Hunt's Three-Ringer, Organized 43
Years Ago Coming Here Next Friday

Hunt's Three Ring Circus will show in Rockland next Friday. It has the unique distinction of being the oldest circus in the world owned and managed in person for 43 consecutive years. It is the only circus which has not changed its name, ownership or title in nearly one-half century.

Hunt's Circus was recognized in the Nation's Capital last year when a special bill, signed by the President,
permitted it to show in several locations in Washington.

The program this year is said to be

You and Your FATHER

You do not wear clothes like your father wore. You do not get up as early or work as hard as he did.
You have more conveniences, more enjoyments. Between you two at the same age there would be a marked contrast—on the surface. But deep down, in sound character and principles, you are the same.

Banking, too, is going through this "father and son" process of growth and change. Many practices and methods are being altered to meet the needs of a new age. But the bed-rock principles of sound bank management have not changed
—and will not change.

Ross Patterson of Rockport
Is Named Assistant Administrator

Works Progress Administrator Albert Abrahamson has appointed Ross E. Patterson, 48, of Rockport, Administrative Assistant in charge of personnel.

Mr. Patterson was born in Rockport in 1887, the son of Captain and Mrs.
E. O. Patterson. He graduated from Hebron Academy in 1903 and from Drexel Institute, Philadelphia, in 1909, with a degree in Electrical Engineering. He has had 21 years' experience in personnel work and office management, including five years in charge of the technical department of the Business Service Company, an employment concern which maintained branches in 14 principal cities of the United States.

In 1924 Mr. Patterson was married to Miss Eleanor H. Gros-Claude at Middletown, Conn. Mr. and Mrs. Patterson and his father will move to Portland shortly.

The appointment becomes effective immediately, Mr. Abrahamson said.

HOTEL MEN'S CARES

"Billy" Tarbox of the Mc-Alpin, Tells Lions Something About Them

It's not all velvet in the hotel business, not even in New York where so many of the world's money-spending and pleasure-seeking people daily congregate. Some of the things that metropolitan "mine hosts" are up against, were revealed to the Rockland Lions Club Wednesday in the course of an intimate talk before that organization by William E. Tarbox, assistant manager of Hotel McAlpin in New York.

Mr. Tarbox has devoted the last 16 years to the hotel business in the National metropolis—four with the Prince George and 12 with the Mc-Alpin, and his eye-teeth were cut a long time ago, though he very frankly admits that there is always something to learn, if one is to keep abreast of that shrewd and audacious class which lives on its wits and beats the hotels at the least opportunity.

"It has been tough sledding for the hotels in the past few years," said Mr.
Tarbox, "and for the life of me I don't see how the hotels exist down this way where there are so many over-night camps and rooming houses.
Even Bar Harbor is filled with trailers, and the occupants do their own washing. The situation in New York has improved and we are making a little money now."

The speaker told of the assistant manager's nervous period from 7 to 9 a. m., when the calling of the guests
so frequently results in the report.
"They don't answer." And then it is up to the house officer to investigate, often bringing back the report of a grim tragedy—of suicides by shooting, hanging or jumping from the window on one of the upper floors. Mr. Tar-box told of the heart-rending experience he and the house officer had one morning when a woman, with suicidal intent, had slid nearly over the window ledge toward the pavement far below.

The speaker told of thefts by hotel
guests, of ingenious claims for damages, of fake complaints against food and service, of bad checks, and a score of other devices which make the life of the hotel man miserable.

The McAlpin, he said, in answer to a query, has about 1500 rooms and gives employment to a staff of 700.
Many other questions were asked, and interestingly answered, the whole forming a half-hour much to the liking of "Billy's" audience.

Attendance pins were awarded at this meeting. Guests were Wesley Dickey of Malden, Ted Lawrence and Albert Grover of Boston. Dr. Chase, of the Boston Club, spending his annual vacation at Warren, got the heartily greeting he always receives from the local club.

A Lions desk clock, awarded by the 41st District for the largest membership gain, ornamented King Lion Gregory's desk.

Rev. Cornelius Greenway of Brooklyn, who is an honorary member of the club, will be the speaker next Wednesday—one of the most popular speakers, by the way, who has ever addressed the Lions.

JOHN LANE HAS HIS SAY

Pays His Respects To the Mayor With Reference To Several Subjects and Quotes Scripture

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—
I read the Mayor's article in Saturday's issue of The Courier-Gazette, and I assume the mayor was referring to me. It was a nice piece and everyone under our Constitution has the right of free speech.

I was taught as a youngster not to insult anyone. I think that "insult" and "criticize" are two entirely different words. I criticized to be sure, through the press, as that is the only local medium to express views to the public. I do not agree with what he said, but I agree with his right to say
it. I am not much of a Bible student;
he quoted, "By their works ye shall know them." I might add one, such as "As ye sow, so shall ye reap," especially at election time.

As far as citizenship is concerned, I am a good, loyal citizen. I was born here and am proud of it. I am no squatter. In reference to favors in my ward at the expense of others, I am not asking for any favors, nor have I ever asked any. I am getting a living and do not need a job. As far as favors are concerned, I assume the mayor was looking for favors when he was seeking the job as mayor, or was it for honor?

In regard to criticism, I have a right to criticize. That is why we have two parties—one does not always agree with the other. I have no personal grievance against the mayor.
He stated, "the cowardly way of through the press." Isn't that the way he criticized me? I don't feel in-sulted, in fact I get quite a kick out of it. The administration takes credit for building sewers, painting school houses, building of a concrete and granite pier at the public landing.

I am, as most of Rockland's citizens, under the impression that the Federal government, through FERA, appropriated and spent this money to take up the slack of unemployment.
I did not know the mayor had any voice in Congress or Federal appropriations. If I were to give any credit, I should give it to Congressman Moran and President Roosevelt. Or was I misled, or did I interpret his article wrong?

The mayor refers to advertising.
The common man cannot eat advertising and has no property or other wares to advertise. The State of Maine spent $100,000 for advertising
through the Maine Publicity Bureau;
therefore advertising has no bearing on this matter.

Regarding business men in both parties advocating the mayor's candidacy for re-election, I never heard of a man being elected without first getting the nomination. If I am any judge of talk on the street, there will be plenty of attendance from both parties at the caucus this fall. I am not the only one dissatisfied. There are plenty more, including Democrats,
and I could go on listing many things that I don't agree with.

Last, but not least, I am exercising my right as a citizen to disagree with some of the mayor's policies and I mention here that he refers to business men advocating his re-election.
It takes overall boys to elect a mayor,
and their votes count just as much as the business men's.

Cheer up, Mr. Mayor; I have no hard feelings. Laugh and the world laughs with you." John W. Lane
P. S. Take it from whence it comes.

"OUR JOB IS WELL DONE"

Community Chest Concludes Drive With Smash- ing Victory—Exceeding Quota By $1000

Achieving an unprecedented success, Community Chest for 1935 concluded its drive at yesterday's noon luncheon at Temple hall with a grand total of $6000 in the till against a campaign quota of $5000. Enthusiasm was everywhere apparent as the proud victory was announced, a splendid testimonial to and an achievement that will reflect lasting credit on the fine spirit of the people of this community.

Mrs. A. C. McLoon's Ward 3 team took high honors yesterday for the women's division, making a clean sweep of the race. O. E. Wishman's industrial team carried the banner for the men's division. General Chairman George B. Wood's words,
"Our job is well done" resulted in an ovation and cheers were given for Mrs. J. N. Southard and Knott C.
Rankin, division leaders.

Hugh N. Spaulding who has worked tirelessly in the directing of the big drive expressed his earnest appreciation of the co-operation he has received from executive committee, workers and the public. He took occasion to proffer special appreciation to W. O. Fuller and The Courier-Gazette for the unstinted support accorded the drive.

The Friday luncheon was provided and served by the ladies of the Methodist Church featuring Italian dinner and that delicacy dear to all male hearts—pie. An added round of applause was rendered by those who secured sections of those chocolate specials.

It was 11 years ago that Rockland organized its Community Chest, the first in Maine, and the occasion of Mr. Spaulding's initial visit to this city. In view of the existing economic situation Mr. Spaulding consented to take over the drive condi-tionally that the original committee serve with him and this was done,

that honored group including Mr.
Wood, Mr. Fuller, H. P. Blodgett and Homer E. Robinson, campaign treasurer.

Many touching stories were heard relating to the loyalty and self-denial of supporters of the Chest. One mother of eight children made a special personal deprivation in order that the family name might be on the honor roll of Chest givers, and the appreciative Chest representative gave each of the youngsters one of the donors red feathers.

Thursday noon luncheon was the highlight of the campaign and one of the most remarkable gatherings of the sort in Chest history. The tables were filled and the ladies of the Congregational Church under direction of Mrs. Oids served an especially fine dinner to start things right.

The reports started with the old total of $4661 headed for the goal of $5000 with a hope to top it, and when Raphael Sherman put the final mark for the day on the big blackboard the amazing total of $5481 had been attained with another full day to go.
Mrs. A. C. McLoon's Ward 3 team led the women's division for the third successive day. Field Marshal Rankin brought up his reserves in a last strategic gesture when his Industrial team under command of Oscar Wish-man wrecked the well known apple cart with a barrage containing $317.

Gov. Brann and 14,999 Others Saw Rockport Fireworks—The Other Events

The sounding of whistles at 8:20 Thursday morning announced the arrival of U.S.S. Manley and the opening of the tenth annual Rockport Carnival-Regatta.

The water events which featured the afternoon program were carried out under ideal conditions with clear skies and smooth water and were witnessed by a larger crowd than on the opening day of previous years. These events were conducted by the Maine Amateur Athletic Association with which the Rockport Carnival-Regatta Association has recently become affiliated and as this was the first outdoor meet which the Maine Association has ever held it was of special interest. The time made by the various contestants was considered very good for open water.

decorated cars, fire departments of Camden and Rockport, representatives from various boys' camps, and bands from Rockland, Camden and Rockport. The line formed at Highland square proceeded over Commercial street to Russell avenue,
then to Limerock street, over Huse
to Union street, then to Russell avenue, disbanding at Carnival grounds.

In order to show up new and novel features the boat parade was held at sunset instead of later, as usual, and as the many decorated yachts and boats circled about the beautiful harbor it presented a scene of unsurpassed beauty. The boat carrying the Camden Boys' Swimming Club, dressed as pirates, was the most

A rose-bud by my early walk

Sae gently bent its thorny stalk,
All on a dewy morning.

Ere twice the shades of dawn are fled,
In a' its crimson glory spread,
And drooping rich the dewy head,
It scents the early morning.

She soon shall see her tender brood,
The pride, the pleasure o' the wood,
Amang the fresh green leaves bedew'd
Awake the early morning.

So thou, dear bird, young Jenny fair,
Shalt sweetly pay the tender care

So thou, sweet rose-bud, young and gay,

A SPLENDID TRIUMPH

The success attendant upon the Community Chest campaign is a thing to gladden the heart of every citizen. With a declared objective of $5000 the loyal workers find their few days of activity closed with more than $1000 registered in excess of that tidy sum. "It was the perfect organization, the enthusiastic co-operation of committees, women and men, to which the people responded with the generous hand, that crowned with more than the looked-for success this splendid city-wide demonstration.

The good issuing out of it will operate upon a wide circle. In the first place we can look forward to the proper carrying on of the institutional work to which these contributed funds are to be applied. That in itself would furnish reason for general congratulation; but there is something beyond that. Coincidentally with the announcement of a call for money, the air went vocal with the raised voice of the pessimist, declaring again its doctrine of the impossible. The loyal men and women refused to listen to the doubter. With that zeal which refuses defeat they set themselves in action. In no time at all their enthusiasm penetrated every avenue and met with immediate response. Rockland saw the left-over fogs of depression pushed clean out of the horizon. The well-to-do cheerfully yielded up his dollars. With pride the man of lesser means dropped in his pennies and his dimes. Everybody took a hand, including many of the always generous-hearted of the summer colony. On many accounts it has been the most significant community triumph ever registered here and spreads over the whole city an atmosphere of confidence.

RHODE ISLAND SPEAKS OUT

The striking victory this week registered by the Rhode Island Republicans, finds their friends of the opposition party shooting out the lip in an endeavor to belittle this achievement of the ballots. Politicians are prone to such forms of discrediting, but we are persuaded that this is another illustration of the difficulty of fooling all the people at once. Last fall in this Rhode Island district a Democrat was elected to Congress by more than 21,000 plurality. This week sees in the special election a Republican chosen for the office by some 10,000 majority. The campaign was based upon the New Deal, and it got a smashing defeat. Doubtless all New England stands ready when opportunity offers, to give a similar account of itself. Maine in particular.

ROMANCE IN BUSINESS

With the reappointment of George W. Leadbetter as director of State health, welfare and institutional service, Gov. Brann gives recognition to merit and by that much adds credit to his own administration. Throughout the long period of years in which Mr. Leadbetter has been service at Augusta, public affairs with which he has had intimate contact have found in him a servant of the people whose one ambition was to give the task in hand the highest possible consideration. He began life that way. We recall the boy who made the long tramp from his Lincolnville home to the busy city of Rockland, moved with ambition for work. He found it at the business house of Cobb, Wight & Co., the senior member of which, on the theory that a country boy, unknown and lacking formal introductions, who alone by himself should undertake the many miles of walk in search of work, had "the real stuff" in him. It was a sound conclusion, which had its demonstration a few years later, when the Rockland merchant, who had then become the Governor of Maine, called this Lincolnville boy to Augusta to fill the exacting position of Messenger to the Governor and Council, a story of achievement out of narrow beginnings and now going on to the second score of years in which the boy has been serving the people.

THE AMERICAN ROOSEVELT

There was one time another Roosevelt filling the seat of the mighty, whose Americanism was of the old-fashioned sort that has its roots in the Constitution. There was no uncertainty when Theodore Roosevelt spoke. Let us think upon his words that were printed in the Metropolitan Magazine:

Patriotism means to stand by the country. It does not mean to stand by the President or any other public official save exactly to the degree in which he himself stands by the country. It is patriotic to support him in so far as he efficiently serves the country. It is unpatriotic to oppose him to the extent that by inefficiency or otherwise he fails in his duty to stand by the country. One form of servility consists in a slavish attitude—of the kind incompatible with self-respecting man-

CROWDS MILL WATERFRONT

And Rockport's Carnival-Regatta Is the Most Talked Of Affair In Maine

Green and the boat owned by Lucien Green of Rockland was the winner by the lucky number. This interesting feature was under the direction of Miss Isabel Henry of Philadelphia and a member of Rockport's summer colony. A program of musical numbers, consisting of song by Donald Welt, young tenor; Frank Young and Leroy Moon in cornet solos and duets and Phyllis Leach and Elisha Richards in song and dance number, was followed by a high diving act which was a thriller. The climax was reached when the young lady made a dive from the top of a high ladder into a glass tank containing water only four feet in depth.

Mrs. Charles A. Cavanaugh was winner of the radio given to the lucky ticket holder.

Officials in charge of the water events of the day were, John Magee, Bowdoin and Harry Shulman, Brunswick Community Club, timers; Robert Miller, Bowdoin, referee; Wendell Thornton, Colby College and Newton, Mass. and Harold Paulsen, Portland Boys' Club, starters; Frederick F. Richards of Annapolis, Lowell Payson of Illinois and Maynard Graffam of Castine Normal, judges. Wilson Moon was in charge of the street parade and Mrs. Ralph Blakeley of the evening features.

Yesterday's Proceedings

The ideal weather which prevailed on the opening day continued yesterday with a stiff breeze blowing in the afternoon, making conditions perfect for the race of HAJ boats. The beauty of Rockport's harbor was greatly enhanced by the presence of 24 of these Finnish built boats, augmented by many visiting yachts, several of which followed the racers over the five mile course. Winners were Blue Streak, owned by Dotsa Seaverns, and Flickers, owned by Betsy Ross. The summary:

REX LEE CHANGES HIS MIND

Rex Lee, a Georgian, came into Maine a few days ago, and after listening to some well colored hunting tales openly scoffed at the idea of moose invading the traveled highways.

But Rex Lee changed his mind over night.

Coming through Union Thursday night, at 9:30 his reveries were suddenly disturbed by a tremendous crash, and a huge form was seen to slump from the hood of the car.

Finding that the machine was still able to navigate he stepped on the gas and headed for Rockland at a speed which must have dazed those who beheld him.

Still pale, and with hair still standing on end, he told the State Police about his experience, described the location, and away went the representative of the law to investigate.

Sure enough, the carcass of a moose was found lying by the roadside.

When he gets back to Georgia he will probably tell his friends to believe anything they hear about big game in Maine.

DESERVED HONORS

Nelson Rokes and Horace Booth Make Lieutenant's Grade At C. M. T. C.

Nelson Rokes of Rockland, and Horace Booth of Portland, were appointed Lieutenants at the Citizens Military Training Camp at Fort McKinley this summer. Both have attended the camp for four years, starting their training in 1932.

Mr. Rokes and Mr. Booth have achieved great success in their military training and have passed their examinations for reserve officers as second lieutenants in the United States Army.

Mr. Rokes was a 1st sergeant at the University of Maine last year, and has been selected for advanced military this year.

lines—toward any person who is powerful by reason of his office or position. Servility may be shown by a public servant toward the profiteering head of a large corporation, or toward the Anti-American head of a big labor organization. It may also be shown in peculiarly noxious and un-American form by confounding the President or any other official with the country, and shrieking "stand by the President," without regard to whether by so acting, we do or do not stand by the Country.

These words echo out of the year 1918. How appositely they appeal to us of the present day.

THE ESSO CRUISER

Unique Land Boat In Rockland Today, To Show Motion Pictures

The Ezzo Cruiser will arrive here today and will be thrown open to the public for inspection, according to C. O. Smith local representative of the Colonial Beacon Oil Company.

Launched in New York City the Ezzo Cruiser will co-operate with local officials in promoting street and highway safety both on the part of the motorists and pedestrians, by broadcasting talks and showing motion pictures.

Citizens of Rockland and their children are invited to view an interesting and educational motion picture on the subject of Safety, which will be shown from the Ezzo Cruiser at 9 p. m. in the center of the city.

This unique land boat, which was built at a cost of approximately $50,000 has a striking appearance. It will accommodate a crew of seven, has sleeping quarters, hot and cold running water, a complete kitchen including electric range and refrigerator, a tiled lavatory, lounge, and observation platform. Its pilot's compartment, completely enclosed in glass, is high above the street and resembles the cockpit of a transport plane.

DOUBLE HEADER SUNDAY

Rockland and Camden At Community Park —"Going To Take One," Says McCarty

Next Week's Games

Sunday — Double-header, Camden at Rockland, first game beginning at 1:30.

Monday—St. George at Camden. Tuesday—Open.

Wednesday—Rockland at Thomaston.

Thursday—Thomaston at Camden. Friday—St. George at Rockland.

Saturday—Thomaston at St. George. A postponed game will probably be played on Tuesday night, the open date.

The League Standing

Thomaston gained half a game, but is still three and one-half games behind the Chick-ens. The standing:

	W	L	P.C.
Camden	9	0	1.000
Thomaston	7	5	.583
St. George	4	6	.400
Rockland	1	9	.100

Thomaston 9, Rockland 7

Four Rockland hits netting seven runs, and six Thomaston hits netting nine runs is what the spectators saw on Style Field, Thomaston, Thursday night, and the solution of the paradox is that errors were as numerous as black flies around a trout stream. And in spite of them it was an interesting game, with some high hat plays to excite the fans' admiration.

Disaster overtook the Orphans in the first inning, when Dick French, a bit upset by poor support, issued two passes (the only ones he gave in the entire game) and Art Flanagan injected a two-bagger. The net result was four runs, rather an awkward handicap for a team which had won only one game in eight during the season. Four more runs were added by Thomaston in the next two innings, thanks to three costly errors, a triple by Dimick and a double by Felt. After that Thomaston was able to make but three hits off French.

Rockland scored six of its seven runs in the last two innings, but it is only fair to Nutmeg Ray to say that most of these runs were due largely to ragged fielding, as Thomaston's had been in the early part of the comedy-drama. Holding the visitors to four singles was no mean achievement for the man from Connecticut.

Walter Dimick made his debut with Thomaston, and his work was watched with much interest, due to the fact that he has been the center of much factional discussion this summer. Probably a bit over-anxious to show his wares, he misused on three of his seven chances at second base, but the fact remains that he made three of Thomaston's nine runs, and two of its six hits—a triple and a double namely. So the rival factions still have their argument.

Probably nobody will dispute the statement that stellar honors in this game belonged to Frohock, who was applauded to the echo for his four running catches in centerfield, and who made one of the Orphans' four hits. The error charged against him was for an overthrow which let in a run.

Flanagan shifted from short field to first base, handled the position as though born to it.

Camden ran its league string to nine straight Thursday night when it defeated St. George 10 to 8, in a well contested game at St. George.

Thomaston defeated St. George 11 to 8 at St. George last night despite the fact that the Colts bombarded Chummy Gray for five runs in the third inning and sent him to the showers. Walker succeeded him. Thomaston drove Peace from the mound, and Stimpson who succeeded him was touched up rather hard. Cliff Felt made two beautiful triples.

TWILIGHT TWITTERINGS

Thomaston is soon to have third base bleachers, the makers of which will profit by the handicaps found in those which adorn the first base line. Walter Dimick may be the oldest man in the league, but some of the youngsters would do well to have his pep. He is a picturesque figure in any league.

The custom of smoking on the ball field is drawing unfavorable comment from many of the spectators, who feel that it makes an amateur league look even more amateurish.

Rockland and St. George may not be "in the money" this year, but both teams are developing some classy players who will be heard from.

Team work is winning for Camden. The boys play one position steadily.

In Washington political circles there is some discussion favorable to the nomination of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh as a candidate for the Presidency. ## Revivals of Religion

This term has been used by Protestants since the 18th century. It is from the Latin revivere, to live again. Religions, for in speaking of the revival of learning or of art we are apt to use renaissance. It denotes periods of marked religious interest, when church members are quickened to a new sense of responsibility and privilege and when others for the first time profess their faith.

The term is somewhat out of use, largely because of some of the methods used by professional evangelists, but it is not in contempt, for it is far too great ever to be that. If in this world we are again to regain our sanity among nations, or our fellows, it must be by a quickened religious interest.

No two of the great revivals since Pentecost have been similar, and the spirit of God which "watching over this world neither slumbers nor sleeps," may appear in an entirely new form of manifestation. Many object to revivals because of the reaction of some weakly balanced personalities. Well, in every great crisis we have the crack-brained with us. They are here in this new era, the renaissance, in politics, finance and business.

Is it not better to suffer these emotionalists than to remain dead in our trespasses and sins? Let us not forget that it is a privilege to be a church member, and that cannot be responsibility. It marks a changed life, to profess faith in God. Great things follow revivals.

MR. AND MRS. THRIFTY

Twelve years ago the Thrifties had saved EIGHT HUNDRED DOLLARS. They borrowed SIXTEEN HUNDRED from ROCKLAND LOAN & BUILDING ASSOCIATION and purchased a very satisfactory home for TWENTY-FOUR HUNDRED. Their payments of SIXTEEN DOLLARS per month for 146 months to the Association have cancelled the loan and they now own their attractive home free from debt. Now let's figure a little. Payments to the Association of sixteen dollars a month for 144 months, $2336.00. This paid the $1600.00 loan, leaving the net cost $736.00 and no rent to pay for the 146 months. Isn't this worth looking into?

Cooper-Woodbury

At the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hammond Woodbury, in Portland, Elston Francis Cooper of North Haven and Miss Janet Woodbury were united in marriage Saturday night, Aug. 3, by Rev. James W. Vallentyne of the Universalist Church. It was a delightful home wedding with a beautiful floral setting of tall tapers and white lilies. The description taken from the Portland Telegram is of interest to all the island friends. A very fine half-tone of the bride appeared with the account.

The bride's gown was of old ivory satin, fashioned Princess style with a long graceful train. Her short filmy tulle veil was held by a cap of tulle. She carried white sweet peas, roses and gardenias.

Her two attendants, Miss Virginia Winslow, as maid of honor, and Mrs. Winslow Larrabee Jones (Barbara Gurney) of Schenectady, N. Y., were gowned alike in mauve crepe. The gowns had trimmings of fuchsia velvet and the attendants carried arm bouquets of pink roses, pink sweet peas, and pink beehive buttons.

Clifford A. Woodbury, Jr., of Media, Penn., was the soloist. Dr. James W. Vallentyne performed the single ring service.

Serving as best man was Alden McCollum of Schenectady, N. Y. A reception followed the wedding. Miss Constance Palmer of Westwood, N. J., and Miss Norma Bryden of Providence, R. I., were assistants.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Woodbury, was gowned in lilac lace, and Mrs. Herman F. Cooper of North Haven, mother of the bridegroom, wore blue crepe.

Mr. Cooper and his bride left on a motor trip to Montreal and Quebec, the bride traveling in a navy blue taffeta ensemble. On their return they will reside in Boston.

The bride is a graduate of Deering High School and Miss Wheelock's Kindergarten School in Boston, and during the past two years has been teaching in Harrison. Mr. Cooper was graduated from the University of Maine, and is in business in Boston. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman F. Cooper of North Haven.

Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Herman F. Cooper, Mrs. C. S. Dyer and Miss Blanche Cushing, all of North Haven; Mrs. T. O. Calderwood and Miss Ervine Calderwood, both of Vinalhaven.

The morning plane, starting Monday, will leave North Haven at 8 o'clock, standard instead of 8:20. Please make your reservations in advance to avoid waiting—adv.

The descendants of Job headed the list with a total of 29—Joseph being next in line with four, and Josiah and Nancy one each.

The obituary committee reported the deaths of Woodbury Spaulding of Charlestown, Mass., Cora Ellen McLean of Rockland, Susie Walsh of Chicago, and Hanson Ingraham.

After the business meeting this program was presented: John Ingraham, Jr., recitation; Lorna Pendleton, vocal; Florence Ingraham, recitation; Elden Vose, vocal; Kathleen O'Hara, piano; Nancy Ingraham and Natalie Spear, tap dancing.

THE SAUNTERER

A. B. Crocker

I think it was Sir Isaac Watts who, some two centuries ago, wrote thusly: "I write not for a nickel, but to try; how I all Roving Reporters can outvie."

Here is the record of a saunter a little farther afield than usual. Two very dear friends of ours came from Springfield, Mass., in their car, and said, "Tomorrow is your wedding anniversary and we will put up a lunch, go to Marblehead and wander around and eat our lunch where we did ten years ago." Many have read Oliver Wendell Holmes' poem, "Agnes," and those who have not, should. It describes a ride to the Fountain Inn at old Marblehead, and what happened as the result of a fish dinner. That ride occurred some 200 years ago. The hero, Sir Harry Frankland, the heroine, Agnes Surriage, a sea captain's daughter.

So on that July day, 1935, we started in our friend's modest "Chevy" for the ancient town, but we did not cross the ferry. We crossed the bridge over the Mystic, thence to the Revere Beach Boulevard, past Suffolk Downs new race track, thence along Revere Beach, across the Point of Pines bridge, (a new one is now building and will be ready some day), thence skirting the waterfront of Lynn and Swampscott to Marblehead Neck. Circled the neck with the ocean on one side and the harbor on the other, and thence through the town and by the site, as the poet tells us in the story:

"A scampering at the 'Fountain' inn—
A rush of great and small."
Now there is no inn, but it is held in remembrance by Fountain Park, and still going, we find the same little cove, and the wall under the trees as of yore. We unpacked our lunch and ate. Two centuries ago we read: "The shining horses foam and pant," but our steed is neither foaming nor panting, and after that ride needed neither food nor water. Sir Harry would be astonished at the sight of an auto today, as he was on that far off time when he first saw Agnes washing the stairs:

"Hail Nymphs and Graces!" spoke the Knight;
"Look up, my beauteous Maid!"
Imagine "Big Boy" getting something like that out of his system today. "Hello, Beautiful! Where have you been all my life?"—1935.

The sacred rite of eating over, we resumed our saunter but changed our route through the Witch City (Salem), Beverly, and thence into the country, Hamilton, Wenham, Danvers, back to Salem, Lynn, Saugus, to the Turnpike, to Revere Beach Parkway, thence to Spot Pond, Middlesex Fells Mystic Lakes, and home in good season, to sing later, "Well, this is the end of a perfect day," thanks to our good friends.

TO A MATINEUS LOBSTERMAN
(and there are none better).
[For The Courier-Gazette]
I'm an island lobsterman, my heritage is the sea.
I ply the trade the best I can my father taught to me.
But leave my traps alone, all else will I forgive.
For the man who'd rob a lobster pot, he is not fit to live.

When beneath the summer skies I leave the land behind,
And leading to the glad sunrise a golden path I find,
The sea mist melts away, the gulls are on the wing,
I see the gates of Paradise and hear the angels sing.

Out against the icy wind a steadfast course I keep.
My sunken lobster pots to find, a hundred fathoms deep.
What though the waves leap high and hungry breakers roar?
I know that warm and loving hearts are waiting me ashore.

And if some dark and stormy day the Good Lord calls me home,
And if I should be cast away upon the rocks and foam,
Let fall no wasted tears and breathe no parting sigh,
For that's the way a lobsterman expects, at last, to die.

Deer Isle, Me.

"Sorry, Aunt Hetty, I can't eat another raspberry, nor yet another biscuit. Was it six dishes of berries I ate?"

"Shucks, 'twant but two. Losin' your appetite, ain't ye?"

"I haven't missed it long anyway. Well, shoot, Aunt Hetty."

"Where'll I begin?"

"Oh, begin in the middle, Hetty, an' travel all 'round," chuckled Uncle Sam.

"You go to Guinea," said Aunt Hetty affably. "Oh, well, I'll just tell ye the things as they come into my head, an' be sure ye put 'em down in a nice way for the paper an' not have 'em all every which way, the way I say 'em. Now mind."

"Um-hm," said the reporter. "Now let's see, about the fir pillows?"

"Yes, they're gettin' right to work 'em down to Mis' Cogan's barn, an' Mis' Cogan says come one, come all, an' the more the merrier. Si told me you was goin' to put a good little piece in the paper 'bout that, an' I hope it'll come out tomorrow, so's the world'll get around. I want to get down there myself tomorrow afternoon. Yes, Edna Smith she's on the head of it o' course, an' besides Mis' Cogan with her she's got Mis' Cora Currier, her mother, an' Mis' Stewart, an' Mis' Dorman that lives in the Montgomery house up on Main street, she ain't lived here very long but she's in the Star an' they say she's a right smart hand to work an' takes right a-holt. Edna says for folks to fetch any pieces they got to make pillows of, like print, cretonne, percale, sateen an' such-like. An' somebody was sayin' 'tother day if only they had some more o' them patchwork pillows like what Lizzie Toback made 'em one time they'd go awful good. So I thought if I could find me a kind o' pretty pattern I'd try to make up a couple. They don't want 'em too big neither, the real big ones don't seem to sell so good, seems if."

"I'm glad of one thing, an' that's that Mis' Cogan's daughter-in-law, Della, Gleason's wife, is goin' to be here to take in the Fair this time. That girl has worked her fingers nigh off 'most every summer when they was down here for a week or two on their vacation an' then had to go back 'fore the Fair. They're livin' down here now, so she'll be right on hand, an' she's goin' to have one o' the coffee booths. Doris Spear, she that was Doris Brasier, has the other. Both them girls has some other people to help 'em but I don't know who yet. I'll let ye know when I find out."

"Course Matie an' Ora is together at one o' the hot dog places, an' Olive Fales an' Margaret Spear both of 'em from South Warren is at the other. If there's anything Matie likes better 'n sellin' hot dogs it's bein' in a parade, an' that's goin' to be just another big day for Matie, for they're goin' to be a parade. No, I ain't heard yet she's goin' to be in it, but I don't know as anybody needs to tell me she will."

"Now, let's see, fancy work, Mis' Ed Lynch an' Hazel Anzalone, George Morse's girl, an' Adelia Jameson down to Friendship, her that was Adelia Bradford, so fur there's them I know of on that table, an' they'll be right pleased to have things give to 'em, hand work an' the like o' that. An' things for children go to Mis' Emma Kallach, Anna Brasier an' Mis' Achorn. Si's begun to do a little whittlin' on some things for the young ones, a-smilin' to his two ears thinkin' 'bout how they'll maybe like 'em."

"No, I ain't lost my interest in aprons, an' by the looks o' the one I got on I better be makin' some for myself, but anyways I got a couple started for Edna Young, her an' Shirley Williams is together there, an' I don't know who all else."

"Tell ye what I'll do. I'll find out from Mis' Risten 'bout the rest of 'em so fur as they know 'em now, an' if ye don't happen to be round this way in a day or two we'll see that ye get the word 'bout who they be. Folks like to know who's on the different tables so they send what they got to 'em."

"Knew there was something I was forgettin' Candy, o' course. Lella Smalley she's goin' to be workin' on that same as always but she ain't goin' to have all the care of it this time, an' her cousin Blanche Lermond'll be at the head. They allus has a lot o' good candy makers ready to make up batches with whatever makin's is sent 'em from folks that don't make it themselves."

"Wish ye didn't have to hurry away, but I s'pose if ye got to put all this in good shape for the paper I'll take ye a spell. Now mind what I tell ye, an' fix it up good so it'll read all right, an' come over again whenever ye can, for there'll be more news for ye."

"Indeed I will," said the reassuring reporter.

"Broadway Gondolier," Warner Bros' sensational new musical comedy, comes for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

The story concerns the romance of a New York taxicab driver, who aspires to be a singer, and the secretary of a big broadcasting concern, who falls in love with him and arranges an audition. A series of mix-ups prevents his appearance, and his teacher, a former singer and improverised Italian aristocrat, sings for him. But his voice has gone sour and the taxi driver loses out. It is not until he gets to Venice that he makes good, first as a singing gondolier, and later in opera. He returns to New York and success in one of the most unusual climaxes imaginable.

Dick Powell, Joan Blondell, Adolphe Menjou an' done innaoPHH Adolphe Menjou and Louise Fazenda are in the cast.—adv.

The SamOset

Rockland Breakwater, Maine

***

I am here and the Point is there,
The harbor lies between
And the little boats ply in and out Nobody knows what they're about
For cargoes can't be seen.

The tide will rise, the tide will fall,
Twice in a sleepy day
The Breakwater's either a walk or a wall
And the wavering gulls may mew and call
But the tide must have its way.

The pine trees fringe the rocky ridge,
The elms take a lower berth,
The raspberries ripen large and mild,
The roses are sweet though they call them wild
And blueberries purple the earth.

Old wharves are nestling at the town
With the charm of a foreign smell,
They are long and low and faded red
Like caskets for twin giants dead
But oh, the tales they tell.

The small white floats hang round the Neck,
A rosary of the brine,
And faith and hope are in the air
While the boatmen friar count each prayer
For lobsters help us dine.

The fisher folk sail in and out
For halibut, cod and plaice,
They make their catch or a load of woe
And they tell the world what he should know
And say it to his face.

At times a cruiser grays and new Bulks in from its ocean test
Then nothing seems just quite as gay
For silence strongly hints—THE DAY
As she gleams in her gray grim best.

The pleasure yachts sweep past the light
Like tall brides on parade;
They furl a sail and give a hail,
They drop a hook and polish a rail,
They lift a toast to a smiling host
Then spread their veil to the summer gale
And fade and fade and fade.

Sometimes the fog drifts in to stay
And foghorns moan and roar,
So "That is That" the siren said
Then all good sailors go to bed
And snore and snore and snore.

TILL THE SUN SHONE

Waited Members Of St. Bernard's Parish—Fair Was Then a Success

While the weather man did not display his best humor on Monday and Tuesday so that the members of St. Bernard's parish could hold their lawn party, his antics did not in any way daunt the valiant workers who just simply "sat tight" until the sun chose to shine, which it did on Wednesday. The old belief that postponed activities are never successful found an exception as in every case, for success to an overflowing measure crowned the efforts of the workers.

Early in the afternoon the spacious lawn connecting rectory and church was an animated scene, and before many hours had passed the scorer announced a record-breaking crowd. The doll parade, with 30 children in line, was an outstanding attraction of the afternoon. Each child was prettily costumed, and wheeled a gaily decorated doll carriage containing a doll of some sort or description, baby dolls, flaxen haired beauties, brunette dreams, boy dolls, girl dolls, all decked out in their best bibs and tuckers. The judges, Miss Elizabeth Donahue, Miss Louise Harrington and Miss Mabel Dorgan of Hartford, Conn. and Rockland, were in quite a quandary to choose the winners, but finally announced this list: First, Mary Rose Carillo; second, Joan Chisholm; third, Joan Brewer; honorable mention, Joan Gardiner. There were other social diversions in the afternoon, games especially designed for the children finding high favor.

Supper was served at 5.30, the Rockland City Band dispensing delightful music meantime. Beano and other games rounded out the evening with the band playing at intervals.

Committees: Supper, housekeepers, Mrs. J. H. Flanagan, Mrs. G. C. Knight, Mrs. James Derby; solicitors, Mrs. Robbins, Mrs. Timothy O'Donnell, Miss Mary Johnson, Mrs. Donald Perry, Mrs. Herman Carr, Miss Louise Harrington. Head waitresses: Mrs. Perry, Mrs. Francis Louraine. Tickets: Rose and Alice Flanagan. Ice cream and home made candies, Miss Winifred Coughlin, Miss Margaret Adams, Miss Marie Dorgan. Fancy table: Mrs. Arthur Doherty, Mrs. John Chisholm, Miss Celia Brault. Parish table: Timothy O'Donnell, Raymond Moulaison, Arthur Doherty.

ERNEST QUINN

★★★★ CHIEF among the people who have carried the name of Rockland from one side of the world to the other, is the firm of William Underwood Co., whom we welcome to our columns of Who's Who today, and their capable, co-operating Manager, Ernest Quinn. Underwood's "Seal of Quality" on sardines, codfish cakes, clam chowder and other products has described them accurately for over a century. They have plants at McKinley, West Jonesport and Rockland—this home plant being the gateway for practically everything that goes to or comes from other plants, including olive oil, cotton seed oil, tomato sauce, mustard sauce, cans, packing cases and other requirements. William Underwood Co. operates some of the finest searchlight equipped boats in the sardine business. Their snow-white Rockland plant is a gem in operation facilities, embracing a minimum of effort and a maximum of efficiency for the 125 or more on its payroll when it's operating and you never can tell how soon they'll start their welcome morning whistle. Friendly Ernest Quinn has been plant manager since 1931; in the sardine business 28 years; has around 20 people busy all the time. Irving and Merton, his hustling sons, are Dad's right hand men around the place. Machias is where "Ernest" first played leap-frog; "newbie" on a busy corner earned his first dollar; his biggest temptation is fishing. You never waste time when you talk to him, because he's a whole university in common sense.

Phone 970 and ask: When was this business established?

LAWRENCE MILLER

★★★★ PEOPLE living in Rockland district, when they think of Used Cars, think first of only one concern—Miller's Garage on Rankin street. In every city these days you will find at least one firm of this kind, and its owner has been the means of making people happy as well as contented, saving the public thousands of dollars. When Benjamin Miller started this business in 1920, he decided there should be a definite benefit in it for everyone he served, and today, more Used Cars are waiting new owners here than you will find anywhere this side of Portland. They are reconditioned; you are given straight-forward facts, and back of your "buy" is a name that has always stood for the squarest kind of square deal. "Larry" had his first he-man haircut in Rockland; biggest round silver dollar ever earned came out of a drug store; "let's go fishing" are his three choicest words with a lake thrown in. Member of "Forty Club" and Mason. Would let his dinner get cold rather than keep you waiting; would give you the front page of the paper to read first Sunday morning—while he reads the funnies, and what he can do to a broiled tenderloin steak is nobody's business. He has some dandy retreat tires, real money savers for your car and truck, too. In fact—he just likes to save you money, and that's the one big reason why everyone appreciates Miller's Garage.

Phone 692-M and ask: How many reconditioned cars has he in stock?

SANFORD E. WELT

★★★★ I was Michael Angelo who said, "Trifles make perfection but perfection is no trifle." Today we have an exponent of this philosophy among our "People You Should Know"—Sanford E. Welt, 362 Main street, whose business is making and repairing violins. He loves these instruments, lives with them, caresses them in his careful handling of the delicate parts that send out divine strains of harmony for humanity to enjoy. From many States people send him their violins; the bow of one there for repair alone was worth a couple of hundred dollars. Students from Bok School of Music; artists from Samoset Orchestra; vacationing violinists, all know S. E. Welt, the genius on "fiddles." When he doesn't feel like working on "fiddles," he makes boats—and they're good, too. "Sanford" is a joy to know. Not a boast in his system, but could be. Could put seven holes in a special delivery stamp with his revolver while you draw your breath; throw a dart or tomahawk and beat a bunch of medallists without half trying; first underhand baseball pitcher in Waldoboro and his team never lost a game. In the 47 years lived in Rockland, he never lost a friend. In the same block 42 years and one of the longest doing business on Main street. The words—fine, fair, patient, kind, with a little mischief sprinkled among them, all fit into his word picture, and it's a privilege to bring him closer to everyone in this community today.

Find out: How many violins has he made and how long does it take to make one?

HELEN HYDE CARLSON

★★★★ THE charm of womanhood adds to the joy of living on so many scores that all the adding machines in the world could never arrive at the sum total. Home, business, civic and happiness interests are expertly managed within the realms of her domain, and in this story we are making our bow to Helen Hyde Carlson, owner of The What-Not Gift Shop, 497 Main street, whose ability is certainly entitled to the spotlight of attention because of the reputation she has developed. "Helen" came from the blue heavens over Syracuse, N. Y. Since a little girl in curls she has always been interested in Sunday School and church affairs and was ordained as a Baptist minister and went to China for seven years in missionary welfare. She has been in Maine 19 years and seven years ago was pastor of the Baptist Church at Owl's Head. Today her pulpits are at the Bay View Church and M. E. Church at South Thomaston; member Lady Knox Chapter of D.A.R., and Ministers' Association of Rockland and representative on the National Board W.C.T.U. as a National Evangelist; alumnus of Baptist Missionary Training School and Theological Seminary of Chicago and has had graduate studies both at Chicago University and Columbus University, New York. Her husband was Charles Edward Carlson of Jardine, Matheson Co. of China. She is too dignified to talk about herself, anyway just listening to her talk is a treat to the ear and spirit.

Call and learn: On what date did she open this splendid gift shop?

RONALD MESSER

★★★★ THERE are two highly important points for a man to consider before his car is overhauled. The first point is to assure himself that the man who is going to do the work is a mechanic. The second point is, to convince himself that he can trust the shop to give him an honest accounting for the amount of work that was actually done on the car. Ronald Messer's Garage, 110 Park street, gladly welcomes an investigation on both of these points. It doesn't matter whether it is brakes, ignition, valves, tuning the motor, or "what have you," he'll do the work right and he never overcharges anyone. Ronald was in the garage business with his brother at Union before coming here; has repaired cars at Daytona Beach, Fla. Does a lot of good work on trucks—in fact, this is a favorite stop with the truck drivers. He'll fill your tank with that fast-stepping Texaco gas, and carries A-1 tires. Union is the point where Doc Stork stopped to rest one day, and dropped Ronald. Made the big fortune of $6 for two whole years work in haying. Takes airplanes apart and puts them together again—just for fun. Rebuilt his own plane last winter, and is a licensed pilot. Has hard work to keep his hair combed, but keeps his smile bright and warm without any trouble at all, and he's so alive you just can't talk to him ten minutes without getting pepped up about something or other. Try it and see. Phone 1282 and ask: How many years has he been making cars behave?

MRS. MABEL CROSS

★★★★ MANY interesting, as well as unknown facts are found in this edition of Who's Who. Another story today about Mrs. Mabel Cross, owner of Mabel's Sewing Shop, 380 Main street, who, when a little girl three years old was taught by her mother to make pleats for her dolls. This very day she is making pleats, covering buttons, repairing and altering dresses and coats for human dolls—grown-up women, because that is just what Rockland women are—dolls. This is our story and we are going to stick to it. Menfolk are not neglected in Mabel's Sewing Shop either, (but they're no dolls!) Their pockets are fixed, burned holes beautifully repaired, worn places invisibly mended, coat linings made new, and if a garment doesn't fit, Mrs. Cross and her efficient helpers make it fit. She does good work for the stores, and has been building a fine reputation for her shop since opening it two years ago. "Mabel" came with the sunbeams at Waldoboro. Loves music, flowers, the water and Dame Nature in her varying moods. You don't have to try to like her—you do, right off the bat. She's like a four-leaf clover, bringing you luck through your smartness of appearance. She says—"It pays to look well" and every successful person, man or woman, will agree with her. Our orchids today, to Mabel Cross, who always does her best for you.

Find out: How many are kept busy in her Sewing Shop?

FRANK ROKES

★★★★ MONEY talks, they say, but we heard a man that the only thing he ever heard it articulate plainly was "Good-bye." We know he was not a patron of The Rockland Grain Company, 44 Park street, where Frank Rokes keeps everyone happy. When your money bids you adieu at this friendly place, you are certain of receiving its equivalent in the best feeds the market affords. At least—that's what farmers tell us for miles around—especially those who go in for records, getting most milk, most eggs, finest stock, etc. When they buy Wirthmore Brands, they rest satisfied, because they know there is nothing better. Three mills keep wheels turning and manufacturing these dependable feeds—one at Malden, Mass., one at St. Albans and another at Brattleboro, Vt. New England men operate this New England business for New England farmers. Frank Rokes wouldn't know what to do away from a milling business. Been here five years and for 26 years before that at the old George Hart store. "Stub" flew his first shoe-fly in West Rockport; two dimes a week when he was six were pretty big cash, earned driving cows to pasture; has lost his breath more than once at a horse race. Clarence Merrifield, right-hand man, and hometown 50 years, has been passing out good measure to farmers since 1898, and they both call Wirthmore "The Top." Frank never carries a four-leaf clover for luck—that smile of his is all he needs!

Phone 800 and ask: What's the reason Wirthmore Feeds always win?

FRED I. NYE

★★★★ WHEN you "get used to" a certain type of service, a certain quick recognition, a certain thoroughness in taking care of you—that's the service station you head for when gas is running low, tires getting soft, there's a new squeak somewhere in the "bus," and these are very reasons that have built up the dandy business of Fred I. Nye, at the nifty Socony Service Station on Park at Union street. You honestly get "Friendly Service," and your car gives back to you "Happy Motoring," just as all their national advertising tells you it will. Socony leads—others follow. One thing is certain at this Socony Station, you can bank on Fred Nye giving you exactly what you ask for, because Socony Stations have no substitutes. Fred first heard about Paul Revere's ride in Massachusetts. Shoveled out a snow bank for his first dimes; honest-to-goodness football fan, used to play at New Hampshire University. For years operated his own shoe business at Marblehead. Was with G. A. Lawrence Co. on the fuel oil end of the business here, and has a lot of good friends around this home section, who will be glad to know his new business headquarters. He's a stickler for details; has a big, happy, contagious smile; is a clear sailing member of any party; and in his quiet, efficient manner, makes you go out of your way to find him. There's a welcome for you, Fred Nye, among progressive Rockland folks.

Find out for us: How long has he managed this "Friendly Service" Station?

LITTLE BROWN JUG

Daring Tune To Play At Temperance Meeting, But This Band Dared

(An amusing incident in the history of the first Vinhaven Band, as told to the writer by one of its members.)

The first Vinhaven Band was organized in the fall of 1870 with this membership:

John Webster, E flat Bass
Jesse Forbes, E flat Bass
John L. Ingerson, B flat Bass
Thomas J. Lyons, Baritone
Charles K. Winslow, Tenor
Owen P. Lyons, B flat Cornet
Austin B. Vinal, E flat Cornet
Charles Roberts, B flat Cornet
Wooster S. Vinal, B flat Cornet
Edwin Roberts, B flat Cornet
T. H. Arey, E flat Cornet
Louis Coombs, Alto
Rufus Arey, Alto
William V. Lane, Snare Drum
Charles Lane, Bass Drum
George Webster, Cymbals
Owen P. Lyons was chosen as leader.

The first uniforms worn by this band were short medium blue coats somewhat of the pea jacket order, with plain brass buttons. The caps were of the same material as the coats, both being home made. Dark trousers were worn with the uniforms.

One of the band's first engagements was the furnishing of music at a temperance meeting held at the Union Church with the late Rev. William H. Littlefield presiding. That this engagement was filled while the band was in its swaddling clothes is borne out by the fact that its entire portfolio consisted of but two musical numbers one of which was Yankee Doodle and the other that bibulous melody The Little Brown Jug.

It is reported that the band had been somewhat reluctant about filling the engagement owing to their somewhat limited program but the temperance society, feeling that a band would add considerable moment and zest to the meeting, made such an earnest and eloquent plea that it could not be denied. So on the night of the meeting the temperance group was marched to the church to the soul stirring notes of Yankee Doodle and said meeting was opened to the strains of that same soul stirring melody, but when a little later another selection was called for what to do was the very perplexing question which confronted the band.

True there was the lilting melody The Little Brown Jug which had not as yet been rendered, that little old tune dedicated to the praise of Old John Barleycorn who was a little stirrer himself and who had been in the soul stirring business aeons and aeons before Yankee Doodle had even been foretold.

That The Little Brown Jug was not entirely appropriate for the occasion all the band boys agreed with the possible exception of Charles Roberts with whom the tune was a prime favorite. But there was no time for argument and dilly dallying, the audience was waiting, so the boys took the bull by the horns and lustily played The Little Brown Jug. That this was a daring thing to do nobody will deny who ever knew the Rev. William H. Littlefield that austere, stern visaged old gentleman with the apostolic beard and stentorian voice; the aggressive and persistent foe of the afore mentioned John B. and whose deep rooted religious convictions tolerated not the slightest detour from the straight and narrow path.

The response to the band's efforts was instantaneous, no one in the audience applauding more vigorously than did the Rev. Mr. Littlefield who when the applause had subsided declared he never had heard Yankee Doodle played better. Had Mr. Littlefield recognized that theme song of the temperance society's arch enemy his remarks concerning it would probably have been caustic to say the least but although Mr. Littlefield was a good preacher his musical ear was not so acutely attuned that he was able to tell the two above mentioned melodies one from the other.

It is assumed by the writer that the band played again at the close of the meeting but it is neither recorded nor remembered whether the selection was Yankee Doodle or The Little Brown Jug.

Sidney L. Winslow, Vinhaven, Aug. 6.

THE HAUNTED DISTRICT

Moran Hears Ghostly Voices Over In West End, But Would They Dare?

(From the Lewiston Sun)

It is said to be practically settled that Mayor Robert J. Wiseman of Lewiston will be a candidate in the June primaries 1936, for the Democratic nomination for representative to Congress, from the Second District, opposing the present Congressman from this district, Edward C. Moran, Jr., of Rockland.

There seems to be a growing opposition to Moran, largely because of his attitude toward Governor Brann and his State administration. He has not, it is claimed, appeared to have proper regard for the wishes of the party leaders in his own State, but preferred to show his independence in thought and action. While this attitude may have appealed to some, it evidently has not strengthened his position with Gov. Brann and the latter's friends.

Although there had been rumors for sometime that Moran was not "playing ball" with his home State leaders in a way to promote party harmony, the final break did not come until he disregarded the wishes of Gov. Brann, Representative Hamlin and others, in the matter of a WPA director for Maine.

Since the mention in these columns of Mayor Wiseman as the probable candidate to run against Moran in the primaries next year, the mayor has received many letters from various parts of the district urging him to announce his candidacy and promising him support. Mayor Wiseman has made no public statement touching the question of his candidacy, but is said to have conferred with Gov. Brann and other political friends, and to have expressed his willingness to run if it be the wish of the Second District Democrats.

It is believed that Mayor Wiseman could not only win the nomination, but the election, as he is well known in the district and his friends feel confident he would poll a tremendous vote.

Mayor Wing of Auburn, who it is understood, had practically decided to again seek the Republican nomination for Representative to Congress, if Moran were to have no opposition in his own party, may not run if Mayor Wiseman is a candidate.

AT TEMPLE HEIGHTS

Spiritualists Begin Their Campmeeting Next Thursday, Continuing 10 Days

The 53d annual spiritualist campmeeting of the Temple Heights Spiritualist Association will begin at the Auditorium, Temple Heights next Thursday and continue for the next 10 days. Meetings will be held daily at 10:30, 2:30 and 8 o'clock daylight time.

An unusually good group of lecturers and message-bearers has been secured for the session: George Rogers of Boston, is one of the country's outstanding workers, both in ballot and independent messages, while his lectures are concise and instructive. George MacLroy, also of Boston, is returning to Temple Heights for his second season, having proved an interesting speaker and reliable medium. George Hoxie of Dover-Foxcroft is to be recommended especially for his convincing message work, while Edna Knowlton of Augusta and Nettie Smart of Prospect, both well-known Maine workers, complete the list. Victor Wrenn of Madison is to be soloist again this season with Adelia More of Camden accompanist. Temple Heights is about a mile off Route No. 1, between Camden and Belfast, leaving the State Highway at Saturday Cove or Brown's Corner and is on the shore of Penobscot Bay—a beautiful location.

A SUMMER SHOWER

[For The Courier-Gazette]
Old Mother Earth was parched and dry. Old Sol laughed wickedly on high. The flowers dropped their wilted heads. And vegetables choked in beds. Cats and dogs did snarl and fight. And then crawl off quite out of sight. And men and women, children too, So tired, knew not what to do. But lie around and fuss and say— "This surely is the hottest day!" When to behold a cloud on high. Spread swiftly, till the bright blue sky Is darkened with a sombre pall. The earth and gathered in gloom. While drowsy sounds came from a tomb. Pealed forth bright lightning cross the sky. As rain and hail-stones from on high Fall down to quench the thirsty earth. And frigid the timid, in their mirth. The streets as rivers ran amuck. And those in-doors were sure in luck. List now the thunderous noises cease. Electric flashes soon decrease. The wind calms down to perfect rest. The earth is laved and clean refreshed. Far to the west a bow gleams bright That spans the heavens, all alight. To promise bring of God's true love. To show His power from above. That we His children understand. The earth is His, and that His hand Doth rule His own, and near will cease To bring at last eternal peace. After the tempest, wind and rain God sends His sunshine back again. Elizabeth O. Marsh.

Forest Fires Caused By Careless Campers and Fishermen

A Dangerous Period

August is a bad month for forest fires. The fire hazard is great but with reasonable care there need be no forest fires in Maine this month.

The principal cause of forest fires is CARELESSNESS.

Enjoy your camping and fishing trip in Maine but leave the forests for others to enjoy—don't leave ruin behind you.

Be careful of your cigarettes, cigars, or pipe ashes, and don't leave your camp fire until you KNOW IT IS OUT.
