conditions are favorable the trip will be extended to Grand Falls.

When Pearl Jones of Washington was arraigned before Recorder Otis Thursday for the alleged threatening of Joseph Northworth with a revolver, it was made known that satisfaction had been acknowledged by the complainant and Jones was let off with a fine of $100 and costs.

Called unexpectedly to preside over a court trial Thursday Recorder Otis did not take time for his customary shave, and during the progress of a trial was reminded of his dereliction by one of the attorneys. The latter was promptly fined for contempt of court, the damages being assessed at the local price of a shave. But the recorder's strong sense of humor took him a step further, and he continued the case until afternoon, that he might have time to interview his barber.

George T. Williams of Waterville, grand scribe of the Grand Chapter of Maine, saw the Mark Master degree conferred upon John D. Chapman and George C. Sandner during his official visit to King Solomon's Temple Chapter Thursday night. Unusual features of the supper were the birthday cake for A. B. Borgerson and melons from the City Farm. Directing attention to them Louis A. Walker, overseer of the poor, made an appeal for clothing for needy residents.

The freshman class was officially welcomed to the student body of Eastern State Normal school by Principal W. D. Hall through the exercises of the entering class day, during which time admission tests were given, a social event sponsored by the student senate for the purpose of getting acquainted, and walks about town. Wednesday morning, school was officially opened with morning chapel at 8.30, the entire pupil body being present. Among those officially registered for the fall semester are: Annie Rhodes, Union; regular senior; Alice Barbour, Deer Isle; Eleanor Barbour, Deer Isle; Dorothy Dimick, Rockland; Edith Fitzpatrick, Stonington, freshmen.

Next week's Strand attractions are of an especially high order with Marlene Dietrich appearing Monday-Tuesday in "Scarlet Empress." Wednesday-Thursday Jean Harlow shares honors with Lionel Barrymore and Franchot Tone in "The Girl from Missouri." Friday and Saturday Joe E. Brown will feature "The Circus Clown."

The statement that Col. Lindbergh's Belgian police dog was treated at at Knox Hospital was erroneous. The stitches were removed from the dog's injured paw at the hospital of Dr. C. F. French, who treated the animal from the time the dog stepped on some sharp object severing the metatarsal artery. Dr. French flew to North Haven twice, being brought back each time, by the Lindbergh cruiser Mouette.

The general desire to see another bout between Pat Cormier of Old Town and Young Adette of Waterville is why Matchmaker Mullins is putting them on again at the exhibition in the Tilson Avenue Athletic Club next Tuesday night. Charlie White of Bangor will meet Salem Thomas of Augusta in the semi-final, and Pepper Martin of Old Town will face Art Fournier of Winslow in the top prelim.

The fates were not kind to the promoters of Tuesday night's boxing exhibition at the Tilson Avenue Athletic Club, for the big storm made traveling conditions so bad that the crowd was reduced to a minimum. Young Adette and Pat Cormier put on a very fast main bout, so fast and so vigorous that they were promptly rematched for another "go" here, later. Wes Richards of Belfast had the edge on Art Fournier of Augusta; and draws were staged by Artie Gray of Belfast vs. Frisco Dick of Augusta and Young Violette of Augusta vs. Lou Cote of Old Town.

The annual clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons is to be held in Boston Oct. 15-20. The announcement states that distinguished surgeons, discarding technical language, will tell the average man how to get well and keep well, this feature to be particularly stressed in a mass meeting to be held in the Boston Arena for the express purpose of considering the health of the average individual in every walk of life. Five thousand surgeons are expected to take part in the congress, with distinguished guests from several foreign countries.

By invitation of Silence Howard Hayden Chapter, the State Advisory Board meeting of the Maine D.A.R. will be held in Waterville on Wednesday, Oct. 17. The meeting will be held in the Congregational Church, Temple street, and will begin at 10.30 a. m. There will be special music. An invitation has been extended to the garden clubs of Camden, Rockport and Thomaston, to attend.

Albert Sharpley, the 92-year-old umbrella mender made his re-appearance in Rockland yesterday, after an absence of several months. His decision to relocate in Rockland came immediately after a machine gun bullet had passed nearly through the top of his hat while he was watching a textile riot in Woonsocket.

The alert ears of Austin Sherman caught the sound of breaking glass early last evening near his place of business and investigating the rear premises, found a man who spoke of stepping on glass. Silenced (?) but by no means convinced, the wily radio dealer detected signs of more cautious breakage and promptly brought up reinforcements in the person of neighbor Thomas Chishome, in the meantime notifying police headquarters. The two young men found the rear window of Dorman's Shoe Store smashed and awaited the egress of the intruder which coincided with the arrival of Patrolman Price. At headquarters the stranger gave the name of Edward Coyle of Avery, Idaho, and was booked on the charge of breaking, entering and larceny. On his person was found some change and a pair of shoes from the Dorman store and several shaving brushes and other articles secured elsewhere.

Rhama Philbrick returned Thursday from a business trip to New York.

Job's Experiences

1.—THE VALLEY OF CONTENTMENT
Early in history, on the borders of Idumaea and Arabia and in the near vicinity of Mount Seir there lay a fertile land with rich sandy soil. It was the land of Uz, or Ausitis. A country of importance, it had been ruled by various kings. Prosperity rested within its environs; yet the world would probably have known little about it had it not been for one man. He stood out from all his fellows, and early Jewish writers included him and his vivid experience in their folk lore, while later Jewish poets wove about the legend the beautiful prose poem, the book we know in the Old Testament as Job.

Its first paragraph arrests attention, for it declares "He was perfect and upright, one that feared God and eschewed evil." Further, he was rich, had a fine family of seven sons and three daughters. He owned seven thousand sheep, three thousand camels, five hundred yoke of oxen, five hundred she asses, and a very great household, so that this man was the greatest of all men of that eastern country. Knowing the peril of soft living he prayed daily for his children.

There was no more sign of depression than we experienced in the era of Calvin Coolidge. But fate was weaving for Job on the shuttle of Time the same overwhelming disaster that has overtaken so many of us and with the same suddenness. Living in this valley of contentment, beloved of men, and with the approbation of God, Job was to learn how transitory are earthly possessions.

William A. Holman.

At St. Peter's Church (Episcopal) Rev. E. O. Kenyon, rector, the services for tomorrow, the 17th Sunday after Trinity: Holy Eucharist at 9 a. m.; church school at 9.30 a. m.; Evening Prayer, 4.30 p. m.

Rev. Joseph W. Beach, son of the late President Beach of Bangor Theological School and for several years employed abroad in important interests of the Near East Foundation, will preach at the Congregational Church Sunday morning. Mr. Beach comes as a candidate for the pastorate of the church and it is hoped that a goodly number of the church and parish will attend this service. Music by the church choir.

"A Kind of Praying Always Needed" will be the sermon topic of Rev. Charles E. Brooks at the Pratt Memorial Methodist Church at the Sunday morning service. The choir under the direction of Mrs. Kathleen Marston will render special musical numbers and Leonard M. Dearden will preside at the organ. Church School meets at 12 o'clock; Epworth League at 6.30 and evening worship at 7.30 with praise service and sermon. Mrs. Marston will render a solo. The pastor's topic will be "A New Creation." Midweek service of Christian fellowship on Tuesday evening at 7.30 o'clock. A glad hand is extended to all.

"The Business of the Church" will be the pastor's subject at the Littlefield Memorial Church. The choir will sing a selection and Miss Olive Bragg will sing a solo. Junior church will meet at 10.30; Sunday school at 11.45 with a class for all ages and Senior Christian Endeavor at 6.15 led by Mr. Perry. The subject of the evening sermon will be "God's Minute." Miss Vivian Chaples will play a xylophone solo. Praise and prayer meeting on Tuesday evening at 7.30.

Rev. H. Clifford Cress, D. D., of the Northern Baptist Convention is to be the speaker at the morning service of the First Baptist Church. The church school with its live classes for men, women, boys and girls will meet at the noon hour with timely discussion on "The Bible's counsel to rulers." The Christian Endeavor with a new group of officers will hold their Inspiration Hour at 6.15. The people's popular evening service will open at 7.30 with the prelude and big sing, assisted by the organ and piano. Mr. MacDonald will give the second sermon in the series dealing with some of the dangerous tendencies of the present day. "Bubbles, A Message For Today." There will be duet and quartet numbers at these services. The happy prayer and praise meeting will be held on Tuesday evening at 7.30. The glad hand is extended to all without a church home to attend the services of this church.

ST. GEORGE CHURCHES

Tenant's Harbor and Wiley Corner
The morning subject in each of these churches will be "The Old Testament Calvary." Bible School following. Evening service at the Harbor will be at 7.30. The 6.15 Christian Endeavor service will be omitted but the Endeavorers are to have a part in the evening, and there will be special music by the Young People's choir with Miss Adele Hawkins as chorus leader. Miss Miriam Anderson, Miss Emily Morris and the pastor are to speak on different phases of the subject "Courage." The church on the hill extends a welcome to all. Knox County Christian Endeavor Union will hold its annual meeting in the Harbor Church, Sept. 28, opening at 5 p. m. Supper and evening session.

Long Cove

Services at St. George's Church Sunday will be held at 6 p. m. Instruction Group meets at the church Monday evening at 7 p. m.

The Past Grands and Noble Grands Association of Knox and Lincoln Counties met Wednesday at the St. Clair-Stoddard cottage, Ash Point, with a large attendance. Picnic supper was augmented by hot coffee, served by the hostesses. Miss Margaret Crockett, Miss Doris Hyler, Mrs. Annie Aylward, Mrs. Lina Carroll and Mrs. Nina Davis. After business matters were disposed of, games, music and a pleasing entertainment provided diversion. The October meeting will be omitted, due to Grand Lodge.

The entertainment given in connection with the annual fair of Pleasant Valley Grange won many compliments. Directed by Mrs. Elita Anderson it embraced readings by Mrs. Grace Rollins and Mrs. Blanche Morton; songs by Mrs. Gladys Morgan; three dances by Margaret Winslow, pupil of Arthur Adolphsen; and dances by Sonia Corner, Dorothy Tibbets and Barbara Newbert, pupils of Elise Allen Corner. Accompanists were Mrs. Helen Wentworth and Miss Dorothy Harvie. Myron Young acted as announcer.

Several Thousand Dollars

We have several thousand dollars to loan each month on home property in Rockland and vicinity. Ours is the ideal plan. Small, easy, equal payments are made each month which cancel the loan in about 12 years. No large payments are required at any time. No bonus is charged and no advance interest collected. The expense of securing a loan is small, usually less than ten dollars. Interest is six per cent per annum. Loans are made to purchase, build, repair, pay off an old mortgage or supply money for any legitimate purpose. The balance due on a loan may be paid off at any time. Come and see us. We will be pleased to talk with you.

UNION

Miss Rose Hill who has been visiting her father and grandmother Elizabeth Hill, has returned to Boston to attend school.

Mrs. Annie Bucklin of Rockville called on friends here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Burkett spent the past weekend in Portland.

Mrs. Lizzie Hill, granddaughter and grandson, visited Mrs. Claire Brodick at Everett, Mass., last week.

Timmie, the little fox terrier owned by Mr. Smallwood, was run over by an auto and killed last Monday. He was everyone's pet and will be greatly missed around the Common.

Arthur, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hawes returned from Knox Hospital Wednesday after having tonsils and adenoids removed. He is being cared for by his aunt, Miss Cora Hawes.

H. A. Hawes has been in Portland this week serving on the grand jury.

Miss Constance Hollowell is staying with her grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bowes and attending school here.

The funeral services for W. Fred Simmons, 58, who died in Union Sept. 16 were held Wednesday, Rev. T. O. Chapman officiating. The Union Lodge I.O.O.F. attended in a body and gave the ritual. Bearers were John Cunningham, Ralph Williams, Alec Fuller and Herbert Hills. Interment was in Lakeview cemetery.

Union Lodge was represented by these members at the Odd Fellows meeting in Augusta last Saturday: Frank H. Lenfest, Henry Lenfest, Alexander Fuller, H. S. Hills, Burleigh Esancy and Alvah E. Ames. After the banquet, over 500 marched to City Hall in the parade led by Patriarchs Militant Band. Mayor Cony gave the address of welcome, followed by remarks from the various heads of Odd Fellowship of Maine, nearly all of whom were present. The first degree was then presented by Abou Ben Adhem Lodge of Auburn in an effective and dramatic manner.

High School Notes

School began Sept. 4 with an enrollment of 83.

Class elections have been held and the following officers chosen: Freshmen—President, Pauline Young; vice president, Philip Crabtree; secretary, Kathryn Chandler; representative for the Student Council, Ruth Howe. Sophomores—President, Alice Farris; vice president, Madeline Gorden; secretary-treasurer, Beatrice Rich; representative to Student Council, Shirley Morton. Juniors—President, Charlotte Robbins; secretary, Dorothy Clary; treasurer, Annie Hart; representative to Student Council, Frank Williams. Seniors—President, Russell Beckwith; vice president, Curtis Payson; secretary, Mary Pekkanen; treasurer, Robert Mitchell; representatives to Student Council Worneta Cummings and Carlton Payson.

The Student Council has elected Carlton Payson, president and Shirley Morton, secretary.

Mrs. Clark, the new music teacher, has organized a glee club in addition to the regular group singing.

Everyone is glad to have James McEdward return to school after a year's absence because of an accident with which he met early last fall.

Union played the first ball game of the season with Appleton Sept. 14.

Members of the classes of '35, '36 and '37 extend a hearty welcome to the 21 members of the freshman class and in their honor a reception will be held Sept. 21. Everyone is invited. Warren High School Orchestra will furnish the music. There will be a small admission fee.

APPLETON MILLS

Two local boys entered college this week, Donald Hall the State College of Iowa, and Earl Sprowl University of Maine.

The freshmen reception of A.H.S. was held Friday night at Appleton Grange hall, with a dance following. Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Barclay Miller on the birth Sept. 15 of a daughter, Mary Jean.

Plans are being made for the annual "Harvest Home" in Riverside hall, Appleton.

Golden Rod Rebekah Lodge worked the degree last week on one candidate, Miss Alice Lovejoy, and reinstated a former member Miss Gertrude Waterman of Camden. Supper followed.

Mrs. Hamilton, who is preaching the Gospel at the Church of God, and Mrs. Smith, pianist, are occupying the cottage opposite the schoolhouse. Several new cottages have been built recently near this church.

The people of Appleton are rejoicing in the news that there is to be a doctor residing in the village again. He will occupy the Robert Perry house. Although our neighboring town, Union, has a very faithful doctor, H. H. Plumer, M. D., who all ways comes when needed, Appleton has no telephone service at night for unexpected illness. This has often been a hardship, so Dr. Tuttle of Rockland will be doubly welcome in town.

4-H Club Contest

The local contest sponsored by the Sunny Side Up 4-H Club was held last Saturday afternoon in Medomak Athletic hall, with 50 in attendance and a pleasing program presented.

A remarkable exhibit of sewing, cooking, and canning was on display and the members and their efficient leader, Mrs. Celia Oldis, received high praise for the splendid work they have done during the year. The greeting was given by Alfreda Ellis and response by Miss Ruth Clark, county leader. Miss Clark spoke in an interesting manner of the work that the clubs of Lincoln County are accomplishing and of the county contest in which winners of the local contest would be included. Helen Oldis, Annie Ellis, Rhoda Hilton and Grace Castner sang a group of songs with Mrs. Oldis at the piano. Essays on the work of the season were read by Marion Flanders, Grace Castner and Alfreda Ellis, and contained an informative account of the activities in which the 4-H Club girls are engaged. Annie Ellis and Helen Oldis were entertaining in a costume duet.

In the playlet, "Making Over Sadie," Rhoda Hilton in the title role, Alfreda Ellis as the mother, Annie Ellis as the daughter and Shirley Burnes, the maid, gave a pleasing portrayal of the results achieved by careful training in the life of a young girl. Helen Oldis read a report of her stay at the 4-H Camp at Orono, telling the story of the time spent there in a vivid manner. Shirley Burnes and Greta Ralph represented Childhood, Alfreda Ellis, the school girl, Helen Oldis and Annie Ellis the sweethearts, and Margaret Dickson, Old Age, in a pageant announced by Grace Castner. One of the most effective features of the program was the giving of the pledge by all the club members.

Miss Clark announced the winners in the contest as Helen Oldis, Alfreda Ellis and Shirley Burnes, seniors, in Room Improvement, first honors; Lucille Colwell, second, Sewing, Helen Oldis, first; and Rhoda Hilton and Annie Ellis, second for seniors. Cooking and Housekeeping, Margaret Dickson and Marion Flanders, first; Annie and Alfreda Ellis, second; Bethoe Harkins, Beverly Richards, Rhoda Hilton, Shirley Burnes and Millicent Burnes, third. Cooking and Housekeeping, juniors, Grace Castner, first; Ruth Davis, second. Sewing, Grace Castner, first.

The girls chosen for the county contest were Alfreda Ellis for room improvement; Helen Oldis for sewing and canning; Grace Castner, Margaret Dickson and Marion Flanders for cooking and housekeeping.

"I want to be procrastinated at de next corner," said a negro passenger. "You want to be what?" demanded the conductor.

"Don't lose your temper, Boss, I had to look in the dictionary myself, befo' I found out dat 'procrastinate' means 'put off.'" viuous to the march, "Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus."

The flower girls were Joan Maxey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boynton Maxey, and Emily Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dana Smith, Sr. The two girls were prettily dressed, Joan in pink crepe with pink hair ribbon, and Emily in blue. The best man was John Connell, Jr., and the ushers were Gerald Brown, brother of the bride, and Howard Kenniston. Miss Marjorie Spear, as maid of honor, and the bride's only attendant, was very attractive in pink crinkle crepe, ankle length and simply made, with pale blue horseshoe hat, blue and pink sandals. Her arm bouquet was of pastel pink asters, gladioli and blue delphinium tied with blue satin. Miss Spear is a close friend of the bride, since childhood attending the same schools, graduating from high school and the Rockland Commercial College in the same class.

Very lovely in the conventional white satin, trailing veil of silk all over lace, caught back with clusters of orange blossoms, her shower bouquet made entirely of white gladioli, sweet peas and roses, the bride came in on the arm of her father who gave her away. Mrs. Harlow Brown, mother of the bride, was gowned in black crepe and lace, and Mrs. L. M. Barker, mother of the groom in black crepe and transparent velvet, each with shoulder bouquet. Two tenor solos "At Dawning" and "Oh Promise Me" were sung during the ceremony by Chester O. Wyllie. For the recessional, the organist played the Mendelssohn's Wedding March. After the ceremony an informal reception was held at the Brown home for relatives and intimate friends, the receiving line including Mr. and Mrs. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Barker, Miss Marjorie Spear and John Connell, Jr.

The rooms of the home were prettily decorated with asters, gladioli and phlox. Music during the reception was furnished by Miss Marguerite Haskell at the piano, her sister Miss Beatrice Haskell laying the violin.

The gift table laden with pewter, silver, china, electrical appliances, linen, woolen blankets, etc., was in charge of Miss Pauline Starrett, and Mrs. Florence Oxtan had the guest book. Ice cream, angel cake and the bride's cake, which was in silver and white, were served by Mrs. Ida Russell and Mrs. Laura Starrett, assisted by Miss Nathalie Starrett, Miss Katherine Starrett and Mrs. Helen Maxey. The bride's bouquet, thrown as she went up the stairs, was caught by Miss Pauline Starrett.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Winchenbach and son Paul, and Mrs. Clifford Ward of South Portland; Mrs. W. M. Grafton, Mrs. Bowdoin Grafton and son George, Mrs. Elbridge Grafton, Mrs. Hibbard Young, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Lindsey, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Carroll, Lawrence Carroll, Miss Harriet Hahn, Miss Catherine Beattie, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winchenbach, all of Thomaston; Miss Ruth Barker of Portland and Union; Mrs. Albion Colby, Taunton, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Barker, Miss Dorothy Barker, Mrs. Edward Mathews, Mrs. Irving Mathews, Mr. and Mrs. B. Bliss Fuller, Mrs. Miles Jones, Mrs. Leila Haskell, Mrs. Jennie Thurston, Miss Florence Thurston of Union; Mrs. H. I. Holt of Rockport, and Mrs. Louis Sawyer of Camden.

The bride's gifts to her flower girls were silver bracelets, and the maid of honor a vanity case, the groom presenting to the ushers tie clasps, and to the best man a billfold.

With the usual merriment and strategy, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Barker finally got away for their wedding trip which will take them to Niagara Falls via the White Mountains. Mrs. Barker wore a blue and white crepe ensemble with blue accessories. They will be at home to their friends after Oct. 1, in Warren, occupying the rent above the Brown home.

Mrs. Barker is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harlow E. Brown of Warren, a graduate of Warren High and the Rockland Commercial College, and is a member of the Warren Congregational Church. She is employed as stenographer at the Georges River Mills. Mr. Barker is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Barker of Union and is a graduate of Union High School. He is at present associated in his father's garage business in Union. He is a member of Union Lodge, F.A.M.

Their many friends are tendering them best wishes.

Tenant's Harbor Ladies Cordially Invite You To Be Present Next Tuesday

The readers of this column, from every part, are cordially invited to be present at the silver tea, which is to be given next Tuesday (the 25th) at the home of Mrs. Charles Holbrook, in Tenant's Harbor. The hour is from 1.30 to 5 o'clock, and the occasion is in benefit of the new Library at that town.

The reception committee will include Tina Barton, Hattie McLaughlin, Harriet Long, Daisy Hocking, Mrs. Flora Miller, Mrs. F. Gillis, Mrs. Philip Smith; and Mrs. Austin E. St. Clair will pour. The committee to serve includes Mesdames Elmer Allen, Charles Wheeler, Orris Holbrook, Allen Connery, R. J. MacKenzie and Emma M. Torrey. A note of entertainment will present a recitation by Avalene Pierson and singing by Adella Hawkins.

Your attendance will be greatly appreciated for the help it will give to the Library, which is still in want of books, and more books.

Those who have attended services at Ingraham Hill Chapel this summer have deeply appreciated having Cecil Witham as speaker. Tomorrow at 2.30 is his last appearance as he is returning soon to Gordon College. It is hoped that all of his friends will be present.

The Knox Hospital Auxiliary is much pleased to report that $38.90 has been received from the recent Curtis Publishing Company canvass in this city.

Edward R. Edwards motored to North Haven Thursday in his speed boat, returning with his salesmen Percy McPhee, Charles Morton and Robert Irvin.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Robinson of Avon, Mass., arrived Friday to be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest P. Jones for the weekend.

Rev. L. W. Spencer of Lafayette, R. I. arrived Wednesday, and motoring back Thursday was accompanied by Mrs. Spencer and their son Junior who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Hooper. Kenneth Hooper also returned with them for a visit.

Miss Constance Miller goes to Cambridge today to resume her studies at the Lesley School.

Mrs. Zebec Simmons entertained the Merri-Meeters Thursday afternoon at her home at South Thomaston.

White Rose Flour, 93c bag, $7.40 bbl. Stovers, Rockland, this week only.

Mrs. Flora Barnard and Miss Mary C. Davis return today, Saturday, from a short stay in Portland.

Kenneth Robinson has resigned as manager of the Comique Theatre and leaves soon for Boston where he has a position. His place here will be taken by William Schell of Brandon, Vt., who assumes charge Monday.

Mrs. Leo F. Strong and Mrs. John Clayter will entertain Wednesday at luncheon and contract at Birch Villa, Hosmer Pond.

Miss Harriet L. Gill, Mrs. Leo F. Strong, Mrs. John Clayter and Mrs. Guy Carver of Camden attended the bridge-tee given in Rockland Wednesday by Mrs. Ray Eaton and Mrs. Charles Proctor at the home of the former on Lincoln street.

Joel Keyes Grant Circle, Ladies of the G.A.R., held a special meeting Friday evening and the order was inspected by Department President Fannie Pillsbury of Waterville. Supper was served at 6.30.

The chemical process by which fruits become discolored after bruising or other injury has been explained by a botanist, who says the process in large part depends on the presence of certain chemical excretors known as phenolates which bring about the oxidation of carbonic acid compounds existing in the fruits.

THE MAYOR WRATHY

Dislikes Unfair Criticism of The Butler Clock and Engineer Pinkham

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—An uncalled for and entirely unfair criticism concerning the city's Butler Memorial clock, located in the tower of the First Baptist Church, was recently made through the press and has been brought to my attention. I ask the courtesy of your columns to give the citizens the real facts and to offer a defense of a conscientious public servant, City Electrician Pinkham who takes care of the clock without extra pay.

The Butler Clock was installed by the Howard Clock Co. in 1926 and has rendered excellent service. The tower in which it is located is unheated and in high winds sways several inches, conditions which occasionally interfere with the clock's operation. On another occasion children in the tower caused serious damage to the mechanism.

Now years of wear have necessitated replacement of several small parts on the escapement wheel and these have been in place several days with adjustments being made under factory direction by Mr. Pinkham. In a few days this work would have been completed and the variations ended, except that some unauthorized person has entered the clock room and tampered with the setting mechanism, necessitating doing the adjustments all over again. Henceforth a lock will be used on the clock room door.

Leforest A. Thurston, Mayor

THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

Rev. and Mrs. J. Frank Jones, formerly of St. George, Receive Many Felicitations

Rev. and Mrs. J. Frank Jones, formerly residents of St. George, and now of Wilmington, Mass., have been receiving congratulations and expressions of good will from many relatives and friends on reaching their 50th wedding anniversary. They were married Sept. 24, 1884, at Alna.

Rev. Mr. Jones has held pastorates of Baptist churches in many Maine communities including South Penobscot, Atlantic, Mt. Vernon, Bowdoinham, Windsor, St. George and Livermore. Since retirement from the active ministry, the couple have resided in Wilmington and have made many friends there through their active participation in the church life of the community.

Taking part in the wedding celebration were the families of their two sons, Burr F. Jones of the Massachusetts Department of Education, and H. Vassar Jones, Principal of the High School, Danielson, Conn.

Sesak's boys have made the best of the latter part of the week in preparing themselves for today's big game at Skowhegan.

There are three new faculty members in Junior High this year: Harold Libby, a graduate of Gorham Normal, and whose home is in Topsham, comes to Rockland from Boothbay Harbor Grammar School where he has been principal for four years. Besides teaching arithmetic, he will have charge of the Senior High School orchestra, having had wide experience in conducting orchestras at the Castine Music Camp.

Miss Mary Bird, who taught the sub-primary grade at Purchase Street school last year is instructor in music and hygiene, being ably fitted for her work through studies at Gorham, LaSelle, and Columbia University. Miss Janet Tapley of Oakland, a graduate of Gorham Normal and the State Teacher's College at Harrisburg, Virginia, is teaching English.

A special assembly was held Friday morning, affording an opportunity to hear Dr. Ella A. Boole of New York, president of the World's W.C.T.U., who is in the city this week attending the annual convention of the Maine W.C.T.U. Her address covered an interesting account of the World Convention recently held in Stockholm, Sweden, where the Crown Prince, a total abstainer, was present.

GUARDIANS OF OUR COAST

What our lightkeepers and coast guardsmen are doing to protect coastwise shipping by day and by night. The day's news from many lonely outposts along Maine's waterfront.

Saddleback Ledge

Returned to duty Sept. 10 after 16 days spent in Lube. A visit was made to Quoddy Head Light and inspection made of the new machinery there. Saw Mr. Flanagan, the electrician. Mr. Webster and son and two other workmen were busy putting in foundations for the second unit. The new diaphone was in operation 55 hours steady for test and it sure sounds plenty loud. I live only one mile from the light. Had a very pleasant trip as the weather was good. Raspberries, blackberries and blueberries were plentiful.

On Aug. 27 Clyde Pool of Vinalhaven and Miss Edith C. Davis of Lynn, Mass., visited the light; the mast and boom being freshly painted. I could not take them out in the bosun chair. Mr. Pool landed from his punt, and not profiting from the recent clamming experience, "When both of my boats went adrift and Mr. Pool rescued me," when he went aboard his power boat he threw the painter of the punt on the stern of power boat and neglected to fasten it, and while he was heading for shore his punt was drifting towards Isle au Haut. Mr. Alley and mother gesticulating and shouting themselves hoarse, finally attracted Mr. Pool's attention, and then, believe it or not, he blamed the women. "Ain't that just like a man."

Lots of hake around here but other fish are scarce. Also there are plenty of large whales very near the light; there seems to be small herring that they are chasing.

We have our winter's supply of fish caught and dried.

There has been a large number of summer visitors this season.

Will sign off now wishing "The Guardians of the Coast" good luck.

Portland Head

Schools are in full swing. "It ain't gonna rain no more, no more," so we thought, but have changed our minds. It rained puddles inside our houses as well as outside.

Fall is in the air and the aroma of pickles and flies around the doors ready to dodge in at a moment's notice are sure signs.

Visitors are not so plentiful, just a few stragglers around mid-day.

Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Goff, Westbrook, recently called on F. O. Hilt and family.

Mrs. R. T. Sterling and son Robert were in Portland recently calling on friends.

F. O. Hilt and family called on Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Robinson, East Rochester, N. H., last Saturday afternoon.

Football season has begun and Robert Sterling Jr., had the misfortune to sprain his thumb on the right hand while playing Thursday afternoon last week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dow, Portland, were among the visitors at R. T. Sterling's Sunday.

Melvin Gilchrist, Mrs. Elsie Thomas, Mrs. Lucy Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hill, St. George, Mrs. Florence Shuman and Arthur Chute, Waldoboro called on the Hilt family Sunday.

Good Timers Club was postponed Wednesday and met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Thomas, Portland, to attend funeral services for their son Albert, 22 years of age. Beautiful floral pieces were silent messages of respect and love. Our heartfelt sympathy is extended to the bereaved family.

Great Duck Isle

Mrs. Grace Leighton has returned to New York city after spending a year with her son, William Lockhart.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kelly of Rahway, N. J., passed an annual vacation with Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Lockhart. On returning home they were accompanied by their three children who have been here all summer.

Tender Ilex landed fuel oil recently at this station.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lockhart went on a 15-day vacation visiting relatives in New York city and New Jersey. They stopped on their way back at Rockland and called on Mrs. Helen Moore and family for a few days.

Mrs. Leverett Stanley and children have gone to Manset where the children will enter school.

Myrtle Paulkingham is visiting her sister, Mrs. Lockhart.

Leverett Stanley is on a two-weeks' vacation, spending it with his family at Manset.

We, of Great Duck Island, extend our sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morong in their recent bereavement.

Sequin Light

It is about time the writer got busy and put in a news item from this station. It has been about a month since the last news was published.

Keeper Urquhart was in the Marine Hospital in Portland from August 6 to 12. His finger was operated on and a large splinter extracted. He saw several of his friends while there. Mrs. E. F. Witty and nephew Gordon of Norwich, Conn., have been visiting Second Assistant Witty. They returned home Sept. 6.

The stork visited Keeper and Mrs. Urquhart Sept. 8 bringing a baby boy who has been named Harvard Wendall. Dr. Smith and nurse from Bath were in attendance. Both mother and child are doing nicely.

Keeper Urquhart and sons motored to Jonesport Aug. 24 and returned the next day, accompanied by Mrs. Lillian Muise of Sealand.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Merrill Connors and family have been on 15-days' leave which they spent at Boothbay Harbor visiting friends and relatives. They also made a short call on Mrs. Harry Smith and family of Owl's Head and Leland Mann and son of Spruce Head.

Fred Morong and Mr. Munson, government machinists were here one day this week working on the engines.

The lighthouse tender, Ilex recently landed oil here. They were here from nine o'clock in the morning until eight at night. They anchored off the island that night and went East the next morning.

Allen, Junior, Adeline and Maide Urquhart are attending school in West Jonesport. Mrs. Lillian Muise accompanied them and Mrs. Urquhart expects to follow them soon.

SPRUCE HEAD

Lionel Carr, third mate on the David McKelvey oil tanker, that runs from Bayonne, N. J., to Texas and southern ports, is spending a two weeks vacation with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carr.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Elwell, Mrs. L. C. Elwell and son Herbert motored to Millinocket recently and visited Mrs. Laura Rannels and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rannels.

Prof. and Mrs. Wilbert Snow and family have closed their cottage and returned to Middletown, Conn.

Mrs. Grace Hall of Whiting, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. William D. Gilbert at their cottage on Spruce Head Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland Morton and guests returned Wednesday to New York after several days visit at their summer home in this place.

Mrs. Hiram Andrews visited her daughter Mrs. John Kelley over last weekend.

Mrs. L. R. Tinney, son Edward and Miss Jean McKenzie returned Thursday to Quincy, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Mann and daughter June and Lee Mann motored Sunday to Pemaquid light station and called on Roy Elwell, keeper of the light. They also were callers on friends in Camden.

TENANT'S HARBOR

While playing Saturday little Bettie Johnson suffered a broken ankle caused by the fall of a ladder. Mrs. Dora Johnson's mother from Vinalhaven recently visited her for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Melburn and daughter motored to Rockland Saturday.

Mrs. William Barter and Mrs. Amelia Taylor recently visited relatives in Port Clyde.

Mrs. Ella Davis who has been critically ill at the home of her sister Mrs. Edward Bickmore, is now recovering.

Miss Margaret Reid is attending business school in Rockport. Howard Monaghan and Myron Wiley motored to Bangor one day last week.

Warrington Gilchrist has traded cars with Henry Allen.

WINSLOW'S MILLS

There will be a chicken supper at the Grange hall Sept. 25 at 6 o'clock, for the benefit of M. E. Church.

Miss Hazel Day, Miss Lois Small, Charles Creamer and W. A. Deering were in Rockland Sunday.

Mrs. Harry McGrath of Washington, D. C., was a recent guest of her father W. A. Vannah.

Miss Edith Flanders and Master Wendall Osgood of Auburn were at the Flanders homestead Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Light and children and Miss Lois Small were Sunday visitors in Wiscasset.

Miss Hazel Day was guest Tuesday of Mrs. Edith Benner in Waldoboro.

Funeral services for Mrs. Charles Creamer were held Sept. 14 from her late home, Rev. A. G. Davis of Waldoboro officiating. Interment was in Achorn cemetery, Rockland. From out of town to attend the services were Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Jones, Mrs. Gladys Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. George Orcutt, Austin Day, Mrs. Maynard Oxtun of Rockland, Mrs. Luther Clark of Thomaston, Mrs. Angeline Greenough of Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Creamer and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Creamer of Greene, Miss Bessie Reed of North Anson.

During the past summer thousands of tourists and sightseers from all over the United States have made their first trip to Cadillac Mountain, and conspicuous in that list would be the many delegations from Knox County. It's quite the proper thing, you know, if you have "company" to take your guests on that delightful ride to Bar Harbor, and then up that wonderful highway to the summit of Cadillac Mountain. Don't let it be said that you haven't been.

BUYING A LIGHTHOUSE

They're Selling Cheap, But Just What Would You Do With the Critter?

Under the caption "What Would You Do With a Lighthouse?" there recently appeared in the Boston Globe the following interesting article from the pen of Dorothy Wayman, a staff writer.

With the auctioning of nine Maine lighthouses, nine lucky private citizens, possibly bought, for a song, coastal estates at once romantic, picturesque, and most superbly situated. Soon they may sing another song.

One thing it is safe to say, light housekeeping in the lighthouses will never again reach the plane of perfection Uncle Sam demanded.

Brass dustpans, gleaming and elbow-greased till Cleopatra's bronze mirror never reflected so clearly. Hundreds of window panes, sponged off with hot water softened with a dab of glycerin to repel white rime of salt spray or abrasive bite of flying sand.

White paint, whitewash and shellac by the gallon forever and forever dabbed and daubed and brushed over shingle and clapboard, stones and steps and spindles of old mahogany winding stairs.

Never again, under private owners, will the lighthouses look as imagination pictures a lighthouse.

No longer will two strong, able-bodied, handy-andy, jack-of-all-trades men devote their entire time, watch and watch, to scrubbing and polishing, dusting and painting, oiling and rubbing brightwork.

Uncle Sam, especially when he deputizes supervision to a district official, who arrives in season and out to write black marks in his little book and forward damning tissue paper copies to Washington—Uncle Sam, we assert without fear of contradiction, is undoubtedly the world's best and most exacting housekeeper.

Once they tackle upkeep on an abandoned lighthouse, the new owners are doomed to terrible disillusionment.

In fact, if they stopped to figure it out, they would know that the chief reason Uncle Sam was willing to sell for $350 a four-acre island like Winter Harbor light, complete with tower, workshop, six-room dwelling house (steamheated), stone oil house roofed with slate and bathhouse equipped with wharf and runway, was that it cost too much to run the lighthouse.

Most thankless task in the world is taking the romance out of someone's cherished day dream; but come on, let's be brutal and gather a few figures on the probable cost of keeping up Winter Harbor as a Summer home.

Situated on an island just east of fashionable Mt. Desert, in the township of Gouldsboro, it is safe to assume that Winter Harbor's destiny is to be a picturesque Summer home.

Uncle Sam never paid taxes, but you can bet the Gouldsboro assessors have their pencils sharpened already to include this juicy bit of desirable shore property in their next levy. Taxes around $100, perhaps.

Then the caretaker. If the owner doesn't know it now, he'll soon discover in a painful fashion that you cannot leave a house on an island untenanted without having visits from intruders.

Maybe, with luck, you will find an honest, industrious couple content to live on an island for their keep and $20 a month. Figure their keep at $6 a week frugally, buy them seven tons of coal, which is what Uncle Sam allowed. But the coal will cost you more than it did Uncle Sam and you have transportation to pay. You will pay around $20 a ton for coal, delivered on an island.

You must furnish their house, and buy them a boat to go back and forth, tools for digging the garden and cutting the little patch of lawn; paint to keep up the premises, exposed to wind and weather eternally.

Here's your investment:

Cost of property	$350
Cost of furniture, blankets, linen, china, pots and pans	500
Cost of boat	650
Capital investment	$1500

Now for upkeep. Insurance will be appalling. With no hydrants handy, you pay the highest rate on buildings and contents. In isolated districts you need burglary insurance against pirates and vandals. Marine insurance always comes high. Well assume that insurance appraisers estimate your buildings as worth $3000, and take the figure of $1000 for portable property.

Upkeep:	Per Annum
Insurance	$55
Caretaker, wages	240
Caretaker, supplies	312
Coal	140
Oil (for lamps)	5
Paint, polish, shellac	100
Repairs, boat, pump, etc.	100
Taxes	100
Depreciation, buildings	100
Miscellaneous	25
	$1177

Your charming little summer home on an island, in an abandoned lighthouse, will be costing you $100 a month, come fair weather, come foul. And that is all figured at base-rock prices.

Nothing thrown in about the times when your caretaker gets appendicitis in the middle of a northeast, or he and his wife have one spat too many and resign.

Or bitter Winter nights when the house catches fire and you have bills for rebuilding or reshingling.

The boat will break down every so often; they always do; and you'll need new wrappings or a couple of cylinders or a new propeller blade.

By the time you throw in several thousand dollars for remodeling the keeper's cottage to install extra bedrooms, a self-contained electric lighting system, the kind of furniture you want to live with yourself, add supplies for a summer for your own family and all the guests who will rush to drop in at your island domain, it will be demonstrated that you could have taken the family on a European tour in a limousine and still save money on your vacation.

However, all ledgers have another side and the "intangibles" that may counter-balance all the liabilities loom large.

You have undoubtedly bought title to the finest marine view for miles along the coast. Uncle Sam located his lighthouses in spots dangerous for navigation, therefore on bold, rocky coasts, with hidden reefs marking the blue water with stretches of boiling white breakers.

Few lighthouses as old as these Maine lights now extinguished forever lack colorful, romantic history of wild storms, terrible wrecks, brave rescues and pitiful bodies washed ashore in the morning.

You have that hard won, generally dearly-bought privilege of complete peace and privacy. Guaranteed, almost; that no telephone will ring, no neighbors make merry when you would sleep, no automobiles roar past.

You may be sure, if you love flowers, that no petunias, no zinnias or nasturtiums will be more brightly colored, more luxuriant than those raised in your patch at the foot of the lighthouse, ringed with white-washed boulders. Whether it is the raw fish fertilizer or the salt air of the ocean, posies by the sea are ever brilliant.

People are forever talking about living in a lighthouse. However, when Uncle Sam has taken out the lantern, and the prismatic lenses, and the clock work, as he intends to do before turning over the property, you will discover that you can't live in a lighthouse.

The winding stairs take up most of the room inside the tower. The landings, or platforms, or stories as you may call them—half-decks, the lighthouse people style them—are barely six feet wide by eight feet long. The topmost, when the lantern and its lenses are removed, will be merely a circular balcony, some six feet in diameter.

We wouldn't dare whisper what it would cost you to buy plate glass to replace the lenses, and if you did, you would have to hire another man to spend most of his time wiping and washing and polishing them, or you couldn't see through them. Wind-borne sand and spray would make frosted glass of them in no time without proper attention.

Eugene O'Neill didn't live in a lighthouse, you know, to write his plays at Provincetown. He lived in an abandoned Coast Guard station, built to house eight men and two big boats and sundry apparatus.

Yet there's an inevitable thrill to the thought of owning a lighthouse. The nine lucky bidders for the Maine lights will be envied by 90,000 would-be owners. Our own sage reflections and figures are mostly sour grapes.

In fact, if you want a caretaker, Mister, for your Maine lighthouse, we'll take the job on like a flash. And we'll promise to keep the brass dustpan polished.

WAS IT JOHN LANE?

A Washington Correspondent Indulges In What a Word Called Sarcasm

Washington, Sept. 19.

Some of the children of this place were somewhat excited one morning last week, by seeing a man on a bicycle go through quite early in the morning. One little girl said "he had lots of things packed on his bike and he was hurrying awful."

They were calmed by one of the neighbors who told them it was John Lane going to Gov. Ames' inauguration. He was probably hurrying to get there and shake hands, and perhaps have a little chat with Gov. Ames before the crowd arrived.

Two boys were quarrelling. One said: "Anyway, you're a heathen. You've never been baptized." "Yah!" shouted the other. "That's all you know about it. I can show you the marks on my arm now!"—Vancouver Province.

THE SAUNTERER

A. B. Crocker

"But sorrow returned with the dawning of morn." There is sorrow in the Pigeon family. Lady Phil is no more, and Lord Phil was left a widower with two young children to feed and care for. It is now five years since Lady Phil came with Lord Phil for her breakfast, and she did not appear again. We wronged Pal by writing that he was a philanderer, he is one of the most faithful of fathers. We feed him bread until it seems as though he would burst. Then he takes two long drinks of water and flies over and feeds his children.

Human beings are not alone in knowing sorrow and being acquainted with grief. Lord Phil has his sorrow. Were it not for the fact that we have been friends with Pal and Phil for two years, and seen the fifth set of twins brought into the world, and knowing the affection they had for each other, you might consider this one of those fake nature stories. We feed Pal on our front piazza on which there is an armed rocking chair, a plain chair with a stool between. We feed him peanuts from our fingers and he gets mad and slaps us with his wings and scolds if we don't feed him fast enough. Then he will settle down on the arm of the rocker or the stool, with his head sunk on his breast and talk to us with a low plaintive note as though he were trying to tell us the story of his loss.

This morning our next door neighbor came over to speak to my wife who was on the piazza, and Pal flew up on the chair and began to tell his story to them. After he feeds the children he flies back to the house, squats down on the walk and stays there for a long time. His numerous children, and we think grandchildren also, are no source of comfort to him. If one of them dares come upon the piazza he will leave his food and chase him into the street. This is his "dinner" and he knows it.

You will recall that the owner of the house where the nursery is located nailed the door on it, so Phil selected the house next door for her last nest and brought forth her last pair of twins. I watched Pal one morning fly on the roof of the nursery, then fly down and try to get in. The entrance has been boarded over but he seemed to think Phil might be in there. Vain hope; whatever happened to her we probably never will know, but she was a faithful wife and mother. The nest was a very insecure one and was youngster tumbled out and was killed. One day one of the neighbors brought the other one to us as it also had fallen out. We put him in a pasteboard box and put a canary bird cage top over him, and he was just a nice kid. We named him Buddy and when his daddy came around I let him loose and his daddy fed him. Then I would catch him and put him in the box again.

This continued for two weeks, and then one morning Pal, instead of feeding him on the piazza, coaxed him out into the street and I couldn't catch him again. When it came night Pal flew away to his hangout and left Buddy all by his lonesome. He didn't like it a bit, so I got the box and held it up and down he flew and stopped with us another night. Labor Day morning I let him out and Pal took him away again, but before dark back came Buddy to stay all night. He tried to fly into the house but the screen door was something he didn't know about, so he got frightened, flew away and spent the night on an awning rod in the rain. This morning he was as chipper as could be, and now he is a real pal for Pal; they come around together to eat, and the youngster's appetite is fine, and he likes our food.

And that's that. Do we know pigeons? We do.

Somerville, Mass., Sept. 17.

ROCKPORT 7, UNION 2

Rockport led all the way, but only by a score of 4 to 2, going into the eighth inning. In this inning with the aid of two hits and three bases on balls thrown in they scored three more runs to put the game on ice. Union scored all of its runs in the sixth inning when it made two hits, had three bases on balls presented to them, and Williams was hit by a pitched ball.

For the first four innings only one man, Esancy, was able to solve A. Wentworth's delivery, and he was the only man to get as far as second base in this time. Payson relieved Wentworth in the fifth and immediately developed a wild streak allowing Union its big opportunity. Woodward relieved Payson in the sixth with two men on the paths and with no one down. He hit a man, gave two bases on balls, and allowed one hit giving Union two runs. But from then on Union could not find him again as he mixed up his balls very well, striking out four men in those last three innings.

Esancy was strong on the bat for Union, while K. Wentworth and Turner provided the fireworks for Rockport. The score:

THAT'S THE QUESTION TO ASK WHEN YOU BUY AN OIL BURNER

DELCO HEAT IS BACKED BY:

- 1—Delco's vast laboratory facilities.
- 2—General Motors' 25 years' experience with the combustion of liquid fuels.
- 3—A responsible local dealer.

Delco Heat is an automatic oil burner that will stay automatic. And its cost is amazingly low.

Delco Heat's Fuel Control and perfected pressure-type atomization cut fuel costs to the bottom—produce more heat from the lowest priced domestic fuel oil. And the burner itself is so simple that there's nothing to get out of order. Actually, there is but one moving part.

We invite you to call and see Delco Heat in actual operation and to compare it with any other oil burner. And, by all means, be sure to get a copy of our Show-Down Chart which gives comparative fuel costs.
