Union Party Candidate for Cong. P. O. SQUARE, SEPT. 9 at 6:30 P. M.
And At ROCKPORT at 8 o'clock Mr. Rogers, who is a forceful speaker, will have plenty to tell the voters of Knox County.
Don't miss this opportunity to hear him.
N. U. S. J. UNIT NO. 16

Now that the Connecticut system for rearing lobsters has been definitely recommended for Maine, figures on the cost of operating this plan should be interesting. F. N. Branning, in charge of the Noank Hatchery has supplied us with the 1935 report of activity.

A total of 492,000 fourth stage lobsters were hatched and released. The State budgeted $6,000 for this work only $4,100 was expended. This represents a cost of less than one cent a lobster. Done on a much larger scale, as would necessarily be the case in Maine the cost per lobster would be much smaller.

The Connecticut figures are:
Cost of Help .....$1,650 33
Cost of Liver ..... 813 87
Cost of Power ..... 543 78
Cost of Maintenance ..... 111 31
Cost of Egg-bearing lobsters ..... 836 28
Cost of Maintenance of Boat and Car ..... 154 43

The building and equipment cost approximately $20,000. As our coastline is many times longer than that of Connecticut we should plan to rear at least 10 times as many or 5,000,000 the first year. It is believed that 10 times as many lobsters should be reared for 4 times the cost or about $16,000. This is a small amount of money compared to the value of the lobster industry and the importance of saving it from oblivion.

The Department is much interested in the report of Dr. Johan Hjort of the University of Oslo, Norway, regarding the possibilities of shrimp fishing on a commercial basis in the Gulf of Maine. Several months ago Professor Hjort came to me and told me of his plans. After an exhaustive survey he is convinced that this overlooked fish food could be secured in large quantities to pay boats to go after them.

There has been reports of shrimp in the Gulf for many years and scallop draggers on Georges Bank have taken many aboard in times past. The Department is carefully studying the situation and endeavoring to find ways and means through which additional experimentation can be made. If the possibilities are there it offers the State of Maine a great opportunity to get the jump on other States and become the leading shrimp producing State of the North.

One of our seaports should be advertised and boosted as the "Shrimp Port of the North Atlantic" encouraging boats to fish and bring their wares ashore to our State. Lack of funds is the only thing that prevents us from plunging into this work with great activity. We have confidence in the report of Dr. Hjort and look for development in the shrimp business in a short time.

This is another example of the need of more funds for the Sea and Shore Fisheries Department. Our annual budget of $70,000 is pitifully small. From this we must maintain a staff of 30 wardens, the general offices, two boats and many incidental expenses. After the general expenses and salaries are paid we have but a very little left to use for promoting the industry, a work that is greatly needed.
With more money we could conduct work in marine farming of clams, quahaugs and oysters, rear lobsters, work on flatfish and ground fish and generally advertise and boost our fishing industry, one of Maine's greatest natural assets.
It is hoped that future Legislatures can see the possibilities ahead and take a more substantial interest in the fishing industry than has been the case in the past.

SHRIMP HARVESTING

May Become One of the Industries In Gulf of Maine, Feyler Thinks

Confidence in the report of Dr. Johan Hjort of the University of Oslo Norway, to the effect that there is great possibilities for the commercial harvesting of shrimp in the Gulf of Maine is expressed by Rodney E. Feyler, Commissioner of Sea and Shore Fisheries. Stating that he had been closely following the work of Dr. Hjort since it was started, Commissioner Feyler is endeavoring to find ways and means by which his Department can conduct activity towards establishing a new branch to our fishing industry. Lack of funds handicaps the Department in work of this kind but it is hoped that in some manner the commercial harvesting of this popular seafood may become a reality. Efforts to interest private capital in this venture is being made with an idea of establishing one of our Maine coast ports as "The Shrimp Capital of the North" in the case the harvesting operations prove successful.

"If Dr. Hjort's findings do prove to be the foundation of a new branch of the industry, Maine should take the lead in its development," said the Commissioner. "The Department will quickly finance additional surveys and promotion of this work if funds can be had or other ways can be found to bring such activity about. Many off-shore fishermen have caught shrimps in the past and it has been a belief for a long time that they exist in ample quantities in the Gulf of Maine."

If some Maine port takes the lead in this work it will establish itself as the leading packing, shipping and marketing headquarters of New England. The creation of a shrimp industry would be a tremendous boost

STRUCK BY CAR

Virginia Hutchinson, Young Stonington Girl, Instantly Killed Yesterday

Virginia Hutchinson, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Damon Hutchinson, of Stonington, was killed yesterday when struck by an automobile which investigating officials said was driven by Alex Larrabee, also of Stonington.

According to Reuben Cousins, town clerk, the child started to cross the road near her home, and as she did so the car which they say was driven by Mr. Larrabee, came in sight suddenly over the crest of a small hill a short distance away.

An investigation is being conducted by town officials and officers of the State highway police.

The Hutchinson girl was walking along what is known as the Green's Head road, with Mrs. C. J. Taylor, and her daughter, Mary, when the fatal accident occurred. Witnesses said that the girl started to cross the road just as the Larrabee car came in sight over a sharp rise in the road, and was unable to cross the highway before being struck.

After her lifeless body fell to the highway, the Larrabee car traveled 88 feet before being brought to a stop.

In the car with Larrabee, who is 19 years old, was Calvin Sturdee, 15, and George Billings, 18, both of Stonington, and Rolfe Billings, 17, of Rockland, who was visiting there for the day.

The findings of the investigators, Medical Examiner C. C. Knowlton, of Ellsworth, Reuben Cousins, Stonington town clerk, and State Highway Police Officer Gould, will be turned over to the Hancock county attorney, according to Officer Gould.

to the State's declining fishing industry it was pointed out.

GRAYS TAKE THE FIRST

Early Lead Gives Them Victory Over the Pirates In the City Series

The Pirates outbatted the Rockland Grays at Community Park Sunday afternoon, but made four expensive errors and lost the first game in the winner-take-all city series.

The Grays ramped along with an easy lead for eight innings, but in the ninth frame the piratical gentlemen had lost their stage fright, and pounded Spofford for three runs. There were still two on when the Grays stopped the stampede, Chuck Ellis making one of the famous adom-men catches, while Cal Smith transplanted from catcher's position neatly handled Heald's grounder.

It is safe to say that the Grays will not underrate their opponents in the second of the three games which constitutes this series. To a man the Pirates are undismayed by the outcome of Sunday's game, and are promising a different result with the next encounter.

The big noise in Sunday's performance was Cal Smith, the gentleman from St. George, who has helped put so much pep into the Knox Twilight League this season while wearing the Rockland mask. He was in fettle Sunday snipping off five bas runners with his well directed heaves meantime keeping up a chatter which would have done credit to Dizzy Dean.

Boynnton deserved a much better fate, errors entering into all but two of the scores which were made off him.

Cannon opened the eighth inning with a nice triple—and how that long-gear person can run when the occasion requires it. This blow formed its counterpart in Woodard's last swat. Crowell carried off the batting honors with three singles. Heald and Perry did some classy fielding.

CHATTED WITH LINCOLN

A Former Resident of St. George, Now 98, Recalls Civil War Days

Many Knox County readers, particularly those who reside in St. George will be interested in the following article from a recent issue of the New Bedford Standard:

Marion has a resident still alert, friendly and cheerful, helpful and still doing for many others, who will be 98 on Sunday. No woman in Marion can recall more exciting incidents and a more picturesque life than Mrs. Bethia Hart of Pleasant Street. Her memory of the first nine years of her life is still vivid to her when she spent her childhood at Tenant's Harbor, Me. She moved to Marblehead with her parents, her father following the life of a fisherman.

She married Gamaliel Morss of Marblehead, one of the first men killed during the Civil War, a member of the crack 8th Regiment which had previously escorted King Edward VII, then Prince of Wales, on his visit to America, when he visited Boston in 1860. Towards the close of the Civil War, she was married to Reuben F. Hart, captain of the schooner he had built and called the "R. F. Hart." The boat was pressed into service to carry supplies for the government and assigned to the Commissary Department. The last three months of the War they were stationed at City Point, Washington, D. C.

Met President Lincoln

She met President Abraham Lincoln when the boat was unloading supplies for the Union Army. Often to escape the pressure at the White House, Lincoln would spend the night in his boat docked at City Point, and he would chat with them in the morning. She loved Lincoln dearly and still thinks of him as a most wonderful man. Both she and Captain Hart were present at the surrender of General Robert E. Lee to General Ulysses S. Grant. She can still picture Lee astride his charger and though not in sympathy with the cause for which Lee fought, she admired his high type of character and his sincerity.

She remembers coming through Hampton Roads to Cape Henry when she saw the burning of a Union vessel by the Alabama. When Captain Hart saw the light of the burning ship, he immediately ordered all torches and lights aboard the schooner lighted up brilliantly. When the enemy saw this "they thought we, too, were afraid and in this way we got in safely," she recalls.
Mrs. Hart was well acquainted with every rope and sail, and once, when the schooner was headed north, the crew with the exception of the mate and cook were taken ill with fever. Mrs. Hart proceeded to sail the schooner into port. The sailors who are left who sailed the seas with the Harts for eight years, call on her and tell tales of how capable she was. During the worst storms, she could always be found preparing coffee for the men hard at work at the pumps. While in Boston, an advertisement offering a "place for sale" in Marion caught the Harts' eye. They came, they saw, and bought the house within which she has spent so many years.

Recalls Early History

When they first settled in 1870, Marion was a very primitive town. There was rivalry between the Universalists and Congregationalists so one creed painted its property yellow, and the other white. One old sage came to give her advice on how to get along in town; "You must be very careful what you say, for everybody is everybody's cousin." In those days, persons were very interested in getting their share of herring and there was much scurrying to get the rights from the households that didn't want their full quota.

Mrs. Hart still knits mittens, sending them wherever she thinks they are needed. One pair is headed for an orphan youngster in Vermont. Fancy work and quilts keep her nimble fingers busy. Stockings for the sailors are sent each year to the Fishermen's Institute at Gloucester and she makes countless little gifts to give to her many callers. She has two grandchildren from her first marriage, Orion Morss of this town, James Morss and seven great-grandchildren; two children by the second marriage, Miss Augusta Hart and Reuben Hart of Malden. Although an invalid for the past 13 years, Mrs. Hart still chuckles at life and finds it worthwhile.

THIS WEEK'S RALLIES

Rockport Tonight, Thomaston Wednesday Night and Camden Thursday Night

Knox County Republicans are to hold several important rallies this week, and the voters will find the following announcements helpful.

Tuesday night, Sept. 8, at 7:30 daylight time, Rockport Opera House, Lewis O. Barrows, Republican candidate for Governor making his only Knox County appearance. With him will be Clyde H. Smith, Congressional candidate.

Wednesday night, Sept. 9, at 7:30 daylight time, Watts Hall, Thomaston, ex-Mayor Robert A. Cony of Augusta and Clyde H. Smith. Mr. Cony spoke in Thomaston two years ago, and proved so popular that there was a general demand to hear him again.

Thursday, Sept. 10 at 7:30 daylight time, Camden Opera House, Congressman Hamilton Fish, Jr., and Mrs. Paul Fitzsimmons. Mr. Fish is one of the most brilliant members of Congress and has been mentioned in connection with the Presidency.

Announcements for the remainder of the week, including the big Rockland rally at Temple hall Saturday night will be made in Thursday's issue.

A new sound truck, the largest ever seen in this section, will be present at each meeting to accommodate those outside of the hall.

DROWNED IN THE HARBOR

Ernest Grover, 14, Loses Life When Skiff Is Swamped—Two Other Boys Saved

The swamping of a flat-bottomed skiff, loaded with seaweed, which they had been gathering on the rocks at Ingraham Hill, left Ernest Grover, his brother Neil and Raymond Brann struggling in the water.

Ernest Grover, who was reputed to be a good swimmer, was drowned but the other lads managed to keep afloat until rescued by Alderman M. M. Condon and Robert Powers who witnessed the disaster and went immediately to their assistance.

It was several hours later before young Grover's body was recovered by Clarence Carr and Pearl Look, who had been despatched for that purpose by Harold W. Look, a wholesale lobster dealer whose place of business was near the scene of the tragedy. They had hastily constructed dragging apparatus and were successful in their first attempt. The body was placed in the custody of the police who had begun dragging immediately after the drowning.

The victim was 15 years of age and a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest H. Grover of 11 Carroll's Lane. With school near at hand the boy had said this would be his last trip after the "weeds."

MORE SEATS NEEDED

Ruth Draper Entertainment At Camden Pleased Distinguished Audience

In the field of art fame is achieved when a name alone tells the story. A vivid example of this was given when the announcement was made that Ruth Draper would be presented in a program at the Camden Opera House Sept. 4. There were no columns of publicity explaining who Miss Draper is or what she does, just the brief announcement and no more. And yet Friday night found Camden Opera House packed, many extra seats being brought in to accommodate the patrons. Miss Draper could find none of her New York audiences containing more distinguished representatives of the arts or more devoted patrons of the arts than sat there in Camden that night. And surely no audience could be more appreciative, the spontaneous laughter, the breathless attention, the enveloping hushes, and the prolonged applause and "bravas" must have convinced Miss Draper she was amongst her very own.

(b) After 15 years, In the City
(c) After 40 years, On a Farm

To comment and review this program can be done in no more able way than to quote from an article entitled "Let Who Will Be Clever" by J. Brooks Atkinson from the New York Times:
"When the vociferously appreciative auditors of Ruth Draper remark confidentially, 'Isn't she clever,' you are likely to resent the pallor of their approval. Cleverness is right enough in its way, but it must not be confounded with the abundant depth and range of Miss Draper's art. Ten minutes of cleverness is as much as the normal human being can endure. That might be the kind of pragmatic prejudice to abide by if Miss Draper's inscrutable art did not intervene lime one healthy person in the dreary assembly of anemic poses. No one person can evoke from herself so bizarre a procession of characters and so much of the essence of human life unassisted save by a chair or two, a shawl or a shabby sweater. No one can play so many tunes on one instrument. These who have not seen her will not believe it, but those who have already become her myrmidons know that every movement in her acting is enkindled from the godhead fire.

"So completely does her acting dominate her material that we may not appreciate the skill with which she has written her dialogues in dramatic form, crowding her stage with the phantoms of persons who live only there in imagination, and setting them off against scenery in which the doors and windows or the many tables of a restaurant or the air-tight stove and wall telephone of a railway station, are constructed in the living air of fancy. The sketches are vibrantly circumstantial. While madame is taking her lesson in Italian, 'skipping right through Dante' the cook, the seamstress, the maid, the children, the dogs, the dresses, the books, the telephone call from the husband, and finally the furtive and ardent call from her lover, barely suggested by the warmth of her expression and a new tone in her voice, round out the sketch completely and peer into the past and the future of this worlding. She picks the Dalmatian immigrant out of sentimentality and unobserved generality by evidence equally circumstantial; again, she sketches a complete life and character. All up-State New England hobbles rheumatically through the pinched villager who 'feels kinda porely', as she rocks on her front veranda and rattles on endlessly about the maladies and misfortunes that pursue her townfolk."

FREDERICK L. STARRETT

Frederick L. Starrett died in Los Angeles, Aug. 19 of shock following an operation. He was born in Thomaston Feb. 1, 1867 and was widely known as a Y.M.C.A. secretary, having served in that capacity in Bangor, Cambridge, Mass., Malden, Mass., Rochester, N. Y., Denver, Colo., and Oakland, Calif. He also managed hotels operated by the Y.M.C.A. in Buffalo. His death followed that of Mrs. Starrett by less than two months.

Mr. Starrett leaves a sister, Mrs. Parker Page, of Portland, a brother, E. P. Starrett of Thomaston, and five children, Harold N. Starrett, Mrs. Murrell Maudlin, Mrs. Stanley D. March, Mrs. Al St. Clair, and Mrs. D. L. Case, all of Los Angeles.

"HAM" FISH COMING

Former Captain of Harvard
Football Team To Speak
At Camden Rally

Rep. Hamilton Fish, Junior, of
New York, who speaks in Camden Thursday night is an outstanding figure in American public life, who has been in the United States House of Representatives for 16 years.

Mr. Fish, who comes from a distinguished New York family, captained the Harvard football team, was selected by Walter Camp as an All-American for two years and began his political career by serving in the New York State Assembly for two terms, 1914-1916 as a progressive follower of the late President Theodore Roosevelt.

During the World War he commanded the 15th New York Volunteers, later known as the 369th Regiment of Infantry, and took part in the Battle of Champagne, for which he was awarded the French Croix de Guerre and the American Silver Star for gallantry in action. With the Army of Occupation he served in the Fourth Division.

In 1919, he aided in forming the American Legion and the following year was named to Congress to fill a vacancy.

In 1930, Mr. Fish was appointed chairman of a special House Committee to Investigate Communist Activities in the United States and gained front-page publicity for his work in exposing subversive movements.

Mr. Fish is a dynamic speaker, with a full knowledge of economics and he discusses current issues with clarity and power.

ROCKLAND WINS SECOND PRIZE

Eleven-Inning Game At St. George Was a Factor In the Seesaw Race

Knox County Twilight League completed its long schedule yesterday.
The championship was virtually decided by midsummer, the Camden Shells playing a brand of baseball which left no doubt as to their superiority. Second place was not decided until yesterday afternoon, when Rockland won at Thomaston and Camden defeated St. George in an 11-inning contest. The final standing:

Camden	26	9	740
Rockland	16	18	463
St. George	15	19	441
Thomaston	11	22	333

St. George Took Both

Camden showed an amazing change of form at St. George Saturday afternoon, losing both games 4 to 1. The team which has been playing such brilliant ball all season—in a class by itself, as this paper has frequently remarked—made but seven hits in the two games, three of them off a second string pitcher. The Camden errors were mainly those of omission rather than commission.

In the first game Colbath polished off the Camden batters with comparative ease, their lone score being due to Wadsworth's double and a hot grinder by Wheeler which went through M. Simmons. Brown held St. George to five hits, but all were converted into the process of score-making. An exceedingly difficult foul catch by Lord got a big hand.

The second game went with equal ease to St. George in spite of the fact that young Mackie passed six-men. Two of these passes came in the third inning, and were coupled with an error and a single, but bashful Camden renounced the opportunity to score.

The features of this game were Dailey's one hand catch of I. Simmons' fly; Smalley's running catch of Leonard's fly; and the excellent fielding of M. Simmons.

The scores:

ors found Stimpson for five singles and two doubles, and this onslaught, aided and abetted by two grievous errors, netted St. George eight runs, four of which were made after two men were out, and chance had been given to retire the third.

The Grays emerged from their trance to score three runs in the fifth and two more in the eighth, but their real chance came in the sixth when the first four Rockland batters reached first. Did anybody score?
No, Rosy. Dimick was trapped between bases, Ellis fanned and Cannon's excellent attempt at a Texas Leaguer was smothered by Maurice Simmons, whose one error did not detract from the fine game he played.

Wiley led the hitting with two doubles and a single.

The score by innings:

St. George	0 0 0 8 0 0 0 1—9
Rockland	0 1 0 0 3 0 2 0—6

Base hits, St. George 12, Rockland
8. Two-base hits, M. Simmons, Wiley
2, Ellis. Bases on balls, off Polky 3, off Stimpson 1, off Lowell 2. Double plays, Polky, Davidson and I. Simmons; Wiley and Smalley. Errors, St. George 1, Rockland 5. Batteries, Polky and Mackie; Stimpson, Lowell and Smith. Umpires, Black and Win-capaw. Scorer, Winslow.

Rockland 8, Thomaston 5

Hopes of winning second money dwindled for Rockland in the early half of yesterday afternoon's game in Thomaston for the home team scored five runs in the first four innings and the Grays were not even close to getting a man across the pan.
Lowell was retired in the first inning, and Stimpson who succeeded had the opposing batters baffled with the exception of Condon, who made four successive hits, including a double, and Felt who made a single.

The Grays hit safely four times in the fifth inning, netting three runs, and took the lead in the ninth on a single.

Bohndell, Robbins and Dimick did some fine work in the outfield.

The score by innings:

Rockland	0 0 0 0 3 1 0 13—8
Thomaston	4 0 1 0 0 0 0 0—5

Base hits, Rockland 10, Thomaston 10. Two-base hits, G. Robbins. Three-base hit, Ellis. Bases on balls, off Upham 2. Struck out, by Stimpson 2, by Upham 2. Double play, Oney and Connon. Errors, Rockland 5, Thomaston 4. Umpires, Sawyer and Fey-ler. Scorer, Winslow.

PIPE LOVERS AGREE THIS TOBACCO IS "THE NATIONAL JOY SMOKE"

ROY HAWKINS liked Prince Albert from the very start. "The first time I opened one of those big red tins, I found P. A. a pleasant surprise," he says. "What aroma! And I noticed that the flakes are shaped differently. That's why each P. A. pipeful burns slower and cooler and lasts longer.
Each of those big red economy tins holds around 50 pipefuls. That's a real saving."

THE 'NO-BITE' PROCESS
TAKES OUT ALL STING AND HARSHNESS

"TOBACCO experts will tell you that Prince Albert has a special bite-removing process that assures mildness and gets rid of throat harshness," remarks Alex Morrison.

DAVE MYRICK rolls tasty cigarettes with Prince Albert in double-quick time.
Gives the credit to P. A.
"Prince Albert sort of fits into the paper. There's no waste," Dave says. "And
P. A. can't be beat for rich, flavorful mildness, either."

I'm glad I'm a P. A. smoker."

THE AMERICAN BOY

Remarkable Magazine For Youth Teaches Sports and Skill

Boys and young men who want to improve their crawl stroke, their basket shooting, their hurdling, their tennis backhand, or their ball carrying, can enlist the aid of the nation's foremost coaches and players by subscribing to The American Boy magazine and following the sports interviews and fiction stories that appear each month.

For the coming year staff writers have gone to two of the greatest football teams in the country—Minnesota and Southern Methodist—for first hand tips on strategy, blocking, ball carrying, passing, and the fine points of line play. They have written the story of Bobbie Wilson, All-American halfback.

They have interviewed famous track coaches like Bernie Moore and Bob Simpson. Have gone to the University of Oklahoma to learn "how college champions wrestle, to Notre Dame for the story of the building of a great basketball team. They have sought out famous baseball players, swimmers, tennis champions and All-American backs, to get their story of how to play the game.

American Boy fiction is jammed with instructive background details telling how to play a better game.
And the rest of the magazine is jammed with adventure, exploration, vocational help and articles vital to boys.

Ohio State University's track head, coach of the famous sprinter and low hurdler, Jesse Owens, and himself a former hurdling star, first learned to hurdle from articles in The American Boy. "I used to cut out hurdling pictures and duplicate them in front of a mirror. Then on the track I'd follow that form."

Today thousands of future champions are just as eagerly following The American Boy. Send your subscription to The American Boy, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Mich. Enclose with your name and address $1 for a year's subscription, $2 for

OLD SAILING DAYS

Recalling Loss of Bark Minnie M. Watts and Some Other Matters

Edwin S. Watts sends me an interesting letter about the maritime history of two Maine shipbuilding towns. Before we go into it I would like to know if there are any old-timers forward who can give me some information about the two Maine built ships or barks, Reaper and Thrasher. They were built well along toward the latter part of the last century. Shipmate Watts' letter follows:

"While on a trip to Manhattan Beach, Oregon, this summer I had the pleasure of reading a history of the towns of Thomaston and St.
George, Maine. Thomaston is called the 'town of a hundred captains,' and of these, 25 were of the Watts family. My grandfather, Capt. William Watts, and my father, Captain Edwin Watts, were of that number.

"My father, mother, brother, and two sisters were lost in the bark Minnie M.
Watts. They sailed from New York
May 20, 1883, bound for Portland Oregon, loaded with rails and car wheels. July 20 they were spoken by the J. B. Walker, of Thomaston, east of Cape Horn. The week following, British ship, during a heavy storm, saw a vessel disappear to the westward of that position. I have always thought it was my father's vessel.

"My wife's grandfather, J. Morton, started shipbuilding in Thomaston, in the year 1826. Among the ships he built were the James Nesmith, 1850; Rochambeau, 1851; ship S. Curling 1854; ship Eagle, 1859; ship Ocean
Chief, 1853.

"My father was captain of the ship James Nesmith in the years 1860 to 1863. While lying at anchor in the Maritime Provinces, I do not remember which one—the ship was cut down to the water's edge by the cable steamer Great Eastern. The ship S.
Curling was commanded by my maternal grandfather, Capt. Saunders Curling. The ship Ocean Chief was built to sell in the New York market, but, that market being dull, Capt.
Curling was given full power of attorney to take the ship to New Orleans, load cotton for Liverpool, and sell her at that port. This he did receiving $36,000 for her."

Those who attended the Educational Club's picnic at Mrs. Minnie Miles' home looked upon it as a happy coincidence that the two prominent speakers should be Bowdoin Classmates—Hon. William S. Linnell of Portland and Prof. Wilbert Snow of Wesleyan University. Their addresses and informal badinage proved them to be on opposite sides of the political fence, however.

In the course of his extensive sea travels Edward Gonia has been a visitor at Tampico, Mexico, and while there, was induced to attend a bull fight. His impressions of that "sport" and others which he gained in the Mexican city he will present before the Rockland Lions Club Wednesday. Ed is one of the oldest members of the Rockland Club and the boys will be out in force to hear him.

Capt. J. H. Melvin's memory is in prime condition, and he calls to mind some vessels which were not named in previously reported lists—Bark Eva H. Fish, Capt. Moses Fish; Schooner Emma C. Verrill, Capt. Albert Fales; Schooner Yacht Wanderer, Ship Clarissa Bird, Capt. Hanson G. Bird; Schooner S. C. Loud and Schooner Fannie Bucklin. The Wanderer, reported to have been a slave, was bought by Rockland parties; rebuilt by I. L. Snow & Co., and made the passage from Rockland to Savannah in six days.

THREE DEMOCRATS

Address Rallies in Rockland and Camden—Decry the Hearst Influence

Democratic candidates Brann, Dubord and McLean invaded Knox County last night with meetings in Rockland and Camden. Those who saw the small gathering on the Court House lawn doubtless smiled when they read in a morning paper that the speakers were welcomed in Rockland by "between 800 and 1000 persons" and that the rally "was the largest in the Democratic party's history in Rockland."

This paper certainly has no desire to minimize the opposition's efforts, but in the opinion of several disinterested persons there were not 200 persons on the Court House lawn at any stage of the proceedings. Many cars were parked around the two available sides of the square, but quite a number of them bore the bumper signs of a Republican candidate.

The meeting, however, was an excellent one, and those present heard three very capable speakers. "I don't believe," said Gov. Brann, "that they can tell the people of Maine how they should vote. I don't believe that all their money and the influence of William Randolph Hearst will influence the mind of the voters of Maine. They have but one purpose and that is to defeat the Governor of Maine in order to help the Governor of Kansas. I think the people of Maine will decide to take care of their own governor, that is, if he has been of any service to them in these last few troublesome years."

Mr. Dubord declared that President Roosevelt has done more for the young people in the last three years than was done in the 20 years previous to Roosevelt.

"And in four years," said Mr. Dubord, "the Democratic Governor has put Maine on the map and has made it take its rightful place of leadership among the states of the Nation."

"The young men and women of Maine in my opinion," said Mr. Dubord, "feel that the election of the present Democratic candidate in Maine holds more of promise not only for the immediate present but for the future. Give America four more years of President Roosevelt and give the State of Maine a forward looking administration and Maine will live up to its motto, 'Dirigo.'"

Ernest L. McLean declared the election of the Democratic candidates held forth to the people "performance instead of promises." He said that a continuance of federal aid for social security, protection and for public construction, and highways can only be assured by the election of Democratic candidates to Congress. The next President, the Senate and the House will be Democratic, he said, and for that reason Maine should have Democratic representation in Washington.

At the Camden rally Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, wife of the noted artist, and the original Gibson girl, presided. In presenting Governor Brann she led him to the edge of the platform and called the audience to its feet "because I want you to know the best Governor that Maine has ever had, your friend and my friend, and the next United States Senator from Maine."

WALDOBORO

Waltz-Hoak

Saturday proved an ideal day for the Waltz-Hoak wedding held in the Baptist Church at high noon. The entrance hall and auditorium were beautifully decorated with cedar trees as a background for pink gladioli and aisle baskets of cosmos. The white altar table was flanked on either side by white candles in tall bronze holders. The decorations were in charge of Mrs. A. R. Benedict, well known in this and other states for her skill along this line.

Before the ceremony, Mrs. Gretchen Simmons sang, accompanied by John Heiser of Bremen and Somerville, Mass. Mr. Heiser also played the Lohengrin march at the entrance of the bridal procession.

The bride, Miss Cora A. Hoak, was charmingly gowned in white lace with a long veil fashioned with halo effect and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and swansonia. She was escorted by her father, Millard E. Hoak, who gave her in marriage. The matron of honor, Mrs. Leon A. Achorn of Belmont, Mass., was gowned in peach-colored lace, wearing a hat of brown velvet and carrying Talisman roses and blue delphinium.

James A. Waltz, the groom, was attended by Leon A. Achorn. The ushers were Percy Waltz, brother of the groom, Garland Day, Ernest Boggs and Benjamin Geale, Rev. Horace M. Taylor, pastor of the Baptist Church, officiated. Following the wedding a reception was held with Mr. and Mrs. Millard Hoak, parents of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Alden Waltz, parents of the groom, assisting in receiving with the bridal party. After a wedding trip the couple will make their home in town.

Mr. Waltz is a graduate of Waldo-boro High School and the New England School of Anatomy, Boston. He is well known as an undertaker in this and other towns. Mrs. Waltz is also a graduate of the Waldo-boro High School and is employed in the Medomak National Bank.

OUR BOOK CORNER

Relieved and gratified, to use his own words, after seeing the Warner production of his "Anthony Adverse," Hervey Allen departed Manhattan confident that the thousands of New Yorkers who have read his book will find the motion picture version a satisfying reprise of an important part of his thousand and one or more pages of compelling adventure.

Mr. Allen left to join his family in the countryside around Syracuse whither they had fled to escape the heat along Maryland's Eastern Shore. It is said that Mr. Allen is a family man, safely pictured as tall, solid, sometimes bespectacled, surrounded by children and admiring dogs, patiently striving to bring to fruition his new novel. Warner Brothers have chopped his book in two, leaving enough for a sequel in case the demand warrants such a novel procedure, yet Allen is a roofer for the cinema.

The title of his new book, "Action at Aquila," is alliterative like "Anthony Adverse," and also contains fourteen letters. This is no coincidence; Mr. Allen is a hunch player.

Fannie Hurst, daughter of the owner of a large Middle Western shoe factory, started writing while still a student at Washington University. Two years after her arrival in New York, she sold her first story. The next eleven were rejected. She now has eight or more novels to her credit, as well as hundreds of short stories and several motion-pictures. She works six hours a day in seclusion, but lives vigorously the rest of the time, and takes an active interest in public affairs. She keeps a menagerie of pets, including a monkey. She was named by Col. Edward M. House as one of 15 women capable of filling a high government post.

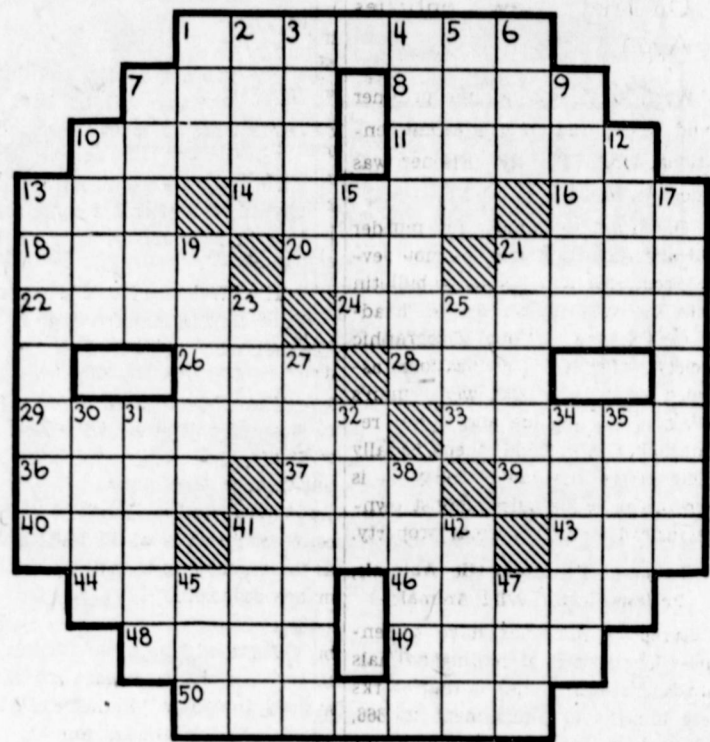

Noting Mary Ellen Chase's article "The Abundant Life in Books," in the September issue of Ladies Home Journal, an reminded that I listened to a friend tell of hearing Miss Chase recently at University of Maine. In this lecture the Maine author told how she writes and so on, and also enlarged at quite some length on the value of Maine traditions. Evidently Miss Chase deeply loves Maine, yet this friend could not reconcile the polished English diction she uses with "Maine tradition." I have heard others comment on this point.

The undying story of Lawrence of Arabia has gone again into print—this time in the form of a biography by Charles Edmunds (D. Appleton-Century Company). A reviewer says that this book takes a worthy place among the life stories of great figures of world history. Mr. Edmunds' brief, clear and exceedingly well-written record undoubtedly will bring Lawrence's life and personality within the acquaintance of a wider public and also form a good supplement to the books already at hand. It is a record in which the author has made a distinct effort to avoid sentimentalizing or romanticizing his subject, or playing up elements that are spectacular, or even that are unusually picturesque. And of course with such a hero as Lawrence and such a career as his, the book gains in impressiveness by such conscientious care.

Charles Morgan, noted English author, has a most interesting article in the latest New York Times (Sunday edition), entitled "Why Not a Holiday from the Bard?" Mr. Morgan says that the performances of Shakespeare that are being given this summer in the Open Air Theatre at Regent's Park (London) prompt in him the heretical thought that not only the English but perhaps the English-speaking peoples would benefit by a holiday from Shakespeare, and that in the end Shakespeare would benefit accordingly. He maintains that there is an atmosphere of piety and good works about Shakespearean productions nowadays which is cramping and destructive, even when given out under the open sky. Quoting: "Shakespeare stands in a category by himself. He has been consistently thrust down the people's throats for years. They have been taught that there are two classes of poets—Shakespeare and the rest, which is an extravagant way of asserting his ascendancy. By treating him as a god, an institution, a subject for schools; by pulling his plays to pieces line by line, and examining each word in the spirit of jealous inheritors disrupting a will; by organizing, in Stratford, annual festivals with processions and banners and ambassadors and feasts, we have represented the greatest of our dramatists as a bore.

"What is needed is a little healthy hunger for Shakespeare. It will never be felt as long as the diet is compulsory. The first step is to drop him clean out of school curriculum except proportionately with other

LAW AND ANIMALS

All Sorts of Creatures Were On Trial a Few Centuries Ago

"Woof, woof," was all the prisoner could say for himself in a recent sensational trial. For the prisoner was a dog.

"The trial of animals for murder and mayhem was fairly common several centuries ago," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. "Primitive civilizations assumed that animals were man's equals in intelligence and moral responsibility, and held them equally liable before the law. Today it is more usual to file suits against owners instead of their animal property."

Civil Courts For Domestic Animals, Ecclesiastical for Wild Animals

"European countries have a centuries-long record of hailing animals into court. Rumor has it that storks were brought to punishment in 666, but archives are not complete for cases earlier than that against moles in the ninth century. In the fifteenth century especially, persecutions by the score were brought against rats, insects, and domestic animals."

"It was in France, Switzerland, and Germany that beasts most frequently locked horns with the law, and occasionally in Italy and Belgium. History tells of trials also in Spain, Russia, Denmark, England, and Scotland. Even at that, it is doubtful whether history tells all."

"Murder was the usual charge. Pigs figured prominently among the dumb criminals, no doubt because they mingled with their human neighbors in streets and peasant homes with little restriction."

"Domestic animals were booked for charges before civil courts like human offenders, but wild animals were committed to the judicial branch of the church. Ecclesiastical courts handled, suits even against snails, snakes, caterpillars, horseflies, grasshoppers, dolphins, locusts, eels, and most frequently rats. The accused, being dumb, would be assigned a gib human advocate, would have charges read loudly before their haunts or holes, and were usually punished with anathema and banishment."

"This procedure was followed in the new world with a Canadian suit against turtles."

"Murder was not the sole crime which brought beasts before the bar. Domestic animals in the house where crime had been committed were condemned as accessories and executed in accordance with an old South German law. Oxen could be killed in early Rome for serving a farmer in plowing up a boundary marker. Certain ants were convicted, two centuries ago in Brazil, of undermining the cellars of a monastery and stealing flour. In Basel, Switzerland, in 1474, an aged rooster was solemnly tried and burned at the stake for laying an egg."

Judge Awards Death, Imprisonment or Diplomatic Immunity

"A dog found guilty of biting without first barking a warning was to be punished as for wilful murder, according to an ancient Persian law. In the Congo valley a thiefing dog is hanged and left dangling as a warning to humans with an over-developed acquisitive instinct. Dramatists have been driven to satire by some of the charges made against animals. Aristophanes made fun of trying a dog for stealing a cheese, and more recently Racine wrote the heartrending tragedy of a dog condemned to the gallies for chicken-stealing, leaving a bereaved family of six puppies!"

"Beasts in the jungles of law meet various fates. Most, when condemned to pay the extreme penalty, have been hanged on special gallows, hanged by the hand legs to a bent tree, or ceremoniously knocked in the head. Some were buried alive, some burned alive, others strangled alive and mercifully throttled before being burned. Their legal prosecution has been known to include torture on the rack, although no confessions were forthcoming. A dog in Austria was sentenced to a year in the pillory, and a Russian goat was exiled to Siberia. In France a donkey was acquitted on the strength of testimonials of good character. In Washington, D. C., it was decided that a foreign ambassador's dog could avail itself of its master's diplomatic immunity."

"Whatever may be an animal's legal end, great care has been taken to guarantee due process of law in reaching it. Appeals and new trials were granted to condemned brutes. Once when an executioner publicly hanged a homicidal pig without holding it for trial and conviction, for his illegal act he was run out of town in disgrace. The law tolerated no undignified rushing of its animal outcasts to the gallows; legitimate expenses for some medieval executions included the cost of rope for bonds, hire of a cart for riding that last mile—and new gloves for the hangman."

"Either codified law or primitive tribal law has passed judgment on nearly everything on Noah's passenger list. Tribal justice has demanded a life for a life from crocodiles, buffaloes, and lions. European law courts have tried goats, cows, mules, sheep, and bulls. Horses have been convicted of manslaughter but spared as too valuable to sacrifice to the demands of justice."

"The United States has given dumb brutes the right of trial. Puritan New England took legal toll of the animal kingdom to the extent of eight in New Haven and two in Salem, the latter being dogs hanged for witchcraft. Elephants have been formally sentenced to be shot for slaying their keepers. One was acquitted when circus employees testified to its sweet disposition. Once, however, when a circus elephant ran murderously amuck among spectators, the keeper and not the beast was tried for second degree manslaughter."

"In ancient Athens a special court pondered the legal rights of dumb animals or even of lifeless objects which might be accused of crime. A primitive Oriental tribe has been known to punish a tree by chopping it all to chips for permitting someone to fall from its branches."

FOR DIGESTION'S SAKE... SMOKE CAMELS

A CASHIER has to be alert—accurate—pleasant. Miss T. Lander, shown at the ticket window of a New York movie, says: "Camels help my digestion—cheer me up. They have a marvelous taste."

"I'M FOR CAMELS," says Al Micalone, Paramount News street cameraman. "My experience proves that Camels are a big aid to digestion."

AT HARVEY'S famous restaurant in Washington, D. C., you enjoy the same dishes that delighted Mark Twain, Emerson, Booth, Taft, and other famous men. What cigarette is preferred here? Most emphatically, Camels. Julius Lulley, host at Harvey's, says: "Our diners agree on Camels. Those who prefer quality food appreciate Camel's costlier tobaccos."

LAWSON LITTLE won both British and American Amateur Titles for two years in a row. "Camels set me right," he says. "And at mealtimes, Camels make food taste better—help my digestion—give me a cheery lift."

Camels add zest to meals—aid digestion—increase alkalinity

RUSH and mental strain impede digestion by slowing down the flow of the digestive fluids so necessary to proper, smooth digestion. Smoking Camels assists digestion by increasing the flow of the alkaline digestive fluids in a pleasant and natural way.

It is thus that Science explains the sense of well-being that you experience after you dine and smoke Camels. Make Camel your cigarette. They set you right.

TROUBLE SHOOTER. John A. Fury, telephone linesman, says: "I'm a hearty eater—like my food and like it to agree with me. Camels help digestion, and sure make for a sense of well-being after meals. Camels set me right!"

Costlier Tobaccos

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

AT STRAND WEDNESDAY-THURSDAY

A cast of seasoned troupers, headed by the beloved Fred Stone, Billie Burke; that peer of all "gentlemen's gentlemen," Ernest Cossart, and Grant Mitchell lend support to Francis Lederer. European star, and lovely Ann Southern in Paramount's romantic film, "My American Wife," which comes for Wednesday and Thursday.

The story of "My American Wife" is taken from an original by Elmer Davis and directed by Harold Young.

It presents Lederer as a European Count who marries a wealthy American girl and returns with her to her home in Arizona. Lederer, pleased with the West, wants to become a cowboy and a rancher. Miss Southern wants him to remain in braid and spangles, because of social ambitions inspired by her mother. The conflict leads the pair almost to divorce, before they realize the unimportance of their squabbles and are reunited.

Mrs. Herbert Esancy and daughters, Evelyn and Charlene and her mother, Mrs. Payson were guests Sunday of the Lloyd Fitzgerald family on a trip to Gray where they picnicked with Mr. and Mrs. William Ring. The group then went to Dry Mills to visit the State Game Farm and the trout rearing pools where Mr. Ring has employment.

NEXT YEAR'S PLATES

White Letters On a Dark Green Background To Be Used On Automobiles

Maine motor vehicle owners will have registration plates in 1937 with a dark green background and white letters and numerals.

Secretary of State Barrows, who selected the shade of green, said the plates would be manufactured at the Maine State Prison in Thomaston, where they were made last year for the first time.

The plates, in accordance with a legislative act passed by the 87th Legislature, again will carry the word "Vacationland" in white letters.

This year's plates had white numerals against a black background.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the little looks puny.
Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. ## F. D. R.'S Opportunism Contrasted With The Late T. R.'S Courage and Independence

By Nicholas Roosevelt

For the National Republican Builders, Inc.

In an effort to counteract the growing realization throughout the country that Franklin D. Roosevelt's readiness to ignore his promises is a true measure of his character, the New Dealers have resorted to the strange device of maligning a dead man.

They point out that the late Theodore Roosevelt was attacked with just as much violence as F. D. R. and use this to try to give the impression that the present Roosevelt is being wrongly accused. All that they have done, however, has been to slander the memory of Theodore Roosevelt.

In a recent article, for example, Mr. Harold Ickes, trying to apologize for F. D. R., says that the late Theodore Roosevelt "was regarded by his enemies as being irrational, erratic, irresponsible. He had set himself up as a dictator, it was declared, even at the cost of ruthlessly bending the Congress to his will, of overriding the Supreme Court and of tearing the Constitution to shreds. He was nothing loathe to destroy the very fabric of our American civilization in his greedily reaching out for ever greater powers for himself. . . . His word was not to be relied upon."

promises made by him were lightly and whimsically to be broken if a selfish personal end was to be served."

That T. R. was bitterly hated and reviled no one will deny. Nor will any fair-minded person deny that much of the criticism against F. D. R. is so violent and unreasoning as to be a reflection on those who make the charges. But let us take as a witness about the attacks on T. R. an observer of many years experience as a reporter on the New York Times and New York World—two papers notoriously unfriendly to Theodore Roosevelt. Mr. Charles Willis Thompson, writing in his book "Presidents I Have Known" published in 1929 says:

"Theodore Roosevelt was bitterly hated, but the people who hated him were the people who hadn't met him. He was accused of insincerity, but not by people who knew him. He was accused of opportunism — by people who did not know him. There were many who believed that his course was always dictated by a desire to get votes, but such people were not acquainted with him."

In the case of Franklin D. Roosevelt the people who have most bitterly attacked him for these very things for which the elder Roosevelt was attacked are people who have been associated with him at some time or other in his career. They are people who know him — and many of them have known him well and worked with or under him. The contrast with the late T. R. is striking.

Let Mr. Thompson continue his testimony:

"He (Theodore Roosevelt) was not a vote-hunter, except in the sense that every man in politics must be. He never compromised a conviction for a vote. He always made it a point to denounce in its presence and to its face anything he thought wrong. If, for instance, he had been a free-trader he would have picked out Pittsburgh as the place in which to denounce protection; if he had been a Ku Kluxer he would have sailed to Italy and attacked the Pope in Rome. In that sense he was less of a vote-hunter than any other man I ever met in politics."

Not even Mr. Franklin D. Roosevelt's blindest supporter could pretend that such a thing could be said of F. D. R. And herein lies the true tragedy in the efforts of the New Dealers to compare F. D. R. to the late Theodore Roosevelt. Superficially the resemblances are many. It is no secret, in fact, that the present Roosevelt has not only modeled much of his career on the earlier Roosevelt but has taken over many of his ideas and policies. But in the fundamentals the two men are completely different—and the comparison is so much in favor of the elder Roosevelt that good taste as well as common sense would suggest that the friends of the present Roosevelt cease pushing it.

As a matter of fact the more the comparison is pushed the more F. D. R. suffers. It has been charged, for example, that the late Theodore Roosevelt was even more insistent than F. D. R. about having his own way. But the earlier Roosevelt eagerly sought out and welcomed the help of big men. He had as his associates and aides John Hay, Elihu Root, William Howard Taft, Leonard Wood, Robert Bacon, Oscar Strauss, F. D. R., in contrast, has deliberately shunned and avoided men of experience and ability. Instead he has his Farley, his Morgenthau and his brain trusters.

The former friends of Franklin D. Roosevelt can forgive him honest differences of political opinion, or accept his mistakes of policy as well intentioned but misguided. They can even overlook his superficiality and his readiness to accept any plausible scheme without thinking it through to its conclusion.

But they cannot forgive him his glib readiness to promise anything to anyone and to regard his promises lightly. They resent the cynicism with which he takes up any issue that may have votes, and when he drops it, counts on the short memory of the public to hide his mistake. They are bitter at the realization that his acts so often run counter to his words. They see at last that this is characteristic of the man. And it offends them to think that such a man may be re-elected to the Presidency.

As Maine goes so goes the Nation

THE TIME HAS COME TO MAKE OUR CHOICE

That choice lies between the NEW DEAL with all its foolish experimentation. And that tried and proven form of Constitutional Government under which we of America in the past have enjoyed more liberty and attained a higher standard of living than any other people in the world.

Our choice is not a question of politics, rather it is a question of the personal welfare of the people of this State — and of this Country's social and economic salvation.

No amount of partisan or political argument can erase or change the staggering record of NEW DEAL waste and extravagance.

Of its unfairness and discrimination.

Of its mounting debts — every dollar of which, sooner or later must be paid in taxes by ourselves — by our children — and our children's children.

Of its failure to handle relief for the worthy on an impartial basis.

Of its attempts to use the people's own money for the purpose of keeping itself in office.

Contrast the NEW DEAL record with the pledges of Governor Landon and the Republican party to bring about so far as it lies within their power:

Economy in Government.

The cessation of excessive expenditures and crippling taxation.

Fairness and honesty in the distribution and administration of relief.

To keep open the doors of opportunity to the younger generation so that they may develop each in his own way the American qualities of self-reliance, honesty and generosity.

Choose Wisely — Choose Rightly — Choose the Better Way

VOTE REPUBLICAN — — VOTE AGAINST THE NEW DEAL

SUMMER VISITORS
Occasionally one hears the remark: "I did not see anything in The Courier-Gazette about my guests." A little reflection will show the impossibility of obtaining the names of all summer visitors who come to Rockland in July and August. The paper desires to note such arrivals (the guests themselves look for it), and to this end asks its readers to send in such items, either directly to the office, or to the society reporter, Mrs. Leola Noyes, whose telephone number is 873-R. Social events as well as arrivals and departures are desired.

Madelyn L. Rawley who has been spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Rawley, Limerock street, returned today to resume her duties with the Tetley Tea Co. of Boston.

LADD-SMALL
Clifford E. Ladd and Miss Mary E. Small, both of this city were married Saturday at the Little Church Around the Corner in New York. Rev. Randolph Ray officiated, using the double ring ceremony.

The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Doris Froling of Arlington, N. J., the groomsmen being William Lewis of New York. The natural attractiveness of the bride was well set off by her gown of white lace over white satin and the handsome bouquet of white roses which she carried. The bridesmaid's gown was blue, with matching accessories.

The romance which found its climax in Saturday's ceremony had its beginning in this popular young couple's schooldays, both being graduates of the class of 1930, Rockland High School.

The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Ladd. He graduated from University of Maine in 1934, and for the past two years has been in the employ of the Commercial Union Assurance Company of New York. His frequent contributions to the columns of this newspaper under the heading "Notes at Random" were widely read and were exceedingly interesting.

Mrs. Ladd who is the daughter of Mrs. Charles S. Small, graduated from Farmington Normal School, where she majored in Home Economics. She has been in the employ of the telephone company, but will now find useful the study in which she specialized.

The couple will make their future home in New York city.

Abroad In 1936
Brief Notes of Travel by Leah M. Ramsdell
MOUNT VESUVIUS
We are again in Naples where the air is like velvet. There, was experienced one of the most fascinating trips of the cruise—the ascent of Mount Vesuvius. We motored to Pogliano and there took the mountain railway. At an angle of 40 degrees we waited for the Punicular Railway which was built to take care of the angle of 55 degrees we were to meet in ascending the cone.

Beyond the Eremo Station we reached enormous lava fields studded with bright green and yellow flowers. Over an easy lava footpath we approached the great surprise. Near the top three men kept me from having dizzy spells by playing "Facetta Nera," the air the Italians sang as they marched in on Ethiopia. It is the song hit of Italy.

Before us stood high, yellow, lacy Vesuvius, smoking its head off, with its black crater at its feet. We gasped! What a gorgeous spectacle! The crater below us looked like magnified black-ribbed clam shells spread out in the three mile area. It is a sight of sights. (Many passengers reported about their trip to Vesuvius the previous night and said they walked over the black crater with spouting flames leaping around the lava. They even climbed the mass of sulphur to see what made the pipe smoke. I was satisfied at listening).

We turned from this wonder sight and viewed the magnificent city with its busy bay. Over there was Pompeii which the eruption covered with ashes. Down farther was Herculaneum which is now being uncovered from the lava of the same eruption.

Now we must see Little Vesuvius, so out to Pozzuoli we went, to inspect Solfatara. Here I saw the black boiling lava of this semi-extinct volcano suck, spit and spout, without ascending any height. What a gem for health. All around this crater smoke exuded, especially when the guide slatted a flaming paper. People from far and near come to breathe the health cure gases.

I might tell you of other places we visited out in Pozzuoli, but I'll let you relax in the imaginary smoke from the pipe of this old, yet modern, wonder—Vesuvius.

Mass., was guest of her brothers, Frank and Fred Grimes, over the holiday.

At Stickney's Corner, the closing demonstration was Aug. 27, at the chapel. Every mother of the children enrolled were present, augmented by several interested friends. The enrollment for the summer school was 13, and those with perfect attendance were: Esther Grinnell, Evelyn Brann, Gertrude Jones and Esther Grinnell explained the Village of Nazareth which they had made, showing the well, flowers, women carrying jugs on their heads, etc. The closing number was "The Day the Children Had Seen Jesus." Introduced by Barbara Grinnell, it led up to the closing event given by Maybell Jones. Characters (Oriental children) were Gertrude Jones, Gladys Grierson, Donald Grinnell, Phyllis Creamer and Esther Grinnell. An expression of thanks was made to Mr. Brann who furnished the boards for the work table.

The Long Cove school, with an enrollment of 15, gave its demonstration Aug. 28. Perfect attendance was attained by Ring Larsen, and Kenneth Jacobson.

The Lawry school has its closing demonstration at the Methodist Church Aug. 30. With an enrollment of 24 including nine from Broad Cove and eight from Hatch Cove, these had perfect attendance: Geneva Simmons, Hattie Lawry, Clarice Jamison, Ethel Stebbins, Janet Wales and Thelma Wales. The youngest pupil, Gladys Lawry, three years old, only missed one session. The program opened with salutes to the flags and Bible and a Bible drill. Interpretation of song "God's Children Live in Many Lands" was made through posters made during the school session. Explanation of the Oriental house and furnishings was given by Frances Cook, assisted by Janet Wales and Margery Millen. Explanation of the story of Jesus "From Birth to Youth of Twelve" was given by Clarice Jamison, assisted by Thelma Wales. Pageant: "God's Children All", was the closing number, with this cast: Speakers, Douglas Crute and Janet Wales; Narrators, Jesus' life as boy, Ethel Stebbins; as youth, Thelma Wales; as young man, Ida Olson. These young folks were dressed in Galilean garb. The Spirit of Good Will, Clarice Jamison. Things as They Are, Frances Caven. American children; Meline Simmons, Eleanor Thibodeau, Janet Eales, Harriet Lawry, China, Virginia Thibodeau, Japan, Gloria Millen, Indian, Frances Alley and Betty Burns. Anyone can enter -- You don't have to buy anything

It doesn't matter what your brand of politics may be—$10,000.00 will be distributed among the winners of the "American" Party Contest. The first prize alone is $2,500.00—think of that!

And the judges' motto is: ALL ENTRIES ARE CREATED FREE AND EQUAL. You don't even have to be a member of the "American" Party to get a prize.

What is the great "American" Party? They're motorists who pledge loyalty to those two famous "American" products—Amoco-Gas and Orange American Gas.

Now even though politics has nothing to do with the "American" Party, the Contest will.

In part it will be based on the November election. You'll be asked to write a political style slogan and to answer some questions about the forthcoming November election. The details, rules of contest, full list of prizes, etc., are all contained in the official entry blank.

So here's what you do: All entries must be made on an official entry blank. These blanks may be obtained free (you don't have to buy anything) from any American Oil Company dealer or station.

Question No. 5
 Shall a Bill Entitled "AN ACT Relating to the Use of the General Highway Fund, and to Prevent Diversion Thereof," Become a Law?

"Section 1. All revenue received by the State from the registration of motor vehicles, and the licensing of operators thereof, from the tax imposed on internal combustion engine fuel, from fines, forfeitures and costs accruing to the State under Section 118 of Chapter 29 of the Revised Statutes, as amended, and from permits granted by the State Highway Commission to open highways, shall be segregated, allocated to and become a part of the general highway fund created and existing by Chapter 251 of the Public Laws of 1931 and Chapter 175 of the Public Laws of 1933; and after payment and deduction from such fund of such sums as are necessary to meet all provisions of bond issues for State highway and bridge construction, the remainder of such fund shall be apportioned and expended solely for the cost of registering motor vehicles and licensing the operators thereof, for maintenance of the State highway police, for administration of the office and duties of the State Highway Commission, for administration of the tax on internal combustion engine fuel and payment of rebates on said tax, and for the improvement, construction and maintenance of highways and bridges, and for snow guards or removal as provided by statute. Neither the general highway fund, nor any fund derived from direct taxation imposed for highway construction, bridge construction, or the improvement and maintenance thereof, shall be diverted or expended, either temporarily or permanently, for any other purpose than set forth in this act, except for the establishment of an aeronautical fund as provided by Section 88A of Chapter 12 of the Revised Statutes.

Section 2. All acts and parts of acts, inconsistent with this act, are hereby repealed.

Question No. 5 prepared pursuant to a Referendum Petition filed with the 87th Legislature and by them submitted to the electors according to the provisions of Section 18, of Article XXXI, of the Constitution.

from everywhere have heaped upon the affair. From everywhere we hear the same, that while people have seen pageants and pageants, yet for human interest, dramatic value, and thrilling beauty, our pageant exceeded anything they had even seen."

Since natives of Warren are probably somewhat favorably prejudiced as to the worth of the pageant, it is of great value to have these expressions of praise from out of town folks who witnessed that grand performance that Friday in the Killoch field.

If your correspondent may be permitted to editorialize a bit, in this piece (since she was not cast in the pageant) and would hence not be praising herself one whit she would like to tell of the varying emotions which filled her heart during the performance.

First, the emotion was one of thankfulness that God had seen fit to bless the Warren bi-centennial celebration with perfect weather, especially for the pageant, as weather for the two rehearsals had been unfavorable, raining on one day just as the band was getting under way and wetting down the grounds so much it was useless to try to rehearse. The next attempt made after supper was brought to an abrupt close by the darkness brought on by fog. So without the benefit of one complete rehearsal, this beautiful thing was going on before a vast audience without a hitch the day of its presentation.

Another emotion even paramount at this time was the thought that Warren was united in this celebration, with the north, east, south and west, and village, pulling shoulder to shoulder in the putting across of this celebration, and pageant. There was such a feeling of bursting pride in my fellow townspeople that seemed justified, that tears filled my eyes.

Scene after scene, living and breathing from Eaton's Annals passed in review, impressive and lovely from beginning to end with the finale of taps the bugle calls sounded and echoed from the hill, are ones never to be forgotten or to be held in memory with anything but a kind of reverence for our forebears who passed through so much that we might have foothold on this terrain.

A Brunswick man, a photographer, sitting next to your correspondent, said, "Where did they get all the costumes? They are marvelous."

With the exception of three costumes hired from Portland and the five bagpipers from Lewiston who had theirs, every costume was made by Warren women. This included the wigs, hats, shoes, as well. Books on Scottish costumes, early Scotch Irish costumes, dresses during each period had been studied and searched for in the library books. Miss Frances Spear had studied costumeing, the past winter in Portland in addition to her teaching duties.

Tenants Harbor Days

Prior to 1936, if you had chance to meet an old time Harbortide and said to him, "Have you seen Capt. Alfred Rawley lately?" he would have said, "He died years ago."

"No, no! Capt. Alfred Rawley of the S. S. Belfast."

"Oh, you're speaking of Eddie Rawley. Why didn't you say so in the first place? No, I haven't, but I'll bet he's just the same—glad to see you and means it. He's one of the whitest boys that ever lived and one of the best men who ever commanded a ship."

That is what the boys who have known him since he was knee high to a mullen stalk think of him, and I am quite sure that his employers and the men who served with him, think the same. I had a letter from him recently and enclosed was his picture taken while docking the steamer at Bangor 1934. I saw him do it in 1933 on my last visit to Maine.

On the wall over my desk is a picture of S. S. Belfast passing under the Waldo-Hancock bridge and now with it is a picture of the master who was in command. Eddie writes: "I am gaining each day, but the doctor says I must go slow for a while. We have had quite a lot of fog here this summer and I am thankful I do not have to stand watch at night."

"In October 1891 I went with my father in a schooner to Bangor and while there went to see J. D. Brown, mate of S. S. Penobscot, and shipped with him. I joined the steamer in Rockland as deck boy, Nov. 19, 1891. I was very lucky in the 22 years I was master to never lose any lives or run into another ship. Came quite near it at times but was fortunate enough to get by." (Sometimes good judgment, as well as luck, plays an important part in preventing accidents at sea, is what we landlubbers think.)

Eddie started going to sea with his father in the coasters when he was quite young, and following in his footsteps, he went as cook. He was "one up" on me. He could make empanadas' bread. I never got the knack of doing it. He quite wind jammers for steam in 1891 and the remainder of his sea going days, 44 years, was spent in steam propelled craft. How many times he went over the route from Boston to Bangor and return I am not even guessing at, but here are three courses if you are running down to Maine: From Thatcher's Island buoy, N. 1/2 E. 31 miles to York Harbor; N. E. by N. 59 miles to Portland Lightship; N. E. 1/4 N. 75 miles to Seguin Island. As these courses were given me by Captain Eddie, who has sailed them, we assume they are correct.

To you readers who do not know Capt. Rawley personally, I am quoting from a poem as to why—

PEOPLE LIKE HIM

People like him, not because he is rich or known to fame; But he has a kindly smile, And a kindly word to say. Didn't change from hot to cold, Kept his friends throughout the years. Sort of man you like to meet Any time or any place. The friends that he has gained Are for what he is himself.

Here is our wish for you, Eddie: May you live for many more years at home on the beautiful Penobscot River in the grand old State of Maine.
