"MEN OF TYDOL"

Tide Water Oil Co. Dealers Had Fine Meeting At The Thorndike

The men of Tydol, 50 strong, gathered Tuesday night at The Thorndike main dining room for their annual shop talk and spring get-together. These sectional meetings have come to be highlights of business inspiration as well as from the angle of good fellowship and business acquaintance.

J. T. McMann, Bangor Department manager, was in his accustomed role of master of ceremonies and kept the meeting lively every minute. The management of Tide Water Oil Company was represented by three vitally interesting speakers, W. W. Arrow-smith, Eastern New England Dept. Manager, who discussed "Merchandising;" William Walker, Eastern New England Sales Manager, who talked on "Advertising;" and Harold Zeadle, Eastern New England Dept. Engineer, whose subject was "Engineering."

A lively round table discussion followed the talks and showed the intense interest of the assembled dealers. A movie "Byrd's Second Antarctic Expedition" was next in order and the evening concluded with a delicious luncheon and jolly social hour.

BELOW ITS QUOTA

Knox County Did Not Send Full Complement To The C. M. T. C. Camps

Opportunities to attend the Citizens' Military Training Camps, which open for one month on July 9, are still available to youths in 11 of Maine's 16 counties, Major Gen. Fox Conner, Commanding General of the First Corps Area said today.

"In looking over the applications for the C.M.T.C.," Gen. Conner said, "I note with regret that there are no applications from Piscataquis County. Also, the following counties are below their quotas: Franklin, Hancock, Kennebec, Knox, Lincoln, Oxford, Sagadahoc, Somerset, Waldo and York. An excellent camp is held at Fort McKinley and I would consider it most regrettable if Maine did not fill its quota of 234 youths among the 2100 to attend the camps in New England this summer."

Applications and further information reference the camps should be submitted to the C.M.T.C. Officer, Army Base, Boston, Mass.

In addition to military and citizenship training, there are many awards to be competed for, among them a trip to Washington and scholarships to New England colleges.

"BRANN'S REVENGE"

Recent Political Doings As Sized Up By a Bangor Editor

(Bangor Daily News)

The mystery of why Brann came in and Moran got out isn't very profound. It was stated here some weeks ago that the President and Gen. Farley had discovered, two years after everyone else knew it, that the Governor was what the late John Kelly would describe as "a bigger" man than Congressman Moran, and made up their minds that it was about time to do something about it unless Maine was to be lost overboard.

Readers of newspapers will recall numerous announcements of flittings back and forth between Maine and Washington by Governor Brann, National Committeeman Dubord, State Chairman Lancaster and others. Something in the air. "What shall we do to be saved?" was the cry at headquarters. Plainly, the only hope of Democracy's keeping its head above water in Maine was to keep Brann in. He would be a life preserver. Then came the meeting last Wednesday of the Democratic State Committee at Hallowell, the upshot of which was the treaty of peace whereby Governor Brann is to run for the Senate and Mr. Dubord, who had been pursuing that same object, will run for the governorship.

The making of this treaty involved the casting of Congressman Moran to the political wolves. The Federal patronage he had grabbed, along with the title of Crown Prince of Maine, was restored to Brann, the big chief and heir apparent. Thus is presented the strange phenomenon of a devoted New Dealer being sacrificed to make way for a mild anti-New Dealer. It was the last act of the celebrated melodrama, Brann's Revenge. Immediately Mr. Moran let the world know that owing to "circumstances that have arisen" he would not be a candidate for a third term in Congress. The "circumstances" are as related. But there must be a little more in the treaty. Washington despatches say that Moran has "been mentioned for several Federal jobs," and that sounds very natural.

But, now that the peace conferences are over, the question arises, "Can the slate as made up win?" There are those who think Brann might have won the governorship, but that he has small prospect of beating Wallace White for the Senate. That is a very different sort of undertaking. As to Dubord winning the governorship, the chance looks even slimmer. It is reported from Washington that "the Democratic high command is disturbed over the Maine situation." If that is true, there is just one way to quell the disturbance—a way thoroughly understood by the "high command," which has tried it before with very satisfactory results.

P. S.—Governor Brann was in conference with President Roosevelt last Saturday, a day on which, except in unusual circumstances, callers are not received at the White House. No reporter was able to find out anything about it. Certainly not!

SETTLED OUT OF COURT

The case of Mrs. Sadie E. Shaughnessy, 50, of Somerville, who brought suit in Superior Court at Worcester against Jasper D. Akers, a chief petty officer in the United States navy, and his wife, Katherine, of Pittsburgh, in which she charged Akers with breach of promise to marry and his wife with alienating the affections of Akers and sought to collect $10,000 from each, has been settled by agreement of counsel, it was announced at the courthouse this afternoon. No mention was made of the amount of money involved in the settlement. Mrs. Shaughnessy claimed that Akers had made at least 200 promises to marry her and that he had sent her money from time to time—as a foundation for a fund with which to buy an automobile.—Boston Post.

Where I go to work is across the river from our home, and last Wednesday I went to work and shortly after noon the bridge we cross was so shaky from rushing water that we had to risk our lives to be able to cross to get home. I haven't been back since. The city is entirely without lights and I am writing this to you with candlelight, because nobody around here has oil lamps anymore.

I could really write you a volume of all this flood, and the horror of it all. Years ago, a small city just beyond here had a terrible flood and washed out the whole city. I read about it in history and heard people relating about the terrible loss of life and destruction. Well, this same city has just been washed out again. The new modern dams that everybody thought could stand any kind of a flood, burst again and down came these huge volumes of water on those poor people. The loss of life there is appalling. The man who lives next door to us has a sister living there and he has never been able to get in touch with her and he is about frantic. And, so it goes—just one story after another.

No telephones or lights here, and everybody has been requested to fill all their bathtubs, etc. with water because they only expect the water supply to last until midnight tonight, due to all the pumping stations being under water. We have filled ours plenty, so think we still have enough to last us until they can turn the water on again. Of course the flood waters are receding now, but the dreadful illness that follows a flood like this is the worst of all.

Why the reluctance now in calling a special town meeting? Yes, there will be a special town meeting. The petitions are now being circulated for that purpose, and the citizens of Camden will be given the privilege of voting to rescind and cancel public landing and the cemetery purchases, and they will also decide what they want to do with the Yacht Club. PITTSBURG FLOOD

Union Woman Receives a Graphic Story Of It From Daughter-In-Law

During the recent flood disaster in Pittsburgh many local readers scanned the news with only a faint idea of its extent. We are indebted to Mrs. Sarah Thomas of Union for copies of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph containing pictures of the flooded area, and for the privilege of making the following extracts from a letter which she received from her daughter-in-law, Mrs. William Anderson.

Pittsburgh has had the worst flood in history, and what a flood it has been. It came up so quickly, nobody had time to rescue any merchandise. The people employed in the downtown stores and those people who were shopping at the time, were rescued in row boats that were rushed to the flood scene. The waters backed as far as Kaufmann's store. The two rivers—Allegheny and Monongahela are on each side of the city, and these two rivers join to form the Ohio River. Both rivers flooded this week and the two swelled back onto the city and entirely submerged the Pittsburgh business district.

They estimated the loss at several hundred million dollars. About 50 persons were drowned and hundreds were injured. Then on top of that, the rivers kept backing up to the steel mill district and one at a time the steel mills would explode as they had no way to extinguish the furnaces before the water reached them. The people here really thought the world was coming to an end, because nobody knew what would happen next. Where I go to work is across the river from our home, and last Wednesday I went to work and shortly after noon the bridge we cross was so shaky from rushing water that we had to risk our lives to be able to cross to get home. I haven't been back since. The city is entirely without lights and I am writing this to you with candlelight, because nobody around here has oil lamps anymore.

SAW HUMAN POSIES

And What a Colorful Picture They Make In "Aunt Drusilla's Garden"

A riot of color, gay melodies, and dainty dance steps pervaded the presentation of "Aunt Drusilla's Garden" at the High School Auditorium last night for the benefit of the Parent-Teacher Association. The tuneful two-act operetta was given by pupils of the Purchase, Grace and Crescent Street schools, assisted by older pupils from Grade 6 of the McLain school.

Coached by Mrs. Esther Rogers, music supervisor, with Miss Margaret Dunton at the piano, and in co-operation with the teachers and parents, the production moved like clockwork, amazing on the part of such youthful performers, several of whom were scarcely more than sub-primary age. The exquisite costumes of the flowers, birds, ferns and dreamland group, reflected the many hours of work put in by patient and loving mothers and friends. Full reward for such labor must have come in the grand finale when the picture made by the children in colors of every hue and tint—yellows, greens, rose, red, blue—left an impression to linger long in memory.

Virginia White as "Aunt Drusilla" acted the role like a veteran, evincing the histrionic talent possessed by her father, the late Kenneth V. White; also the sweet singing voice of her mother, Mrs. Evelyn White. All of the speaking parts were taken with assurance, and the solos with clear diction and sweet tonal quality. In the chorus the boys particularly shone, giving their numbers with marked spirit. The entire production was a distinct credit to all who helped in any way, and served as an eloquent forerunner of the treat in store for all those who attend the remaining presentations—Thursday night by the pupils of Benner Hill, The Highlands, Camden Street, and Tyler Schools, and Friday night by the McLain School.

In the cast of "Aunt Drusilla's Garden" were Virginia White, Lucille Stanley, Dorothy Banks, William East, Ronald Lufkin, Robert Jones and Vina Delmonico.

as a matter of fact, that some of the bewildered spectators failed to see the principals. It was like the feller who didn't see the forest because there were so many trees.

The line of march was from Park street to Rankin block, and as the wheelbarrow hit each projecting paving block the genial smile of James Accardi began to wane.

But the boys and girls had lots of fun, a sympathetic crowd bestowed its blessing, and a debt of honor was paid.

WANT BETTER ROAD

Four Counties Join Forces To Improve the Atlantic Highway

The officers, directors and executive committee of the Four Counties Republican Club, Inc., held their first monthly meeting in Damariscotta Tuesday night.

It was decided that permanent general headquarters for the organization be maintained to facilitate contacts between officers and committee members as well as with members of the organization. For the first year at least, this headquarters will be in Damariscotta.

The condition on Route 1, from Brunswick to Winterport, was discussed. Starting with the Bath-Brunswick road and the proposed Court street route into Bath. The condition of Route 1 from town to town all the way to Winterport was reported upon, and it was brought out very clearly that approximately 100 per cent of the voters along this route and its contiguous area, regardless of party, feel very strongly that the State has for years neglected to keep the route in good condition for motorists, and has at the expense of Route 1, kept the Brunswick-Lewis-Augusta route in so much better condition that the motorist not only preferred to use this route but were advised to do so by the State Publicity Department.

This neglect of Route 1 has resulted in the merchants along the route and through the adjoining towns losing much trade. It has resulted in the visitor to Maine missing the beauty of one of the most charming sections of the State. It has resulted in the loss of sales of real estate to good summer residents. At the meeting Tuesday night party lines were dropped by the Four Counties Republican Club in the interest of general business along Route 1 and the four counties of Sagadahoc, Lincoln, Knox and Waldo. Support was pledged by various service organizations through all four counties to a move toward getting this route put in condition to make its travel a pleasure to the motorist instead of a disagreeable task, to be avoided if possible.

Inasmuch as close to 10% of Maine's vote is cast in these four counties, it is hoped—and expected that this move, supported by all the voters of the four counties, will induce the State to take immediate steps toward making Route 1 at least an agreeable route over which to drive.

When voters, regardless of party, creed or color, involving an area the size of Sagadahoc, Lincoln, Knox and Waldo Counties can agree and do agree that some one thing is necessary for the welfare of them all it would seem that common sense alone would cause the State to act in compliance with these voters request.

Being a Deferred Report Of Easter Sunday At The Congregational Church

The sunrise service planned by the Comrades of the Way for Easter morning was cancelled on account of the snow, but the storm did not interfere with services at the Congregational Church. With the Claremont Commandery present at the morning worship service, it was necessary to carry in about 50 chairs to accommodate the Easter congregation. The decorations of the church centered chiefly in an eight-foot cross covered with galaxy leaves and bearing a huge wreath set with 20 Easter lilies. At the foot of the cross were placed 24 potted Easter lilies, most of which were sent in memory of members of the church who have passed on to their reward.

A golden vase containing 36 white carnations graced a table on the right, which was balanced by the pulpit on the left. The floral decorations were arranged by Jarvis Ferry. The ushers wore white carnations, and four young men distributed Easter calendars to members of the congregation as they entered the church.

The quartet sang "Awake Thou That Sleepest." Charles Rose sang "Open the Gates of the Temple," and the quartet with ladies' trio sang an excerpt from Gounod's "Redemption." The presence of the Commandery, with its escort, the Rockland City Band, added an appropriately colorful and significant touch to the whole service.

A special service was held in the evening, during which Miss Leah Ramsdell gave a splendid illustrated lecture on the Oberammergau Passion Play, which she attended in 1930. Illustrated with about 30 post card views, Miss Ramsdell's lecture was rendered in clear and impressive manner, displaying rare skill in reducing a dramatization which requires more than eight hours to present into a lecture of one hour's duration. About 85 were present, and all were deeply impressed by the lecture and its setting, and the two special duets sung by Mrs. Vivian Hewett and Mrs. Nettie Bird Frost.

Waldoboro—John Miller 234, C. Barter 266, E. Smith 292, C. Pritch 288, T. Ludwig 243, total 1323.

HAS LOST GOOD MEN

But Vinalhaven High Has Not Lost Its Sporting Blood By Any Means

Attention Styvie! Beware May 5. When Styvie takes his team to Vinalhaven May 5, he should get a good reception from the Vinalhaven fans. His interest and good sportsmanship in the past have done much toward keeping the old Knox and Lincoln League going strong.

Remember Styvie, when you left Thomaston, Vinalhaven High held the championship and is still champ with five straight cups to its credit, so beware that opening game.

Woodcock, last year's shortstop and pitcher, and Baum, star catcher and leading hitter, will be the men most missed this spring.

Four veterans are left from last year's team—Shields p. Erickson 33, Swanson 29, and Bunker I. Nickerson, who played second base in 1934, is back again this year. Last year Nick was out of the game due to ill health. These five men will probably be in the starting lineup.

Shields, a right hander, looked good in several games last year. Brown and Candage, both southpaws, and Beckman, a right hander, are the other pitching prospects. Brown, who is a freshman, looks especially good but lacks experience.

Erickson, last year's third baseman, is trying out for catcher, along with M. Smith and Alley.

Bunker and Brown are leading candidates for first base. Probably Nickerson will get the second base job with Swanson, last year's second baseman, the outstanding candidate for shortstop. Anderson, who played a couple of games in the outfield last year, is trying out for third base.

If Bunker plays first base the outfield will be made up entirely of rookie players. Following is a list of new men trying out: N. Smith, Chiles, Osgood, Conway, Peterson, R. Johnson, G. Johnson, Headley, E. Burgess, H. Burgess, Knowlton, Roberts, J. Webster, D. Webster, Bruce, Tolman, Lloyd, Nelson, Robinson and Gray. Several of these candidates are trying for the infield, but the majority of them are trying for the outfield.

It seems to your correspondent that finding hitting strength will be the big problem for Coach Swanson. Fielding should be O. K. and pitching as good, if not better, than last year. Fred Swanson, who assisted Coach Arey last year, is head coach, and Al Middleton is helping coach the pitchers. Coach Swanson says, "If we win the first game from Thomaston, watch out for us."

According to pre-season predictions, Rockland and Thomaston both will have better teams than last year. The fans are watching The Courier-Gazette for the opinions of St. George, Camden and Lincoln coaches.

Woodrow Bunker is captain of this year's team and William Bruce manager and Harvey Tolman assistant manager.

Let's go, and may the best team win, are my sentiments.

L. "Goose" Arey. WASHINGTON

The Ladies Guild will serve a public dinner Tuesday for the benefit of the Sunday School. Those not solicited are asked to take pastry.

Mrs. Inez Cunningham and Miss Mildred Merrifield were in Liberty Saturday on business connected with the schools.

The Easter concert held under the auspices of the Sunday School was largely attended. All the parts were well taken and much enjoyed by those present. Credit is due the superintendent for the untiring efforts he is putting into this work.

Mrs. Bernice Esancy who has been in Portland for the winter with her sister Mrs. Alfred Crockett, has returned home.

Mrs. Sidney Humes who has been a surgical patient at the State Street Hospital, Portland, has returned home much improved in health. The High School prize speaking contest will be held tonight at the Methodist Church.

The attraction at the Park for Friday will be sure-fire comedy with Edward Everett Horton telling his "in-laws" in no uncertain terms, just what he thinks of them. The title is "Her Master's Voice." The following day, Saturday, a dramatic, action-filled Western will supply excitement galore when Ken Maynard and Harry Woods play "Heir to Trouble."

Damage estimated at $300 resulted from an early morning blaze yesterday in the tenement at 44 Willow street owned by Isaac Berliawsky. The fire originated in the shed and worked up the outside to the attic. A large crowd was on hand to watch the firemen and applaud several comedy features which developed. The tenement was occupied by E. E. Perry.

Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Brooks and Mrs. H. V. Tweedie as lay delegate went to Augusta Tuesday to attend the 112th annual State Methodist Conference, opening that day and continuing over Sunday. Expressed skepticism on the part of some persons as to the value of the summer resort business, is frequently heard—and with little patience, by most of us. The Lewiston Journal has been doing some interesting figuring and gives the percentage of taxes paid in some of the towns. Here are a few instances of local interest: North Haven, 77 percent; Camden, 27 percent; Deer Isle, 40 percent; Monhegan, 70 percent; Islesboro, 80 percent; Castine 36 percent. And is it any wonder that summer residents sometimes feel that they should have some say in town affairs?

A solitary criticism was evoked by that beautiful picture "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," and this was because of the exaggerated shrieking of the heroine in one of the tense scenes. Sobbing and hysterics are not pleasant in any talking picture, and the sooner the producers realize that it is being overdone the more popular the pictures will become.

THOSE LIVELY LIONS

Three Members Initiated and One Voted In—Supt. F. D. Rowe Talks

Supt. Frank D. Rowe of the Warren and Union school district was guest speaker at the Rockland Lions Club yesterday, and vastly disappointed his listeners by stopping at end of 10 minutes, while the audience was in the grip of his fascinating review of Vash Young's widely read novel "A Fortune to Share."

Supt. Rowe told in brief sentences the story of a man who had approached life from viewpoints, distinctly different from those which the average man employs. How this man overcame disappointment, anger, fear—and how prayer helped him. Gloom is not a quality of God, and you are not praying rightly, was the advice given to a man who said he had not been helped by prayer.

Supt. Rowe completed his altogether too brief talk with an appropriate rhyme "Business Is Business, But Life Is Life."

A very general demand was expressed to hear Mr. Rowe again.

Two new members—Stanley R. Cushing of Thomaston and B. F. Frye of Rockland—did the initiation stunts. Another new member present was William A. Kennedy.

Robert Russell, Ensign Otis and Wilbur Senter were named delegates to the inter-district meeting in Portland Saturday and Sunday.

"Daniel" Boone and "Juddy" Orbeton were named as members of the entertainment committee for May.

Samuel E. Norwood was voted into membership and goes to the credit of Team 2, which is fattening certain turkeys for a prospective feast.

Levi Flint's lecture on "Getting Acquainted" was an impromptu gem, and got a deservedly good hand.

There was another good hand for the three Florida rusticators, John W. Burns, Henry A. Howard and A. B. Allen.

STRAND THEATRE

Romance, intrigue and excitement aloft are the themes of "Thirteen Hours By Air," the new Paramount drama.

Fred MacMurray and Joan Bennett play the leading roles in the film with ZaSu Pitts, John Howard, Benjie Bartlett, Grace Bradley, Ruth Donnelly heading the supporting cast. It's based on a magazine serial by Bogart Rogers.

Filed in the sky and at regular transcontinental airports through the cooperation of United Air Lines, "Thirteen Hours By Air" is the story of a New York-San Francisco flight in a transport plane piloted by MacMurray and Howard. Among the passengers are pretty Miss Bennett, who says she is a prominent socialite, but who MacMurray suspects is involved in a big jewel robbery; a nine-year-old heir to millions and his distracted governess, played respectively by Benjie Bartlett and ZaSu Pitts; and three suspicious-looking male passengers. As the plane roars across the continent, there is an attempted killing, an attempt to crash the ship, and a number of other dramatic incidents. How the plot is finally untangled brings the film to a dramatic climax.—adv.

A truck laden with supplies for local relief headquarters overturned near Stickney's Corner Tuesday night when it struck a soft shoulder of the highway. John Whalen of South Thomaston, who was driving, and Charles Staples of Rockland, who was with him, were badly cut and bruised, and the result of the X-ray is awaited as to possibility of more serious injuries. The truck was wrecked.

There is a new display of home-craft articles at the What-Not Gift Shop this week, quilts, tea cloths, pillow cases, lamps, pine pillows, bags, etc. Visitors welcome.—adv. 11*

THE INSIDE STORY

Whys and Wherefores Of the Townsend Plan Explained

Statesmen in charge of the Government are spending much time and energy and U. S. money in an attempt to create new markets in Europe, China, Russia, South America and Africa. People back of the Townsend Plan are fighting to create new markets for American goods in America—in our own back yard. The Townsend Plan will create a market for American made goods among the unemployed people in our own country. American made goods are being shipped out of this country—when they are needed by our own people, and foreign made goods are being imported which can be produced at home.

We need a new national policy, and a realization by American politicians that the American people come first. The people of the United States established the Constitution as the document itself says: In order to form a more perfect Union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity.

Article 1, Section 8, confers upon Congress the power to "lay and collect taxes . . . to pay the debts and provide for the . . . general welfare of the United States." These powers are expressly conferred upon the Congress by the Constitution. Therefore, if in the opinion of the Congress, the general welfare of the United States can best be served by retiring old people from labor competition, by giving employment to young people in their stead, by increasing business and commerce among the states, by discouraging crime, by establishing social security and contentment among the people; and to pay aged people retirement compensation out of money raised by equitable and just taxation, then Congress has the expressed constitutional power to enact the Townsend Plan into law.

The transaction tax: The principle of this tax has already been established. The Federal Government now collects transaction or sales taxes on the sale of hundreds of commodities from gasoline to face powder. The Townsend Plan simply extends this form of taxation to every person and business organization, equally, in proportion to the amount of business transacted. There is no discrimination as in our present tax system, favoring one group by putting a burden upon another. It is not unconstitutional for Congress to make our tax system more just to everyone.

Annuity Insurance: The principle of retirement or annuity insurance is also well established. The Congress has already provided, in certain occupations (Government service) that citizens may retire at a certain age and receive from the Government, thereafter and until death, an annuity or monthly pension. This pension is paid in part by a deduction from the citizen's income, and the balance from general taxation on other citizens for the benefit of this particular group. If Congress can (and it has) levy taxes on everybody to pay pensions to a preferred class, then it can, under the expressed power given it by the Constitution, levy a tax on everybody to pay pensions to all citizens. The Townsend Plan simply extends the Government pension system to every citizen. There is nothing unconstitutional in that.

Amount of Pension: Congress has the power to determine the amount to be paid in pensions, as it has already done in the Civil Service and in the case of war veterans. Congress has already authorized, and is now paying, old-age retirement annuities as high as $6000 per year. There is nothing unconstitutional in the Townsend Plan's $2400.00 per year old-age pension to every citizen.

Compulsory Spending: Money is created by the Government to provide a medium of exchange. The Constitution (Article 1, Section 9) gives to Congress complete and absolute authority over money. It has the right to appropriate tax money and determine how and for what it may be used. It has the power, and it has already made it a crime to destroy money. President Hoover, in 1932, denounced those who hoarded money as interfering with the "general welfare of the United States"—the language of the Constitution. The Constitution (Article 1, Section 9) gives Congress the power to "regulate commerce . . . among the several states." President Hoover declared, and financial authorities agreed, that the money received from every source, but it does mean that Congress has the power to appropriate money to stimulate business—"Commerce among the states"—and require that the money so appropriated (for pensions) must be put into the channels of trade, and that it should not be hoarded. This does not mean that a pensioner cannot save wealth. The best saving is money invested in a home and those things which make life worth while. The miser, the hoarder of money has long been a social outcast and long condemned by every community.

Retirement from gainful occupation: The pension feature of the Townsend Plan is not compulsory, no one is compelled to retire. It is optional. Therefore no one is unconstitutionally restrained or denied personal liberty, or choice of occupation, or gainful pursuit in any walk of life, by the Townsend Plan. But if one accepts the compensation from the Government, then the right to determine the condition under which it shall be paid automatically passes to the Government. When one accepts the condition he must abide by his own decision. There is no discrimination in this conditional pension, and all citizens are given an equal right to participate in this pension plan, after they reach 60, thus removing any constitutional question. The Government has already established its right to determine the age of retirement—in both civilian and war veterans' pensions.

Advertisements appearing on this page in no way indicate the sentiment of the advertiser or of this newspaper toward the Townsend movement. It is purely a business matter, but enables the various clubs of Knox County to publish weekly reports of activities

The Townsend Plan A National Recovery Program

The Townsend Plan has been presented to Congress as a national recovery program for the purpose of creating and stabilizing employment, stimulating agricultural, industrial, and general business activity—and to provide security for old age.

The Townsend Plan will accomplish this by requiring everybody, as they transact business to pay a revolving fund, in the form of a transaction tax to be collected by the United States Government—which in turn will be paid back into the channels of trade in the form of old-age pensions.

As each citizen, who is automatically insured, reaches the age of 60, he or she will be entitled to an annuity (old-age pension) of $200 per month for the balance of his or her life.

In order to qualify for this annuity, each person over 60 must take oath that he or she will spend the $200 in the United States within 30 days after it is received. This is to force the money back into circulation, to stimulate business and industry, to create additional jobs for those who have not reached 60—and to prevent hoarding.

Thus, the Townsend Plan strikes at three objectives: First, to increase business and develop prosperity by increasing the circulation of money and buying power among the masses; second, give opportunity to American youth and those under 60 now unemployed by creating new jobs because of the demand for more goods and services through the retirement of our elders with buying power; and third, give social security and a decent standard of living to our fathers and mothers in their declining years.

The Townsend Plan is not just an old-age pension plan. It is a national recovery program.

There is nothing as simple and basically sound as mutual insurance—when large numbers co-operate for mutual protection. In union there is strength. This applies with great force and is particularly true in the insurance business. Millions of people now pay money called premiums, into insurance funds of all kinds for their mutual protection.

When a person dies, a ship sinks, a house burns, an auto is stolen, a bank robbed (or something else happens against which you have purchased insurance) you or your dependents, or your creditors, are rewarded or reimbursed for the loss sustained. Bank deposits are now insured by the National Government.

The principle of insurance is the basic idea of the Townsend Plan. The plan when enacted into law will simply create a great national mutual insurance organization to be operated by the Government—under the Constitution . . . "to promote the general welfare, and to insure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity," as the purpose of Government is declared in that great document.

There is nothing experimental about the Townsend Plan. Every feature has been tried, tested, and worked out in the business world—and has been proven sound.

The great railroad organizations, and many great American corporations have long established and maintained employees' retirement insurance. This is simply the operation of the Townsend Plan on a small scale within a corporation. This employee's annuity insurance is maintained for the benefit of employees who have given a life of service, during their productive years, to a corporation.

At a certain age, they are retired and rewarded with an income for life. Who provides the money and where does it come from? The retirement fund in the corporation is established by the workers. They provide the money, during their productive years of service for the corporation. In other words, the employees earn their own retirement income—in addition to their salaries, wages, and profits which they produced for the corporation.

In an outstanding case, in an oil company, an executive head was retired on an income for life equal to the salary of the President of the United States. Samuel Insull, the well-known public utility promoter of Chicago, was voted a retirement pension for life by three corporations, totalling nearly $30,000 per year.

The Townsend Plan proposes to extend this long tried out and proven principle of annuity insurance to every citizen of the United States. The Townsend Plan proposes to operate this annuity insurance plan on a nation-wide scale, by giving everybody a retirement income at 60, through a transaction tax which would be paid by everybody during their productive years.

If the Townsend Plan can be operated by a private corporation or railroad company for the benefit of its employees—as a sound business program—then it can be operated by the United States Government for the benefit of all its citizens—as a sound Government program.

For What Can the Pensions Be Spent: Opposition to a pension of $200 per month comes principally from members of Congress, now drawing $833.33 per month, and professional and business people drawing from $500.00 to $10,000.00 and more per month. They ask the ridiculous question: how can a person spend $200.00 per month?

Last year, 1935, the Townsend organization sent out inquiries to thousands who would be entitled to receive $200 per month. The question was: "How would you spend your $200 per month?" Below is a summary of the replies received:

Oculists, dentists, nursing care and sanitariums, 397; clothing and wearing apparel, 376; remodeling, repairing, painting and additions to homes, 272; new automobiles, 229; payment of debts, taxes and mortgages, 227; new furniture, 222; self-improvement, travel, lectures, books, theatres, 315; buy or build a home, 198; help in house, lawn and garden, 153; electric refrigerator, 167; other electric appliances, 121; radio, 81; insurance, various kinds, 83.

All of the above expenditures are permitted under the Townsend Plan. Aside from wages paid to servants, annuitants cannot support others; and not more than 10 per cent of the monthly pension can be used for gifts or contributions to any person or to any public or private organizations. This answers the charge that old people could support others in idleness. People now drawing $500 or more per month, are not charged with supporting others in idleness. The pensioners are expressly forbidden to do so, and a violation of the law is punishable by a cancellation of the pension.

There will be no provision in the law restricting the expenditure of the pension, aside from gifts and maintaining other people in idleness. The above is only an indication of some of the things which old people indicate that they need and can buy.

no one is compelled to retire. It is optional. Therefore no one is unconstitutionally restrained or denied personal liberty, or choice of occupation, or gainful pursuit in any walk of life, by the Townsend Plan. But if one accepts the compensation from the Government, then the right to determine the condition under which it shall be paid automatically passes to the Government. When one accepts the condition he must abide by his own decision. There is no discrimination in this conditional pension, and all citizens are given an equal right to participate in this pension plan, after they reach 60, thus removing any constitutional question. The Government has already established its right to determine the age of retirement—in both civilian and war veterans' pensions.

CLUB NOTES

Rockland—On Dec. 19 nine local men met at Lee's barber shop on Park street and formed Rockland Townsend Club No. 1. Since then the club rapidly added membership. The first few weeks the meetings were held at the Park Sea Grill through kindness of George Lewis, proprietor, but attendance grew so large that it was necessary to engage K.P. hall. In order to meet the expenses of advertising, hall rent etc. the club has held entertainments and suppers every two weeks. The ladies of the club have taken a great interest and made it possible to add a substantial sum to the treasury. Rev. J. Clarence Leckemby, Republican candidate for Representative to Congress in the Second District has addressed the club twice and last Tuesday night Benjamin C. Bubar, candidate for Governor spoke to an audience that filled the hall and nearly 100 people partook of a delicious supper served for only 25 cents.

They ask how it is done. Well, the members donate the food and the ladies prepare it for fun. The investigation now going on in Congress, is not dampening the enthusiasm here. Each day new members are added and by the 15th of June there is likely to be hundreds at the polls in behalf of the Townsend Plan.

The regular Tuesday night baked bean supper for April is in charge of Mrs. Jasper Rawley. The entertainment will be conducted by Miss Bertha McIntosh. The men of the club have promised to wash the dishes. Supper served at 6 o'clock, tickets 25c.

Owl's Head—Recently this club held a big meeting at the Town Hall with J. Clarence Leckemby and Frank H. Mudgett as speakers. A fine program was presented by the talented members of the club. Ralph Everett is secretary of this club and has rolled up a large membership.

South Thomaston—April 9. Hon. Benjamin C. Bubar of Danforth, Republican candidate for Governor in the June primaries, spoke to an audience that filled the Grange hall. His subject was "Poverty in Maine and The Townsend Plan." A dance followed the lecture with music by the club orchestra.

Augusta—Frank Mudgett is very active in covering ground over his territory, addressing meetings and contacting workers. Fifty new members joined the Townsend forces at meeting in city hall, Augusta, where 350 people attended.

Portland—John H. Durgin, member of the First District Congressional Board, recently addressed Club No. 1 at Frye Hall, which was filled to capacity. He reports that this Club is a splendid organization and has over 500 members.

Pondosa—Club No. 1 has been holding many successful meetings and entertainments under the direction of N. W. Smith, president. Two recent events were a Washington birthday party and a Leap Year dance. Mrs. H. N. Holman and other women of the Club made a quilt which brought $25.22 into the treasury.

Biddeford—Fifteen new members were added to Townsend Club No. 1 at a recent meeting. Benjamin Spofford, of Old Orchard Beach, president of the club there, made the chief address.

Today eluding the riding-master Molly has climbed from crag to crag and we find her on the mountain top. She is fearless and does not mind the loneliness because she has been taught to meet every phase of life with a smile. Even at the moment she has in her pocket a "Smiling Sixpence" a token which her mother gave her as a charm against fear. Eventually she finds something besides trouble on the old mountain.

Club Agent Ruth Clark, worked with the "Sea Urchins" 4-H Club of North Haven and the "Fox Islanders" 4-H Club of Vinalhaven last week on April 8 and 9. Both clubs were shown how to make a dressing table using orange crates. Three types of covers were demonstrated showing the use of prints and bleached or dyed feed bag material which made attractive dressing tables for a girl's room. Other help was given on collar and cuffs. Using one of the club girls as a model, several types of collars were shown, after which the club members cut patterns of the ones they would like to make.

Much work has been accomplished by both clubs. Nearly every girl in the Fox Islanders of which Mrs. Cora Peterson is leader, has completed a sewing kit, holders, panties and are now working on pajamas, which is a good start for April. The Sea Urchins, with Mrs. Annie Mills, leader, have also completed their sewing kits, made holders, aprons, and other articles towards their club year's work. As this is their first year in club work, all clubs in North Haven and Vinalhaven are coming along very successfully.
