NEWSPAPER HISTORY
The Rockland Gazette was established in 1846. In 1874 the Courier was established and consolidated with the Gazette in 1882. The Free Press was established in 1853 and in 1891 changed its name to the Tribune. These papers consolidated March 17, 1897.

FIRST SLEIGHRIDE

Ex-Postmaster J. H. Hobbs of Camden hitched his mare into a sleigh Sunday morning and believes he had the first ride on runners of any person in Knox County. And that sleigh deserves special mention. It is 94 years old, and Mr. Hobbs bought it from the late Hartnett Bills of Hope.

Dividends Now On All Sides—Central Maine in the Procession

Directors of the Central Maine Power Company have declared a dividend on the firm's preferred stock equal to one-half the full dividend for the current quarter ending Dec. 31 of this year.

The directors announced the action was in accordance with their custom since they paid the dividend of Oct. 1, 1934.

They also declared a dividend of equal amount—one-half of the full dividend—on the stocks covering the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1934, and representing the "earliest half dividend in arrears."

"Stockholders," the directors said, "will therefore receive on Jan. 1, 1937, checks equal to a full quarter's dividend on the stocks which they held on Dec. 10, 1936—that is, $1.50 a share on the 6 percent stock, $1.50 on the $6 series and $1.75 on the seven percent stock."

Vinalhaven Landmark To Become a Boys' Camp—New York Specialist At Head

Vinalhaven welcomed a new industry last week when the Capital City Company, Melrose, Mass., became interested in the Williams Quarry. Plans are rapidly being made for an early increase in the business of the plant.

Further good news for the Island is found in the filing at the Registry of Deeds of the records of Vinalhaven Camp, Inc., a corporation formed for the purpose of taking over the property of the late Franz Herman, the premises having been bought by Dr. P. J. Flagg, a New York specialist. Dr. Flagg plans to occupy the premises as a summer home, and to develop it as a boys' camp. Since the Flagg family are the parents of eight boys and four girls, a substantial nucleus for such an activity becomes immediately available. Dr. Flagg has had the property carefully surveyed this fall by camp experts. These inspections indicate the property is ideal for the purpose. While unoccupied, except by a caretaker for several years, the furnished buildings are in perfect state of preservation, only minor improvements in paint and trim being required to recondition them.

The news of this sale was made known through the release of Incorporation papers in which this property is referred to as Vinalhaven Camp, Inc.

of fine buildings among which may be mentioned the owner's cottage, the main house, the large stable, poultry houses, green house, duck house, goose house, hog house, boat house, fruit house, etc. The cottage which is directly on the shore a few feet from the pier is a steam heated building, two stories high containing ten rooms and baths. The main house, occupied the year round by the caretaker, is 1500 feet from the shore. This house is also furnished, steam heated, with eight bedrooms and four baths. The barn is a large modern building, with a massive concrete foundation upon which is placed a well constructed timber loft as well as accommodations for horses and cattle. Modern plumbing equipment is found throughout the main buildings.

The entire property with its buildings represented an original investment of more than $200,000. The present price paid for the property has not been divulged.

Dr. Flagg is president of the new company; S. C. Welchman of New York, is treasurer, and Charles T. Smalley of this city is corporation clerk. Mr. Smalley has represented the Hermann Estate since the death of the owner in 1924.

SEES BIG SEASON

R. E. Brasier, Express Agent, Gives Public Some Valuable Tips

All signs point to heaviest Christmas buying in years during the holiday season, in the opinion of R. E. Brasier, agent of the Railway Express Agency, in this city.

"With improved business conditions, the public pocketbook will contain many more millions than it did last year," said Mr. Brasier, "and it looks as though the American public will spend not far from four billion dollars for holiday gifts for their children, relatives and friends. They always open their purse-strings freely when Christmas comes around."

Local industries and stores should be among the first to profit from more widespread buying demand in December, Mr. Brasier adds, pointing out that the signs are so clear that the entire Railway Express organization of 56,000 employees in 23,000 cities and towns, is getting ready for a record-breaking holiday traffic.

While express is geared to speedy operations, the expressmen are joining in the plea to the public for "early shopping and early shipping," not only for themselves, but for store and shop employees, with whom they come in contact everywhere. But to avoid disappointments, deliveries of holiday shipments by express will be made on Christmas Day, even those not arriving in town until Christmas morning.

Agent Brasier also lays stress on the importance of careful preparation and addressing of Christmas packages. Attractive holiday package labels, bearing the slogan "Do not Open Until Christmas," are available at the local Railway Express office or will be sent to any address on request—without charge.

Holiday shipments can be sent by express up to the last moment that will permit sufficient time for fast transportation to and delivery at destination, on or before Christmas Day. For late shipments, there is the Air Express (or Rail-Air) service providing high speed dispatch over night to many destinations some as far as 2,000 miles away. Tardy shippers will find this remarkable service a life-saver in making up for lost time and in gaining a most impressive and up-to-date method of delivery of Christmas packages.

The Herrmann Estate is located on Vinalhaven, the largest of the islands in Penobscot Bay, 12 miles from Rockland by steamboat, connected with the mainland by telephone, supplied with electric service, private and town water being available. The Estate comprises three farms, the Roberts farm, the Young and the Carver places, aggregating 350 acres of woodland and pasture with more than a mile of ocean waterfront, protected by two islands which form a private cove. In addition, there is more than a quarter of a mile of lake frontage, fed by tide water.

The grounds have great natural beauty and are free from such hazards as swift streams, high cliffs, swampy or rough ground. The sheltered cove provides ocean swimming from hundreds of feet of sandy beach, and a substantial pier. From the boat house, a railway leads across the beach into the water by means of which large boats may be pulled out for repair. Between the beach and the main house, there is an unobstructed grass area of about 30 acres, which receives the benefit of the full sunlight throughout the day. A good road leads from the property to the ferry landing which is about a mile away. Since the open space is well drained by reason of its gravelly soil, it provides an ideal playground. The forests suggest wood activities, the use of the ax and saw under good guidance, to make trails, build bridges of logs and construct log cabins.

The trails through the woods and pastures are ideal for horse back riding. Upon the property are a number

CHRISTMAS CLUBS

Beginning today two Rockland banks will distribute $40,000 through the medium of Christmas Clubs. At the Rockland Savings Bank the total is $25,000 and it will be divided among 540 depositors. At the Knox County Trust Company's quarters there will be turned loose $15,000 among 300 depositors. On Saturday checks will be mailed to those who have not already called for the amounts due them. Both clubs were larger than those of the previous year, and the outlook for 1937 is even better.

AWAITING WM. BISBEE

Florida Newspaper Quotes Liberally From Courier-Gazette Article

Tampa (Fla.) Tribune

The Gasparilla pirate ship William Bisbee, which is sailing from northern waters to Tampa to join in the annual pirate invasion, is expected to arrive late this week. G. A. Hanson, captain of Ye Mystic Krewe of Gasparilla, said yesterday.

The three-masted schooner is under command of Capt. William H. Davis of Medford, Mass., with Arthur Holland of Easport, Me., as mate, and a crew of three sailors.

The Bisbee was built by I. L. Snow & Co., in 1902, and sailed as a member of the Snow fleet for many years, mostly in the Atlantic coastal trade.

"After knocking up and down the Atlantic coast in all sorts of weather, she would get almost as good a rating today as when she was in her prime," says a story of the sailing of the ship in the Rockland, Me., Courier-Gazette, where Hanson negotiated for purchase of the ship recently.

"Her timbers are staunch and sound, and she would have been good for many a day in the coastwise trade, if the coastwise business had not practically vanished as far as sailing craft are concerned."

The Courier-Gazette termed as "a queer mission" the sailing of the Bisbee.

"Yesterday she sailed away on a queer mission," the story continues, "to be a make-believe pirate ship working two hours a year. A strange mission, indeed, but she possesses the exact qualifications desired by 'Ye Mystic Krewe of Gasparilla,' a non-profit corporation which annually celebrates Gasparilla day in Tampa, Fla."

Upon arrival, the ship will be overhauled and painted, and put in tip-top condition for the 1937 invasion, Hanson said. It is planned to change the ship's rig to from schooner to square rig, making it conform more closely to the rig of the old pirate ships.

That, however, likely will be done after the 1937 invasion, he said, as there is scarcely time to do it all by February.

The ship has a tonnage of 300 gross and 200 net, and measures 134 feet over all. It was sold in 1932 by the Snow interests to Capt. Charles R. Tyrnor of Easport, who recently sold the vessel to Victor B. Bendix, ship broker, for the Gasparilla krewes.

"The Gasparilla carnival is held from Feb. 1 to 3," the Rockland newspaper concludes its article, "and when you see the picture in the movies don't forget that the pirate ship with its swarming crew of 120 men was once the schooner William Bisbee, sailing between Rockland and Southern ports."

"Mood Music"

SEEING FOR THE UNBELIEVING

Those Who Don't Enthuse About Community Building Need Only To Inspect the Plant

Just as the Philosopher's stone of olden days was supposed to transmute base metals into gold, so a visit to Community Building and a view of its interior transmutes the lukewarm interest of the observer into genuine enthusiasm. This afternoon at 2 o'clock the General Committee is to visit the building and look over the auditorium and the tower hall. The inspection will be limited to these two points in order not to hamper the workmen.

Most of the committee have not seen the interior of the splendid plant; they are organizing to equip and Congressman Moran whose hard work made the big project an accomplished fact in its stormy beginnings, will be among the speakers. The famous WPA Band and the crack WPA show troupe will be on the program. This early opening ceremony is in accord with WPA custom and request.

It is the firm belief of Campaign Director Richardson that the all important factor in gaining the 100% enthusiastic support of the community for the equipping of the building is to get every last member of the community to see exactly what the building is like. Once a person has gone through this building its splendid possibilities for community service are apparent. Truly, seeing is believing in this case. It looks to be a long way just now to the top of that $10,000 equipment fund hill, but once let the men and women of Rockland see the building, and let the summer residents and former citizens see that the local folks are in full earnest in equipping the splendid structure—then the battle is half won.

SUNDAY LAUNCHING

Beam Trawler Rio-Douro Goes Overboard At Thomaston—Two Girls Christen

The beam trawler, Rio-Douro, was launched from the yard of the Morse Boatbuilding Corp. Sunday at 10.40 o'clock. The craft is owned by Capt. Albino Pereria of Gloucester, Mass., who will also command her, and Larry McEwen, New England agent for the Cooper-Bessemer Engine Corp., also of Gloucester.

The boat is 96 feet over-all, 30 foot beam and 10 foot raft, and is to be equipped with a 230 h. p. Cooper-Bessemer engine, one of the largest ever to be installed at the Morse shop. Rio-Douro means the "River of Gold"—the name of the river where Capt. Pereria was born in Portugal, Spain.

The trawler was christened by the daughters of the owners, Miss Avelina Pereria and Miss Barbara McEwen, who performed the rite with a champagne bottle beautifully decorated with yards of red ribbon.

The ways were surrounded by enthusiastic spectators as the Rio glided gracefully to the waves.

TALK OF THE TOWN

The weekly boxing exhibition at the Tilton Avenue Stadium has been postponed to Dec. 9.

The week's weather forecast by the Associated Press promises rising temperature for today and Wednesday, colder about Thursday night and warmer by Saturday.

Capt. Ross L. Wilson left Saturday for New York where he will sail for European Ports as chief officer on the S. S. Excalibur of the American Export Line.

Nicholas Richard Pellicane has attained the scholastic honor list for the second semester of the last school year at Bates College. The list was announced in Chapel exercises this morning by President Gray. Pellicane is a senior this year.

George E. Dunton who was manager of the Rockland division when the Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc. discontinued their Bangor and Boston line, will be identified with the passenger department in the Boston office. He takes up his new work in about two weeks.

The board of managers of the Home for Aged Women desires Courier-Gazette readers to know how grateful they are for the splendid response made to their appeal for Donation Day favors. The gifts were both numerous and generous, and among those who remembered this worthy institution were school children and Sunday Schools. The spirit which marked the presentation of these gifts was equally pleasing. The managers find it impossible to thank everybody in person and take this method of doing it.

Rockland sent a good-sized delegation to Old Town Sunday to witness the installation of the local V.F.W. Post. Included in the group were Mr. and Mrs. Oliver R. Hamlin, Mr. and Mrs. John Guistin, Vernon Giles, Mrs. Helen Johnson, Mrs. Elizabeth Cormier and Mr. and Mrs. John S. Ranlett. Mr. Hamlin and Mr. and Mrs. Ranlett attended the installation of the Post in Portland last night. Lucky Oliver brought home from Old Town a handsome Indian basket made on the Reservation.

Most of us at this season of the year, have a fondness for yellow literature—the almanacs for instance. We have just received a copy of the Old Farmers' Almanac, published by Little, Brown & Company, 34 Beacon street, Boston. Exclusive of the familiar cover the almanac for 1937 contains 108 pages, and they are jammed with information that answers countless questions. While the Almanac was originally planned for the New England states, it arouses interest in all parts of the country. The publishers received orders from nearly every State in the Union as well as from remote quarters of the globe—Korea, France, Honolulu, the Virgin Islands. Many newspapers rely on it for information regarding tides, the phases of the moon, etc., and a number of colleges use it as a text in their astronomy courses.

The annual fair of the Methodist Church takes place tomorrow with a sale in the afternoon. At 6 o'clock a chicken pie supper will be served under the chairmanship of Mrs. Ivy Chatto. An entertainment of unusual interest will be put on at 7.30 consisting of a miscellaneous program, and two one-act plays. Ralph Clark is coaching the play, "Moon-bound Husbands" which is the story of six men who tired of the cares of married life decide to start for the moon in a rocket plane. A rollicking comedy as you can imagine. The cast includes: George Gay, Ray Hoch, Leroy Chatto, George Orcutt, Gordon DeWolfe, Ralph Clark. The play "Not a Man in the House" is under the direction of Mrs. Laura Buswell and has to do with one Mrs. Maria Bangs whose unfortunate marriage has made her determined not to have a man in the house. In the cast are Madeline Rogers, Saxon DeWolfe, Shirley Rollins, Dorothy Harvey and Ruth Thomas.

DO IT NOW

With Christmas just 25 days away, and having a much more satisfactory status than it has borne for many years, there confronts a multitude of shoppers the task of selecting holiday gifts. First, shop early; second, shop wisely. Those who have been caught in the hurly-burly of the last minute rush have learned the secret of congenial trading. They have learned that those who shop early find at their disposal the largest and best stock of Christmas goods, and they have also found that the clerks are in a position to give them more time and advice. Improve the pleasant days, bearing in mind, always, that there may be rough weather immediately in advance of Christmas, greatly handicapping the holiday shopping, if not preventing it entirely. These words of caution are purely fundamental, but we all require them at this season of the year if we are to cater to our convenience and welfare. Shop early!

GOV. BRANN'S FUTURE

In a little more than a month Gov. Louis J. Brann will retire from his duties as Maine's Chief Executive, which he has filled with admitted ability the past four years. He has leased a residence in Lewiston, and presumably will return to the practice of law. Defeated in his ambition to become United States Senator, and his popularity considerably lessened by the manner in which he took that defeat, it does not necessarily imply that he is out of the political picture. He has been mentioned in connection with several high positions, including membership in the Cabinet, and it is fair to assume that if there are political plums hanging loose—plums of sufficient importance—one of them may be tossed in his direction. The Administration could be little else than grateful to him for waging a battle against his own wishes, even if that fight was futile, and served only to widen a breach within his own party. Summarized, it will be interesting to see which of the two men soon to lose their titles, will find political favor with the Roosevelt Administration—Louis J. Brann or Edward C. Moran, Jr.

MURDER IN MADRID

With mingled feelings we read the daily news despatches from the European war zones. Admitting promptly that we are in ignorance as to the real merits of the trouble in Spain, we do not hesitate to say that our sympathies are wholly with that band of Loyalists which is making such a heroic stand in war-battered Madrid. Engines of destruction hover over and around the beleaguered city showering death upon its defenders and its non-combatant citizens, alike. Perhaps this is war, and no violation of war's ethics, but that such things may happen, as we saw happen in Ethiopia and as we today see happening in Madrid, do not seem to fit into an era which boasts of high civilization, of diplomats and a militant church. How to stop it? We do not know. Shall the United States intervene? Perish the thought! And yet in the back of all our consciences is the disturbing thought somebody ought to do something to prevent bloodshed, rapine and destruction of property.

AROUND THE CORNER

When the railroads begin to return net incomes over and above the fixed charges, one may be pardoned for believing that prosperity is just around the corner. The Maine Central Railroad's net income for October was $69,578, all forms of traffic showing a healthy increase. Popular passenger rates might account for an increase in that department, but when freight revenues increase it means that commodities are moving and that more persons must be working.

A delegation of WPA officials, headed by John C. Fitzgerald, deputy administrator for Maine visited Rockland's new community building yesterday and expressed unqualified pleasure at the progress which is being made and at the wonderful results which are being achieved. The confusion attendant upon interior completion does not allow one to see the building at best advantage, but those citizens who have found their way into the great structure have emerged champions of this much needed enterprise. Chairman John M. Richardson's committee, charged with furnishing and equipping the building is entitled to the full support of every local citizen, and that of neighboring communities which will derive benefit from the project.

BRANN TO APPOINT

Has Three Important Places To Fill—What Will Counsel Do

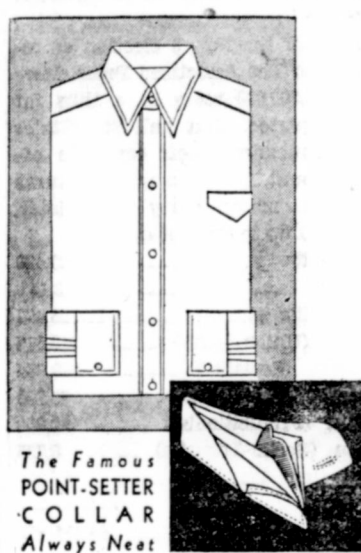

Gov. Brann has under consideration the making of appointments to fill vacancies that have occurred during his administration. He cannot, of course, tell what the Council will do, but it is still regarded as by no means certain that if the appointments made by the Governor are good appointments the Council will turn them down.

For the vacancy on the Public Utilities commission the Governor has been advised that George Otis Smith, well known over the Country for his service in the national government, would be an ideal man. Mr. Smith's service as chief of the Water Power commission has made him familiar with water power problems with many of which the Maine commission has to do and he is known as a man of judgment, ability and fairness.

It is not at all unlikely that the place will be offered to Mr. Smith, it being left to the Council to say whether such an appointment meets with their approval. Mr. Smith qualifies in politics as well as in ability and experience for he was dropped from his position in Washington because he was a Republican and he is taking much interest in party affairs since he came to Maine.

For the third place on the Highway commission the Governor has been anxious to select a Republican who has had some road building and engineering experience and whose ideas would be in harmony with the policies of the present commission. Here again he is giving consideration to several names and one of these is Col. William E. Southard of Bangor. Col. Southard is an engineer of experience and has done some highway work in Maine. Besides that he has the background of a war record that is unsurpassed by any Maine veteran. He is the present commander of the Maine Legion and has been active in that organization. He went across as the commander of one of the battalions in the 103rd Regiment under Col. Hume. As soon as the Maine regiment began active service Major Southard won a reputation as a fighter that was unsurpassed in the 26th division. He was a man who always led his men and only asked them to follow him. He was wounded in the battle of Chateau-Thierry and was decorated with the cross of the Legion of Honor and the Distinguished Service Cross. He was commissioned a colonel before returning home. Colonel Southard's home is in Bangor and his locality is favorable to his appointment. Should he read this, he might learn for the first time that his name is under consideration for appointment.

For liquor commissioner, the Governor has already appointed Judge Zeina M. Dwinall of Camden. The Council tabled the appointment of Judge Dwinall and should that body persist in its refusal to confirm him there is a possibility that the Governor might withdraw his name and appoint another. At any rate, he has asked about men who would be available for the position and who would meet with the favor of the Council. One of those suggested to him is Ray E. Rendall of Alfred. The appointment of Mr. Rendall has been strongly urged upon the Governor.

CLARENCE E. ROLLINS

Clarence E. Rollins, a well known railroad employee, died last Wednesday at his home on Broadway. He had been in ill health eight weeks, but the end came with a suddenness that shocked family and friends.

Clarence Ernest Rollins was born in Bath, Feb. 28, 1879. He had been employed as machinist by the Maine Central Railroad for more than 30 years, a general favorite with his fellow workmen, and his expert services being much appreciated by the corporation.

Mr. Rollins was a member of Aurora Lodge, P.A.M., King Solomon's Temple Chapter, King Hiram's Council, Claremont Commandery, the Scottish Rite bodies and Consistory. He manifested a deep interest in Masonry, and was a faithful attendant at the meetings of the various bodies.

He is survived by his wife, Grace L. Rollins; his stepdaughter, Miss Daphne Winslow, a teacher at Fryburg Academy, and his mother, Mrs. Sabra Chandler of Bath.

Funeral services were held at the late residence Sunday afternoon. Rev. Dr. John Smith Lowe officiating. The Commandery service was most impressive. Handsome floral testimonials, including several from out of town, expressed the sympathy of friends. Among those in attendance from out of the city were Mrs. Sabra Chandler of Bath, Mr. and Mrs. John N. Glidden of Newcastle, M. J. Durgin, Ira Durgin and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Durgin of Bath, George Gilman of Brunswick and Mrs. Ida Crowell and Jack Gowan of Rockport. The bearers were E. C. Boody, J. E. Stevens and Ernest Rogers of Rockland and G. M. Gilman of Brunswick.

HIGH SCHOOL ESSAY

This One, Written By Gardner Brown Concerns That Marvel, Liquid Air

Friday afternoon Mr. James from Kentucky favored our High School by the most interesting demonstration of chemistry that it has ever seen.

This demonstration of liquid air was about its chemical and physical properties. At first he showed and explained to us the "Dewar Flask," this is a container which has walls which have a vacuum between them. A modified variation of this flask is commonly known as a "Thermos Bottle." This was invented 55 years ago.

The rareness of a demonstration of liquid air is largely due to the fact that it costs quite a bit and is always boiling away. It is there one week and not there the next week.

Liquid air is a bluish liquid and because it's always evaporating very rapidly, it has to be kept in an open flask. It is made by compressing air and cooling it to its critical temperature of minus 190° C. At this temperature it becomes a liquid and so therefore it never gets above this temperature without changing to the gas, air.

Liquid air boils furiously on ice because ice is 344 degrees hotter. This seems strange to the average person because hot and cold are terms used relatively.

When this experiment of boiling liquid air on ice was done a kettle was used. As boiling is an action which tends to bring everything about it to the same temperature, the kettle became frosted with ice.

One volume of liquid air when it becomes the "gas" air is 860 times its former volume. Imagine what would happen if anyone should swallow any!

After explaining this, a little liquid air was placed in a tube fitted tightly with a cork stopper, the stopper was shot many feet just by the expansion of the liquid air.

The pressure formed by the rapid evaporation of liquid air is enough to drive a steam engine. When this steam engine is in airplane (liquid air) it gives it a very great speed. One may wonder why this liquid boils so readily. The answer is this: liquid air has a temperature of minus 312° F. and the tank in which it is placed in 400° hotter. If you added a temperature of 400° to water, one wouldn't be surprised if it boiled.

Thirty-six years ago in 1900 a horseless carriage was run with liquid air, but the liquid cost so much that it was soon replaced.

Mercury is a liquid metal at ordinary temperatures but when its molecules, which are bounding about at ordinary temperature, are cooled down,—the molecules make hardly any motion and the liquid becomes a solid.

In this case mercury was poured in a mold in the shape of a hammer and was frozen by liquid air. The hammer was then hard enough to drive a nail. However if this temperature wasn't kept up the hammer would melt!

This theory of molecular action was also demonstrated by the freezing of a wet piece of cloth and a rubber ball. This was also shown by the use of two lead bells which ordinarily made hardly any noise when rung, but when one of them was frozen, it rang nearly like an ordinary bell. A lead spring showed the same thing in a different way. It had ordinarily

"AS COOL AND SMOOTH A SMOKE AS ANYONE COULD ASK FOR!"

"My first pipeful of Prince Albert ended my tobacco-hunting days," says Harry Kanouse. "This mild, mellow tobacco has been my favorite ever since. That 'no-bite' process takes out the harshness and leaves a cool, sweet, easy-drawing smoke—the kind that every man likes."
If you're a "makin'" roller, you'll like P. A. for rolling your own!

no resiliency but when frozen it made a good spring.

The most striking exhibition of this theory of molecular action was in the resistance of a coil of wire. The resistance was due to the rapid vibration of the copper molecules but when the molecular action was slowed down by the freezing of the coil, the resistance was nearly all gone. Since liquid air freezes mercury, alcohol, and other solutions used in thermometers, its temperature is measured by a meter using the facts just mentioned about electricity and resistance.

Handling liquid air is equivalent to handling molten iron. Therefore when you thrust your hand in liquid air it is like plunging your hand in a seething cauldron of iron.

However this is made momentarily possible by the layer of a nearly vacuum layer of nothingness. This is known as "Crookes layer," which won't allow any heat to reach the skin, and when this becomes thinner and thinner then you are burned.

The most important use of liquid air is the fractional distillation of it, to obtain the gases which compose it.

In one year $6,000,000 worth of oxygen alone is used, and 220 cubic feet of neon is worth $35,000.

Cotton soaked in liquid air becomes an explosive. This was demonstrated by a small cannon. When soaked in carbon particles it forms a high explosive.

A test tube filled with carbon and attached to a balloon full of air, when cooled to minus 312° F. was able to absorb 18 times its own volume of air.

A little aluminum and liquid air when placed together and ignited formed a brilliant flame and a temperature of 4500° F.

When all is through one must stop and think what a difference there is between air we breathe and liquid air!

STREETS FOR COASTING

Warren, Masonic and Pacific streets have been especially set aside for coasting purposes, and City Marshal A. P. Motorists are asked to exercise much caution in those neighborhoods.

In this ideal spot, Capt. Horton has added to his real estate holdings by buying the adjoining farm owned by Wilbur J. Morse. "Camp Bonito" and "Camp Repose" will now have a new companion known as "Camp Comfort." Visitors call the place a modern Eden.

IN WINTER QUARTERS

The winter's sleep of a black and brown caterpillar was interrupted yesterday by Thomas Fleming at Peterson's upholstery shop. Mr. Fleming was repairing an automobile seat when out rolled Mr. Caterpillar, apparently dead to the world. Tom placed the hairy stranger on a newspaper, placed the latter on a radiator and promptly forgot all about the incident. When he returned the caterpillar reminded one of a certain brand of chewing gum, and was going strong at last accounts.

Beaver, protected by law, are quoted in the list. This is due to the fact that certain sections of the State are open to beaver trapping at times under special order of the Fish and Game Commissioner, who has authority to declare an open season when the animals are found to be causing damage to property through the construction of dams which flood timberlands. Each beaver skin taken from such open localities must be stamped with a State seal, costing $2 for each pelt. The law requires that all beaver skins shall be marked, or stamped, within 30 days from the closing of the open period whether they are for sale or not.

Home Heating Hints

by JOHN BARCLAY, Heating Expert

Building Furnace Fire Is Easy Operation When You Follow Few Simple Rules

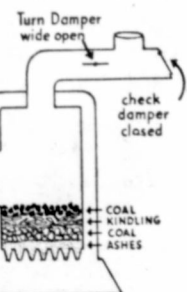

It's really no trick to build a good furnace fire quickly and easily.

Leave a layer of ashes about two inches deep spread on the grate. Spread about two inches of coal over this layer of ashes. Over the coal, place a generous layer of kindling—newspapers and light, dry wood.

The Turn Damper in the smoke pipe and the Ashpit Damper should be open wide. If the Ashpit Damper on your furnace is in back, open it and also the Ashpit Door in front. This assures maximum draft and quick ignition.

When the kindling is burning well, add fresh coal gradually. In this way you get a deep fire in little time—the kindling burning the coal beneath it, and the fire, in turn, igniting the coal above it. From time to time, add additional fuel until you have a solid, deep fire. When this is done, check your dampers and close the Ashpit Door.

Should the kindling light through the furnace door crevices, it is due to the chimney being cold and not providing enough draft to carry off the smoke. This is easily overcome by wadding a bit of newspaper, lighting it, and inserting it into the Check Damper. This heats the air, creating a draft in the flue pipe and chimney and carries the smoke away.

KITCHEN AIDS

By Janet Houston

AMERICAN housewives—please copy! The French are particular to have the right utensil and proper implement for each culinary job—and use kitchen scissors frequently. This pair has one notched blade which makes it practical for separating the joints of a fowl and cutting off a fish head neatly. Incidentally, when you bake a whole fish, preheat the oven of your gas range to 350 degrees Fahrenheit, then brush the fish with melted fat, place in an oiled pan or one containing oiled cooking parchment; bake at the given temperature for from 15-18 minutes per pound. Fish needs no searing.

Christmas gifts already? Certainly, if you want to make your own this year, it's none too early to be looking for ideas, says Mrs. Rena Campbell Bowles, Extension home industries specialist, University of Maine. It's often a gift from the kitchen or woods that pleases most, she continues. Real thought, effort and originality are involved on the part of the giver. For 1936 why should we not make less expensive but more original gifts?

One might look around for attractive glass bowls, or round or long, low pottery dishes, that often can be found for ten or 25 cents. The glass bowl with a cover is just perfect for the partridge vine with its red berries. Put some moist moss in the bottom, twine the vine around in the bowl, put on the cover, tie with a red bow and a sprig of fir; and some friend will have a long lasting gift for the winter months.

Bayberry bushes grow abundantly along the Maine coast. Collect some while out for a walk. Hunt up an old candle mold (grandmother used them) get a bayberry candle recipe from your library or elsewhere and make a supply of fragrant bayberry candles. Tip ends with silver or gift if you must decorate them. Bayberry leaves tucked in a little bag may be used when ironing. They are waxy, and heat melts the wax and cleans the iron. Someone may appreciate a few little bags of leaves for just this purpose.

Pine cones, either treated or plain, make a welcome gift for the city friend who has a fireplace. Put the cones in a colorful green, yellow, or red tartan or mosquito net bag. Then tie with a silver bow, a cone tucked in it. A bundle of salt water pine isn't bad either. When burned the flames give an assortment of beautiful colors. Balsam fir tip pillows are fragrant and welcomed by many. Monks cloth of neutral color, linens or coarse crash in tans or greens make the most suitable covers. A pine tree design made with soft wool in a cross stitch pattern is sufficient decoration.

A squatty can, painted to match a kitchen color scheme, filled with all sorts of fascinating cookies, a fruit cake or steamed pudding, wrapped in cellophane tied with a bit of pine with a cone, a box of delicious home made candy, candied cranberries for the tree, a jar of popcorn ready to pop, string for decoration or to eat on Christmas evening, gingerbread men wearing gay neckties of frosting for the younger members of the family, bring joy to those who receive them. These gifts come from friends who have planned for the Christmas season. They have used time, thought and originality for the gift in the box which bears the label "Do not open until Xmas."

Maine farm women who kept household accounts last year found that the farm provided one-half of the family living, says Miss Edna M. Cobb, Extension home management specialist, University of Maine. Seventy-one women kept complete accounts of all family expenditures, and had their accounts audited and summarized by the Extension Service. The summary of all these accounts revealed that the farm furnished 51 percent of the family living in the form of homegrown food, fuel and the use of the dwelling house. Food and clothing purchased, education, gifts, charity, pleasure and other items for which cash was paid made up the other 49 percent. Individual family expenditures ranged from less than $200 to more than $1700 a year.

Twenty-one of the 71 women had kept accounts for five years, and several had kept them still longer.

The accounts when analyzed by the individual family answer some interesting and important questions such as these: Were our total expenditures for family living greater or less last year than formerly? What caused the difference, a change in the number of persons in the family, and children growing older and needing more, serious illness, vacation, unusual expenditures, changing our way of living or changing prices?

Did we spend our money for the things most worthwhile for our family or for things unimportant to health and happiness? Did our family have adequate medical and dental care? Did they have wholesome recreation? Did we give to the less fortunate?

Did our spending promote long time rather than brief satisfaction, or was money dribbled away? Could we have bought some items more efficiently? Could we have produced more food and fuel and bought less. Would it have been wise to save more and spend less for family living? Or the other way around? Was saving made at the expense of family health, development, or happiness?

The pay raise of 10% to the 120 employees in Georges River Mills to take effect Dec. 14, follows in line with mills over the State. However officials of Georges River Woolen Mills should have a word of commendation, since they were among the first to adopt the NRA and later when the act was considered unconstitutional by the Supreme Court, officials of these mills did not cut the pay, nor increase the hours of work as so many mills did.

Bridge Under Construction

Work was begun today on the building of a safe temporary bridge over the Georges River, on the middle road to Union, by Stewart & Williams, contractors of Augusta, to whom the contract for the construction of a permanent bridge in this spot, was awarded some weeks ago, with the provision of a temporary bridge for winter use be built first.

It is estimated that the building of the temporary bridge will take but a few days at most. The location is on the site of the floating bridge built in May by Middle Road residents.

Following the construction of the temporary bridge, work will begin on the permanent structure of two 50 foot spans of steel, piling on each end, and rock pier in the center. The planing will be placed edgewise as on the long bridge at Wiscasset. Total cost of the building and material will be $17,000, all of which with the exception of $2800 which this town furnishes, comes from Federal Flood Relief Funds. A fill will be made at each end of the bridge, which will be placed on the site of the Starrett bridge.

The crew will be secured from the Rockland Re-employment office.

"I was at my office all the time," he wrote, "and can't you please write my wife that it wasn't me on the air." Mrs. Miles obliged.

That rumor that the Voice of Experience was coming to the opening of the Sundaes shows over NBC radio is 100 percent false. The Voice feels that in attempting to dramatize a problem, it is necessary to make changes to aid dramatic structure and this he refuses to do. He takes every problem that comes to him just as it is. He does not edit, and hence the problems he deals with could not be dramatized.

For Digestion's Sake
...Smoke Camels

Good digestion helps bring a sense of well-being and contentment

THE delightful effect of smoking Camels with your meals and afterwards has been proved again and again in the great laboratory of human experience. Explorers, champion athletes, people in hazardous outdoor work, as well as millions of men and women in homes and offices, find that Camels get digestion off to a good start and make the perfect ending to a meal. When you enjoy Camels, you are rewarded with an increased flow of digestive fluids — alkaline digestive fluids — so important to good digestion. And you can enjoy Camels as often as you like! Camels don't get on your nerves.

A FLIGHT DISPATCHER. "I often eat my meals on the job," says H. G. Andrews, TWA flight dispatcher. "Camels help my digestion behave itself. Being mild, Camels don't get on my nerves."

THIS CO-ED SAYS: "Camels set me right. Mental work often has an effect on digestion too," adds Miss Josephine O'Neill. "During meals Camels are a big aid to digestion. After meals they make food seem twice as good."

COSTLIER TOBACCOS

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Colamel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.
Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Fortress of Chillon Is Popular in Switzerland The Swiss town of Villeneuve at the eastern end of Lake Lemane always welcomes visitors, for in spite of its name, "New City," it is a very ancient town, known in the time of the Romans as Penniloci. But as in years past, it yielded to the attractions of the Castle of Chillon, the best known castle in all Switzerland, with whose story, first celebrated by Lord Byron in 1816, few castles in all Europe can compete.

The fortress of Chillon stands a mile from Villeneuve, on an isolated rock about twenty yards from the bank of the lake. It is connected with the shore by a bridge, which in medieval days was a drawbridge. How old the castle may be none can tell, but Bronze Age tombs, nearly 4,000 years old, discovered at its entrance, give one some key to its antiquity. The earliest mention of Chillon Castle in any document is 1005 A. D., when it belonged to the bishops of the sixteenth century it was held by the Dukes of Savoy, during whose reign most of the towers in it took place.

Although the sixteenth century Francois Bonivard, the subject of Byron's poem, was imprisoned there when he with other Swiss patriots rebelled against the Duke of Savoy, his two years fettered in the dungeons which bears his name was but slight suffering compared to the tortures of most who were thrown into the dark, damp chambers there. The post, erected in 1256, near where the torture by fire was perpetrated shows the scorings and burns made by the executioners in their testings of the hanged irons.

Last week's column brought forth many comments on other trawling or fish dragging from interested citizens and especially from the fishermen. It seemed as though many were of the opinion that as the result of our article the Department was against this style of fishing.

Fish dragging is here to stay. The other trawl has been of untold advantage to the Atlantic coastal fishery as a highly economical means for taking large quantities of bottom fish in all kinds of weather. As the result of more and lower price fish the markets have been expanded and the industry increased in value many times. The gear now used is still in its crude partly developed form. It can well be expected to undergo considerable change before the perfect trawl is developed.

The importance of the other trawl is unquestioned. The big question is just how to make it so efficient that it will bring up even larger quantities of fish and still protect the young of unmarketable size. Wholesale slaughter of these young fish has been the main basis of criticism of this apparatus.

Progress is being made as the result of experiments by the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries and the Departments of the various states. Experts recommend the universal adoption of a minimum mesh of 4 inches for the nets.

Extensive trials have shown that this mesh will hold practically all haddock weighing 1½ pounds and over and release an average of four-fifths of the haddock below this size. If these regulations had been in effect in 1931 they would have protected the Georges Bank haddock population, it is believed, about as much as would have been accomplished by tying up the entire fishing fleet for six to seven months of that year.

It is not claimed that these regulations will return the catches on Georges Bank to what they were during the heyday to 1927-28. However, they will cause millions of baby haddock to be left on the banks to become scrod and large haddock instead of rotting bodies to be devoured by sea gulls and other scavengers. Due to variations in natural conditions, fishing will be poorer in some years than in others, but as a whole it will be much better than it will be possible if present methods continue.

In talking with many prominent Maine fishermen I have learned that a majority of them would welcome the passage of a law making nets with less than a 4 inch mesh illegal. This matter is going to be given plenty of study by the Department to weigh the advisability of presenting it to Legislature for passage this winter.

The passage of such a law by the State of Maine might tend to encourage other States and national governments to take similar action. Canada now has a law which specifies that no other trawling shall be carried on inside the 12 mile limit with the exception of small draggers operated by inshore fishermen who may be licensed by special permit from the Minister of Fisheries.

The hope of our fisheries lies, not in pointless closed seasons or in any other form of arbitrary legislative control, but in accumulating knowledge with which to solve this problem and in changing our fishing methods so as to cut the cost of producing a full trip while guaranteeing undiminished abundance of mature fish.

Red Cross Anticipates Results In Drive on Home-Farm Hazards

Farm dumps create fire hazards, breed disease germs and are sources of cuts and puncture wounds which may result in serious infection. Right: Falls cause most home accidents, and often result from a "lazy man's" ladder while climbing or descending stairs.

DURING the year the Red Cross organized 2500 community groups to deal with local accident problems in a progressive effort to cut accidents in homes and on farms. The three-fold program of the Red Cross warns against careless habits, eliminates hazards by a check-list method of inspection conducted by the household, and teaches first aid to thousands so that persons injured will have a better chance for recovery.

Home mishaps last year killed or crippled 171,500 persons and farm work accidents took 4,400 lives, as many as the combined fatalities recorded for construction and manufacturing.

Working through organized farm units, educators, schools and allied groups the Red Cross has presented its constructive methods for eliminating accident hazards to millions. Advocating the doctrine that accidents do not happen but are caused, the Red Cross looks for a gradual reduction in the home and farm accident rate as a result of its nation-wide campaign.

METHEBESIC CLUB

Forty-One Present At Last Roll Call—The Tang Of the Sea

Mrs. Ruth Ellingwood and Mrs. Maude Blodgett were hostesses to the Methebesic Club Friday afternoon at the former's home, 41 members responding to roll call. Mrs. Blodgett acted as secretary in the absence of Mrs. Carrie Palmer who is recovering from a recent illness.

It was voted to hold the meeting scheduled for Dec. 25 on Dec. 18. This will be the usual Christmas meeting and at this time articles of clothing, toys, books, etc., to be distributed to needy children, will be received. These articles are to be well wrapped and marked with age and sex of child for whom intended.

Chorus singing of "Nancy Lee" and "Sailing" was enjoyed, with Mrs. Irene Walker at the piano.

The programs of the recent years have disclosed many interesting phases, one of which has been the wealth of personal contribution made by members. When the year's study subject was on "Outstanding Women of Today," the number of members who knew personally, or had heard of, such famous women was surprisingly large. And again when the subject was "Italy," several of the members contributed from memories of European trips which had included Italy. This year carries on this phase, for as the subject gradually develops it is being discovered many of the women have colorful and dramatic seafaring backgrounds.

Out of such a background came the paper contributed to Friday's program—"Round the Horn in a Wind-jammer," and into the picture of the perils and tragedies that surrounded trips round the Horn back in the real days of shipping, Miss Castella Cushman was able to intersperse a vivid story of an experience out of her own life when she accompanied her father, Capt. Frank Cushman, on such a trip. Mrs. Mary Overlock presented a paper on "Clipper Ships," a paper showing much study and thought in preparation and embracing a well rounded history of the clipper ship, its birth, development, some of the best known clippers, etc. Of course special mention was made of the "Red Jacket" built at Rockland, and of particular interest was a list of captains hailing from these local ports. In this list was a surprisingly large number from Thomaston, known back in the old days as "The Town of a Hundred Sea Captains."

Mrs. Blodgett in her miscellaneous events touched largely upon the Penobscot Marine Museum, established in September of this year at Searsport to preserve the shipping history of this section. The board of trustees was given, the list headed by Admiral Pratt, retired, a native of Belfast, and embracing other names well known in marine annals. Mrs. Blodgett also spoke of the marine museum proposed at Bath, active figures in which are the Sewalls, significant names in Maine ship building.

The meeting of Dec. 11 will be at the home of Mrs. Anna Nelson, with Mrs. Laura Maxcy assisting. The papers of the afternoon will be presented by Mrs. Mabel Rose, "Castle Builders" and Mrs. Adelle Small, "Rock Gardens of the Sea."

TEMPERATURE DROPS

And In Many Homes the Problem Is of Keeping the Home Fires Burning

When the temperature drops below in many homes the person who is the mainstay wonders how long he will be able to keep the home fires burning, provide food and shelter without a position. To whom can he turn, who is there that cares enough about him, and then the mail man arrives with a letter from the National Re-employment Office asking this man to report as soon as possible, for a position has been secured for him.

Hope is revived; he feels someone still cares about him and immediately has a new outlook on life.

This is typical of hundreds of cases like the above. The National Re-employment Service is like that other great humanitarian organization, the Red Cross which alleviates suffering and brings cheer. What could be better for a Christmas present this year than to receive a position through the office of the National Re-employment Service. What could be a greater benefit to the unemployed than a job from an employer.

How can the employer get the right kind of man he needs? Business demands his attention. Then off comes the receiver. He calls the National Re-employment Service. A pleasant voice—Re-employment Service, the employer then makes his request, something like this. Have you a stenographer for instance. The files are referred to and soon the employer is told that they have a stenographer, just what he needs. This service is free, both to employer and unemployed. The National Re-employment Service has placed many in domestic service, still could place many more.

The National Re-employment Service is a public servant. It is part of the U. S. Department of Labor. The Service has had many phone requests for housekeepers, some wish them to stay nights, while others prefer to have them go home. The National Re-employment Service has been successful in making this type of placement. All persons seeking employment should register at this office immediately as one never knows when an opening in their particular occupation may appear.

UNION

Mrs. Lullie Ames Ufford

Lullie Ames, widow of Rev. E. S. Ufford, died Nov. 20 after a long period of ill health, through which she was tenderly cared for by her daughters and son-in-law. Mrs. Ufford was born in Appleton, daughter of Mark and Mary (Whitmore) Ames. Most of her early life was spent in Appleton until she met and married Rev. E. S. Ufford, then a student at Bates Theological Seminary. She was of great help and inspiration to her husband in the many pastorates to which he was later called and served.

In 1928 Rev. and Mrs. Ufford celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary which was pleasantly observed by many friends and neighbors. Mrs. Ufford was a woman of sweet sterling character, faithful wife, mother, sister and friend, greatly beloved by all who knew her. Through her three years of ill health her life was most markedly an example of Christian faith and fortitude.

Mrs. Ufford is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Lila Burrill and Mrs. Ethel Griffin of Union; a son, Dr. Eugene U. Ufford of Auburn, Mass.; three grandchildren; four great-grandchildren; two brothers, Joseph Ames of Appleton and Justin Ames of Union; one sister, Mrs. Bertha Bryant also of Union.

The bearers were Abner Griffin, James Griffin, Alvah Ames and Clarence Leonard. Burial was at Pine Grove cemetery in Appleton.

HAPPY HOPE FARM

A Bullet Through the Windshield—A Wooden Safe And a Tame Spider

Winter is upon us, serving us a dish of cold frost and chills. But the sun shines brightly today and this same indispensable warmth giver will be coaxing the spring flowers from their beds of mold in a few weeks.

We are glad the annual open season on deer and humans is about over. It seems to me it's been a draw between men and deer slain this year.

A neighbor had a very narrow escape Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Harry Beane was motoring home after visiting her aunt, Mrs. Clara Spear. Near the home of Mr. Laiho on the State road, Mrs. Beane was astonished and alarmed at the sudden impact of a bullet against the windshield of her car. It struck directly in front of the wheel and all that saved Mrs. Beane from what might have been a serious or mortal wound, was the fact that the bullet sped from the forest at the left of the highway, striking the glass a glancing blow, breaking but not passing through the windshield. Mrs. Beane's small dog "Milly" who enjoys riding in the auto, seemed to realize, with that strange sense canines possess, that the wings of death had passed so near her beloved mistress, and cowered and trembled in pitiful fear.

I would respectfully suggest that the deer hunting season be reduced to two weeks, that hunters be required to wear steel helmets and bullet-proof suits, while civilians who have to be abroad ride in buses or private cars made proof against the shining missiles of death. Thus only could the annual slaughter of humans during open season be reduced.

I have just been looking at a piece of ingenious workmanship in the form of a wooden safe, made by the expert hands of the late Abdon Spear, whose death occurred recently. Mr. Savage cared for Mr. Spear until about a month ago, when he was forced to hire a substitute, because of needed rest and change. Mr. Spear was taken with an ill turn soon after Mr. Savage left, which ended in death. He had long been an invalid. The safe of which I speak is made entirely of wood. It has three knobs and the body is painted black. The combination is very effective. Mr. Spear presented the safe to Mr. Savage.

Mr. Spear was an expert workman in many lines and his late home bears many evidences of the neatness and care with which he executed every piece of work he attempted.

These are busy days on the old farm and I must "get busy." O, yes, "Lucy" the spider, is still on her chosen window. She seems to know she's privileged to stay there. She hasn't eaten in a long time and is curled up in a corner seemingly lifeless, but on warm days she moves about a little. Her cherished ball of eggs has never hatched and it will be interesting to know whether they will hatch next spring, after weeks of exposure to winter cold. Lucy's fairy web has long since vanished and she weaves no more.

A "REAL DAUGHTER"

Lady Knox Chapter Holds Services In Memory Of Mrs. Eliza Thomas

An unique service was held at Achorn cemetery Nov. 19, in memory of Mrs. Eliza K. Perry Thomas who was the only "Real Daughter" of the Revolution ever included in the membership of Lady Knox Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, who honored her memory on that day. She became affiliated with the Chapter in September 1900, her death following in two months. She was born in South Thomaston, Feb. 5, 1818, and later married Capt. Isaac K. Thomas of Rockland. A lovely bronze marker, inscribed with the words, "Daughters of the American Revolution," was placed on her grave on the thirtieth anniversary of her death. The following description depicts the significance of the marker:

"Our Emblem is a golden wheel Branded with deepest blue, Each shining spoke tipped with a star The distaff showing through; The only jewel in the world That money cannot buy, Without such proof of ancestry As no one can deny."

There are but four "Real Daughters" left in the country, one having recently died; Mrs. Angelica Avery of Conn.; Mrs. Mary Newsome of Georgia; Mrs. Anne Gregory of Penna.; Mrs. Caroline Randall of Vermont. There are but eight "Real Granddaughters" living and Lady Knox Chapter is proud to have one of those as a member—Mrs. Elizabeth Sellers of Stonington.

Included among the seven members who attended the ceremony was one charter member, Mrs. Anne Snow. Mrs. Karl, regent, conducted the service which read:

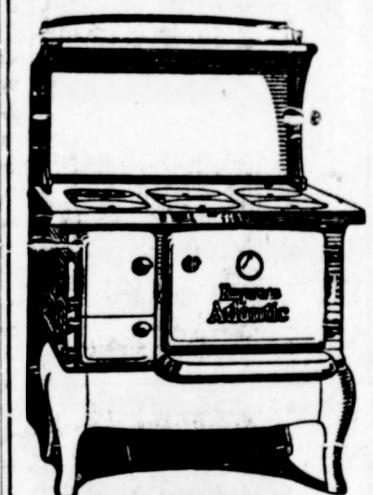

"Remembering the past is conserving for the future and as we look at history we know that we need today a spirit of fervent gratitude, a consecration of ourselves to the achievement of great ideals. Things which are seen are temporal but things unseen are eternal. It is an appealing thought that we who carry the present responsibilities in our Society can, in a service like this unite ourselves with the faithful workers who have laid down their tasks. We, the members of Lady Knox Chapter, now dedicate this marker in grateful recognition of the only "Real Daughter" of our Chapter, as well as the service of her father who was a patriot of the American Revolution. In honoring them we also pay tribute to all the heroic men and women who have served our Republic with integrity and devotion. Nothing is ever ended until it is forgotten. What ever is kept in memory still endures. Therefore we dedicate this marker that it may keep alive an appreciation of our heritage of the past."

Mrs. Wisner, chaplain, offered the prayer:

"We think Thee, Lord, for the joy of earthly companionships; for the enrichment of blessings that grow out of united service, and for this life of our associate whose interests were like our own, we give special thanks. We ask Thy blessing for every good influence growing out of her life; upon every good cause with which she identified herself and upon those closest to her love. Strengthen others to carry on the work and bind our hearts into a closer understanding comradeship with each other and with Thee. We thank Thee, Lord, for men and women of other generations who bequeathed to us the rich fruitage of their lives. Be a living presence among us, we pray, as we of this generation meet the challenge of today. Help us not to forget the present and grant that its teachings may safeguard the future. Jesus said, "I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth on Me, though he were dead, yet shall he live. Peace I leave with thee; my peace I give unto you."

OUR OBLIGATION

If future generations reap from deeds that we have sown We must be true to ancestry with good deeds of our own. Hold high this precious liberty bequeathed through crimson stain; Exalt the noble patriots; they must not die in vain. Keep green the grass and flaunt the flag near chiseled epitaph And through the intervening years keep fresh a memory path.

PORT CLYDE

Merry Antics of Clubbers

The Maids of Maine 4-H Club held its first party of the season last Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Harold Hupper, leader. The committee for refreshments and entertainment was Josephine Thompson and Helen Anthony, aided by Mrs. Hupper.

Hakie McLaughlin amused the group when he showed his skill by sitting on a milk bottle, writing his name with his feet crossed directly in front of him. "Hunk" Lowell played the part of the "Shadow" while Bob Lowe was convicted of murder by the district attorney, Harold Marriott. A scavenger hunt was won by Pauline Thompson and Hakie McLaughlin. Al Rawley being robbed of his necktie by two vigorous members of this party.
