TO NAVAL ACADEMY

Senator Frederick Hale will have one appointment to the United States Military Academy and one appointment to the United States Naval Academy to be made in the fall of 1936 for entrance in 1937.

Preliminary competitive examinations will be held for him under the auspices of the Civil Service Commission, Oct. 17, at 9 a. m., in Rockland and other cities. Candidates may take the examination for either the Military or Naval Academy or for both Academies on that date.

Candidates receiving the highest ratings in this examination, if otherwise qualified, will be designated by Senator Hale as Principals and Alternates to take the regular entrance examination or submit certificates
from High School or college which may be accepted by the Academic Board in lieu of the regular mental entrance examination.

Candidates to be eligible for admission to the Military Academy must have reached their 17th birthday but must not have reached their 22d birthday on the date of entrance to the Academy, and must be unmarried.

Candidates to be eligible for admission to the Naval Academy must have reached their 16th birthday on April 1, but must not have reached their 20th birthday on March 31 of the year of entering the Academy, and must be unmarried.

The physical and visual requirements of candidates to both the Military and Naval Academies are very strict and candidates who find that they are deficient in either respect
should make every effort to remedy
such deficiencies in order to qualify
under the rigid examinations required
before admission to the Academies.

Those wishing to take the competitive examination on Oct. 17 should notify Senator Hale, at 12 Monument

COLLEGE OPENINGS

Largest Freshman Class In Five Years At Maine— Colby Freshmen

The Freshman Week program of Colby College will open Thursday afternoon, with a general meeting of all the entering class at 4 o'clock, at which President Johnson will officially welcome the freshmen. The newcomers will be the guests of the Colby
faculty and their wives for a buffet supper Thursday evening after which there will be an address on Colby's history by Prof. Herbert C. Libby and the evening will close with a presentation of the Colby Camera Club's photoplay, "Frank Merriwell At Colby."

The largest freshman class in five years is expected to register this week
at University of Maine. Formal registration begins Wednesday, but at the end of last week applications numbered ten per cent more than last year's complete record.

First year students at the State University will begin their initiation to college education by reporting to the administration building on Wednesday when they will be photographed. In the evening they will be welcomed to the University by Prof.
Walter J. Creamer, director of Freshman Week. For the remaining days of this week and on next Monday the freshmen will start the day
with a group assembly at 8 o'clock,
after which they will take various tests and discuss programs of study.

Deans of the several colleges will explain the work in their schools.
Officers of the university and student leaders will discuss student-university relations. Prof. John H. Huddleston will speak on cultural interests. President Hauk will address the freshmen at vespers on Sunday.

Square, Portland, stating in which city they wish to take the examination. This notification should reach Senator Hale by Sept. 20 in order that the candidates' names may be submitted to the Civil Service Commission before the closing date on which the Commission receives applications.

ROCKLAND HIGH TAKES FIRST

Solitary Touchdown On Muddy Field Gives Don Matheson's Boys a Victory

Coach Don Mathe-
son, newly appointed
athletic director at the local high school
displayed his initial
offering at Community Park Saturday afternoon as his charges swept to a 6 to 0 victory over Brunswick High in the opening of the Maine schoolboy grid season.
The game was played in a heavy downpour that converted the field
into a veritable quagmire and soaked
the majority of spectators who braved the adverse weather conditions to get a glimpse of the 1936 edition of Rockland High football.

Owing to the mucky condition of the grounds neither team displayed
a great deal offensively, both being satisfied to wait for the breaks.
Brunswick's only real scoring chance came in the first period after the visitors had recovered a Rockland
fumble near the local 35-yard line,
and after advancing the ball to the 14-yard stripe surrendered it on downs. Karl quick-kicked out of danger and the visitors never threatened again.

The locals pushed across the only score of the afternoon in the second period when Anderson, Rockland
guard, literally used his head to partially block a Brunswick punt and the leather was recovered by some unidentified Rockland player on the visitor's 37-yard line. Here the Lime City eleven went to work and on the first play Karl tossed a flat pass to Skinner who skirted up the sideline to the 9 yard line. Skinner then circled his own left end for eight more yards and Karl plunged the center of the Rockland line for the winning touchdown.

For the remainder of the fracas the locals were content to rest on their laurels and keep the invaders from scoring. Rockland invariably kicked on first and second down, playing a waiting game and always looking for Brunswick fumbles which occurred
quite frequently owing to the slippery condition of the pigskin.

While the visitors did get their running attack going more smoothly
in the second half, Rockland managed to stave off impending danger by strong defensive work and several times forced Brunswick to surrender
the ball on downs when it had seemingly started going places. After halting these spasmodic drives of the visitors Karl kicked out of any passible trouble and often caught the Brunswick secondary napping with his quick kicks.

While it remained for Estes, Brunswick quarterback, to unreel the most spectacular run of the afternoon with a dazzling sprint in the final minute of play that was good for a forty yard gain, there were several noteworthy instances from a Rockland standpoint.

Coach Matheson apparently has
the making of a good football team,
although several of his men are experiencing their first season under fire.

Hanley, playing his first game at end showed lots of promise, while LaCrosse, Turner and Murgita did some stellar defensive work. East's directing of the team from his quarterback post was an outstanding feature as was the punting of Karl.
Skinner, despite the slippery footing
was the most consistent ground
gainer of the day and Rawley looked good, in both his blocking and defensive work.

The summary:
Rockland—le. Hanley, Chisholm; lt.

THE FIRST COMMANDMENT

Something About Great Biblical Play
To Be Presented This Week

"By the way, what is The First Commandment?" is one of the lines
taken from the great Biblical drama
which is to be presented Thursday
and Friday in the Methodist Auditorium at 8.15 p. m. This question has been asked by many in Rockland
and is asked of the grandfather in the play by a member of his modern family. The "grandfather,"
to be carried by Dr. H. V. Tweedie, is a very important character who starts the production and interprets
the various episodes as they are portrayed. Supporting him are Lendon Jackson, playing the part of father;
Madlene Rogers playing the part of Mother, and Dorothy Trask and Le-Roy Black, as Jane and Jerry, the two children.

Alvay Gay will portray the role of Joseph. He is the leading character in a number of scenes that are crammed full of action, suspense and drama. He is supported by ten brethren, who are the ones who actually sell him into Egyptian slavery.
Gordon DeWolfe has the role of the elder brother, Reuben. Winfield Chatto has the role of the grasping brother Judah, whose artful and scheming ways actually lead to his own destruction. The part of Simeon will be done by Robert Gardner, and Levi will be played by Joseph Robinson.
The younger brother Benjamin that is well known to everyone will be played by Billy Bicknell.

Other very sensational and interesting parts of the production are the court scenes of the Pharaohs of ancient times. These scenes are done in all the pomp and splendor of ancient times. The Pharaoh of Joseph's time will be portrayed by Dr. Blake Annis and the Pharaoh of Moses'
time by H. R. Winchenbaugh. He is the one who kept the Israelites from leaving Egypt, and is recognized by historians as no doubt the famous King Tut. Ernest Trask, Harold Whitehill, Leslie Somers, and Rev.
Charles Seliger will play the roles of the four wise men of Egypt. Eleanor Ames and Dorothy Shannon will take the parts of the two Court Girls.
Vinton Beal will portray the role of Chief Councillor; Richard Ellingwood
the role of Chief Steward; and Cleveland Morey the Chief Butler, Dorothy Sherman will play the role of Maid Servant.

Ralph Clark will ably portray the role of Moses, the ancient law-giver of Israel. He is one of the most dynamic characters in Biblical history.

He is supported by Capt. John A.
Stevens, playing the role of his brother, Aaron.

Other important characters in the production are Shirley Rollins, playing the role of Miriam, Doris Borger-
son, Saxon DeWolfe, Gladys Chapman, and Marion Harvey as the four Levite Women. George Orcutt will play the role of Kohath, and Parker Worrey and Max Ames the roles of Helen and Malchiah. The Ishmeelite
trader will be played by Kingsley Strout.

The scene of the Nativity in which Ruth Thomas will play the role of Mary is one of the most beautiful and impressive scenes in the whole production.

The choir will play a very important part in the staging of this production. Led by S. Constantine it is made up of the finest voices in this community. Music is interspersed among various scenes and it is very appropriate and highly entertaining,
and awe inspiring.

"The First Commandment" is not only entertainment of the finest type
but it also portrays a valuable lesson.

FOLLOW THE LEADER

(For The Courier-Gazette)
Maine her verdict has given—
Fling her banner on high;
There it is proudly waving.
A bright sign in the sky!
"I lead" is the motto of Maine,
To follow the leader
And—straight course pursue.
Give to Landon a landlaid,
That will sure land him on The platform he's builded
So solid and strong.
As Maine, so goes the country—
Make that slogan prove true,
And follow the leader
It's now up to you!

Overcast skies greeted the morning after election, but to Republicans they were bathed in Sunshine, for the State had just renounced Democratic rule covering a four-year period, transforming a 24,000 Democratic victory of two years ago into a Republican victory of 40,000 yesterday.

Two Congressional seats were recaptured and Senator White with a 5000 margin disabused the popular idea that Gov. Louis J. Brann was invincible. Here are the latest figures as furnished at 8.05 this morning by radio with only three precincts missing:

FOR U. S. SENATOR

Wallace H. White, Jr., Republican, 156,717.
Louis J. Brann, Democrat, 152,418.

FOR GOVERNOR

Lewis O. Barrows, Republican, 169,484.
F. Harold Dubord, Democrat, 130,933.

Gov. Brann carried 12 of the State's 20 cities but the towns rolled back the advantage thus gained.

All three of the Republican candidates for Representative to Congress had safe margins. Fear that Clyde H. Smith might be defeated on account of Leckemby and Rodgers proved a false alarm, as those independent candidates registered no serious opposition.

APPLETON—The Republicans
cast six more votes than they did
two years ago and the Democrats 20 less, a net Republican gain of 26. County Commissioner Hopkins was high line with Sheriff Lud-wick a good second. This town voted dry by very large majorities.
Leckemby received within 10
votes the number cast for McLean.

CAMDEN—There had been disquieting rumors afloat during the day that all was not well with the Republican cause, but in the record
vote cast every Republican candidate was a winner. Brann ran far ahead of Dubord, but still fell 121
votes short of White. County Commissioner Hopkins, favorite son, received the largest vote cast,
but Sheriff Ludwick had the largest plurality coming out of the Meganticook town with 663 more votes than were cast for Comery.
This was Hamlin's banner town,
the independent candidate receiving

177 votes. This town voted beer out of existence, voting no on all of the moist questions. The net Republican gain reached the amazing
figure of 775.

CUSHING—This town went Democratic two years ago, and yesterday gave Barrows 39 votes to spare. Clerk of Courts Griffin was high line. The town voted dry, but the margins were small—a single vote in one instance.

FRIENDSHIP—This town,
with its traditional Democracy,
turned a somersault yesterday, giving Barrows a lead of 61. Clerk of Courts Griffin led the procession with a majority of 75. County Attorney Burrows was a good second.

HOPE—The Democrats made a good stand here, but were defeated by 30 votes. Sheriff Ludwick was high line. The town went dry on every question.

MATINICUS — Thirty-eight
votes were cast for United States Senator and Wallace White had
'em all. Little or no splitting.
The plantation went dry on all three questions.

NORTH HAVEN—Democrats
were skurken'n hen's teeth in this good Republican stronghold yesterday, Barrows having a majority of 174. Sheriff Ludwick led the procession with a plurality of 185, very closely followed by County Attorney Burrows.

OWLS HEAD — The Democrats lost 64 votes and the Republicans gained 25. Clerk of Courts Griffin found greatest favor here, with the sheriff trailing him by
only three votes.

ROCKLAND—More than 3500
voters marched to the polls yesterday, including scores of Republicans
who had not voted for some years.
Gov. Brann led his ticket by nearly 400, but still fell more than 500
short of Wallace White, always a popular political figure here. Smith for Congress, led McLean 1029
votes, Leckemby receiving only 359 out of 3400 cast. Ludwick and Griffin ran riot. The city voted wet on all three questions but 'twas
a snug rub on No. 2.

ROCKPORT—County Chairman Orbeton's town was there with the berries, giving Barrows a majority of 208. The Democrats lost 199 votes and the Republicans gained 31. Sheriff Ludwick came out with a plurality of 266. Rockport went dry by wide margins.

SOUTH THOMASTON —
Brann carried the town by 30 votes
but the Democratic fun ended there.
Griffin was high line with a majority of 56. Two of the wet questions went "no."

ST. GEORGE—Down along the coast, where the shores are made of granite, the Knox County Democrats found their solitary crumb of comfort, giving Dubord a plurality of 16. The Democrats lost 22
votes and the Republicans gained 53.
Griffin and Ludwick received a tie vote but the latter's plurality was larger by three. The town did splendidly by its local candidates, Messrs. Wheeler and Cook. No
wine or beer for St. George.

THOMASTON—Republicans
outdid themselves, and gave Barrows a plurality of 176. Leckemby tied McLean in this town receiving 231 votes. Griffin had the largest majority—320, while Ludwick had a plurality of 319. Thomaston gave Representative Elliot a splendid endorsement.

UNION—In Union there is strength — Republican strength.
This stronghold gave Barrows a majority of 255, and as usual sent Sheriff Ludwick out in the forefront. "No" on all three rum
questions.

VINALHAVEN — Republicans
had the whip hand on every contest giving Barrows a plurality of 53. Another Ludwick town and another dry town.

WARREN—Another good old Republican stronghold giving Barrows a plurality of 230. Comery, favorite son, led the Democrats on the county ticket. Griffin was high line. Dry on all questions.

WASHINGTON — Once a Democratic citadel this town yesterday gave Barrows a majority of 75.
Ludwick led the procession. Dry
on all questions.

The tabulations follow:

THREE-TIMES-A-WEEK

He shall call upon me, and I will answer him; I will be with him in trouble; I will deliver him, and honor him. —Ps. 91: 15.

FOR PRESIDENT
ALF M. LANDON
of Kansas

For Vice President
FRANK KNOX
of Illinois

THE DIGEST'S POLL

Oklahoma and Texas Only States Thus Far Declaring For Roosevelt

Gov. Landon's lead over President Roosevelt decreased from more than two to one to slightly less than two to one in the second week's report of voting in "The Literary Digest's" national Presidential straw poll.

More than 75,000 votes were added to the original 24,000-odd votes tabulated in the first report.

In the latest report, returns from Indiana, Minnesota, Ohio, Oklahoma and Texas were added to those from the four Eastern States—Maine, New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania—on which the original tabulation was based. The grand total gives Gov. Landon 61,190 votes to President Roosevelt's 33,423. Representative William Lemke trails with 4169 out of the 99,734 votes tabulated to date, but he received almost 10 per cent of the vote in Minnesota.

President Roosevelt is ahead, according to latest tabulations, in Texas, where he has a margin of four to one, and in Oklahoma, where a scattering of votes last week gave him a total of 712 ballots to Landon's 618.

New York continued to vote during the second week the same way it did the first—approximately two to one for Landon. An addition of approximately 11,000 votes from New Jersey made a fractional increase in Gov. Landon's three-to-two lead.

Ohio's ballots, included in the voting for the first time, give Landon a three-to-two advantage also. The tabulations showed that 3293 voters marked their ballots for the Republican candidate, while 2193 persons cast theirs for Roosevelt.

If the votes cast so far were to be figured in terms of results in the Electoral College, Landon would receive 155 votes to Roosevelt's 34. The Literary Digest warned, however, that the sudden change in Maine was an illustration of its warning to the public that the leadership might shift again and again before the final tabulations were released.

Representative Lemke's strength outside of Minnesota ranges between 5 per cent of the total votes in Ohio to 5 per cent in Oklahoma.

An analysis showing how voters in the poll cast their actual ballots in 1932 reveals that 5648 of the 50,916 for Hoover four years ago now intend to vote for Roosevelt, while 10,592 of the 34,668 who said that they voted for Roosevelt four years ago now indicate that they will vote for Landon.

GETTING THE RETURNS

The tabulating of the election returns last night was the most difficult task which has ever presented itself in Knox County, due to the enormously increased vote and the fact that five referendum questions were involved.

The Courier-Gazette cannot say too much in praise of Sheriff Ludwick, Dick Reed and Earle Dow who collaborated on the phone, and Clerk of Courts Milton M. Griffin, Fred C. Black and A. C. McLean who worked on the tabulation sheets. Again it wishes to thank its loyal correspondents in the various towns and Jasper Rawley who aided in collecting the city returns.

The first town to report was Matineus and when word came that all of its 38 votes were for Wallace White, the Republicans were mightily heartened. South Thomaston was next in line, thanks to David Pollock. The other towns were late in reporting but the last word had been received at 12:10.

Hundreds of telephone calls were received, and the Hamlin Sound Service loaned by Oliver R. Hamlin furnished the news to a big crowd in front of The Courier-Gazette office.

Two Extremes

While the Roosevelt administration was spending two dollars for each dollar of revenue received, and creating a deficit of more than $14,000,000, Gov. Alf M. Landon was holding down government expenses in Kansas and seeing to it that the state did not spend more than its revenue.

Miriam Rebekah Lodge meets tonight at 7.30.

"Jimmy" Gray is again listening to the fire alarm at Central Station. Vacation over.

The grade schools opened this morning and mama had other things to think about than politics.

The Layman's Gospel Team will conduct a service at Stickney Corner next Thursday at 7 p. m. standard time.

Carlton Gregory and Miss Theima Whitehouse go this week to Rhode Island where they will enter the Providence Bible Institute.

Congressman E. C. Moran, Jr., is on a trip to Montpelier, Vt., and Concord, N. H., in connection with his genealogical investigations.

There will be a drill meeting immediately following the business session of Miriam Rebekah Lodge tonight. It is important that all the members of the team be present.

City Treasurer Charles H. Morey celebrated election day by capturing in his garden the largest and greenest green work that the worm editor ever saw. Eventually Norman W. Lermond will place the critter in its proper category.

WARREN SALMON WAYS

An open meeting of the Knox County Fish and Game Association has been called for Thursday night, by President Oscar E. Starrett. It will be held in Warren, and President Starrett authorizes The Courier-Gazette to state that the members will hear some wonderful news about the proposed salmon ways at Warren.

The world series will start Sept. 30 in the park of the National League winner. The New York Yankees have already won the championship in the American League, and the New York Giants have a somewhat precarious lead in the National League, with a reasonable chance that Chicago or St. Louis may win out.

Educators of national prominence will be guest speakers Sept. 29 when the Knox County Teachers' Association holds its annual meeting at the Rockland High School building. They are V. Kersey, California's superintendent of public instruction, and Payson Smith who has been State superintendent in Maine and Massachusetts.

Clem Sutton and Jack Ellard will be at H. H. Crie & Co's on Wednesday and Thursday this week to demonstrate Modene Paints. They will be very glad to answer any of your painting problems. Mr. Sutton will paint more of his fine pictures in the show windows and give them away. Be sure to register in the store for these and other gifts.

The new district governor of Rotary International, E. Curtis Matthews found a warm welcome awaiting him when he visited the Rockland Club last Friday, and he gave an admirable summing up of Rotary's outstanding and significant points. The conference which followed was of a helpful nature. Visiting Rotarians were E. A. Farrington, Haddonfield, N. J.; F. E. Poland, Boston; Charles A. Holden, Hanover, N. H.; Charles W. Babb, Camden; Israel Cutler, Old Town. F. J. McGarry of New York was a guest.

A harvest supper will be served in the vestry of the Littlefield Memorial Church Wednesday at 6.15.

A well known Rockland citizen is nursing a very black eye, the result of an encounter with a slippery bathtub at Moosehead Lake.

Wilbur Connon is to enter Bates this fall. Here's hoping that the tall first-sacker of the Rockland Grays gets his chance with the Garnet baseball team.

The speaker at tomorrow's Lions Club meeting will be William Buckner of Denver, Col., who will give a demonstration and discussion on "Memory".

It is respectfully requested by the Rockland Chamber of Commerce that the flags be displayed Thursday in commemoration of Constitution Day, Thursday being the 149th celebration of the formulation of The Constitution of the United States.

Scores of Rockland citizens who have long been on the invalid list patriotically insisted upon going to the polls yesterday. Among the long time residents who thus voted were J. F. Cooper, who cast his vote in Ward 4, and George E. McLaughlin, who voted in Ward 3.

County Agent R. C. Wentworth of the Knox-Lincoln Farm Bureau has been having his annual vacation, which, it may be assumed was devoted to listening to farm broadcasts and reading agricultural reports. Possibly he did some motoring among the highways and byways.

There were some damp eyes among the radio fans Sunday night when Major Bowes said farewell to the Chase & Sanborn amateur hour. This has long been one of the most popular of the Sunday night radio features and thousands of listeners will miss that familiar "all right! all right!"

Ralph Ulmer Camp, S.U.V., and the Ladies' Auxiliary held their annual picnic at Mrs. Hattie Davies' cottage Sunday and enjoyed a splendid outing. Mrs. Marjorie Thorndike prepared a fish chowder and green corn dinner which was surely appreciated. Mrs. Davies proving again a delightful hostess. The Camp and Auxiliary are invited to picnic next Sunday at Seven Tree Pond, Union, as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Dick.

Ken Pease, who put Roy Wheelock to flight at the Tillson Avenue Stadium last Friday night, will have his chance against Frisco Dix of Waterville at this week's exhibition. Ponzi Cochran's challenge to Al Bouchard was accepted by the latter, and that promises to be an engagement considerably warmer than a Turkish bath. Cracker Pavreau meets Young Comer of Augusta, and Kid Barter of the Camden Hills Camp is billed against Bin St. Peter of Augusta.

At the meeting of Edwin Libby Relief Corps it was voted to hold the annual fair Nov. 12. A vote was also passed to publish the patriotic questions issued each month. Those for next meeting, as compiled by the patriotic instructor, Mrs. Eliza Plummer, are: Who drew up the Constitution of the United States and who was the first to sign? In what and where was the Constitution? What similar document preceded the United States Constitution? The next meeting will take place Thursday, the members to work on a quilt during the afternoon with a covered dish supper to be served at 6 o'clock.

The Rockland High School football team goes to Skowhegan next Saturday, a lot more encouraged by virtue of having defeated Brunswick in Saturday's downpour. The boys are responding nicely to Don Matheson's coaching, and are already strongly devoted to him. On his part he was agreeably surprised at the team's fine showing Saturday. Skowhegan scouts were on hand to see what their foe-men of next Saturday are like and the coach Mose Johnston never let his shrewd eyes stray from a single play. It is in the range of possibilities that Coach Matheson may give him something new to look at in the approaching game. That genial smile of his can become real foxy on occasions, they say.

Dr. Scholl's representative from New York will be at McLain Shoe Store Thursday, Sept. 17, to show you how you can end your foot troubles. Learn how quickly and inexpensively you can relieve your foot troubles. There will be a special demonstration at McLain's Thursday. Then you can see how relief is provided by the proper Dr. Scholl Foot Comfort—adv.

Rockland Grays Win City Championship—Hostilities Were Threatened

The curtain was rung down on Knox County baseball Sunday afternoon when the Rockland Grays by a score of 20 to 6 settled for all time any question as to which had the better team the Pirates of the Big Five League, or the Rockland Grays of the Knox County Twilight League.

Neither team showed anything to write home about in this final match, but the preponderance of evidence was so strongly in favor of the hundred-dollar boys that there could be no argument. The latter scored in every inning but the first making 22 hits for a total of 25 bases. Incensed over some of Umpire Mosher's decisions the peppery Mr. Dimick indulged in a military demonstration, and got himself put out of the game through the unanimous edicts of Umpire Mosher and Black. Dimick has been the outstanding figure in Knox County baseball this season—never dodging a chance to argue, sometimes playing erratic ball, but always a worker for his team, and responsible for some of the best plays which have been made this summer.

Among those who watched this last game was Frank H. (Gramp) Wilbur of Camden, who in his day was one of the best players that ever cavorted over a Knox County diamond and who has probably seen more games in Knox County than any other man, with the possible exception of the writer of this article. May Gramp's shadow never grow less.

We stopped the press this morning to publish the following note from Rev. Corwin H. Olds, date San Francisco, Sept. 9. "We have had a great trip so far and still there is no place like Maine. Yesterday when we drove into Yosemite Park and stopped to register at the Ranger's station, the Ranger looked at our automobile license and said, 'Good old state of Maine! The best state in the Union.' We agree with him. Last Sunday I preached at the Presidio of San Francisco.

THE SENTINEL

(For The Courier-Gazette)
Upon your eminence, Oh Maine, we see you stand as sentinel
To call assurance clear and plain,
Be final heard as patriots wait,
"The hour has struck and all is well."

A privilege yours, to first defend
Our nation's plan, our sire's decree;
To warring minds new courage lend,
To waken dormant loyalty.

The word resounding state to state
Shall doubt, uncertainty dispel,
Be final heard as patriots wait,
"The hour has struck and all is well."

Traveling Around America

THEY CHOOSE THEIR OWN NAMES

THESE little natives never learn to read nor to write—for they belong to a race which has developed no form of writing, or word signs. Yet they do have what many modern youngsters would consider a rare privilege—that of selecting their own names. They belong to an amazingly primitive race dwelling on the San Blas archipelago which is only 74 miles from Colon at the Atlantic end of the Panama Canal—a half hour's flight by safe modern airplane. The islands have recently been discovered by tourists and are now included in the itinerary of special Panama cruises leaving New York weekly on ships sailing to the Spanish Americas and California and to South America's West Coast.

The San Blas parents never name their children—permitting them to choose their own names when they grow older. Many of them neglect to take any name at all. Others are forced into sudden selections—with most fantastic results. The impetus is often provided—now that the Indians come into more frequent contact with civilization—by shipping papers which must be signed in connection with the sale of coconuts, or the purchase of goods in Colon. It is then that the nameless ones—generally with the aid of a sympathetic onlooker—must produce a name. Historical figures provide the most fertile field with the result that the number of Theodore Roosevelts and Woodrow Wilsons on the island is amazing.

Tax Promises and Tax Facts

Roosevelt Assurances as to 1937 Recall Other Pledges.

"No new taxes in 1937?" Newspaper correspondents flashed that bulletin out of the White House on the morning of August 12. Mr. Roosevelt had held an early morning conference with three of his tax experts.

Leaders of the New Deal party were jubilant. They regarded as providential such an announcement at a point in the national campaign when the voters were expressing alarm about the tax bureau.

But there was a fly in the syrup. The newspaper correspondents were only mildly impressed. Some of them even confessed that they detected a familiar ring in the announcement. They recalled that the same thing had been said early in 1935 and again early in 1936. Tax relief had been promised by candidate Roosevelt even as far back as 1932. Yet, as a matter of fact, the annual tax burden has been increased 2,000 millions of dollars under the New Deal, with tax rates that have been boosted to the highest point in the country's history. The Government will collect upwards of 6,000 millions from taxpayers in the fiscal year 1937. It will spend an estimated 9,308 millions. Without new or additional taxes the Administration will have to borrow more than 3,000 millions.

The First Promise.

Mr. Roosevelt made a pledge to reduce taxes in his campaign speech at Sioux City, Iowa, on September 29, 1932. He said:

"I shall use this position of high responsibility (the Presidency) to discuss up and down the country in all seasons, at all times, the duty of reducing taxes, of increasing the efficiency of Government, of cutting out the underbrush around our government structure, of getting the most public service for every dollar paid by taxation. This I pledge you and nothing I have said in the campaign transcends in importance this covenant with the taxpayers of this country."

The special session of Congress called by President Roosevelt after his inauguration approved important new tax measures. These were signed by Mr. Roosevelt. The new laws levied taxes on non-intoxicating liquors, processing taxes under AAA (much of which were paid by consumers), a capital stock tax, excess profits tax, tax on dividends and taxes included in NRA. Other temporary taxes were extended and certain tax regulations were stiffened.

It was announced at the White House on March 30, 1934 that Congress would not be asked to increase taxes to finance veterans' legislation enacted over the President's veto.

The Revenue Act of 1934, however, made important changes in the Federal tax system. Surtaxes were made applicable to a lower level of income. Extensive changes were made in taxes affecting corporations. Estate and gift taxes were increased. The rate on distilled liquors was raised. In addition miscellaneous taxes included a new capital stock tax and revision of the excess profits tax.

What Happened in 1935.

In his message to Congress on January 8, 1935 Mr. Roosevelt said he did "not consider it advisable at this time to propose any new or additional taxes."

Five months later he sent another message to Congress in which he made "a number of suggestions of important changes in our policy of taxation." The Revenue Act of 1935 was the result. Increases were made in taxes on large individual and corporation incomes, excess profits, capital stock and estates.

In his budget message to Congress on January 3, 1936 Mr. Roosevelt said:

"The state of national recovery is such that receipts from prevailing tax sources on the basis of the present rates appear adequate for financing the ordinary operations of the Government in 1937 including service on the public debt; and no new or additional taxes are proposed."

Twenty-six days later Mr. Roosevelt announced that bonus legislation and the AAA decision had made it necessary to provide new revenues. On March 3, 1936 he asked for $120,000,000 for the first year's amortization of obligations under the bonus act and $500,000,000 to finance his new farm program. The public had been forewarned of these new burdens but the people were not prepared for a revolutionizing of the tax system. Congress passed the Roosevelt act taxing the savings of corporations, big and little. This was widely criticized as another attack on business.

The Administration now says: "No new taxes for 1937." Time will tell. As a matter of fact there has been an upward revision of taxes in each of the last four years.

Again the question arises, "Why not cut expenditures?" Heavy as the New Deal tax burden has become it lags far behind New Deal spending.

Either there will be new or additional taxes in 1937 or there will be more borrowing on a huge scale.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. from Goods Funeral Home with Camden Commandery K. T. in charge.

Invisible Taxes

"We cannot buy a stitch of clothing without the government's taking in taxes a part of the money we pay out. We cannot buy an ounce of food at our grocery store without being taxed to support the government. We cannot go to a movie, or to a baseball game, or ride in an automobile without this invisible tax arm of government reaching out and taking a part of the money we spend."—Alf M. Landon at Buffalo, N. Y., August 26, 1936.

Hidden Taxes

"If the major portion of the government's income is obtained from indirect and hidden taxes—taxes upon such things as food, clothing, gasoline and cigarettes—then the main burden falls upon those of small income and the cost of government is hidden. In this case, it is the wage earner, the salaried worker, the farmer, and the small business man, who have to pay most of the bill."—Alf M. Landon at Buffalo, N. Y., August 26, 1936.

Abroad In 1936

Brief Notes of Travel by Leah M. Ramsdell

PERSONAL GLIMPSES

Betty May and I left our stateroom to take a last look at our summer home just as Donato was bringing Lois Kidd a plate heaped with oranges for breakfast. We noticed the doctor's office was closed; he was just stepping on the lift. Directly ahead, Mrs. Curcie, with her young son, was transacting a last bit of business at the purser's office.

In the companionway we met many passengers getting addresses and having a final chat. Rev. Charles Welch was going on the boat deck for a swim. At the top of the steps, Dr. Fitzgerald was getting a hair cut, while Mrs. Ringle was waiting her turn for a finger wave. Mary Wilcox was having a manicure. Up to a deck we went, past Miss Helen Pierrell, our hostess, who stood reading the social calendar, birthday announcements, etc. Joe, the wine merchant, was coming down the steps, laughing at a story Dr. Joseph Broady had related about a Cairo dragon.

The usual bit of morning gossip was being shared at the post office. Mrs. Conn was still concerned about the man who plunged from the ship's tender in Brioni Harbor to retrieve a purse of money and jewels which a young lady had dropped (I saw it all from the tender). Cora Bigwood was across the hall buying a few more gifts.

In the library we saw Rev. John Thomas returning his books, while in the writing room sat Miss Brinton penning messages to friends in Palestine. In the farther corner of the dining room stood the "clown" who at tea always amused us with "iced tea, hot tea, lemonade and apple-sauce." As we turned to where Rev. Mr. Althoff was playing ping-pong with one of his new acquaintances, we were stopped by a familiar voice in the music room. When we entered Dr. Arthur Billings Hunt, the radio hymn singer, was playing and singing as he had for the Protestant services on Sundays. He stopped suddenly and said, "Have you ever heard the one about . . . ?" Dr. Hunt kept every group lively with his wealth of jokes.

Ping-pong was in progress. The ladies were winning. Mrs. E. Winthrop Hall was sitting in her deck chair reading the paper. Other sleight in their comforts. Some of the boys were stationed with spy glasses scanning for an early glimpse of the Statue of Liberty. Loud laughter caught our ears. In the gymnasium whence it came, the stouter women were trying to lose what they'd gained. With little coaxing I tried the fun; Betty watched. Our steps next led to where Mrs. Whyte, Mrs. Cairns and Aunt Min were drinking lemonade. Cards were being enjoyed, for the trunks were all packed.

Now we were near the lecture room where Dr. J. Lane Miller had introduced us to the various countries we had visited. Here too, our modern philosopher, Dr. Will Durant, (talked to us on our return passage. It was the room where the dances were held, including the masquerade. I forgot my errand when I saw Travaine, a Pennsylvania State girl of 13, playing with the baby kitten which we had named, Roma. It was the pet of the cruise, even though there were five others on the trip.

Outside, splashing of water and shrill cries could be heard—passengers in swimming. There were the usual beach scenes: Climbing the ladder, diving, sunning; it was always the colorful space on the ship, with its blues, reds, oranges and yellows. Softer exclamations were heard from the other side of this deck. Mrs. Fitzgerald and Mrs. Eurg were exclaiming over their recent pictures which the ship photographer had just developed. After listening to a concert, we went to call on shut-in friends.

Day draws to a close. With my passenger list checked for Christmas remembrance, I proceed to enjoy my last night's sleep on the Roma.

WARREN

Mrs. Abbie D. Wooster, who observed her 99th birthday anniversary Thursday at her home at Warren Highlands, received several callers, cards and gifts from friends. Among the tokens was a birthday cake from a grand niece, Mrs. Margaret Philbrook of Rockland. Mrs. Wooster also entertained Mr. and Mrs. John Dean of Warren Highlands, and her niece, Miss Eva Grant of North Haven at a dinner party. Mrs. Wooster thoroughly enjoyed the day, and amazed everyone by her ability to remember happenings of the past few years as well as those in her girlhood days. She had as callers during the day, Miss Mabel Fernald, Miss Gladys Fernald, Mrs. Luther Clark of Thomaston, Mrs. Georgia Harkness of Rockland, Warner Buxton and Mrs. Dana Buxton of Springfield, Mass., Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Grose of Concord, N. H., and Warren, Miss Marion Burket of Warren Highlands, Mrs. Marilla Copeland of East Warren, Rev. and Mrs. Howard A. Welch, Mrs. Virginia Richmond, and Mrs. Alena Starrett, all of Warren village. By co-incidence, Mrs. Wooster's grandniece, Jane Grant, was celebrating her 11th birthday at her home at North Haven on the same day.

Because of the change in the High School program ordered by the State Department of Education, wherein hour class periods are required, the noon hour is 11:45 to 12:45.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bickford went yesterday to Groton, Mass., to visit relatives before returning to Flushing, L. I. after spending the summer here at Mr. Bickford's old home.

Maxine Lindsey returned Tuesday to Thomaston after being guest of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Kenniston.

Neighbors and friends assembled Thursday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Wincapaw to honor the birthday anniversary of the former. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Waisanen and son Oswald, Mr. and Mrs. David Hill Jr. and daughters, Freda and Sylvia, Mr. and Mrs. Onni Karpi, Miss Gertrude Lampinen, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mank and son Albert, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Wincapaw, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Beane and Miss Phyllis Sweet, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Wincapaw and granddaughter of this town, and Mrs. Hazel Jewell of Portland. Mr. Wincapaw received eight cakes, and cake, coffee and candy were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Moody of Fairfield were guests Sunday of relatives here. On return they were accompanied by their daughter Virginia who passed the summer with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jameson. Their other daughter, Miss Freda, who also spent the summer here will remain for the next few months with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Jameson.

The group who spent the past week at the Vannah Cottage at Martin's Point, Friendship, have returned home. They were Mrs. Lizzie Waltz, Mrs. Charles Young, Mrs. Susie Philbrook, Mrs. Alice Cook of this place, Mrs. Addie Jones of Thomaston, and Miss Flora Fish of Rockland.

Dr. Leland Shafer Dr. Bertha Shafer and Donald Shafer of Chicago, who, accompanied by Mrs. Nora Russell and Mrs. Viola Durgin spent the week at the Montgomery cottage at Martin's Point, Friendship, have returned home. The Shafers were accompanied as far as Montreal by Mrs. Russell and Mrs. Durgin.

Miss Phyllis Sweet returned Saturday to Bangor following a visit with Mrs. Harry Beane.

The Knox County Fish and Game Association will meet Thursday at the Masonic dining hall, with supper at 6:30 served by Ivy Chapter O.E.S., officers headed by Miss Tena Caelum.

The annual men's supper will be served Thursday at the Montgomery rooms, Baptist Church. The committee headed by Chester O. Wyllie includes Horace P. Maxcy, Fred M. Kenniston, Robert Wotton, Roger Teague, and Howard A. Welch, Jr.

A rehearsal of the officers will follow the stated meeting of Ivy Chapter O.E.S. Friday.

Prof. and Mrs. Oliver P. Watts of Madison, Wis., were callers Friday on Miss Georgia Mathews, at the home of her brother, Fred Mathews.

The Dorcas Circle of King's Daughters will meet this afternoon at the summer home of Mrs. Leola Wiggins, with picnic lunch served at 5:30. Mrs. Laura Starrett, and Mrs. Alice Watts are on the committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker Spear of Philadelphia, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford M. Spear, East Warren. Raymond Borneman is ill.

Wilder Moore and Lyman Randall are painting the Baptist parsonage. Mr. and Mrs. Newell Eudley enjoyed chicken dinner Sunday at the Community Sweet Shop at South Hope. They also called upon Mrs. Evelyn Vining.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Locke of Portland were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Seldon Robinson. Miss M. Grace Walker, who has

Maine's Fishing Industry
BY RODNEY E. FEYLER
COMMISSIONER OF SEA AND SHORE FISHERIES

Doubt as to whether the shrimp found in great quantities in the Gulf of Maine by Dr. Hjort, Norwegian scientist, are of the edible variety has been expressed in several sections. Some believe that they are of the variety found in the Quoddy waters and not so satisfactory for human consumption. We are still awaiting a complete report on his findings from Dr. Hjort but was told this week by Chas. E. Jackson, Deputy Commissioner of the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries that shrimp in the off shore beds are of the edible variety and are nearly as tasty as the southern varieties.

The visit of Deputy Commissioner Jackson to Maine was of great importance to the industry. On a tour of the Coast he became familiar with our needs and the sad state of decline that our fisheries had reached. He was much impressed with our possibilities and promised to make every effort to launch Federal activity to help the situation.

Lobsters were especially stressed by Deputy Jackson. He sees the chance for a much greater market and is convinced that artificial propagation is the only way in which we can maintain our supply.

Great international activity in the fishing industry with many important questions arising is seen by Deputy Jackson. Tariffs, imports, exports, foreign encroachments on our markets and other problems are confronting us more and more each year. "The fisheries industry must be given more governmental attention in the future," he stated.

A series of radio talks on the industry is being prepared and will, it is expected, be given over Maine stations in the near future.

The State of Maine will have displays at the Springfield, Mass., exhibition and this Department will be represented. Several members of the staff will be in attendance, explaining our fisheries industry and distributing literature and souvenirs.

Movies of the industry taken by the Department will be shown at the public schools throughout the fall and winter. We have many requests for our movies to date.

WELCH-BURGESS

Raymond Afton Welch of Millinocket and Miss Mattie Luella Burgess of Lincolnville Beach were married at the bride's home at 9:30 Saturday night in the presence of a large gathering of friends. Rev. Mr. Beecher officiated.

Wendell Welch, a brother of the groom, officiated as best man, and Mrs. Stella Burgess, Van Riper of Mountain View, N. J., was matron of honor. The bride was most attractively gowned in gold tulle with brown accessories, and carried a corsage bouquet of yellow roses. Mrs. Van Riper's gown was pink bouclé and she carried pink snapdragons. At the wedding reception which followed the couple were assisted in receiving by the bride's mother, Mrs. John McIntire. Refreshments were served.

After a brief honeymoon trip the newlyweds will be at Lincolnville Beach for several weeks, going thence to Belfast where they will make their permanent home.

The bridegroom is an employee of the Cushman Bakery, covering a territory out of Belfast. The bride is a graduate of Camden High School, 1934, and has an exceptionally large acquaintance because of her duties as head waiter at Lincolnville Beach Inn.

The popularity of the young couple found expression in the many nice wedding gifts and congratulations received.

Norman Waldron returned Monday to Manlius, N. Y., where he is a member of the faculty at the Manlius School. He was accompanied to Boston by his sister, Miss Mildred Waldron, who is the guest of friends at the Hotel Touraine.

Mrs. George W. Hamlin and daughter Nancy of Court street, have returned from a week's visit with Mrs. Hamlin's mother, Mrs. Ernest F. Leavitt of Portland.

R. Kendall Greene returned to Boston Monday where he will resume his studies as a senior at the Massachusetts College of Optometry after spending the summer in Camden with his wife.

Mrs. George Davis entertained the Sewing Club recently, the meeting developing into a remembrance shower for Mrs. Minnie Roberts who is leaving soon to reside in Greenwich, Conn. Mrs. Roberts was the recipient of many lovely gifts.

The office force of the Central Maine Power Co., made merry Thursday night when they gave a dinner party, honoring Mrs. Myrtle Fales of Beloit, Wis., former cashier at the office. A delectable shore dinner served at Crescent Beach Inn preceded an evening spent socially. Those attending were: Mrs. Beulah Ames, Mrs. Kathleen Duff, Miss Lucy Ball, Miss Dora Brown, Miss Doris Sylvester, Miss Leola Robinson, Mrs. Carrie Fowler, Miss Ruth Cluff, Mrs. Suzanne Miller, Mrs. Mabel Richards and Miss Lulu Chapman.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Andrews of Rumford were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Boody at their Crescent Beach cottage. They will continue their motor trip today to Montreal, Mr. Andrews being on a two weeks vacation.

Clarence Peterson was surprised by 10 callers who wished him "many happy returns" Sunday, the occasion being his 16th birthday. Each guest made a speech the subjects being many and varied. There were birthday gifts and refreshments with a motor ride ending the happy occasion.

Attending were: Grant Davis, Richard Ellingwood, Richard Marsh, Elmer Bird, Robert Hills, William Karl, Kent Glover, Stuart McAlman, William Danniello, and Albert Pease.

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. St. Clair will entertain Mrs. Glover's Sunday School Class at their Crescent Beach Cottage at picnic supper. The husbands are invited and are requested to report the returns on the parish solicitation for the painting fund.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Glover and Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Stoddard went Saturday on a weekend trip to Rangeley where they were guests at Rangeley Tavern. They visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Briggs and other relatives at Mooselookunguntic. The occasion marked the birthday anniversaries of Mr. Glover and Mr. Stoddard.

Mrs. Elise Allen Corner entertained Saturday afternoon at her studio on Brewster street, guests being the pupils of the school. Despite the rainy weather over 80 gathered together for this occasion which marked the beginning of the fall term. Mrs. Corner displayed many lovely samples of costumes to be worn in her January recital and explained the new stage effects acquired from New York while attending the Dancing Masters convention. Ice cream, cake, candy and cookies were served.

A BRILLIANT MUSIC SEASON

Ended Friday Night With a Notable Concert In Rockport Town Hall

Notable among concerts in this section, and possibly for the entire State, for many years, was that presented at Rockport Town hall Friday night, featuring Shura Cherkassky, pianist; Clara Rockmore, Thereminist; and Edward H. Rhein, baritone, with Nadia Reisenberg and Edith Evans Braun as accompanists. That the event was outstanding was signified by the capacity audience which embraced an unusually large number of distinguished personages. Bayberry, evergreens and dahlias were used effectively as decorations and formed a most attractive setting for the artists.

Particular interest centered in Mr. Cherkassky, who is rated today as one of the foremost young pianists before the public. That this statement is no idle word was understood from the opening measures of his first number. Few pianists of his calibre have been heard here. Mr. Cherkassky has a great talent which has been developed to a high degree. He has technique in most amazing form, yet his playing shows passionate musicianship and depth of feeling. He plays as if he were performing a devoted rite, he is lost in his own music; therefore he gives all that can be desired.

Words cannot adequately describe his art, it is so encompassing, great beauty of touch, amazing velocity from those small seemingly boneless hands, shading that ranges from gossamer pianissimo to thundering power, and always the understanding that distinguishes a great artist from a lesser.

Mr. Cherkassky's manner, modest and unassuming, made a direct appeal. It occurred to many that he bears quite some resemblance to Josef Hofmann with whom he studies, and indeed many of the critics concede that he will be a second Hofmann.

Mr. Cherkassky offered as his programmed numbers: Prelude and Fugue F minor, by Johann Sebastian Bach, played with crystalline perfection; Nocturne E flat major, Op. 55, No. 2, by Chopin, a seldom heard number and given with exquisite poesy and sensitiveness; Kaleidascop by Josef Hofmann (and by the way it was gratifying to see Hofmann's real name on the program and not the nom de plume of Dvorsky under which he has written several compositions), a number whose brilliance and dramatic content suggested fragments of colored glass flashing and reflecting surfaces with change of position, and endless variety of symmetrical vari-colored forms revolving in wild array; and "Wine, Women and Song" (Waltz paraphrase) by Strauss-Godowsky, a fiendishly difficult thing which served to display Mr. Cherkassky's astonishing command of technique.

Of his selections probably the Hofmann number made the most unanimous appeal, particularly as the composer was in the audience, and it was a delighted group of music lovers when the number was included in Mr. Cherkassky's encores. Called back again and again the pianist generously added The Swan (Saint-Saens-Godowsky) and a Mendelssohn Scherzo.

Marked interest was shown in Miss Rockmore and the unique etherwave instrument she plays. Those who had heard the Theremin in local demonstration programs were given a real surprise, for the instrument under Miss Rockmore's hands takes on entirely new beauty and value. Gorgeous tonal coloring, ranging from sonorous cello quality to ethereal delicacy, was exhibited in her numbers which were chosen from a wide literature and given with an artistry that proclaimed her a musician of the first water, as indeed she is, having won no small fame as a violinist before becoming a Theremin exponent.

Miss Rockmore gave two groups: 1: Aria by Johann Matheson (1681-1764), Melodie by Gluck-Kreisler, and Andante (from Symphonie Espagnole) by Edouard Lalo. 2: Chant du Menestrel by Glazounoff, Berceuse by Tschaiikovsky, and Romance by Wieniawski. While her numbers were excellently chosen for contrast and all consistently fine, the high light was generally conceded to be the Wieniawski number which was given with great beauty and feeling. The artist's winsome smile and simplicity of manner completely won her audience. She was accompanied at the piano by her sister, Nadia Reisenberg, whose sympathetic work added much to the general artistic effect.

Mr. Rhein, a newcomer and unheralded, walked into the hearts of his hearers, both by his excellent voice and by his engaging personality. The voice of good range, pleasing tonal quality, and intelligently handled, was displayed to advantage in his numbers which were: 1: Zueignung, Lob des Leidens and Nichts, by Richard Strauss, and Er Ist's by Hugo Wolf; 2: Old Mother Hubbard (set in the manner of Handel) by Victor Hely-Hutchinson, When I Have Sung My Songs by Ernest Charles, The Bitterness of Love by James Dunn, and Captain Stratton's Fancy by Deems Taylor.

His German diction was notably good and in this group the Hugo Wolf song was outstanding. His hits, however, were made in the Old Mother Hubbard version and in "I've Got Plenty of Nothing" from Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess," given as one of his encores. Mrs. Braun at the piano offered subtle accompaniments displaying her impeccable artistry. It was an event of the concert to have Mrs. Edward Bok turning, the music for Mrs. Braun, and the affection and esteem held for her were manifested in the ovation given her as she entered with Mrs. Braun and Mr. Rhein for the first group.

The concert given under the auspices of the Garden Club, with Mrs. M. W. Spear, Mrs. Lida Champney and Mrs. Mildred Holmes, of Rockport; Mrs. Bok, Mrs. A. H. Chatfield and Mrs. Josef Hofmann, of the summer colony, as the general committee, had as its aims the raising of funds for the Christmas Welfare Fund for Rockport children. A. W. Walker, first selectman, prefaced the program with brief explanation of the Fund and also expressing appreciation of the splendid generosity of the artists who gave their services.

REALM OF MUSIC

by Gladys St. Clair Heisted

Another jewel carefully stored away in my chest of memories—an other dream realized—I have seen Ruth Draper. I have thought of nothing else since, and it is not a misstatement to say that conversation and thoughts for the past week or so have dwelt largely on Miss Draper, whose wonderful program of monologues—or should we say impersonations—given at Camden, will never quite fade from the memory of those privileged to see this great artist, undoubtedly foremost in her chosen branch of art.

And what an art is hers. Can anyone else evoke from herself so bizarre a procession of characters and so much of human life unassisted save by a chair, a deal table, an old shawl, a small piece of old black cloth? Is there anyone else who can play so many tunes on one instrument, figuratively speaking? Those who have not seen her will not believe it, but those who have become her devoted admirers know that every movement in her acting is enkindled from the godhead fire. The sketches she has written are economical, yet they keep life passing steadily in review until the end.

One reviewer has said that the clue to the magic of her many-faceted art is that she is uncommonly sympathetic. Toward her audience it is the sympathy of a neighbor, full of good wishes, friendly, unassuming. Toward the characters she engenders from within herself, it is the sympathy of the artist who can revolve many aspects of life into unity by virtue of the universality, the transcendence of her point of view. And while regal stars sweep on to the stage, caparisoned in vividness and brilliance, Miss Draper walks on frankly with an artist's sympathy in her heart, and "clears the empyrean."

The recent untimely death of La Argentina, famous Spanish dancer, came as a tragic shock to the millions everywhere who were admirers of her art. Since the passing of that other great dance queen, Pavlova, the universal favorite danseuse was La Argentina, acclaimed everywhere as probably the most resourceful and convincing exponent of Spanish steps and rhythms the world has ever known. Intelligence aided skill in her performances, whose charm lay not only in the dance itself but in her mastery of the castanets, her rare taste in costuming, and power of characterization.

La Argentina died at Bayonne, France, of a heart attack. Her baptismal name was Antonia Merce, and her parents were both stars of the Royal Spanish Opera Ballet. La Argentina took her stage name from her birthplace, near Buenos Aires, where her parents had gone to fulfill an engagement. Little Antonia was reared in the tradition of the dance, making her professional debut at the age of six. Although she had been trained in all the styles of dancing, she early decided to devote herself to the Spanish phases of the art. Her first appearance outside of Spain was in her 18th year, and she was acclaimed in Paris, Berlin, and other great centers. New York audiences were among her most enthusiastic, and her final appearance there, last December, was one of a series of triumphs. She made transcontinental tours of America and danced in the Orient as well as all over Europe. Among the decorations bestowed on her were the Rosette of Isabella the Catholic, the first order bestowed by the Spanish Republic, and the French Legion of Honor.

La Argentina whose intense love for the beautiful dance movements of Old Spain, lived to preserve for a little while the dying traditions of a nation to which dancing is music and laughter and life. Another generation, she once told an interviewer, will not know the true glory of the old Spanish dances, which she called the expression of a proud, dignified, mystic and ecstatic race.

"I have been 28 years in the theatre," she once said, "and only the last 12 years of my career have been productive. It was a long hard struggle to convince managers that Spanish dancing would even draw an audience. Then after I had started—even after the audiences came, it was some time before people began to sense that there was a subtle art in the Spanish dance never before suspected. And, all those years, time kept flying and my career stood still. So I struggled, but I last I began to taste success—I feel it was all worth while."

Her tastes and recreations were simple. She loved the country above all things, and it was her joy to snatch a few hours from her arduous performances and go to Galicia or to Asturias, where the melancholy landscape was dear to her Spanish soul. She loved riding horseback and going to concerts. In Paris she had a company of dancers who performed a new ballet every season. She engaged and trained her dancers, danced herself, designed costumes, invented new dances, etc. She engaged only Spaniards for her company, saying that it was impossible to train any other foreigner, no matter how gifted, to the peculiarly Spanish temperament and style.

When she composed a dance (for her dances, while based on the old forms, were her own), she first listened to the music, and then attempted to draw forth from it the essence of its spirit. The she merged herself into that spirit, became it, embodied it, gave herself to it completely. When she felt she was one with the music, she improvised, with her castanets beating out the rhythmic pattern of the music. After she improvised, she studied, not before a mirror, but with her mind watching from outside. Her costumes were all designed by herself. Her combs, fans, handkerchiefs, shawls, she bought in Spain. Her castanets, of which she took a great number on tour because they broke so easily—being delicate and much affected by changes in temperature—she had specially made in Spain, but the wood of which they were made came from California.

If La Argentina could know the situation in Spain today, she would be more firmly convinced than ever that the old traditions, not entirely the dance traditions, were passing away. She would be sad.

ABIGAIL

(For The Courier-Gazette)
Abigail, Abigail.
What do you see,
Looking out
Where no ship can be?

There's nothing there
But a cold fog drifting,
Nothing there
But the bare dunes lifting.

Abigail, Abigail,
What do you hear?
An ebbing tide
At a sagging pier?

The scream of loons,
The drip of an oar,
An anchor lifted
Beyond the shore.

But never the groan
Of spars that creak;
Abigail, Abigail,
Whom do you seek?

A hand that is gone,
A face that is lost?
A dark sail frozen
Against the frost?

The rigging left
To the brine and rain,
The lashing whips
Of the hurricane.

Abigail, Abigail,
What do you smell?
The tang of kelp
In the surging swell?

Is it the smart
Of the black dulse lying
Upon the wave
Or the spindrift flying?

Look to the East
Or look to the West,
No ship will come
With its halliards pressed

Against the squall
And the spitting foam,
Pointing its prow
To the hills of home.

Abigail, Abigail,
All in vain
You stand in the lee
Of the wind and rain.

And you'll wait long
By this heaving tide
To give the kiss
Of a seaman's bride.

And the foam will wash
The shore away,
Before the blue
Of Penobscot Bay

Wakes to the sound
Of his ship once more
Straining its shrouds
By the windy shore

To reach the moors
And the struggling sand:
You'll never wear
On your slender hand

A wedding ring,
Though you wait forever,
Standing there
Where you stood together.

Better to sleep
With your warm cheek set
Against the earth
Where you may forget.

Better to weep
Another than Wait in vain
For a ship to span

The empty Gut,
For some will go
Along the trail
Of the undertow.

With all sails spread
And wake a-stern,
For some ship go
And do not return.

O mark the bell,
And the angry gale,
And turn from the ocean,
Abigail.

WHERE BEAUTY REIGNS

The New Camden Hills State Park Is Attracting Tourists From Everywhere

Many of us live amid or near beauty and are unaware of it. Day by day we follow a beaten path, a sort of humdrum existence, when the merest effort would take us into beauty and peace and serenity, beauty at hand, under our very eyes. This statement is not farfetched, for it may be applied to many in this locality, living in the shadow of Camden Hills State Park and as yet have never set foot on the premises.

There on a stretch of land gently sloping to the sea lies beauty such as artists dream of. This beauty first manifests itself when the turn is made from the Belfast road (right from Camden, left from Lincolnville Beach), for looking over the tops of trees is seen a broad expanse of ocean with a distant ring of islands, Vinalhaven, North Haven, Islesboro, Dark Harbor, Monroe, Mt. Desert, and others. One sees shadowy Blue Hill and on the right Owl Head. Gracefully winding roads of superb structure, with sodded roadsides and colorful plantings and natural growth, lead into parking areas of which there are three, each accommodating from 20 to 40 cars. (There is also a large parking area above the road with ample space for 40 cars.) These parking areas are provided with guard rails, some of which are constructed from heavy timbers placed on posts and others of fairly large logs fastened to huge boulders, each weighing several tons. This construction is particularly unique and striking.

The greatest beauty, however, is found by leaving the car in a parking area and walking down into the park. You are at once conscious of the invigorating fragrance of the evergreen trees and aromatic shrubs wafted to you by the breeze as it softly swishes in the tree tops. You hear birds sweetly chanting their songs as they flit from branch to branch, and always you catch the haunting sound of the surf. You walk on thick carpets of pine needles, and catch the flickering shadows of the sun through towering trees. Everywhere between the trees are seen glimpses of water sparkling in the sun and reflecting the sky above, and if there is a brisk wind outside you may have the fascinating vision of a small fleet of HAJ boats racing on the distant waters.

Butterflies in gay colors dance about. Red squirrels dart to and fro or chatter from the trees. There are shadowy spots. There are spots open and bright with sunshine. Trails retaining all their natural beauty lead into intriguing spots, aisles of ferns, a corner where a lovely glimpse of the sea is caught, a nook with a charming rock settle, a rustic bridge over a small softly running brook, a spot where velvety mossed rocks repose, a quaint table and seats fashioned of stone.

Wherever you turn there is beauty. A path on soft needles leads you to a crystal spring where a frog hops merrily into the water at the sound of your footsteps, where gracefully drooping ferns lean over the banks of the brook which quietly leads from the spring and trickles into nothingness. Here and there are steps fashioned out of flat rock leading down to another level, artfully constructed, with exquisite plantings adding further beauty. Nearing the shore one finds long series of steps of stone leading down to the beach itself, steps having graceful guard rails made in rustic style, yet stout and sound. Stairs where one may look up to see overhanging banks with wild rose plantings amid natural wild growth. On the beach you look back, far back, to see the Camden mountains forming a majestic background for all the beauty and color.

Unusual features, too, catch the eye, a hawk's nest high up in a gaunt old rock maple tree, a huge knarled overhanging tree that tells the story of years of conflict with the elements, a tree with a peculiar trunk formation. There are clumps of beautiful virgin white birch trees. There are small open spots with gorgeous backgrounds of evergreen trees, smaller ones leading gradually up to trees of immense height. In shadowy spots are picnic tables cleverly constructed from huge split logs on strong legs planted firmly into the ground, with accompanying benches made from stout timbers. There are other picnic tables and benches of stone, these placed in the more ledgy parts of the park and in perfect keeping with the surroundings, so natural it seems as if they must have always been there.

Everywhere one gazes upon the growth, trees, shrubs, ground covers flowering plants, all native growth, the plantings so artfully done that it is well nigh impossible to detect it from the natural growth left in clearing. In the trees are mainly red spruce, balsam fir, pine, a few cedars, birches, maple, oak, and beautiful specimens of locust. In the ground coverings are found taxus (creeping hemlock), boxberry, large blotches of creeping junipers of unusually fine growth, snake berries, blueberries, bunchberries, gold thread, etc. There are fine specimens of moss. Bayberry in rich growth features mainly in the shrubs, and there are also viburnum in many varieties, honey-suckle spiraea, ilex (red winterberry), wild azalea, laurel, lamb kill, and many others of our native shrubs. For flowering plants are seen violets, jewel weed, wild rose, wild aster, lady's slipper, and others. Ferns are found in many varieties.

It is of interest to know that more than 4,000 shrubs have been planted here, with a loss of less than one-half percent, covering a period that has gone on into late summer. A great part of this success is unquestionably due to the fact that the development and planting have been under the direction of a local man who has a thorough knowledge of native conditions.

While the foregoing has dwelt somewhat on the artistic and natural beauties, the project is by no means without its practical points. In the Park in addition to the picnic tables and benches already mentioned are and will be shelter houses, a system of flush toilets that meet all sanitary regulations, fireplaces, camp sites, drinking fountains, etc. Culverts, retaining walls and bridges, though fashioned to appeal to the artistic eye, are strongly and practically built.

The work has been done under skilled leadership by CCC boys, numbering from 150 to 200. Such work has kept these boys from the evils of idleness. It has been work that has kept them out of doors summer and winter, with labor that has developed muscular bodies and built up resistance, and also provided those who particularly desire it no small insight into landscape and engineering work. It can be safely said that many of these boys will find employment in the years to come in such lines of endeavor.

It is not amiss at this point to touch upon the fact that the CCC Camp is a school for these boys, not in the line of work pursued, but in many branches, languages, elements of surveying, mathematics, drafting, etc., basic knowledge of many subjects. This study is carried on under a trained and skilled educational director. A camp paper is published by the boys—The Sagamore, which they dispose of at five cents per copy. The boys have plenty of wholesome food, proper supervision, attention of camp doctor, free hospital treatment if necessary, free dentistry, and other advantages, which they would not have were they loafing in idleness on street corners.

This park, with an area of 60 acres and a depth of approximately one thousand feet from the road to the shore itself, is also rich in possibilities. There is an ideal spot for a large pool which would serve for fire protection as well as providing another beauty spot, with varieties of pond lilies floating on the waters, and surrounded with wild iris and many other types of our native water and swamp plants. There is a spot that would make an ideal out-door amphitheatre, a spot open to the sky against a gorgeous background of thick tree growth, sufficient space obtainable to accommodate say two thousand people. Think of such a setting for concerts, theatrical productions, or pageants. A sandy beach of extensive proportions could be developed from the shore front of about 400 feet, if cleaned of the rocks down to the rich gravel and sand below. An ideal spot for a beach, as under the high bank in the background could be erected a series of bath houses that would not obtrude.

The best part of it all is that this Park is for Mr. Poor Man and for Mr. Rich Man alike. It is your park and my park. It invites the man who rides in his Model T Ford as well as him who tours in the Pierce Arrow. It is for the family picnic and also for the organization group. It invites the naturalist to study native growth. It is a real school for those who would study parts of the park as examples for use of native plantings. It invites the geologist to study the man forms of rock formation. It invites the man or woman who seeks quiet and peace for harassed nerves and tired body. Already this summer with the small amount of publicity given to the Park, tourists from all over the country have visited it and expressed their admiration and approval. It indicates what next summer will bring in tourist visitation, and that cannot help but play a part

A TIDE THAT CAN'T BE HARNESSSED

In turning coins into the tills of merchants and householders alike in this section.

If you have not visited the Park, do so now while the fine autumn days still call one into the open. The foliage is beginning to take on the rich colors of fall weather. The shore is an ideal spot for a corn roast, with plenty of drift wood for a fire. And while we stroll through the winding paths and along the trails, looking upon the beauties around us, can we not visualize what next spring will bring forth, carpets of violets, the bloom of azalea and spires in their colorful tints, the soft tender leaves of the birches, the lovely wild rose, can you not see it all? In any event, visit the park now and join the enthusiasts who root for the development to become a lasting and permanent thing. Remember it is our park.

One might speak, too, of another work that is going on, up in the Mountains on the other side of the Belfast road, where already a passable road has been constructed from Spring Brook to Lincolnville. In a loop of about seven miles. There is also a road leading from the CCC Camp up to real beauty spots on Megunticook Mountain, to places where a thrilling view is to be had of bay and islands.

Cotton Checks
Big cotton planters in the South received generous helpings of government funds for not growing cotton. Forty-six received more than $10,000 each and one was sent a check for $123,000. 1,131 received checks of over $2,500 each and then of the little fellows, 732,075 received an average of $46.00 each.

Tenants Harbor Days

I have been interested in reading the names of the various vessels sailing out of the Rockland in days long gone. If the fleet should put into Tenant's Harbor at one time it would crowd it, and would even make a good show in Rockland harbor. (The Roving Reporter seemed to think that two yachts made a good show.)

There are only three Rockland vessels that I recall—Ship Red Jacket, Ship Euterpe, which I think followed the former ship on the stocks and was built by Deacon Thomas in 1854. Dad at the age of 19 helped caulk her when he first came to Rockland; the third vessel is the Schooner Caroline Gray, a double decker. Many years ago when I was at the Harbor she came in and anchored. One of the Harbor captains told me she was being rigged when she was built and was considered some vessel at that time. When in port, the master always went uptown with a "plug" hat on.

The names for vessels must have been selected in somewhat the same manner as those for Pullman cars. Imagine naming a vessel, "Hyena" or New Sell, Uarkia, Cyclone, Chonometer, Alqueazor. This is an old story but a good one: A man sat on the capstan of the wharf and spelled out the name on her stern, "Psyche" several times and finally said, "Well, I'll be jiggered, that's the funniest way to spell 'fish' I ever hurn tell uv."

Several vessels named Fish sailed Maine waters years ago. Frederick, Joe Bill, Kendrick, Joseph, etc. Schooner Golden Rule was well named. My first voyage at the ripe age of six years was in her. A greater number of Harbor sea captains served as master on her for the first time than on any other schooner sailing out of the Harbor. We hope she rests in peace somewhere in Belfast harbor where she was last reported. Boze

solved our ...

water heating problem...

... The more you use the LESS it costs per kwh

TWO distinct advantages come when you heat water electrically with a storage type heater:

1. You have ALL the hot water you need whenever you turn the faucet. It's an automatic service that requires no attention day or night.
2. The water is heated at night when there is less demand for electricity, and stored up in an insulated tank for use throughout the day. That's why you get, for all electricity used in excess of 200 kwh, a lower rate of 1c a kwh.

Complete electric service means WHOLESALE rates!

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else, etc.
