Stonington Tragedy

Lawrence Ciomel, 22, junior at the University of Maine, and an honor student, was killed instantly yesterday at the John L. Goss granite quarry in Stonington, when a block of granite broke loose as it was being hoisted and fell on him. Ciomel was born in Stonington, the son of Octavio and Anita Ciomel, and besides his parents, he leaves a brother, Aldo, and a sister Genia.

Funeral services will be conducted at 10 a. m. Wednesday.

A Honolulu Cat

Which Specializes on Caviar—Prices Cheaper Here, Writes Mrs. Norton

"Lord Thomas" is the title of a striking looking feline, whose picture dropped yesterday from an envelope bearing a Honolulu postmark. The clipping and an accompanying letter were sent by Mrs. Francis C. Norton, formerly of this city, now a resident of 2229 Kalia road, Honolulu, Hawaii. Mrs. Norton writes:

"According to the enclosed picture I do not think Lord Thomas would even receive an honorable mention at a cat show. Neither do I believe that even Mayor Veazie's cat is fed on caviar. [Lord Thomas, it appears, specializes on that diet.]

"We receive The Courier-Gazette quite regularly, and after reading them, pass them on to the Hall girls. We all enjoy 'The Black Cat' and Roving Reporter columns very much. I am also interested in looking over the advertisements and comparing prices. Living expenses here are much higher than at home, but taking into consideration there are no winter clothes to buy, or coal to go up in smoke, I think it about evens up.

"We are looking forward to seeing the Blaneys when they arrive next month, and hope they may be stationed at one of the Forts near us."

Tears To Laughter

That Was the Range Which "Cissie" Loftus Provided At Camden Last Night

It may be that "Time Marches On," but look not to Cecilia Loftus in proof thereof because for her the years have brought naught but the flaming of an ageless vital spark which three score years and more have been powerless to dim. Vibrant in expressionism of every shade and tone, this magnetic impersonator whose every action is tipped in wizardry carried all before her last night when a nearly-filled Camden Opera House gave a friendly, spontaneous response—not as thunderous as applause might be in the larger city, it was yet of more significance for a Maine public claps only when it understands, and understands only when it approves—discrimination of the most exacting order.

Like as a maiden in 'teens is this amazing artist who enacted scenes, bits from plays and snatches of life's realism which left a wistful pang that the sketches were but fragmentary rather than the dramatic ensemble. Gertrude Lawrence in a scene from "Susan and God" was a jewel of fluttering comedy; Beatrice Lillie in her dashing bravado swaggered to a split hair's degree; Ethel Barrymore's deep contralto voice boomed in defying finality; these and a score of others instilled a wondrous awe that in one dynamic person could repose the souls and spirits of a multitude. The one instance of short-reach characterization was the John McCormack attempt which missed fire.

Swerving from a humorous skit on giving a French lesson, "Cissie" Loftus was in turn a pathetic Irish woman, Cockney English wench, Jewess, Harry Lauder with his cane, accent, gait! A League of Nations represented in one individual, that is a Loftus bill. On the point of sympathetic tears one moment, the audience before it could reach for a handkerchief, was switched to convulsions of laughter—lightning swift were the changing roles and startlingly sudden could that Loftus high pitched squeak slide the scale to a basso profundo.

Enactment of English scenes, such as the music hall of the past and her own composition, "A London Flower Girl," appeared to be Miss Loftus' best metier, and of especially high calibre and appeal was the theme, "Mrs. Patrick Campbell in Hollywood" in which a haughty Britisher presumes to patronize the movie colony with the typical arch "My dear!"

It was quite fitting and proper that this blue chip performance should close on a memorial to the "Divine Sarah" Bernhardt. This was an ambitious piece but strikingly effective, and done so magnificently that a half dozen curtain calls were necessary ere the rounds of applause subsided and Miss Loftus could finally retire after graciously sharing her glory with Roland Fiore, the piano accompanist.

Miss Helen Frame who has been the local manager for the Camden Town Hall series of which this presentation was the final for this year, is mapping another season's offerings and expressed a welcome for requests and suggestions from the public as to the type of entertainment preferred for 1939.

NOT CUTTING PAVING BLOCKS

But Meehan Quarry At Clark Island Manages To Keep Some Men Employed

Although no paving cutters are at work in the Clark Island quarry of John Meehan & Son, and there has been no work of that sort since the last of July, the plant is not entirely idle.

The stone used in the new fireplace of Mr. Reed's cottage at Spruce Head was sold to Charles Starrett for that purpose, together with the well coverings which are 12 feet square and six inches in thickness. It is very doubtful if there is another granite quarry in the East which could turn out stones of that character.

Two hundred tons of stone were taken from the Meehan quarry to be used in the construction of the Ballyhack bridge. The opening is 54x53 feet with side walls three feet thick laid on flat stones 3x9 feet and the top or covering stone is three feet wide and 8 to 10 feet long.

The large flat stones used recently to cover the Brook in this city came from this quarry, as well as the culvert heads and driveways on the Bath-Brunswick road. The anchor stones for the guard rails on the St. George road and the Northport and Bucksport roads were cut and shipped by truck to these points.

The seam faced stone used by Clarence Thomas, Camden contractor, to construct the flag stone walk for Col. Taylor's residence, as well as many other Camden jobs, was purchased from the Meehan people at Clark Island. Mr. Thomas recently built a large stone fireplace at Big Spruce Head Island using clear blocks with seam faced stone.

Hundreds of tons of this stone material have been sold over Knox County the past year inaugurating a new business and source of revenue for these quarries.

This company has at present over one million blocks piled up awaiting orders or shipment and due to present conditions, unless something is done for the paving industry, no relief seems to be in sight.

For the past few weeks the company has been quarrying a cargo of curb and monumental stock for New York. While this has employed a goodly number of quarrymen, the paving cutters have had no work since the latter part of July. A cargo of blocks was shipped by rail to New York last Friday.

A trip over their plant will prove to you that these people are not losing sight of the advantages gained by using stone material and they are taking great pains to inform the public of this. All kinds of stone material are being sold to keep men employed who otherwise would be out of employment.

BRANN AND HIS PROMISES

Satirized By Speakers At Last Night's Republican Rally In Union

The Republican supper and rally at Union last night was a pronounced success, indicating that the voters of that locality are thoroughly aroused, and determined that there shall be victory all along the line Sept. 12.

The town hall was well filled when former Representative W. A. Ayer punctuated with satire, humor and common sense argument.

"Has Gov. Barrows failed in anything?" he asked, answering his own question in the negative. "He thinks in terms of devotion to duty, and is running true to form."

Brann, he said, has twice been governor of the State, and unless there would be no excuse for his seeking a third term.

Speaking of Old Age Assistance, which, he said was stopped under Gov. Brann, ex-Mayor Cony declared that the present administration is giving assistance to three times as many persons as formerly received it. In Union (he read from the official report) 19 persons are now getting old age pensions, and under Gov. Brann not one was being paid there.

The speaker pointed a sarcastic finger at the Lincolnville "park" where the government built 22

Former Representative Walter A. Ayer who called meeting to order

"Oh, Promise Me" is theme song of New Dealers," said Attorney General Burdett called the meeting to order. Stuart C. Burgess, who made such a fine run when he entered the June primaries as a candidate for the county attorney nomination, again introduced the county candidates, paying unto each a tribute to which their service for the taxpayers has so richly entitled them. "No better array of qualified men can be found anywhere than the officeholders of the County of Knox," the speaker eloquently declared.

A speaker new in Knox County politics was then introduced—Clifford Smith of Warrenton. "The people who want the State and County run as they should be, would be against the New Deal," said Mr. Smith. "People who think right are against the New Deal, and Maine is going as it did in 1936, with what should be a greater majority. We should support all of the candidates to the utmost."

Attorney General Franz U. Burdett's popularity in his native town could never be questioned after listening to the oration he received when introduced and after the audience had listened to his excellent and informal talk. He expressed a feeling of certainty that Gov. Lewis O. Barrows would be re-elected, and asked what would be the use of sending minority Democrats to the Legislature. He said that there was never a time in Maine when the government was vested in such an efficient and well selected force of department heads, and mentioned particularly the deputy Secretary of State Harold Goss, who happened to be in the audience. Gov. Barrows, with his splendid life and knowledge of public affairs, inspired everybody in the State House.

Mr. Burdett evoked laughter when he declared that the theme song of the New Dealers was "Oh, Promise Me," having reference, of course, to the gubernatorial candidates' profuse promises.

Attorney General Burdett made it plain that he had no quarrel with the Democratic party as such. His opposition is to the policies of the New Deal, and he urged the voters not to allow its advocates to throw dust in their eyes.

Mr. Burdett said the New Dealers were talking about only three things. One was the theft from the automobile registry office in Auburn, which he said was very unfortunate, but the undoubted work of a gang of clever crooks.

Another topic which the New Dealers emphasize was the recent publication of the State auditor's report, and this he pointed out was done through the action of Legislature, and something over which the Governor had absolutely no control.

The third topic is Gov. Barrows' telegram to Postmaster General Farley, in which the latter claims to have been "insulted" through allusion to Maine's balanced budget and lack of tax burdens. The speaker read the telegram in its entirety, and asked what objection anybody saw to it. He also wanted to know what about the "insults" Farley had heaped upon Maine and Vermont since the last Presidential election.

Ex-Mayor Robert A. Cony of Augusta, popularly known to Knox County audiences as "Bob," delivered an address which was equally houses. All now rotting down, and there is nothing left but the mosquitoes.

"Brann has even promised to increase the population of Maine," said the speaker.

Speaking of the widespread spending spree, Mr. Cony declared that it was "a shot in the arm, and that the New Dealers would soon have to use digitalis."

"A third term for Brann promotes a third term for Roosevelt," he said in conclusion.

Outing At Snow Bowl

Camden Commandery's Past Eminent and Guest Have a Happy Day

The Camden Past Commanders' Association, composed of men who have served as eminent commanders of Camden Commandery, K. T., had its annual summer outing Sunday afternoon and evening and paradox really elected to spend it at the Snow Bowl.

The presence of Findley Calder was a guarantee that there was going to be something nice to eat, and sure enough there was—steamed clams, hot boiled lobsters, green corn, and fixins'.

It was a general good time, with a free for all discussion subjects ranging from the Boer War to the Knox Twilight League. Politics barred.

Those present were: Past Commanders Allie O. Pillsbury, William F. Rankin, John L. Tewksbury (president); Howard D. Small, Harold S. Corthell, Fessenden W. Miller, John P. Mathews, Adin L. Hopkins, (secretary); Elmer L. True, Harold L. Ames, James F. Burgess, Finley H. Calder, Frederick B. Jagels, (generalissimo). Honorary members: Charles C. Wood, M. Alton French, and C. Earle Ludwick.

Silent companions of the lonely hour,
Friends who can never alter or forsake,
Who for unconstant roving have no power,
And all neglect, perforce, must calmly make,
Let me return to you; this turmoil ending
Which worldly cares have in my spirit wrought,
And, over your old familiar pages bending,
Refresh my mind with many a tranquil thought;
Till, happily meeting there, from time to time,
Fancies, the audible echo of my own,
Twirl like hearing in a foreign clime,
My native language spoke in friendly tone,
And with a sort of welcome I shall dwell
On these, my unripe musings, told so well.

"The Black Cat"

By The Roving Reporter

Have horse bonnets gone out of style? Years ago this style of equine millinery had quite a run and was supposed to be a very humane device. The average horse thus arrayed, didn't appear to enjoy the innovation. Looked rather sheepish if such a term can be applied to an equine.

"Any enterprising lunch room could easily boost its trade," remarks Miss Rockland, "if it would install a shelf under the tables for women's handbags."

Mildred Moody writes:

"Noticing the item in The Black Cat column about Aunt Lydia's Tavern brings to mind that my aunt, Mrs. Laura Brackett, lived there with her mother and stepfather some 65 years ago. She was then 11. Several years ago when the Tavern was re-opened for a summer eating place my aunt, with my mother and myself, stopped there for lunch and she told us where the bar used to be and other things about it. It is very nice to dig out interesting places and air them because there are so many people that do not know about them. Bring them on, I like them, and The Black Cat column for me every time."

With school days just ahead, the city deck, often worn to distraction in effort to decipher scribbles, makes the pungent comment, "hope the 'Three R's' do their duty—specially the 'riting.' Which leads to another thought: In certain eating resorts where the patron is handed pad and pencil and requested to write his order, certain careless diners should evidence no surprise if they are served a heaping plate of hash!

The recent hot weather had one distinct advantage, according to one of my friends who dines in restaurants. The heat melted butter so that it was possible to spread it on bread. And everybody knows the difficulty of trying to manipulate a piece of icy, slippery butter on bread.

From Mrs. Leonard O. Packard of Needham, Mass., comes this clipping from a city daily: "Douglas Cowigan has been elected a member of The Black Cat Club, a fraternal organization of stunt flyers who worked on the movie spectacle, 'Men With Wings.' One of the office girls says the Rockland Black Cat would scarcely qualify for membership in this club because to her knowledge he never 'goes up in the air' about anything. I appreciate this compliment, but thought my associates knew better than that."

The flow of traffic past the headquarters building of the State of Maine Publicity Bureau in Portland shows slightly fewer out of State cars during the first two weeks of August than there were during the corresponding period in 1937. The summer business in Maine appears to be spottier—better in some places and poorer in others, but an enormous asset on the whole. North Haven is one of the places blessed with a bumper crop of summer folk.

A pleasing sight, as one rides about Knox County is the American flag which flies from many poles on summer estates. I found this to be particularly true in the town of St. George, where I rode at some length last Saturday. Indispensable to every cottage, also, are the beautiful flower gardens, which gladden the eye not only of the summer folk, but all passers-by. In this day of sordid affairs and tangled business alliances it is well to reflect that there are those who still honor the old flag, and make use of the beauties which Nature has so freely given.

One year ago Rockland mourned the death of Mrs. John H. Flanagan.—The house owned by Mrs. Nellie Higgins and occupied by Maynard Gray, in Bay View Square, was badly damaged by fire.—The Rockland Pirates lost the League championship by a hair.

Agge Mills Here

Former Rockland Boy Re-visits Home City After 35 Years' Absence

A rugged appearing stranger with ruddy features walked into the editorial rooms yesterday afternoon, and turned time backward 35 years when he identified himself as William Agge Mills of Antioch, Calif.

Thirty-five years is a long time to be gone from one's old home, and it is scarcely to be wondered at that Mr. M. is found himself "a bit turned around." Eventually he got the lay of the land and looked up several old friends, being a guest during his stay of Mrs. Hatch Hall.

Mr. Mills was accompanied by his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Meredith Sweet, the latter being his daughter. Mrs. Sweet whose home is in Philadelphia, is superintendent of the Federal Container Corporation's plant in Philadelphia—a branch of the Fibre Board Corporation.

Mr. and Mrs. Mills came East by rail as far as Philadelphia, and accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Sweet are now on a motor trip to Quebec, expecting to return via Lake Ontario and Lake Erie. Their return to the West Coast from Philadelphia will also be by rail, via the Grand Canyon. Coming East they visited friends in Eau Claire, Wis. and Minneapolis.

Mr. Mills is in the employ of the Railway Express. His family in addition to his wife includes two sons and a daughter. Mr. Mills' mother, Mrs. Fred S. Mills, now in her 83d year, has been a steady subscriber to The Courier-Gazette since going West. Sight and hearing are somewhat impaired, but her general health is excellent.

The Vanishing Clam

Down East Fishermen Going To Do Something About Renewing Flats

Admiration of the citizens of Lubec for the way they are "meeting their clam problem" was expressed by Sea and Shore Fisheries Commissioner Arthur R. Greenleaf, today. In hiring an expert to survey their flats and make recommendations for improving their fishery the down east folks are taking a forward step that should be widely adopted by other towns along the coast, he said.

Disturbed by the decreasing supply of clams Lubec raised $150 at their last town meeting to find out the cause and cure for this. They engaged the services of E. A. Rogers, Brunswick expert to investigate the situation. After a study he predicted that by a reasonably small investment the clam production could be increased and made to grow each year.

A firm believer in propagation Commissioner Greenleaf said that clams were very easy to cultivate and that his Department was anxious to assist in his work whenever possible. A combined State and town series of projects would not only save the industry but build it up to greater proportions than ever before, he believes.

The said that he intended to seek funds at the next session of Legislature for clam propagation and hoped that a plan could be worked out whereby the state and the various towns could work in close cooperation on all projects.

In many instances Massachusetts towns have increased their revenue many times through a comparatively small expenditure for clam cultivation, he said.

St. George 10, Warren 1

The courageous Warren Tigers tackled a buzz saw again Saturday afternoon and found themselves on the under side of the St. George steam roller to the tune of 10 to 1. Mackie held the visitors to three singles, two of which were made by Kid Jealous. On the other hand St. George hit Robbins for a total of 16 bases. Mackie himself leading the procession with a single and a gosh awful triple.

Among the fielding features were the catches made by Dwyer and J. Spear.

St. George made half of its scores in the sixth inning on hits by Wiley, Davidson, Smith (yes, Smith), Dwyer and I. Simmons, plus two passes and a miscue.

Thomaston 12, Warren 4

The Thomaston team had a summer outing Sunday afternoon, when it defeated Warren 12 to 4. Not quite so bad as it beat the Rockland Pirates, to be sure, but still an outing. The visitors did not score at all until the sixth inning, by which time Captain Felt's men had crossed the plate nine times.

Chummy Gray started for Warren, but had very poor support, and retired in favor of Jealous III who received small consideration from the Thomaston batters. Upham, meantime, was having easy sledding and pitching good ball.

In the final inning the situation was so one-sided that the Thomaston infielders swapped jobs with the Thomaston outfielders.

R. Upham, led the batters with four swats, while genial Eb. Grafton led the pedestrians with four walks.

Vinal Haven 6, Camden 6

Behind a splendid record of 20 games won and only two lost and followed by a brilliantly comparisoned band and 100 other admirers, the Vinal Haven Chiefs crossed the bounding main to Camden Sunday, and in the blinding light of the noonday sun fought a tie battle with the Camden Shells. It was only 3 o'clock when the game was concluded, but the good steamer W. S. White was tugging at her lines, and the ball team and excursionists needs must hit a fast pace for the pier. In spite of the early hour which the game was called it was witnessed by perhaps the largest crowd of the season, and there was but one verdict on the part of the mainlanders: what a pity that Vinal Haven cannot be in the Twilight League!

A couple of Vinal Haven miscues permitted the Shells to score the first run of the game, in the last half of the third inning, but great was the joy of the island contingent when the Chiefs opened the fifth by scoring three runs on as many hits, plus a pass and a wild pitch. Camden also scored a run in the fifth when Wadsworth's double followed Plaisted's single, trailing by one score, when along came the sixth inning when Camden registered five hits against Brown and scored four runs. It is only fair to Brown to say that all these scores were made after Brown had muffed an open and shut opportunity to make a double play and retire the side.

Two runs behind and only three innings to go—it did not seem to warrant Postmaster Drew's optimistic assertion that the Chiefs would be in there at the finish. But Camden drew three Arey eggs for the balance of the game.

An error by Heal gave Vinal Haven a score in the seventh narrowing the breach to a single tally. No score in the eighth.

Swanson opened the last inning with a fine single. Heal took care of Lyford's grounder, which advanced Swanson to second. Brown reached first on a fielder's choice, but was out at second on a fielder's choice. Swanson scored on W. Coombs' grounder, but the excitement was all over when A. Patrick grounded to Lord.

An analysis of the pitching battle is interesting. Camden made 10 hits off Brown and Vinal Haven made seven off Bennett. Brown issued three passes and struck out four and hit one batter. Bennett issued four passes, but struck out 10. The odds were thus strongly in Bennett's favor, as could be expected from a high class veteran twirler. Brown the Vinal Haven ace is but 17 years of age, has one more year in High School, and looks to have a brilliant future. His fine work is attracting wide attention.

The sun was very bothersome to all of the fielders, and several flies struck the ground by default.

Aside from his one error Baum played a fine game in short field. Some excellent plays were also made Erickson, Guilford, Heal, Plaisted and Lord. The score:

Concerts Spirituals

Concerts spirituals originated in France in 1725. These recitals were given on the 24 religious holidays during the year. They were discontinued in 1791, at the time of the French Revolution. In 1805 they were resumed, with programs made up entirely of sacred music and presented only during holy week.

The Happy-Eagle

The happy-eagle is one of South America's most predacious birds. Any small warm-blooded animal that it can handle is meat for its table, particularly monkeys. It is frequently seen in the larger zoos of this country and commands attention with its owl-like face.

Southernmost City

Magellanes, formerly Punta Arenas, is the southernmost city in the world, and is located on the Straits of Magellan in the south of Chile. The temperature averages 50 degrees in summer and 38 degrees in winter.

Duel Was Compulsory

By an ancient law of Sweden, if a man told another that he was inferior to any other man, or had not the heart of a man, and the other replied, "I am as good a man as yourself," a duel was to follow between them.

World's Smallest Antelope

The world's smallest antelope, the dik-dik of Africa, is about the size of a full-grown rabbit. Larger antelopes, such as the eland, reach a height of six feet and weigh as much as 1,500 pounds.

Having watched the CCC boys in their hunt for bugs and worms, which destroy forests and shade trees, let it be known that they destroy more than the bugs and worms. The first day they arrived they looked at about six trees and a dozen choke cherry bushes.

The first of July the worms which destroy elm trees and other shade trees, began to crawl along the road in that half mile. So I asked one of the boys to show me what they looked like in the cocoon and larva state. He found on my maple trees seven worms and live cocoons. The next one had 12 worms on it.

I said, "What time in the year are you supposed to kill them?"

He said, "Any time we can find them."

That was three or four weeks ago and he has not been here yet to destroy them.

From the store at the four corners to Waldoboro is five or six miles, with probably 200 shade and apple trees on the street. At 10 caterpillars to a tree, how many will it be to hatch out next spring at 200 worms to a nest or worm this fall?

Would it not be better to stop hunting current and gooseberry bushes and hunt the caterpillar this fall and hunt him blister some other time? When it takes 50 boys three months to go over five or six miles of land, would we live long enough to go all over the State? But the worms work more than eight hours a day and are more careful not to miss any trees.

Eugene W. Simmons

The Other Side

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—
Did you ever stop to think what the C.C.C. is doing for the youth of today? As they will be the men of tomorrow, I cite two examples of boys born and reared in Maine and who have attended High School. One lost his dad when he was 15, and after going two years to High School he left and tried to find work to help support his mother and two younger brothers.

He found occasional jobs here and there, but their temporary nature was most discouraging. Today he is enrolled in the Camden Hills C.C.C. Camp. Having served six months, he has now signed for another term, with the opportunity of completing his education, and earning spending money, clothes, board and room, besides funds to assist with home expenses.

With the association of lads his own age, and the chance to engage in healthful work in the open, the boy has become happy and is contented to stay until something better comes up.

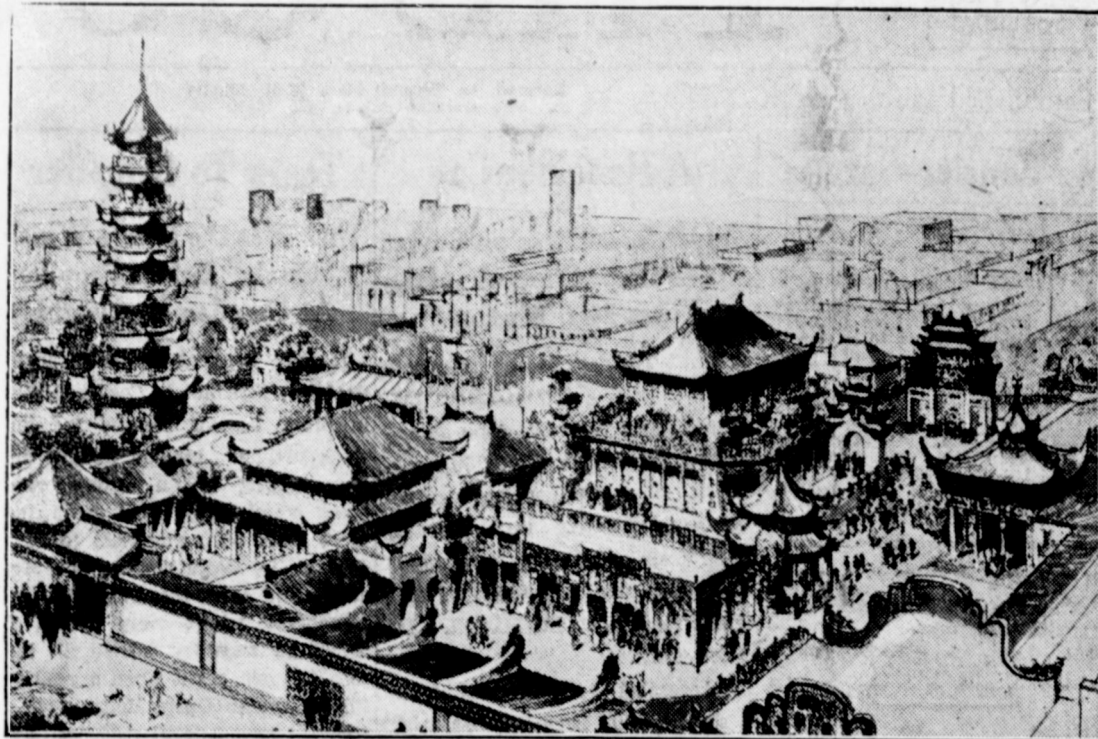

The second case pertains to a boy who, left without his mother, tried to help his crippled father, sister and two brothers keep the home together. After graduating from High School he was unable to find work with any degree of permanence. Learning that he had been hitch-hiking along the roads while seeking employment, I wrote to him, telling him the danger of this practice. His reply told me that he had joined the C.C.C. at Bar Harbor.

Here are a few extracts from that letter: "We work five days a week; sometimes easy, sometimes hard. Every Saturday night we have the privilege of attending the theatre with friends. It's grand to work out in the woods at the foot of a mountain and eat dinner there in the open, and after supper join the merry-makers with my guitar; also, to know that I can have some extra money to send home."

He went West with the contingent a few weeks ago, and here is what he writes from that point: "Cheyenne, Wyo. Fort P. E. Warren. So glad I had the opportunity to go West. Here I am on the prairie and hope to be here for some time. We are on Rocky Mountain time and the sun sets two hours later. We are 7,000 feet nearer the sun than we were in the Pine Tree State, so you can imagine how hot it gets sometimes—115 degrees in the shade and much hotter in the sun."

"There are many interesting scenes, including the Rocky Mountains 75 miles away which can be seen across the plains. Enroute here I saw numerous beautiful sights, among them the Great Lakes. As we passed along the shore of Lake

The gorgeously colored life of old China will be reproduced at the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition, on Treasure Island in San Francisco Bay. It will be a regular walled city with homes, markets, theaters and tea gardens. In an open air market artisans will ply their trades. Over all will loom an ornate temple and many storied pagodas.

Michigan, the sun was setting and it seemed to descend right into the water, casting a glorious rainbow. Human eye cannot see across the lake, it is so large. It seems like an ocean where only sky and water meet.

"I have the privilege of visiting ranches each Sunday and in this way meet many fine people. I still play my guitar, have a cowboy suit, Stetson and everything complete. I have made the acquaintance of nice people from all over the country since joining the C.C.C. and feel that it offers many opportunities for advancement."

I sincerely hope the C.C.C. will become national.

A jar full of green worms, which had been feasting on his carrot patch, was the prize which John Guistin brought into The Courier-Gazette office yesterday. Office experts sized the crawlers up as tomato plant worms, which had evidently gone poaching.

Rockland radio listeners Sunday heard Rev. J. Charles MacDonald make the prayer at the morning service at Tremont Temple, Boston, where "Charlie" Taylor presented him as "Dr." MacDonald. Other listeners heard Carl Frederickson, formerly pastor's assistant of the First Baptist Church, announce over Station WHDH, at the commencement of the Sunday morning song service, that Mrs. Evelyn McKusic, Mrs. Cora Snow and Maurice McKusic, from Rockland, were in the studio.

The sun shone all night at the Carini summer cottage at Ash Point Saturday night, all because Fred's bay gelding Calumet Bassett killed off three rivals in a stretch duel to win the first race at Bangor Fair Saturday afternoon, incidentally proving the best winning pay-off of the day. The three heats were done in 2:12 $\frac{1}{2}$, 2:13 $\frac{1}{2}$ and 2:14 $\frac{1}{2}$. Roll-rail was atop of the sulky. Calumet Bassett races again this week at Lincoln County Fair, and the boys will think twice before they bet against the Rockland horse in the Pari-Mutuel. Go it while you're young, Fred.

A good sized crowd was on hand Sunday afternoon at the Public Landing to see the amazing Corky Kellam perform aquatic miracles. The stunts he performed would have delighted Bob Ripley, and it is a fact that Mr. Kellam has figured in the famous "believe it or not" columnist's articles. Mr. Kellam fulfilled every promise and added new stunts to his repertoire. The water juggling and the motor boat thriller were the highlights. In the latter act, the swimmer, bound to a chair, blindfolded and heavily weighted, was thrown from the stern of a speeding boat. Next Sunday afternoon at the same place Mr. Kellam will start an endurance swim, details of which will appear in these columns.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my dear father, George W. Ludwig, Sr., who passed away Aug. 29, 1920.

Remembrance is a golden chain. Death tries to break but all in vain. To have, to love, and then to part. Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart. The years may wipe out many things. But this they wipe out never. The memory of those happy days. When we all were together.

His daughter, Mrs. William T. Smith.

Doc Kent will be the umpire.

Saturday night's electrical storm, a humdinger while it lasted, drove into Rockland harbor some distinguished visitors in the persons of Gov. Lewis O. Barrows, and sons Robert and Edward, Commissioner of Sea and Shore Fisheries Arthur R. Greenleaf, and Richard M. Hall, the noted author, who recently spoke before the Rockland Lions Club. Bright and early Sunday morning the party sailed for Vinal Haven, where there was a conference with some of the island's well known citizens.

Local cribbage players will be a bit envious when they read about the Farmington, N. H., player who recently held a "28" hand. Randall was having a quiet game with Byron C. Gilman when the latter dealt him the five of clubs, five of hearts, five of spades and the Jack of diamonds. Randall turned the five of diamonds from the cut and on counting the hand his tally read four fives for 8 points, four fives and Jack for 8 points, four of a kind for 12 points, and the Jack for 1, making the highest possible count for a cribbage hand.

Leroy Webster of Fairfield, through Freeman S. Young, real estate agent, has bought land at Ash Point where he will build a summer home.

Mayor Fred Payne of Augusta and Mrs. Ellis Spear, 2d, of Warren, will be the speakers at a Republican rally to be held Friday night at 8 o'clock in Watts hall, Thomaston.

Crossing the street during Saturday night's electrical storm, James A. Seavey of South Main street was knocked down by a car driven by Miss Hazel Marshall. He was badly injured about the head.

The board of registration starts its fall election activities tomorrow and will be open also Sept. 1, 2, 3, 6 and 7. The hours, all standard time, are 9 a. m. to 1 p. m.; 3 to 5 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m. Frank W. Fuller is chairman.

Mrs. I. Leslie Cross, department president of the Sons of Union Veterans Auxiliary, leaves next Saturday as a member of the New England delegation bound for Des Moines, Iowa, to attend the G.A.R. encampment. Returning the delegation will leave Des Moines Sept. 9.

Joseph Emery and family were spending a quiet evening at home Saturday. At least it was quiet until a lightning bolt knocked the top from one of the chimneys. Mr. Emery's daughter Ruth, sitting near the chimney was stunned. Mrs. H. W. Frohock of Summer street, complained of being shocked after one of the heavy claps, and next morning it was discovered that lightning had struck a tree in Miss Annie Frye's yard nearby—the second time this season that a bolt has struck in that yard.

The Knox County Fish and Game Association will have its first annual outing Saturday. It will be a sort of a progressive affair. The members will meet in the afternoon at Vinal's cottage in Cushing where there will be a corn and wienie roast and clambake, open at 5 o'clock. The sportsmen will then move across the river to Alfred C. Hocking's cottage for coffee and doughnuts, holding in the evening their concluding session with R. O. Elliot as host. If Saturday should be stormy the outing will take place Sunday.

Lakewood Theatre

If there is anything more deadly than a gangster, it is a professor of psychology, according to "Blind Alley," a thrilling play in three acts by James Warwick which will be the offering of the Lakewood Players for the week of Sept. 5. "Blind Alley" was produced two seasons ago at the Booth Theatre in New York with an important cast and ran for four months.

A special matinee of "Blind Alley" will be presented Labor Day at 2:30 o'clock and there will be the usual performances, evening and Saturday matinee that week.

It is shutters for any gangster who comes under a psychologist's thumb. Hal Wilson and his mob decide to hide away in Dr. Shelby's home for a day while they were passing through. Being heavily armed and fairly callous about human life, they have no misgivings. They include professors among the more stupid species. Although Dr. Shelby is unarmed, he is not defenseless. He begins, out of curiosity, to pry into Wilson's mental tangle. When Wilson's gang gets careless with its musketry, Dr. Shelby decides to destroy Wilson by analysis. By degrees Wilson begins to understand himself as a result of the doctor's mental barages, his bravado goes, then his self-confidence disappears and finally he goes entirely to pieces.

For a full two acts the author has shaped his variation on a familiar theme into a taut and compelling melodrama. Those who are fascinated by queer aberrations of the subconscious may study a series of singular psychoses at close range. The Players continue the remainder of this week presenting "The Man From Cairo."

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Rounds of New York and William Rounds of Portland are guests at Treasure Point Farm.

Union astronomers were busy yesterday noting at 4 p. m. the unusual combination of sun, moon and the planet Venus visible to the naked eye at the same time.

Roy Worcester, Bangor heavyweight scored a win over Butch Wooster, of Rockland, after 10 furious rounds last night. Worcester was down in the fourth round and Butch in the second, third and fifth, but both were going strong at the finish.

Miss Ada Perry of Senter Crane Company returned yesterday from a week in the New York millinery market. She reports great activity in the new fall hat lines. Few of the much talked of and pictured numbers are yet being worn. Miss Perry found prices and styles the most attractive in years.

The Elementary Hand
 The Elementary hand, as its name implies, is the lowest type of hand one can find, according to a writer in Pearson's London Weekly. It is coarse and clumsy with large, heavy palms and extremely short fingers and nails. The shorter and thicker the hand is, the more the person approaches the brute. Anyone unfortunate enough to possess this elementary type of hand belongs to the dull, inert type of person to whom education and development mean very little. Love of form, color, and beauty does not appeal to him. His ambition and mental capacity are very limited. This type will have little or no control over temper or passions, will be coarse in his ideas, dull in imagination and devoid of sentiment and feeling.

BOARD OF REGISTRATION
 Notice is hereby given that the Board of Registration will be in session at their room in the City Hall, Spring street, for the purpose of revising and correcting the voting lists of the City of Rockland. The sessions will be held Aug. 31 and Sept. 1, 2, 3, 6 and 7 A. D. 1938, from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m., 3 to 5 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m., except on the last day of said session, which closes at 5 p. m. Standard Time. As the last three days of said session are for the purpose of verifying said lists and to complete and close up the records of the session, no names will be added or stricken from the lists on said days. The Board will be in session all day election day, Sept. 12, 1938.
 No applications for "Absent Voting or Physical Incapacity Voting Ballots," will be approved after five o'clock in the afternoon of the last day of said session, Sept. 7, 1938.

FULLER C. BLACKINGTON

Funeral services for Fuller C. Blackington, formerly of Rockland were held yesterday afternoon at the Russell Parlors. Mr. Blackington, who was well known in Rockland and vicinity, died at his late residence, 6 Arthur street, Somerville, Mass., after an illness of several months. He was for several years in the employ of Pinkham & Smith Co., Bromfield street, Boston.

The deceased was a son of the late Edward and Emily U. Blackington. He lived at The Meadows during the early part of his life and then moved to the city when he became a member of the local fire department.

In 1918, with his brother Arthur Blackington he moved to Bath where he worked on wartime vessels for the Texas Shipbuilding Co. At the conclusion of the war Mr. and Mrs. Blackington took up their residence in Somerville, to be with their son Alton who was at that time an official photographer for the U. S. Navy and later on the staff of the Boston Herald. Mr. Blackington was always interested in the news of the day and accompanied his son on many thrilling assignments. He cherished greatly the memory of an early Sunday morning visit to White Court at Swampscott where President Calvin Coolidge was spending the summer. While literally dozens of cameramen and photographers were still asleep "Blackie" and his Dad went to the spacious grounds of the summer White House and were talking to a Secret Service man—when President Coolidge—always an early riser—came over to the Herald representative and asked "Who is that with you?"

"My Dad" said the photographer proudly.
 "Bring him over" said the President. And for nearly an hour the three chatted on the veranda. They were soon joined by a kindly white-haired gentleman who proved to be Ambassador Frank Kellogg, who had just arrived in America after formulating the famous Kellogg-Briand Peace Pack. Alton made exclusive "shots" that morning—and it was a great day for "Dad."

Last year father and son toured Maine making color pictures and took in the Three Quarter Century Club picnic at Ellsworth.

Mr. Blackington was very proud of his Maine ancestry and never lost an opportunity to boast of it. His kindly disposition won for him hundreds of friends in Boston and Somerville and his cheery smile will be missed by all who knew him. He is survived by his wife, Ida B.; his son, Alton H., a grandson, Chandler, and his twin brother Arthur A. Blackington. He was a member of King Solomon's Lodge F.A.M. of Somerville, Mass., and the Masonic service was performed by Aurora Lodge of Rockland, J. E. Stevens acting as master and J. A. Richan as chaplain.

Nelson Waters, instructor at Hillcrest Riding Academy, will be at our store Wednesday and Thursday, 2 to 4 P. M., to give you any information you may wish relative to this popular sport.

And while you are in just ask to see our line of Breeches, Jodhpurs, Riding Boots, and Flannel Shirts.

GREGORY'S

IN TROUBLE AT LOWELL

A Lowell, Mass., despatch in yesterday's papers says:

"Police, responding to a complaint that a man in an automobile was accosting women here, tonight arrested a man booked as Kenneth G. Pease, 26 of 9 Willow St., Rockland. Me. Patrolman Philip F. Shannon said Pease would be arraigned in Lowell district court on charges of drunkenness, drunken driving, operating without a license and without registration. Shannon said he found Pease, parked in an automobile on the wrong side of a street, speaking to women who passed."

This morning's paper said: Because Private Pease was to receive his honorable discharge from the Army today, Judge Arthur L. Eno cut from $100 to $50 a drunken driving fine assessed against Pease. Capt. David N. Ross of the Fifth Infantry stepped before the judge after Pease was convicted and fined, and explained that Pease had only $70 and could not pay the $100 fine. If he was held for failure to pay the full fine he could not receive his honorable discharge. Judge Eno halved the fine and Pease paid it. Pease has been in the Army seven years.

Historical Sketch Prefaced
By Norman W. Lermond and Read At Field Meeting Aug. 24

In 1912 a small group of Knox County nature lovers held monthly meetings in the Rockland High School building and called their society The Natural History Society of Knox County.

Papers were read and talks given on the fauna, flora and geology of the county. One of the members more ambitious perhaps than the others, conceived the idea of organizing a State Natural History Society, and putting his "dream" into action, he issued a call for a State convention to be held in the County Court House, Aug. 15, 1913, to launch such an association.

With the call went a prospectus of the proposed State Society of Naturalists and an invitation for their signatures, as charter members. The invitation met with a ready and hearty response, and all the prominent Maine naturalists, botanists, ornithologists, entomologists, zoologists, and biologists "signed up."

The Rockland meeting was largely attended by nature lovers from all over the State. Three colleges—Bates, Colby and the University of Maine were represented by members of their science faculty; the State Department of Agriculture and the State House Museum were also represented.

A temporary organization with N. W. Lermond as president, Prof. Mantol Copeland of Bowdoin College, T. A. James of Winthrop, Curator of the State Museum and Mrs. Fannie E. Ekstrom of Brewer, vice presidents; Miss Harriet Abbott of Fryeburg, secretary-treasurer. The following were appointed by the chairman a committee on constitution and by-laws: Prof. Frank D. Tubbs of Bates, Morton G. Soule of Woolwich and George R. Howe of Norway.

A meeting to organize permanently was held in Bangor. At this meeting the report of the committee on constitution and by-laws was accepted and a permanent organization formed with George R. Howe as President; Thomas A. James, corresponding secretary; N. W. Lermond, recording secretary, and Miss Harriet Abbott, treasurer.

Like so many Maine science and progressive movements, this one dug itself an early grave! But, meantime, our little local Natural History Club continued an active existence. And when it became only too plainly evident that "The Maine Academy of Science" was defunct, we decided to incorporate under the laws of Maine, as the Knox Academy of Arts and Sciences, not as a Knox county society but as a State society.

In one of the first leaflets issued by the Academy, the purposes of the institution were set forth as follows: (1) To unite in one organization the scientists, naturalists, artists and nature lovers of Maine; (2) To carry on research work in all branches of the Natural Sciences and to publish the result of same; and to disseminate general information on the fauna, flora and geology of Maine; (3) To encourage the pursuit of knowledge in the Arts and Sciences by conducting a summer school for teachers and students; (4) To establish and maintain a museum of Natural History; and an Arboretum, Botanic Garden, Wild Flower, bird and wild life sanctuary.

Excavation for the foundation of the museum building was begun in 1918 and continued in 1919, and the foundation walls were built in 1920, the corner stone being laid Aug. 20, 1920. Vice President Rev. C. W. Turner presided and introduced as the first speaker Miss Anna E. Coughlin, principal of Rockland High School, who said in part: "We plan to establish here in Knox County a great State institution, with a summer school for nature students, in connection with its museum, nature library, arboretum and wild life sanctuary."

State Librarian Dunnack spoke on "The Value of Scientific Study." "Sound learning is closely related to the prosperity of the State," said he, "this great and progressive state, if true to the emblem of her seal, Dirigo, should set the wholesome and encouraging example of giving to the people well endowed and effective institutions of learning adequate to furnish the thousands of her population with the training which they need to render them intelligent, moral, industrious and happy. I am quite sure that things of art, literature and life are in our souls. The objectives of life only serve to give them birth. The purpose of your natural history home will be to give your ideas, ideals and dreams embodiment, to give the souls of your youth a birthplace." I wonder whether you recall Longfellow's poem upon Agassiz, written on his 50th birthday.

"Here then, in the heart of the region where Maine had her birth, and where two of her great industries, fishing and shipbuilding, flourished, it is given to you today to lay the corner stone for an institution that shall educate, inspire and create a nobler, more efficient type of manhood and womanhood."

Hon. C. Vey Holman, president of the Academy, delivered a short address and called on Curator Lermond to lay the corner stone and, accompanied by sweet strains of music from the band, the block of Lincolnville light gray granite was lowered into place, after several documents relating to the history of the Academy, photographic views taken in the arboretum and silver and copper coins, bearing the date 1920, had been deposited in the cavity prepared for them.

The introduction and setting out of trees and shrubs has gone steadily since 1930-4. July 25, 1918 one of the old white pines, estimated to be 125 years old, was dedicated as a living monument to the memory of Gen. Henry Knox. Miss Anna Coughlin presided. The dedicatory address was delivered by the State historian, Hon. John F. Sprague of Dover-Foxcroft. Judge Reuel Robinson of Camden read a very interesting paper on "The Romance of Henry Knox." Under the leadership of Miss Marion Weston, the Thomaston Community Chorus sang patriotic selections. Delegates were present from the Gen. Knox Chapter D.A.R. of Thomaston, and the Lady Knox Chapter of Rockland.

A benefit fair and entertainment to raise money for the museum building, was put on in the old Arcade building on Spring street, Rockland, Nov. 30, 1920, netting, $400.

The Academy began the publication of "The Maine Naturalist," Vol. 1 No. 1 being issued April 25, 1921. It was regularly issued as a quarterly for four and a half years, when for lack of financial support by the nature lovers of Maine, its publication was given over to Miss Louise H. Coburn of Skowhegan and Arthur H. Norton of Portland.

The first State field meeting of the Academy was held at the Knox Arboretum, Aug. 23-26 1921. President Holman delivered the address of welcome which was responded to by Mrs. Sarah Rideout Abbott of Saco. Rev. Henry E. Dunnack of Augusta delivered an address.

Evening sessions on each of the four days were held in halls and churches in Thomaston and Rockland at which Prof. Gross of Bowdoin, Prof. Perkins of Colby, Prof. Dahlgren of Princeton University, and Prof. John M. Briscoe of the U. of M. gave illustrated lectures. Papers were read by Mrs. Charles W. Alexander, Pres. of the Ball Bird Club on "Maine As A Bird Lover's Paradise;" Mrs. Winnie Harward of Washington D. C. on "Insect Eating Animals of North America;" Mrs. Sarah Rideout Abbott talked on mushrooms—edible and poisonous; Dr. George P. Merrill of Washington, America's leading geologist, talked on "The Drowned Rivers Along the Coast of Maine;" Miss Celia M. Compton of Casco gave a paper on "Minerals and Rocks of Maine;" Samuel T. Dana of Augusta State Forester, made a plea for "the corporation of the Academy in forest protection, preservation and management;" Major Barrington Moore of New York, editor of "Ecology" introduced a resolution favoring the establishment of a new England Forest Experiment Station (later established at Springfield, Mass.). C. Vey Holman gave a talk on "Minerals and Metals of Maine."

Three days were given over to field trips to Monhegan Island, Megunticook Mt. and Lake, Sherman's Point, Camden and Islesboro.

Sept. 29, 1921 the following letter was received by Hon. C. Vey Holman President of the Knox Academy:

Mr. President I beg of you to transmit to the Knox Academy my very sincere thanks for the election as honorary member which you announce to me in your letter of June 18. Be good enough to receive, Mr. President, the assurance of my distinguished sentiments.—M. Curie

The first and only art exhibit was staged by the Academy in the County Court House Wednesday, Aug. 29 to Saturday Sept. 1, 1923. Many fine oil paintings, water colors, pastels, pen and ink sketches by Maine artists were placed on exhibition. The Academy offered $300 in prizes. Charles Copeland of Boston and Thomaston, Charles Dana Gibson of New York and 700 Acre Island and Arthur Spear of Boston and Friendship were a committee to award the prizes. First prize $75 for oil went to Mrs. Esther Brock Bird for a ginger jar of flowers; 2nd prize $50 to William P. Burpee for "Monhegan" a sea painting and 3rd prize $25 to Frank B. Morse for his "Island Ledges."

In the water color painting the first prize of $60 went to Albert W. Merchant of Rockland for his "Pastel of a Girl;" 2nd prize of $25 to Mrs. Abbie Kirkpatrick of Rockville for her "Temporary Shelter" and the 3rd prize to Miss Maud Hall of South Thomaston for her "Balm of Gilead."

The prizes for drawings went as follows: 1st, $25 to Esther Brock Bird, 2d $15 Albert W. Merchant and 3d, $10 to Hope Greenhalgh of Rockland. Charles Dana Gibson loaned his wonderful oil painting in life size of a Down East Fisherman. Miss Mary J. Watts loaned a painting by Nicholas Maas, a pupil of Rembrandt; G. H. McCord loaned his "Craig Dhu." L. H. Meakin sent a western study that was considered very good. Artists of Fryeburg and Augusta sent notable canvases. Mr. Barrett of Rockport exhibited a very fine oil painting of a marine view.

In the Spring of 1927 the Academy Council decided to put on a drive to raise $100,000 to complete the Science and Art building, and to develop the Arboretum. Mr. Spaulding of New York city, an expert campaign manager for such drives was hired at a salary of $300 per week and expenses which amounted to almost $200 per week for ten weeks. He got a little over $9,000 pledged, and collected in six odd thousand dollars, went off with some $4,600 leaving us a little over $1000 in cash, and about $3500 uncollected subscriptions. Nearly all the pledges were paid and we went to Augusta and informed the Governor that the mortgage note had been liquidated. He congratulated me and the Academy and said the work could now be resumed on finishing the inside of the building and that whatever O. B. Fernandez of the Council decided on would be acceptable with me. I came home happy and put carpenters and plasterers to work. With the September State election came a change of State Administration and Gov. Barrows removed myself and helper from the State pay-roll and refused to pay anymore money for equipment and upkeep and development of the building and Arboretum. Nor would the Committee on Finance and Appropriations act favorably on our Resolve, asking for $1000 for upkeep of the Arboretum and our resolve to make the Academy a State Aid Institution, introduced by Representative Elliot of Thomaston, was defeated by the Committee and a substitute resolve returning the property to the Academy was passed by the legislature and signed by the Governor.

So here we are with a building that we have labored 18 years to get erected a 100-acre arboretum, and in shape to go ahead and function as a real, live, active State Academy of Science and Art, and no funds with which to pay operating expenses!

An article in the Courier-Gazette dated Rockland Jan. 27, 1935, and with the headline "Persistence Paid—N. W. Lermond Comes Home

From the State Capital Bringing the Bacon." Editor of The Courier-Gazette:— Victory at last! After waiting two months and hanging around the State House lobbies for two weeks, we were granted an audience with the Governor, Executive Council and F.E.R.A. Administrator, resulting in the following order read and passed by the council, approved by the Governor and attested by Lewis O. Barrows, Secretary of State: "That the persons named on the attached list be paid the sums set against their respective names for labor and material for the Science and Art building at the Knox Arboretum and that the said sums amounting in the aggregate to $2,094.10 be taken from the State contingent fund. The Governor and Council and F.E.R.A. Administrator also agree to provide the needed funds for finishing the building inside and installing the necessary research and laboratory equipment and reference library for students, when and as soon as the Knox Academy Association raises $1700, the amount required to liquidate the mortgage debt, etc."

Speed Wastes Money and Lives

Pictured above are some of the thousands of deaths which are a part of the annual price the American motorist pays for speed. Another item is accident costs which total $1,700,000,000 yearly.

AUTOMOTIVE engineers' figures show that speed wastes fuel and materials; police impose fines, and now a group of large insurance companies is offering a safe-driving reward of 15 per cent of the liability premium for an accident-free year—all in the interests of safe driving.

Responsible for one-third of the nation's fatal accidents—speed played a leading role in all of the six situations above.

TOP LEFT: This car couldn't hold the curve at 65 and was cut in two by the impact with the tree. Six passengers met instant death. TOP RIGHT: Frequently omitted from the driving budget, a speeding fine adds $25 to the debit side of the ledger of motoring costs. MIDDLE LEFT: Hours of agony and weeks in the hospital were the aftermath of this collision with a telegraph pole. MIDDLE RIGHT: Forty thousand people meet similar deaths on the country's highways each year. LOWER LEFT: Under normal conditions a tire has a life expectancy of 20,000 miles; this tire lasted two on Sir Malcolm Campbell's racer, "Bluebird." Another item to be added to the high cost of speed. LOWER RIGHT: The driver of the coupe on the right was in a hurry and was passing the car ahead when he met the automobile on the left. The truck driver managed to escape the flames, the man at the coupe wheel was not so fortunate. Safe driving is easy on your nerves, enables a substantial saving in fuel, repair and insurance costs—not to say a longer life and a happier one.

Snappy Play Presented

The two-act musical comedy "Stepping Around" was presented Friday night in Memorial hall, sponsored by Union Church choir. The play was of the snappy type and full of quotable witticisms. G. Ernest Arey and Ruth Brown were thoroughly natural and charming in the love scenes.

Eugene Burgess carried off his part with unusual ability. O. V. Drew submerged his own personality in that of the Village Constable. David Duncan did his bit with unruffled equanimity, but Donald Amiro and Joseph Hutehinson as the "Sons of Rest" stole the show, so completely were they transformed.

Just to look at the costumes worn by William Bruce and Hollis Burgess, as representatives of Sisters of Sophronia Uplift Society put the house into laughter. Hazel Roberts as the widow showed dramatic ability in the unusually difficult part. Cora Peterson as the constable's wife played the humorous part with such skill and poise, that the audience was delighted especially her dancing, with the "Sons of Rest." May Tolman enacted the role of chaperone extremely well especially when accosted by the constable.

The skillful direction of the coach S. L. Winslow and musical director Mrs. Blanche Kittredge, proved of rarest aid to the amateurs. Mrs. Evelyn Hall did her usual fine work as pianist and accompanist. As soloist between acts Mrs. Elizabeth Earle of Philadelphia was greeted as an old friend as she sang a group of songs with beautiful quality of tone and musicianship. The large chorus added much to musical comedy by introducing several at-

Ship Models Shown

Much interest was shown yesterday afternoon in the large and attractive exhibit of ship models held in the Home Industry Shop at Montpelier, Thomaston. Many visitors availed themselves of the opportunity to inspect these various models made and entered by Knox County people. The models are of all classes ranging from those of the Colonial period to the present day steam and oil-burning craft. Even the modest row boat is present fully equipped.

Many of the sailing vessels will bring back memories to the older generation because of the fact that the original ships were built and manned by men of this locality. Beautiful paintings of ships have been loaned which add much color to the display.

A large collection of sketches and drawings of ships' figureheads and prows, some done in black and white, others in color, were brought, and the other guests were Mrs. Orne, Mr. and Mrs. George York and Mr. Crawford. Mr. and Mrs. Closson and their two daughters returned to Upton, Mass., Sunday.

Rockport Concert Friday Night Introduced Three Noted Stars

A rare privilege was granted local music lovers—both resident and summer visitors—in the concert at Rockport Town hall Friday night, presenting Felix Siamond 'cellist, Daniel Karpilowsky violinist, and Edith Evans Braun pianist, in a program that stands as one of the most artistic and enjoyable in the many summer concerts over quite some period. The audience in addition to a large gathering of townspeople and representative music devotees from several of the adjacent towns, contained many distinguished musicians who summer in this section. The rapt attention given by this audience was reflected in the inspired mood which fairly shone from the performers, establishing a particularly sympathetic bond between artists and listeners.

The program: (a) "Kakadu" Variations for piano, violin and 'cello, Beethoven, Opus 121 A (b) Andante con moto and Scherzo-Fresto from Trio in C Major, Brahms, Opus 87 Mrs. Braun, Mr. Karpilowsky Mr. Siamond (c) Cello solos—Grave et Courante, Beethoven, Opus 101 (d) Andante (by request), Bach-Silvestre, Gabriel Faure Piece en forme de Habanera, Ravel Berceuse (dedicated to John Siamond), Karpilowsky Melodie (dedicated to Felix Siamond), Frank Bridge Mr. Siamond, Ralph Berkowitz at the piano (e) Passacaglia for violin and 'cello, Haendel-Halvorsen Mr. Karpilowsky and Mr. Siamond (f) Trip in C Minor, Brahms, Opus 101 Allegro energico, Presto non assai, Andante grazioso, Allegro molto Mrs. Braun, Mr. Karpilowsky and Mr. Siamond

While Mrs. Braun and Mr. Siamond need no introduction to local audiences, Mr. Karpilowsky was making his first appearance here and therefore particularly keen interest centered in him. Bearing the reputation of being one of the world's greatest masters of the violin, with a brilliant record of achievement in Russia during the reign of the late Czar, also of later successes with famous musical organizations elsewhere, naturally both anticipation and speculation existed in the assembly gathered to hear him. One fact is that there was no disappointment experienced—on the contrary Mr. Karpilowsky far exceeded expectation. He possesses not only an amazing technique, but the art of vivid tone coloring and a most exquisite tonal quality. While there were regrets expressed that he was not heard in solos, it seemed to be the consensus of opinion that he could be heard under no happier conditions than existed in the trios and the duet with 'cello.

While the delightful Beethoven variations on a popular air was thoroughly enjoyed, the most beautiful work of the Trio was done in the Brahms numbers where the exquisite melodic structure shone forth like rich tapestry. The artists played together as if one instrument, always balanced, always blending. Mr. Siamond was at his best, and Mrs. Braun again demonstrated the flair she has for this type of music.

Mr. Siamond's solo group was sufficient in contrast, with the fascinating Ravel number probably scoring the real hit—many longed for its repetition. A charming note was introduced in the selection by Mr. Karpilowsky which Mr. Siamond announced as dedicated to his small son Johnny. (This number was substituted for "Vivace" by Senaille-J. Siamond on the original program.) A lovely legato writing, the composition placed Mr. Karpilowsky in another gifted phase of his art. Mr. Siamond played with great feeling and care for interpretation. It seemed that he was never heard to greater advantage. He gave as an encore an arrangement of "Londonderry Air" which is claimed to be the most beautiful melody in the world. Mr. Berkowitz as accompanist won a triumph all his own, in his sensitive understanding. He demonstrated a canny feeling for Mr. Siamond's work, and it could be well understood why he has been the 'cellist's choice as accompanist for his concert tours. Mr. Berkowitz, a brilliant artist in his own right, is at the Curtis Institute of Music.

The violin and 'cello number was splendidly given, making a novel appeal in its difference. The artists were recalled many times, and Mrs. Braun, handsomely gowned in dark red, was presented with flowers.

The decorations were of particular beauty—a most effective use made of cedar trees, evergreen boughs as banking across the front of the stage, huge clusters of bayberry, and one large bouquet of salmon-pink gladioli. These decorations were made possible through the generosity of Mrs. A. H. Chatfield who, together with Mrs. Edward Bok, supervised the arrangement.

Gone Are The Days

E. Alexander Powell's Novel, as Reviewed by "K. S. F." The last two decades of the 19th century constitute a chapter in American history which is gone forever so full of color and individuality, unique and exclusively our own, smile though we may through the perspective. Gone Are The Days, fresh from the press of Little Brown & Co., written by that incomparable and versatile writer, E. Alexander Powell, is a fresh and remarkable memory story of the country about and city of Syracuse, N. Y., where he spent his boyhood days, describing the period of the 80's and 90's this story is told with the straightforwardness and charm of all of his writings.

Mr. Powell harks back to boyhood days with vivid clearness, opening the story with the finding of salt pans which gave this part of New York its active life opening colonization for business, this being the principal salt find and industry of our country.

Sometimes a bit overgraphic, he paints the grotesque and ridiculous changing styles in thought, dress, architecture and furnishings of the years past.

One of the most significant events in American history he reminds us occurs in the late 90's when parlors were made into living rooms and sunlight was given full swing in homes. A bit prosy at times for those who did not know the Syracuse of that period in his descriptions of outstanding freak characters and rather too much accent on what he termed the naughty 90's, yet a clear picture that covers every stage of his boyhood and early manhood, whose mind was open and alive to all activities.

The book is a character sketch of Syracuse personalities, both brilliant and stupid in the 80's and 90's and might have been a true sketch of most cities in the United States. K. S. F.

DOW-KNIGHT

At a pretty 4 o'clock wedding yesterday, Miss Alma Josephine Knight became the bride of Earle Samuel Dow. The ceremony took place at the home of her parents, which was profusely decorated with gladioli and asters. Rev. J. Charles MacDonald officiated at the double ring service, and the bride was given in marriage by her father. Miss Dorothy Lawry played Lohengrin's Wedding March.

Mrs. Dow's dress was a lovely creation of white satin, with a cap of satin flowers and a shoulder veil. Her arm bouquet was of white roses and sweet peas. Miss Alberta Knight, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and wore a gown of aqua taffeta, with matching hat and circular face veil. She carried tall-tan roses and snapdragons.

Francis P. Dow of Augusta, brother of the groom, was best man. Immediately following the ceremony, an informal reception was held. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Nelson Glidden, Miss Lucille Egan, Mrs. Stanley Hall, Miss Nathalie Jones, Miss Barbara Blaisdel and Miss Mary Lawry. Mrs. Osgood Gilbert, Jr., was in charge of the guest book.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Earle C. Dow of Rockport, and is a graduate of Ballard Business School. He is employed as bookkeeper at the Maine State Prison in Thomaston. Mrs. Dow was graduated from Rockland High School in 1929, and is employed at Mansfield Buttner Co. She is a member of Junior Methuen Club.

The destination of the wedding trip was unannounced. The bride's traveling ensemble was of navy blue and yellow, with matching accessories. Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. G. Bradley Dennett of Gorham, Miss Nathalie Jones of Washington, D. C., Misses Beverly Knowlton and Geraldine Knowlton of Atleboro, Mass., Mrs. Frederick Jagels of Camden, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Maxey of Rockport and Mrs. Paige Kelley of Lincolnville.

of Rockport, explained the worthy cause for which the concert was being given, to make possible a Christmas for the town's under-privileged children. He also paid eloquent tribute to Mrs. Chatfield, and to Mrs. Bok who was accorded an ovation that must have warmed her heart and convinced her anew how dearly loved she is in the town which has benefited so greatly by her kindnesses. An expression of appreciation was made to the artists who gave of their great talent and valuable time to make the benefit concert possible—a most generous act that results in a very tidy sum being realized for the cause.

UNION

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hart of Lynn, Mass., were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Vivian Hannon.

Leroy Miller was home from Togo for a few hours Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Justin Ames and Mr. and Mrs. V. Hannon attended the campmeeting Sunday at Etna.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Norton of Manchester were recent visitors at W. J. Bryant's.

Mrs. John Morine of Bear River, N. S., is guest of Mr. and Mrs. Vivian Hannon.

Mrs. Rena Crowell of Waldoboro called Sunday on friends here.

Mrs. Lillian Pease of Beverly, Mass., and Appleton, is visiting her son Philip who is building a house on the site of the beautiful home which was burned a few years ago.

The farm home of W. J. Bryant was the scene of a happy cousin picnic party Saturday. The day was all that could be desired. Tables were spread beneath a large maple tree and a feast fit for kings was spread before the hungry company. All declared it a perfect day and gave high praise to Mrs. Eva Sayward for her efforts in making it such. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Achorn of Biloxi, Miss. and Mrs. L. H. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Will Hatch, Washington; Dr. Lightle, North Berwick; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sanborn, Naples; Mr. and Mrs. Will Sayward, Mrs. Augusta Mink, Charles Roscoe and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bryant. Mr. and Mrs. Achorn leave soon for their home in Mississippi, but plan to come next summer for another cousin picnic.

Miss Carolyn Chattin who spent two weeks with Mrs. Lila Burrill, returned Saturday to New Jersey.

Mrs. Mary E. Clark

Mrs. Mary E. Clark, who with her son spent the last three winters with Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bryant, died Aug. 15, after being confined to her bed since April 1. Mrs. Clark was a woman dearly beloved by all and had hosts of friends who were ever thoughtful and kind to her during her illness. Her home was near the Nye schoolhouse and during her residence there boarded 14 school teachers and made a pleasant and happy home for them. She had kept in touch with most of them through frequent letters and visits. Mrs. Clark was almost 82 years old, but enjoyed young or old company, had a sweet quiet way which won her friends wherever she went. She was the last of a family of 12 children of Adam and Sarah (Robbins) Hart of Burketville. A brother Jeruel Hart died last March, a great shock from which she could not recover.

Mrs. Clark leaves one son Robert F. Funeral services were held at the Bryant house. The remains were taken to Thomaston for burial.

Herbert M. Thurston

News has been received of the death Aug. 20 of Herbert Melville Thurston, 85, at his home in Everett, Mass. Mr. Thurston was a native of this town but moved to Everett 70 years ago. He was the founder and owner of Thurston's Everett and Boston Express Co.

Mr. Thurston is survived by two daughters Mrs. Prescott W. Hilton of Providence; Mrs. Frederick Jennings of Everett; a son Herbert S. Thurston of Needham, Mass.; a brother George Thurston of Elkins, N. H.; and sister Julia of Boston. Funeral services were held at his home last Tuesday.

"JOHNNY APPLESEED"

Search Being Made In Six States For Man To Play This Role

On a chill spring day around the turn of the 18th century, a young pioneer son of New England dropped slowly down the Ohio river on a crude raft composed of two canoes bound together. And in those canoes with him were the future orchards of the New West. His cargo was packets of appleseeds, and his mission was to bestow on those new communities the blessings and the joys of the developed apple culture of the east. That youth, a strange combination of stolid and dreamer, was John Chapman, affectionately known in history as "Johnny Appleseed."

Now, nearly a century and a half later, "Johnny Appleseed" will once again be seen in New England—this time to carry the tidings, during a five weeks' good will tour, of the first great New England Apple Festival to be held in Worcester, Oct. 2 through Oct. 8. The purpose of the Festival, according to Jesse H. Buffum, executive director, is to honor fully for the first time the live and labors of this New Englander, who became a legend.

A great six-state search is now under way to find the man who will play this coveted role. The winner will be given an all expense tour of New England at the same time drawing a salary under contract to the directors of the Festival.

At Science Church

Mr. Kilpatrick Told Interested Audience of Individual Salvation

"Christian Science: Its Message of Individual Salvation" was the subject of an address delivered by William Duncan Kilpatrick, C.S.B. of Detroit at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday afternoon. Mr. Kilpatrick said in part:

With the understanding that material existence is merely a state of the human consciousness, and that our material world is the externalized expression of carnal thoughts which come from a so-called carnal mind claiming existence independently of that consciousness, we may begin to understand how the process of individual salvation is to be accomplished.

Through the carnal in our consciousness we endow our material universe with those laws and conditions which make for the unhappiness, the misery, and the tragedies of human living. Through the carnal in human consciousness we endow our brother man with the hate, the jealousy, and the dishonesty with which he confronts us.

The sickness, the poverty, and the inharmonies of the human body are inflicted thereon by the carnal which obtains in the consciousness of the possessor of the body. The injurious and harmful elements of nature are not inherent therein but become a part thereof through the carnal mind in human consciousness. The goldenrod and other beautiful expressions of nature embody no natural elements of danger and discord. They become annoying and pestilential only through the carnal held in human consciousness. The ferocity and carnivorous natures of the beasts of the jungle are simply the manifestation of the carnal claiming existence in the human consciousness. The poison and venom hidden in the fangs of the reptile are imposed therein by the carnal in our human consciousness. The carnal mind in human consciousness not only creates our material world but it likewise endows that world with those material and harmful qualities which render material existence a most precarious and perilous experiment.

Through the influx of the divine into the human mind these carnal thoughts which are externalized in our concept of materiality as sickness, poverty, hate, poison, bestiality, danger, and the like are gradually displaced. The carnal thoughts entertained in the human consciousness are thrust out by the divine, so that the process of salvation involves the necessity of human perfection of the material state before complete spiritualization of existence can follow. Thus, in accomplishing the process of complete spiritualization, each individual must have overcome and eliminated from experience the minor or secondary conditions of material existence, such as sickness, poverty, sorrow, inharmonies, and the like, before he can proceed to the larger problem of spiritually or mentally overcoming and eliminating matter entirely. In following, then, the divine order of complete salvation, instead of being possessed of a human mind through which is manifested a sick, poverty-stricken, material body, we shall find ourselves, as thought becomes more spiritual, possessed of a consciousness through which is manifested a material body and a material universe, from which have been eliminated all elements of sin, sickness, hate, jealousy, poverty, inharmonies, danger, discord, and the like.

What a birth to be permitted to enjoy the gifts of nature in all their pristine simplicity, without the carnal accompaniments of danger, harm, and destruction for which our own wrong thinking has ever been responsible! How beautiful the smile of the goldenrod without those elements of distress which annually plague the victims of hay fever! What happiness and contentment in the world wherein the creatures of forest and field are free from the carnivorousness and bestiality of human imposing! Surely, "the wolf also shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; and the calf and the young lion and the falling together; and a little child shall lead them." What happiness, joy, and comfort shall be found in the company of those in whom we find no guile, no sin, and no hate, because we see as Jesus saw.

Had To Walk Home

Mrs. Andrews Recalls a Curious Incident of Many Years Ago

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:— Speaking of those Haverer boys, as was done in The Black Cat column recently, I recall being a friend of their sister, Vinnie, when we were youngsters. She being the eldest, we sort of looked up to her.

I took violin lessons from her and we had a hobby of playing in churches, accompanying the choirs. We went to all churches around town, regardless of denominations. Once there was a circus in Rockland and I was invited to attend with Vinnie. On arrival at her home, I found she had dressed up four brothers to accompany us. I never knew just how many boys there were in that family. Vinnie was the only girl.

We should have ridden to the circus grounds but Vinnie thought there were so many of us that we had better walk and have our money to spend at the circus. I had no brothers nor sisters, so I felt quite important as I stepped out with the two youngest boys, one hanging to each hand. Vinnie had the other two by the hands, with strict orders not to let go.

It was quite a walk from their house to the circus grounds. They lived on the car line on the road to the Highlands. We arrived in due season, tired but happy. Then you should have seen the pink lemonade those boys made disappear. We intended to ride home on the electric, but after filling up those boys and showing them the side shows, we found our purses empty, so we had to walk home.

One of the boys I was leading became drowsy, let go my hand, and rolled off the sidewalk. I never knew which gave me the most kick—attending that circus and helping care for those boys. I recently met another of the boys and as we were speaking of the old days, he said he would never forget a Sunday when his sister took him to my home to dinner. He could never remember what there was to eat because he was nervous and kept kicking the table legs, which made his sister nervous and she kept kicking him. All this went on under the table, so nobody else was wise. Nevertheless, "boys will be boys" and one seldom finds any of more activity than the Haverers.

Mrs. John H. Andrews

TENANT'S HARBOR DAYS

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:— As near as I can determine, of the 90 pupils who attended school in District 19 in 1876 when Fred A. Alden was master, there are now only 23 living. Where are they now? What lands and skies paint pictures in their friendly eyes?

Nan Gilchrist Alden, Thomaston; Henry Haskell, Providence; Etta Loud Hart, Portland; Thankful Snow Monaghan, Nellie N. Clark, Etta Bickmore Wall, Emma McNeil Torrey, Herbert Davis, Frank Long, Della Bickmore, Tenants Harbor; Fannie Boyles Wall (?); Clara Simmons Robinson, Rockland; Lavina Seavey Whitehouse, Wollaston, Mass.; Emma Delany Sweetland, Charles H. Sweetland, Miami, (touring New England summer of 1938, with trailer; last known, Plymouth, Mass.); Austin St. Clair, Framingham, Mass.; John F. Tracy, Bridgton; Wentworth ("Wint") Seavey, Quincy, Mass.; Percy Bickmore, Camden, N. J.; Sherman B. Hupper, Stoneham, Mass.; Adam Hayes, Los Angeles; Albion (Boze) Crocker, Melvin Hart, Somerville, Mass.

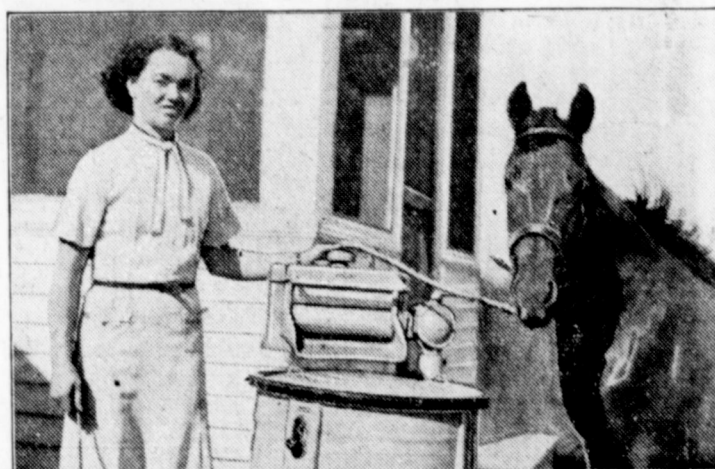

Greetings and best wishes from your oldtime schoolmate.

Plucky Maine Farm Girl Finds Way To Buy Long-Wanted Saddle Horse

ETHEL DOLAN does all the work on the 25-acre Maine farm where she lives with her mother. She plows and mows, cares for four head of stock, cut the hay last year on three farms for her own farm's use and hired out on another farm. And yet she was so determined to own a blood saddle horse that she found time, in addition, to do other work that would give her the money she needed for her heart's desire. From her savings she bought a household washer, did washings for neighbors, made more money for herself.

"I bought Del September 24, 1937, and brought him home that day," she reports. "He knows more now than a good many full-grown horses. He already is well on the road in his training. He had his first birthday April 14, 1938. In the spring of 1939 I'll be driving him and a year from then I'll try to ride him!"

Posing proudly with Del for their picture together, the courageous girl saw to it that she had in the photograph, too, the efficient appliance that helped her make her dream come true. "Farm life is not always the easiest, but certainly there is satisfaction in it," says Ethel Dolan. "If I were a poet, I think I'd write of nothing but thankfulness for being a farmer!"

Bing Crosby is writing today's column of "Hollywood Star-Lites" while Columnist Chuck Cochard is recuperating from a serious illness in a Hollywood hospital. Bing is vacationing at his race track at Del Mar, Calif., and has kindly consented to pinch-hit for Mr. Cochard.

By Bing Crosby
Recently I made a picture in company with lions, tigers, leopards, jaguars, bears, elephants and Andy Devine. Beatrice Lillie was in the picture, too, and the wild animals almost scared her out of her wits—and vice versa. The 300 small monkeys that scampered through some of the scenes broke away one day and for three or four hours mingled with the people on Hollywood Boulevard until you could hardly tell the difference. Then one of the seals bit the hip pocket off Andy Devine's pants.

This, it would seem, is enough for any actor who is trying to maintain a semblance of sanity. But now they've put me in "Sing You Sinners," and where that last picture was a romp—this is a runaway.

First of all, I have a kid brother in this one. Donald O'Connor, a newcomer from vaudeville, who has been trouping since he was two years old. He comes to work the first day with a haircut which looks as if a bunch of CCC boys cut a firebreak through his scalp. After the first take, Wesley Ruggles, the director, says, "Don't talk so loud, Donald, you're talking to a microphone, not to a gallery."

"I see," says Donald, "You don't want me to pitch to the customers on the shelf."

Then we have Ellen Drew, a sweet little thing who is making her debut as leading lady for Fred MacMurray and me. Ellen used to be Terry Ray. I got a notice one day that she is henceforth to be known as Ellen Drew. The next day they notify me that her name has been changed back to Terry Ray. Then the next day they tell me that it has been changed back to Ellen Drew again.

It gets so I think I am playing opposite Ellen Terry—and so does Fred. And speaking of Fred—there is a guy. Just when I am getting down to studying my lines, he comes over and starts showing me a reel he has bought for catching steelheads. I brush him off and he comes back to tell me that he shot 100 out of 100 skeet over the week-end.

One day he came over all broken up and disconsolate, worrying if the canary bird on the set had enough to eat.

It's all a crooner can do, I tell you to keep his head about him under conditions like that.

Jack Benny and Mary Livingstone cut their vacation in Seattle short to be back in Hollywood for 303 voyage greetings to George Burns and Gracie Allen, who left for a Honolulu vacation. Jack and Mary plan a trip to New York as soon as "Artists and Models Abroad" is previewed. Eleanor Whitney has been taken home from the Cedars of Lebanon hospital where she underwent a tonsilectomy following completion of her role in "Campus Confessions." Olympe (O-lamp) Bradna vacationing at Del Mar and La Jolla with her mother and father before starting work with Ray Milland in "Say It in French."

YOUR LIFE INSURANCE

ONE quarter of a million dollars an hour, more than one and one-half times the pay received by every public servant in the United States and nearly three times as much as automobile factory payrolls, was paid out by American life insurance companies to policyholders or their beneficiaries during 1937, according to a statement made today by the National Committee for Life Insurance Education.

"Payments of more than one quarter million dollars an hour, every hour of the day and every day during 1937, were made by the 315 life insurance companies, an indication of the influence of insurance in the life of the nation," declared the committee. "These payments to life insurance owners or their beneficiaries were sufficient to pay one and a half times every public servant in this country—every regular employee of federal, state, county, municipal or other governmental units in the United States. Life insurance payments approximated $2,400,000,000, while payrolls of all types of governmental units were estimated at $1,572,000,000."

Life insurance companies, in paying out $2,400,000,000 to policyholders, their dependents or beneficiaries, distributed nearly three times as much money as did automobile and automotive parts manufacturers through factory payrolls during 1937.

These disbursements by life insurance companies, like the payrolls of governmental units and automobile factories, were shared by the direct recipients with many thousands—families, relatives and friends. "In many instances," the committee explained, "life insurance payments restored to the family something of the value which was lost when the breadwinner died, such as the fruits of his labors. In other cases these payments provided for total or presumably permanent disability of the breadwinner and his family, while in other instances the life insurance payments furnished the means for retirements of the breadwinner from active work. Life insurance companies payments, however, were used for a score of other purposes—education, travel, marriage, starting businesses—besides the three types of economic disease, premature death, total disability or retirement."

Sixty years ago $50,000 was the largest amount issued on an individual life by any company in the United States. Individual owners of more than $100,000 of life insurance then were a rarity.

The largest total life insurance payment on an individual policyholder during 1937, according to preliminary figures of the National Committee for Life Insurance Education, was $2,990,000, which contrasts with $225,000, the largest payment on an individual in 1936.

The United States and Canada have nearly 75 per cent of the life insurance protection of the world, according to the National Committee for Life Insurance Education, which puts life insurance in force in the two countries at the end of 1937 at $115,000,000,000.

They're Looking at the Motor Traffic of 1960

A CONCEPTION of motor traffic facilities in the world of tomorrow, in which express boulevards will carry with ease an unbelievable volume of traffic at high, controlled speeds, with day and night driving equally safe and accidents almost impossible, will be shown in the General Motors exhibit at the New York World's Fair, William S. Knudsen, President, has announced. The exhibit will be known as "Highways and Horizons."

In commenting on the exhibit, which was designed by Norman Bel

Geddes, Mr. Knudsen pointed out that it was not the purpose of General Motors to forecast in detail what the highways of the future will be, but rather to give expression to the belief that such development will take place on an important scale and perhaps within a shorter period of time than most people now realize.

Visitors will begin their tour of "Highways and Horizons" in comfortable, moving chairs, mounted on a continuous escalator. They will be transported over what will appear to be hundreds of miles of future express superhighways and feeder roads connecting these highways with present roads. The tour will be climaxed when the visitor emerges from his Aladdin-like traveling chair onto a full-size street intersection in the "World of Tomorrow." Extending for almost a city block in four directions, the spectacular street intersection, forming the center section of the building, will present a living picture of the architecture, motor traffic and pedestrian facilities of the future. The architect for the building will be Albert Kahn of Detroit.

GRANGE MATTERS

Oldest Grange Member

Death has claimed the oldest New England Grange member in point of service, Fayette Richardson of St. Johnsbury, Vermont, who was the first signer on the charter roll of Green Mountain Grange No. 1, 67 years ago—the pioneer subordinate in all the group of six states. Mr. Richardson had remained active until the very last and frequently attended Grange gatherings a considerable distance from home, as well as being a regular attendant at all the Green Mountain meetings at St. Johnsbury.

Railroads Hard Hit

The ill effects of the depression upon the railroads of the country may be gathered from the statement that car loadings during the first half of 1938 were 25 per cent smaller than during the first half of 1937.

In consequence net operating income, the amount of gross earnings left after paying operating expenses and taxes, declined from $240,104,000 in the first five months of 1937, to $45,300,000 in the first five months of 1938.

Purchases of equipment and materials by the railroads, exclusive of fuel, amounted to less than $200,000,000 during the first half of the year, as compared to $345,000,000 during the first six months of 1937.

The number of railway employees during the first half of the year was about 195,000 less than for the same period of 1937.

More Education Demanded

The Oregon State Grange has taken a strong stand in behalf of extensive education that shall warn against the poisonous effects of marihuana, whose deadly results when smoked, especially among young people, are becoming startlingly apparent. An extensive program is being inaugurated among Oregon Granges to spread warning against this new danger and to promote similar programs among schools of the State. The horror and destruction which marihuana invariably brings to its victims has been only recently understood, as quantities of it have appeared in great volume across the Mexican border, have been found a valuable tool by the underworld and are being peddled widely throughout the United States, especially in the larger cities.

Many Rural Improvements

A recent survey made by the Bureau of the Census indicates substantial increases in the proportion of farm dwellings lighted by electricity and those provided with bathrooms and supplied with radios. Farm tractors have shown a great increase in numbers during recent years, as have motor trucks and automobiles. The proportion of farms provided with telephone shows no appreciable change.

Interest Savings

During the three-year period from 1935 to 1937, both inclusive, the Farm Credit Administration has refunded at substantial savings in interest outstanding bonds of Federal Land Banks in the sum of $790,000,000. The interest rate carried by the new bonds is 3 per cent. The average interest rate on the 10-year bonds of the government itself now is 2.88 per cent.

More Oleo Than Butter

The estimated production of creamery butter in United States during the first half of 1938 was 900,755,000 pounds, compared with 837,238,000 pounds for the first half of 1937.

Sales of oleomargarine during the first six months of 1938 totaled 202,655,000 pounds, an increase of more than 16,000,000 pounds over the sales of the first six months of 1937.

Buying Skim Milk

The Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation has announced that it will purchase during the remainder of the present fiscal year a total of 30,000,000 pounds of dry skim milk, for relief distribution and as an aid to dairymen. Last year the Corporation spent $1,322,000 for 21,520,000 pounds of skim milk, all of which was distributed among those on relief.

Potato Growers Vile

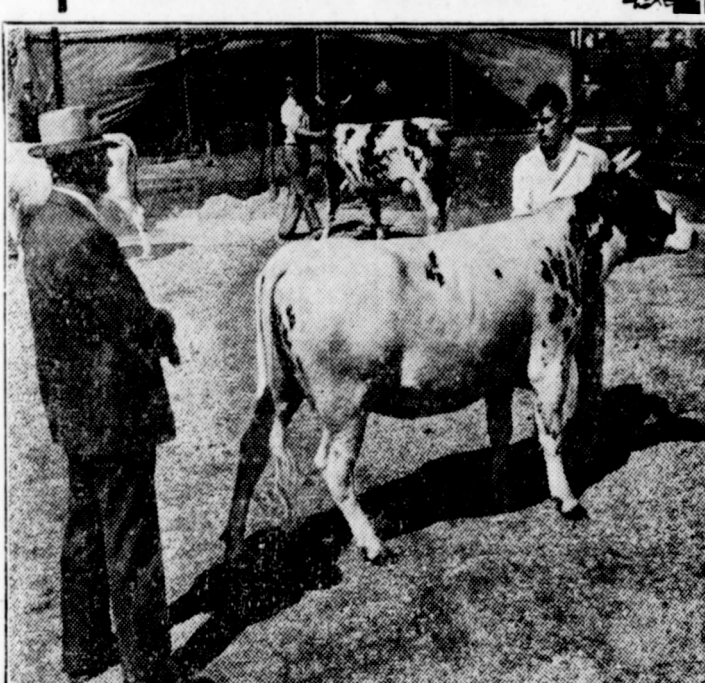

Several thousand commercial potato growers of 15 late producing states are expected to vote in a referendum, August 19 to 24, to determine whether they favor issuance of an order which would require potato handlers to comply with a proposed marketing agreement program offered by the Department of Agriculture.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD
PICTURES AT THE FAIR

Stock showings provide snapshot chances at the fair—and so do many other events. Take the camera wherever things are going on!

COUNTY and State fairs supply a wealth of picture material for the busy camera. So do street fairs and carnivals. Take your camera along when you visit these lively affairs, and you'll have no difficulty keeping it active all day long.

On such occasions, there is always plenty going on, and wherever things are happening one can find subjects for pictures. Especially do these events offer opportunities for the "off-guard" type of story-telling snapshots. The vendor of toy balloons making a sale, the fat man munching a hamburger at a midway booth, the "barker" in front of a sideshow, the child gazing longingly at the merry-go-round—these are but samples of the dozens of picture chances you may find in an afternoon's visit.

And there are many other types of snapshots to take. One always finds contests and exhibits, ranging from home-canned peaches to prize watermelons, chocolate layer-cakes and the "best bushels" of corn. Snapshots of the judging, as well as the exhibits, make good pictures for your collection. Too, there are horse and livestock shows that offer many picture-taking possibilities.

Keep your eyes open, try to capture the spirit of the fair in all its aspects, and you will come home with a pocket full of good snapshots. These occasions just give point to an old rule—if you want really good pictures, and plenty of them, take the camera where there's something going on!

John van Guilder.
