PREVENTION WEEK

WEEK OF OCTOBER 7th TO 13th

In common with cities throughout the Nation, Rockland is making a determined stand to cut down losses by fire. Local insurance men, the Rockland Fire Department, and interested citizens are co-operating to make Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 7 to 13, memorable in results achieved. I urge the active support of all citizens.

Albert R. Havener,
Chief Engineer.

NINE RULES OF FIRE PREVENTION

Make sure that your match is out before throwing it away.

Extinguish the last spark of your cigar or cigarette before throwing it away.

Take care lest dry waste or oily rags accumulate in some out-of-the-way corner of your house.

Build your rubbish bonfire where there is no danger of spreading and watch it until it is out.

Have your electric wiring inspected regularly and repaired when necessary.

Avoid using kerosene, benzine or naphtha for cleaning purposes.

Keep your heating system and chimney in perfect working condition.

Do not leave your forest camp fire before it is totally extinguished.

Keep matches beyond the reach of your children and your children out of reach of fire.

All Great Fires
Start From Small Fires

Prevent Small Fires
From Starting

CLEAN Premises Seldom Burn — So Take These Precautions TODAY

1. Remove All Ashes, Waste Paper and Other Unnecessary Accumulation of Combustible Material From Basements, Beneath Stairways and Other Out-Of-The-Way Places.
2. Clean Chimneys and Flues (Repoint Where Necessary), Remove Birds' Nests and Other Accumulations From Chimney Breathers and Cornices.
3. An Approved Fire Extinguisher Should Be Hung in An Easily Accessible Place.
4. Thoroughly Clean Out Your Garage and See That No Oily Rags, Waste or Clothing, Old Radiator Covers, Old Tires, Etc., Are Left in Corners. Clean the Floor of Oil and Grease and Remove All Grease Deposits From Walls and Supports. Provide a Fire Extinguisher. Water Thrown On Burning Gasoline or Oil Merely Serves To Spread the Fire.

Neglect of fire hazards is serious—help to preserve life and property from needless destruction by keeping the principles of fire prevention always in mind.

NEVER take a CHANCE with FIRE!

WARREN

Friends will be interested to know that Miss Helen Batchelder graduated Sept. 19 from the Massachusetts State Infirmary at Tewksbury, Mass., one of a class of 17. The girls marched from the Nurses hall to the chapel for the graduation and because of the rainy weather were obliged to wear their capes, which were very striking with the red lining showing against the white uniforms. The stage in the chapel was decorated with autumn leaves, in the center of which was the class seal made by the class president. The speaker was Rev. Samuel Lindsey of Brookline, Mass., who gave advice about nursing in the community and stressed the essentials of the young person and home life of today. Then followed the class song, "Massachusetts" composed by Dr. J. H. Nichols, superintendent of the institution; presentation of diplomas by one of the trustees; and State pins by Mrs. MacDonald, superintendent of nurses. A reception was held for the graduates and their guests in the chapel, later they visited the different wards and buildings. At the ball in the evening, the graduates attended in uniform. Mrs. Henry Batchelder was guest of her daughter. There are approximately 3000 patients in the Infirmary and the training includes medical, surgical, obstetrical, tubercular and mental diseases. Miss Batchelder graduated from Warren High School class of 1927 and entered the Infirmary for training October, 1931. She plans to spend some time at home after taking the State examinations. In February she will enter the Grasslands Hospital at Valhalla, N. Y., for special training in tuberculosis nursing.

Meeting of Woman's Club

It was voted at the October meeting of the Woman's Club last Thursday evening, to hold a sale of fancy work and cooked food Nov 6, the committee in charge to include Mrs. Mabel Peabody, Mrs. Alena Starrett, Mrs. Laura Starrett and Mrs. Evelyn Robinson.

Two papers were given at this meeting, one on "Historical Maine" prepared by Miss Tena McCallum, and the other, "Scenic Beauties of Maine," by Mrs. Alena Starrett. From Miss McCallum's paper a great deal of Maine's early history was learned: "Many think that the history of Maine was subordinate to that of Massachusetts, as Massachusetts was settled first, you know, but this is not so. Many do not know that the town of Georgiana, founded on the site of the present town of York, was the first incorporated city in America. Back in early history there is reference to the Pilgrims in that terrible winter when they were in danger of death by starvation, sending a ship down to Maine to get provisions from white men who had been living in the neighborhood of the Kennebec for some years. Another significant fact is that in the town of York are preserved the records of a court which was in session there and administered the law under the English common law practice at a time when the Massachusetts colonies had no courts, when the legislature of the Massachusetts Colony, called then as now the 'General Court,' administered the laws as well as made them. It is told in popular history that Samoset surprised the Pilgrims with the greeting, 'Welcome Englishmen,' but popular history is discreetly silent about the fact that Samoset was Lord of Pemaquid and learned his English by years of friendly intercourse with the colonists in Maine long before the Pilgrims landed in Massachusetts Bay."

Miss McCallum referred to John S. C. Abbott's "History of Maine," thus: "We have very vague accounts of an English expedition to the coast of Maine in the ship, Mary of Guilford, commanded by John Rut, in the year 1567. It is said that he frequently landed with parties of his men to explore the interior. This was the second English expedition after Sebastian Cabot. Though Norsemen, Frenchmen, and Spaniards had previously landed on the coast of New England, this is the first occasion upon which we are distinctly informed that the feet of Englishmen trod the soil." The Weymouth Expedition was next in order, with interesting description of the land, some of which was meadow, and which changes our ideas from the thought that all the land was heavily timbered, until the old settlers cleared it for fields. Next was the taking of several Indians to England where they were taken into the home of Sir Ferdinando Gorges, whose name is associated so closely with the early history of the State. Upon their return to Maine these Indians were valuable as intermediaries between the Whites and the Englishmen. Treatment of the Indians at the hands of the English was not all that could be desired however since many of them ill treated the natives. The French, however, were very kind to them, going among them as missionaries. This fact had much to do in the French and Indian War.

Miss McCallum ended her paper at this point as time was limited and the subject was such as would necessarily need several articles to fully cover it. However, much was learned from this paper.

Age 13

Old enough for strong drugs?

What the doctors say about giving children a medicine of adult strength.

Something to Think About

Doctors advise liquid laxatives, and hospitals use the liquid form. And a child who has been convalescing in the hospital usually comes out with bowels working like a well-regulated watch.

Give that headachy, bilious child California Syrup of Figs when constipated, and a little less each time until bowels seem to be moving regularly and thoroughly without need of help.

THE "LIQUID TEST"

Constipation in children can be relieved, in this manner:

First: select a liquid laxative of the proper strength for children. Second: give the dose suited to the child's age, and condition. Third: reduce the dose if repeated, until the bowels are moving without any help at all.

An ideal laxative for this purpose is California Syrup of Figs which every druggist keeps in stock. Be certain that it is the genuine product, with "California" blown in the bottle.

THE SENATORIAL RECOUNT

Dubord's High Hopes Of Defeating Hale Somewhat Dampened Yesterday

The 306 vote net gain by F. Harold Dubord (D) in the inspection of U. S. Senator ballots cast in Maine last month, fell to 174 yesterday with examination of votes cast in 25 of York County's 40 precincts.

The York County precincts examined yesterday showed a net loss of 132 for Dubord.

Thus far there have been but few ballots on which the principals could not agree and which were laid aside for final judgment by Gov. Brann and the Executive Council after Nov. 1.

By the time inspection of the nearly 3000 Senatorial votes cast in the State is completed Dubord will have to have gained an average of three votes for each precinct in order to overturn Hale's apparent election.

THE SAUNTERER

A. B. Crocker

It was with sincere regret that I read of the passing of our friend, Adella F. Veazie, and sincerely hope that in that life beyond, her beloved flowers will bloom for her, forever and a day. I say "our friend," for in common with many other readers of her articles, "Rambles Afield" and "Chimney Corner Chat," I never met her face and face, and yet counted her as my friend. As John Burroughs wrote in his poem, "Waiting,"

Asleep, awake, by night or day,
The friends I seek are seeking me;
No wind can drive my bark astray,
Nor change the tide of destiny.

The stars come nightly to the sky
The tidal wave unto the sea,
Nor time, nor space, nor deep, nor high,
Can keep my own away from me."

So it was with our friend, whose friends were legion, particularly those of us, who love, as she did, Nature. It is rarely given to us mortals to know and love, as she did, what we term the common things of life—flowers, fruits, berries, weeds, insects, etc. She was the founder of this paper's Nature Crank Club, and its member No. 1.

I often wondered why she never wrote about our feathered friends, the birds; but she wrote me that being nearsighted she could not see them, so she had to confine herself to things she could handle and see, even to bugs and reptiles. In her "Rambles Afield" she was a combination of Thoreau and Wordsworth, and in her detail in "Chimney Corner Chat" she reminded one of Dickens. She could say with Wordsworth, "The common growth of Mother Earth suffices me." At the end she could say with Mrs. Barbauld in "Life's Good-Morning,"

Life! we've been long together,
Through pleasant and through cloudy weather;
'Tis hard to part when friends are dear,
Perhaps 'twill cost a sigh, a tear;
Then steal away, give little warning,
Choose thine own time,
Say not Good-Night, but in some brighter clime
Bid me Good Morning.

We will not say good-night to our friend, but hope that in some brighter clime to bid her Good Morning.

WASHINGTON

High School Notes

It was the general verdict that this year's freshman reception was one of the best ever held. The sophomore class president Ruth Lenfest, made a very noteworthy master of ceremonies, and all the freshmen proved themselves excellent sportsmen. A dance and refreshments followed the entertainment.

The schoolroom has taken on a much more attractive appearance since the installation of new seats and desks, and the pupils and teachers very much appreciate this necessary addition.

Baskets have been erected in the school field, thus permitting both the boys and girls to practice basketball. Various interesting programs and projects are being carried on by the History Club. Last Friday each member personified an early American historical figure such as La Salle, Champlain or Columbus. The club members are extremely grateful to Miss Lincoln for the bulletin board which she installed in the classroom.

The History Club furnished last Friday's morning entertainment, which consisted of the reading of the American History Club Constitution by Robert Cunningham, Miss Georgia Hibbert's essay on "What the Constitution of the United States Means to Me," and "The Building of the Ship," by Miss Alma Grinnell. This program was in observance of National Constitution Week.

Plans for subscribing to several newspapers and magazines are being sponsored by Mr. Fields, and various means of raising the necessary funds are being considered.
