WHEN SUNBEAM SAILS

Santa Claus Will Be at the Helm—Two Hundred Dolls as Passengers

Two hundred dolls are gathering at Bar Harbor for a voyage along the Maine coast with Orville J. Guptill, sea-going sky pilot of the Maine Seacoast Mission. The Mission boat, Sunbeam, will be the craft, Dec. 24 will be the sailing date, and light-house and coast guard dwellings from Kittery to Quoddy will be the destination. The dolls will go to keep the population of their kind at its peak of 900 in these seacoast homes, and not a single girl between the ages of six and 10 will awake on Christmas morning without finding one of them waiting for speedy adoption.

In the 10 years that Sup. Guptill has been ministering to the coast folk he has escorted more than 2000 dolls to new homes, all on the first, second, or third Sunbeam.

Everything on the Sunbeam is already shipshape, and while she keeps up with her regular educational, recreational, and relief program; church, school, and hospital activities; she still manages to call on her Christmas mission each year, on time to the minute.

In all there are about 2,000 children in the parish of the Maine Seacoast Mission, but many of these are boys and only a part of the girls are of "doll age."

The Bar Harbor Business Women's Club in its November meeting took out a number of dolls to be dressed and others are having their wardrobe prepared by Vassar College girls. Some will be gifts of individuals.

HAVE GOOD APPETITES

Just See What the 30,000 New England CCC Boys Eat Each Month

City youths who have gone to the forests to work in the CCC camps have developed healthy appetites.

The army quartermaster corps in Boston estimates the food bill for England's 30,000 CCC men at about $450,000 a month.

A report of Lieut. Col. George Lubberoff, commanding the Boston army supply depot, showed that 306,943 pounds of fresh beef are consumed each month in New England camps. And eggs—103,577 dozen are required monthly to match 22,219 pounds of bacon.

The North woods apparently give the boys a sweet tooth. Something like 266,280 pounds of sugar go to New England camps each month.

Boston baked beans—nearly six carloads of them—are consumed monthly, and fresh fish right from New England waters to the amount of 60,000 pounds goes to New England camps.

And those are but a few of the 70 odd items which go into CCC camps in these parts.

LIMEROCK POMONA

Limerock Valley Pomona Grange will meet with Westwesterkeag Grange in South Thomaston Saturday, Dec. 14, afternoon and evening. By error this meeting was advertised to be held Dec. 7. The election of officers will be held at this meeting; also an interesting Christmas program. Resolved: "That respect for Law is more powerful than punishment," by P. L. S. Morris, Gilford, Butler. A large attendance is desired.

FERRY APPROACHES

At Lincolnville Beach and Islesboro Will Be Completed By February

Motorists who pass Lincolnville Beach are noting with much interest the progress which is being made upon the ferry terminal there. The contract, as previously noted in these columns is held by P. W. Carleton of Woolwich, a former member of the Executive Council and twice a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination. The work on this approach, and the one on the Islesboro side, is being done under the direction of the State Highway Commission at an estimated cost of $75,000. The terminals will be completed early in February.

The purpose is to provide ferry connection across Penobscot Bay between Islesboro, an island in Waldo county, and Lincolnville on the main land in the same county. The work done by the State does not include the ferry boat or the operation of the ferry, this being provided by the Islesboro Ferry Co. under charter from the Legislature.

In general, the work consists of stone and gravel fill from existing highways to approximately the shore line at low water, and the construction of four spans of steel beams with timber floor supported on stone piers. The end span can be raised or lowered to take traffic from the ferry boat to the landing at various stages of tide. The construction is carried to a point where there is a depth of approximately eight feet of water at low tide and beyond that there is a timber slip or fender about 65 feet long to guide the boat when landing.

Capt. A. M. Colby of North Edgecomb, in Contractor Carleton's employ many years, is general foreman on the work and Harrison E. Bowie of Bath is also there in a responsible capacity.

An emergency preamble that accompanied the resolve stated there is no adequate road in the town of Islesboro from the West shore road, so called, to Penobscot Bay. Necessity for the safety and welfare of the citizens of Islesboro and its summer residents called for the construction of such highway and terminal. As the towns of Islesboro, Lincolnville and Northport were financially unable to provide such road and terminal, the State Highway Commission was directed to designate a road from a point on route 1 in Lincolnville to a point in Penobscot bay of 700 feet more or less, or from a point on route 1 in Northport to a point in Penobscot bay, a distance of one-half mile, more or less, to designate one of them as a state highway and to construct the same with proper terminal on the Penobscot bay end.

With the emergency clause attached the resolve became effective when approved by the Governor.

ON RETIRED LIST

Commander Reed Injects Strong Vein of Humor Into His Autobiography

In Tuesday's issue of this paper appeared an article concerning the approaching retirement of Commander George H. Reed, U.S.N., who is making his home in Rockland this winter. Commander Reed was formerly a reporter on the Bangor Commercial, and in response to that paper's request for an account of his naval experiences he submitted the following, which shows that naval officials have a strong sense of humor.

Your request to me to furnish a few facts concerning my activities in the Navy to be published on the occasion of my retirement reads like an invitation to write my own obituary.

This will be a pleasure. It's an opportunity few Naval officers ever have, and it gives me a chance to produce something that the children will probably want to have framed and hung in the parlor.

Actually my activities in the Navy may be all summed up in the famous phrase, "He sees his duty and he does it." The fact that if I had done anything else I would probably have been put in the brig is beside the point.

To proceed in logical order however! Two places might properly contend for the honor of having been my birthplace. Hampden and Hampden Corner. Hampden would probably earnestly assert that I was born in Hampden Corner and Hampden Corner might be expected to be equally glib. Either place will do.

Why I studied dentistry has always been a mystery to me for I was happy as any reporter on the Bangor Commercial. As happy as any reporter on the Bangor Commercial could be. Just why I thought a future indisputably linked with long vistas of abraded teeth, broken jaws and other irritating afflictions, was to be preferred, I do not know. Anyway I got my D.D.S. from University of Pennsylvania in 1912. I still have it but it doesn't look as big as it did on the occasion of my graduation.

Armed with this sheepskin the world was my oyster then, and I immediately located where I could see plenty of it. This fact, as well as I can remember, was one of my principal reasons for entering the Navy.

I boarded my first battleship, the U.S.S. Louisiana—then in dry dock in the Norfolk Yard, via the starboard gangway and was surprised to find that there was no welcoming committee to greet me. Dentists on battleships were something new twenty years ago, and the opinion prevalent in the Fleet at the time (it was 1916) was to the effect that battleships were officered to shoot the enemy, not to eat him, and just where a dentist entered into plans for battle was not exactly clear.

In accordance with that idea of my general usefulness, the executive officer of the ship placed me in command of the ship's band and gave me charge of the ship's photographic shop. I suppose it was the best he could do at the time. Later I was ordered to drill the hospital corpsmen in handling casualties and detailed in charge of every other job that nobody else wanted until finally

TREND OF THE TIMES

Republicans Regain Control Of Westbrook and Elect Hallowell Mayor Third Time

Mayor Elmer W. Campbell, Republican, was reelected for a third term in the annual municipal election at Hallowell yesterday. He defeated Nathan H. Bridges who ran on a Citizen's ticket. The vote was Campbell 512; Bridges 248. All Republican candidates for the city government were elected.

Westbrook Republicans elected Carroll M. Richardson, mayor and gained control of the City Council for the first time in three years in yesterday's municipal election. By electing the three aldermen-at-large and six of the 10 ward aldermen, the Republicans gained a nine to four control of the Council. Mr. Richardson polled 1,838 votes. His Democratic opponent, William Knudsen polled 1,362 votes. The Democrats had been in control of Westbrook politics three years.

Roscoe C. Emery, who has the distinction of being the last Mayor of Eastport, was yesterday elected one of the new council of five members under the council-manager charter authorized by the last Legislature.

MAYBE BAXTER WILL RUN

Former Governor May Make the Present Race a Three-Cornered One

Rumors that ex-Gov. Percival P. Baxter might be induced to enter the gubernatorial race were given new force Sunday when Fred K. Owen in the Sunday Telegram said that Mr. Baxter's announcement might be expected within a few days, unless the former governor changes his mind. Mr. Baxter is a keen politician, and has a faculty of drawing the voters to his standard.

Commenting upon the municipal judgeship appointment soon to be made for Hancock County Fred K. Owen says: "Another judgeship appointment that is causing some interest in Hancock County is that of the Bar Harbor Municipal Court. Norman Shaw, who was a member of the House, was appointed by Gov. Gardiner. Judge Shaw's term expired about a year ago and Gov. Brann appointed in his place a Democrat, H. E. Graham. At the same time he appointed a Republican recorder, an arrangement that was satisfactory to the town and to the county. Judge Graham was not a candidate for the nomination but was recommended by the Democratic town committee.

"Judge Graham has recently resigned and someone will have to be found to take his place. The only other Democratic lawyer in the town is Oscar Emery, who came to Bar Harbor from Camden a short time ago, in which place he had practiced for about 20 years. Mr. Emery would like the appointment and will have the official support of the Democratic town committee. A story is, that some members of the committee have quietly whispered to the Governor that they are not in dead earnest about having Mr. Emery appointed."

Zelma M. Dwinall's term as judge of the Rockland Municipal Court expires Dec. 28, 1936.

OUR OWN PEOPLE

Needy Folks In Rockland Will Benefit From Donation Day

This is the final day for submitting names to receive Legion baskets, names to be turned into Chairman Donald L. Kelsey, telephone 963-J or to The Courier-Gazette. It is necessary to set a deadline in order to give the Legionnaires time to check the names for repetition and arrange delivery details.

Donation Day will be Sunday, Dec. 15 and the place Strand Theatre. This great piece of civic welfare work by Winslow-Holbrook Post, A. L. needs the co-operation of every citizen.

There will be three shows Sunday, 2, 6 and 8.30 and admission to these will be by foodstuffs or cash at the window which will be used to purchase foods to fill out basket contents. Those who wish to help the splendid cause but prefer not to attend the show, may send their contributions to the theatre.

Hundreds of names are now on record desiring baskets, and it is the aim of the Legion to see that none go hungry. Merchants are co-operating most generously and once more the Legion boys plead for full public support. Manager Dondis contributes the Strand and his employees their services so every single penny received goes to supply food for the needy of our own city.

OTTER CLIFF ROAD

What Knox County Motorists Will Find, Visiting Bar Harbor Next Year

More details relative to the new Otter Cliff road at Mount Desert indicate that this will be opened to the public next July. It has been under construction for three years. Traffic from the Ocean Drive will go along the upper level, from which one can overlook the lower or returning traffic road.

This double road around the point joins the main road on each end. Below is a footpath around the point that joins at each end a path which leads around the ledges and through the woods. Two parking spaces have been built. One is at the head of the point which moss-covered ledges form the sides. The other has a capacity of about 50 cars, and is located about one-half mile further.

The total distance covered by the road is one and one-quarter miles and the surface is the same as that used on the finished part of the Ocean Drive. Pink granite forms a retaining wall between the lower and the upper roads as well as between the lower wall and the path.

THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

Unique Program In Baptist Church Marked the Anniversary Of Mr. and Mrs. Enos Ingraham

Surrounded by relatives and friends, who filled the auditorium of the Rockport Baptist Church, Mr. and Mrs. Enos E. Ingraham celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Sunday afternoon. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion in a color scheme of gold and white, with a background of evergreens and huge bouquets of golden colored chrysanthemums, the gifts of relatives and friends. In front was an arch from which was suspended a large wedding bell.

The program as arranged was unique and highly entertaining. Opening at 2.30, prayer was offered by the pastor, Rev. G. F. Currier. A male quartet from East Vassalboro, composed of B. Harold Cates, W. K. Cates, Arad Richmond and Theodore Perry, rendered two selections, and Mrs. G. F. Currier beautifully sang "At Dawning" and "I Love You Truly." Then to the strains of the wedding march, the members of the mock wedding party, eight small grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Ingraham, ranging in ages from five to ten years, entered the church and preceded down the center aisle, took places on the stage, where the "parson," dressed in a dignified robe had preceded them, and was awaiting their arrival. Nancy Ingraham, acting the part of the bride, was charming in her bridal gown of white with cap and veil caught with orange blossom and carrying a large bridal bouquet. She had as her attendants, Marion Cates and Jane Ingraham bridesmaids, and Jane Cates flower girl, all attired in gowns of golden color. The groom, Herbert Cates, had as his best man, Maynard Ingraham, Jr. Paul Cates played the part of the father and Herbert Ingraham, Jr., the "parson," reading the humorous marriage vows in a manner that was highly appreciated by the audience and brought forth much laughter. The couple were united by a padlock instead of the customary wedding ring.

At the close of this part of the program, solos by Mr. Richmond and Mr. Perry were greatly enjoyed, the latter singing "O Promise Me" and "I Hear You Calling."

Then, 50 years having presumably elapsed, the young actors again entered the church, the bride and groom dressed to represent an aged couple, and taking seats on the stage sang "Just For Me and Mary," with B. Harold Cates at the piano and Benjie Cates playing the harmonica.

Original poems, written especially for this occasion, were read by Mrs. Eliza Jones and B. Harold Cates. Frederick F. Richards, with fitting words, brought greetings from the community, closing his remarks with an original poem by Mrs. Delora Morrill. Several other selections by the male quartet included "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," sung by special request of Mrs. Ingraham. Mr. and Mrs. Ingraham, who during the program occupied seats near the front of the church, were ushered to a position beneath the arch and Mr. Currier, in behalf of the community presented them with a beautiful lamp and picture. Mr. Ingraham also placed upon the finger of his bride of 50 years ago a circlet of gold studded with diamonds. As the quartet sang "Juanita" the six children, Mrs. Charles Veazie, Mrs. B. Harold Cates, Maynard Ingraham, Herbert Ingraham, Oliver Ingraham and Mrs. Louis Cash joined their parents in forming the line for the reception which followed. Adjuvment was made to the vestry where refreshments of punch and cake were served.

A BIG INDUSTRY

Four Million Christmas Trees Shipped From Maine Each Year

Christmas without a Christmas tree—that's a tragedy seldom known in Maine. And Christmas trees not only add cheer to the holiday festivities, says A. D. Nutting, extension service forestry specialist.

Approximately four million trees are shipped from Maine each year, according to Mr. Nutting, with Washington and Aroostook counties the leading source of out-of-State shipments.

"Many other sections of the State limit their shipments to nearby cities in New England because of brown tall and gypsy moth quarantine regulations. Prospective shippers should inquire from their station agent whether inspection of their trees will be necessary.

"Jobbers pay from 5 to 15 cents for a bundle of one to seven trees. Trees from four to six feet in height are most popular, with retail price ranging from 50 cents to $4 a tree.

"Small table trees one to three feet in height are gaining popularity each year. These are usually shipped in crates of 50 to 100 trees.

"Balsam fir and red spruce are the species used locally and for sale in Maine. Fir is generally preferred in the markets because of its pungent odor and because the needles do not drop readily.

"Consumers everywhere want well shaped, even branched trees. Demonstrations in which dense stands of young spruce and fir were thinned to a spacing of about six feet have been underway for several years.

THE DIGEST POLL

Only Four Of 18 States So Far Rec- oided Stand For the New Deal

Reports from States not previously reported in the Literary Digest poll on the New Deal policies find an even break with Massachusetts, California and South Dakota recording percentages against the Roosevelt policies and Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia upholding the presidential positions.

Of the 18 States from which first returns have been published, 14 stand against the administration, but as yet the total vote is but about 600,000.

In view of the accuracy of past polls conducted by the Digest there is material interest in the progress of the voting, which to date has recorded 55.60 per cent, against the Roosevelt policies and 44.40 per cent, in favor. In the published vote for the week, a slight percentage gain over the previous weeks' returns is made by the administration.

HEARING DEC. 19

On Eastern's Petition To Dis- continue Boston and Bangor Line

Dec. 19, is the date set by the Public Utilities Commission for hearing on the petition of the Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc., for right to discontinue its service on its Boston-Bangor division, the petition being filed with the commission on Friday.

The hearing will be held in the State House, Augusta, and it is expected that it will be attended by many residents along the Penobscot river who are opposed to the proposed abandonment of the line which was announced earlier in the week.

According to plans, the steamer Belfast, which is at present performing a freight service between Boston and Bangor and way ports, will make her last trip from Boston, Dec. 26, sailing the following day on her return to Boston.

The Belfast will make Winterport her terminal during the next three weeks.

THE LANDING OF THE PILGRIM FATHERS IN NEW ENGLAND

The breaking waves dashed high on a stern and rock-bound coast. And the woods against a stormy sky their giant branches tossed.

And the heavy night hung dark The hills and waters o'er. When a band of exiles moored their bark On the wild New England shore.

Not as the conqueror comes, They, the true-hearted, came; Not with the roll of the stirring drums, And the trumpet that sings of fame;

Not as the flying come, In silence and in fear,— They shook the depths of the desert gloom With their hymns of lofty cheer.

Amidst the storm they sang, And the stars heard, and the sea; And the sounding aisles of the dim woods rang To the anthem of the free.

The ocean eagle soared From his nest by the white wave's foam, And the rocking pines of the forest roared,— This was their welcome home.

There were men with hoary hair Amidst that pilgrim-band, Why had they come to wither there, Away from their childhood's land?

There was woman's fearless eye, Let by her deep love's truth; There was manhood's brow serenely high, And the fiery heart of youth.

What sought they thus afar? Bright jewels of the mine? The wealth of seas, the spots of war?— They sought a faith's pure shrine!

Ay, call it holy ground, The soil where first they trod; They have left unstained what there Freedom to worship God.

SIZING RURAL VOTE

Via Straw Ballot Method—Tie In Electoral College Shown

A straw ballot on the presidential situation has been concluded, the ballot being taken by weekly newspapers largely located in small and rural communities, seeking to ascertain preference in the two parties for presidential nominations and also indications as to the outcome of the next national election. The total poll was 243,282 ballots but representative of sentiment in the areas in which the votes were circulated.

Practically all the Democratic votes thrown favored the nomination of President Roosevelt. On the Republican side, Senator Borah is found to be far in the lead with 30,744 votes to 19,807 for Gov. Landon of Kansas, the nearest competitor, 11,344 for Col. Knox, 10,047 for Herbert Hoover, and a scattering vote for several others.

Mr. Roosevelt leads in the popular vote, as shown in the straw ballot, with 119,387 votes to 104,851 for all Republican candidates. The Republican choices lead in 23 States and Mr. Roosevelt in 22 States. The analysis finds the distribution of votes in the electoral college, according to the results of the poll, as 261 each for Democrats and Republicans.

That finding, however, does not include votes from three States, Arizona, Delaware and Nevada that were not covered in the poll. The Democratic states as found in the straw ballot, include all the Southern States, Colorado, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, Montana, Oklahoma, Tennessee, West Virginia and Wyoming. This poll does not deal with the urban centers and does not include any of the large cities, being distinctly a rural test.

The closing of the local agency of the Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc., will relieve from duty five men who have long been with the corporation—Walter E. Weeks, Frank Thompson, James McIntosh, Justin L. Cross and William Freeman. Nowhere in its service did the Eastern have a more efficient and loyal crew. They have served the public promptly and courteously, and there is general regret that their retirement from steamboat service has been made imperative by the coming discontinuance of the line. The Rockland agency has also been favored by some exceptionally capable managers, the most recent being Frank S. Sherman (retired) and George E. Dunton, who succeeded him a few years ago. No better tribute can be paid to these officials than that both were assigned important duties in addition to those entailed by their immediate bailiwick.

The December meeting of the Woman's Mission Circle of the First Baptist Church took place at the church parlors, with 22 women present. The program under the direction of Mrs. H. W. Frohock featured vocal solo by Mrs. Margaret Crie, Christmas poems by Mrs. Elsie Wooster and Mrs. Frohock. The topic was on Indian Missions. The story of the Philip family was told by Mrs. Evelyn Hix, Mrs. Eda Post and Mrs. Elita Thompson, and missionary talks were presented in Scripture reading by seven of the members—Mrs. Clara Gregory, Mrs. Stella Snow, Miss Blanche Sylvester, Mrs. Elizabeth Williamson, Miss Eleanor Griffith, Mrs. Rhodes and Mrs. Aurilla Venner. The next meeting will be at the parsonage. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Gladys Mills, Miss Morey and Mrs. J. Charles MacDonald.

The Sunday Telegram contained a picture of the Orchestra at Gorham Normal School. In the personnel are Keith Crockett of Rockport, clarinet, and Stanley Gay of Rockland, bass horn. Under the direction of Miss Miriam Andrews of the Normal School Music Department, the orchestra will play for the cantata "The Story of Christmas" by Matthews, to be presented in Russell Hall before a union meeting of the Gorham Churches next Sunday evening.

The omission of one number of one letter has the power to change history, to bring down upon innocent heads displeasure or ridicule. So one can imagine the feelings of the energetic Universalist women who devoted much time and work to make the recent fair a success when they read that the supper netted only $35. Needless to explain, it should have been $135, which helped considerably to bring the total amount of the fair to nearly $300.

Why pay more. We are still doing dry cleaning at bargain prices. Plain dresses, 19 cents. People's Laundry, 17 Limerock street, Tel. 170, Rockland—adv.

SHIPS THAT PASS

Robert G. Dunton's Timely Word Regarding Boston and Bangor Line

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—With the announcement of officials of the Eastern Steamship Lines of the abandonment of the Boston-Bangor Division, another chapter in the history of shipping in Maine has been completed. Although the past decade has brought many startling reversals to shipping interests along the coast, resulting in the drastic curtailment and subsequent termination of many services, perhaps no other event has served to bring more vividly to our attention the competitive forces threatening the "old reliable" methods of transportation with near extinction. Gradually the motor truck and the motor coach, generally unhampered by the encircling restrictions and stringent regulations imposed by the Federal Government upon the railway and steamship agencies, have made grave inroads upon the traffic volume formerly enjoyed by the latter.

Records show that scheduled service between Boston, Bangor and intermediate ports had its beginning over 100 years ago when in 1834 the Boston and Bangor Steamship Company was organized, although there are indications that somewhat spasmodic service was maintained even before that date. To this line goes the distinction of having built and operated the first iron, seagoing propeller ship in the United States—the second S. S. Bangor, launched in 1844. Operations during the third quarter of the century were controlled by the Sanford Independent Line, which, having succeeded the Boston and Bangor Steamship Company in 1850, was reorganized as the Sanford Steamship Company in 1875.

The acquisition of this line by the Eastern Steamship Company at the turn of the century gave to this growing concern one of its most prosperous systems, the several services operating east from Rockland serving as "feeders" to the main line. Success and good fortune waited upon its operations through the years and it was not until the collapse of the nation's credit structure in late 1930, with the attending stagnation of business activity, that the line showed indications of the impending revenue loss that was to have but one conclusion.

Several years ago it had been found more profitable and desirable to discontinue winter passenger service and to operate a purely freight service with the S. S. Cornish in commission. With the continuance of declining revenues a radical departure from the summer seven-trip or daily schedule was made in 1933 when a three-trip service with one ship (S. S. Belfast) was attempted. Although an encouraging volume of traffic was noted during the summer months it was found that the burden of fixed charges upon physical properties and salaried personnel was too heavy for the summer traffic to carry.

And so the customary post-mortems will soon begin; hotel lobbies and village stores will suddenly hold directing boards of "Sunday morning quarterbacks"; the welcome beam of the friendly searchlight sweeping the summer beaches becomes dim and fades and no longer will the familiar whistle echo and reecho from mountain to mountain and shore to shore.

But the spirit of steamboating is not dead! Many are the men scattered through the State and throughout New England who have known these ships well, City of Bangor, City of Rockland, Belfast, Camden, all are familiar names to them. The rattle of the truck on the plank, the beating of the screws and the straining of the hawsers is music to their ears and by them will be remembered long after the records are closed.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—In regard to a recent article in your paper headed "The Blow Has Fallen"—Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc., to discontinue Bangor-Boston service, The Boston-Bangor line was launched in 1923. The first vessel operated was the auxiliary steamer, Bangor, sail and steam power furnished by wood-burning boilers.

If readers who visit the Hub, will drop in at the Old State House at State and Washington streets and go to the Marine Museum, first floor front, Mr. Benner, the custodian, a native of Rockport, Maine, will show them a painting of steamer Bangor in all her glory. The card on the picture says, "Operated on the Boston-Bangor line from 1834 to 1841. In 1942 was sold and went to Egypt as a passenger steamer; later sold to Sultan of Turkey for a yacht, and then was used in the navy."

If she burned 25 cords of wood on each Boston-Bangor trip, figure it out how much she used on the trip across the Atlantic and to her destination. The Cyclopaedia of Boston, 1886, lists the following steamers as departing and arriving at the port of Boston. As the information concerning when and where built and tonnage was taken from Lloyd's, it is correct:

Boston-Bangor line.
John Brooks,	1859	1012	New York
Tremont,	1883	1024	New York
Boston-Portland line.

Boston-Bangor line.
John Brooks, 1859 1012 New York

Boston-Portland line.
Star of the East, 1896 1413 New York
Boston-Bath line.
Cumberland, 1885 1188 Bath
State of Maine, 1881 1146 Bath
St. John, N. B. and Halifax line.

The above named steamers were making regular trips when I came to Boston in 1896.

My first trip was in 1878 on steamer Cambridge, Rockland to Bangor; in 1881 on Katahdin, Boston to Rockland; my last trip was in 1933 on Belfast, Boston to Bangor, and return.

CHARLES S. SMALL

Funeral services for Charles S. Small, who died last Friday at his home, 247 Maverick street, after a lingering illness were held at the residence Sunday morning and the remains were then taken to Lubec, where, after another brief service, interment was made in the Lamson cemetery. Attending the services were numerous friends with whom the deceased had come in contact after taking up his residence in Rockland while at Lubec, many of his former townsmen were present to pay their last respects. Rev. C. H. Olds of the Congregational Church was the officiating clergyman at the Rockland services, and the bearers were P. P. Bicknell, Dana Sherr, Thomas H. Chisholm, Frank Hunter, Robert M. Packard and Alvin Ramsdell.

Mr. Small was born in North Lubec Jan. 12, 1873. Brought up in a community where the sardine had long played a conspicuous part, industrially, Mr. Small engaged in that business under the firm name of Coggins & Small. Later he became a building contractor, and in 1923 found his way to Rockland when the East Coast Fisheries was staging its memorable boom. He played an important part in the construction of the plant, and after the bursting of the bubble continued to work at his trade here.

Although his new home and his old home were widely separated he felt the keenest interest in the Quoddy Project using every effort at his disposal to bring it about, and never losing faith that it would become an accomplished fact.

At the same time he felt a confidence in Rockland's future, and one of his personal contributions toward its development was his effort to enforce upon the engineering department in Washington the necessity of dredging Rockland harbor as a state of preparedness for the coming of new industries.

In Mr. Small's death Rockland has lost a highly esteemed citizen, admired for his earnest endeavors, and universally liked because of his genial nature.

He is survived by his wife, Addie S. Small; two daughters, Laura M. of Portland and Mary E. of Rockland; two sons, Donald H. of Barre, Vt., and Sherwood C. of Rockland; two brothers, Alvin F. of Washington State and Walter J. of Oakfield, Me.; and one sister, Mrs. Edith Ingersoll of Brookline, Mass.

The welfare of 45 percent of the nation's population depends more or less directly on the amount and buying power of farm income. Thirty-two million persons live on farms and the remainder of the 45 percent are merchants, professional people, laborers, etc., whose livelihood depends directly upon the farmers' capacity to pay for their goods or services.

A POPULAR PRESENT

The chances are two to one that somebody has not yet decided what to buy for an absent friend. What better, or more reasonable in price than a year's subscription to The Courier-Gazette, or even half a year. It goes into that home three times a week, full of news from cover to cover and we do the wrapping and pay the postage. Give us the address, plus $3 or $1.50 and the trick is done.

Rockland High Receives Attention In The Lewiston Sun's Summary

The Lewiston Sun has been reviewing the interscholastic football season, and Rockland High finds itself by no means out of the picture.

Cobb Peterson, guard, was given honorable mention for the All-Maine High School team. Sezak's men worked more as a unit, with no individual stars.

Rockland High was the sixth highest team in the State as far as scoring went, with 130 points. Thornton Academy was the leader with 222 points.

Rockland in 1933 landed 14th place among 24 large High Schools in this State and in 1934 tied for second place with South Portland, the winner that year being Thornton Academy.

Rockland in 1935 landed 13th place out of the 24 major High School teams in the State, placing ahead of such larger schools as Lewiston, Cony, Edward Little, Deering, Portland, Biddeford and Bangor. Pretty fair for a green team. Watch out for next fall with thirteen letter men back. "It means we will climb 13 notches in the standing next year," says Coach Sezak.

James Skinner, star freshman half-back landed 13th place in the individual schoolboy scoring in the State, with 37 points. Considering that Skinner is a freshman with three more years to go, he certainly has a great chance of being the leading scorer in the State within the next three years.

Sam Glover, co-captain who was out of half the games this season with injuries, did a remarkable job by landing 17th place with 31 points. Lord with 18 points tied for 33d place in the State scoring.

CENTRAL MAINE "DIVVY"

Directors of the Central Maine Power Company yesterday declared one-half the usual dividends on preferred stock, as follows: 87½ cents a share on the 7 per cent preferred; 75 cents a share on the 6 per cent preferred and 75 cents on the preferred stock $6 dividend series. All dividends are payable Jan. 1 to stockholders as of record Dec. 10. The dividends represent the same rate that the company has been paying starting with Oct. 1, 1934.

There will be a meeting of Anderson Camp, Sons of Union Veterans, Wednesday night. All officers are asked to be present.

Edward Gonia's new store at The Brook had its formal opening Saturday, and the blushing proprietor and his equally blushing assistants listened to a steady succession of compliments from the many visitors.

Rev. H. I. Holt is to be the speaker at the Lions Club meeting tomorrow noon, having for his subject, "Are We Anglo Saxon?" Mr. Holt has appeared before the local Lions Club on other occasions, and is very popular with that organization.

Baracka Clats will hold a social at 7:30 Wednesday at the Methodist vestry, each member to take a gift costing not more than 10 cents for the joke Christmas tree, also canned goods, preserves, etc., to be given away at Christmas.

Potatoes have essentially the same dry matter content as corn silage. As a steady ration, they are not as palatable as corn silage but are a good succulent feed for dairy cows.

I was practically running the ship. Or at least I thought I was.

That I survived these details, even with some small credit to myself, is probably due to my training on the Commercial where I learned to write the Orono news without going to Orono, and other things. That and the beans I consumed. There were seventeen hundred men on the Louisiana which was built to carry one thousand men. In the rush of things generally the paymaster had no time to count 'em—the beans, I mean.

I was aboard eight months before I left to put the dental office on the Mercy in commission and while we were frozen in the ice of the James River laying up behind submarine nets and drilling, I wrote a book. It was called the Advent of Pericles O'Toole and it was a gem with the glitter all dished up by five brother officers aboard who collaborated with me in the book's composition. About a year later while the Mercy was in Brest harbor, the ship got a signal from out the air which on being decoded appeared to be signed by P. O'Toole. The enemy was trying to interrupt our communications at the time but this message was a puzzle to everyone except myself and got by. I interpreted it correctly and the book was justified. It was a beautiful lot of free advertising for our efforts.

(Right here I pause to say that I regret that you have not asked me to write this obituary in the form of serial. Only thus can I do the subject justice. To resume however.)

In the winter of 1917-1918 I joined the Mercy and after a short time with the Fleet left in convoy for France to bring back the seriously wounded over a route through the Azores to Bermuda and up the Gulf Stream where the waters might be expected to be fairly calm and not interfere too much with braces and bandages on the more critical cases. In all we made five round trips before and after the Armistice. It was plenty of grief but it was fun too, and it wasn't always smooth water. One bumpy day in the Bay of Biscay, I asked Sam, a negro with 11 machine gun bullets in him resting abed in the surgical ward, how he was feeling. "Doctor, he replied, "I've been over the top three times but I never was no place before where the bottom went away and left me."

After the Mercy came Great Lakes Training Station where I ran a dental office as every dentist knows it should be run; sitting at a big flat topped desk and dictating to a stenographer. Later the Bureau job was wished on me by an ill-advised Surgeon General and I messed around largely for another year in Washington until I forgot all the dentistry I ever had known and was sent out to Mayo's and other places to brush up.

The Far East came next and I've never been the same since. The tropics always leave a mark. Sometimes it's a hook worm that gets you, or the sun, or your brains jell, and anyway one always has an excellent excuse for any sort of action when he gets home again. My aberration took the form of two books which to my surprise are still selling 12 years after their publication. There is no good reason for this except that they are selling only in Manila and everybody is crazy out there anyway.

Bremerton and the USS. Texas followed, then New York and the Far East again and finally I have gotten home once more and all ready for the junk pile with more miles on my speedometer than is in anyway justified by the results produced.

Like many another used car I'm not as speedy as I was but I've had a thorough overhaul including new lenses in my headlights and I am figuring on a few more miles to come.

SANTA AND MICKEY

This Popular Pair Are Making Daily Appearances At Senter's

Traffic congestion of considerable intensity occurred Saturday afternoon in front of Senter Crane Company when Santa Claus and Mickey Mouse made their 4 o'clock appearance in the northern window. Special officers were called in to keep vehicular traffic moving and make some sort of pedestrian movement possible through the crowd which extended well into the center of the street.

Every morning from now until Christmas Santa will hold open house at 10 o'clock in his Toyland kingdom on Senter Crane's third floor and all and sundry are invited to visit him, ask questions and present their lists.

Every afternoon at 4 Santa is joined by the ever popular Mickey Mouse in an appearance in the northern window, and as previously reported, a warm reception is always in order. An interesting point is that while Santa's morning appearances are largely attended by children, the afternoon sessions find fully as many oldsters on hand.

SARCASTIC WARDEN

Tells Portland Men Moose Hunting Is Poor Sport—Sees Finish Of Deer

A State chief game warden ridiculed moose hunting as a sport in a speech to a Portland sportsmen's group the other night.

"I think there is more sport in shooting an old horse," Lester E. Brown, southwestern Maine chief warden told the Pine Tree Fish and Game Association.

Brown said he would admit the moose was of value to the State as a tourist attraction, but "as a game animal he is a joke." He further characterized the moose as "the most ignorant and laziest animal that walks the woods."

Only last week a three-day open season on bull moose, first in Maine since 1929, ended in Lincoln, Waldo and Knox counties.

Brown further charged violations of game laws by deer hunters "greatly increased" this year, and that "jacking" or night hunting, practically doubled over last year.

With two more good seasons, said Brown, "it won't be long before deer in this section of the State will be just as much a curiosity as they were 35 years ago."

Brown's statement as to the extinction of deer does not quite coincide with the views of Warden Davis of Union, who recently told a Courier-Gazette reporter that he never saw so many deer in the woods of Knox, Lincoln and Waldo Counties as there were after the present season closed.

So far as moose are concerned Chief Warden Bradbury is authority for the statement that a comparatively small percentage of them was slaughtered during the recent open season.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk. Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Strikingly refuse anything else. 25c.

MYSTIC MADE MONEY

Warren Rebekahs Put On Three-Act Comedy With Commendable Results

Capable general and sub committees Thursday afternoon and evening made the fair, supper, and three-act play by the Mystic Rebekah Lodge an outstanding success. The fair and supper were held in the lodge rooms, booths being prettily decorated with evergreens, and red crepe paper, creating a Christmas air. A square loaf cake in the center of the candy table attracted much attention. Made by Mrs. Helen Hilton, it was a work of culinary art, while frosting, with a holly wreath in the center and sprigs of holly in each corner.

The three act comedy, "Correspondence Courtship" was presented at the Town Hall in the evening, and kept a large audience interested for two hours, with friends from Rockland and Thomaston seen among the crowd. The play was exceptionally well cast and well directed. Edwin Kenrick of Rockland, present noble grand of Warren Lodge I.O.O.F., took the juvenile lead, with Miss Katherine Starrett of Warren opposite him as Miss Ann Gregory who through correspondence courtship had come accompanied by her aunt, also Miss Ann Gregory, a part taken well by Mrs. Nancy Clark of Warren, to meet him. Complications resulted from the similarity of the names and through the fact that John Randolph Senior, with Herbert Thomas of Warren taking the part excellently, was suspicious of the honorable intentions of the young lady.

Donald Ward of Thomaston was the hardboiled foreman of the printing office run by John Randolph. Miss Doris Bowley noble grand of Mystic Rebekah Lodge cast as a girl in the shop, brought down the house several times, as did Mrs. Carrie Smith, the extreme suffragette. The play had two villains, the blackest of which seemed to be Dr. Blake Annis of Rockland, his partner in snooping being Miss Annie Starrett as office stenographer. Emerson W. Perkins made a substantial "cop" but had a hard time in making an arrest, finally resorting to the taking to the station house of the suffragette.

Music between the acts was played by Mrs. Avis Norwood, piano, and Harold Overlock, alto horn. Edwin Kenrick, in behalf of Mystic Rebekah Lodge presented Mrs. Edna Moore, the coach of the play, with flowers. At the conclusion, the linen table cover was awarded to Miss Arletta Maloney of Waldoboro. Candy and popcorn were sold between the acts.

The general committee included, Mrs. Edna Moore, Mrs. Shirley Bowley, Mrs. Carrie Smith, Mrs. Corrine Perkins, and Miss Doris Bowley. They join in words of appreciation to those who helped make the affair a success.

A MONEY BACK OFFER

Prince Albert Has Unique Plan To Prove Faith In Tobacco

Announcement has just been made of a special money-back offer to pipe smokers in connection with an extensive campaign of advertising now being undertaken in this paper on Prince Albert.

Prince Albert is the leading smoking tobacco brand of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, who have authorized the new campaign and the new trial offer, A "You-Must-Be Pleased" proposition.

Here are the terms of the offer to pipe smokers as it appears over the signature of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company. First, simply go to your dealer and get Prince Albert. Then: "Smoke 20 fragrant pipefuls of Prince Albert. If you don't find it the mellowest, tastiest pipe tobacco you ever smoked, return the tin with the rest of the tobacco in it to us at any time within a month from this date, and we will refund full purchase price, plus postage."

This offer, made in newspaper advertising, is also being displayed at all dealers, as a reminder to pipe smokers, where to stop in and get acquainted with this famous pipe brand.

Much credit is given to Prince Albert because of its special cut, "Crimp cut," it is called, and it is pointed out that this makes Prince Albert pack quicker and easier. This is also important in causing Prince Albert to burn slower and cooler in pipes.—Adv.

Tenants Harbor Days

Time is hastening on, and we what our fathers are shall be—Shadow-shapes of memory! And when thou art called, at last, To thy townsmen of the past, Not as stranger shalt thou come! Thou shalt find thyself at home!

I sincerely hope that the poet is right, and that my fellow townsmen of the past who I knew 60 years ago, and with Dad's help still remember, will treat me as a Harborite and not as a stranger within the gates.

Those men who foregathered in the shipyard; around the stoves in the village stores; at the old church on the hill; at the Reform Club, and various other meeting places were the life of the village of their time here on earth. There are men on the list who would not recall me, but I knew them in the flesh. I can remember Dr. William S. Codman, the first historian of Eureka Lodge, who died Jan. 13, 1873. He was supervisor of schools, and as I remember him, was what we would now call "a live wire."

Albion Barter I do not recall having ever seen, yet my parents, without my consent, prefixed his name to the family name, thus making mine A.B.C. John L. Tracey, master, mariner merchant, proprietor the village "Equine Emporium," (and Will Rogers never saw one like it!) had a place to which the youngsters just naturally gravitated. "Hosses! hosses! hosses!" Now the third generation of the family, John Tracey Mathews, is senior warden of Amicable Lodge, F.A.M., of Cambridge, Mass., but the young man does not remember his grandsire who became a member of Eureka Lodge in 1869 and died June 22, 1877.

The village blacksmith and shipwright joined Eureka Lodge in 1861 and was a very dear friend of Dad. I have before me the story and the pictures of the recipients of the 50-year medals presented recently in the Ninth Masonic District. This is the Masonic history of the four from Eureka: Henry F. Kalloch, raised April 30, 1874; George B. Smith, Oct. 29, 1874; William E. Sheerer, Oct. 14, 1875; A. D. Davis, March 17, 1881. The year 1874 was a banner one in the lodge—18 candidates initiated and crafted and 17 raised. Four are still living, with Brother Kalloch Dean of the quartette, both in point of membership and age, 93.

ENCOURAGE SAFE DRIVERS

Certificates Again To Be Awarded Central Maine Men This Year

Safe drivers in Central Maine Power Company will again be presented with Safe Drivers' Certificates, the fifth consecutive year the Company has recognized employees who operate company owned automobile equipment or drive on company business without a chargeable accident.

The power company placed this plan in force in 1931 to encourage safe driving. The next year 209 employees received certificates. The following year 203 employees were recognized and last year 222 employees were awarded certificates. This represents over 96 per cent of the eligible employees who either operate company owned equipment or drive their own cars on company business.

E. P. Noyes, director of safety for the power company, stated yesterday that the plan had instilled a greater regard for safety on the highways among its personnel and every driver cherished the winning of a Safe Drivers' Certificate.

The company operates about 130 trucks and business vehicles and covers on an average 1,395,000 miles in the course of its duties each year.
