Aero Rendezvous

Nationally Known Stars To Be At Augusta Show August 25-27

The eyes of the aviation world are again focused on the Nation's third and largest aviation event, the Maine Aero Rendezvous which will be held Aug. 25, 26 and 27 at the Augusta State Airport with a galaxy of nationally known stars all contributing to a fast moving, sensational acrobatic show.

The first attendance prize this year will be a Round Trip by air to Europe on the Pan-American Clipper or cash and in addition will be five round trips by air with tickets of admission to the New York World's Fair to be presented to the next five admission tickets drawn.

In addition to several hundred reserved chairs the Directors of the Rendezvous have arranged for over 7000 bleacher seats as well as more advantageous enclosed standing areas. Ticket sales indicate that from 60,000 to 70,000 people will attend the event this year.

The Maine Gas Model Championship will take place Saturday morning Aug. 26 with a beautiful trophy emblematic of the Championship being presented by Esso Marketers and several cash prizes presented by the Rendezvous.

Give today to laziness and it will steal tomorrow from you.

Governor Is Angry

Parts Company With Hannibal Hamlin Club—Abandoned Principle

Eastern Maine's Hannibal Hamlin Club had before it Thursday the resignation of its president, Gov. Lewis O. Barrows, submitted because, he charged, the organization apparently had "abandoned" a principle "that it should not in any instance be used to sponsor the potential candidacy of any individual in primary election contests."

Barrows, candidate for the Republican nomination for U. S. Senator in 1940, said the club was sponsoring a get-together of Republicans Aug. 26 at Dexter, home-town of Representative Ralph O. Brewster, who several months ago indicated he possibly would seek the senatorial seat. Brewster, former Governor, serving his third term as Representative from the Third Maine District, was expected to speak at the G.O.P. Gathering.

Barrows said he had not been invited to participate in the program and "was not consulted in any way regarding any proposed arrangements for the meeting" which was termed the "curtain raiser" for the 1940 State and National political campaigns. However, Mrs. Lyle Woodward of Greenville, vice chairman of the committee in charge of the affair, said invitations to the Governor and Mrs. Barrows were voted at a committee meeting at Bangor Wednesday.

Barrows said he would be very glad to continue his affiliation as a member of the club so long as it adheres to the principles adopted at the time the club was formed and so long as it is not used to promote the interests of any candidate for primary nomination.

The Hannibal Hamlin Club was so named after the Maine man who served as Vice President under Abraham Lincoln.

[EDITORIAL]

LET THE FIGHT BE FAIR

Gov. Lewis O. Barrows has quit the presidency of the Hannibal Hamlin Club because it has apparently discarded its principle of not sponsoring a candidate in a primary election contest. The club, it appears, is behind the Republican get-together to be held Aug. 26 in the home town of Congressman Ralph O. Brewster, who is Gov. Barrows' opponent in the U. S. Senatorial contest. This was not particularly a crime, but when the Hannibal Hamlin Club invited Brewster to be one of its speakers, and failed to make similar overtures to Barrows, the Governor got right up on his high horse—and probably had a right to feel that way about it. There is probably some good explanation for what Gov. Barrows chooses to look upon as a snub, and there should be a good one for this is no time—with a Presidential election coming on—to throw tinder upon what has the earmarks of being a bitter fight for the U. S. Senatorial nomination. If these two candidates are going to manufacture ammunition for the enemy in this crucial campaign, and lose sight of the elements which go to make a good sporting battle, both had better step down and out. But we believe that sanity and good judgment will triumph.

SHOULD BE CRIMINAL OFFENSE

The universal aversion to snakes—horror might be a more fitting word—has flared forth anew in two recent incidents. One was the accidental dumping of a crate containing six huge snakes, on a Lincoln County highway; the other was the slaying of a rattlesnake near Park street. These venomous reptiles are said to have been brought into the State by carnivals, which have recently fallen into disrepute. So we note with full approval the following editorial which appeared in Wednesday's Bath Times:

Occasionally in the past it has been explained to the public that Maine is not the home of poisonous snakes and that the few snakes found in Maine are harmless. This statement has been broadcast several times in the past to assure campers and others coming here that they are absolutely safe so far as reptiles are concerned. Now, within a week or so we are told of big snakes which escaped from a carnival company and which have been seen by several Woolwich residents, it being claimed that the snakes escaped from a truck in which they were being transported.

This morning brings the news that a Rockland policeman has shot a rattlesnake there which it is believed escaped from a carnival company which was playing in that city last week. All will be glad to know that the rattler was killed but it is the general opinion that it would be a good idea to put a stop to carnival companies bringing snakes into the State or else make them file a heavy bond, say $1000 for each snake brought in, said bond not to be released until the number of snakes is checked up as the company leaves the State.

The Maine Publicity Bureau, Maine Development Commission and scores of local information bureaus are putting in money and efforts to bring people into Maine and it is not right that their work should be in the least impeded by snakes escaping from carnival companies, most of which the State would be as well or better off if they were refused licenses anyway. It is only occasionally that a carnival comes into this section that there are not claims of persons being awinded, rows taking place or other unpleasant features. They take a good deal of money out of the communities in which they play and local organizations receive slight benefits in the way of percentages which are pictured in glowing colors by the advance man but which are woefully small when settlements are made.

We may not exclude the carnivals but we can easily exclude their bringing into this State snakes. So let's do it.

Greenleaf Agrees

Residents Of Lincoln County Permitted To Dig Clam Worms

All residents of Lincoln County have been granted permission by Sea and Shore Fisheries Commissioner Arthur R. Greenleaf to dig clams and blood worms from flats in Boothbay Harbor, Wiscasset and Edgcomb.

His action was taken after a public hearing in Wiscasset on a protest from numerous residents of the county against a move by the Legislature to close flats in those towns to all except residents, unless permitted by regulations set up by the commissioner after hearing.

"In view of the fact diggers of clam and blood worms are making good money and because so many men in Lincoln County are out of work," Greenleaf said, "I felt it was only right to give all an opportunity to use flats at those four points."

The tall hollyhock stories are beginning to come in. The Lewiston Journal reports a 10 footer in Norway. But of course, Knox County will find a way to beat that.

Speaking of tall plants think of the 26-year-old century plant in Garfield Park, Chicago which has attained a height of 30 feet. The workmen had to cut a hole in the roof that its upward progress might not be impeded.

Atrocious pronunciation by some of the broadcasters nearly reached a limit yesterday noon when one of them gave the word unique as though it were spelled un-i-cue, the first syllable being sounded like un in until.

Several persons have called to say that my item about the origin of the name Dynamite Beach was incorrectly given. The lot was not used for storing dynamite; the explosive was actually manufactured there at the time excavations were being made in Rockland harbor.

Eugene M. O'Neill was up from Crescent Beach yesterday long enough to want to know where I got the item about the comb with the hair cutting attachment. I replied that it was from an Associated Press despatch in one of this week's evening newspapers. This evoked a contemptuous "Huh, I've had one of those for a number of years." And now will the Associated Press be good?

Good natured hecklers at the Court House are endeavoring to learn the pedigree of the bee which flew through a screen door and stung Clerk of Courts Milton M. Griffin on the brea.

Painters are doing a good job painting the doorways and window sashes at the Post Office, but it will take more than green paint to discourage the doves which are making a nuisance of the place.

F. F. Hannan of 132 Broad street, Boston, writes:

"The recent article in The Courier-Gazette in regard to the old time dramatic actor, Price Webber, has whetted my memory on Maine showmen that appeared in the Nineties and even before. One of these was Al. Martz, who, I believe, was born in Camden. In fact the father of Al. Martz was Dick Martz who made Camden his home when not on the road with his troupe that traveled through smaller Maine towns. There is an interesting story in regard to the Martz family which has often been told by traveling shows of those days. It seems that the elder Martz was so well known in the smaller Maine towns that no advance agent was needed as all that Dick Martz had to do to announce his coming was to mail a few bills to the postmaster in the town in which he intended to visit. Martz would call at the post office on the day of arrival and invite the postmaster and family to his show in payment of the postmaster's efforts in distributing the Martz handbills. Dick Martz and his entertainers was an established organization in the smaller places and never worried over competition, and the son, Al Martz, carried on the tradition of the family for three decades until his death some few years ago. The troupe traveled by wagon, one wagon carrying the trunks and baggage, and a second wagon carrying the performers. Older Camden residents are sure to remember the Martz troupe."

A HALF CENTURY OF SERVICE

Fifty-one years ago we commenced to serve people in this locality who desired to own their homes, and the business has been a success through all this time. There are a few simple reasons for this success.

We make loans only on real estate. We charge only 6 percent interest. The expenses of making a loan with us are small, only the cost of looking up title and making and recording papers.

No commission or bonuses. Small monthly payments, about the same as rent, cover all charges and pay off the loan in 139 months. You want a home. We are ready to help you get it.

The Monday Niters

The Monday Niters had a gathering this week, all meeting at the M. C. Station, with the usual wait for "Sue." They then motored to Spruce Head where they had a private dining room at Rockledge Inn (which was a good idea.) But how could one expect 14 women to be anything but talkative? A toast composed and read by Mrs. Elizabeth Mills, caused much hilarity, everyone being "hard hit." Poor Billy, who was disappointed about steamed clams at the last banquet, more than lost out this time, as she was on a diet. With strong will-power she ordered a chicken dinner.

One member made a social error by putting lobster shells on the table, another having had decorations which would go good with toothpicks.

The group adjourned to the home of Miss Doris Hyer, where beans was enjoyed, each one receiving a prize. Those present were Mrs. Bernice Hatch, Mrs. Sue Bowley, Mrs. Hattie Brown, Miss Virginia Post, Mrs. Vivian Kimball, Mrs. Pearl Huntley, Mrs. Agnes Hoopes, Mrs. Elizabeth Anastasio, Mrs. Artmas Mills, Mrs. Christella Russell, Miss Doris Hyer, Mrs. Ellie Knowlton, Mrs. Elizabeth Mills and Mrs. Gladys Murphy.

Here to the girls of Monday Night. Of all shapes and sizes. Who get together once a week. To see who'll win the prize.

HAZEL BURR ATWOOD

Word has been received in this city of the death in Flushing, L. I., of Mrs. Hazel Burr Atwood, formerly of this city.

The deceased was born in Brewer April 20, 1864, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bertram Burr. She received her education in the public schools of Brewer, graduating from Brewer High in 1911. She studied music at Lassell Seminary, and was possessed of a rich, contralto voice, much in demand for solos in church and all public gatherings.

She was married July 3, 1916 to Victor F. Atwood of South Orono, and they came to this city soon after to make their home. Mrs. Atwood was a member of Golden Rod Chapter, O.E.S., and served as soloist for a number of years.

She was a past president of the Rubinstein Club, always taking an active part at its meetings. She was, in later years, a pupil of Miss Lotte McLaughlin.

Mrs. Atwood had many friends in this city and will be greatly missed as she was always ready and willing to help others.

Her only surviving relatives are a son, Burr Victor Atwood, who is employed on the Mallory Line Ship Malang, running out of Bucksport. Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2 from Huggard's Funeral Home in Brewer, conducted by Rev. Mr. Gleason of the Congregational Church and burial will be in Oak Hill Cemetery, Brewer.

The Rockland Pirates relinquished the lead in the Knox Twilight League Thursday night when they bowed to Manager George Boynton's fighting Camden outfit at Community Park.

Bennett and French added to their pitching laurels. The Camden hurler was at his best, and only two Pirates registered safely on his delivery. Chuck Ellis, the batting hero in this game, made four successive singles. French, going like a house afire, faltered in the seventh inning, walking two men and allowing two hits, including Belyea's double, which was one of the finest line smashes seen on this ground for many a day.

Rockland scored one run in the fourth when Drone did a juggling act on French's fly, but failed to hold the ball. The other run was the result of a walk and singles by Ellis and Thompson.

Lord's fine plays drew much applause. Young Chisholm was in the storm center at second, but accepted seven of his eight chances.

Catchers Thompson and Romnick were very much on the job.

Camden and Rockport are playing a double-header at Rockport Sunday afternoon, the first game beginning at 1 o'clock.

Two baseball fans of the old school put in appearance at Community Park Thursday night for the first time this season. One was Bert McLoon, who back in the Gay Nineties was establishing a record as a star outfielder. The other was Austin Richardson who was at other trouncing Friday night at the his best in the day of the Colonials, primarily an outfielder but good anywhere. Both praised the caliber of the playing now seen in the Twilight League.

Regardless of what the heckling bleacherites say the Twilight League has some excellent umpires. Condon in Thomaston, Monaghan in St. George. Mealy in Rockland, Graffam in Rockport and Leonard in Camden are hard to beat.

Camden 10, St. George 9
Into last night's game at Camden were crowded many strange happenings and many weird plays with the outlook rather a sad one for the home team until the last inning, when, in the gathering dusk, Boynton gained life at first through an error in right field, and scored on Duchane's second double of the game. Duchane in turn scored on Heald's single, and the trailing Camdenites found themselves out in front by a single score, with only one down. Darkness stopped the game at this point.

It was a free hitting performance, featured by the long drives of Lowell, Duchane, Heald and H. Boynton.

One of the freakiest plays ever seen on the Camden ground—or any other ground—occurred in St. George's half of the seventh inning when Lowell hit a long fly to center field. Richards seemed to catch the ball but fell to the ground, and on the supposition that he had dropped it the other fielders rushed to retrieve the ball while Lowell raced around the bases. It was then seen that Richards was injured and the players went to his assistance and the ball was found firmly affixed in his glove.

The Camden team lost for an indefinite period one of its most valued players, Belyea, who broke a small bone in one of his hands, sliding to second. The score:

The Rotary Club

Hears Speaker Who Was Intermediary Between England and People of India

Friday's Rotary Meeting at the New Thorndike was very largely attended, there being present many visiting Rotarians and guests. It was undoubtedly the largest meeting of the year. The speaker was Asaph Churchill, who spends his summers in Camden, and who was for a considerable period the representative in India for the Sterling Products.

In the discharge of his duties for his firm he was called into all parts of India, and met and mingled with all classes of people—not only ruling classes but the natives. He gave a very graphic picture of life in that thickly populated country. He particularly spoke of the influence of Mahatma Gandhi, and stated that in his opinion, he was the most influential man in the world, controlling three hundred fifty million people. He further stated that Mahatma Gandhi was supposed to be hostile to England rule in India.

He was really the best friend England had there, acting as an intermediary between England and the native people.

An interesting feature of the meeting was the presentation by President Lowe to retiring President Louis A. Walker the Past President service pin.

The visiting Rotarians were: Rev. Madison A. Hart, Danville, Ky., Frank E. Poland, Boston, Wally Masten, Belleville, N. J., Ray H. Pierce, Glen Cove, N. Y., Kenneth Christophe, Needham, Mass., A. J. Libby, Presque Isle, E. Ham Hall, Camden, Victor E. Marshall, Augusta, J. R. Schultz, Meadville, Pa., R. Percy Schenck, Jersey City, N. J., William Cullen, Lewiston, Harvey C. Patterson, Skowhegan, Ray C. Hopkins, Fredericksburg, Va., and Al White, Everett, Mass.

The guests were: A. Dana Hunter, Providence, R. I., Walter Spear, Rockland, Richard Bishop, Quincy, Mass., George Gonia, Quincy, Mass., Lawrence H. Dunn, Thomaston, Capt. S. E. Willard, Fort Totten, N. Y., and Samuel F. Smith.

The Rockland Rotary Club is looking forward to the meeting next Friday night with President John Smith Lowe, at his summer home at Round Pond, and are expecting a most enjoyable outing.

Farnsworth block is in the hands of the carpenters for re-roofing.

MRS JAMES BOTHWELL

Funeral services for Mrs. Minnie Thorndyke Bothwell, pioneer Seaside resident, who died Wednesday were held at the Bonney-Watson Funeral Home. Entombment was in Acacia Mausoleum. Mrs. Bothwell, a native of Rockland, Me., came to Seaside 55 years ago. She resided at 120 W. Highland drive. Surviving are her husband, James Bothwell; a brother, George Fred Thorndyke, both of Seaside, and three sisters, Mrs. George F. Earl, Berkeley, Calif.; Mrs. Alice T. Gould, San Francisco and Mrs. W. R. Ballard, Seattle.

Mrs. Bothwell was the daughter of the late Capt. and Mrs. Eben A. Thorndyke. Her father, a ship owner and ship master, in 1880 brought a shipload of lumber here from the East Coast in a three-master, the Baring Brothers. Mrs. Thorndyke and the family came here a few years later.

Mrs. Bothwell studied at the Boston Conservatory of Music and for many years had taught music in Seaside.—From a Seaside, Wash., newspaper.

Mrs. Bothwell was a cousin of Mrs. Henry de Rochemont and Mrs. Charles Merrill of this city.

MINTURN

Mrs. Susan Stratton of Rockland arrived Sunday to be guest of her nephew Freeman Bridges. Miss Laura Johnson of Plainville, Conn. arrived Sunday to spend a vacation at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Johnson.

Mrs. Maud Wilbur of Rockland is visiting her sister Mrs. Harry Johnson.

Nelson Carter who visited Harry Stockbridge for a few days, has returned home.

Mrs. Hildreth Vennie and daughter Helen who were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Turner Jr., have returned to Stonington.

Mrs. Edwin Gott and daughter

Louise who have been visiting in Portland returned home Sunday.

AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE TO ADVERTISERS

Advertising is the method employed by merchants and sellers to acquaint the consuming public with the nature and prices of merchandise offered for sale.

The effectiveness of all advertising is measured by the number of paid subscribers to the advertising medium. Free copies are discounted by advertising agencies.

Advertising is of value solely on the basis of paid circulation. Space is worth little or much depending upon circulation. The value of advertising is not based on inches of space, but on the cost per thousand of authentic circulation.

The Courier-Gazette herewith presents an audit of its circulation conducted at length by Certified Public Accountant Albert O. Emery, attested by his father, Charles A. Emery, Notary Public, also a certified public accountant.

On the date noted 5,526 copies were printed, the extras being for distribution to advertisers, correspondents and a necessary overlay to provide for unexpected demands.

Fund Half Raised

And New Sunbeam Under Construction In Damariscotta Yard

Rev. Neil Bousfield, superintendent of the Maine Seacoast Missionary Society speaking at Deer Isle Sunday told of the campaign which is now in process to finance the building of the new "Sunbeam," which will take the place of the battlecarried veteran—the first "Sunbeam" which for 13 years, winter and summer, has traveled well over 100,000 miles to aid boats in distress, carry mail and provisions to remote places and generally to justify her name in the character of service she has dispensed all along the coast.

The new "Sunbeam" is now under construction in the Marr shipyard in Damariscotta. She is especially designed for the severe winter service. The contributions for the fund have passed the halfway mark, over $15,000 of the necessary $30,000 having been raised.

The work of the Mission and the evening service will open at 7:30 with the prelude and sing. Mr. James will preach on the subject, "Righteousness." Miss Gladys Grant will be the soloist for the day.

building of the "Sunbeam" is entirely financed by voluntary gifts. Those who wish to have a share in this brave work may send their offerings to The Maine Seacoast Missionary Society, Bar Harbor.

Folks who retire early missed last night the most gorgeous display of Northern Lights ever seen in this city. The show was late in starting, but until the curtain fell early this morning wonder-stricken beholders saw all of the colors of the rainbow frisking about in the sky.

News has been received of the death in Westboro, Mass., of Miss Hortense Pillsbury, after a long illness. Miss Pillsbury was born in this city, oldest daughter of the late Capt. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Donovan, Alton Feyer and Miss Mary Marsh of Providence have been guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. William Stanford.

William Kelso of Wakefield, Mass., arrives today to join Mrs. Kelso at the home of Miss Bertha Starrett for two weeks. His sister Miss Helen Kelso of Wakefield, Mass., who came with him will remain for a few days' visit.

Callers Sunday at the Sterling farm of Mr. and Mrs. Henry V. Starrett were Mr. and Mrs. Everett H. Maxey of Augusta and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Maxey of Gardiner.

Rev. and Mrs. William Kelley of Oakland, summering in this town went Wednesday to Montpelier, Vt. to visit Mr. Kelley's sister.

Eugene Dalrymple of Worcester, Mass. and Port Clyde, formerly of this town underwent an operation Wednesday at Knox Hospital.

Mrs. Alice Moody has been ill. Recent callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Wiley were Mr. and Mrs. Whitney Linekin of Worcester, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Post and children, Lawrence, Raymond and Ralph of Quincy, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Post and family of Quincy, Mass., left Thursday to visit Mrs. Abbie McQuilken

VISIT THE RED JACKET

Public's Invitation Is Issued Herewith—Complete Program For the Celebration

Capt. E. O. Gonia; regatta. Commodore J. N. Southard. Sub-committees are working with all these groups.

The program will be followed as closely as possible as printed above. There will be awards for the best floats in the parade, all of which will represent in some way the spirit of the clipper ship.

Gov. Barrows will speak from the raised cupola deck of the Yacht Club building and the various land ceremonies will be conducted at the Yacht Club, Rev. Dr. John Smith, pastor of the Church of Immanuel, blessing the ship. Music will be provided, it is expected, by the Rockland City Band and Knox County Men's Chorus.

While the dignitaries, local, State and national, are attending the ceremonies aboard ship a band concert will be given at Public Landing. The documentation of the ship will be conducted along the ancient impressive lines by Deputy Collector Aswell who will be assisted by a number of other customs officials. This will permit Rockland, Maine, to appear on the stern of the great ship as its halting port and it will be in Solon, before returning home Friday.

Visitors Sunday at Mr. and Mrs. Austin Wiley's were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Black of Tenant's Harbor, Mrs. Ida Wotton and Lane Dodge of Friendship.

Dr. and Mrs. Perley Damon of Rockland have moved to their home here formerly the Rena Wiley place. Their telephone connection is 44-22.

Henry Cyr, suffered cracked ribs Wednesday in a fall from one of the cement forms at the bridge.

The East Waldoboro Social Club held a picnic Thursday at Sandy Shores, South Pond.

Mrs. Agnes Andrews of Lynn, Mass., Mrs. Harriet Barnish of Mercherville, N. J. and Mrs. Martha Cooper of Shirley, Mass., were guests overnight Tuesday of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Watts.

Mrs. Albert White entertained Tuesday at her Hathorne Point cottage in Cushing, Mrs. Emily Goody of Belleville, N. J., Mrs. George Frost, Mrs. P. F. Plummer, Miss Sadie Hogan of Lebanon, Mass., Fred Alexander of Rosindale, Mass., and Mrs. Marshall White.

The Help One Another Circle of Kings Daughters met Thursday at Sandy Shores, South Pond for the annual picnic.

formally adopted by the city. A handsome copy of Albert Merchant's painting of the Red Jacket will be presented to the ship.

A special feature of romantic appeal will be the group of old seamen who will be special honor guests ashore and aboard ship. They will receive high honors and accompany the Red Jacket on her trial runs. Each seaman will have one of Rockland's snappy, well trained Sea Scouts as guide and striker. The Sea Scouts will also co-operate with Legion Police, Coast Guardsmen and local officers in police duty.

Joshua N. Southard as chairman of the regatta committee, has broadcast an invitation which should draw hundreds of craft here for Saturday and Sunday. He is assisted by Stafford M. Congdon, commodore of the Rockland Yacht Club; Dr. R. L. Stratton, H. R. Mullen and R. S. Sherman.

"Life Goes To a Party" will be at Rockland, Maine, if Capt. Rusk has his dearest wish. He is pulling all the strings to bring this about, also special attention from "March of Time" and news reel photographers.

Chairman Brewer has added Col. Basil H. Stinson and Donald L. Kelley to his parade committee. Several floats are already promised and any additional floats should be arranged for with Col. Stinson, tel. 402.

The public is cordially invited to avail itself of the opportunity to visit the Red Jacket, where light refreshments will be served to all. This invitation also applies to the training ship American Seaman, which will be in the stream near the Red Jacket and also USS Joseph Conrad, which is of lighter draught and can lay at a dock and be inspected by those who don't care to ride in small boats.

OWL'S HEAD

Names of guests having recently registered at Ye Anchor Inn are, Mr. and Mrs. James Wood and children Nancy and James of Wayne, Pa., Mrs. Endicott P. Saltonstall of Chestnut Hill, Mass., Mrs. A. REALM OF MUSIC

by Gladys St. Clair Heistad

Igor Stravinsky is announced as having been appointed as Charles Eliot Norton Professor of Poetry at Harvard University for the 1939-40 academic year. Though designated as a chair of poetry, this Professorship is awarded annually, without regard to nationality, to men of high distinction and preferably of international reputation in poetry, music, or any other of the fine arts. It is believed to be the first time a musician and composer has been chosen for this post. Stravinsky will live in Cambridge and give at least six public lectures.

The Handel and Haydn Society of Boston, America's oldest singing organization of real oratorio proportions, has the distinction of rounding out its 124th season. In its performance of Berlioz' "Damnation of Faust" back in the late spring we note among the singers the names of Gertrude Ehrhart, Boston soprano (as Marguerite) and Paul Althouse, tenor, (as Faust). The Handel and Haydn Society gave its first performance, Haydn's "Creation," in the Stone Chapel, on Christmas night, 1815, with Gottlieb Graupner conducting.

Recalling that many of our local piano teachers use Helen L. Cramm's compositions, I note that Miss Cramm died June 14 at the age of 80. She was especially successful in composition for little tots.

In the 800-lb time capsule which the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company have sunk in the New York City Fair Grounds (with the idea that some time in 2004 A. D. or thereabouts, some of our descendants may want to dig it up and look at its contents), there are three compositions which are supposed to represent the music of now:

1. "Finlandia" by Jean Sibelius.
2. "The Stars and Stripes Forever" by John Philip Sousa.
3. "Flat Foot Boogie" by Bud Green, Slim Gaillard and Slam Stewart.

Anton Torello, famous player of the bass viol, who so delighted the audience at last Sunday's concert in Rockport, was born in Barcelona, Spain, and has been in this country about 35 years. He is first bass viol of the Philadelphia Orchestra, said to be the greatest player of this instrument in the world, and a very popular person because of his genial manner and ready wit.

Serge Koussevitzky closed the first half of the current Berkshire symphonic festival on Aug. 6 by taking the largest audience which ever attended any concert of the six festivals on a tour of a Russian "Never-Land." There were 6500 persons in and around the big "music shed" at Tanglewood, possibly the largest audience which ever heard a straight symphonic concert in Western Massachusetts.

"Never-Land" is the fantastic land which Serge Prokofiev created in a unique orchestral fairy tale called "Peter and the Wolf." The music is witty as well as funny and is full of broad laughs, also of some typical Russian subtleties.

After a 3-day recess, concerts were resumed on Thursday, Aug. 10, with a programme containing Beethoven's Second Symphony; Strauss' "Also Sprach Zarathustra"; and the Ravel orchestral version of Moussorgsky's "Pictures on Exhibition."

After I had listened to the thrilling performance of Schubert's "Porellenquintett" op. 114 at the Rockport concert of last Sunday, I was reminded of so many things I had read about the composer. For example, at the Government School Schubert neglected his studies to devote himself to musical composition. When his father learned of this situation Franz was forbidden to compose. The obedient child gave up composing, but his impulse to pour out his soul in music could not be stifled, and soon he was found composing again. As a result his father forbade him to come home Sunday afternoons. He accepted this punishment philosophically, but a greater misfortune was to befall him. In May, 1812, his mother died and Schubert had no opportunity to see her before her death. It was with a feeling of great oppression and grief that he once more returned to his father's house. This family tragedy reconciled Schubert and his father, and from that time there was no further objection to his composing. The Sunday afternoon visits were resumed and the whole family played quartets together. His two brothers played the first and second violin, Franz played the viola, and his father the cello. Occasionally they played some composition by Franz. When the father made a mistake in playing, as he often did, Franz did not openly correct him, but when the mistake occurred again, he would remark: "Father, it seems there is something missing there."

On the occasion of his father's 50th birthday, Schubert wrote a cantata in his honor which he and his brothers performed at a little family celebration. Schubert wrote both the words and the music, the text being an example of filial esteem.

It is not generally known that Schubert kept a little diary of the days' happenings for a period of years from 1813 to 1827. In this diary there are not only specific accounts of his experiences, but poems as well. It is interesting to note that when Schubert was deeply moved, his emotion sought to express itself in rhythm and rhyme. Not all these poems are worth quoting, but there is not a single one in which there is not at least one quotable line.

As an indication of the deeply religious spirit of Schubert, this quotation is from a poem, which he wrote in his diary of May, 1813:

Unceasingly our Time doth fly
Till on her wings we reach our graves.

Our life is but
A breath of Time
And we stand before eternal justice
To pray for mercy
And remission of sins.

Unceasingly our Time doth fly
Till on her wings we reach our graves.
The following extract is from an entry of June 14, 1816:

"This day will remain one of the most beautiful days in my life. I still hear as though from afar magic sounds of Mozart's music—at one time overwhelmingly powerful, and at another time most gentle. This music has cut very deep into my heart—such impressions remain with us forever, so that neither time nor circumstances have the power to erase them. This music leaves a wholesome influence upon our entire being—brings light into the darkness of our life and reveals to us beautiful horizons for which we in confidence hope. O Mozart, immortal Mozart!"

The last lines he ever penned, Nov. 12, 1828, was a letter to Schöber his friend:

"I am very ill. For 11 days I have had nothing to eat or drink. Even if I take something, I will immediately vomit it. Be so kind as to help me in these days of despair by sending me something to read by Fenimore Cooper. I have read 'The Last of the Mohicans,' 'The Spy,' etc. If you have other books by this author, I implore you to send them to me. It can be left in the coffee house. My brother, who is the incarnation of conscientiousness, will bring them to me. Your friend, Schubert."

Robert Schumann once said of Schubert: "He ought to have been alive now to know how he is praised; it would have inspired him for renewed and greater effort. Few authors have impressed the soul of individuality so clearly on their works as he has done."

CUSHING

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Schmid of Oradell, N. J., are guests of Mrs. Dorothy Lindahl. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gaff and daughter Eleanor of Laureton, L. I., have also been visiting Mrs. Lindahl.

Annual Reunion At Rockledge Inn Finds 32 Happy Persons Present

The class of 1901 held its third reunion Thursday night at Rockledge Inn. A chicken or shore dinner was served to the 32 members and guests. The weather was ideal and the occasion a most enjoyable one. Roses were used as decorations.

Miss Anna Coughlin and Ralph L. Wiggins, former teachers, were guests of honor. Only five teachers comprised the staff at the time of graduation—L. E. Moulton, principal, Misses Anna E. Coughlin, Gertrude L. Isley, Mercy M. Hood and Harriet B. Long.

The graduates in attendance were Ernest Campbell, Carl Cassens, Thomas Costello, Oliver Hills, John May, Lucian Thomas, William McDougal, Frank Tibbitts, Nina Gardner, Beveridge, Alice Harrington, Randall, Susie Sherer Morey, Orissa Fogg, Merritt, Grace Green Shaw and Edna Lamson.

Other classmates and guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Jones, Martha Cobb Wood, Irene York Johnson, Emily Sprague Murray, Irene Fiske Leon, Alice McIntosh, William Bishie, Angus McIntosh, Mrs. Ralph Wiggins, Mrs. Ernest Campbell, Charles Merritt, Charles Morey, and Clarence Beveridge.

Frank M. Tibbitts presided over the business meeting and later acted as toastmaster. The report of last year's meeting was read by the secretary; also a telegram from Charles Perry, and letters of greeting from former teachers, Gertrude Isley Padeloff, James E. Rhodes and Miss Harriett Long. Letters were enjoyed from Jeanne Allen Wilson, Melvina Wentworth, McConaughy, Abbie Bird, Edna Lamson, Elsie Fletcher, Alice Robinson, Elizabeth P. Leavitt, Mabel Kallous, Rollins, each expressing a wish that she might have been present and a hope to do so at some future time.

Two same officers were elected to serve another year: president, Frank M. Tibbitts; vice president, William McDougal, secretary, Susie Sherer Morey.

A rising vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Morey for her efficient work in planning the reunion. The president said: "She has done all the work and I have done all the rest."

Miss Anna Coughlin and Ralph Wiggins, highly respected teachers, were the first speakers to be called on and responded in a pleasing manner. Miss Coughlin read some of her delightful poems. During her remarks she called attention to the fact that not many classes can claim two school superintendents or have had as many teachers as this class have produced.

She spoke of the success that has come to two members in particular—the class valedictorian, Melvina Wentworth McConaughy who has made a name for herself in the educational world, being in great demand as a lecturer, before College groups and is an authority on Psychology; and Dr. Edna Lamson, who has gone far in her profession as a teacher. Among other achievements she has received a degree from Columbia University.

Interesting reminiscences were given by each of the graduates. One member said, "I have heard of the happy times you have at the class reunions and now I know for myself. I hope I will not have to miss another."

Those present from a distance were John May from Cleveland, Ohio; Grace Shaw Green from East Orange, N. J.; Lucien Thomas, Washington, D. C. and William McDougal, Middleborough, Mass. Edna E. Lamson, Jersey City, N. J.; Irene Fiske Leon, Charlotte, N. C.; and Irene York Johnson, Dorchester, Mass.

Of the 34 members of the class of 1901 eight are deceased, 10 are residing in Rockland and 16 residing elsewhere.

Pictures taken at graduation time were on display at the close of the meetings.

THE RED JACKET

[For The Courier-Gazette]

There's a bustle in the shipyard of the builder Deacon George, A pounding of the hammers and a ringing of the forge; A smell of tar and oakum and the tread of hustling feet, And masts are standing stark and haughty, waiting for the sheet.

For straining at her cradle is the latest clipper bark, White decks gleaming above her hull as black as ebony dark; Sharp as a wedge, swift and hardy, as that Indian sagamore, "The Red Jacket" whose massive form upon her prow she bore.

The builder looks her over with his keen blue Thomas eyes, And nods in satisfaction at the sleekness of his prize; "By jove," he thunders to his men as he gives his thigh a slap, "I'll bet her full square riggin' she'll put Rockland on the map."

Flood of tide, November two, in eighteen-fifty-three, At eleven noon, the hundreds cheer as hammers knock her free; Steadily and gracefully she moves along the way, Till suddenly she's floated on calm Penobscot Bay.

From New York she points to eastward with a crew that's of the best, Some days the wind is due southeast, and some 'tis west-south-west; Sometimes she glides 'neath moon and sun or threatening mackerel sky, Then she pierces snow and rain and crests that break mast high.

Roars Captain Asa Eldridge as the helmsman's arm he gripped, "In seven years of crossing this is the roughest sea I've shipped; Shake a leg all hands on board, pile on canvas all your might, We ain't lost a rope yarn yet and she's passed every sail in sight!"

So on she flies, her white wings full till the lookout sights a crag, And channel boats she overhauls as if their anchors drag; "We've skun 'em all to Liverpool!" yells the Captain all agog, "Just thirteen days, one hour, twenty-five minutes for the crossing by her log."

There's a roaring cheer of welcome from the dock by English tars, As they greet the fastest clipper to fly the Stripes and Stars; And Rockland hearts are happy this bright January day, As they clasp the hand of George Thomas, who sent her down the way.

A palm to Rockland, builder, crew, for the record that was born! A laurel wreath on the boundless deep for the Red Jacket that is gone; And yet there are countless harbors to gain, and billows to ride anew, So we give our hopes, our prayers, our cheers, to The Red Jacket that is new!

Ethel Thomas Sezak.
Great-grand-niece of George Thomas.

For a single picture to have seven menaces is not, in itself, unusual. Plenty of films surround their ace bad men with gangs. These subordinate villains invariably are called henchmen. The novelty of the menace set up in "Each Dawn I Die" lay in the fact that none of the seven "heavies" was a henchman. Each was an individual specialist in skulduggery, hence, the race for meanest man honors was wide open.

Miss Arlene Ingraham, who recently returned from Fairfield where she had received treatment the past four years, was tendered a welcome-home party at the Baptist Church Tuesday night by the Christian Endeavor. More than 50 members and friends were present.

Supper was served and welcoming speeches were made by Rev. J. W. Hyssong, Ray Easton and Guy Young. Arlene received a bookcase, a gift from the Society. The occasion served a double purpose, for much to the surprise of the pastor, he was also a guest of honor, this fact not having been made known to him until he was recipient of a chair, also a gift from the Society. Games and music rounded out a pleasant evening.

Mrs. Adela Stedman of Dorchester, Mass., is spending three weeks with her sister, Mrs. Mary Whitman at the Carleton Homestead.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Matthews of Wilkesbarre, Pa., are occupying their summer home on Russell avenue for the month of August.

Ralph Wilson returned Wednesday to Cribhaven after spending the weekend with his family.

Warden Harry L. Jones of the Sea and Shore Fisheries, David Blotner of Methuen, Mass., and Frank Mack of Lawrence, Mass., have been spending a week at the home of Mrs. Belle Coates.

A concert by the Cotton Blossom Singers will be given at the Methodist Church next Wednesday night choir. These singers are students under the auspices of the church from the Pine Woods (Mass.) School, a Christian, but non-sectarian institution run for the benefit of Negro boys and girls who are underprivileged. As nearly as possible they raise their own food and are self supporting, but hundreds of boys and girls attend who must work their way. These concerts are given to enable the school to offer school privileges to more boys and girls. This is their second annual appearance here and all who heard their fine program last year will be looking forward to this year's event.

More than 100 members and friends of the Baptist parish were present as the farewell party held at the church Thursday night for Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Hyssong, who leave soon for Brunswick, where he will take up his new duties as pastor of the Berean Baptist Church. The affair was carried out in an informal manner. Numbers on the pleasing program were: Singing in unison "The Old Rugged Cross" and "Jesus Took My Burden," duet, "It Is Morning in My Heart," Arlene Tominski and Vera Easton; trumpet solo "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep" LeRoy Moon; duet "Somewhere," Mrs. Lina Joyce and Charles Marston; duet "The Heavenly Vision," Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Whitney; remarks were made by Rev. N. F. Atwood, Rev. H. I. Holt and Rev. Sidney Packard of Camden. Gifts of money were presented to Rev. Mr. Hyssong and family from both the Rockport and West Rockport Churches, which he has served as pastor for the past three years. Ray Easton made the presentation speech for the former and Mrs. Miles Leach, feelingly spoke in behalf of the latter church. Refreshments under the direction of the Trytohelp Club were served. Mrs. Mildred Rhodes, Miss Mildred Graffam and Mrs. Wilma Rhodes serving as committee.

Mrs. Carrie Whittier of Bath, Miss Katherine Simonton of Bogota, N. J., and Miss Minnie Ritters of Union City, N. J., were guests Thursday of Miss Mabel Pottle.

SOUTH THOMASTON

The annual reunion of descendants of William Rowell, Revolutionary soldier will be held Sunday at the old homestead here. The Mathews-Campbell genealogy now in state of preparation, also the Journal of Charles Mathews, youngest son of Coll Mathews, and brother-in-law of William Rowell will be on display. The old-timers are asked to concentrate on "Mathews stories" or anecdotes. A program of games with prizes has been arranged for the youngest members. Fish chowder and "hot dogs" will be served.

Miss Sylvia Tyler has been guest of her grandmother in Searsmont the past fortnight.

Miss Marjorie Sleeper returned Sunday to her work in Rockland after spending a week's vacation at her home here.

At the Sunday School Council meeting held at the home of Miss Louise Butler Tuesday night plans for the Church-Orange Fair to be held Aug. 25 were completed and it was voted to make extensive improvements and repairs upon the church; improvements to include a new chimney built upon outside of church and an enlarged platform. Attractive new indirect lighting fixtures have been installed in the church this week by the Ladies' Aid.

Miss Mary Sleeper is in Boothbay Harbor for two weeks.

Idabelle, eight-year-old daughter of LeRoy Wiggins is very ill.

William Clements returned Wednesday from Knox Hospital where he received treatment the past week. Mr. Clements is being cared for by a trained nurse.

Mrs. Amos Norton and daughters Elsie and Evelyn, are visiting relatives in Liberty for two weeks.

The fourth and last summer in the series being held by Church and Grange will be in connection with the Fair Aug. 25 with Miss Louise Butler as chairman. These supporters have proved very successful. Mrs. Fred Allen was latest chairman.

Mrs. Jennie Clark was stricken suddenly ill Thursday and was removed to the home of her daughter Mrs. Arthur Foster in Camden.

Federal food supplies will be given out Monday from 1 to 4 and 5 to 8 at Town House.

Include works by Beethoven, Schubert, Mozart, Debussy and Casella. This concert is unique in that the entire program will be given by the four hands on one piano. The excellence of the program and the admirable spirit shown by these summer residents to give of their talents for a local cause should meet with quick response by the patronage of the townspeople. Tickets are on sale at The Studio Gift Shop.

Church Notes

Worship begins promptly at 10:30 Sunday at the Church on the Hill. Rev. George Bolster, district secretary of the Baptist Churches of the Eastern part of Maine will be the preacher.

Bible School with classes for all ages meets at 11:30.

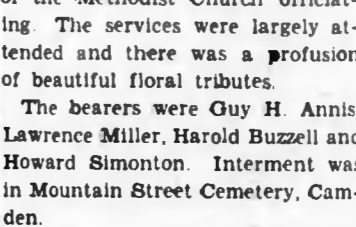

The last of the piano duets for the summer by Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Smith will be presented at the Happy Hour of Music and Message service Sunday night at 7 o'clock. This is to be request night and will be the last service before the pastor begins a vacation. Rev. John Silverwright of Binghamton, N. Y., will deliver the evening message.

The pulpit committee has arranged for different speakers to fill the pulpit each Sunday during the pastor's absence.

On June 30, 1927, the per capita debt for each man, woman and child in the United States was $436.39, a figure reached by the National Industrial Conference Board after a careful study and compilation of federal, state, county, and municipal debts throughout the country.

At Eells Boat Barn
Special Concert Aug. 26—
Proceeds For Children's Christmas Fund

Music lovers will welcome the announcement of a special concert on Saturday, August 26, at 8:30 p. m., at the Captain Eells Boat Barn, Rockport, featuring Ralph Berkowitz and Vladimir Sokoloff, pianists. In a recital of original music for one piano, four hands. The program will include works by Beethoven, Schubert, Mozart, Debussy, and Casella, and will be entirely different than any musical program ever offered in this section before. It should be of especial interest to pianists, and teachers and students of that instrument.

Mr. Berkowitz and Mr. Sokoloff are graduates of The Curtis Institute of Music, and brilliant artists of established reputation. Mr. Sokoloff is a member of the family whence comes Nicolai Sokoloff, a significant name in the musical world.

The concert is being given for a most worthy cause, 50 percent of the proceeds going to the Children's Christmas Fund (Rockport), a charity that is close to Mrs. Bok's heart. Reservations may be arranged by communicating directly with Mr. Berkowitz at Rockport, or tickets may be obtained at the door on the evening of the concert.

Mr. Lillian McRae is visiting her brother in Swan's Island.

Nathan F. Cobb's birthday Tuesday found him guest of honor at a beefsteak fry at Cooper's Beach. The other guests were Mrs. Cobb, Mrs. Ada Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Emery, Sr., Joseph Emery Jr. and Miss Ruth Emery.

Mrs. Annie Saville is spending two weeks in Waterville, guests of her son Major Francis Saville.

Mrs. Frank E. McKinney is the guest for a week of her mother, Mrs. Mabelle Smith, Lewiston.

Miss Doris Gattil is the guest this week of Miss Priscilla Braser at Hobbs Pond, Hope.

Goldie L. McAuliffe gave a party Wednesday in honor to her daughter Diane Gail McAuliffe who was celebrating her fourth birthday at her home on Fulton street. The dining room was attractively decorated in pink and white. Lunch was served by Mrs. Goldie A. McAuliffe. Diane received many nice gifts including two birthday cakes, one from "Nannie" and one from Mrs. Minnie Kent. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. McAuliffe of State street and daughter Charlene, Uncle Earl and Uncle Walter, Virginia Kiley of Boston, Everett Bryant, Almeda Smith, Margaret Kent, Matilda, Alzada, Melvina Thorndike and Mrs. Minnie Kent. A very pleasant afternoon was enjoyed.

GUARDIANS OF OUR COAST

What our lightkeepers and coastguardsmen are doing to protect coastwise shipping by day and by night. The day's news from many lonely outposts along Maine's waterfront.

On the far reef the breakers
Recoil in shattered foam.
Yet still the sea behind them
Urges its forces home.
Its chant of triumph surges
Through all the thunderous din—
The wave may break in failure
But the tide is sure to win!

The reef is strong and cruel;
Upon its jagged wall
One wave—a score—a hundred
Broken and beaten fall:
Yet in defeat they conquer
The sea comes flooding in—
Wave upon wave is routed
But the tide is sure to win!

O mighty sea! Thy message
In clanging spray is cast
Within God's plan of progress
It matters not at last
How wide the shores of sin—
How strong the reefs of sin—
The wave may be defeated
But the tide is sure to win!

—Francis Leonard

Over the Waves

A yachtsman, cruising off the coast of Maine, called his home by radio-telephone recently and talked with the cook, who was alone at the house. During the conversation he told her the yacht was making heavy weather of it off-shore.

"I guess if the truth was known he was on a spree ashore," the cook told the family later, "seems to me if them wires was a-risin' and a-fallin' on the waves I'd of heard it on the telephone."

Signs Lighthouse Bill

According to an Associated Press despatch, President Roosevelt has signed a bill to perfect the consolidation of the Lighthouse Service and the Coast Guard, effective July 1 under the Re-organization Plan.

It transfers certain technical and professional employees of the Lighthouse Service to the Military Service of the Coast Guard, with ranks commensurate with the duties they perform.

Appointment of civilians to the positions affected is discontinued, with future vacancies to be filled from the Military Service.

The transferred personnel will be "extra numbers" in their new ranks to avoid interference with promotions in the regular Coast Guard Service.

The President approved legislation to correct inequities and discrimination in the Coast Guard promotion laws resulting from a dual promotion system since the 1915 amalgamation of the Revenue Cutter and Life-saving Service.

It would restore precedence in the grade of District Commander according to date of appointment; equalize the pay and allowance of District Commanders according to length of service; prevent recurrence of the present situation in which District Commanders sometimes outrank their seniors in length of service; and place all commissioned, chief warrant, warrant, and enlisted men of both the seagoing and shore branches of the Coast Guard on an equal footing in their respective grades as to appointment, promotion, rank, pay and allowances.

Matineus Rock

The two families and A. V. Osgood recently enjoyed a wee-roast on the rocks.

Frank Jackson and Waldemar Walter of the Audubon Nature Camp at Medomak, were weekend guests of the Keeper.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Fletcher and family, with guests, shared a picnic Sunday with friends from Cribhaven.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Fletcher were delightfully surprised Aug. 1 to receive a coast-to-coast telephone call from San Francisco in honor of their 17th wedding anniversary.

Capt. Stuart Ames of Rockland recently brought out a group of 24 from the Audubon Camp and friends for a day of study of birds. Picnicking was also enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Thompson and family have returned from a most enjoyable vacation. They visited relatives in New Harbor, Port Clyde, and Boston. They also motored through Aroostook County and St. John, N. B.

A V. Osgood left Aug. 5 for Portland Head Light.

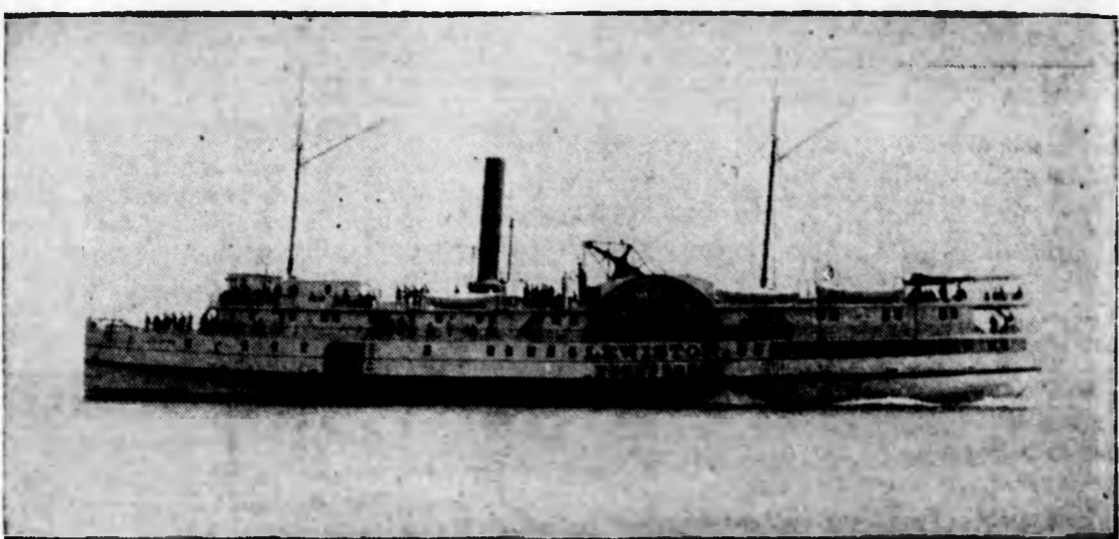

A few mackerel boats were in this vicinity recently. As yet there have been no signs of mackerel here.

Miss B. Knowlton of New York City and Rev. R. Lindblade of Malden, Mass., arrived Aug. 3 to visit the Davises.

Additional dinner guests of the Davises Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Guy Patterson, Miss Virginia Patterson, Miss Mary-Jean Shaw and Harold Shaw Jr. of South Paris. Harold Jr. will remain for a week or two. Sunday evening Mrs. Estelle Gamage and E. Lundy of New-

STEAMBOAT DAYS

This is S. S. Lewiston at sea showing to advantage her graceful lines

S. S. Lewiston, pictured above laying at Tillson's wharf, ran on the Boston-Bangor run a number of years but so eventless was her local career that little is heard about her. She was a fine looking ship, able and reasonably fleet. She was quite a bit smaller than her contemporaries, Katahdin, Penobscot and Forest City, being of 1127 tons.

After the demise of S. S. Cambridge, Lewiston made a brief appearance on the run and shortly was bought outright from the Portland & Machias Steamboat Co. She followed closely the general pattern of ships of her day and class though of considerably better lines than the flat but highly popular Katahdin.

Laying at the southern end of the dock in what is still called "the Morse's berth," is the ungainly old Mount Desert which took the rough knocks of the Bar Harbor run for 13 these many years. Mount Desert was a great money boat, however, and pluggedy away faithfully until replaced by the swift and commodious J. T. Morse.

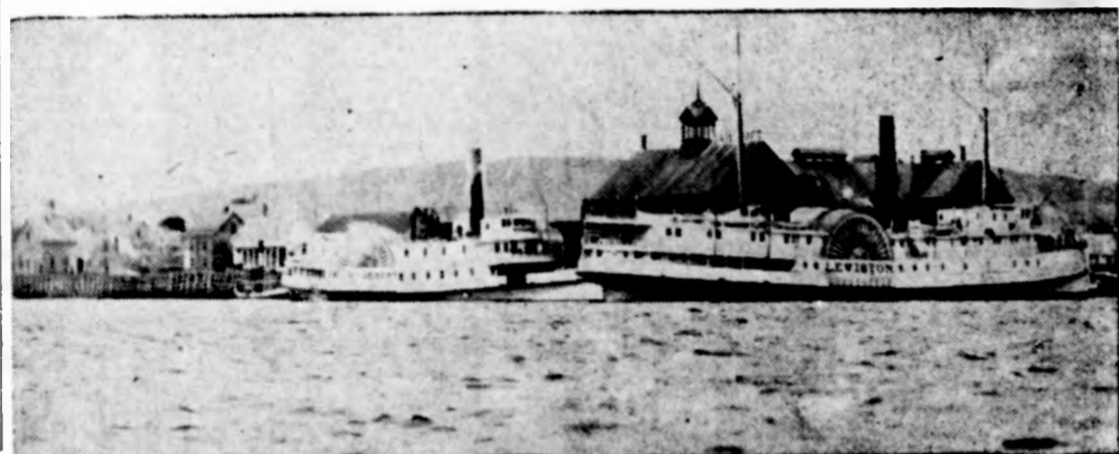

Close examination of the old photograph under a glass brings out considerable local color including a number of coating vessels and in the background the venerable old tug Ben Hurr, recently reconditioned in Portland, according to report. The familiar sign of the Mudridge sail-loft may be seen atop the roof of the Tower building.

This photograph was presented to the Steamboat Editor by Frank L. Weeks.

The search for a photograph of the elusive Henry Morrison is still in full cry. A photograph of the island steamer Emeline, predecessor of S. S. Vinalhaven is very much desired.

gen called; a pleasant evening was spent with Rev. Mr. Lindblade.

Richard Davis of Red Beach returned home Thursday after spending nearly four weeks with Keeper and Mrs. Quinn.

Keeper and Mrs. Quinn enjoyed 24-hour leave Thursday. They motored to Bangor, returning Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Graf of Brooklyn, N. Y., were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Quinn. Mrs. Graf was formerly Miss Lois Mingo of Red Beach.

Miss Knowlton and Rev. Mr. Lindblade left the station Monday. They claimed to have had all the lobster they could eat. Mr. Lundy took Rev. Mr. Lindblade out to haul traps, so he could see how lobsters are caught.

Keeper Foss will know we missed his corned hake this summer.

Mrs. Estelle Gamage, her daughter Mrs. D. McLaughlin and Eben Lundy all of Newagen were guests of the Davises Sunday night. Refreshments were served.

THE GREATEST

[For The Courier-Gazette]
"He that is greatest among you shall be your servant, shall said. Never the man titled 'Master' Putting himself at the head."

Never the worldly ambitious Striving to rise this earth sod Seethly seeking high perch At the right hand of his God.

Serving in love one another, Humble like some little child Helping in need every neighbor Following Christ's meek and mild.

Such is the greatest in Heaven Blest with the angels above, Greatest in joy and in glory Ministering with them in love.

Such is our Savior exalted Now with pre-eminent name Who in the form of a servant Once to this world a lowly came.

A FADED FLOWER

[For The Courier-Gazette]
Between the pages of a book I found a faded flower today, Its once sweet scent completely gone. And beauty faded quite away.

In mind's eye I could visualize: Bright in a garden, drenched with dew, That blossom as it may have been, A lovely thing of deepest hue.

Someone had cherished tenderly That flower; faded now and dry, And placed it there among the leaves Of that old book, in days gone by.

Perhaps to keep a memory fresh, A poignant memory, filled with tears, So treasured, with that faded pink, Of one beloved, down through the years.

I closed the book and left it there Among the leaves and scent of must, Perhaps some other hands may find Long after mine have turned to dust.

"COTTAGE FOR SALE"

[For The Courier-Gazette]
Little white cottage with windows so pale, Forlorn and desolate, sign up "For Sale." Those whom you sheltered with unfailing care Have gone off and left you empty and bare.

Old-fashioned garden, a sad sight indeed, Rank and neglected, overgrowing with weed. Once tended faithfully by loving hands Missing their care, now reproachful it stands.

Where are the children that played Among the blossoms that once charmed the bees? Where are the voices, which happily sang? Where are the shouts, which echoing rang?

Gone are the pictures that hung on the wall, Gone are the rugs that were scattered in halls. Gone is the furniture that once filled your rooms, Leaving them hollow and lonely as tombs.

Dear little cottage, some one will buy, Then you can smile, again as now, Others will live "neath your roof-tree, And know, Make your rooms echo, your garden to grow.

Kissing the children to gain votes and patronage is not an invention to be credited to campaigning politicians, as many suppose. The learned Erasmus recounts in his writings that in his times it was an established custom for any polite caller at one's home to kiss the host, hostess, all the children, the dog, and the cat.

The Class Of 1910

Holds Reunion At Green Gables—Last To Graduate From Farwell Opera House

At Green Gables in Camden Tuesday night, 22 members of the class of 1910, Rockland High School assembled for their second annual reunion, with six husbands and wives as "guest members."

The delicious dinner and the coolness of the private dining-room added much to the comfort and enjoyment of the diners, after a rather warm day.

Dinner over, Bart Kirkpatrick of Bangor, who was the last president of the class, acted as master of ceremonies; and delighted all with his wit and dry humor. There was no formal business meeting but plans were made for future reunions to be held on the third Tuesday of August. The committee for next season will be the same as served this year—Mrs. Kathleen Newman, Mrs. Marion Cannon, Miss Ball, Mrs. Leonie Delano, Mrs. Nettie Frost and Harold Davis.

The roll was called, and the minutes of last year's reunion read by Mrs. Newman. To Mrs. Harold Cannon goes the honor of being the first grandparent. However, the class claimed a grandchild last year but the grandfather, Milford Snow, died many years ago.

Mrs. Lena Dondis Skotnik of Crestwood, N. Y., made a special effort to be present at this reunion, as did Mrs. Ruth Blackington Lancaster of New Britain, Conn., who was unable to attend last year. Miss Lucy Ball and Mrs. Lancaster gave most interesting talks about their visits to the New York World's Fair, comparing their impressions and experiences. Lucy, entirely surprised with the request to tell of her week's trip to the Fair, modestly consented to talk, proving, as she warmed up to her subject, to be a very able extemporaneous speaker.

To this class of 1910, belongs the distinction of being the last class to graduate from the old Farwell Opera House. It was erroneously stated in an account of a recent reunion that the class of 1906 was the last but one to graduate from the Opera House.

With Mrs. Newman at the piano, the class ode was sung, as well as some of the songs of even older days. Thus ended a very pleasant reunion.

Class members present were Eva Ames, Lucy Ball, Margaret Mayo Barnard, Putnam and Lorita Bicknell, Helen Ulmer Brewer, Louise Manning Brown, Ralph Clark, Clara Thomas Curtis, Marion Perry Connor, Harold Davis, Leonie Moulaou-Delano, Lena Dondis Skotnik, Guy Douglas, Nettie Bird Frost, Florence Kaler, Pierre Havener, Doris Crockett Jordan, Bart Kirkpatrick, Ruth Blackington Lancaster, Kathleen Singhi Newman and Harold Robbins. The "class-mates," present were Dr. Dana Newman, Sanford Delano, Mrs. Guy Douglas, Mrs. Harold Davis, Harry Brown and Mrs. Ralph Clark.

GLEN COVE

Merton Taylor has returned from Knox Hospital much improved in health.

Mrs. Alton Wincapaw of Warren was recent guest of Mrs. Charles E. Gregory.

The Hall reunion was held Wednesday at the Grange hall with a large attendance and a fine program.

The baked bean supper sponsored by the Northport Yacht Club was very well patronized. This was followed by an entertainment furnished by the children of the community under the direction of Miss Betty Gibson. The awarding of the medals for the winners of the aquatic meet in the afternoon under the direction of Commodore Bassett was as follows:

Swimming—Boys, Jackie Metcalf and Henry Van Fleet; girls, Pamie Short, Joan Fiske and Kay McQuillan.

Diving—Jackie Metcalf, Harry Remson and Lois Wall; obstacle race—Alvord, Clement and Kay McQuillan; tub race—Phil Pretto and Joan Short; rowing 100 yards—Arthur Butters, Jr.

The two silver cups for the boy and girl having the most points were won for the girls by Kay McQuillan and for the boys, there was a tie between Harry Remson and Jackie Metcalf which was decided by a draw in favor of Harry Remson.

The choosing of the lucky ticket for the Snipe, "Tona" concluded the evening's entertainment. This was awarded to B. White of Bayside.

Yacht Club Log

A heavy breeze caused minor mishaps to two of the racing boats Sunday. Mr. Savage's boat had just rounded the first marker when he was forced to return to Searsport as his mainsail was torn from its rigging. Then a little farther along on the same course one of the snipes was forced to return home. The remainder of the race was sailed without other mishaps.
