SILVER TEA GIVEN

Delightful Event At The Home, With Talk By Mrs. J. Marden DeShon

One of the most charming social events of the autumn season was the silver tea given at the Bok Home for Nurses Tuesday by the Woman's Auxiliary of Knox Hospital, attended by 100 or more members and guests from Rockland and neighboring branches. Mrs. J. Marden DeShon of Portland as guest speaker gave a delightful account of her summer's trip in Europe. Her clear speaking voice and informal manner were most enjoyable. Her talk further enhanced by many lantern slides.

Mrs. DeShon's trip made under the personal supervision of Dr. Jones of Portland was in a party of 23, the youngest member 22 years and the oldest 85. One member of the party spoke five languages fluently, a valuable asset on such a tour. Countries visited included France, Switzerland, Italy, Germany, Belgium, Holland and England. In Paris Mrs. DeShon had the honor of placing a wreath on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in memory of Harold Andrews of Portland, the first Maine boy to fall in battle. The account of the Passion Play at Oberammergau was particularly interesting, interspersed with memories of personal meetings with different members of the cast.

Mrs. John H. Flanagan, president of the Auxiliary, at the close of the talk gave an expression of appreciation of the delightful talk and the generosity of Mrs. DeShon in coming to Rockland to lend her service in such a worthy way.

Adjournment to the living room found an enchanting picture—an open fire with huge logs laid, general individual tea tables daintily laid and flanking the service tables presided over by Mrs. W. O. Puller and Mrs. E. W. Berry, pouring. Candied fruit and soft shen over all. Serving were Mrs. Oliver Hills, Miss Charlotte Buffum, Mrs. Russell Bartlett, Mrs. Walter C. Ladd, Miss Ellen Daly and Miss Margaret Hannagan.

ROY FERNALD'S HAT
Has Been Cast Into Gubernatorial Ring, But Uncertain When He'll Run

State Senator-elect Roy L. Fernald of Winterport announced Tuesday that he will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor of Maine at the next election. Chapter IX tells how the author broadcast on a portable set the Vermont form. Chapter XIII was entitled "Twittering Birds" and tells of "the Rockland," Maine, newspaper columnist who referred to me jocularly as "the poet laureate of the air."

By far the most popular broadcasting subject was Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. From cover to cover the book is replete with interesting anecdotes such as can be told only by a man who has twice daily broadcast the principal news items. The last chapter of the book is entitled "Hail and Farewell" and tells how the service has been discontinued. In the course of the next week Mr. Cullinan received 1000 letters, addressed to him personally, all expressing keenest regret.

As well they might, for Howell Cullinan had become part and parcel of every home which owned a radio. The many years spent in the Capitol building where he frequently saw President Lincoln about, and on one occasion had the pleasure of shaking hands with him.

Mr. Wallace has resided in Malden about 48 years and now makes his home with his son Ralph, at 391 Salem street. He is commander, also quartermaster of Major General Hiram G. Berry Post, G.A.R., and an honorary member of Malden Lodge of Elks.

While Mr. Wallace's eyesight and hearing are somewhat impaired, his intellect is keen as ever. He enjoys good health, is able to be about the house every day and takes an interest in all current events. His grandfather and uncle lived beyond the century mark, and maybe he will do likewise in his generation.

THE NOVEMBER TAILWISTER
Left But Few Crumbs of Comfort For Republicans—Sinclair Routed In California

Tuesday's off-year elections resulted in the most crushing defeat ever sustained by the Republican party and constitutes an emphatic endorsement of President Roosevelt's New Deal—as much as it is being criticized.

Even Pennsylvania, the rock-ribbed Republican State of the Union, went Democratic.

The Republicans find their chief solace in the election of United States Senators in Delaware, Michigan, Vermont and Maine. The governorship contests also went overwhelmingly Democratic, but the Republicans have a crumb of satisfaction by winning in California and New Jersey, with a good prospect that Gov. Ritchie has been deposed in Maryland.

The Democrats gained nine seats in the House, adding to their heavy majority; and will have 67 in the Senate, assuring a two-thirds majority.

Out in Wisconsin the La Follette brothers established a little party of their own—the Progressive party—and had the satisfaction of beating both the Democrats and the Republicans in the race for U. S. Senator and Governor.

The States which will have Republican governors are California (where Upton Sinclair was defeated), Kansas, Maryland (Republican leading), Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey and Vermont.

In the House, where they had hoped for substantial gains, G.O.P. leaders saw the Democrats making more inroads upon their territory. With more than three-fourths of the returns in, the Democrats had a net gain of nine House seats. At that point, the count stood: Democrats 399; Republicans 98; Farmer Labor 8; Progressive 7.

On the loss side the Republicans counted Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Indiana, Missouri, New Jersey, Ohio, Rhode Island, Maryland and West Virginia Senate seats; Nevada, North Dakota, Oregon and Pennsylvania governorships.

Missing from the roster of Republicans who emerged were Reed of Pennsylvania, stalwart spokesman of conservatism; Walcott of Connecticut, close friend of former President Hoover; Robinson of Indiana, quick speaking critic of New Deal policies in the last Congress; the wealthy Hamilton Knott of New Jersey; one-time schoolmaster Simon D. Pess of Ohio, a key-note for the party at the convention which nominated Herbert Hoover in the prosperous days of 1929.

The incoming Democratic phalanx was bringing back Peter G. Gerry, former Senator, to replace Herbert of Rhode Island. Less than 30, Rush D. Holt was coming to be the youngest member of the Senate in the place of Hatfield of West Virginia.

Ohio was sending its popular former Governor, "Vic" Donahay, a tentative and not too positive endorser of New Deal policies to replace Press.

Outstanding among the changes wrought by the election were: The close contest in New Mexico of Senator Bronson Cutting, boyhood

CULLINAN'S BOOK

Full To The Brim of Anecdotes Connected With His WEEI Broadcasts

Howell Cullinan's book, "Pardon My Accent," compiled from the fruits of his eight-year service as Boston Globe news announcer over WEEI, has made its appearance. It contains 221 pages, and makes an admirable Christmas present for those to whom a book always appeals.

On the inside cover is a poem by Rev. Henry Felton Huse of North Haven and everybody will echo amen to the spirit contained in the concluding paragraph:

"Here's to the man who speaks each day To us from many miles away, Who with his happiness and health Lends life, with friends, earth's noblest wealth."

The opening chapter tells of some of "Cully's" early newspaper assignments, one of the first to be at the State vs. Earl Peters of Rockland and Frank Leighton of Owl's Head, charged with the larceny of one Buick sedan automobile, the property of Alden Stanley of Rockland, on Oct. 10, 1934.

State vs. Jesse Havenner of Waldoboro and Angelo Lizeo of Revere, Mass., charged with breaking and entering and the larceny of six hens of the value of $7.50 of the property of Charlotte Weaver of Washington, on Aug. 20, 1934.

Edward Joseph Coyle of Avery, Idaho, for breaking and entering with intent to steal the goods, chattels and property of the Swift & Co. store on Union street, Sept. 19, 1934.

Edward Joseph Coyle of Avery, Idaho, Sept. 21, 1934, charged with breaking, entering and larceny from Dorman's Shoe Store, shoes of the value of $10.82.

The Grand Jury was excused for State vs. William Guphill of Lovell, as "a barrel of sunlight," having a long talk, which exuded sparks.

Riley admits he was scared, but as the strange heavenly visitor slowly descended to the horizon without doing as much damage as Tuesday's elections, he wets on his way.

It may not have been a comet, although it well answered the dictionary's definition.

See it?

DID YOU SEE THE COMET?
How many readers of this news item saw the comet which suddenly waded its appearance in the southern heavens at five minutes of 10 o'clock last night, and as suddenly disappeared.

Riley Strout did. On his way to Owl's Head he was startled by a brilliant illumination of the horizon and looked up to see what he describes

"The greatest responsibility of your life lies in the fact that you are somebody's ideal. There is somebody who believes you are the greatest person on earth. The only thing that can be done is to teach youth the meaning of constituted authority. If you disregard it, what have you done for the good of that boy or that girl? You can hold in contempt constituted authority, but the coming generation will know what you are doing and you have given them a heritage which will work disaster to the nation."

Coach Samuel Semak was admitted to membership and the club congratulates itself upon having gained a valuable asset. It was voted to remove the numerical membership limit of 50.

Native of Cushing Entertains On Birthday At His Malden, Mass., Home

It is only fitting writes our Cushing correspondent, to make mention of one who has reached the ripe age of 90 in possession of all his faculties and such a man is Oscar C. Wallace of Malden, Mass., who celebrated his birthday anniversary, Oct. 24, by entertaining friends who called to offer congratulations, including a group of the "boys of '61," most of whom, like himself, are in the neighborhood of four-score and ten years.

One especially pleasing feature was the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Eldred Off of Cushing. Mr. Off being a lifelong friend and nearest neighbor where Mr. Wallace has for many years spent his summers at his boyhood home, guest of his brother, Vinal Wallace, and niece, Carrie E. Wallace.

Oscar C. Wallace was born in Cushing, Oct. 24, 1844, son of Peter and Sarah J. (Burton) Wallace. He responded to his country's call by enlisting Jan. 8, 1864, in Co. F, 1st Cavalry of the District of Columbia, and later transferred to the 1st Maine as a corporal. He was mustered out at Petersburg, Va., Aug. 1, 1865, and of the large quota that went from Cushing during the Rebellion, he is the last surviving member. While in Washington Mr. Wallace served as orderly for Lieut. Col. Couper, and was on duty at the Capitol building where he frequently saw President Lincoln about, and on one occasion had the pleasure of shaking hands with him.

Mr. Wallace has resided in Malden about 48 years and now makes his home with his son Ralph, at 391 Salem street. He is commander, also quartermaster of Major General Hiram G. Berry Post, G.A.R., and an honorary member of Malden Lodge of Elks.

JUDGE EMERY'S ADVICE

Impresses Upon Lions the Force of Example—Many Guests Yesterday

The responsibility of elders in setting a good example for the new generation was strongly emphasized at The Thorndike yesterday when Associate Justice George L. Emery addressed the Rockland Lions Club.

"When it comes to intelligence and good citizenship this generation is far superior to any I have had contact with," said his Honor. "It is not to be fooled. It may wear its heart upon its sleeve, but it does not take its votes behind closed doors."

The attendance at yesterday's meeting was considerably augmented by the unusual number of guests, and to a casual observer it might have looked as though somebody had sought a change of venue, there were so many members of the Bar present. It was also an impromptu ladies' day, for among the guests were the three young lady clerks at the Court House—Miss Pearl Bergerson, the clerk of courts office, Mrs. Helen Collett from the registry of deeds, and Mrs. Alfred Strout from the registry of deeds. They entered into the proceedings with much zest, and one of the trio even tried to keep pace with the somewhat strenuous lion's roar.

The other guests were Court Scribe Joseph Coyle of Avery, Idaho, for breaking and entering with intent to steal the goods, chattels and property of the Swift & Co. store on Union street, Sept. 19, 1934.

Edward Joseph Coyle of Avery, Idaho, Sept. 21, 1934, charged with breaking, entering and larceny from Dorman's Shoe Store, shoes of the value of $10.82.

Whatever ye do, do it from the heart, as to the Lord, and not unto men.—Col. 3:23.

ELECTION WAS A SWEEP

That in Tuesday's elections Holland again found itself taken by the Dutch is discernible to the dullest observer. The comfortably installed Democratic party, safely backgrounded by the administration's financial system, has brought off a country-wide political sweep that not only leaves the party still more deeply lodged in Washington, but sets that party a long way forward to the regions of success with respect to the presidential contests of 1936. The New Deal has been warmly endorsed by the voters, and for the ensuing two years at least, upon its general policies, the affairs of the country will continue to be administered at the hands of President Roosevelt. Let us all cheerfully make up our minds to stand in with it.

DEALING WITH LIQUOR

With nine liquor bills submitted to the solons in special legislative session at Augusta, the citizen on the side lines looks for no immediate solution of this form of the universal problem that is presented whenever statesmen of any degree, large or small, sit down to its consideration. There is no reason for the people to doubt the honest purpose of the legislators to solve this problem. Said Governor Brann, addressing a joint session: "Conditions under which the intoxicating liquor should be sold must be so carefully arrived at, that the cause of real temperance will have been fully protected." An excellent platform, upon which to bring this vexed question for its thrashing out. It should not be surprising if the average citizen found himself in a state of uncertainty as to the prospective issuing of the representative from a mix-up with these nine separate propositions. There is no subject like intoxicating liquors that yields itself to discussion with less hope of anything coming from it that shall satisfy a general public. And yet legislation must try. It is a trying subject.

PICTURING GOOD TIMES

If on a pleasant autumnal afternoon your steps should lead you to cover the length of our city's chief business thoroughfare, the spectacle of the two sides of it with an unbroken line of automobiles set to the curb, while another line feels its slow way through the congested center lane, would fail to convey any particular suggestion of a business depression. Moreover the side streets leading away from this lengthened avenue similarly exhibit themselves under this sort of congestion. Whether the multitude of cars suggests a general prosperity opens a door to argument. The opinion is voiced by many capable of reasoned judgment, that when the making of the motor car is carried on upon an extended scale there is sounded a note in the regions of general prosperity. There is comfort in the thought. Let us bear it in mind as we walk down the street.

CURLEY A WINNER

The election of Mr. Curley to the Massachusetts gubernatorial chair sets a conclusion to one of the highly interesting features of the just closed nationwide campaign. Whether his opponents of the opposite party actually entertained expectations of his defeat we do not know. From the outside, the dispassionate observer, appraising the Curley brilliancy as a campaigner and the through-thick-and-thin character of a following always to be counted upon, saw little else in the situation than his certain triumph. And added to all this was the support of the Administration, not openly, it is true, but there will be few to combat the opinion, generally entertained, that the party candidate was not denied that detail of assistance. We do not know as it is any of our affair what Massachusetts does about her Governors, but there are a good many people throughout the country, who, checking upon the fingers the names of a long line of her distinguished citizens and statesmen who in the past have honored that exalted office, would willingly in the present occasion have seen the list added to by yet another of that glorious type.

Down at the Ramsdell sardine plant Contractor Small is breaking ground for a new office building 18x30 feet, and 125 feet of seawall is being built to connect with the existing breakwater. Foundations for the factory building, itself, are already in. Two more shiploads are due from Lubec—containing lumber, boiler, etc.

A Rockland sailor writes from Baltimore complaining that he was stranded there by a barge captain because he did not understand the work; furthermore that the captain twice threatened to kill him.

FEDERAL HOUSING

Loans From $100 To $2000 Will Be Made—J. F. Carver Local Chairman

Roger MacGrath, executive to George M. Williams, State director of Federal Housing was in the city the first of the week in conference with ex-Mayor James F. Carver, who has been appointed chairman for the zone of which Rockland is the center. Mr. MacGrath is making a tour of the entire State contacting with all financial institutions in order that there may be a clearer understanding of the Federal Housing program.

In company with Mr. Carver he visited the local banks and received assurances of co-operation which will be of a very helpful character. The leading contractors were also visited.

The Housing Act covers modernization loans ranging from $100 to $2000, operating with private capital, insured by the government, and released by our own financial institutions.

"We are trying to get back to normal," said Mr. MacGrath. "This is not a Santa Claus thing. We are our own generals, deciding by the conditions in Maine and in the local communities." Nine hundred loans, aggregating $400,000, have thus been made in co-operation with this program. England last year aided in the construction of 450,000 new homes, and in America similar assistance was given for 80,000. I look confidently for a big building boom the coming spring. It is a character investment."

Publicity matter in connection with the National Housing Act has this to say:

"Home modernization and repair serves as an immediate stimulant to the building industry but cannot permanently provide employment for all of those normally engaged in the building trades and associated activities. Eventually new construction must come back into the picture. Even assuming we were overbuilt during the boom, we have had five years during which there has been practically a cessation of new building. In isolated areas now there is a sound economic demand for new construction. By the time the home modernization and repair campaign exhausts itself, that demand should be sufficiently substantial to provide continuing employment to those engaged in the building industry. When that time comes a sound mortgage market must exist."

"In addition, the effects of the past, now facing us in the form of hardships both to the lender and the borrower in the mortgage field, must be taken care of. The present mortgage problem is a serious one. Mortgage debts comprise one of the largest single classifications in our national debt structure. The two billion dollars of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation was intended, and can, serve only to care for extreme emergency cases. Obviously the private mortgage market must be encouraged to cover the mortgage field again unless the government is prepared to take the radical step of assuming the entire mortgage debt burden. The present private market is frozen and inoperative. The causes of this must be analyzed and remedied."

After you have read the above you still want to ask questions, maybe 14 of them. Well here are the answers as prepared by the Federal Housing Administration:

1.—WHO MAY APPLY? Any property owner, individual, partnership or corporation with a regular income from salary, commissions, business, or other assured source. It is not necessary to be a depositor in the financial institution consulted.

2.—TO WHOM DO I APPLY? To any financial institution approved by the Federal Housing Administration; or to a contractor or building supply dealer.

3.—HOW MUCH MAY I APPLY FOR? From $100 to $2000, depending on your income, for improvements on any one property.

4.—HOW LONG MAY NOTES RUN? For any number of months from one to five years. However, the term of the notes depends entirely on the discretion of the financial institution which may at its option require loans to be repaid over such lesser periods as justified by the amount you can reasonably afford to pay each month.

5.—WHAT SECURITY IS REQUIRED? That you have an adequate regular income and a good credit record in your community. Other security may be accepted if deemed necessary by the financial institution to facilitate extension of credit; or if required by the law governing certain institutions.

6.—WHAT ASSURANCE NEED I GIVE? (a) That you own the property. (b) That the annual gross income of the signers of the note is at least five times the annual payments to be made on the note. (c) That your mortgage, if any, is in such standing that the financial institution is justified in approving the loan. (d) That you will use the proceeds solely for property improvement.

7.—WHAT SIGNATURES ARE REQUIRED ON THE NOTE? Signature of the property owner; and (except in special cases) if the owner is an individual and is married, also signature of wife or husband. No other co-signers or endorsers are required, unless necessary to facilitate a loan which could not be made otherwise.

8.—WHAT IS THE COST OF THIS CREDIT? The financial institution may not collect an interest and / or discount and / or fee of any kind, a total charge in excess of an amount equivalent to $5 discount per $100 original face amount of a one-year note, payable in monthly installments. Charge for longer periods than one-year is on the same basis.

9.—HOW DO I PAY THE NOTE? By making regular, equal, monthly payments (seasonal payments for farmers) until the note is paid in full.

TALKING IT OVER

Some Things An Observer Saw When Rockland Won In Gardiner

Here are some echoes of the recent Rockland-Gardiner game, compiled by an observer of Rockland's brilliant victory:

Gardiner rooters considered Rockland the best drilled team in years.

Kelly, 220-pound center of Gardiner, and supposed choice for all Maine High School center, was completely outplayed by Captain Howard Crockett of Rockland in all departments.

Co-Captain Johnny Karl was acclaimed by coaches, players and officials as the flashiest quarterback of the year, even better than Gilbert of Waterville who received all-Maine mention last year.

Vernon Raye, Rockland's smashing end, along with Eddie Heller, accounted for about half of the team's tackles.

Fans were treated to an exhibition of great blocking by running guard Peterson and fullback Accordi as they always smeared the opposing ends.

Not knowing that his collarbone was broken in a scrimmage Oct. 24 Sam Glover, hard hitting halfback for the Orange and Black team, stayed out of the Hallowell game and rested. Receiving permission to play after an examination showed that he could work his shoulder; all right, Sam started and played practically all of the Gardiner game, and played a great game. An x-ray Monday showed a break, and so Rockland has lost her hardest running back for the Bar Harbor game.

Rumor has it that a certain New England College official has watched the Rockland team in the last two games, very much interested in some of the Rockland players who are planning to attend higher institutions of education.

PARK THEATRE

Comedy is one of the predominant highlights in "The Dude Bandit," latest Hoot Gibson picture coming Friday and Saturday. Although the story is essentially a dramatic romance of the old west, it also includes a novel brand of fun making. Practically all the comedy action is in the hands of Hoot Gibson and Skeeter Bill Robbins. The tall, gawky Robbins is a natural laugh provoker and in "The Dude Bandit," he proves that it is not only his odd physique that inspires smiles and giggles, but that he has the natural ability to inject a laugh into almost any situation.

Probably the outstanding comedy sequence in the film occurs during the time when Hoot trying to keep Skeeter hidden from the authorities who wanted him on a shooting charge packs him into a trunk and moves him from the Mason Ranch to the Kirk Hotel. In the narrow confines of an ordinary trunk, Skeeter is twisted up more than a pretzel. To add to his discomfort, Hoot permits the truckers to throw and bang Skeeter's trunk around with gleeful abandon. It even tumbles down a flight of stairs as poor Skeeter suffers nerve-racking tortures that provide laughs for the audience—adv.

HENRY B. RICHMOND

Death of Well Known Hotel Man—Had Summer Home At Rockville

A brief item in a recent issue of this newspaper brought deep regret to many homes when it told of the sudden death of Henry B. Richmond of Atlantic City. Mr. Richmond had a summer residence at Bear Hill, Rockport—the old family home—and here he had been coming every summer since he had left it for that outside world where he achieved a large measure of success. The Atlantic City Evening Union published the following obituary:

Henry Bradford Richmond, prominent hotelman, and recently connected with the Atlantic City Convention and Publicity Bureau, died Oct. 30 at Colton Manor after a ten days' illness of uremic poisoning. He was 54 years of age.

Mr. Richmond was a descendant of early New England "Yankee pioneer stock," who traced his ancestry direct to the first "Richmond in America," who came from England and settled in Taunton, Mass., in 1638. He was born in Rockland, Knox County, Maine, Dec. 19, 1879.

He was educated in public schools in Maine, later moving to Philadelphia, where he finished his schooling, and then took a position with a Philadelphia manufacturing concern as a traveling salesman. During his travels he became fascinated with the hotel business, resigned his position and moved to Atlantic City in 1906 to join the staff of the Marlborough and the Blenheim Hotel, then just being completed.

Mr. Richmond married Anna P. Twigg, of Philadelphia, who died in 1917. He has one daughter, Elizabeth Ann, now Mrs. Robert E. Kochs, of Chicago, Ill. In 1921 he married Augusta M. Palmer of Chicago. She died suddenly last May.

During his years with the Marlborough-Blenheim he became interested in convention work, and represented the hotel for years as a member of the Convention Committee of the Atlantic City Hotelmen's Association, his first assignment being the Car Builders' Executive Committee meeting in Chicago.

In 1924 he resigned from the Marlborough-Blenheim to lease the Strand Hotel, which he operated as proprietor and manager until 1932. During this period he kept up his convention activities, and for several years was chairman of the Convention committee, later serving as chairman of the Executive committee of the Convention and Publicity Bureau, until 1931.

During his years of hotel activity Mr. Richmond also took a keen interest in civic affairs. In 1927 he was president of the Financial Corporation of the Imperial Shrine sessions held here, and in 1929 was chairman of the "Festival of Light" committee which was formed to celebrate Atlantic City's Diamond Jubilee and its 75th anniversary as an incorporated city.

He was chairman of the first Convention Hall Commission in 1929, and took an active part in placing many conventions in the Auditorium. For a number of years he represented Atlantic City hotelmen as a member of the New Jersey Hotelmen's Legislative Committee, and he was one of the originators of the Tax Survey Commission. As an economy move Mr. Richmond advocated the city manager plan for Atlantic City at that time. In January, 1931, he assumed charge of the Convention and Publicity Bureau, later resigning to manage the Colton-Manor Hotel.

Mr. Richmond was a 32d degree Mason, a Shriner, a life member of the Seaview Golf Club and a director in the Atlantic City Horse Show Association.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. E. M. Benner of Rockland and Miss Anne Z. Richmond. The funeral services were held at Atlantic City, and interment will be in Rockville.

What You Will Say When Mitts Fly At Athletic Club Tomorrow Night

Green posters with black letters tell alluringly of tomorrow night's boxing exhibition at the Rockland Athletic Club. Keeps Matchmaker Hamilton busy thinking up new attractions, but he always manages to do it, as proven by past experience.

The new bill offers five two-minute rounds between Freddie Lowe of Bangor and Dave Castoux of Waterville. Freddie was sick abed, when he was supposed to fight here last Friday night, but now he's o. k., and fit to chew barbed wire. Lowe came into the limelight at Belfast where he figured with distinction in eight main bouts.

The semi-final is going to be so hot that you can't touch it without asbestos gloves. All because the participants will be Walter Reynolds, the Pine Tree Express, and Pancho Villa, Jr., of Waterville. They are sure to go at each other with the ferocity of bulldogs and there will be countless thrills in each round.

The top preliminary will bring together Andrew Jones of Camden and Al Morrisette of Augusta. Camden always sends down a good fighter, and Andy is one of 'em. The other preliminaries offer Jabber Hastings of Rockland vs. Duffy Dean of Bangor, and John Boardman of Rockland vs. Billy Manchester of Bangor.

At a brief discussion of the prospective liquor legislation the sentiment seemed to be that the pharmacists of Maine desire no privileges in this connection except the use of alcohol in manufacturing.

There's great joy down in Flushing, Long Island, N. Y., and all because the Flushing Tigers upset the undefeated, untied, uncured upon College Point Orioles by a score of 18 to 7. And the joy in the House of Wahle over-run with the cup because young "Buddy" was one of the big reasons for the victory. The local paper said: "Wahle, back in the lineup after an injury which kept him out for two weeks, flashed sensational speed and broken field ability to tear off runs of 90, 50, 30 and 15 yard return of punts, the 90-yard run being good for a touchdown." Young Wahle played with the Rockland Collegians baseball team during the latter end of last season. He gives great promise as an athlete.

Stone School Notes
On Halloween Day, the teacher, Miss Ames, surprised her pupils with a party. In the afternoon, after recess the children lined up, put on masks which they had made, and marched into the room which was dark except for a large jack o'lantern that Lawrence Blake brought. In the desk of each was found a little paper basket containing candy. Strings had been placed around the room for each to unwind until at the end they found a gift. Games were played and there was bobbing for apples, Lucile Ray being the first to get an apple.
The room was decorated with owls, a blackboard border, window decorations by grade 4, a sand table by grade 7 and drawings by grade 2.

If Penelope was Mr. Gatlin's refuge, he also was hers. She never complained to him—doubtless because she feared her foster mother, who had succeeded in inculcating in the child a duty complex quite out of proportion to the lady's deserts. Nevertheless it was understood between them that they were a pair of outlaws; mutual sympathy drew them closer together each day; their mutual love was a sweet and holy sentiment.

Mrs. Gatlin's nerves did not improve through the years, although when Penelope was ten years old, a wandering evangelist came to town and commenced a furious campaign of conversion and curing by prayer every disease that flesh is heir to; and Mrs. Gatlin became "converted." Thereafter life for Mr. Gatlin and Penelope became almost unbearable.

In a moment of insane fury, Mr. Gatlin performed what he considered a long neglected duty. He took Mrs. Gatlin's classical countenance in both hands, bumped her head repeatedly against the wall and told her that if she ever opened her mouth again in his presence without his permission he'd just kill her. She didn't. She sued him for divorce and had Penelope on the witness stand to prove that Mr. Gatlin had beaten her; that he had remained away from home until late at night and refused to reveal his rendezvous. Mr. Gatlin entered a cross-complaint and petitioned to have Penelope allocated to him.

Unfortunately the judge was a pudding-head. He refused to accept Mr. Gatlin's explanation that he had laid hands on Mrs. Gatlin but once, and that only in a moment of frenzy. He granted Mrs. Gatlin the divorce, liberal alimony and the custody of Penelope; whereupon the honorable court was treated to the spectacle of Mr. Gatlin and Penelope weeping in each other's arms. However, Mr. Gatlin was permitted to have Penelope to himself two Sunday afternoons in each month and one-half of each school vacation.

The first Sunday afternoon Mr. Gatlin availed himself of this privilege, his quondam spouse had hysterics, for with the malevolence of a devil Mr. Gatlin announced he was taking Penelope to a ball game. He took her, too, and they had a gorgeous time together until a home run sailed into the bleachers and struck Penelope violently on her pretty little nose. Mr. Gatlin, with the unconscious form in his arms, fled to a hospital, where he was foolish enough to telephone Mrs. Gatlin what had occurred. She appeared on the scene and carried Penelope home at once.

Mr. Gatlin knew what she was up to. She was going to cure Penelope's fractured nose by faith—and he had no faith in such therapy. He followed with a doctor, demanding at the front door to be admitted—a request which was ignored. So he kicked in the panels of the front door, which he had no business to do because it was no longer his, Mrs. Gatlin having acquired it in the property settlement. Thereupon she summoned the police by telephone and had him arrested, and the next morning he was tried, and found guilty and placed under bond of a thousand dollars to remain away from the place for one year. He didn't do it. Because he knew what would happen to Penelope if he did. And he could afford a thousand dollars—fifty thousand dollars if need be—to prevent that! He attacked within twenty-four hours—at night, but he was quiet about it. He remembered he had never surrendered his latchkey, so he entered quietly and kidnapped Penelope.

Within two hours he was arrested on route to a San Francisco hospital in a motor car with Penelope. For disobeying the magistrate, he was adjudged guilty of contempt of court, his bond of a thousand dollars forfeited—and he was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail. Mrs. Gatlin preferred a charge of kidnapping against him, which is a felony, and since Mr. Gatlin knew he would be tried on that charge when he emerged from jail he improved the shining hours by swearing to a warrant charging Mrs. Gatlin with insanity. Promptly she was brought before a board of alienists who declared her sane, and in order to avoid investigation into Mr. Gatlin's charge that she was denying Penelope medical attention, she turned her house over to an agent and disappeared—with Penelope.

From his cell in the county jail, Mr. Gatlin issued orders to his attorneys to find Penelope and take legal steps to prevent his ex-wife from removing her again beyond the jurisdiction of the court that had granted their divorce. A diligent search of three months failed of its object, so Mr. Gatlin neglected to deposit any alimony to his ex-wife's credit. He knew she could manage very well without the alimony. But he also knew Louise. She would have what was coming to her or know the reason why.

When six months had passed, Mr. Gatlin decided he had never been acquainted with her, for she failed to make any demand upon him for her alimony; hence he realized she preferred, by keeping Penelope from him, to cause him the maximum of suffering rather than reveal her whereabouts by making a claim for the alimony due her. A year and a day from the date of the granting of her interlocutory decree, her attorneys petitioned for the final decree, which was granted. Mr. Gatlin thereupon discovered she was living in Paris.

This news brought him no comfort. She was beyond reach of United States law. However, he had detectives place her under surveillance. They reported her as living alone, so Mr. Gatlin concluded she had placed Penelope in a school.

One day the detective agency sent him a very good snapshot of a little girl and asked him if this was the child he was seeking. The agency was unable to recognize her the original of the photograph he had sent them.

When Mr. Gatlin gazed upon that photograph, he wept. Mrs. Gatlin's faith cure, as he had suspected it would, had proved wholly ineffective. In his agony, the words of the poem came back to him:

And you, my sweet Penelope, out there somewhere you wait for me,
With buds of roses in your hair and kisses on your mouth.

He sold his retail shoe business and placed all his assets in a trust fund, the income to be paid to him during his lifetime and to Penelope after his death. He saved out of this trust fund, however, ten thousand dollars, with which he purchased a letter of credit and a ticket to Cherbourg.

In the interim Mr. Gatlin's detectives had ascertained that Penelope was in school in Switzerland; he planned to go to that school, abduct Penelope, and—his plans were a trifle hazy, but he intended to mature them as he crossed the Atlantic. Once in possession of Penelope, he would see to it that she should never know unhappiness again, if any effort of his could prevent it. He was worth half a million dollars—half in cash and the remainder in real estate that was rapidly appreciating in value. He could afford to retire. They would go somewhere and lose themselves. En route to the station—the first leg of his journey—the automobile in which he was riding was struck by another car and turned over. Mr. Gatlin was thrown out and suffered a basal fracture of the skull, from which he died six hours later.

COMING TO THE STRAND

And Pat O'Brien makes another sale. The buyer is the beautiful Claire Dodd and the lad on Pat's left is Roscoe Karns. The whole inside on the auction racket can be seen in "I Sell Anything," which comes Friday and Saturday.

The story presents an uproarious, although startling, revelation of questionable auctioneering methods and the manufacture of antiques over night, which is the background for a most human and colorful romance in which two girls battle for a man's love. Pat O'Brien, Ann Dvorak and Claire Dodd, who head the cast, form the triangle. Ann, appearing as a waif of the streets, falls desperately in love with Pat, a fast talking, fast action auctioneer who can sell anything, including his own heart, until he bumps into a clever adventress in the person of Miss Dodd, who proceeds to take him on a sleigh ride.

The story carries the audience from a New York Second Avenue auction shop, through a classy Broadway house to the pretentious home of one of Gotham's most aristocratic families. It is said to be filled with the most unusual and laughable situations imaginable as well as smart, sophisticated dialogue, written by Brown Holmes and Sidney Sutherland, both noted magazine writers.—adv.

Returning to old fashioned customs: When Chester Wotton and his new bride moved into the L. C. Creamer house last week they were given a good old fashioned serenade. Music, as usual, furnished by 10 bore guns, klaxons, whistles or what have you. In the olden days if guns and horns failed to produce results at one of these goodwill gatherings an alive hen was sometimes thrust into the victim's quarters, whereupon developments were eminent. the nearest telephone should be beside you, not at your next door neighbor's!

Once, when telephones were scarce, expensive and hard to get, the question used to be "where is the nearest telephone?"

Now, everyone asks "What is your number?"

Neighbors are glad to let you use their line in an emergency, but it's mutually embarrassing to have to ask "May I use your telephone?" or to hear them say "Mrs. Doe, we have a call for you on our line."

Besides, the net cost of having your own telephone is surprisingly small—the advantages many—and the convenience great!

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must get at the cause—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dark eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the intestines, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVERBIL— WITHOUT CALOMEL
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine. For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a sick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Remotest substitute. 25c a dozen. © 1931 C. M. Co.

THIS CHANGE Helps Children

Intestinal irritation in many growing girls and boys can be traced to one mistake.

Are you making this mistake with your children? The "liquid test" will tell.

"What is this 'liquid test' they talk about?" ask mothers. Just this: a simple way of finding out if any boy or girl with irregular or insufficient bowel movements is in need of relief, or is getting the wrong treatment.

Doctors urge a liquid laxative for children. The child who has been constipated in a hospital will often come out with bowels working like a well-regulated watch. Hospitals give children a liquid laxative of suitable ingredients, suitable strength, and in suitable amount.

The Proper Treatment
Give that sluggish child a liquid laxative containing senna (a natural laxative). California Syrup of Figs has the right amount for children's use, and this rich, fruity syrup does not upset them.

Just give any headachy, bilious child a little of this gentle laxative when constipated, and a little less if dose is repeated until the bowels seem to be moving regularly and thoroughly without need of help.

How to Begin
Stop all use of mineral drugs, whether they are salts, pills, tablets, or "candy" form. Even once a month is too often to give any child a cathartic strong enough for adults.
It is not wise to give laxatives of

THE "LIQUID TEST"

This is the way to relieve occasional sluggishness, or constipation in a child of any age:

First: select a liquid laxative of the proper strength for children. Second: give the dose suited to the child's age, and condition. Third: reduce the dose, if repeated, until the bowels are moving without any help at all.

An ideal laxative for this purpose is California Syrup of Figs which every druggist keeps in stock. Be certain that it is the genuine product with "California" blown in the bottle.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

BABY PICTURES

No doubt about it, the babies themselves "directed" these snapshots. In other words, they did as they pleased and the camera was clicked at the right instant.

THERE aren't any official statistics that we know of, so we're perfectly safe in saying that babies constitute the largest single group of snapshot subjects.

It's perfectly reasonable that this should be so; for we snapshot those things in which we are most interested. For another thing, babies make ideal subjects, because they don't pose. They're always natural. There are baby pictures and baby pictures, of course. Some arouse spontaneous enthusiasm; others are merely records, without much appeal.

What's the essential difference between the good and the merely so-so baby pictures. Usually you'll find the good pictures show infants doing something—crawling, chewing a doll, wrestling with toes, or even indulging in a real good cry. The merely so-so pictures give us only recognizable glimpses of babies doing nothing much at all.

Of course, it's possible to take a picture of a sleeping baby and get a charming result. But to do this, the camera work must be unusual. Very well, what about the technique of baby pictures?

First, you'll need to have light enough for action pictures. Few babies stay still long enough for time exposures. Out-of-doors, you'll have no trouble at all working in

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep... Vigor... Vitality

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbar, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

If you don't take chances with strong drugs to get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS... a doctor's prescription... which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.

She was a graduate of New England Conservatory of Music, possessed a contralto voice of note and was also a skilled pianist. One Of the Experiences Of Alvary Gay On a Motor Trip To Florida

Alvary Gay who left on Oct. 10 driving for Mrs. S. A. Burpee for a winter in St. Petersburg, writes entertainingly under the title of "From Maine to Florida, Without a Cloud".

"A hearty adieu to Rockland bright and early Oct. 10. A final jar from the crossing on Park street and we were off. And a more beautiful day for a 'takeoff' could not be made. In Portland we paused an hour for errands, and then on the road again, with a box lunch bidding this earth farewell near York. We merely skirted Boston, going on to Worcester via the new turnpike, and swinging off for Manchester, Conn. Here the first day came to an uneventful end, 297 miles from Rockland.

"Thursday morning, into Hartford to have a missing motor adjusted, and then on the Peckskill and Bear Mountain bridge in New York. And what a view of the Hudson! The bridge is approached by actually scaling around the mountain. On your right, straight up goes the mountain, on your left, straight down to the river! On the bridge a dime telescope gave me a wonderful expanse of the up-river country, a jumble of small mountains. From here we slipped down behind New York City and came to rest at Fair Hills N. J., 488 miles from Rockland.

"Friday morning we passed through a beautiful section of New Jersey and Pennsylvania. In the former, well riding clubs, with the horsemen and horsewomen in full riding attire, red coats, chokers and derbies. And in the latter many huge farm estates, acres and acres of tilled land, all very level and free from rocks or stumps, and grand looking buildings. Each farmhouse was beautifully designed and built, and the grounds were landscaped to perfection. We reached Baltimore at 2:30 (662 miles from Rockland). Baltimore is a real city, alive, big and growing. Tonight I saw "Student Tour", with Jimmy Durante, also George Jessell and Jackie Cooper in person. Jackie read some of the lines from his picture "Treasure Island" and "The Champ". He claims Beery is his favorite actor.

"Saturday was my day to see Baltimore. Visits were made to John S. Hopkins University, the Municipal Museum of Fine Arts, Druid Hill Park and Zoo. George Washington monument and the new Marine Hospital. In the afternoon a show, W. C. Fields in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch".

"Sunday morning we drove on to Washington. With what driving I did in Baltimore, at Washington I had covered 742 miles. Sunday afternoon was a personally planned and conducted tour of the Capitol. The New Deal's new buildings are very impressive, in size, number and beauty.

"Monday we left Washington at 8:30 and drove through old Virginia to Raleigh, N. C., 1018 miles from Rockland. Here the southern accent began to come to the top, plus seemingly millions of colored folks. This part of the country was interesting because of its historic value. Along the highways were many signs announcing what had taken place there, such as "Drury's Bluffs", "raid began here", "Lee's right wing here", "General Lee crossed here", etc. reminders of the old South.

"Tuesday another fairly long jump to Charleston, S. C., 1296 miles from home. And this city surpassed my expectations. Streets too narrow for two cars, old mouldy houses, gateways of wrought iron, famous the world over. An old church and burial yard with markers dating 1700. We passed half of Wednesday seeing this city. In the afternoon we drove to Savannah, Ga., 1439 miles from the way.

"Friday we saw the first Maine license plate since we had left Massachusetts, a Legionaire on his way to Miami. After leaving Washington the roads were like real highways, miles of straight and level driving. On what few curves there are I only had to slow down to 50. We clocked 50 miles on the average, with more speed in the stretches. And it was all easy driving. You could easily imagine yourself on an express train, so steady was the hum of the car and the smoothness of the road. And pine! More than Maine ever had. We went through very few towns. Most of them are comprised of a single store, but the colored peoples' huts are everywhere. Miles from any sign of other dwellings you will see one or two of these shacks. How they get food and clothing is a question to me. What a life that must be, nothing to see, nothing to do. No wonder it is called 'the lazy South'! One curious feature on the way down was the cattle. There would be a sign beside the road but instead of warning of a curve it warned the motorist to watch out for cattle. And there they were, grazing within six inches of the cement, and not fenced in or tied. Several times I had to slow down for one to cross the roadway. And pigs, too!

"In South Carolina we raided a cotton field and picked cotton for the first time in our lives. The first palm tree appeared about 10 miles north of the North and South Carolina state line. And what muddy rivers! Just a heavy, copper colored syrup. And convict labor, striped suits and armed guards.

"Thursday a 200-mile drive to Jacksonville (1639 miles from home now). Real Florida climate at last. And Friday! A sightseeing run down to Dayton and St. Augustine. I actually drove over Seagrave's course. A beautifully smooth beach of sand packed like cement. And breakers! Miles of a roaring white line. One can stand on the beach and look off either way to where the beach simply loses itself in a haze. It was one of the most impressive sights of the trip. St. Augustine is a veritable treasure. Old Port Marion was vividly impressed upon my memory. We entered the dungeon and crawled through a hole less than three feet high into the death chamber. Here doomed men were put to die. An underground, airless vault. It is estimated that a prisoner shut in there could live only 12 hours. While we stood in this chamber, the guide put out the lights. What a sensation! Even the fans which were running couldn't move the air fast enough to suit us, and we called for light, and lots of it! We saw the oldest house in the United States. And (envy me, oh, you sages!) I drank from the Fountain of Youth; saw where Ponce de Leon stepped ashore. And an old Indian burial ground, with 82 full skeletons in plain sight. These have been uncovered but left lying as they were—each one facing the east.

"And then the alligator farm. Here we saw 6000 alligators, ranging from five weeks to 700 years old. The colored guide offered to let anyone who cared to go into a pen with several hundred big fellows to take a picture. Well, in I went. I could not hold my camera still. Boy! just get in among those creatures some time! When a person comes too near, they make a prolonged whistling sound. And just before my entrance the guide answered a question as to their speed. Believe it or not, they are rated as fast as horses. That made me feel swell. Anyway I've three fine snaps to back me up.

"Saturday, and St. Petersburg! From Maine to Florida, 2046 miles, not a cloud in the sky all the way. And for you fellows planning to drive down, I burned 153 gallons of gas."

COLBY COLLEGE

(By J. Warren Bishop)

Nov. 7, Colby paid tribute to Elijah Parish Lovejoy, a martyr to the cause for which he gave his life, the freedom of the press. Lovejoy, a member of the class of 1826 at Waterville college, was killed by a mob in Alton, Illinois, 97 years ago. Abraham Lincoln called this culmination of a valiant fight against slavery "the greatest single event that ever happened in the new world".

In a recent canvass of the men students who graduated last spring from Colby it was found that approximately 85% of this group are now occupied. Eleven of these men are attending graduate schools while the remainder are already engaged in business or one of the professions.

This Tuesday evening sees the inauguration of a new activity to be carried on by the Colby Christian Association. The Railroad Y. M. C. A. building with its varied recreational facilities will be turned over to the students of the college one evening each week for the rest of the college year. This is but a single example of the ever-increasing scope of the Colby Christian Association activities.

Helen K. deRochemont of Rockland a junior at Colby, was in charge of a recent rushing party given for a group of freshmen by the Phi Mu sorority.

All new students at Colby are being photographed during this week. This new step being taken by the registrar's department will serve to complement the records which the college has always kept of the students.

E. Cliff Vessey, Colby's star distance runner, easily won the individual honors in a duel cross country meet with the University of Maine at Orono Saturday. Thus far this year Vessey has been undefeated, and Colby is hoping to see him win national fame at some of the more important meets later this fall.

THE SAUNTERER

A. B. Crocker

Tuesday Oct. 2, 1934. This day opens clear, light air to the North-west, bright sun, thermometer 36 degrees Fahrenheit 6 a. m. Now, "I don't sing like the birdies sing", but "I awake like the birdie: awake"—early, so when I awoke at 5:45 E.S.T. and saw what the morning promised for the day, I said to myself, "Son, this is the day for a long walk", so after fortifying the inner man with a substantial breakfast, doing the chores, including feeding and watering the pigeons, noting in the log so the skipper would see it when she turned out: Time of departure, 7:25 a.m.; destination, Middlesex Fell; time of return, before dinner; item, have my heavy sweater on.

Yesterday I searched the closets in two sleeping rooms upstairs, the closet in my room on the first floor, and the cellar, for my sweater and winter cap. Nothing doing anywhere. So I just ventured to remark, "I thought I put my sweater and cap away last spring".

"Can't you find them?"
"No!"
In about two minutes they came on the fly into the chair at my desk, and "Well, if you had looked in the closet in the hall where you put them, you would have found them."
"Huh! Me put them there, not on your life. If I had done so I'd have known where to look for them."

That is one thing I am always sure of, finding something I have put away. For the sake of argument I will admit that sometimes it is two years before I find it, and when I am hunting for something else, I now laugh.

In an hour and twenty minutes I was on the hurricane deck of the tower on Ramsgate Head hill, 65 feet from the ground, and I have been for the past six weeks doing very little sauntering. And if you think that the muscular viscus, situated in my thorax, wasn't pumping when I reached the top, well—you are mistaken, for it was. I was somewhat prepared to be disappointed at the view, as coming in the trees were as green as in summer, and the sudden change in temperature had caused a land fog. Hardly any color to the foliage due to its being so wet for September. The distant view was poor, it was very much better when I was there on Aug. 21 for then I could see the New Hampshire mountains clearly, while today I could only see the outline of them. The view over the ocean was fine.

I read the ramifications of The Roving Reporter faithfully, and enjoy them immensely.

"They're something kind o' hearty-like about the atmosphere. When the heat of summer's over and the coolin' fall is here. Of course we miss the flowers, and the blossoms on the trees. And the hum of the hummin'—birds and buzzin' of the bees. But the air's so appetizin' and the landscape through the haze. Of a crisp and sunny morning of the early autumn days. Is a picture that no painter has the colorin' to mock—When the frost is on the pumpkin and the fodder's in the shock."

DEPLETED ORCHARDS

Albert K. Gardner Tells What Is Being Done To Start Them Anew

"The present depleted tree population in the East should offer better opportunities for commercial apple growers with properly grown nursery stock of hardy varieties," says A. K. Gardner, crops and orchards specialist of the Extension Service.

"As a result of removal of injured trees," he says, "our commercial orchardists have been able to arrange for the purchase of about 30,000 nursery trees as a start in orchard replacement. Notwithstanding a short nursery crop in the Eastern United States, the Maine Apple Tree Pool has been assured of a fulfilling of its requirements."

In a survey of 879 Maine commercial orchards involving 510,000 trees, a group of experienced orchardmen under the direction of Stanley Painter, State Horticulturist, reported 171,000 trees were either killed or rendered worthless by winter injury. This survey shows that 35 per cent of our commercial trees have been ruined.

"Realizing the amount of labor and expense involved in removing those dead trees, Governor Brann favored assisting the growers in the work. An allocation of considerable money was made by the F.E.R.A. and a project organized under the direction of Herbert Campbell. Two division superintendents, E. E. Conant of Buckfield, and C. S. Towle of Winthrop supervised the work in local communities.

"Operators of large caterpillar tractors pulled over even the largest trees, leaving surprisingly small holes to be filled. Clients on relief rolls have limbed out, sawed up, piled the wood, and piled the brush. The grower's job has been simplified to removal of the stump and tree wood and burning of the brush. Approximately 100,000 trees were pulled and most of them were cut up and the brush piled before the appropriation became exhausted. Further allocations were secured from F.E.R.A. and rural rehabilitation funds. As it was evident that available funds would not remove all the injured trees, it was decided to aid first the growers who had indicated an intention to replant. Work is being done with this group at the present time. If additional funds later become available the others will be taken care of."

METHEBESEC CLUB

Members Listen To a Fine Program Dealing With Outstanding Women

The meeting of the Methebesec Club Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Angelica Glover went down in the records as one of the most interesting and profitable in many seasons. The subject for the program was "Outstanding Women in Literature," with Mrs. Orissa Merritt and Mrs. Lenora Cooper in charge. Current events in keeping with the subject were reviewed by Mrs. Etta Stoddard, who given women who had won Pulitzer prizes in literature, enlarging on Caroline Miller author of "Lamb in H's Broom" winner of the 1933 Pulitzer Prize, and pointing to the fact that eight winners out of thirteen years had been women; by Miss Caroline Stanley and Mrs. Carrie Palmer who presented various miscellaneous items of interest, among them an account of Gertrude Stein, author of "Four Saints in Three Acts" and other material, who has recently returned to her native country after many years in Europe.

In connection with the paper many delightful reminiscences were given. Mrs. Gladys Morgan telling of hearing Mary Ellen Chase at the old Alna meeting-house this summer. Mrs. Mary Perry Rich telling of having Laura Richards as a speaker at the Glen Cove Social Centre many years ago when she was a house guest of Jarvis C. Perry at the time, and several other club members contributing personal recollections of this and that writer.

Mrs. Cooper devoted her paper to "Women in Literature Exclusive of Maine," introducing Anna Katherine Green now 78 years old; Mary Roberts Rinehart who has more than 40 books to her credit; Alice Roosevelt Longworth; Selma Lagerlof, an elderly Swedish writer, the first woman winner of the Nobel Prize; Margaret Goldsmith, Margaret Ayer Barnes, Edith Wharton; Willa Cather; Mary Austin who died in August, and Elaine Myers, author of "Loaves and Fishes" who summers at

You may miss my presence as much as I feel my absence.

In the time I was with you, I worked faithfully for you. I was ready to summon help or to call for advice whenever you needed either. I ran errands, day or night regardless of storm or cold or heat.

I kept you closely in touch with your friends. I brought words of comfort to you or expressed your sympathy. Your children or your parents used me to talk to you. I know how you enjoyed it.

I did odd jobs and even aided your folks in getting and keeping work.

I saved you many steps and much time.

I cost you about 10c a day.

Isn't it about time now to call me back? I'll come!
