ROTARY'S GREATEST GATHERING

Rockland Host To Eight Clubs Last Night—
Distinguished Visitors Spoke

The Rockland Rotary Club last night played host to the largest service club gathering ever held in this section of the State, the local club attending in body, together with many visitors from the Bangor, Belfast, Camden, Damariscotta-Newcastle, Brunswick, Bath, Augusta and Gardiner Clubs. More than 200 sat down to the delicious chicken supper served by the women of the Congregational Church, and the auditorium was practically filled when the after-dinner exercises were held.

The occasion was planned by District Governor Alan L. Bird in honor

James Kent, president of the Rockland Club, called upon F. A. Winslow, who had been designated to extend the greetings of the Rockland Lions Club. Mr. Winslow told of the strong friendly spirit which had always characterized the relations of the two Rockland Clubs.

President Jim then introduced Governor Ed. Harding, and the presidents of the visiting clubs all of whom were accorded a welcome of much cordiality.

"One's eyesight as well as his mentality would be failing if he did not recognize the high type of this gathering," said District Governor Bird as he assumed charge of the speaking program. "Rotary," he said, "fosters fellowship, which in turn fosters citizenship. It takes a man out of himself and teaches him that there are other things besides one's personal self." The audience enjoyed Governor Bird's introduction of Gov. Brann, whom he had known in their old college days as "Dick."

"I thought Alan was making a nominating speech," said His Excellency, after acknowledging the Rotarian welcome. "I believe we are the only living Governors from the University of Maine," he added, citing an exception which is "off the record."

Referring to the guest of honor, Mr. Squire, Gov. Brann said he believed the eastern international director would eventually become enlisted with that galaxy of famous men who summer in Maine, and whose names sound like "Who's Who in America."

Gov. Brann spoke of the gorgeous and almost unparalleled October which Maine has enjoyed, and expressed the belief that Maine has a destiny not to be compared with that of any other State. "We have a duty and responsibility to develop Maine as a recreational center," he declared.

He voiced the satisfaction of all Americans that they live in a peaceful land, not surrounded by belligerent nations. The efforts of Rotary help maintain this peaceful relationship, he said.

And then he made a statement of much significance in view of a recent controversy.

"I may be old fashioned," said Gov. Brann, "but I still believe in the Constitution of the United States. I believe it is a foundational instrument

"Rotary teaches a man that there are other things besides one's personal self," said District Governor Alan L. Bird of a visit from Amos O. Squire, eastern international director. Lending further distinction to the brilliant affair was the presence of His Excellency, Gov. Louis J. Brann, an honorary member of the Rotary organization. The speechmaking was confined to Gov. Brann and Mr. Squire, who were delightfully presented by District Governor Bird.

A blazing arrow across Main street pointed the way to the Congregational vestry, over the entrance to which glared the red-globed word "Greetings."

Through this entrance from 5.30 to 6.30 passed a steady succession of Rotarians, with their ladies and other guests—all glad to exchange the outside deluge for the cordial welcome which awaited them within.

The vestry became a scene of merriment when the throng seated itself for supper, and following that most satisfactory repast was the songfest so dear to the heart of all men who belong to service clubs. Under the direction of the various song-leaders popular ballads were rendered, one daring leader going as far back as "Annie Rooney." A "hand" for the ladies was not overlooked.

A pleasing feature in connection with the supper festivities was the presentation of a handsome compact to the wife of Gov. Brann. This was gracefully done on behalf of the Rockland Rotary Club and ladies by Mrs. Alan L. Bird, wife of the district governor.

When the gathering was assembled in the auditorium of the church Dr.

"Get rid of alien criminals," said International Director Amos O. Squire of the Government, and I believe in its maintenance in the present form. The statement was greeted with an ovation.

In presenting International Director Squire, Governor Bird told of the satisfaction it had given him in Mexico City to cast the vote of his district for Mr. Squire.

A HARNESS FOR THE TIDES

What One Sees Down Around Eastport Where the Work Is In Progress

(By The Roving Reporter)

When I made my first visit there a year ago they spoke of it as Eastport, the Jumping Off Place; when I went there last Sunday it was called the Quoddy Project, and with nearly 3000 men at work it was far more suggestive of "the jumping on place."

To the casual observer there is not much difference, if you except the Rice Hill community where great quantities of lumber are being converted into frame buildings which will constitute almost a new city; and other localities where large barracks are already occupied by the horde of newcomers to the United States easternmost city. Out in Passamaquoddy Bay the preliminary steps have already been taken for the construction of the huge dam which is to be such a potent factor in the harnessing of the tides.

I was told that more than half a million dollars has been expended in the way of cash disbursements and that the total amount of obligations to date is nearly $1,500,000. The weekly payroll is already nearing the $60,000 mark.

Dumping Millions Into Sea

Col. Fleming has taken that step which is known as the first essential, the mapping of complete plans for the exploratory work. These have been concurred in by four civilian consulting engineers, and are now in the hand of Gen. Markham, chief of the Army Engineering Bureau in Washington.

During the next three years $10,000,000 will be dumped into this vast engineering project and out of that expenditure will have come the seven mile dam, a third storage pool and a model power plant. Dexter Cooper who mapped this all out in his fertile mind years ago, will have the satisfaction of seeing his dream realized. Whether he will live long enough to see it become a paying proposition is a matter on which able minds are not agreeing, but it suffices for the present that Eastport and Lubec are to be great hives of industry, and that now and then a slice of Uncle Sam's big expenditure may drift toward Knox County I have already noted how the Bicknell Manufacturing Co. has landed some moderately good sized contracts, and in common with everybody else down this way I hope to see vapor arising from both of the Lawrence Portland Cement Company's stacks, instead of one, another year.

There are strange looking machines in the bay and on the land, all covering important assignments these days. And they say that 35 States and pretty much all of Canada have representatives among the workers. Many of these workers own their own cars, and Eastport viewed from several angles looks like an outdoor garage. "Tourists accommodated," is a sign conspicuous by its absence, for everybody who has a room to let finds half a dozen applicants for it.

The average workman packs a good appetite, and down around Quoddy where the salt breeze blows off several thousand miles of briny sea they cultivate a hankering for food that is almost scandalous. And here is what they set before them at the various mess-houses.

Matching Rugged Appetites

Sunday breakfast, oranges, oatmeal, fried eggs, baked beans, coffee, muffins, bread and butter.

Sunday dinner, barley soup, baked smoked ham, hash brown potatoes, peas and beans, vegetable salad, raisin pie, coffee, pineapple sauce, bread and butter.

Sunday supper, baked beans, diced carrots, catsup, sliced onions, peaches tea, bread and butter.

Week-day breakfast, mixed fruit, boiled rice, egg and ham omelet, mashed potatoes, coffee, bread and butter.

Week-day dinner, Irish stew, boiled potatoes, carrots and onions, cabbage and beets, pickled beets, spice cake, coffee, bread and butter.

Week-day supper, macaroni and cheese, hash, stewed corn, vegetable salad, pears, tea, bread and butter.

Second helpings are the order at any and all times. The plates are filled from the kitchen then an extra supply placed on the table in a big dish for the men to help themselves. Butter is used plentifully. Fifty-six dozen eggs were used at breakfast one day this week. Ten pounds of butter per meal. Plenty of meat—roasts that come out of those ovens just as succulent as any housekeeper could produce. And all this cooked and served in quantity that supplies 256 hungry men each meal, with the number steadily growing.

Down Along the Coast

And while on the subject of Megunticook Lake here's a fair question: "How many can tell where Norton's Pond is located? I have been going by it a great many years without ever knowing that it is not a part of Megunticook Lake.

Observing the trees nearly denuded of their foliage I was led to wonder if as many boys now go after acorns and beechnuts as used to. I once knew where there was a whole flock of beechnut trees in Lindsey Grove.

Overnight cabins look as desolate as a baseball field in winter. Down near Sullivan we saw "Sue's Ol' Cur-osity Shop" and nearing Steuben there is a sign which reads "Steuben Inn; a Nice Place Full of Nice People." The Evergreen Cemetery at Millbridge attracts attention, as does the old covered bridge at Cherryfield. At Machias a miniature airplane carries a sign advertising Short Wave Radio Station W11UG. The proprietor's brother said that he talked with lots of Knox County short wavers.

Meeting a Townsman

Out of East Machias quite a stretch of highway construction is underway. Whiting shows surprising little evidence of last summer's big fire. A sign reads: "Lubec, Site of Quoddy Dam, and Easternmost Point of United States." More road construction beyond Whiting. Within 10 miles of Eastport we met Earle McIntosh and party, and there was a great honking of horns as the two cars saluted each other.

Some persons are under the impression that the city of Eastport is not an easy place to get into on account of traffic congestion, but though Sunday was a perfect day for motoring, there was nothing unusual about the amount of travel, except that we saw cars from all corners of the United States, and we saw quite a few which the owners had neglected to give an opportune or suitable burial.

We drove straight through the city to the docks to see what a low tide looks like at Eastport. But the tide had ceased being low and all we saw was a lot of wet spilling which looked as though it had been suffering from rheumatism. In the harbor riding listlessly at anchor were half a dozen sailing vessels which look desolate enough now, but which may find other halcyon days when the Quoddy Project gets into high. One proprietor who knows Santa Claus when he meets him has named his hotel the "New Deal House." May be a poker joint for all I know. You can't tell much about titles nowadays.

Workers From Everywhere

The omnipresent COC has a home here, but the camp found its nose out of joint when the government chaps came in and built Quoddy barracks that made the Triple C quarters look like the diner cars you see on so many streets.

There are strange looking machines in the bay and on the land, all covering important assignments these days. And they say that 35 States and pretty much all of Canada have representatives among the workers. Many of these workers own their own cars, and Eastport viewed from several angles looks like an outdoor garage. ## REVOKED MANY REQUESTS

Lucy Farnsworth Will An Interesting Document
—It Will Be Contested

Information from an authoritative source comes to The Courier-Gazette this morning that the will of the late Lucy C. Farnsworth will be contested by relatives whose names do not appear in the document. Such action had been expected from the moment that the contents became known.

That Miss Lucy C. Farnsworth, reputed millionaire recluse, experienced a change of heart after making her will 16 years ago, was demonstrated yesterday with filing of the will and codicil in Knox County Probate Court when it was found that more than a score of the original articles had been revoked.

Only four individual bequests were made, the beneficiaries being cousins, Hannah H. B. Thomas of Bath, formerly of Boston; Flora Sprague Carney of Sheepscot, William Sprague of Waldoboro and Gladys Genthner Benner of Portland, Ore. Each is to receive $1000.

The remainder of the estate, real and personal is left in trust to the Boston Safe Deposit & Trust Company, which as executor of the will is directed to establish at the corner of Main and Elm streets in this city a three story building to cost approximately $75,000, to be used for business purposes and to contain a public library and art gallery.

This building is to have a Main street frontage of 100 feet and extending 100 feet in the rear. The first floor and basement are to be used for stores, the second floor for offices, with a public library in the rear rooms; and the third floor for a hall.

The net proceeds of the stores, offices and hall are to be used for the maintenance of the library and art gallery and the William A. Farnsworth homestead.

It is directed that the library be open on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays or oftener at the discretion of the trustees. The books are not to be removed from the library. The building is to be designated the "W. A. Farnsworth Memorial Building and Library," the title to be placed upon it in appropriate manner. After the completion of the building the grounds are to be graded to those of the William A. Farnsworth homestead lot, including the Spring street lot, each to receive the same care and attention. The building now standing at the corner of Main and Elm streets is to be moved to the lot on Spring street.

The clause relating to the Farnsworth homestead reads: "Believing that the preservation of the homestead, together with the contents would be of educational value to the public, as an example of a home of the present period, the trustees are to put said house and all of the buildings in good repair and keep said house and contents without any change in the general appearance and arrangement."

"Said house and contents would be held for the use of the public, subject to conditions and such other regulations as the trustees may provide. The house is not to be occupied by any persons. Every part of the house is to be put in order, and remain as it was when occupied by my family."

"The family jewelry, silverware, cut glass and lace are to be placed in glass cases when the building is open to the public inspection; at other times to be kept in safe deposit boxes. "The building is to be open four times a year to the public, the first Wednesdays of June, July, August and September, from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. on each of said days.

The house must be in charge of trustworthy persons on the opening days, the parlor to be roped off and "the carpets in front hall and two front chambers to be covered. There is to be an admission fee of $1 to pay in part the maintenance expenses. The grounds are to be kept in good condition and flowers are to be grown on the grounds in summer."

The first rear room in the third story of the W. A. Farnsworth Memorial Building, 431 to 439 inclusive is to be put in condition for an art gallery, and the approach to the third story is to be a wide stairway. Portraits of Miss Farnsworth's father, William A. Farnsworth, and her brother, James R. Farnsworth, done in oils at a cost not to exceed $1000, are to be hung in the art gallery. Paintings and statuary are to be placed in the gallery from time to time, as the trustees may have funds.

The will directs that the art gallery be open in the summer months at designated hours.

Believing that real estate investments are safest, Miss Farnsworth provides in the will that the investments made in her lifetime be not changed and that if any building is destroyed, it must be replaced and kept in suitable condition. Specific instructions are left that the quarry and limekiln property belonging to the estate be sold as a whole and at a price not less than $250,000.

Any income not otherwise disposed of be applied to the maintenance of the library, art gallery and the Farnsworth homestead.

The trustee, subject to the approval of Probate Court shall receive a reasonable and fair compensation, and the trustee is authorized to expend additional sums, if they are needed, to complete the buildings mentioned.

The deceased provided for her burial in the private Farnsworth lot on Pleasant street and removal of the bodies of her parents, brother and sisters thereto. To the city is bequeathed in trust the sum of $10,000 for the perpetual care of this cemetery. $100 to be expended each Memorial Day for flowers to be placed equally on the lots. The lots are to be covered with brush during the winter. A bequest of $100 is made for the placing of a tablet on the Charles A. Rollins lot in the Thomaston cemetery, like the one at the grave of James R. Farnsworth.

The original will was drawn April 10, 1919 and witnessed by A. S. Baker, Lillian M. Baker, and C. C. Cross. The codicil was drawn Sept. 7, 1934, and witnessed by Francis Orne, Ruth M. Patterson and Albertina E. Benner.

Probate Judge Crawford of Camden last night appointed the Boston Safe Deposit and Trust Company as special administrator until the executor of the will is appointed and qualified. The special administrator is required to furnish a bond in the sum of $500,000.

TREASURES OF THE DEEP

In the ocean's green depths, 'neath the dark rolling wave,
Where the mermaid and sea-monster dwell;
In the deep, secret caverns, oft cleansed by its lave,
Are treasures more prized than the mountain ere gave,
Fast sealed 'neath the billowy swell.

Not treasures of earth, such as fortune oft gives,
Or in its wild freaks takes away;
For which the charmed miser in penury lives,
For which the lone beggar in misery grieves,
As he passes wealth's dazzling array.

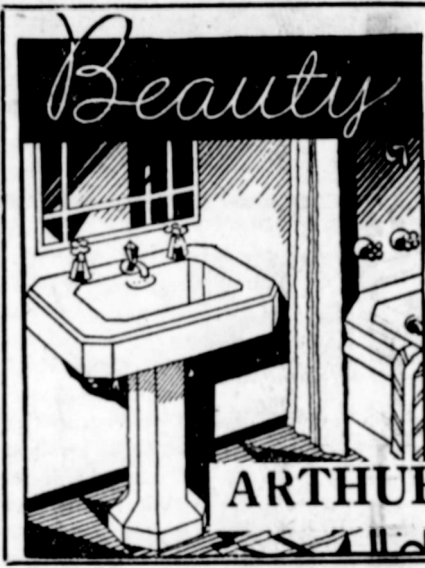

But treasures more valued than aught else of earth,
Are garnered and stored 'neath the main;
The triumphs of fate, the cold harvest of death,
Alike strew the deep, and the wild broken health,
With treasures man ne'er can regain.

And what are these treasures? Go ask the white surge,
As it writhes on its storm-driven bed;
Go ask the fierce tempest, the ocean's wild surge,
The winds that rehearse the lost mariner's dirge,
The requiem song of the dead.

They tell thee of prospects once cherished and bright,
Ere the storm-king in wrath hurried on;
They tell thee of hopes they have risen to blight,
Of glad, joyous days, they have changed
And shrieked o'er the trophies they won.

Beneath the dark billows their victims now sleep,
And the tempests, unheeded, pass by;
Ye wide-spreading waters your treasures yet keep,
Till the trumpet shall summon the hosts of the deep,
And eternity dawn from on high!

ADVERTISING MAINE

There will be no difference of opinion as to the movement in hand to advertise Maine. The value of an organized form of publicity, having for its background Maine in its recreational aspects alone, can scarcely be over-emphasized. The season lately ended has been marked by such an increase in visitation as suggests the possibilities of a steadily growing tide, which advertising properly addressed cannot fail to bring to pass. The merits of this form of publicity are clearly understood by other States with goods to offer, which are making great use of it—those of the South, across country to the Pacific, even far down into the South Seas—from all of them you find in your mail beautifully printed matter that beckons you to come. None of these regions can surpass New England in its summer months—a coterie of States among which Maine with its manifold advantages stands supreme. By all means let us present its merits to a receptive world. The dollars spent in such publicity will be one of the best paying investments our people could possibly make.

CUT IN THE MIDDLE

The abrupt slicing in two of the Quoddy project allotment may be significant of nothing in particular to happen later. And again, it may. When a 10,000,000 dollar gift horse finds himself cut square in two he naturally lifts a head out of the crib and wonders what about it. It is true that a good deal can be done with five million dollars, but a good deal more with twice that sum. Perhaps the Administration figures that the five millions is enough to fix Maine's 1936 election. So why not economize.

THE PERILS OF SINGING

We are prone to think upon the singer of renown as bowing over the footlights to the joyous throng whose plaudits are shaking the rafters overhead. This, and in numberless other situations touched with the high lights of social life and financial details set down in the largest figures. But there are things to annoy even in so exalted sphere of achievement. Such, to illustrate, as is now complained of by our Maine Festival favorite, Lawrence Tibbett, grand opera and radio baritone, who charges that his fashionable New York apartment neighbors have installed a maid to shriek and yell at such times as he is doing his practicing and letting that tremendous voice of his float out of window. There is a fight on between artist and neighbors. We are for Lawrence. We don't believe there ever existed a maid with a voice that could hold a candle to the magnificent tones with which our artist brings the huge assembly vociferating to its feet.

THE HUNTING PERIOD

Already the shooting season presents its story to the front page. An old, old story for much of the way, long familiar and apparently impossible to do without. Nobody questions the declared purpose of the sportsman to avoid every movement that can possibly have any association with danger; but in spite of it all, the hunter of widest experience seems to stand equally with the neophyte in the line of accident that fits him for death or the hospital.

ON JOINING CLUBS

One thinks of vanity as a quality to be deplored and upon no account indulged in. Yet we are all of us susceptible. That is why one finds it difficult to decline when he is signalled out for membership in anything—a lodge of one sort or another—their name is legion and even more—and there is the local service club; some of us get in and some of us don't, because the membership list is limited. Or maybe our capacity is that way. One never can guess. These reflections arise out of the mails which have just deposited on the desk a signed letter from the secretary. It reads:

"Dear Sir: I have the honor of advising you that the Membership Committee extends you a cordial invitation to become a member of the National Geographic Society."

It is a pleasing form of approach. The recipient (there are millions of them) feels at once that he has been selected for an honor that is not to be lightly ignored. On looking further he notes that there is no initiation fee; that pleases him; and that the annual dues are only $3.00; or $100 will make him a member for life, which on the whole is quite reasonable. And the magazine comes regularly without charge. If constitutionally he's a joiner he finds it difficult to resist the kindly and doubtless well intentioned invitation.

It's a clever bit of psychology the Geographic has worked into its subscription list. We wish we'd thought of it first.

Request For Dredging Operations Is Going Through Government Channels

Joshua N. Southard, commodore of the Rockland Community Yacht Club, has been in receipt of so many requests for information concerning the dredging of Rockland harbor that he took the matter up with the War Department and learns that the matter is going through the complicated channels at Washington, with the promise of a report to Mr. Southard as soon as the board has arrived at a decision in the matter. Commodore Southard's letter comes from Capt. Lucius D. Clay of the Corps of Engineers, and follows:

"I am in receipt of your letter of Oct. 14, requesting to be advised if action has been taken to dredge Rockland Harbor, Maine."

"The Committee on Rivers and Harbors of the House of Representatives, by resolution of June 3, 1935, requested that a review be made of previous reports on Rockland Harbor, with a view to determining whether any further improvement of the harbor is advisable at the present time. The necessary investigations have been in progress under the direction of the Division Engineer, North Atlantic Division, Col. G. R. Lukesh, and the District Engineer at Boston, Col. John J. Kingman, and their report will be submitted to this office for study by the Board of Engineers in the near future. The report, when reviewed by the Board, will be transmitted to the Committee with the recommendations of the Chief of Engineers."

"I shall be pleased to advise you as to the recommendations of the Department when the review has been concluded."

Rockland Boy Slated For State Series Is Out of the Maine Lineup

After watching Maine's two past encounters from the sidelines because of a knee injury, Francis McAlary, veteran right end, got his first taste of contact work in three weeks Tuesday and within a minute from the time the dummy scrimmage began, he was being carried to the training room. His knee injured again.

McAlary is the heaviest man on the Maine team, one of the tallest and fastest for his weight, and his re-injury is a severe blow. It will probably be McAlary's last time in uniform for the Bears.

Seth Williams, stocky Augusta junior, was moved up to fill McAlary's position and it is likely that he will alternate with Ted Harding, Arlington, Mass., sophomore, at that position.

At Rockland Athletic Club Friday Night—Read the List

The latest boxing bill, with Oliver Hamlin's good natured phiz serving as trade mark, seems to offer another good menu for the ringside devotees.

At the mast-head rides the name of Penzi Cochran, Knox County's foremost white hope, who has been manipulating the gloves so consistently the present season. Hamlin says that Penzi will face his hardest test tomorrow night when he goes against Johnny Lawless, who is coming all the way down from Millisheket to see if the Thomaston boy is what they say he is. Lawless doesn't actually carry a piece of pig-iron in his glove, but it feels that way when he hits.

Walter Reynolds, the Pine Tree choco-choo, will steam out of his corner in the semi-final for a head-on collision with Henry La Grasse. The boy with the pompadour can stand lots of grief, and La Grasse promises to administer it.

The top prelim brings together the new sensation, Tarzan Marriner and Axel Elliott of Bangor, who doesn't care what kind of buzz saw he monkeys with. Jabber Hastings, the Triple C champ, looking toward Hendricks of Camden, will meet K. O. Dyer of Franklin, and Gene Staples of the Camden Triple C camp will fight Jim Gorman of Brewer.

The Incident Of The Tape and Boots Keizer's Refusal To Fight

To The Sports Editor:—In answer to Boots Keizer's story I want to state that I don't mind being criticised and I am always open for suggestions to better my boxing exhibitions but the article Keizer or some friend of his wrote is not the whole truth.

Ten minutes before the show was to begin Keizer asked me if I had some tape for him hands, and I said "no, the boys are furnishing their own this year as last year I only paid the prelim boys $3 and bought their tape, and that this year the fighters were getting $5.00 and furnishing their own tape." He said he guessed he would not fight. I offered to buy it, as he says in his article, but he never offered to pay for it. I told him that if he had rather get $3 and I buy the tape I would do it as $2 would buy a lot. It only takes 20 cents' worth instead of the 35 cents worth he spoke of. He walked away and I asked Young Robinson of Thomaston if he would fill in in place of Keizer. He got his tape and trunks and went on and earned his $5. I want to thank Robinson for his prompt action. I also want the fans and boxers alike to know that I am running these fights on a business basis of no fight no pay and that the fans will get honest fights as long as I have anything to do with them. I also want to say that I never put a boxer on my card without first asking him whether he was willing or not and Keizer has got me mixed up with other promoters who have put shows on in the past as I never used his name in my life without first asking him and it took him three weeks to tell me he would go on with Collins. I hold no feelings against Keizer and think him a great boy and a good little fighter. I do not think he is easy or soft pickings but as I have said these shows are on a business basis and Keizer and the person that wrote that article owe me an apology to my way of thinking. Oliver R. Hamlin connected with the affairs of Sing Sing prison as chief physician, and later as consulting physician, drew his text from the lessons there learned, and advocated that groups of service clubs interest themselves in the boys of today, hoping that they may not be the delinquents of tomorrow. A large percentage of the crimes are now committed by boys of 19; 10 years from now it may be the boys of 13. We should all try to lessen this terrible toll.

He told of disrespect for the laws because there are too many of them, and unenforceable ones. United States, he said, has more laws than any five European countries combined. It would be better if we had few laws, better laws, and better enforced laws.

Motion pictures should be clean and wholesome, said the speaker, as opposed to blood and thunder. "Some people blame the war," said Mr. Squire, "but I have told you that the average age of criminals is but 23, and as they would have been only 5 years old when the war ended all they know about it is what they read, or have been told about."

The theory that left-handed boys are more likely to become crooks than right-handed boys was considered, and the speaker told of the many letters he had received on that subject. He answered one of them by saying that the writer was left-handed, and he found that only 4 percent of the criminals at Sing Sing were left-handed. He told of the clever young forger who could imitate any person's signature by merely glancing at the signature 10 seconds.

Mr. Squire analyzed humorously and seriously the vocations of men in prison, and wondered why lawyers go to prison when there are so many legal ways of being dishonest. Thought more plumbers should be there.

Mr. Squire became not only serious but severe when he charged that we should get rid of our alien criminals, and denounced the diabolical crime with which Hauptmann is charged. A kidnaper, he said, is always the most unpopular man in a prison. The speaker said he would report forthwith with alien criminals; and he would give a chance to the boy or girl who had committed a first offense.

Declaring that Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts are the hope of the future, he advocated that Rotarians get behind them as Rotarians.

"President Jim" Kent concluded the meeting by graciously thanking the distinguished guests who had helped make it so successful. The occasion goes down as a red letter event in his administration.

ROCKLAND LIONS

Sleight o' Hand Man Pinch Hits For Speaker Who Did Not Materialize

Kenneth Fuller Lee who was scheduled to be guest speaker at yesterday's luncheon of the Rockland Lions Club, was unable to attend, but the committee found a most successful pinch hitter in William A. Bell, a dealer in barber supplies, who is known all over New England for his cleverness with card tricks and other sleight of hand performances. Using well known members of the club as his assistants (and goats) he gave a half-hour entertainment that left the Lions popped and hysterical with laughter.

Another feature at yesterday's meeting was the initiation of three new members, Parker E. Worrey and Chester Black doing the honors after Paul Danforth, international representative had explained the prominence of Lions International in the service club world. America the Lions have the largest number of clubs, as well as the largest membership. There is a club in each of the United States and a fine representation in foreign countries. Two new clubs have recently been organized in the Republic of Panama. The new members admitted were Dr. George W. Pullen, E. A. (Daniel) Boone and Arthur W. (Dot) Doherty.

The attendance contest is going ahead in fine style with Team 2 leading Team 1, and Team 4, leading Team 3. It was voted to postpone "Charter Night" which was to have been observed Nov. 13, in order to attend a joint session which is to be held at the C.C.C. camps in Camden that night.

Did any garden in Knox County produce tall hollyhocks this season? Competition is becoming keener throughout the county. A Brooklyn, N. Y., gardener, Henry F. Hasse, has a stalk in his back yard which measures 12 feet, 7 inches, and his claim overshadows that of Mrs. Emma Grass of Linton, Ind., who recently reported she had a hollyhock stalk 11 feet, 6 inches in height. The Maine champion hollyhock, grown by Harriet Gilman of Old Orchard, stands 13 feet, and is still in bloom.

"Alan Bird's cottage is all afire," cried an excited voice over Central Fire Station telephone at 5:30 Tuesday night and the three big trucks thundered screaming toward the flame-lit western sky, bent on salvaging if possible the beautiful summer home on Dodge Mountain. A few minutes later the trucks came creeping shamefully back to their quarters, for the threatening blaze had been a slash fire in front of the cottage, yet appearance had certainly been deceiving. The burner of the slash was highly embarrassed at the attentions showered on him and agreed to notify the station before he had any more spectacular bonfires.

When King Solomon's Temple Chapter has its Past High Priest's night, tonight, the members will first fortify themselves with one of Alfred Church's chicken suppers, and if it is as good as the turkey supper furnished at the recent Claremont Commandery inspection, we will be able to afterward use that familiar phrase which the fun-pokers so delight to use—"a good time was had by all." Primarily Mr. Church was engaged as janitor of Masonic Temple, but it did not take the Masonic Fraternity long to find that he had a versatile complex, and that among other things he was an excellent caterer. Mr. Church handles the kitchen end of the show, and wisely leaves the dining room to those highly trained Eastern Stars. Modestly he would give them all the credit, but in the bestowing of compliments the janitor-chef is never forgotten.

Special radio features tonight: 8:30 to 9, Everett Marshall will sing the best songs from "Porgy and Bess," the new Gershwin-Heyward opera; 9:30 President Roosevelt will address the people of this country in behalf of the 1935 "Mobilization for Human Needs" program; Friday, 3 to 3:30 p. m., a Mark Twain broadcast with the presence of Miss Nina Gabrielowitch, Mark Twain's only granddaughter. Mary Eastman will again be heard from 10:45 to 11 p. m. and on Saturday 9 to 9:30 Nino Martini, noted opera, film and radio star, will be heard in songs on the Chesterfield program.

LET KIDNEYS FLUSH OUT 3 LBS. A DAY

Clean Out 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes

Nature put over 15 miles of tiny tubes and filters in your kidneys to strain the waste matter out of the blood. Kidneys should pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter.

When the passing of water is scanty, with smarting and burning, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your body may take up some of these poisons causing serious trouble. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, which have been used successfully by millions of people for over 40 years. They give happy relief and help the kidneys to flush out 3 pounds a day. Insist on Doan's Pills.

ORIGIN OF THORNS

(For The Courier-Gazette)
Life gives protection to each pair of wings.

It weaves a prickly coat for tiny seeds, And arms the world of mammals as it needs.

While souls are slain through lame mangleirings, Our opening hearts are like the flower that brings

A love that drifts like perfume on the meads, Till innocence is wounded on the reeds

Of sin that stab the songster as he sings.

The name of Rose is known in every land, That sacred word lives close to every heart.

A lovely thing like this could not withstand, The covetous grasp. Divine the ministering art

That sent the thorn to save the thing sublime! Sarah Norton McCullagh, Rockport, Oct. 1935

Higher and thither they lit on the ground, Then away they flew with a rustling sound.

Right Out Of The Air

By R F SERVICE

Credit "Vanished Voices," written by Clyde North and directed by Clark Andrews, with being one of the most original radio ideas of the fall season. On each program—twice weekly over CBS—Professor Allen, played by Bennett Kilpack, turns a wheel and brings back some famous scene from history. It's worth hearing—and Lee Patrick, Broadway stage star, is heard on many of the programs.

Lee Patrick

***Lawrence Tibbett is one of radio's greatest hosts personally, and since he has taken to adding guest stars to his Tuesday night programs over CBS, he adds the title of "radio host" to his name as well.

***The Revelers are in Paris. The famous quartette sailed early in October and will tour France, Italy, England and perhaps Spain.

***If one were asked to name the five foremost living composers, Sigmond Romberg and Deems Taylor could hardly be omitted. And it so happens that the two are mentioned as the only ones in the group heard regularly on the networks. Each Tuesday evening Romberg and Taylor air their "Studio Parties" and critics have voted it a place high in the top flight of the broadcasters' musical menu. "Rommy" conducts his 45-piece orchestra and Deems handles the important role of commentator.

***Fifty-one radio actors tried out for the part and Ned Wever landed it. It is his rich voice that is heard along with Helen Hayes in her gripping radio series, "The New Penny," Tuesdays over NBC.

***"Doc" says I can't make it. Have Pop carry on," wired John Mills, Jr., from a New York hospital just prior to the Campus Revue premiere. So John Mills, Sr., who had coached his sons into world-wide fame, joined the Mills Brothers quartet on those Friday evening broadcasts over NBC. "Pop" program.

***Radio's most famous romance led Ozzie Nelson and Harriet Hillard to the altar, and now the popular young Sunday evening network stars are "mister and missus." You hear Ozzie's band on that Bob "Believe It or Not" Ripley program.

Mills looks much younger than his 43 years and strikingly like his son.

***Tab as the young man who'll do the most blossoming out in 1935

a youth named Frank Parker. After two years with the Revelers and the Gypsies, Frank became a stellar comedian with Jack Benny and now he's star of his own program, Saturdays over CBS. On top of that, the movie, "Sweet Surrender," in which he was starred, is just beginning to be shown in theaters.

***Franchot Tone sat in on all of Joan Crawford's Radio Theatre rehearsals when she did "Within The Law" on this popular Monday evening CBS program. Joan insisted on five full days of rehearsal. The Radio Theatre series was the only one which Joan Crawford would do on her trip to New York, although she received a dozen offers.

***Peter Van Steeden, maestro on "Town Hall Tonight," got his start as an amateur back in 1923 with a band at a New York theater. That's why he's so kindly disposed to all the amateurs on his programs.

***Although Major Bowes doesn't get much chance to hear anything but amateurs, he enjoys dropping into Niela Goodell's studio after his own Sunday evening program. The lovely young singer—pianist also—welcomes Walter Winchell, the ace gossip chatterer, whose programs are air-regularly on the same NBC network as Niela's intimate song recitals.

SWEDEN IS CONTENT

Dr. Leyonborg Found Nation Prosperous—Little Worry Over War

"The people of Sweden seem much happier and content in an economic and industrial way than are the people of this country. The same holds true of Norway, and to a somewhat lesser extent, in France" was the comment yesterday of Dr. Franz Leyonborg of Liberty, long time friend of this newspaper, on his first visit following a two months' stay in his native Sweden.

Dr. Leyonborg was much impressed by the excellent morale and business activities in Norway and Sweden. The people are looking to the future with confidence and are apparently not at all excited over the Italo-Ethiopian situation. Even in France no great uneasiness was manifest.

A warm welcome was accorded the doctor and his daughter Clara at Stockholm. The Leyonborg name is one of high rank in Sweden and a returning son of that line is received in official circles and given what we would call in the vernacular, "the key to the city." Forty years ago it was Lieutenant Leyonborg of the King's Second Regiment, which meant more pleasant contacts for the visitors.

Considerable time was spent attending lectures at his alma mater, The Royal Institute of Medicine and Surgery, with coincident clinics at the neighboring hospital. Miss Clara, who is a teacher at the Westfield (Mass.) Teachers' College, spent this time in learning the Swedish language, a task in which she had such success that she plans to return another year.

An interesting feature in connection with the language idea is the habit of public officials, hotel employees, railroad and other operatives of wearing prominently displayed on their lapels, the flag of the country whose language they speak, hence it is easy to locate a person with whom one may speak English, French Spanish etc.

Like most returned travellers however Dr. Leyonborg is glad to be back in these United States which have been his home for 40 active years. He was located at North Haven for a decade and during that period built up a wide acquaintance in this section.

Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Kenneth P. Lord of Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., accompanied by their son, Herbert, from Bowdoin College, were weekend guests of Mrs. Lord's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Cooper, Limerock street. On their return they were accompanied by Mrs. H. M. Noyes of North Haven for a visit at Fort Ethan Allen.

Among those who came to attend the funeral services of their sister Mrs. William A. Brewster (Constance Pifford) were, Wellington E. Pifford, Northampton, Mass., Winston B. Pifford Cambridge, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Staples Ocean Bluff, Mass. and Mr. and Mrs. Oliver B. Cobb, Katahdin Lake Camps Millinocket.

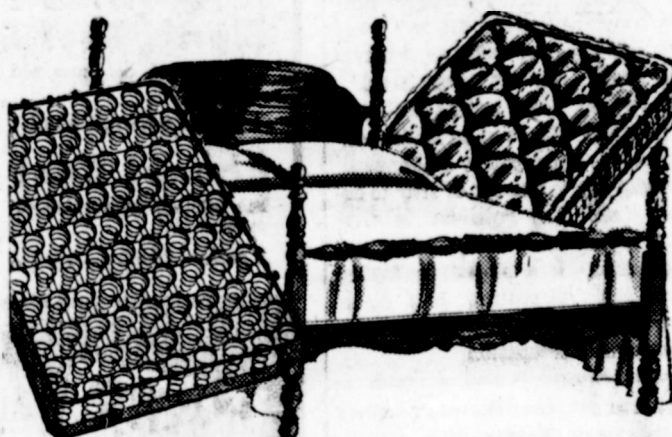

With the announcement that 800 members of the Parent-Teacher Association have been secured to date the hopes of 1000 membership it seems to be realized. Every effort is being made to gain the additional 200 persons needed and any who has been overlooked or not located by one of the solicitors is asked to aid by sending his or her name and 25c membership dues to Mrs. Eva Toner, chairman, or the ward captain. This ambitious goal, never before reached, will assure the carrying out of the milk project. Don't forget the invitation to your membership card to attend meetings every second Monday of the month.

We have just waited on two gentlemen who, 24 hours ago, were in the "no new clothes for me this winter" class.

REVOLUTIONARY PENSIONERS OF KNOX COUNTY, MAINE

By Edward Kallioch Gould, State Historian of Maine
(CHAPTER XLVII.)

William Sever

William Sever, of Vinalhaven, was a private in Capt. Jacob Haskin's Company, Col. John Jacobs' Massachusetts Regiment; enlisted July 2, 1778, served six months and two days at Rhode Island; enlistment to expire Jan. 1, 1779. According to the census of 1790, he was an inhabitant of Vinalhaven without a family.

Ephraim Sheldon

Ephraim Sheldon, of Camden was 68 years old when he applied for a pension, Nov. 8, 1832; he was born at Sandy Bay, Mass., Dec. 10, 1763. When he enlisted he resided at Woolwich, and after the close of the Revolutionary war removed to Lincolnville. From there he removed to Camden about 1826. He enlisted at Arrowsic, in the spring of 1780 as a soldier under Capt. Benjamin Plummer in Col. Samuel McCobb's Regiment, Massachusetts troops, for the term of six months, and marched to Coxes' Head at the mouth of the Kennebec River, and was stationed at the Fort protecting the river from the depredations of the enemy. At the end of his service he was honorably discharged.

He was among the prisoners sent on shore at Sheepscot River and Townsend (Boothbay) Sept. 12, 1777 from H.M.S. Rainbow and certified Nov. 10, 1777, by George Collier as having been liberated by him as there were no selectmen to sign at places above named. Ephraim Sheldon was also a private in Capt. Benjamin Lemont's Co., Col. Samuel McCobb's Massachusetts Regiment; enlisted May 20, 1781, service to Dec. 1, 1781, near Penobscot (Castine). He was a Revolutionary pensioner. The census of 1790 places him in Woolwich with a family of six.

Nathaniel Sheldon

Nathaniel Sheldon, of Isle au Haut, was a private in Capt. Archibald McAllister's Company, Col. Samuel McCobb's Massachusetts Regiment, in the expedition to recapture Castine from the British, serving from July 11 to Sept. 24, 1777. According to the census of 1790 he was an inhabitant of Deer Isle with a family of two. Isle au Haut was then a part of the town of Deer Isle.

Nov. 3, 1787, Nathaniel Sheldon of Isle of "Holt" conveyed for 30 pounds to James Swan of Dorchester, Mass., 100 acres of land on the West side of Isle au Haut, being premises acquired from Seth Webb and Pickering. In Hosmer's Historical Sketch of the Town of Deer Isle, is an account that undoubtedly refers to the subject of this sketch. Fog Island, formerly known as Cutler's Island, lying east of the northern part of Isle au Haut, was once occupied by a man named Cutler, who was drowned in attempting to land cattle from a gundalo about 100 years ago. With him were a Mr. Sheldon with his wife, two sons, a daughter, and one, Hall, a colored man—none of whom escaped.

Mr. Sheldon left one daughter, Mary, who became the wife of John Pressey, 3d, the son of John Pressey Jr. By this union there was at least one son, Henry Pressey, who was lost at sea, and a daughter who married Samuel Howard.

After the death of Mr. Pressey, his widow, (Mary Sheldon) married Nathaniel Merchant of Camp Island, where they resided several years and where he died prior to 1830. Mary married for the third time and became the third wife of Thomas Colby who died in 1837. For her fourth husband Mary married Thomas Cooper of North Haven, Maine. She died about 1859 at the age of 89 years.

Joseph Sherman

Joseph Sherman of Camden was born at Hanover, Mass., Feb. 23, 1757; at the time he enlisted he was living at Marshfield, Mass., and after the close of the Revolutionary war moved to Camden, where he had since lived. He entered on board the transport Delphin as a seaman at Boston in 1778, Peleg Kent, commander, for the purpose of driving the British from Bagaduce, now Castine. He sailed in the fleet on this expedition in April and served for the term of four months and was engaged in the siege of Bagaduce under Capt. Saltonstam as Commander. The expedition suffered defeat and the fleet was lost. He again enlisted at Pembroke, Mass., for the term of three months under Capt. Joseph Clift, Col. Josiah Whitney's Mass. Regt., serving from July 29 to Sept. 13, 1778, and marched to Rhode Island where he served his full term in the forces commanded by Gen. Sullivan and was there discharged, serving in all seven months. He was allowed a pension on his application executed Aug. 8, 1832, at which time he was a resident of Camden.

Joseph Sherman, an early settler of the Belfast road section of the town of Camden, was born at Hanover, Mass., Feb. 23, 1757, came to Camden about the year 1780, and died April 5, 1847, and is buried in Mountain cemetery. Mr. Sherman was the son of Ignatius and Abigail (Chapman) Sherman and a descendant of Wm. Sherman, who settled in Plymouth, Mass., about the year 1630, and ten years later removed to Marshfield. Joseph Sherman owned many acres of land in Camden. He built a large two-story hip-roof house which was demolished, the material going into the construction of the house later owned by Rodney Beverage.

Joseph Sherman served in the war of 1812 as a private in Capt. Asher Palmer's Co., Lieut. Col. Erastus Foot's Regiment, Mass., Vol. Militia, raised and stationed at Camden, July 5, 1796, 100 acres of land to the eastward on Megunticook Harbor (now Camden Harbor) was conveyed to Joseph Sherman of Megunticook for 60 pounds.

Nathan Sherman

Nathan Sherman of Owl's Head, was born in Marshfield, Mass., March 18, 1762, and died in South Thomaston, in that part which is now the town of Owl's Head, May 21, 1851. After the Revolutionary war he moved to Thomaston. In 1777 he enlisted in Capt. Smith's Company of Massachusetts State troops, and was stationed at the Gurnet Fort at the entrance of Plymouth Harbor, where he remained two months.

He was a private in Capt. Samuel Clark's Company, Col. Powell's Berkshire County Regiment Massachusetts troops; enlisted July 22, 1779; discharged Aug. 26, 1779, service at New Haven, Conn.

In 1778 he again enlisted at Marshfield in Capt. John Furness's Company, Massachusetts troops, and

JIMMY DURANTE

Jimmy Durante as Claudius (Brainy) Bowers, bungling press agent who lives only by virtue of his "five per cent interest in a service station in Albuquerque," provides most of the laughs in the Jumbo-Firechief program, the circus comedy-drama-with-music which will be broadcast from the old New York Hippodrome over the NBC network every Tuesday beginning October 29th.

served at Cambridge for the term of four months in guarding Gen. Burgoyne's Army, who were prisoners of war. He also served three months at Tiverton, R. I., in 1779, in Capt. Joseph Clift's Company, Col. Hall's Massachusetts State troops, and was discharged after nine months service and after Gen. Sullivan's defeat.

Nathan "Sherman" was also a sergeant in Capt. Joseph Soper's Company, Col. Theophilus Colters Plymouth County Regiment; engaged March 5, 1781; discharged March 20, 1781.

In the war of 1812, Nathan Sherman served as a private in Capt. A. G. Coombs Company, Lieut. Col. Erastus Foot's Regiment Massachusetts Volunteers Militia which was stationed at Thomaston. He came from Marshfield, Mass., in 1787, and settled in that part of Thomaston, at the Head-of-the-Bay, which was later a part of the town of South Thomaston, and on the division of the latter town is included in the town of Owl's Head.

He was married to Bethia Thomas of Marshfield, who died in Massachusetts Oct. 19, 1826, aged 61 years. The census of 1790 places Nathan Sherman in Thomaston, with a family of four. He was a Revolutionary pensioner.

Sept. 18, 1801, Henry and Lucy Knox convey to Nathan "Shearman" of Thomaston 100 acres of land at Owl's Head Bay in Thomaston for which he pays $134.75. On April 10, 1805, Benjamin Cooper & Nathan Sherman buy of Geo. Ulmer a lime-rock right for $200.

At The High School (By the Pupils)

The extent of which one may see the wonders and beauties of New England and Canada in short weekend trips was clearly described in a lecture entitled "Knights of the Road" given at Tuesday morning's assembly by Frank A. Winslow, city editor of The Courier-Gazette. Although interesting accounts of these journeyings of the last three years have appeared in The Courier-Gazette from time to time, the composite picture of the trips when linked together sounded like a new travelogue story which took his hearers into every part of Maine and to its adjacent territories.

Much humor was ejected into the account, sometimes the joke being on the speaker, but more often on his faithful companions, Bob Webster and Ed Gonia. Mr. Winslow's ability to present interesting facts in a perfectly "harmless" method kept his listeners fascinated, so that they got not only the "story" but also a few pointers on how to travel, what to look for when traveling, and perhaps best of all, they became imbued with a desire to travel.

In closing, the speaker quoted lines from Gray's "Elegy" which best expressed his feelings that, no matter what experiences had been encountered on these trips, he was never sorry to get back home to Rockland, Maine.

Mr. Winslow was introduced by Gordon Richardson, who had up his sleeve two good stories, one about a good newspaper man, and the other about Frank Winslow, the High School boy. Devotions were in charge of Alberta Graves.

Vera Thompson of the commercial department has assisted in the office this week.

Tryouts were held Monday evening for the musical comedy "And It Rained," to be given in the auditorium next month, under the auspices of the Parent Teacher Association.

The following parts were chosen: "Mr. Wise," Francis Haver; "Mile. Marie Cary," Ruth Thomas; "Dennis," Roy Joyce; "Maize," June Weber; "Curly Rich," Donald Marriner; "Mrs. Wise," Virginia Gray; "Malbelle Rich," Betty McAlary; "John Rich," Richard Ellingwood; "Jack," David Hodgkins. The comedy will be under the direction of Miss Adelaide Cross who has directed several productions locally and professionally throughout New England. A high degree of interest was shown by the number of students who came for tryouts, for the singing choruses, dance groups, and characters.

Miss Marguerite Saimond, who has been ill at her home in Waterville for several weeks, is expected to resume her teaching duties, Monday, November 4th.

Hostesses at the faculty tea given by the domestic science classes last Friday were Shirley Grant, Nathalie Waldron and Helvi Rivers. Important kitchen duties were in charge of Alice Clancy, Virginia D'Agostino, Nellie Teel, and Maudie Beaton. Guests were served by Margaret MacBride, Glenna Rankin, Mary Richards, and Irma Mather.

"And The Lamp Went Out" with all action in pantomime was given as a part of the entertainment at Friday evening's social by the senior class. With the exaggerated actions and the unusual properties collected by Sanford Delano, property manager, the production created a good deal of fun. Characters were "Evelyn DeVere," Marjory Bartlett; "Herbert Vanderslice," Carl Spear; Mrs. DeVere, Florence Dean; and "Ralph Grayson," William Anderson. An original sketch written and acted by Charles Merritt and Robert Chandler depicted the lives of two country firemen, who in spite of important and urgent telephone calls, to rush the hand chemical to the scene of fire, kept on with their checker game until the champion was declared. By request, Margaret Dunton repeated her solo, "Paul Revere," given at the recent P.T.A. meeting. Refreshments were in charge of Margaret McBride, and the decorations which featured autumnal leaves were in charge of a committee headed by Dorothy Thomas.

The clothing classes in domestic science are formulating plans for their second problem which is to be either a dress or a skirt.

Next week's assembly will be a demonstration by the science classes, in charge of Mr. Durrell.

Under the general chairmanship of Elizabeth Till, the subscription contest has gone forward this week, with a total of 126 subscriptions for the "Ladies Home Journal," "Saturday Evening Post," and "Country Gentleman" turned in. At present the green team, captained by Carl Spear, is leading the gold team. The campaign has been extended to next Monday, due to this week being

MRS. LINDEN CURIOUS

As To Scarlet-Backed Sheep—Interacted in "Guardians of Our Coast"

To the Roving Reporter:—

Through the courtesy of my sister, Mrs. John Z. Lull of Chicago, I have the pleasure of reading The Courier-Gazette each issue, and it is a pleasure to which I look forward. I have read of your trips through Maine and enjoyed them so much. Like you, I am curious about the sheep with the scarlet backs. Do you think it is their brand? Out here the ranchers paint their brand on their pigs, chickens and sheep, so perhaps that is it.

I also enjoy reading "Guardians of Our Coast." I wish I knew some of the women, I would like to exchange letters with them, but I have never found any address.

I have been to Maine—Rockland, and love it. Maine is a wonderful State.

Charlotte Sartelle Linden

201 South 28th St.,

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 20.

[The Courier-Gazette will be happy to forward any letter which Mrs. Linden might wish to write to the light-house women, and this paper also takes the liberty of suggesting that the latter take the initiative by writing to Mrs. Linden first.—Ed.]

MUCH CRITICISED

Another Writer Has Something To Say About Whipping Of Calumet
Devil

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

I congratulate you for printing the letter written by E. E. M., concerning the whipping of the horse Calumet Devil at Union, after the heat had been run.

I am told that nothing can be done about it, as cruelty to horses is the rule rather than the exception. However it seems to me that if there were more men like E. E. M., with the spirit to protest, something could be done.

A racing commission composed of real horse lovers, or having consideration for fair-minded people who attend the races, would stop such brutality on the track.

More power to a paper that has the courage to print a protest! Congratulations!

E. O.

A HARNESS FOR THE TIDES

cordial greeting from Irving Ross, the new manager, who made many friends here as day clerk at The Thorndike the past summer. Mr. Ross likes his new location very much, and asked to be remembered to all of the boys.

The sun was still high in the heavens so we decided to make Calais noting as we passed through Perry one of those scarce articles known as a turkey farm. The gobs and their mates were in a close huddle, discussing maybe the A.A.A. or the Ethiopian war which is being waged not far from their native country.

At Baring we read a sign which said 90 miles to Bangor, and following some evil impulse Bob turned his car onto the Air Line. If you motorists value my advice steer clear of it, for it is a narrow, rocky road, punctuated with some feeble attempts at road construction, and the 90 miles are country miles. I thing we could have gone by the way of Topfield and Lincoln in less time, despite the greater mileage.

Hello, Bill Foster!
We had passed the Beddington

CCC camp, when we met a car in an unusually narrow stretch of highway. Mindful of what had befallen us on the road to Jackman two weeks previously Bob didn't give the newcomers three thirds of the road. Instead he allowed one-third, and vastly to our surprise one of the occupants waved joyously at us, and I recognized William B. Foster, a former Thomaston newspaper man, who was headed for Beddington with the other members of his family. He afterward told me that only five minutes before he had been telling how Bob and I were ditched on the Jackman road.

The rest of the journey was prosaic enough—home by the way of Bangor—approximately 376 miles in all.

(The End)

"Tell your boss I have come to see him," said a tall, broad-shouldered man, bursting open the door of the clerk's office. "My name's Daniels." The office boy, a puny little fellow, gazed awe-stricken at the visitor. "You're Mr. Daniels?" he exclaimed. "How very awkward."

"What do you mean awkward?"
