NEW SUBMASTER ELECTED

Allston Smith Has Had Valuable Experience —Exchange Teacher Considered

At the meeting of the school committee Thursday night the vacancy caused by the resignation of Submaster John Durrell was filled by the election of Allston Smith of Houlton, whose duties will also include a portion of the work conducted by Miss Dorothy Parker, who goes to Massachusetts. Twelve years of valuable experience encompass the career of the newly elected member of the High School faculty, who is a graduate of Washington State Normal School and who received the B. A. degree from Boston University, and the M. A. degree at University of Maine. He majored in English. Mr. Smith is the present principal of Portland Junior High School and was formerly principal of Marshfield, Cherryfield and Madawaska schools. The school committee has under consideration the teacher exchange system, which if adopted, and put into practice, would mean the sending of a Rockland teacher to Globe, Arizona, receiving in exchange a teacher from that city. The arrangement would be for one year. A delegation came from The Highlands Thursday night to present its reaction to the recent vote of the school committee, which would close the Highland and Benner Hill Schools. A largely signed petition had meantime been presented to the City Government and referred to the school committee. The latter heard the remonstrants and will act upon the matter later.

What prominent Camden business man has always taken an interest in the affairs of the league and especially the welfare of the Camden team, for which the league and the Camden boys are truly grateful?

Answer to Thursday's question: Dwight Lord of Camden was the third baseman who broke into prominence as a collegiate basketball player. The answer to today's question will appear in Tuesday's issue.

MAIDEN CLIFF TRAGEDY

"Boze" Quotes Robinson's History—No Bones Broken By Fall

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—The Boston correspondent in referring to Lake City Inn at Lake Megunticook, wrote: "Col. Knight told us that the young woman who lost her life there (Maiden Cliff, Mt. Megunticook) was employed in his father's family. She was out one Sunday afternoon and either slipped or stepped on a rolling stone and fell off the cliff."

"History of Camden and Rockport" by Reuel Robinson, gives this version of the accident:

"On May 6, 1864 a sad accident happened on Mt. Megunticook. A Maying party from Lincolnville was seated near the edge of the precipice, nearly 1,000 feet high, that overlooks Lake Megunticook and the Turnpike, when one of the party, a young girl some 13 or 14 years of age, the daughter of Zadock French of Lincolnville Beach, in attempting to gather flowers at the edge of the cliff, was thrown forward in rising and fell headlong to a rocky shelf several hundred feet below.

"She was reached with difficulty and strange to say was still living, with no bones broken, though terribly bruised and unconscious. She was lashed to a plank and lowered from crag to crag and conveyed to the nearest house where everything was done to save her life, but she died that evening. A cross now marks the spot where she fell and the precipice has since been known as 'Maiden Cliff.'"

"The Black Cat"

By the Roving Reporter

It will probably be news to many persons, as it was to me, that tobacco seed finds a sale in Rockland. Capt. Charles Tibbetts tells me that the purchasers are mainly Finnish people who have so many thrifty farms in Knox County.

A Rockland professional man who has owned many motor cars, and who is systematic in his habits with them, as in other things, tells me that he installs a new tire on his right front wheel every 5000 miles.

"I would like you to know that I enjoy The Black Cat very much," writes Mrs. Kenneth George of Arkville, N. Y. She adds: "The Cat might be interested to know that one of my friends has a tiger cat with six toes, and seven toenails on each foot. This cat's name is Snow-shoes."

And this reminds me that Mrs. Annie J. O'Brien of Pleasant street has a cat which has seven toes on one of its front paws, and six on each of the others.

Mervyn Flanders, a local florist, received a surprising order several years ago. It came from a man who phoned that his son was dead, and the inquirer wanted to know if he could get three carnations. The flowers were delivered in due season, and the florist was asked to view the remains—a request familiar to all florists. In the parlor rested a tiny casket and in the casket lay the body of the owner's pet cat.

The Black Cat has to be careful of his grammar. Recently I told of receiving a black-bordered rhyme written many years ago by "M.F.M." telling of Gordon and Wagner who were "hung" at Thomaston June 25, 1879. Yesterday's mail brought a postcard on which was written the following:

"Tsk—tsk—tsk—Shouldn't a cat's use of the wrong verb form be corrected? Think of your influence on the grammar of our young impressionables. It's no wonder the rhyme was black bordered. For shame!"

It has been so long since Maine had capital punishment that I confess to having been a bit careless. Webster's Collegiate Dictionary says: "With reference to the death penalty, hanged is preferred to hung." May I add that friendly criticism is desired by The Black Cat.

Willard Sleeper of South Thomaston recalls the old tide mill which existed for a number of years at "The Keag," and which was operated by the late George Green, a man of public spirit and progressive ideas. It was mainly devoted to the grinding of grain and polishing of stone, but lost its market on grain when the late John S. Case established his steam mill in Rockland. Little remains to show where this mill stood, but it formed a chapter of no small importance in Knox County's history. Mr. Sleeper also recalled the season when seven vessels were being built on the banks of the Wessaweskeag stream.

W. Ashton Ripley read with much interest the story of the broncho sale which took place in this city many years ago. He tells me that "Billy Thibault's Ride" was one of the classics of that period.

Places I miss: Frank H. Whitney's store. It stood on the corner of Main and Elm streets, being finally demolished to make way for the Farnsworth Memorial Building, which everybody hopes will materialize before long. In the management of this establishment Mr. Whitney was assisted by his sons Ruel and Leslie, and by the late John F. Whitney, and it was a popular gathering place for men who were interested in all forms of athletics, not forgetting roller polo, the son John being a member of one of the best local teams the city ever had. The South weaned the father and the West took the sons Ruel and Leslie. All were good friends of mine and I learn with pleasure that all have made good in the different fields they invaded.

MEMORIAL DAY—1938

Around the world the war-drums beat,
We hear the thud of marching feet,
Of trucks and tanks, the rumbling roar,
The zoom of bombing-planes that soar
High in the air—guns aimed to kill,
Whoever blocks the Fascist will.

The dictator with iron hand,
Makes slaves of men in Fascist land;
For fear of tyrants, brutal, blind,
Men hesitate to speak their mind.
And stunned! There comes the news from Spain,
Democracy outraged and slain.

For shame! And must it now be said
We've broken faith with World-war dead?
That war might never come again
The millions died. Was it in vain?
Its Freedom, Honor, Justice, Law,
Alone can rid mankind of war.

Upon this day is read the roll,
Of each heroic valiant soul,
The men who heard the country's call,
Left home, possessions, friends and all.
Their death was death to set us free,
And build the finer world-to-be.

North Haven.

Henry Felton Huse.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

THE BLUE AND THE GRAY

It was the women of the South who no long time ago, when Memorial day fell due, placed flowers equally upon the graves of their own dead of the Civil War, and also upon the graves of Northern soldiers, their foes, who had found burial in the same cemeteries.

By the flow of the inland river,
Where the fleets of iron have fled,
Where the blades of the grave-grass quiver,
Asleep are the ranks of the dead—
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the Judgment Day—
Under the one, the Blue,
Under the other, the Gray.

These in the robes of glory,
Those in the gloom of defeat,
All with the battle-blood gory,
In the dusk of eternity meet:
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the Judgment Day—
Under the roses, the Blue,
Under the willow, the Gray.

From the silence of sorrowful hours
Lovingly laden with flowers,
Alike for the friend and the foe—
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the Judgment Day—
Under the one, the Blue,
Under the other, the Gray.

So, with an equal splendor
The morning sun-rays fall,
With a touch impartially tender,
On the blossoms blooming for all—
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the Judgment Day—
Mellowed with gold, the Gray.

So, when the summer calleth,
On forest and field of grain,
With an equal murmur falleth
The cooling drip of the rain—
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the Judgment Day—
Wet with the rain, the Blue,
Wet with the rain, the Gray.

HELEN KELLER AND OLD AGE

To the Editor of The Boston Herald: It is not often that one finds in the records of the daily run of common events such a "gem of purest ray serene" as the enclosed copy of a letter written by Helen Keller to a school girl of Joplin, Missouri. You might like to give it a place in your "Mail Bag" column. This is cut from the editorial page of "The Joplin Globe," a generally estimable daily paper.

The clipping enclosed follows:

"In A Realm Of Fadeless Beauty"

Quite one of the most famous women in the world is Helen Keller. It is not surprising a Joplin High School girl, Miss Eileen Scott, was thrilled recently to get a signed letter from her in answer to a question as to how she hoped to approach old age. The question had been asked after the class in Cicero, under Miss Bess Buckridge, had become interested in the subject from reading the great Roman's famous essay on old age. Miss Keller wrote:

Dear Eileen Scott: You are the first person who has asked me pointblank how I intend to approach old age. I cannot help smiling—I who have these many years declared that there is no age in the spirit! Age seems to me only another physical handicap, and it excites no dread in me. I have lived so long and triumphantly with limitations.

Once I had a dear friend of 80 who impressed upon me the fact that he enjoyed life more than he had done at the age of 25. "Never count how many years you have, as the French say," he would insist, "but how many interests you have. Do not stave your days by taking for granted the people about you or the things which make up your environment, and you will abide in a realm of fadeless beauty."

Then and there I resolved, vestal-like, to cherish an inextinguishable flame of youth. I have tried to avoid ruts—doing things just because my ancestors did them before me—leaning on the crutches of vicarious opinion—losing my childhood sense of wonderment. I am glad to say I still have a vivid curiosity about the world I live in.

Age, I suppose, like blindness, is an individual experience. Everybody discovers its roseate mountain peaks or its gloomy depths according to his or her temperament. It is as natural for me, certainly, to believe that the richest harvest of happiness comes with age as that true sight and hearing are within, not without. Confidently I climb the broad stairway that love and faith have built to heights where I shall "attain to a boundless reach of sky."

Hoping that you and the Cicero class will also start to keep your life garden beautiful forever, I am, with cordial greetings, sincerely yours.

Helen Keller

Soft Ball To Fore

Rules Are Laid Down and Organization Completed—All Set!

A match was played Thursday night at the bowling alleys between the Prudential Insurance office staff and their wives. They had a lot of fun, and the scores were good. Mrs. Roy Hobbs was topnotcher with a three string total of 311 (that's good bowling) and Roy Hobbs had single string high of 108.

The scores:
Mr. Beaulieu ..... 99 89 103—291
Mrs. Alexander ..... 86 71 104—261
Mr. Hawkins ..... 74 85 78—237
Mr. Gardner ..... 87 82 93—262
Mr. Hobbs ..... 86 88 108—282

Totals ..... 432 415 486 1333
Mrs. Beaulieu ..... 82 105 98—285
Mrs. Alexander ..... 64 84 69—217
Mrs. Hawkins ..... 59 87 81—227
Mrs. Gardner ..... 49 67 78—194
Mrs. Hobbs ..... 98 106 107—311

Totals ..... 352 449 433 1234

Josh Southard pulled his bag of bowling tricks out the other day, and humbled two opponents in a walk-away. He is a "spot bowler" and in days gone by has bowled with the best. His latest challenge has been accepted, so Ruth and Josh will battle it out any day now.

Soft Ball League

A meeting of captains and managers of the softball league was held Tuesday night, and rules and plans were thoroughly discussed. The team known as the Aces dropped out, and the Shells have taken its place in the league. It looks as if the A. & P. team would be one to look out for, as in practice games they have already defeated the fast Cement Plant team and the Post Office team. The Post Office and also the Central Maine Power Co. teams are both plenty good. The strength of the Kiwanis, Lions and Elks teams is not known yet, but they soon will be doing their "stuff". The captains and managers of each team will serve as the league committee, and Ruth Ward the secretary, treasurer and reporter.

Rules accepted by the League are:

1. The 1938 Softball Book of Rules is accepted by this League.
2. All players and team must be of amateur standing; roster of players not to exceed 20, and each player a member of one team only.

3. The official length of games shall be seven innings, four and one-half innings to constitute a legal game.

4. Players may wear gloves if preferred; but baseball spike shoes are not permissible. Smooth soled shoes or softball shoes to be worn.

5. Bunting is legal.
6. On or before June 1, a list of 20 or less men will be submitted to James Flanagan by the team manager. After this date, any team which submitted a list of less than 20 names, may add members to their team, subject to the approval of committee.

7. All games to be played evenings, starting at 6:30. Teams shall be allowed 30 minutes after the scheduled starting time to take the field, or else game shall be forfeited to the team on the field.

8. Only misinterpretation of a rule by the official may be questioned and only by the Captain or Manager of the team. Uncalled for disagreement of the officials' judgment or showing any other unsportsmanlike conduct will be cause for immediate dismissal of player or team from the league.

9. Ground rules will be made before the start of each game by the Captains of both team and the umpire. In case of a disagreement, the umpire's judgment will be final.
10. Umpires will be John Smith and Chester Smalley.

Highlights this week in bowling are H. Karnes, and Wimp Chatto with 119.

The Building will be open all summer in all departments though the gym will naturally be quiet. Director of Activities Flanagan will start his summer furlough June 15 but will be back when school opens, starting the '38-'39 season with the advantage of the fine organization he has perfected this year.

Compliments continue to pour in concerning the admirable planting project being carried on by the Rockland Garden Club at Community Building. The whole Lime-rock street front presents an amazingly improved appearance. Ivy will grace the brick work and the Union street side will eventually be planted. It is planned to grow ivy over the whole bare northern wall, toward the Public Library.

Work will start soon on the laying of the permanent walk from Limerock street to the entrance. Concrete posts and chairs, similar to the attractive installation at the High School will eventually protect the lawns.

Wanted—One flag pole at Community Building.

SAFE-AND-SANE DRIVING

Richfield's "Ten Commandments" Should Be Read By All Motorists

Warm weather, and the consequent traffic increase, has caused a renewal of safety drives, everywhere. Not only have officers been instructed to crack down on speeders, but many organized attempts are being made to instruct the public in safe driving. These take the form of movies, school courses, pamphlets and lectures.

The steadily increasing accident rate has made the need for proper safety instruction more vital than ever before. It is not enough to know the law, and what the law allows you. Every driver should know how to protect himself from "the other fellow," and how to keep from being "the other fellow." Attempts to spread this kind of safety knowledge have been very well received.

Among the many safety drives, perhaps the most noteworthy is that being run by the Richfield Oil Corporation on behalf of its dealers. This company is using newspapers, sound trucks, and other methods to instruct the driving public. Richfield's Safety Book, "The Ten Commandments Of Safe-And-Sane Driving," free at all Richfield stations, is already in its third printing. The first supply was quickly exhausted, largely due to a flood of requests from Police Commissioners, State Motor Vehicle Commissioners, and local school organizations throughout the East. In this way, large numbers of the book have been distributed in official connection with local and State safety drives.

It is suggested that all motorists take advantage of this and other offers, and learn what they can do to help make the highways safe. Such a project is worth a few minutes of every motorist's time.

MISTER BROWN PERFORMS

And Rockland Players Have Only a Passing Acquaintance With First Base

Vinal Haven 4, Rockland 0
Baseball fans saw a remarkable exhibition of pitching at Community Park yesterday afternoon when the island hurler, Brown shut out the local High School team 4-0. There were other features, to be sure, but so far as results went, it was a one-man show, with Mister Brown occupying the stellar role. This 16-year-old boy is by all odds one of the finest school pitchers Knox County has known since the days of "Jack" Frost. Not so much speed as Middleton perhaps, but splendid control and a "good head."

He has one more season with Vinal Haven High, which would seem to mean that Vinal Haven will probably buy off the 1939 pennant, as well as this year's. It may not work out that way, but they say Coach Patrick is losing no sleep. Rockland placed but two men on first base yesterday. One was Winchenbach who made Rockland's first hit of the game in the sixth inning only to be doubled on the first sack when Ellis' attempted bunt resulted in a chocolate drop. The second Rockland man to reach first was Anderson, whose hit came in the eighth, with two out, Kallach fanned and Anderson never did get to mid-field.

The batting star of the game was Hamilton whose double and single were responsible for three of Vinal Haven's four runs. Except in two innings Chisholm pitched ironclad ball, all three runs made by the visitors in the fourth round being unearned.

SOLVES PARKING PROBLEM

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—
In traveling through a dozen States in the past, I have seen several towns in the same predicament as Rockland, in regard to a narrow Main street.

The solution of parking is simple. Having the cars parked herring bone style. And only on one side of street. Where one car is parked parallel two can be parked this other way. Parking one's car is also easier. And when coming out into traffic it does not take so long and is easier for the timid driver.

This system will not cost anything to try. Let's hear or see something done about it.

Motoring southward on South Main street yesterday afternoon, ex-Patrolman Charles H. McIntosh nearly ran over a man who suddenly lurched in front of his car. The man was carrying a bag he indignantly hurled toward the car just missing the rear mudguard. McIntosh reported the case to the police, and Patrolman Christofferson dragged to the station a W.P.A. worker named Dowling for intoxication. An examination of the bag showed 15 pounds of dynamite and caps. McIntosh and Christofferson are still shaking hands with themselves, and so would all Southenders if they knew just what they missed.

SERMONETTE

The Night When Angels Sang
 Rafael Sabatini, the great novelist, has written two books entitled "Historical Nights." Let some of these nights be noted for they possess great interest. "The night of the murder of David Rizzio," "The night of the murder of Darnley," "The night of Betrayal," "The night of Massacre," "The night of Witchcraft," "The night of Terror," "The night of Strangers," "The night of Hate" and "Murder of the Duke of Gandia." These comprise only a few.

They reflect certain conditions in history when greed, envy, state policy, sex or hatred required these people be eliminated; in the words of the early west, "wiped out."

Nowadays, Hitlerites and the American gangsters, require a more modern word—"liquidated"—but whatever the sinful term, it meant exit, curtains or finis.

Is it not well that history records other nights? There was a night in the days of Cesar Augustus, starlight, calm and peaceful. History knows it as "Holy Night." Shepherds keeping watch over their flocks. "And lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them and the glory of the Lord shone round about them and they were sore afraid; the angel said, Fear not; for behold, I bring you glad tidings, of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day, in the city of David, a saviour, which is Christ the Lord."

If this world, now so troubled, is ever to know peace, it will be because of that winter night in Palestine, so long ago.

—William A. Holman

At the Congregational Church the combined service of public worship and church school is at 10:30 a. m., with the children sharing the worship service and attending classes during the sermon. The theme of the sermon by Rev. Corwin H. Olds will be, "Modern Emancipations."

At St. Peter's Church (Episcopal) Rev. E. O. Kenyon, rector, the service for tomorrow will be appropriate for the Sunday after the Ascension: Matins at 7:10, Holy Communion at 7:30, church school at 9:30, Holy Eucharist and sermon at 10:30, Vespers at 7:30 p. m.

In following up his central theme of the last two Sundays, the almet and the too easily persuaded of personality, Dr. Lowe at the Universalist Church Sunday morning will take for his subject "Defects of the Well and Their Discipline." Church school sessions will be held in the vestry at noon. Mrs. Glover's Class is excused for the day. Nursery department will meet in the vestry at 10:45 for the benefit of parents with small children who desire to attend the morning service.

At Littlefield Memorial Church Sunday morning at 10:30 the pastor, Rev. Charles A. Marsteller, will preach a sermon appropriate to Memorial Day. The music includes a selection by the choir and a solo by Walter Griffin. A children's story will precede the sermon. The church school meets at 11:45 and the Christian Endeavor at 6. At 7:15 Dr. C. ## HOLD THOU MY HAND

[For The Courier-Gazette] Around my pathway thorns today may gather. Above me clouds of doubt and fear may hang; The air seems chilly and its stormy weather. My every heart beat sighs with sorrow's pang. Yet will I take my stand, God, hold my hand.

Friends whom I loved have vanished from my dwelling. Joys that were mine faded and decayed; The happy days with love and peace excelling. Have hidden 'neath the shadows and the shade. Yet will I keep my stand, God, hold my hand.

And when the sun again resumes its shining When roses hide the thorns far from my view, When I have learned to smile and cease repining, My heart shall still its confidence renew. Still will I keep my stand, God, hold my hand. Harriet Grinnell Cold Philadelphia.

last Saturday to New Harbor, where the boat will receive a new coat of paint. Later in the season Capt. Davis' son will take command of the N. Jorth for the summer.

TRUE STORIES

PROGRESS THROUGH CHEMISTRY

By Dr. J. A. Hunt. E. L. DuPont de Nemours & Co., Inc.

THE art of perfumery dates back to the dawn of recorded history. Gums, spices, and other materials of pleasing odor have for centuries influenced man's social and religious life. Fragrant frankincense and myrrh were among the gifts brought by the Wise Men to the Babe of Bethlehem, and it was a costly ointment of spikenard with which Mary anointed the feet of Christ, "and the house was filled with the odor of the ointment." In ancient times, caravans carried on an extensive trade in spices, myrrh and other odoriferous materials, just as today perfumes and aromatic chemicals are important items in world commerce.

Perfumes now used are, for the most part, based on "essential oils." In ancient times, caravans carried on an extensive trade in spices, myrrh and other odoriferous materials, just as today perfumes and aromatic chemicals are important items in world commerce.

"PERUVIAN GOLD"

Potato Growers, Large and Small, Will Be Interested In Talking Picture

Do you plant your seed potatoes and then hope for the best yields at harvest? Or do you follow sound agricultural practices that insure quality potatoes at low production costs? Statistics show that every year over $18,500,000 are wasted in potato growing! Why? Because many growers are not following the latest methods for better potato production. The secret of better potato crops can be seen and heard in the all-talking interesting, educational film "Peruvian Gold."

After seeing this feature you will know how to make your crop more productive. Remember, there's gold in every hill of potatoes you plant. See this picture at Watts Hall, Thomaston, Tuesday night at 8 o'clock—adv.

In the triangular meet at Winslow, both Winslow and Bangor came out ahead of our trackers but the R.H.S. boys put up a good performance while scoring 25 points in five events. Mazzeo as usual was high man for Rockland with a total of 12 points. One of the best events of the day was the half mile which he won in the remarkably fast time of 2 min. 9 sec. He did 5 ft. 5 in. in the high jump and soared over the cross bar in the pole vault at 10 ft. 6 in. Karl was nosed out of second place in the shot put by 3/4 in. The Senior Science class is, at present, completing work on the safety project it undertook several weeks ago. This project is rapidly assuming the proportions of a substantial book containing some one hundred and twenty-five pages, and with the distinctive title "Why Kill?"

The several students, working as a unit, have attempted to strengthen this query by using an organization which falls logically into four parts: (1) the necessity of good driving; (2) the principles of good driving and their application; (3) the results of good driving; and finally, (4) Rockland's belief and use of good driving. It is hoped that this book once completed may be used as a background or foundation upon which to base further student action in the future.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

We read with interest of the problem Mrs. Andrews has with a mother robin, and feel sympathy for both the lady and the bird. Mother Robin evidently has a cultured taste which prefers the beauty of Colonial architecture. Perhaps this robin's many times great forbears built their nests over just such doors, and if there's a robin's D.A.R. perhaps she belongs.

I think it is the same bird which has returned for three years. We have a pair who return year after year. For three years the mother robin built her nest in the rain trough on the eaves of the barn. The second and third year she used the old nest, but the fourth year she abandoned it. The third year we had a torrential rain storm while her babies were still in the nest and the water must have poured over the nest. Perhaps the babies were drowned, or so soaked mother robin decided it was no longer a safe place to nest.

If I was Mrs. Andrews, I would put a board on the ledge, slanted so that the robin could not build her nest and leave it there until she had built elsewhere. Then it could be taken down. If the board is neatly painted the color of the house trim, it would not be noticeable.

A robin's nest is very conspicuous because they delight in weaving odd material in among the straws. A pair—the same pair which built in the trough, we believe—are building in the barn and I saw her go in with a rag about two feet long. Down home in Rhode Island we had some Brahma roosters. They were large, long legged fowls, very saucy, so we tied them out to stakes to graze. Their ties were long strips of white cloth. After the fowls were sold, one of these ties was left in the grass. A robin tugged it to her nest in a plum tree and wove it in, but about three feet of white cloth was hanging down from the nest, like the tail of a kite.

Benito Blue has resigned his job of "constable," being greatly burdened with family cares. He and Madam Blue are kept busy feeding hungry babies. There are at least six families of swallows nesting in the tenements. We put up an eight-apartment martin house, but when a martin came to inspect it, the pair of swallows who had taken possession drove him away, though he was twice their size. Mrs. Swallow has carried straws into all eight apartments. It seems very confusing to have so many rooms to her house. When we first put it up Benito inspected each room and out of three he very carefully brought a chip of wood the carpenter had left. Maybe I should say "carpentress," since I built the house.

One day two swallows were having such a terrible fight I picked one of them up and Mr. S. caught a purple and red barn swallow. Neither seemed afraid when they saw who had them. Other interesting sights in bird life have been a large eagle, brown in color, wild mallard ducks and their young, and a male purple finch dancing. The eagle was flying low, pursued by a crow, who looked very small in size compared to the eagle's wide spread of wing, and body which appeared the size of a large turkey. The finch was observed dancing, keeping up a low chirp and whirling his wings around so fast they looked like a blur. His mate was picking up straws nearby. I have wondered why these birds are called purple finches when the male's head and breast is such a satiny rose pink.

I noted in The Black Cat column the account of the robins who delayed a ship launching. Those men were worthy the name. I'm wondering what happened to the young ones, since, according to the account, they were hatched two days before the launching was to have been. When the boat was launched the young would have been four days old and could not have flown at that tender age.

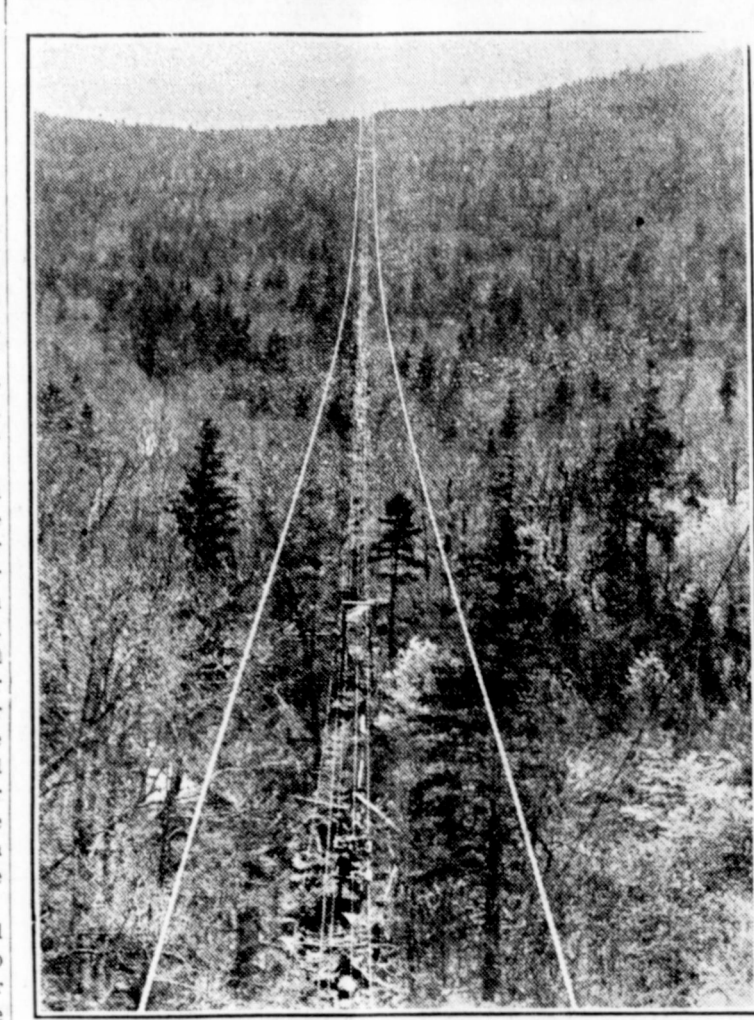

Nancy Stedman Savage [Mrs. E. W. Berry of Broad street] will probably be able to explain that. I, too, wondered at it.—Ed.]

supposed it was called that because the rolling land formed sort of a small basin. I am not sure of this. Here we came to the Pint Basin school house. It was quite a ride to Thomaston from Cushing in those "horse and buggy" days.

In later years when we were trying out our first car we took our picnic dinner and left Rockport for Waldoboro early one Sunday morning. We were going to call on relatives. Arriving there we found them away. We started back home by the way of Cushing and ate our picnic dinner on the grounds of the Pint Basin schoolhouse sometime in the afternoon. Of course the roads were rough and the car tires were small but we did think we had been "going some."

OUR FIRST MOUNTAIN TRAMWAY

This shows a small section of the huge cables which will carry the State of New Hampshire's new Aerial Mountain Tramway, 5,410 feet up Cannon Mountain at Franconia Notch when it is placed in operation June 17. In the center of this photo (made from the base station looking up towards the first tower) may be seen the temporary freight cables over which materials have been transported all winter. These will be removed and the cars of the Tramway, carrying 27 passengers, will move up and down suspended on the giant permanent cables which appear as white lines in the middle section of the photo.

The Sub-Primary and First Grade had a joint candy sale recently, netting nearly $8. The proceeds will be used toward Library books or having the pianos tuned.

The First Grade's enrollment has dropped off this week. Alice Withee has moved to Tenant's Harbor, and Priscilla Boardman had to leave because of illness.

A Bird project is being carried out in the Second Grade correlating reading, language, and spelling. Each child is making a bird book with pictures and a short story about each bird, telling of its food, habits, place of nest, and quality of song.

The Third Grade is having a contest in arithmetic and spelling. Every time the pupils get 100, they color a red dot in a clown's suit. The last few weeks the Third Grade has also done a Japanese unit. They have a fine display of real shoes, kimonos, baskets, dishes, writing paper, toys, umbrellas, wooden apples jinrikisha etc. A corner of the room is tastily decorated with paper lanterns and Japanese girls. The songs they are learning are Japanese tunes. The girls are learning Japanese rhythms. Spelling and reading lessons are also correlated with this unit. The sand table represents a garden in Japan having temples, bridges, cherry trees, etc. Pasting work is also being done using old geographic magazines as a source of Japanese pictures, making attractive booklets for reference.

The Fourth Grade has just completed an imaginary journey to the homes of children in distant lands. They have some very interesting notebooks that they have made, containing pictures and stories concerning native life in Belgian Congo, Arab Island Eskimo, Bedouin Arab, the farmer fishermen of Norway, Polder farmers of the Netherlands, Peasants of Northern France, and the mountaineers of Switzerland.

Map books are being rapidly completed by the Fifth Grade which have been worked on as we took up the different sections of our country. They show the products and resources of the countries studied during the year also the United States and their capitals. The important cities also are given.

The enrollment for Grade Five has advanced so that now we have 51.

The enrollment for this building has been approximately 260 this year.

A new patrol boy has been added and stationed at the corner of North Main and James streets. The people in this section of the city have been very kind and have helped make the school boy patrol very successful.

"GO WEST, YOUNG MAN"

The summer fellowship awarded annually to a junior in the College of Agriculture at the University of Maine has been given to Herbert A. Leonard of Thordike. The award is offered by the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis. Dean Arthur L. Deering, announcing the award, said that the stated purpose of the foundation is to help students make decisions, to enlarge their horizon, to broaden their contacts, and to assist them in finding their largest place in life. The award covers Mr. Leonard's expenses for two weeks in St. Louis, where he will visit a large feed mill, packing plants, stockyards, and related processing industries. He will then spend two weeks at a leadership training camp at Shelby, Michigan.

The records show that State Senator Roy L. Fernald seeking the Republican nomination for Governor, had expended approximately $1,500 more for campaign expenses than the amount spent by Gov. Barrows who seeks renomination. Fernald has expended $2,395 according to his fifth return of expenditures filed with the Secretary of State's department. Barrows reported last week he had expended $845.

REALM OF MUSIC

by Gladys St. Clair Heistad

Noting the death of Anton Lang, veteran Christus of Oberammergau Passion Play, on May 18, I am reminded that I have a beautiful sepia picture of Anton Lang autographed by him in 1911 and brought to me by my uncle, the late E. L. Cleveland of Houlton, on his return from an European tour. This simple Bavarian potter, famed the world over for his portrayals of Christ, died in a Munich hospital following a surgical operation. Following a tradition of his family and trained almost from birth, Lang played the Christus in the Passion Plays of 1900, 1910 and 1922. His expressive head with long blond curls, his average stature, and quiet manner—all combined to represent in him the traditional Germanic ideal of the Saviour. He had the unusual distinction of playing Christ three times in the play, ordinarily given only once every ten years by the little Bavarian villagers. Born in 1875, he was only 25 when he first assumed the role. In the 1930 production and a special production in 1934, Lang, by this time advanced in years, gave up the role to Alois Lang, to whom he was not related, but he remained a principal figure by acting as speaker of the prologue in both plays.

Anton Lang was an exemplary husband and father. He had three sons and three daughters, one of whom, Rita, acted as the Virgin Mary in the 1930 production. Lang kept a pension in Oberammergau, but had a strong liking for travel, and visited the United States, Palestine and many other countries.

Through the kindness of Mrs. Leonora Waller who seems almost to belong to us through frequent visits with Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Stevens, I have programs of the San Carlo Opera, of a concert given by Marian Anderson, famous Negro contralto, and of the Easter service at The Asbury Church (Methodist Episcopal) at Crestwood, N. Y., where her nephew's wife, Evelyn Smith Austin, is Minister of Music. Mrs. Waller saw "La Boheme" by the San Carlo singers, with Bianca Sarova singing the role of Mimì. Miss Anderson's concert was on May 8, and the review said:

"An audience that jammed Carnegie Hall last night thunderously greeted Marian Anderson, the eminent Negro contralto, on her final New York appearance this season. Every number was applauded to the echo, there were countless encores, and Miss Anderson had a minor walking marathon for recalls after each group. The singer was in full command of her superb vocal powers. Her delivery generally had that effortless which always arouses wonder, her rich tones poured out abundantly, and interpretatively she furnished example after example of a well-rounded art." Continuing to enlarge upon her various selections, Schubert's "Tod und das Mädchen" received special mention stirring the imagination most for its well-wrought contrasts and emotional force. "Her voicing of the lines of Death was remarkable in its eerie power, and the voice of the Maiden, despairingly rebellious, came as from another throat. The audience went wild over her interpretation." Three other numbers by Schubert received high praise—"Ave Maria," "Die Forelle" and "Erlkönig," and Grieg's "I Love Thee," overwhelming in its tonal splendor and easy production, had to be repeated.

I understand Miss Anderson is slated to appear in Portland next season, an opportunity music loving people of this section cannot afford to miss.

Oh yes, Mrs. Waller sent me another program too—Vance Campbell, baritone-composer, in a program of classic and modern songs, including some of his own compositions, and again Evelyn Smith Austin appears—as pianist, accompanying Mr. Campbell and offering a group of solos—"Clair de Lune" (Debussy), "Bird Song" (Palmgren) and "Prelude in G minor" (Rachmaninoff).

Rev. William Kent is pastor of The Little Brown Church in the Vale, about which the famous hymn was written. In June, his parsonage near Nashua, Iowa, is thronged with couples who want to get married at the historic shrine. Mr. Kent performs something like 500 ceremonies a season, and after each one he has the newlyweds ring the church bell, to remind them they must always pull together, and then as each couple leaves, he plays the old hymn on the organ. Nice, eh?

Dr. H. Augustine Smith of Boston, national chairman of music and religious education, was one of the speakers at the recent State Federation of Music Clubs meeting in Kennebunk. Beginning his address with a brief history of church music, Dr. Smith said that for the past 20 years there had been a revival of interest in this field. He stated that the ideal theory of worship is one in which the congregation becomes the choir. He said that the act of worship begins with the prelude, the purpose of which is to make the congregation realize that the church is the place where God lives and to give them a realization of God's presence. The purpose of the choir was first to sing with congregation, second to sing for the congregation, and third to sing to the congregation in admonition, to comfort and to help. Of late years, Dr. Smith said, church music was becoming a profession which demanded special training not only in the correlated subjects of art and literature, but in the understanding of the humanity expressed in the hymns and anthems used. "A cappella singing is the only way to get folks musically," said Dr. Smith, "and development of boy choirs is bringing back the glamor to American church music. Very definitely I believe that hymns and choir festivals have a prominent part in the church music program, and it is through these that American people will sing more than they have. Of primary importance is the interest of the minister as head of the church in bringing it about."
