WARD SEVEN SCHOOLS

The School Committee has received a petition signed by representative citizens of Ward 7, requesting a public hearing relative to the closing of the Highland and Benner Hill Schools. In view of this fact the Committee has set the date for AUGUST 3 at 7.30 P. M. in the City Council Rooms. It is urged that interested citizens attend this hearing and present their views on either side of the question, that a conclusion might be reached which would be for the best interests of all concerned.

THE KICK-OFF DINNER

Found Community Chest Workers Determined To Make Goal In Four Downs

Fired with zeal and a spirit of assured victory, the Community Chest campaigners are off for their goal of $7750, determined that greater effort than ever shall send this humanitarian project into triumph with banners flying. The "kick-off" dinner last night at Temple Hall by women of the Congregational Church was a tasty and nourishing fortifier, stimulating ambitions to the task awaiting them in the full pressure days

time, money and effort in five campaigns instead of one. "We'll not fail" was the silent pledge.

A brigadier in the Salvation Army illustrated the dual aims of religion and welfare which are the cornerstones of this organization, and then the tinder to united enthusiasm was touched off by Director W. A.
Nicol in an impassioned plea to the hearts of Rockland citizens. Director Nicol whose only recompense for the work of this campaign directing is defrayal of his expenses,

WHERE YOUR CHEST DOLLAR GOES

Every dollar raised in the Community Chest Drive is spent with care and with no administration expense. Charles A. Emery, well known accountant, is chairman of the budget committee,
which goes over this list with utmost thoroughness.

Home for Aged Women	$1,827.36
Red Cross	2,000.00
Salvation Army	2,000.00
Boy Scouts	400.00
Civil War Memorial	250.00
Contingency	425.14
Expenses	847.50

This last item not only includes all campaign expenses such as labor for three extra stenographers, printing of campaign material, telephone tolls, etc., but the inevitable percentage of shrinkage present in every campaign caused by those who do not pay their pledges. Also, and this is important, it includes the very modest sum paid Director W. A. Nicol to cover his actual expenses during the campaign. He makes no other charge in any way as this drive comes during his vacation period.

throughout this week—days which will be fraught with hard but noble work; noble because blessed with the will to help deserving neighbors.

Leforest A. Thurston, general chairman, was at the helm of the "get going rally" and presented as first dignitary, Mayor Edward R.
Veazie, whose moral, financial and prestige support is solidly backing this civic benefit. Representative Cleveland L. Sleeper also spoke, and it is probable that he never addressed even a Legislative assembly
with a more powerful appeal.

Rousing good fellowship was the cue for a group sing and with Arthur P. Lamb at the piano and Robert Russell directing, the hall resounded to the heart-warming favorite harmonies. The Kiwanis Club was present in a body and besides lending its service club
strength to the Chest, gave freely of its lungs in the singing and ere
the week is out will again give freely—from its purses.

In a four-minute talk, John M.
Richardson, publicity director cited
two thoughts—first, the importance of the Community Chest as a $15,000 industry, locally supported for local benefit; second, the significance of failure—duplication of explained that owing to the death

of two or three large contributors,
redoubled striving must be enforced,
and so great was his earnestness that every worker vowed then and there to exhaust all possible prospects and corral every available dollar.

Happiness is born of a good heart. Remembrance of the Community Chest offers that happiness,
and generosity will repay the donor
a thousandfold in the knowledge that he is an upright Rockland citizen, willing to carry his share of humanity's burden.

Dig in—the need is great and time is short. Make your dollars spell victory for the Community Chest crusade! K. R. M.

The Community Chest drive for 1938 is in full swing this morning with nearly 100 workers in the field,
united in the effort to raise $7750
for Rockland's charities: Home for Aged Women, Red Cross, Salvation
Army, Boy Scouts and Civil War Memorial.

Workers will meet tomorrow noon
at Temple hall for luncheon and progress reports, the Lions Club meeting there in a body in place of their regular session.

A REHEARING IS ASKED

Further Action Arises Out of the Sinking of the Steamer Castine

In United States Court at Bangor
yesterday Judge John A. Peters heard a motion for rehearing in the case of Mrs. Minnie Morrison, administratrix of the estate of Rebecca E. Alley vs. Augustus P.
Coombs, and at the same time the case of Arthur A. Bartlett of Washington, administrator of the estate of D. Evelyn Bartlett, late of Washington.

Both suits are libels in admiralty as the result of the wrecking of the steamer Castine, near Vinal Haven, June 8, 1935, in which both of the deceased lost their lives.

The Morrison case was heard by Judge Peters in April, and judgment was awarded for the libellant, but was reopened yesterday to permit Capt. Coombs to introduce further evidence concerning the existence of a partnership with his late brother, Leighton W. Coombs.

The Bartlett suit was prosecuted to recover damages placed at $10,000. Mrs. Bartlett died in the hospital June 16 following the loss of the Castine, as the result of immersion and exposure.

A number of Knox County Grangers were in attendance at yesterday's hearings.

Judge Peters took both cases under advisement and will render a decision at an early date, after briefs
have been filed by counsel.

Nathan Thompson of Portland is attorney for Mrs. Morrison; Charles T. Smalley represents the Bartlett, and Montgomery & Gilmor are counsel for the defense in both cases.

NOT MERE SPENDING

W.P.A. Projects Are Accomplishing
Other and Timely Purposes

Rockland, July 31

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

While listening to the excellent band concert Sunday night I could not help but notice the surroundings, and the improvement wrought on our waterfront there and at the other former city dump. The W.P.A. projects have made real beauty spots in place of odoriferous pest holes. Some folks may cavil at increased taxation and government expenditure, but surely on these projects the money has been well spent, both from the scenic and mercantile point of view. Labor projects tending to beautify any community add to the enjoyment and admiration of visitors, and an increase in business.

This, no doubt, is equally true of other communities. It is well, when counting the cost, to figure in results and come to the gratifying conclusion that mere spending is not the sole aim of the administration L. P. Newbert

THE ARROW AND THE SONG

I shot an arrow into the air,
It fell to earth, I knew not where;
For, so swiftly it flew, the sight
Could not follow it in its flight.

I breathed a song into the air,
It fell to earth, I knew not where;
For who has sight so keen and strong,
That it can follow the flight of song?

Long, long afterward, in an oak
I found the arrow, still unbroke;
And the song, from beginning to end,
I found again in the heart of a friend.

—Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

"The Black Cat"

By the Roving Reporter

"They are gone now and there's no harm in telling the story. I have reference to the pair of robins which nested during the spring in the little tree in front of Grand Army hall, near the corner of The Copper Kettle lot. There they raised their young, oblivious to the passing traffic and undisturbed by prowling cats or mischievous children—in fact I doubt if more than a dozen persons knew of their habitation in the tiny tree. William H.
Thomas, who is caretaker of the Grand Army premises pointed the nest out to me, and in subsequent passings of that lot, I was vastly interested in the doings of the little family.

Fred Green of the Boston Transcript is one of The Black Cat's most loyal clients and has sent me several excellent contributions. This time he writes:

"Your recent bit anent Editor Fuller's comment on 'cordially invited' calls to mind advice given me by a sage and cynical old-timer
when I first began newspaper writing. Among the things he told me were these:

Never write "A band of music."
Your context will doubtless show that it wasn't a band of Indians.

Never write "A sad and fatal drowning accident."

Drowning accidents are always sad and usually fatal.

A newspaper is frequently in receipt of items saying that Mr. So and So are being congratulated on the birth of a son—or daughter—as the case may be. Such items are now discarded for the obvious reason that if one couple is congratulated, and similar reference is not made to the next nine couples it might appear that only one of the 10 couples was being congratulated.

Years ago when ice polo was so popular they had a team down at The Keag which was seldom beaten. They called it the South Thomaston High School team and it was made up thus: Clarence Jackson, first rush; "Duffy" Gilchrist, second rush; Harold Connon, center; Chester Harrington half back, Joe Norton, goal. This team had a wonderfully successful record, in 1909, 1910 and 1911,
being beaten only by Ash Point,
which, in turn, was beaten by South Thomaston. They had good teams up here in the city in those days, but they somehow always came back home humbled.

The Black Cat was given two interesting assignments yesterday.

The first was to visit Virginia Beach, Virginia and get a good story. The invitation comes from one of my oldest and best friends
"Jimmy" McNamara of Eagle Rock, Va. I had rather see Jimmy in his native element than all the Natural Bridges or other wonders in the South. The second invitation comes from Ralph H. Smith, who wants me to come out to Cheyenne,
Wyoming and see the big Frontier show which is being staged there.
Thanks to both of these kind friends, who cannot begin to understand how much the Roving Reporter would like to accept.

Writes L. S. Robbins of Southwest Harbor: "We enjoy The Black Cat column very much. May it long continue. We read that the first thing when The Courier-Gazette
comes into the house."

Somebody asked the other day
what was the fastest coasting vessel that ever sailed out of Rockland. Capt. Joseph Melvin's memory goes back a long way, and he has in mind, answering that question, the schooners Chase and America, both of which were re-rigged when they were brought to this port. The Chase, which had several captains, was the fastest until its centerboard was removed,
after which the honors went to the America. The latter was commanded by the late Capt. Acel Trueworthy. These schooners were carrying lime out of Rockland back in the 70's and 80's.

Coming home from Portland
Sunday night I saw a Lincoln County farmer burning some spoiled hay. And there was plenty of opportunity for it to spoil this year, goodness knows.

Pirates Drop a Game In Camden But Protest Maynard's Decision

Camden 3, Rockland 0
After three straight victories the Pirates dropped a game to Camden at Camden last night. It was certainly not a championship exhibition which the Rockland team gave,
and all three of Camden's runs were made without the aid of a single hit.

In that inning, the fourth, Ellis walked three men, all of whom scored, mainly through the aid of an infield error. Ellis was in trouble again in the fifth, when he passed two more batters, but these failed to score because he fanned Bennett,
and Winchenbach retired Weed by a nice assist.

Rockland had its first look-in in the ninth when Thomas singled.
Ladd walked and Ellis drove Thomas home with the second hit of the inning. Bennett apparently did not see the ball which Ellis drove into right field, and against the vigorous protest of Manager Winchen-bach, Umpire Maynard called the game on account of darkness. It was certainly not proper light for ball playing but much lighter than it was at St. George a few nights ago when the St. George management insisted that Rockland continue playing. It was a very unsatisfactory finish and not a few of the Camden spectators expressed their regret that the game was called under such circumstances. It was Rockland's poor playing, and not darkness that lost the game, however.

Camden made but three hits off

Ellis, whose fine work was marred by his eight passes. Boynton also pitched a fine game. The score:

Tourists Warned

Against Drinking Impure Water — Average City Water Is Safer

The annual toll of typhoid fever, dysentery and other ills arising from vacationists drinking unsafe water has already started, reports the American Water Works Association. The 1938 season starts off with 40 cases of typhoid fever contracted by vacationists drinking well water at a roadside stand in Indiana. The well had been contaminated by a broken sewer only five feet from the well. In various areas many cases of dysentery, intestinal "flu" and "summer complaint" are reported occurring from the use of impure water.

Vacation joys may be followed by unpleasant ills if impure water is drunk by vacationists in their travels, warns the association, pointing out that the purity of water cannot be detected by taste or clarity. Germs are tasteless, odorless and invisible.

In several States it is now compulsory for wells and other water sources for tourists' use to be examined periodically and placards are posted to show that the supply is safe. Even in those States where such examinations of water are not mandatory, any roadside stand or resort should, for its own protection, make sure that its water supply is free from contamination.

So great has been the progress of American cities in safeguarding their water supplies against contamination that many city dwellers do not realize that water as it occurs in nature may be impure.

The average city water is much safer than that found in brooks, springs and wells in the country, for the purity of city water is constantly supervised by trained and skilled men. That is evidenced by the fact that in the past 20 years deaths from typhoid fever in the principal American cities have dropped from more than 20 to less than one per 100,000 population annually. Water purification is chiefly responsible for that remarkable progress. If the purity of all water supplies was properly safeguarded, typhoid would disappear from the United States in a comparatively short time.

In recent years a number of outbreaks of water-borne ills have occurred in summer resorts, picnic grounds and recreational places. In a tourist camp in Canada in 1936 a spring polluted by leakage from a nearby septic tank caused 150 cases of diarrhea. In a resort in Missouri 2,000 persons were made ill by impure water during a recent summer season. Of 21 reported outbreaks in summer recreational areas studied, there were 1,249 cases of typhoid and 2,884 cases of diarrhea and dysentery. Fifteen persons died.

Vacationists cannot be too fussy about their drinking water, and the annual summer toll of sickness from drinking impure water should be kept in mind as a constant warning, concludes the association.

To Increase Salmon

Poor Fishing At Bangor This Year Leads To Propagation Plans

State financial support of a plan to increase the supply of salmon in the Penobscot River and to improve the fishing at Bangor's famous pool was announced by Gov. Barrows, today. He said that the Executive Council had voted $500 to match $500 which would be expended by the Penobscot River salmon committee.

The program is to construct a holding pen for brook fish at the location of a pool in Bangor Brook, which is at the upper end of the Salmon Pool. All fish caught between now and spawning time will be placed in the pen. Stripping will be done under expert direction and the eggs placed in the Federal Hatchery at Orono.

Plenty of fry will be available for planting in the stream and the committee believes that the lack of this activity is responsible for the poor fishing experienced at the Pool this year.

Working out this plan the committee appealed to Barrows and Sea and Shore Fisheries Commissioner Arthur R. Greenleaf for assistance. Barrows said that the money was provided in line with the pledge of his administration to do everything possible to help the commercial and sport fishing industries.

An Oil Meeting

Tax Problems Will Be Discussed At Community Building Tomorrow Night

Oil men of Knox County will assemble Wednesday at 7:30 p. m., in the Tower Room, Community Building to discuss tax problems confronting the petroleum industry, motorists and commercial users and for the purpose of forming a permanent organization in Knox County, similar to organizations formed in over 2600 counties in the United States. J. B. Campbell, Secretary of the Maine Petroleum Industries Committee announced today.

The division to be formed in this county will be a branch of the State committee which has headquarters in Augusta. Mr. Campbell said the purpose of the organization is to protect the petroleum industry and its customers from excessive taxation and harmful legislation.

"The petroleum industry is the most heavily taxed industry in the country," he said in discussing the necessity for organization. "In Maine in 1937 the taxes paid by our motorist customers in state gasoline taxes and registration fees alone were approximately $9,415,000 per year. In addition, these customers are required to pay a federal gasoline tax of 1c per gallon, or about $1,401,000 annually, together with the tax on lubricating oil and other federal excises. And these burdens fall on a group of people who can ill-afford to pay such heavy taxes. The average car owner has an income in the lower brackets and drives a car valued at about $200."

"The petroleum industry is one of the most important in the State, as judged from the standpoint of investment, payrolls and usefulness. Group planning, co-ordinated action and a sane program will be advocated at the organization meeting and every individual who earns his living in whole or in part from the oil industry is invited to attend and to listen to an impressive story."

Townsend Talks

Tells Vast Augusta Crowd New Deal Is Building Brutal Machine

Dr. Francis E. Townsend, originator of the revolving old age pension plan, told an audience of 8000 persons in Augusta Sunday that if neither majority party of the Nation supported his plan "we will form our own party to push it through."

Declaring he supported neither the Republican nor Democratic Party, Townsend urged the audience to re-elect Maine's three Republican Representatives at the Sept. 12 election for they favored the Townsend movement.

The California doctor blasted the Roosevelt administration for what he termed an attitude "antagonistic to freedom and jeopardizing the entire American system of government."

On the speakers' platform were Representatives James C. Oliver of South Portland, Clyde H. Smith of Skowhegan and Ralph O. Brewster of Dexter and Maine's Republican Governor Lewis O. Barrows. All expressed their sympathy for the Townsend Plan.

Dr. Townsend was a luncheon guest of Gov. and Mrs. Barrows at the Blaine House previous to the meeting.

The gray-haired doctor called upon Maine as well as the rest of the country to elect more Republicans to the next Congress to make possible "an efficient and well-balanced government."

"If the people of America don't end abruptly this so-called New Deal we're done for all time," he said.

"Don't let the gloved hand of this administration deceive you," he continued, "for the other hand is a mailed fist. A brutal political machine is being built up through the New Deal relief program and is destroying the freedom of spirit in which America has always been governed."

Townsend did not mention Gov. Barrows nor his Democratic opponent, Louis J. Brann, in the September election.

Barrows characterized as "unnecessary and expensive" many of the Federal government's demands for "regulation and domination" of old age relief in the State.

"I have protested on many occasions but the answer is always the same. 'This is our decision and our regulation—you comply or else we withhold our assistance,'" Barrows said.

ROCKPORT'S ANNUAL REGATTA

The stage is set for the 13th annual Rockport Regatta Sportsmen's Show, to be held on the beautifully landscaped grounds bordering Rockport Harbor loaned for the occasion by Mrs. Mary Louise Bok, prominent summer resident.

On one side of the Harbor inlet and but a few feet from the salt water many State Departments have erected fine displays against a background of carefully planted evergreen and shrubs.

Commissioner Stobie's men of the Inland Fish and Game Department are erecting an old grist mill whose enormous wooden water wheel spills water into a specially constructed pool in which beavers will be seen swimming and busily at work building dams. A small stream pours water over a dam into another large pool in which trout and salmon can be seen sporting in the crystal clear water. Other types of wildlife will be seen in this display which occupies over one hundred feet.

The Maine Development Commission occupies adjoining space and a huge Relief Map in accurate scale of the whole coast of Maine will show every Lighthouse and other aids to navigation accurately lighted through the use of an intricate maze of electrical wiring.

The State Agricultural Department with a display of all Maine products in their canned and packaged form, will continue their educational program on Maine Agricultural Resources.

Commissioner Greenleaf of the Sea and Shore Fisheries has had an unusual exhibit built depicting an underwater scene. A huge backdrop on which can be seen fishing boats playing their trade immediately catches the eye. Following the course of their lines, a true underwater scene comes to view. Through the use of cleverly concealed tanks, the denizens of the deep can be seen swimming on the ocean bottom. "Crusty" 24-pound lobster, the largest in captivity, is part of this scene. An old ship, rock lobster traps, kelp and a shell strewn bottom carry out the illusion of being under the water. A bor, Camden Yacht Club, North Haven and open races for others.

Needabeh, famous Penobscot Indian Master of ceremonies at all leading metropolitan Sportsmen's Shows will direct a program throughout the four days and nights in which famous guides will give expert exhibitions of log rolling, canoe tilting, bait and fly casting, wood sawing, wood chopping and archery.

Four expert Indian canoeists from the Penobscot Reservation will stage single canoe races, bow canoe race, humping canoe race, gunwale race, exchange race, rescue race, canoe tilting and log rolling. They will also give a special exhibition of speed canoeing with four men paddling one canoe.

High diving, tub and mattress racing, tub tilting and many other events are scheduled for all of the four days and nights.

Thousands of colored lights are strung to illuminate the whole scene at night and with the many yachts lying at anchor off the grounds, the Sportsmen's Show will present a spectacular scene.

Wednesday the opening day Rockport Harbor will be the scene of one of the largest outdoor swimming meets ever held in Maine. Run under the auspices of the Maine Amateur Athletic Union, entries have been received from all over the State as well as Massa-

FAMILY REUNIONS

You'd think us silly if we advertised o'coats today...

So don't you see how impossible it's going to be to advertise Tropical Worsteds in December when it's 10 below outside?

Now's the time to sell and now's the time to wear them... and at these prices, if we have any summer suits left in December, it will be because the men of Knox County don't know a good thing when they see it or because they think the bargains sound too good to be true.

An Unhappy Finish

St. George, After Leading All the Way, Bites Dust In the Tenth

"Of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these: 'It might have been.'"

Famous words from a famous poem. They have been applied to many regrettable things, but never more aptly than to the St. George-Portland game in Portland Sunday when the Knox County outfit lost by a single score a game which it seemed to have well in hand. The boys worked hard for a third straight victory but that victory was not on the cards and disaster came in the tenth inning when Charlie Geer of the Portland Pilgrims knocked a ball so far over Dwyer's head that it was not recovered until the happy Portland swatter had crossed the plate.

The game was played in sweltering heat and was never lacking in interest. St. George had a loyal band of followers, and the Portland crowd was most generous in its applause, resenting somewhat the fact that the Portland management sent all the way to Boston to hire a player in order that it might defeat the plucky delegation from a small town.

The Press Herald thus tells the story of Sunday's game:

For seven innings Jit Ricker held the Pilgrims well in check, not a man reaching third and only two seeing second as he gave up only four hits. And it looked as if he might go through with a shutout as he was continually ahead of the local hitters. Meantime St. George had tallied three runs, and things in general were looking dark for the Pilgrims.

But the tide turned in the eighth as a series of startling events produced a trio of heroes. First of all, Hunnefeld binged in the eighth with one away and O'Harry emerged from a hitting slump with a lousy triple that scored the ex-big leaguer. Peabody clipped another sharp rap to right and O'Harry scored after the catch, and the Pilgrims were just beginning to fight.

A bit of strategy worked out well in the ninth. Mulken was sent in to hit for Wright and he promptly doubled to left, a smashing wallop. Hawkes batted for Blanchard and sacrificed and Lane came through in the pinch with a ringing hit to right for the tying run.

Then in the tenth Geer crossed up Ricker. Almost on every batter, Ricker had been cutting the place with his first pitch, but the first one this time didn't see the rubber. Geer took a tremendous swing and the pellet landed just in front of the goal posts in deep center field for the hit that broke up the game.

But it was a narrow squeak and for seven innings those three runs St. George had scored looked awfully large. In fact, St. George wasted no time in declaring themselves in the fight. In the second Maurice Simmons singled, Wiley singled and was forced on a fielder's choice. But Monaghan caught a curve and socked a triple to right center and two runs scampered in. In the fifth, Jit Ricker singled, was sacrificed, took third on an infield out, and scored when McClellan erred on Simmons' bouncer. After that Merle Blanchard was airtight, and that set the stage for the Pilgrims' classy finish. The score:

A Checkered Adder

Camden Man Concludes That Was Kind of Snake Minister Holman Saw

Letter from William H. Hosmer, 77 Mechanic street, Camden to the Black Cat:

"Here is a Black Cat story—that snake Mr. Holman saw and killed was a checkered adder, common in New England. You see dead ones in the road run over by automobiles. Mr. Broadbent and Mr. Brown must have seen them at some time in their travels. They must be colored like the diamond back rattlesnake, ugly to triangular heads.

I used to see big ones in my old home state, Massachusetts, when I was a boy. When the six-masted schooner George W. Wells was built, I climbed down into the hold on to the deck to look around. There is a space all around vessels like her where it is open about a foot wide, called the air strike. On the edge of the timber I found a small snake, reddish in color. He ran his tongue out at me and then turned and fell down out of sight.

How he came to be there I don't know. I don't think he was common around here, but came in the salt.

Charles Jasper, a serious student of the occult, stands to inherit a large fortune if alive by the stroke of midnight. If dead, the fortune reverts to a long unheard from relative. Sir Charles has chosen the stage of the St. James Theatre for another reason... to test the truth of a weird and mysterious prophecy made fifty years before which is due to come true at the hour of midnight this very night. What ensues is told in the unfolding of as thrilling and absorbing a drama as the theatre has seen.

Camp Wo-Ho-Fo-Mi-So, sponsored jointly by the Woman's Home and the Woman's Foreign Mission Societies of the Maine Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, has just come to a close at Empire Grove Camp Ground, East Poland. The camp convened on Friday, July 22 and continued through the evening of the 29th.

Courses in Bible Study, Home Missions, Foreign Missions and Personal Problems were offered to the girls. The Bible Course was taught by the Rev. Merrill A. Beem of Pownal; Home Missions by Mrs. Beem; Foreign Missions by Miss Elsie Searle, of Methuen, Mass., secretary of the New England Branch of the Woman's Foreign Mission Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church; and Personal Problems by Miss Anna M. Schantz of Boston.

Throughout the week various programs of a social and challenging nature made up the afternoon and evening hours so that a well-rounded schedule of activities was enjoyed. The closing service of Friday evening was conducted by Rev. Earle B. Grundy of Auburn. He administered the Holy Communion and this was followed by a candle light service.

Young women of high school age and over are eligible to attend and this is the fourth year the Camp has been in session. Miss Agnes E. Vose, of the Italian M. E. Church, Portland, was Camp Director; Miss Edna A. Dearborn of Bangor was Registrar, Miss Helen L. Gould of South Portland was Director of Recreation and Mrs. William J. Crossman of Auburn was cook.

Local girls who attended were Eleanor Tracey, Barbara Lassell, Ruth Graves and Dorothy Trask.

Deacon Osmond A. Palmer will lead the prayer meeting tonight at 7.30 at First Baptist Church.

An American Red Cross first aid instructor's class is in session in Bath from Aug. 1-12. Dr. Bruce A. Newbaker, member of American Red Cross staff in Washington, D. C., is instructor. Classes are held each night at 7 o'clock in the Bath Y.M.C.A. with a minimum of 30 hours required for the training.

At Feyler's wharf yesterday were recorded these arrivals: Helen May, 6000 pounds of haddock, 1000 mixed fish; 2500 hake, 2500 sole and 1000 red fish; Aletha J. 4500 haddock, 1000 mixed, 2000 hake, and 3000 sole; St. Michael, 1000 haddock, 2000 mixed, 2500 hake; Madeline & Flora, 1300 gallons of scallops.

Daniel Chick, member of the High School faculty has returned from the Baker Memorial Hospital, Boston, where he has been a patient. After a week of diagnosis followed an operation, then put into a cast for the remaining part of summer. Mr. Chick is now at his home in Kennebunkport, and expects to be back in Rockland in time for school in September.

Aunt Hetty Says

That There'll Be Lots of Nice Attractions At the Legion Fair

I see I been in the paper again. Reminds me of what that one that worked at printin told Si one time that they hated an despised to see some o that stuff comin that was all full o them markers where let-ters were left out. O I know I drop my gs but who cares an never mind the little markers. Tell you what do like the one that wrote a piece one time and didnt put in no commas nor nuthin an at the end put down all the marks they was an said them that read could put em in to suit themselves.

Aint it good to see the sun shinin but youll notice they wont be half the soundin pleased that they was growlin bout the fog an rain. Thats us all over Mabel as the feller said. Maybe now the boys can get the fir like they been plannin an we can go down to Mis Cogans barn fust o the week an get a goin on the on the snippin. Aint too much time they aint. Beats all how the time goes. Turn round a couple o times an itll be the 17th an here we be with a hull lot to do. Taint no wonder the woman said as the story goes one Munday mornin Get up John here tis Monday tomorrows Tuesday next day Wednesday half the week gone an nothin done.

Well I got me some pillows made up o print an creton an theyll be all ready to fill. Got to get me some more stuff to make some too. Do miss Elbridge and Franks store suthin awful. Mis Newberts girl Berthall get me some to Rockland guess likely.

To go from one thing to nother Mis Newbert was real pleased with the supper they put on to the Baptist afore the concert last week an they done well on it too moren fifty dollars she told me. Ella May Stack, poie she took me to the concert with her an I did like to hear em sing an play. Course they lots was way beyond me the furrin tongues an such but I liked to hear it jest the same.

Now I got to git a goin on some aprons. Spose likely Mis Abbie Feyler be at that this time too an Mis Katie Webster she allus is. They got some good hands at it an Etha Young sez theyre comin along fine an she looks for as big a lot as ever they had.

O lands don't let me forget. Can you find out if theys anybody got an old-fashioned baby buggy with a parasol the kind they had a good spell ago. Matie Spaldins hankerin for one an she wont rest nor let anybody else rest till she gets it an I told her Id ask you to see if you could find one for her. Theys one in somebodys attic most likely an they might take a look around if they know its wanted.

Baked beans tonight an its jest time to dish em up now. Sis up to the liberry to get another who done it as he calls em an he shouldntve been gone as long as this. Better stay an tell me the rest o the news.

Thank you I hoped youd ask me said the little r r.

THOMASTON

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Davis Funeral Chapel for Lowell B. Wallace who died at Friendship Saturday, aged 33 years. The officiating minister will be Rev. Edward Camp of Watertown, Mass., and Friendship. Burial will be in Friendship.

Miss Alice, daughter of Littleton Strong, returned Monday to Arlington, Mass., after visiting her great-aunt, Mrs. M. E. Webber.

Miss Ruth Averill arrived Saturday from New York for a month's vacation at her home here.

The department was called out yesterday morning at 7.30 by a fire in Mrs. Wilmot Smalley's kitchen caused by an exploding oil-stove. Damage to the walls, doors, etc., amounted to about $50.

Miss Allison Dunlap of Harvard, Mass., who is summing at her grandfather's home in Bowdoinham, has been guest of Miss Elizabeth Woodcock for several days. She is returning to Bowdoinham today.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Odum of Cleveland, Ohio, and Mr. Wheelwright of Boston, who have been at Monhegan, called yesterday on Capt. and Mrs. James Fales enroute home.

Moving pictures taken on his Western trip a year ago will be shown by Orett Robinson tomorrow (Wednesday) evening at 7.45 in the Congregational vestry. No admission fee will be asked, but a plate will receive contributions to the treasury of the Friendly Club in whose behalf Mr. Robinson is doing this service. The pictures and his comments assure a pleasant and profitable evening, and all interested are invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hastings and their children Bernard and Lois, with Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Morse of Friendship Long Island motored Sunday to Cadillac Mountain.

Dr. E. R. Biggers was at Pittston Fair fishing, over the weekend. Mrs. Biggers and their son Elmer visited her sister at Sangerville, and Elmer is staying there for a week.

Mrs. Simon Welt of East Providence, R. I., has been guest of Capt. and Mrs. James Fales the past week. She returns home this morning, with her son Jesse and his wife and daughter who have been visiting relatives in Cushing.

The excellent supper served by the Baptist Ladies' Circle Wednesday preceding the annual summer concert was the occasion of a pleasant social gathering and successful financially as well.

Mrs. Albert Reeves who has been staying with Mrs. John Hewett went Monday to New York enroute to her home in Ann Arbor, Mich.

Stephen Vose of Oakland Beach, R. I., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith. His daughter, Mrs. Arthur Williams, Mr. Williams, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bulby are staying at George McCarter's cottage in North Cushing.

Those attending this 25th reunion were: Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence B. Rokes and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Randall Jones (Mary Atkins), Edwin G. Stetson, Mrs. Hazel Wellman Curtis, Miss Edna C. Hilt, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd N. Benner (Maryon Weston), Mrs. Helen Darby Anderson.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD
Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts
The stomach should digest 20 pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or sleepless—your stomach pours out too much acid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sick, sick and upset all over.
Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes these little black tablets called Bell-ana for indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Bell-ana is so quick it is amazing and one 50 packages prove it. Ask for Bell-ana for indigestion.

Midsummer Flower Show

The Thomaston Garden Club is putting on a midsummer flower show Thursday in the Congregational vestry from 2 until 9 p. m. This is somewhat of a departure for this Club which has for many years held its show in early summer, featuring choice peonies. The Club hopes to make this show, coming after a year's intermission, a particularly interesting one; and extends an invitation to all the people of Thomaston, whether members or not, to enter specimen blossoms and arrangements, novelty plants, etc.

A tentative list of classes is: (1) Marigolds: special class for all garden club members of the Medomak Region. (2) specimen blossoms, (3) arrangement in any container. (4) Arrangement of any flowers in old china. (5) Arrangement of any flowers in brass or copper. (6) Arrangement in pewter or silver; blue or violet tones predominating. (7) Tables, tea for two. (8) Herbs. (9) Men's class of vegetables, fruit or both in any container. (10) Designs for a hooked rug done in natural material. (11) Children's Exhibit. (12) Novelty plants and flowers. (13) Arrangement of evergreens in any container. (14) Small arrangements in uniform containers, representing the four seasons. (15) Miscellaneous flower arrangements in any container. (16) Specimen blossoms: gladioli, dahlias, roses, phlox, sweet peas and any other annuals.

Every ruptured man, woman and child should take advantage of this great opportunity.

The Rice Method for Reducible Rupture Control is known the world over. You can now see this Method Demonstrated and have a Rice Appliance fitted to you. Absolutely no charge unless you are satisfied to keep the Outfit after having the Appliance adjusted and you see how perfectly and comfortably it holds. No harsh, deep-pressing springs. Nothing to gouge the flesh and make you sore.

Wear this Appliance for a full fifteen days trial and if you are not perfectly satisfied at the end of that time, return it.

Thousands have reported entire satisfaction through using the Rice Appliance. Why suffer the burden of reducible rupture suffering if there is a chance to be free from it? Anyway, it will cost you nothing to come in and learn all about the Rice Method and the wonderful opportunity for help it offers. Just ask at hotel desk for the Rice Representatives and they will do the rest. Hours are 10 to 12 a. m., 2 to 5 p. m. or 7 to 9 evenings.

Don't miss this great opportunity to see these Experts.

First Woman President to Lead Trail Hikers To Yoho Valley in the Canadian Rockies

FOUR intensive days among the glaciers of Yoho Park is the program of the Sky Line Trail Hikers of the Canadian Rockies for their annual trek, August 5-8. Any visitor who happens to be in the Banff-Lake Louise region about that time can join the expedition. It is to be led by Mrs. James Simpson of Banff, first woman president of the Trail Hikers and mother of the skating stars Margaret and Mary Simpson. Mrs. Simpson is 48, and has traversed on foot some of the remotest reaches of the Canadian Rockies.

The Trail Hikers will pitch their camp close to Summit Lake on the Yoho-Pass highway between Yoho Lodge and Emerald Lake. This location gives ready access to points north and south along the High Line Trail, with trips planned to fossil beds on Mount Burgess (8,473 feet), the snowy moraine of the Yoho Glacier, and the bird-inhabited Alpine meadows of the Little Yoho Valley.

From Look Out Point near Lake Celeste the hiker is rewarded by a remarkable view of the entire Yoho Valley. The point is really a rock parapet at the end of an Alpine meadow boasting some 200 varieties of wildflowers. The valley's opposite wall is topped by a family of glaciers so massive as to seem within arm's reach. At the extreme north are Wapta, Habel and Yoho Glaciers. Just around the valley's tip is Mt. Balfour (10,747 feet) crowning its own broad glacier, with the neighboring Daly Glacier emerging from a giant snowfield. From under Daly Glacier's forepaws issue the water-courses that converge to form Takakkaw Falls. Takakkaw seems to float downward like a slow-motion film, to join the seething Yoho and run to meet the Bow River.

The Yoho Valley was explored first by the late Tom Wilson, most celebrated of guides in the Canadian Rockies, who came upon it while hunting for horses that had strayed from the Canadian Pacific Railway construction camp when James Ross was locating the transcontinental line through Kicking Horse Pass. From the High Line in Yoho Valley, Tom went through the gap past Summit Lake and discovered Emerald Lake just over the ridge.

Jean Rouverol, above, playing the role of Betty Carter, is the newest addition which Author Carlton Morse has made to the cast of "One Man's Family." Jean has played in several pictures and in coast stock companies but the "One Man's Family" assignment is her biggest break to date.

Don Ameche and his wife are taking a honeymoon, which has been delayed for six years, this summer. The Ameches are in Europe for a few weeks while Don is vacationing from the Sunday night Charlie McCarthy show.

Had he followed the advice of his father, Joe DuMond, above, would be Attorney Joe DuMond today, instead of the beloved "Josh Higgins of Finchville." His father believed that no matter what trade a man intended to follow, he should study law to acquire a strong sense of his legal responsibilities and rights.

Jeanne Juvelier, now heard in "The Story of Mary Marlin" as Maria Angelina, is one of the original members of the Provincetown Players, the theatrical group which eventually became the Theatre Guild.

Frances Carlson, heard in "Kitty Keene, Inc." is seldom called anything but "Fran" by studio intimates and when friends do address her as "Frances" it seems a little strange to her.

Peggy Fuller, featured in the "Guiding Light" script show, has been heard on most of the important dramatic broadcasts originating in Chicago during the past five years.

Larry Clinton, above, composer-bandleader-arranger, who has written such swing hits as "The Dipsey Doodle," "Satan Takes a Holiday" and others, is now being heard on the air every night in the week. His music is featured over NBC and the Mutual system.

For months Kate Smith has smacked her lips over pies sent into her Broadway studio by an admirer in Brooklyn. Came the thought to the songstress a few weeks ago - "If these taste so good to me they might to somebody else." Hence next in Kate's many business activities may be the baking of pies for a profit.

Ann Valorie, network singer, is taking up history. She can be found in the public libraries most any day in the week studying the origin and growth of popular music.

The important female roles on John Nesbitt's "Passing Parade" heard Sundays on CBS are played by Bea Benaderet, above, an accomplished dialectician who has seen microphone service in many of radio's most outstanding shows. Before radio absorbed her talents, Bea was for four years associated with leading West Coast stock companies.

Chevrolet Dealers' Sons Hear Sloan

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr. (left center), Chairman of the Board of General Motors Corporation, visiting Detroit to address Chevrolet's School of Modern Merchandising and Management, commended the work being done by this unique business training school for the sons of automobile dealers. These young men came to Detroit from all parts of the country to study every phase of automobile merchandising and management. On Mr. Sloan's right is Wm. E. Holler, Chevrolet General Sales Manager, and founder of the school.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD SUMMER PICTURE STORIES

In picturing summer romances, keep the romance! Don't let your subjects pose stiffly or smile at the camera!

IT'S a camera axiom that every picture should tell a story. Will you remember that this summer when you are snapping pictures of friends and their summer activities?

Nothing is easier than to get a member of your crowd to "stand over by that bush while I snap your picture." But that sort of picture-taking doesn't produce the best kind of pictures—because such pictures don't "say" anything.

It's easy to go on a picnic with Bill and Janet Smith and get snapshots of them standing by a bush or a tree, smiling for the camera. But it's more fun, and makes better pictures, to catch Janet feeding Bill a huge slice of chocolate cake, or get Bill helping Janet over a barbedwire fence, or get the two of them, heads close together, laughing as they set the picnic table or cloth.

Such pictures tell stories—and there are hundreds of such story-picture chances on every summer jaunt. Try your hand at picturing summer fun and summer romances (there's always plenty of it) from a "story" viewpoint. Don't let your subjects appear camera-conscious—catch them when they're busy doing something, and watch your pictures "wake up and live!"

There's no need to waste film, but if it takes two or three pictures, or more, to tell a story properly—go ahead and shoot them. Film is not expensive, so don't risk missing a good picture.

THE BIBLE DRUNKARD
(For The Courier-Gazette)
No drunkard shall inherit
God's Kingdom here on earth
Much less that Kingdom heavenly
Of all unspoken words.

His glory and his beauty
Shall be a fading flower:
The blinding stinging serpent
The drunkard will devour.

He falls and spurs and staggers,
He lurches to his woe,
The poverty and ruin
That drunkards only know.

Awake and howl, ye drunkards,
Awake and wail and weep:
Beneath the feet of Satan
Ye shall be trodden deep.

With wine O be not drunken,
Wherein is foul excess
Be filled with God's right spirit,
With joy, peace, righteousness.

COMRADES FROM A BOOKSHELF
(For The Courier-Gazette)
Just who can say we're not more real than they?
You won't we know, for you are wise
as we;
Down fond Cornhill we've seen you smile, and "See"
What I at last have found!" You smiled; and pray
Did we not hop and skip as homeward, gay
With you you strode? You leaped the steps to be Soon at your hearth, at toast and steaming tea,
Deep in a magic page; a sprig of bay
Is not more sweet than when upon the air
We held our arms to you. Here we abide
A motley crew in silk or rags—so far From earth-mould, yet so very near;
but fare
You well as through a mortal rift we glide
And can together mount a nether star.

A GRATEFUL CONTRIBUTOR
Philadelphia, July 26
Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—
Words fail to express my appreciation for the opportunity of reaching hearts of many old friends in Maine, through my poems published in the columns of your splendid paper.

I am grateful for the loving tribute from Mrs. John Andrews of Rockport in the July 23 issue and for the letters of appreciation sent directly to me.

My hat is off to Mrs. Delora E. Morrill, one of my mother's oldest and best loved friends, May God bless her with many more years of comforting humanity with her beautiful thoughts, expressed through her clever pen. I am looking forward to my annual visit to Maine Aug. 28.

ALLEY-ESANCY
Fifty relatives and friends were present at a home wedding when Miss Mabel Esancy, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burleigh Esancy of Union became the bride of Albert E. Alley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy S. Alley of South Hope. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Leo F. Ross of Union.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore her mother's wedding gown of white lawn and lace with a veil of white net. She carried a bouquet of white June roses. Her sister, Thelma Esancy was maid of honor and was gown in yellow net and lace. Her bouquet was of white peonies. Harold Alley, brother of the groom, was best man.

Mrs. Ralph Young, aunt of the bride, played the Lohengrin Wedding March. Mrs. Lester R. Grant, also an aunt of the bride was in charge of the guest book.

Mrs. Alley attended Union High School and Gosham Normal School. Since her graduation she has been a teacher in the public schools of Union and St. George. Mr. Alley is employed by the Knox Woolen Mill in Camden. The couple will make their home in Union.

BEAL-PINKHAM
Miss Beatrice Jennie Pinkham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Pinkham, 110 North Main street, was united in marriage Saturday night to Shirley Beal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Beal. The ceremony was performed at the Baptist parsonage, Rev. J. Charles MacDonald officiating. Attendants were the bride's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Sylvester, her brother Ralph Pinkham and Miss Florence Staples. She graduated from Rockland High School in this year's class.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, wedding cake and ice cream being served. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Sylvester of Concord, Mass., Miss Florence Staples of Orrington, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Pinkham, Miss May Sullivan, "Buddy" Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Beal, Mrs. Francis Beal and son Shirley, Miss Mildred Brewster, Ralph Pinkham, Elmer Pinkham, Jr., and Vaughn Beal.

Class of 1904 Rockland High School Has Happy Reunion

The annual reunion of the Class of 1904, Rockland High School, took place Friday evening at the Rockport home of Mr. and Mrs. Hans O. Heistad, where a profusion of roses and other midsummer flowers and lights blazing in every room dispelled the shadows of the lowering skies and dense fog outside. Indeed, it might be said that with the flowers and lights and the greetings of old classmates, no sunnier and happier scene could be imagined.

It is not amiss to say that the Class of 1904, though it did not begin class reunions until comparatively few years ago, has set a stride that many other classes, even those of a much later vintage, are finding difficult to keep pace with, let alone surpass. The effort that these former classmates make to meet once each year after so long a time has elapsed, demonstrates most eloquently the close friendship that existed between them back in the years 1900-1904 when they were boys and girls together under the roof of the high school building.

Out of a class of 29 graduates, each year finds an average attendance of 15, a notable fact when the lapse of 34 years has taken place. Only four of the class have passed on to greater life. Another striking fact is that each year finds new faces, of classmates perhaps for a year or so in high school or even back in grammar school, drawn in the common interest that has always prevailed in this group from early school days, and now eager to renew friendships and hear all the news over the long period they have been separated. They are all reckoned "1904's", and deservedly so in their loyalty.

As usual the early part of Friday's festivities was given over to greetings and renewing acquaintance, while the committee on arrangements—Mrs. Heistad, Mrs. Chester Marshall, Mrs. Dana Sherer, and Mrs. George B. Davis, assisted by other willing helpers, prepared buffet supper which offered this menu: Cold baked ham, potato and cabbage salads, hot rolls, olives, pickles, cake, ice cream and coffee. The ice cream, which together with the ham, was a gift of two class mates, bore the numbers "1904" and the class colors cherry, green and white, appeared in the brick.

David E. Crockett, as president, presided over the business session, which included brief speeches from Walter C. Ladd, Donald H. Fuller, Mrs. C. O. Smith (Laura Dowling) who had the distinction of being the only bride present, and several others. The absence of Miss Anna E. Coughlin, beloved teacher, was deeply regretted, and a letter of greeting and good wishes bearing the names of all present was prepared for her. Another teacher, Miss Harriet Long, was unable to be present, to the regret of all. Letters of greeting were read from John C. Sansom of Waldoboro; Bert Wardell of Rockland; Mrs. Claus Sandwall (Alzira Wentworth) of 45 Eliot avenue, West Newton, Mass.; Mrs. Myra Cates Redman and Mrs. Bertha Cates Vezina, of Danville, Miss Mildred Emerson (Mildred Clark) of 24 West 75th street, New York city; Mrs. Albert E. Averill (Nettie Brown) of Rockland; Mrs. Vere Fawcett (Emma Cobb) of 316 Grant avenue, Morgantown, W. Va.; and Nahum C. Weeks of 611 Lindley street, Bridgeport, Conn. A letter from Mrs. Florence Haley Cowie of Fort San Houston, Texas, was not received until the following day, delayed in air mail transit due to inclement weather. A telegram from Mrs. Cowie greeted the class, however, expressing her loyalty and friendship. These officers were elected: President, Wendall Hodgkins; vice president, David E. Crockett; secretary, Miss Ellen D. Tolman; treasurer, Mrs. George B. Davis. Committee on arrangements: Mrs. Heistad, chairman; transportation, Donald H. Fuller, Luke S. Davis and Ralph Choate; program committee, Mrs. Florence Thomas McMillan, Mrs. Donald H. Fuller and David E. Crockett. A rising vote was extended to Miss Tolman for the many favors done for the class as well as for her efficient service as secretary; also to Mr. and Mrs. Heistad for the hospitality of their home. It was voted to hold the 1939 reunion on the last Friday in July at the Heistad home.

A brief program included duets by Mr. and Mrs. Heistad, also solos by them, delightful remarks by Mrs. Fuller on incidents of previous European tours; and an exchange of pertinent stories.

Present were: Graduates: Mrs. Dana Sherer (Frances Butler), Rockville; Mrs. C. O. Smith (Laura Dowling), 50 Derrington avenue, Portland; Mrs. Russell Bartlett (Merle Doe), Rockland; Miss Elma D. P. Ireland, Rockland; Miss Lou Belle

The opportunity to hear this internationally famed Quartet cannot be lightly tossed aside. And not only to hear them, but under the most ideal conditions imaginable in the atmospheric old boat barn with its excellent acoustics. Each of the Quartet members—Jascha Brodsky and Charles Jace, violins; Max Aronoff, viola; and Orlando Cole, cello, is a brilliant artist in his own right; together they play as one instrument, so sensitive and sympathetic is the understanding and musical conception between them.

The audience for the first concert of this season taxed the capacity of the Boat Barn, and a word to the wise for the second concert is to make reservations in advance—this may be done by communicating with any quartet member at Rockport.

Lakewood Theatre

Arthur Byron, noted stage, screen and radio performer who has already made one appearance with the Lakewood Players this season has consented to make another and will be seen next week in "Stop Over" a play in which he appeared on Broadway during the past winter. Byron will be seen as a gangster. The scene is a home in which a playwright is reading a play, which he is about to produce, to a party of friends and actors. Into the scene comes a group of gangsters hiding from the law. For a time it looks as if the play would not be produced but everything is solved to the satisfaction of both the gang leader and the playwright.

The cast for "Stop Over" is even larger than that for "Bachelor Born," the current production of the Lakewood Players, there being 19 characters required in the telling of the story.

Considerable interest is being shown in the special matinee Wednesday, Aug. 10, when the University Gilbert and Sullivan Opera Company will present the famous comic opera, "The Mikado." This company is made up of undergraduates of 27 universities in the United States, Australia and Germany and is now in its second season.

REALM OF MUSIC

by Gladys St. Clair Heistad

Although there were threatening clouds, an audience of 19,000 sat down in the open air of the Lewisham Stadium in New York city on a recent night to hear the music and honor the memory of George Gershwin, who died in Hollywood a year ago at 38 years. In tribute to his achievement in bringing jazz to the concert level, the august Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra supplemented by saxophones took orders from an overlong baton wielded by Paul Whiteman. A brief review of George Gershwin's life tells us that he was a native of Brooklyn, beginning his musical career as a $15-per-week "song-plugger." From that start he became an accompanist, then a song writer. Soon he was turning out a succession of musical comedy hits, some with lyrics by his brother, Ira, Ira, departing from his usual flippant style, recently wrote serious words to an unpublished work of George—

"Sound the brass, roll the drums; To see the World of Tomorrow we come See the sun through the gray; It's a dawn of a new day."

This song, called "Dawn of a New Day," will be heard often in 1939. It has been chosen as official anthem of the New York World's Fair.

A brief item in the New York Sunday Times tells us that "Leon Zawisza, formerly of the Cleveland Orchestra, has been appointed concert-master of the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra." Incidentally, Leon who has been in Ashland, N. H., studying with Hilsberg, plans to spend a few weeks in Rockport beginning early August.

Recalling that the Curtis String Quartet is to present Beethoven's string quartets as a whole in a series of concerts in Newark, N. J., this fall, it is of interest to note that the Kolisch Quartet, whose personnel is Rudolf Kolisch, Felix Khuner, Jeno Lehner and Benjamin Helfetz, recently played these quartets in a series of five concerts in Prague where they have one of their greatest, most faithful and enthusiastic followings. The five concerts, so reviews tell us, were among the most impressive events of the season. One comment was that the Kolisch organization has "rightly abandoned the custom of playing the works in the order of their composition. On the contrary they mix the three styles, combine the compositions according to tonal kinship and thus achieve more musical variety on the program. The concert director has prepared for the cycle a program book which can be considered a model. It contains instructive analysis of the works, biographical notes about the works and the persons to whom they are dedicated, and in addition, lists of the available pocket scores and the gramophone records."

Dr. Howard Hanson, director of the Easman School of Music, Rochester, N. Y., recently received notification of his election to the Royal Swedish Academy of Music. His Third Symphony, written in commemoration of the Delaware tercentenary, was recently performed in Sweden and broadcast throughout that country by the Swedish Broadcasting Service.

From Hamburg, Germany, comes the information that Vittorio Giannini, whose sister Dusolina has won no small fame in the concert and operatic world, has brought out in its premiere his opera "The Scarlet Letter." It is said that Giannini is the first musician since Walter Damrosch (about 40 years ago) who has made an opera out of "The Scarlet Letter," yet the Hawthorne classic offers excellent material for a lyric drama. Considering the simplicity of its issues and the sobriety of its background, which do not lend themselves to a wide play of contrasts or to the decorative and spectacular elements of opera, it is the composer's business to insure the piece against drabness, and it seems that Mr. Giannini has accomplished just this thing with marked success. Its place is distinctly among the better American operas of the past two decades, and a distinct advance over Mr. Giannini's first opera, "Lucida." Indeed, it may be said that the composer has learned considerably from his earlier failure. This time he wrote his own libretto (in Italian, curiously enough, not in English) and the critics seem to be of the opinion that Mr. Giannini, like Richard Wagner, should always be his own librettist.

"The premiere production, given by the Hamburg Staatsoper, was in almost every respect remarkable.

The performance boasted exceptional coherence, and vitality from a purely musical standpoint, and otherwise gave proof of earnest and painstaking preparation. The central sun of the representation was Dusolina Giannini, whose Hester Prynne must be reckoned as one of her outstanding operatic accomplishments—vocally nothing less than resplendent and, as an impersonation, extraordinarily eloquent and moving." (From the account from Hamburg by Herbert F. Pesyer of the New York Times.)

PRAYERFUL LIVING

Small need has prayer of uttered words. To speed it on its way. For One who all-discerning is Reads more than lips can say.

And he who keeps a singing heart, Wholesome, and free from guile, Open that God may enter in, Is praying all the while.

Alice Strong, Medford Hills, Mass.

I am interested to learn that one of Miss Strong's earlier poems for this column, "Astronomy," has been set to music by a Courier-Gazette reader.

Mme. Jules Massenet, widow of the opera composer, died in Paris on June 8 as the result of a fall. She was 98 years old. Mme. Massenet, whose maiden name was Sainte-Marie, married the composer in October, 1866. He had been her piano teacher and had lived in her mother's home, recommended by Liszt.

Jessica Dragonette, soprano of radio and concert field, was recently chosen radio's Star of Stars for 1938 in a poll conducted by Radio Guide. Miss Dragonette, had previously won the title of "best female classical singer" in a separate division of the same contest, and despite a seven-months' absence from the air won first place in the general division covering all fields of radio. Nelson Eddy, baritone, placed second in the general poll.

During a stay at Marienbad, Czechoslovakia, Sigrid Onegin has been writing her biography. The Swedish contralto—who was once a Maine Music Festival star—will return to the United States in January for an extended recital tour.

A motion picture film entitled "Alexander of Neva" is in process of making in Moscow, with a score composed by Serge Prokofiev. The picture deals with a 13th century episode in Russian history.

Mephisto in Musical America has this to say of Georges Barrere, the gentle flutist we were privileged to hear in Camden last summer: "To reveal the real reason Georges Barrere grew a beard. The noted—and bearded—flutist was guest artist one night in the zano radio hour presided by Bing Crosby, and, according to custom, had to submit to banter and badinage from Bing and his co-banterer, Bob Burns, the Arkansas Gentleman. Barrere held his own extremely well—in fact, they told him afterwards that he was a first-class trouper, which pleased him immensely. At one juncture, Bob Burns commented with grudging admiration upon the engagingly hirsute countenance of the star performer. "Why-dya do it, George," he asked? "Bob, it was like this," Barrere rejoined smoothly, "my face used to look something like yours and so I covered it up as quickly as possible."

New York World's Fair House of Friendship

One of the most unique buildings now being erected at the New York World's Fair site on Long Island, N. Y., is the House of Friendship (shown above) of the New York City Young Men's Christian Association. The structure designed along modernized classical lines will be just what the name implies, a place for rest, refreshment, and relaxation. It is expected to become one of the most popular meeting places within the fair grounds as the YMCA plans an international campaign among its more than 2,000,000 members to popularize the slogan "Meet at the Y" at the New York World's Fair in 1939.

The House of Friendship is being built by the New York City branches of the Association as their contribution to the entertainment of members from all over the world who will visit the city next year. It is to cost $150,000 and contain more than 15,000 square feet of floor space devoted to lounges, rest rooms, lobby, cafeteria, dining room, dining terrace and offices.

WAS ONLY A DOG

But He Brightened a Home Now Lonely Because He Has Gone

Rockport, July 30

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

He was just a common dog; his color was black and tan. His breed was airedale and collie. He was not the kind you would notice, but he was my dog.

His name was Rin-Tin-Tin. When he was being "a nice puppy" he was "Rinty" when he was not so good he was just plain "Rint." I liked him because he was my dog. He was noisy and barked too much, picked his own friends, cats would race ahead of him and he would chase. When he caught up they would stop and seem to laugh, get their breath and start all over again. He was never known to harm a cat.

He loved to go to Oakland for exercise and swim. He barked every second while riding down in the car, but coming home he never made a sound. He liked the shore picnics and would take all he could get if he visited another group, but he would not allow their dog to come to our picnic. I used to tell him "that was being the meanest kind of a dog" but he wagged his tail and did not seem to care what he did as long as he knew he was my dog.

He was no thief, he only took that which was given him. Never was known to take anything that did not belong to him. He was very proud of his collar and liked to be dressed up in his harness. He could jump over a stick, roll over and "play rope." This was a game where he held the rope, even if he was swung clear of the ground, he would never let go. He had his meals at the table, he sat up very close and ate out of a plate. If any food happened to get lapped out over the side of the plate he would roll his eyes up at me and quickly clean it up. He drank a glass of milk or a cup of warm cocoa with his meals. Of course he was queer but he was "my doggie."

He barked once for "please" and twice for "thank you." If asked how old he was he barked six times. He had done this all his life adding a bark each year. Of course I had trained him to do this.

He watched for the car that called for "his Johnnie" each morning, then he had to keep watching for the paper boy. He seemed to think it was his duty. He loved to "sing." If a bass solo came on the radio he growled along with it, and if a soprano was heard he would raise his voice and howl as loud as he could, beating his tail on the floor in the mean time, as if he were enjoying his own racket. He lived on the No. 1 route on Richards Hill, a dangerous place for a dog. He was run over once and later hit, and almost killed. I sat up day and night tending him and helping him to recover. He brightened the home for several years after, but internal injuries he had received finally ended his life. We have laid him away beneath a big balm o' gilead tree, and now that he has gone, the home seems very quiet. He was so much company. I miss him so I can't seem to keep the tears back as I write, I guess

THE SAUNTERER

A. B. Crocker

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

"Former Governor Baxter has recently acquired 4,600 acres more of forest land which he intends to add to Baxter State Park at Katahdin." I had the good fortune of seeing Katahdin once from the B. & A. train enroute from Northern Maine Junction to Fort Fairfield, Labor Day, 1910.

I was a resident of Houlton from April 2, 1885 to Oct. 15, 1886, but never visited the Maine woods, so my knowledge of them comes from reading. While in Houlton, my employer made a trip to Katahdin for moose; result, nil. He met a New York party who had spent the night on the mountain top and the leader of the party expressed his views as "I wouldn't have missed the experience for a thousand dollars and I wouldn't do it again for a hundred thousand dollars."

All literature of today featuring the scenery of Maine lays stress on Mt. Katahdin. When the tourist was almost unknown, Henry D. Thoreau wrote of the Maine woods: "Aug. 31, 1846 I left Concord, Mass., for Bangor and the backwoods of Maine. I proposed to make excursions to Mount Katahdin, the second highest mountain in New England, and to some lakes of the Penobscot."

"Katahdin, whose name is an Indian word signifying highest land, was first ascended by white men in 1840. It was visited by Prof. J. W. Bailey of West Point in 1836; by Dr. Charles T. Jackson, the State geologist, in 1837; and by two young men from Boston in 1845."

Since I was there, two or three other parties have made the excursion. Besides these, very few, even among backwoods men, and hunters, have ever climbed it, and it will be a long time before the tide of fashionable travel sets that way. According to Jackson the altitude of Katahdin is 4,300 feet. Thoreau with his usual manner of going into the detail of everything he observed, took 80 pages in telling the story of the trip from Bangor to Katahdin. I advise you to read it. I have read it several times and always get a "kick" out of it.

I must have loved him a whole lot. Nobody else cares but I do, because he was my dog.

Annual Dairy Show

Events At "Highmoor" Will Interest All Engaged In Industry

Suggesting that all Maine people interested in the dairy industry attend the second annual dairy show to be held at Highmoor Farm, Monmouth, next Saturday, Commissioner of Agriculture Frank P. Washburn, predicted that this would be an outstanding event. A large exhibit of prize cattle and the latest dairy equipment will contribute many educational factors to the show, he said.

Leading cattlemen will demonstrate their methods and there will be talks by prominent dairy experts and officials. An added attraction will be the many fine gardens and experimental agricultural plots at the farm. A large crowd attended the first show at Corinna last year and this resulted in making it an annual event.

Commissioner Washburn said that a number of organizations were co-operating in the show including his Department, the Maine Development Commission, Maine Dairy-men's Association, Maine Livestock Breeder's Association, county farm bureaus, the Experiment Station and others.

Highmoor Farm is located on route 202 about 10 miles from Augusta towards Lewiston.

Visited Rockland

R. R. Ruyl, Good Will Courier For New York Fair, Admires Maine

An enthusiastic endorsement of Maine's splendid roads, beautiful scenery, and genuine hospitality has been volunteered by R. R. Ruyl, World's Fair good-will courier who visited Rockland earlier in the summer as a courier of good will from the New York World's Fair 1939.

Ruyl, one of the 49 couriers chosen from the Field Engineering staff of United States Rubber Company to represent the Fair, reports that never in over 100,000 miles of driving has he seen finer roads, more beautiful scenery, or received more courteous treatment than in Maine.

"I'd like to recommend to every person who intends visiting the World's Fair next year that he visit Maine, either on his way to the Fair or on his way home afterwards," Ruyl declared. "Everyone should see this beautiful State."

Ruyl also reports that recently released figures on the famous nationwide good-will tour show that the 49 courier cars, one of which visited every state in the Union and the District of Columbia, traveled a total of 130,022 miles without mishap.
