To Wed This Fall

Miss Virginia Snow

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Snow of Rockland, Me., announce the engagement of their daughter Harriet Virginia to Robert Weeks Allen of Rockland, son of Mrs. Bertha E. Allen and the late Thomas S. Allen of Newton, Mass. Miss Snow attended Connecticut College for Women and graduated from Farmington State Normal School where she was a member of the Phi Nu Omega Sorority. Mr. Allen graduated from Newton High School and the New York Textile School. The wedding will take place in the late fall.

MAJ. ALDRICH'S THREE FRIENDS

Tells Rockland Lions Of His Contacts With Bell, Twain and Arliss

Major Talbot Aldrich, whose summers are inevitably spent at "The Crags," in Tenant's Harbor, was guest speaker at yesterday's meeting of the Rockland Lions Club and took the members for "a little ride with three friends."

The first friend proved to be Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the Bell Telephone. When the Aldrich family met the inventor in Japan in 1898, Bell was a man of middle age, who was being received by the Japanese with open arms. Everywhere he went the cities and towns were thrown open to him, and he was granted two audiences with the Mikado. Everybody loved him, Major Aldrich said, and his devotion to his family and friends was unsurpassed.

Major Aldrich found himself greatly interested in a dancing performance given by the Geisha girls, Japanese maidens between the ages of 15 and 17, representing many of the finest families. A reception was tendered to some of them in the Aldrich box.

Major Aldrich and his twin brother accepted an invitation to visit Bell's studio, and were much interested in his experiments with kites which were being planned for army observation purposes. The discussion centered upon flying and Bell's listeners were highly skeptical when he informed them that flying machines heavier than air would come into use. He experimented with toy propellers, and one which was made of brass.

Contrary to the general impression Alexander Graham Bell was not a rich man, the speaker said. He didn't care much for money, he was a dreamer. He had many inventions in mind, but his life was too short. He had the wonderful gift of making strangers feel they had always known him. He was an untiring worker.

The Aldriches continued their voyage around the world, and did not see Alexander Graham Bell again for six years when they chanced to meet him in London.

Major Aldrich's second friend was Samuel L. Clemens, known to the world as Mark Twain. The two families met frequently in England, and Major Aldrich gave several examples of the repartee between his father, Thomas Bailey Aldrich and Mark Twain. Accused once of being possessed of a great fund of information, Mark Twain replied: "Yes, information oozes out of me like attar of roses oozes out of an other."

Major Aldrich's third friend was George Arliss, and he told how the famous actor studied the play "Disraeli" a year before he undertook to present it, and of the star's misgivings about appearing with it in his home country of England, after a successful tour of United States and Canada.

"I consider George Arliss one of the leading actors in the world today," declared Major Aldrich.

Major Aldrich's talk was an entirely conversational nature but was listened to breathlessly by the Lions.

The presence of Parker E. Worrey was hailed with special satisfaction, and the Lions insisted that he lead one of the songs. This honor also went to the battle scarred rookie who occupied the "solo" table.

Jim Burgess gave a report of the previous night's meeting in Camden which was attended by a number of local Lions. Quite a number indicated their intention of attending the big meeting in Belfast Monday night.

Dr. Donald Leigh, who has recently located here, was a guest.

Tom MacDonald, king lion of the Belfast club, will be the speaker next Wednesday.

CAMDEN MAN'S CLAIM

J. Frank Thomas, a well known resident of Camden, has a special interest in all this Red Jacket talk, because his great grandfather, was a brother of the builder of the famous old clipper ship. Mr. Thomas was born in Rockland in 1865, son of John Harvey Thomas, who was born in Montville, Aug. 31, 1839. His great grandfather was Joseph Tieston Thomas, also born in Montville. The great-great grandfather, brother of the Red Jacket's builder, was Philip Thomas. All of which makes the Camden man a great great grand nephew of the Red Jacket's builder.

Shirley Temple Sends Love To "The Black Cat"

The Courier-Gazette today presents its prize picture, a snapshot of Shirley Temple, autographed by her for "The Black Cat." The picture was taken by a former Rockland man, William S. Healey, who was serving as Knox County treasurer when he decided to locate in California. His present address is 4723 Gambier street, Los Angeles, and he is in the employ of an airplane manufacturing concern. Shirley's autograph on the photograph was obtained at the Fox Studio. The man seated with her is Jean Hersholt who appeared on the local screen some time ago in the role of "The Country Doctor" in the Dionne Quintuplet story. Shirley's car was surrounded, Mr. Healey writes, by at least 10 deputies; and Sheriff Biscaluz sat beside her throughout the benefit ball game at which the picture was made.

[EDITORIAL]

RUM ADVERTISEMENTS

Publication of liquor advertisements banned by The Courier-Gazette has meant the loss of heavy revenues, but has been in strict accordance with the views of the editor—a life-long and consistent advocate of the temperance cause. Some have openly applauded the paper's position, and doubtless hundreds have given their silent approval, be that as it may deference will be made to Mr. Fuller's desires. In this connection the following New York despatch to the Christian Science Monitor is interesting:

Advertisement of whiskies, brandies, gin, rum and other "high-powered" alcoholic products will not be permitted on property owned by the city's Independent Subway System for the five-year period from 1940-44 and all bidders for the advertising contract for this period must agree to remove such advertising immediately, it was announced.

Classifying hard liquor advertisements as "objectionable," the Board of Transportation announced through its chairman, John H. Delaney, that the action had been taken after many complaints from citizens that such advertising was out of place in a system owned and operated by the city.

The ruling applies to 1647 cars, 100 stations and 900 clock panels. The Independent System, which during 1938 carried 349,767,433 passengers, is growing rapidly in traffic volume and expects to open its next Sixth Avenue spur in a year and a half.

WHERE VANDENBERG LEADS

The "favorite son" States are beginning to be heard from. Michigan for instance. The poll made there by the American Institute of Public Opinion shows that 62 percent of the State's canvassed voters stand in favor of Senator Vandenberg, while 29 percent are for Dewey. It is quite proper that Michigan should rally to the support of its own candidate, and if the nomination heads that way there are many other States which would not be averse to falling in line. The latest survey shows that 54 percent of Michigan's voters want the Republicans to win. The Democrats of Michigan show 49 percent in favor of Garner, with Murphy running second on 25 percent.

GOOD MAN; POOR VANTAGE POINT

A very active Presidential canvass has begun in behalf of Senator H. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire. Senator Bridges has displayed the capacity, and is one of the big men in the upper branch of the National Congress. But New Hampshire like Maine is scarcely in a strategic position.

THE UMBRELLA MAN

Prime Minister Chamberlain's umbrella is now up and new down. If one reads the British record correctly his policy with reference to national issues is a vacillating one—far from satisfactory to the people of the democracies, and certainly from reassuring to those nations which the democracies should cultivate. In the perplexing whirl of international events it may be that the Umbrella Man is doing his best to work out civilization's salvation. Somehow it doesn't just seem as if his ways are the ways which would accomplish it.

"OPEN HOUSE" AT HOSPITAL

Music Program Enjoyed

Many Callers Also Inspect the Nurses' Home—

Residents and summer visitors from all parts of Knox County, gathered for an "open house" Wednesday afternoon, at Knox County General Hospital.

Miss Ellen Daly, superintendent, and Miss Nellie Burton, assistant superintendent, were assisted by the board of directors, members of the ladies auxiliary and several nurses.

A beautiful display of floral decorations in vases and baskets, consisting of daisies, lilies, dahlias, gladiolas, phlox, annual larkspur, etc., added brilliant color to the rooms, and were a source of admiration. The lovely arrangement was in charge of Mrs. Joseph Emery, her assistants being Mrs. Arthur Elliot and Mrs. Lee Walker of Thomaston and Mrs. Arthur Lamb. The first hour was devoted to inspection of the immaculate hospital proper, the guests being conducted through the operating room, children's ward, laboratory, X-ray and fracture rooms, private rooms which were available and the nurses' dining room and class room. Those in charge gave surprising information, throughout the tour of the various departments.

The Nurses Home was then visited where pause was made on the lower floor for delicious refreshments of dainty cakes, cookies and punch. Mrs. Arthur Elliot and Mrs. Horatio Cowan presided at the punch bowls, those serving being Mrs. William Ellingwood, Miss Charlotte Buffum, Mrs. Hervey Allen and Mrs. Lee Walker, assisted by several other members.

Dr. William Ellingwood at this time presented Frank Poland, of Medomak Camp, who presided during the afternoon.

"RED JACKET" GOING STRONG

Celebration Of Aug. 19-20 Will Be Fitting Tribute—Ship Open To Public Sunday

"Red Jacket Day" is decidedly front and center in the public mind at present with all thoughts and plans building around these big days, Aug. 19 and 20. While the general program is not complete as yet the committee is working night and day under General Chairman John G. Snow.

The huge ship, named for the famous Rockland built Clipper Red Jacket, will be open for public inspection on Sunday, Aug. 20. On Saturday a day of record breaking marine and on shore attractions will be in order. Liberal prizes will be awarded for all events afloat and ashore with band concerts, fun galore and a general holiday spirit in welcome this great ship which will be adopted, officially by this city and will be documented from this port, adding her huge tonnage to the district.

A very special drive is to be made to have every possible boat of every description in the harbor Saturday and Sunday and unprecedented efforts are being made to draw all yacht clubs and individual owners from far and near. It is hoped to have Rockland's great harbor literally alive with all sorts of craft. News re men from all (Continued on Page Four)

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

If I had my life to live again I would have made a rule to read some poetry and listen to some music at least once a week. The loss of these tastes is a loss of happiness.—Charles Darwin.

MEMORY

My mind lets go a thousand things. Like dates of wars and deaths of kings. And yet recalls the very hour—'Twas noon by yonder village tower. And on the last blue noon in May—The wind came briskly up this way. Crisping the brook beside the road; Then, pausing here, set down its load Of pine-needles, and shook listlessly Two petals from that wild-rose tree. —Thomas Bailey Aldrich

"The Black Cat"

By The Roving Reporter

Newlyweds in a neighboring town were victims of hecklers when they made their appearance on the street some years ago, and in place of confetti one person threw an onion which struck the bride squarely on her hat. The husband waved angrily at the group. "Mighty lucky," said he, "that wasn't me you hit." The chivalry which existed in Sir Walter Raleigh's day appears to have been absent on this occasion.

The largest single group to attend the New York World's Fair since its opening was a delegation of 8000 students, from New Utrecht High School in Brooklyn. They got in free, too, in accordance with the Fair's policy of free admission for supervised city school groups.

It would be a terrible thing if there should be a war in Poland, especially if all the officers names are like the one mentioned in a Cracow despatch—Marshal Smigly-Rydz. Think of trying to make that name register over a phone.

In the northeastern corner of the Grand Army premises there is an abandoned home. Last year proud parents reared their young there, yet now the shelter is entirely deserted. The home was a fir tree and in it was a robin's nest, right where unsuspecting passers-by could almost reach out and touch it. The nest was never molested, and those who watched it sympathetically thought it would again be occupied. Tree swallows will go, annually, to the same place of abode. Mine did until sparrows drove them away, one swallow being slain in the transaction.

The 500 paintings on display in the Masterpieces of Art Museum at the New York World's Fair are valued at $30,000,000. All the great artists in history are represented in the collection.

Probably on the ground that there must be some offset to feminine dressing idiosyncrasies, some masculines are now wearing their shirts outside of their trousers. This may be an exhibition of good taste, but what a shock to the sensibilities of those of us who remember what a disgrace it seemed when our pantalons were out at the seat. "White's out of jail" was the cry of derision which always accompanied such delinquency.

B. N. Grant wonders if the old clipper ship Red Jacket was named for the well known Seneca chief Red Jacket (1751-1830), who served with the Six Nations against the Americans during the Revolution. In the War of 1812 he assisted the United States. He made an eloquent speech against the treaty of Fort Stanwix in 1784. He lacked courage and was an inveterate opponent of Christianity schools and missionaries, but was a sagacious statesman and an eloquent orator.

The time-honored question has again been asked: "When was the Rockland Breakwater built?" Work was begun under the first appropriation in April 1881, and the structure was completed as to length in January 1900, several appropriations having been made in the interim. Reinforcement on the seaward side was found necessary, as the tremendous power of the waves was found to actually have moved some of the huge granite blocks. Further information regarding the Samoset's promenade will appear in an early issue.

Another question recently asked was: "Why was Dynamite Beach so named?" While Rockland Breakwater was under construction it was necessary to have some safe place for the storing of explosives. To this end the government bought a lot of land near Battery Beach on the Owl's Head shore—Dynamite was stored there, hence the name.

One year ago Mrs. Belle Frost was elected president of the Eastern Star Field Day Association.—Mrs. Archibald Mullen, 88, died in Washington.

Noted Negro Tenor

Will Be Heard Sunday At Center Lincolnville and the Beach

One of New England's most famous Negro tenors, Curtis Saulsbury, well known in Maine through his solos at State Denominational

Curtis Saulsbury

Conferences and his programs at the larger city churches, is giving a recital at the churches of Lincolnville this Sunday. Mr. Saulsbury is unique in his ability to weave Negro spirituals and classical solos together in a logical continuity of deeply spiritual appeal.

At the Lincolnville Center Church at 11 a. m. and at Lincolnville Beach at 7:30 p. m., Mr. Saulsbury's recital will take the place of the usual sermon. At Saturday Cove, Northport, at 4 p. m. Mr. Saulsbury will provide two solos as offertory and prayer response. At all services, in addition to the regular offering, there will be a special offering of appreciation for the singer.

During the past few months Mr. Saulsbury has been making a concert tour of Canada in connection with the church festivities during the royal visit. He is now nominally on vacation, but is singing at a few points in Maine before returning to his winter headquarters at New Haven, Conn.

Alton Hall Blackington, Boston's de luxe camera man and lecturer, is in the city for the day, lamenting the fact that he could not have arrived in season to attend his class reunion. He is accompanied by Lawrence B. Brown of Harvard Dental College, who has been with Mr. Blackington on all of his most important news and camera assignments. Mr. Blackington's mother, Mrs. Fuller C. Blackington, recently made a brief visit to her former home in this city.

SHE'S NINETY, BUT MODERN

With 21 Callers and 40 Cards Emily J. Watts Enjoyed Her Birthday

Mrs. Emily J. Watts of South Thomaston, formerly of St. George, observed her 90th birthday Aug. 6.

The quotation "90 years young" can truthfully be applied to "Gram" Watts. She says she could be real happy having the honor of having lived 90 years, if she had some one her age to chum with. Why worry "Gram!" you have the "It" that it takes to grow old gracefully.

Mrs. Watts has a remarkable personality, always keeping up with the times. No, "Gram" does not smoke but she's very keen on the doings of women. So much so that you can't prove by "Gram" how ladies carried on 75 years ago. That's one secret of her longevity. She does not clutter up her mind with past events. Her health is far better than the average person her age. "Gram" enjoys automobile riding. If she could drive an auto I think she would "burn-up" the road with the others.

Now, to tell you about her birthday. By 10 a. m. she was all set to receive her friends who might drop in for a chat and to share her birthday cake made by her granddaughter Marion.

What a day for "Gram." From 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. she was "On deck." Entertained 21 callers, one being W. P. Sleeper who observed his 86th birthday Aug. 5. Besides her several gifts she prizes her 40 birthday cards—those she will have with her always.

She is very fond of reading and enjoys The Courier-Gazette. She says there is everything in that paper from "claw to earring" (she can't forget her old sea phrases) to interest her.

No, she refused to have her picture taken for the paper. She gets a real kick out of newspaper pictures of "old people"—"Grams" too modern for that.

If you care to see "Gram" call at her home, the "Larch string is always out." Mrs. Watts is in possession of the Post cane, but that does not thrill her, because she does not require the support of a cane and she just hates to grow old. Yet, she accepts the inevitable birthdays with the same grace she has accepted life for 90 years.

Commander Bard joined the U. S. S. New York in Portland Monday morning after enjoying a few days' leave of absence at Spruce Head, where Mrs. Bard is spending the summer. The New York is on a cruise with midshipman, and Commander Bard hopes that if the ship makes a similar cruise next year, Maine ports will be included in the itinerary.

"There's a queer looking snake up here," Dorothy Stearns of Park street telephoned to the police station Tuesday forenoon. Patrolman Carl A. Christofferson who went to investigate shot a five-foot rattler and presented the rattles to the Stearns as a souvenir. The snake was found near the lot where the carnival exhibited last week. Another heirloom.

The Maine Medical Association held a council meeting Sunday at Bay View Farm in Belfast. Those in attendance were Dr. P. L. B. Ebbert of Houlton, Dr. George L. Pratt, Farmington; Dr. Thomas A. Foster and Mrs. Esther Kennard of Portland, Dr. S. A. Cobb, Sanford, Dr. L. C. McCarty, Rumford, Dr. R. V. N. Bliss, Bluehill, Dr. Frederick Carter, Augusta and Dr. William Ellingwood of Rockland. Wives of the members were invited as guests.

The annual field day of the Knox County Field Day Association of Chapters of the Eastern Star in District No. 11 will be held next Tuesday at Penobscot View Grange Hall, Glen Cove.

All members of the chapters within the district as well as members of other chapters who may be visiting in the vicinity are invited. Picnic supper will be served at 6:30, with the associate matrons of the various chapters in charge. This will be followed by the annual business meeting with President Belle Frost of Golden Rod Chapter presiding. The annual reports will be given and election of officers held. A program will be presented each chapter being responsible for two numbers. The remainder of the evening will be spent socially with bridge, beano and "63" as the chief attractions. Members may invite guests for whom a small fee is charged. Those attending are reminded to take their own dishes. The association will furnish the coffee and fixings.

Federal butter will be given out Friday at the city store.

Indications are that the annual concert of the Warren Baptist Church Aug. 18 will maintain the high standard set in previous years. Chester O. Wyllie, director, reports that rehearsals for the choral groups have been well attended and that the chosen selections are now in the "polishing off" stage. The church choir will be assisted by several well-known vocalists from Rockland, Thomaston and other Knox County towns, eager to assist Mr. Wyllie in appreciation of the splendidly generous spirit he has shown on many occasions. The Knox County Men's Chorus, led by S. T. Constantine, founder of the organization, will provide two groups. Vocalists for the program will be Rand Smith, baritone, Miss Helen Suffern of New York, soprano, and Francis Haverer of Rockland, baritone. Instrumentalists: Miss Beatrice Haskell, violin; Frank Young and Miss Dorothy Young, trumpets, with A. R. Marsh, violin, Luther Clark, clarinet, and Mrs. Verna Robinson, accompanist. Mrs. Louie Rogers will accompany the choral numbers, and Mrs. Constantine will be at the piano for the Men's Chorus. A complete program will appear in an early issue. In the meanwhile note the date and hour—Friday, Aug. 18, 8 p. m., Warren Baptist Church. No admission charge—silver offering to defray expenses and add to the music fund of the church, a worthy cause.

Edgar S. York

After a lingering illness and enfeebled condition for several years Edgar S. York died Friday at his home. Mr. York was born in Penobscot Aug. 3, 1869. When a child of four his parents moved to Kimball's Island, later they moved to Vinalhaven. In 1878 a winter was spent in Penobscot; the next year they came to this town where Mr. York made his home for the remainder of his life.

At times he joined others in fishing trips and for a time he was a seaman on ships carrying granite. An industrious man, early in life he revealed a talent for painting and hand-craft work. Without technical training he made a commendable record and won praise from artists of distinction. He painted ships and built model ships of every description from dinghy to schooners, brigs and full-rigged merchant ships with their innumerable ropes perfect in every detail.

His specialties were landscape scenes of this town, the Thoroughfare, Goose Rock and Brown's Head lights. These gave genuine pleasure to their many purchasers and spread near and far the beauty of the island. One of his last creations was of miniature lobster pots and clams.

In 1922 he united with the local church. In the intervening years he had taken an interest in church activities and served on committees and in many helpful ways. For years he was caretaker and boatman for summer residents who esteemed him very highly.

Funeral services were held in the Baptist Church Sunday conducted by Rev. Henry P. Huse, assisted by Rev. Milton G. Perry, pastor at Trenton, N. J., and former pastor of the Baptist Church during whose ministry Mr. York united with the church.

Besides his wife, Mr. York is survived by a daughter Mrs. Helen Ladd of Rockland; two brothers, Lewis of North Haven and Elijah of Vinalhaven; and several grandchildren. Burial was in the family lot in the Brown Cemetery. The bearers were Clarence E. Waterman, Zenas Burgess, Perce Crockett and Emory Wooster.

One of milady's favorite "dop dogs"—the Pekinese—serves a very useful purpose in life in his native Pekin where he is often trained to carry a lighted torch in his mouth through the native temples at night, a centuries-old practise.

Fire at South Cushing

Fire of undetermined origin resulted in heavy damage to the house of Mrs. Maude Barnes, while she was on a recent motor trip to Augusta with her sister, Mrs. George Cooley and Mr. Cooley. The house had not had a fire built in it for a few days. A box of paints, oil and turpentine in the chamber in direct path of sun's rays is the only cause, Mrs. Barnes can attribute to the conflagration, as the fire originated in that part of the chamber. It was discovered by Patty Olson.

The neighborhood including the crew at work on cross road, worked swiftly and intelligently, carrying the water a long distance and subdued the fire in a short time, but not until it had done considerable damage to furnishings.

The loss is partially covered by insurance.

The Fair At "Scotty"

Lincoln County Show, Coming Early, Has Fine List Of Features

Plans are nearly completed for the 83d annual Lincoln County Fair to be held this year Aug. 29-30-31 with shows the first two nights.

The management has brought together the best balanced show ever seen on these grounds. There has been an increase in total premiums for agricultural and household exhibits which will tax the capacity of the exhibition hall. The 4-H Boys and Girls will display more varied work and the Granges will compete more keenly than ever for the increased premiums.

Attractions have been improved in quality and quantity. The stage shows are under the direction of J. C. McCabe noted for fine clean entertainment. The day show will consist of eight acts between races. The night show will display a brand of fireworks never seen in this section of the state before in addition to a Grand Broadway Review. The McCabe Service will bring a large stage to be built over the track in front of the grandstand, equipped with lights, curtains, wings and backdrop. From the grandstand one would think it the interior of a large New York theatre. From this gorgeous setting beautiful girls and actors will stage a typical Broadway Review.

Live stock of all kinds will compete for honors and premiums. Some of the best cattle in the State will be there. In the pulling contests which have earned this fair the reputation of the best, more and larger teams than ever before will test their strength for the liberal prizes offered.

The horse racing will be something the "railbirds" will long remember. Nine races daily for larger purses by the best horses in the east will give the pari-mutuel betters a chance to try to make their fortune.

So clever were ancient Roman cooks that, we are told in an old volume of Roman history, they could serve whole pig, roasted on one side and boiled on the other, so one could take his choice.

Florence, Italy, in all probability, contains more works of art than any similar area.

Tobacco and grain alcohol have not been proved directly harmful to the eyes in all cases, as some say, but may prove indirectly the cause of eye troubles by attacking the general health. On the other hand, wood alcohol has been found in rare cases to injure the eyes incurably. So watch out!

The rotted remains of a boat which may have been the funeral ship of a British "King Tut" have been unearthed near Ipswich, Suffolk. Archeologists believe it may have been the tomb of Raedwald, King of the East Angles, who died about 620. Coins found in the ship tomb fixed the time of its emplacement near the start of the 7th Century. Gold ornaments, warrior equipment and feasting utensils lent support to the theory that the ship was the tomb of an ancient King. Experts believe the soil could not have preserved human remains for 13 centuries.

More than 50,000,000 passengers fly over the English channel annually, following the same route taken by Louis Bleriot when he made the first air crossing some 28 years ago. We wonder how large a percentage of all these air passengers are American tourists; we guess about one-third.

The Annual Supper

Women's Club Of Lincolnville Beach Will Serve It Wednesday

The annual chicken supper given by the Women's Club of Lincolnville Beach will be served next Wednesday at 6 at Masonic Hall which stands just off the Atlantic Highway at Ducktrap, a mile north of the beach itself. This unusual 50-cent supper has become so popular that last year late comers to the second table had to be turned away for want of accommodations. This season, however, every effort is being made to feed the largest crowd that might reasonably be expected to attend.

During the afternoon and early evening a fair will be held on the lawn of Mrs. Belle Griffin on the Atlantic Highway, the back of whose house is directly opposite the Ducktrap Masonic Hall. Refresh-

A Nautical Ball

At Which One Of The Features Will Be A Camden-Built Snipe Boat

The Nautical Ball, sponsored by the Camden Outing Club, climaxing the summer social activities, will be held at the Camden Opera House, Friday night, Sept. 1st. The committee, under the direction of John F. Miller, is now working on plans for an evening of fun and frolic centered around the Camden built Snipe sailboat which will be given away during the evening.

This 15 1/2 foot sailboat, which was built by Camden workmen in the yards of the Camden Yacht Building & Railway, is now on display each day on the Village Green and is attracting a great deal of attention. This popular class boat is widely used all along the Atlantic Coast and it is hoped, through the interest created by this event, that a small Snipe class may be seen in Penobscot Bay waters in the near future.

The Outing Club, by sponsoring this Nautical Ball, hopes to reduce its construction note indebtedness by a substantial amount. The Club, since its formation, has constructed one of the most complete and concentrated Winter Sports Areas in New England, and it is justly proud to say that through its membership drives, Winter Carnivals, and local activities, it has paid its way from year to year. At the same time it has reduced its original construction notes some each year.

It is believed that with the effort of this entire section that it might be possible to entirely wipe out the construction note obligations and start the 1939-40 winter sports season with a clean slate. The Club officials and its many friends are confident that once the club is free and clear of all indebtedness that its yearly activities will be self-supporting and the services rendered its members and the general public will be greatly increased.

If you have not inspected the Snipe Boat at Camden, it will be well worth your while to look over this sturdy little craft built by Maine Coast skilled workmen.

AN OVATION FOR PATTEN

Author Of New Patriotic Song Honored At Camden Lions Meeting; Also Everett Grieve

Tuesday night's meeting of the Camden-Rockport Lions Club is destined to go down in history as one of the most successful meetings ever held by that organization. Inclusive of guests and visiting Lions there was attendance of about 40 at the Wadsworth Inn supper, and when adjournment was made to the Camden Yacht Club, where the program was presented, there was an audience which overflowed onto the piazza.

Hon. Job H. Montgomery, first president of the Lions Club, was guest of honor, and Frederick W. Bowers was guest speaker (at the Yacht Club) but the meeting at the Inn resolved itself into a tremendous ovation for Gilbert Patten, Camden's famed author who has just written the lyrics for the patriotic song "On Freedom's Shore," and Everett Grieve, who composed the music.

With the excellent supper disposed of there was a period devoted to the singing of popular songs, under the dual leadership of Lions Lait and Crockett, and King Lion Carswell then turned the program over to past District Deputy George W. Dyer, who presented the speakers in apt and eloquent manner.

Standing, the Lions and guests gave an ovation to the venerable ex-president, J. H. Montgomery, who with his customary dignity and good taste delivered himself of sentiments which were heartily received by his audience. He had written a poem for the occasion under the title of "The Power of Song." This he attempted to read, but after the first verse, apparently overcome by emotion, he dropped it upon the table and asked somebody to complete the reading. This was done by the king lion, Dr. James Carswell, Jr.

The applause was redoubled with the introduction of Gilbert Patten, who spoke for a few moments—quietly and earnestly, telling how he came to write "On Freedom's Shore," how the music was composed in a few hours by Everett Grieve, and how the song was immediately accepted by a "good" publishing house.

"Proud in our love of thee We stand on Freedom's Shore." The ovation given Mr. Patten had its counterpart when Mr. Grieve was called upon.

Frederick W. Bowers, the guest speaker, made a few remarks—a foretaste of his highly entertaining program at the Yacht Club, where he was introduced by King Lion Carswell as a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music—a familiar figure on the stage and on the radio.

Of magnetic presence he immediately interested his fine audience, first taking its members back to "the horse and buggy days," paying tribute to many stage stars of two generations ago, among them Marie Dressler, Al Jolson, Chauncey Olcott, Eddie Leonard, George M. Cohan, Eddie Cantor, Eva Tanguay, and later Will Rogers and Victor Herbert.

Mr. Bowers sang "On Freedom's Shore," to his own accompaniment, and with the audience joining in the chorus. Somebody touched the button of an electric fan, the Stars and Stripes burst into life, and the scene was a most impressive one. And how that audience did applaud when Patten and Grieve were presented.

At the conclusion of Mr. Bowers' talk and the singing and playing of old-time famous songs, the meeting was turned into an open forum, in the course of which Mr. Bowers told of authors' difficulty in collecting upon their copyrights. "There is no incentive to write poetry or song," said the speaker, "unless their protection against the infringement of copyrights is protected."

Mr. Bowers made special mention of that undying song "Rock-a-Bye Baby." He was told during the meeting at Wadsworth Inn, that the author, Eric Crockett Carleton, was a Rockland, Me. woman, but in his lecture inadvertently gave Rockport, Me., the credit.

"You can't run theatres or radios without music," declared the speaker.

Met At Rockledge

Class Of 1912, Rockland High School, Re-elects L. E. Jones As President

The Class of 1912 held its annual reunion at Rockledge Inn, Spruce Head, Monday night, celebrating the 27 anniversary of the graduation from good old Rockland High School.

After admiring the landscape and numerous flower beds in the vicinity, the class gathered by the piazza where from various groups could be heard the words, "Do you remember when?"—followed by laughter, with no formality, and amid much merriment the class was quickly seated, in anticipation of the chicken and shore dinners which were served. During the dinner there was evidence of a bit of trading of food among those present.

Lucius E. Jones, president, presided over a brief business meeting. The minutes of the reunion held at Beach Inn Lincolnville, a year ago were read by Bertha Borgerson in a humorous way. A card from Edna Nelson Mann and telegrams from Frances Davis Merrill, Alton Hall Blackington and Charles Killoch were read, telling of their inability to attend the class reunion.

Miss Anna Coughlin, our beloved English teacher through all our High School years, and our guest of honor for the evening was called upon for remarks, which she gave generously after which she read several of her original poems.

From somewhere there appeared copies of the words to our Class Ode, written by Carrie Gregory Tolman, and set to the tune "Isle of Beauty, Fare Thee Well." The singing of the Ode was led by Mr. and Mrs. Orrey Tolman.

These officers were elected for the ensuing year:
President—Lucius E. Jones.
Vice President—Francis Havener.
Secretary—Katharyn Ulmer St. Clair.

Treasurer—Nellie Cobb Peterson. Nellie seemed to have 35 cents in her possession which she said belonged to the class, so another officer was added, that she might be the custodian of future moneys.

The roll call showed that we had 20 members (and nine guests) present from a class of 52 which was the largest to graduate up to that time.

Plans for future get-togethers were discussed with a possibility of a picnic in September. Class members present were Carrie Gregory Tolman, Doris Small Pierson, Harold Spear, Ansel Saunders, Francis Havener, Lucius Jones, Therese Manning Chase, Carrie Fields, Mildred Fields Besse, Nellie Cobb Peterson, Albert Peterson, Bertha Learned Borgerson, Flora Jackson Baum, Anna Flynn, Beatrice Hanrahan Philbrook, Blanche Magee Calderwood, Georgia Shuman Cross, Emma Covey Harvey, Marguerite Gould, Katharyn Ulmer St. Clair.

Annexed members present were Orrey Tolman, Pauline Lindsey Saunders, Edna Kennedy Havener, Sabra Hatch Jones, Harry Chase, Joseph Baum Ralph Calderwood, George L. St. Clair. K. F. S.

First In Chemistry

United States Now Takes Lead Over Germany—Japan, Russia, Gaining

The United States, not Germany, now holds world leadership in chemistry, according to statistics assembled by Prof. E. J. Crane, of Ohio State University, for the American Chemical Society which holds its ninety-eighth meeting in Boston Sept. 11 to 16.

Both in chemical research and chemical industry, this country for the first time outranks all other nations, he says. Alone among the major powers, the United States has gained in the number of chemical patents issued during the past five years. English, he disclosed, is the predominant language of natural science, the United States and England accounting for 40 per cent of all the scientific periodicals published. The greatest volume of published research originates in the United States with Great Britain second. Germany, a decade ago in first place, has dropped to third. Russia and Japan show striking gains.

"The center of greatest activity in chemistry, both in laboratory and plant, was once in Germany," Professor Crane says in summarizing his review, soon to appear in "Chemical Abstracts," in which the findings of the Society's international science reporting system are published.

"The issuing of patents on chemical subjects in a country is perhaps not a direct measure of industrial chemical activity in that country, but significant trends are disclosed by patent statistics," Professor Crane's report continues. "During the last five years, United States patents on chemical subjects have increased 15 percent in number over the preceding five years, whereas there has been a decrease of 12 percent for the same periods in British patents of chemical interest, a decrease of 23 percent for similar French patents and a decrease of 30 percent for German chemical patents. Totals for these countries range from around 7000 patents of chemical interest issued in the United States in 1938 to less than 3000 issued in Germany.

"Ten years ago, Germany was still leading in chemical publication, but the United States had drawn up to become a close second. Now the United States is leading in chemical activity thus measured, with the British Empire second and Germany third. Russia has passed France to take fourth place. France is fifth and Japan has nosed out Italy for sixth place."

Artie Shaw, 1938's number one band, is getting $40,000 for just two weeks work in the film "Broadway Melody of 1940"—and they say "swing music" is on the way out . . .

The most popular tune in the nation for the third straight week is "Stairway to the Stars," second, "White Sails," third, "Beer Barrel Polka," fourth, "Wishing," fifth, "Moon Love."

Best new song of the week was "Stranger Things Have Happened." Watch the tunes "Comes Love," "Cinderella Stay in My Arms," "Concert in the Park," "Rendezvous Time in Paris," and "I Poured My Heart Into a Song." They're all winners.

"There And Back"

The Story Of The San Francisco Fair Uniquely Told At Thomaston

An appreciative audience of 175 attended the presentation of "There and Back" at the Congregational vestry Wednesday. Proceeding the program, Miss Margaret Ruggles made a few explanatory remarks, assuring her listeners that the story of the trip itself would be told with strict adherence to the facts, and herself assuming responsibility for any elaborations in the presentation of the illustrations.

The program opened with "Hungarian," by Macdowell, played by Malcolm Creighton as the Chinese professor. This was beautifully done and received much applause. Miss Rita Smith then took the stage and in her own inimitable way began her story of the trip taken last November by herself and Miss Ruggles in Miss Smith's car from Thomaston to California. A leisurely trip down through the eastern states was described most interestingly, interspersed with occasional bits of dry humor that always endear Miss Smith to her listeners.

The first of the living illustrations to be presented was that of a Mexican Market Woman, depicted by Miss Hilda George and representing the typical Mexican woman seen in Juarez selling her produce. Accompanying the illustration a Spanish folk song of New Mexico was played on the piano by Miss Elizabeth Creighton, who also acted as accompanist throughout the program.

Proceeding westward through the south, the travellers saw many Indians who were represented by Miss Blanche Henry and Glenn Simpson, with Macdowell's "From An Indian Lodge" lending a musical background. In Pasadena a Mexican singer entertained with a Spanish Love Song. John Creighton becoming a most convincing Mexican for the occasion, singing the song in Spanish.

A visit to the Kellogg Arabian horse ranch was described with Walter Strong as an Arab and "Riff Song" accompanying. (Miss Smith's humble apologies for having no horse to illustrate the visit.) Santa Barbara was pictured as a delightful place retaining much of the atmosphere of old Spain, such as the Spanish dancer, Katherine Creighton, resplendent in oriental graceful in her Spanish costume with mantilla of lace, danced over the stage of "España" (Chabrier) with clicking castanets.

San Francisco's Chinatown was remembered for its Chinese music professor, who entertained the visitors with music on a variety of instruments, his final number being "When It's Springtime In The Rockies," which he sang to his own accompaniment on a curious stringed instrument. Malcolm Creighton, resplendent in oriental robes depicted this, singing the words in what Miss Smith described as "rather poorer" English than that used by the original Chinese Professor himself.

Miss Smith assured her listeners that she actually did not see everything there was to be seen at the San Francisco World's Fair, but exhibits from the various countries would surely have contained something of the pageant which was presented next to illustrate the Fair. Miss Dorothy Starrett representing the Philippines led a procession which slowly proceeded down one aisle, across the back and up the other aisle to return across the stage behind the scenes. She was followed at a short distance by Mrs. Helen Elliot as Japan, Mrs. Bernice Knights as Java, Mrs. Fay Stetson as India, Malcolm as China, Walter Strong as Arabia, Mrs. Naomi Elliot as Black Forest, Mrs. Margaret Creighton as Portugal, Miss Katherine Creighton as Spain, Miss Hilda George and John Creighton as Mexico, Miss Blanche Henry and Glenn Simpson as America (Indians) and Miss Mildred Demmons as Hawaii. Kettleby's "Persian Market" was played during the procession of the pageant.

As Miss Demmons, representing Hawaii, approached the stage at the end of the procession, the strains of music changed to Aloha Oe, and Miss Demmons placed over Miss Smith's shoulders a lei of pansies, and over Miss Ruggles' a lei of pink roses. This concluded the description of the trip "there" and now, as Miss Smith expressed it, it was "up to" her to get the audience "back."

Montana was one of the first States visited on the return trip, and there cattle ranches and cowboys were to be expected. "However," said Miss Smith, "it did seem that we never could see the same at the same time. Where we saw cattle ranches, there were no cowboys, and vice versa." But the cowboys that were seen seemed mainly to be musical as John Creighton, this time in the garb of a western cowboy, demonstrated, singing "Home On the Range."

The Dakotas had rather a depressing effect on the travellers, as told in the "Ballad of Dakota," composed by Miss Smith and read by Miss Ruggles. Minnesota memories were expressed by Miss Laura Beattie, who sang, beautifully as always, "By the Waters of the Minnetonka."

An excursion into Canada was remembered mainly for the bustle and preparation going on there in anticipation of the coming of the King and Queen of England. This was symbolized by an English flag and picture of the King shown during the singing of "God Save the King" by a hidden chorus.

The return home, through Vermont and finally "back" to Maine was brought to a climax by the singing of "America" by the entire audience.

The distinct success of the presentation of "There and Back" is due to the tireless efforts and clever work of the entire cast. Miss Elizabeth Creighton, as accompanist, played a very important part, as do accompanists, and deserves credit for the capable manner in which she did that part. Her brother Malcolm Creighton a student at the New England Conservatory of Music, was greatly enjoyed both as actor and pianist. Miss Ruggles and Miss Smith have given unstintingly of their time to make arrangements. The floral decorations which were so effective were their work also. Miss Jessie Crawford and Mrs. W. B. D. Gray were in charge of the tickets. Mrs. Fay Stetson very capably managed the make-up of the actors. Rev. H. F. Leach and Forest Stone acted as ushers.

And last, but not means least, to Miss Hilda George goes the thanks and appreciation of the entire group for her clever costuming and arranging of the cast. The costumes, which were all the property of Miss George, were authentic, and have been collected by her during her travels. Her generosity in lending and arranging them certainly deserves the greatest appreciation.

"There and Back" was under the auspices of the Federated Circle and of $43.50 to apply on the church netted that organization the sum budget.

From The Shoulder

Writer Who Believes "Party Hope" Should Give Way Political Pact

(By R. M. Washburn, Worcester Gazette and Boston Transcript.)

Country before party, today I am an independent Republican, always having voted the party ticket, that is when I have been given a decent chance. I have seldom cut it, in many years. The independent vote is the pivotal and determining factor in elections. The fear of it is the saving tonic of an honest and wise party system. Anyone who has never cut his party ticket is not fit to be embalmed when he dies. The political corruption of Pennsylvania has been largely due to the fact that Republicans have been taught to follow the party nominees, too slavishly. And the leaders who naturally and easily control the primaries have always known this and played for party regularity.

Another $4,000,000,000 campaign fund is now in process for the Presidential hopes of Mr. Roosevelt, in 1940. It is thus apparent that he will surely be a candidate, and probably the nominee of his party, or his designate, in other words his assignee in official bankruptcy. The only issue in 1940 should be whether you are for or against F. D. R., or his appointed one. The issue should be not a party one but far broader than this. It should be Rooseveltism or anti-Rooseveltism, neither Democracy nor Republicanism. Mr. Roosevelt was not elected by the Democratic party. He will not be defeated by the Republican party.

History confirms the thesis set out in these paragraphs. In 1912, the Republican party, in convention assembled and controlled by its tacticians, "turned up" the late William Howard Taft as its nominee for re-election and "turned down" the late Theodore Roosevelt. Then the latter, in a party of his own, so split the opposition that Woodrow Wilson was elected President. It was alleged by the T. Rooseveltians that the nomination of Mr. Taft was secured by fraud.

These political tacticians should have found the votes and nominated Mr. Roosevelt. For he was clearly the popular choice of his party, as evidenced by the eloquent fact that he had carried all the primaries of the country, wherever they had been held. But the organization preferred to sure save itself rather than to take a chance on winning the election, to go down with Mr. Taft than up with T. R. The situation is the same today. Republican stalwarts are now going about the country talking, first for their party and last for their country. They forget that the issue, today, is a far more vital one than party, and should be only and exclusively: Are you for or against F. D. R., or his assignee in official bankruptcy. Now drop closer to the ground.

On May 17, 1938, the T. R. Club of Boston, by a unanimous vote of its directors, 10 out of 14 being present, voted: "The exigencies of the hour demand that the Republican party, in 1940, should endorse for President an anti-New Deal Democrat, preferably from the South." That vote still stands. There are some men who have measured up to the tests of wise courage, independent of party. They have dared to talk out in meeting, such men as Senators Bailey of North Carolina, Tydings of Maryland, George of Georgia, and Byrd of Virginia. Under the leadership of such men, only, can the country hope to snuff out the flickering financial candle in the White House. And how can this be done, concretely?

The Republican party has finally become wise, happily in fixing its 1940 convention to come after that of the Democratic party. It will thus be in a position to profit by the mistakes of the Democratic convention. An effort will be made in the Democratic convention to defeat the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt, or his assignee in official bankruptcy. The fight will doubtless be led by some anti-New Deal Democrat, presumably from the South, and it will doubtless fail. The Republican party should then endorse as its nominee for the Presidency, that defeated aspirant, the strongest anti-New Deal Democrat in the country, as determined by that convention. The fight should forthwith be made, with only two candidates in the field, no split opposition. A party hope should give way to a political pact.

In this way and in this way only, in an opposing coalition, without regard to party, can the country be cleaned out and up. For it must never be forgotten that there are men of influence in the Democratic party who will follow and vote for its nominee in 1940, whether he is tattooed or not, Roosevelt, or his assignee in official bankruptcy. And there are Republicans, also, who have already sold out, from the top of the handle of a shovel. Because of which considerations, the Republican stalwarts of the country, and others, must now determine whether

Deer Isle Band

High School Students Give Concert At the Surry Theatre

Thirty-seven musicians, members of the Deer Isle School band, from McKinley High School Deer Isle, under the leadership of Anton Mainente, gave a stirring concert of marches and popular airs on the grounds of the Surry Theatre Saturday night. The band, which is one of the finest in Maine, journeyed to the theatre in a school bus, with their friends, and with their manager, Carl Pickering. Following the concert, they attended the final performance of "Art and Mrs. Bottle."

A large crowd had assembled from many miles around to hear the concert, and a vociferous tooting of automobile horns following each number left little doubt of popular approval of the young bandmen's musicianship. With their smart blue and white uniforms, the High School players made a colorful picture on the lawn in front of the theatre. The concert was given just before sundown, under ideal clear weather conditions, and the sound carried for miles around.

The Deer Isle School band has made arrangements with the Surry Theatre to give three more free concerts on Saturday nights in August at 7:45 and the public is invited to hear a talented young aggregation of musicians in programs of classical and popular favorites.

Saturday night's program included: "The Fairest of the Fair," Sousa; "On the Mall," Goldman; "King Cotton," Sousa; "Stein Song," Colcord; "Toreador Song," Bizet; "España Waltz," Waldeufel; "Victor Herbert Favorites," and "La Feria," Lacombe.

Fortune has smiled on someone you like a great deal. Or perhaps you suddenly remember the birthday or wedding anniversary of a friend. Happily inspired words flash into your mind. But other things interrupt. Finally, it's too late or you've forgotten your first, at-the-moment thoughts. Why waste such pleasant opportunities when it's so easy to telephone? The cost of day rates for out-of-town calls is very low, and rates are even lower evenings after 7 and all day Sunday.

Queer Situation

Has Been Created In Washington, Says Christian Science Monitor

It's a queer situation in Washington. The President is more or less committed to the belief that recovery is "retarded." One almost gathers that he would enjoy a little drop, listening to some of his recent press conferences.

There is a good deal of irony in the situation. It should be compared to that in the second half of the Hoover regime when Mr. Hoover and Ogden Mills were making frequent statements that recovery was on its way, or round the next corner. On the whole these were rather forced expressions of confidence, and the stock market paid little attention to them, or actually took each new assurance as the occasion for another roller-coaster dip. Mr. Roosevelt's predecessor thus became politically identified with the course of the stock market. Mr. Hoover was a political "bull."

Today the situation is curiously similar in one respect, and ironically different in another. Mr. Roosevelt has put himself in a position for if he has not fully done so is fast approaching it where he also seeks vindication by pointing to the stock market. But in this instance Mr. Roosevelt's gloomy forecasts would summon up the picture of declining stocks. Mr. Hoover needed a boom to rehabilitate his prophetic reputation. As for Mr. Roosevelt—well, it would be unkind to charge that he would enjoy a mild slump, but at least his recent forecasts have pointed in that direction.

Let us recall the last three incidents. The first came when the Senate voted against continuing his currency devaluation powers and linked it with the higher price for silver. Mr. Roosevelt made an indignant, hard-hitting counter attack. The move would throw control of currency back to "Wall Street," he told reporters at Hyde Park. Mr. Roosevelt did not make any comment on recovery in this particular interview. He might have done so later on, but subsequent events turned the defeat into a victory, or at least a drawn battle, which made comment superfluous.

It was after the defeat of the neutrality issue that Mr. Roosevelt made his first important comment about business uncertainty and a possible further slump. This time Mr. Roosevelt did not speak heatedly. Again talking at Hyde Park, he spoke calmly, good-naturedly and as one discussing facts which had to be accepted. So far as he was concerned, the battle was over for the session, he implied, with the narrow defeat by 12 to 11 in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the subsequent unsuccessful conference at the White House. He quoted an unnamed investment banker as saying the action "will slow up the finest little economic boom we have had in some time." He argued that the chances of war had been brought nearer by failure to revise neutrality legislation, and that accompanying uncertainty would retard recovery and slow down business. The stock market disregarded Mr. Roosevelt's hint (as it used to Mr. Hoover's) and aggravatingly bounced after this gloomy forecast—for the time at least.

Now again on Tuesday at a press conference, Mr. Roosevelt has seen recovery retarded by the defeat of a bill; this time his big lending bill. He spoke matter-of-factly, as he did after the neutrality defeat. It was not the heated, ungloved attack that followed the first round of the currency devaluation fight. But if a potential investor with $10,000 in his pocket who knew little else about American fiscal affairs had heard Mr. Roosevelt at the White House Tuesday he would have gone out and probably buried his money in the ground.

What happened in Wall Street after Mr. Roosevelt's comment? You have guessed it already. The market advanced! But whether Mr. Roosevelt is a better long range prophet than a short range one in this vital matter is still to be seen.

Anyway the fact remains that a curious political situation has been created. For the moment at any rate Mr. Roosevelt is technically on the "bear" side. This has its advantages and disadvantages. If a slump comes he can always blame his opponents. But an "I-told-you-so" attitude doesn't win elections. Mr. Roosevelt knows as well as anybody that prosperity is the thing that in all normal circumstances re-elect dominant parties. He might find a mild personal pique gratified by a temporary decline, but he is fully aware that the best hope of the Democrats now as always is to bring recovery.—By Richard L. Strout of the Christian Science Monitor's Washington Bureau.

Session Reviewed

New York Editor Says That Congress Has Regained Independence

(Herald-Tribune)

It was a history-making session which finally broke up with wilted collars and frazzled tempers late Saturday evening. Its direct accomplishments, ranging from a basic revision of the social-security act to business tax relief, from a huge defense program to a properly safeguarded governmental reorganization act, were by no means inconsiderable, and compare favorably in bulk and importance with the work of any other session since the early New Deal days. Its indirect accomplishments have been greater still. Emphatically it has halted the march of the "must" bills; it has reversed the steady trends toward bureaucratic and administrative dictatorship, and has unmistakably reasserted the tradition of Congressional independence and control.

Its achievement is a logical continuation of the work begun with the great battle for the integrity of the judiciary in 1937. Two years ago the Congress rose to preserve the independence of the Supreme Court; last year it rebelled again to defeat the original reorganization bill and the attempt which it implied to expand the Presidential power through its control over the administrative machinery. These were both defensive actions, however, merely repelling fresh encroachment on the constitutional system. But when the President replied with the famous "purge," only to be disastrously rebuked by the electorate, the stage was set for the next act in the drama, in which Congress would positively reclaim the authority which constitutionally belongs to it, but which it had been weakly resigning to Mr. Roosevelt's energetic chair.

Thanks to a solid and intelligent led Republican minority in shifting coalition with Democratic insurgents that act has now been played. The whole constitutional position has been restored to a much sounder state; while Congress has utilized the authority it has regained to enforce with considerable consistency a new and wiser attitude toward public affairs. The defeat of the spending-lending and housing bills, the elimination of the prevailing wage from the W.P.A. and the drastic termination of W.P.A. work as a profession, the passage of the Hatch act, the defeat of the Townsend plan bills, the ordering of a genuine investigation of the N.L.R.B., the rejection of several Presidential appointments were not merely so many assertions of Congressional power against Mr. Roosevelt. They were all in their various ways assertions of the same general view that government by extravagance, pump priming, "handouts," bureaucratic dictatorship, office-holder armies, favored pressure groups and socialist theorizing would have to come to an end.

Thus Congress has both regained its independent power and shown a capacity to use it with some wisdom. These are great gains, and quite enough to make the session memorable. But they are certainly not everything, as one glance at the staggering $13,300,000,000 total of appropriations—nearly $2,000,000,000 more than last year's peak, which was itself a peace-time record—is enough to demonstrate. Mr. Roosevelt's overwhelming personal dictatorship has been brought down; the dictatorship of his billions has not been. The judicial and political system has been preserved and restored; the financial system remains in riotous chaos. A great popular weariness with the whole reckless New Deal and its works has found expression through Congress; it has not as yet had much practical effect upon the problems the New Deal years have created.

There is no room for overconfidence on the part of those who hope to see this country brought back to sanity. It remains to be seen how deep the Democratic dissensions will run next year, under the cohesive influence of a Presidential election. It remains to be seen how resolutely those who have raised the standards of a new attitude will follow them when the going is hard. But it is certain that if these new attitudes and policies which the country so badly needs are to be made effective, there must be a constant, alert and earnest public support for them in every local situation in which they are involved and behind every public man who voices them.

Until next week this is your Hollywood Radio Rounder who will answer the question next week of "Will sweet music ever come back?"

When the new Atlantic Clipper landed at Marseilles, France, there-by completing its initial passenger flight across the Atlantic, it carried aboard Marjorie Schuler, who was likewise completing a pioneer voyage. This landing at Marseilles marked the end of her flight around the world on commercial airliners.

Miss Schuler took off from Southampton, England, on the first leg of the flight, to which she was assigned by her newspaper, The Christian Science Monitor. Although the actual flight from Southampton on around to New York could have been accomplished in approximately a month, Miss Schuler took four months. She "stopped here and there," to see the Acropolis, to track elephants, to gaze at the Taj Mahal, and to hear the temple bells tinkle in the breeze at Bangkok, to look at Koda playing in Australia, and to experience a Japanese air raid in Canton, to listen to the clop, clop of Chinese shoes in Hong Kong, and spend four glorious weeks in Hawaii. Now the flight is complete, and Miss Schuler holds the distinction of being the first woman to encircle the globe in commercial planes. But more than that she has been able, over a short period of time, to get a sweeping first-hand view of the world. Her book "A Passenger to Adventure," will give a full account of this unique journey—to be published this fall by Appleton-Century.

Eleanor Early, author of many travel books including "Behold The White Mountains," and the recently published "Adirondack Tales," was awarded $50 by the National Federation of Press Women for the best signed feature article in the nation wide contest conducted by the Federation. The winning article, "Dominica," appeared in the January Cosmopolitan. Miss Early is a member of the New England Women's Press Association, with headquarters in Boston.

While "The Grapes of Wrath" by Steinbeck, was voted the best book by The Writers' Congress in New York, it is interesting to note that the second choice fell to Edwin Lanham's novel "The Strickland," which Little, Brown & Company brought out this past spring.

Ogden Nash, author of "I'm a Stranger Here Myself" which is breaking records as a best-selling book of poetry (52,000 copies printed to date) is summing in New England, having chosen Rye Beach, N. H., as just the right spot.

Della T. Lutes, whose books "The Country Kitchen," "Home Grown," and "Millbrook" have won countless admirers, receives enthusiastic letters from all over. One writer told her she was sending her two very old cook books, one of them printed in 1773 entitled "The Lady's Assistant for Regulating and Supplying Her Table." Wager that some of its contents will appear in a later book by Mrs. Lutes.

Thornton Wilder is in Cohasset, Mass., to appear as an actor in his own Pulitzer prize-winning play "Our Town." His plunge into acting is not a bid for one more career. He has had several now, from school teacher to college instructor to famous novelist and now famous playwright. Now he is acting to learn more about the theatre from the point of view of the actor.

Referring to "Grapes of Wrath," we are reminded that many readers are eager to obtain M. Steinbeck's earlier books. Modern Age Books has reprinted what is said to be one of his best, "Pastures of Heaven." Issued in a paper cover at 25 cents, the large initial edition is based on the belief that American readers will want to read more of the work of the man who has become our major novelist. This is the only available edition of this book.

"School for Barbarians" by Erika Mann has sold over 40,000 copies in the United States and has gone into a third printing during the first week of publication in England. ## Our Book Corner

From Little, Brown & Company's bulletin we notice that Evelyn Waugh who spent several months during the past winter in Mexico has a non-fiction book on the subject called "Mexico: An Object Lesson," slated for Aug. 17 as publication date. Also that E. Phillips Oppenheim, amazing man that he is at 73 years, writes his 108th novel with the timely title "Exit a Dictator," for publication on Aug. 18.

Eleanor Early, author of many travel books including "Behold The White Mountains," and the recently published "Adirondack Tales," was awarded $50 by the National Federation of Press Women for the best signed feature article in the nation wide contest conducted by the Federation. The winning article, "Dominica," appeared in the January Cosmopolitan. Miss Early is a member of the New England Women's Press Association, with headquarters in Boston.

While "The Grapes of Wrath" by Steinbeck, was voted the best book by The Writers' Congress in New York, it is interesting to note that the second choice fell to Edwin Lanham's novel "The Strickland," which Little, Brown & Company brought out this past spring.

Ogden Nash, author of "I'm a Stranger Here Myself" which is breaking records as a best-selling book of poetry (52,000 copies printed to date) is summing in New England, having chosen Rye Beach, N. H., as just the right spot.

Della T. Lutes, whose books "The Country Kitchen," "Home Grown," and "Millbrook" have won countless admirers, receives enthusiastic letters from all over. One writer told her she was sending her two very old cook books, one of them printed in 1773 entitled "The Lady's Assistant for Regulating and Supplying Her Table." When the new Atlantic Clipper landed at Marseilles, France, there-by completing its initial passenger flight across the Atlantic, it carried aboard Marjorie Schuler, who was likewise completing a pioneer voyage. This landing at Marseilles marked the end of her flight around the world on commercial airliners.

Miss Schuler took off from Southampton, England, on the first leg of the flight, to which she was assigned by her newspaper, The Christian Science Monitor. Although the actual flight from Southampton on around to New York could have been accomplished in approximately a month, Miss Schuler took four months. She "stopped here and there," to see the Acropolis, to track elephants, to gaze at the Taj Mahal, and to hear the temple bells tinkle in the breeze at Bangkok, to look at Koda playing in Australia, and to experience a Japanese air raid in Canton, to listen to the clop, clop of Chinese shoes in Hong Kong, and spend four glorious weeks in Hawaii. Now the flight is complete, and Miss Schuler holds the distinction of being the first woman to encircle the globe in commercial planes. But more than that she has been able, over a short period of time, to get a sweeping first-hand view of the world. Her book "A Passenger to Adventure," will give a full account of this unique journey—to be published this fall by Appleton-Century.

The Trailer

By W. R. Walter

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—August brings the golden-rod. Beside each rural road that's trod; Also the phoenix in bloom appear. And other flowers our hearts to cheer. And so all down, from north to fall, We have the dowers, and like them all.

Where are all the N. C. C. writers? Haven't heard from them for a long while. Where is Mrs. Savage with her variety of pets—woodpeckers, squirrels, robins and the like. Have they all emigrated after her kind treatment of them?

Fairly life would be much less worth living if it not for our birds and flowers! Speaking of birds, the past variety I ever saw was at Franklin Park in Boston. One would hardly think there are so many different kinds of birds, with such gorgeous plumage, unless they see them with their own eyes.

K. S. F. stirred up a few thoughts when he commended talking to God's creatures. The best trained group of birds that I ever saw was when I was a kid. It was at a circus in Rockland, on a platform in open air. They were small birds—about the size of an English sparrow. They performed many acts and readily obeyed every order of their trainer. The last act that I remember was seemingly a tragic one. A bird fired a small cannon and a bird on the opposite side of the platform flipped over on its back as if shot. Another bird placed itself between the thills of a little ambulance, hauled it to the side of the dead bird, two other birds loaded it on the ambulance, when it was driven to its resting place.

I have always wondered what the exhibitor got for his trouble, as there was no fee charged, and I didn't see an offering taken. If there had been, don't know as I could have contributed anything and had enough left to pay my way into the circus, as a kid's pile of spending money in those days was very meagre.

If one wishes to know more about birds, they should call on Mr. and Mrs. John L. Teague where the feathered songsters get much attention with a generous supply of drink and feed, using several bags of grain per year.

of the Spear family met at Good Will Grange hall last Thursday and presented them with a shower of kitchen articles to help replace those lost in the fire which destroyed their home Tuesday. The sale of ice cream and cake helped to increase the sum of money which was also presented them.

A MAID CALLED MILLS

Whom You Will Take To Your Heart When She Talks About Household Matters

BROADCAST BY MARJORIE MILLS
(Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 1.30 p. m. over Stations WNAC, Boston; WTAG, Worcester; WCHS, Portland; WTIC, Hartford; WICC, Bridgeport; WEAN, Providence; and WLBZ, Bangor).

Whipping up masterpieces in the way of meals day after day isn't any cinch at any season of the year but it's just a little harder than usual when the temperature soars, the family comes home wilted at night and the lady in the kitchen may be the most wilted of all. So here are a few meals guaranteed to be easy and we'd almost guarantee they'll be popular too.

Of course, you do as much of the meal as possible in the morning when it's cool, don't you? A jellied meat loaf like the one printed today can be tucked away in the ice box by ten o'clock in the morning or the other meat loaf among today's recipes can appear one day served hot and the next day as cold sliced meat. (For a good hot soup that should start off the cold meal try blending two cans of condensed mushroom soup with three cups of canned or bottled clam broth. Heat both separately and combine.)

For instance you could start dinner with that soup, followed by cold refrigerator loaf and cooked vegetable salad and wind it up with peach halves filled with coffee ice cream. Perhaps your family demand a hot meal whatever the weather. Do you know the good canned lamb stew that comes in cans and a slick way to "dickie" it up? Season the gravy with a dash of curry, heat thoroughly, pack well cooked hot rice into a greased ring mold; turn out on a chop platter and fill the center with the curried lamb stew. Garnish with broiled mushroom caps and serve with that Reed Family Relish which has the flavor of chutney but isn't so expensive.

For another hot meal from cans chill canned corned beef hash or roast beef hash so it will slice in flat cakes when removed from the can. Broil the hash in plenty of butter, heat cooked corn out from the cob with two tablespoons each of chopped onion, pimiento, green pepper and butter and serve the browned cakes of hash on a platter surrounded by Corn Creole and garnished with parsley. That menu took 15 minutes perhaps.

Did you cook extra string beans and corn yesterday? Then combine the two leftovers (or the two canned vegetables) with a can of condensed mushroom soup well seasoned, dot with crumbs and bacon and while that is baking in a moderate oven broil slices of bacon to top the scallop when it's finished. While the scallop is baking Plum Betty to be topped with vanilla ice cream might as well be baking in the same oven so we'll print that recipe today. Or peanut butter Apple Crumble might appeal to you instead to be served with ice cream, cream or foamy sauce.

The rules of the game for an easy summer include planning meals that can be prepared for the most part in the morning, cooking extra meat and vegetables every few days

Refrigerator Meat Loaf
Sprinkle 1½ tablespoons Knox Sparkling gelatine on 1-3 cup cold water; dissolve over boiling water. Mix 3 cups ground cooked meat, 1 cup chopped sweet pickles, ½ cup milk, 1½ teaspoons salt, 1½ teaspoons dry mustard, 2 tablespoons vinegar from pickles, 1-3 cup Blue Label ketchup, 1½ teaspoons grated onion, 1½ teaspoons Worcestershire sauce. Add gelatine; mix. Pack into greased loaf pan. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serves 4 to 6.

August Salad
1 head lettuce
2 large tomatoes, cut in wedges
2 cups pineapple, cuts, drained
1 green pepper, cut in strips
1 cucumber, sliced
¼ cup French dressing
Break lettuce in salad bowl; arrange tomatoes, pineapple, green pepper, and cucumber over lettuce. Add French dressing just before serving. Serves 4.

Raspberry Bran Muffins
Sift 1 cup flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 teaspoons baking powder, and ¼ cup sugar. Add 1 cup bran and 1 cup fresh raspberries; mix lightly. Combine 1 beaten egg, ¾ cup milk and ¼ cup salad oil; add to dry ingredients and stir only until blended. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in hot oven (400 F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Makes 1 dozen muffins.

Meat Loaf
Combine and shape into a loaf: 1 pound of beef ground (¾ this amount may be pork)
1 egg yolk
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 tablespoon Land O Lakes butter
1 tablespoon bread crumbs (optional)
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon onion juice
Wrap the loaf in waxed paper and place it in a pan. Bake it in a moderate oven (350 F.) for 1 hour. Pour over it and bake it every 5 minutes with:
¼ cup Land O Lakes butter
1 cup boiling water.
Thicken the drippings with flour.

STRAND THEATRE FRIDAY-SATURDAY

"ON BORROWED TIME"

Bobs Watson and Lionel Barrymore in "On Borrowed Time"

One of the outstanding Broadway stage successes of last season, which bids fair to be even more successful as a motion picture is the pietization of "On Borrowed Time."

The simple story of an old grandfather who fights Death in order to prevent the young grandson whom he adores from falling into the clutches of a scheming and unscrupulous aunt, "On Borrowed Time" presents Lionel Barrymore in one of his finest characterizations as Gramp. The mysterious stranger, Mr. Brink, personification of Death, is enacted by the British stage and screen star, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, with eight-year-old Bobs Watson, most talked-of youngster of the year, as the grandson, Pud.

Beulah Bondi appears as the devoted Granny. Elly Maloy is the hypocritical Aunt Demetria, and Una Merkel enacts Marcia, the warmly human maid.—adv.

Mosher of Worcester; Thur S. Holm; Sam Ruben, and national secretary E. J. Martin.

WITH EXTENSION AGENTS AND THE KNOX-LINCOLN FARM BUREAU

Agriculture

Fertilizer, care and spray has done wonders in the orchard which Nelson Moody of Appleton bought two years ago. He has a very clean crop of McIntosh this year and the trees are looking very well. A stop will be made in this orchard on the auto tour, Aug. 24.

The Jewett orchard, Head Tide, has a nice crop of Northern Spys this year. The fruit is clean and of a good size.

The executive committee of the Knox-Lincoln County Farm Bureau is meeting today at Pemaquid. The meeting is in charge of R. Bliss Fuller, Union, president of the organization. George Lord, assistant director of the Extension Service, will be the speaker. Plans will be made for the annual membership drive and also the 1940 program will be discussed.

The first green corn in the market this year was grown by George Walker and Son, Alna.

Clifton Walker of Alna, vice president of the Knox-Lincoln County Farm Bureau, is doing a very good business in market gardening this season. He has several acres of land in crops.

Electric light poles have been distributed along the Head Tide-Whitefield road and the work of digging holes will start soon.

Edgar Smith and Mrs. Smith, North Edgcomb, are attending the World's Poultry Congress at Cleveland, Ohio. Mr. Smith went as a representative of the State Poultry Improvement Association of which he is president.

The new garden bulletin, No. 262, is now available at the Extension Service Office, Rockland. It is written for the small home gardener and contains many valuable points on garden culture including insect and disease control.

Rules and regulations, also application blanks for the tenth Maine Egg Laying Contest that opens, Oct. 1, are now available either at the Extension Service Office, Rockland, or from H. M. Tucker, Department of Agriculture, Augusta.

Dozens of Ways to Serve an Apple a Day

For three hundred years New England housewives have taken pride in their skill at transforming the apple into tempting desserts to tickle the palate of every member of the family.

A bowl of fresh apples on the dining room table pungent apple sauce, a soul satisfying apple pie to top off a perfect meal—all these are a part of the Yankee culinary tradition.

And for three hundred years homemakers have been discovering new virtues in the fragrant fruit, and new recipes built around the apple. Of course the old favorites still stand supreme in popular favor. Take apple pie for instance. Fifty-six hotels and restaurants in 34 cities recently voted their preference for dessert and apple pie led all the rest, beating its nearest competitor, ice cream, by more than three to one.

Then there is apple butter, and its near relatives—apple and rhubarb butter and apple and plum butter. Here is a simple recipe for plain apple butter from the new crop of early apples. Cook for 20 minutes.

Apple Butter—9 cups apples; 5 cups sugar; 1 cup vinegar; ½ cup cinnamon drops.

4-H Club Notes

The Jolly Highlanders girls 4-H club of Rockland made cooking notebooks, Aug. 2, when they were entertained by Gwendolyn Dean at her home on Old County road. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

The Happy Homemakers club of Head Tide held their annual club tour inspecting 4-H projects on Aug. 3. Eight projects including pig, garden, bean, and chick raising were visited. Ralph Wentworth, county agent, Esther Dunham, home demonstration agent, and Lucinda Rich, club agent were present. Ice cream and crax were served by the leader, Bernal Jewett at his home.

A supper prepared and served by members of the Sunshine Seven club of Nobleboro at their meeting Aug. 2 consisted of potato egg and vegetable salad, ham sandwiches, ice-cream cookies, and lemonade. Beverly Hancock was hostess to the club. Mrs. Ruth French is leader and there are 14 members.

The Alford Lake 4-H club met Aug. 4 with their leader, Mrs. Lura Norwood. Starting from this point, club members went on a tour inspecting five projects including pig, garden, and chicks. At Lois and Constance Nichols' home, the group took part in a contest on judging the correct way of setting a table. This contest was conducted by the club agent.

The "Ham" Driver

Just See How Traffic Safety Consultant Describes Him (Or Her)

Are you a ham driver? J. Stannard Baker, traffic safety consultant for the National Safety Council, submits evidence to show that the average man or woman behind the wheel, behaves more or less like ham when it comes to driving an automobile safely. He defines a ham driver as follows:

He can't make up his mind as to what he wants to do soon enough, and depends upon his ability to do it only when he has to.

He waits too long to get into the proper lane for turning. He's even likely to do his slowing down after he gets into the intersection or on the turn, rather than before.

He is oblivious to other traffic. He straddles lane lines as though he were the only driver on the road. In extreme cases he can be found completely over on the left side of the highway. He is not intentionally being a road hog. He simply drifts over unconsciously.

He zooms out of a parking position at the curb with no regard for traffic that may be coming from behind. Again, he is just thoughtless, rather than vicious.

He makes a "good enough" turn signal. He lets his hand dangle or flutter aimlessly from the window and following traffic doesn't know whether he's signalling a turn, flicking ashes from a cigarette or waving at someone on the sidewalk.

He turns around and talks to others in the car as he drives, instead of keeping his eyes on the road.

He is guilty of bad posture. He slouches behind the wheel, sticks his left elbow out the window.

He is a one-hand wheeler. This is different from one-armed driving in which a girl usually occupies the other arm. In one-hand wheeling the driver keeps only one hand on the wheel, the other rests in his lap, hangs out the window or holds a cigar, pipe or cigarette. He has nowhere near the control or leverage he needs in an emergency.

A FATHER'S APPEAL

"Please Don't Run Over My Little Girl"—She's a Nice Kid

Today my daughter, who is 7 years old, started to school as usual. She wore a dark-blue dress with white collar. She had on black shoes and wore blue gloves. Her cocker spaniel, whose name is Coot, sat on the front porch and whined his canine belief in the folly of education as she waved good-bye and started off to the hall of learning.

Tonight we talked about school. She told me about the girl who sits in front of her—the girl with yellow curls—and the boy across the aisle who makes funny faces. She told me about her teacher, who has eyes in the back of her head—and about the tree in the schoolyard—and about the big girl who doesn't believe in Santa Claus. We talked about a lot of things—tremendously vital, unimportant things.

She's back there now—back in the nursery sound asleep, with Princess Elizabeth (that's a doll) cuddled in her right arm.

You guys wouldn't hurt her, would you? You see, I'm her daddy. When her doll is broken or her finger is cut, or her head gets bumped, I can fix it—but when she starts to school, when she walks across the street, then she is in your hands.

She's a nice kid. She can run like a deer and dart about like a chipmunk. She likes to ride horses and swim and hike with me on Sunday afternoons. But I can't be with her all the time—I have to work to pay for her clothes and her education. So please help me look out for her. Please drive slowly past the school's and intersections—and please remember that children run from behind parked cars.

Please don't run over my little girl.—(From the Eufaula (Ala.) Tribune).

Leven have returned to Boston after spending a few days with Mrs. Harriet Quinn.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backache people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking strong acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day of about 3 pounds of waste. Frequent or scanty passage with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backache, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Was Going Fine

Earl Barter's Work In Virginia League Interrupted By Batted Ball

New York, Aug. 3

To the Sporting Editor—

Last February, I conducted a school for umpires at Washington, D. C. (my home). I had something like 22 fellows with ambitions to improve their standard of workmanship as umpires. Eleven of these men were sent out into the minors. Ten are still making good.

Barter, whom I sent to the Virginia League, made a good showing and was going along fine, according to the letter I received from the league head. He met with an injury, having been struck by a batted ball, and consequently would be on the side lines for some time. He decided he might as well rest at home.

From what I have learned about Barter's work in the Virginia League, he has a chance to enter a league of higher classification next year.

Incidentally I will conduct my personal instructions class in St. Petersburg, Fla., next February. The training headquarters of New York Yankees. I expect an enroll-

In Another World

Mrs. Andrews Gives Her Interesting Impressions of Quebec City

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

The Roving Reporter's trip to Canada interested me greatly as it recalled to mind a Canadian trip we made not long ago. We went from Jackman over the border into Armstrong in the Province of Quebec, then through the towns of St. Georges, St. Joseph, St. Marie and St. Henri to Lewis where we gazed across the St. Lawrence River at Chateau Frontenac in Quebec.

This is built up very high on the cliffs and is one of the most famous hostilities in the world. We drove onto the ferry boat and in company with 18 other cars crossed the St. Lawrence River and landed in Quebec where the King and Queen of England first set foot on American soil.

We were greatly impressed by the view, the grandeur all around us, the antiquated atmosphere surrounding Quebec and the immense size of steamers on the St. Lawrence River. We arrived when the sun was setting and the effect was gorgeous. Of course many streets were wide and electric cars were plenty but in some sections the streets were very narrow and in residential sections one had to be careful not to hit doorsteps so far out did they protrude.

There were many historic monuments throughout the city. In the stores all one could hear was conversation in French. I wished to buy some post cards and had to wait until someone was found to speak English with me. In another sort of house and post office combined I tried to buy some stamps. Although I had a letter and showed the girl the stamp on it, she could not seem to make out what I wished, so she called her mother who seemed to be greatly amused because she did not understand what I wanted. She got my stamps and as I was leaving, she smiled and said, "Rugs?" They were hanging all around for sale. I guess "Rugs" was the only word she knew in English.

One thing especially attracted my attention in Quebec and that was the thresholds of buildings. They were either so high one had to sort of climb in or they were so low, worn and patched one was apt to stumble and trip on them. I know I fell in, then fell out of every place I entered.

After spending a comfortable night, we ate breakfast in a very elaborate Japanese restaurant. Such waffles and maple syrup! Delicious coffee; my, it was good! We crossed the St. Lawrence howard bound by way of the famous bridge. It was Sunday and as we came down through all those towns whose names began with St., the French people were all going to church. Each town had a fine looking church, but the homes were plain, most of them having two doors with a door between on front and a walk across the front; no trees, nor flower gardens.

The people were riding to church in little wagons having one high seat and containing what looked to be a father, mother and three or four children. I could not see how they managed to hold on. The horses were poor. At the churches these turnouts were all hitched to a fence for that purpose and they looked so much alike I do not see how the owners could tell them apart.

The young women were very handsome, of the French type. Along the road we passed several shrines.

Arriving in Maine it seemed as if we had been visiting another world. We have always been hoping to repeat the trip.

Here's why we say:

"Don't take less than 8 cylinders!"

1 An "8" is better than a "6" . . . and most makers of sixes admit it. Every American manufacturer making both low-priced cars and high-priced cars . . . makes his best ones with eight cylinders or more!

2 A Ford V-8 costs no more to run . . . In fact, an 85-horsepower Ford V-8 gave more miles per gallon in this year's Gilmore-Yosemite run than either leading low-priced six.

3 8 cylinders make a noticeable difference in performance. Ford V-8 is known everywhere as the smoothest, fastest, most powerful, best all-round performer ever built at low price.

4 When you get a Ford V-8 this year, you not only get the only 8 at the price . . . but the biggest hydraulic brakes, longest passenger ridebase, steadiest-riding chassis, and the only windshields that open on closed cars.
