

Co-Chairman Named

Women Workers Are Appointed In Each Of Seven Wards

Mrs. Inez Harden, Rockland Women's Division Chairman announced today co-chairmen for the city's seven wards for the Red Cross Fund Drive starting March 1. The ward co-chairmen will draw up squads of workers on each street in their district in order that this year's fund solicitations may be made easily and quickly.

The ward co-chairmen are:

1. Mrs. Bernice Anderson and Mrs. Evelyn Cates.
2. Mrs. Ann Karl and Mrs. Alma Dailey.
3. Mrs. Barbara Moulaison and Mrs. Eleanor Glover.
4. Mrs. Sybil Orne and Mrs. Elizabeth Hanson.
5. Mrs. Louise Billings and Mrs. Inez Ames.
6. Mrs. Geraldine McConchie and Mrs. Louise Kinney.
7. Mrs. Madlene Jackson and Mrs. Mary Paul.

Mrs. Walter Gay has been named club contact chairman and will send letters to all men's and women's clubs in the city soon, City Fund Drive Chairman Carl M. Stilphen said today.

Busy Junior Chamber

Director Brown Tells Of New Assignment—Clean-Up Campaign

James M. Brown, director of Farnsworth Museum, was guest speaker at the Monday night meeting of the Rockland Junior Chamber of Commerce. He told of the Corning Glass Center at Corning, N. Y., of which he has been chosen as director.

President Edward Gordon told of a plan now being considered which would pool the efforts of the Jaycees and the Rockland Chamber of Commerce in the establishing of an information bureau for the area.

A clean-up campaign in the city in the Spring was discussed and may become one of the several club projects for city improvement which are being considered.

The project which entailed the manufacture of silhouette safety signs in conjunction with the Junior Women's Club has been carried out and the cut-out signs delivered to the women. Ralph Cowan is chairman of the project. Christy Adams, representative of the Jaycees on the board of directors of the Maine Lobster & Seafoods Festival, reported on the progress of the group toward the Festival which will take place Aug. 3 and 4.

THE HEART OF RELIGION

This is an age of confusing complexities. Tax laws are hard to understand, also new theories of government and economics, not to mention the international situation. Everywhere men are looking for simplification and clarification. These big matters have to be reduced like a string of fractions to their lowest common denominator if the average person is to make heads or tails out of them. This is especially true of religion. There are so many denominations and sects, so many emphases and so many loose ends. It is important for every one of us to try now and then to see religion in the simplest terms possible and to discover, if we can, what is the heart of the matter.

What is the heart of religion? It is summed up in the sixth chapter of Matthew which is a part of the Sermon on the Mount. There Jesus says, "Take heed that ye do not your righteousness before men, to be seen of them; else ye have no reward with your Father who is in Heaven."

Religion expresses itself in our social relations but it is generated through our relations with Almighty God. If we read the chapter and the rest of this great sermon we see that the emphasis is placed upon a secret and close relationship between the individual and an unseen fatherly Spirit. Religion means many things but primarily it means a literal acceptance of the parent-child relationship with God. "Your Heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need of all these things." "If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more shall your Father who is in heaven give good things to them that ask him?" The idea is simply summed up in the words of the familiar childhood hymn.

This is my Father's world,
And let me ne'er forget
That though the wrong be oft so strong,
God is the ruler yet.

There is much that depends upon us Christians before the world can be set right. Everywhere there is a crying need for men who are fortified by the Spirit of God. We live most fully and most effectively when we live in the consciousness of our partnership with the Creator and Supreme Being. That is why we need worship and prayer. These furnish the iron and vitamins for spiritual living. Doctors are telling us today that many human illnesses are due to nothing more than the breakdown of this sense of partnership between the individual and his God.

Worship and prayer are duties to God. It is equally true that these spiritual exercises are also duties which we owe to ourselves and to our fellowmen. Where the churches are filled with honest seekers after the guidance and help of Almighty God society and individuals both attain to their highest levels. Our age faces spiritual bankruptcy because of the growing religious indifference and impoverishment of our people. This is showing up woefully on every level of life from the local to the international. Because he is neglecting his spiritual birthright, man is becoming a ragged waif in his own world, cringing before the works of his own hands. To our troubled age comes the words of the prophet Isaiah recalling us to the heart of religion.

"They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary; they shall walk and not faint."

FROM MEMORY'S REALM

George Reed Tells, With a Sort Of Poetic License Of a Winter Visit To a Summer Resort

Because my muse was not working had no material prepared for this column today, and have taken the liberty of borrowing from Commander George H. Reed, U.S.N., retired, his amusing report of a visit to his summer home at Bay-side. His story should not be taken too seriously. But let George tell it.

I went up to Bayside last week for a mid-Winter inspection of that popular summer resort, and my own properties there, and I came back well satisfied with Rockland.

A winter visit to a summer playground is not calculated to arouse much enthusiasm in the visitor but what the Chinese call a "look-see" is advisable if the visitor owns property there which he intends to re-occupy next season.

Such little matters as finding out if it is still there or have the polar bears and walrus taken it over is useful information in advance of a prospective return when the ice goes out and the roses bloom again.

The roads were fine—no snow, no ice and of no interest whatever. Just a concrete pathway into a winter desolation, colorless and cold.

A store was boarded up and where it wasn't were smashed window panes mutely registering a native reaction.

Belfast Bay was full of drifting ice but the wharf was still there which was good news for it has an annoying habit of going somewhere else after a big storm, and it costs the taxpayers considerable more than postage to get it back again.

Likewise a screen door which I had left unfastened last Fall had opened and sat in the breezes until there was nothing left to slat. This, however, was small damage.

It was difficult, however, among the old oaks and ash trees which surround our cottage. Eight of these were flat on the ground and because I had known of this damage and had hired, by telephone, two men to convert them into wood for the fireplace and kitchen stove, I had to shell out $64 cash for the 2½ cords of wood thus far salvaged, which wood I could have bought delivered, for $40, from several people in the vicinity. This, coupled with the loss of all the roofing on one piazza, plus the loss of a cupola on the roof of another cottage, resulting in a flood below which made a skating rink of my kitchen, was enough to convince me that if you go hunting trouble you will generally find it and that I suppose was what I went up there for in the first place.

Looking over that dreary landscape with all the foliage gone which, in the summer, masks its nakedness, it was difficult to imagine that it could ever be anything but bare and ugly. A less practical minded individual might have noted that the snow in the woods had melted and settled in the hollows and the wind had blown holes in it on the tops of the hummocks so that it made a pattern of white lace under the trees. I noticed it because I stepped in several of these holes which hadn't been blown right, and I promptly sunk to my knees. If nature would only leave a few signs I could read properly I could navigate better in her winter wildwood and maybe keep my feet dry. Last year it was two ribs that I broke when I fell. This year I just fell and it was only the atmosphere that was fractured.

As a whole the inspection was satisfactory, but like a lot of other cottage owners in Maine have doubtless discovered, Old Boreas and his gang of saboteurs are rough playmates for a summer cottage, and what they can do is plenty.

WHAT THE SEA BROUGHT

Trawlers Billow and St. George Get Rich Returns For Landings Here

The trawlers Billow and St. George stocked the highest fares of the year to date and both topped the port record for money paid by the fish plants for a single trip within a day of one another this week (Feb. 19-20).

The St. George, landing first, received $10,544.65 for her catch of 210,880 pounds of mixed groundfish and redfish with the redfish making up the greater portion of the landing.

The Billow weighed out 213,100 pounds of redfish and mixed groundfish to receive a total of $10,832.60 for the trip.

The St. George is captained by Clyson Coffin of Tenants Harbor who also owns the dragger. The Billow, owned by General Seafoods, was captained by James Farrell of Owls Head.

ON SLEEPERS LOBSTER BILL

Record Attendance Of Fishermen At the State House March 5 Is the Expectation

Sea and Shore Fisheries committee chairman Senator Cleveland Sleeper said today that a public hearing on a controversial bill to change the legal length of lobsters had been scheduled for Wednesday, March 7. The session will be held in the House of Representatives as the committee expected a record number of fishermen and dealers to appear.

The bill would increase the present minimum size of 3 and 1-8 inches at the rate of 1-16th of an inch a year for two years.

Sleeper introduced the bill for the change "merely to keep the issue open for legislative consideration." He said that an airing appeared to be necessary as Massachusetts had already adopted such a measure, effective July 1, 1951, and because Canada was seriously considering doing likewise.

Boston is one of the largest distribution points for both Canadian and Maine lobsters and those that do not correspond with the Massachusetts measure would be automatically barred under the present circumstances.

Sleeper said that the committee was depending upon a poll of fishermen and dealers, now being conducted by the department of Sea and Shore Fisheries, for much valuable and significant information. However, with only 2200 of the 5800 fishermen and dealers replying to date, the poll is disappointing, he said.

He urged every licensed man in the industry to express himself through the poll so that the committee "would know better just what the boys want."

"The committee and that includes myself has an entirely open mind on this legislation and we are expecting a majority of the lobster industry to advise us what is best for all concerned."

MAKING "FOURTH" PLANS NOW

Thomaston Firemen and Legionnaires Going To Put Over Another Big One

The Fire Department and American Legion in Thomaston are once more laying plans for a Fourth of July celebration in the town. Oris Benner will serve again as general chairman.

The Eastern Amusement Company has been engaged to operate its carnival in Thomaston the week in which the holiday falls. A fireworks show, which will surpass the show of last year, has been arranged and will be from 30 to 40 minutes duration.

A complete program of events is being planned for the day with many of the features of last year to be repeated while new ones are to be added.

A general committee of Legionnaires, firemen and business people will be appointed to carry out the planning and details of the operation of the celebration.

CAMDEN AND WISCASSET LOSE

Were Outclassed In the Tourney Contests In Wilton's Big Gymnasium

(By Bob Mayo)

Camden's bid for class M glory faded in Wilton's big gym Thursday night in the face of a bigger and faster Old Orchard Beach High team that finished strongly to post a 48-37 win. Superior control of the backboards and good shooting from outside by a great guard named Harry Larson and a little forward named Paul Picard tipped the scales. Camden managed to hold the Beach ace, Dick Rich, fairly well under control with their tight zone.

The Mustangs were obviously nervous and off on their timing during the first period but still managed to finish with only a one point deficit at 9-10. Ronnie Banks was registering well from the pivot slot but some easy lay-ups refused to sink for Camden. Old Orchard kept trying to feed Rich under the basket but were having little luck and shifted their strategy to the outside from around the foul circle with big Larson the chief operator. Old Orchard fouled often in the second period but Camden was off

Engaged

Jane Caroline Perry

A handsome diamond sparkling on the proper finger has conveyed the thrilling information to her fraternity sisters at Chi Omega on Colby College's Mayflower Hill Campus that Jane Caroline Perry was engaged.

She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Perry, Masonic street, Rockland, a graduate with honors from Rockland High School and now a Senior at Colby. She has been active in college activities, is president of the Glee Club, president of her Sorority, Chi Omega, and has been a member of the varsity dramatic productions since her Freshman year.

Robert A. Lindquist, Jr., completes the arrangement between two of this City's most popular young people. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lindquist, Lincoln street, and is an engineering student at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, following a two-year hitch with the armed forces during World War II.

No date has been set for the marriage.

The Boston Bruins hockey team won the Stanley Cup in 1929, 1939 and 1941.

Flaxseed production soared in the U.S. during the war because imports from Argentina were cut off.

THE BLACK CAT

By The Roving Reporter

From Cheyenne, Wyoming, Ralph Smith sends me a picture of Buffalo Bill, subject of a recent article in these columns. Mr. Smith writes:

"Found this rather amusing pose of our mutual hero, so am sending it to you. His burial place is about 12 miles from our cabin and we sometimes stop there. It is a beautiful spot overlooking both the plains and the mountains and a large Cody collection is open to the public during the summer months."

Mrs. Gertrude Boody, who is in charge of novelty and toilet goods at Senter Cranes proudly displayed on her counter Monday a china hen and lordly china rooster. Next morning she found some prankster had placed an egg astern of the hen and Wednesday morning was aghast to find some progressive minded wag had replaced the egg with a nest and two yellow chicks.

You just cannot keep a good man down. Past Department Commander Oliver R. Hamlin (V.F.W.) has been appointed civil defense director for the town of Somerville. He recalls the first defense corps in Maine, organized at Rockland during World War 2, when he had 165 men. To meet the present situation he issues the following proclamation:

"To be prepared in self defense in case of Atomic Bomb explosions and their effects such as bursts, flash burns, contaminated foods, radioactivity and shocks. I as Civil Defense Director of Somerville P.M. have called a meeting for Monday, Feb. 26, 7.30 p.m. Community Hall Sand Hill. I urge all citizens to attend and do their part to protect their loved ones and their neighbor. We prepare for the worst, and hope for the best."

The current issue of Life Magazine contains a remarkable series of photographs under the caption of "Winter in Maine—its frozen nights evoke poets' praises." The camera artist was, of course, Kosti Ruohomaa of Rockland, whose local pride found expression in pictures entitled "After Milking," Chickawaukie Pond, "Diner Near Waldoboro," "The 631 Local Stops At Wiscasset." A fine bit of local publicity, and thanks to the Dodge Mountain camera ace.

One year ago: Bernard Thompson was appointed chief of police, Rockland's youngest.—The County Commissioners reported a surplus of $8918, long Superior Court terms having added to the expenses.—Clayton Bitler was elected a sponsor member of the Outboard Boating Club of America.—The steel trawler Breaker joined the Seafoods fleet.—Twenty-three divorces were granted by Superior Court.—Deaths: Rockland, William F. Simmons of South Thomaston, 80; Matineus, Mrs. Rufus Miller, 86; Thomaston, Ethan Rowell of South Thomaston, 74; Rockland, Edward Edwards of St. George, 45.

[EDITORIAL]

TRAFFIC RECORD GETS BLACK EYE

The month of January set a woeful example for the year's highway traffic record, with 18 deaths resulting from 12 accidents. Added to December's record breaker it established an all-time high of 42 killed during those two Winter months. Last year, for the same period, there were 25 fatalities and in 1948 only 18. Commenting upon these figures, Lieut. John deWinter, head of the Traffic Safety Department says:

"The increase in accidents over last year is largely due to Winter driving conditions. Of the hundreds of thousands dollars worth of damage caused so far this year, much is due to the fact that drivers still do not make allowances for slippery roads. They just don't seem to realize that cars must not only be driven slower but more distances be allowed between vehicles for stopping on icy roads. The brightest spot in our accident picture to date is that we have yet to list our first pedestrian fatality of the year. The time, however, is not far distant and we should take warning and make certain that it will not be us."

REPUBLICAN WATERVILLE

Democratic hopes of some day redeeming Maine to their column suffered another dent Wednesday when Waterville elected a Republican Representative to Legislature to replace the Democrat who had resigned. The victor carried all but two of the wards. Bear in mind that Waterville was formerly an ironclad Democratic city.

NOVEMBER ELECTIONS? NO, SIR!

Running true to form the Maine Legislature has again rejected a bill which would have made the September election date conform to the general election in November. Better voting weather in September is one of the reasons why Maine favors September; then there is the little matter of sentiment. Maine likes to live up to its motto—"Dirigo" and of course every schoolboy knows just what that means.

THE SEED OF SUSPICION

The basketball bribery scandal which appears to be sweeping the country, seems to have extended to Maine. One of Bangor High School's star players is reported to have been subjected to the indignity. We are glad to say that instead of accepting the bribe he promptly reported to his coach. The worst part of the bribery scandal is the seed of suspicion which it sows everywhere.

MR. TRUMAN RETREATS

The President has made the best of a bad bargain on the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. By suddenly submitting to Congress a plan for reorganization of the RFC he appears to be surrendering to demands for reform of the long pending agency. At the least, he has beaten a hasty retreat from the defiance expressed in his reappointment only a few days ago of RFC directors who had been publicly charged with laxity and favoritism.

The change is very welcome. We can't say whether it is a frank admission of error (which would be a sign of statesmanship) or simply a recognition that the position was untenable (which would be a sign of political astuteness). In either case, the prospect for reform of the RFC is greatly enhanced. That is the main thing. Puritans may enjoy the President's discomfiture; as we see it, the big gain is that the plan he offers holds good hope of improving the administration of this powerful instrument of government.

The plan has some features of the reform proposal urged by the Fulbright committee and some of the program offered by the Hoover commission on reorganization. Mr. Truman says the changes will not only improve administration but facilitate co-ordination with other departments and erect added safeguards over the granting of loans.

The move may take some of the steam out of the Fulbright investigation of improper influences on RFC management. But that inquiry should be pressed. Indeed, more fundamental questions should be asked about this agency. It was created originally to check a depression. If it is to be continued at all in a time of inflation, its vast powers should be carefully delimited.—Herald Tribune.

FRIENDSHIP

The Friendship Community Club met on Monday night at the school building. There was a small attendance on account of a change in the meeting night for this month. Mrs. Gosbee's room again won the attendance banner.

The hot lunch program was reported to be progressing favorably and the sink which is so desperately needed had arrived. It was voted to order lumber immediately for the tables and Lester Black Charles Sylvester, and Albert Harjula were named on the committee to attend to this.

Donations for the purchase of spoons were reported from Ralph Winchenpaw, Miss Margaret Simmons, and Mrs. Marcia Davis.

The Club will hold a public supper at the K.P. hall on Thursday, March 1, from 5 to 7 p. m. After the meeting, refreshments were enjoyed and slides shown by Robert Lash. The next meeting will be on March 26.

Porter 50, Wiscasset 45. Midway in the third period of the Wiscasset-Porter game the Redskins were ahead 36-18 and coach Harry Hildebrandt pulled out his entire first team, feeling that the game was in the bag and the reserves deserved a shot at tourney glory. The second team stayed in three minutes and still had yielded only five points of their long lead when the regulars went back in.

However Wiscasset had reckoned without a Porter center named Rodney Sawyer who began sinking one hand pushups from all angles. At one point he tossed in six straight ringers and when he was done his team led for the first time at 39-37 midway of the final quarter.

The Redskins, cooled on the bench, could never get back in stride and could manage only eight points in the entire final quarter. It was an amazing comeback that had seemed hardly to belong on the floor during the first half.

Wiscasset led 13-2 at the end of the first and 27-18 at the half as Bob Hersom and Jackie Cost paced the attack with 12 each. However their efforts were pale compared to the 30 registered by the amazing Mr. Sawyer. Gossip in the stands had it that Porter was playing without its best player but if the absent one is any better than Sawyer it will be a big surprise to about 1000 people. Score:

Porter (50) Meloon 4 (2); Watson 1, Gilpatrick; R. Sawyer 14 (2); B. Sawyer 3; Wright 1.

Wiscasset (45) Hersom 5 (2); Merry (1); Cost 5 (2); Flanders; J. Dalton 2 (3); R. Dalton; Foye 3 (1); Huber; MacQuestion 3, Reed. Most impressive class M team of the evening was South Paris, a big rangy outfit that passed superbly and was loaded with poise. It will be a surprise to me if they don't walk away with M honors. Their ace, Bill Snow, was the best player of the evening and has an easy fingertip control shot which caused

Rev. Ferdinand Loungway gave a talk at the meeting of the Friends-in-Council held at the home of Mrs. David Mann on Tuesday. As usual, Mr. Loungway gave his audience much food for thought. Abraham Lincoln, with his integrity, strong religious faith and responsibility to his country, was the background of his word-sketch against which today's leaders seemed as dim shadows. Said Mr. Loungway, "We need more Lincolns." It was voted at the business meeting of the club that each member be responsible for a specified sum of money toward a fund to help the local YMCA in much-needed renovating. Several members will hold individual card parties at their homes.

KNOX-LINCOLN FARM AND GRANGE NEWS

Grange Corner

News items from all of the Patrons of Husbandry are welcomed

St. George Grange
A mystery ride has been planned for Wednesday, March 14. All who are to participate are to meet at the hall at 6:30 from where the departure will be made. Visitors are asked to bring sweets.

Our young lecturer is providing excellent programs for Grange meetings.
The State deputy will be present at the meeting of March 2 to conduct a school of instruction. The State master is expected to attend the meeting scheduled for March 23d.

Persons wishing further information on the mystery ride may obtain it by telephoning Tenant's Harbor 57-4 or Rockland 58-W2.

Maple Grange
Twenty-seven members were present at the last meeting with visitors from White Oak, Progressive and Megunticook also attending.

Brother Miller is home from the hospital and on the road to recovery. Sister Kathleen Winchenpaw is reported ill.

Owl's Head Grange
Lecturer Thelma Murray will present a program honoring the Boy Scouts at the meeting Tuesday evening. Elmo Crozier, a Scout executive of Boy Scouts in this area, will arrange the program.

The lecturer will also report on the State conference for lecturers which she attended in Waterville Feb. 7, 8 and 9.

Sister Elena Predette has been a patient at the Knox County General Hospital.

The public supper held Tuesday night was a marked success which saw nearly 300 people attend and stay for the entertainment.

On the entertainment program were Patricia Magee, Arlene Magee and Retha Hills of Camden with Jeanette and Arthur Crockett, also of Camden. Also on the program were Bruce, Bernice, John Mary and Milton Gamage. Orchestra members were Harry Steele of West Rockport, Walter Ingerson, Henry Tinker and Omer Searles of Rockland. John Gamage was master of ceremonies.

Penobscot View Grange
The program for the meeting of March 1 will honor Flora "Goddess of Fruit." There will be a capable speaker who will discuss apples, the planting of apple trees, their care and the varieties raised in Maine. Members are asked to bring as many varieties of apples as they can obtain.

Apple pie will be served during the refreshment period.
Meetings of Penobscot View Grange are held the first and third Thursdays of each month. All Grangers are welcome.

Weymouth Grange
The Third and Fourth Degrees were conferred on Mrs. Arthur Hall and Mrs. Lymburner at the meeting Monday.

Deputy David Carroll of Union will hold a school of instruction at the Monday night meeting. The program will be based on George Washington.

The refreshment committee is made up of Greta Clark and Besie Haraden.

Mt. Pleasant Grange
The Third and Fourth Degrees were conferred on a class of seven candidates at the Monday evening meeting. Six were from Mt. Pleasant and one from South Hope Grange. Receiving the degrees were, Barbara and Harold Richards, Evelyn and George Mason, Clarence Hennigar, Mary Connolly and Beverly Thomas, all of Mt. Pleasant, and Jackie Reynolds of South Hope.

Masters of several Granges were present for the meeting and came from Seven Tree, South Hope, Tranquility, Grandview, Warren and Knox Pomona. Visitors were present from Penobscot View, White Oak, Weymouth, Goodwill and Pioneer to make a total of 88 present for the evening.

A gift of $10 was received from the West Rockport Farm Bureau toward the purchase of the new stove. Also, a gift of coal was received from the Thomas Fuel Company of Camden. Thanks of the Grange was extended for both generous gifts.

Meenahga Grange
Charles M. White of Winthrop, treasurer of the Maine State Grange, was a guest at the regular meeting of Meenahga Grange Monday night. He gave a talk on Charles Gardiner's book, "The Grange, Friend of the Farmer," during the lecturer's hour.

Before the opening of the meeting, Mr. White met with a com-

SOIL CONSERVATION NOTES

Reforestation Interest Increasing In the District; Brook Trout In Farm Ponds

On August 2, 1949, a district co-operator's farm pond was stocked with brook trout of fingerling size. About one year later the owner caught trout slightly over 11 inches long. Last Fall some of the trout stocked here were seen spawning. At the time of spawning they appeared to be 14 to 15 inches long. The owner is hoping for good luck from the spawn.

It may be possible for farmers who plan to and do construct farm ponds to receive payment under the PMA program. However, any anticipation for building farm ponds in conjunction with the PMA should be taken up with the proper officials. It is necessary to meet certain specifications in order to receive payment which is another reason for doing a good job of building the ponds.

Some farmers have already been through their woods and cleaned up the results of the "big blow." Down timber, broken stems, etc., should receive immediate attention.

Interest in reforestation seems to be on the increase in the District. Recently a farm was planned for which the owner plans to purchase about 10,000 trees for planting. This area happens to be an idle, run-out field not being used, and in accordance with the District policy of putting every acre to its best use and treat it according to its needs, it is planned for reforestation. The owner will be increasing the value of his land and will reap future benefits.

Technical information and assistance is available to Knox-Lincoln farmers on forestry, engineering, contour strip cropping, drainage, construction of farm ponds, etc., by applying at the District Headquarters, Waldoboro. Complete farm plans are made for individual farms. The plan includes a soils map, land use map and recommendations for each field.

WARREN

bert K. Thomas, nephew of the deceased, and Benjamin E. Starrett, Porret E. Spear, Willis R. Vinal, Maurice Lermond, and Albert White. Mrs. Willis Vinal, Mrs. L. Robert MacKenzie, Miss Esther Young, Mrs. Laura Starrett and Mrs. Alice MacDougall acted as honorary bearers.

The profuse floral tributes bore a silent testimony to the esteem and affection held for Mrs. Walker during her long, full life here, in the church, various organizations and a member of the community itself.

Mrs. Walker bore her last illness with a patience remarked upon by her friends. Her sense of humor never failed her, even in her darkest hours of pain, and her unselfish thoughts of others were always uppermost. She was blessed with the unfailing devotion of her husband of 71 years' companionship and the inextinguishable fidelity of daughter and son by her side continually during the past three years in this illness and always close before.

Mrs. Walker was born at Lincolnville, Aug. 13, 1862, the daughter of Frank B. and Clara Andrews Thomas. Her father was a sharp shooter in the Union Army of the Civil War. As a young woman she came to Warren and married Mr. Walker after being here a short time.

Active for years as a member of the Second Congregational Church here, she had served in the church as a deaconess and was an honorary member of the standing committee at time of death. She was past president of the Ladies Circle of Kings Daughters. She was a charter member of Ivy Chapter O.E.S. She was affiliated with the Warren Woman's Club and with General Henry Knox Chapter D.A.R. of Thomaston.

Surviving are the husband, one son, Lee W. Walker; and one daughter, Mrs. Fred G. Campbell both of Warren; one grand son Dr. Douglas Walker of Laconia, N. H.; and one grand daughter Miss Jean Campbell of Warren, three great-grand children and one nephew and one niece.

Attending the services in a body were members of Congregational Ladies Circle and of Ivy Chapter O.E.S.

Among those present from out of town were Dr. and Mrs. Douglas Smith and the necessary steps were taken to incorporate the Grange. The following corporation officers were chosen: President, Madelyn Creamer; vice president, Morton Smith; treasurer, Jessie Miller; clerk, Esther Gross and trustee, Austin Winchenbaugh. Glenwood Sukerforth and Alton Winchenbach. Mildred Duswald was elected to the station of Flora for the balance of the year. She was installed in her office by Mr. White with Mrs. White acting as marshal.

In addition to the address by Mr. White, there were two skits on the program, songs, and an observance of birthdays occurring in January and February. Mrs. White spoke briefly on the work if the State Home and Community Welfare Committee, of which she is a member.

The Ladies' degree team will confer Third and Fourth Degrees next Monday night.

There were 47 present, including guests from Southport, Merrymeeting and Progressive Granges.

Walker of Laconia, N. H.; Miss Florence Eastman of Beverly, Mass.; Mrs. U. J. Hebert of Newport, R. I.; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Scott of Bangor, George Weaver of Watertown, Mass.; Miss Eda St. Clair of Portland, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hall of Waterville, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Burgess, Allan Bird, and Ralph Wiggins of Rockland; Mrs. Bowdoin Grafton and Mrs. William Flint of Thomaston, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stenger, and Mrs. William Carpenter of Waldoboro, and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Burns of Friendship.

Mrs. Eunice M. Sidelinger

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Eunice M. Sidelinger, 84, formerly of Newcastle, and widow of Harlan Sidelinger, who died Feb. 9 at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sidelinger in this town, were held Feb. 12 at the Simmons Funeral Home here. Rev. Hartley Johnston, pastor of the Baptist Church at Damariscotta officiated, and interment will be made at the Dunbar cemetery. The pall bearers were Ross Castagna of Providence, R. I., Leonard Sidelinger, Earl Smith, and Malcolm Smith of Warren.

Mrs. Sidelinger came to the home of her son and daughter-in-law, seven months ago, due to rapidly failing health and received the devoted care of her son and daughter-in-law during her last illness.

She was born at North Nobleboro, the daughter of Daniel and Evelyn Harriman Boggles. She was a member of the Baptist Church at Damariscotta.

Besides the only son, she leaves four grand children, four great-grandchildren, and one brother, Albert Boggles of Nobleboro.

Mrs. Mary Jane Clements

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Mary Jane Clements, 85, widow of Judson Clements, who died Feb. 13 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Violet Brimigon, after a long illness, were held Saturday afternoon, Feb. 17 at the Davis Funeral Home, Thomaston. Mrs. Maurice Lermond of South Warren, reader at the Christian Science Church of Rockland, read the funeral service. Burial was made in the family plot in the Leonard cemetery, Warren, and the following neighbors served as bearers, Parker McKellar, William Williams, Michael Halligan, and Roland Berry.

Though not a member of the Christian Science Church, she loved it, and love of the good and beautiful was reflected in her face. She unfolded every one she knew in that love. Always cheerful and friendly, she will be greatly missed by her family and friends.

Mrs. Clements was born in Budworth, Cheshire County, England, daughter of Charles and Jane Austin Davenport, and married Hugh Fletcher, before coming to this country. Of the three children born to this union, but one survived, the daughter, Mrs. Violet Brimigon with whom she made

Specialists To Speak

Marketing and Vegetable Experts At Three Spots During Next Week

Market gardening will be discussed by Extension Vegetable Specialist Joe Hickey at meetings on Tuesday. The first meeting will be at the Nobleboro Grange Hall at 1:30; and the other meeting at the Farnsworth Museum Auditorium, Rockland, at 7:30 p. m. Hickey will speak on varieties; insect, weed and disease control; and fertilization.

As an added attraction, Cliff Ekstrom, Extension Marketing Specialist, will talk at both meetings on roadside stands. All people interested in either of these subjects are invited to attend.

Small fruits growers will be interested in a meeting at the Pioneer Grange Hall, East Union, at 1:30 p. m., Wednesday, Feb. 28.

County Councils

Government Farm Agencies Joined Into County Groups For Better Results

The U.S.D.A. County Council, consisting of the various government agricultural employees was recently reactivated.

Herbert Hawes, chairman of the Knox-Lincoln PMA and Bernard Newbert, Chairman of the Lincoln County PMA Committee, was elected chairman of the Lincoln County Council.

County Agent, Gilbert Jaeger was elected secretary to both groups. Others on the council on S.C.S., Fieldman Roy Gross; P. H. A. Supervisor, Darius Joy; P. C. A. representative, Wallace Spear, and representative of the veteran's Vocational Agriculture Instructors.

The next meeting will be April 12 and the various organizational committees will be invited to attend.

WEST ROCKPORT MEETING

Mrs. Harold Hupper, county foods leader, and Dr. Katherine Briwa were guest speakers at the West Rockport Farm Bureau, Feb. 13. Fifteen homemakers heard Miss Briwa talk on "What's Cooking Around the Clock" and participated in a menu planning work session. Many questions were asked.

During the business session, it was decided that the chairman should make arrangements for the time and place for the group to meet and work on the U. N. Flag. The group also voted to assist with the purchase of a new cook stove for the Engine Hall.

COMMUNITY MEETINGS

Community meetings are being scheduled for every Men's Farm Bureau Community. These will run through March. For those who have not already had their meeting, the County Agent hopes that you will be at the one held in your community. Project leaders are being chosen, and the reason why explained. We will also go over the mailing lists to bring them as up to date as possible, and to add names to the various lists where needed. By doing this, we can expand the number of people we are contacting, and remove the names of those no longer interested. Also at these meetings, a discussion on the size of a Farm Business and the efficiency of production needed to produce a reasonable income will be discussed.

Gilbert B. Jaeger.

SOUTH THOMASTON

Knox Lodge A.F. & A.M. of South Thomaston will confer the Master Mason Degree on two candidates Monday night, Feb. 26. Supper will be served at 6:30. All Master Masons are cordially invited. Willard R. Brown will preside in the East.

her home the past several years, first in Millinocket and in Warren, after Mrs. Brimigon had bought the present home here.

Mr. Fletcher died 60 years ago, and as a widow Mrs. Clements, then Mrs. Fletcher, came to this country in 1902 and married Judson Clements of this town, in 1903.

Older residents will remember the millinery shop Mrs. Clements conducted for several years at her home. While her health permitted she was an active member in Warren Grange.

Besides her daughter, she leaves a sister, Mrs. Annie Aspy of Warren; two nephews, G. A. Aspy of Warren and Harry Aspy of Boston; and one niece, Miss Hilda Aspy of Warren.

Farm Bureau Meetings

Miss Constance Cooper, home demonstration agent for the Knox-Lincoln area, has released the following schedule of meetings for the several Farm Bureau groups early in the coming month.

March 2 at Washington, the group will meet at the home of Mrs. Lessins with the HDA. The subject will be "What's Cooking Around the Clock."

On March 6, the Warren group will meet in the Congregational Church rooms with the HDA in charge. The subject, "Know the Foods You Buy."

The following day, March 7, there will be meetings at Thomaston and Waldoboro. The Thomaston group will gather at Legion Hall to work on slip covers. The Waldoboro women will take as a subject, "What's Cooking Around the Clock" and will meet at the Grange Hall with the HDA.

Community Hall will be the meeting place for the North Nobleboro ladies on March 9 with "Cooking Around the Clock" the subject. The HDA will be there.

On the 9th, Camden will meet at the Grange Hall to take up Swedish weaving. Vernet Roberts will be in charge.

The same day, the HDA will be at Vinhaven in the G.A.R. rooms to discuss "Know the Foods You Buy."

MILK RECORD SHEETS

With costs of production high, and going still higher, it is more important than ever that each cow in local herds be held to an account of what she is producing.

Milk record sheets are available in the Farm Bureau office. The County Agent hopes that all dairymen who are not now keeping records will obtain these sheets, and that they will be used.

Each sheet has enough room for 14 cows for a month and space for both morning and evening milking. There is also room for estimating the cost of feed.

STATE OF MAINE

TO THE HONORABLE JUSTICE OF THE SUPERIOR COURT, next to be held at Rockland within and for the County of Knox on the first Tuesday of May, 1951.

Respectfully represents Mabelle E. Yattaw of Rockland in the County of Knox, that she was married to Clifton W. Yattaw, formerly of said Rockland, at Freeport in our County of Cumberland, on the twelfth day of June, 1948; that the residence of the libellee is unknown and cannot be ascertained by the exercise of reasonable diligence.

That subsequent to said marriage the parties hereto lived together as husband and wife at said Rockland, Maine until the nineteenth day of June, 1950.

That your libellant has always conducted herself towards her said husband as a true, faithful and affectionate wife.

But that her said husband, being unmindful of his marriage vows and obligations, has been guilty of cruel and abusive treatment and being able to labor and provide for her, grossly or wantonly and cruelly refuses or neglects to provide suitable maintenance.

That by virtue of this marriage there has been born to them, two children, to wit: Clifton W. Yattaw, Jr., age twenty-eight months; and Beverly Ann Yattaw, age thirteen months.

WHEREFORE she prays that the bonds of matrimony now existing between her and her said husband be now dissolved by divorce upon the grounds above set forth; and further that she be granted custody of said minor children of the parties.

Dated at Rockland, Maine, this eighth day of February, 1951.

MABELLE E. YATTAW,

STATE OF MAINE

Knox, ss. February 8, 1951
Personally appeared before me, the above-named Mabelle E. Yattaw, and made oath to the foregoing.

Wildcats Had Former 4-Her As Speaker, Hustlers Have Basketball Squad Now

Ken Barker of Jefferson was guest of Jefferson Wild Cats 4-H Club recently and gave an enthusiastic talk on "How To Become a Good Athlete." Mr. Barker was a 4-H Club member in 1919 and won a trip to University of Maine, Orono, on his potato project.

Some of the things stressed by Mr. Barker in his talk were: the real competitive spirit, eating the right foods, plenty of rest, no smoking, a clear health, and a sure sense of responsibility.

The boys in this group are studying foods and good health.

4-H Doings

Clarista Payson, secretary of Pine 4-H club reports the girls hope to finish their skirts this week. Plans are to start on laundry bags at the eleventh meeting to be held Feb. 28 at the home of the leader, Mrs. Marjorie Hoffes.

Rockland

Highland Hustlers played basketball with the Explorer Scouts at the Community Building recently. Dennis Curry, secretary says, "although the Explorers won 24 to 37 it was a good game." Plans are to play Rockport in the future.

Hope

Sagamore 4-H Club met at the home of the leader, Jane Robbins Monday afternoon. Judging contests were held for both boys and girls.

Dress Reves, tractor project and other project details were discussed with the club agent, Loana S. Shibbes.

Washington

Mrs. Rosa Hutchins, leader of the Busy Bees of Washington demonstrated muffin making at the meeting last Saturday held at the home of the president, Brad Phillips.

Refreshments were served by Brad and Walter Greenlaw and games were directed by Stephen Ludwig and Joyce Hanson.

Friendship

Sunshine Helpers worked on kerchiefs at their third meeting and plan to start aprons as their next article.

Jean Aho, secretary, reports the next meeting is to be held on Feb. 24 at the home of the leader, Mrs. Marie Lash.

Dogs that respond to a pat or approving words are preferred for military service over those that perform for a tid-bit or other material reward.

They're Both Eighty

And Only a Month Apart In Age—Warren Honors The T. J. Carrolls

With their 80th birthday anniversaries exactly a month apart, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Carroll were honored Saturday night Feb. 17 at a joint birthday party given in their honor under the direction of Mrs. Grace Carroll Colburn, and attended by 50 relatives, neighbors and friends from Rockport, West Rockport, Rockville, Warren, Auburn and Bath.

Mr. Carroll, one of a family of nine children born to Benjamin and Emma Smith Carroll at East Warren was 80 Feb. 22 and Mrs. Carroll, formerly Mrs. Mary Kimball of Boothbay Harbor, and native of Liscomb, Nova Scotia, was born Jan. 22, 1871.

Three especially decorated birthday cakes graced the happy occasion, including a musical cake which played "Happy Birthday to You" by music box, made by Mrs. Hervey McGilvery of Auburn, sister of Mr. Carroll, and the other two made by his daughter, Mrs. Colburn.

Mr. Carroll has led a very interesting and exceptionally active life in various fields, and still carries on a sawmill and wood business at East Warren or Mt. Pleasant as it usually is called. On the side for 40 years, until World War II, he conducted a general store near his home.

As a young man he worked in Rockland for a period of three years at Bird's Plant and at Glovers, later clerked for Jordan and Marsh in Boston, Mass.; and taught school in several districts here in town. At one time he burned lime at Mt. Pleasant for a Boston concern, headed finally by Thomas Carter.

Musical, he has taken vocal and piano lessons off and on for several years of his life, from 14 until the age of 60, listing among his teachers the late Mrs. Wakefield of Warren and Mrs. Lillian Copping of Rockland.

For a quarter of a century he played the organ at the Baptist Church, West Rockport, of which he has been a member for 62 years, and in which he has been deacon for over 38 years. He was active on the committee which solicited funds before 1920, in the remodeling of the West Rockport Baptist Church.

The present 12 room house which he and Mrs. Carroll, and Bessie Packard, with him 53 years, occupy, was built by him, when the former buildings on his father's farm burned.

Mrs. Clara Calderwood Carroll, first wife of Mr. Carroll, passed away 19 years ago. The present Mrs. Carroll, whom he married in 1933, and fully as active as her husband, takes care of the home, the cooking, and helps some in the garden in the Summer.

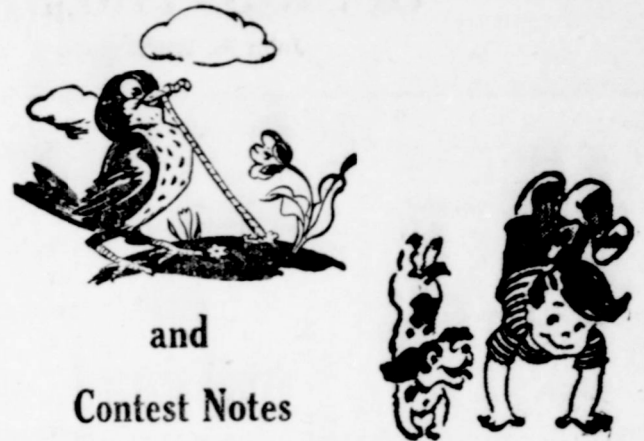

Mr. Carroll has one daughter, Mrs. Grace Colburn, who lives near her father, and one son, Maurice, of West Rockport. A younger daughter, Mrs. Gordon Smith, died a few years ago in New York.

Among the guests present at the party were the following: Mr. and Mrs. Roland Sudds, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. McGilvery, and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Carroll of Auburn, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Osgood and daughter Cynthia of Bath; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Thurston, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Mank, Mrs. Alice Tolman, Leslie Packard, Maurice Carroll, and son Royce, and Oscar Greenrose of West Rockport; Rev. and Mrs. Carl Small, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Walker, and Mrs. Russell Upham of Rockport; Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Keller, Miss Lottie Ewell and Mr. and Mrs. Vesper Hall of Rockville; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Carroll, Jr., and daughter, Judy of Rockland; Mrs. Nan Erickson, Mrs. Donald Kenniston and family, Fred, Gloria, David and Catherine, Miss Jane Pendleton, Miss Bertha Keto, of Warren Village, Mr. and Mrs. Thelbert P. Carroll, Paul Mellin, Philip Robinson, Bessie Packard, Mrs. Grace Colburn and son, Raye of East Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll were remembered with many gifts and cards of congratulations.

Adjectives fail to express the crude beauty of this regal monarch which decorates our Maine Seal and strides through our evergreen forests of Maine like a stately four-legged Colossus; his proud head erect and as the French say "nez de haut en bas" nose high in the air.

The moose is the giant of the deer family and at one time like the extinct caribou of Maine they were too great in numbers. Fortunately for the citizens of Maine, wise conservation laws were passed to protect this majestic animal from utter extinction. From last reports the moose herd is increasing in size.

Years ago the Indians and later the professional hunters slaughtered this august animal for the hide and head. The Indians sold the hide from a dollar to three dollars. The professional hunter shot the moose for the head with its imposing antlers to decorate some club or home. Both left mountains of carcasses to rot and smell up the landscape.

A general description of our moose is as follows: the male moose in length is from 8 1/2 to 9 feet. He has a two-inch tail. The height at his shoulder measures from 5 1/2 to 7 feet. The average spread of his antlers is 52 to 58 inches although the antlers on a record head may go as high as 65 to 78 inches. The female moose is about three-quarters the size of the male. The male antlers are exceptionally broad and heavy. The cow moose does not have any. The muzzle is inflated, broad and pendulous. There is a hanging punch-like growth of skin and hair from the throat of the moose which is called the "bell." The moose has extraordinarily large ears.

Both sexes are similar in color which ranges from blackish-brown to black. On the lower belly the color is pale brownish-gray. The legs are a deeper shade, sort of a tawny gray. The calf (young moose) are of a reddish-brown unspotted color.

Moose range across the North American continent, Canada and Alaska. Some moose weigh over a thousand pounds. The moose is an ungainly creature with front legs considerably longer than its hind ones; this renders its gait extremely awkward but don't let this fool you for their speed is tremendous, and they will stride over fallen trees, hurdle fences with the greatest of ease.

The hump on the shoulders of the moose and the over-hanging, square-ended nose does not add to its masculine and feminine beauty. Its ordinary gait is a lone springy trot and it walk for long distances with great strides across the marsh. It loves to splash and plow through water plants and boggy spaces with long legs covering the distance quickly.

The moose is a browsing animal as its legs are too long and its neck too short to allow it to graze like other animals, yet when early Spring comes with tender blades of young marsh grass the moose will struggle to its knees to get at them. Ofttimes in Winter they will perform the same feat to secure a mouthful of snow.

CONTEST NOTES

Drawings of George Washington were received for the contest this week in goodly number and a variety of poses—and below are the winners:

First Prize: Doris Doughty, Vinalhaven.

Second Prize: Patricia Porter, Rockland.

Third Prize: Tommy Miller, Joseph Gerrish, Rockland; Jon Ross, Owl's Head.

The contest for this week is—draw a skating picture—see how REAL you can make your drawing appear. This Winter has been rather poor for outdoor sports and before long Spring will be here. So—we will be looking forward to receiving YOUR drawing of a nice Wintery scene—skating. Remember have your drawing at The Courier office not later than 5 p. m. Wednesday.

THE PENOBSCOT CONTEST

Andrew Sides Has A Word To Say

The following letter from Andrew B. Sides of Boston and Rockville is in reply to a recent communication from Fred C. Green relating to the late service of the Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc., on the Boston-Bangor Divisions:

Room 906
111 Devonshire St.
Boston, Mass.

Steamboat Editor
Rockland Courier-Gazette
Rockland, Maine
Dear Mr. Editor:

My good friend, Dr. D. A. Thom of Boston, Camden and Lincolnville Beach, has just given me a clipping from a recent issue of your good paper, captioned—"Why the Eastern Folded"—and signed Fred Green. I think it deserves a brief answer, so let us get the facts straight, or at least make an effort to do so.

1. I never acted as Receiver for the Eastern Steamship Lines and the Company was in excellent financial condition for many, many years prior to the withdrawal of the Bangor steamers, and still is—I am sure Mr. Green refers only to the Bangor Line in his article). 2. I resigned as Vice President of the Company August 1, 1930, and the Line was discontinued at the end of 1935. During my many years with the Eastern and until the Line ended its operations every effort was made to maintain the Line and its identity—rates on automobiles were lowered for a period of time to only about $5.00 per car providing two or more passengers accompanied the car, and still we lost money. Freight rates were lowered to meet truck and other competition, but still no soap. In the meantime, trucks and highways were improved and the boats became just a pleasant memory.

What became of other coastwise lines, and why? Perhaps Mr. Green has the answer. If so, I should like to buy it. The following is a partial list of the casualties:

Boston Kennebec Line, Boston Portland Line, Boston St. John Line, Boston New York Line, Boston Yarmouth Line (now one ship 90 days), Mt. Desert and Blue Hill Lines, Vinalhaven Line, Rockland Portland Line, Merchant & Miners

Line, Savannah Line, Clyde Line, etc., etc.

Sad but true, and the answer is high cost of operations and tough competition. As for the Eastern it has had some pretty good men in its official family, some of whom were as follows:

Governor Cobb of Rockland; Governor Hill of Augusta; Galen L. Stone, Charles W. Barron, F. C. Dumaine, Calvin Austin, for many years president, William H. Hill, Donald M. Hill, Robert G. Stone, J. Peabody Gardiner, Frank S. Sherman of Rockland; Henry Sanborn of Bangor, and I have named only a few who were instrumental in building the Line and lived to see its decline. As an afterthought, let us not forget John F. Liscomb and Herbert A. Clay of Portland, also the present head of the Company, the very able Alton B. Sharp. I can't recall meeting and discussing with Mr. Green operations of the Bangor Line at the old Transcript Office so would like to meet him and renew our acquaintance. Very truly yours,
Andrew B. Sides.

WILLIAM A. STANLEY

Funeral services for William Anson Stanley, 84, who died Saturday at his home, 279 Broadway, were held Tuesday at the Burpee Funeral Home, Rev. Merle Conant of Pratt Memorial Methodist Church officiating. Interment was made Wednesday in the family lot on Swans Island, Rev. Thomas Hemmings officiating.

Deceased was born April 3, 1866, on Swans Island, son of the late Isalah and Sophia (Herrick) Stanley. He was educated in the Swans Island schools and was married to Miss Edna Stanley of Swans Island 61 years ago. A daughter, Miss Daisy Stanley of Rockland, survives together with several nieces and nephews.

Mr. Stanley was a partner of the successful Swans Island fish firm of Stanley and Joyce until 1918 when he came to Rockland to associate himself with the East Coast Fisheries. He was a charter member of Swans Island Lodge I.O.O.F., and was active in the Swans Island Methodist in his younger days, singing in the choir.

SCOUTS HOLD PARTY

Boy Scout Troop 293 held a party at the Littlefield Memorial Church

He bought in 1919 the well known Nash Hotel on Spring street which he renamed the Stanley House and conducted it successfully until 1929 when he retired. He suffered a severe attack of pneumonia last April from which he never fully recovered.

vestry Wednesday night. Scouts and their guests were: Florence Withee, Earle Withee, Alice Lord, Alonzo Dorr, Clayton Dorr, Russell Wixson, Judy Moran, Patrick Moran, Raymond Wixson, William Sprowl, James Sukeforth, Betty Withee, Carol Hubbard, Benjamin Perry, Elaine Cousins, Peter Leavitt, Charles Jordan, Neil Smith, Beverly Dorr, Paul Perry, Alfreda Perry, Blaine Cousins, Peter Leavitts, Richard Mitchell, Gerald Grant, Allie Gray, Scoutmaster Carroll M. Wixson. Assisting in the serving were: Mrs. Carroll Wixson and Mrs. Dagmar Moran. Mrs. Laurence Perry made a birthday cake honoring Paul Perry who celebrated his 12th birthday. Others present were: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bromley, Mrs. Annie Dorman, Mrs. Ruth Perry, Rev. John A. Barker.

REALM of MUSIC

by Gladys S. Heistad

It comes as a surprise from time to time that so many of the small items that appear in this column prove to be far-reaching. Quite a while back, nearly a year ago in fact, I used a brief story about Franz Schubert, the last direct descendant of the great master, Franz Schubert—a young man living in Vienna in poor health and needy circumstances due to the ravages of the war.

This brief item caught the attention of L. A. Walker of this city who felt a CARE package would give benefit to the young man and expressed his desire to combine with the Rubinstein Club to send a $10 package to Schubert. This was done and just recently young Schubert's reply came.

The letter of course was in German, and through a German friend of mine living in New York we got a translation which I am showing, also a portion of the letter my friend sent to me with the translation:

"Gracious Benefactor: Most courteously I would like to express my deepest fervent thanks for the Christmas CARE-charity parcel I received. It really helped me a great deal and gave me great pleasure. I greatly enjoyed the great veneration for my great ancestor, also your noble charity and your greatly brotherly love.

"Yes, if one is not feeling well, it is just on these holidays when one has such melancholy moods. One meditated how everything could be if one were healthy and not such a poor devil. In such moments Music touches my heart especially deeply. To console myself I think of my great ancestor, of his compositions: 'Don't lament, don't lament. You have to bear what you are sent . . . Hold still, hold still, it is Fate's will. Or: 'Where to shall I turn when sorrow and grief are weighing on me . . . Perhaps you know these two compositions.

"Unfortunately I have kept a lasting remembrance from the terribly hard war. It has become chronic already; through the years of war my stomach and glands are very much affected. Some days I can stand 'Lipton's Noodle Soup' only, but this is to be had only very seldom here in Vienna, and then terribly expensive.

"I kiss your hand reverently, once more my deepest heartfelt thanks and best wishes to my noble benefactors for health and peace in the new year."

(Signed) Schubert Franz Walther

And now quoting from the letter sent me from New York: "I am grateful that you thought of me for translating the letter. It really is a very interesting document, and in its style typically Viennese which means not too easy to be translated by anyone who does not know some of the queerest of this very language. I happen to know it well, since many of our friends came from Vienna, and I heard it through all the years. So, I think my translation is true and gives you a little bit of an inkling into the way of Viennese expression:

"May I add a few words about the letter? (First of all, I think it is a wonderful thought to send such a package to the last of the Schuberts—the 'real ones'—and I can imagine how thrilled all of you were when the answer came.) The letter itself is most devoted (ardent) even for a Viennese, and I really don't know anybody else who would write such a letter—it is rather the language used at the time of the 'great ancestor' himself, but I guess the educated people of today's Vienna have pretty much outgrown this servility.

"There are a few mistakes in grammar and spelling, and it could be that this scion of the family is taking a little too much consolation in thinking of his 'great ancestor' (poor Franz, he had nothing like the like to take any consolation from, but just wrote and wrote . . .) and I wonder just what this young man is doing. This does not change the fact that he probably is really a poor devil, and cannot be too happy in today's Vienna. But I could imagine that just being the last of the great family entitles him to some privileges, the Viennese being so proud of their music today just the same as at any time before. I hope he is feeling better now, and I am very sure the package helped a lot. There are quite a few people here from Vienna whom I know, and when I meet someone I will inquire if anybody knows the man or anything about him."

I read with interest the item about Wanda Landowska, famous harpsichordist, receiving a hand-illuminated parchment from the National Federation of Music Clubs Feb. 12, in recognition of her achievement in recording Bach's complete "Well-Tempered Clavier" on the harpsichord. The citation described the records as an "inestimable contribution to music, which will be an inspiration to future generations who love great music."

The presentation was made by Dr. Marion Rous and Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, and the citation is the second one the Federation has given—last year's award going to Philip Maxwell, founder for the Chicago Music Festival.

Does the name of Marion Rous "ring a bell," as we say? Several years ago Marion Rous was here in Rockland featured in a convention of the State Federation of Music Clubs—if memory serves me right she gave a lecture-recital (piano). I remember her as tall and slender, with red hair and fair skin softly freckled. A charming manner, both on the lecture platform and in personal meetings, and a very able pianist.

Through the years I have kept track of her more or less, chiefly through clippings Mervin Hemmway sends me from New York, and know that she is a very active figure in music, possibly better known in the lecture field. She has given for several years lectures preceding presentations of Wagner's "Ring" operas, for example.

Another letter has come from Minnie Chapman Ryan, enclosing the program given by Gladys Swarthout as one of the Community Concerts, I think in Clearwater, Fla., which is near where Minnie is staying (Safety Harbor). In her letter Minnie says: "These concerts are under the direction of George Carr of Warren."

One of the songs Miss Swarthout sang was "I know where I'm going" (Hughes) which you will remember as one of the most delightful songs Helen Olheim gave us in her Rockland concert.

A card has come from Alison J. Pitman, secretary of the Waldo County Community Concerts saying that the date of their March concert has been changed from March 12 to Sunday afternoon, March 11, at 3 o'clock. The artist is Dorothea Powers, violinist, as formerly announced. A cordial invitation is extended to Rockland ticket holders to attend.

Maria Jeritza's appearance in "Fledermaus" at the Metropolitan is attracting much attention, and according to Harold Schonberg's account of a rehearsal, which appeared in last Sunday's New York Times, Jeritza remains the same dynamic personality she has been for many years. Referring to the years, one of the musicians on the met's staff said: "Don't quote me, but don't forget that Mme. Jeritza made her debut in Europe about 40 years ago and was singing in this house as late as 1932. Naturally she's not going to sing the way she did a generation back. Nobody expects her to. But also don't forget that she's genuine, 24-carat prima-donna of the old school."

The rehearsal Mr. Schonberg covered was a short one, of the "Czardas" scene. It was attended by Max Leavitt, one of the Opera's stage directors, Antony Tador, the choreographer, and three scared young male dancers of the ballet company. It was a short rehearsal, but a rather overpowering one.

"Mme. Jeritza, an imposing, dramatic-looking, dynamic woman, wearing a big floppy hat, using broad and regal gestures, speaking rapidly and loudly with the faintest of mid-European accents, completely took the play away from the choreographer and director, who could do little but bow before the cyclone.

"Mme. Jeritza was all over the place, sometimes dancing, sometimes breaking into a fortissimo high note of awesome proportions, sometimes halting the proceedings to clear up a point—and so on.

An experienced trouper and a thorough musician, Jeritza says she learned her role in eight days, memorizing the English words and having to unlearn the German ones in the process. It appears that she has never sung the role of Rosalinda in this country, though it was one of her most successful roles in Europe. Since she was born in Brno, about 70 miles from Vienna, "Fledermaus" is in her blood, as she says.

When Rolf Gerard of the Met staff was consulted about Jeritza's costumes, he became rather incoherent, giving out the idea that he considers the soprano "terrific, fabulous, inspiring, to be treated with the same respect as a couple of hundred million volts of electricity." However, he calmed down enough to add that she is a woman of tremendous charm and great personal magnetism, remarks echoed by Tibor Kozma, the conductor who has directed the majority of "Fledermaus" performances at the Met. Kozma says "Jeritza knows more about the theatre than nearly anybody. She works hard, too, with intensity. No monkey business about her work."
