POSTPONED A WEEK

Hearing On Appeal For Improvement of the Atlantic
Highway

Hearing of the case for improvement of Route 1 between Rockland and Bangor, originally scheduled for Wednesday afternoon, has been postponed for one week by the Maine State Highway Commission.

The hearing, to be held in the hall of the House of Representatives in the State House at Augusta, will be attended by town officials and prominent citizens of this on other communities along the 62-mile stretch of road for which improvement is sought. Proponents of the improvement have declared the road "wholly inadequate" in its present condition to bear the traffic to which it is regularly subjected.

In addition to betterment of the road surface, residents along the route are seeking elimination of curves and other dangers to motor travel. Charles Murray of Bangor, a member of the State Highway Commission, plans to fly over the route Tuesday, weather permitting, to familiarize himself with problems which may be presented to the commission at the Sept. 1 hearing.

FROM VINALHAVEN

Goes Stone Used In New Highway Project At New Meadows River

The earth and rock dam and spillway across the New Meadows river for the new Bath-Brunswick highway is fast nearing completion. Last Sunday saw the big power lighter Liberty, of Stonington, bringing 150 tons of dressed granite from Vinalhaven, to be used on the sides of the new cement spillway as protection. These granite blocks are four feet long and 18 inches wide, drilled for iron rods that protrude from the cement piers. The lighter will bring another cargo to complete the job.

By use of this water transportation from Vinalhaven direct to the scene of construction, a big saving in cost has been effected. It means they are landed directly from quarry to spillway instead of by train or truck which would have been decidedly more expensive due to the several handlings necessitated.

Several thousands of tons of earth and rock have been required to complete the fill and a continuous stream of trucks is busy 16 hours a day, operating in two shifts.

The new highway on both sides of the New Meadows is fast assuming definite shape and will no doubt be ready for travel late this fall. However, finishing touches will be applied next spring after it has settled. Much favorable comment is being regarding the modern equipment and large crews employed by the contractors, Hendrickson Brothers, Valley Stream, N. Y., since they started the job early in May—Bath Times.

LIGHTNING'S WORK

An electrical storm cut up lots of mischief in the southern part of Knox County Saturday. Lightning struck the chimney of Walter H. Wotton's house, damaging the roof and a garage in that town was struck. In Willardham Bernard Smalley's house was struck, but the damage was small. Insurance was with Cochran, Baker & Cross.

CAMDEN FIELD DAY

Firemen Give Citizens and Visitors Interesting Day—
Many Contests

The Camden Fire Department's Carnival and Field Day closed Saturday as one of the most successful events ever staged here. The New England Amusement Company located at the Waterfront Development furnished entertainment during the week in the way of ferris wheels, merry-go-rounds, beano and many other forms of sport.

It was the first annual field day for the firemen and the day opened with a baseball game between the Colored Giants and the Camden Shells, the former winning by 6 to 3. Visiting companies came from Freeport, Pittsfield, Gardiner, Lisbon Falls, Belfast, Bridgton, Augusta, Richmond, Hallowell, Bucksport, Waldoboro, Rockland, Yarmouth and Lewiston.

The parade which was one of the best ever seen in this section included State Police, Joseph Brewster as marshal, municipal trucks, the old steamer Molineux, seven pieces of apparatus from the local department, including the first aid emergency truck, visiting firemen with ten pieces of apparatus, and several attractive floats.

The water battle between four-men teams from Gardiner and Yarmouth was won by the former. An old time hand tub of 1736, the Water Witch, No. 1, mounted on a 1936 Waldoboro fire truck, attracted much attention. It was the hottest day of the season and several were nearly overcome by the intense heat.

A hand carved cart, costing $2000 and drawn by a Sicilian donkey, was a feature of the parade. The occupants were Patricia Rich, "Bubbles" Rich and Barbara Dickey. The cup for the company bringing apparatus the longest distance went to Lisbon Falls and for the best decorated float to the Nine-Sisters-Club, composed of the nine Poland sisters of Camden. Maynard Norton won the cup for the best decorated bicycle.

Olive Weaver was "Miss Camden" and she was not identified during the day.

In the dry hose coupling contest Gardiner was the winner in 16.7 seconds. Freeport was second, 16.8 seconds. Gardiner was also the winner in the wet hose coupling contest, with the time 17.3 seconds; Freeport was second, 17.5 seconds. Yarmouth won the ladder contest in 9 seconds and Freeport was second with 9.6 seconds.

A band concert was enjoyed in the evening and the events of the day closed with a dance in the Opera House with music by Uncle Seth's Hill Billies.

HENRY THE EIGHTH

Cornelia Otis Skinner Will Appear Next Tuesday At Boothbay

One of the most brilliant audiences of the summer season will assemble at the Boothbay Playhouse Tuesday evening, Aug. 4 to attend the performance given by Cornelia Otis Skinner in her internationally famous monodrama, "The Wives of Henry the Eighth".

"Henry the Eighth," the first monodrama and perhaps the most popular of Miss Skinner's repertoire, is historically accurate in every detail and the sumptuous costumes were created from original designs found in the Royal Library at Sandringham. The play portrays the seven wives of the famous monarch their characters and foibles in both an amusing and tragic way.

Many luncheons are being planned before the matinee and a large number of dinners will be given before the evening performance.

PRIZES NOT YET AWARDED

Merchandise Campaign Winners Announced,
But Legal Technicalities Intervene

Since July 24 a group of 14 local merchants have been co-operating in a Select Merchandise Campaign with many contestants and considerable public interest. An automobile, an electric refrigerator or bed room suite, a radio and an electric washing machine were the awards. H. J. Mullen of New York was manager of the campaign with headquarters at 15 Tillson avenue.

The contest came to its exciting conclusion Saturday night and the winners announced, all of Rockland, were Everett Fernald, Ralph Rawley, Mrs. Mildred Manning and Leroy Alley. Difficulties have since developed rapidly culminating in the arrest last night of Mr. Mullen on a warrant charging the obtaining of money under false pretenses and hearing is set for 10 o'clock this morning in Municipal Court. Action was taken by the County Attorney on complaint of local merchants. A writ in civil action has also been served against Mr. Mullen for breach of written contract.

Meantime the award of the prizes is held in abeyance pending the settlement of the present difficulties.

The League Standing

By virtue of its victories in Waldoboro and Rockport, the Rockland Pirates have climbed into second place, and are only half a game behind the league-leading Camden Shells. Here is how it stands:

Thomaston	4	3	.571
St. George	4	3	.571
Waldoboro	3	6	.333
Rockport	2	6	.250

Rockland 10, Rockport 5

Rockland displayed its wares on the Rockport ground Sunday afternoon, and they looked no better than Rockport's until the game reached the midway period when some Rockport errors, coupled with wild throws put the visitors from the Limerock City well out in front. Free batting and loose fielding marked the contest. For Rockland Makinen was relieved by Perry, and for Rockport Cram, Gross and Merrill took turns in the box.

IT MAY BE SAVED

Deer Isle Bridge Allocation
To Be Determined By Maine's Action

A Washington special to the Press Herald says:
"Looks as though the Deer Isle Bridge has saved its PWA allocation by action of Governor Barrows and Council in promising more money to the bridge. The office of Representative Brewster was informed yesterday by PWA that a wire had been received from Harold Lockwood, Maine PWA director, saying a letter is on its way explaining what happened at the Saturday meeting in Augusta, when Governor Barrows and Council considered the plea of Brewster for more State contribution to Deer Isle and the suggestion of Representative James C. Oliver of Maine that the State take advantage of the Hobbs Act and get back half the original State cost of the Carlton Bridge."

"Brewster's office was told by PWA that it would hold off any final action on Deer Isle until Lockwood's letter arrived, on the basis of the Lockwood telegram saying the State would grant the additional funds."

"PWA has been threatening to withdraw the Deer Isle allocation unless the Bridge District made up its mind to take the original allocation of $315,000 grant and $385,000 loan. The Bridge District wanted $140,000 more grant. Deadline for decision was set by PWA for last Saturday. It will be extended a few days."

RECIPE FOR PRESERVING CHILDREN

"Take 1 large grassy field, 1-2 dozen children, 3 small dogs
A pinch of brook and some pebbles, Mix the children and dogs well together, and put them in the field, stirring constantly.
Pour the brook over the pebbles. Sprinkle the field with flowers. Spread over all a deep blue sky, and bake in a hot sun.
When brown, remove and set away to cool in a bath-tub."

SEES REPUBLICAN GAIN

The Comment Of Chairman Hamilton and Some Things Congress Didn't Do

Chairman Hamilton of the Republican National Committee said Sunday that the G.O.P. has a "real chance" to gain "a substantial number of seats" in Congress in the 1938 elections as weary legislators returned home pondering the possibility of a special session late this fall.

Hamilton charged in a statement that the Democratic leadership has failed the people; cited Republican activities during the first session of the 75th Congress and handed out large chunks of credit to the minority for aiding in the scrapping of President Roosevelt's Supreme Court reorganization bill and successfully attacking other New Deal policies.

"It would be presumptuous for me at this time to predict a sweeping Republican victory in 1938," he said. "But I can say this. With the voters steadily regaining confidence in the Republican Party, we have a real chance to gain a substantial number of seats, and if hard work from the precincts and wards up is combined with intelligent, forward-looking national policies, I think you will see us rising up nearer the top."

There were no Kleig lights, band music, tap dancing and other hi-jinks with which legislators usually end a session of Congress when Speaker Bankhead gave the current meeting into history at 7:23 p. m. Saturday. Instead, the end found harassed and trigger-tempered Democrats at each other's throats in one of the worst party splits in the history of Democracy and it spot-lighted criticism on a "do-nothing" record unequalled in recent years.

Although the two Houses met six weeks after one of the most astounding political victories ever won in America, which gave Democrats all but 16 of the 96 Senate seats and all but 89 of the 435 House seats, President Roosevelt was able to get approval of only the least controversial part of his legislative program and even on those measures he had to compromise with the rebellious Congress.

His Supreme Court reform bill was killed in the Senate. His wages-and-hours bill was strangled in the House. Rules Committee by a coalition of Southern Democrats and Republicans. His Government reorganization program was side-tracked. His appeals for general farm legislation went unheeded. He was forced to compromise on the proposed unemployment census. He lost his struggle to make the Civilian Conservation Corps his pet project—a permanent federal agency. He sought to economize by vetoing bills on continuation of low interest rates on loans from Federal Farm Land Banks and on work risk insurance policies and both Houses overrode the vetoes.

The Chief Executive asked for broad legislation to create seven conservation authorities similar to Tennessee Valley Authority. He didn't get it. The issue never progressed further than the hearing stage, due partly to the fact that Senator George W. Norris, I, Neb., the "father of TVA" and Mr. Roosevelt's closest adviser on power and conservation matters was stricken ill and was ordered to his Wisconsin retreat. Norris heads a Senate Agriculture Subcommittee which is considering the program.

He asked for legislation that would bring about crop insurance. The Senate passed such a bill but the House balked. He compromised on a permanent neutrality bill and on sugar quota legislation. On only two measures did Congress give Mr. Roosevelt what he wanted without quibbling—the Guffey Coal Act and the bill to plug loopholes in the revenue laws which experts said cost the government $100,000,000 annually.

As members of the two Houses and their leaders streamed homeward, none could say whether they would be called back into special session to enact the administration's discarded legislative program except Mr. Roosevelt and he has not committed himself. He has sidestepped the question at two recent press conferences.

Leaders privately admitted that if the President has made up his mind on the question that they are unaware of his decision. The Chief Executive demanded and won assurance from both Houses that the green light will be given to a general crop control farm bill at the next session before he would authorize loans to peg cotton at 12 cents a pound.

Speaker Bankhead and House Majority Leader Rayburn promised a Democratic caucus last week that wages-and-hours legislation will have preferred status at the next session.

How much of the rest of the administration program Mr. Roosevelt wants expedited, leaders said they did not know. Speculation of a special session was heightened by Bankhead's statement at a press conference that the President had promised not to send much important legislation to the Capitol next session in order that members can return home early and campaign for re-election. All members of the House and 32 members of the Senate go before the voters next year.

Hamilton said that the "voters understand the New Deal today better than they did last November." He credited Senator H. Styles Bridges with forcing the Post Office Department to abandon a policy of not delivering mail to plants affected by strikes, by seeking a congressional inquiry of an incident that occurred in Ohio during the strike in "Little Steel" when parcels addressed to a plant of Republic Steel were rejected as "irregular."

Hamilton gave Senator Henry Cabot Lodge credit for forcing a survey of the idle and pointed to efforts by Senator Arthur Vandenberg to revise the Wagner Labor Act and to decentralize administration or relief. Republicans in both Houses, he said, fought the court bill.

"I hope that I am good citizen enough to have wanted the court bill licked simply because it was totally wrong," Hamilton said. "I would be a hypocrite, however, if I let it go at that. As chairman of the Republican National Committee I wanted it defeated because of the political advantage that comes to the opposition when the people see through an attempt of the party in power to infringe on their rights and tamper with their courts."

KNOW OSCAR ROSS?

Former Rockville Boy Bobs
Up In An Interesting California Item

We have received a copy of the Santa Cruz (Calif.) Sentinel, from which the following is clipped:

"The 'Sermon On The Mount' and our Mount Hermon have a close kinship. Religion and mountains must have an affinity for each other, and likely that's responsible for the magnetic influence which attracts religious conferences from all over California to Mount Hermon."

"Twenty-one groups have come so far this year, from 30 to 600 strong—and what a grand time they have! It has been a religious encampment ground since 1905. There's also daily vacation Bible school; lessons in woodcraft and leathercraft; summer school of music; cottage, dormitories, delightful new dining room this year, boating, tennis; a complete general store owned and operated by well-liked 'Bud' Hendrick; everything that means clean wholesome play; prominent lecturers from Chicago, Dallas and elsewhere come, and if anything has been omitted it would take a powerful searchlight to find it."

"From youngest to oldest, feel at home with Oscar A. Ross, understanding manager for past five years; he's a Rockville, Maine boy; got the 'go west' fever in his veins 31 years ago; still dreams about the taste of Maine lobsters and wouldn't even see turkey if they were on the table; chores on the farm was his start in life; Mason; and—loses all his dignity at a baseball game. Maude, his Golden Gate Honey, is a natural born companion in pleasure building for women and children. This Christian work of distributing Christian treatment has an A-1 Christian at the helm, whom everyone calls 'Ross'."

Mrs. L. E. Wardwell of Camden has sold a building on Main street (Southend) to Thomas Economy. The present tenant is the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., which has a year's lease.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

If I had my life to live again I would have made a rule to read some poetry and listen to some music at least once a week. The loss of these tastes is a loss of happiness. —Charles Darwin.

CARES
The little cares that fretted me,
I lost them yesterday
Among the fields above the sea,
Among the winds at play;
Among the lowing of the herds,
The rustling of the trees,
Among the singing of the birds,
The humming of the bees.

The foolish fears of what may happen,
I cast them all away
Among the clover-scented grass,
Among the new-mown hay;
Among the husking of the corn
Where drowsy poppies nod,
Where ill thoughts die and good are born.
Out in the fields with God.

JUNIOR GUIDES

Gov. Barrows Is Sponsoring Remarkable Health Experiment

A group of sun-tanned boys and girls, now completing their final tests at Narrows Pond, will receive State of Maine Junior Guides certificates from Governor Lewis O. Barrows at the State House in Augusta, Aug. 28.

Since early summer these youngsters—and many others who are waiting until next year before taking their final examinations—have been living outdoors and learning woodcraft, boating, swimming, fishing, tenting, cooking, guiding, shooting and conservation under the tutelage of some of Maine's most noted guides.

Those who pass the rigid tests and appear before Governor Barrows on Monday will be the first to receive Junior Guides certificates under the State law enacted by the Legislature which provided for their appointment by a commission.

The commission consists of Miss Emily Welch of Camp Wabnaki, Sebago; Philip Cobb of Camp Winona, Denmark; and Deputy Fish and Game Commissioner Archer L. Grover of Hallowell.

Twenty-five happy, healthy boys and girls make up the group taking the examinations under the watchful and woods-wise William B. Jacob of South China.

Names of the youngsters are being withheld by the commission until after the examinations, it being expected some may not pass.

The boys and girls are entirely on their own while here. They are required to do everything expertly. Their cooking, tenting, blazing of trails, fire building, fishing (including casting flies), swimming, fire prevention methods and recognition of the various types of trees, must be of the best.

Junior Guides licenses will be good for one year, with the privilege of renewal by showing general fitness; and no Junior Guide may receive remuneration for services or compete in any way with regular, adult Maine guides, of which there are 3,000 registered.

CAPT. "JOE" KEMP

The Story of a Famous Navigator Who Handles Warships On Trial

The establishment of the Rockland Naval Trial Course more than 30 years ago was the means of bringing to this port one of the best known pilots in the United States—Capt. Joseph I. Kemp of Quincy, Mass. Originally he came here as navigating officer of warships built at the Fore River yard. The value of his services was quickly recognized by other builders of government ships, and only recently it was Capt. Kemp who piloted the big airplane carrier Yorktown from Newport News to Rockland.

Bluff, genial and efficient, Capt. Kemp has a faculty of making acquaintances readily, so that when a new ship comes to this port for trial and Capt. Kemp walks up town to the Thorndike he is hailed across the street by scores of friends and it is always "Hello Joe!"

Nat Barrows special writer for the Boston Sunday Globe thus describes Capt. Kemp:

"Without raising his voice, Capt. Joseph I. Kemp has stood on the bridge of nearly 400 ships—cruisers, submarines, battleships, passenger liners, destroyers, freighters—and guided them safely down the launching ways, conned them gently through ticklish shipyard channels, and raced them wide open on blue-water trial courses.

"For more than 30 years he has been the No. 1 trial pilot of the Atlantic seaboard, the skipper on whose shoulders has rested the responsibility for more than $1,500,000,000 in ship valuation. No shipyard trial skipper is better known than 'Joe' Kemp—member of a famous Nantant yachting and towboating family of skippers—and none has ever taken more ships out on shakedown trials.

"There has never been any question about the man for the job when an airplane carrier like the Lexington or a passenger liner like the Mariposa is to be sent down to the sea and given builder's trials off Rockland. Capt. Kemp is that man. At the New York Shipbuilding Company, Camden N. J.; the Newport Shipbuilding Company, Newport News; the Bethlehem plant at Fore River, and the United Ship Yards, Staten Island the story is the same. 'Get Joe Kemp when a difficult job arises.'"

"He guides a Rivaldavia or a Quincy with the same apparent ease that he shows when he takes out a submarine or a small freighter. Those who know the pitfalls that lie on the prow for new ships testing their strength against the sea can appreciate the delicate skill that is needed. In the Lexington's advance to the sea, only six or eight inches of water stood at one spot between the hull and the muddy bottom. The passage through the Fore River drawbridge was one of the lesser problems, Capt. Kemp said.

"The captain has a highly specialized system of giving orders. His own men, familiar with his mute hand signals, are stationed at important points, fore and aft, and Capt. Kemp, focal figure on the bridge, delivers the commands without raising his voice. An old towboat skipper, he picks his tugs and his skippers with an experienced touch.

"Capt. Kemp's heritage was the sea. His father, Capt. William H. Kemp, was widely known in New England and all but one of the seven Kemp sons grew up to become a skipper.

"The seventh son, Dan, became a marine engineer and was formerly chief engineer of the Eastern Steamship liner North Star. Four of the Kemp sons are still living, Joseph, Daniel, Benjamin and Perry. Capt. Ben is a Navy Yard pilot.

"The lure of the sea was not confined to the masculine branch of the Kemp family. All five of the daughters married captains.

"Born in Nahant in 1873, 'Joe' Kemp found his first maritime experience as a sailor aboard the Boston-Nahant line. He became a quartermaster and later mate, in the summer and in Florida in the winter. His first command was G. W. Simmons yacht Marion.

"Five years of Florida left him with malaria and he came back to Boston for good, serving as skipper of every one of the Boston Towboat Company's fleet from 1892 until 1910. In his last command, the Orion, he had as mate Capt. Lewis Breckinridge, now the commodore of the Eastern Steamship Line.

"Capt. Kemp is a sparkling after-dinner speaker, although he disclaims any such abilities with the modest statement: 'My job is to get the ships safely out to sea and put them through their trials, not to talk about it.'"

"A resident of Braintree, he maintains a summer home at Hull that is appropriately called 'The Ship.' Red and green running lights cling to the sides; the back porch, where the tide often encroaches is marked with the proper bow figures, and the interior

SPECIAL SESSION

Legislators Will Have Another Whack At Solving Tangled Problems

Gov. Barrows has returned to legislators the vexatious problem of raising funds for improving the State educational system and providing old age assistance.

Executing a complete about-face from previous declarations he would not convene the State Legislature in extraordinary session, the chief executive announced from Augusta late Sunday night, because "some solution must be found to assist the aged and produce more equal educational opportunities for our boys and girls," he would call the Legislators back to Augusta in special session soon.

He did not name the exact date. His action followed hard on the heels of popular disapproval of a 1 percent sales tax, enacted by the Legislature last April to finance the old age and education programs. The tax, in an Aug. 16 referendum, was defeated by a 2 to 1 margin.

The Governor intimated that, besides education and old age financing, legislators would be called on to approve the federally enacted Hobbs Act, granting federal subsidy of half the cost of construction of toll-free bridges built between 1927 and 1938.

Acceptance of the act, followed by conversion of the Woolwich-Carlton Bridge at Bath, built in 1931, into a toll-free bridge, would bring needed funds into the State Treasury. These extra funds would permit the State to aid in construction of the Deer Isle-Sedgwick Bridge.

Barrows, indicating the special session call was closely tied up with the bridge, presided at a meeting of his Executive Councilors which voted to allot $140,000 towards the bridge construction. This move was necessitated by a federal threat to withdraw $675,000 in WPA funds for the bridge, if the State refused to share in its construction.

"By action of the present legislature Old Age Pension payments were begun again and have continued to the present time," said Barrows in a statement announcing the special session.

"The people by referendum vote have rejected both the law that would have authorized these payments and, also, the revenue producing measure which was provided. The Executive cannot enact laws or does not disburse funds without statutory authority. Only the Legislature can perform this function and legislative action is now essential and necessary if payments are to continue," he said.

Notwithstanding the result of the referendum election August 16," he added, "the size of the total vote cast convinces me that the full significance of the issues involved were not clearly understood.

"Some solution must be found to assist the aged and produce more equal educational opportunities for our boys and girls. This can only come by authority of the Legislature in providing both funds and the authority.

"To this end I propose shortly to assemble the Legislature and again urge its solution to this and other problems I believe merit immediate attention. I shall continue to do all in my power to insure the continuation of Old Age assistance and to effect educational equalization."

He was a blacksmith by trade, having been employed by Booth Brothers, and was a member of the Paving Cutter's Union.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Thow, of Aberdeen, Scotland, and Mrs. James Smith of Dundee, Scotland; one brother, Alexander Henderson of Aberdeen, Scotland. The bearers, James Cant, James Troup, Errol Wiley and David Sverwright are all of Tenant's Harbor. Interment will be in Hillcrest cemetery, St. George.

There's a reason for everything and the reason so many people go to "Lindsey's" for clothing and shoes is because they get high grade, honest goods at low price. Formerly Levi Seavey Clothing Store, Watts Block, Thomaston.

spends his time as secretary of the far-famed Boston Marine Society, 88 Broad street, where, high over the harbor, he helps to carry on the traditions of this ancient and honorable society. Mellow, soft-spoken, full of glamorous anecdotes and possessed of a twinkling humor, he is an extremely interesting host. Few men in Boston have more friends than Capt. 'Joe' Kemp."

AN IMPROVED GAS

G. C. Hopkins Makes An Interesting Announcement About Amoco

G. C. Hopkins, local manager of the American Oil Company, today announced the introduction of an improved Amoco-Gas. The improved motor fuel, he said, has already been distributed to American Oil Company dealers and stations throughout this territory and is now available for motorists in and around Rockland.

New processes recently patented and new equipment recently installed in the American Oil Company refinery at Texas City, Texas, are largely responsible for the improvements made in Amoco.

Amoco was one of the very first special motor fuels, being introduced in 1915. This fuel made possible, the modern high-compression automobile motor. Amoco also made contributions to the aviation industry—was used by Clarence Chamberlin in his transatlantic flight to Germany. It was also used by other flyers in trans-oceanic hops.

Amoco is also a favorite with racing drivers and on endurance runs and mountain climbs. It was so popular in these competitions that Amoco holds more official AAA records than any other motor fuel.

American Oil Company spent millions of dollars on improvements and additions to their refinery in order to take advantage of latest scientific discoveries and inventions. These additions were recently made to what was already the world's largest and most modern refining unit.

The improved fuel is being advertised as "The greatest Amoco in the history of the American Oil Company." It is being advertised through a large list of newspapers from Maine to Florida, including The Courier-Gazette. The newspaper advertising is being supplemented by outdoor and radio.

HIS IRE AROUSED

John L. Lewis, Powerful Backer of Democrats, Sees Party Futile

John L. Lewis virtually threatened Saturday to bolt from the Democrats and swing his CIO forces into a third party movement to solve "pressing social problems."

Angered by the fate of the wage and hour standards bill, which has been blocked by a hostile House rules committee, the labor leader came nearer than ever to an open break with the party which his union forces backed with ballots and money in last year's campaign.

Without mentioning President Roosevelt specifically, he declared that the "Democratic leadership" has been shown to be "unable to carry out the pledges made in the name of their party during the 1936 campaign."

The leadership, he insisted, must restore "party discipline" and permit "government to function" or "confess that their party is not the vehicle by which the people of the country may progress to a solution of their pressing social problems."

Lewis' strongly worded statement recalled that the CIO chieftain and his lieutenants have also been dissatisfied for weeks with President Roosevelt's course during recent strikes. They contended especially that Mr. Roosevelt should have stepped into the recent steel strike.

THE BEAK BUSTERS

Bill Withee Plans a Swell Boxing Show For Thursday Night

The time is drawing near for one of the best "beak-busting" boxing shows at the New Crescent Athletic Club in the Potato Bowl on Tillson avenue, Thursday night, that has been held in Rockland for a long time. All the boys are rarin' to go.

Promoter Withee will not clutter up the ring with looking-glass fighters, he says. They must give action or out they go. No fight, no pay.

The fans are equally divided on their opinions as to the winner of the main eight-round bout between Gabby Poulin and Ponzi Cochran. Both boys are of the bear eat type, the kind that please. It is bound to be a scorching, also the semi-final of five rounds bringing together Butch Wooster and Dusty Peters. Both boys are in shape and it is not going to be a one-sided affair.

Three and four-round preliminaries of good sluggers will be announced. Promoter Withee has been in the business over 50 years and knows what the fans want. He has cut the prices to suit the times. The show starts at 8.30.

Mr. Simmonds was for many years chief installing engineer of the Otis Elevator Co. Speaking informally, his discussion of elevator installation in the Empire State Building and other skyscrapers proved intensely interesting.

The annual summer reunion of Kent's Hill Alumni and friends was attended by 350 to 400, Saturday, every New England State being represented. Cars were noted from New York, Virginia, Florida and even Oklahoma. The different groups met in classes, enjoying the glorious day and renewing friendships. A short business meeting preceded luncheon which was served in Bearce, Ricker and Sampson Halls. Mrs. Charles Emery had the thrilling experience of meeting her first chum when she attended Kent's Hill at the age of 15, each recognizing the other instantly. Those noted from this section were Clifford Butler, Mrs. Victoria Coombs Clements and husband, Mrs. William Thayer and daughter Miss Lucretia, and Miss Mary Bartlett of South Thomaston, Roy Black and wife of Rockland, G. Lou Presley, formerly of Rockport, and Carleton Payson, Mrs. Adele Morton and Mrs. Myrtle Judkins of Union.

Local motorists out for a short jaunt can find no lovelier spot to visit than the Camden Hills State Park. A marvelous view out over Penobscot Bay, good roads, enchanting trails leading to the rugged shore, and other beauty spots are offered features. It is an ideal spot for picnics—tables, fireplaces, running water, toilets, and shelter house in case of a sudden shower. Many out-of-State tourists are taking advantage of the Park for camping and several who have traveled extensively state that the Camden Park compares favorably with other National parks of the country, a fine tribute when it is taken into consideration that the Camden Park is yet in its infancy. It is being visited also by geologists, botanists and naturalists, engaged in studying the native mineral and plant life of this section of the country. The Park is easy to find—on the Belfast road, the entrance on the right hand side almost opposite the entrance to the CCC Camp.

ITS ANNUAL CONCERT

Fine Array of Talent for Warren Baptist Church Event

All roads will lead to Warren Friday night when at 8 o'clock the annual concert of the Warren Baptist Church will be presented under the direction of Chester Wyllie. As in past years choral numbers will be featured, the selections chosen for this concert being "The Priests' March" from Athale; "Jehovah Reigns;" "Forget-me-not;" "You Stole My Love;" and "Seraphic Song." The latter will perhaps be the most striking number, as it has piano, violin and organ accompaniment, and Mrs. Lydia T. Storer singing the contralto obligato. The church choir will be assisted by singers from Rockland, Thomaston and other adjacent towns.

Mr. Wyllie has a brilliant array of soloists to present—among them Lotte McLaughlin, dramatic soprano; Rand Smith, Baritone; Helen Thompson Yeo of Medford, Mass., soprano; Francis Havener, baritone; Frank Young, cornetist; Bertha I. Luce, violin. It is always an event to hear Miss McLaughlin's glorious voice. Mr. Smith, an artist-student with H. Wellington Smith, well-known voice coach, has thrilled many music lovers in recent Thomaston concerts. Mrs. Yeo, a summer resident of Warren, possesses a fine voice, well-trained and artistically handled—in addition to a church position Mrs. Yeo has made many successful appearances. Mr. Havener is one of Rockland's most promising young singers, and it is of interest to note that he is a student of Miss McLaughlin. Mr. Young and Miss Luce are known to a wide area through their talent and artistry.

The concert is given for the benefit of the church music and while no tickets will be sold, a silver collection will be taken. This musical effort takes its place rightly among the splendid concerts heard in this vicinity during the summer season, and no music lover can afford to miss it.

The complete program is here listed: Jehovah Reigns from Athale (Mendelssohn) by the chorus, accompanist, Mrs. Ernest Rogers, Rockland; Duna (McGill); All For You (Bertrand-Brown); Come to the Fair (Martin), baritone solos by Francis Havener of Rockland, accompanist, Miss Margaret Stahl of Rockland; Nerid (Clark); The Sweetest Story Ever Told (Stultz), cornet solos by Frank Young of Owl's Head, accompanist, Mrs. Faith Berry of Rockland. Tes Yeux (Raby); Nocturne (Curran); by Mrs. Helen T. Yeo of Brighton, Mass., accompanist Mrs. Faith Berry of Rockland; Forget-me-not (Gleese); You Stole My Love (McFarren) by the chorus, accompanist, Mrs. Rogers; By the Mountain Spring (Bohm), piano solo by Mrs. Ernest Rogers of Rockland; silver offering.

Sea Fever (Ireland); Tally-ho (Leon); By a Lovely Forest Pathway (Griffes); Open Road (Stickles) baritone solos, by Rand Smith of Boston and Pleasant Point, accompanist, Edna W. Smith also of Boston and Pleasant Point; Song of the Marching Men (H. Hadley) male chorus, accompanist, Mrs. Rogers; The aria, Pace, Pace, from Forza del Destino (Verdi), soprano solo, Miss Lotte McLaughlin of Rockland, Mrs. Berry, accompanist.

Legende (Wienraski); Mazurka (Mlynarski), violin solos by Miss Bertha Luce of Thomaston accompanied by Mrs. Ruth Sanborn of Rockland; Italian Street Song (Herbert) by Miss Lotte McLaughlin and chorus, accompanist, Mrs. Berry; Seraphic Song (Rubinstein) incidental solo by Mrs. Lydia Storer of Rockland, violin obligato by Miss Luce, organ, Miss Stahl and piano, Mrs. Ernest Rogers.

ON THE PHONE

Aunt Hetty's Cousin Tells About Thursday Night's Affair At The 'Keag

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—
Hello! Hello! This telephone'll drive me nuts—steady ring from morning 'til night, from folks wanting to know about our time. But then, it ain't for me to complain it's such a easy way to advertise.

Do you know there are a lot of "Aunt Hetty's" in this world? If we can have this line a few minutes—(Hello! line's busy) I'll tell you all about our doings down here.

Did you ever meet our Thomaston "Aunt Hetty"? She's my second cousin, a lovable old soul. Yes, I have ways like her—I ain't so lovable, but I'm an old soul. We would miss "Aunt Hetty" if she didn't pull herself together at Legion time to do her advertising.

I live in South Thomaston. I like to call it the 'Keag. Now don't never spell it "Gig," 'cause you lose the meaning. It is spelled 'Keag and be sure to put in the little mark in front of "K." It is a quick way of saying Wessaweskeag.

In December, 1906 the Cemetery Improvement Society was organized. The late Mrs. Mary Stanley was president. The townspeople worked hard giving suppers and entertainments, mostly plays and Mrs. Stanley was very clever in coaching.

The winter of 1907 we sent letters, not from Dan to Beersheba but from California to Florida, other States included, notifying folks who have dear ones buried in this cemetery of our drive to earn money to improve the condition of the badly-neglected cemetery. Everybody responded well.

Thirty years have worked havoc with that sacred spot. The cemetery is in dire need of work at this time. No we ain't going to have no parade, 'cause we want to have everybody to parade right to the Grange hall Thursday afternoon and night. There will be plenty of parking space for your auto. Then you park yourself on the Grange hall piazza and take a view of Wessaweskeag Pond. It's a picture, if the tide is high and it ought to be. Everything changes so nowadays, we expect the tide to go back on us any time!

Plan to stay to supper. The cooks are laying out for the biggest meal yet, at the popular prices. Eating and feasting your eyes on beautiful scenery ain't all we have to offer. Beano! Sure you can play beano, but afternoons and night, with real prizes too. How do you like the sound of a bag of flour for five cents? It can be done. We're going to have ice cream, soft drinks, (hope it will be a hot day) and up stairs will be a sale of fancy things, with aprons, all sizes and shapes, bags, grabs, candy, etc.

It ain't all unwound yet. In the afternoon you can sit a half hour or so—and it ain't going to cost either to see the entertainment our children are to put on. We got some right smart children in the 'Keag, same as there is in other villages. Our children always glad to help any cause.

The evening's show is different. Of course we've got to keep the "cause" in view so it'll cost you a small fee to hear and see that performance. It's a good one.

Now friends, you know we can't dig out roots, straighten markers, clear up avenues, etc., without money to go hand and hand with our elbow grease. We hope "Aunt Hetty" will be down with her Legion crowd.

Everybody is welcome to spend Aug. 26 at Wessaweskeag. When you leave us that night you will have a full stomach and a clear conscience that you did your bit for the "Cause."

Hello, yes I'll ring off, if you are so fussy.

Aunt Hetty's Cousin,
South Thomaston, Aug. 23.

THE SLOT MACHINE

Maybe You Are With 'Em; Maybe Agin 'Em—Read This Anyhow

Because of the fact that every community has repeated drives against slot machines, and because a large percentage of the people play them, the following article written by the Lewiston Journal's staff man, Sam Connor, will be read with interest.

"They are all sucker games," commented the man, "because when you start playing them the percentage is all against you. The biggest chance you have to win that I've ever known anything about was a machine where the odds were only 80 percent against you; that is, you had 20 chances out of 100 to win something. That wasn't so hot, but it was much better than the most of the machines that it looked like a bargain sale.

"As a rule the machine which offers five chances to win out of every 100 times it is played is giving you big odds. Most of the machines don't give you as much of a show as that.

"That is why I say they are sucker games; you haven't the chance of a snow ball in hades to come out ahead."

When it is considered that this "take" of the machines is the revenue in a State where they are prohibited by law, are operated under slack enforcement due to an official belief that the public desires it so or direct bribery, it is difficult to estimate what the totals would be were the bars to be lowered and slot machine gambling legalized, as has been pari mutuel betting.

In a certain summer resort section of the State, where there are many summer people it is said that the profit to the places in which these machines are placed has averaged $30,000 a year for a long time. This being the short end of the winnings—the owners of the machines taking the biggest share—it is safe to say that the total which the machines take out of that section exceeds $100,000.

The proprietor of a place of business in the Rangeley region, who has a number of the machines standing around has stated that they were his biggest money makers, even though he would not permit any native—resident of the community—to play them. They were there exclusively for the summer visitors who love to gamble.

This man is quoted as saying that it was not uncommon to see certain of these summer people spend $25 a day playing the slot machines and that it frequently occurred that one would dump in $100. This was when they were playing a quarter machine.

Even with so great a percentage against the player he must win now and again if he plays long enough. Even then, if he will check up, he will be a loser, but he won't check up and he won't quit when he wins.

Take the case of these men who play the 25 cent machines. If they dump it they get a large pot, but they won't stop playing, even though the jack-pot put them ahead for the day. No; they've got to keep on playing. They do this until they have put in all the winnings and more, too. The same holds good for those who play the penny, nickel or dime machines, so that, in addition to the regular percentage which the machine has against the play, there is the gambling desire of the player.

These machines go further than merely picking up a lot of money from those who play them. The racket is a big money one, as figures quoted indicate, and those who are in it are a grasping gang. They aren't satisfied with what they're making, they want to make more. Under the laws of Maine they are operating an illegal business; they're bootleggers, as it were. So long as sheriffs and police officers are inclined to ignore the prevalence of slot machines it is easy sledding for the machines, but when the officers start stiffening their backbones and clamping down on gambling devices it is a different matter.

Right then and there the backers of the machines, the owners, 'gin getting busy. They go after the officials and seek to convince them that it is all foolishness to try and prevent folks playing games of chances; that the public loves to gamble and that it will be a poor policy to shut down on the machines.

Sometimes verbal arguments prove convincing, but when they fail these men fall back to another form of argument. They start talking turkey—money. They can afford to make it worth the officers' while to shut his eyes and they do not hesitate to tell him so.

Now and then, probably, a man falls for that line, but from the best information available the majority of Maine officers haven't been touched by the "dollar to you" proposition.

A natural thought is: Under such conditions why don't the officers arrest these men for attempting to bribe?

There is the best reason in the world why they don't.

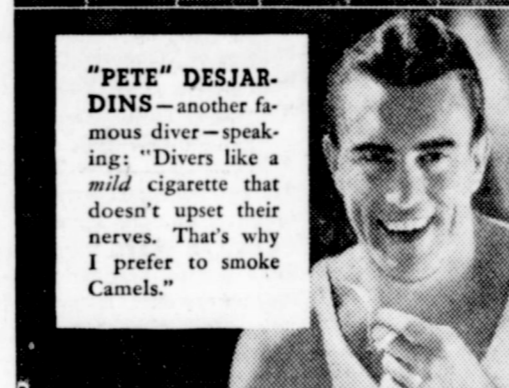

It could not be proved!

These proposals are never made in

RED-HEADED PITCHER

Proves To Be A Jinx For the Gallant Chiefs of Vinalhaven

The erratic Chiefs met defeat Sunday when Thomaston with a red-headed southpaw set them down to the tune of 7 to 4.

This game was fast and entertaining though it was marred by the Chiefs costly errors which let in six of the seven runs scored by Thomaston.

As usual Vinalhaven had one bad inning, this time it was the sixth. Felt, Glover and Robinson started off with singles, loading the bases. Moody scratched an infield hit and one run scored. Lampi shot a grounder at E. Woodcock who made a nice play throwing Glover out at the plate. Brown fanned Upham.

Bucklin hit to short, but Patrick missed Woodcock's throw, and two runs scored. Woodcock the Thomaston hurler singled, scoring Lampi. Anderson then dropped Gay's line and the final run scored. Felt ended it by grounding to Brown.

Vinalhaven's first two runs were scored on three infield errors in the first inning, but the visitors tightened their defense and the Chiefs couldn't score until the seventh, after Anderson and Patrick singled. Brown came through with a hit to center scoring Anderson. Patrick scored on Swanson's outfield play.

The fielding features of the game were Lyford's nice catches in center, and Felt's sparkling stop at third.

The fans are looking forward to next Sunday when the Boston Royal Giants invade the peaceful town of Vinalhaven to do battle with the Chiefs.

The seating capacity of the park is only 400, so all fans should be at the park early, not only to obtain seats, but to watch practice and numerous stunts. Sunday's score:

Methodist Church Notes

The Methodist Brotherhood picnic at Oakland Park was held Friday according to plan, except that the intense heat took away all desire for strenuous sports and increased the attraction of the shaded porch and seats under the trees where a cool breath from the sea made comfort possible.

Some of the young people found a place for bathing and the children were happily busy about the swings and in excursions along the shore. Fully a hundred people were present to enjoy the fellowship of the occasion, and nearly all shared in the picnic supper, crowding the tables on the porch and under the trees. It was generally voted a delightful occasion though the women expressed regret that they did not have a chance to see the men play baseball.

The Cotton Blossom Singers will give a program Thursday at the Methodist Church at 7.30 standard. They have won glowing opinions on former visits and should be greeted by a full house. There is no admission charge and the offering goes to the Pine Woods School in Mississippi from which the singers come.

The Ladies Aid will hold the annual summer sale Friday in the Masonic building, afternoon and evening. Supper will be served at 5.30, standard.

MUNI AT THE WALDO

Famous Hollywood Ace To Appear In "Emile Zola"

Waldo Theatre, Waldoboro, will play host on Aug. 29 and 30 to a great cinema production, recently completed in Hollywood, "THE LIFE OF EMILE ZOLA," in which Paul Muni as Zola achieves the major dramatic success of his career. Mr. Muni now recognized as Hollywood's number one actor, was winner of the Academy Award for his work in "The Story of Louis Pasteur," but greater than his Chinaman in "The Good Earth" and his Pasteur, is his powerful characterization of Emile Zola, great novelist and father of French naturalism, who triumphantly entered his colorful career with the vindication of Captain Dreyfus.

Watching Mr. Muni as Zola starving in a garret in Paris, sharing a single pair of pants with the painter Cezanne, who was a genius as well as a crank, seeing him take life in the raw from the slums of Paris and weaving it into masterpieces of French literature—"Picked a faded rose from streets of Paris and made her the immortal Nana," watching him defend justice and being repaid by a sentence to terrible Devil's Island, select audiences at New York preview sat spellbound on the edge of their seats intermittently bursting of Warren Lodge of Odd Fellows. He was a member of the Rockland Encampment, of Canton Lafayette and also a silver sheaf member of the White Oak Grange of North Warren. A man of genial mien, he will be greatly missed by all who knew him.

into spontaneous applause, a nearly unheard of occurrence in a movie theatre.

The showing of Zola at the Waldo Theatre, Sunday and Monday Aug. 29 and 30, will be one of the first in the country, other than New York premiere last week. There will be four shows each day, the matinees at 2.30 and the single evening shows, 8.30, all seats will be reserved at special road show prices. Reservations may be made, commencing now, by wire, phone or post-Telephone 100. See ad. on page three.—adv.

Our Book Corner

Appleton-Century report that there is wide interest being shown in many quarters in Susan Ertz' forthcoming novel, "No Hearts to Break," which they will publish Oct. 1st. One of the best known contemporary playwrights is reading advance proof of the novel with a view to possible dramatization. All the leading moving picture companies have rushed readers to the publishers' office to cover the manuscript.

Appleton-Century announce that an Amsterdam publishing house has bought the Dutch translation rights of Alice Hegan Rice's "Mr. Pete & Co." and will bring out an edition in that language.

Eleanor Hallowell Abbott is summing up at her farm in New Hampshire, when she writes that the rearing of six orphaned Chesapeake Bay pups has been giving her a big time.

Edith Wharton: Born, New York, Jan. 24, 1862, died, Saint-Brice-Sous-Forêt, France, Aug. 11, 1937. Between 1897 and 1936 Mrs. Wharton produced 43 works. Her contribution to 1937 was "Ghosts," to be published this fall—an omnibus volume of her ghost stories, including a preface on the art of writing stories of the supernatural, and one story never before published. Mrs. Wharton completed the reading of the proofs.

One question which a lot of American doctors are going to be asked by their patients this fall is "How much of what Dr. A. J. Cronin says about British medicine in 'The Citadel' is also true of American medicine?" "The Citadel," to be published on Sept. 10 by Little, Brown, is a novel about a British medical man. Much of Dr. Cronin's personal experience as a doctor is reflected in the narrative.

The Catholic Book Club has selected "Brother Petros' Return" by S.M.C., an anonymous Dominican nun, as an October book. It will be published by Little, Brown, on Oct. 7.

The Old Corner Book Store, 270 Boylston street, Boston, has issued a delightful little booklet "Books About New England." A copy, probably, by asking for it. Just turning the leaves we note: "The Flowering of New England" by Van Wyck Brooks; "Open House in New England" by Samuel Chamberlain; "Cape Cod Yesterdays" by Joseph Lincoln (and also a long list of Cape Cod stories by other writers); "This is Vermont" by Margaret and Walter Hard (and others about Vermont); "And This is Boston" by Eleanor Early; "New Hampshire Neighbors" by Cornelius Weygandt; "Boston" by Lucius Beebe; "Connecticut: A Guide to its Roads, Lore and People" one of the American Guide Series; "Kennebec: Cradle of Americans," by Robert P. T. Coffin; "Romantic and Historic Maine" by A. Hyatt Verrill; several books about American sailing ships that were built in or went out of New England; and books about pottery, china, glass, furniture, silver and antiques peculiar to New England.

A very comprehensible small book, worth having.

"Quillcote," charming Colonial home of the late Kate Douglas Wiggin and her sister, Nora Archibald Smith, in Hollis, will not be "Quillcote" much longer. A public auction early in this month, which included an auction for dealers interested in the library and choice collection of antiques, gathered by the literary sisters, took care of the furnishings of the great white house on the Saco River. And now the house itself awaits a purchaser.

Isak Dinesen, author of "Seven Gothic Tales," has just turned in to Random House the complete manuscript of her new book—a collection of stories about Africa, which will be published early in 1938.

Catherine Drinker Bowen, co-author of "Beloved Friend," one of last season's successes, has just returned from Russia, where she unearthed a wealth of fascinating material for her book on the Rubinshtins, which will appear on the Random House list in 1938.

The sale of the Norwegian book rights to "Gone With the Wind," by Margaret Mitchell, has been concluded with H. Aschehoug & Company, Oslo, who will bring out the Norwegian edition of this novel towards the end of this year. The book will be translated into Norwegian by Charles Kent, President of the Norwegian P.E.N. Club, well-known lyric poet and author of travel books, and Mr. Benhorne, who has lived for many years in the United States, and is familiar with the life and speech of the Negro in the South. Danish book rights have been sold to Steen Haselbalch, Forlag, Copenhagen. Captain Freisleben, an officer in the Dutch Royal Guards, will do the translation.

Euthusiasm for Ann Bridges' new novel "Enchanter's Nightshade," has been growing in the offices of Little, Brown & Company, to such an extent that they have now decided to increase the first printing from 15,000 to 20,000, and the initial advertising appropriation from $3,000 to $4,000. "Enchanter's Nightshade," to be published as an Atlantic Monthly Press Book in October, will be serialized in part in the "Atlantic Monthly," the first Atlantic serial since Mazo de la Roche's "Jalna," the first Atlantic Prize novel, which appeared just ten years ago.

"Drums Along the Mohawk," which a year after first publication is selling at the rate of 1500 a week, is now in its 20th thousand.

POUNDS ARE FULL

Lobster Fishermen Are Getting Phenomenal Catches After Slow Start

With the late summer catches of lobsters running the largest in years the price to the fishermen has gone as low as 12 cents a pound for a 20-year record, Commissioner Rodney E. Feyler of the Department of Sea and Shore Fisheries said today. Practically all of the lobsters being caught are in the shedding stage and this, with the big catch, accounts for the low price. Shedding lobsters are not marketable and must be held for several weeks until the new shell hardens. Through this period the shrinkage is unusually large, due to a high death rate.

The pounds along the coast are being rapidly filled by this new catch and some of the dealers have had to stop buying for lack of storage room. Two small boats brought in 1000 pounds to a Rockland dealer this week after two days hauling. This condition exists all along the coast it is said.

Despite the large amounts now being brought in Commissioner Feyler does not expect the total 1937 catch to exceed that of last year when about 5,000,000 pounds were landed. The spring catch was very small.

Veteran fishermen and dealers have several explanations of this condition. Some give credit to the State's purchase and release of seed lobsters five and six years ago while others say that the mild winter was to blame. Many believe that when the lobsters came in shore to shed last spring that as the water was so warm they did not just keep with traps or feed but just kept on going to find suitable shelter of the shedding period.

THOSE U. C. C. JOBS

Several Rockland Entrants Await Exam Results

Local interest in the recent tests for positions conducted by the Maine Unemployment Compensation Commission runs high as the correcting of the 700 examination papers presented swings into its stride at Augusta under direction of Howard C. Reich.

Grading of the examinations, following correction, is in charge of Dr. J. W. Hathorne and Dr. Ralph Hogan of the examining staff of the Social Security Board in Washington.

Both Washington officials expressed themselves as "well pleased with the manner in which the examinations were conducted and the general set-up of the UCC in Maine."

The examination books are now all in the Augusta office from the various cities and towns in which the exams were given. As fast as they were received they were checked against the applicant's number and sorted as to the nature of examination. Each paper is then double-checked for correctness of the answers. After the papers are graded personal interviews will be had with those having the highest ranks and selections made for permanent positions.

REACH HOME FRESH

Medical Expert Offers Advice For Those "Getting Under the Wire"

"To end your vacation with a real profit make it a point to reach home fresh, and not all tired out," says Dr. Robert A. Fraser, Chief Medical Director of the New York Life Insurance Company, to those who have been away for their vacations. "The hurried, 'under the wire' finish of most vacations is a sure way to report back to work tired and disgruntled, instead of being rested and full of enthusiasm.

"Plan the homeward trip so that you can cover it easily, comfortably and without rushing. In packing, put the things you will need as soon as you are home where you can get at them quickly, so that the bulk of unpacking and settling can be put off until the next day. Arrive home in plenty of time for a quiet supper, a leisurely evening and a good night's rest."

CALLS FOR NATIONAL CONVENTION

Ex-President Hoover Urges "New and Flaming Avowal Of Principles" For G. O. P.

"The Republican Party should meet officially in convention during the next year," says ex-President Herbert Hoover. This meeting should be representative; it should comprise youth as well as maturity, women as well as men. It should not confuse its vision with candidates or attempts to solve group or sectional problems the character of which can be known only three years hence. It should, with adequate prior preparation by able and open minds, fully debate and then declare a conviction on constructive national principles. It should declare this with intellectual and moral integrity, with human sympathy, with idealism and emotion.

No Sea Serpent Here

"Should its declaration rise to the national need, it would infuse a renewed fighting courage in the Party's own ranks; it would inspire an organization with which free men could join in coalition; it would lift the hearts of free men and women."

"Let some suspicious person see a sea serpent in this article, let me say at once most public men fight for reelection only because they are not quitters. If the voters are good enough to relieve them, there comes in time a great sense of gratitude for freedom and a determination to hold on to that blessed state. And this state develops objectivity, but objectivity in these hours does not imply neutrality."

The Real Issue

"My concern with political parties today is that they perform their responsibility. That is, they should align themselves with intellectual honesty and present to the people the opportunity to express their will as to the real issue of our times—possibly the greatest issue of one hundred and sixty years. The essence of the real political contest of today is personal liberty, which includes the rights of minorities. Today that issue is confused in both parties. It is obscured by indecision, by phrases, denials, contradictions, and evasions.

"America needs a new and flaming declaration of the rights and responsibilities of free men. All discussions of new parties, changes of name, or coalition are at best merely political strategies. The real question is, what do the parties represent?"

Latent Strength in G. O. P.

"The special weakness in the Republican Party is its failure to crystallize an affirmative and consistent body of principle in the face of a new situation. The nation needs a party which will clearly and courageously and constructively set out the affirmative alternative to the coercive direction of the New Deal."

"If we explore the present situation in the Republican party we find a good deal of latent strength. Numerically, it constitutes the strongest minority party the country has ever seen. It has an organization in more than 150,000 precincts, 3,000 counties, and the 48 States, with innumerable clubs, the vast majority of which are led by sincere, loyal, and determined men and women. It holds elective office in many more counties than its State defeats would indicate. It thus has a moving mechanism."

Politics Overemphasized

"One weakness of the Party is that it has not stood up for its substantial record of service and repelled the flood of calumny. Another is that it has not incorporated enough youth. But all discussions of new parties, changes of name, or coalition are at best merely political strategies. They place too much emphasis on politics. There is something far bigger in this situation."

BRITAIN'S HOPES

Sees Chance For European Peace In American Trade Pact

"The democracies still have time to recapture the leadership of Europe. And, as is beginning to be recognized from one end of the continent to the other, President Roosevelt and Mr. Hull have given them the opportunity to do so. Two years ago, and even last year, the United States was outside the European picture. One might occasionally be asked whether she still expected to collect her war debts, but that was all. Now, thanks to Mr. Hull's speeches, to Mr. Runciman's visit to President Roosevelt last winter and the subsequent visit of Mr. Van Zeeland, the Belgium Prime Minister, and thanks also to the Franco-British-American currency agreement, everybody is discussing the possibility of a concerted economic attack upon the ills of the world, since the direct political attack has so clearly failed. It is realized, however, that even in regard to economic matters the United States cannot be expected to take the initiative or any serious measure of direct responsibility on her side of the Atlantic. The question, therefore, is whether Great Britain will do so after accepting Mr. Hull's offer of a closer economic relationship, with herself and the rest of the empire."

Common Economic Front

"Europe consequently is watching for some indication of the progress of the Anglo-American negotiations for a trade treaty. If the treaty is concluded and a common front of economic endeavor is reached between the United States and the British Empire, then the democratic countries will begin to forget these disappointments with the divergences of Franco-British diplomacy and even in the dictatorial countries large bodies of opinion will begin to hope for better things. In the meantime the activities of M. Van Zeeland and of his colleagues of the smaller countries are not being confined to propaganda and consultation. In the North, Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Sweden, Norway and Finland, the so-called Oslo group, have taken the first steps toward the abolition of trade barriers. In the Southeast, under the leadership of Dr. Hodza, Czech Prime Minister, Czechoslovakia, Austria, Hungary, Rumania, Bulgaria, and Yugoslavia are trying a difficult matter—to forget their differences and prejudices and lower their trade barriers."

Cooperation Instead of War

"If these efforts succeed, if, under the leadership of the United States and Great Britain, the great free trading areas of the Western Hemisphere and the British Empire, between which Canada is already a link, can come together, then there is a chance that Germany and Italy will take the line which the majority of their people would like them to follow and join their neighbors in the work of economic reconstruction, and try to cure their economic difficulties by co-operation rather than by the desperate expedient of war or by joining up with Russia or by some other shift of balance-of-power politics. Then the continuation of the disarmament conference would again be feasible; the much talked-of economic conference for the final laying of economic nationalism and for the settlement of the just grievances of the Have-not countries could be held; and the League of Nations, with Germany again a member, might again function in Old World politics."

Advantages of Delay

"Such is the European dream of 1937. It will probably be some time before it is possible to appraise the chances of its realization. Delay, however, may have its advantages. The distempers of Europe are in a sense contributing to their own cure. In the dictatorial countries they are causing doubts as to the ultimate efficacy of power politics; in the democratic countries they tend to counteract that static complacency which the return of relative prosperity is so apt to bring."

Maine's Benefits Were $2.36 Per Capita—North Dakota's $54.86

Representative Joseph W. Martin, Jr., Republican of North Attleboro, Mass., says that Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Rhode Island farmers received less money from soil conservation funds in 1936 than any other States except West Virginia.

Martin said that in the distribution of a total of $399,721.104 during the year, Massachusetts' 123,235 farmers received $244,831, or $1.98 per capita.

New Hampshire farmers received the same per capita, a total of $124,484 for 62,850 farmers.

Rhode Island with 16,477 farmers, Martin said, received $16,464 or 99 cents per capita.

Maine benefits totalled $404,919 for 170,995 farmers, or $2.36 per capita; Vermont, 112,904 farmers, $344,928; or $3.05 per capita.

Martin said "In contrast to the amounts received in New England, North Dakota with a farm population of 397,294 received $21,798,599, or $54.86 per capita."

FAKE EYE DOCTORS

The Post Office Department Has Jailed Scores Of Swindlers

Some months ago the Post Office Department made public a statement which contained an expose of the fake Eye Specialist racket which had been in operation in this country for approximately 20 years. During that period its operators had niched from the public, particularly aged farm people, several million dollars.

In the first place, these swindlers seek out elderly people who live alone and in remote places. They know that elderly people have defects in their sight; that many of them have great fear of going blind; and that they will do everything to retain their vision. Then their scheme is cleverly devised, and the parts played by each practiced until perfection is attained. They are so adept at the game that they actually compel confidence.

First there are eye glass peddlers who go about the country posing as optometrists, pretending to examine the eyes free of charge, and selling glasses of a cheap type and often of no benefit to the purchaser. They are usually without license to operate, and are not competent to examine the eyes or to fit glasses. Their main profit comes from furnishing the names and addresses of their victims to others more advanced in the racket, who pay them twenty-five percent of any additional funds filched from them.

These eye glass salesmen are followed by two others. One of the latter enters the victim's premises first and represents himself to be connected with some optical company, informing the victim that he had recently purchased glasses from one of their agents; and that he had come to check up on them free of charge.

The man pretends to examine the victim's eyes and glasses, and falsely claims that there is a condition of the victim's eyes which he does not understand. He tells the victim that he has with him in his car on the outside a doctor from some renowned institution who is one of the greatest experts on the eye, whom he is sure would make an examination free of charge. The man is called in from the car, and he too pretends to examine the eyes of the victim and falsely represents that he finds a carcinoma of a cancerous growth on one of the eyes. Finally the victim is led to believe that this man is a great doctor and expert in the examination and treatment of the eye, and he submits to the pretended operation, which it is alleged can be done painlessly with radium, and that the only expense will be the cost of the radium used.

The alleged expert produces a small vial containing an ordinary eye wash, but alleged to be radium water, and this liquid is placed in the victim's eye, a few drops at a time, the alleged expert examining the vial after each application and announcing the value of the radium used. One of these alleged experts gave as the reason for announcing the value of the radium used after each application of the eye wash was to ascertain what the victim could pay.

Today the picture of the fake eye specialists and their families is far different from what it was a year or two ago. Their racket has been practically wiped out, and many of them are in jails or penitentiaries. They did not expect such to happen and they were not prepared. What little money they put away was spent in unsuccessful efforts to ward off the punishment which they so thoroughly deserved, and their wives and children, who formerly had everything they desired, are in want.

What are these men going to do when released from prison? When arrested practically all have said they were glad they had reached the end; that they despised the racket, but could not find anything else to do. However, none have willingly surrendered, and all have made every effort they could to evade apprehension.

Doubtless some of them will go back in the eye specialist or some other racket. They have had no training in honest labor, and their incomes have been that of men of the higher positions of life with scientific training and ability, while the fake eye specialists are usually ignorant and they have only developed a certain quality of shrewdness and cunning of value in the practice of deception. But they can rest assured that the path of the fake eye specialist which existed a short time back now leads but to the jail, for the public has been warned against them by the press of the United States.

Greatest AMOCO-GAS

The history of America is a story of courage . . . of an unconquerable spirit that turned a colonial wilderness into the most productive country in the world.

It's a big jump from the small towns of colonial days to the great cities of the present! And it's a big jump from the transportation of the eighteenth century to that of 1937. The story of the automobile and of the development of better motor fuels is an interesting chapter in American history. American Oil Company is proud of the major part it has played in this story!

American Oil Company revolutionized the automotive industry—made possible today's high compression motor—by introducing Amoco-Gas, the first and original special motor fuel.

Amoco-Gas, for years, has held more world's records than any other motor fuel! Time after time it has been proved the world's best.

But recently new scientific developments made this world's finest motor fuel even better. New processes were invented and patented . . . new equipment perfected . . . the greatest and most modern refining unit in the world was made even more modern.

The result is that the new Amoco-Gas is the greatest in our history! It gives even better performance, smoother operation than last year's superb Amoco-Gas! Always the best—now better than ever!

"AS YOU LIKE IT"

A Famous Shakespearian Play Appears At Surry Next Week

A highly original production of one of the gayest comedies ever written opens Tuesday night when the Surry Theatre presents Katherine Emery as Rosalind in "As You Like It," supported by Shepherd Strudwick as her young lover Orlando, and Anne Revere as the fun-loving Celia.

"As You Like It" has been played 'thousands of times, but never, it is safe to say, with quite the light-hearted abandon that Samuel Rosen, giving his imagination free rein, has inspired in his Surry actors. And the result has heightened and clarified Shakespeare's original intention—to entertain.

The theme of the play may be summed up in the Duke's speech beginning, "Sweet are the uses of adversity"—or, in other words, "You can always make the best of bad times." When the play opens, the Duke has been ousted from his domain by his brother and exiled to the Forest of Arden. Thither to join him goes his pretty, high-spirited daughter Rosalind, accompanied by her cousin Celia and a clown, Touchstone. To pass safely through the forest, Rosalind assumes a man's disguise. Meanwhile, Orlando, a good-looking young devil, makes the mistake of throwing the false duke's wrestler in a challenge match, and thereby gets in so wrong that he too must seek refuge in the forest. Rosalind has seen Orlando's prowess in wrestling and has fallen in love with him.

When they meet in the forest, Orlando takes Rosalind for a man. How he gradually suspects, guesses, and uncovers her disguise, makes for the most charming comedy scenes even penned. And of course the play ends "as you like it" with several more pairs of lovers brought happily together and the rightful Duke restored to his former estate.

In the Surry production the play appears in the light of a musical comedy of Elizabethan times. It is interspersed throughout with music and dancing, and even the scenes without music are in constant movement, heightening the true character of the hide-and-seek game between the lovers, Rosalind and Orlando.

GOING TO MARKET

Maine Will Try New Ways of Disposing of Its Varied Products

Maine is going to market. Important developments in an extensive campaign to advertise and merchandise the State's agricultural and fishery products are expected to result from a series of meetings to be held next week, the Maine Development Commission said.

Plans for the future of our apples, potatoes, and lobsters will be discussed by leading producers and shippers in an attempt to arrive at a practical program for boosting their quality and sales. Sturges Dorrance of a New York advertising firm, who has been retained as merchandising counselor, will outline plans that have been drawn up by his firm for this activity.

The first meeting will be held at the State House next Tuesday, Aug. 24, when the apple men get together. This group will have a lot of competition in selling the 1937 crop as several other States are launching widespread advertising and merchandising campaigns.

On the following day the recently appointed advisory committee on potatoes will meet, also at the State House, to lay plans for the expenditure of a fund to be obtained by a cent a barrel tax on this year's shipments. These men will decide how to best sell Maine's 50,000,000 bushels in competition with the 350,000 bushels that will be produced by other States.

For Thursday, the 26th, Commissioner Rodney E. Feyler of the Department of Sea and Shore Fisheries has called the lobster dealers in for a conference at his Thomaston office. The identifying of seafoods is one of the big problems to be confronted and officials have decided to first try a test campaign on the famed crustaceans.

These meetings will herald the opening of a widespread effort to sell Maine products to the nation. A part of the Development Commission's appropriation and funds from the potato tax will be used in this work. The ultimate object, according to officials, is to have all of the State's products trademarked, graduated and sold only in first class condition.

It is believed that eventually other branches of the agricultural and fishery industries will follow the lead of the potato men in asking for a tax on shipments to be used solely for promotion and merchandising.
