Not The Oldest

A two-story building with six massive stone columns built at Woodville, Miss., in 1832, is said to be the oldest railroad-owned building in the world.

The above item clipped from an exchange caught the eye of Mrs. Ralph Crawford of Thomaston who writes:

"I think we have an older building right here in town which is owned by the Maine Central Railroad. It was the servants' quarters of Gen. Henry Knox which is now used as the railroad station at Thomaston. It was built in 1794, which makes it 38 years older than this one built at Woodville, Miss., in 1832."

Civil Service Exams

Maybe There's Something In This List Which May Appeal To You

The United States Civil Service Commission announces open competitive examination for Copper-smith, $1,180, $1,056, $996 an hour, for filling vacancies in this position at the Navy Yard, Boston, Massachusetts. Applicants must show that they have completed a four-year apprenticeship in the trade of Copper-smith, or have had four years of practical experience in such trade, the substantial equivalent of completed apprenticeship. The closing date for receipt of applications is Oct. 17, 1939.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces an open competitive examination for Hospital Attendant, $1020 a year (less $342 for quarters and subsistence), for filling vacancies in this position in the Veterans Administration Facility, Togus, Maine. Due to receipt of insufficient applications received from last examination announced for this position, it has been necessary to reannouce the examination. Qualified persons are urged to apply. The examination will be held at various points in the vicinity of Togus, Maine. The closing date for receipt of applications is May 8, 1939.

Scholarship Given

To Students Qualified and Needing Assistance At Conservatory Of Music

Of widespread interest to high school students throughout New England is the announcement by the New England Conservatory of Music that a hundred-dollar scholarship will be awarded to one member of the graduating class entering the Conservatory in September 1939 for one of the regular courses.

These scholarships are offered to students about to graduate from High School who are well qualified and who are in need of assistance in order to enter upon a definite course of musical training. The award of these scholarships will be governed by the following conditions:

1. A scholarship is open to one qualified pupil in this year's graduating class of each High School in New England, for enrollment in September, 1939, in the first year of the Conservatory four-year course leading to the diploma, or to the degree of Bachelor of Music.
2. Not more than one scholarship will be awarded for each High School.
3. The candidate recommended for the scholarship must possess outstanding ability in his or her particular musical field, must have a good scholastic record, and must be in need of the financial assistance which the scholarship affords.
4. Candidates will be recommended by their principal or supervisor. Where more than one pupil in a graduating class is recommended for the Scholarship, arrangements will be made for competitive examination, either locally or at the Conservatory.
5. The number of scholarships to be awarded will be limited to the first one hundred students recommended as fulfilling the required qualifications.

The amount of each New England Conservatory Scholarship is $100. The minimum of cost of tuition for the first year of the diploma course is from $235 to $430, according to the major subject and instructors chosen.

The War Department has notified Representative Clyde H. Smith that public hearings are to be held at Monhegan and Frankfort on proposed improvements of the harbors there and asked Smith for suggestions as to who would be notified to appear at the hearings. Dates of hearings will be announced. The hearings are in pursuance of resolutions of Smith's adopted by the House Rivers and Harbors committee, for improvement of the south branch of the Penobscot at or near Frankfort and to dredge Monhegan deeper so larger boats can get in.

AT THE STATE CAPITOL

Legislature May Adjourn Today—Chain Store Tax Killed; Also the Monday Holiday Idea—Old Age Assistance

The Maine House late Tuesday joined the Senate in giving overwhelming support to Gov. Barrows' plan for expansion of Maine's old age assistance program without additional taxation.

A bill containing the Chief Executive's proposal was passed to be engrossed by both branches. The House refused to indefinitely postpone it.

The measure would require municipalities to share in assistance expenditures and provided for the transfer of $800,000 in highway money to them to release funds of cities and towns for assistance contributions.

The motion of Representative Donahue Democratic minority floor leader in the House, to kill the bill was voted down, 103 to 32. Several Republican members supported Donahue's move.

Representative George D. Varney of Berwick, Republican floor leader, amended it to make it an emergency measure, effective on final passage.

The Senate Tuesday approved by a 24 to 4 vote a bill to set up a wage board whose principal power would be to establish minimum fair-wage standards for women and minors working in Maine's fish-packing plants.

The wage board would ascertain whether women and minors were employed at "oppressive or unreasonable" wages and determine "appropriate minimum fair wages for each type of employment or occupation."

Senator Laughlin said minimum wages for women "are not advantageous, as advocated, but represent a disadvantage, because the result is the jobs are taken away from them by men." She said men were "encroaching" upon positions occupied by women, because no "wage restrictions are placed upon men who outbid the women and take their jobs."

Chase of Washington County said he had received from Washington County women "no protest" against the bill, but instead had been advised there was a 100 percent indorsement of the proposal "in order that wages may be raised to a living standard."

A State boxing commission bill was passed to be engrossed in the Senate.

The Senate insisted on its stand favoring passage of a memorial to

[EDITORIAL]

LINDBERGH IS CALLED

The Associated Press story in yesterday's newspapers to the effect that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh had been called to the colors in a dramatic move to insure the United States a position of world leadership in the development of war planes was frankly reassuring to many readers who have probably been wondering as to the famous flyer's status in this world of trouble. Col. Lindbergh has had opportunities to study conditions in European countries such as have been afforded no other man, and the freedom with which he has been enabled to view the offensive and defensive measures of such nations is somewhat surprising in view of his American citizenship. Col. Lindbergh is in a position to give the United States government information such as could be imparted from no other source.

EFFECT UPON THE MORBID

London reports a number of suicides as the probable result of the broadcasting of war news. A London coroner commenting upon these tragedies remarked that news is not always happily expressed over the wireless, and that persons with nervous dispositions are liable to be tremendously affected by it. And of course this is equally true of the daily newspapers, yet the daily paper which did not publish war news and war rumors would soon find its clientele rapidly dwindling. The public wants to know what is going on—good or bad.

WE'LL HOPE IT DOES

The Lewiston Evening Journal carries over its title this quotation: "God Bless America and the Freedom It Inspires For Generations To Come—Ignace Paderewski." For generations to come! Let us hope that the world famous pianist is correct in his theory.

GALLUP FINDS GARNER LEADING

The American Institute of Public Opinion is endeavoring through the straw vote method to ascertain the relative chances of some men who are being discussed as possible Presidential candidates and it starts off with Garner (D) and Vandenberg (R), finding that if the election were held today the Vice President would have 57 percent of the vote and Vandenberg 43. A further analysis showed that of those who voted for President Roosevelt in 1936, 81 percent would be for Garner and 19 percent for Vandenberg, while 14 percent who voted for Landon would favor Garner and 86 percent would favor Vandenberg. The Garner percentage comes overwhelmingly from the South and Far West, the other from sections of the country being very close. It will now be interesting to see what other comparisons will show.

EUROPE'S BREATHING SPELL

The European tension is lessened somewhat today, following Premier Mussolini's speech in which he declared that the Italo-German axis has no warlike ideas, but that the ten-year peace guarantee asked by President Roosevelt is impossible. Meantime Germany is celebrating Adolf Hitler's 50th anniversary, and the world is wondering if his birthday cake will be the free city of Danzig, with 50 blazing candles on it. They have some curious birthday parties over that way.

EXPERIENCING BETTER TIMES

Very gratifying is the statement of President French that the Maine Central Railroad ended its year with its income "comfortably" above its fixed charges. And the outlook for the present year is also reassuring as the first quarter shows a surplus of $100,000. In common with other railroads the Maine Central has been passing through an uncomfortable period, but its progress toward recovery shows that the iron horse has not outlived his usefulness.

Pleasant words continue to reach The Courier-Gazette from far and near. Writing from New Harbor Mrs. M. F. And I hope Mrs. McFarland makes good her promise to call.

Damariscotta tells a story about a man, who had two heifers and no hay, arranging with another man, with hay and no heifers, to winter them. The first man claimed the arrangement was to care for the animals until there was pasture. The second man said the word used was "spring"; and as spring arrived by the calendar in March he returned the creatures. The difficulty reached the court and a humane agent was called in to make arrangements until the cattle could be auctioned off.

On my desk, bearing the date of Jan. 29, 1866, is a copy of "The Battle-Axe—"The Sword of the Lord and of Glendon" published for the purpose of "hewing down the Upas of Intemperance." It tells of conditions in Rockland during the year after the Civil War's close, and gives notice of a temperance levee to be held by "The Lady Visitors of the Rockland Division Sons of Temperance" in Atlantic Hall. The temperance directory contained the names of two other organizations—Hyperion Division, Sons of Temperance and the Rockland Damariscotta Club.

New York, the hostess State, leads all commonwealths with an appropriation of $2,400,000 for a permanent marine amphitheatre and State exhibit. Eleven commonwealths will occupy separate pavilions. The others will lease space in the Court of States, erected by the Fair itself. Florida, with 110,000 square feet, has a building virtually completed on Fountain Lake. Its features will include representations of Florida's bathing beaches, phosphate mines, and animal life. This building will shelter cultural, historical and industrial displays.

Pounds Exhausted

Maine Lobster Fishermen Unable To Take Advantage Of High Prices

Maine lobster fishermen, unable to take advantage of the highest market in six years, put in their time building new traps, mending old ones and hoping for some fishing weather.

Portland wholesalers offering 70 to 75 cents a pound for large lobsters, 50 cents for "chickens" were unable to get more than a handful. Joseph R. Wallace, veteran sea and shore fisheries warden, said the past winter had been the worst, for the lobstermen, in 20 years.

Coastal water has remained so cold, and has been so constantly agitated by storm after storm, said Wallace the lobsters would not leave the haven of sub-marine rocks.

Whereas lobster fishermen normally catch from 40 to 70 pounds a day, Wallace said, the average has been from six to 30 pounds this winter. Wallace said he knew of one fisherman who found but three lobsters in 130 traps recently.

Canadian fishermen have fared no better, Wallace said, and for the first time, to his knowledge, lobsters were shipped from eastern Maine pounds to Canada last month.

Wallace reported that pounds of dealers along the coast were "exhausted."

Forecasting Rain

Some Can Feel It In Their Bones—Weather Experts Admit Likelihood

"I know it's going to rain. I feel it in my bones."

Now if you were to call up the Weather Bureau and tell that to the forecasters they probably would not put out an official report unless their instruments and charts corroborated your prediction. But, also, they would not just laugh in your face and say you were imagining things. For some folks really can forecast the coming of stormy weather fairly reliably by their aches and pains, and others seem to know it by some ill defined and less acute feeling which, however, oftentimes is surprisingly accurate.

All of which serves to call attention to the fact that while the Weather Bureau depends solely upon the findings of its instruments, charts, maps and records, the experts are quite willing to admit that there are numerous interesting phenomena which do tell, with varying degrees of accuracy, whether the weather just ahead will be rainy or clear, fair or foul, sunny or stormy, writes Herbert Hollander in "The Richmond Times-Dispatch." These are not to be confused with superstitions and old wives' tales regarding the weather. Thus, there is no truth in the old saw that one can judge the weather by a picked goose bone. But there definitely is truth in the assertion, for example, that one can tell whether it is going to rain by the rising of certain odors or by the action of the leaves of certain plants and in many other old ways.

You sometimes have heard folks say—just as they say that they can feel the coming of rain—that they can tell by smell when a shower is on the way. According to Dr. William Jackson Humphreys, meteorologist of the United States Weather Bureau in Washington, who has made a long study of this whole subject, the explanation is really simple. Dr. Humphreys points out that decaying organic matter in stagnant pools and ditches produces gas which accumulates in bubbles and pockets. As a storm approaches, and atmospheric pressure is reduced, the imprisoned gases are released. Frequently enough of the gas gets out to make its presence

Mr. Hitler's Pledges

Church Leader Says Religious Groups Were Fooled Like Chamberlain

Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany "fooled" Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in the same way as he "fooled" the Christian churchmen of Germany in the early days of the Nazi regime, the Rev. Dr. Charles S. Macfarland, general secretary emeritus of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America said in an address. "Hitler's Broken Promises to Me," the speech, in which Dr. Macfarland charged that the Nazis were systematically undermining and suppressing religion, was broadcast.

Discussing Hitler's broken promises to the Prime Minister, Dr. Macfarland observed that it "was a pity that Mr. Chamberlain had not acquainted himself with the solemn promises of the same Hitler to the Christian churches of his own nation." Dr. Macfarland said that in November, 1933, he was invited by church leaders of Germany "to counsel with them." While he was in Berlin he received an invitation from Hitler "to visit him and express my judgment on the situation."

"In that interview of an hour," said Dr. Macfarland, "Mr. Hitler gave me just as explicit promises for the peace of the German church as he later gave to Mr. Chamberlain for the peace of Europe." Referring to Mr. Chamberlain's "joyous" exhibition of the written solemn promise of Adolf Hitler last fall, Dr. Macfarland added, "I too have a written document in which those promises are recorded."

"Mr. Hitler declared to me, with apparently deep earnestness, that his one chief desire was that the German church should be united with freedom and independence." He declared that "any intervention whatever of the government of the Reich in the internal organization of the Evangelical Church or any influence upon its doctrine was out of the question." He said, with an evident effort at persuasiveness, that his one wish was that a Christian education may be transmitted to the people.

"He assured me that any pastors who had any protest to make might be told by me that he himself would receive and listen to them. I conveyed the message but afterward learned that he never saw them. In both our conversation and in my later correspondence with him, he was explicit and spoke with a tone of the deepest sincerity. Even when I wrote of the Jewish situation, his counselor answered, 'The Chancellor has instructed me to thank you for your candid and sympathetic appeal.' We may well assume that Mr. Chamberlain was given the same sort of beguiling words."

Dr. Macfarland said the laws affecting church organizations in Germany were applied not by churchmen, but by political supervisors, "into whose hands the destinies of the church have been placed."

"And when Adolf Hitler," he continued, "refers to those churchmen who are treated with toleration and to whom no methods of persecution are applied, he refers unhappily to those who have yielded their religious freedom under threat and their sense of fear."

"In the meantime, National Socialism has dropped the mask of its alleged 'positive Christianity,' and, with its theory of blood, race and soil, has itself become a pagan religion, devoid of both humanitarian and Christian morals. And in this connection I may add that Alfred Rosenberg, the leader of this pagan cult, also assured me that the Christian churches had nothing to fear from the Nazi regime."

Thoreau says: "Public opinion is a weak tyrant compared with our private opinion. What we think of ourselves is vital for our well-being. Self-contempt and self-loathing are the source of many inferiorities and fears that dominate the lives of men and women."

readily apparent to anyone's nose. So those who know this weather sign are perfectly safe in assuming that pretty soon that vicinity is likely to be visited by stormy weather.

A desk drawer or a salt cellar may prove to be quite a helpful weather prognosticator. The sun may be shining, but if a drawer that ordinarily works easily suddenly sticks, one can be almost certain that rain is on the way. Why? Because so many objects in common use absorb moisture in proportion to the dampness or humidity of the atmosphere. The swelling of doors and windows, the packing of salt and the further curling of already curly hair means that there is a lot of water in the air and that the chances are rain is on the way.—New York Herald Tribune.

Gov. Barrows' Plan Would Have Cities and Towns Participate In Old Age Assistance

Governor Lewis O. Barrows Monday recommended to the Legislature, city and town participation in old age assistance costs and distribution of $800,000 annually in highway funds to release a like amount of municipal money for the assistance contributions.

Adoption of the plan, Barrows said, would permit payment of 14,000 old age assistance grants monthly, an increase of 2,500 over present allotments, without increased taxation. It would be effective for a two-year period.

A bill incorporating the proposal was ready and the highways and bridges committee was authorized to report measures without unanimous consent, paving the way for its introduction tomorrow.

Governor Barrows outlined the plan, whereby the towns would contribute one-quarter of the estimated old age assistance cost during the next biennium, before a joint session of the House and Senate.

The municipal contribution proposal was a reiteration of one of Barrows' budget message points. The highway fund usage had been advocated by Senator Francis H. Friend, chairman of the highways and bridges committee, and was suggested to the Senate recently by Senator George J. Wentworth, appropriations committee chairman, as part of another plan.

Towns and cities would receive a dollar for every dollar contributed to old age assistance, the maximum allowance to be figured on a valuation scale. Annually the communities receive in excess of a million dollars from the state for highway purposes and they match that money. The $800,000 would be added to that state expenditure.

The proposed legislation would authorize the towns to use the money sent them by the state in lieu of money already appropriated by them for matching state highway funds. They could then use their previously appropriated highway money for old age assistance or other purposes.

The highway money would be expended under direction of the State Highway Commission, Barrows said, and would not be a diversion of highway funds as defined by federal law which prohibits diversion to other uses under penalty of losing federal matching grants for highway work.

The appropriations committee biennium budget estimates recently showed only sufficient funds to pay 7,000 old age assistance grants annually beginning July 1. Payments average $20 a month, the federal government contributing one-half.

Barrows reiterated his belief that the people of Maine desired continuation of old age assistance on a "pay-as-you-go" basis, with expansion "if it is possible but not by imposing new taxes."

"The amount each community would receive and contribute would be figured on the valuation of the town or city. In each instance it could be computed by multiplying the valuation by .0013 (13-10 mills) the ratio of the State's valuation to the $800,000.

Examples, drawn from each of the 16 counties, would be: Lewiston, $45,412.23; Houlton, $6,143.87; Portland, $103,568.01; Farmington, $3,840; Ellsworth, $4,080.14; Augusta, $17,209; Waterville, $17,356.80; Rockland, $8,641.38; Boothbay Harbor, $3,073.62; Rumford, $9,391.19; Bangor, $37,715.42; Dover-Foxcroft, $3,826; Bath, $10,066.72; Skowhegan, $7,128.87; Belfast, $4,332.23; Calais, $14,066.49 and Biddeford, $17,993.79.

While conceding the proposal would "decrease State Highway construction to the extent of $800,000," Barrows said the program for all forms of highway work would not be curtailed to "any such figure because present highway receipts will apparently run greatly in excess of original estimates."

The State finances its highway program by gasoline taxes and automobile fees. "I believe the plan is worthy of your favorable consideration and adoption," Barrows told the legislators "because it will not cripple certain state services or necessary functions in any way; it will not curtail local highway work; it will not create local unemployment and will not create any necessity for increased taxes nor require either of us to nullify our promise to the people of Maine."

Under the proposed legislation, municipal officials would receive and act on old age assistance requests which in turn would forward to the state department of health and welfare which makes the payment.

The one-quarter contributions by the communities will not, however, alter the present system of having the state determine finally who shall receive pensions.

'Blowing Your Own Trumpet'

When we speak of the fellow who "blows his own trumpet" we refer to his habit of indulging in self-praise. The phrase comes from the ancient custom whereby the name and rank of knights and other important personages were announced at banquets, balls and other functions by heralds, who usually preceded the announcement with a flourish on trumpets, says Pearson's London Weekly. Those who had no social standing were left to "blow their own trumpet," or, in other words, to make their presence known to one another without being announced.

Six fishing arrivals at Feyler's wharf Tuesday brought 18,000 pounds of mixed fish.

Walter Hartwig will open his season at the Ogunquit Playhouse in Ogunquit, Maine on June 26th. The season is for 11 weeks.

The Sons of American Legion will meet Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Legion hall, a rehearsal of Drum and Bugle Corps to follow the meeting.

Alderman Louis R. Cates, recuperating from his surgical operation of some weeks ago, rode down town Tuesday, getting a friendly wave of the hand from all who saw him.

Members of local garden clubs will be interested to know that Constance Spry, world authority on flower arrangements, broadcasts over Station WOR Tuesdays at 11 o'clock.

Comrades of the Way will have charge of the morning service at the Congregational Church Sunday. All Comrades are to meet at the church Friday night at 7:30 in preparation for this Sunday service.

Word has been received of the death Monday of Miss Helen H. Cobb 52, who had been an invalid in Lansdowne, Penn., for several years. She was the daughter of the late C.W.S. and Sarah (Haskell) Cobb of St. Louis. Committal services will be held at Achorn cemetery Sunday at 2 o'clock conducted by Rev. Corwin H. Olds.

Excellent crowds attended the Jimmie and Dick performances at Community Building yesterday. Prizes in the afternoon went to Lucy Thompson, Rockland tap dancer; second, another local tap dancer, Janet Excorio and third Ida Reams son and dance. First prize at night went to Donald Weitz a Rockport singer who made a smash hit; second, Sistaire and Boardman, roller skaters and the third award was split between the German band and the Staples sisters.

Yesterday's newspapers announced two deaths which occasioned much regret in this city and vicinity. From Belfast came news of the passing of Cecil Clay, well known court reporter who had served as stenographer for the Maine House of Representatives. The deceased was 70, and leaves a wife, Mrs. Blanche Clay; and a daughter by a former marriage, Mrs. Dorothy Clay Smardon. In South Portland Lieut. George J. Woods, former inspector of the local C.A.C. Battalion, died after seven days illness of pneumonia. He was 61, and is survived by his wife.

Motorists who cross the Carleton bridge between Woolwich and Bath note painters at work on that structure without any particular feeling of envy. A dark green paint, just off a black will be used. While most bridge structures throughout the state are of an aluminum color, the dark paint is necessary on the Carleton bridge because of soot which accumulates from the trains passing over the railroad deck. All the steel work comprising the bridge will be painted and sections where rust shows will be cleaned down and primed with red lead. The last time the bridge was painted was six years ago according to the Bath Daily Times.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Mrs. Laura M. Leach who passed to the higher life April 20, 1938.

"Think of her faring on as dear In the love of there as the love of here Think of her still as the same, I say She is not dead, she is just away."

Daughters, Mrs. Ralph B. Loring and Mrs. Herbert C. Coates.

IN MEMORIAM

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to our neighbors and friends for their kindness during our recent bereavement. We are especially grateful to Dr. Bonfield, Mr. Buse, Herman Crockett and all who loaned cars.

Mrs. Clifton A. Smith, Elaine and Clifton Smith, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Ava Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Greenlaw, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Greenlaw.

DADDY

We miss his loving eyes of blue, We miss his kindly smile; We miss the heart tender and true, We miss him all the while.

But he has gone to dwell above, God called him yesterday; He's left to us the gift of love, To help us on life's way.

Sweet memories! The few short years! When he was well and strong; Happy were we and smiles not tears, Were ours the whole day long.

Ere we retire each night we think Of Daddy free from pain; We pray, and put trust in God, That we shall meet again.

[Lines composed in memory of Clifton A. Smith who passed away, April 10, 1939, by his daughter Elaine M. Smith, age 14.]

Seaside Cemetery Corp. met at the High School Building Monday for the annual meeting. President Ernest Rawley presided. Reports showed a marked increase in the interest taken in the upkeep and improvement in the cemetery and in membership and finances. David Siewright, Sr., has served as caretaker eight years; last year he was elected sexton as well. The work of the Corporation has been of especial value to the descendants of the older families who now live out of town. For a small assessment in addition to the nominal yearly membership dues they may be assured that the graves in which they are interested will receive proper care. The corporation is also the Trustee of a number of perpetual care funds. These officers were re-elected: President, Ernest Rawley; vice president, David Siewright; secretary, Mabelle Rose; treasurer, Joseph Simmons; sexton and caretaker, David Siewright; trustees, Charles C. Wall, Harriet B. Rawley, Harriet B. Long and Mabel G. Barter.

Commodore Isidor Gordon has added the schooner Charles Klinek to his rapidly expanding fleet and is said to have his nautical eye on another three sticker.

Winslow-Holbrook Post A. L. will hold an important meeting tonight at 8 o'clock. Motion pictures will be shown by a gasoline company, and buffet lunch will be served.

Miss Louise Fiske, formerly of Rockland (daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William H. Fiske) was chosen first vice president of the New England Industrial Nurses' Association at its 24th annual meeting in Boston this week.

It is understood that the scaling ladders and life lines so badly needed by the Rockland Fire Department, are on the way. There are several buildings in the city impossible to reach with even our present excellent ladder equipment.

Nearing the close of its season the Baptist Men's League tonight will nominate officers for the coming year. The women will serve a chicken supper. F. A. Winslow will deliver his lecture "The Children of Callander," and there will be other matters of interest.

Edith Stevens of Pleasant Point a Senior in English college of Arts and Sciences of the University of Maine was recently nominated one of eight students for valedictorian. Katherine True of Rockland a senior in the School of Education of the University of Maine, was recently nominated one of four women students for the class prophecy.

Music lovers have a treat in store in the concert to be given at the Park Theatre Sunday at 2:30 p. m. by Rockland City Band and vocal soloists. The band which has been conducting faithful rehearsals will present some of their choicest selections with Donald Welt of Rockport appearing as their vocalist. Under the direction of Miss Lotte McLaughlin, Gounod's "Gala" will be sung, members of her Federal class doing the choral portions and Miss McLaughlin herself singing the solos. Other soloists will be Nettie Bird Frost, Jane Foley and Esther Perry Howard, all of Rockland. Proceeds from the concert will benefit both the Band and Knox Hospital whose Auxiliary is aiding the "boys" in putting the affair across in a most successful manner. Don't miss the concert—your pleasure will be all the greater to know you are doing your bit in a worthy cause.

American Legion public supper Saturday night at Legion hall, Mrs. Jennie Sadler and Mrs. Della Day, chairmen—adv.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning
The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink.
A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25 cents. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

The sewing circle of Ivy Chapter O.E.S. met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Fred Campbell with Mrs. George Walker as hostess. William H. Robinson will be chairman of the entertainment and refreshments Friday after the stated meeting of the Chapter.

George Newbert remains ill at his home.

Cold weather, muddy water and little sunshine is delaying the run of smelts. No alewives have been caught yet at the South Warren weir. Two years ago, Charles Young and Enos Parks had smoked alewives on the market on Patriot's Day. Ice remains in most of the ponds. The usual date for ice to break in North Pond is April 9, according to records kept yearly by Mrs. Austin Kallach, North Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Boggs passed the weekend in Gorham with Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Boggs.

The committee to relieve crowded conditions at the high school met Wednesday.

The small chemical was called Monday afternoon to the Kyander property in East Warren for a grass fire.

The sermon topic Sunday morning at the Baptist Church will be "The Christian Ambassador" and at 7 "Life's Marathon." Church school will meet at noon and Christian Endeavor at 6.

Miss Winona Robinson, student at the University of Maine, passed the weekend with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Robinson.

Mrs. Margery Gephart of Danville, Penn., who recently bought the Yata-law property has taken possession and her father William E. Fowle will manage there the Georges River Kennels. John Gephart, 11 year old son of Mrs. Gephart has entered the sixth grade at the intermediate school.

Mrs. Edwin Emerson and Raychel Emerson have been ill.

"One of the best plays ever presented by the High School" was the sentiment of the audience which crowded Town hall Friday night to view the performance of "Aunt Susie Shoots the Works" by the senior class. Each part had been well assigned by the coaches, Miss Goodwin and Principal Gay and the speaking so distinct, it could be heard in any part of the hall. A delightful surprise was given by Beverly Cogan of Rockland who presented two novelty tap dances in costume. Her aunt Mrs. Louise Rogers acted as accompanist. Selections by the high school orchestra were also enjoyed. The quilt made by the Thimble Club was awarded Mrs. S. F. Haskell.

Smith And Labor

"Dobbs" Sees Industrial Progress With Clyde H. As Governor

Waterville, April 18.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—
Realizing that industrialization of Maine will be an important issue in the coming political campaign of 1940, it is again interesting to know of a man who is doing much for Maine in this direction in Washington, D. C.; this man is our Congressman, Clyde H. Smith.

For years Maine has suffered loss of industries, and it has been impossible to hold out inducements to industries because of several obstacles. The greatest of these obstacles were the much lower wages and longer working hours in the South, where many of our industries have gone.

Congress awakening to this situation passed its famous bill in 1938 known as the Wage and Hour Act which provides establishment of fair labor standards of employment in interstate industry by fixing minimum wages and maximum hours.

It is well known that Clyde Smith has always been a great worker in the interest of labor and this is shown by the fact that he is a member of the House Labor Committee which framed this Wage-Hour bill, doing away with Maine's greatest obstacle to new industries.

One has only to read the papers to follow Representative Smith's activities in Congress in working out the difficult labor problems which come before him concerning the interest of Maine people.

With him as Governor of Maine I know we will see a new development and a sound program for industrialization of Maine.

"Dobbs."

MISS SPRING'S TRIBUTE

[The following tribute prepared by Miss Mabelle Spring, and read by her at the annual meeting of the Shakespeare Society, Monday night, was unintentionally omitted from the report, and is here published by special request.]

Since we last met one of our oldest, most interested, and faithful members has passed away.

We are glad to know that Annie Frye's Easter Day which was her last on earth, was such a happy one and that she slipped away so easily.

Mabel Snow had invited her to Brookline to church and to dinner. So they met and listened to a beautiful Easter Service, then went to Miss Snow's home and enjoyed a nice dinner with her mother. In the afternoon a friend came and they all had a good time, and tea, together, after which Mabel went out with Annie, and put her on the right car, on which Annie rode into Boston, walked to the College Club went in and sat down and was gone.

Our Shakespeare Society was formed Oct. 21, 1889 with 10 members. March 27, 1890, Annie became a member and during the 49 years since, she has been an active member much interested in the society contributing much to its success.

She always gave most worthwhile papers, full of information and outstanding in interest to her listeners. She was a person who did not, on the surface, show how finely educated and gifted she was.

She will be greatly missed in the society, but while we shall miss her we feel that under the circumstances we should not wish her back, for we know that she had at times suffered with heart disease, and was so lonely. And how glad we are that her last day upon earth was spent so happily with dear old friends, and that she slipped away so quickly and easily without any suffering.

Let us say with Longfellow—
"Blessed be God! for He created Death,
"and Death is rest and peace."
Then added in the certainty of faith,
"And give life that nevermore shall cease."

At another time Longfellow said—
"There is no Death! What seems so is transition.
This life of mortal breath
Is but a suburb of the life elysian,
Whose portal we call Death."

And—
"Above
"Looms the great life that is to be."

And remembering Annie as a woman of such refinement, culture and Christian character, with such high ideals, who enjoyed the best in literature and music, we are reminded that—

"No life can be pure in its purpose
And strong in its strife,
And all life not be purer
And stronger thereby."

ALPHONSO L. LUNT

Sunday April 2, the community of Frenehboro was shocked by the sudden death of one of its most respected citizens, Alphonso L. Lunt.

The son of Bertrand and Isora (Rich) Lunt, Mr. Lunt was born there on May 4th, 1873, and was a lifelong resident of this place.

Esteemed by his fellow-townsmen and well known in the surrounding towns, Alphonso Lunt was an example of the type of citizen into which a poor boy can be moulded with the right kind of environment and the will to do.

A toiler of the sea, he was honest, thrifty, kind to all with whom he came in contact, a loyal and devoted husband and a pillar in the community. He served as plantation clerk and treasurer for 22 years was active in church affairs and a trustee of the Congregational Church of Frenehboro for 27 years, having been a church member for 50 years. He was also a member of McKinley Lodge of Masons, of McKinley. His passing will be a great loss to the village for it can be fittingly said of him "there are too few of his kind."

He is survived by his wife, Sadie L., and a daughter, Gertrude L., employed in Boston, one sister, Mrs. Leon Hart of Malden, Mass., several nephews and a niece. The

Danzig: BONE OF CONTENTION

Danzig, where flags flew, schools were reported closed, and parades were held in honor of Germany's recent annexation of Memel, belonged to the Germans until the Treaty of Versailles made it—along with surrounding territory—a "free city." It is located near the mouth of the Vistula (Wisla) River, according to the National Geographic Society. "This river flows to the Baltic Sea by way of the Polish Corridor," which separates East Prussia from the rest of Germany. Danzig has an estimated population of more than 400,000, mostly German, with a Polish minority of some 10,000. Ruled variously since the 14th century, by Teutonic Knights, Poles, and Prussians, the city has long been a bone of contention in this part of the world.

LINNELL ENTERS THE FIELD

Second Republican To Announce Himself a Candidate For Governor

William S. Linnell, Portland attorney, present Republican National Committeeman from Maine and long active in Maine Republican circles, announced Wednesday that he will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor in 1940.

Mr. Linnell is the second candidate to announce formally his candidacy for the nomination which is expected to attract a large field of candidates.

Bliss W. Page of Skowhegan, an unsuccessful candidate in the 1936 campaign, two months ago announced his intention of entering the race. Several other candidates have circulated campaign literature and put workers in the field but have made no formal announcements yet.

Mr. Linnell's statement follows: "I shall be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor in the next primary elections in 1940."

"Frequent mention of me from time to time during a period of years as a possible candidate, leads me to believe that neither my name nor my views upon matters of public concern are unknown to the people of Maine."

"I shall not strive to become the favored candidate of any minority group, seeking through pressure on public officials, to obtain unfair and selfish advantages for the few at the cost of heavy taxes upon the general citizenry. I shall be happy if I am accepted as the candidate of the taxpayer and citizen who considers the welfare of his neighbor as well as his own the rights of employe and employer equally sacred, youth as important as old age, and the poor as entitled to life opportunities as the rich."

"I shall endeavor, in what I say and do in the course of promoting my candidacy, to appeal to the sound sense and good judgment of those who believe, with me, that: "1. The government of Maine should be conducted as that of a sovereign state declining such federal gifts as must be matched with more of our own money than we can afford, or which are conditioned upon our surrender of our control over our own affairs."

"2. The new humanitarian spirit in government should be wisely promoted, but without inducing our young citizens to contemplate security in old age as a reward for lives of indolence. The future well-being of our citizens can best be attained and preserved by individual thrift and industry, by encouraging the spirit of ambition—of adventure—rather than by coddling and special privilege."

"3. To progress we must think in terms of youth, while remembering worthy old age, and see to it that our boys and girls have adequate education for a self-reliant life, with an opportunity to live it in Maine."

"4. The happiness and prosperity of all our people can best be promoted by careful efficient and economical administration of government with the least possible interference with their private lives and business, to the end that the Government of our State may constantly seek to create a condition of life under which and out of which our citizens shall, each and all have full opportunity to make the most of themselves with the abilities with which each is endowed."

"To the service of these principles I pledge the utmost of my abilities. I ask my friends to subordinate their personal interest in me to their support of these principles. It is not so important that history record me as Governor of Maine as that these principles be indelibly written in the record which through their Government, the men and women of Maine shall write in the coming years."

Mr. Linnell was born at Biddeford July 21, 1885 and attended the public schools of that city and Thorne Academy at Saco. He was graduated from Bowdoin College in 1907 and from George Washington University Law School. Admitted to practice of law in Maine in 1911, he formed a partnership with the late William M. Bradley in 1913 and is now the senior partner of Bradley, Linnell, Nulty and Brown.

At Lincoln Pomona

Remarks By Guest Speaker Evoked Reminiscences By W. R. Walter

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

If everyone enjoyed the session of Lincoln Pomona Grange held Saturday with Maple Grange, North Waldoboro, equally with the writer. It sure was a gala day for all who were fortunate enough to attend. The degree was conferred on five candidates, and then dinner and the social hour with exchange of greetings.

But ignoring the usual routine proceedings I will direct my efforts to the main feature of program—the famous lecture "Flirting with Fame," by Frank A. Winslow, known far and wide as "The Roving Reporter."

It has been my esteemed privilege to listen to Mr. Winslow on several occasions, but this being his 162d lecture it did seem that he surpassed himself on this occasion.

Besides, having come in contact with some of the famous characters Mr. Winslow "flirted" with, it would naturally be more interesting to me than to one who had never seen them. For instance speaking of Champ Clark, well do I remember one hot afternoon in June when he delivered the address at the State Democratic convention in Bangor.

With a physique tall, straight and manly, minus of coat and suspenders and with belt to support his pants no one could imagine a more typical Westerner. In my judgment he was the most eloquent orator I ever listened to, not excepting the "silver-tongued orator," William Jennings Bryan.

Mr. Clark's preliminary remarks were something like this: "Maine and Missouri (Mr. Clark's home State) have some things in common. They were both admitted to the Union the same year (1820) and were both Democratic States, but while Missouri has kept the faith Maine has fallen from grace. Another tie that binds the two States is the wife of the present governor (Hill) who was a daughter of Missouri and she was a Democrat, and I do hope she will be able to convert the Governor from the political error of his ways."

Mr. Winslow depicted William Jennings Bryan in his (Bryan's) famous trip to Bath, where he spoke to the people seemingly by the acre. Mr. Winslow referred to me as also being there. Yes, and I think I had little the best of the Roving Reporter that once. Being a member of the Democratic committee I was invited on the platform from which Mr. Bryan spoke. One interesting episode on that occasion was when Mr. Bryan paused in his oration and warned the people that there was a pickpocket operating among them.

Mr. Winslow's reference to Dr. G. L. Crockett introducing Mr. Bryan at Rockland, (I was also there) brought afresh memories of past political campaigns which Dr. Crockett and the writer figured together. He surely could make himself heard. Well, many years had passed when I lay languishing in Knox Hospital by reason of an accident in the mill resulting in the loss of an eye. One day who should drop in to call on me but Dr. Crockett. And oh, what a changed man! Voice weak and limbs feeble, he lived but a short time after that visit. Dr. William Ellingwood, who was dressing my wound at that time said to Dr. Crockett: "Stay with Mr. Walter a while for company." I remarked: "He doesn't care much for company that agrees with him." Dr. Ellingwood said: "He knows you, doesn't he, Doctor?"

You know that experience as a whole in Knox Hospital has left one green oasis in the archives of my memory. The kind treatment by the management and its help can never be forgotten. Especially I remember the skillful and tender treatment by my nurse, Miss Mildred Bacheider, now Mrs. Mildred Bacheider Smith of Lauderdale, Florida, from whom we occasionally get a greeting even at this late date.

Well, Dear Roving Reporter, whenever you deliver your lecture again on "Flirting with Fame" I wish you wouldn't be quite so modest.

W. R. Walter

CAMDEN

GILBERT HARMON
Correspondent
Telephone 713

About 80 attended the joint meeting and ladies night of the Rotary and Lions Clubs held Tuesday at the Episcopal Parish House. A chicken pie banquet was served by the ladies of the Episcopal parish.

Rev. William E. Berger acted as master of ceremonies. Singing was led by Gilbert Laithe, David Crockett and Dr. C. Harold Jameson. The speaker was Dr. Kenneth C. M. Sills, President of Bowdoin College, who presented a scholarly study of the European situation and its effect on the foreign policy of the United States. President Sills has been a student of International Affairs for a long time and does not expect another World War or European War in the near future. He stated that he believed in President Roosevelt's foreign policy 100 percent. President Sills is in no sense an isolationist; he has always been a firm believer in the League of Nations and thinks that the United States in refusing to join the League passed up a real opportunity to be an important influence on World Peace.

Miss Dorothy Baker is passing the school vacation at her home in Portland.

At the Megunticook Grange card party Saturday night, Mrs. J. A. Brewster won first prize and second prizes were won by Seth Pomroy, Miss Harriet Gill, Mrs. Gertrude Waterman, Mrs. Anne Hobbs, Mrs. Nora Cote, and Mrs. Hester Wadsworth. The consolation went to Mrs. Francine Carver.

N. C. Halkstead is guest of Dr. George Pullen for a few days.

Fessenden W. Miller is having his annual vacation from duties as assistant postmaster.

Mr. and Mrs. William Reed are returning Friday from Alabama, Fla., and New York, where they spent three months.

Mrs. Edna Smith has returned home after spending the past week with her daughters at Sebago Lake and Gorham.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Carroll and son of Augusta were recent guests of Mrs. Carroll's parents Mr. and Mrs. Willis Young.

Miss Eva Ridout and Miss Mary Taylor are in Portland this week.

Mrs. Francis Johnson is visiting relatives in Hartford.

Georgianna, widow of Edward G. Bryant, died Wednesday at her home on Elm street at the age of 87. Mrs. Bryant was born in this town and resided here all her life. Funeral services will be held at the Good Funeral Home, Friday at 2 P. M. Rev. H. I. Holt of Rockport will officiate. Burial will be in Mountain Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Sydney L. G. Sutherland are spending a few weeks in Philadelphia.

Miss Hester M. Ordway is passing the school vacation at her home in South Paris.

Officers elected at the annual meeting of the Farmers' Union Saturday were: Claude Heald, president; Ernest Johnson, vice president; Mrs. Ruth Johnson, clerk; Harold Dean, treasurer. The board of directors includes these four officers and Fred Leadbetter, Roger Heald and Jethro Pease.

Mrs. Ada Dyer has returned from a visit with relatives in Framingham, Mass. She was accompanied by her niece, Miss Virginia Foster and Robert French of Framingham.

Mrs. Fred Simpson, Mrs. John Stetson and Miss Betty Stetson are spending the week in Boston.

Miss Lucie Dickens is passing a few days in Boston.

"St. Louis Blues" with Dorothy Lamour and Lloyd Nolan will be shown Friday at the Comique Theatre. Saturday there will be a double feature "Off the Record" with Pat O'Brien and Joan Blondell and "Shine on Harvest Moon" with Roy Rogers.

est as not to tell of your flirtation with Amelia Earhart, when she visited Rockland.

After Seeing Fair

Then See New England and Especially the Old Pine Tree State

A quarter page of last Saturday's Boston Transcript was devoted to a special article by that paper's automobile editor, Fred C. Green. It was titled: "New England Offers Much as World Fair Sideshow."

"Motorists who visit the World's Fair in New York this summer, and who are not familiar with the attractions of New England, will find it well worth while to arrange their trip so as to include as extensive a tour of this region as time will permit," writes Mr. Green. "They will be well repaid in visits to historic spots and as wide a variety of scenery as can be imagined."

The six New England States comprise America's greatest and best-known vacation area, with attractions to suit all tastes and a friendly, co-operative spirit always in evidence on the part of those who cater to the traveling public.

Maine is, perhaps, the greatest summer playground of New England and Massachusetts provides the natural gateway to it. The Pine Tree State has more than 300 miles of coastline, which, if all inlets and bays are measured, stretches to nearly 3000 miles. The great sweep of ocean shore includes the famous beach at Old Orchard and some other sandy stretches, but in the main, it is rocky, with ledges over which white surf curls and whistles, bold headlands, many islands and, for much of its length, crowned with dark spruce growth right to the edge of the water.

There are lakes in all directions with the lovely Moosehead dominant. There are mountain ranges such as those at Camden and on Mt. Desert Island, there are mighty rivers, with bustling cities and sleepy old towns lining their banks. Above all, the industry represented by catering to tourists and summer visitors has become almost the most important one in Maine.

Even in the most remote regions of the State, comfortable lodgings may be found, either in inns or in cozy farmhouses. Maine's vast area of forest land, where lumbering op-

THORNDIKEVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Upham and daughter Patricia and Mrs. Margaret Hocking and son Richard of Rockland were visitors Sunday at Lou Upham's.

Earl Upham is on a trip to Washington, D. C., with the senior class of Rockport High School of which he is a member.

Arnold Childs and Richard Crabtree were weekend guests of Kenneth Crabtree, in Orono where they attended open house at the University of Maine.

Mrs. Raymond Crabtree and daughter Marietta, Mrs. Isabel McNiff and son James, Agnes Lermond, and Thomas Winston also attended open house. Mrs. Crabtree's son Kenneth graduates in June.

Linley Merrifield has been ill with grippe.

A surprise party was given Sunday to William Lothrop on his 74th birthday. Those attending were his daughters, Mrs. Roy Croteau of Rockland, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Bogle of East Union, Mr. and Mrs. Esten Soule and daughter June of Camden. Ice cream and cake were served. Mr. Lothrop is very active for his year, and has the best wishes of his friends for many more happy birthdays.

Mrs. Elizabeth Howard 80, is one of this community's industrious elderly women. She has braided two rugs, knit 21 pairs mittens, besides doing mending and sewing this winter.

Houses of match-sticks is the hobby of Jerry Jans, a 25-year-old truck driver, of St. Louis, Mo., who spends his spare time not only building match houses, but also match villages. His only tools are matches, a razor blade and glue.

Ruth Mayhew Tent

Many Matters Of Interest Engaged Members' Attention At Last Meeting

The series of beano games held by Ruth Mayhew Tent drew to a successful close in Grand Army hall Monday, with a tie score. The winners were Mrs. Irma Upham and Mrs. Sylvia Snowman, each receiving a combination food container.

The supper was in charge of Josephine Lothrop who, receiving assistance from volunteer helpers, served a bountiful repast. An intermission a short program was presented with Mrs. Elizabeth Gregory as guest speaker. Her subject was "Daniel Webster." Mrs. Josephine Lothrop presented a reading, "Sucker," and Mrs. Maude Cables offering dealt with a copy, a ticket, and a clever young lady, proving how flattery can change the mind of uniformed law enforcers. Mrs. Mary Cooper gave an interesting talk on some time she has spent in the Army area. Mrs. Plummer spoke of the reception to the Grand Army Commander, John Palmer, of the death of two of our Maine Veterans of the Grand Army and of the death of a valuable member of Emma White Barker Tent in Belfast, Sister Rose Sprague, well known in the Department of Maine D.U.V.

A great deal of sickness was reported and the chairman of the floral committee, Mrs. Alta Dimick, was instructed to send flowers for the funeral of G. A. Achorn a member of the Sons of Veterans.

Mrs. Jennie Pietrski is leader in the "Mile of Pennies" contest, having to her credit 12 feet, or 192 pennies. Mrs. Ada Payson, being a victim of gripe, did not make known her progress in the race. ## FOR FOUR CONCERTS

World's Greatest Artists To Be Secured For Portland Events

The Portland Community Association is conducting a membership drive during the week of April 17 to give to Portland and the surrounding towns, for the second year, a course of concerts which will include some of the world's greatest artists. During the 1938-39 season such world famous artists as Lotte Lehmann, Luitiz Melchior, members of the Metropolitan Opera; Bartlett and Robinson, famous English duo-pianists; Albert Spalding, American violinist; and Gaspar Cassado, noted Spanish cellist, were presented to members of the Association.

Because of the widespread interest in this type of entertainment, Donald M. Payson, president of the Association urges that membership be secured as early in the campaign as possible. It is essential that those desiring memberships should secure them right away, or during the campaign week, as no single ticket will be sold at the concerts and no memberships will be obtainable after Saturday April 22.

Four concerts will be presented. The membership subscription makes it possible to hear these concerts which will feature world renowned artists at a very low figure. Membership applications, either renewal or new, may be sent to the association executive secretary, Mrs. Charles P. Carroll, 70 Deering Street Portland or to the Association president, Donald M. Payson, Falmouth Foreville.

Their Sixty-Third

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Hutton At Head of Class In Lincoln Heights

An event of much local importance was marked at the Advent Christian church Easter Sunday, when announcement was made that two honored members present, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Hutton, were passing the 63rd anniversary of their marriage. April 9 was also the 85th birthday of Mr. Hutton, who was married to Miss Josie Chase in his native town Port Clyde, Me., on his 22d birthday, Sunday April 9, 1876. His bride was a native of Portland, Me.

The couple came to Lincoln Heights 44 years ago, and most of that time have lived at or near their present address, 2822 Griffin avenue, where they celebrated their golden wedding.

Two daughters were born to the couple. One, Mrs. Myra Hutton Strachan, died a few years ago at her home in Tennessee. The other daughter, Mrs. Eleanor Hutton Smith now resides with her parents. An adopted granddaughter, Marjorie Strachan, also makes her home with her grandparents here, since her mother's death.

Mr. Hutton for many years was a successful contractor with the Child Hutton & Field company, which constructed many of the important public buildings of earlier days, in Los Angeles. He retired from business and for many years has enjoyed well earned leisure.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hutton enjoy excellent health for their age. They are devout members and regular attendants of the Advent Christian church. They have a large circle of friends who are now congratulating them on their 63d wedding anniversary in which felicitations the Bulletin-News heartily joins, with best wishes for many more anniversaries to the worthy pair.

This paper recently recorded the 60th wedding anniversary observance of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel D. Chapman, 2516 Johnston, and now suspects that Mr. and Mrs. Hutton, after 63 years of wedded life may have established a local record. Mr. and Mrs. Christian Kirsch, 2627 Siebel, passed their 57th anniversary last December. Twelfth anniversaries here are fairly numerous. Three couples in Asbury Methodist church plan to observe their golden weddings this year. All of this proves that Lincoln Heights is a favorable location for couples to stay happily married for 50 or even three score years, or more.

If there are any other local couples who have been married for 63 years, the Bulletin-News will be glad to publish their names on the honor roll. Otherwise Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hutton, 2822 Griffin, will hold the local record for the longest married couple, and will remain at the "head of the class." More power to them! —Los Angeles Bulletin-News

In extending its congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Hutton The Courier-Gazette desires to add that Mr. Hutton is one of its most valued correspondents, bringing interesting happenings from the West Coast, and reminiscences of the days when he was sniffing the salty breezes which sweep in over the southern tip of Knox County.—Ed.]

This And That

Hitler acts as if he thought a policy of appeasement would undermine him with the German people. Probably it would!

A man driving along a country road saw the roof of a farm house ablaze. He shouted wildly to a woman standing in the doorway. "Hey, your house is on fire."

"What?"

"Your house is on fire" (a little louder).

"What say? I'm a little deaf."

"Your house is on fire" (this time at the top of his lungs).

"Is that all?"

"Well, it's all I can think of right now."

The only pair of porpoise in captivity are in the Marine Studios in St. Augustine, Fla. Both mammals are 10 feet in length and weigh approximately 1000; the female, 800 pounds.

Is there an "Anthology of Bells?" When bells at sea peel their deep tones, when gales and storms rage, one can almost hear their clang. These tones seem to come from the bottomless ocean. The influence of the sound of bells is far reaching, especially at eventide.

Blessed is the man who has found his work, but more blessed is the man who, having found his work, enters upon it with heart and zest to make it something real and vital, as a part of the history of time.

Germany's new improved excessive income tax will not please thousands of good, honest Germans who are not in sympathy with the Hitler movement.

I could not help hearing this as I passed through the hotel halls to the elevator. "Don't wear that hat, Delta; it looks like one the baby outgrew."

An old Chinese belief—when God made man of clay, he tried three different times to perfect the baking. The first mold was overdone, thus the black man resulted; the second mold was underdone, thus the white man resulted; the third mold was just slightly tanned and resulted in a perfect baking, thus the yellow man resulted.

Soon the jonquils will be glorifying the gardens, the tulips next, and then the lilacs with their wistful fragrance will grace the homes and garden paths. Wild flowers will come first—violets, anemones, and trailing arbutus and those dog-tooth violets.

The small hats may account for it, but girls, those small hats sometimes have high towers of rosebuds or ribbons looped into the air which cut the picture out of view for the person next back. Remove your hat when at the movies, please.

"Darling," he sighed, taking her hand in his, "do you remember when we met in the revolving door at the bank?"

"Surely that was not the first time we met?"

"Oh, no," he replied, "but that was when we first started going around together, wasn't it?"

Of every eight tons of freight hauled by railroads, one ton consists of shipments of raw materials to the steel industry or of finished steel to consumers.

It's about time someone gave the public a complete statement of revenues and expenses on the parties for the President. So says a Southern daily paper.

As Shakespeare says, "Let us not burden our remembrances with a heaviness that's gone."

Did you ever happen to notice the complacent call of pigeons and the wistful call of the gulls?

Life in untaxed Nassau appeals to many. There one finds no Federal or State income taxes of any kind and no gift taxes. An inheritance tax amounts to but 2 percent and the real property tax is negligible. This country might have done better to have given private industry some encouragement instead of constant hostility and taxing to the point of calling blood.

The World's Fair

The New York World's Fair will be liberally sprinkled with touches of the bizarre and here are a few of them:

A parachute tower, 250 feet high, from which patrons may "bail out" and be sure of landing safely.

The world's most costly wheat field in full growth, with eventual harvesting of the crop and conversion of it, after milling, into bread.

A $5,000,000 display of precious gems and, as a separate exhibit, the largest opal in the world.

"Steve Brodie" jumping six times a day from a reproduction of Brooklyn Bridge.

A "Rocket Gun" which will shoot passengers to the "moon;" also a separate flight to "Venus."

An oil well operated by bona fide drillers.

Puppets 14 feet tall dramatizing the family medicine cabinet as man's first defense against disease.

Orchids flown by the thousands every three days from Venezuela.

Man-made lightning—10,000,000 volts of it—in a spectacular discharge.

A floor made of cotton.

A trumpeter sounding the Polish "heynal" from a tower every noon to commemorate the slain bugler who warned Cracow against the approach of Genghis Khan 700 years ago.

A waterfall cascading from the roof of a high building.

Fireworks set to music; also a singing fountain.

A city entirely populated by midgits.

Hat Overboard!

But What Miss Marsh Mourned Most Was Loss Of Lovely Ribbon

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

Milady's spring hat is in evidence. Dame Fashion decrees a comeback in her present vogue. The new shape with high crown like an inverted flower pot and wide flaring rim recalls to mind a certain hat I once possessed. It was a garnet colored straw and I faced the wide rim with ceru lace and the only adornment was moire ribbon, yards of it, with long streamers floating behind. No one had seen this creation but my roommate and a little girl who sat beside me at my daily toil.

It was in August before the advent of the automobile. A friend arranged a foursome, inviting us to the home of relatives who had a large watermelon patch. We were regaled with all the luscious fruit we could eat and "then some."

I christened my garnet hat that night. I hung it on the side of the carriage and later discovered that it had gone overboard. Some weeks later my friend said "I went down to the Negro Church last night to hear the singing and what do you think—a stout Negress sang in the choir and she had your garnet hat on."

I never regretted the loss of the hat but I still mourn the loss of all those yards of lovely moire ribbon.

Elizabeth O. Marsh

Rockland, April 19.

A MAID CALLED MILLS

Whom You Will Take To Your Heart When She Talks About Household Matters

BROADCAST BY MARJORIE MILLS

(Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 1:30 p. m. over Stations WNAC, Boston; WTAG, Worcester; WCSH, Portland; WTIC, Hartford; WICC, Bridgeport; WEAN, Providence; and WLZ, Bangor.)

You'll be plunging into house cleaning this week probably and while it's weary work we have a notion women love the upheaval, the excitement and the bustle of it all. Certainly we love the spic and span feeling when it's over, the gleaming windows and floors, the crisp, freshly laundered curtains.

Will you remember to slip the finger cut from an old glove over the end of the curtain rod when you're re-insulating it so the material won't tear? Did you try the stunt of fluffing ruffles with the tines of a fork? Or, if you have plain curtains with a hem at top and bottom, do you know about running a rod through that bottom hem, hanging the curtains up weighted in this way so they'll partially dry evenly? Press them when partly dry and they do look better.

If it's a battered sink board that troubles you, do you know you can have linoleum cut to fit the shelves and even the back board around your sink, have it fastened in place with a bright strip of metal and dress up the appearance of your kitchen immensely?

Waxed, that linoleum surface is perfect for working too; it's quiet, easy on dishes and spot proof. We like it best for kitchen tables too. The kitchen we loved in a recent show had bright terra cotta linoleum. Swedish designs in green and terra cotta on the cupboard doors and a peasant print in colors for kitchen curtains.

Someone asks about removing lip stick stains on linen napkins. Equal parts of ammonia and hydrogen peroxide usually does the trick. Someone suggests steel wool to clean the light suede pocketbooks and belts that are so popular this spring.

Remember that idea of coating the polished brass knocker on the front door with clear shellac after you've shined it? It keeps all brass bright to use clear shellac or liquid wax. And a coat of butcher's wax, applied and then polished, does keep the fireplace bricks looking well for ages longer.

And now for a gardening idea. When you clear the leaves from your lawn this year don't fail to make a compost heap if you have a garden. Ella Merritt of East Weymouth told us the best stunt last year for making one inconspicuous too. Layers of lime between layers of dirt and raked leaves, either mounded up or buried in a pit as you prefer, but cupped in the center so the compost heap holds moisture. Then plant climbing nasturtium over it and it won't be unattractive. The nasturtium will grow like mad and by next fall you'll have lovely fertilizer for the garden.

Have you any bright stunts to contribute to the housecleaning sisterhood or the back yard gardening sorority?

Graham Cracker Sponge Cake

One cup sugar, 6 egg yolks, 1 teaspoon vanilla or 1/4 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 cup finely crushed Hampton graham cracker crumbs, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 cup walnut meats, if desired, 6 egg whites, 1/2 teaspoon salt.

Sift sugar and beat egg yolks until light, add the sugar to the egg yolks and beat till light and creamy. Add flavoring and fold in graham cracker crumbs, baking powder and salt sifted together. Add nuts, and then fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake the cake in an ungreased tube pan in a moderate oven (350 F.). Frost with any desired icing.

Cream French Toast

Two beaten eggs, 1 cup light cream, dash of nutmeg, 6 slices of toast, shaved maple sugar.

Beat eggs well, add cream and beat again. Dip slices of stale bread in mixture and saute lightly in butter or margarine. Remove from pan, place on rack and sprinkle with shaved maple sugar. Place inside broiler a few minutes for sugar to soften and blend. Serve with additional sugar or maple syrup.

Glazed Strawberry Tarts

Fill bottom of shell with custard. Heap strawberries on top of custard and then pour following glaze over berries.

One cup canned fruit juice, 1/2 cup corn syrup, 1/2 cup sugar, red coloring.

Put all ingredients in saucepan and bring to boiling point, using high heat. Then reduce to low heat

Happy Hope Farm

Mrs. Savage Tells a Story Of Interest and Value To Young Folks

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

"Eee-ee-eeek!" A crescendo shriek rose from the living room and Mrs. Mason dropped the pan of apples she was paring and hurried in that direction. As she went through the door a small boy collided with her.

"Johnny, do look where you're going!" chided his mother, "and why are you in such a hurry? Have you been playing some trick on Marion to make her screech that way?"

"No, ma, I ain't. I'm after the fly swatter. There's a great big bee in there and he lit on Marion's arm and she screeched like a loon. I'll fix it when I find the swatter."

"Wait, son. Let mother look at the bee first. We mustn't kill any useful insect."

In the living room Mrs. Mason found the bee resting on a begonia, polishing gauzy wings with hairy legs. "Why, children, it's only a bumble bee," she laughed. "We'll catch him or her, in a thick cloth and put her out."

"But, mother, they sting terribly and it lit right on my arm," exclaimed Marion. "Why not let Johnny kill it?"

"Because my dear, you'll be killing one of our best friends and it will never sting you unless you hurt it in some way. Son, let me take the swatter. Perhaps lady Bumblebee will crawl on it and we can put her out."

The beautiful black and gold insect seemed to know no harm was meant and after a few moments crawled leisurely on the wire held before her. Mrs. Mason carried it carefully to the door, which Johnny opened, and away flew the bee, into the spring sunshine.

"Now, children," said Mrs. Mason, returning and seating herself in an easy chair. "I'm going to tell you the story of the bumble bee and why it is our friend."

"The bee we just put out was a young mother bee, for at this time of the year they are the only ones living. She has slept under a log pile of leaves or in the ground through the cold of winter and comes out in the spring, when the first blooms appear."

"After resting and flying about for a while, this mother or queen bee begins to look for a suitable place for her nest. She prefers the abandoned nest of a field mouse, and having found one, she first builds a large cup to hold honey on cold days, when she doesn't care to fly abroad. Next she builds some little cell cups in which she puts a little pollen mixed with honey. In this she lays her first eggs."

"The eggs must be kept warm to insure hatching, and mother bee sits on them in much the same manner as a mother bird. The finely chewed grass and hair of which the field mouse built its nest, helps to keep the eggs warm."

"After the eggs hatch, mother Bumblebee has to make many trips to the flowers to gather pollen and honey for her brood. It is three or four weeks before the first of the offspring is large enough to help her in gathering food, and as soon as there are enough workers to keep the brood supplied, mother Bumblebee stays at home and spends most of her time laying eggs and caring for the young."

"The discarded cradles of the young bumblebees are used to store honey and by the middle of summer there are two or three table spoonfuls of honey, stores of pollen and 75 to 100 members. Then the worker bees begin to die off and the queen mother lays eggs that hatch males and young queens."

A Summer Festival

Our "Whimpy's Corner" Correspondent Advances Clever Idea

Rockland, April 17

Space is vast!

Any astronomer will verify that statement.

And space is hard to fill. That fact, especially in a peaceful, law-abiding community "where nothing ever happens."

Perhaps you find yourself in that predicament occasionally. So with that thought in mind, this quondam space-filler thought another "letter to the editor" might be welcomed.

The writer has been noted as a prolific producer of copy, especially on "rainy days" when the customary news sources failed to produce needed items. Just plain yarns are much more acceptable, oftentimes, than boiler plate. If my "stuff and nonsense" prove valueless, the editorial wastebasket is always handy.

And, remember, it's nigh impossible to offend or insult a true reporter. He's too rhinoceros-hided. 'Tis a fact that this scribbler has seen some of his best reportorial efforts (in his own opinion) shunted away from the composing room amid the trash of editorial discard. That was during his cub days, of course, but later on a copy-desk rim he became a hard-boiled, calloused blue-pen-ciller, taking flimsy delight in slashing, interpolating and rewriting the "beautiful" literary brain-child of some conscientious, hard-working, brilliant reporter. But then the pencil was in the other hand.

Your correspondent was in the editorial racket—"Racket: Confused, clattering noise; din"—Webster. Think of that period just prior to press time in editorial, composing and press rooms. Webster was right. "Racket is correct" because he liked to write—and still does! He has always been an "idea" man; an editorial promotion editor.

And so, an idea!

Why not publicize Rockland and Penobscot Bay to the ends of the earth. It's not a difficult undertaking. It is merely a broadcast of the written, printed word. All that's required is a theme. And it will ultimately bring financial returns.

Those of us who have wintered in Florida know the value of Gasparilla Week to the merchants, hotelmen, tourist resort owners and the financial well-being of Tampa. It is a colorful winter event which attracts thousands to the Florida West Coast city.

Then why not a mid-summer festival for Rockland!

Surely the initiative is here, and the enthusiasm, public-spirit and opportunity. Rockland is surrounded by summer vacation resorts. Such an event would draw for miles, native Mainers as well as vacationists. And all would have money to spend. With the present "Old Home Week" celebration as a nucleus, the idea could readily be enlarged into a sizeable "industry."

After using up all the stores of honey, the colony desert the nest and live on the flowers, taking shelter in any suitable place."

"Are the worker bees all dead then, ma?" asked Johnny.

"Yes, they have fulfilled their purpose and they and the old queen die. In late summer or early fall the young queens and the male bees mate and then the males, too, die, leaving only the queens to live through the winter and start new nests the following spring."

"But why are they our good friends, mother?" asked 13 year old Marion. "It is because they pollinate the flowers, as honey bees do?"

"Yes my dear, and because the bumblebee flies abroad at a lower temperature than honeybees, they pollinate many early flowers. The bumblebee has such a thick velvet coat, he or she, doesn't mind the cool days of spring. Then they have longer tongues and can reach into larger flowers that smaller bees and insects cannot reach. The bumblebees are largely responsible for the pollination of red clover, and those lovely pink petunias you saved the seed from would not bloom for you, if it hadn't been for the good work of mother Bumblebee and her family."

"I didn't realize they were such nice insects to have around," remarked Marion. "I wish I could coax them to stay around our flowers."

"Well," said Mrs. Mason, "if Johnny will look along the brook and in the field and find an old mouse nest, he can make a little box to put it in, with a door just large enough for a bumble bee to enter, and we'll put it near the flower garden where mother Bumble Bee can find it to lay her eggs in. Then we'll have plenty of bumblebees all summer!"

"Where's my cap?" said Johnny. "I'm going to start looking for a mouse nest right now."

without need of erecting a factory building.

A little research would reveal a theme for such a Penobscot Bay fiesta. Didn't Captain Kidd use nearby islands as hiding places for much of his booty? A treasure hunt for children would provide one day's program, the searchers being guided by a "real" pirate map revealing the location of the "swag" and published in The Courier-Gazette.

Copying Tampa the pirate motive would provide a colorful background for a big parade, floats, music and all, a pirate ball crowning of Queen of Penobscot Summer sports, an outboard motorboat race, Bangor-to-Rockland, yacht racing events and other events.

The idea has its possibilities. The pirate idea, of course, would be copying the Florida festival, but some original theme could be evolved.

Won't cost anything to think about any idea that might boost Rockland and put the city on the map as a center of summer vacation activities in Maine. Starting small, the actual expenses of a festival week would be trivial if all Rockland gave the event a boost, entering wholeheartedly into the spirit of the thing.

It can be done!

W. R. Baldrige,
56 New County road, Rockland.

P. S. And then the "Whimpy Corners News Notes" as follows: At the monthly session of the West Rockland Civic Improvement Association, the chief topic of conversation concerned a suitable name for the center of activities. The improvements realize that these news notes are putting this locality on the map. Also it was admitted that on the "other side of the tracks" in the other end of town, the residents have their Maverick Square, an unbranded Western adoption. This locality is definitely branded, but a new brand is sought. Such suggestions as Heifer Haven, Bull-ward, Cattle Corners were vetoed as undignified. Meeting adjourned sine die.

Spring warmth of the past few days has brought doom to winter, the Legislature and the West Rockland Comment Club. Shorty Waite thrifflily saving fuel, let the stove fire wave and die in his general store, and it's still rather chilly for the club to institute outdoor sessions.

Ab Hall, Thomaston chicken rancher, was in town recently bragging about his "beef" hens. They're so big, he prevaricates, that he has to clip their wings with a mowing machine.

The Hon. I Mack ("Mose") Lawes, general Representative is expected home Saturday to report officially to his constituents on the Legislature enactments, weekly dance assemblies, Augusta House frolics, star chamber antics and other momentous events of winter's biennial law-making convalesce. "Mose" will be enthusiastically received, praised and honored at "conquering hero" banquet—until tax bills arrive. Then he just can't take it.

From his recent pronouncements, Whimpy Corner folks are led to believe Congressman Smith may have a remedy for the ills of the State. At least, 'tis said, his declaration of his gubernatorial views looked like a "Payne-killer."

West Rocklanders read that communication last week titled "The Salt of the Earth" and wondered if it was a case of the "rock-ribbed coast of Mainer's" being "rock-salted."

Spring cleanup due any day now. Watch your Courier-Gazette for sales of garden rakes, whitewash, carpet beaters and mop handles.
