Coming To Maine

Two Bay State Women Will Carry Gospel To 117 Communities

Miss Katie J. MacNeill of Avon, Mass., one of the few women licensed as preachers in the Baptist Church, announced yesterday she planned soon to carry the Gospel to the 117 Maine communities where Baptist churches have been closed.

With her in the campaign will go her friend, Miss Florence Martin of Westbrook and Cambridge, Me. The girls, admitting that remuneration would be small, said they planned to use an automobile, conduct services in as many of the 117 churches as possible and finally establish a "circuit" of two or three churches in which they would preach once each week.

Miss MacNeill studied two years at the Providence Bible Institute. She qualified for her license by conducting services at the Avon Baptist Church Nov. 26, and received her license Sunday. She joined the local church in 1931, and is secretary of the Brockton and Plymouth County Christian Endeavor Unions.

MORE KIND WORDS

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

This is to wish you and your staff a Merry Christmas and very happy and prosperous New Year. May I also extend it to the contributors who help to make the paper so interesting and educational.

Let's vote for the best. May I suggest K. S. F. as first. Who thinks differently? Of course, The Black Cat is tops, but I count him on the staff. It would be difficult to choose who would be second, as they are all very good.

Mrs. Mary S. Beverage

IT WAS A GOOD SHOW

Chicken Supper, Speeches and Entertainment Provided By Fire Department

The pleasant custom, adopted a year ago of having a Fire Department banquet, was repeated last night. The first occasion was meant to create an interest in improved fire fighting equipment. While last night's gathering was a congratulatory affair on the success which has been thus far achieved in the acquisition of such properties.

The banquet was held in the rooms of the American Legion, which organization has worked hand in hand with the Fire Department the past year, and which to answer a call for help, and is ready to do so now. He told of taking the apparatus to a Lincolnville fire while the town manager was temporarily absent. When they met next morning Chief Payson said: "Well, Mr. Keller, I went without orders, I don't know what you are going to say." The town manager replied: "I would have had plenty to say if you had not gone."

"I want to assure you that you will have Thomaston's co-operation," said Chief Engineer Edwin Anderson. "Give us a ring, and we will be there in five or six minutes."

The oldest man in the Fire Department was present—Gene Perry, and he was tendered an ovation. "We had some good times hauling those old hose carts through Main street," said he.

Donald L. Kelsey spoke briefly. Tribute was paid him by the toastmaster because of the capable work he has done in presenting entertainments the past year. "The Legion is ready to help the Fire Department anytime," he said.

Representative Alan L. Bird commended the successful efforts of Chief Engineer Van Russell and his Fire Department, and said that such meetings as these were needed. He believed it would be a fine thing for the Department to have portable flood lights such as he had recently seen in another city, and that if the citizens cared to interest themselves in such a contrivance the Camden & Rockland Water Co. would do its share.

Other speakers were F. A. Winslow and Charles Gorman of Augusta.

Chief Van Russell did not escape scot free. He was blushing forced

Congratulations, Van Russell, a nice party

[EDITORIAL]

THE TURBULENT COUGHLIN

Fr. Charles E. Coughlin, the radio priest, is again before the microphone these Sabbath afternoons, possibly doing good, as he sees it, but certainly creating an inflammatory spirit more pronounced than that which existed when his broadcasts ceased a year ago. Again it is made very plain that he is not speaking as a representative of the Catholic Church and that his views are not in accord with those of Pope Pius who has denounced Anti-Semitism as incompatible with Christianity. Fr. Coughlin's position on the Jewish question drew from Dr. Solomon Freehof, a Pittsburgh rabbi, the assertion that "if Hitler wanted a propagandist in America he couldn't ask for anything better than the Royal Oaks priest. Continuing, Dr. Freehof said: "We are not going to let that propaganda jeopardize the strong comradeship of the Catholic, the Protestant and the Jew."

Speaking in refutation of Fr. Coughlin's views Sunday afternoon, Frank J. Hogan, Catholic president of the American Bar Association, said:

We are justly proud of calling our country the land of the free. But, my friends, the United States of America will not remain free for any of us unless it remains free for all of us. Let us, you and I, hand it on to posterity as it was handed down to us—the freest of the nations of the earth.

In Germany, the Jew was the first and foremost victim of hate and persecution. He is still the chief victim, but now the Catholic and the Protestant too share in part of his fate. It is no accident that the government which has dedicated itself to destroying the Jews in Germany root and branch is also committed to the destruction of Christian religion.

In Germany, Jews are hounded and beaten on the public highways, forced back into the ghetto, deprived of all the rights of civilized men. But in Germany today the Catholic church is also persecuted. Cardinal Faulhaber and Cardinal Innitzer are sneered at, mocked and threatened. Church windows are smashed, defenseless priests are attacked in the streets, Catholic children are denied the rights to a Catholic education.

MAY DRAFT CORDELL HULL

The indoor game of President making continues to develop "possibilities" and "available" and the latest to be named is that estimable Democrat Cordell Hull, who in his capacity as Secretary of State looms now as a mediator of this country's foreign affairs. He has drawn more apologies from the naughty nations than any other Secretary of State for many years and he has followed a course which has kept us off foreign battlefields, but the apologies appear as so many "scraps of paper" and the actual strength of our own position is no greater than the defensive program which we are launching on the sea and on the land. But all in all the smooth-spoken man from Tennessee is far preferable to some Democrats who have been mentioned, and he would have one decided advantage in that he would be running for a first term instead of a third.

"The Black Cat"

By The Roving Reporter

The Black Cat is just one year old today. It began as rather a scrawny feline, but soon developed into the handsome pet which now occupies the best chair in Mayor Edward R. Veazie's home. I had long treasured the desire to be a newspaper columnist of sorts, but kept putting it off year by year for the reason that I could not seem to find a title which suited me, until apropos of nothing, I happened to hit upon "The Black Cat." If I am to judge from the comments I hear on all sides, and from letters which have originated as far away as Honolulu this cat has become something of a favorite.

I never had much faith in the prediction as to what the winter and summer were going to be like. Possibly because the experts and the oldest inhabitants fail to agree. But here's Robert M. Dole, meteorologist of Portland Weather Bureau saying that the movement of the sun spot cycle convinces him that this winter will be mild. Mebbe so, but it didn't start in that way.

Why do they wait until the last minute, and then have to wait in line? The time-honored question was suggested yesterday when a motorist who went to the local registration office for next year's driving license found himself the sole customer. Licenses must be obtained before Jan. 1st.

No Christmas lights are more welcome than those which illumine the Butler clock in the First Baptist steeple.

What is meant by "tactless." Perhaps it refers to the person who buys goods in one store, then goes to the next store selling the same articles, and asks for a bag in which to carry his purchases. A number of local merchants will tell you it is frequently done.

The impression first gained ground that I desired items about animals, and while these are always welcome, my ambition is to use matters which people like to discuss, whether reminiscent of other days or relating to the present moment. Odd items about people and things, good stories (preferably those which are true) and anything which affords variety and which makes good reading without hurting anybody's feelings. The Black Cat wants to so conduct itself as to make good friends every day. "We're only going through once," as the feller said, so let's try to make the way as congenial for each other as possible.

I enjoyed a reminiscent chat Saturday with Fred H. Ward of West Springfield, Mass. whom I especially remember as a goal tend on a local polo team known as the Majors. In the history of local sports there is not a more glorious chapter than the one which concerns the now defunct roller polo. It begins away back when Pat McAuliffe and his H.M.B.'s were amazing all New England with their marvelous series of victories over Massachusetts clubs. It passes on through the time when Rockland won the championship of the Maine State League, and embraces the amateur regime when the Majors and Centrals were having their hectic battles. And in the final days when Rockland again had a salaried team there were seen in this city the world's finest aggregation of roller polo players.

Black cats are much more useful than some folks would have us believe. Irving Petty of Oxford, N. J. owns a coal black tomboy which is an expert in retrieving fallen game, and can go after a real rabbit as fast as a whippet goes after a tin one.

One year ago, Gerald Beverage was elected master of Limerock Pomona Grange—Ivan Scott was elected president of the State of Maine Blueberry Growers Association.—Mrs John E. Leach died suddenly after collapsing in front of a local bank.

WE'RE AGREED

Seldom do many folks agree on any single matter. But we Americans all do seem to feel the same about one important thing—the need for old-age income.

There is only one absolutely sure way of guaranteeing such an income—and that's through life insurance.

The rates are going up next month. You save money if you buy now.

indicated last night through its spokesman Donald L. Kelsey that the co-operation would continue.

The supper last night was provided by the American Legion Auxiliary, under the direction of Mrs. Annie Alden and had as its nucleus deliciously cooked chicken. Brave appetites faced the long tables, but steaming plates of victuals, piled perilously high, met the situation most effectively.

Clerk of Courts Milton M. Griffin steered the course admirably as toastmaster, and Milton French with his "box of tricks" added several delightful features to the program. A brief singing period had meantime been conducted by Parker E. Worrey.

Mayor Edward R. Veazie, the first speaker, told of numerous entertainments which had been given by the Legion the past year, and from the fund raised several splendid pieces of equipment have been bought. He hoped that the citizens will co-operate at fires by keeping the zone clear of cars.

J. M. Richardson reaffirmed his allegiance to the department and voiced his pride in its present efficiency. He felt that Rockland's amazingly low fire loss in 1937 was due not only to fire-safe construction and better equipment but also to enthusiastic public co-operation with the department in fire prevention as well as extinguishing.

Toastmaster Griffin in addition to giving all of the speakers a good send off, sandwiched into the entertainment some of his own fire recollections as a Northend boy.

Allen F. Payson, chief engineer of the Camden Department, said his department had always been ready

Toastmaster Griffin was right on the job

A PRACTICAL CRAFT

When the new combination passenger and cargo steamer Ancon slid down the ways at Quincy, Mass., Saturday Uncle Sam could but view with pride the new 10,000-ton craft which is built for commercial purposes, primarily, but which could be transformed into a powerful factor in case of war. Two similar ships are being completed, and of all three it is said: "They will be the safest in the world."

OTHERS TO REMEMBER

In these abbreviated days, now almost the shortest of the year, the citizens find an excessively active demand upon their time and their purse, and in meeting it they are fortified by the Yuletide spirit. Various charitable enterprises are in motion and their maintenance creates demands which are not easily met, yet be it noted that Rockland's civic spirit is always to the fore and no one is knowingly permitted to suffer.

Dr. Lowe's Challenge

Asks Those Who Would Do Away With Capitalism To Name Substitute

Last Sunday Dr. John Smith Lowe opened what promises to be a notable series of sermons. The announcement in Saturday's Courier-Gazette brought out a large congregation not only from the city but from neighboring towns.

One gathers from the opening sermon in the series that Dr. Lowe will examine the Profit System and Capitalism in the light of the Christian Ethic with his well known thoroughness, courage and responsibility.

The opening sermon was largely devoted to reporting on the existing states of mind and conditions which imperil our traditional liberties as well as our security. It appeared to the thoughtful that there is an economic foundation to the structure of Christian character. Shall we do away with the Profit System in order to live the Christian Life, was the exceedingly live question put forward to be treated later in this course of sermons.

Dr. Lowe did not disclose his views fully but threw out a challenge to those who would do away with Capitalism to propose something definite to take its place. In these times of stress and revolution this course of sermons promises to be nothing less than sensational in the better and spiritual sense of that word.

Those who hear next Sunday's discourse will find it independent of its predecessor and effective by itself.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

If I had my life to live again I would have made a rule to read some poetry and listen to some music at least once a week. The loss of these tastes is a loss of happiness.—Charles Darwin.

DOG LEFT BEHIND

You guessed it for an hour or more; You sensed the symptoms long before We donned our wraps and locked the door— You knew that we were leaving. You trotted all around the place With drooping tail and pleading face; You sniffed and watched and wagged in space. In readiness for grieving. With woe-filled eyes that tried to talk You recognized my evening frock. You knew it didn't mean a walk. And whined with lonesome sorrow. But though it seems forlornly hard, You'll have to stay behind on guard And think about your nice reward— A luscious bone tomorrow! —Margaret Mackprang Mackay

TALK OF THE TOWN

King Solomon's Temple Chapter, R.A.M. will have work on the Mark Master and Past Master degrees tomorrow night.

"From one patient to another" was the comradely caption of a letter received lately by George Ryan, a patient at Knox Hospital. Mrs. Charles Swett, enroute to the sunny climes, paused for eye treatment at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore where the Knox County tri-weekly paid a visit, its columns telling her of Mr. Ryan's hospitalization.

"The Light on Beacon Hill" a one-act play by Community Theatre Guild, will be presented in Congregational vestry following Wednesday night's circle supper. Joseph Emery and Lucien Dean are coaching the play with stage and properties in charge of Mrs. Evelyn Cameron. The cast includes Eleanor Staples, Maxwell Ames, Lena Fales and Clifford Cameron. The Woman's Association is sponsor.

The beautiful cake that was sold at the Knox Hospital Auxiliary food sale went to Mrs. H. P. Blodgett and Mrs. William W. Spear who guessed nearest the number of beans in a bottle and the polite ladies would not divide the marvelously decorated cake, but at the suggestion of Bert Blodgett sent it intact to the Home for Aged Women where it was most deeply appreciated and enjoyed. The result of this sale was over $40.

At the Congregational Circle supper Wednesday, committees will be: A. C. Jones and L. B. Cook, co-chairmen, Milton Griffin, Maurice Lovejoy, Fred Black, G. A. Lawrence, W. I. Ayer, H. B. Bird, W. W. Spear, E. K. Leighton, C. H. Duff, J. C. Perry, H. A. Buffum, G. F. Snow, A. J. Bird, A. L. Orne, H. B. Fales, John I. Snow, J. O. Stevens, C. I. Burrows, Alvin Ramsdell, J. E. Stevens, E. J. Heller, B. B. Smith, Henry C. Chatto, Victor Ramsdell, E. C. Davis, Dr. A. W. Foss, E. L. Spear, Alan L. Bird, C. A. Emery, Kennedy Crane, Homer Robinson, Joseph Emery, J. E. Bradstreet, Charles Merritt, Rev. Corwin H. Olds.

Golden Rod Chapter, O.E.S., was hostess Friday at a Visiting Officers' Night, with 109 visitors attending from all parts of the county. Circle supper was served to 200 guests and members. Mrs. Caroline Stewart was chairman, using effective table decorations of cones, greens and candles. Officers of the local chapter conducted the opening and closing exercises the ritualistic work being impressively done by the visiting officers who were presented with gifts of appreciation. Chapters represented were Grace of Thomaston, Ivy of Warren, Naomi of Tenants Harbor, Wiwuna of Waldoboro, Orient of Union, Fond-du-lac of Washington, Garrison Hill of Wiscasset, Crystal of Damariscotta, Marion of Gardiner, Forget-me-not of South Thomaston, Seaside of Camden, Harbor Light of Rockport, Beach of Lincolnville, Primrose of Belfast, Marguerite of Vinal Haven, Pegasus of Patten, Pioneer of Lisbon Falls, Lincoln of Lincoln, Friendship of Mars Hill, Quoddy of Lubec and Anchor of Searsport. Knox Hospital Alumnae Association will meet tomorrow night at 7.30, at the Bok Home for Nurses.

The City Council had a special meeting last night and approved four beer licenses. Another meeting will be held Wednesday night.

The Christmas party and treat for the Junior and primary children of the Methodist Sunday School will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the vestry.

Manager Miller Burgin of the Coca Cola district early caught the Christmas spirit, as shown by the attractive display window at his plant on the New County road. Fireplace, easy chair 'n' everything.

The Junior Women's Club entertained about 25 girls in the East Room of the Community Building Thursday night. This was the first meeting for the girls and a very fine time was reported. The East Room is to be used for this purpose every Thursday night from 6.30 to 8 and all girls of Junior High School age are invited. Table games were played and refreshments of fudge and popcorn made by the girls were served. The hostesses for this meeting were Mary Lawry, Dorothy Lawry, Margaret Adams, Evelyn Goodnow, Mildred Sweeney, Pat Thompson, Virginia Leach, Eleanor Tibbets and Madeline Jackson. A Victrola was loaned by the Maine Music Company adding much enjoyment to the evenings entertainment.

Sunday Dec. 19, is the date for the big Christmas party to be given by Winslow-Holbrook Post, American Legion at Park Theatre with a monster picture show especially for the Kiddies. On the stage will be presented several acts especially for the occasion winding up with a large tree decorated with lights and all the other fixings to make it a sight that will please. A bag of candy, nuts and fruit will be given to each child attending. Ice cream bars will also be given at the door as they enter. The time of the show and other details will be given later. Thursday night Legionnaires are requested to be at the Legion hall at 7.30 and help pack the bags for this party. The Legion expects to give out 800 bags of candy to the underprivileged children of Rockland at their Christmas party on Sunday. A buffet lunch will be served Thursday night to the workers.

The W. C. T. U. met Friday with Miss Lena Miller. Twelve members and three guests were present. Articles on Peace were read by Mrs. Alice Kittridge, Mrs. Minnie Cross, Miss Ada Young, Mrs. Hope Brewster, Mrs. Clara Emery, Miss Florence Hastings, Mrs. John Ross-nagels, guest soloist, sang most pleasingly, "A Christmas Hymn" with Mrs. Irene Walker, accompanist. This hymn is dedicated to the seafaring folk and is sung every year in the church at Oyster Bay, formerly attended by Theodore Roosevelt. At the business session, it was voted to buy a large portrait of Frances Willard for use in programs and exhibits during the Centennial year. Mrs. Minnie Cross and Mrs. Florence Pike were appointed to serve with the executive officers as a committee on membership. Because of the time taken in discussion the program on Peace, prepared by Miss Alena Young was omitted, to be given at a later date. The next meeting, Dec. 23, will be a Christmas party and program with the ladies at the Home for Aged Women.

Dr. Burton E. Flanders, who has spent the past week in New York attending the Greater New York Dental meeting has returned home.

"The Great Arico" was almost in a class by himself last night at the Star Alleys, defeating Gardner 1044 to 976 in a 10-string match. Christmas advertising crowds the details into Thursday's issue.

Ralph Ulmer Camp and Auxiliary meet Wednesday night. Supper at 6 with Adah Roberts, Annie Trundy and Laura Ranlett in charge. Take prizes for beans. Auxiliary will have election of officers.

Edward J. Whalen of Washington was a somewhat spectacular respondent in Municipal Court yesterday, elaborately bandaged as the result of injuries received when his car ran into Alvah Spear's residence in Warren. Bad as he looked, the house got the worst of it, for the impact stove a large hole in the side of the building and actually moved the structure off its foundation, one inch. The charges against him yesterday were taking his employer's car without permission, driving without an operator's license, and reckless driving. The first named charge was filed, his license was revoked and he was sentenced to serve 30 days in jail on each count.

MY NEIGHBOR—THE JEW
By Charles L. H. Wagner
Six thousand years look from deep in his eyes
And their imprint is burned in his soul.
His heritage owns rich gifts of the wise
Written large on Humanity's scroll;
Though I come from a race that is upstart and proud
Of a "kultur" that brooks no defeat,
When I measure the Jew, I stand humble and bowed
And I blush for a nation's conceit.
Why should I boast as an Aryan, of breed
When the land of my sires is rent
With the curses of hate and the damning of creed,
When comrades sit by and assent
Does the God that I own love my neighbor the less
If eyes that are his do not see
On a level with mine?—If so, I'll confess
That God is not God, then, to me.
My neighbor, the Jew, is a neighbor and friend
When trouble or sorrow is mine,
His heart with his purse he doth freely extend
Nor ask for race token, nor sign.
O Creator of men, give me song that shall prove
My debt to my neighbor, the Jew,
And forgive those poor fools who prate
Of Thy love
Yet arrogate it for the few.

He came to Bath in 1918 and for a few years worked at the Bath Iron Works. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge in Rockland and of the Episcopal Church there.

He is survived by his wife, two sons, Oscar P. Thornton, with whom he made his home the last 20 years, Charles Thornton of Rockland; one daughter, Mrs. Velma Marsh, of Rockland; and one sister, Mrs. Ella Corbett of Portland. He is also survived by five grandchildren, Edward S. Thornton and Mrs. Grace Mansfield of Arlington, Mass., Wendell Thornton of Newton, Mass., Miss Frances Marsh and Oscar Marsh of Rockland and several great-grandchildren.

Hill 85 years ago, and had made her home in this city since the death of her husband Nathaniel Ward, about 20 years ago. She lost her sight six years ago, and for four years had been confined to her bed with a fractured hip. She was a charter member of Golden Rod Chapter, O.E.S., and in her younger days a regular attendant of Pratt Memorial M. E. Church.

Mrs. Ward was the mother of nine children all of whom died almost in their infancy. Thus afflicted the parents adopted a son, who became known as Fred H. Ward, upon whom they showered affection due to a child of their own. Mr. Ward, now a resident of West Springfield, Mass., was present at the funeral. Mrs. Ward left no other near relatives.

Llewellyn L. Pease, a subscriber in Appleton, makes an addition to the "bird names" which appeared in the "This and That" column recently. Mr. Pease's suggestion, which certainly qualifies, is "part-ridge."

"The Motion Picture Ramblings of a Parson" will be the subject of Rev. J. Charles MacDonald's lecture before the Baptist Men's League Thursday night. The members have already heard the pastor delightfully tell of his vacation trip to Palestine, and they will certainly be anxious to hear what he has to say about England and Scotland. And if he gets a little top-lofty about Scotland his ancestry will be charged up in his favor.

Federal food will be distributed Wednesday at the city building.

A bridge at Camden to cost $9351, is included among the W.P.A. projects to be handled this winter.

A very interesting short titled "Declaration of Independence" will be shown on the same program with "Ride a Crooked Mile" at Strand Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday.

Red and green traffic lights have been installed on the highway deck of the Carlton bridge. The green light will be on continuously when traffic is unobstructed, but when the gates are to be lowered and the draw is to be raised, the green light will automatically turn off and a red light will come on. The lights are established at the warning bell on the right hand side of the rail in either direction. A reflector button sign is also to be established about 250 feet before reaching the traffic lights. These signs measure about 20 by 24 inches and will call attention to "Traffic Signal Ahead." The idea is to curb the increasing prevalence of many motorists to attempt to beat the preliminary steps that are taken when the draw is about to be raised, which may result if continued, in an accident, and which has a tendency to slow up movements when the draw is to be raised to allow vessels to pass through the bridge.—Bath Times.

Vinal Haven Lions

Gather Around Smoking

Bean Pot and Hear Mr. Drew's Version

Nineteen hungry Lions gathered round the smoking bean pot at Union Church vestry Thursday night for the bi-monthly meeting, and the meeting will go down in the records as one of the liveliest and longest in the history of the Club.

Everybody was eager to hear the report of the success of the Club's bowling team that journeyed across a dusty ocean the day before into the main land jungle, and when King Lion Drew unwrapped the beautiful trophy that was awarded to the Vinal Haven Lions Club for the winning score, the team was given a big hand.

King Lion Drew, speaking for his brave little band which disregarded a sou'west gale and hubbly ocean to make the trip said—

"I believe that all those who made this trip to the Zone meeting will say that it was one of the best and most interesting they ever were on. On our arrival in Rockland, we were met by delegations from the Rockland Club headed by Zone Chairman Blake Annis and from the Camden Club headed by George Dyer, who whisked us away for a visit to the State Prison at Thomaston. There we had a very thorough visit in the institution, seeing for ourselves what goes to make up a prisoner's daily routine and seeing some of the people who have been in the headlines of the Maine papers for their misdeeds. During this visit and right in the prison office I found that all the pickpockets in the State were not caught however for someone lifted a valuable souvenir from me and it was not returned until Sheriff Ludwick was put on the trail of the culprit. I have a suspicion however that the Sheriff might have had a hand in the lifting, for outside the prison guards there was no one there but the visiting Lions.

"After watching the formation for dinner and the antics of the big collie dog that seemed to think he had to shepherd all the prisoners in, we departed for Rockland, where after lunch we motored to Camden, under the guidance of George Dyer, the Brothers Crockett, and Clem McCarthy. After an inspection tour of the Camden postoffice, we took the road to Camp 1130 C.C.C. situated on the highway between Camden and Lincolnville. Here we were accorded the guest privileges of the Camp under the direction of Camp Commander, Lieut. Jeffers, U.S.N., who went out of his way to explain the workings of the camp. Unless one has an opportunity to see them, it is hard to visualize the work done, or the benefits that accrue to the inmates. During the trip we ran into Neil Smith, who is officers' orderly in the camp. We did not see Donald Cotter, another Vinal Haven boy who is there, but we did meet Albert Adams, a former Vinal Havenite, who teaches school at the Camp.

"On our return, we stopped again at the Camden postoffice to allow Lion Peterson to inspect some of the electrical work which he installed there when the office was built, and from thence on to Rockland to the Zone meeting.

"At 6.30 Lions from the Club in Rockland, Vinal Haven, Camden-Rockport and Waldoboro held a joint meeting at which District Governor John Fogarty was an honored guest. During his speech District Governor Fogarty made the following remarks: "really get something out of Lionism, and the harder we work the more we get. Lions International has 3150 clubs and a membership of 105,000."

"After the meeting all interested Lions repaired to the Community Bowling Alleys where a match had been scheduled between teams representing the four clubs. On the draw, Vinal Haven was paired opposite to Camden and Rockland at Waldoboro for opposition. From the start it was apparent that some of the bowlers had been drafted and that they appeared more familiar with a ball than a ball, and with a high ball than a low ball. The Vinal Haven team clad in bowling uniforms of the Ganders, made over to suit the occasion started right off the bat to pile up a formidable score and soon had their Camden opponents on the run.

"At the end of two strings it was found there would not be time enough to go through with the bowling as planned so it was decid-

KNOW THIS VERSE

Written For The Star Spangled Banner By Oliver Wendell Holmes

A fifth verse of "The Star-Spangled Banner," written in 1861 by Oliver Wendell Holmes and now forgotten, was on display in manuscript Thursday at Widener Library at Harvard.

The verse was included in a music reader published in 1895 and used in the Boston schools and was the cause of a city hall tempest in 1924, when the then Corporation Counsel E. Mark Sullivan found it in a copy of the reader and demanded that it be thrown out for its "pro-British sentiment." It then developed that the verse had not been in any music book studied by Boston children for 20 years.

The verse follows:

"When our land is illumined with liberty's smile,
If a foe from within strike a blow at her glory,
Down, down with the traitor that dares to defile
The flag of her stars and the page of her story.
By the millions unchained when our birthright was gained,
We will keep her bright banner forever unstained.
And the Star-Spangled Banner in triumph shall wave
O'er the Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave."

The additional verse is said to have been written in response to parodies being sung in the South at the time.

Senior Play A Success
The four-act comedy "Romance for Three" presented at Town hall Friday night by the R. H. S. senior class drew a large and enthusiastic audience. That the players held the closest attention of their listeners was evidenced by the frequent bursts of applause and peals of laughter which greeted the many humorous scenes depicted.

The plot dealt with the young daughter, Mary Anne who was awarded the grand prize in a soap contest, a three weeks' visit to New York. Much concern was felt by her parents Mr. and Mrs. Smith, boarding house managers, for her safety in such a large and "wicked" city. This concern was also felt and definitely stated by all the boarders.

On her visit she fell in love at first sight with one of those "city suckers." How both Mary Anne and her lover posed as being of the wealthy class, how she tried to make her humble parents and other members of the household appear as aristocrats during a visit to her home by her lover and his parents, and how the real truth as to their financial position was finally revealed made a story full of comedy and interest.

Vera Easton as Mary Anne, handled the part in an especially pleasing manner. The part of mother taken by Josephine Pitts was also very well done and deserving of much credit. Phyllis Crockett as Miss McGillicuddy, anxious to marry but with no prospects, and Frederick Cavanaugh, as the rejected lover of Mary Anne, received much applause for their fine acting. Robert Marcello as Mary Anne's father, and Carolyn Andrews as Miss Hanson, a deaf old lady and very curious, furnished the highlights in the comedy part. Their acting was a near approach to the professional.

Robert's every action brought down the house and Carolyn's assumed trembling voice, apparent ignorance of all that was going on around her and the drawing of wrong conclusions to half-heard statements, proved her fully capable of handling the very difficult part assigned her. Lyle Noyes as Mortimer, Mary Anne's lover, Edith Cavanaugh as Hettie, the maid, Carroll Richards and Dorothy Keller, as Mr. and Mrs. Throtlebottom, parents of Mortimer, and George Walsley as Duke of Sussex deserve much credit for the excellent manner in which they handled their lines. In fact, the finished production showed that the cast was wisely selected and that each performer had profited by the skillful coaching of Mrs. Doris Graftam, English instructor in the school.

The High School orchestra, Clarence Fish, leader and Marjorie Brodis, pianist, played several selections before the raising of the curtain and between the acts. These were much enjoyed.

The business end of the performance was handled by: Grace Zoppina and Helen O'Jala as business managers; Alma Annis and Marion Taylor as ticket managers; Raymond O'Jala and Warren Barrows, stage; Maurice Carleton and David Eaton, electricians; Blanche Collins, prompter; Bernard Andrews, property manager; Ethel Hall, costume manager; Dorothy Kimball, head usher.

At the close of the play Mrs. Graftam was called to the stage and presented with a gift for her services, Lyle Noyes making the presentation speech.

The game party in Grand Army hall last night was largely attended and offered to the patrons valuable awards. Mrs. Maude Cables was chairman, having a capable corps of efficient helpers. The party was sponsored by Ruth Mayhew Tent.

All Convicts Free In Six Years, Except Lifers, Warden Welch Says

The speaker at the Kiwanis meeting last night was John H. Welch, warden of the Maine State Prison, who gave a very interesting address dealing with crimes and associated problems. Mr. Welch explained the crowded conditions as they exist today and told of the plan to add 72 new cells on the West side which would be completed in November.

He stated that 54 percent of those committed have no trades and some provision of an educational nature should be studied with a view of rehabilitation of this particular group so that when they are released they will have learned some useful occupation.

Mr. Welch brought out a very interesting point when he declared that aside from the 47 life inmates all of the present convicts would be at large in six and one-half years' time because of the expiration of their sentences or to parole regulations.

The Warden also said that approximately 90 percent of the criminals never had any Christian training and consequently were reared in an atmosphere which is conducive to criminal tendencies.

The warden answered several questions from the audience and in conclusion urged all parents to see to it that their children went to Sunday school and to church so that when they became old enough to distinguish right from wrong they will have had the benefit of the proper and wholesome training in early life.

Mode-of-the-moment fur and cloth coats to be seen at the School street shop of Lucien K. Green & Son offer a splendid opportunity for a happy solution of the gift problem for the feminine member of the family. Coats at Green's are uniformly high value, yet there is one priced within your means. The stocks are complete and the new coats are charmingly distinctive. See them before discussing further the Christmas problem. One of our coats will mean for her a truly happy Yuletide—adv.

When it rains very hard on Spring street, a roof water spout on the southern side of the street gives forth a merry avalanche of sparkling aqua and sometimes catches the unwary pedestrian with a cool deluge in the form of a shower bath. Possibly it is there for a real purpose: when the persons who have not been indulging in water but stronger liquids, are ushered into a compartment not far away.

And now comes the report from the biennial meeting of the Julius Rosenwald Fund, criticizing methods and facilities in the United States for educating teachers, saying "Teachers' colleges are poor in the brains and distinction of their faculties and in the abilities of their students." Well, what's to be done about it? All this talk should have some answer.

Speaking of carrot mincemeat—The writer went to a house in Port Clyde once and there was much fragrance in the air. She said to the hostess, "Something smells mighty good" and the hostess replied, "That's my best mince meat. I like it better than made with apples."

The announcement that Dec. 19 Handel's "Messiah" will be sung in Boston brings to mind the famous music lovers of Rockland in years past—Mr. and Mrs. James Wight, more familiarly known to almost everybody in Rockland as "Uncle Jimmy" and "Aunt Emma." They kept music alive and insisted on the best. The Philharmonic Society was their child of melody and they nurtured it until they were called to another home. They were not afraid of any composition and the concerts and music festivals they sponsored were always well attended.

Every great man deserves an autobiography and a biography—one to tell his side of the story and one to give the other.

Newspapers quote an Oberlin College professor as stating that King Solomon was vastly over-rated. Might it not be a misprint for over-mated?

This And That

DIET
"Methuselah ate what he found on his plate.
And never, as people do now,
Did he note the amount of the caloric count;
He ate it because it was chow."

He wasn't disturbed as at dinner he sat
Destroying a roast or a pie.
To think it was lacking in line or in fat,
Or a couple of vitamins shy.

He cheerfully chewed every species of food,
Untroubled by worries or fears,
Lest his health might be hurt by some fancy dessert—
And he lived over nine hundred years!"

Speaking of carrot mincemeat—The writer went to a house in Port Clyde once and there was much fragrance in the air. She said to the hostess, "Something smells mighty good" and the hostess replied, "That's my best mince meat. I like it better than made with apples."

The announcement that Dec. 19 Handel's "Messiah" will be sung in Boston brings to mind the famous music lovers of Rockland in years past—Mr. and Mrs. James Wight, more familiarly known to almost everybody in Rockland as "Uncle Jimmy" and "Aunt Emma." They kept music alive and insisted on the best. The Philharmonic Society was their child of melody and they nurtured it until they were called to another home. They were not afraid of any composition and the concerts and music festivals they sponsored were always well attended.

Every great man deserves an autobiography and a biography—one to tell his side of the story and one to give the other.

Newspapers quote an Oberlin College professor as stating that King Solomon was vastly over-rated. Might it not be a misprint for over-mated?

"Evidence of the carboniferous age which began some 250,000,000 years ago, may still be seen at a railroad bridge in Massachusetts." I thought they had some pretty shaky bridges in that State.

"Did you tell me he is a reckless driver?"
"Say, when the road turns the same way he does, it's a coincidence."

Hedda Bailon has joined the faculty of the Malkin Conservatory of Music and is the instructor of harpsichord. How much better than the dreadful sax.

Farm Chats

An increase is indicated in fall and winter truck crop acreage, but the prospect for the entire 1939 season is for somewhat smaller acreage of market vegetables, as compared with 1938.

It takes about 10 million trees to supply the demand for Christmas trees. Balsam, spruce, fir and pine are the kinds most commonly used. Proper cutting of Christmas trees may be a desirable thinning practice, as well as providing an additional income to the farmer.

Twenty-seven kinds of life, among them man and horses, can be infected with "sleeping sickness." Evidence now points to the possibility that wildlife may harbor the disease and the scientists also have evidence that biting insects such as mosquitoes may spread the disease from place to place.

Scientists at the Forest Products Laboratory in Madison, Wisconsin, say that a ton of hard coal will give about the same amount of heat as cord of oak, beech, birch, hard maple, ash, elm or locust. These varieties of firewood are best for heating after they have seasoned about a year.

A new machine for cracking walnuts by exploding gas within the shell has been perfected at the University of California. The new machine handles 900 pounds of walnuts an hour and replaces much less efficient methods. A saw cuts a slot in each shell, a mixture of gases is forced in through the slot, the nuts drop through a gas burner and the gases ignite. The shell is blown from the kernel, ready for other parts of the machine to separate meats and shells.

Educational Club

Hears An Excellent Group of Speakers In Widely Varied Discussions

The Woman's Educational Club met at the home of Mrs. Frank H. Ingraham, Friday for a most entertaining session. The early part of the afternoon was spent in discussions and quotations from the Bible or famous writers. Topics discussed were the Foreign Situation, Lindbergh's Attitude, Capital Punishment, The Export of Munition to Warring Nations, Whether or not Chamberlain took the Right Course in Averting War, the Persecution of Jews in Germany, the Prospect of Edward Windsor and Wallis returning to England, and Jehovah's Witnesses and their refusal to Salute the Flag. In connection with the last topic Mrs. Rich had several responses to a letter written to a Boston paper.

Mrs. Freeman Brown held close attention with her talk on "Sound Waves" and what the Rockland Society for the Hard of Hearing is doing in its crusade against deafness.

Explaining in detail the structure of the ear and the process by which sound is conveyed to the brain, and the variation in speed of the sound waves due to the moisture or dryness of the air and whether it is warm or cold, more speed being possible in warm or moist air, she called attention to the fact that the ear, being such a delicate piece of mechanism, sometimes gets out of order. The different kinds of deafness, their causes and effects, were also explained. A person can get along well with a 20% or 30% loss of hearing and still hear ordinary tones, but more than that causes one to believe his friends are not speaking distinctly, she pointed out. Handicapped people often develop a philosophy whereby they appreciate and use their remaining faculties to better advantage. Although there is no substitute for hearing, she called attention to the splendid help afforded by lip reading and hearing aids, which go hand in hand, enabling a person to renew his social and business contacts.

Mrs. Brown also gave a brief history of lip reading and what the local organization is doing, with the others, toward prevention, conservation, alleviation and rehabilitation of deafness, causing audiometer tests to be given in local schools. Last spring 1267 were tested and 74 were found to have defective hearing and the American Otolological Society estimates that approximately 3,000,000 children have impaired hearing. She is convinced that much is being done by these societies to make the lot of the hard of hearing child easier.

Rodney I. Thompson's subject was "The Peculiar Origin of Some Words." Interspersing his talk with humorous anecdotes, Mr. Thompson brought out the difficulties encountered not only by foreigners but by native Americans in using the English language. He explained the inconsistencies of this language by pointing out the fact that it is a mixture of Anglo-Saxon, Norman French Latin and a small percentage of Greek. Although the language is predominantly Anglo-Saxon, he showed how helpful a knowledge of the Latin prefixes and suffixes could be in determining the correct meanings of many of our more difficult words.

There was an intermission at 6 o'clock for box lunches and coffee. The evening session opened with patriotic and devotional exercises, five key women and two charter members being among those present.

Rev. N. F. Atwood spoke on the practical application of the Golden Rule to every day life. From the time of Cain and Abel down to the present, the cry has been "Am I my brother's keeper," he pointed out. Today, many of the more fortunate are indifferent to the welfare of the more humble brethren who serve them, and after contributing to local charities many persons do not wish to devote any further time to the needs of the less fortunate. Too often employers are satisfied if their employees do their work as required and are not interested in how they spend their time outside.

This attitude is also seen in our indifference to the happenings in other countries, he pointed out, also calling attention to the fact that Jesus was never too busy to attend to the needs of those in distress, no matter how humble they might be.

Frank H. Ingraham gave an entertaining talk on the subject of "What's in a Name." Selecting Christian and surnames from among those present he told something of their meanings and origin. He also explained steps necessary to take if one wishes to change one's name, foreigners quite often desiring to do so when settling in this country, and also in cases of adoption. Blanks were passed out with spaces to fill in names of grandparents and great-grandparents, which is not always easy to do, especially where the old people have been dead some time.

JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES

Mary Perry Rich Wants To Know Their Objection To Flag Salute

The following communication from Mary Perry Rich, president of the Woman's Educational Club, recently appeared in the Boston Herald:

"Will you kindly publish the exact wording of the flag salute to which Jehovah's Witnesses object? Is it any different from the one in voluntary use by the Daughters of the American Revolution, the General Federation of Women's Clubs, with their millions of members all over the world; also by the American Legion and affiliated bodies of loyal citizens and patriots? It is our custom to repeat in unison this: 'I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America and to the republic for which it stands: One nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.'"

As Maine State chairman and member of the National Committee for National Defense Through Patriotic Education, I am naturally interested, because it is obvious that our customary pledge of allegiance to the flag has not one thing to do with religion directly. To me it is equally obvious that the spirit promoted and deepened by such salutes is the very spirit which gave to us in America our freedom of press, speech, assemblage, which are the envy of the world, the very spirit which differentiates us from those nations where not only 'liberty and justice' are stamped out, but where all religious freedom is stifled."

Mrs. Larsen Has Achieved Fame In the News and Literary World

Novels and short stories deal with the glamorous woman reporter. Some of our best magazines give the local correspondent a break now and then. And it is with the sensation of seeing a story character unexpectedly become a real person, that one meets Mrs. H. Burpee Larsen, a Maine woman reporter who has covered murders, fires, accidents and society events, with all the nonchalance of her literary prototypes, and who telephoned news of the 1936 flood to her paper without interrupting her narrative when an ice jam sheared off the back part of the room in which she sat at the wire.

Mrs. Larsen found time to do these things in Waterville for a Lewiston newspaper during the past 12 years, as her family of four sons grew up. For the last three years too, she served as police matron for the city of Waterville. It didn't conflict with her duties as a reporter, she explained to a Telegram interviewer; she had to go to headquarters anyway three times a day, and custom had never called for the police matron to stay constantly at the station.

But her three parallel careers as homemaker, correspondent, and police matron are far from covering all Mrs. Larsen's activities. She is a member of many State and local women's clubs. She was formally sworn in as an officer, one of the few New England women to rank as a member of the police force. She is an honorary member of the Waterville fire department, the only woman fireman in Maine. This incidentally tied in well with reporting of the news, and Mrs. Larsen tells with amusement how she once crawled on hands and knees in a new mink coat to get under stifling smoke clouds and view at first hand the source of a stubborn fire.

In contrast to this type of work, poetry writing and the making of scrapbooks are Mrs. Larsen's special hobbies. Most unusual of all the scrapbooks is that devoted to letters from famous people and containing among many others one in the handwriting of Edwin Arlington Robinson dated 1934 not long before his death; and one bearing the signature of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

As to her poems they have appeared both in English and American anthologies, among them the "Mitre Anthology" of London, England. Contemporary Poets of America, Vignettes 2, the "Paebur Anthology" and "The Triad Anthology of New England Verse," as well as various periodicals. Mrs. Larsen is a member of the Silence Howard Hayden Chapter of the D. A. R., the Maine Poetry Fellowship, the Waterville Poets Club, the Waterville Woman's Club, the Daughters of Union Veterans, and is a past chief of Haverlock Temple, Pythian Sisters.

A native of Rockland and a graduate of Rockland High School, Mrs. Larsen was a resident of Portland for a while after her marriage. She then went to Massachusetts, and for the past 20 years she and her husband have made their home in Waterville.

Mrs. Larsen's removal to Portland interrupted two of her three careers and she finds being a lady of comparative leisure rather a strain. Concentrating on her verse and feature writing is difficult without her accustomed background of effort in many lines; and to fill the vacancy she plans to continue more intensively the study of fingerprinting which she began some time ago.

But what she really misses most is the sight of the ambulance or the ring of the phone, and the subsequent familiar dash to cover an exciting news story.—Sunday Telegram.

Found New Friends

One Reason Why Mrs. John Andrews Likes The Courier-Gazette

Rockport, Dec. 9
Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

It gave Mr. Andrews and me great pleasure to have the honor of being special guests at the reception to Miss Doris Hyler by the Rebekah Lodge in Rockland. Naturally we would be interested in the honor paid to Miss Hyler of being elected district deputy of the Lodge because she came to live on Richards Hill at the age of five.

She lived across the street from my house, began studying music at that age and later we enjoyed many trips in and out of town playing at entertainments. When I was married she was my bridesmaid. She was then living in Rockland and was employed by St. Clair & Allen. Having been a friend so long I can say the Rebekah Lodge is fortunate in having a leader of such fine character. I wish her the best of success.

Some time ago Winifred Whitney of Clary Hill said that she had enjoyed The Courier-Gazette for 29 years, and seemed surprised that I had said I had enjoyed it the past year. I should like to have that woman know that when I was in grammar school in Rockport the janitor was Capt. L. K. Morse, who lived where Capt. Simon Wall now lives.

He used to ask me to give him items for The Courier-Gazette as he was the Rockport correspondent. I felt quite honored at the idea, and whether he had all that I gave him printed or not I do not know, but I have been interested ever since then in the friendly paper.

Why I said I had enjoyed it the "past year" was because the editor has been kind enough to let my letters be printed and because of this I have made some very fine new friends through the columns. Mr. Andrews and I made a recent trip to Portland and home by the way of Lewiston. On this trip we passed a sign reading "Horses for Sale—Swap or Exchange For Live Stock." Another sign on a nice looking lawn read, "Piano Tuning and Buttermilk." Are they unusual? I thought so.

IT'S A GRAND SIGHT

Medomak Falls At Waldoboro.—Is It Winter or Spring

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—
I find it hard to decide whether today is really Dec. 10, winter or early spring. In a little over a week, we have had a big snowstorm, huge drifts to plow through and several days of below zero weather. There suddenly came a terrific downpour, temperature jumping up to around 55 degrees above zero.

The Medomak River above the Lower Bridge, has overflowed its banks and is over half a foot higher, than it usually is, during spring freshets. The Medomak Falls are a grand sight, the water rushing and tumbling over the rocks, hurrying to join Old Mother Ocean. I doubt if one would find a more magnificent sight anywhere in Maine.

Harriet A. Thorndike

Death of Rockland Woman Who Taught School In War Time

Miss Harriet A. Thorndike died Dec. 8 at the age of 96 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Pettee where she had lived for 13 years. She was the daughter of William and Chloe (Barnes) Thorndike of Thomaston. The nearest relative living is Mrs. A. P. Haines of Rockland.

From The Courier-Gazette files of eight years ago (on the occasion of her 88th birthday) the following is taken:

"The kindly old lady who taught in the little old red schoolhouse on Middle street while the Civil War was still in its infancy, recalls how she took her pupils up on The Lookout where soldiers were preparing for the great struggle. Another of her interesting memories is the time when she taught at North Haven during that memorable year when it was possible to walk from the Fox Islands to the mainland. Among her other early experiences was the teaching of 14 terms of school in The Bog district.

"Thirty-five years, winter and summer, she taught the young idea how to shoot, holding at the age of 15 years a certificate equivalent to that issued by a normal school. She has been a pensioner 12 years, but has never received the pension which was her due, and friends are determined that her advancing years shall see a recognition of her rights.

"Miss Thorndike's teachings covered a wide range from ABC's to Algebra, but with her lessons she taught those principles which made her young charges grow into better men and women."

Services were held from the Davis funeral chapel, with many lovely flowers bespeaking affectionate regard for the deceased. Miss Thorndike was a member of the Baptist Church in Thomaston and it was the minister of that church who conducted the last rites. Burial was in the family lot in Thomaston.
